

HOSPITAL FUND SUPPORTED BY SELECTED FEW

Number of Contributors Much Smaller Because of Quiet Campaign — The Few Fear the Burden.

A campaign for funds for the Manchester Memorial hospital started nearly two months ago has brought in $30,000 of the $55,000 which was the objective. The great majority of Manchester residents have not known that a drive for funds was in progress. As a result the number of contributors is about one-quarter of the number that usually contributes to hospital drives.

Clarence E. Bissell was made chairman of the campaign for funds and it was his plan to conduct a quiet solicitation. Those who have solicited gained good results considering the method used. The pledge cards of former years were used as a basis of this year's campaign, and those who had given generously before were again asked to contribute a like amount. Cheney Brothers contributed $12,000 of the $30,000 now collected.

Not Success in One Way.

The drive this year may yet bring in the amount of money sought, but it cannot be considered a success from the standpoint of number of contributors. The stack of contribution cards for the last campaign is four times as great as the pile of pledge cards for this year's drive.

There was never any trouble in the Ginoffi household until two years ago when Mike, 33 years old, was injured and suffered a serious illness. Since then he has been subject to epilepsy and has done little.

PARISIANS RIOT AS FRANC FALL OUSTS PERET

Collapse of Briand Govern- ment May Follow Retirement of Seventh Finance Head in 25 Months.

Paris, June 15.—Premier Briand and his Cabinet resigned tonight.

Paris, France, June 15.—Raoul Peret, French minister of finance, resigned his portfolio today.

Peret's resignation is the result of his failure to stem the decline of the French franc. It was also caused by the unwillingness of Premier Briand to accept his suggestion that the reserve funds of the Bank of France be used to bolster the franc.

The resignation of M. Peret was handed in during a Cabinet meeting, sitting under the chairmanship of President Doumergue. It was accepted forthwith.

Expected Aid Falls

An official communique issued, announcing the resignation of M. Peret, stated that it was brought about by the fall of the franc and the absence of essential aid, upon which the government had the right to count these two factors making it impossible for M. Peret to accomplish his full duty.

M. Peret is the seventh minister of finance that France has had in the past 25 months. She has gone the way of Clemenceau, De Monzie, Caillaux, Poincare, Doumer and Loucheur.

Some observers were inclined to view Peret's retirement as preliminary to the fall of the entire Briand government. Others saw it as the beginning of a more determined fight to the right, with M. Poincare taking Peret's place as Minister of Finance. Another view was that Leon Blum, the Socialist, would be invited to accept the vacant portfolio.

100 Rioters Arrested

All France, as reflected in the national press, is disturbed over the persistent downward course of the franc.

Numerous riots were reported throughout Paris, more than a hundred arrests being made in this city alone. The riots were directly traceable to dissatisfaction with the economic conditions produced by the diminishing value of the French unit.

Camille Aymard, writing in Liberte, the newspaper of which he is a publisher, charged that the franc had lost $100,000,000 in value since he obtained from J. P. Morgan & Co., and which was being used as a reserve, had been spent in operations on the exchange seeking to strengthen the franc.

Franc Hits New Low

The French franc tumbled to a new low when the foreign exchange market closed today.

Rescue Doctor, 72, From Asylum for His Wedding

Paulsboro, N. J., June 15.—Rescued from an insane asylum on the eve of his wedding, Dr. William N. Pounds, 74, former mayor of this city, was married here early today to Miss Jennie Stiles, his 60-year-old sweetheart. Forty friends of the beloved physician, who had driven 40 miles to the State Hospital for the insane at Trenton and obtained his release, cheered at the happy culmination of the breath-taking romance.

Those who seized Dr. Pounds in front of his home here yesterday and tried to force him into their automobile. When police interfered the strangers produced commitment papers describing Dr. Pounds as a mentally deficient and ordering his removal to the State Hospital. The papers were signed by his son, Charles, a Philadelphia coal dealer, and by two local physicians.

Friends of Dr. Pounds were indignant at the commitment, and forty of them all leading citizens, drove pell-mell to Trenton, and convinced Dr. Henry A. Cotton, medical director of the State Hospital, that the commitment papers were forged and that Dr. Pounds was not suffering from mental illness.

The party triumphantly returned here with Dr. Pounds and the wedding took place shortly after midnight. Rev. J. W. Lynch, one of the physician's accusers, officiated. Mayor John Venneman was best man.

CHENEYS PENSION SAMUEL NELSON Caretaker at Barns Has Been in Firm's Employ 48 Years—Health Good.

Samuel Nelson of 43 Ridge street for the past 20 years caretaker at the Cheney barns was placed on the pension list today. Mr. Nelson completed 48 years of service in Cheney Brothers' employ on April 1.

Mr. Nelson came to this country from Denmark in 1872. He lived in Hartford for three or four years and then came to Manchester where he has lived for the last half century. He entered the employ of Cheney Brothers April 1, 1878. He was employed in the outside labor department under Ralph Cheney.

For about 25 years Mr. Nelson drove one of the Cheney teams and nearly all the residents of the town knew "Sam" Nelson. He was given the job of stableman at the barns about 20 years ago. His fine health he attributes to his work around the horses. During his 48 years his absence has totaled but 12 weeks and for the past 20 years has been required to work seven days a week. He is now 74 years of age.

Mr. Nelson has always been a good Manchester citizen taking an interest in the town's political activities and has always been a staunch Republican. One of his economic conditions produced by the diminishing value of the franc unit.

MELLON DEALS A DEATH BLOW TO HAUGENBILL

Shows That Bloc Scheme Would Boost Food Costs and Help Nobody But Foreign Consumer.

Washington, June 15.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon dealt what threatens to prove a death blow to the Haugen farm relief bill yesterday. In response to a request for his views from Representatives Haugen and Dickinson of Iowa, and Antaone of Kansas, Mr. Mellon said the measure would raise the cost of living in this country and give an advantage to foreign consumers, result in the American public paying a bonus to the producers of five leading agricultural commodities, a reduction in the purchasing power of wages and a subsidy to people in other countries.

It was hoped by the advocates of the measure that Mellon would take a far less decided position in opposition to the Haugen bill and that a more tolerant view of farm legislation of this kind on his part would help to put President Coolidge in a position where he would be politically compelled to retreat.

Tax on Every Bushel

The equalization fee, Mr. Mellon declared, would be, in fact, tax on every bushel of corn, or wheat, or pound of cotton or head of live stock produced in America and the legislation, if it worked well, would add little to the sum received by the producer.

"SALAD KING" GETS DUBIOUS DIVORCE

Mrs. Howard Asserts Some Other Woman Posed in Mexican Court.

Mexico City, June 15.—The affairs of romance of John F. Howard, seventy-year-old "salad king" of Haverhill, Mass., have involved the Howard family in an entanglement of legal actions here.

Howard is now formally charged with bigamy and forgery, these charges being based on the allegation that he obtained a fraudulent divorce in Curanavaca a short time ago, when it is alleged that he appeared before an American woman who he swore was his wife, requesting a divorce by consent which was innocently granted.

Some Other Woman

Mrs. Margaret Howard, the seventy-five-year-old wife of the "salad king," denies that she was the woman who appeared with Howard seeking a divorce.

A few days after the divorce was granted Howard is alleged to have gone through a marriage ceremony with Mrs. Eleanor Baumbach Phillips, 55, widow of the former head of the Phillips Lithographing Co., of Milwaukee.

Two sons of Howard then entered the scene, Albert (Red) Howard, former All-American guard on the Princeton football team, aged 24, and John C. Howard.

SAYS SONS ASSAULTED HIM.

These sons are now threatened with arrest for alleged assault on their father, who declares that his face was scratched when the boys forced their way into his apartment to present the case.

Mrs. Howard is preparing to file a suit for $125,000 against Mrs. Phillips, and she also threatens to demand through the courts a property settlement.

NEW YORK CITY, STATE GREET PAPAL LEGATE

Packed Crowds Line the Streets, City Hall Park as Governor and Mayor Wel- come Bonzano.

New York, June 15.—Swarming thousands, lining the streets for miles and circling City Hall park until it was black with humanity, welcomed seven of the visiting European cardinals at their formal reception by city and state today in the greatest outpouring ever occasioned by a similar event.

Cardinal Von Faulhaber of Munich who made the voyage incognito, remained in seclusion in Brooklyn.

The demonstration eclipsed any that has attended the arrival of kings, princes and other world notables.

New York City, and New York State, through the heads of their respective governments, Mayor James J. Walker and Gov. Alfred E. Smith, officially welcomed Cardinal Bonzano, representative of the Pope, and the other cardinals, who tomorrow will leave for Chicago on an elaborate pilgrimage to attend the Eucharistic Congress.

500 Police On Duty

Last night was so immense that five hundred special policemen had to be detailed to keep the struggling mass of humanity in order and maintain open lanes for traffic and the procession of the prelates.

Mayor Walker and his advisers, Gov. Smith and his staff, and other city and state officials received the ecclesiastical dignitaries at the City Hall at noon, first in the historic old Governor's room and later in the aldermanic chamber.

At 11:30 Mayor Walker, as committee of 37 citizens called at the residence of Cardinal Hayes of New York and picked up Cardinal Bonzano, accompanied by bishops and archbishops of the Catholic church.

Blessing to Great Things

The procession then proceeded along the streets of New York to the City Hall. En route Cardinal Bonzano administered the apostolic blessing to the thousands thronging the sidewalks and watching the automobile procession from windows and other vantage points.

In welcoming the cardinals at City Hall, Mayor Walker said: "We appreciate the significance of your mission to this country. T us the Eucharistic congress presents a more direct aspect. We behold its striking pageantry, the continuous course of pilgrims from the four corners of the earth. The assemblage on dignitaries and prelates, the splendor of the procession and of the ceremony."

"But we recognize also the situation which is beneath — the faith of the fathers, the heroism of the martyrs, the inspiration of the missionary and the simple but enduring faith of millions of men and women through the centuries down to the present day."

Noon Hour Crowd

While the ceremonies were going on in the City Hall, the huge throng was augmented by additional thousands pouring from office buildings during the noon hour.

When the cardinals reached City Hall, moving slowly through the crowds, they dismounted from auto-

VARE ENDORSED FOR $150,000 TO FINANCE FIGHT

Neglected to Mention One $100,000 Item in Report of Expenditures— Total Nears Two Millions.

Washington, June 15.—Rep. William S. Vare, victor of Pennsylvania's recent $2,000,000 senatorial campaign, endorsed two notes totaling $50,000, so the money could be added to his campaign funds, he told the Senate "slush fund" committee today.

One note for $100,000 was drawn by Albert M. Greenfield, a Philadelphia real estate dealer and Vare lieutenant, and the other for $50,000, was drawn by Vare himself and cashed by his brother-in-law, George D. Groves.

Vare said he endorsed the Greenfield note so the money could be used to "make additional contribution" to his fund, while his own $71,000 personal expenditures were made partly from the proceeds of the $50,000 note.

Not Before Mentioned.

The Greenfield note was not previously mentioned in Vare's report of his own personal expenditures in the campaign, which he swore totaled only $71,000.

Senator Reed (D. Mo.) also questioned Vare about his meeting with W. L. Mellon, Max G. Leslie and W. Harry Baker at a hotel here.

"That was three days before I announced," said Vare.

"What date?"

"I don't know," said Mackay. "I read returned to Harry Mackay, Vare's campaign manager, and asked: 'When did Mr. Vare announce?'"

"March 15," said Mackay. "Didn't Talk Senatorship.

"This conference was called to see whether you gentleman could agree on a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania?" Reed suggested.

"Undoubtedly," said Vare. "Did you discuss your own candidacy for the Senate with Mr. Mellon?"

"I don't think so," said Vare. "We talked chiefly about the governor ship. Mr. Leslie and Mr. Baker were for Edward E. Biddleman." Mr. Mellon was opposed to him while I was non-committal. We reached no decision."

Vare said he met Mellon again the next day at the Mayflower hotel here. Mellon, he added, insisted the candidate should come from "west of the Alleghenies."

Mellon "Not Active."

"Did you tell Mr. Mellon at the Mayflower meeting that you intended to run for the Senate?"

"Yes, I had a platform in my pocket and told them substantially what my platform would be."

"Did you meet Andrew W. Mellon outside of going casually down to the treasury?"

"No," said Vare. "I was never in his house and never met him except in some departmental matter. He isn't active in politics."

"Well, he seemed to be in this campaign."

"Yes, he made his first speech."

Denies Disaffection.

Reed asked Vare whether there hadn't been "some disaffection" among ward committeemen in Philadelphia—a "break" in the Vare machine. "I don't think so," Vare said sharply. "I got 340,000 votes in Philadelphia, while Pepper got 100,000 and Pinchot 20,000. With almost every newspaper against me I nearly all of them for Pepper. I think the organization functioned perfectly."

Outside Supported Pepper.

"The organization outside Philadelphia supported Mr. Pepper?"

"In the main, yes," said Vare. "I only carried one county outside Philadelphia."

The notes were revealed by Vare under a sharp cross-examination by Senator La Follette.

"Did you make a note on the Metropolitan Trust Company on May 11?" La Follette asked.

"I endorsed a note for Albert M. Greenfield on that bank," said Vare.

"How much was that note for?"

"Wants to Be Sure.

"I can't say because I must be sure," Vare replied.

"You signed a note and can't tell us how much it was?" La Follette demanded. "What was the note made for?"

"Mr. Greenfield wanted to make an additional contribution and he was an officer in the bank—his deputy-president, I think—and I endorsed his note. It was for $100,000, I think."

"He made that contribution to the Vare-Biddleman-James-Woodward campaign?"

"Did you discuss this note with Frank H. Tuft, president of the Trust Company?"

"I did not."

Get Little From Watson.

Reed then called Thomas F. Watson, the Vare treasurer, to the stand beside Vare.

"How much did Greenfield contribute?"

A call for action to check the increase in Connecticut accidents to child-pedestrians is sounded by the state motor vehicle department in the current issue of its bulletin.

to the motor vehicle department. "The question of what can be done about it is not concretely answered, if it is answerable. Pessimism as to possible betterment over existing conditions has in fact begun to appear. But on the other hand there is, in Connecticut at least, an army, including all the school forces, police and officials, and all those other who are the closest to this problem who have "just begun to fight."

Such driving action as passing through a crowd of children at an uncontrolled speed, depending upon the horn signal for notice to a child to get out of the way or get hit, striking a child who has been plainly view, backing without warning and without looking, and any other form of driving near children except such as is governed by extreme caution and consequent car control will more and more be held to be reckless and intolerable, the bulletin says. It holds that the automobile operator must look out for the child, but concedes that there are many instances where children run into moving vehicles or where the operator has no previous knowledge that a child is near, which he cannot and will not be expected to guard against.

Parents are reminded of their responsibility to keep constantly abreast of their children on how to take care of themselves in traffic, and it is held that more care is due from older children than younger. It is a mistaken kindness, in the view of the department, for an operator to stop and allow children on the way to school to clamber aboard his automobile for a ride. "If the children ought to ride the authorities whose duty it is or their parents, wise as they are, it is not the duty or even the privilege of the chance passerby. If the law of damages were more generally understood, and it were realized that to take a guest into one's car usually makes the owner responsible for injury to him, there would be less inviting of chance occupants."

to the motor vehicle department. "The question of what can be done about it is not concretely answered, if it is answerable. Pessimism as to possible betterment over existing conditions has in fact begun to appear. But on the other hand there is, in Connecticut at least, an army, including all the school forces, police and officials, and all those other who are the closest to this problem who have "just begun to fight."

Such driving action as passing through a crowd of children at an uncontrolled speed, depending upon the horn signal for notice to a child to get out of the way or get hit, striking a child who has been plainly view, backing without warning and without looking, and any other form of driving near children except such as is governed by extreme caution and consequent car control will more and more be held to be reckless and intolerable, the bulletin says. It holds that the automobile operator must look out for the child, but concedes that there are many instances where children run into moving vehicles or where the operator has no previous knowledge that a child is near, which he cannot and will not be expected to guard against.

Parents are reminded of their responsibility to keep constantly abreast of their children on how to take care of themselves in traffic, and it is held that more care is due from older children than younger. It is a mistaken kindness, in the view of the department, for an operator to stop and allow children on the way to school to clamber aboard his automobile for a ride. "If the children ought to ride the authorities whose duty it is or their parents, wise as they are, it is not the duty or even the privilege of the chance passerby. If the law of damages were more generally understood, and it were realized that to take a guest into one's car usually makes the owner responsible for injury to him, there would be less inviting of chance occupants."

WAPPING'S SOLITUDE SHATTERED BY THE PING OF RIFLE BULLETS

Manchester's Soldier Boys Stage Sham Battle on Outskirts of Town—Fifty Out of 52 in Battle 'Killed'

Wapping, a quiet and peaceful little hamlet normally, a place where the chief topic of conversation among the farmers is tobacco, was suddenly transformed into a battlefield early last evening.

Attracted Villagers. The shouts and noise from the battlefield in Hills Grove, which, incidentally, is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, were plainly heard all over the little village and attracted nearly 200 of the residents to the grove.

All From Co. G. What the villagers really saw was one band of soldiers in charge of Second Lieutenant Edgar M. Thompson secreted in strong positions defending the dance hall which was supposed to be a stronghold of the "enemy" forces.

Warms of Revolution. The seriousness of the situation is indicated in newspaper comment the Volante even going so far as to warn that "in France revolutions have always begun in economic crisis."

Political circles were forecasting this afternoon that the entire Briand cabinet would resign tonight, since it seems improbable that the Chamber will be willing to accept a simple replacement of M. Peret, but will demand wide revisions in the cabinet and government policy.

One report in circulation is that M. Peret favored the creation of a national union government composed of the representatives of all parties with the exception of the Communists and Socialists.

South End Firemen Pick Popular Member as Foreman; Other Officers.

Joseph Chambers was elected foreman of Hose Company No. 2 of the South End, at the annual election of officers held last evening in the firehouse.

The other officers elected were: William P. Quish, first assistant; T. P. Holloran, second assistant; Joseph C. Wilson, secretary; David J. Dickson, treasurer; George H. Veitch and Fred Finnegan, auditors.

It was also voted to hold the annual outing of the Center Company on Saturday and Sunday, June 26-27. It will be held at Colt's Grove which lies between Hartford and Glastonbury.

QUAKE? NO, ELEPHANT! Sturgis, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. Orville Smithey were awakened one recent morning at 3 o'clock by their bed tilting. Earthquakes are not common in this district, so they investigated. On the front porch they found an elephant, pulling the pillars from the porch. The big fellow had escaped from a nearby circus.

HOSPITALS.

The Herald has no compunctions about expressing the opinion, quite candidly and without qualification, that the process by which Manchester Memorial Hospital has this year undertaken to obtain the funds to meet its unavoidable annual deficit is a completely mistaken one. And it is a mistake that would undoubtedly have been avoided had the intellect that conceived it been better acquainted with the practices of successful hospitals throughout the country; so far as their financing arrangements are concerned.

The object aimed at in this year's campaign is obvious enough. It was planned to tap the more prolific sources of revenue and tap them harder. This is the sort of thing to be expected of the business systematizer, the "efficiency expert," whose logic in such a case would be: "Why go to the trouble and expense of an elaborate publicity campaign, why put a lot of solicitors to work on the general public when, by an intensive hunt, we can sandbag all the big givers anyhow, selling them the necessity of coming across a little bigger to make up for the small fry who won't be solicited?"

That might be good stuff in a commercial proposition. But it so happens that a hospital is not a commercial proposition—and no hospital that is run on a commercial basis ever achieves true success as a humanitarian institution. Many of the very biggest hospitals in America, with millions in endowment and hundreds of thousands of income, would consider that they had been recanted to the purpose of their establishment if they did not show a financial deficit at the end of the year. They face such deficits—the result not of extravagance but of a broad and splendid charity—with entire equanimity because they know that they deserve public support and, deserving it, will get it to the last nickel of their needs.

But we never yet have heard of one of those institutions making a pussy-foot campaign for subscriptions.

There are two extremely good reasons why the business of chipping in to supply the deficit of a hospital is the concern of all the people. In the first place, any attempt to make a sort of close corporation of the financial supporters of a public hospital is absolutely certain to end in disaster—pecuniary disaster. The very persons upon whom membership in such a "close corporation" is wished will, in an extremely short time, revolt, justly feeling that the hospital management has no right, in order to save someone a little trouble, to depend on a small selective list of individuals whom it expects each year to give something more than their fair share. In the Manchester case it is somewhat better than certain that the list of contributors who have been milked for this year's fund will not stand a repetition of the dosage; many of them cannot afford it.

In the second place, there is no other way in which such a bond of understanding and sympathy can be established between a hospital and its board and the individual members of the community, as by having every one of those members feel that he has done something, at least, toward the maintenance of the institution, if it be only the gift of a dime. And to scoff at or ignore the importance and desirability of maintaining that kind of relationship between people and hospital is to confess to a very crude understanding of the whole subject.

Additionally there is the circumstance that the present scheme has not raised the money that was needed. It has come somewhere near its objectives, but it has not attained it. And with the right kind of a campaign, the open "drive," it would have been attained—and then some.

It is very much to be hoped that the board of the hospital will not fall into the error, another year, of permitting themselves to be talked into an injurious blunder.

Run your hospital, gentlemen, like a hospital, not like a foxy business enterprise. Then, if it goes broke, Manchester people, not a few but all of them, will dig to the bottoms of their pockets to make good the shortage—not of your hospital but of theirs.

SOME OTHER LEAGUE.

President Lowell of Harvard is one of the steadily decreasing number of Americans who still look forward to eventual entry into the League of Nations by the United States. "We are a sensible and practical people," he says, "and if the other governments hereafter shall resort to the League as a place for the discussion of the world's problems, if it becomes an international clearing house for all important differences, the United States will ultimately take her place in it by the very force of events. She will do so the sooner if Americans do not urge it exclusively on altruistic grounds."

However remote the fulfillment of Dr. Lowell's provisional prediction, this latter declaration of his is sound enough sense. It has been the very general impression in this country that participation in the League would bring responsibility, vexation and nothing whatever of advantage. There are not enough altruists among us to have such a situation appeal to the majority of the people.

Just at present it does not look as if the United States would ever join the existing League, or that there would presently be such a body to join. The raveling process begun by Brazil seriously endangers the whole structure.

But that there will be no international coalition containing practically all the great powers of Europe and Asia is not to be imagined. Probably, in the end, the fine dream of a great organization embracing all peoples, great and small, as was contemplated when the League was organized, will be abandoned, to be replaced by a more compact, if less theoretically moral, alliance of the superior powers which will undertake to keep not only themselves but the minor countries in order.

When such reorganization comes it will well behoove Americans to give close consideration to the situation before leaping at the conclusion that it is nothing for us.

We are rich and powerful, but once the major nations of Europe and Asia came into real accord with each other and into deliberate opposition to the outsider United States, as might well be the case, they could damage us enormously, even without thought of physical warfare. What a monetary congress of all the rest of the world could do to us, say ten or twenty years hence, by substituting some more scientific currency standard for gold and suddenly demonetizing the yellow metal, is alone very serious food for thought.

It is far from unlikely that America will enter some association of great powers—that she will be forced by her own interests to do so—in the course of time. But it will probably never be the existing League of Nations, which looks more and more like an experiment whose only success will be in leading to something more workable.

PERILS.

Anyone at all familiar with the methods of the Salvation Army will realize at once that only the gravest sense of danger to the young girls of America could have prompted that organization to give out for general publication in the daily press the figures showing the appalling increase in adolescent maternity that has resulted from the curse of the automobile pick-up. Those figures, printed in this newspaper yesterday, do not constitute pleasant reading. Newspapers do not relish the publication of such matter any better than the Salvation Army, as goes without saying, relished supplying the information for public dissemination.

But it is only by such means that there can be drawn an effective picture of the abominable situation in the midst of which millions of American girls are growing up. And unless such effective picture be drawn, and held up to the eyes of both parents and children, it is about impossible to see how any betterment in that situation can be brought about.

Whether all the old standards are toppling about our heads or not; whether the world and especially America, is simply undergoing a period of febrile excitement that will gradually subside as the effects of the war retreat farther and farther into the past, or on the contrary has suffered a permanent moral lesion, perhaps the future will disclose. But one thing is sure. If ever there was a time that called for utter frankness and understanding between girls and boys and their parents, when youth should be given the benefit of every last scrap of knowledge that their parents possess, it is right now.

Youth never stood in the midst of such dangers before—not in America. It is utterly unfair to expect it to withstand them blindfolded.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS
BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington, June 15.—Every family that ever wondered how it was going to pay the rent or shiver at the word mortgage will be interested in the proposal of Congressman Robert Crosser of Cleveland, O.

He would have the government do for the struggling homeowner what it already has done successfully for the farmer. His natural home loan bill would help people buy homes just as the farm loan act helps them buy farms. And he would put out of their jobs a lot of business boosters for whom he has no more respectful name than Shylocks.

"I began thinking about this question as a result of some law cases I have handled," Crosser tells you. "People have come to me for help after having made several 'Feds' payments on their homes."

"For some reason they have to sell and they can't even get back their original payment. Well, they have been charged interest at the full legal rate, whatever that is. Sometimes it is 8 per cent, sometimes 11 per cent. Then they have been charged a bonus or commission, which goes up to 30 or 40 per cent additional. It is plain usury, but it is being done."

24 Million Families

"Now if the government helps the farmers, as it should, why not the average family also? There are about six and a half million farms in the United States, but there are more than 24 million families that have to have homes."

The size of the group to whom appeal and promise is made by this bill is indicated by statistics of the census bureau. Of all the families in the United States, about 54 per cent live in rented houses, and of the others, 38 per cent have mortgages on their homes.

Those whose homes are mortgaged would be eager, Crosser figures, to exchange their present obligations of loans by the proposed national home loan bank.

One effect would be to force down the mortgage rates of private financial institutions. And presumably a vast army of folk who are struggling under the yoke of the rent collector would jump at the chance to own their own homes under conditions that placed them within reach.

The maximum interest charge from one of the proposed home loan banks would be 6 per cent. The total amount borrowed could be anywhere from $200 to $8,000, and Crosser is inclined to increase that total somewhat. The limit of borrowing would be 60 per cent of the total value of the home to be bought.

Home Loan Banks

To operate this project there would be a national home loan commission consisting of the secretary of the treasury and two other members. They would set up home loan banks in each state, with the government putting up what capital stock was not subscribed privately. Borrowers would organize themselves into home loan associations, through which the loans would be negotiated.

"The plan is as nearly the same as that of the farm loan banks as it could be made," says Representative Crosser. "I worked for the farms, and I am convinced it will work for homes. There is no validity in an objection that the government has its hands in enough enterprises now. If the government does not set up this means of help, which is needed, the people will go without the relief."

England has attempted to solve the problem by a housing law under which the government built homes and rented them to the people. That would not be acceptable here. This proposal is brand new. It has aroused such favorable attention that I think I am going to get a committee hearing on it, and you can be sure that some day it will go through."

DAILY POEM

MOTORING.

Says I to myself, well, today is the day to get a real rest in a sensible way. I'll tune up the car and I'll take all my gang, and I'll let all the worry and such things go by.

Course the kids and the wife are all glad to agree, so they pile in the bus in a hurry, an' gee, the thought of a trip in the out-of-doors bright is the sort of an outing that just hits me right.

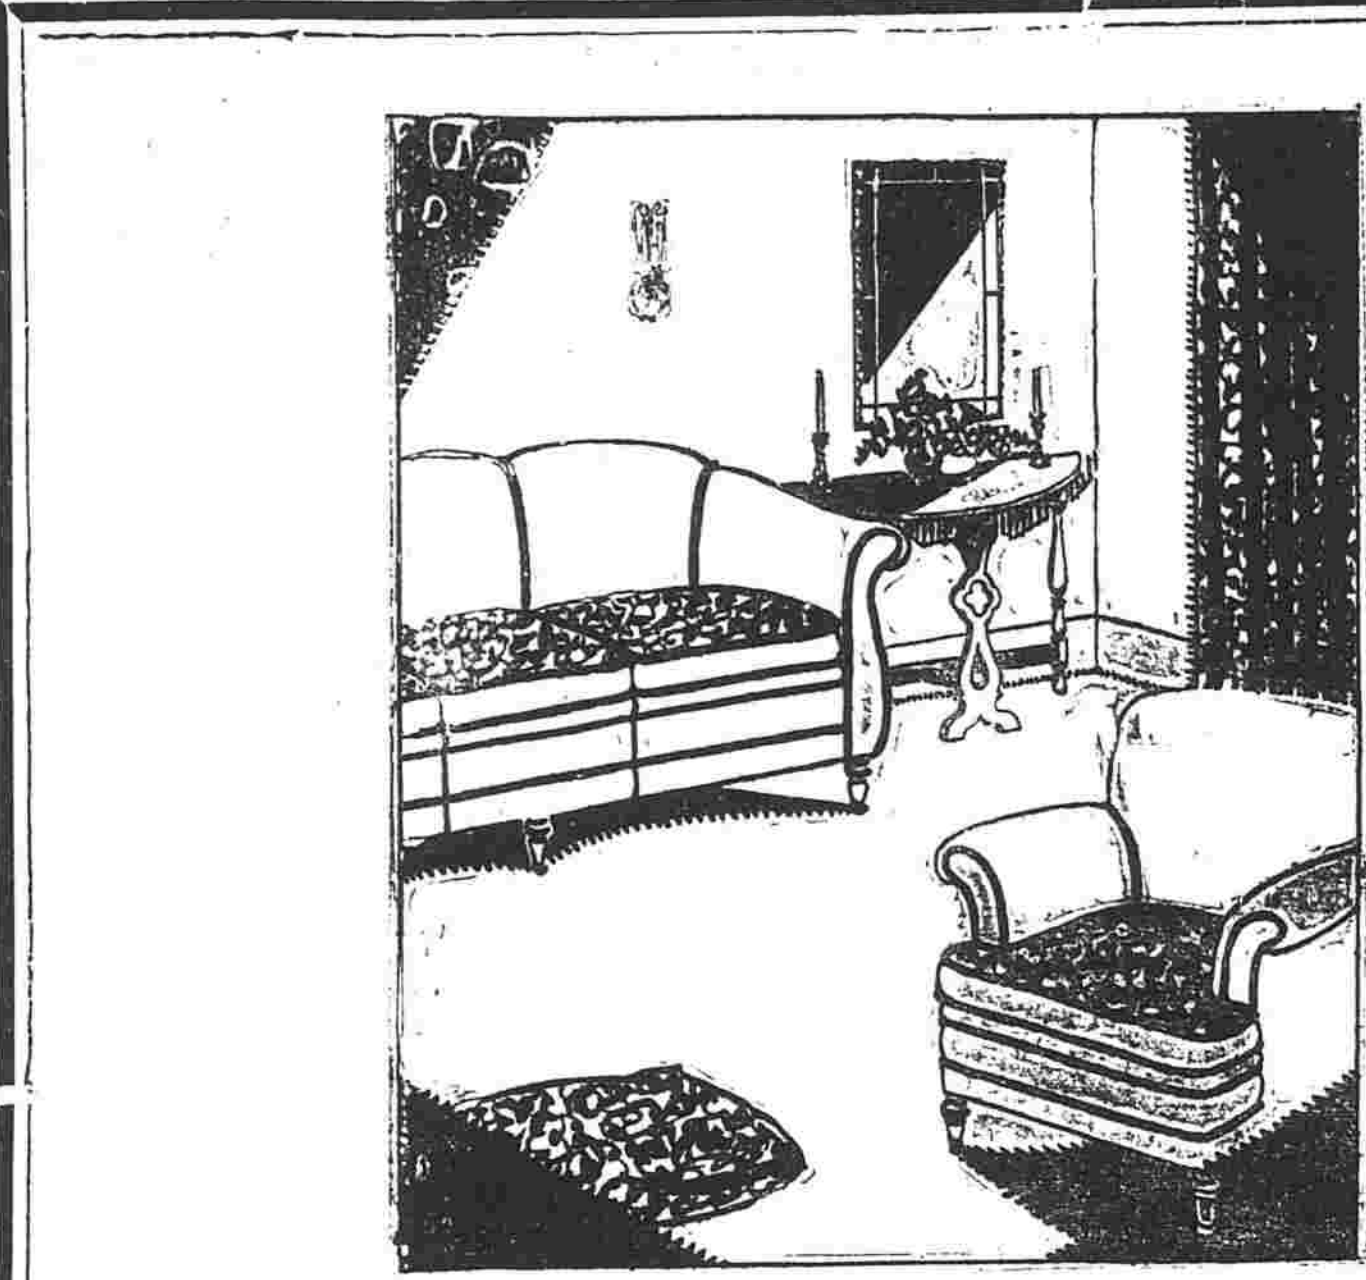

We rattle along on a wonderful street and I'm dodgin' the millions of autos we meet. The traffic is wild and it shortly appears that the buzzing and honking will deafen my ears.

We seek for a roadway where traffic is tame, but, shucks, all the others are doing the same. An untraveled highway? Fate laughs in my face, and I find, like all drivers, there is no such place.

We finally get home and I smile when I think how the plans for a rest-up have gone on the blink. My nerves are on edge and my eyesight is spent. I'm a blamed sight more tired than I was when I went.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 15.—One of the fascinations of Manhattan is its constant projection of the incongruous and contrastful.

In 31st street the fast growing skyline of the needle trades hides and all but seems to smother a little church.

The other day an errand took me to the twelfth story of one of the buildings that house the cloak and suit trade and its various spawn.

Looking down upon the street I saw the black dots moving back and forth—salesmen, models, advertising writers, artists, errand boys and all the rest. They moved to the feverish tempo of the city's symphony!

And upon a flat, square space on the roof of the church peeped a Franciscan monk, his prayer book in his hand, apparently oblivious to all that went on around. A half hour later I looked out, and he was still peering back and forth, his head lowered, his black garments caught in the wind—a seemingly incredible figure for such a background.

In the barber shop upon the corner I have often watched the莽莽 girl entertaining the stout "cloak and suit" gents who are its chief patrons.

Often I have overheard their invitations and watched her good-natured dismissal.
One would say, at a glance, that she is to be placed under the heading of "hard boiled."

The other day few customers were in the place and she was sewing. The article upon which she was working was a tiny, silk baby's dress. And she seemed, to my unpracticed eye, to be expert with the needle.

Anything that recalls the "days when" is certain to get a hearty welcome in New York.

Just around the corner from the heart of Eighth Avenue a tiny carnival operates on a vacant lot. A merry-go-round wheezes and catches pennies game firm a circle, with hams and bacons and other country-fair prizes as a lure.

Folk come down from Fifth Avenue and from Broadway, just as they once rushed over to Main street, Podunk, when the carnival came to town.

And little one-ring circuses pitch their tents out on Jackson Heights, Astoria, or Great Neck and catch throngs of Broadwayites who motor out in an effort to recapture a moment from their youth.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature Association

Mosses are of many species, and their presence adds much to the beauty of the forest, and to its usefulness.

They are thought to have been derived from the algae, and have modified their structure to enable them to withstand drought. They still like moisture, however, and are at their best when well supplied with it.

The floor of a forest that is well covered with moss holds the water like a sponge, letting it flow off gradually, to be used as it is needed by the other plants, and so preventing floods and erosion.

Often, too, a thick bed of green moss will stop a fire, by virtue of the moisture which it holds. A bed of moss is like a forest in miniature, displaying beauties of form and color unsurpassed in charm and interest.

The age-long accumulation of mosses of the sphagnum type has resulted in the formation of the vast beds of peat found in many northern countries, and which furnish fuel for the people of sparsely wooded sections.

Sphagnum is most useful as an antiseptic dressing for wounds, and was gathered in large quantities in Europe during the World War for this purpose.

In the swamps of our northern states large quantities of this moss are still found but these deposits are rapidly being depleted on a wholesale scale by florists, who use it for packing plants and cut flowers for shipment. Undue exploitation of these accumulations of many years will result in the extermination of many interesting bog plants.

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

Field Day exercises for the primary and grammar grades of the Center District were held in the afternoon on Friday. Mabel Porter won the 50 yard dash. Adam Kowalski the 60 yard dash. Harriet Porter won the basketball throw for distance and Adam Kowalski the baseball throw for distance. All the other events were team work. They consisted of a potato race a sack race, running and catching basketball, and a three legged race. The Field Day meet taking in all the schools of the town, which has usually been held at this season will be held next fall in connection with the school fair.

The American Legion boys were busy Friday afternoon putting in place on the plot of ground near the soldiers' memorial monument, a relic of the Civil War in the shape of an old iron cannon. This relic of the War of the Rebellion had been stored for many years in the basement of the town hall. One time it was considered quite a disturbance of the peace. A few days ago it was dragged from its hiding place to be given a place of honor. The boys say, "honor bright" and are more for they are going to cement it into place and spike so it can't be fired.

The condition of the road running west from the center toward Marlborough is causing much criticism. Strangers not informed of the detour which skirts around this bad hill are unprepared for it and on several occasions have nearly come to grief with their cars. This bit of road has not been worked for some years and is supposed to be closed by order of the town. Most people know this and avoid it, but fencing off or more conspicuous signs seem to be called for before serious trouble occurs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Browning and friends of Norwich Town were callers on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Miner. The Sunday school of St. Peter's church was closed for the summer last Sunday. It will reopen next fall.

Peter Smith of New London visited on Sunday his children who are boarding in Hopevale.

Mrs. Everett G. Lord and her daughter, Mrs. Lucius Robinson spent several days the first of the week as the guest of Miss Clarissa Lord, Mrs. Lord's daughter, at the Connecticut College for Women at New London, to be present at the social affairs of commencement. Mr. Lord and other relatives also attended the exercises in Barre, Vermont Sunday and at the graduation on Tuesday. Miss Lord is one of the graduates.

WAPPING

At the Federated church last Sunday morning there was about 120 people to listen to the programs as given by the children. The program opened with a well-known song by the Sunday school followed by Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Truman H. Wood. A recitation by Elizabeth Pierce entitled "The Loveliest Flower of All" was followed by a reception to the Cradle Roll members and their parents and the baptism of three little babies, Dorothy Katherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Smiler, Jr., Betty Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wellman Burnham and Shirley Ellen Mabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson. The graduating exercises will be held next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, standard time, at Wapping Center school hall. An operetta, "The Windmills of Holland" will be presented. There are twenty-five graduates in the class of 1926.

Harvey Buckland, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Buckland, of Foster street, broke his arm last Wednesday evening by falling down stairs at his new home.

At the Federated church Sunday evening there were some very fine pictures especially interesting for the children also a story and illustrated song. Mr. Dukes from a college of the South sang four very fine solos which were greatly enjoyed by the large audience.

Monday's issue of The Herald stated that the baseball game between Talcottville and Manchester Green took place on Sunday afternoon. This is an error; the Talcottville team does not play Sunday baseball. The game took place on Saturday afternoon.

Los Angeles—Frank Glasser, undertaker, was placed in the jail stockade as a speeder. Tired of his confinement he leaped back in a prodigious yawn. A few moments later he was in an ambulance, being rushed to Receiving hospital. It took surgeons twenty minutes to repair the dislocation so Glasser could close his mouth.

WET OR DRY IS ISSUE IN ILLINOIS VOTING

Springfield, Ill.—Wet or dry? This question is expected to be uppermost in the minds of Illinois voters when they march to the polls next November to cast their ballots for United States Senator.

Carrying a dripping-wet banner, George E. Brennan heads the Democrats, carrying a wet platform. Col. Frank L. Smith, Dwight, Ill., who defeated U. S. Senator William B. McKinley for the Republican nomination at the primaries, is leading his party.

What the vote will show in Illinois is problematical. For Brennan and his men look for little support in the down-state and hope that the larger cities, with Chicago at their head, will register their opposition to prohibition by giving him a substantial lead over his opponent.

As is customary, the first gun will be fired at the Illinois State Fair in August. Wednesday will be Democratic Day and Brennan and other party leaders are expected here to rally their supporters.

Political clouds have appeared on the Republican horizon in Cook County, casting their shadow of coming factional trouble. This will be one of the things which the party leaders will have to straighten out to insure a united party at the polls in November.

London—A plumber's mate, lacking a match, stooped to pick up a match-box in the gutter. But there wasn't a match in it. What he found was a pearl necklace, valued at 135,000 pounds.

CELOTEX INSULATING LUMBER

Liberty's Model Homes

All being built with an Amazing Lumber!

THESE HOMES, featured by LIBERTY MAGAZINE, will be summer-cool, winter-warm, stronger and quieter. Their owners will save money. Each is a thoroughly typical American home, built in accordance with American standards of taste and comfort.

The owners of every one of these houses are building with an amazing heat-stopping lumber! For they realize that wood, brick, plaster, concrete, etc., do not effectively keep sun heat from beating in or furnace heat from leaking out. This lumber is Celotex. It is not cut from trees, but is manufactured from the long, tough fibres of

Manchesters Lumber Co. South Manchester, Conn. Phone 201

THE HISTORY OF THESE FOUR HOUSES

The history of these four houses is interesting. Last Fall, Liberty published an article describing one woman's experience in building a home. Thousands of letters were received asking for more articles on this fascinating subject—and so Liberty decided to "adopt" four homes in-the-making. From the hundreds of homes offered for "adoption," four were selected, varying in cost and type of construction. They are widely separated geographically. For sixteen weeks, beginning June 12th, Liberty is following the building of these homes in a series of articles which contain practical, helpful suggestions on the subject nearest the heart of every American family—a home of enduring comfort.

If you have not read these articles, be sure to see the current issue of Liberty—on the news-stands now. offers advantages found in no other building material. Unlike ordinary insulation, Celotex is not an extra item in building. Wherever used, in the walls, roof and ceiling of a house, it replaces one or more other materials, and actually saves money.

Smaller, less expensive heating plants keep Celotex houses warm. And year after year, their owners will save from 25% to 35% of their fuel bills! These great advantages are available right now for every home, new or old. No one can afford to build or buy a house today without full knowledge of Celotex. Let us tell you more about it.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA — Betsy Ross (3)

—By Redner

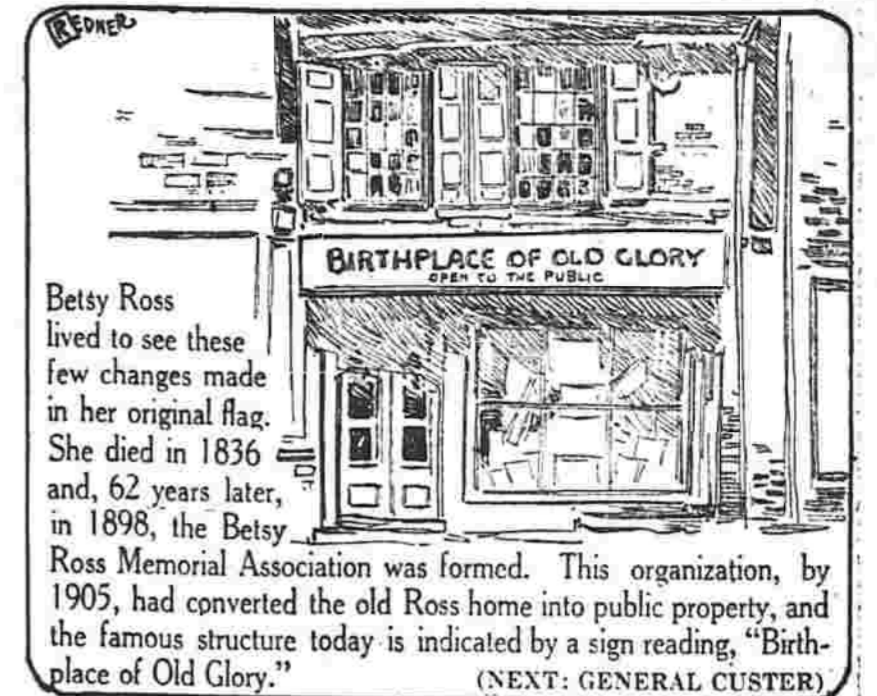

Old Glory, as Betsy Ross fashioned it, was then approved, and she received a contract to make all the government flags. She continued in this business nearly 50 years, and her daughter carried on until 1857. The flag remained unchanged until some time in 1795, when Vermont and Kentucky were admitted to the Union. Then two more stars and two more stripes were added.

The last change affecting Old Glory was embodied in an act of Congress, passed April 4, 1818, and provided for the return to the original 13 horizontal red and white stripes.

It also called for the addition of a new star on the admission of every new state. Under this ruling, our present American flag now contains 48 stars and 13 stripes.

Betsy Ross lived to see these few changes made in her original flag. She died in 1836 and, 62 years later, in 1898, the Betsy Ross Memorial Association was formed. This organization, by 1905, had converted the old Ross home into public property, and the famous structure today is indicated by a sign reading, "Birthplace of Old Glory." (NEXT: GENERAL CUSTER)

CLARA BOW'S KISS REASON ENOUGH

Savage Not Crazy, Jury Decides, for Seeking Death After That Sort.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 15.—All Hollywood was today discussing the kiss that Clara Bow, beautiful Titian-haired film actress, gave Robert S. Savage, former Yale athlete, who attempted suicide when the actress later spurned his love and as a result had to stand trial as to his sanity.

After a witness had testified that Miss Bow kissed Savage so fiercely that Savage's lips ached for two days, a jury in Judge Gates' court ruled that Savage was sane.

Gus Patterson, a chum of Savage, gave the testimony regarding the kissing episode. While he testified, Savage, with a horrified expression on his face, waved at him to stop, but Patterson continued his tale to the jury.

Sore Mouth.

"It was at a party Clara gave in her Laurel Canyon home," Patterson said, "Bob had only met her a couple of days before and she invited him out. He didn't like the people at the party so he stayed in a hammock on the front porch.

"Clara went out to him there. I walked out and saw them kissing then. She kissed him so hard his lips were sore for two days. I heard Clara tell Bob she didn't love the fellow she was going with—he was too conceited."

Not So At All.

Miss Bow also took the witness stand and told her side of the romance with young Savage. She denied the love scene described by Patterson and said all that happened was that Savage told her she was "very, very nice little girl and I like you a lot."

Her Ankles Win!

SWEETSER, GOLF VICTOR, IS STILL VERY SICK

New York, June 15.—Jess W. Sweetser was at his home in Bronxville today. The champion returned on the Aquitania last week, suffering from influenza and laryngitis and was taken at once to the Lawrence hospital at Bronxville. He was permitted to go home yesterday but no visitors will be admitted to the sick room for some days.

Physicians said Sweetser was completely worn out from the strain of winning the championship at Muirfield.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday afternoon in the school street rec. auditorium the fifth of the series of Freshman assemblies, being conducted by different Freshman classes, was held under the auspices of Miss Hopkins' Freshman Division Seven English class.

Before the actual assembly got under way Mr. Proctor opened the assembly with a Scripture reading. Following this he read the Flag Day proclamation issued by Governor Trumbull. Lead by Collins Driggs, the assemblage then sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Hopkins' class then presented as their program a one act comedy entitled "Come into the Kitchen." The cast was as follows: Grandmother Bustle.....

Florence Schieldege
Mrs. Bustle..... Helen Russell
Mary Bustle..... Laura West
Hazy Black..... Elizabeth La Shay
Biddy O'Rafferty..... Ruth Russell
Kitty Clover..... Marjory Pitkin
Miss Van Rensaler..... Margaret Merrer
Miss Bridget McGuire..... Evelyn Johnson

The story of the play was a family that had to solve the problem of getting a cook that could cook a "Topsy Pudding" whatever that may be or have been. Mr. Bustle had invited some guests home to dinner, and had ordered a Topsy pudding ready to be served with a leg of roast when he should get home with his guests. Mrs. Bustle, his wife, played very well by Helen Russell, had had the misfortune that must come to every housewife sooner or later; this is she had lost the services of her cook. Her daughter who was one of the modern flappers who don't flap in the kitchen, at least her mother thought she didn't, or wouldn't, thought that she could probably roast the leg of mutton, but when it came to making a Topsy pudding she was decidedly "stuck."

Grandmother Bustle, very excellently played by Florence Schieldege, the Freshman Ethel Barrymore, was of the opinion that one of her old favorite puddings would do just as well, if not better. However, Mrs. Bustle was not of the same opinion, and decided to send to the employment bureau to secure a cook. Consequently she sent Hazy Black, well played by Elizabeth La Shay, to "Show them up" as they came to inquire for the position.

The first one to apply was Biddy O'Rafferty. This part was taken by Ruth Russell. Biddy was fresh from the "old sod," and declared she could cook anything that people make a pretense at cooking—even a Topsy pudding. She was then hired, and went in company with Mary Bustle to the kitchen to prepare the meal. Like the cooks we see in the funny papers, she upset everything and had an explanation for doing so. Her quite logical definition of a Topsy pudding was a decidedly hard boiled one to sober men up. Disgusted by her "gross language," Mrs. Bustle discharged her.

The next applicant was Kitty Clover, a regular haysed cook from Coventry. Grandmother Bustle immediately opined that Kitty was the very person for the job, because she came from Grandmother's old home town, "Coventry." Since she disdained the idea of a Topsy pudding, Mrs. Bustle failed to take the elder Mrs. Bustle's advice, and would have no more of Kitty.

Following her Miss Van Rensaler appeared on the scene. She adorned poets, and soon let everyone there know of it. For every question asked her she had a quotation from some poet as a ready answer. Margaret Merrer did a fine bit of work as Miss Van Rensaler. Mrs. Bustle, not interested the least in poets, asked her if she could make a Topsy pudding. The grave Miss was shocked at the idea of "an inebriated pudding," and left right then and there.

The last to apply was Miss Bridget McGuire, Bridget, a native of Harpland, was very self-assuming, and caused poor Grandmother quite a bit of discomfort in making caustic inquiries to her expressed opinions. This role was well taken by Evelyn Johnson. Only a lack of restraint prevented Miss Johnson from doing the finest bit of acting in the entire play. The arrival of a telegram from Mr. Bustle, after Mrs. Bustle had just about decided to hire Miss Bridget because she claimed to know how to make a Topsy pudding, stating that he would not bring home his guests, led to Miss McGuire's immediate and informal command to retrace her steps.

Then Mrs. Bustle decided that her daughter Mary should learn how to cook, and, since she had no objections, Mary "went into the kitchen."

Since there are so many of these one act comedies being presented now by the Freshmen, here are bound to be some better than others. Yesterday's play was not quite as good, perhaps, as "Station YYY," which, in the opinion of the writer, has been the best yet produced, but it certainly runs it a very close second. The acting of Florence Schieldege in the extremely difficult role of Grandmother Bustle, was about the brightest spot in the play. Very good, too, was the work of Margaret Merrer as Miss Van Rensaler. The other actresses all did creditable work, and the play as a whole was a quite successful presentation, especially in view of the fact that but a short time and almost no coaching was spent on it. It was an amusing farce, and kept the audience in a happy mood.

After the presentation of the play, two books, illustrated copies of the "Odyssey" and "Kidnapped" were given by the Aetna Club to the school library. Then Mr. Proctor announced that a banner for attendance had been made by the art class, and was to have been presented to the room having the best attendance for the month of May, but since rooms twenty four and six were tied for honors, he said that the banner might be displayed in each of the room a week. It was announced that the program for the sixth of the series of assemblies would be held on Wednesday, and would be in the hands of room thirteen. It is understood that another one act play will be presented, but details could not be learned today.

Since all of us are human, even we newspaper reporters fall into the depths occasionally, and your humble servant, this writer, fell very low last week. It was announced in Friday's "Herald" that "Bob" Treat's horse accompanied the Argonaut Club on its picnic excursion to the wilds of Highland Park on Wednesday afternoon, but "Bob" Glenn came around this morning with a war club and feathers, looking for this writer's scalp. He defiantly declared that it was his Dobbin that went with the club Wednesday, and no "Bob Treat's" at all. Now, we are extremely sorry for having made the unfavorable blunder of misrepresenting poor old Dobbin—whoo! Glenn informed us that Dobbin isn't the horse's name at all, as we at first anticipated. He says that it is Mary Ann, or something like that. Well, anyhow, Dobbin, or Mary Ann (not Mary Ann Dentler) or whatever the equine's monicker may be, he belongs to "Bob" Glenn, and not "Bob" Treat. And that's that.

It is understood that the Seniors will hold a Class Night Promenade on the evening of June eighteenth, in the High school assembly hall. Details, however, have not yet been completed.

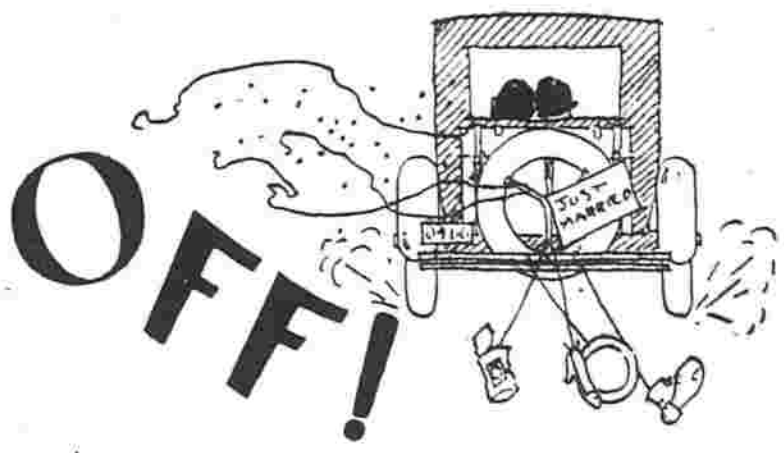

The tennis team, by defeating Bristol yesterday afternoon, claim the state championship. Therefore we have three groups of champions among us—the Boys' Glee club; the Track Team and the Tennis Team. Our chests are swelling rapidly.

"Dr. Nick" Now

Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the House of Representatives in cap and gown addressing New York University graduates after receiving an honorary degree from the institution at the annual commencement ceremony.

VERNON CENTER

The cafeteria supper, given by the Christian Endeavor society on Friday evening under the charge of Mrs. Edward Baker, drew enough patronage to consume the varied elements of the menu provided. It was followed by a varied entertainment. A piano duet was rendered by Mrs. Henry Larson and Miss Julia Abigail Ellis. Miss Eleanor Hansen sang "Rushan Beg" from Tennyson. Mr. Wendell Smith played several harmonica solos. These performers were each called in rotation for additional parts. Mr. E. H. Mr. Clifford Knight, caused much merriment by chalk talk, drawing cartoons with flashes of humor. Miss Hansen sang "Long Long Ago," and the entertainment concluded with a harmonica solo, "Good Night Ladies."

The home wedding of Miss Jean Doris Webster and Mr. John William Schweitzer of Rockville was charmingly solemnized at the home of the bride's father, Mr. George Webster on Saturday afternoon, Pastor Ellis officiating. The bride's niece, Ann Webster led the entrance procession, carrying flowers, while the wedding march was played by Miss Edna Cutler. The attendants were Mr. Nelson Mead groomsmen and Miss Katherine Schweitzer, bridesmaid.

The bridesmaid wore Nile green georgette crepe and a yellow picture hat. She and the little flower girl carried each a bouquet of sweet peas. The bride wore a pinkish georgette crepe with a picture grey hat and carried a bouquet of cream colored roses. The groom's gift to his bestman was a Masonic ring.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a bracelet and to the pianist a crystal choker. After a happy hour of fellowship, supper was served to the guests, the parents and close family connections and the married pair started on their wedding trip amid a shower of confetti, and many heart-wishes for their happiness in years to come.

Consolation From Experience

Eucharistic Program At Chicago To Open In Presence of Million

(This is the fifth of a series of articles by Eugene Weare dealing with the international Eucharistic Congress, which is to be held in Chicago, June 20-24, and which, it is expected, will bring to that city more than 1,000,000 Catholics from all parts of the world.)

By EUGENE WEARE, Noted War Correspondent, Journalist and Author.

Copyright, 1926: The I. N. S.

Chicago.—In all that has to do with the Eucharistic congress, which is to be held at Chicago, June 20-24, it is important to emphasize that the undertaking is purely a spiritual one. It is really a demonstration of faith in that, to Catholics, is the central fact of all their worship and belief.

The program of the congress is a sort of combination of spiritual exercises and ceremonies coupled with a series of meetings and deliberations upon the many aspects and phases of the Catholic dogma of the Blessed Eucharist.

On the opening day of the congress it is planned to have 1,000,000 people in attendance, an undertaking which is decidedly unique and distinctive to Catholic practice and devotion. A Spiritual Bouquet of 1,000,000 communions will be tendered to Pope Pius XI, the spiritual father of three hundred millions of the world's peoples, as a tribute of love and filial homage from the congressists assembled at Chicago.

Spiritual Bouquet.
The idea behind this spiritual bouquet is a tribute extending to the full meaning and significance. This done, however, one is certain to be profoundly impressed if not actually roused to a high pitch of admiration and enthusiasm because of the beautiful thought behind it.

Now, everybody knows what a bouquet is and the fine spirit of affection and good will which prompts us on unusual occasions to tender a tribute of flowers to those we love or esteem. We have a practice nowadays of remembering both our living and our dead with beautiful floral tributes on special occasions, important anniversaries, etc.

A Spiritual Bouquet is an offering, not of flowers, but rather of prayers and spiritual graces as a tribute of love or affection. It is a practice among Catholics to tender these spiritual offerings, one to another, on outstanding occasions, and the popularity of this practice has grown enormously in recent years.

Church Teachings.
But to really understand the full import of a Spiritual Bouquet it is necessary that something be said regarding the teaching of the Catholic church in the matter of the Eucharist. It is Catholic teaching and belief that Christ, on the night before He died, at the Last Supper, gave to the world for all time His "Body to eat and His Blood to drink." On that memorable occasion, while at supper, He "took bread and blessed it and broke it and gave it to His brethren and said: "Take ye and eat; This is My Body." Then, taking a cup of the wine "and giving thanks, He blessed it and gave to His disciples and said: "Take ye and drink ye all of this; This is My Blood." Now, it is Catholic belief, that, in doing this, Christ changed the bread and wine into His own Body and Blood. The Catholic church teaches that at this time the bread and wine actually became the Body and Blood of Christ, and is looked upon by Catholics as the first mass, Christ Himself, being the celebrant priest.

Carrying Out Communion.
Catholics maintain that it was Christ's purpose to perpetuate this transubstantiation and that when He added: "Do this in commemoration of Me." He not only authorized and empowered His disciples and their successors to do likewise but that He ordained and commanded them to do so.

In carrying out this command of Christ, mass is celebrated at which, according to Catholic teaching, the bread and wine are again changed, by the power of God, into the Body and Blood of Christ. It is believed that, at the words of consecration uttered by the celebrant priest of the mass, the bread and wine actually become the "Body and Blood of Christ, His soul and divinity," and that all that remains thereafter is but the appearance of bread and wine. In the Catholic interpretation of this dogma of the Eucharist the words "Body and Blood" are accepted literally and not symbolically. It is Catholic belief that, in the Eucharist, Christ is just as truly and actually present and living as ever He was in Bethlehem or on Calvary.

The Catholic church makes it a rule everlastingly to urge her children frequently to receive the Eucharist and excommunicates those who do not do so at least once a year.

The Holy Communion.
This reception of the Eucharist is spoken of generally as the Holy Communion.—a communion, as it were, with Christ Himself. When a Catholic, certain of God's friendship through the sacrament of penance, or confession, approaches the altar with seeking a closer union with Christ, that which appears to be but a small wafer of bread, is, to him, because of his faith in Christ's institution, nothing less than Christ Himself. And just so long as he remains in the state of grace, which is the term used to describe the condition of the soul free from the stain of grievous sin, Christ remains with that soul who thus stands in great favor with Christ and whose prayer is all the more enhanced in worth.

And this brings us back to the Spiritual Bouquet. We proffer flowers to those we love on outstanding occasions. Catholics proffer prayers and the benefits that follow from spiritual graces and call the offering a spiritual bouquet. Because of the Living Presence of Christ in the soul and the intimate communion which exists as the result of the reception of the Eucharist, the prayers of such are believed to be most efficacious and pleasing in the sight of Almighty God.

1,000,000 to Attend.
On the occasion of the opening of the Eucharist congress at Chicago, it is planned to have 1,000,000 Catholics receive the Eucharist and to plead with Christ to accept the spiritual graces due to each and apply them to what has been referred to as the intention of the Pope. The plan is a sort of spiritual "drive" to gather all possible prayers for the Supreme Pontiff in the hope that the particular purpose to which he may seek to apply these may be realized. No intimation has been given of the particular intention of the Pope, though rumor has it that the prayers assembled by the faithful at Chicago will be offered to Almighty God in a humble plea for world peace and the re-establishment of Christian belief and practice in the hearts of all men, in all climes.

Church Teachings.
But to really understand the full import of a Spiritual Bouquet it is necessary that something be said regarding the teaching of the Catholic church in the matter of the Eucharist. It is Catholic teaching and belief that Christ, on the night before He died, at the Last Supper, gave to the world for all time His "Body to eat and His Blood to drink." CECIL LEITCH—CONFIDENCE IN PUTTING.
There are women players who go up to the ball and put without any hesitancy. The results are so good at times that it makes the ordinary mortal wonder whether she ought to adopt a similar casual manner, but in the long run a strong combination of determination and concentration on the green will reap its reward. Speaking of my own experience I am convinced that my mind is not on the task in hand half the time. I am endowed with a particularly keen sense of hearing and, when playing before a crowd, I constantly find myself listening to whispered remarks when I should be concentrating to an extent which would make this eaves-dropping impossible.
I am constantly asked why I do not learn to putt, but few people realize how difficult it is to practice this part of the game. To my mind there is nothing simpler than to put approach putts steeper than dead and hole out with regularity from a reasonable distance when nothing is dependent upon the result.
It is a very different story in an important event, for then the yard put is doubly difficult and the long approach putts become terrifying.

COLUMBIA

Rev. and Mrs. Wain and Mrs. Ingram returned Thursday evening after spending several days at Groton Point, in the house belonging to Mrs. Ruth Jacobs.
The Ladies Aid Society connected with the Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Hutchins at Chestnut Hill. 24 ladies being present. After a brief business meeting a social hour was enjoyed, and refreshments were served by the hosts.

Several Columbia people were among those to attend the performance of the Sells Pinto Circus held in Willimantic Monday.
Mrs. H. W. Porter was given a surprise party in honor of her birthday Monday night last.
The Russell K. Bourne Post, No. 23, D. S. C., American Legion of Willimantic held their annual outing at Columbia Lake Saturday afternoon. A chicken dinner was served at Hillcrest by Mrs. Nordlund.

Ten young ladies from Hartford are occupying one of Brown's bungalows at the lake for over the weekend.
Howard Wolf of Westfield, Mass., is visiting his brother, William Wolf.
Seven teachers from Willimantic are in the bungalow belonging to Grace Randall for a week-end party.

Mrs. Rogers Hayden, Jr., of Hartford, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Tucker.
Mrs. W. H. Carpenter of Muncie, Ind., has opened her Columbia home arriving Friday night.
The graduating exercises of the Columbia schools will be held in the church next Friday night. There are 10 pupils to graduate, five from Center school, three from Pine street school and one each from Hop River Village and Old Hop River district.

A play "The Masonic Ring" was given by players from South Coventry at the town hall Friday evening to a large and appreciative audience. The play was splendidly given, the actors showing good training. Columbia's share of the proceeds will go to the Columbia Improvement Society.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. D. V. Wain, preached on the text, "Men ought always to pray and not to faint." During the service four children were presented by their parents for baptism, Wesley Gordon Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Collins of Hartford; Jane Collins Lyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lyman; Evelyn H. Henneguin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucine Henneguin and Virginia May Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Collins.

Columbia has the distinction of being the first of the rural towns in this vicinity if not in all Connecticut to hold a Dental Clinic for the school children. The matter was discussed at a recent meeting of the School Board, at which time it was stated by the school nurse, Margaret Danahy, that the majority of the children were sadly in need of dental care. The board voted to have the movement to bring a dentist to the children. Mrs. Francis Dixon Welch offering to guarantee the raising of the necessary funds. The money is being raised by popular subscription, no one being asked for more than one dollar. The response has been very gratifying, owing to the refusal to help. The work has been done by Dr. Parent of Putnam, who has had many years of experience in working with school children. The work being somewhat of an experiment, it was not known to what extent the parents would co-operate, but the interest shown has much exceeded expectation. Miss Danahy reports that every child in two of the schools were treated by Dr. Parent. In three schools 95 per cent were treated. In one school, owing to a misunderstanding as to what the dentist would visit them, the children had been dismissed, and only 50 per cent could be reached. In addition to the school children, one mother and 15 children of the pre-school age were treated, a total of 115 in all. This work is receiving much favorable comment among neighboring towns, and it is expected that next year several of them will also take up this much needed work among the children.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moeller of Jewett City were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchins at Chestnut Hill.
The leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening was Mrs. Raymond Lyman, and her subject was "How to get things done."
Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lyman of Hartford spent the week-end with relatives in town.
The warm weather Sunday brought many visitors to the lake, a steady procession of cars going through the Green, especially going to the lake in the morning and returning in the late afternoon.

RICKARD BRINGS IN HIS OLD CAT TODAY

Wills or No Wills It Looks Like There's Going to Be a Fight—Maybe.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, June 14.—This is to be the day of ruthless reckoning when Tex Rickard is to report "progress" to the State Athletic Commission on the matting of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills presumably by announcing that he has signed the champion to defend his title against Gene Tunney at the Yankee Stadium on September 16. So much for progress.

Whether Rickard expects to get away with this program or not, the abiding fact of the matter is that Harry Wills' chances of meeting Dempsey are no better at this moment than they ever were, which means that they are passing bad.

DEMPSY-TUNNEY MATCH WITH AN AIR OF SOLVING THE GREAT DIFFICULTY.

The chairman is all for a show-down of cold hands but my guess is that cold feet will figure very prominently in the outcome. One or the other of them must recede from his stand.

The situation is briefly this: Rickard informed the commission some five weeks ago that he had signed Dempsey to defend his title in September but declined to divulge the name of his opponent. However, it is public property that Tunney is signed with Rickard and Wills is not.

The latter has a challenge to Dempsey filed with the commission and Farley has threatened that, unless the deal is honored, he will "break" Rickard or resign his post. The same threat holds good in the event that Rickard, having been voted down by the board, decides to take his match to another state.

Brower Says.
However, George E. Brower, another member of the commission and a lawyer, at that, has declared that Farley has no authority to interfere with Rickard's activities outside New York. Brower was the forgetful gentleman who, with William Muldoon, voted Dempsey eligible one fine day last summer during Farley's absence and then permitted the incident to slip his mind entirely.

Some days ago, in Brower's absence, Farley caused to be passed a resolution demanding that Dempsey take definite action on the Wills issue by June 22 or suffer the consequences. Muldoon voted for this measure but William used to be a wrestler and his footwork still is excellent. In the event of a show-down, he is likely to recant and vote for Rickard. The records show that Brower is for anything provided it happens in this state.

The one remaining hurdle is Col. John Phelan, chairman of the license committee. He can refuse Dempsey a license here on the ground that less majesty has been committed by the side-tracking of Wills. He also can tell Rickard, as licensed matchmaker for the Yankee Stadium, just how he should comport himself. The chances are the Colonel will do neither.

The world's champion Pirates failed to impress the fast-stepping Braves, who beat them three to two behind Larry Benton's twirling. Eddie Brown's triple featured an attack on Emil Yde which sewed up the game.

The Cubs had to pound out four homers to subdue the Phillies, nine to seven. Riggs Stephenson continued his sensational slugging by pulling out two circuit clouts and Wrightstone hit one with the bases full for the Phils.

Brooklyn snapped the winning streak of the Cardinals, 8 to 5, and pulled a triple play on the Red birds in the bargain. Bob McCard did all the pitching for the Dodgers and went the route with the aid of homers by Herman and Felix.

The Athletics passed up another chance to gain ground by losing to the Indians, 6 to 5, for the third time in a row. Cleveland advanced to second place while the Athletics dropped to fourth.

The Tigers put on an old-fashioned Detroit rally in the eighth inning, scoring four runs and noing out the Red Sox, eight to seven.

A triple by Florence enabled the Giants to down the Reds again, four to three. Chick Davies, called to the mound with the bases full and one out, stopped the Reds deader than mackerel and got the verdict over Pete Donohue.

Pospisil Strikes Out 103 Batters In 8 Ball Games

TRADE SCHOOL PITCHER ENTERS HALL OF FAME

Has Averaged Almost Fifteen Strikeouts Per Game; Thurz Also Has Fine Record—Three More Games to Play—Still Undefeated.

"Rudy" Pospisil, ace of the pitching staff of the local State Trade school, has stamped himself as one of the leading strike-out artists in schoolboy sports. He has retired 103 batters on strikes in the eight games in which he has participated. To be exact, Pospisil has pitched 65 full innings. During this time he has allowed but 33 hits and has issued only eleven free tickets. The averages show Pospisil has allowed one hit to every 1.97 innings; a base on balls every 5.9 innings and a run every 3.25 innings.

Averages 15 Strikeouts
In only one of the seven full games, Pospisil has pitched less than ten batters. That was in Simsbury where he fanned nine batters. His highest list of victims and one which incidentally surpasses the great record set by Lefty Briggs of Middletown High school, was performed against Glastonbury High in the opening game of the season here when he retired 21 batters on strikes. Pospisil has averaged almost 15 strikeouts a game.

Thurz Also Brilliant
Pospisil is credited with seven of the ten consecutive victories the Mechanics have registered so far this season. Sammy Thurz is credited with the remaining three. The latter has pitched 21 full innings, has allowed 19 hits, passed but four batters and has retired 27 on strikes. He has allowed one hit in every 1.11 innings; one base on balls in every 5.25 innings and one run in every 2.11 innings.

Hit Hard, Too
It has been the making of their pair that has been the outstanding feature of the great season which Coach John Echmalian's charges are having. Both Pospisil and Thurz have been hitting extra hard in addition to giving their fine exhibition on the mound. Thurz has been the more dependable of the two in the pinches but Pospisil has the higher batting average.

The State Trade school nine has but three more games to be played. They go to Colchester to meet Bacon Academy Thursday afternoon and then engage New Britain State Trade school here a week from today and then close the season in Bridgeport against the Trade school of that place a week from Friday.

He remained with the Reds until the winter of 1921 when another exchange took him back to New York. Groh was a sterling fielder and fair clubber, but during the last two seasons had slowed up considerably.

Billy Evans Says

Waddell's Feat.
Eighteen years ago, Rube Waddell struck out 16 batters in an American League game. That is the best modern day record for whiffing the opposition.

It was sweet revenge for Waddell, for he made the record against the Athletics, after being released by that club to the St. Louis Browns.

Back in 1884, Charles Sweeney of Providence, pitching against Boston, caused 19 batters to wend back to the bench via the strikeout route.

Walter Johnson and Dizzy Vance have several times threatened the modern record of 16 but always something happened to spoil the big chance.

I recall one game I umpired for Johnson in which he got 10 men in the first five innings. He was going great and it seemed a certainty that Waddell's strikeout mark would be shattered.

Up to the last half of the fifth neither team had scored. Johnson was being pressed to the limit. It was being pressed to the limit. It was being pressed to the limit.

Record in Danger.
Of the present day pitchers in the major leagues, I am inclined to think that "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics, has a better chance than any other pitcher to shatter Waddell's mark of long standing.

Twice this year, although the race is still in its infancy, Grove has struck out 11 of the opposition.

The first time was in a game with the New York Yankees, which he lost 3-0. Babe Ruth and Co., scoring all their runs in the last half of the eighth. So the 11 strikeouts were registered in only eight innings of play.

The second time the feat was performed, the Chicago White Sox were the team to suffer. In the first three innings Grove got six batters on strikes. I wondered if Mack's southpaw was in for a record performance.

During the remainder of the game I kept close track of his work. On an even dozen batters who finally either walked, hit safely or retired, Grove had two strikes. So that 12 other batters aside from the 11 who fanned were in imminent danger.

Similar Cases.
Grove cost Mack more than $100,000. He was secured from the Baltimore club of the International League. Mack appears ready to cash in on him.

In many ways the career of Grove is not unlike that of Rube Marquard. Back some 18 years ago he cost John McGraw of the New York Giants the sum of $11,000.

In those days paying $11,000 for more gossip than the amount Mack handed over for Grove.

Marquard simply couldn't win for the Giants and was commonly referred to as the "$11,000 lemon." His first year was far worse than the record made by Grove.

Marquard finally found himself and became one of the greatest southpaws in the history of the game. One of his biggest feats was winning 19 straight games in 1912, equalling a record made in 1888 by Tim Keefe and never bettered.

Key to Pennant.
Prior to the start of the 1925 race, Manager Jack Dunn, who groomed Grove at Baltimore, said he would win 20 games for Mack, possibly 25. Connie predicted a pennant if Grove lived up to Dunn's prophecy.

SECRETS OF STARS ON INSIDE BASEBALL

By ROGER PECKINPAUGH Most Valuable Player 1925—American League.

Unless nature has endowed a ball player with a strong throwing arm, it is a mistake for him to select shortstop as the position he desires to master.

No place on the ball field calls for a player to throw from more unusual positions than that of shortstop.

Going from right to left in pursuit of elusive ground balls, he is often forced to throw while on the run and off balance as well.

Just as important as a strong arm is accuracy. One is a gift, the other can be perfected through practice.

Too many shortstops with good arms make the very serious mistake of wasting them by not using their heads in timing the runner to be thrown out.

It is foolish to use as much speed on a slow-running pitcher as on one of the fastest men in the business. Incidentally, to hurry throws, as is necessary on the very fast men, handicaps accuracy if the ball is heaved across the diamond regardless of the speed of the batsman.

Proper timing of the runner is essential to the success of any player who seeks to get very far as a shortstop. The moment a batter steps into the box, reach a definite conclusion as to his speed and then handle the ball accordingly.

Knowledge of the speed of the runner is a great help in enabling the shortstop to make the proper play. This is particularly true relative to the chances of getting two men in a possible double play.

Never waste a throw when you are reasonably certain you haven't a chance to get your man. A hurried throw invariably makes for inaccuracy.

Grove was a disappointment last year after all the press-agenting that had preceded him. He won only 10 games and lost two more. However, he led the league in strikeouts, showing he had the most bases on balls, proving he lacked control.

This year Grove is working much slower, has cut down the speed of his motion, almost coming to a stop at the halfway mark and is pitching overhand entirely. Inability to control his sidearm delivery made most of his trouble last year.

"Let Grove win 20 games this year and we will make plenty of trouble. If he cops 25 we will just about win the pennant," says Mack.

TWO months ago, I would have told you that I was pretty well satisfied with my smoking tobacco. I didn't know Prince Albert then! Gee, what a lot of tricks I missed without even knowing it. Never mind. I'm making up for lost time now. My jimmy-pipe is working double shifts.

I load up the minute breakfast is cleared away and hit it up from then until "lights out." That's one of the fine things about Prince Albert. You never tire of it. Each pipe-load tastes better than the last, if such a thing is possible. I know I'm set for life now.

Prince Albert is cool as a dip in the lake. No matter how hard you drive it, you never burn out a bearing. It is sweet as a check in the morning's mail. Fragrant, too, like fresh-picked flowers. Fragrant in the tin, and fragrant as you smoke it. Real tobacco, I tell you.

Maybe you think you are all set in the matter of smokings. I wouldn't stop there. Because, if you haven't smoked P. A., your best bet is still to be collected. On my say-so, and that of millions like me, why don't you try Prince Albert? I'll guarantee you'll be glad you did.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy 100 tin, pound and half-pound tin tins, and pound crystal-glass tins with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

S.M.H.S. Tennis Team Claims State Championship

HAVE WON 9 OF 10 GAMES; BRISTOL FALLS EASY PREY

5-2 Victory Over Bell City Outfit Gives Manchester Sound Claim to State Title.

By virtue of yesterday's overwhelming 5-1 victory over Bristol High, the South Manchester High school tennis team claims the schoolboy championship of the state. Apparently it is a claim built entirely on a foundation of facts and is one that will doubtlessly be recognized by the other schools in the state.

Manchester has won nine matches, lost one and had two ends in draws. Yesterday's victory over Bristol also marked the final appearance of Captain Gotberg and Johnny Boyle on the S. M. H. S. team as both will graduate next week.

Main Delays Match

A large gathering of fans witnessed the match with Bristol which was played on the courts in the rear of the High school building. Rain fell during the doubles and caused a long delay. It was 6:30 before the singles were started. Manchester won both matches in the doubles and all but one of the singles thus giving S. M. H. S. a 5 to 1 victory.

The Doubles

Captain Gotberg and McCann were forced to play an extra game to get the decision over Marsh and Goodelle, of Bristol in the first match in the doubles but succeeded in winning 6-4, 6-8, 6-3.

forced to play an extra game but were victorious 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

The Singles

In the opening match of the singles, Ty Holland handed the hitherto undefeated Henderling, of Bristol by scores of 6-2 and 11-9. Holland was forced to exert himself especially in the second set. The local player started readily by running his opponent off his feet in the first set. In the second, however, Henderling, by resorting to terrific lobs and lobs forced his rival into extra games. Several nice games were played before Holland finally got the decision.

In the second match Captain Gotberg, using a powerful lob and rapid fire serves, outclassed Good-

Wins Them Both

FRED ETCHEN

For the first time in the history of Kansas trapshooting one entrant won both the singles and doubles titles. He is Fred Etchen of Coffeyville, captain of the 1924 Olympic team and regarded as the world's greatest shot at the trap. Of the five major events on the state program, he won four.

selle, of Bristol, 6-1 and 6-0. It was a one-sided match. Boyle won over Marsh of Bristol, 6-0 and 6-1. The local player's clever serving netted him point upon point and had his opponent bewildered.

Bristol's Only Point

The final match in the singles resulted in the only Bristol victory of the afternoon when Cole was unequal to the task of defeating Lee-Way. Bristol's famous Chinese player, The Bristolite won 6-4 and 6-1. Far from discouraged over the setback in the first set, Cole came back strong in the second and played fine tennis but not quite good enough for the Bristol lad.

Firm Foundation

The basis on which Manchester claims the state title seems to be a reasonable one. The S. M. H. S. team has defeated all the leading teams in the state in high school circles. As far as can be ascertained the record of the local team surpassed any that has been made by any other High school in the state. Up until last week three teams were claiming the title. They were St. Thomas, Bristol and Manchester. Bristol, however, has defeated St. Thomas since that time 4 to 2 and yesterday Manchester easily polished off Bristol 5-1.

Ready to Fight

St. Thomas, on the other hand, is the only team in the state to defeat Manchester. This was accomplished when Manchester had a weakened team. The locals stand ready, however, to meet St. Thomas any time if the latter disputes Manchester's claim to the state title.

ORGANIZE ELIMINATION TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT CHENEY MILLS

Play Starts Next Week; Twelve Contestants Entered—The Pairings.

Walter Scott, vice-president of tennis for Cheney Brothers Athletic Association, has arranged an elimination tournament for the racket wielders in the mills. It was announced today.

Twelve entries have been received. The first round of the schedule will get under way next week. It will be completed Saturday. Each round will require one week to complete and the finals are scheduled to be played on July 10.

Each match will be played on the best two-out-of-three set basis. Arrangements for the use of the courts and the fixing of the scores must be made with Mr. Scott in the Main Office. All match games must be played during the week they are scheduled.

If the sport proves as popular as it is expected to be a handicap tournament will be played at the conclusion of the elimination tournament.

The pairing for the opening round find the players matched as follows: John Nickerson vs. Allan Dexter Leonard Beadle vs. Fred Van Ness.

Robert Pratt vs. "Mac" Macdonald. Those who have drawn byes in the first round are Sherwood Bissell, C. Donaldson, Walter Scott, and Dr. Charles Goff.

JACK LORCH HAS GOOD SEASON AT COLUMBIA

Former Manchester Second Baseman Captains Team Next Year.

"Jack" Lorch, who played second base for Cheney Brothers' A. A. team for a period last season, has just concluded a good season of athletics under the colors of Columbia University.

During the winter he played guard on the basketball five which won the Eastern Collegiate championship. Jack's good work with the team earned him the position of guard on the second mythical Eastern team, as well as the captaincy for the coming season.

From basketball he stepped into his baseball togs and prepared for the season's grind. Andy Coakley assembled the best team he has had since 1916 and the good work of Lorch, at second base, went far toward the building of a record which brought the team into consideration for the Eastern championship.

The batting records of the team show Jack hitting .305 for the season, his best achievement being a home run against Virginia tying the score in the eighth inning. Columbia won this game in the ninth. Again Lorch was honored by being elected captain of the 1927 team. Besides his athletics Jack has kept abreast with his studies. He is president of the Newman Club and chairman of the Student's Body.

Bon Ami Nine Swamps Highland Park, 15 To 0

The Orford Soap Company completely outclassed Highland Park in a league baseball game at Highland Park Saturday afternoon winning by the overwhelming score of 15 to 0. Smith was on the mound for the winners and he allowed but three hits in addition to fanning ten batsmen and walking none.

Howard Keeney played a good game both in the field and at bat for the winners. He was the only man on either team to get two hits. One of his drives went for a double. Bill Brainerd also managed to chip in an extra-base blow, poling out a triple.

Next Saturday afternoon Kensington will come to Hickey's Grove to meet the Orford Soap nine while Highland Park will travel to East Berlin.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Latex from the United States Rubber Company's Plantations is transported to this country in tank steamers, then unloaded into tank cars, and so shipped to the Company's tire factories.

Answering Some Questions About LATEX—The New Word in Tire Building

- Question—What is Latex?
A—Latex is the milky-white watery liquid that flows from the bark of a rubber tree when it is tapped. It is the source of all rubber.
- Q—Why then is "Latex" a new word in tire building?
A—Because it was only when the United States Rubber Company began producing Latex-treated Web Cord that Latex was used in tire building.
- Q—How is Latex used in building United States tires?
A—Every cord in a tire must be impregnated with rubber before it is built into the structure. In United States Tires this is done by soaking the cords in Latex. By this method, the cords are impregnated with pure natural rubber, giving the cords exceptional flexibility and strength.
- Q—If only United States Tires use Latex to impregnate the cords, how are other tires built?
A—The cords are "solvented" in a bath of dissolved rubber; or they are "frictioned"—rubber squeezed into the cords by roller pressure.
- Q—Where does the United States Rubber Company get its Latex?
A—A large part of it comes from the rubber trees on its own plantations in Sumatra and Malaya; and the balance from neighboring plantations where the United States Rubber Company Plantation Experts know the proper quality can be secured.
- Q—Is there then a difference in Latex?
A—Yes. Just as there is a difference in maple sugar, apples, peaches or pears, or the product of any tree.
- Q—Why don't other tire builders use Latex?
A—The processes for using Latex were discovered, patented and are owned by the United States Rubber Company.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Twins stood on the corner in Shut-Eye Town for quite a while, watching all the queer people go silently by.

"No wonder the Fairy Queen said that Inco probably came here!" said Nick to Nancy. "An elephant with pink roses all over him isn't half as queer as eggs that bend, and daisies in silk hats and gentlemen that turn into lobsters and snap their fingers at you."

"I should say not," said Nancy. "I wonder where the Forty Winks went!"

That reminded Nick of the pink tickets. "Well better be using these," he remarked. "They won't be any good tomorrow."

With that he reached into his pocket for his ticket. But behold, no matter how much of it he pulled out, always some stayed in. It was like taking hold of the end of a spool of thread.

He kept pulling and pulling and pulling until he had quite ten yards and a half of pink ticket in his hands, with dear knows how much more to come.

Nancy reached into her pocket for her ticket, too, but Nick stopped her. "You'd better not," he said. "I don't know what to do with all I have now. It must be made of Grade A Number One rubber like the streets."

"Silly! Of course I'm not," said a voice suddenly, and to the Twins' amazement the ticket grew a head that curled itself around and looked at them with great pink eyes.

"If you would just read what it says on me you could see that I am merely doing my duty. Look at the sixth line below the dashes!"

The printing on the ticket seemed to grow big all at once, like printing on a page when you hold a magnifying glass over it. The sixth line said, "This ticket will take the owner to any place in Drowsy Land."

"Well, what of it," said Nick. "What has that got to do with you stretching out so long I can't hold you in my two hands?"

"Lots," said the ticket. "Let me go, and then see what happens. I can't take you any place, can I, if you're going to hold onto me so tight! Where should you like to go?"

"Just any place at all," said Nick thoughtlessly, never dreaming what his words meant.

That's three stations," said the pink ticket. "Lay me down on the ground and see what happens."

So Nick let go the tickets, and instantly it spread itself along the ground in a straight line and turned into a railroad track. And Nancy and Nick found themselves in a neat little town, rolling smoothly along on two long black lines that had turned into tracks.

"I see now why they say that tickets take you places," said Nancy. "Isn't this fine?"

Soon Shut-Eye Town was far behind with all its queer people. And the Twins forgot to wonder about the foolish things they had seen. They kept looking to the right and left, this way and that, for some sign of Inco and Flops. They passed an orchard where dreams were growing and a snore factory, and a yawning cave. And they also passed a sandy hill marked "Private! Keep off! Sandman!"

"I suppose," said Nancy, "that is sleep," said the ticket. "But here we are. This is your station. It is called Any Place At All! Hop out!"

With that it curled itself up and jumped into Nick's pocket. (To be Continued)

Lillian Cannon, the plucky girl swimmer, who is now in England training for a channel swim, was given a beautiful diary by her mother as a parting gift. The book is 72 pages long and contains four sections, named training, diet, amusements and friends. These sections are unequal in length and are divided in such a way that if you add two pages to the training section, double the number of pages in the amusement section and halve the number in the friends section, the result in each case will be equal.

How many pages are there in such section of Lillian Cannon's diary? Last puzzle answer: 18.

HOUSEWARMING PARTY FOR SCHUETZ FAMILY

Forty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schuetz called at their home on Cooper street Saturday evening for the purpose of giving them a housewarming and also to assist them in celebrating their sixteenth wedding anniversary. Guests were present from Hartford, East Hampton and Stonington. The party arrived in automobiles and seemed to have provided every sort of noise-making device.

During the evening games were played and some excellent musical talent was displayed, particularly by the Sunshine trio, composed of Mrs. Otto Schuetz, mandolin; Mrs. Fred Schuetz, guitar and Miss Lulu Bokophy, banjo. Several numbers were rendered in a manner which showed that each lady had complete mastery over her instrument. They have now under consideration an offer to go on a concert tour of the larger cities in the United States.

Piano solos were given by Miss Elaine Schuetz and George McKeever favored with two vocal solos, with James Fogarty accompanying on the violin. Oscar and Fred Schuetz gave an exhibition of the Charleston.

Sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream were served. Some of the guests were aware of the fact that it was James Fogarty's birthday and sprung a little surprise on him by giving him a set of garden tools. Daniel F. Renn in behalf of the guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Schuetz with a pair of porch rockers, one for each of them.

BUCKLAND NINE WINS.

The winners scored five runs in the first inning and were never in danger throughout the contest. Kasulki and Gustafson were the Mohawks' battery while Cusson and Zeleski formed the Buckland pitch and catch roles.

A Severe Winter---Maybe

Last winter was mild, you'll remember, and the chances are against next winter being as kindly. Anyway, you'll have to lay in a supply of coal and right now is the time to place your order. Coal is going to cost more next November and December than it does today. You will make no mistake if you fill your coal bin now.
