HOUSE COOLING BY GAS TO COME IN NEAR FUTURE

Extensive Tests in Use of Gas as Refrigerant to Be Made This Summer, Say Gas Men.

Extensive tests are to be made this summer with a newly discovered method of cooling homes during the summer months by means of gas, according to the Connecticut gas men. These experiments, if successful, will result in an important innovation in the use of gas for that purpose.

Only a matter of two decades ago, the people of Connecticut looked upon manufactured gas as a means of illumination, but today electricity has replaced gas as a means of lighting, and the latter is looked upon as a fuel for all heating purposes.

This fall gas will take on a new aspect, for at that time box refrigerators cooled by gas will be placed upon the market, after years of experimenting. The proposed use of gas for cooling entire buildings will be an extension of the refrigerating device.

THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1926.

DIRECT PRIMARIES.

What really comes out of this horrid Pennsylvania scandal is the conviction that the direct primary is a fizzle.

In no case has the result of the change from the old convention and caucus system been a marked improvement in the quality of the office holder.

There has been a growing belief for a long time that when the people of the American states so largely adopted the direct primary system they picked a lemon for an orange.

No caucus-created convention that was ever held, in the Keystone state or in any other, was bought and paid for as was the primary vote in Pennsylvania in the Pinchot-Pepper-Vare fight.

Perhaps there was room for improvement in the old system before we miscued in this primary remedy. But a return to the old way, with those needed improvements provided for, would certainly make for better public officers, a more general interest in political affairs, cleaner government and a very considerable saving of costs.

DISGRACE.

To many thousands of the alumni of two great universities and to a considerable number of the general public the annual Yale-Harvard regatta at New London is an event of real importance.

The episode will be remembered for a long time and the names of the young men involved in the scandal will be familiar to many times more persons than would have been the case if the affair had occurred on the campus.

Six students have been found guilty of a very shameful and unmanly breach of faith. They may have been tempted by the "pack" motive, rather than the strictly personal one; for it is likely enough that it was fear of disrupting the crew through failure to pass, more than any apprehension on the part of its members for their individual college futures, that led the freshmen to their lapse from honesty and decency.

For this reason it would seem that the Yale authorities have committed a serious ethical breach in withholding the names of the three men on the crew who were not disqualified. It is a fair presumption that these three men did not cheat in their examinations.

No university has any right to fasten such a handicap on three innocent men for the sake of half-way covering up the identities of six whose sense of honor was below par.

DOWN SKYSCRAPERS.

Many Manchester people know Henry H. Curran, former commissioner of immigration at Ellis Island, now counsel to the City Club of New York and principal speaker at the last annual banquet of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

"Skyscrapers breed subways and subways breed skyscrapers," declared Mr. Curran in an address yesterday. He was talking as a member of the mayor's huge future-planning committee, and so well within his latitude.

The building of new subways, he explained, only makes possible the building of more of these "pests" by momentarily providing means of access to the region where they sprout, and the additional skyscrapers then make more subways necessary.

This is the first time that any person who has had the ear of the New York public ever employed his opportunity in attacking the theory that all the business of the world must be done on a couple of thousand acres of Manhattan Island.

Every great movement must have its genesis. The unscrubbing of the unspeakable squirming mass that is called New York, the distribution of its enormous activities over an area many times greater than that at present utilize, is a job that the future will see accomplished, as surely as New York continues to be the western world's metropolis.

As usual, the Senate investigation into the Pennsylvania primary scandal is departing from its nominal purpose and becoming a partisan political device.

There was a great deal of interest in the revelation of the amount of money spent in the Pennsylvania fight for the figures have been astounding.

But there is not any such interest in the efforts of Jim Reed of Missouri—whose own political morality and ethics are essentially feline—to put the ward politics of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh behind a lens and project them on the curtain of a senatorial investigation as a monstrous thing.

SEVEN YEARS AFTER.

Sergeant Alvin C. York, who traipsed into camp one day with 132 well-filled German helmets following him, won America's acclaim seven years ago as the World War's greatest individual hero.

He was stormed with theatrical and movie contracts. He rejected them. He had an idea. The other day his idea began to take real shape.

York is more than a great hero of the war. He has placed himself second to the hill people in the Blue Mountains of the Cumberland plateau. It is his hope that these people, many of whom are still untouched by the finger of modern civilization, be given a chance to learn the practical, better things of life.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 17.—It will be some time, apparently, before the word "bartender" is out of the dictionary.

Although the Bartenders' Union is gone, Manhattan has in its place the Bartenders' Benevolent and Protective Association and each day you will find there little groups who refuse to desert the sinking ship.

"Soft drink" resorts that have sprung up in old-time bars offer a few jobs, but the dyed-in-the-wool mixologist does not find this particularly exciting.

In the "loft" belt around Sixth avenue, occupied largely by millinery, fur, button and embroidery concerns may be found an army of repair artists.

These are independent carpenters of all sorts who stand about the sidewalks waiting to be called in on a job.

In such districts repair and small building jobs are always under way. Showrooms need tables, little sitting rooms are wanted in a hurry, or a stockroom is to be partitioned.

The labor seeker has merely to run down to the sidewalk and he will find the very workman he needs. They stand about with the particular tools of their trade prominently displayed so that they may be easily identified.

This open labor market flourishes chiefly on Sixth avenue from 26th to 30th streets.

Several of the more enterprising "sidewalk artists" have made business arrangements with delicatessen dealers and cigar stands so that they may be summoned by telephone.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART Washington, June 17.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan has a passion for publicity in affairs of state.

A lot of his fellow senators with Couzens would keep his passion under better control. It embarrasses them greatly when he lets it overflow on them, as it did when he got that income tax publicity law enacted at the last session of Congress.

True, they reaped it this session, but it was most unpleasant while it lasted. It also gave Jim a reputation among all "regulars" as a dangerous character.

Couzens is in a pretty fair state of suppression just now. The "regulars", on both sides, being banded together to hold insurgency in check, are strong enough, incidentally, to prevent the Michigan senator from running amuck again with that publicity bug of his.

But, all the time, they know the urge is seething inside him to tear the lid off from everything governmental, and it worries 'em.

Couzens' theory is that cabinet members should be required to appear in Congress periodically, to have questions put to them as members of the English ministry are questioned in Parliament.

"For instance," he told me last session, "the Teapot Dome transaction probably could have been investigated, instead of after the fact had been completed."

Of course, to individuals who profit by Teapot Dome dickers this sounds like very poor reasoning.

Couzens puzzles the Senate and probably the Senate puzzles him. Senators are mostly politicians and lawyers. They may be practical politicians but not many of them are practical business men.

Couzens isn't at all backward about jumping into a fight. He's a man of strong likes and dislikes. He's far from patient. Riled, he mutters it with plenty of vigor and purpose.

Efficiency, Efficiency, Efficiency. That's Senator Couzens. He's a high-class senator and an interesting one.

Fathers' Day

SUNDAY, June 20th, is "Dad's Day." Father has been slow in coming into his own—a day devoted to deference of his years of plodding, planning and producing for the entire family.

But now his day is established and you'll be glad that you can, from the fullness of your appreciation, give "dad" something that will make him know he counts "big."

MEXICO TO OPEN BIG IRRIGATION PROJECTS SOON

Home Valley of Former President Obregon to Be Made Fertile.

Navajoa, Sonora, Mexico.—Gen. Alvaro Obregon's dream of years that his home valley, the Mayo, would one day be thoroughly irrigated and its fertile acres reclaimed for agriculture, will begin to become a reality in October, when construction is to start on the great dam in the Mayo River at Los Mezcales.

Information to the effect that a San Francisco contracting corporation will build the dam and irrigation canals was given by Luis L. Leon, Secretary of Agriculture in the Calles cabinet, who spent several days here with former President Obregon, when he returned here from Mexico City.

The cost of the Mezcales dam and canal system will be 20,000,000 pesos, Sr. Leon said. Louis C. Hill, reclamation engineer, of Los Angeles, formerly in charge of operations at the building of the Elephant Butte and Roosevelt dams, will probably direct the construction of the Mayo project.

Sr. Leon said that the acreage to be brought under irrigation below the dam in the Mayo Valley will be five times greater than the present watered area, which is 100,000 acres. Two canals and several large laterals will be opened. At its base the Mezcales dam will be 750 feet thick. It will be 180 feet high and 3,000 feet in length. Five years will be required for the construction.

In addition to watering thousands of acres of land devoted to chick peas (garbanzos), the big crop of the Mayo Valley, exported to Spain and Cuba, the reservoir will provide water for tomato and melon planters on a scale greater than in the Sinaloa valleys, now exporting to United States markets some 3,000 carloads annually.

Secretary Leon said that as soon as arrangements are completed for the beginning of work on the Mayo project, the Mexican government will take hold of irrigation proposals near Guaymas and Hermosillo in Sonora. The newly-formed federal farm loan bank will assist in financing these projects, Secretary Leon said in conjunction with the national irrigation commission.

Proposals of the United Sugar Companies, at Los Mochis on the Puente River in Sinaloa, to construct a large reservoir for watering thousands of acres not now served by the limited canal system, were favorably considered by the government, Secretary Leon said.

For Sonora Valley, planters in the Sonora River valley, near Hermosillo, the state capital, have proposed another big reservoir project, planned at Molinito, twelve miles from the capital, and are willing to deed half of their land holdings to an American company for the cost of construction, estimated to be 10,000,000 pesos.

Secretary Leon said that the Molinito dam is calculated to furnish water for 175,000 acres. If the federal government agrees to guarantee a bond issue for the cost, the securities would be placed in the United States quickly, according to the Sonora men back of the project.

One of the many large irrigation projects on the west coast is the Rosales canal and laterals, in the Culiacan Valley, built during the administration of the late Governor Angel Flores. Another is the Richardson project in the Yaqui Valley, where an interesting American settlement has grown up.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday afternoon at the School Street Rec. auditorium the sixth and final of the series of Freshmen assemblies which have been given by various Freshmen classes recently, was presented by Freshmen thirteen. The entertainment which consisted of a mock trial, was under the supervision of Mr. Humes. Those who took part were the following:

Judge ..... V. Adamson
Prosecuting Attorney ..... J. Wright
Attorney for the Defense ..... R. Campbell
Sheriff ..... R. Donahue
Witnesses: F. Dellatera, A. Davis, A. Gorman, L. Quinn, R. Benson.
Accused ..... L. Gillman
Court officer ..... H. Trueman
Clerk ..... T. Anelis
Jurors: F. Anderson, Frederick, son, Fairbanks.

The "trial" took place in what was named the Inferior Criminal Court of Manchester. The accused was charged with setting fire to a store. The attorneys on both sides argued the case to a standstill where it stood until the jurors decided the accused was guilty. The entertainment was funny in the way through, and brought shouts of laughter from the audience. It was cleverly prepared, and well presented.

Scripture reading before the assembly was done by William Kanehl, president of the Freshman class. After the mock trial had been completed, Mr. Proctor presented the award for the best diary kept by Miss Ellis' English class students from March 15 to June 15. The contest was open to all members of Miss Ellis' English classes, and was won by Sylvia Haggdorn. The award was a copy of "Live a Day Book." The judges in the contest were the Misses Thayer, McKenzie and Kelly.

Their decision was based on the interest of the material the diaries contained, and on sentence structure.

After this the assemblage practiced the Freshman class cheers for "Tubby" Johnson and "Collie" Briggs will lead the class in cheering on Friday afternoon. The cheers are peppy.

U. S. COLLEGE TO TRAIN GENERALS WORRIES EUROPE

American Chief of Staff Causes a Small Flurry at Geneva.

Geneva.—The United States possesses an organization for the training of its generals, the War College, whose organization and resources are the envy of many European chancelleries, according to Major General Dennis Nolan, Chief of Staff of the United States army, in charge of the military experts in the American delegation to the Preparatory Disarmament Conference.

"Our War College is primarily an American institution. That is why we take such pride in it. The very things that the conference is trying to determine, the potentialities in war and in peace of every nation, have been made the basis of our training. We stress the economic and industrial factors which enter into the modern science of warfare in such an important degree. College Reorganized.

"Soon after the entry of the United States into the war we completely reorganized the entire college, embodying the lessons which the Great War even at that very time was teaching. General Miles was put in charge of the school and under his direction many obsolete courses were dropped. General Pershing himself took a very great personal interest in the school and on his recommendation many important changes were made in the curriculum.

"It is our aim to stress in a broad general way the more remote factors that enter into a country's ability to make war. Other military institutions emphasize the technical or strategic development of their students' military knowledge, but we prefer to give them a substantial comprehensive acquaintance with modern warfare. The fact that the preparatory Disarmament Commission has charged the military sub-commission to present reports on the potentialities of every country, justifies, I think, the 'sightedness' of the instructors at our War College.

Selecting Officers.
"Another important feature of our school is the co-ordination it establishes between the army and the navy. Each year a certain number of officers are selected from the Naval Register who are detained to follow the courses at the War College. They accompany the military manœuvres as well and serve as valuable liaison officers. Other countries may be able to forecast if a nation will react to a given situation but our War College can determine how such a nation will react; estimate the resources of that nation and the length of time it will take her to mobilize."
"The presence of a Chief of Staff cause quite a flurry here. A correspondent presented one of the German experts to General Nolan. The German, a colonel, clicked his heels together and stood stiffly awaiting the initiative of General Nolan before speaking. General Nolan extended his hand affably and cordially said, "How do you do, Colonel?" "How do you like Geneva?"

WORCESTER GREETSWEDISH ROYALTY

Crown Prince and Princess Have Busy Day, Start for Concord Battleground.

Worcester, June 17.—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus, of Sweden, came here from Newport, R. I., and received a degree of doctor of science from Clark University. He was welcomed to the Bay State by Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, visited the Swedish Home for the Aged, was feted at the mid-summer festival of the Swedish National Federation and met Swedish-Americans of all walks of life from all sections of New England.

Sweden's next king and princess Louise left Newport as thousands from all parts of the New England states gathered here to give the royal party a welcome never to be forgotten.

The royal entourage followed a motor route that led across the island of Rhode Island, up the Narragansett shore to Pawtucket, to Woonsocket, and thence to the Massachusetts-Rhode Island line and on to Worcester.

From Worcester this afternoon the royal couple are motoring to the historic battlefields at Concord and Lexington and thence to Prides Crossing. Friday and Saturday will be spent by the crown prince and princess in and about Boston and on Sunday they will entrain for Niagara Falls.

S. M. H. S. CLASS DAY TOMORROW

Annual Exercises Will Be Open to Student Body Only— Committees.

On Friday afternoon the Class of 1926 of the South Manchester High school will hold its Class Day exercises in the assembly hall. This annual event with each senior class is its big fun-making day. In past years class days have always been of high standard, and the present Senior Class expects to make this year's event the biggest yet. On account of the large student body, and the fact that seating facilities in the hall will be heavily taxed, it is impossible to extend a formal invitation to the public to attend these exercises.

The address of welcome will be given by George Krause, president of the Senior Class. The class motto is "Non Sibi Sed Omnibus." (Not for self, but for all). The program and the members of the various committees for the Class Day exercises follow:

Music: Ivar Dahlquist, chairman; John Anderson, Carl Magnusson, Joseph Quish, Sherwood Anderson and Clifford Chartier.
Class History: Olive Pinesgan, chairman; Mary Wilcox, and Stanley Bray.
Class Prophecy: Chairman, Franklin Smith; John Hutchinson, Eina Kanehl, Alva Anderson and Tina Gagliardone.
Class Statistics: Norma Soderburg in charge.

After the above exercises have been completed the assembly will adjourn to the back of the building where the ivy planting exercises will be conducted. George Krause, president of the Senior Class has been selected to deliver the Ivy Oration. The Junior Representative will be made by William Hall, Junior Class president. The class poem will be recited by its author, Frances Howe.

The decorations are in charge of the following committee: Clifford Chartier, chairman; Joseph Quish, James Quish, Helen Gorman, Florence Glenney and Jennie Hills. The Senior Class officers are the following: President, George Krause; vice-president, Norma Soderburg; secretary, Helen Anderson; treasurer, William Hand.

Friday evening the Senior Class will hold a Class Day dance in the assembly hall. It will be an exclusive Senior affair. Details for the event, however, have not been completed.

JAPAN AGAIN TATTOO-MAD.

Tokyo.—Tattooing, which is illegal in Japan, is becoming a fad again. The police are kept busy running down tattooers in their studios or on the streets. The aristocrats have taken up the custom, many having designs of

Cannonball Strong

Since that time the Hartford team has improved greatly. Summaries of their victories show they have been hitting hard and consistently. They have proven a big attraction wherever they have played and tonight should prove no change of happenings.

Either Cannonball Strong or Cy Willis will pitch for the visitors tonight. Both have performed here on numerous previous occasions and have treated the fans to some nifty exhibitions.

Billy Evans Says

Timely Batters. The real value of a player's batting average is largely determined by his ability to drive in runs in a pinch.

Champion batters are not always the best in the big crisis. In this respect Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals is the exception.

Most Valuable Arm. Who has the best throwing arm among the outfielders in the American League was the question recently put to me.

Tough Breaks. When things break badly for a ball club there seems to be no end of the hard luck that can camp on its trail.

Hornsby's Vow. 'Send me back to the Coast League; I would rather play there anyway.'

Natural Bateman. St. Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics is one of the best natural batemen in baseball today.

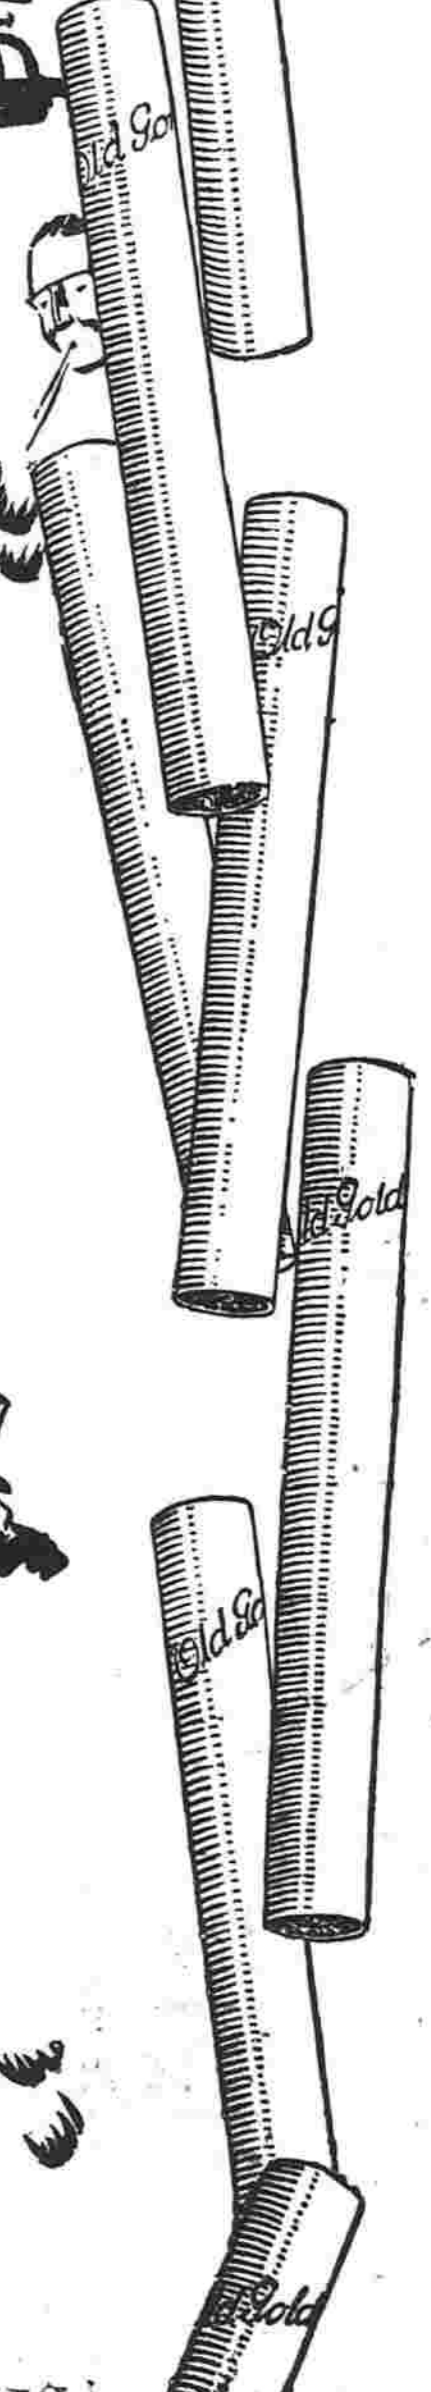

Despite a stance and style contrary to all baseball conventions, Simmons is one of the most feared hitters in the league.

This greatly improves his team value, since he is much harder to play.

LEADING LEAGUE HITTERS. Herman, Dodgers .370. High, Braves .349. Ruth, Yankees .389. Dugan, Yankees .377.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Greedy Cowbird and Sparrow

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature Association.

This represents a tragedy which occurs all too frequently in the lives of many of our smaller birds. One day when this chipping sparrow mother was absent from her nest, probably before she had laid all her eggs a brownish-gray cowbird much larger than the chippy laid her white, brown-speckled egg in the new-built home. Doubtless the mother chippy noticed this strange looking egg, and was puzzled, but being good-natured, concluded to make no fuss about it, so the egg was brooded and in due time hatched along with chippy's own.

But the youngster from the stranger egg was greedy and grasping and got more than its share of the food that the mother chippy and her mate brought to the brood. And so, being larger and stronger, it will live by their labors until finally it is turned loose to shift for itself.

The season will be late and perhaps the chippies will think it too late for another nesting. Perhaps they will try again with similar result.

In some localities cowbirds are so common that nearly every nest of our smaller species will have its cowbird foster child. Think what a host of beautiful and useful songsters are thus destroyed by this feathered pest, too indolent even to raise its own young.

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

French, Harry Todd, William Steele, Frank Lansing and John Peters. Edward Sedgwick who wrote the story, also directed the picture.

DAILY POEM

VACATION.

The kids 'er runnin' rampant, an' they're havin' lots of fun. The days of naught but loafin' and the like have just begun. Say, tell me what is better, in the world beneath the sun, than summertime vacation, when yer schoolin' days 'er done?

There ain't no 'larm clock ringin', so's ta get you outa bed. Yer mom an' pop ain't gonna call their child a sleepy head. No books of pesky spellin' in the evening need be read. No teacher, when yer backward, has a chance at raisin' need.

The great outdoors is callin' an' it spreads a bit o' cheer. The kids 'er gladly fallin', as they do this time of year, fer fun an' plenty of it. Shucks, ther's naught they need to fear. The kids' world looks much brighter, when vacation time is here.

HOW SKINNY KIDS GAIN WEIGHT AND STRENGTH

Everyone knows that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamins, is a flesh builder supreme. In children where rickets are suspected it even helps to build up the bones and strengthens the body.

But let us all be glad! the poor under weight, sickly, puny, kids doesn't have to take the vile, nasty, oil itself any more for thanks to science McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets has taken its place.

Sugar coated they are and as easy to take as candy and if you will give them to your sickly child for thirty days, you'll be very happy indeed.

If you are not, the druggist from whom you bought them is authorized to return your money. 60 tablets 50 cents—but be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine.—Adv.

Buy Tydol
the only gasoline sold through sealed pumps

THE higher the quality of a gasoline, the greater need there is to protect that quality from substitution.

The Tydol dealers have united in sealing every Tydol pump in this section. For, the sealed pump is the latest step in Tide Water's vigilant system of safeguarding the high quality of Tydol.

The seal on any Tydol pump (you are invited to inspect it) is your visible proof that you get Tydol and nothing but Tydol from a Tydol pump.

Bootleggers defeated by sealed pump

The need for protecting a gasoline until it actually enters the gas tank of your car was never apparent until last fall. Then, New York City became flooded with so-called "bootleg gasoline". This was cheap, third-rate stuff that dishonest distributors pawned off on the public, selling it through pumps which bore the trade-marks of quality gasolines.

Then Tide Water, with the cooperation of Tydol dealers, developed the sealed pump. The effect was immediate. Car owners flocked by thousands to the sealed Tydol pumps. The gasoline bootleggers were defeated. The sealed pump, originated to meet a crisis is now being installed in this section to make certain that inferior gasolines never can be substituted for high-quality Tydol.

The sealed pump's new hose!

The Tydol dealers in this vicinity have united in sealing all Tydol pumps. They believe that the high quality of Tydol deserves an added measure of protection. And they want car owners to know beyond any doubt that when they buy Tydol they get Tydol.

If you endorse the step these Tydol dealers have taken to guarantee you better gasoline, show your approval by buying Tydol from them. You'll find a Tydol dealer near your home. Ask him to show you how his Tydol pump is sealed. You'll find that he is proud of the "Seal of Protection". He's a good man for you to do business with.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

It was all very queer about the Twins. They weren't Twins at all any more, but just great flat splashes on the ground like paint. You could see their heads and faces and hands and feet and clothes, but they looked exactly like pictures someone had painted on the ground. It must have been because they fell such a distance from the giant boy's hand, that they smashed so flat.

But it hadn't hurt a bit! It felt just as though they had fallen on sizer-down pillows. "We're in a nice fix now!" said Nick, trying to look at Nancy. "I should say so," said Nancy. "If someone could scrape us up, maybe we could roll down a hill and get all right again."

At that minute a man rushed out from a restaurant across the street where he had been baking wheat cakes in a window. His cake turner looked as big as a snow shovel.

"Don't move and I'll fix you," he shouted. "Just a minute!" he said. With that he deftly slid his cake turner under Nancy and scraped her up. Then he slid the cake turner under Nick and scraped him up.

"Now if you'll just roll down this hill," he remarked, "I think you'll be as fit as fiddle again. I'll turn you both up like hoops and give you a start."

Which he did. Nancy rolled and Nick rolled, and the farther they rolled the more round they became. At last they reached the bottom of the hill and both of them hit a fire-ping or whatever it is they have on the moon in case of fire.

That sent them spinning around on their feet, and in three minutes the Twins were back to their own forms and their own size exactly as though nothing had happened.

Both of them began to laugh. "This is a queer place all right," said Nick. "The funny part of it is that no matter what happens to you, nothing hurts."

"Oh, look!" said Nancy suddenly, pointing to a woman across the street.

But he could see for himself what Nancy meant. For while he looked, the woman changed into two women and then into three women and then into four, five, six, seven women all exactly like the first one. All with umbrellas in their right hands and baskets in their left hands.

"It must be the seven wives going to St. Ives," said Nancy. "Oh look, look! Now there are only five—no three! Why, they've all gone but one!"

But in another minute there were seven again. And so it went—the woman turning into seven women and then back into one, like raindrops melting together.

"Everybody is doing the same thing," said Nick pointing down the street. And even the dogs and cats! For goodness sake, just look, Nancy!

Sure enough, men and women and boys and girls and cats and dogs were all turning into trees and fountains and then back into one again.

"Maybe there is something wrong with our eyes, Nick," said Nancy. "Perhaps we are just seeing things!"

"No," said the pluck ticket, jumping out of Nick's pocket. "It's all true! The city of 'Any Place at All' is the oddest city on the moon. Do you wish to go or stay, I can take you away if you wish."

"We'd better ask somebody here if Inco and Flops passed this way, first," said Nick.

"Very well," said the ticket. "Suit yourself."

A PUZZLE A DAY

Charlie Wey of Tennessee was in the barn busily engaged in planning a square sign board for his farm. For he had decided the evening before to follow the lead of 3000 other farmers in his state and name his farm home. The only smooth piece of lumber available was of the above irregular shape. Charlie is too economical to waste any of it. He knows that by sawing it into three pieces he can refit the parts and form a square. But it is also possible to saw the lumber into two pieces and make the same shaped figure.

Can you show Charlie how this can be done?

Last Puzzle Answer

The diary given to Lillian Cannon contains 72 pages. The book is divided into four sections. 1. "Training" contains 14 pages. 2. "Diet" contains 18 pages. 3. "Amusements" contains 8 pages. 4. "Friends" contains 32 pages. If you add 2 pages to the first section, subtract 2 from the second, double the number in the third, and halve the number in the last, your result in each case will be 16. (14 plus 18 plus 8 plus 32 equals 72.
