

"SLUSH FUND" FIGURES CLIMB OVER A MILLION

Grundy, Penn. Manufacturers' Assn. Head Advanced $408,000 He Admits in Inquiry.

Washington, June 11.—The three-cornered senatorial race in Pennsylvania last month was lifted above the "million dollar class" today when Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, testified he had advanced $408,000 to the Pepper-Fisher campaign.

Grundy, a supporter of Senator George Wharton Pepper, told the Senate's "slush fund" committee he had given the Republican citizens committee of Philadelphia, a Pepper organization, $300,000 in unsecured loans, $18,000 in cash and $50,000 as a guarantor on a note for $80,000, cashed by the Corn Exchange Bank of Philadelphia.

Total Over Million
Grundy's testimony brought the total expenditures in the Pennsylvania campaign to $1,106,000, as admitted in sworn testimony. The expenditures thus far revealed include $195,000 by Governor Gifford Pinchot; $125,000 by Senator Pepper; personal committee, $11,000 by Representative S. Vane; $206,000 by W. L. Mellon, nephew of the secretary of the treasury, and $408,000 by Grundy.

Manufacturers' Loan
Grundy loaned $300,000 to the campaign committee of Senator Pepper and John S. Fisher, gubernatorial candidate, he told the committee.

This sum, Grundy said he loaned on notes to the Republican citizens campaign committee of Philadelphia, which handled the Pepper and Fisher campaigns in the eastern half of Pennsylvania. In addition to this, Grundy said he signed a note for $50,000 on the Corn Exchange Bank of Philadelphia with W. H. Folwell, treasurer of the Citizens' Committee, to pay "Pepper and Fisher watches" at the polls in that city on election day.

Responsible For $408,000.
Grundy further testified that he had personally contributed $18,000 to the same campaign fund. In all, his testimony showed he was responsible personally for giving $408,000 to the Pepper-Fisher funds.

Grundy said he received a number of checks from Pennsylvania manufacturers for the Pepper committee but he could not tell how much they totalled. The $200,000 which he loaned the committee, Grundy said, included money advanced before and after the election. He said about $150,000 had been advanced before the election and about the same amount "after May 14, the election day."

Loaned "On Faith"
Under further questioning, Grundy said the "notes" were merely signed by W. H. Folwell, the treasurer of the committee. He admitted there was no guaranty that he would ever be repaid. "You just have a complete faith in the people of Pennsylvania that they'll come forward and pay you back," he was asked.

Grundy's testimony came after an hour of futile questioning. The "slush" occurred when Grundy said he had signed the $300,000 note with Folwell to pay watchers at the polls. "Who were the notes drawn on?" he was asked. "I loaned them the money," Grundy said suddenly.

Woods in Charge.
Grundy told how the Pepper and Fisher committees maintained separate state headquarters "while working for both candidates." He said this was done "so that people who wandered into the Pepper headquarters, who might refuse to visit the Fisher headquarters," could be won over to support both candidates.

Grundy explained there was another "headquarters" for Pepper and Fisher in Philadelphia known as the "Republican Citizens' campaign committee." Cyrus E. Woods, former ambassador to Japan and Italy, Grundy said, was in charge of all the different headquarters.

Contradictory. Reed observed. "Mr. Woods told us he had virtually nothing to do with the campaign." "I think in view of this testimony," Senator King, (D., of Utah) added, "we better recall Mr. Woods as the witness stand."

The committee then recessed for luncheon. Senator Pepper's "personal campaign committee" spent $125,000 in asking to retain his seat in the Senate, he testified today.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot had told of spending $195,000. Representative William S. Vane reported $71,000 in personal expenditures while W. L. Mellon, nephew of the secretary,

TRYS KICK AT VOLSTEAD JEERIS IN 4TH PARADE

Providence, R. I., June 11.—President Coolidge and Attorney General Sargent had on their desks today a protest from the Anti-Volstead League against the proposed anti-Volstead section of the Mummers' parade here in connection with the municipal celebration July fourth of the Sesquicentennial anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

"Cannot the federal power intervene to prevent such desecrations of the day?" asked the message.

BIG ATTENDANCE OPENS LAWN FETE

2,600 People Throng "White House" Grounds—Music, Booths, Stage Program.

A perfect June night, continuous music, beautifully decorated grounds, and a big throng in holiday spirits combined to open most auspiciously the 1926 lawn fete of the Manchester Community club at the "White House" grounds last evening.

Favored by a warm, balmy day and evening, just the weather which beckons one outdoors and with gaily decorated booths, and grounds pleasingly lighted with all incandescents concealed by Japanese and Chinese shades of odd and fantastic designs, the Community club's settings were perfect. The most successful and most largely attended lawn fete in its four years of this kind of entertainment. The busy ticket committee at the entrance had all that it could do. The ticket committee reported a total of 2,570 people passing through their entrance booth. The lawn fete will continue this evening.

Scenes of Gayety.
When the visitors entered the canvas-covered grounds last evening, they found long lines of attractive booths bordering the south, east and north sides of the enclosure. At the northeast corner a large stage was in position. The booths were occupied by active corps of attendants, most of them in costume, which added notably to the summer carnival aspect.

At the northwest section of the grounds, an area extending nearly to the tennis courts was roped off, and the management of Manchester's riding academy had half a dozen of its best mounts encircling the miniature course at so much per jaunt.

Continuous Music.
There was something doing every minute. Shearer's orchestra, augmented for the occasion, and the Talcottville Drum Corps, which has won cups all over the state for its excellent time marching, appeared on the scene, playing an alternating program, and there was continuous music from 7 to nearly 11 o'clock.

One of the notable features of the lawn fete was the good spirit, chatter and conversation were heard constantly. Neighbors and friends who have not met in a year touched elbows and exchanged greetings. One local town official remarked during the evening that such gatherings, in such beautiful surroundings, with music and neighborhood spirit predominating, were of distinct benefit to any community.

The Booths.
There were fifteen booths, all prettily decorated and offering fancy goods, foods, home made candy, flowers, ice cream, frankfurters, groceries, fruit baskets, decorated with endless variety to tempt the silver of the visitors. All of the booths did splendid business. Most of them sold out completely, and today Chairman George H. Washburn and Mark Holmes were obliged to enter duplicate orders for new stocks for nearly all of the booths.

The young folks had lots of fun with the streamers, fancy umbrellas, colored balloons, and "whirligigs" which chirped all over the grounds.

GIRL CHUM WEDDED, HEIRESS TAKES LIFE

Jean Mackenzie, Rich, But Lonely, Drinks Lysol in New York Apartment.

New York, June 11.—Loneliness for her girl chum who married about a month ago, is believed to be the motive that impelled Miss Jean Mackenzie, 28, an heiress, to commit suicide in her apartment by drinking lysol. She was the daughter of the late James S. Mackenzie, a large stockholder in the Singer Sewing Machine Company.

Until recently Miss Mackenzie had lived in the apartment with Miss Clay Schuyler, a former schoolmate. Recently Miss Schuyler married a naval officer. Since the marriage Miss Mackenzie had friends lonely and despondent, returned

SPEND $270,000 TO ADVERTISE NEW ENGLAND

States, Cities, Non-Profit Bodies Join — Council at Vermont, Plans for Regional Co-operation.

Burlington, Vt., June 11.—State governments, municipalities and non-profit organizations are spending $270,000 this year in advertising New England's summer attractions. This does not include advertising expenditures by New England hotels, railroads, steamship companies and real estate interests.

Hiram W. Ricker, of Maine, chairman of the Recreational Resources committee, made this report today to the New England Council in session here.

Maine, he said, is making the largest expenditure, about $81,000, and Massachusetts is next with $70,000. New Hampshire, he added, has made an appropriation of $25,000 for publicity and private interests have raised a like amount.

Turn in Affairs.
The turn has come in New England affairs, declared John S. Lawrence, president of the Council. "Throughout New England," he said, "there is evidence of a new spirit of getting together, of faith that makes new enterprises possible, and a more aggressive approach to the problem of selling New England's goods, services and attractions."

The conclusion that better marketing of high quality products of New England farms is the most important problem before New England agriculture and a recommendation that a New England farm marketing conference be held this fall were contained in the report of the agricultural committee of the Council, presented by Harry R. Lewis, chairman, of Davisville, R. I.

U. S. Survey.
Evidence of the interest of the United States government was seen in the announcement of a survey of the marketing and production area of the six states by the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The field work will center on the attitude of retailers toward New England products as an aid to manufacturers.

A Lincoln Filene, Boston merchant, chairman of the Council's research committee, reported that the industry problems of New England are inseparable from considerations involved in the extension of credits to industrial enterprises, conference are being held with the stockholders' advisory committee of the Federal Reserve Bank, on which every New England state is represented.

ONE DEAD, ONE DYING OVER $7 TAXI FARE

Driver Shoots Rider's Aged Father, Who Kills Him With Shotgun.

Olean, N. Y., June 11.—Samuel Barr, 31, of Colegrove, Pa., and Seth McGee, 75 also of Colegrove, is dying here today as the result of a heated discussion over a seven dollar taxi fare. Barr, police were told, was engaged by Amos McGee, son of Seth, to convey him to Eldred, Pa. Reaching Eldred, the younger McGee told Barr to return to his father's home to collect the seven dollar fare.

The elder McGee told Barr he did not have the money. Barr insisted on being paid and a heated discussion followed. Neighbors reported to police that Barr, enraged, opened fire on the older man with a revolver, pumping five shots into his chest. McGee staggered into another room and returned with a shotgun which he fired at Barr at close range, killing him instantly.

LEAGUE BEARS UP UNDER BRAZIL ACT

No Evidence of Despair at Geneva — Objectors Expected to Be Good Later.

Geneva, June 11.—No despair was noticeable in League of Nations circles today despite the resignation of Brazil from the Council and the announcement of the Spanish delegation that Spain would never accept classification as a secondary power.

Hope was expressed that negotiations during the summer would be successful in inducing both nations to accept re-election in September continue to co-operate with the league.

TO REPEAT SILK EXHIBIT TONIGHT

Cheney Hall Packed for Style and Sales Demonstration for Employees.

Manchester's miracle workers in silk witnessed a "style opening" here last night when several of the department heads of Cheney Brothers' New York office introduced fall fashions in dresses and coats and explained the trend in dress patterns for the late summer and fall season.

In addition to the employees and their families many other Manchester residents took advantage of the exhibit. Cheney hall has never been any more crowded than it was last night. Several were turned away and Horace B. Cheney announced that the exhibit and demonstrations would be repeated again tonight at 8 o'clock. Those who did not go to the hall last night or those who could not get in will find it well worth while to attend tonight.

Not a Silk Show.
The hall is not clad in silks for the occasion. The exhibit is not a silk show of the kind Manchester people have seen before. It is a demonstration, an interesting and instructive group of lectures on sales promotion, something few of the employees know much about. The stage is bedecked with beautiful pieces of upholstery fabrics and

Chaos in Air Coming Is Hoover Prediction

608 Applicants Seek to Start Radio Stations — Big Concerns Likely to Kill Off Smaller by Using High Power — No Probability of Needed Legislation.

By Robert S. Thornburgh
Washington, June 11.—With the passage of radio legislation at the present session of Congress regarded as remote, Secretary of Commerce Hoover E. L. started a legal inquiry to determine what steps will be possible to save broadcast casting.

Virtually all present broadcasting stations have agreed to remain on their authorized wave lengths regardless of congressional action in a voluntary effort to prevent chaos.

Hoover, however, pointed out today that about 608 applications for new broadcasting stations have been filed and that a number of the applicants already have erected stations.

"If these stations decide to go on the air without authority, the present broadcasters may be expected to take steps to protect themselves," Hoover said.

TRAIN HITS BRIDGE AFIRE, GOES DOWN

Fifty Passengers Near to Death, 2 Trainmen Die in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., June 11.—Two trainmen were instantly killed, two others seriously injured, and fifty passengers narrowly escaped with their lives early today when a Norfolk Southern passenger train, Raleigh to Norfolk, plunged from a burning bridge over a creek near Grimesland, N. C.

A number of passengers in the day coaches and sleepers were slightly injured, but railway officials here declared that none was seriously injured. Sparks from a freight train are believed to have set the bridge afire. It is near a curve and the engineer was unable to halt his train in time to prevent running into the flaming structure, after he saw it was ablaze.

MASSACHUSETTS COURT BACKS DEATH SENTENCE

Boston, June 11.—John J. Devoreaux, Edward J. Henplein and John McLaughlin, found guilty of murdering James H. Furness, aged 50, a Waltham car barn watchman last October, must die in the electric chair. The full bench of the supreme court today overruled exceptions.

BOTH PARTIES ARE SPLIT BY IOWA FIASCO

Congress Almost Sure to Run Away Home from Farm Relief Spectre; No Action Likely.

Washington, June 11.—While the Iowa political exposition continued to detonate around the capitol today, it appeared better than an even money bet that Congress will fade out of Washington in a few weeks without having done anything to placate the rebellious corn belt in the war of farm relief legislation.

What the political consequences of such neglect will be is a matter that is agitating a good many congressional bosses—Republican and Democratic alike.

Vote Next Week
A vote on the McNary-Haugen bill, which President Coolidge has characterized as "economically unsound," and which Vice-President Dawes has pronounced an estimable piece of legislation in every respect, is now scheduled for the Senate. It stands little chance of enactment, as it must then go back to the House, which already has rejected it. Even should the House reverse itself, with an eye on the November elections, it still must run the gauntlet of the White House, and President Hoover has clearly intimated a veto awaits it there.

Tincher Bill
There remains only the revamped Tincher bill, providing a $100,000,000 revolving fund to be loaned to cooperative marketing societies, which Senator Feare (R., O.) introduced yesterday as an administration measure. It has been defeated in the Senate by the same element.

It is entirely unsatisfactory to the farm bloc and the corn belt. Both parties are badly split on the issue of farm legislation, although the Republican split is more definite and more significant from a political standpoint.

Both Parties Scared
With such Republican figures as Vice-President Dawes, Senator Watson of Indiana, ex-Gov. Lowden of Illinois and others leading a fight for passage of a bill which a Republican president has denounced as unsound and radical, a greater split could hardly be imagined. The Democrats are in a quandry over what party position, if any, to take in the situation. The Democrats do not appear to be able to get together any more than the Republicans.

Consequently, the prospect today is that after several weeks of desultory interline fighting, Congress will pack up and go home, in fear and trepidation, to face whatever punishment or approbation the ballot boxes hold.

REV. F. A. JORDAN OF MIDDLETOWN DEAD

Rector, Formerly Attached to St. Joseph's at Hartford, Succumbs to Complications.

Hartford, June 11.—Rev. Francis A. Jordan, pastor of St. Francis church, Middletown, died at St. Francis hospital this afternoon after a long illness. He was sixty years old.

Father Jordan had been in the hospital since April 15 under treatment for a complication of diseases. Father Jordan leaves a brother in New Haven and a sister in Bridgeport. He had been pastor of the Middletown church for thirteen years. Previously he had been stationed at Washington for three years after long service in St. Joseph's Cathedral, in this city. He had charge of training the boys for the cathedral choir while serving here.

HUB EX-OFFICIAL IN PRISON, WIFE HELD

New Orleans, June 11.—A woman, giving her name as Mrs. Catherine McCullough, claiming to be the wife of Leo McCullough, former president of the Boston City Council, was held here today by federal officials on a charge of smuggling narcotics into the parish prison. Her husband was held in the prison suspicion, and shortly after the woman visited him, officers found McCullough in possession of 50 grains of morphine. McCullough showed officers letters which he declared proved his identity as a former Boston City official.

BOOTLEG FEUDIST IS SLAIN WHILE PRAYING

New York, June 11.—Standing with head bowed in prayer, Peter Contant, 40, was shot in front of the Church of Our Lady of Pompeii early today. He died soon afterward on the operating table at St. Vincent's hospital. Police believe the murder was the outgrowth of a bootleggers' feud. Before he died, Contant told detectives the name of his assailant, for whom search is being made.

IRISH CARDINAL FIRST TO ARRIVE

O'Donnell Earliest of Six Princes of Church to Reach N. Y. Today.

New York, June 11.—Patrick Cardinal O'Donnell, archbishop of Armagh and primate of all Ireland, arrived in New York today, the first of six Catholic cardinals due on liners here today enroute to the Eucharistic Congress to be held in Chicago. It was the cardinal's first visit to America.

The colorful reception accorded Cardinal O'Donnell's arrival marked the beginning of a day of ceremonies welcome from Catholic America to its noted guests culminating late this afternoon in the docking of the liner Aquitania with John Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, aboard.

U. S. "Greater Ireland"
Cardinal O'Donnell expressed deep admiration for New York's skyline as he came up the bay, remarking that it resembled a great cathedral. He referred to this country as a "greater Ireland."

The Cardinal's party was met at Quarantine by a delegation headed by the Very Rev. Dean Henry O'Carroll, representing Cardinal Hayes from St. Patrick's church, Newburgh, N. Y.; the Rev. Patrick J. O'Donnell, St. Charles church and Monsignor Peter Donahue, representing the diocese of Long Island, who was a classmate of Cardinal O'Donnell at Maybrook seminary in Dublin, Ireland.

When the liner President Roosevelt carrying the Cardinal's party docked into its Hoboken dock, the firemen's band of Jersey City played "Onward Christian Soldiers." A delegation of priests and laymen headed by Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, greeted His Eminence.

Feeling of Affection.
The party was transferred to the fireboat J. P. Mitchell which carried it to the battery, the cardinal going to the Hotel Vanderbilt and the other dignitaries of his party to the Hotel Roosevelt.

"The feeling in Ireland," said Cardinal O'Donnell, "is one of affection for America and of admiration for the wonderful growth of the United States. The generosity of the United States will never be forgotten in Ireland; for all our wants we had a generous helper in the Greater Ireland on this side of the Atlantic."

Invites U. S. Visitors.
The cardinal expressed a hope that more Americans would visit Ireland to see its beauties.

"They would see how large is the field for the development of national resources that claim our attention now," Cardinal O'Donnell said. "Arterial drainage on a large scale has afforded much labor and development of our fisheries is the next step."

There is a restfulness and charm in the scenes of Irish rural

"BLACK HAND" SIXTY CHILDREN HURT IN PANIC

Cry Starts Wild Scene in New York School—2,500 Pupils Flee in Terror from Bogey.

New York, June 11.—Sixty public school children were injured today, two badly, when 2,500 boys and girls gathered in the playground before assembling in their classes, were thrown into a panic by a cry of "Black Hand!"

Vincenza Di Rossi, 9, and Nicola Nevelia, 9, were taken to a hospital. The cry was uttered by two of the boys. In the rush for exits by the entire attendance many children were trampled.

Shortly afterwards, the school was besieged by parents of the children and police reserves were called to quell the disturbance.

When the cry was raised some of the classes had already fled into the school. These children fled back into the surging crowd of panic-stricken pupils. Boys and girls tripped and fell down the stairways and hundreds of children were tangled in the melee.

Teachers tried without success to restore order. A number of the children ran through the streets of the district spreading the "black hand" cry and turmoil ensued as the residents accepted the false alarm. The district is almost wholly Italian.

The two injured children were taken to the hospital in a police patrol as the authorities feared the sight of an ambulance might create further alarm.

Suspicious Characters
Frank Alop, 12, a pupil, told police that he saw two suspicious-looking men standing near the school entrance. It was said that the same men had been seen a week ago and police believe that this may have caused the "black hand" alarm.

BRITAIN PROTESTS RUSS STRIKE AID

Warns Soviets Relations Can't Be Restored if Interference Goes On.

London, June 11.—Great Britain has sent a strong protest to the Soviet government of Russia, condemning its action in permitting money to be sent to England during the recent general strike on the grounds that such funds were calculated to be used to secure a change in government and foment revolution.

The note states that Russia's attitude makes future negotiations either political or commercial, between Great Britain and the Soviets, extremely difficult.

The text of the note will not be published until it has been received in Moscow.

Envoys Get Money
In view of the fact that the funds, which were sent from Russia and refused by the Trades Union Congress during the general strike, eventually reached the striking coal miners, it is understood that the British government will send a supplementary note protesting against Russian interference with any "British industrial dispute."

TOO BLINKIN' MUCH COLOR AT COURTS

Wite, Sez Mrs. Joe Simpson, That's Wot They Needed; Wite, for Dignity.

(By Ethel Marshall.) London, June 11.—"Too blinking beautiful!" That is the considered judgment on last night's court at Buckingham Palace rendered today by Mrs. Joe Simpson.

Mrs. Simpson, who hasn't missed a court since the days when King George was a slip of a boy, is inclined to the belief that the march of progress has made courts "too much like a blinking circus parade."

Mrs. Simpson is one of the hundreds who throng the Mall and the plaza before the palace on court nights and give the guests a thorough inspection. They never expect to be presented at court and they ask no more than a fleeting peek, but the court means more to these hundreds of housewives, shop-girls and char-women than it does to most of the debutantes who are being presented.

Wite, Sez She. "Wite, I sez—that's wot's necessary to give dignity to courts; wite—none of these 'ere blinking pestle shides they're wearing this year."

Mrs. Simpson, in the good old d'ys of Queen Vic we didn't have nothink but wite, and wite's the proper color, I sez.

"Pretty soon they'll be letting 'em come in the short dresses they wears on the streets, and mebbe bythin' suits."

"Well not wite Queen Mary's got 'er say, anyway. "Bootiful, of course they wuz. English Ladies is bootiful. But dignified"—well, give me the grand dimes of the days of good old Queen Vic, wiv wite gowns and three blinking wite ostrich feathers a-sticking in their 'air. I tells you they wuz grand!"

Mrs. Simpson's voice of protest was more or less a voice in the wilderness, for the general consensus of the hundreds of old-timers who stood on the curbs was that last night's court was one of the most brilliant ever seen.

open air stage, introduced a big company of Eighth district school pupils in a splendid program of national songs of many countries.

Painstaking work by their teachers in drilling and costuming was apparent. Despite the obstacles of open-air singing to a standing audience of large proportions the pupils did exceedingly well and pleased hundreds. The various numbers were much enjoyed, and reflected credit on the youthful singers as well as their instructors.

The preparation, rehearsing and presentation of this part of the program was under the direction of Mrs. Willo Nae Suprenant, director of music in school districts one to eight, inclusive. She was assisted by the following members of the lawn fete entertainment committee: Miss Esther Anderson, Miss Katharine McGuire, Miss Gertrude Carrier, Miss Helen Maloney, Mrs. Clifford Kelf, William R. Campbell, Miss Adelaide Sporer, Miss Gertrude Lund, Miss Florence Fitzgerald.

The Selections. Following was the program: Alaskan Skaters—Skating Song. Snow Man. Welcome to Spring. Grade V. Miss McGuire.

Rendezvous of Pussy Willows and Daffodils—Pussy Willows. Spring is Coming. Welcome Sweet Springtime. Nonsense Pussy Willows.

Miss Young, Miss Waterbury, Miss Wetherell, Miss Wyner, Miss Frost and Miss Conrow.

Japanese Maidens—Japanese Sandman. Little Maids of Far Japan. Japanese dance, Dorothy Brown. Miss Connors.

Mexicans—Boat Song. A Song of Mexico. Miss Anderson.

Spanish Dancers—Spanish Waltz. Serenade of Spain. Spanish Duet Dance—Dolores Vaillant, Agnes Brozauski. Miss Peavairs.

Cadets of the U. S. A.—Miss Carrier, Miss Lund, Miss Fitzgerald, Miss Healy.

Grand Finale—Solo—Rebecca Harris with chorus. Tonight's Program.

The entertainment this evening will feature the "Silvertown Jubilee Singers," radio favorites, formerly of Akron, Ohio, and high class open air vaudeville numbers, also Shearer's augmented orchestra.

MAY CONTINUE SATURDAY. In view of the widespread interest and response of the local public, as manifested by the large attendance the lawn fete committees are considering continuing the lawn fete Saturday evening. Many requests to continue another night have been received.

Decision on this point will be made late this afternoon and will be announced this evening at the lawn fete.

OPEN FORUM

ENJOYED LETTERS

Editor, The Herald: As Regent of Orford Parish Chapter, D. A. R., I wish to thus publicly acknowledge the letters that have been received from many of the foreign-born who have been studying in the evening schools of the town of Manchester.

By these letters they express their appreciation and thanks for the manual of the United States printed in the languages of their native land, by the D. A. R.

These letters show the good work done in the evening schools, both in expression and penmanship, and I have enjoyed reading their words of thanks to me as Regent of Orford Parish Chapter, D. A. R.

Yours, ALICE F. DEXTER, Talcottville, Conn. June 10, 1926.

ADDISON

The class of 1926 members of the Glastonbury High school will have their graduating exercises June 21. There are twenty-nine to receive diplomas. They are:

A degree team from Wapping Grange visited Hillstown Grange last night and conferred the third and fourth degree on six candidates. The candidates were as follows: Grace Hills, Dorothy Hills, Signa Hills, Mary Hartel and Arline Getto.

The master of the Connecticut State Grange, Minor Ives of Meriden was present with Mrs. Ives. There was a good attendance and supper was served after the meeting. The State Master has promised to have 1000 candidates for the 7th Degree at the meeting of the National Grange in Portland, Maine, next November.

Central Pomona Grange will meet in the Tow Path Lodge in Avon, Conn., June 23.

While skirts for day wear show a preference for stopping nearer the knee than the ankle, the long skirt for evening wear is all the time gaining ground. Many of the bouffant gowns have to be long.

LEGS WERE LIMBS

And Pantaloon, Not Silk Hose, Were Right in Style.

By TOM SIMS.

A 1926 model young lady was shown the above picture. "Oh!" she chirped. "See the dumb belle playing with the dumbbells!"

And, according to present styles and standards, she was right. But the picture was made about 75 years ago. That was away back in the "fifties," when legs were limbs.

In those days, a thorny social path lay before the fellow who sat upon the old hair sofa in the parlor, and inadvertently blurted out, "I fell off my boss today and skint my leg."

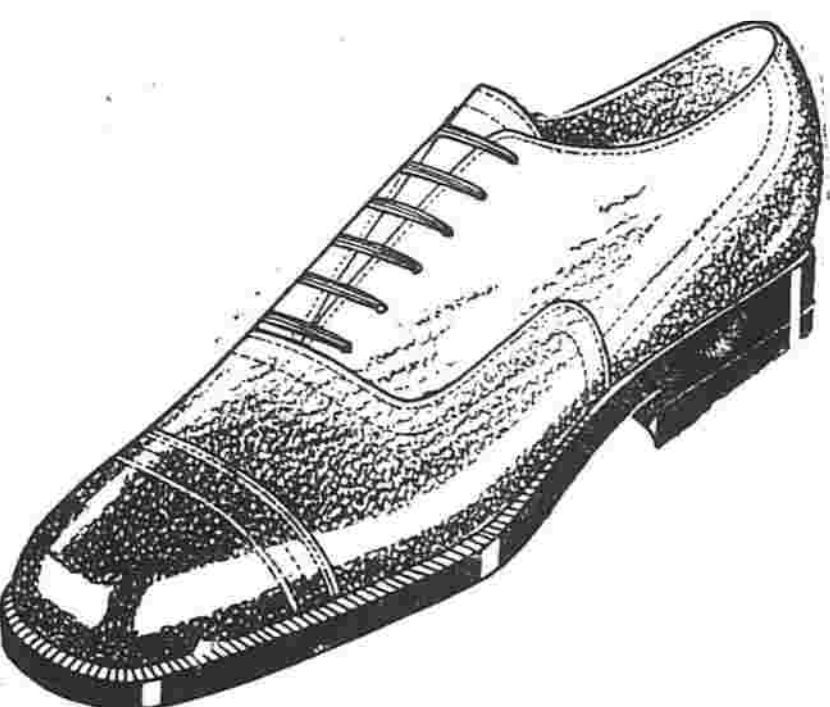

The girls would be flustered. Mamas would stiffen in their chairs. And fathers would cast reproving glances, while the other young fellows nudged one another and snickered.

Perhaps, as the jolly crowd gathered thrill after thrill from the photograph album on a bright Sunday afternoon, a mother would call her daughter to one side.

"Daughter," she would whisper, "your ankles are showing. Pull your pantaloons down."

Believe it or not, the daughter would blush and leave the room. Imagine the modern girl in the upper right-hand corner paying good money for silk stockings and hiding them with pantaloons.

But these are the days when limbs are legs.

For the Kitchen

There is a porcelain top table, two chairs in snowy white enamel and a cabinet gas range. Making a very cozy outfit to begin housekeeping with at the very low price of $56.

A Lovely Grouping For the Bedroom

The three major pieces consist of bow-end bed, dresser and chest of drawers, made of walnut with American gumwood forming the basis. Suite complete including boudoir lamp and rug for $154.

Walnut for the Dining Room

Walnut has definitely gained the ascendancy in dining room furniture. It is built substantially and almost invariably antique in finish.

The suite included in this outfit has eight pieces, table, buffet and six chairs. We are offering it with room size rug included for $240.

GIFTS FOR BRIDES

Discriminating gift seekers can find nothing more appropriate, or more likely to be appreciated by the bride, than a carefully selected article of furniture. It's the kind of gift that fully expresses the warmth of friendship and geniality with which it is given, and it is treasured for an indefinite period of time.

Tea Wagon, $24

A gift that will be appreciated by any bride. It's so easy to serve a crowd when you have one of these fine tea wagons. This one is solid walnut and has rubber tired wheels, drop handle and silver drawer.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The Young Mother.

The ills of infants and children should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to his happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrup, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

FOOL BEES

Stockholm—Sweden averaged 60 murders a year in the years from 1870 to 1880. The list has been cut down to twenty annually according to figures just published, covering the last few years. There is no death penalty for murder in Sweden.

Washington.—Deceiving bees with a new type of honeycomb adds greatly to the profits of beekeepers, according to the inventor of the device. By lessening the time needed to manufacture comb it is said to enable the bees to double the output of honey. Aluminum combs are painted with beeswax.

CONQUER CONSTIPATION EASILY

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieves constipation because it is 100% BRAN

Mr. McEnery tried part-bran substitutes—but only ALL-BRAN brought complete relief. Here's what he says:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . About two years ago I tried out mixed bran and corn flakes but did not get much relief. Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of any laxative medicine of any description."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

On Wednesday afternoon, the Argonaut club enjoyed a club picnic. Eighteen members, including "Bob" Treat's horse, accompanied the expedition, as they say. The party went by Spring street to Highland Park, and was just lucky enough to escape a shower by arriving at "The Cabin" in the nick of time. That is, all except "Kenny" Graham who, so the reports say, couldn't make the hill in high and received one of Nature's refreshing shower baths. When the rain had ceased, the picnic went into full swing. The boys collected firewood and the girls prepared the meal, which consisted of hot dogs, cetera. That is they say the girls prepared the "grub," but the boys seemed to enjoy it when it was cooked, so there's a grave doubt in our minds as to whether the young ladies really did it at all. Probably Miss Nute did it all; they tell us she's quite capably versed in the arts of domestic science.

Well, anyway, the supper got under way and somebody conceived the wise idea of staging an eating contest, since there seemed to be plenty of food stuffs, and so such a contest got under way. Of course, you all know who won; no use trying to make suspense out of such an easy guess, for as usual Kenny Graham more than outdid the puny efforts of anyone else. It is said that he ate everything in sight including the paper plates—if there were any—and then called for more. The prize, whatever it was, is being engraved, so it will not be presented to him until after the formal gathering at the next Centennial.

After everyone had satisfied (?) his and her respective appetites, "Bob" Treat gave everybody a ride on Dobbin. We don't know whether the horse's name really is Dobbin, but any old horse can be called Dobbin, so we guess we're all right in saying so. The boys didn't seem to get very much excited over a mere horseback ride, but the girls all say that they got a heluva kick out of it. Then everybody sang "Thanks For the Horsey Ride" with such enthusiasm that the Boys' Glee club has since grown very green with envy.

Following this the gang played some games. We couldn't ascertain just what the games were that were played. Miss Nute told us that "they were just the usual games that are played at a picnic," so we are taking the liberty of drawing our own conclusions. Doubtless the girls played "Ring Around a Posy," "London Bridge is Falling Down" and "Hide An' Go Seek." Then we suppose the boys played marbles, "Katty," and Jump rope.

When all this had been completed the gentle shade of evening began to slowly fall on hill and dale, the little birds sang their evening songs, and all the nice little boys and girls of the Argonaut Club bade Miss Nute good nite, and skipped merrily home to bed. Thus came the end of an imperfect day.

On next Monday afternoon in the School street Rec. auditorium Miss Hopkins' Division Seven English class will present a fourth of the series of Freshman assemblies. It will consist of one act comedy entitled "Come Into the Kitchen." The cast that will present the play is the following:

Grandmother Bustle, Florence Schildge
Mrs. Bustle, Helen Russell
Mary Bustle, Laura West
Hazy Black, Elizabeth LaShay
Biddy O'Rafferty, Ruth Russell
Kitty Clover, Marjory Pitkin
Miss Van Rensselaer, Margaret Merrer

TOOLS OF CRIME TO BE EXHIBITED AT POLICE MEET

Department Heads Meet in Chicago July 19-22,
Bringing Trophies.

Chicago, Ill.—Big stars and little stars, a thousand of them, will be assembled in Chicago from July 19 to 22. Not stars of the stage or screen, but the kind worn on or under the coats of coppers.

The occasion will be the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and for the first time in the history of the organization will provide a complete exhibit of equipment used by police departments over the country as well as rare specimens of equipment used by crooks.

The equipment exhibit is being prepared by a committee headed by William A. Wiltberger, chief of police of Evanston, Ill., appointed at the convention at Indianapolis last year by Samuel J. Dickson, chief constable of Toronto, Can., and newly elected president of the organization. General plans for the convention are in charge of Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins of Chicago.

The Exhibits

One of the chief exhibits will be a section devoted to the historical development of police work. The committee already has arranged for the first finger print cabinet ever used in the country, brought from England, and for the first "lie-detector" ever put into general use.

The committee is also arranging for a display of handcuffs and shackles of both conventional and unusual design, of straight jackets and twistlers, all sorts of cell equipment, firearms of all descriptions and bullet proof vests. The same section will have exhibits of tear bombs, grenades and other equipment available to police departments for use in making dangerous raids.

Commercial equipment also will include traffic devices, safety deposit vaults and boxes, all sorts of special locks and safety devices, armoured cars and equipment for patrol wagons and ambulances, such motor cars, including pulmotors.

Criminology Library

Uniforms, badges and personal equipment of officers also will be shown and an effort is being made to provide a complete library on criminology, criminal investigations, finger print work, handwriting, police microscopy methods. Special devices will include "lie de and police practices and procedure detectors," special police microscopes magnifying glasses and instruments for measuring typewriter and handwriting specimens.

Another section will contain exhibits of police reports, charges, accounts of special investigations and displays of personnel work.

Police executives have been asked to supply for exhibition any special or unusual instrument or tool used in the commission of crime, or any improved instrument or device which will increase the efficiency of departments.

Other divisions will include equipment for mounted police, water patrols and state police.

CHENEY EXHIBIT.

The thought is suggested by the effect of the Cheney Bros' silk demonstration on its audience that an excellent service might be done for New England industry in general if the idea of such affairs were carried to manufacturers in many lines, say with the authoritative sanction of the Cheney concern itself and perhaps through state Boards of Trade.

It is a perfectly logical as well as a perfectly human quality that a worker is more interested in his work when he knows what it is all about, so to speak. And in the highly specialized state of manufacturing in these days it is very frequently the case that the factory hand never thinks of his own labors as really constructive effort. He deals with so fractional a part of the whole business of construction or fabrication that what he does, day by day, forms no part of a complete picture of achievement. That is why so very many of our industrial workers are mere pay-envelope creatures, without the slightest intelligent interest in the thing they are doing.

Very, very few industries, to be sure, are susceptible of such interesting and beautiful demonstrations as the Cheney silk works, but there are scores of concerns in New England, nevertheless, that would be amazed to discover what absorbing tastes could be told to their own employes, in the form of materials, progressive processes and finished product if the job were undertaken in the same spirit and with the same intelligence as displayed in the Cheney demonstration.

WHITE HOUSE.

It is passing strange that a country so prodigal in expenditure for anything that engages its interest as this one is should permit its President to live in a home so rickety that it falls very little short indeed of endangering the very lives of its occupants. Yet that appears to be the case with relation to the White House.

It is a perfectly amazing situation that needed repairs to the executive mansion have been deferred and deferred again, year after year, till a stage has been reached where the very interior partitions are helping to carry the weight of the roof, and where, if there should come a combination of wet snow and wind, such for example as caused the New Britain foundry disaster last winter, we might undergo the unprecedented and very dreadful experience of having the nation's head or some member or all the members of his household fall tragic victims to the neglect.

Now, it seems, something is to be done about the business—at very great cost, of course, considering the size of the job—and the White House is to have a new roof.

This, it appears, will necessitate the White House being vacated for a long period, perhaps six months. And such being the case it is very much to be hoped that as complete a job for rebuilding will be carried out as is possible, without stint of either time or money.

That a brand new White House could be built, in all probability, for much less than the cost of such repairs, is quite aside from the case. We do not want a new White House. We want the same old White House—now and for many generations yet to come. But we want no more such procrastinating policy of neglect with relation to it or to any of our other historic public buildings. Not if it be necessary to erect a very special high priced commission with all sorts of powers in order to prevent it.

BROOKLYN.

Life in the Golden West is supposed to be, if not exactly all beer and skittles in these dry days, at least full of sunshine, hope, joy and jazz. To think of such a thing as unhappiness in Los Angeles or discouragement in San Diego is to invent the unheard of, the impossible.

Life in Brooklyn is supposed to be drab and very awful—nothing but blocks and blocks of old narrow houses or new high apartments, unlovely, flat, stale and unprofitable; hours of struggle in transit getting to and from the job, delicatessen chow, cheap movies—a deadly existence in a squirming desert.

Yet in San Diego 39 persons in every hundred thousand commit suicide each year. In Brooklyn only ten persons take that way out.

Figure it out, if you can, why the suicide rate should be only a fourth as high in Brooklyn as in San Diego; why it should be higher in the latter place than any other city in the country; why Los Angeles should run San Diego a close second, with 35 suicides to the hundred thousand; why the Bronx and Manhattan should show a self-destruction rate twice that of the borough over the river.

And when you've figured it all out, recall the old saw—"Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." Brooklyn may not be so much fun as some other places, but it sure does go to bed early because it's so tired getting home, and it has to get up early to get to the job to return home from. And there you are.

LAWN FETE.

So much of an institution has the Manchester Community Club's annual lawn fete come to be that a boost for it is almost as unnecessary as carrying coal to Newcastle used to be in the day when Newcastle had coal of its own and to spare—before the strike.

Nevertheless the purpose of that affair are such that it is justifiable to shout out, quite loud: "Don't forget that there's another night of Manchester's yearly blowout—and tonight's the night!"

An organization like the Community club is as essential to the social existence of the town as its houses and streets are to its material existence. It provides a point of contact that would otherwise be wholly lacking. It is a nucleus around which friendships are built, a clearing house for ideas, a core for crystallization of the spirit of citizenship.

The annual lawn fete is a highly important factor in the provision of the sinews of war—the war against monotony, boredom, loneliness which such a club can do so successfully conduct.

Wherefore—if you didn't go to the lawn fete last night, go tonight. And if you did go last night—go tonight just the same. It's good business for the community; and good business for the individual.

DRY BONES.

In spite of the fact that the dry politicians of the country, though in a very small minority, succeeded in wishing the 18th amendment and the Volstead act on the nation, they are not the most skillful players of the game of politics.

They scored success in their big coup, not through superior political intelligence but because everybody else was looking out of the window. They got the drop on Congress and the legislatures when their backs were turned, scared them with the pointed gun and got away with the load before the stuck-up majority realized that the gun was a wooden one.

If they were good politicians they would not be doing what they are doing right now—raving, demanding, bullying for the passage of the Goff law and the rest of their toothy enforcement bills, when there isn't the slightest chance in the world of getting them passed at this term of Congress, if ever.

The Anti-Saloon league, by ordering Congress to pass the Goff bill at a time when that body has fully made up its mind to do nothing of the kind, is gambling against a certain loss. It is going out of its way to get a licking at a point in its history when it can least afford to have failure checked up against it.

With the tide of sentiment throughout the country setting vigorously against Volsteadism it would have been extremely good politics for the dries to stand pat instead of uncovering to the gaze of their enemies and to the voting public the extent of their weakness.

This had break, in combination with the idocy of running an independent senatorial ticket in New York, is the beginning of the end of the dries' flaccid reputation for political virility. They are like some of the old time party bosses, who got away with things for years without brains, without strategy, without finesse, without any quality of leadership, simply because nobody challenged their control, and whose power disappeared like beach froth at the first breath of the wind of opposition.

MRS. OWEN.

Ruth Bryan Owen has evidently inherited from her, celebrated father, William Jennings Bryan, not only a certain readiness of wit and political aptitude, but something of his appetite for office holding. She has not, however, inherited any special quality of sportsmanship, perhaps owing to the circumstance that the Commoner was not, after all, a very good sport himself in spite of his belligerency; he never did learn to take his successive lickings with exceptional grace. And the daughter, in crying "Fraud!" because a Florida county did not flop completely over to her, when it has always been a stronghold of her opponent, does not present a very appealing picture.

Incidentally, it might be remarked that women in politics are likely to attain a more commanding position when they go into the game more on their own merits and on their own feet than when they slide in, with a sad, wan smile and in mourning, as the heirs of the political status of recently deceased husbands or fathers.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

Washington, June 11.—Congressmen are framing up their programs now for helping one another out during the coming campaign.

Some congressmen don't need much help. If they win at the primaries they win at the polls.

Others have hard fights on their hands. These are the ones who cry for aid.

Of course, each party wants its own man to win in his particular district, or, if he's a senator, his particular state.

So it's up to each of the two congressional committees to see that plenty of reinforcements are ready to rush to the support of any of its candidates who seem in danger of getting caught in a jam.

The system is to draft candidates from "safe districts" to do their duty in "doubtful" ones.

An outsider can put in better bids in a candidate's district sometimes than the candidate himself.

A candidate can point to his past record and make promises for the future. He can argue. He can make the eagle scream. He can denounce. But he can't very well say that he, personally, is a great man.

An outsider can't do that. His stump speech doesn't come to discuss his own virtues. He comes to discuss the personal virtues of that candidate.

There'll be a great deal of this swapping around in the 1926 campaign.

There's no broad, general issue spread over the entire country. The issues will be local—here prohibition, there the world court, the Italian debt settlement, some other place, farm relief out west, down south Muscle Shoals.

Congressman Uphaw, for instance, is as good as elected in his district, as a dry. He can be spared to plead for some brother in distress in a wetish one.

A congressman couldn't outrun Congressman Hill in his wet Maryland bailiwick. He's available to plug for some poor wet, trying to hold his own in a district that inclines to be dry.

The congressional committees face one serious difficulty—Party lines and local preferences no longer live.

Try to get wet Congressman Hill to help dry Congressman Kvale, though both are Republicans—not much!

Ask dry Democratic Congressman Uphaw to cheer for wet Democratic Congressman Gallivan and he'll laugh you to scorn.

It's the same way from top to bottom of the list.

Half the time the Republican committee would do best if it could get Democrats to help Republicans.

The other half of the time the Democratic committee years for Republicans to whom it up for Democrats.

However, the committees handle it as well as they know how.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 11—What do you dance?

Whatever it is, the chances are you can find a place to dance it in New York.

New-fashioned or old-fashioned, new world or old world!

Looking out the window of my office on a Saturday night, I can see a merry party of Greeks gathered in a clubhouse and dancing off steps that look as incredibly ludicrous as—well, as the Charleston must look to a Greek.

There is much stamping of feet and circling and patting of hand against hand. Just around the corner a parade of lights announces an American "jazz dance" parlor and this parade reappears a dozen times on the way to Broadway where the entire glittering thoroughfare shrieks the invitation to come and dance.

In the middle Forties and early Fifties Russians cavort in their hectic acrobatics.

Under a few blocks over to Lexington and linger after coffee and the chances are, a phonograph will take up some staccato dance tune of a faraway land while the proprietor's little niece whirls and capers.

Wander a bit farther and the sidewalks offer a vast variety of dances.

Down through that section of the East Side inhabited by the Italians one may see the younger generation stepping off the Charleston while, just around the corner where a wedding party celebrates, the "oldsters" dance as in their native land.

Zig-Zag the side streets of the East Side—Tenth, Twelfth, Ninth to Fourteenth streets, off Second avenue, and you will bump squarely into a "social club" where the waltz still reigns favorite—not the waltz of today, but the flowing, whirling waltz of "Blue Danube" memory.

Head toward the waterfront, in the general direction of Grand street and wander through the side streets thereabouts, drop into any one of a dozen Jewish and Hungarian resorts, or grab a taxi and go to the "Little Hungary" of the upper Eighties and, suddenly, the music changes.

True, they must inject a little syncopation for the "moderns!" But you will hear also the fieriest almost Oriental strains of the gypsy dances!

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, The American Nature Association

All have seen the tangled web of the house spider, an irregular network of silken strands in apparently aimless confusion in the dark corner of deserted or at least neglected rooms.

Perhaps they were made by the same species which, according to a popular tradition, helped Robert Bruce when he was striving for the crown of Scotland.

Discouraged and sick, he lay on a couch thinking over the dark situation, when he saw a spider trying to fasten its web in a particular place on the rafters. Several times the attempt failed, but always the spider persisted.

House Spider

When after repeated trials the brave spinner won success, Bruce arose, for no rebuffs can discourage her. In due time she spins for her prospective eggs an urn-shaped nest and leaves the rest to Providence.

When the young spiders hatch, the stronger subsist on the smaller and weaker ones. As the survivors grow larger and stronger, and are able to capture other prey, they gradually abandon cannibalism as a means of livelihood and race suicide is averted.

In the great class to which the spiders belong, the young are miniatures of their parents. As they increase in size, the more or less unyielding skin is shed and the growing body is allowed room for expansion.

In most spiders the female is the larger, and frequently devours her husband. Truly in spider land the female is more deadly than the male.

DAILY POEM THE CLOWN. We pay to see him act the fool and everybody, as a rule, is made to feel more cheerful. His life is one of crazy things, and always heaps of pleasure brings. (For clowns is meant this earthful.) Who knows what grief may lie within the heart behind a forced-out grin? What pranks the fates can play; to make a man bring forth a smile—yes, laugh—when really all the while, he doesn't feel that way. It must be fun to make a crowd of gloomy people laugh out loud. That job the clown is living. The frown dies out; the smile comes through when ever you see the man—just due to foolishness he's living. He gives his life to other folk who look on him as just a joke. Yet is it all worth while? For, while he does the best he can to try and cheer his fellow man—who tries to make HIM smile?

PERFECT WATER SUPPLY REQUIRES AID OF CITIZENS

Problems of Conservation and Purity Up to People of Connecticut as Well as to Companies.

Maintenance of a pure water supply for the people of Connecticut requires not only the investment of millions of dollars in reservoirs, purification and distribution systems, but requires as well the co-operation of the cities and citizens of the state, according to the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information. The problems of supplying pure water do not rest alone with the water company, but involve as well the problem of combating fire and disease which rests with the citizens of the state.

The supplying of a good supply of drinking water depends first up on securing a protected supply of raw water, upon storage, filtration and chlorination of that water, and in many cases the careful scrutiny of the water supply by a laboratory staff. Some of the large companies analyze their supply every day. The guarding of the watershed is another important matter. All of these are well cared for by the Connecticut water companies. Something further, however, is necessary to guarantee a pure supply and that is the co-operation of the citizens of the state in conserving the supply and in preventing the contamination of the water. A large part of Connecticut's water supply is used each year in extinguishing fires, most of which result from carelessness and could be avoided. Trespassing on watershed land is prevalent in some parts of the state, although the watershed guards expend every effort to prevent this. Many of the water companies in the state were compelled to increase their number of guards last year to prevent trespassers from thoughtlessly endangering public health by polluting the water.

JACK JOHNSON'S RING-COME-BACK
BARRED BY CAL.

Colored Heavyweight Not To
Be Given Chance to Fight in That State.

Los Angeles—Jack Johnson, the only negro world's heavyweight champion, will have to stage his impudent ring "come-back" somewhere outside of California. That was definitely decided by the California State Boxing Commission at its last monthly meeting here.

Following a 15-round decision over Pat Lester, Arizona heavyweight, in the Nogales, Mexico, bull pen, Johnson found himself on the verge of physical, pugilistic and, incidentally, financial rehabilitation. In the fight with Lester, Johnson showed enough of his old-time skill and cunning to raise the hue and cry. He not only endured fifteen rounds, but he also took the decision, which is extremely commendable under a passionate Mexican sun at the intriguing age of 48.

And just to make the yodel more resonant, Lester, shortly thereafter, showed he wasn't the worst fighter in Tucson, Ariz., by scoring a 5-round technical knockout over Tony Puente, the Mexican heavyweight.

Immediately after the Nogales incident, several Southern California promoters made applications for permits to have Johnson demonstrate his venerable wares in Los Angeles. Forced to face the issue by these applicants, the State Boxing Commission announced that Johnson was persona non grata or even worse than that in California. "The action of the commission," Captain Seth P. Strelinger, the chairman, explained, "was prompted by the conviction that Johnson has never done the boxing game any lasting good and he's too old now to learn how."

While he didn't say so out loud, the captain left a palpating inference that Johnson's effect on the boxing game, in fact, had been just the opposite.

"He's 48 now," Strelinger added, "so we thought we'd let him come-back some place else."

Johnson has been an important character in the history of California boxing. He nearly won his heavyweight title in California. Tex Rickard and Jack Heason, the promoters, planned to stage the Jeffries-Johnson fight in San Francisco or its environs. Jeffries had already established a nearby training camp when the State interdicted. The fight was then transferred to Reno, just across the State line.

One of Johnson's greatest fights, and one of the fights that has helped make ring tradition, was staged at Colma, near San Francisco. This was the classic encounter between Stanley Ketchel, "the Michigan Assassin," and the brunet hero. Johnson won on a knock out in the twelfth round. Another stirring battle fought by Johnson in this State was his ten-round no-decision affair with Al Kaufmann at San Francisco. Johnson was generally conceded to have had the edge.

The veteran colored boxer is now training for a fight in Tia Juana the fourth of July against an opponent whose name will soon be announced. The matinee contest will dedicate the new Tia Juana arena, which is now under construction. Twenty thousand holiday patrons will be accommodated.

"Why, it's my mother," she cried.

"It is," Morton said gravely.

He drew out the other photograph and the letters. Audrey watched him closely, as he laid the picture in front of her.

"My mother again," she said. Then, excitedly, "That's Mr. Smith in the picture with her—the man you threw out of the house and sent to South America. And there's a queer little adobe house in the background."

"In Arizona," nodded Morton. "It's the end of a trail, Audrey. I've passed a hand across her brow. I called you down here to tell you your mother's story, and to show you this picture of the spot where her trail ended."

"With Smith?" asked Audrey, in a frightened voice.

"No. He left her there. And it was there that I found her—and buried her. She was lying dead, alone, on the spot where she had been standing in that cursed photograph."

"Audrey, you are your mother's daughter. You have been running the same thing. And this was the end of it."

He collapsed in his chair and buried his face in his arms. Audrey ran to him and put her arms around him, with little tender sounds of sympathy.

He straightened his shoulders after a moment. "I'm not through," he picked up the photograph and the letters and looked at them vacantly.

"I loved your mother," he said, "since she was a little slim thing of fifteen. Her hair was fair like yours. Her eyes were wide and blue, and her laugh was the merriest I ever have heard—except yours, dear heart."

"I was there, too—trying to be an artist. I saw her sometimes. She came back to America. I was wildly in love with her, but I had no money."

"A year went by. She was at home again. I saw her—she made a mistake that turned out unfortunately. He turned his face away."

"Her husband did not understand. He tried to curb her impulses, and she rebelled. You were born, Audrey, but that failed to hold her. She ran away with Smith."

He handed her the paper. "Read this letter. I found it among her things, out there in Arizona."

The penmanship was clear and precise. It was the same writing that Audrey had seen in the letter that Smith had written to her.

"Audrey, my love," it began. The girl looked up quickly. "Was her name Audrey, too?" He nodded.

"There is nothing real in life except happiness," she read on. "That is the reason for all the things we do—the search for happiness. You love me. Come with me. Your heart is chilled where you are. I am selfish, immersed in my own affairs. You were born for love and riches and high adventure."

"Come with me, while I make sure of this mine I'm looking for. I'll make you rich. We'll travel, leisure, happiness—together. Take your money from the bank. Don't leave it for him to spend. And I'll meet you, and we'll go together to the Garden of Dreams, sweetest of women."

"Audrey's hand relaxed and the letter dropped on the desk.

"So she went with him to that shack in the desert," continued Morton. "And in the end, he took her money and deserted her. He had not found the mine."

"There was a baby. It died when she did."

He went to the window, and looked out for a long time. The girl, huddled in her chair, looked at him with yearning, but she did not dare to break his silence.

"I had always loved her. I took up the search. It was months before I came to that adobe house. He pointed to the picture. 'I've invited my secretary to a place at the table and rang for the servant.'"

Parrish kept his eyes on Audrey and, as though not conscious of her gaze, she refrained from looking up.

"Bright and early, Parrish," said Morton. "Fair enough, too. I have a good deal of work for you to do, Miss Morton, also, may need entering. She has given up her idea of a chorus-girl house party."

"Thank goodness," breathed Parrish devoutly. Then he flushed a fiery red, for Audrey's head had been flung back with a gesture of resentment.

Morton smiled and began to talk calmly, to tide the conversation over difficulties. At last, unconsciously, the two young persons forgot their company and began to chatter in their turn.

The older man's tired face relaxed, and he watched them with satisfaction.

"I hope Miss Morton will play for us after breakfast," said young Parrish. "I have brought some new music from town."

Audrey smiled. "I shall, if I feel like it." Then she turned on him suddenly. "I suppose you're awfully relieved that the girls aren't coming. You must have been afraid they'd vamp you, coming down on you in such numbers." She dimpled maliciously, waiting for his answer.

But to her surprise, he was undisturbed. "Oh, not all. I well, I get along with Nona and the others pretty well. But—well, I just hated to have them come on your account. The neighbors and all—"

Morton interrupted. "Now, young man, I wouldn't preach, if I were you. Haven't you learned anything about women yet?"

Parrish began to make some fumbling reply, but Audrey jumped up and pushed her chair back. "Come on, let's not sit in here and argue. Let's go and play the new music."

They followed her into the music room, Parrish all satisfaction at her interest in his music.

He opened his brief case as Audrey took her place at the organ, and drew out several sheets of music. With them there came two yellow envelopes.

"Oh, Mr. Morton, here are some telegrams that came this morning," said the secretary. "I had forgotten them."

Morton tore the first one open and read in silence. Then he laughed and tossed it to Audrey. "An answer to my wire last night," he said.

The message was from A. Sunshine. "You're showing some gumption at last," it said. "If I had sent the card to visit you in Rochester the show would have gone up the hill. They've got to work like the devil from now on till the opening. But they're disappointed that you took back to Wichita."

Audrey's face puckered. "Oh dear, that's too bad. The girls have so little real fun."

Morton tossed her a bill of large denomination. "Wire a florist to send each of them a corsage," he said, lightly. Parrish watched him with a puzzled frown.

Morton idly picked up the other yellow envelope and tore it across the top. Watching him as he read the message, Audrey's face turned white. "What is it, daddy?" she put a hand on his arm.

"I must leave tonight," he said, where I am going."

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL'S TROUBLES

ANOTHER'S TROUBLES

"I don't see it that way at all," said to Angie Horton when she told me I had to make my choice.

"I don't see where Mr. Robinson comes in. In the first place I don't want anything to do with him anyway. I only want to work in this store and get paid for it. I wouldn't have anything to do with him if he were the last man on earth."

"That, Judy, is because you have never earned your living before."

"Where?"

"As hat checker at the Beaux Arts."

"Then you must know Mamie Riley."

"Mamie Riley? Of course, I know her. She is my very best friend. I live at her house."

"If that's the case you are all right, Judy. I know Mamie. No man can straighten out a string. No man can have her just for the asking, or for the price of a job either. But, young lady, I say to you that you better be looking for another place for you are not going to stay in this store long."

"Do you mean to tell me, Angie Horton, that I have got to become a sweetie of the boss if he wants me to hold my position in this store?"

"It looks like that to me, Judy."

"You're looking cross-eyed."

"Well, anyway, you have more courage than I, Judy." Angie whispered. "I might as well tell you that if Mr. Robinson had beckoned you would do no such thing. You're not in love with him, are you?"

The girl whitened and I saw great pain under her strained smile.

Instantly I put my arm about her. "Surely, dear, you don't mean what you would just now. You don't care for that big bluff, do you?"

"I certainly do not, but at the present moment my brother is in Arizona in a tuberculosis hospital. My little sister who should be in school and grand girl in the millinery house of Madame LaMont, and my mother is old, too old and crippled to work. Most of the time she has to scuff around in a rocking chair. Her knees will not hold her up."

Tears came into the somewhat hard little eyes. "I'm so tired, so tired, Judy, that honestly I envy your chance to have luxury and leisure as well as to be a girl."

"No wonder I saw the boss talking to you this afternoon."

"I said to myself: 'I'd be willing to pay the price.'"

"It is a wonder that sometimes we don't get tired and think we would be willing to pay the price, Angie," I said. "I was thinking of what Mamie had told me in the morning when I said it, however. And I resolved that never again would I find any criticism for the girl who did pay."

"How could I have done that?" I asked. "I was so tired, so tired, Judy, that honestly I envy your chance to have luxury and leisure as well as to be a girl."

Modern Home Retains Stately Colonial Charm

Styles in architecture come and go as human fancies change; but one thing is always popular, always in good taste—the stately, dignified Colonial residence of white frame construction. In this plan the Colonial style has been treated so that it retains all of its charm and appeal despite its adaptation to the requirements of the man of moderate means. The variety set it has all of the characteristic beauty of the true Colonial mansion. As in almost all houses of the Colonial variety, the floor plan is highly convenient. Freaks of design never find their way into the Colonial type. The reception hall is spacious and the broad stairway with its curved banister is visible from the roomy living room. The fireplace at the end of this room is flanked on one side by a window with comfortable built-in seat, and on the other by a door leading to the porch. Noticeable is the separate porch in the rear, which gives entrance to the kitchen—a boon for the housewife on hot summer days. Upstairs there are two bedrooms of more than the average size, a commodious bathroom and a cozy sewing room.

FASHION LETTER

FROM DEAUVILLE

"Feminine Bathing Suits Draw Germaine's Eye."

Deauville, France

Dearest Madeline:

We return to Paris tomorrow. I make the statement without emotion—I should not care in the least if we were staying longer.

My sudden change of sentiment regarding this spa is due to one of our countrymen—tall, splendid, athletic, who is the brother of the little American flapper at our hotel, He's "Jimmy" to everyone.

No sooner had Jacques returned to Paris, leaving me to what I supposed would be despair, than this stranger appeared.

Men here are scarce and women are very plentiful. But can you only me. He is very, very amusing. His French is bad, but he has a charming smile, and a way of getting everything with no explanation—only lavish tips.

Perhaps it was my sudden interest in him that made father decide to return to Paris. He seemed a bit annoyed too, at my bills, declaring that a watering place where a man had to spend money like water. He said if I became acquainted with American extravagance, I would land him in iron.

Before his unseemly rebellion, I had fortunately acquired two bathing costumes, the photographs of which I am sending you.

You will notice that my selections, while they allow for much bodily freedom, and are quite perfect for swimming, are not feminine or unattractive. I was under the spell of Jacques when I bought them, and he instilled in me a horror of masculine attire—for women.

Strangely enough, I found navy blue to be the popular color this year for bathing attire. Also I found frills, pleats and embroidery and all the popular embellishments for frocks, on bathing attire as well.

One of my costumes is navy blue with a scalloped skirt embroidered in white, with white buttons, the other is in turtleneck gray piped and embroidered in pink. Doesn't the latter sound poetic? I fancied it would melt into the atmosphere about sunset time.

I saw ever so many attractive bathrobes and bathing capes in heavy, spongy stuffs, gorgeously lined and very richly embroidered and printed.

Bathing caps match the suit this season, in color and often in texture, and give the effect of a definite bit of millinery instead of a mere contrivance to keep the hair dry—though they never do.

The cap for my blue suit is sort of a Russian turban effect with flaps that turn back from the face, and a little chin strap that is decorative as well as useful.

With the other suit I have a stunning pink rubber cap with black strappings. I did not get sandals or capes, but shall buy them in Paris.

Of course I am most anxious to see Jacques, but I hate to leave Jimmy here for some designing woman. He insists he will go to Paris as soon as I. He says he will take me to the cafes the Americans love in Montmartre. But my parents have informed me he will do nothing of the sort.

I wonder if I shall have difficulty managing both Jacques and Jimmy? Perhaps I shall, but it will be fun, will it not?

Do write, and advise me. You are used to managing American men. Much love.

GERMAINE.

Use Plenty of Water

This is the second of a series of articles on the Hot Weather. Tomorrow: Sleep and Exercise.

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING, Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service.

An abundance of water, both internally and externally, is a necessity during hot weather. A daily bath during the summer cleanses, refreshes and aids in maintaining the health.

Just how much water should be consumed in hot weather depends upon the atmospheric temperature and the relative humidity. In any event, pleasantly cool water should be consumed in fairly liberal quantities.

The excessive use of iced drinks is apt to exert a detrimental influence upon the digestive system, causing discomfort or actual illness, and if such drinks are sweet, the sugar contained adds to the amount of heat produced in the body.

Take a sun bath every day, but very cautiously at first, until your skin attains the necessary protective powers. Too long exposure to the sun's rays when you are not accustomed to it, is harmful.

In summer one's thoughts naturally, and very properly, turn to the prospect of a vacation, a change of scene and respite from customary labors. Every person who works would be benefited by such a vacation and should endeavor to obtain it.

The person who remains at home is fortunate in many ways. In cities the milk, water and food supplies are usually available and insect pests are infrequent.

Sometimes a vacation at home affords the very best opportunity for rest and recuperation. However, many of the home advantages are offset by the summer heat and the sameness of the surroundings.

If a "day from home" vacation is decided upon, a place in which adequate health protection is afforded should be chosen. The selection of such a resort is an important matter requiring the exercise of good judgment and careful attention to numerous vital health factors that have been discussed in previous lectures.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Church and Laymen Of All Nations At Chicago Eucharistic Congress

(This is the fourth of a series of articles by Eugene Weare dealing with the International Eucharistic Congress, which is to be held in Chicago June 20-24, and which, it is expected, will bring to that city something like 1,000,000 Roman Catholics from all parts of the world.)

(The undertaking is unique in the history of religious activity in modern times. This congress, which is purely a religious undertaking, is the first of such gatherings to be held in the United States and has attracted the attention of Christian peoples of all denominations.)

By EUGENE WEARE,
Noted Correspondent, Journalist and Author.

Chicago.—The Eucharistic Congress, which is to be held in Chicago June 20-24, is the twenty-fifth of such gatherings to be held in less than half a century. The first congress was convened at Lille in France in 1881. Since that time, similar congresses have been staged in many of the great cities of Europe. London, Paris, Antwerp, Brussels, Amsterdam, Madrid and Rome are but a few of the larger cities of the old world which have served as the hosts to the Eucharistic congresses.

The growth of the movement has been enormous. At the first congress something like 3,000 persons participated. Fifteen years ago, at Montreal, more than 750,000 people journeyed to the Canadian city to assist at the ceremonies and to follow the deliberations. At Chicago it is expected that upwards of 1,000,000 people will be present during the days of the congress sessions.

From All Nations.
Already there are evidences at hand to indicate that almost every nation in the world will send a representative delegation to Chicago. It is now known that there will be priests from India and Burma, from Japan, lay brothers from Canada and lay catechists from the Argentine; Bishops from Australia and Mitred Abbots from both the Near and Far East. It is expected that there will be twenty Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, fifty Archbishops and more than 250 Bishops. Plans are being made to care for almost 8,000 priests in Chicago.

From foreign lands official national pilgrimage groups will come from Ireland, England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, France, Spain, Portugal, Germany, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Jugoslavia, Italy and Switzerland. A group representing Canada at the congress and, despite the troublesome conditions at home another great group is expected from Mexico. The leadership of the illustrious Archbishop of Mexico City.

In addition, there will be present substantial groups from the West Indies, from Central America and from the republics of Colombia, Brazil, Uruguay, Chile and the Argentine.

Special Groups.
More than seventy dioceses of the United States will be represented by special diocesan groups. These will move forward in special trains provided by local ecclesiastical authorities under whose direction most of the pilgrimage groups have been organized.

Special, reduced railway and steamship fares have been established for persons journeying to Chicago for the congress. For travel west of Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Wheeling, West Virginia, the reduced rate of a fare may be said to be a one-way fare for the round-trip when the journey is made in a day-coach. Where Pullman cars are used the fare is the one-way fare for the round-trip.

It is suggested, however, that those intending to make this trip to Chicago should ascertain beforehand the exact rate of fare from local railway agents. In some cases, the reduced rate of fare is to be granted only upon presentation of a railway valuation certificate which may be obtained from priests in all parts of the land. In most instances, however, the rate established is what is known as an "open rate," which requires no validation certificate of any kind.

Housing Problem.
The great task involved in the Chicago congress comes about by way of the housing of so enormous a group. To meet with the nation which is presented by the influx of a million people into the city, the congress authorities organized some ten months back a special housing committee pledged to see to it that a comfortable place is provided for all who journey to the city for the congress. Every available space in hotels and apartment houses, in public halls and private homes was pre-empted, catalogued and marked. A city-wide drive for rooms and money was carried on with the result that as this is written in the last days of May there are thousands of rooms still available, though it is expected that in another week additional rooms will have to be secured for those who come down upon the city at the eleventh hour.

In this drive for accommodations for the pilgrims thousands of non-Catholic families have opened up their homes to the visitors. And the hotels of Chicago have completed reservations for more than 100,000 guests.

Big Tent Colony.
In addition to these, thousands of cots have been secured and will be installed in public armories, dance halls, school auditoriums and motion picture houses, while on the outskirts of the city, in what is known as the Forest Preserve, a tent colony capable of accommodating 60,000 is now in process of being organized.

It has been the aim of those charged with the responsibility for the care of this great throng to anticipate every possible emergency. So it is that special arrangements, looking to the safety, comfort, health and sanitation of the pilgrims has been provided for.

A special corps of doctors and nurses has been mustered for service during the days of the congress and special field hospitals, first-aid stations, and public clinics will be set up in all parts of the city. Special police protection has been arranged for and a huge scheme has been conceived with a view to properly feeding the enormous crowd of strangers.

TRAINS HIT 64 AUTOS AT CROSSINGS LAST YEAR

Sixty-four motor vehicles were struck by railroad trains or locomotives on grade crossings in Connecticut last year. Out of a total of 2,296 railroad crossing fatalities in the United States, eleven occurred in this state and thirteen people were killed. Four of the deaths resulted from crossing accidents in Plainfield. In 1924 there were six such fatal accidents in Connecticut resulting in seven deaths.

From the fact that crossing fatalities throughout the country showed an increase last year, no greater than 2.6-10 per cent and injuries from such accidents an increase of only 1/2 of one per cent, notwithstanding the considerable increase in traffic, the safety section of the American Railway Association concludes that "crossing accidents are undoubtedly being checked."

The intensive campaign against this type of accident is being carried into Connecticut again this year, and crossing tenders and others have been asked to report the numbers of all motor vehicles carelessly operated at crossings. During the past year, the state motor vehicle department received 955 complaints of improper driving at such crossings, as against 616 complaints during the previous year. Of the 1925 complaints, 792 were for speeding over crossings, forty-three for disregard of stop signals, ten for turning or stopping on crossings, and 110 for crossing in front of trains or similar recklessness at crossings. The record in this respect for 1924 was 531 for disregard of stop signals, twelve of turning or stopping on crossings and forty-nine of crossing in front of trains or similar recklessness.

Of the 114 accidents which occurred on grade crossings in Connecticut fifteen occurred in New Britain, twelve in Hartford, ten each in Danbury and Meriden, three in Bridgeport, two in New Haven, one in Waterbury and the rest were distributed over a wide area, mostly in rural sections.

SO. END RESTAURANT CLOSES ITS DOORS

City Sea Grill Closed by Constable — Business Failed to Pay Expenses.

The City Sea Grill, formerly known as the City Restaurant, has been attached by four creditors Wednesday afternoon. This is the second restaurant to go out of business on Main street recently, the Keep Smiling Lunch having recently closed down. The attachment on the City Sea Grill was served by Constable James Foley, of the North End.

It appears that ever since James Johnson, former police commissioner and selectman, sold out to Charles Morris and Louis Contos, the restaurant has not been a paying proposition. Business has been dull and for some time it was apparent that a break was bound to come.

The first sign of the financial failure occurred when Morris and Contos withdrew from the business leaving his partner Contos, to face things. Shortly afterwards, Morris sold his former partner for $2,100.

It was then that the creditors stepped in and decided to attach the business. Attorney William S. Hyde is looking after Contos's interests.

2^d FIREMAN COLLAPSE
AT WILKES-BARRE; 1 DIES
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 11.—One fireman died of suffocation and twenty were overcome by a fire which caused a loss estimated at $150,000 in the central business section of the city today.

At Eyreman, 40, after manning a hose for an hour in a doorway, staggered to the sidewalk and collapsed while being rushed to a hospital.

Seven of the other victims are in hospitals, but with one exception, no further fatalities are expected.

FIND YALE ATHLETICS NO BAR TO LONG LIFE

Researchers Assert College Men Are Better Insurance Risks Than Average.

New Haven, June 11—Yale University's department of health is seeking to decide the old question of the effect of athletic sports on health and longevity.

In reaching this conclusion the department, according to the Yale Alumni Weekly today, finds "there is no evidence to indicate injuries to the health of students by athletic sports conducted under such supervision as is enforced at Yale."

GRADE PUPILS WIN PRIZES IN ESSAYS

W. C. T. U., Home Bank & Trust Co., and Colonial Dames Make Awards

During the assembly period at High school hall yesterday afternoon prizes were awarded by the W. C. T. U., The Home Bank and Trust Company, and the Colonial Dames to pupils of grades seven and eight, Barnard school, for essays entered in prize essay contests.

The W. C. T. U. offered a prize of one dollar for the best play written on "Benjamin Franklin's Experience in a London Printing Office." These prizes were won by the following pupils: Elena Burr, Miss Tynan's room; Patricia Moroney, Miss Krapowicz's room; Doris Muldoon, Miss Clark's room; Muriel Tomlinson, Miss Johnson's room; Dorothy Silcox, Miss Wilson's room; Josephine Sapenza, Miss Maher's room; Charlotte Rubnow, Miss Mahan's room; Mary Mirigollo, Miss McLaughlin's room; Phillip Anderson, Miss McGuire's room; Austin Johnson, Miss G. Kane's room; Roger McCormick, Miss Shea's room; Harris Barrabee, Mrs. Hawley's room; Horace Burr, Miss Munson's room; Gustav Anderson, Miss Reed's room; Simon Desahagian, Miss Eaton's room; Carl Cubberly, Miss L. Kane's room.

Patricia Moroney's essay was chosen the best in Barnard school and was awarded first prize in the W. C. T. U. contest. This essay also won the county prize in the Hartford County contest conducted by the W. C. T. U.

The winners of the dollar prizes awarded by the Home Bank and Trust Company for the best essays on "Thrift" were as follows: Stella Gryk, Miss Tynan's room; Patricia Moroney, Miss Krapowicz's room; Doris Muldoon, Miss Clark's room; Lorna Hills, Miss Johnson's room; Marjorie Paton, Miss Wilton's room; Charlotte Rubnow, Miss Mahan's room; Doris Eddy, Miss McLaughlin's room; Roger Cheney, Miss McGuire's room; Raymond Dotchin, Miss G. Kane's room; Robert McCormick, Miss Shea's room; Harris Barrabee, Mrs. Hawley's room; Richard Ossbury, Miss Munson's room; Gustav Anderson, Miss Reed's room; Sherwood Humphreys, Miss Eaton's room; William Courtney, Miss L. Kane's room.

The Home Bank and Trust Company gave a prize of an extra dollar to the boy and girl in each grade having the best essay in the prize contest. The winners of the prize were: Grade VII, girls, Doris Eddy; Grade VIII, girls, Patricia Moroney; boys, Grade VII, Raymond Dotchin; Grade VIII, boys, Gustav Anderson.

The essay awarded first prize was written by Doris Eddy; the essay awarded second prize was written by Gustav Anderson.

Each year the Colonial Dames of America conduct a prize essay contest open to pupils of grammar schools and high schools. The subjects chosen are always historical. This year grammar school pupils were given the subject "Indians Who Befriended the Colonists." Patricia Moroney's essay was chosen as the best essay in this state contest, winning a prize of fifteen dollars in gold.

Mrs. George Keith presented the prizes for the W. C. T. U. contest. Lewis Sipe presented the prizes for the contest sponsored by the Home Bank and Trust Company. Mrs. Austin Cheney presented the prize given by the Colonial Dames.

The thrift essays for which prizes were awarded by the Home Bank and Trust Company were as follows:

PURPOSE OF THRIFT
by Gustav Anderson

Many do not esteem time as money. But in reality it is just that. Time wasted cannot be replaced, consequently one is a loser. As fate will have it, Satan will find mischief for idle hands to do. Time spent doing necessary things is the planting of a fruit-bearing tree.

Time should be spent to the best advantage. Leisure time should be spent doing something that will ease the mind and let it forget its daily task. This can often be done by devoting one's leisure time to a hobby, such as gardening, study of birds and animals, etc.

As only God knows the future, we should provide for future demands the best we can. We can do this by saving money for old age and rainy days. A man who had had the right idea about thrift was Benjamin Franklin. If every one thrifty and prosperous world this would be!

The word "budget" has various meanings to different persons. One good meaning is the following: To keep a budget is to plan how and for what one should spend one's money. Some people have the idea if one keeps a budget he is miserly. But this does not need to be so. To have thrift for one's best friend, a budget is nearly always necessary.

THRIFT MEANS SUCCESS
by Doris Eddy

We often speak of thrifty men and women, but do we ever stop to think what it means to be thrifty or what thrifty really is? The word is derived from the verb "to thrive" which the dictionary tells us means "to prosper by economy, to grow, or to flourish."

Benjamin Franklin was a thrifty man. He didn't spend his money on foolish things. He once asked his brother for a very small sum of money in place of his board and lodging. He then bought simple but substantial meals; with the rest he bought books from which he got a large part of his education. Today one of our most prominent examples of a thrifty man is President Coolidge. He refuses to ride in a private car because of the extra expense to the country. Since he has been president he has managed the government affairs in such a way as to reduce taxes. John D. Rockefeller is so saving that besides practicing thrift himself he sees that his employees live within their means.

Today the banks and public schools help us to be thrifty. The schools set aside a certain day each week for the children to bring money to be deposited in their names in the savings bank. Sometimes this is done through a system of stamps and sometimes the children have regular bank books. Small banks are also given out to keep at home until they are filled. The bank keeps the key. When the stamp system is used, the children go to a stamp machine in the school and exchange their money for a savings stamp which will do them much more good than the gum or candy so often bought in this way.

It will do us no good to save in a miserly way. We must, if we are "to grow and flourish by economy," invest what we save of money, time, materials and health, in some worthwhile way for the future. Then we are like the flourishing plant which does not die, but bears fruit and seed for the plant that comes after it.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MR. AND MRS. ERNEST DODGE.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dodge of Hackmatack street who are leaving town within a few days, were the guests of honor at a surprise farewell party given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Appleby on Armory street. The gathering represented the Daughters of St. George with members of their families to the number of sixty persons. A most enjoyable evening was spent with games, instrumental music and chorus singing of English songs. A bountiful buffet lunch was served.

Mrs. Eva Leslie, president of the lodge and in its behalf presented to Mrs. Dodge a half dozen stainless dinner knives and a lodge pin. She voiced the regret of the Daughters in losing an active associate and extended their best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Dodge for their future prosperity. The hostess, Mrs. Appleby, in a spirit of fun, gave Mr. Dodge an old-fashioned bouquet of sweet peas as a souvenir of the occasion.

The party came to an end at midnight with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nick and Nancy needed no extra light to dress by. The moon shining in through the window made everything as bright as day. They hurried into their clothes and put on the magic shoes that were to take them to Drowsy Land, as the Fairy Queen said.

Indeed the Fairy Queen herself was sitting nearby on a moonbeam nodding at them in her friendliest way, and talking to them.

When the Twins had put on the magic shoes, they turned toward the window. "We're all ready," they said, "shall we start right away?"

But nobody answered. The Fairy Queen had disappeared completely. The moonbeam was changed, too; indeed you could call it a moonbeam no longer. It was a tall, bright ladder leaning right up against the moon, each bar a rung of shining gold. It came right down through the window and rested on the floor at their feet. The ladder did, as much as to say, "Climb me."

"Hello there!" said Nick. "This must be the way to Drowsy and Nancy. Come on! I'll go first."

So up went Nick, hand over hand, and up went Nancy right after him.

At first the ladder looked a mile high, but magic shoes are great climbers, and it seemed to the Twins that they had scarcely taken more than ten steps when suddenly they were right at the moon.

And there stood a queer little moon man watching them silently, as they stepped off the ladder and began to look around.

"Which one?" said he in a queer silent voice that sounded, when he spoke, as though it had cotton in your ears.

"What what?" said Nick.

"Which one?" said the queer little moon man. "We have several. This is Dream and, and the Land of Nod, and Drowsy Land. Drowsy Land is in between the other two."

"That's it—place we want to go to," said Nancy quickly.

The little moon man took a huge key out of his pocket and said, "Follow me." He didn't waste words. I tell you.

so the Twins followed and soon the little moon elf stopped before a high blue gate wide enough to allow one person to pass through at a time.

"We're here," he said, putting the key into the lock and turning it. Then he gave the tall gate a push and stepped inside. The Twins passed in, and without a word their eyes were shut the gate behind them. They could hear the key turn in the lock.

Now instead of Drowsy Land before bright and shining as one would suppose, it wasn't so at all. It was a sort of twilight. And it'll tell you why. All around were trees, great tall ones like towers. Under their feet was a thick carpet of pine-needles. No matter how hard you walked, you didn't make a sound. It was almost as though you had cotton tied to your shoes. In every tree was a door and on every door was a door-plate with a name on it.

"Isn't this a funny place!" said Nick to Nancy. But his voice sounded a million miles away.

Suddenly a door in one of the tall tree houses opened, and out came—you'll never guess what. An eye! It had arms and legs and a three-cornered hat.

"My goodness!" said Nancy. "What's your name?"

"I'm one of the Forty Winks," said the eye.

Sartorial Sequence
First a traveling suit, of brown; Evening frocks, built low and high. Follow soon, and, by and by. Comes a bunch of sporting clothes. Riding togs and heather hose— Then a flock of bathing-gear. Daring things of fabrics sheer. Last, but not the least recruit, There's a little divorce suit.

Stage Hand (at "Follies")— Golly, I wish I could get a night off so I could take in a show!

Lawyer: "Better plead guilty. The Judge will give you only two years at the outside."
Culprit: "Yaas. But how many years on de inside he gwine gimme? Dat what I want to know."

Illuminating

A PUZZLE A DAY

Tom Tom, who weighs 745 pounds, traveled from California to Chicago in a limousine car. The first night out the porter made five trips to the linen closet to procure the 50 mattresses Tom Tom required for a comfortable night's rest. The weary porter brought 25 mattresses in the first and second time, 21 the second and third, 18 the third and fourth, and 15 the fourth and fifth time.

How many mattresses did he carry in each trip?

Last puzzle answer.

Timmy actually weighs 32 pounds. On the false scale the lithe circus midget weighed 64 pounds on one side and 16 on the other. To find her actual weight multiply 64 by 16 which gives 1024 for an answer. Take the square root of this quantity (1024) which is 32 or the number of pounds in the correct weight.

COLLEGE HATTER

By ART CARLSON
A SECOND Paddock?

Charley Borah is only a freshman at Southern California. But he's one of the most promising of the younger crop of sprinters. Borah is the chap who all but beat Charley Paddock when the latter was clocked over the 100 in the record-smashing time of 9.5. Paddock's famous "jump finish" alone saved the "fastest human" from defeat. With three years of varsity competition ahead, Borah stands a splendid chance of turning the event in faster time than even the Paddocks, Drews and Kellys did before him. Watch this fellow!

Sports certainly seem to be perking up at Columbia, long a weak sister in athletic competition. The Blue and White had a pretty fair football team last fall, followed by a basketball quintet strong enough to win the eastern collegiate title. This season's baseball nine has been enjoying unusual success and the present eight-oared shell, coached by the renowned Dick Glendon, looks to be the best the Stormside Heights school has put in the water in a long stretch. In track and field alone has Columbia failed to show vast improvement. In short, the Blue and White is no longer a mere stepping stone for other colleges.

REMEMBER—
"Chuck" Palmer of Northwestern? Palmer starred in both football and baseball. He was a halfback and pitcher. He won everlasting fame around the Evanston campus by picking up a fumble and dashing 102 yards to the much superior Minnesota eleven in 1922. Palmer's career, by the way, was one of the longest in recent years.

It's been 15 long years since the late Ralph Rose tossed the shot 51 feet for a world record. Meanwhile countless star weightmen have endeavored to excel Rose's performance without success. During the last year, however, Houser, Hartman and Kuck have appeared on the scene. And, if any athlete is capable of bettering the one-time Michigan's mark, one of these birds stands out as a good bet. Houser, Hartman and Kuck have all passed the 50-foot figure, so it wouldn't be surprising should one of the three blast his way through to a new record this season.

INTRODUCING—
Harry Hillman, famous athlete of close to a quarter of a century ago. Hillman's specialties were the middle-distance runs and hurdles. As a member of the American Olympic team in 1904, Hillman won the 400-meter run and the 400-meter hurdles at St. Louis. He set records in each that withstood the four-year assaults until 1924. Hillman is now coaching track and field aspirants at Dartmouth and doing well with the material available.

One of the feature events of the waning outdoor track and field season in college circles will bring together Dye, Grumbles, Guthrie, Cuhel, Wolf and a few others of their caliber in the hurdles at the national intercollegiate to be staged June 11 and 12 at Chicago. The field will be one of the best ever tossed into one corral at the same time. Far western, middle western and eastern timber-gilders will vie for supremacy, with the possibility of Lawrence Watt, North Carolina's southern champion, also being entered.

Michigan has had a highly successful athletic campaign during the last eight months. The Maize and Blue copped the Big Ten grid title, tied for basketball honors, has virtually cinched the baseball flag and should take the outdoor track and field championship. Four winners in the four major college sports. You can't beat that record over a similar stretch.

DOTY IS SAFE FROM EXECUTION DANGER

Sentence, Is Passed, Will Be Commuted, French War Minister Intimates.

Paris, June 11.—Bennet Doty, otherwise Gilbert Clare, the American member of the French foreign legion who is charged with desertion, will not be executed, Minister of War Painleve stated today.

M. Painleve said that no sentence had been passed upon Doty, and intimated that even if it should be, it will be commuted by the French government.

SIGNS BILL FOR DRY NAVY

Washington, June 11.—President Coolidge today signed a bill increasing the "prohibition navy." Ten new vessels for the Coast Guard are to be constructed under the terms of the bill.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION

New Haven, June 11.—George Mamos and Charles Galsion, operating a restaurant in Hartford, today filed voluntary individual and partnership petitions in bankruptcy in United States District Court here. They owe $3,196 and have $600 assets.

STATE CROWDS THRILL TO "THE STILL ALARM"

Famous Melodrama Here for Three Days—Corinne Griffith on Same Bill.

There is a touch of romance and a thrill in "The Still Alarm," the Universal-Jewel production, now showing at the State theater, that will set the blood tingling through the veins of the most blasé picture fan or theater-goer. In it is a combination of the dash and hardihood of the fire-fighter of yesterday and today, the luxurious elegance of a smart modiste's atelier, the tragedy of a ruined home and touches of splendid comedy. As an example of the technique of direction Edward Laemmle, who supervised the making of this epic of the fire department, has given other directors something to shoot at.

"The Still Alarm" is a modernized screen version of the famous old melodrama of the same name that for years thrilled millions of theater patrons. In it Universal has linked the fire-fighter of other days with his successor of today. Out to the scene dash the picture rescue horse-drawn apparatus of the past and then with the lapse of time, 18 years, comes the powerful motorized apparatus of today. Bells clang, sirens shriek; an old-time tenement house goes up in flames and a modern one falls only to rise. These fire scenes, with their clouds of smoke and tongues of flame, the working firemen and the endangered people, are as realistic as anything could be outside of a real fire. One almost smelled the smoke and heard the appeals of the inmates of the burning buildings and one certainly did thrill at the daring rescues.

The Other Feature Corinne Griffith, whose latest starring picture, "Mile. Modiste," is the companion attraction at the State theater, first came into prominence as a dancer. She claims credit for being one of the first of the ballroom dancers to introduce the tango into New Orleans. The star's dancing activities were largely in New Orleans and important cities in Texas, her native state. She achieved national fame, however, when she won a beauty contest, entering the films soon after.

"Mile. Modiste" is an adaptation of the famous Victor Herbert operetta. It was made by the Corinne Griffith Productions and released through First National. Robert Z. Leonard directed. Norman Kerry plays opposite the star, with Willard Louis in the major comedy role.

NEW LONDON GETS SHIP FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Washington, June 11.—The Navy Department today made the assignments of naval vessels comprising the scouting and battle fleets to various cities in celebration of the Fourth of July.

The midshipmen's practice squadron, composed of the Wyoming, New York and Utah, will arrive in New York July 2, and remain until July 6. Among other eastern assignments for the holiday are: New London, the Barry; New Haven, the Goff.

LONDON FIGHTS THE CHARLESTON

London.—Determined efforts are being made to ban the Charleston, the eccentric dance of Negro origin and suburban dance circles. The Piccadilly hotel joined in

Timely Tips For Prudent Housekeepers

HEBRON

A joint meeting of the teachers from this town and Columbia was held at the Center school rooms on Monday at 2 p. m. Supervisor Charles M. Loxcomb presided at the meeting. Members of the town school committee from the two towns were invited to be present and some of them availed themselves of the privilege. The program was featured by a demonstration lesson taught by Miss Mirtelle Goodwin, teacher of the model school on Hebron Green, to a class of her pupils. The picture taught was "The Mill Pond" by George Inness. At the close of the lesson Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch of the Columbia school committee, gave a short talk on the life of the artist who, as it happened, was a personal friend of hers, before his death. Her talk added much to the interest of the lesson.

A "Natty Soshul" will be held at the Congregational church parlors Friday evening, by the Christian Endeavor Society. The C. E. societies of Colechester and Westchester are invited to be present. The Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church held a meeting at the chapel Wednesday afternoon. The time was employed in sewing for a fair to be given later in the month.

The Young Women's club will hold its next meeting Thursday, p. m. at the home of Mrs. Howard O. Thompson.

Kenneth Little and a friend from Mansfield started on Wednesday on an automobile trip to the far West. They expect to visit California. A letter received by Mrs. George A. Little, of Mansfield, Mr. Little's mother, reports that the two boys had reached Niagara Falls. They have taken a full camping outfit and expect to spend their time when not en route, camping by the roadside.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Clark and family spent the week-end at Giant's Neck, Niantic, where they have rented a cottage for the summer. Walter Wright has improved sufficiently as to be able to get about a little on crutches. He is still at Middlesex hospital, but will return home soon. His wife, who was operated on for appendicitis and is at the same hospital, is also much improved and expects to return home at the same time as her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Robinson and their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson of Lebanon, visited Atlantic beach, Wreckpane, R. I., on Sunday, spending the time at the Robinson cottage.

Among those who were present at the dedication of graves by the D. A. R., of Revolutionary soldiers in East Hampton on Sunday, were Mrs. Frank Clark, president of the Colonel Henry Champion Chapter of the D. A. R., and her daughter, Miss Anne, and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Seyms.

The per cent of attendance at the Center grammar school for the month of May was 82. Cases of measles and time made up on Saturdays was the partial cause of the low average. Those perfect in attendance were Anna Mosny, Mabel Porter, Gizella Stanek, Olga Stanek, Adam Kowalski, Leo Kowalski, John Mosny, Edward Pom-powitz, Howard Porter, Norton Warner.

At the Amston school there was a per cent of attendance of 97.8. Pupils perfect in attendance for the month were Clarkson Bailey, John Johnson, Leslie Kinney, Roger Rowley, Lillian Jones, Ruth Kinney, Ruth Raymond, Doris Rowley, Mary Rowley.

Exercises for the closing of the Hopevale school took place at the school on Tuesday evening. There were recitations, songs, etc. Miss Elizabeth Polczan of South Lancaster, Mass., has taught the school for the past year.

Robert Schuyler, accompanied by First Selectman Claude W. Jones, Sherwood Miner and Frank Porter, visited his brother William Schuyler, who is under treatment at the Hartford Retreat. They report that the doctors say that there is an improvement in the case and that a hopeful view is now taken. Hopevale suffered in the thunderstorm on Tuesday afternoon, which, elsewhere, seemed rather light. A barn in that vicinity owned by Miss Jennie Loomis, a former resident, was struck and burned to the ground. The residence of Ames W. Sisson was also struck and the lightning played strange pranks about the place. The front door was torn off, an inside door was also knocked off its hinges, a part of the underpinning of the house was ripped up, dishes were broken, as was also some of the furniture. A stove cover was lifted off the stove and deposited on the floor. The lightning also went into the upper story and did damage to furniture there. Mr. Sisson who was out-of-doors at the time, was whirled about two or three times by the lightning, and suffered from the shock. The concussion broke panes of glass in the house of Paul Coates and that of Edward Fredericks. At the Sisson place damage to the extent of $500 was done. It was estimated. The lightning dug holes in the ground, and played about in an unusual manner, following wires, chains, and fences in a freakish way. Mrs. Clara Johnson was partially shocked by the lightning.

APPARENTLY NOT.

THOUSANDS WILL ATTEND MAINE GRANGE SESSION

Coming Event in November Will Be Mighty Gathering of New Englanders.

From every section of New England come reports of intense interest in the big November event at Portland, Maine, where the National Grange holds its 64th annual session, a nine days' gathering certain to bring together the largest fraternal society convention ever assembled in New England. While the bulk of the attendance will come from this Eastern section of the Central West will be largely represented, all the states on the Pacific Coast will send delegates and more than 30 different states will answer the roll at Portland.

Maine is the host and its Grange leaders will direct the entertainment of the big session, but the management will be in the hands of the executive committee of the National Grange, whose secretary is a Massachusetts man, Leslie R. Smith, State Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture; the lecturer of the National Grange, and in charge of its educational program, is Orlando L. Martin of Vermont; while the realistic work at Portland will be directed by another Massachusetts man, Charles M. Gardner of Springfield; so that New England features large in all the Maine event plans, as well as furnishing the greater number of those attending the session.

Arrangements are being made to run at least three special trains to Portland—one from Hartford or New Haven, Connecticut; one from Providence, Rhode Island; one from Boston; while others from various points in Maine and New Hampshire will probably be arranged later. Reduced rates will obtain on all railroads, with liberal time limits.

The expectation of a class for the Seventh Degree at Portland exceeding 12,000 is based on the following New England apportionment: New Hampshire, 2,000; Vermont, 1,000; Connecticut, 1,000; Rhode Island, 500; while the class will be further augmented by many candidates from other states. In the New England group alone more than 10,000 new members are being initiated into subordinate Granges this year, and the greater part of these plan to take the higher degrees during the session, in preparation for the Seventh at Portland.

New England Grange activities have never been so extensive as during the present season and two other big Grange events are scheduled which will help to arouse interest for the Portland gathering in November.—The annual New England Lecturers' Conference at Orono, Maine, August 16, 17, 18, with a probable attendance of 1,000 Grange workers or more; a national New Hampshire Grange field meeting at Hampton Beach August 11, with National Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine the principal speaker, and drawing an attendance from all parts of New England. National Master Louis J. Taber will also speak at both these gatherings.

All the New England states will vie with each other in not only reaching, but exceeding, the above quota for Portland and various inducements will be offered to stimulate attendance from local Granges.

MEXICO TO RECLAIM MILLIONS OF ACRES

Durango, Mexico.—Reclamation of millions of acres of farm lands in several Mexican states, where water may be impounded and distributed for irrigation, is an undertaking being studied by the J. G. White Engineering corporation, together with its allied financial and construction companies, of New York, according to J. A. Sargent, field engineer, who said he came here to reconnoiter a Durango reservoir project for his corporation, while negotiations are proceeding with the federal government.

Mr. Sargent, who was one of the pioneer engineers of the United States Reclamation service, he said, served under Lewis Kingman, chief engineer of the old Mexican Central railroad 30 years ago.

Mr. Sargent said that the Mexican government is willing to appropriate $50,000,000 for irrigation works, when a comprehensive program of building shall have been worked out through congress and state legislatures. The White corporations will present the government with preliminary reports this year, he said.

Probably the first river project in Durango to be determined will be that of raising a dam in the Nazas about 50 miles west of Gomez Palacio, to impound water for irrigating the Laguna cotton district around Gomez and Torreón. Citizens of the two cities are united in demanding a reservoir here that would rival Elephant Butte lake in capacity. Dependent upon the fall rise of the Nazas, which is dry all summer, planters of the Laguna region have no assurance of water, except as it flows annually from rainfall in the mountains of Durango.

MANCHESTER BASS CLUB IS NOW FORMING

Of especial interest to pond fishermen is the announcement of the opening of the Manchester Bass Club for the season of 1926, particulars of which appear in an advertisement on The Herald's sport page today. The club has the backing of the officers of the Manchester Fish and Game Club, although membership in this club is not necessary to one wishing to join the Bass Club.

Membership in the Bass Club carries a fee of one dollar. The money received from these fees is to be devoted to prizes for the best bass registered by club members. All bass entered in the club contest are to be weighed and displayed at the store of Barrett & Robbins on Main street.

JOHNSON WILL GRADUATE AT WORCESTER MONDAY

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Johnson in Academy Commencement — May Enter Brown University.

A. Dexter Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Johnson will graduate from Worcester Academy Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will attend the exercises. Young Johnson attended the local high school until his health broke and he continued his studies at the academy. Since studying there he has enjoyed great success. His health has improved and he has made up all the studies he lost in the local school. Dexter Johnson is planning on entering Brown University in the fall although he has not yet definitely decided his course. From the commencement exercises Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will go to visit their daughters, Mrs. Arthur Anderson and Mrs. Charles Paisley in Newton Highlands, Mass.

"Mary, I don't know this Mr. Avery who runs the Meat Department at Pinehurst, but I do know that he must be 'right on' to his business to turn out such excellent Corned Beef every time we have a piece of it. Better call Pinehurst now and tell them to send up 5 or 6 pounds for slicing so that we can use some for sandwiches when we go down to the cottage tomorrow." —Adv.

Those members of the Center Church Men's League who were planning to go to Camp Woodstock the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. camp have decided to call the trip off.
