COLLECTOR OF ENFIELD SHORT IN ACCOUNTS

Store Keeper Fails to Produce $30,000 to $50,000; Fire in His Desk Damages Town's Books.

Thompsonville, June 16.—Frankly admitting to the authorities that a shortage exists in his accounts as tax collector of the town of Enfield, Clark L. Hamilton yesterday afternoon, submitted his resignation in writing to Selectman James T. Murray. Other than to admit that he is "in deep," Hamilton could give no estimate of what the shortage would be.

May Reach $50,000.
Until an audit of the books is completed, officials have no means of estimating the amount involved. However, Selectman Murray expressed fear that the shortage may run high into thousands of dollars, while there are rumors that the total may reach from $30,000 to $50,000.

Hamilton's collectorship has been under investigation by officials for several weeks, it now becomes known, since he failed to make return of certain reports called for by law within the time prescribed. Selectman Murray stated that the collector had several times been requested to make these returns, and they had not been filed.

The Selectman offered to employ assistance for Hamilton in getting his figures together or to have an auditor go over his accounts, Mr. Murray said, but Mr. Hamilton had not accepted these offers.

Fire Damages Records.
Hamilton had assured the Selectmen, it was said, that he would file the reports not later than yesterday morning. However, shortly before 7 o'clock this morning a fire occurred in Hamilton's grocery store in Pearl street, in which many of the tax record books were considerably damaged. Hamilton said that he went to the store early to work on his books, and believed that a cigarette but which he must have tossed carelessly into a basket of waste paper near his desk started the fire.

Hamilton was on his way home for breakfast when a passerby discovered the fire. The fire was quickly extinguished with chemicals, with virtually no damage to the building, although the desk was somewhat charred and many of the town records damaged. A few hours later, Selectman Murray and Town Clerk J. Hamilton Potter went to the store and had all the town books which they could find transferred to the town building.

At the time of their visit Mr. Hamilton was absent from the store, and he did not return until shortly after noon. He then went to the town building with certain other tax records which the officials had not found, and submitted his resignation from the position which he had held more than a dozen years.

HARTFORD PRINCESS GETS PRINCE BACK

New York, June 16.—Uncommunicative about the incident, Prince Levan Melikoy de Sombeite, who fled from his bride of a month, leaving behind a note intimating that he might attempt suicide, three weeks ago, returned to this country today, with the princess, who is the daughter of Edward Hooker, late mayor of Hartford, Connecticut. The two were passengers on the Olympic.

Tonight's Meeting Will Be Well Attended — Only One Contest Looms.

One of the best attended meetings the Eighth district has seen in many years is assured tonight when the annual gathering to hear reports and elect officers is held in the school assembly hall on North School street. The contest for tax collector will bring out a number of voters.

Thomas Ferguson, for 20 years collector for the district, is to be opposed for re-election by Mark Holmes, north end merchant. Holmes' argument in seeking the office is that Ferguson does not need the salary the job pays and that he has held it long enough. However, Ferguson's friends maintain that the district will be the heavy loser if Ferguson is dropped. He has succeeded in making nearly 100 per cent. collections in each of the 20 years of his service.

BRITAIN FACES RUPTURE WITH RUSS SOVIETS

Backing of Mine Strike With Red Money Brings Affairs of Two Nations to Breaking Point.

London, June 16.—The Cabinet in session today is reported to be considering a rupture of diplomatic relations with Russia, due to Russian organizations sending funds to England to aid the striking British miners.

One faction in the Cabinet is reported as strongly favoring an immediate rupture. The foreign office, it is learned, has however, counseled that such a step would further injure British trade. Financial circles are also reported to be opposed to a break.

The Cabinet, it is understood, has decided that drastic measures must be adopted immediately to check the transfer of funds. Miners Reject 8 Hours.
The striking British miners will not accept Premier Baldwin's plan to legislate an eight-hour day in the coal industry. A. J. Cook, secretary of the Federation of Miners, announced today.

The whole town turned out, with skyrockets and auto horns, when Dr. W. H. Pounds, 76, wealthiest citizen of Paulsboro, N. J., married Miss Jennie Stiles, 52, to celebrate his rescue from an insane asylum. Guards, said to be acting on complaint of Dr. Pound's son, had seized him earlier that day. Indignant townspeople protested in a body to hospital authorities, and obtained his release. The return to Paulsboro was a civic triumph, with the wedding moved up a day for climax. Above, Miss Stiles, left, and Dr. Pounds.

CROPS ARE NEARLY A MONTH BELATED

Farmers Here Say Chilly Weather Has Delayed the Season.

Although no frosts were reported here a temperature of 50 degrees was recorded at 4:30 o'clock this morning and the continued cold weather which Manchester is experiencing is causing havoc with the growth of crops, according to a survey made today among the farmers in the outlying sections of the town.

Already corn, potatoes and other main farm products are several weeks behind. One farmer who was interviewed today said he believed the main harvest of crops in this year would be almost a month late. To Affect Prices.
This delay will probably seriously affect the long awaited reduction in the prices of vegetables. It will mean that vegetables will have to be shipped here from the South much longer in order to connect with the harvesting of local crops.

The farmers report that the cold weather has stunted the crops have been hit by several showers of late, they have been insufficient. Most of the rainstorms have been accompanied by cold weather and this has delayed their growing. What the farmers need and need badly is a warm spell accompanied by frequent warm rains. Unless this kind of weather comes shortly the crops will be further delayed.

CONGRESS TO QUIT WITHIN TEN DAYS

The farm bill, facing defeat, will be disposed of by Thursday night, according to farm bloc spokesmen, and the other two measures will be given the right of way in the closing hours of the session.

How Sweden Drinks With Decreased Drunkenness

Bratt "Motbok" System of Restricting Use of Liquor Actually Cuts Down Indulgence.

BY MILTON BRONNER
Stockholm, June 16.—American critics of the Amendment-Volstead brand of prohibition should include Sweden along with Quebec as a place to go shopping for a possible substitute. Sweden's system is the conception of Dr. Ivan Bratt, a practicing physician in Stockholm and a student of social hygiene. Dr. Bratt believed it was more practical to restrict drinking than to forbid it. So he put the state in the liquor business. The cornerstone of the structure is the "motbok," the Best Seller. The "motbok" is the most popular volume in all Sweden. Its circulation is 1,000,000 copies annually, passing all other best sellers. It looks about like a check book and in reality it is the permit by which one buys liquor.

LEAGUE'S HAND MAY APPEAR IN TACNA-ARICA

U. S. Efforts Collapse and Washington Fears Intrusion of Other Nations in South America Affairs.

Washington, June 16.—The bugbear of possible war in South America, inviting a chain of consequences which Washington regards with acute apprehension, arose today to confront and confound the administration. Complete collapse of four years' efforts to amicably adjust the Tacna-Arica boundary dispute between Chile and Peru apparently draw from the negotiations to withdrawal, Chile is preparing to withdraw from the negotiations conducted under two American secretaries of state, Hughes and Kellogg, and when this act is accomplished it will confirm one of the most signal diplomatic defeats the United States has ever experienced in years of benevolent supervision of South American affairs.

Will Oppose War.
That there will be actual warfare between Chile and Peru most diplomats here doubt. It is possible, they say, for the feeling is bitter on both sides, but it is not probable. There won't be any war in any event, if the United States can possibly avert it. The prospect that causes most uneasiness among administration officials is that Chile or Peru will ask the League of Nations to mediate in the situation and endeavor to make the adjustment that the United States has tried for four years to make, and failed. Both Chile and Peru are members of the League, and both, at various times in the last four years, have made covert threats to carry the case to the League.

Causes Uneasiness.
The possibility of the League "intervening" in the affairs of South America, possibly making an award and then trying to enforce it, is viewed with distinct uneasiness in Washington, for it automatically raises the question of "what then becomes of the Monroe Doctrine?" Any intervention by the League, however peacefully, into the affairs of neighboring republics would be regarded as a severe blow to American prestige. For more than a century, the United States has played the umpire, and at times the schoolmaster, in keeping international relations in South America in an orderly plane, and the prospect of outside intervention is not pleasing to Washington.

Would Eagerly Accept.
There is reason to believe that the League would eagerly accept a call to duty in South America, if for no other reason than to try to recover some of the prestige it has lost through the resignation of Brazil. The next steps are uncertain and fraught with grave consequences for the future of American prestige in South America.

Threatened Reprisals Called Off, Slush Fund Witness Tells Committee.

Washington, June 16.—After first threatening "political reprisals," the Mellon organization is now making peace with its opponents in the recent $2,000,000 Pennsylvania senatorial primary race, it was revealed to the Senate "slush fund" committee today by Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills of Pittsburgh, a Vore leader. Mackrell testified he had received assurances only this morning that he would not be "penalized" or "punished" for having opposed the Mellon machine and supported the Vore-Beidleman organization. He received the assurance in a mysterious telephone conversation with Albert Cooper, a Beidleman lieutenant in Harrisburg. The telephone call was revealed by questions by Senator Reed, (D., Mo.), and created excitement at the hearing. Vague As To Source.
Mackrell told the committee he had contributed $5,000 in cash to the Vore-Beidleman campaign and like Thomas P. Watson, a Vore leader in Philadelphia, failed to give the committee a clear explanation of how he had obtained the money. Reed then asked him to whom he had spoken on a telephone from a room in the Senate office building, adjoining the committee room. The witness said he had spoken to Cooper.

"What did you talk to Cooper about?" Reed demanded. "Political matter. I was making arrangements for winding up some matters." "What matters?" "Well, there were rumors that I was to be penalized or punished in my home county for supporting Beidleman in the campaign," said Mackrell. "Beidleman was arranging to see that I was not."

Mackrell said he first was for Pepper for senator but had pledged his support to Beidleman for governor when the latter withdrew from the 1924 race. When Pepper declined to support Beidleman, Mackrell said he went over to the Vore camp.

"Cooper just assured me that Beidleman would protect me against political reprisals," Mackrell added. "My term as register of wills of Allegheny county expires next year and I heard rumors that"

CARDINALS ON ALL-RED TRAIN SPEEDING WEST

Legate's Party Leave for Chicago With Every Member of Train Crew, Driver to Porter, a Catholic.

New York, June 16.—The blood-red "Cardinals Special," carrying John Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, and eight other cardinals, left the Grand Central station at 11:02 o'clock this morning for Chicago where the church dignitaries will attend the Eucharistic congress which opens Sunday. A cheering crowd of thousands bade the cardinals farewell and wished them Godspeed. Extraordinary precautions had been taken to insure a safe journey. The train, perhaps the most luxurious ever assembled, was manned by an all-Catholic crew, from engineers to porters. It is due to arrive in Chicago at 9:50 a. m., central time, tomorrow. Station L.I.K. Cathedral.
The Grand Central station resembled a cathedral when the visiting dignitaries arrived 20 minutes before train time. The station was packed with a dense throng of humanity. As the cardinals, in their red robes, came down the stairway leading to their train, priests and laymen who had assembled along the route knelt reverently and kissed the rings of the cardinals. Other business in and about the station stopped. Even the ticket sellers deserted their posts. Trainmen left their trains. Crowds tried to jam into the station from the outside.

When the cardinals proceeded to their train and stood on the observation car, posing for the photographers under Kleig lights, a vast cheer resounded through the great structure. Just before the train pulled out, Cardinal Dubois distributed Cardinal medals to members of the train crew and laymen in the throng strung along the tracks, at the train shed gates, every other available vantage point. Eight of the nine cardinals on board the train were from abroad, the other being Cardinal Hayes of New York. Cardinal Von Faulhaber of Germany, who did not participate in the unparalleled demonstrations given the other cardinals by New York during the last few days, preferring to remain in seclusion, appeared shortly before train time but did not pose with the other cardinals for pictures. Instead he went to Fireman W. P. Kelly and smilingly remarked: "Well, we're in your hands now."

There were 61 persons aboard the train, most of them bishops and priests. There were some laymen on board, including two Chicago policemen—Hugh McCarthy and John Leddy. The special was made up of seven coaches, painted cardinal red. It is perhaps the most sumptuous train ever assembled. Never before in railroad history in this country has a train been conducted so closely as this "cathedral on wheels." For weeks the New York Central railroad has been taking precautionary measures against a possible mishap. This morning, all along the route, there began a painstaking examination of rails, frogs and switches. Even the food, which will supply the cardinals' party, was inspected by detectives from the railroad's force before it was put in the dining car today.

Train Returned.
One hundred New York city policemen and 25 New York Central policemen were at the railroad station this morning long before the train was scheduled to leave this morning, to handle the vast crowd. Every conceivable step has been taken to make the journey as pleasant and safe as is humanly possible. The entire train has been refurbished and redecorated for the use of the visiting dignitaries. Each car bears a church name.

Pilot Train.
The "special" was preceded by a pilot train which is to make the entire trip to Chicago just ahead of the cardinals' train. Started by Woman.
Chicago, June 16.—Chicago Catholics, and early arrivals for the International Eucharistic Congress which will start here Sunday, while awaiting the arrival tomorrow of the eight foreign princes of the church, headed by Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, today paused in their preparations for the event to reflect on the romance of that institution.

The congress, exemplifying to the fullest degree the reverence in which the Last Supper is held as the basis for Catholic faith, originated in the mind of a woman—a lowly but pious woman—forty-five years ago when she saw 200 men dedicate themselves to Christ before the altar on which was exposed the Blessed Sacrament. Would See Million.
If she were alive, and could be search.

PIGEON RETURNED HOME AFTER A YEAR'S ABSENCE

Further proof that Homing Pigeons will return to their lofts despite all sorts of handicaps was proven today in a story told by an old time pigeon racing fan.

It appears that a Homer being looted by Jacob Kotsch was entered in a 1,000 mile race from Tallahassee, Florida, several years ago. The bird failed to return and then returned to its loft a year later. The bird had apparently been held a prisoner for several months. The fact that a pigeon has enough instinct to return home after an absence as long as this is almost impossible to believe.

ONCE UPON A TIME

They Bought Their Dresses By the Cubic Furlong

By TOM SIMS.

Once upon a time, when men were men only when they wore rose tints, the ladies went about even as pinheads. No, this is not a picture from the Amundsen expedition. It is a lady of the pre-fluorine period, decked out in her best Sunday feathered, carrying her favorite knapsack (or is it a bag of potatoes?) and with a young tent suspended on a pole over her well-covered shoulder. Think back. A wazon stops before the door. It is drawn by two mighty herbivores. Three men stagger up the steps with a tremendous box. It is milady's new dress! And now what? The postman trots outside and she trips out to get her new evening gown—out of an envelope.

OVER A HUNDRED TO VISIT STORRS

C. of C. Outing to State College on Thursday—To Start at 1.30 o'clock.

The Chamber of Commerce outing party to Storrs College has already passed the hundred mark. Monday morning there were but fourteen actual dinner reservations. Wednesday morning there were one hundred and six. The showers during the last two days will do much to improve the appearance of the school grounds and make the outing all the more pleasant for those who attend. Those who have made up full cars are asked to go ahead whenever they are ready and by any of the four available routes, being sure that they arrive there in season for dinner at 12:30 standard time or 1:30 daylight saving time, as the students act as waiters in the dining hall and must get back to their classes.

Various Routes. In addition to the three routes previously mentioned, by the way of Coventry gas station, there is also the route by Rockville and Willington which is a fine hard road all the way and only 21 miles. Whichever route is selected, the turn from the main Springfield-Willimantic highway, Route No. 32, should be made at the Mansfield Hospital buildings which form a prominent land-mark on the hill. There are several large brick buildings with broad lawns running down to the street.

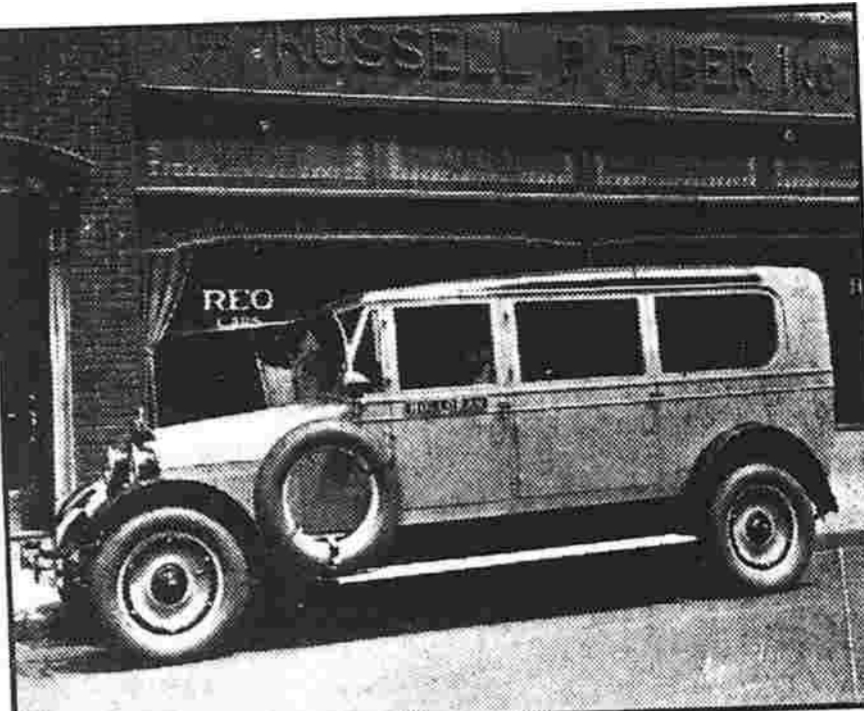

There are eight who have not their own transportation and a few cars which have vacant seats will be asked to call at the Chamber of Commerce rooms before starting for the college grounds and pick up an extra passenger or two apiece. Those who are not requested to call at the Chamber rooms may proceed direct to the college. On arrival at the grounds the guests are asked to meet at the Armory where there is ample room for parking of cars and where some of the officials will be assembled to welcome them.

Roots of shrubbery should be soaked well before planting.

Manchester Evening Herald

PUBLISHED BY THE HERALD PRINTING CO. Founded by Elwood S. Ely Oct. 1, 1851. Every Evening Except Sundays and Holidays.

Entered at the Post Office at Manchester as Second Class Mail Matter. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Mail six dollars a year; fifty cents a month for shorter periods.

NEIGHBORLINESS. The dispute between the town of Manchester, as properly represented by its board of selectmen, and the Rich estate is one that calls for some very wise and very senior personality—say in the form of a genial fairy godmother to all hands—stepping in, patting both parties on the back and saying: "Now, now, now!"

We are almost all of us so constituted that when we are sure we are right and the other fellow persists in bucking us—and so in being quite in the wrong—we are apt to get hot in the collar about it, to begin to talk loud and bluster, and finally to rush off to the courts, like a couple of squabbling children, to their mother, each to get that authority to put something over on the other party to the controversy.

The selectmen feel that they are in the right in the matter of the East Center street sidewalk. The Rich estate people, beyond a shadow of a doubt, feel that they are in the right. Yet their views are exactly opposed, the selectmen believing that the preponderance of interest and necessity lies in the building of that long sidewalk in front of the Rich property, the estate believing that it is going to raise him with the beauty and desirability of its holding if the sidewalk is laid.

Somewhere in this situation there is a definite line of fairness, decency, public convenience, preservation of values, if it can be found. There always is. Such mixups are as common as clouds in an April sky. And a way of unraveling them is always to be found. But it can't be found by searchers who push and haul each other. They have to go hunting in a spirit of mutual helpfulness.

Nobody who travels East Center street wants to do anything to diminish the beauties of the Rich estate—it is too much a part of the scenery for that. Nor do the Rich estate people want to force their neighbors to trudge through the mud. Then why should there be talk of "rights" in the matter? Let's not go rampaging into the courts over a little problem that can be amicably settled, beyond the shadow of a doubt, if the parties in the case will just forget that rather pugnacious word "rights" altogether, and talk this thing over in the mood of mutual respect and neighborliness.

Insisting on rights is not only very often a quarrelsome business but it is frequently a costly one. Remember the automobile jangle: "Here lies the body of William Ray." He died maintaining his right of way. He was right, dead right, as he rolled along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong.

Lots and lots of times, there's nothing at all in this "rights" business. But there's always a heap in being friendly and neighborly and just a good citizen.

TAX SHORTAGES. A shortage of perhaps fifty thousand dollars in the accounts of a tax collector in a little town like Enfield, where the total levy amounts to considerably less than $300,000, ought to be a practical impossibility. The only conceivable circumstances under which such a shortage could come about should be in the case of a collector so frankly and consciously dishonest that he would simply grab and run—and that is not the way in which these defalcations come to pass.

We are remiss, as a public, in our systems of audits; often time there is no real audit at all, merely a perfunctory performance conducted in no true spirit of inquiry and only in conformity with the shadings on the letter of the law.

No proper provision is made for sufficiently frequent audits; there is never adequate appropriation. No matter how skillful and painstaking the auditor may be he cannot, under our system, exercise the intensive supervision necessary.

Men like the Enfield collector—small, hard pressed business men—price fellows; easy going chaps—are dumped into tax collectorships without any weighing of their qualities with relation to the responsibilities of the office, and then permitted to handle the public's funds pretty much as they please, with the mere stipulation that if they steal anything they are to go to jail—after the harm has been done.

The community has no right to subject such people to such temptation; to make it so easy for a collector, who by the way is frequently paid next to nothing for his services, to borrow from the public funds in his hands to help his private affairs over some rough spot—and then borrow again and more, and finally to find himself involved in a mess of defalcation out of which he can never climb.

There will always be such cases until the towns and other tax divisions take the business of audit seriously, until tax books are kept like those of a bank or any other well regulated business, so that at any moment the accounts and funds of the office can be checked up, definitely, precisely, in a few minutes. And until there is an end of turning tax gathering over to the kind of a people who do not fit into such a system.

BOOTLEG CREAM. It took the city of New York half a century of continuous agitation, experimentation and hard work to build up a system of inspection and control under which its milk and cream supply was dependably safe against the spread of disease. No more essential function rests as a duty on the shoulders of a great municipality than the safeguarding of its milk supply, for upon it depends in an enormous degree the lives and health of hundreds of thousands of babies and young children. Many men have given their lives to the task of keeping New York's supply clean.

Then, when the system is firmly established and working as it is intended, along comes the bootlegging idea, spawn of prohibition. Big concerns dealing in western cream that would not come within a mile of meeting New York standards of inspection hunted up the "right" parties, got at a person who was utterly trusted by a good natured but inadequate health commissioner, paid him for permits issued in direct violation of the law and flooded the city with illegal lacteals.

All the work of two generations gone to smash, because a graffer got a chance to clean up a fortune and other grafters, working with him, could do a fat business. A lot they cared about the babies, about typhoid epidemics, about the spread of tuberculosis! They were "getting the cash!"

Well, one of the gang, the faithless public servant, is going to prison for a long, long time. Some more of the go-betweeners, middle crooks, easy-money birds, will probably keep him company. And maybe, because this is a particularly sore spot in the New York conscience, the sale of bootleg milk and cream will really be stopped.

But no viler example of the infection of the bootleg craze has yet been developed. Does anyone imagine that the thing could possibly have been conceived if it had not been for utter familiarity with the idea of bootleg rum?

LEAGUE'S CHANCE. The very earnest efforts of the United States government to bring about a solution of the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru seem to have ended at last in definite failure. Chile's notification to Washington that she has terminated her obligation to abide by the good offices of this country in the affair would appear to be the last line in the last act so far as we are concerned.

Here, in this obscure but extraordinarily obstinate quarrel in an out-of-the-way corner of the globe, would appear to lie the best opportunity that the League of Nations has ever had of proving its case to the American people.

Both Chile and Peru are members of the League. Their dispute is proper matter for the consideration of that body. If the League can step in now, after our efforts during a period of years have resulted in exactly nothing, and can bring about a happy issue of this everlasting wrangle, incidentally preventing a bloody and useless war, it will make League champions out of a great many people on this side of the water who hitherto have lacked any confidence in it.

So far the League has had no occasion to take a hand in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere. But its jurisdiction and its obligations are no less in the case of Chile and Peru than they were in the case of Greece and Bulgaria, war between whom the League did actually stop at its inception last winter.

STABLE MONEY. Such situations as that now existing in France, where the stability of government itself is threatened by the rapidly fading valuation of the currency medium, are the creation of an utterly unscientific monetary system, founded on a mere fancy and breeding all sorts of curious economic superstitions. Bankers, finance sharps, will make long and labored explanations of these currency brainstorms—and they really think they know all about the subject. But they don't.

Some day—and it is shrewdly to be suspected that that day is not so far off as we in this country suppose—the world is going to get together on the establishment of a really scientific money unit, one not depending for its validity on the notions of King Tut or the Babylonians but on the determinations of modern knowledge.

Perhaps the greatest of all economic needs throughout the wide globe is a monetary medium which will stay put—which will mean the same thing tomorrow that it means today; the same thing next year that it means this year. Half the settlement of business, half the revolutions and a good part of the causes of international war would be done away with.

So great is the need that it is just about certain that it will be filled. The stable dollar will be evolved.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 16.—There is one "hardy annual" sport that blossoms at this season for the bliss of New Yorker and tourist alike.

That's riding the Fifth avenue buses! From Washington Square to the foot of Spuyten Duyvil on the Hudson; Or way up the avenue into the hundreds! All for a dime, ten cents!

Sweethearts snuggled in the back seat, aloft the swaying motor pachyderm. Romantic ones sighing lonesomely to a summer moon! Working folk, tired from the long warm day! Sightseers, chattering in interest are passed! Laughter, whispering, sighing! Thousands getting the first fresh air of the day! Flirtatious girls and young men dandied up to lure a smile.

For the visitor it's a long, colorful and romantic lane. Quite a dime's worth, all considered. Washington Square, starting point, is the heart of Greenwich Village. First there's the Arch. Built by Stanford White, as was known as a victim of Harry Thaw as for his architecture. Most tourists drop in at the Brevoort, storied old French hotel, for generations a rendezvous for writers, artists, society and royalty. Historic residences that figure in the tales of Henry James and Mrs. Wharton's Memorials to another social life!

At No. 21 the old Mark Twain house... Twain had an architect imitate the treflow windows of Grace Church... At 11th street one of the old churches, Presbyterian, built in 1845... The Metropolitan Tower and old Madison Square at 23rd... And the Flatiron building, once so proud a boast and now all but lost in the shuffle of new structures... And the old Madison Square Garden, now ruins.

The Waldorf-Astoria at 34th... Leisurely tea sippers in the window... The old Wendell home at 39th... Two spinsters sisters lived there for years. A high fence shuts out the ground, adjoining Avedon's. This million dollar property is a playground for the family cats, it is said... The Library... And the sophisticated lions... This once was Bryant Park... Once a water distributing reservoir... Once, also, stood here the Crystal Palace, made of glass and widely known as an amusement place..... Then city property. The exclusive shops... At 43rd street, Beth Emanu-El, synagogue which throws a shadow of Orientalism over the shopping ground of a new world... Soon it will be torn down and there will be no old world intrusions... Guaranty Trust building... This was the old Sherry's... Place of another day... A block up was Delmonico's... Started with a wee room near... On Park avenue... St. Patrick's at 50th, ornate and graceful... More than 20 years was taken for its building... Union Club at 51st, and the inevitable old gentlemen in the window... Sometimes they seem to stare like statues... Where, once the Vanderbilt mansion stood... Now a gaping hole at 52nd... Cartier's, capital of baubery... John D. Rockefeller's home at 10 W. 54th street... John D. bought the corner house to prevent any other building adjoining his son's place.

And then into the "millionaire belt"... The Whitney home at 68th... The Guggenheims at 87th... The Harry Payne Whitney... Adolph Lewisohn, philanthropist next door... Mrs. E. H. Harriman just east on 69th, and next door is Ogden Mills, then Kermit Roosevelt... The old Senator Clark place... The August Belmont place on 74th and the famous Henry C. Frick mansion at 70th, on 76th street the James Duke palace, and Otto Kahn and so on to John Hays Hammond's home at 91st.

A "great parade" indeed. By the way, if you're coming to New York you might paste this in your hat by way of guide. —GILBERT SWAN.

A THOUGHT If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small.—Prov. 24:10. Adversity has the effect of eliciting talents, which, in prosperous circumstances, would have lain dormant.—Horace. The first plank road on the American continent was built at Toronto, Canada, in 1825. Such tall roads met the first demands of American traffic.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

Washington, June 16.—"That was a terrible break you made at the Bruce-Mellon wedding," one of his fellow congressmen remarked the other day to Representative John Philip Hill of Baltimore. "What was that break?" stammered Hill, turning pale. "You had on the wrong kind of collar and tie to go with a cutaway coat," his friend informed him. "I did not," cried the Marylander hotly. "I had on exactly the right kind." The other produced a newspaper clipping. It was a picture of Hill, in elegantly cut morning coat, high standing collar, with turnover corners, a black string tie, and of course, all the accessories. "What's the matter with that?" the portrait's original demanded. The friend produced another clipping. It was a picture of David K. Este Bruce, the bridegroom, in tall coat, turndown double collar and a light four-in-hand. "Well, he's wrong," Hill insisted indignantly. "I don't care who he is. That kind of neckwear and a morning coat are downright incongruous. My way's the right way." "What does Bruce make a mistake like that at his own wedding?" exclaimed the friend incredulously. "Tisn't likely." By this time quite a crowd of congressmen had gathered around the disputants, in the House of Representatives lobby.

Hill appealed to them. Opinions differed. Some favored Hill, some his critic, and some held that Hill's collar and tie and Bruce's collar and tie were both all right—that it was a mere matter of taste on the part of the wearer. At this point Representative Cooper of Wisconsin passed. Cooper has worn a cutaway for nobody knows how many years. The debaters stopped him and took a look. "It's had on Hill's kind of a collar and Bruce's kind of tie," Hill refused to call it a draw. He still contends that his combination was absolutely O. K. In the absence of his son, who, with his bride, is on his way to Rome, young David's father, Senator William Cabell Bruce of Maryland, is equally positive that his offspring's getup was correct to the last detail.

What gives a touch of especial bitterness to the dispute is the fact that the two schools' respective proponents are from the same state and the same town. Civil strife notoriously is the worst strife of all.

LIKE A MAN. I guess a dad's sort of pest at morning, when he's gettin' dressed. With heaps of trouble he seems blest—"I'm sly a button on my vest." By little things he's oft delayed and, as result, a fuss is made. He always needs the good wife's aid—"The collar on my shirt is frayed." He has a tough time getting by. While dressing he will puff and sigh. And ere he's through you'll hear him cry: "Hey, mom, come help me tie my tie." Then, when he's set to hie down town, you'll find him searching all around. No wonder pop gets mother's goat, "Say, where the heck's my hat and coat?"

The temperature of the moon at its nonetime is 250 degrees Fahrenheit, or above the boiling point.

YOUTH AND AGE

ALIKE SUCCUMB

To New Hummobile Sport Roadster.

Here's a jaunty sport roadster, all trimmed up pretty, ready to go. It is a Hummobile straight eight and although its "official" passenger rating is four, son Jack or sister Sue can crowd in the whole gang when they take off for a spin in the country, without any strain to anyone's comfort or good nature.

"The popularity of the roadster, however, is not limited to the more youthful drivers as might be presumed," continued Mr. Tinker.

"We are very enthusiastic in expressing our praise for this car. Its flare of bright colors and nickel trimmings will command respect wherever speeding along the highway or pulling up to the porte-cochere of the most fashionable country club. It is built in response to the many requests we have had for the powerful straight eight Hummobile motor in a sport model.

"The car leaves nothing to be desired even by the most fastidious buyer. The list of equipment is especially suited to meet the needs of the sportsman. It includes removable California khaki top with natural wood bows and nickel-plated supporting rods; the car's colorful appearance is further embellished with a generous selection of nickel-plating on all lamps, windshield supports and windshield wiper. Adequate carrying space is provided in rumble compartment and the seat cushions may be easily removed if extra space is required.

Grayvard is garden. London.—A disused burial ground at Kingston has been converted into a garden. All the headstones and monuments have been removed except one, that of Josiah Chase, who fought at Waterloo and died in 1842.

Paris.—The second attempt of Empress Zita, widow of the late Emperor Charles of Austria, to regain the Hapsburg court jewels or at least a recouping of the terms of their sale has failed. A French court has just declared the transactions by which the ex-emperor and the Archduchess Marie Therese disposed of the jewels perfectly regular.

Both suits were directed against the Baron Charles Steiner, former confidant of Emperor Charles and against Bienefeld Brothers, Paris jewelers.

The Hapsburgs received in exchange for the jewels a sum of 5,753,000 francs, at the time received, worth about half a million dollars, but now worth less than $200,000.

Empress Zita came to Paris in person from her Spanish retreat on behalf of her case before the French courts.

Paris.—Despite the fact that the building in which his lives has changed hands, Georges Clemenceau, France's premier, will continue to occupy his Rue Franklin apartment as long as he lives. So attached is the "Tiger" to his apartment that even when it up for the splendors of the Palais d'Orsay.

Recently the five-story apartment house in which Clemenceau lives was sold at auction and purchased by an unidentified person for the equivalent of $30,000. The intermediary who concluded the deal claims he did not know until afterward that Clemenceau was one of the tenants of the building.

Investigations as to whether or not the "Tiger" would be forced to vacate his quarters showed that he has a long-term lease with a rental of the equivalent of $110 annually at the present time.

"THE BAT" TO END

TONIGHT AT STATE

For gasp-provoking action, spine-tling suspense, clean comedy and tender love scenes, "The Bat," famous mystery picture, final showing at the State theater tonight is in a class by itself.

Roland West, genius of mystery melodrama, has taken the Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood stage success and made it into what critics pronounce the year's biggest "surprise picture."

Audiences are kept on the edge of their seats from the opening scenes to the startling finish, when the mask is torn from "The Bat" and the State theater tonight is in a class by itself.

The weird settings and unsurpassed photography in "The Bat" make it one of the artistic triumphs of the last ten years.

Although the plot of the stage play has been followed, new complications have been introduced to baffle even the hundreds of thousands who saw the spoken drama.

The all-star cast has eminent players such as Jewel Carmen, Jack Pickford, Louise Fazenda, Emily Fitzroy, Tullio Carminati, Robert McKim, Eddie Gribbon, Andre Berling, Lee Shimway, Charles Herzinger, and Solin, famous purveyor of Oriental types.

For tomorrow only the State presents two features with the famous State theater country store. The well-groomed hero, Kerry appears in most of this one as a farm laborer, and also demonstrates his ability as a cow-puncher in many riding scenes.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA — General Custer (1)

General George Armstrong Custer, victim of the famous Indian massacre, referred to as "Custer's Last Stand," saw service throughout the Civil War, but is best remembered as an Indian fighter. He was born in New Rumley, Harrison County, Ohio, in 1839, and trained for service to his country early in life, being graduated from West Point Military Academy in 1861.

A short time later he was assigned as a second lieutenant to the Fifth United States Cavalry, and arrived at the front on the day of the first battle of Bull Run.

For service rendered as an aide on the staffs of Generals Phil Kearny, William F. Smith and McClellan, Custer was promoted to a captain of volunteers.

His rise in rank was rapid and, after serving throughout the Peninsular campaign of 1862, he was made a brigadier general of volunteers. Custer then took command of a brigade of Michigan cavalry which, under his leadership, became one of the most efficient and best trained bodies of cavalry in the Federal Army. With these troops he distinguished himself at Gettysburg.

62,000 Children To Form Choir At Chicago Eucharistic Congress

(This is the sixth of a series of articles by Eugene Weare dealing with the international Eucharistic Congress, which is to be held in Chicago, June 9-24, and which, it is expected, will bring to that city more than 1,000,000 Catholics from parts of the world.)

BY EUGENE WEARE, Noted War Correspondent, Journalist and Author. (Copyright, 1926. The International News Service.)

Chicago—An immense amount of time and labor has been spent upon the preparation of the musical program of the Eucharistic congress, but from the results, which are even now apparent, the effort is worth all that it cost.

The outstanding feature of the music is the children's choir of 62,000 voices, which will form the largest trained choir ever assembled and which, on the second day of the congress, will sing the mass, the congregational mass, the famous "Missa de Angelis," or "Mass of the Angels," the composition of which is generally ascribed to an Irish monk, one Tuttle, who resided for a time at St. Gall, in Switzerland.

The Catholic church, which has such an enormous wealth of music of all ages from which to draw, the mass is divided into two parts: the "proper" and the "common." The "proper" consists of such parts as are changed with the day of the feast on which the mass is celebrated: the Introit, or entrance; the Gradual, so-called "the mass," leading to the altar; the "Offertory." These are all of the Gregorian tones.

The "common" or unchanging parts of the mass are the Kyrie Eleison, the Gloria in Excelsis Deo, the Credo, the Sanctus, the Benedictus and the Agnus Dei.

At all the masses during the congress the "proper" will be sung by a choir of theologians from the Seminary of St. Mary-of-the-lake, at Mundelein, Ill., and students from the Cathedral College of Chicago.

The great choir of children will sing the "common" of the "Mass of the Angels" on the second day of the congress in the stadium of Soldiers' Field in Grant Park, situated on the shores of Lake Michigan. This is a huge open-air structure with seating accommodations in the stands for more than 100,000 people. The choir of children will occupy seats on the playing field of the stadium, between the great stands and in front of a specially constructed sanctuary 250 feet long and 200 feet wide, upon which a magnificent altar in stucco, a replica of the famous altar in the church of St. Paul-Outside-the-Walls, in Rome, has been built. For months past these children have been practicing rehearsals for this great choir under the direction of the nuns who are the teachers of music in Chicago parochial schools.

The plan followed has been to first train the nuns in the intricacies of the smaller units of the choir.

Rehearsal in Ball Parks. Two months back the general director of the great choir, Dr. Otto Singsenberger, began his task by assembling units of two, three, five and ten thousand children for a rehearsal. Recently as many as 35,000 of these youthful choirsters have been brought together in the baseball parks of the "Cubs" and the "White Sox" in Chicago for a rehearsal in Ball Parks.

Upon the opening of the congress in the Holy Name Cathedral, the choir of seminarians will sing the "Missa Solemnis," the work of an American composer, Pietro Von New York. This contrapuntal is to be given with chorus, orchestra and organ, the "Offertorium" being Palestrina's "Sacredotes Domini" in five-part counter-point of the fifth species. In addition the magnificent Eucharistic hymn, "Lauda Sion Salvatorem," written in the year 1254, by St. Thomas Aquinas, will be sung.

The closing procession. Monday's mass will be sung by the children. On Tuesday, in the stadium, the "Rosa Mystica" mass by another American composer, Vincent Savary, will be sung by a group of 6,000 nuns and 12,000 lay-women. Wednesday's mass, will be the beautiful, "Mass in honor of St. Francis of Assisi," the composer of which, Sir John Singenberger, is the father of the director of the congress music.

For the great Eucharistic procession, which is to be held at Mundelein, Ill., on the closing day of the congress, the masses selected will be Ruffini's "Missa Chorali," written for three part, men's chorus, with a union chorus used antiphonally. In addition it is expected that the various rapid groups, stationed along the march route, will sing their own native Eucharistic hymns as they proceed. With them will be the nuns of the Holy Name of the Lake of St. Mary with the Eucharistic processed in the Papal Legate.

32 DRIVERS LOSE LICENSES FOR YEAR

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for failure to pay the fee under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are 32 names on the list. Two cases were appealed. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

The dough is poured into molds, a frankfurter is placed in each, and the roll and frankfurter within it is baked in approximately four minutes, the frankfurter being cooked at the same time. Another device provides an injector by means of which a dose of mustard may be shot into the frankfurter.

WILLIMANTIC NINE HERE TONIGHT; PLAYS C. B. A. A.

Edgar to Pitch for Manchester—Stratton Still Tops Local Hitters.

The Willimantic nine lost a couple of hard luck games in the past two weeks. First came a 5-4 defeat at the hands of the Mystic which defeated the Saints 6-4 last Sunday. The team then lost a 6-5 defeat in an eleven inning game with Tatfield. The West Ends also held a win over Danielson.

The famous Heller brothers will appear in the lineup of the visitors. Hawes will pitch. He has been twirling sensational ball for the Willimantic team all season. During the past two games Cheney Brothers have raised the batting average of their team thirty-five per cent.

Jack Stratton, who topped the list of averages two weeks ago has increased his lead considerably. He is now batting .444. Following are the averages of the other players:

DIAMOND DUST

A pinch hit by Mueller, recently acquired from the Cardinals, featured the Giants' 3 to 2 victory over the Reds, who dropped to within a mosquito's eyelash of second place. Cincinnati got only three hits off Ring and Greenfield.

The Cardinals jumped to within a game and a half of first place by whitewashing the Robins, 4 to 0. Sherdel outpitched Vance, although the Brooklyn ace fanned nine batters in seven innings. Bottomley got his tenth homer.

The Phillies had 17 men left on bases but easily trimmed the Cubs, 8 to 1, with Clarence Mitchell barging down on the Cubs like a rookie dentist.

Urban Shocker stood the Browns on their ears and the Yankees won under wraps, 6 to 1. Lazzetti gave the ball a push for New York's daily home run.

The Athletics came out of their hitting slump and, with Rube Walbert yielding only five hits, had little difficulty in whitewashing the Indians, 5 to 0. Cleveland fopped to fourth place.

Red Faber curved the Senators to death and socked a double with the bases full, all of which enabled the White Sox to win, 4 to 1, and climb to second place, ten games back of the Yankees.

The Tigers used 19 players and 16 hits to down the Red Sox, 7 to 6, a rousing three-run rally turning the trick in the ninth. Regan, Boston's new infielder, added three more hits to his fast growing collection.

FARLEY PLAYS HIS JOKER ON "TEX"

Majority of N. Y. State Commission Will Vote Harry Will's Priority.

New York, June 16.—Recognizing the abiding eloquence of a dignified silence, Tex Rickard declined today to say what he would do with his Dempsey-Turner stepchild, now that it seems probable that James A. Farley, commission chairman, will be able to crowd in a controlling vote on the Dempsey-Turner fight issue. The promoter, however, had volunteered spokesmen to do his talking for him and their tip was that he would take Dempsey and Turney to Jersey City, leaving New York holding the bag, and an empty one, at that.

They neglected to state just how Rickard, a licensed promoter under the control of the state commission would be able to flout that body's authority and get away with it. But Rickard's record of never losing money or an argument, since today here has all the "smarts" opinion stopped. They think he can get away with anything and possibly he can.

Phelan and Wear to Vote.

Farley played his "joker" yesterday when he let it be known that Col. John Phelan and D. Walker Wear, members of the license committee, will be eligible to vote on the issue next Tuesday. Both are staunch Farley men and, if they are permitted to cast a ballot, Harry Will's priority as a challenger not only is likely to be sustained but it wouldn't be surprising if the vote is made unanimous, just for the sake of appearances.

Rickard, they say, has been quietly making preparations for the jump to Jersey in anticipation of just such a decision. If he does this, he probably will forfeit his holdings at the Yankee Stadium, for the commission has the "drop" on him there. He made the mistake of taking out a license as matchmaker for that club, bringing him, as an individual, under the control of the board.

Clean Up Sure.

Possibly he is willing to forfeit his rights at the Stadium for the clean-up he is certain to make, even if he put Dempsey on with a prominent street cleaner. Certainly no match in the history of boxing has received the natural "thumbs up" regarding the champion's next appearance, if at all, in defense of his title. The event will make as much money as Rickard can carry away or, I might say, is allowed to carry away.

All of this hallyshoo about the Will's challenge, probably will get the colored man nowhere. But, unjustly enough, it will get Dempsey plenty if ever he gets into the ring again.

BERLENBACH WILL MEET JACK DELANEY JULY 15

New York, June 16.—Jack Delaney, the Bridgeport fighter, and Paul Berlenbach, champion of the light heavyweight division, will meet for the light heavyweight championship of the world on July 15 at Ebbetts Field Brooklyn. It was announced by the boxing commission today.

The data was sanctioned when Humbert Fitzguy promoter, appeared before the New York State Athletic Commission.

This will be the fourth time that Berlenbach has defended his title since winning it a year ago. It will be the third battle between Berlenbach and Delaney, the latter having scored a four-round K. O. over Berlenbach before the Astoria fight was champion.

Last December, Berlenbach and Delaney fought, the decision going to the champion.

The fight is scheduled to go fifteen rounds.

LILLIAN CANNON GOES INTO STEADY TRAINING WITH DOGS SUPPLYING CHEER AND INTEREST

BY LILLIAN CANNON

(Copyright, 1926, NEA Service Inc.)
Gris Nez, France, June 12.—Frequent plunges into the cold waters of the English channel, long, brisk walks along the shore, and plenty of sleep in this quiet little village: Such is the life I am now leading as I am preparing for my attempt to swim the channel in July, under the auspices of the NEA Service, and its client newspapers.

William Burgess, who was engaged as my trainer, believes in plenty of work in preparing for a battle with the channel. Being a good trainer, however, he is watching me closely, and bringing me along slowly. I am never ready to stop when Burgess calls a halt on a swim, or walk, but he has warned me against over-exertion in these early days of my training.

My dogs, so far as the French people are concerned, are the life of the party. I expect them to be just that for me, too, as companions when the final long grind is in progress. But the great popularity of the dogs could move one almost to jealousy.

Channel swimmers and aspirants to swim the channel, are a matter of every summer routine to the townspeople here. The two beautiful sturdy, dark bronze dogs, however, have proved a stimulant to universal interest. "Merveilleuse" was the word of the Paris papers and of the crowds everywhere.

Lillian Cannon who, they say saw the dogs. For my sake, as a girl fighting against odds, they hope I succeed. But for the dogs' sake, they pray that I succeed.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

•• Wilbur Cooper, southpaw hurler with the Chicago Cubs, experienced three unusual seasons during 1920-21-22.

•• During those campaigns Cooper, who was then pitching for the Pirates, turned in more than 20 victories each time. In 1920 he won 24 frays, followed by 26 in 1921 and 23 in 1922.

•• Nowadays it is considered somewhat of an achievement for a major league gunner to reach the 20-wins class let alone doing it three successive seasons as Cooper did. Moreover, Cooper made it four out of five by winning 20 tilts in 1924 after getting only 17 the year previous.

CHENEY BROTHERS DECIDE TO REVIVE POPULAR SPORT

SAINTS PLAY HARTFORD NINE HERE TOMORROW

Colored Stars to Furnish Opposition—Last Night's Game Cancelled.

Manager Bulla of the St. Mary's baseball team announced today he had booked the Hartford Colored Stars to play here against his team Thursday night. The game will be played at the West Side grounds.

The Hartford team was scheduled to meet the Sons of Italy team last night but adverse weather caused a cancellation. It has not been announced who will pitch for the Saints. This will be told in tomorrow's Herald.

All Cards to Be Staged on McKee Street Baseball Diamond—First Program Slated for July 1—Local Athletes Asked to Take Part.

Outdoor boxing, a sport which has not been held in Manchester in many years, is to be revived.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Secretary John L. Jenney, of Cheney Brothers Athletic Association.

The first of the open air cards will be held Thursday evening, July 1. Local and out-of-town boxers are welcome to compete. It will be conducted on an amateur basis.

All the fights will be staged at the McKee street stadium. The ring will be erected directly in front of the baseball grandstand and other bleachers will be constructed on the remaining sides.

For considerable time the athletic association has been contemplating the idea of starting outdoor boxing in Manchester. The members of the board of directors at their last meeting discussed all angles of the sport and decided the idea would meet with the approval of theistic fans. With popular prices existing and well balanced cards arranged, it is the belief of the association directors that the fight programs will draw large crowds.

Hartford Support.

For some time amateur boxing cards have been staged in Hartford and have proven highly successful. Large crowds have attended them. This included many Manchester lovers of this sport. Al Hubbard, A. A. U. director of Hartford, who has been in charge of promoting the fights in Hartford, has promised Mr. Jenney he will do all within his power to make the new venture go over big in Manchester.

In speaking about the plan today, Mr. Jenney said he hoped any local boxers who have not lost their amateur standing and who wish to participate in the cards which will be arranged will get in communication with him. There is plenty of local talent that could be used to a good advantage in a card of amateur boxing and there is no reason why Manchester fighters should not step forward and make themselves heard from, not only verbally but in the boxing arena.

In addition to Manchester boxers, there will be fighters procured from Hartford, Springfield, Rockville and Bristol. These will doubtlessly comprise the bulk of the cards.

President Thomas Weir of the association has appointed the following committees to complete the arrangements for the fights:

Fights committee: George Hunt Jr., chairman, James Dowd, Winston Turkington, Frank Cervini and Matthew Macdonald.

Ground and parking: James McCaw, chairman, Jackson Stratton, Ray Tilden, Arthur Anderson and Edward McGuinness.

Advertising: J. L. Jenney and Fred Finnegan.

Prizes: J. L. Jenney.

Further details in connection with the progress in arranging the boxing cards will be announced later exclusively in The Herald.

Thursday morning only. Special at Arthur L. Huttman's: Regular B. V. D. Union Suits, $1.19. White collar attached broadcloth shirts, $1.59 and $2.19, regularly $2 and $2.50.—Adv.

Diamond is Picked

Fly ball strikes hands of left fielder, who is unable to hold the ball. He so deflects it that the center fielder backing up the play completes the catch before the ball touches the ground. When can base-runners start to advance on such a play?

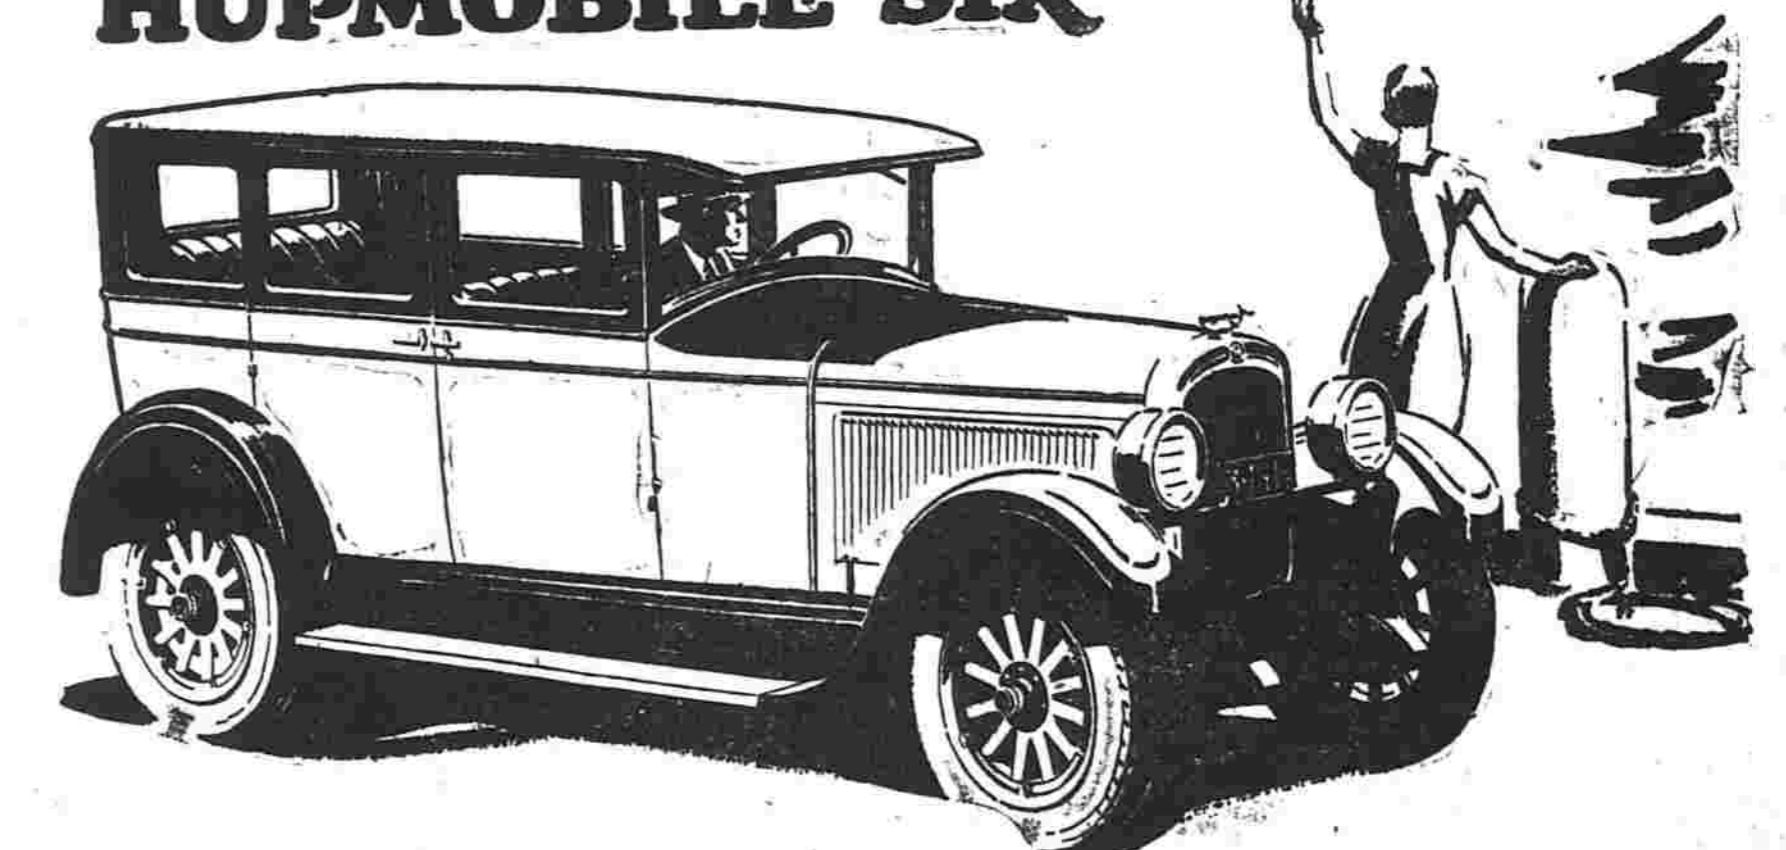

In some quarters the belief exists that on such a play runners who have held their bases cannot advance until the ball strikes the hands of the player who actually completes the catch.

This is incorrect. In the play cited runners who have properly held their bases on a fly ball that is ultimately caught can start to advance the moment the ball strikes the hands of the first player touching it, in this case the left fielder.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy and Nick did not remember leaving the tiny car that rolled out of them through Downey Land, but suddenly they were standing right on their feet in a big city. The pink ticket track had rolled itself up with a snap and jumped back into Nick's pocket.

"What place is this, do you suppose?" said Nancy, looking around at the buildings, which were, if possible, queerer than those of Shut-Eye Town. The ticket stuck its head up out of Nick's pocket again and looked at them with its round pink eyes. "This is called 'Any Place At All,'" it said, and then went back to its pocket.

"Oh, ho! Any Place At All!" cried Nick. "Then I suppose anything at all may happen to us, don't you think so, Nancy. I wonder what—"

I don't know exactly how he was going to finish his sentence, for suddenly a hand as large as a room whisked the Twins off their feet and before they could say "boo" (although it probably never entered their heads to say that) they found themselves looking into a pair of eyes as large as plates.

"Oh! What a funny pair of huge!" said an enormous voice, "I never saw such funny buns before. Look, Mama!"

"It's a giant boy!" shouted Nick to Nancy, for the giant boy had started to laugh and it sounded like thunder. "It's a giant boy who's got us. Let's jump."

But when they looked down at the ground it seemed like a million miles, for the giant boy was tall as a church.

"Don't wobble so," roared the giant boy, "if you do I'll squeeze you."

With that he took Nick between one finger and thumb and Nancy between the other finger and thumb and held them more firmly. He really was not pressing very hard, but a queer thing happened. Nick felt his head going down and his feet coming up. Nearer and nearer they came toward each other until suddenly he was only three inches high. And looking over at Nancy he discovered that she had done exactly the same thing. She was only three inches high, too.

"I was right," thought Nick. "Most anything at all can happen to you here and I guess one thing has happened already. We look like Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb."

Suddenly Nick had an idea, and at the same time Nancy had the same idea. And I guess, if you had been held tightly between a giant boy's finger and thumb and squeezed until you were only three inches high, you'd have had the same idea too. They pinched him. The Twins pinched the giant boy.

With a horrible yell the giant boy flung the Twins away as hard as he could. "They're bees!" he cried. "Or wasps! Or hornets! Oh, Mama, I'm killed!"

I don't know what Mrs. Giant did for her big little boy. Most likely she put on soda or unguent, but anyway our story isn't about him. We must follow the Twins.

The Twins kept falling and falling and falling, down through a million miles of space. It seemed, and at last they landed softly on the ground. But wonder had not ceased. For both of them had melted on the way and were now as flat as rain-drops. They were as large as wash-tubs, but as flat as tried eggs or wheat cakes. They felt very queer, but not at all uncomfortable. "Now who is going to scrape us up?" said Nick to Nancy. (To be continued.)

A PUZZLE A DAY

There is a curious story attached to the sentence hidden in this diagram. A group of Hopi Indians came to Washington from their reservation to perform a snake dance. This dance originated many years ago and is supposed to have a magical after-result. Sometimes the Indians are not successful in getting this result. But while they were in Washington their prophecy was fulfilled.

If you start at one corner of the diagram and travel in a continuous line over every letter once, you will discover the quaint Indian prophecy.
