CONGRESSMEN FIGHT FOR NEW POST OFFICES

Big Rush Is On to Get Part of 165 Millions to Be Spent on Federal Build- ings Under New Program.

Washington, June 8.—A grand rush to get in on the government's $165,000,000 building program began here today.

Led by Senators and Congressmen, Representatives of many cities and towns filed their formal applications at the supervising architect's office for allocation of public buildings under the construction program announced today.

Seventeen additional cities, for which public buildings already have been authorized, but no appropriations made, were put on the immediate construction program, as the big rush began.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Dewey said the government contemplates having most of these as well as allocations previously announced, under construction next year.

Plan National Survey
The building commission, headed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Postmaster-General New, is preparing for submission to Congress within a few days a request for sufficient funds to conduct a national survey of building needs.

Experts will be sent to all important cities and towns to confer with local officials, city men and commercial bodies. Already many cities through their congressional representatives or commercial organizations have submitted economic data showing their requirements for additional federal buildings.

About 150 architects will be added to the treasury staff to begin drafting plans for the many structures to be erected. Architects and other technical experts will be included on the committees which will hold hearings in the various cities as to building needs.

"Taken Care Of"
The supervising architect's office has under study former recommendations as to building construction as well as a large number of individual bills which were introduced in the House, but consolidated under the general program. Officials said that virtually all cities mentioned in these bills would "be taken care of" in the new program.

Additional to the supplemental list of projects in the building program included Putnam, Conn., estimated cost $90,000.

Manchester Situation.
In order to learn the status of Manchester's appeal for a federal post office building, Charles Fenn, managing editor of The Herald, today wired Congressman E. Hart Fenn as follows:

"Press dispatches today say many congressmen filing applications for federal buildings under the construction program. Seventeen more cities put on list. What is Manchester situation? File reply press collect."

At 1 o'clock this afternoon Congressman Fenn replied:

"Am awaiting information re Manchester situation from P. O. department. Will inform you soon as received."

President Vinson's address is to be given during the former commencement exercises on Monday, at 10:30 a. m.

Trinity's commencement procession will include Gov. John H. Trumbull and Mayor Norman C. Stevens as well as the three chief speakers and numerous other invited guests and alumni.

SURE HE, 22, WED HER, 72, FOR LOVE

Aged Bride, Rich, Rejects Thought That Groom Was After Her Money.

Richmond, June 8.—"They say he married me for my money, but that's not true, is it, dear?" said Mrs. Roy H. Matthews, 72, and gray-haired, as she was finishing a late breakfast at Murphy's Hotel, with her young husband, more than half a century her junior. He is 22.

The blushing bridegroom nodded his approval of her statement.

"He married me for love," she added, looking at her husband, and again he nodded assent.

The two were married in Newport News Saturday and came to Richmond on their honeymoon. They made the trip in a new $1,800 automobile which was the bride's gift to the groom.

Matthews is her third husband. Immediately after the ceremony, Mrs. Matthews is said to have made a new will, giving him a life interest in her forty-three year old home at Newport News, in addition to an income sufficient for him to live on comfortably. The rest of her estate will go to Baptist missions, she said.

Mrs. Matthews said she was worth more than $100,000, most of which she inherited from her first husband, E. T. Ivey, a wealthy Warwick county farmer, with whom she lived for forty-three years. He died in 1915. Her second husband died a year ago.

Her third husband is a strapping young fellow who runs a tugboat between Newport News and Norfolk.

"Some of my relatives made a lot of noise when they learned I was going to marry Roy, but they didn't make any headway," she said.

SILK EXHIBIT OPEN TO ALL RESIDENTS

Employees to Get Preference to Seats at Thursday Night Showing.

A splendid exhibit of Cheney silks will be put on at Cheney Hall Thursday evening at 8 o'clock under the direction of Ward Cheney, well known to Manchester people, and Ralph Abercrombie, manager of the dress goods department in the New York office.

Brother's latest fabrics, including a line of gorgeous prints that have been made into dresses and coats will be displayed on live models selected from the plant. Miss Helen Cheney will select the girls who will act as models.

The program includes demonstrations to show how Cheney silks are handled after leaving Manchester. Paul Thomas, manager of the advertising department will give a short talk on the way that Cheney silks are advertised. Behrend's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion.

Special invitations have been sent out to all employees of Cheney Brothers inviting them and their families to attend. Each invitation will admit employees and their families who will be given preference of seats in the hall. While a large number of employees and their families are expected to attend there will be seats for other residents of Manchester who are interested in seeing this exhibit.

SENATORS OF BLOC BACK 'DAWES PLAN'

McNary Offers Its Provisions as Amendment to Original Farm Bill.

Washington, June 8.—In the face of White House coolness, the farm bloc drive for enactment of the new "Dawes plan" of agriculture relief moved forward today with the Senate opening debate on amendments to the McNary-Haugen crop export bill.

The "economically sound" plan, sponsored by Vice-President Dawes came under direct consideration when Senator McNary, (R., Ore.), proposed amendments revising his original bill. The amendments would carry out the Dawes plan of creating a $175,000,000 export corporation for selling surplus crops abroad, with the farmers financing it through an equalization fee payable as they market their crops.

With the vice-president supporting their demand for farm relief, the bloc leaders were hopeful of getting a vote in the Senate this week. They will support the "Dawes plan" over all other forms of relief.

WADSWORTH AS DRIPPING WET DEFIES DRYS

New York Senator Comes Out Flatly for Volstead Law Reform and Amend- ment Repeal.

Washington, June 8.—Senator James W. Wadsworth, Republican of New York, promptly picked up today the challenge thrown at him by the organized drys of New York, who have persuaded Franklin W. Cristman to oppose him for re-nomination.

In a letter outlining his views on the prohibition issue, Senator Wadsworth dispelled all doubt as to his position, and declared his belief that the Eighteenth Amendment was a mistake and that the Volstead act should be modified.

Wadsworth burned all his bridges behind him and came forth as a frank and avowed wet.

Voted Against 18th.
Recalling that he had voted against the Eighteenth Amendment, the New York Senator declared that the experiment of constitutional prohibition had been a failure.

"It represents an attempt to compel 100,000,000 people to become and remain total abstainers," he said. "I contend that all human experience teaches us that total abstinence through legal compulsion is impossible of attainment. Furthermore, it was far from the intent of the framers of the constitution to give Congress the right to regulate the private and personal habits of the citizen."

"It is a great pity the 18th Amendment was ratified. It would have been infinitely better had we accepted the liquor traffic and the saloon as a national problem, adopting a simple constitutional amendment conferring power on Congress to legislate freely on the liquor traffic. Had that been done, we could have legislated from time to time, estimated the results, and finally, would have reached a solution acceptable to an overwhelming majority of the people. The 18th Amendment, however, ties the hands of Congress and the people themselves to a very great extent."

Would Repeal Amendment.
"As for the Volstead act, its provisions are extreme and should be repealed. Furthermore, I believe it could be modified without violating the 18th Amendment. Certainly no one can contend that a beverage containing five-eighths of one per cent of alcohol is intoxicating, and yet such is the law. I can perfectly frank, however, and say that while I advocate modification I do not believe modification of the Volstead act within constitutional limits will solve the problem permanently. I think we must go back to the 18th Amendment itself and substitute for it a simple grant of power to Congress."

With such a grant, Wadsworth declared, Congress and the states could solve the liquor problem in line with public sentiment in the various states, with "some such system as prevails in Quebec."

Independent Dry.
New York, June 8.—Franklin W. Cristman, of Herkimer, N. Y., a banker, lawyer and former state senator, will be the independent dry candidate for United States senator. He will be backed by the allied dry forces of the state, who made it plain they are out to beat the amendment in the United States Senator James J. Wadsworth, Jr., avowed wet.

Cristman said today after accepting the invitation of the drys to lead their fight, that he "stands squarely on the proposition that the constitution of the United States must be enforced."

It is understood that Wayne E. Wheeler, national counsel for "drys," will take an active part in the campaign in Cristman's behalf. The allied dry forces that are supporting Cristman include the W. C. T. U., and the Anti-Saloon league.

Cristman has not been politically active for about ten years.

TWO CHILDREN AND GRANDMOTHER SLAIN

Bodies, at First Thought Re- sult of Cottage Fire in Brook- lyn, Show Wounds.

New York, June 8.—Investigations into the ruins of an isolated cottage in Brooklyn in which the charred bodies of two small children and their grandmother were found, today disclosed indications of a mysterious triple murder, according to police.

The victims, Mary Martulla, four; her two-year-old brother, John, and their grandmother, Mrs. Mary Milazzo, 57, were at first believed to have perished accidentally in the fire which razed the cottage. After an autopsy had disclosed wounds on the bodies, however, detectives launched an investigation.

Police said that the grandmother, shortly before she died, told detectives she had been struck on the head.

Quarrels With His Girl, Takes Her Clothes, Now Arrested As Burglar

Stamford, June 8.—Ferman Ballard, of Ansonia, is held by the police here today on the charge of burglary committed in Ansonia and is being held for the police of that city. Ballard was taken from a New York-bound train when it stopped here today. According to the police, Ballard quarrelled with his sweetheart in Ansonia last night and later entered her apartment and took away with him some of her clothing. When arrested he had two suit cases containing the stolen goods.

2 O'CLOCK; BANG! NIGHT CLUBS SHUT

New York Enforces Its New Curfew Law—Business Not as Usual.

New York, June 8.—"All-Night Clubs" are a thing of the past in New York. The city's curfew law, which went into effect several weeks ago, was enforced today for the first time.

At 2 o'clock this morning every cabaret known to the police as an all-night resort was closed tight. Policemen were at the front doors of the various resorts to see that they closed on time.

Proprietors of the all-night cabarets were notified early last evening of the new closing hour.

Business Falls Off.
The news spread quickly through Broadway and the white light district. Business wasn't as good as usual; the requests for table reservations showing a big decline.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the resorts were closed and there was an exodus of complaining patrons who had "just got started." Cabaret entertainers mingled with grumbling patrons. Taxicab drivers, used to waiting until five or six o'clock for the "trade," sped with their fares from the night club district.

One Club Defiant.
One place, a widely known club in West 44th Street, was said to be the only resort that defied Mayor James J. Walker's edict. No action has been taken against this club by the police, however, it is said. Despite the meanness of proprietors of the clubs today, it is said they plan to make a vigorous protest and that they will do their best to get the time limit extended until at least 3 o'clock in the morning.

TROOPS MOBILIZE FOR EUROPE FLOOD AID

Disasters in Rumania Bad as in Winter—Saxony Is Be- ginning to Suffer.

Berlin, June 8.—Troops have been mobilized in Rumania and southeastern Germany to aid in flood relief.

The floods, which have been in progress for several days, are reported to have reached a state where they threaten almost as dire disaster as that of the early winter floods.

Hundreds are reported to have been drowned in Rumania and entire villages swept away.

Crops are said to have been wiped out.

A train with 300 passengers on it is reported marooned in the flooded area between Bucharest and Jassy.

The flood area has encroached upon Saxony and dispatches stated that Czechoslovakia is menaced and many towns in that country are already partially under water.

6 KILLED AS EXPLOSION OBLITERATES QUARRY

Sand Works Employee Buried as M-r-yland Hillside Is Blown Off.

Hagerstown, Md., June 8.—Six men were killed and six others seriously injured in an accidental explosion of dynamite late yesterday in the sand quarry of the Berkeley Springs Glass and Sand Co. near here.

The entire hillside on which the quarry is located was torn away by the force of the explosion precipitating a landslide which buried the dead and injured and made rescue work difficult.

Mistaking Cops for Stickups Gets Yale Man into Trouble

New Haven, June 8.—Karl H. Kostenbader, about to receive a graduate degree from Yale, says he thought two plainclothes policemen were hold-up men when they approached him here last evening, so he fled. The police chased him, firing the air, for several blocks until the youth ran into the arms of a patrolling policeman who jumped on him from a doorway.

Kostenbader was locked up most of the night after his escape and today in city court his case was continued for further investigation. Meanwhile he refused to tell court officials what he was doing in a yard where the policemen first found him and for that reason his case was continued for investigation.

Pending his graduation late this month Kostenbader has been an assistant instructor in the graduate school where he has worked for his degree.

BENNET DOTY WILL NOT BE EXECUTED

French Ministry Holds Up Action in Case of Ameri- can Foreign Legionaire.

Paris, June 8.—Bennet Doty, otherwise Gilbert Clare, will not be executed for desertion from the Foreign Legion in Syria until a full investigation of this case has been made.

Minister of War Painleve made this certain today, when he called to the French commanding officer at Belrus giving instructions that if Doty had been sentenced to death the sentence be suspended, temporarily at least.

The minister of war is at a loss to explain the status of the case of this soldier of fortune from Bloix, Miss., since it has received no report as to his fate. The minister of war's action today was taken as a precautionary measure pending a full report.

While officials of the war ministry were disinclined to discuss the case until they had a complete report, it was indicated that if Doty is convicted it is very probable that he will not be executed. It is the general belief that if the American is convicted he will possibly be given a prison sentence, and then deported from French territory and his re-entry prohibited.

M. Painleve has ordered that all the documents and evidence in the case of Doty be forwarded to Paris for examination by the department of military justice for possible revision.

POLICE OUTRAGE IN NORWALK CHARGED

Youth Accuses Officer of Beat- ing Him When Shackled to Cell.

Norwalk, June 8.—Louis Mola, one of two youths who on Sunday night was involved in a row with Policeman David Sniffen, has filed complaint with Police Commissioner Edward Gans that after he was placed in a cell in police headquarters Sniffen and two other policemen handcuffed him to the bar and Sniffen beat him badly. A woman prisoner is Mola's chief witness. Sniffen and the witness will appear before Commissioner Gans' office and police department employee Mayor Thomas Robins late this afternoon in a formal hearing.

Mola and his brother Tony, now missing, are said to have beaten up Sniffen with his own club after they were stopped for a traffic violation. Sniffen shot at the youths but missed them.

GETS A JAIL SENTENCE FOR DEFENDING MOTHER

Darien Lad Who Shot Father Given Three Months—He Takes an Appeal.

Darien, June 8.—Stephen Rewak, 18, of Hoyt street, this place, who on May 31 fired four shots at his father, one of which took effect in the elder Rewak's neck, was sentenced to three months in jail on a simple charge of assault, when his case was heard in the Town court last evening.

According to Young Rewak he fired at his father in order to save his mother from injury. He alleged that his father came home under the influence of liquor and was beating his wife when the youth shot him. Young Rewak fled an appeal and was placed under $1,000 bond. The elder Rewak is recovering.

Walker, all of Hartford, was named today in the superior court to examine Slorjanski, who admits he choked his wife to death with his bare hands after a quarrel over a minor matter.

Emil Ott, of Hartford, accused of a statutory offense against young girls, was committed to the state hospital at Norwich by Judge Nickerson after the three doctors pronounced Ott insane.

To John F. Kendall, of Hartford, appealing a Hartford fine for speeding, Judge Nickerson administered a severe penalty than that which the city court gave him. Judge Nickerson fined him $50 and costs, a total of $130, while the Hartford court had fined him $75 straight.

Edward W. Brett, of West Hartford, another speeder who appealed from the city court, was fined $50 without costs.

SHOOTS 4 WOMEN IN BEAUTY PARLOR

New York Husband in Fury When Denied a Divorce, Runs Amuck, Kills Self.

New York, June 8.—John Olasin, 37, was infuriated because his wife wouldn't give him a divorce. He entered a beauty parlor where she worked and shot her and three other women. Then he shot himself in the temple, dying instantly. The women were removed to a hospital in a serious condition.

The injured are Mrs. Marie Olasin, 23, who was shot in the right shoulder and stomach; Mme. Marie Foretti, 31 proprietor of the beauty parlor; shot in the hand and breast; Catherine Venzalino, who was shot in the back, and Marie Tamey, 33, shot in the stomach. Another employee of the place, Anna Benzer, a 15-year-old girl, escaped when the shooting began.

Olasin walked into the beauty parlor, where his wife had been employed about a month, and demanded in loud tones that she give him a divorce. They have been married eight years.

"I want you to give me a divorce," Olasin told his wife. "I don't want to live with you any more."

"I won't give you a divorce," answered Mrs. Olasin, according to witnesses. "I haven't anything to give you a divorce on."

Olasin went out angry and returned twenty minutes later, pistol in hand and began shooting right and left. After the four women in the place had collapsed to the floor he fired a bullet into his own brain and fell dead across the threshold of the rear room.

CITIZENS' JURY BANS A NEW YORK REVUE

"The Bunk of 1926" Closed but Producers Talk Fight—No "Shanghai" or "Sex" Verdict

New York, June 8.—The twinkling toes in "The Bunk of 1926" have been stilled by the closing edict from a play jury, but producers of the tabooed musical revue attempted today to raise the curtain with injunction proceedings.

The play jury had investigated six Broadway shows, upon request of the Nationalists. Opposed representatives of the district attorney's office and police department employee forced the verdict of the citizens' jury against "The Bunk of 1926" the episode marked the first time that a play jury has condemned a production completely.

The producers claim that they were not given a chance to alter the play. Furthermore, they declare that the show will open again tonight.

The play juries reporting to the district attorney suggested atmospheric repairs for the "Temptations of 1926," but could not agree on a verdict concerning the dramas "Sex" and "The Shanghai Gesture."

ACCUSED IN MOTOR DEATH, BLAMES VICTIM

Judge Says Woman Grabbed Wheel, State Declares He Had Been Drinking.

Woodsville, N. H., June 8.—Judge Fred A. Jones, of Lebanon, Dartmouth college graduate and Democratic leader, on trial today for manslaughter, offered the defense that Mrs. Mildred Presley was to blame for the automobile accident which resulted in her death on January 30th.

The judge's defense is that Mrs. Presley impulsively seized the steering wheel, causing the coach to plunge down an embankment on the West Hanover road. The state, on the other hand, claims that the accused judge had been drinking and that "liquor exhilarated the foot on the throttle of the ill-fated car."

PONZI, WANTED FOR HUB SENTENCE, IS MISSING.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 8.—Charles Ponzi, get-rich-quick artist of Florida and Massachusetts, was missing from his living quarters here today, and police were not interested in locating him.

Chief of Police Roberts declared he had not yet received a telegram sent by Boston police asking for information on Ponzi's whereabouts. Florida officials have expressed their willingness to waive their claims on Ponzi so he can be returned to Boston for sentence.

GERMANY SPLIT ON STRIPPING PRINCES

Hindenburg Letter, Opposing Seizure of Royal Lands, Stirs Up a Furore.

Berlin, June 8.—President Hindenburg today stood pat upon the statements he made in a private letter, published yesterday, opposing the dispossession of the former German princes.

The president stated that, although the letter was a private one he had not objected to its publication.

The statement from the executive may well arouse a political storm, as advocates of dispossession have been demanding that the president remain neutral.

"The president's attitude is not surprising," said the Berlin Mittag. "Hindenburg has always taken on the consequences of his actions. He has never shied from responsibility."

In the letter the president asserted that it would be wrong of the German people to expropriate the property of the Hohenzollerns and other German royalty. A popular vote to decide the disposition of the property will be held June 20.

Hindenburg, who since his election has observed a non-partisan attitude, with this letter took sides for the first time, casting his lot with the Nationalists. Opposed representatives of the district attorney's office and police department employee forced the verdict of the citizens' jury against "The Bunk of 1926" the episode marked the first time that a play jury has condemned a production completely.

The producers claim that they were not given a chance to alter the play. Furthermore, they declare that the show will open again tonight.

Deposed Senator Who Made Hard Anti-Administration Campaign Defeats Cum- mins for Republican Sen- ate Nomination by Plural- ity That May Reach 75- 000—"Corn Belt Revolt" Becomes Reality—Agra- rian Group Delighted.

De Moines, June 8.—Smith W. Brookhart has won the republican nomination for the United States Senate by a decisive majority, returns tricking in today from the precincts indicated. His lead over Senator Albert Cummins, with about two-thirds of the precincts in the state heard from, was more than 43,000.

The estimate of his lead was based on incomplete returns from 1,511 of the state's 2,447 precincts. The returns gave Brookhart 141,188; Cummins, 98,781; and Howard J. Clark, "compromise candidate" 43,198.

Most of the precincts covered by these figures were in the urban centers. Rural territory, slower to gather returns, was expected to give Brookhart an even greater ratio of lead over Cummins. A plurality of 75,000 is regarded here as a probability.

Winner Mum.
From his home at Washington, Iowa, Brookhart refused to make any statement as to his victory. He said he would reach Des Moines today, and wished to await more complete returns before commenting upon the result.

Cummins managers at an early hour said: "It looks very much as if Col. Brookhart has been nominated," but withheld further statement, pending advice from Senator Cummins, who is in Washington.

Howard Clark, another aspirant for the republican nomination in yesterday's hectic primary, ran a poor third.

Porter Winning.
In the democratic senatorial race Claude H. Porter appeared a certain winner. The first several hundred precincts showed Porter leading his nearest rival, J. C. Murtagh, by approximately two to one.

Brookhart's campaign managers were overjoyed. The result exceeded their most optimistic predictions.

Political observers here characterized the Brookhart victory "a corn belt shout of resentment against the national administration's farm policies."

"Corn Belt Revolt."
Washington, June 8.—"The corn belt revolt" against the Coolidge administration is a fact, and not a theory.

This was the interpretation which political leaders of all faiths placed here today on the decisive defeat administered to Senator Albert B. Cummins by Col. Smith W. Brookhart in Iowa's senatorial primary.

Brookhart's victory was

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC FOR LAWN FETE

Police Action to Prevent Blockade of Autos at "White House" Grounds.

Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon has taken steps to put a one-way traffic rule into effect on the highway adjoining the "White House" grounds on Thursday and Friday evenings, during the period of the lawn fete of the Manchester Community club.

The fact that over 4,000 tickets for the lawn fete have been disposed of, and as the attendance of automobilists is sure to be heavy, the chief is taking action to prevent congestion of automobile and other traffic on North Main street near the Community club lawn.

Accordingly, only eastbound traffic will be allowed on the restricted section Thursday and Friday evenings. Traffic officers will be stationed at Depot Square and at the Apol corner, where North Main and Oakland streets intersect. Eastbound traffic will go on as usual, but westbound traffic will be diverted at the Apol corner and will pass down Woodbridge street into Main street.

Special action has been taken by the workers for the lawn fete to acquaint automobilists with the attractions to be offered; announcements of the lawn fete have been placed in the hands of over 3,000 automobilists, and automobile parties from points for miles around will be in attendance.

Railroad Precautions. Anticipating a specially heavy traffic over the railroad crossings at Main street, Depot Square and Oakland street, Agent J. J. Dwyer will make special provision to keep traffic passing over the tracks expeditiously and as safely as possible when trains must pass over the crossings.

A force of workmen were busy today on the Community club grounds erecting the high canvas which will enclose the entire grounds. An open-air stage will be erected tomorrow, and the lighting arrangements will be installed.

Booth Committees Tonight. A special meeting will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the "White House" for all committees and workers in charge of booths. The final word on construction and decoration will be given tonight.

Charles J. Strickland and J. E. Rand will have charge of the roast frankfurter booth. Past history proves that after 9 p. m. this booth becomes one of the most popular on the grounds. The ice cream and refreshment booth will be under the direction of Aldo Fazzini, Ruth McLagan, Barbara Lawrence, Louis Genovesi, Mrs. William McGonigal, Irene Lydall and Ruth Cosco.

Mrs. J. E. Rand and Howard Keeney will direct the fruit basket booth. The fish pond will be supervised by Beatrice Lydall, Leora Hibbard and Eleanor Dwyer. Fortune telling will be supervised by Florence Shaw. The dart booth, a game of skill and marksmanship, will be directed by Raymond Reid. The balloon booth will be under the care of Mrs. F. H. Jones. These are but a few of the booths; there will be fifteen booths in all.

COLD WEATHER HITS TOBACCO PLANTERS

Afraid to Set Out Tender Plants—Must Be Done Within Two Weeks. A man up on tobacco said yesterday that if this cold and uncertain weather lasts two weeks, there will be hardly any outdoor tobacco grown in the vicinity of Manchester. The growers, he said, are afraid to set out the tender plants for fear of frost and if they delay much longer, they will be caught by frost at the other end of the season.

Tobacco, this man said, at this stage of the game, can be compared with a tomato plant just being set out. It does not take a temperature of 32 to freeze it. If the mercury drops around 36 the plant will be ruined. That is why they are waiting for the warm weather and that seems to be far away.

The larger plantations are going in for shade grown almost exclusively this year with but one exception, the Manning and Kahn company. These large plantations have their plants already set and since they are under cover there is no danger of frost.

If the cold weather prevents the smaller growers from going in for tobacco it will have an effect on business in this town as the farmers within a radius of ten miles do their trading in Manchester.

COLD WEATHER KEEPS RESIDENTS AT HOME

Business at Lakes at a Standstill—Local People Staying at Home.

This continual cold weather has had the effect of keeping Manchester's shore and lake patrons at home, as business at the resorts is practically dead. This town usually goes out en masse over the summer week-ends but the traffic over Manchester during the past few weeks of cold weather is a great deal less than it has been since the automobile came into popularity.

Those who used to take a camping trip over Saturday and Sunday stay home in their warm beds these days. And others who went to spend those two days at the shore or lake, don't like the chill air blowing over the water and prefer to remain in town.

Coventry Lake, so popular in former years, has drawn practically none of its cottagers so far. Outside of a few who have braved the cold weather, the only people who have gone to the lake are those who have been putting their summer cottages in order.

Globe Hollow usually opened about this time but it looks now as if it will not begin its 1926 season for a couple of weeks. The season is due to start on June 20 but the weather is anything but right for an auspicious opening. Several of the ardent swimmers in town have taken dips in the pond and they say that the only thing lacking is an ice floe.

AUTO PARADE TONIGHT TO BOOST CAMP FUND

Kiwanians will boost the benefit game between Manchester High and Bristol with an auto parade this evening. The game is being played on Saturday for the purpose of raising funds to defray the expense of erecting a dormitory at the Community camp in Coventry and caring for more than 80 poor children during eight weeks of this summer.

The Kiwanis club has been furnishing automobiles to transport the high school team to different towns in this section for games this season and as a means of showing its appreciation the team will put on the benefit game. Five thousand tickets have been distributed for sale by the school children of the nine districts of the town and it is expected that an attendance of more than 3,000 will be at the game.

Included in the cost of the camp this year will be the new dormitory and the salary of an attendant and one or two assistants. It is also planned to sink a well near the dining hall. Officers of the State Board of Health visited the camp this week and gave their approval to the site for the well.

IF IT WAS A SPARE TIRE—MY WHAT A RUSH FOR IT!

Yesterday morning a bale of hay had been dropped from a wagon and there was no one about. It would not be in sight a second. But nowadays it is different.

Yesterday morning a bale of hay that had dropped from a truck in front of the new armory, remained unclaimed for hours. No one would pick it up for what would a person do with a bale of hay these days?

Had it been a spare tire, a man observed, it would not have remained on the street over a second.

DETOURS NUMEROUS IF STREET'S BLOCKED

Any Number of Ways to Reach Hartford During Improvement of Center Street.

Even though Center street from Adams street to the Center will be closed to traffic for several months this year while it is being repaved, Manchester motorists should find little trouble in driving between this town and Hartford. The detours are many and simple.

People living in the North End will have an easy time of it for they can drive down North Main street, across Adams street and down through Love Lane. This route will bring them to the foot of the so-called Twin Hills with a clear road in front of them to Hartford.

The detours from the South End are more numerous but all of them converge at the new Silver Lane road. Hartford road from the South End terminus offers a direct route to East Hartford with the road to Hartford nearly all concrete or tar-surfaced.

Those who will not go through Hartford Road may reach Pine street from Main street by traveling over the Park street bridge. This route will take them a short distance along Center street but will lead them on to West Center street and the Silver Lane road.

With these detours there should be little or no complaining about the delay caused by the improvements.

Hist! Hist! And Get More Hists to This

Since Roy Roberts sold his garage business at Manchester Green to "Moon" Erickson, there has been much speculation among the residents in that section as to just what will be the outcome of the controversy between Roberts and then Champion Sam Prentice as to their respective horsemanship ability.

Roberts who started a garage in Willimantic has rather cleverly selected a site adjoining the race track at Recreation Park. It is understood that Roberts believes he will be able to train much better on the famous race track in Willimantic and then challenge Roberts to another race in an effort to regain the title. Anyway Roberts has taken his famous steed, "Glistening Dick" with him and it looks as if he really means business.

The haughty champion, Prentice, however, is somewhat perturbed over the recent action of Roberts in leaving Manchester. He even insinuates it is because Roberts is feeling so remorseful over the defeat he suffered several months ago.

"He needn't think he's going to pull off any of that secret training stuff in Willimantic with the idea of later defeating me and thus giving the credit to the Thread City," said the indignant champion today in a talk with several of his admirers at the Green. "No stree, he'll surely get stung if that is his plan 'cause I'm not going to be caught flatfooted. I suppose just because Wildfire has been sold he thinks I'll be out of luck if another race is run," he continued.

"Well, I've got another horse just as good now and his name is "Topsy." If we race again, Roberts will move farther than Willimantic, you can just bet your boots on that," he concluded.

TUESDAY, JUNE 8, 1926.

SAYS THE GOVERNOR.

In a special interview printed by the Financial Digest, Governor Trumbull—probably not by deliberate design but in the sincere enthusiasm of a zealot—challenged every Babbitt beyond the Hudson by declaring that New England was largely responsible for the success of the West and South in recent years.

"One reason why the South and the West have made such amazing strides in recent years," explained Governor Trumbull, "is that for a long period of years New England has raised and trained able leaders in the various branches of business and then has sent them out to all parts of the country to assume leadership in the newer and younger sections. As a result, New England's own blood has played a large part in building up the other sections of the country."

"Had the cream of New England's leaders and promising young men not migrated to the newer sections, these sections would not today be what they are. This injection of the best New England blood is the chief reason, in my judgment, for the remarkable showing which these newer sections have made. In reality, it is simply a case of New England having demonstrated her ability on foreign soil."

Without even turning your ear in that direction, let alone hooking up with their broadcasting stations, you can hear the "Pooch-pooch!" of the West and the South in reaction to this view. It would not be surprising if the noise of their protests soon became quite loud.

There may be just the least suggestion of naivete in so open a declaration. But there is also a very great deal of truth in it, and those of us who would not have quite had the nerve to say it are glad that our governor did. This cursed modesty gets you nothing.

And unquestionably the governor had just as much nerve in another division of his interview—maybe more, for it is one thing to sit in Hartford and stir the ire of a man in Sandusky and another to still sit in Hartford and talk a certain kind of turkey to Connecticut manufacturers and business men. And this is what the governor said to them:

"If we are to solve the problem of the future of New England, we must retain here the young men who are coming up and who display unusual ability. We must meet the offers that the West and the South make to our outstanding young men. Every young man of ability, accomplishment and promise is worth every cent as much to New England as he is to the South or the West. This is a point which we have been inclined to overlook in the past. It is a point, however, which New England can no longer afford to continue to overlook if she is to hold her place."

If there is one place in which New England business men and corporations fall behind those of some other sections of the country it is in precisely this matter of salaries for succeeding it not already successful executives, sub-executives and other classes of responsible workers.

The only reason in the world why New York has been able to draw so many capable young men away from New England is the completely different outlook there on the salary question. And the same thing holds good in the West as well as, in lesser degree, in the South.

The New England tendency has been to increase salaries only under pressure and in a Si Swapper spirit of compromise, instead of voluntarily, snappily and liberally.

Governor Trumbull has said a pioneer thing. May he say it again and again, and say it louder.

IOWA.

Early returns from the Iowa primaries indicate the victory of former Senator Smith W. Brookhart over Senator Albert W. Cummins as the choice of the Republican party in that state as its candidate for the Senate.

A situation is developed by this outcome of the Iowa contest which cannot be blinked. Iowa can by no manner of means be considered as a "red" community. It is a great farming state and it is not, in the same sense as the Dakotas or Minnesota, a one-crop region. It is completely representative of American agriculture in a broad and varied way. Its people are substantial, well capitalized folk, skillful and industrious. It is the last kind of a country in which to look for crazy radicalism. It has been, from the very hour of the organization of the Republican party, a stronghold of the G. O. P. second only to Pennsylvania.

And today it is in open revolt against the administration, for the candidate whom it has apparently chosen has preached anti-administrationism from one end of the state to the other, during the whole of his campaign.

No President has ever deserved better at the hands of his party and his country than Calvin Coolidge. His administration has been marked by a singular sanity and level headedness. He has set his foot on the tendency to wastefulness and extravagance that marked the era following the war. He has fought for and achieved tremendous tax reduction. He has rid the government of graft. He has been, if ever there was one, a President of all the people. And yet the West is obviously turning from him.

There is just one reason for this. At a time when new problems confront the country—confront the republican party as the dominant one, would confront any party that happened to be in power—there has been one single deleterious influence at work in Washington—the influence of that short sighted group of industrialists who can see only one economic question, only one cure for all ills, and that one panacea the tariff. The head and front of that group is Senator Butler of Massachusetts.

There has been too much Butler in the administration as a matter of fact and ten times too much in the view of the West. He personifies, out there, the "effete east," the sectional advantage idea, and the West believes, erroneously enough, that Butler and Butler's crowd of Massachusetts mill owners and bankers are "running" Coolidge.

It is this situation that the Republican party must face—and that President Coolidge must face. If the West is not disabused of the notion that the Republican party uses the West for votes and that Senator Butler and his Bay State associates use the Republican party solely in the interests of tariff schedules for the benefit of Massachusetts' manufacturers, something will pop next fall and something will smash in 1928.

It is getting to a point where the President must choose between his party and some of his too highly localized Massachusetts advisers.

COMMENCEMENT.

It is in no spirit of unfriendly criticism that the Herald says, frankly, that it cannot but feel regret at the determination of the High School authorities to abandon the traditional character of commencement exercises at that institution and to experiment with a type of demonstration too ambitious and too uncertain of complete success, as yet, to have found favor even with colleges, to say nothing of high schools generally.

Substitution of sketches, almost allegorical in their representation of the cultural results of the school courses, for the much more clear cut and lucid demonstration through the time honored essay, strikes us as an adventure, not altogether justified by prospects of improvement over the old way and carrying it more or less risk of rather disastrous failure.

Nor can the Herald subscribe to the idea that a revolution in the fashion of commencement exercises is warranted by any notion of giving the audience a more interesting entertainment. Our idea is that the body of individuals most directly concerned in this business is the students themselves. It is their big day, and, properly and desirably, quite a sober, not to say solemn occasion for them. If the public, even including parents and brothers and sisters, cannot find interest in the traditional commencement exercises, let them go to the movies or to a circus.

If there is any better way of demonstrating the fruits of a high school course than for the most successful of the graduates to read in public the products of their own freshly trained young brains it has not been discovered, or at least not proven. And our belief that there may be a better way is not strong enough for us to like to see Manchester's high school made the trial dog.

VAN DYKES.

We regret knowing nothing about Rev. Tertius Van Dyke, who has resigned from the Park Avenue Presbyterian church in New York to take the pastorate of the First Congregational Church at Washington, this state, beyond the fact that he is the son of Dr. Henry Van Dyke. But that circumstance alone ought to be enough to insure him a warm welcome to Connecticut.

There is even a suggestion of the father in the very fact that the younger man has made the deliberate choice of existence and labor among the Litchfield hills as against the duties of pastor to a metropolitan congregation of the Park avenue variety.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke has mined more religion out of the fields and streams and trees and grass, has garnered more praise to God from the songs of birds and whispering breezes, and passed them along to a greater congregation—and done more, thereby, for the glory of his Maker and the salvation of mankind, than a thousand dogmatists in brick-smothered pulpits ever found or ever disseminated.

OLD FOOL.

There is sheer tragedy in the case of the Virginia woman of 72 who, turning to her 22 year old husband of a day, said to a reporter:

"They say he married me for my money but he didn't—did you dear? He married me for love!"

Perhaps he did. He is a southerner, you know, and southerners are all chivalry. That one of them should think of marrying an old woman for her money—especially when she has enough of it so that he needn't bother any more about such a sordid thing as work—is not to be imagined.

Nevertheless the spectacle presented by the confiding, soft headed old gull and her young smart-aleck of a husband continue to be as tragic as silly and as repellent as tragic.

One cannot but think, too, of the forty-three years of hard work that the first husband of the present bride put in, getting that fortune out of the ground. And its destination.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

"O! what a face, and of what a picture would it be worthy!"—Juvenal.

Washington, June 5.—Washington's big men are mostly very sensitive about their pictures.

Everybody knows that women are pretty particular how their photographs look, but who'd suppose that a great he-man, high enough up in public life to be in the Senate or the cabinet or even the White House, would fret like a chorus girl, while being mugged, about lights and shadows, just the right expression on his map, his pose and his clothes?

Well, nearly all of them do. They honestly believe classy pictures of themselves in the newspapers make votes for them and that they lose votes if the pictures make them appear homely. They may be right, for all I know.

President Coolidge is one of the fussy ones.

He's very accommodating with photographers but he has his own ideas. He quite frankly knows that he doesn't photograph well and wants the best breaks he can get. He's been "shot" so much that he's learned a lot about it, too, and frequently makes suggestions that professionals can't afford to ignore.

Mrs. Coolidge, on the other hand photographs exceptionally well. No doubt she also is aware of the fact. At any rate, she worries hardly any when picture-taking's going on, but leaves it to the camera-men.

Photographers all like Vice-President Daves. From his "hell in Maria" reputation one might conjecture that he'd be ferocious with 'em. On the contrary he's most obliging. Perhaps it's because he's one of the kind who generally "takes" well.

It isn't always beauty that makes a good photograph.

Speaker Longworth is hardened. He'll pose any time, he knows how from long experience, and, as to results, he takes his chances.

The camera folk speak of Mrs. Longworth as "temperamental."

Sometimes she's all smiles and affability. Sometimes she's very hard to get along with. Sometimes any picture suits her. Sometimes it's almost impossible to satisfy her.

Paulina hasn't reached an age where she cares a hoot.

It's a funny sight to see a high-powered public man moistening his lips to make 'em look rosy and shaking the sags and wrinkles out of his drapery, preliminary to having his photo shot.

It's funnier, after the fact, to watch him admiring the result, if he likes it, or to listen to his lament, if otherwise.

I had one of 'em a few days ago, tell me it was "disonorable" to reproduce his picture without painting out his facial lines and crowsfeet, "so he wouldn't look like Methusalem."

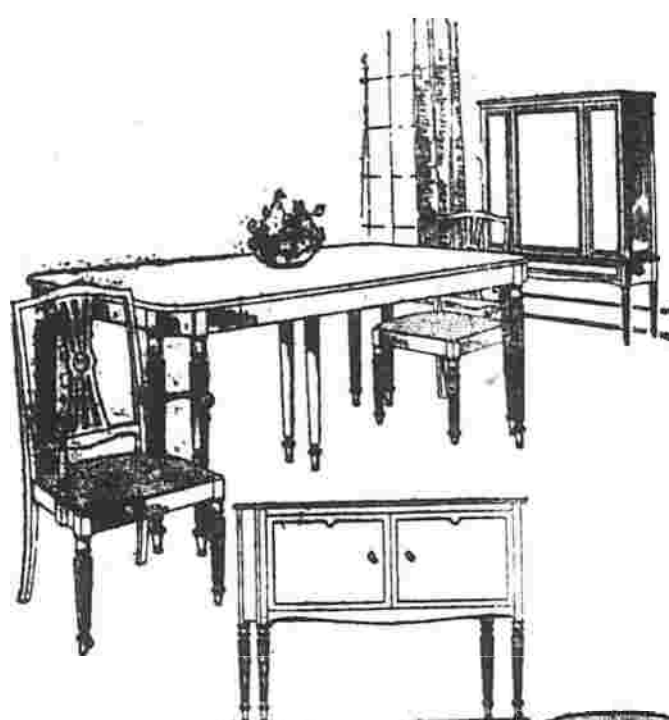

GALLOPING SNAKES.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc.

FLORIDA BRANCH — THE WATKINS-LIMBACHER CO. — ST. PETERSBURG.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 8.—Above all things New York is for the young. Young steel that can hold 30 floors of building in its slim, brown arms. . . . Young ideas, young blood. . . . Young strength and young rebellion.

The old things cling precariously to their various straws. Eventually they must go down. Men and buildings alike. Old ideas and old morals. . . .

There is Old Trinity, most historic of American churches it stands, throwing the shadow of the cross over Wall Street, modern symbol of Mammon. . . . It boasts a history that stretches back to the Revolution. . . . It boasts the richest backing. . . . Wealth and tradition cannot save it.

The burrowings of young speed into the earth undermined its foundations. . . . Blasting for young skyscrapers has shaken its doddering old walls. . . .

About a year ago young engineers came and sat in consultation. . . . They found it needed a crutch and other supports. . . . Its old legs were scarce able to hold it up. . . . So they brought the very blood of the young machine age. . . . They transfused the strong young steel into its crumbling old stone. . . . Ninety-two steel casing went under the old brown stone. . . . And the old church leaned back, waiting. . . .

Relentless time took its toll. . . . More blastings for skyscrapers over the Nile.

More vibrations from the catacombs. . . . More storms and rains. . . . And the other day the ornamented topstone of the pinnacle fell. . . . Day by day fragments of stone fall from the walls. Decay, halted at the base, now strikes the body. . . . I saw young engineers climbing the steeples and going over the walls. . . . Soon a scaffolding will entoid it and the rejuvenators will have Old Trinity partially embalmed in modern concrete and plaster. . . . Next will come the vaulted inner ceiling. . . . Sooner or later lathe and plaster must come to its rescue. . . .

Old Trinity's parish was chartered in 1897 by King William III. The Lord Bishop of London was the first rector.

The first church was destroyed in the great fire of 1766. Located on the site of the present one, it is a landmark of fabulous value. It is a landmark that in 1775 all the land from Church street to the North River sold for 10 shillings.

A second church was built on the spot in 1788 and was torn down and replaced by the present edifice in 1839.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

This Water Denizen Has Many Names

By ARTHUR N. PACK President, The American Nature Association.

Variety are the names of the sunfishes, the subject of this illustration.

There are, of course, several species, known among scientists under various more or less unpronounceable terms derived from the Latin or Greek, but we refer of course to the names given them by country boys and other laymen.

Their thinness viewed from the front or rear, and their plumpness viewed in profile, have found a resonance in the southern states where they are known as Kivvers, evidently an Africanization of cover. Brim (for bream) and many combinations of adjectives referring to the shape or color of the various kinds, and used in combination with sunfish (said to refer to the brightness of its tints) greet us in different parts of our country where the sunfish furnishes sport to the less ambitious angler.

call of love in spring first looks to the providing of a home. Selecting some favorable spot at a moderate depth, he clears away all loose vegetation and debris from a circle two or three feet in diameter until a clear sandy bottom is assured.

This, in a muddy stream, is a job of no mean proportion. Then he looks out for some likely looking lady sunfish, and in some way persuades her that this is the ideal spot to set up housekeeping.

Thenceforward he guards the eggs and the young sunfishes from all intruders, fiercely attacking fish or turtle or larval insect, anything which may be seeking to devour. All honor to the sunfish daddy who thus so nobly guards his home.

CAMP PIONEER IS FINE BOYS' CAMP

Opens Tenth Season This Year — Discipline and Safety Stressed.

Camp Pioneer of Boy Scouts will open its tenth season this year and has built up a fine equipment and a good reputation as a place for boys to spend a constructive and pleasant vacation. The camp had its best season last year, and was awarded "Grade A" rating by the National Camp Department.

The testimony of both campers and their parents is favorable, and a great many of the boys are planning to return to camp this year. The Scout Executive was the camp director last year, and is acting in the same capacity this year.

Parents are especially impressed with the discipline of the boys and the safety thrown around them.

Activities

All activities are selected and put over with the thought in mind of giving the boys plenty of fun. Scouts at the camp learn by doing and "the play method" is emphasized in teaching. Furthermore, real scouting is done at Pioneer, the kind that appeals to red-blooded boys, full of pep. The activities include swimming, hiking, woodcraft, handiwork, scoutcraft, night camp, etc. Baseball, swimming and scoutcraft games are arranged with other camps. Campfire program, Indian ceremonies and night games occupy the evenings, giving the boys an opportunity to develop and display their special talents.

Health

Camp is inspected annually by the State Department of Health and received a clean bill of health the past few years. Drinking water from the well and swimming water in the lake are analyzed and pronounced satisfactory. There are practically no flies nor mosquitoes. Regular habits of eating, sleeping and exercising produce healthful boys, and practically all increase in weight. The campers for watches the health of the boys very carefully, and calls a registered physician when necessary.

Food

The food is good and wholesome well cooked and prepared by a capable chef, Alex Lindstrom, and supplied in adequate quantity. Whole milk and vegetables are secured from neighboring farms. Meat is purchased directly from the wholesaler and delivered in one hour from the refrigerator.

Physical Examinations

Scouts should bring certificates from a doctor, showing examinations made within five days before entering camp. Scouts not bringing certificates will be examined by our camp doctor before being permitted to enter quarters or associate with campers.

Camp Store

Wholesome candy is sold under regulation, limited to ten cents worth a day. Ice cream is sold twice weekly.

Parents and friends will be welcome any time at the camp, but especially Sundays. Families are invited to picnic on the grounds where fireplaces for cooking will be provided. Visitors are requested to take special precaution to prevent introduction of contagious disease into camp. Meals are served to visitors on twenty-four hour notice.

Water Safety

Rules rigidly enforced and adequate supervision are given. The "Buddy System", checking system and life guards in boats and on land made accidents practically impossible. Only swimmers are allowed to use boats and canoes, and then only after passing a rigid examination. A Red Cross life saver is in charge, assisted by life guards. All swimmers instructed in handling boats and canoes and in life saving methods. Special attention given to non-swimmers.

Scoutcraft instruction is emphasized and Scouts take pleasure in advancing through the ranks. Regular schedule of instruction and tests each morning. Scouts must bring test cards to receive credit for tests passed at home.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Last Friday afternoon Miss McGuire's civics classes of the Franklin school presented for the second of the series of Freshman assemblies being given now, a one act comedy entitled "Station YYY." The play was written by Booth Tarkington. The cast was as follows:

Herbert Edward Dziadus
Mr. Winstead, his father
Mrs. Winstead, his mother
Roger Norman Campbell
Anita Genivive Eddy
Caroline Gladys Abbott
The Chauffeur Venancio Bogrini

Radio Sluger John Johnston
The story of the play dealt with a radio set and a set of family squabbles. Herbert, played by Edward Dziadus, wanted to go to a boys' camp, and everyone else in the family didn't want him to go. But Herbert was determined to go. Hook or crook. Consequently when his father came home and told him he just simply couldn't do it, and no amount of persuasion could alter his purpose. Herbert just had to use some strategy. With the help of the family chauffeur, he disconnected the radio. Mr. Winstead's just about crazy because the radio wouldn't work and when Herbert and the chauffeur did some impromptu broadcasting of music, he was so overjoyed because he thought that the radio was working again, that he didn't bother to investigate. Herbert made a "radio speech" on the merits of a boys' camp, and on the right kind of a husband to pick. Mr. Winstead hurried to the hook, line and sinker. Herbert's sister, Caroline, played by Gladys Abbott, was being courted by a rather bashful and somewhat "slow" lover, Roger, played by Norman Campbell. Herbert's speech about the right kind of a husband to choose was quite disconcerting to poor Roger, who happened to be sitting calmly beside Caroline at the time. After this impromptu program had been completed, Mr. Winstead agreed to let Herbert go to the camp, providing that the coming of radio hasn't made one believe that much time and pains had been spent on the entertainment. It was an extremely humorous farce, and kept the audience in a continuous uproar.

The prize to the Freshman selling the largest number of tickets for the Argonaut Club's play, "Three Pills in a Bottle", presented a short time ago, went to Bessie Johnson. The prize was a fountain pen.

The banner for the Freshman basketball championship went to room thirteen. The banner for Freshman baseball championship went to room twenty eight. Mr. Proctor presented the two pennants, which were of crimson with the name of the respective sports in white letters, to the captains of each team.

Harry Yoemans has been the only one to date who has made up any cheers for the Freshman class. His cheers were read to the assembly. More cheers are needed for class day, especially ones with a cheer to the seniors involved.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA—Nathan Hale (3)

In September Lieutenant Hale marched, with Colonel Charles Webb's regiment, to Boston, which was one of the main object points of the British. After a long struggle, lasting from Autumn till Spring, the British were driven out of Boston, taking refuge in Halifax. For bravery displayed in this siege Lieutenant Hale was commissioned a captain, through an act of Congress, on January 1, 1776.

New York next became the objective point of attack and, in April, Captain Hale's regiment was ordered there to aid in the defense of that city. Hale, however, left his outfit for a short time.

He stopped at Norwich to organize the Connecticut Rangers. Then, in May, he rejoined his regiment in New York and performed a feat that made his name known to every soldier in the Continental Army.

A British sloop, laden with provisions, arms and ammunition, was anchored in the East river, under the protection of the British man-of-war, Asia. Hale asked, and received permission to attempt the capture of the supply vessel. A few picked men immediately joined Hale in the dangerous undertaking and they boarded a whaleboat and set out on the task at midnight. (CONTINUED)

A Wonderful Church and No Congregation

A magnificent $300,000 church is just being finished at Leroy, Ill., which will have no congregation at all when its doors are thrown open. One J. T. Crumbaugh, rich land owner, who died in 1905, left a $300,000 trust of land to build and support a Spiritualist church, and his will was recently sustained by the Supreme court after extended litigation. There is not a Spiritualist within miles of the church now, but the edifice has been built in accordance with the will.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO

FRANCIS OUMET—JUDGING DISTANCES

Nothing is more deceptive than distance. In golf the player is constantly moving about and trying various links, so he should be a good judgment player. Just have to be, else they crack at odd moments when you are not prepared for it. Too many golfers depend on the other fellow. That is the wrong theory. There is more to the game than copying the play of an opponent, especially if he is better than you. No two champions use the same weapons. They get home by different routes. Each is a star with his clubs. That is usually the way with the average golfer. He thinks he knows all about it. Golf holes are deceptive as to length, some rely on guesswork as to distance. There is one sure plan to follow in judging the length of any hole—follow the score card. On it is the distance in yards. By doing that you then know what you have to do. And you can figure it out with mathematical precision if you have made it a point to remember the distances of various holes you know well.

DUCKS INCREASING

The crop of migrating wild ducks is on the increase. The birds have been coming north this spring in greater numbers than in many years—possibly for 25 years.

It was predicted that the federal migratory bird act, closing the shooting of ducks and migratory water-fowl in the spring, would bring back the birds in ever increasing numbers. Such is the case.

Shooting places along the Great Lakes, where the water wasn't drawn off the marshes, reported the best hunting in two decades. The "limit" in many of the club shooting grounds was the rule rather than the exception. That was last fall.

This spring, even before the ice was out of the marshes and inland lakes, the ducks returned in scuds. In the lakes, ponds and marshes in the northern states there are now millions of ducks.

Many of these birds, like the bluebills, will linger in these waters for another ten days or two weeks and then continue their flight northward to the nesting grounds. The northern ducks—the mallard and the blue duck particularly—will remain in thousands of lakes and ponds south of the Canadian boundary to nest.

I have observed more bluebills this spring than has been the case in years. Two seasons ago considerable apprehension was felt for the bluebill. My observation is that we need have no fear of its future and increase.

The canvasback crop was immense last fall and the northern flight indicates a still better shoot next October-November. Geese have wintered well. Jack Miner reports from his Kingsville, Ont., goose sanctuary that never before has the preserve been visited so heavily.

Take it all together it looks like the time is rapidly approaching when the non-member of a duck club will get better shooting. While the club members, the men who feed the marshes and keep the birds coming on an even keel, are going to have shooting success this fall that will stack up well with "the good old days."

TRADE SCHOOL BATTERS SPORT CLASSY AVERAGES

Five Above .400 and Four Are Higher Than .300; Mechanics' Have Opportunity to Establish Great Record.

Five of the players on the local State Trade school baseball nine are sporting batting averages of .400 or better for the nine games played and four others are above the .300 mark, it was revealed today.

Wonderful Opportunity
The Trade school boys stand a mighty fine opportunity of having the most successful season ever experienced by the school. All they need is to win the four remaining games on their slate. This will give the locals the record of thirteen consecutive victories in as many games played. It would mark the first time in the history of the school that a team has gone through a season undefeated.

Won 12, Lost 1
A few years ago Captain Sammy Hewitt led a Trade school nine to twelve successive victories only to falter and lose the final game of the season to New Britain Trade school here 1 to 0. This is the record at which Coach Echmalian's charges are now driving at.

Playing Tomorrow
Tomorrow afternoon the local schoolboys will travel to Glastonbury to meet the High school of that town. Manchester holds a 6-1 victory over this team and has high hopes of repeating the feat, thus keeping its state unmarred.
The other three games which remain on the schedule are as follows: Bacon Academy of Colchester at Colchester Thursday, June 17; New Britain Trade school here Tuesday, June 22; and Bridgeport Trade school at Bridgeport on Friday, June 25.

CHENEY-REGAN MEET TOMORROW EVENING

Twilight Baseball Game Slated for West Side Playgrounds With Rockville Nine.

Manager John L. Jenney of Cheney Brothers baseball nine announced this morning that he has secured the J. J. Regan Company of Rockville to play here against his club tomorrow evening at the West Side play grounds. Either Edgar or Georgetown will pitch for Manchester.

ACES LOSE 10-8.

The Aces defeated in Forestville Sunday by a 10-8 score. Errors were responsible for the setback. Next Sunday the locals will play in Rockville. Practice sessions will be held tonight, Wednesday and Friday. The summary:

MUST BEAT GIANTS, THINKS PIRATE BILL

McKechnie Can't See Any Other Team in the National, He Tells Walsh.
BY DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, June 8.—The writer today asked Bill McKechnie, Pirate manager, to name the best club he had seen to date, barring his own, and his reply was characteristic, if a trifle ambiguous. William said he hadn't seen the second best National League club, as yet, but expected to rectify the matter when he reached the Polo Grounds with the Pirates late next week.

This will be interesting to the boys in Cincinnati and Chicago, who have seen their teams begin to run themselves flat-footed with their pace-setting since the opening of the season, and to the addicts in St. Louis, who recently abandoned the idea of ending it all in the Mississippi when the Cardinals started to click with adequate regularity. All of them, with one exception, can roll their hoop down another alley, according to McKechnie.

Coming Right Along
"The Giants are the club we will have to beat," he declared. "Of course, I saw them in Pittsburgh on their last western trip but that wasn't the club that McGraw now. They have been moving right ahead for several weeks and will be back with the race, sooner or later. We have seen no reason to figure any other club seriously." Incidentally, Bill says he is a stand-patter, regardless of reports that he is trying to trade George Grantham and Eddie Moore to the Boston Braves for Dick Barrus. McKechnie is satisfied with his ball club and not without reason. He has had to do some radical experimenting this spring with a world's championship outfit, because neither Moore nor Barnhart was able to hit the ground with his bat and Max Carey was ill and still is, for that matter.

Carey Out of It
He said he left Carey in Pittsburgh, suffering from sinus trouble and hadn't the slightest idea when the great outfielder would play again. McKechnie has been very fortunate in lining up a pair like Hal Rhyne and Paul Waner, the San Francisco recruits. They, the beer fitted into the lineup and the gent who conceived the idea of paying serious money for them while the Pirates were winning a world title last fall, was silly like a slicker. The addition of this pair just about made the Pirates fool-proof.

TO HEAR FROM RICKARD SOMETIME NEXT WEEK

New York, June 8.—Discreet silence was maintained today while both sides of the controversy waited for next Tuesday to disclose the fate of the Dempsey-Willis-Tunney situation. Tex Rickard was expected to go before the State Athletic Commission this afternoon to make known his plans for a heavyweight championship bout this summer but was notified that a full commission could not be present today. His reply was that he would be too busy on Thursday with details of the Berlenbach-Stribling match to attend the meeting then and that the entire matter would have to go over until next week.

Rain washed away all four games in the National League.

DISSATISFACTION EXPRESSED OVER SCHOOLBOY NINE

Team Is Now in Cellar in League Standing — Playing This Afternoon.

Unless adverse weather conditions interfere, South Manchester High school baseball nine and West Hartford were to play this afternoon in that city.

Thursday afternoon the local schoolboys will travel to East Hartford to play a league game and on Saturday will bring their season to a close with a game against Bristol High here.

Fans Disappointed
Much dissatisfaction has been voiced among the fans in general here over the disastrous season which the high school nine is having. Just who is to blame for the poor results which are being obtained from the team is not exactly clear. Yet there are many who advance the fact that lack of "team spirit" among the players is the cause. Others contribute the cause to the loss of Eddy Boyce, mainstay of the pitching staff and still others lay the blame point blank on the action, or perhaps "not enough" would be better.

Pitchers Take Trouncings
Saturday was not the first instance "Breck" has forced a pitcher to stay on the mound and take a severe pummeling. There were many who thought "Breck" should have ranked Dahlquist before the Meriden team had piled up a lead of over 10-0. It was very evident soon after the game started that Dahlquist was not in true form.

It is nevertheless true that the S. M. H. S. team was badly crippled by the loss of Eddy Boyce. This left Breckenridge with a very weak pitching staff.

Anyway it is about time somebody injected some more real, honest-to-goodness, pep in the players. A little more real fight and maybe Manchester can pull out of the cellar position before the season concluded Saturday afternoon. Here's hoping they do.

HELEN "DOING NICELY."
Paris, June 8.—Helen Wills, the American tennis star who underwent an operation for appendicitis last week, was "doing nicely" this morning.
Her physician said she had spent a comfortable night.
Connie Mack gave Walberg a chance and the Rube obliged with a seven to two victory over the Browns. Simmons' ninth homer of the season disillusioned Gaston and put the game on ice.

WALTER MAILS PASSES

Walter Mails, southpaw and comedian, has slipped back again. As you know, Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, shunted the eccentric flinger to Syracuse the other day. There he's likely to stay for some time.

Mails—"The Great Mails," as the entire Pacific Coast League knew him—stepped into fame back in 1920 when he won seven straight games for Cleveland after joining that club late in the season. His sensational work had much to do with bringing the Forest City its first and only pennant. In the world series that fall Mails played an important part, too, holding the heavy-hitting Brooklyn team to few hits and less runs.

Shortly after Mails drifted back to the coast where he likewise proved a winner. The Cards got the easy-going hurler last season and he did fairly well, though handicapped by injuries.

Mails has always preferred to play on the coast. This spring Hornsby told Mails if he didn't deliver he'd be shipped to Syracuse, not to the Pacific slope. Hornsby figured it might cause Mails to take the bit tent seriously. It didn't, however, so Hornsby made good his threat.

HIGHLAND PARK LOSES; SCORE 11-4

Kensington Victorious Over Locals—Bon Ami Idle; Plainville Quits League.

Manchester's two entries in the Hartford County "Y" industrial baseball league are perched at the bottom of the league standing at the conclusion of the second week of play. Playing its first game, Highland Park was defeated 11 to 4 in Kensington while the Bon Ami nine was idle. The factory nine was scheduled to meet the Plainville team but the latter has dropped out of the league.

Kensington Wins.
Highland Park started strong in its game with the Kensington team scoring four runs in the opening inning. After this, however, the Manchesterites were helpless before the pitching of H. Nelson. Nelson fanned twelve batters. "Dutch" Senkbell pitched for Manchester. The score by innings and batteries follows:

Team	R	H	E
Highland Park	4	4	6
Kensington	11	9	2

H. Nelson and Sines for Kensington; Senkbell and Nichols for Highland Park.
Glastonbury Wins.
Nicholson pitched East Glastonbury to a 6 to 2 victory over the East Berlin team in the city Saturday afternoon. A four run rally in the ninth inning broke a 2-2 tie and won the game for the boys from East Glastonbury. The score by innings:

Team	R	H	E
Glastonbury	6	6	3
East Berlin	2	8	4

BUCKLAND NINE SWAMPS WAPPING

Cussin Pitches Winners to 22-0 Victory in Opening Game of Season.
The Buckland baseball nine opened its season in an auspicious manner Sunday afternoon when it traveled to Wapping and won a 22-0 decision over the team representing the tobacco growers.
The Buckland team was far too superior for the Wapping players and from the start it was only a question of how big a score Buckland would run up. The batteries were Cussin and Zeleski for Buckland and Sedar, Miller and Kutlack for Wapping.
The Indians made it two out of three, scalping the Yankees, five to two in the last game of the series. Uble outpitched Shocker and battled in two runs in the bargain.

INGRAHAM TEAM HERE THURSDAY

Sons' Conquerors in Return Game at West Side; Lamprecht to Catch.

Last Saturday the winning streak of the Sons of Italy was broken by the Ingraham Clock Company team of Bristol when McHugh of that town held the Manchester batters to five hits. On Thursday evening this same team will come here for a return game at the West Side.

It is expected that McHugh will again oppose Manchester on the mound for he was highly effective for Bristol last week. The Sons haven't decided yet on who they will use. There are Lefty Buckland of Hartford with Hewitt and Holland to pick from.
Punk Lamprecht will catch his first game for the Sons on Thursday night, and from now on the backstop burden will be carried jointly by Punk and Woody Wallett.

MORGAN, ET AL, MUST EXPLAIN "TITLE" BOUT

New York, June 8.—Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, his recent challenger, Steve Kid Sullivan, and those connected with last week's title bout, including the referee, judges and seconds, have been summoned before the State Athletic Commission to explain the unsatisfactory ending of the match. They will appear before the board either this afternoon or Thursday, it was said.

The White Sox overcame a four-run lead and thrashed Boston, ten to five, advancing to third place. The Red Sox knocked Thomas off the rubber in the first inning but got only four hits off Edwards who finished the game.

Veteran Moundsman With Shoor Bros. In Twilight Game at West Side Oval; Eddy Boyce to Pitch for Manchester

Shoor Bros. to shake off the pursuer this evening at the expense of Shoor Brothers. Last Saturday the Saints were defeated in Groton 6 to 4 and the players, Ergo they are more than anxious to hop back into the win column this evening.

Shoor Brothers are playing league ball in Hartford and are experiencing a successful season. They have won five games against two reversals. "Iron Man" Bill Pike is slated to pitch for the visitors. His reputation is known far and wide and needs no further mention.

If the weather holds fair, tonight will find the St. Mary's baseball nine playing Shoor Brothers from Hartford at the West Side playgrounds. Play will start at 6:15 and Jack Dwyer and Ralph Russell will be the officials in charge.
Eddy Boyce, star pitcher of the local High school nine until he was declared ineligible, will be on the firing line for the Saints and should make a creditable showing. Boyce has the earmarks of a fine moundsman and if he takes good care of his "soup bones" he should ascend the ladder of fame successfully. "Pat" Carlson, another former S. M. H. S. man, will appear behind the bat in his usual role. His steady work coupled with his excessive pep has been one of the greatest assets of the Saints' team this season. He is also a sweet hitter.

BERLENBACH-STRIBLING ALL SET FOR BOUT

New York, June 8.—With their light heavyweight championship meeting scheduled for the Yankee Stadium two days hence, Paul Berlenbach and Young Stribling will conclude intensive training for the bout this afternoon with light workouts. Berlenbach weighed 177 pounds at his Summit, N. J., training camp this morning and will be ready to make 175 pounds at two o'clock Thursday afternoon without trouble. The class limit will be just as easy for Stribling.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
 Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid fermentation in the bowels and relieves the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drug store.—Adv.

Lubricoil insurance for your motor

WIN $1,000

THIS is the third of a series of five advertisements written by The Veteran Motorist for the Standard Oil Company of New York. Each advertisement contains a definite question on lubrication, and the Standard Oil Company of New York will award $2,500 in cash to the 79 contestants who write the best answers to the whole series.

Two questions already published in this paper are:
 1. What is the principle of Lubricating, and how does the consistent use of Socony Motor Oil carry out this principle?
 2. Of what service has a Lubrication Chart been to you?

Question Three will be found at the foot of this column. Question Four will appear in this paper two weeks from today.

Rules of the Contest
 1st Award.....$1,000
 2nd Award.....500
 3rd Award.....250
 4 awards of.....100 each
 20 awards of.....25 each
 50 awards of.....10 each
 75 awards, total.....$2,500

Any one may compete in this contest, except those connected directly or indirectly with the Standard Oil Company of New York. The answers to the five questions may be typed, written or written with pen and ink—one side of the paper only—one answer to each question. No single answer may be longer than 150 words, and each answer must be numbered to match the number of the question. All answers must be written in the English language and are the property of the Standard Oil Co. of New York. All five answers should be sent in together and the contestant's name and address should be plainly written on the first page of answers. No answers will be considered which are received later than Saturday, July 17th, 1926. The awards will be made to those who write the BEST answers to the five questions. That is, to those whose answers, in the opinion of the judges, answers to the five questions and have been judged most from The Veteran Motorist's instructions in the Standard Oil Company of New York's advertisements.

Address all answers to "The Veteran Motorist," c/o Standard Oil Company of New York, Room 411, 25 Broadway, New York City.

Question Three
 Why is poor oil the most expensive?

GOOD motor oil is highly refined. It has great resistance to normal motor heat. Its quality is uniform both when originally obtained and when in service under heat and pressure. A good motor oil will not form hard carbon that must be scraped out at large expense.

SOCONY MOTOR OILS ARE GOOD OILS

Good motor oil will form a COAT between all bearing surfaces, and this COAT will reduce friction. This is the principle of Lubricating.

SOCONY MOTOR OILS WILL LUBRICOAT

Good motor oil, by preventing friction, lessens wear of bearings, cylinders and rings. It also maintains proper compression and prevents gas leakage. This, in turn, reduces power loss and gives you more miles per gallon of gas.

SOCONY MOTOR OILS REDUCE REPAIR BILLS AND OPERATING COSTS

Socony Motor Oils Lubricate and cushion every moving part; maintain compression and power; resist high temperatures; are always of uniform quality; are found everywhere throughout Soconyland.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HARRY MORTON is middle-aged, attractive to women, married and rich. He maintains a home in Rochester and an apartment in New York.

AUDREY, his adopted daughter, has told him she loves him and wants him to marry her.

NONA, a New York stage girl, also loves him.

JOHN PARRISH, Morton's secretary, loves Audrey.

Morton, to divert Audrey from her idea of marrying him, has brought Nona to Rochester, from which she returns to New York. Audrey, to learn how stage girls manage to get rich, goes into rehearsal in New York for a cabaret revue with Nona as her partner. She becomes angry at Nona, and with Morton returns to Rochester. They meet their neighbors on the street. The neighbors "cut them dead."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXXIV

"WHAT'S the matter with those people?"
 Audrey turned and stared after them, wondering.

"We're being high-batted," Morton grinned.

Parrish did not take the episode so lightly. "That was an insult," he said, with anger. "They didn't even look at Miss Morton."

Morton glanced sideward at him, in amusement. "They didn't look at us, either," he suggested.

"That's different," he said. "When don't care if people speak to them or not. Now with young ladies—"

"Young ladies don't care either," snapped Audrey. "Those old sticks-in-the-mud! They have that little nasty barking terrier, and if he ever comes in our yard again—"

"You'll revenge yourself on the terrier," Morton finished for her. "Don't be absurd. You can't hit a little dog because his owners don't speak to us."

"Well, we ought to do SOMETHING," Audrey argued.

"Why?" Morton apparently was enjoying the situation.

Parrish interposed before Audrey could answer. "I think Miss Morton is right," he said. "I think you ought to call on those people and demand an explanation."

"That's a silly idea," declared Audrey.

Parrish, his support thus rejected, was silent.

The little maid-servant opened the door as they arrived at the Morton home, and she bobbed a curtsy, smiling with pleasure. Audrey could answer. "I think Miss Morton is right," he said. "I think you ought to call on those people and demand an explanation."

"That's a silly idea," declared Audrey.

Parrish, his support thus rejected, was silent.

to get disgusted with me as a candidate for husband."

"Oh," she was silent, with a finger to her lips.

He went on: "I really counted on all those people about Nona and me. And I thought it might help you get rid of your idea that you wanted to marry me."

"Oh," she said again.

He turned back to his desk, and Audrey slowly turned and went up to her room.

Morton was busy at his office for the remainder of the day, dictating letters and going over a mass of reports. Parrish hurried back and forth with piles of papers, and small pocket ledgers that contained statements of Morton's affairs, arranged to be ready at a moment's notice.

"What are you going to do this evening, John?" Morton asked, idly, as he was preparing to go home.

"Going to get my silver, and grease it, and go out for a ride."

you start any place, driving a young filly, you've got to count on at least one runaway, having the dashboard kicked out, getting into the ditch once or twice, and enjoying a lot of excitement en route."

"I know that," agreed Parrish. "I've broken a few colts myself. Are you going to buy a filly, sir?"

Morton's eyelids quivered, but he suppressed his smile.

"I was just thinking," he said and pursued the subject no further.

Toward noon, a woman caller was

"I wish you would explain this nonsense," he said, slowly.

She drew a mirror from her handbag, and with a pencil improved the line of an eyebrow.

"I was afraid he would come in here and raise an awful scene," she told him. "I wanted to warn you."

"That doesn't explain anything," he said. "What have you been doing, anyway—seeking a thrill?"

She leaned forward, and smiled at him.

"You ARE thrilling, you know, Mr. Morton," she confided.

"Poppy-cock!" he said. "Look here, Mrs. Carver, I have never seen anything of you, except when I met you at a dance, and the two or three times you've been at this office. You announced. Morton frowned as he was told the name.

"All right—show her in," he said with something like a groan.

Rising, he greeted his visitor. She sat down. He remained standing, as if to convey the thought that her call should be short.

Morton's answer was impatient. "Quite well, thank you. What did you want to see me about?"

She drew her chair forward, beaming into his face. "This is very confidential," she said, "and you know how glad I am to see you! I saw you coming from the station with Audrey—dear little Audrey! How is she?"

Morton's answer was impatient. "Quite well, thank you. What did you want to see me about?"

She drew her chair forward, beaming into his face. "This is very confidential," she said, "and you know how glad I am to see you! I saw you coming from the station with Audrey—dear little Audrey! How is she?"

came without my invitation. What idiotic nonsense have you been telling that husband of yours, anyway?"

The lady drew herself up.

"It isn't my husband," she said, "it's my dear Mr. Morton, as you call it, when my husband sees you," she said, coldly. "You can't trifle with my affections without paying the penalty."

She arose, and started for the door.

"A man whose life is a scandal in this community, bringing fast women from New York and putting them up at the hotel, hasn't much defense when he tampers with the life of an innocent married woman."

"Well, I'll be—," said Morton to himself.

He leaned back in his chair and considered, rubbing his chin from time to time. At last he thoughtfully returned to his work. He said nothing to Parrish about his woman visitor, but kept the young man engaged in making entries in his small private account book.

"But I'm not a lawyer," he protested. "Why don't you see an attorney?"

She looked at him coyly, through lowered eyelids. "But," she said, "it's about YOU."

"About me? What has your husband to do with me?"

She leaned over, and tapped him on the sleeve.

"You see, dear Mr. Morton, he's jealous of you!"

He leaped to his feet, with an exclamation. "Why in the name of all that's holy should he be jealous of me?"

She smiled. "Perhaps it is because I talk of you so much," she offered. "You know all of us girls talk about you!"

Morton walked up and down the room, running his fingers through his hair, perplexed. "How far has this thing gone? What does he say? What is he going to do?"

His visitor smiled, with visible satisfaction.

"He says he's going to sue for divorce, on account of you!"

Morton sat down, heavily. With announced. Morton frowned as he was told the name.

"All right—show her in," he said with something like a groan.

Rising, he greeted his visitor. She sat down. He remained standing, as if to convey the thought that her call should be short.

Morton's answer was impatient. "Quite well, thank you. What did you want to see me about?"

She drew her chair forward, beaming into his face. "This is very confidential," she said, "and you know how glad I am to see you! I saw you coming from the station with Audrey—dear little Audrey! How is she?"

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Locked Out!
 The National Woman's Party of America has been locked out of the International Suffrage Alliance in Paris. The unpopular party, which is merely a new name for the old militant suffrage party will find this black and sharp ingratitude, as they have ever maintained that their picketings, parades, hunger striking, and various forms of martyrdom brought the vote to the women of America.

Their present fight is for an equal rights amendment, which would give women the handicap and no favor in the world of industry and elsewhere. This would mean equal pay with a man and it would also mean the withdrawal of all protective legislation for women, enacted by mothers of the race, to need certain privileges men do not. It is this which makes them persona non grata to the National League of Women Voters and similar bodies.

Spice Pie
 Somewhat different is this pie concocted from 4 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup raisins, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 3 teaspoons vinegar, 1 cup of nuts to use in pie. Butter, sugar and egg yolks are beaten together, spices and vinegar added, then the raisins, nuts and stiffly beaten egg yolks. Baked in single crust in slow oven for 30 minutes.

Old Wives' Tales
 A prominent doctor whacks some "old wives' notions of food." Tomatoes, says he, do not thin the blood; orange and milk do not curdle the stomach. It is perfectly all right to eat oranges or grapefruit or berries for breakfast, then cereal with cream on it. Brown and white eggs have exactly the same food value. Fish is not brain food. Raisins have little iron compared with other foods.

Fathers' Council
 A fathers' council, the purpose of which is to emphasize the responsibilities of fathers to children, has been organized in London. Perhaps some day men will be really ready to do their half of rearing children.

Bobbed Bobs
 Bobbed bobs have originated in Germany. An invention somewhat like a martini hat the hair clasped around it in such a way that the head looks bobbed. The contraption is known as "the English breakfast roll." Some of Chicago's "Gold Coast women" are still joggling along with the first husband fate gave me. My career has been subservient so long as they needed me.

But of course, if one has lived nearly half a century there is a great bulk of hours at one's command. I never could understand why a woman could not express herself in a creative way, though Great Idea!

 The ancient Greeks imposed fines upon women whose coiffures were not up to snuff and whose make-ups were over or under-done. The poets of old Rome prescribed floggings for their women folk's complexions. Ovid, for instance, broke into lyrical meter over a compound of white of egg, honey, wine dregs, and corn flour. But today's man neither makes laws about women's heads, nor prescribes for her lumbic penitence. He merely helps pay the daily beauty bill of $5,000,000 spent by women of America alone for beauty.

Book Note
 For telling, summer afternoons "After Noon," is the story of a woman's middle years—the afternoon of her life, and her quest for the something more all women need when their first big job of family life is over.

Your Daughter
 The bride who "just can't boil water" is often the grown-up girl who was shoeshorn out of the kitchen. I know they do "mess things up," but some day the little girl whom you turned loose in the kitchen will bless you a thousand-fold. Let her read, "Mary Frances' Cook Book by Frier; 'When Mother Lets Us Make Candy' by Bache; 'When Mother Lets Us Cook' by Johnson.

Today's Verse
 "At night returning, every labour sped,
 He sits him down, the monarch of a shed;
 Smiles by his cheerful fire, and round surveys
 His children's looks, that brighten
 Like the stars of heaven,
 While his lov'd partner, boastful of her board,
 Displays her cleanly platter on the board."
 —Goldsmith's "Traveler."

FOR GARDEN PARTIES
 The very large leghorn hat is often trimmed with a single flower or with a bow of velvet ribbon in pink, blue or orchid tones.

VERY EXTREME.
 Perhaps the most startling lingerie seen this season is made of lipstick red georgette crepe and trimmed with black chantilly lace.

AND IN ALL COLORS.
 The fringed negligee is one of the loveliest of this season's offerings, comes in heavy satin or brocaded silks.

FOR THE COUNTRY.
 Very quaint little hats are made of quilted calico or cretonne, bound with bright colored ribbons.

Carrying Anthrax

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING, Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

Quarantine regulations of the Public Health Service require the disinfection of hair shipped into this country that is to be used for shaving brushes, and the service has published information regarding the disinfection of wool, hides and skins in its fight on anthrax.

It investigates cases of human anthrax for the purpose of determining the source of infection and to prevent subsequent infections from the same source.

In the external form of anthrax, a minute swelling appears at the seat of infection, and develops into a vesicle containing serum or bloody matter, and varying in size, usually not larger than a quarter.

This vesicle soon bursts and leaves an ulcerated or sloughing surface, around which are numerous smaller vesicles which undergo similar changes, and the whole affected part becomes hard and tender, while the surrounding surface and neighboring lymphatic glands become inflamed.

This condition, often termed "malignant pustule," is accompanied with severe constitutional disturbance, such as fever, delirium, perspiration and great prostration, and a tendency to death from septicemia. Recovery is not uncommon, however.

Intestinal anthrax is contracted from the eating of meat of diseased animals. The intestinal form of the disease is somewhat rare, but usually rapidly fatal.

Pulmonary anthrax results from the inhalation of infected material.

In animals, anthrax may be conveyed by the bite of a fly or the sting of an insect, or it may be contracted by grazing in pastures contaminated by the anthrax germ.

Children or Careers?
 By GRACE THOMPSON SETON

I have a baby and I am perfectly conventional in being proud of it or rather of her, and so long as it was necessary I "sacrificed" my career for maternity—also I have not indulged in divorce and I am still joggling along with the first husband fate gave me. My career has been subservient so long as they needed me.

But of course, if one has lived nearly half a century there is a great bulk of hours at one's command. I never could understand why a woman could not express herself in a creative way, though

CAREERS!
 A Business Woman's Slant in the Series of Discussions of "Children or Careers?"
 By FELICIA ADAMS, New York Interior Decorator.

If every woman were offered an arbitrary choice between children and a career, there would be few careers. All a woman's natural instincts and her centuries of training would make her choose the natural course, which is maternity.

But not every woman makes this choice. Economic pressure often makes it necessary to deny one or the other, or choose both.

And the choice with many women, since we must agree all women cannot be mothers, is not between motherhood and a career, but between domestic routine with the conventional social activity, and a job or profession in which she competes with others, and develops her mental resources.

Here, the modern woman chooses the career.

Women have creative ability which if not fulfilled in the normal manner, that is by rearing and training children, must be turned into some other channel if she is to be happy. For self-expression is necessary to justify life.

The childless woman cannot be excused from greater obligations in the world of art, trade and social service, as the woman can who is bereft of children.

She should help in her way to make the world more beautiful, and a better place for the children other women are producing to live in.

A career is not preferable to motherhood, but is probably the best substitute for it that can be found.

Common. The mayor himself turned the first spadeful of earth. The occasion was given a patriotic turn by the distribution of flags and the singing of patriotic songs.

While the writer is not on the publicity committee for the coming Manchester Community club lawn festival she does want to remind housekeepers to visit the food and domestic booth. Through the enthusiasm of the committee, together with the co-operation of a North End merchant and the wholesaler at Hartford, the booth will be decorated in a manner never before attempted in any town hereabouts by representatives of the nationally known flour concern. Not only that—they are making a generous donation of their products, some of which patrons at the booth will have the chance of winning. I need not give the name of the concern, you all know it, and know that the young cooking expert they have sent here on many different occasions has won for them hosts of friends and users of their products.

An anonymous writer in the June Harper's magazine has this to say on the question as to whether beauty is an asset or liability to women in business:

"It is true that if a woman is handsome and smartly dressed she may be accorded more cordial reception when she enters an office. She may even obtain a job more readily than a less gifted sister. But once the job is hers, she finds scrutiny and criticism on the part of the women about her. Even large-minded women find it difficult not to be suspicious of pretty women. Even some men—small ones—are antagonistic towards those of the opposite sex who outdistance them on the road to success. Should those women have beauty added to their ability, they do not escape the petty insinuations and intrigues to be found in some degree in most offices."

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BAXTON

When the Twins and the Whiffet stepped on to the Zigzag Path that led to Hidy Go Land, the path started to jump and jerk and wiggle and shake so hard they could scarcely keep their feet. They might just as well have tried to walk on a hammock.

"Oh, dear! I can't stand up!" cried Nancy, clutching at Nick.

"Neither can I," said Nick, reaching for the little rag-bag boy, who had been bounced clear off—and almost head over heels himself.

Suddenly they heard a voice say, "Highly Tightly! this won't do! And you children with magic shoes 'n' everything, too."

There stood their old friend Mister Havalook with his laundry under his arm.

"You—don't se—em to—have any trou—ble," said Nancy. "How—do—do you stick on?"

"It's a charm," said Mister Havalook. "I tie a knot in one corner of my handkerchief. If you have no handkerchief along, an end of your necktie will do, or the end of your apron—string. Just anything so you have a knot along."

Well, THAT worked all right, for in spite of their tumbling, the Twins got their knots tied. But the Whiffet had nothing to tie. And I don't know what would have happened if Mister Havalook hadn't brought his laundry along. But he had it right there so he lent the Whiffet a sock, and that fixed it.

"Now, then, go right along until you come to a large silver maple tree with reddish blossoms," said Mister Havalook. "Right behind it you will see an ivory door. That's the door of Mister Snoospy's cave. But listen here! I want to tell you a secret that I just learned the day before yesterday. It may help you out if the old rascal gets obstreperous."

With that Mister Havalook whispered something to Nick, and picking up his bundle, he was gone.

No, I won't tell you just yet exactly what it was that Mister Havalook whispered to Nick. It is to be a surprise.

The Twins and the Whiffet had no more trouble after that. The Zigzag Path lay on the ground just as quietly as a pan of taffy.

They crossed the violet patch and the hepatica patch and the anemone patch and the arbutus patch and the dog-wood patch and pretty soon they came to the silver maple tree. And there behind it was the IVORY DOOR OF MISTER SNOOSPY'S CAVE.

"Oh dear! Do you really think that I am going to find my shadow at last?" said the poor little Whiffet, as Nicked knocked loudly.

But before anybody could reply the ivory door opened suddenly and there stood Mister Snoospy himself—a terrifically fierce shadow in the shape of a plate.

"Who are you and what do you—" he started to roar, when suddenly Nick said, "Candle-snuffers!" just like THAT was the secret Mister Havalook had told him. And here is the surprise. Instantly Mister Snoospy melted into smoke. In a minute and a half he was gone altogether.

And that minute a streak of something dark seemed to shoot out of the cave and throw its arms around the little Whiffet's neck. But no one could be sure. What they were sure of was that in the patch of sunlight where they stood, there were three shadows instead of two. The Whiffet had found his shadow at last, pockets, necktie, ears and all! And the strangest thing of all was it had shrunk exactly as much as the purple bombazine suit. Do you suppose Mister Snoospy starved it?

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Henry Ford has bought an old-time stage coach. He probably intends to study out a new and more effective system of vibration for his new models.

Always park alongside a new and shiny car. It will back out without scraping you.

Automobile manufacturers have made rapid strides but they haven't yet produced a car with which it is safe to tease a locomotive at a grade crossing.

"Going to drive through to California this summer?" we asked a neighbor.

"Nope," he replied. "Going on the train. There's a lot of grade crossing races to be run between here and California and I want to be riding on the winner."

About the time the roads are repaired, detours removed and oil and tar carried off by the wheels of machines, it will be time to put the old bus away for the winter.

At 3 a. m. the pedestrian has most of the street to himself, and usually needs it.

Gasoline is often used for cleaning purposes, but whatever else it may be used for it still will clean the pocket book.

A transcontinental hiker is a fellow who crosses the continent by begging rides from motor tourists.

A Strong Man's Prayer.
Give me a trusty fiver,
A girl small with teasing eyes,
A lonely road on a moonlight eve,
And you can leave the rest to me.

When a man gets home from work and finds his wife reading an auto magazine he had better go on back to work.

It is more blessed to give (the amount of the fine) than to receive (a sixty-day jail sentence).

Ford's purchase of 8,000 acres in Florida has started a rumor that he's starting a rubber plantation. Folks will be disappointed if he doesn't make a rubber band stretch twice as far as any man before him.

Grocers and dry goods merchants pay for a lot of automobiles they never get.

One nice thing about a radio is that when the people who insist on taking you riding on Sunday afternoons come to see you, you can get even.

Automobiles are getting so plentiful in this country that it is a hard matter to keep them apart.

The reason so many people never get there, is because "there" is a place they always wish they were, no matter where they are.

A wife can usually tell a husband where he is going to say he has been—and it isn't because she knows where he was.

"I'll trim up last year's hat," said mom.

"And be that much ahead," But, after while, she changed her mind.

And dad was trimmed instead.

The man who doesn't know where he is going, but is on his way, is the fella who is just learning to drive a machine.

We don't need to worry, any more, about that famous riddle: "Why does a chicken cross the street?" because, in these days of autos, it doesn't.

The only way the summer is short is in connection with skirts and hosiery.

You can have everything you want in this world—if you quit wishing for things it's impossible to get.

It's a shame the chickens next door can't talk. They could always tell a fella what kind of seeds he planted in this, that or the other garden.

Now we know what has become of the old-fashioned kid who used to get spanked in the woodshed. He's out in the garage spanking his own kid.

It's a great idea to keep your spirits up—and yet most people keep 'em down in the basement.

"I'm in the dark about our bills," said she, a lack, alas.

And was she right? I'll say she was.

The pills were all for gas.
