"ROUGH STUFF" IS FEATURE OF H. S. CLASS DAY

Two Boys Hurt, Two Stripped, Greased and Ducked; Officer Wall Interferes; Hazings Despite Warnings.

Several students were injured and at least two were stripped of clothing, greased and thrown into a pond by hazings among students of the local High school last night and this morning. Free-for-all fighting broke out on Main street near the terminus and also in Miss Mary Cheney's garden and as a result more than one black eye is being nursed today. One of the participants, Ernest Wall, was forced to use his night-stick in dispersing the students. All this occurred despite warnings by Principal Clarence P. Quimby.

Other phases of the hazings were students being forced to dance in the street in R. V. D.'s and draw other students about the streets in a "stolen" buggy. One student, Frank Harabarda, a Junior, and also a member of the track team of the school, was forced to dance with a group of students following him with another student, Harabarda, who specialized in the mile run on the track team and this evening was not needed to him in the race for he was in the following day's contest to win in a culvert under Eldridge street. He claims someone else was poured into the culvert in an effort to force him into the open.

Clarence "Bub" Farred, a Junior, was captured by the seniors and rushed towards Gould's pond on South Main street. Here the party stripped him of all his clothing and "26" was painted in large numerals on his body. There was need for this purpose. It was planned to throw him into the pond but classmates rescued him. This caused further rioting and the students, numbering fully 100, entered Miss Mary Cheney's garden where a meat-rook pierce was used for the purpose. Later other fighting broke out in Main street. As it raged the Wall stepped in, the students scattered. They soon mobilized again, and stretched up the street in a body. The policeman ordered them to disperse. It was during this time that Officer Wall was forced to use his club in breaking up the gathering. As far as can be learned, only one student was struck by the strolchman.

Principal's Warning.
Despite the warnings of the principal against any "rough activities," the students began gathering at an early hour last night. As soon as it was dark the factions began to prepare for the hazings. The seniors were determined to haze the underclassmen. The latter students were determined they would not. Then the trouble began.

Stuart Robinson, a Junior, was taken by the seniors and carried down South Main street. He was stripped of his clothing and forced to dance the Charleston in his nightgown.

Buggy Stolen.
One incident in connection with the hazings which has been reported is that several of the students in an old buggy from a place on Upper Oak street and forced four depressed men to draw it back and forth on South Main street. Six sides in the wagon. The "horses" were students were said to have been "Bitch" Kittell, sophomore, "Bub" La Cose, Junior, Stuart Robinson, Junior, and Jack Shea, sophomore. The underclassmen were forced to draw the buggy-load on South Main street and then back again.

More Trouble.
The hazings lasted until a late hour last night. This morning the trouble broke out anew. "Sully" (Continued on Page 9.)

"BLACK HAND" SCARES JUST DIRTY HAND HOPES

New York, June 18.—Three more "black hand" panics emptied New York schools yesterday. The suspicion is gaining ground that the "black hand" concerned is the dirty hand that each boy hopes to develop playing ball in the nearest municipal playground when the "panic" results in school dismissal.

RICH CHICAGOAN KILLS WIFE, SELF

Telke, Radio Maker, Follows His Estranged Mate to New York.

New York, June 18.—René Telke, wealthy radio manufacturer of Chicago, killed his beautiful young wife, Marie, in a furnished room here yesterday afternoon and then fatally shot himself. Indications are that the double tragedy was the result of a love triangle, police said. They had learned that Mrs. Telke had last Saturday from the luxurious Chicago home of her husband and came to New York to hire a humble hall bedroom from Mrs. Elizabeth D. Bassette, giving the name of "Marie Barke". It subsequently developed that her husband followed her on the most train from Chicago to this city.

Yesterday afternoon he appeared at the apartment and Mrs. Bassette unsuspectingly led him to his wife's room. He went in and the landlady lured herself in another part of the apartment.

Ten minutes after Telke entered the room Mrs. Bassette started by a shot, followed by a woman's scream. She hurried to "Miss Barke's" room and found her gasping on the floor, blood streaming from her head. Her husband then raised a smoking pistol to his own temple and pulled the trigger.

MINISTERS HONORED ON ANNIVERSARIES

Rev. John E. Duxbury and Wife and Rev. E. P. Phreaner and Wife Remembered by Parishioners.

Rev. E. P. Phreaner and Mrs. Phreaner, Rev. John E. Duxbury and Mrs. Duxbury were honored at a reception attended by more than seventy-five of the North Methodist church members at the home of Miss Emma Colver at Woodbridge street last night. The occasion was in celebration of the fortieth anniversary of their wedding and the approaching anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Duxbury, who were married at North Truro on Cape Cod on June 23, thirty-four years ago.

Mr. Duxbury is the present pastor of the North Methodist church and Mr. Phreaner was pastor for about five years beginning in 1895. The friendships formed with the people then and the desirability of Manchester as a place to live influenced Mr. Phreaner after his retirement from the ministry to build a permanent home here, and a year or two ago he built a bungalow on Woodbridge street between Main and Oakland streets, where he and his family now reside.

Mrs. Daniel Barnes read an original poem, weaving in the history of Mr. and Mrs. Phreaner from boyhood and girlhood to the present time. Miss Irene Lydall and Fayette Clarke favored with vocal solos and which benefited the church fund. The singers read gave instrumental numbers.

Walter Lydall of Hartford, who was actively interested in the affairs of the church during Mr. Phreaner's pastorate, entertained his friends with reminiscences of those days, and E. A. Lydall spoke somewhat along the same line, referring to the strong friendship which existed among the North Methodist people for both their present and former pastor. He said the congregation was to be congratulated on having an active pastor and a retired pastor who had the interests of the church at heart. He hoped that the pleasant relationships between the ministers and people would exist for many years to come.

As a tangible token of the esteem in which they were held, Mr. Lydall in behalf of the North Methodist church family, presented to Mr. and Mrs. Phreaner a purse of gold, and to Mr. and Mrs. Duxbury a purse and a floor lamp. To each of the ladies an old-fashioned corage was given. Both ministers responded with feeling, expressing their thanks to their friends for the splendid gifts and the thoughtful kindness which prompted them to arrange such a delightful surprise in their honor.

The ladies of the church served all with dainty refreshments.

COLLEGE GIRLS USE RESERVOIR A LA HAWLEY

So, At Least, Mt. Holyoke Authorities Hear and They and the Police Are Investigating.

Hadley, Mass., June 18.—Joyce Hawley had her bath tub but Mt. Holyoke College girls had a whole reservoir. At least, the whole town's upset today over reports, under rigid investigation by the police and college authorities, that at twilight, four young damsels from the institution of learning on the hill used the town's water supply for a bathing pool a la Joyce.

Amherst Boys Arrested.
The report was given to police following arraignment in Northampton court, just across the Connecticut river, of six Amherst students on charges of bathing in the same reservoir. The boys were fined.

Revelation of the ancient Roman custom has presented a problem to the local advisers of the law. Wives of constables, while appreciating the advantages of outdoor bathing in the nude and the foibles of students, think the appointment of a policeman is the real solution. Accordingly, the "home town" of President Coolidge, had barred Miss Hawley from appearing in a show, following the famous bath tub incident on the stage of Earl Carroll's theater in New York.

CARDINALS RESTING AFTER LONG JOURNEY

Chicago, June 18.—John Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate and the other visiting cardinals, guests of honor at the 28th International Eucharistic Congress which opens here Sunday, rested today following the long trip from New York and the excitement of yesterday's stirring welcome.

ADVERTISING SHOWS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Newspapers Carried 3 Per Cent More Lines So Far This Year Over 1925 Period.

Washington, June 18.—American newspapers carried 412,944,000 lines of advertising in the first four months of 1926, a gain of nearly three per cent over the same period of 1925, the department of commerce announced today.

In the same period, magazine advertising amounted to $,915,000 lines, nine per cent ahead of last year. National advertising in newspapers made up 117,257,000 lines of the total.

These figures, compiled by the bureau of the census, were said by officials to be another indicator of the better business conditions in the United States this year.

According to the census report, producers of toilet articles and medicinal preparations were the heaviest advertisers in the January-April period, having accounted for 27,551,000 lines of the total national advertising appearing in newspapers.

Automobile advertising campaigns were a close second with 25,410,000 lines.

KRAEMERS GO AWAY FOR LONG STAY
New York, June 18.—Protesting their innocence, Leon and Jacob Kraemer, convicted members of the Whitehorse gang, were taken to Sing Sing prison today to begin their forty year sentences for banditry. Six armed deputies were in the automobile which took the brothers to the railway station and another car with armed men followed.

Little Red Schoolhouse Pupil, Girl of 13, Champion Speller of Country

Washington, June 18.—Pauline Bell, 13, who goes to a little red schoolhouse in the country near Clarkson, Ky., is the champion speller of the United States. Pauline "spelled down" all the best spellers in the country in the national contest at the National Museum last night, and she will go back to Kentucky with $1,000 and two gold medals.

It was a tight race between the Kentucky girl and Betty Robinson, of South Bend, Ind., for a long time, and then the end came on a simple six-letter word "cerise." Betty spelled it "cerease."

The national spelling bee demonstrated that girls are better spellers than boys, for they won the first five places.

HERRIOT TACKLES THE JOB IN FRANCE

Briand Fails, So Radical Socialist Again Heads the Government.

Paris, June 18.—M. Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists, tonight agreed to form a cabinet. Herriot accepted the mandate after M. Briand had notified President Doumergue that he was unable to form a ministry, because M. Herriot would not collaborate with him in securing a "concentration" cabinet.

Is All Smiles.
M. Herriot was all smiles as he left the presidential palace after a 15-minute conference with the president.

If M. Herriot fails to form a cabinet then the president will recall Briand and ask him to form a cabinet without either Herriot or Polignac.

A Herriot cabinet is fairly certain of a majority in the chamber but it is extremely doubtful if it can muster a majority in the Senate.

ENGINEER RAN PAST 4 KINDS OF WARNINGS

Penn. Disaster on Shoulders of Dead Man—His First Accident in 20 Years of Service.

Pittsburgh, June 18.—Pennsylvania railroad officials have completed their investigation of the railroad disaster at Gray Station, Pa. The catastrophe took a toll of 15 lives and resulted in serious injury to twelve passengers.

However, as the Washington express and the Cincinnati Limited which rammed the former while traveling at full speed, were interstate trains, the company's official announcement will not be made until the Interstate Commerce Commission finishes its investigation.

Passed Four Signals.
Pennsylvania railroad investigators stated unofficially that blame for the fatal crash, one of the worst in Pennsylvania railroad history, rests on the shoulders of W. S. Gordon, engineer of the first locomotive of the Cincinnati Limited, who was killed. They said Gordon, who in all his twenty years of railroad experience, never had been in an accident before, ran his train past four easily distinguishable warning signals.

As all members of the crew of the first locomotive of the limited were killed, it never will be known why Gordon did not heed the automatic block signal, the red fuses, the explosion caps and red hand-lantern signals placed by the crew of the Washington train when they were forced to stop to repair a break in the compressed air line.

RUM TRUCK GIVES SLEUTHS A CHASE

It Is Caught Across State Line, However, But the Crew Escapes.

Granby, June 18.—After a chase of several miles through northern Connecticut and across the state line into Massachusetts, during which several shots were fired, federal agents today captured a truck containing 400 gallons of alcohol. In Southwick, Mass. Two men on the truck escaped by jumping from the machine and fleeing into the woods.

The federal agents came here from Springfield on a tip that there was to be an attempt to smuggle liquor here from New York. With Deputy Sheriff George Hotchkiss of Granby, they watched the read for the rum-running machine.

When it appeared the federal agents ran their machine into the road in an effort to halt the truck. The driver of the truck, however, ran his car through a ditch along the side of the road, and drove away at a terrific speed.

Firing several shots at the truck the federal agents pumped into their machine and gave chase. Going over a railroad crossing at Southwick a tire of the truck blew out forcing the machine to a halt. As the federal agents drew up the two men left the truck and made their escape.

Registration plates of both New York and Massachusetts were found on the truck.

CONGRESS MEMBERS WHO GET DRY LEAGUE PAY

Washington, June 18.—At least eight members of Congress were revealed today as being on the payroll of the anti-alcohol league. They make prohibition speeches and receive what Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the league, described as "honorariums."

SLUSH FUND OVER 2 MILLION MARK

W. C. T. U. Officer Asserts Its Quarter Million of Pinchot Cash Faded.

Washington, June 18.—The known expenditures in Pennsylvania's recent three-cornered senatorial primaries soared above the $2,000,000 mark today after Eric Fisher Wood, western campaign manager for the Pepper-Fisher ticket, told the Senate slush fund committee that he had spent $200,000 in thirty-one western counties outside Pittsburgh.

Passes Two Million.
This testimony brought total sum spent on behalf of the candidacy of Senator George W. Pepper and his ticket to $1,273,945. This amount includes the sum reported by S. J. Tappan, the Pepper-Fisher treasurer in Pittsburgh, as spent and obligated for the campaign in that city.

The total revealed cost of the race at the same time mounted to $2,075,117.

W. C. Wood was the first witness today. He was called to the stand while Wayne B. Wheeler waited patiently to resume his testimony.

Wood turned over to the committee a copy of his financial report. Gov. Gifford Pinchot, had disappeared and that could find no proper accounting for it.

The committee first heard of the fun when John M. Flynn, a Democrat, testified that he heard the money had been given either to Pinchot or the governor's representative to use in paying off a law enforcement deficit, the intimation being that it was used to help his candidacy.

Mellons Sponsors.
Wood also revealed to the committee that the family of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, stood sponsor for $149,000 in advances to the Pepper-Fisher campaign fund. This included not only the $74,000 contributed in cash by Mellon, his brother, R. B. Mellon and his nephew, W. L. Mellon, but two notes, totalling $75,000, cashed at his Pittsburgh banks. The $75,000 was paid over to him. Wood testified, on two unsecured notes, supported only by his own "moral responsibility."

The campaign fund report, filed by Wood at Harrisburg yesterday, showed $167,103 in cash expenditures in addition to the unpaid obligations.

Refusal to Sit in September Council Shows Plan to Quit League of Nations.

Madrid, June 18.—Spain's formal withdrawal from the League of Nations may go forward shortly. This is the interpretation which is today placed upon a speech by Prof. Yanguas, foreign minister, at a banquet here.

"We regard it as a blow to our national integrity," the cable continued, "and a departure from the traditional American policy. The people here consider the bill to be inspired by a desire for economic exploitation."

ARICA CROWD BOOS LASSITER, PEACE MAKER

U. S. Breach With Chile Over Plebiscite Failure Widens as Spokesman Charges Injustice.

Washington, June 18.—The breach in the friendly relations of Chile and the United States was widened today as resentment of the South American republic over the charges of Gen. William Lassiter, head of the Tacna-Arica commission, grew more violent.

The blunt statement of former President Arturo Alessandri of Chile, in a statement issued here, that justice has been denied Chile and that the United States has lost her friendship, was accompanied by reports of threatened violence to General Lassiter in Chile.

To Place the Blame.
While the state department continued to maintain silence as to the Chilean outburst, it is expected that passing of the last hope of reconciliation will be followed by a statement placing the blame for the Tacna-Arica fiasco squarely upon Chile.

A veiled attack on President Coolidge as arbitrator of the Tacna-Arica dispute was seen in Alessandri's brilliant statement.

Alessandri took violent issue with the declaration of General Lassiter that Chile had made a fair vote in Tacna-Arica impossible through intimidation of Peruvians, accompanied by frequent assaults and mysterious disappearances of Peruvian voters.

Lassiter Boosed.
Arica, Chile, June 18.—Major Gen. William Lassiter, American president of the Tacna-Arica Plebiscitary Commission, was hissed yesterday by a crowd of Chileans as he appeared at the window of his house, but the demonstration was quickly quelled by the Chilean authorities.

A heavy guard of soldiers and sailors was later placed around General Lassiter's house, as well as those of other members of the American commission.

The demonstration occurred after a news vendor of a Peruvian paper had been attacked by dock workers near General Lassiter's house. The vendor was rescued but the crowd gathered around General Lassiter's house, where they gave vent to anti-American feelings and shouted insults to America.

General Lassiter appeared at his window, whereupon the crowd hissed and shouted at him. The military authorities then interfered and ordered soldiers and sailors on duty to maintain order.

Lassiter Leaving.
General Lassiter is tentatively planning to leave Arica on Sunday, when other American members of the commission also will depart. All the official records of the commission will be placed aboard the Galveston, on which General Lassiter will sail.

LETTER NOT EQUAL TO PROOF OF INSURANCE

Heirs of Soldier Killed in France Can Only Collect Sum Shown in Records.

New Haven, June 18.—An echo of war days developed here today when Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of the U. S. district court, decided the case of Charles and Ellen Sorman, of New Haven, who sought the States government for $10,000 as the amount of insurance which Clifford Sorman, member of Company K, 102nd Infantry, and killed in France, was supposed to have taken out before he went into action.

Get $5,000 Only.
Judge Thomas ruled that Sorman had taken out but $5,000 and ordered that amount paid to Charles and Ellen Sorman.

According to Judge Thomas the Sormans based their case on a letter written May 7, 1918, indicating that the soldier youth had taken out $10,000 insurance through the War Risk Agency. But records of Sorman's company show no such thing, Judge Thomas finds.

One case similar to Sorman's was allowed by a court, Judge Thomas points out, "as the company records were lost in France. In this case complete records are on file in Washington."

LOSES $3,000 DIAMONDS FROM BRIDGEPORT HOTEL
Bridgeport, June 18.—The detective bureau here today announced that search has been going on since June 11 for three diamond bracelets valued at $5,000 which were either lost or stolen from a guest at the Stratfield hotel.

Dr. A. B. Moran, well known local physician, entered the Manchester Memorial hospital this afternoon for treatment.

COMMUNITY CLUB TRIMS FIREMEN

Rousing Battle Opens Twilight League Series; Irving Campbells Hit Went Nearly a Mile.

In a preliminary clash to the opening of the North End Twilight League the Community club took a fall out of the Firemen's team last night on the north end playgrounds. Considering the short time that the teams have had to organize and practice they played ball worth watching. McGonigal and Clemons themselves creditably. McGonigal proved his ability in pulling the team out of some tight places when the occasion demanded. The outstanding feature for the firemen was the long two bagger socked out by Irving Campbell, stellar left fielder for the fire esters. The running one hand catch by Karl Keller, playing in right field brought loud applause from the fans. Cervini, Keene and Clemons, Campbell and Keene were responsible for the heavy stick work of the fire fighters while each of the other men collected one hit each.

The Community team captained by Roy Griswold made a good showing in the breaks of the game. In the fourth frame the fire fighters wavered for a moment and the Community club pounded out four runs before they regained their stride again. Smith and Griswold batteries for the Community club showed their wares in outguessing the opponents that went to the bat. "Cy" Tyler made a beautiful one hand catch "in that desert out in left field." It seems too bad that this condition cannot in some way be remedied so that fielding the ball will not be so difficult.

Gibson pulled a long two bagger for the Community team while the balance of the heavy work went to Griswold and Keibert. The balance of the hits were scattered among their team mates.

It seems very probable that a Twilight league will be formed shortly in the north end of the town with the possible line up as follows: Bon Ami, Firemen and a team of the colored boys from the tobacco fields and judging from the practice that they have been holding the last few nights on the Community playground they will be real contenders in the league. The Community club will be the fourth entry in the league. On Monday night of next week the Community team will cross bats with the colored team. Directly after the game a meeting will be held at the club to discuss the schedule and regulations of the league.

Score by innings:
Firemen 010 130 0-5
Community Club ... 200 412 0-9

GIRL RIFLE CHAMP PLAYGROUND COACH

Miss Laura Glidden of Kansas, Engaged for South End Outdoor Work.

Miss Marjorie C. Geary, associate director of the Recreation Center, today gave out the schedule of hours, programs and personnel of the Ninth district playgrounds and swimming pool. The swimming pool will open officially on June 21 and the playgrounds on June 28.

Three new playground workers have been engaged this year. Two are graduates of colleges or physical training school and the other Gilbert Wright of this town, is a student at Springfield Y. M. C. A. college and will enter his junior year on his return to that institution.

Markswoman Engaged.
The United States women's championship rifle shot of last year is one of the new playground workers. She is Miss Laura Glidden of Lawrence, Kan., a graduate of Kansas university with the degree of bachelor of science in physical education. Her record as an athlete in college was one of the best, her teams including those in field hockey, baseball and volleyball. She is an accomplished swimmer and a member of the Women's Red Cross life saving corps. She will work at the West Side playground and will have charge of the Rec swimming classes while Miss Worcester is absent during the summer vacation. She is a member of the Baptist church.

By a strange coincidence the second of the playground workers bears the last name of Geary although she is no relation to the associate director. She comes from Leominster, Mass., and is a graduate of the Sargent school of physical education of Boston.

Miss Elizabeth Geary.
Miss Elizabeth Geary has had experience on the playgrounds of Fitchburg and was last year supervisor of physical education in the grade schools of that city. She has specialized during her college course in pageantry and dancing.

Gil Wright is well known to Manchester people through his association with various athletic teams since his high school days. He has become one of the most prominent athletes in Springfield college and was recently elected captain of the basketball team there. He will be at the West Side playground most of the time but will have special periods for the boys at the Nathan Hale playground.

Globe Hollow.
Globe Hollow this year will have Fred McCormick as its supervisor and Miss Mary Bonn as the matron in charge of the bath house. Mr. McCormick was a life guard at Globe several years ago and was at one time one of the leading swimmers in Manchester. Albert Addy will be a part time worker.

Miss Mabel Sheridan, who is a senior at Ohio Wesleyan university, has been engaged as instructor in charge of the children's ping-pong at the School street Rec three times a week. She will also be used in other capacities.

Play Hours.
The playgrounds will observe the following hours:

West Side—
9:30 to 11:45 a. m.
1 o'clock to 4:45 p. m.
5:45 to 8:45.

This schedule will prevail also at the East Side playground.
Globe Hollow: Monday to Friday, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; 1 to 5, 6 to 8:30 p. m. Saturdays and Sundays, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; 1 to 6 p. m.

The playground just east of the Barnard school will be open two nights a week and it is planned to have a worker at the Center Springs park one night a week. The program will include work for everybody from the tiniest child up to the adults. Children's programs will be conducted during the day and those for the adults at night.

Directors Olson and Geary will act as general supervisors and will plan the programs for each week. The first announcement will be made on June 28 and will include the work for the first two weeks of the playgrounds. It is also planned to have a special day once every two weeks.

Following are tentative programs:
Junior boys, baseball league, volleyball, track work, handwork, under Henry Miller, supervisor of sloyd work in the Ninth district.
Small children, singing games, simple handwork and story telling.
Older girls, paddle tennis, team games, handwork, basketry, folk dancing, croquet tournaments.
Adults, men, horseshoe pitching tournaments, volleyball, track work.
Women, beginners' tennis, croquet tournaments, handwork, volleyball and teen games.
The playgrounds will close on the Saturday before Labor day in September.

DOWER-CURRAN.
Miss Mary Elizabeth Curran, daughter of Mr. Ellen Curran of 78 Ridge street and James Dower, son of Mr. Della Dower of New Park avenue, Hartford, were married Wednesday morning at St. James's church. The ceremony was performed by the uncle of the groom, Rev. Michael Kelley of Buffalo, N. Y., assisted by Rev. Andrew Kelly of Hartford, the bridegroom's cousin.

The attendants were Miss Anna Curran, sister of the bride as bridesmaid, and Andrew Dower, brother of the groom as best man.

The bride was attired in flesh colored georgette with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid wore orchid georgette with hat to match and carried butterfly roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

On their return from an unannounced wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Dower will live in Hartford where the groom is employed.

British Labor Unions Suffer From General Strike Collapse

It Becomes Plain That Prestige of Organizations Fell With Calling Off of Great National Demonstration, Leaving Coal Miners and Other Employees in Worse Position Than Before—Wages Now Less and Men Practically at Mercy of Employers.

London—The weeks which have elapsed since the ending of the general strike have served to reveal with unmistakable clarity the damage done to the trade union movement by the collapse of its demonstration on behalf of the miners.

There are no signs of diminishing activities on the part of labor leaders, but it is plain that the unions have and will suffer severely through the disaffection of members who either disapproved of the strike in the first place, or who have lost confidence in the Trade Union Council because of its surrender to the Government.

Between these two extremes are the great mass of trade unionists, who have learned a bitter lesson from the strike and who now understand why its failure was predestined and inevitable. The average British worker has no revolutionary notions, and he has no stomach for the general strike in the beginning, though he sympathized with the miners and would have liked to do something to help them.

Returned to his job after the strike ended, he was forced to admit formally that by striking he had committed an illegal act, and he went back with the understanding that the company and not his union would have the say-so as to his future employment and the kind of work he would do. He finds now that the strike so disrupted industry and transportation that he is lucky to have a job at all and that he cannot make as much money as he did before the First of May.

Workers Disillusioned
He has no illusions left about the power of labor as now organized, because he has seen, and he and his family have felt, the effects of the failure of its greatest demonstration. He is in a much worse position now than he was before the general strike started, and, being fully conscious of that fact, has a grievance against the leaders who flung him into battle in a hopeless cause.

To keep these men in line and to keep their forces intact will give trade union leaders and officials plenty to do for months to come. In the meantime, they are treading softly and thanking their lucky stars that they have gotten out with whole skins. Among members of the Trade Union Council there has been much wrangling and heated argument as to whom was responsible for the collapse of the strike, and it is possible that the feeling that they have gotten out will culminate in the resignation of one or more of the labor chiefs.

J. H. Thomas, leader of the railwaymen, threatened to resign while the general strike was still in progress, and if he finds it impossible to carry through some of his re-organization plans, he may divorce himself from the Council, taking with him the support of the wealthiest union in the country.

Leaders Quarrel
There is also bad blood between the T. U. C. and the Miners' Federation because the T. U. C. called off the general strike without the approval of the miners' officials, Herbert Smith and Arthur Cook. It has been stated authoritatively that the capitulation of the T. U. C. followed close upon the arrival at their headquarters of an authentic report that the strike leaders were to be arrested under the Government's emergency powers. That such a move against the T. U. C. officials had been contemplated by the government was known to newspaper correspondents, and there is no reason why the labor leaders should not have found it out, too.

The explanation they gave, however, for concluding the strike was that they had received unofficial but authoritative assurances that the wage reduction notices were to be taken down by the coal operators so that the miners could return to work forthwith. It is possible that the Council honestly believed that they had brought the strike to a point where they could end the coal stoppage and open the way for the resumption of wage negotiations between the miners, the mine-owners and the Government.

No Results
But nothing happened. The miners would have nothing to do with the proposals of Sir Herbert Samuel for the re-opening of negotiations, because the reduction of the wages of some of the hither paid men was contemplated. In the same breath they cried out against the Trade Union Council for letting them down, and made it plain that, as far as the coal stoppage was concerned, the situation remained just the same as it was on May 1 before the general strike started.

It thus became clear to trade unionists in general and to the idle miners, many of them approaching starvation, that the general strike had not only failed to achieve anything at all, but that it had made the position of the miners worse instead of better.

RIVER YIELDS PEARLS

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—Many valuable pearls have been found in the Black River this season, according to reports of fishermen who spend their time in dragging the stream. Knox Moore, of near Pocahontas, found a 32-grain drop pearl which he values at $1200, and his cousin Isaac Moore, discovered a ball pearl valued at $350.

BABY COSTS $250

Washington.—The cost of being born these days is $250, according to figures just compiled by the United States Children's Bureau, in cooperation with large life insurance companies. It costs about $6150 to bring up one child to the age of 18, according to the figures, the girl costing slightly more than the boy because of the item of clothing.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature Association

Many are the names of this bright visitor to our fields and dooryards. Will canary he is to many who see in his yellow coat, with its darker trimming, a resemblance to our domesticated songster of the old world. Another common name is thistle-bird, from its liking for the seeds of this plant.

All through the year seeds of some kind form its principal food. The ripening head of a sunflower or two, even in a city yard, will frequently attract a small flock of family party of these small creatures which, as they fly from place to place with their peculiar bounding flight, seem to call "here we go," as if fearful that some individual of the little company may be left behind.

In winter, now in a brownish dress that gives little hint that it is still a goldfinch, it seats the seeds of such grasses and weeds as remains above the snow, and especially those of birches, alders and others that are catkin bearers.

We do not know that the food of the young of this insectivore seed-lover differs from that of its parents, but the parents of the late summer must be necessary, for the goldfinch puts off its nestling longer than most other birds. Seldom are eggs found earlier than July and we have found them so late in August that the young could not have come into the world before September, which in our northern states is getting pretty cool for young birds. Perhaps that is why our goldfinch builds such a warm and cozy nest, a deep-cupped home lined with some of the warmest and softest of nature's bedding material.

MANY FLIRTATIONS.

Mrs. Truman H. Woodward and little daughter "Joan", are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Congdon on Laurel Hill.

Next Tuesday evening Wapping Grange, No. 39, F. of H. will observe Neighbor's Night. The following Granges will come to Wapping and present the programs: East Hartford, Bloomfield and Ellington.

The Wapping Grange dramatic club will give the play "Always in Trouble" at Coventry this evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society.

The Wapping Center schools had a one session school on Thursday, closing at 1 P. M. to prepare for the graduation exercises. The schools at the Center will have a picnic on Friday. The first, second and third grades will have their picnic at the school grounds.

Mrs. Wheaton and Mrs. Booddy's rooms, the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades are to go to Skinner's grove. Mrs. Pierce's and Miss Burkhardt's rooms and the 7th and 8th grades will go to the home of their principal, Mrs. Harry Prior.

Daniel Alford of the U. S. S. Utah is now on the midshipmen's practice cruise and during the next few weeks will touch several distant ports including Annapolis, Charleston, Philadelphia and Guantanamo, Cuba.

Rev. Truman H. Woodward delivered the address to the graduates of Union school at South Windsor last evening. This year an operetta, "The Pioneer's Progress," was given by the school children. Costumes and music were of high order. There were 22 graduates, the honor pupils being Martha Jorgensen, Rhoda Fairbanks and Helen Shetyensky.

HAND UNCHANGED.

Grand Rapids.—Finger prints do not change in 33 years, according to Raymond J. Ferney, custom house expert, and Louis Richmond, proprietor of a stamp works here. Richmond made a plaster cast of his hand in 1893. A few days ago Ferney made prints of the index finger of the cast and Ferney's hand now. The lines were said to be identical.

COLLEEN MOORE PLAYS "ELLA CINDERS" FILM

Fireside humor and pathos as exemplified by the comic strip of the home newspaper becomes a living, moving thing upon the screen in the picturization of "Ella Cinders," Colleen Moore's latest vehicle for First National at the State theatre today and tomorrow.

The picture, made by John McCormick, responsible for the highly successful screen versions of "Irene," deals with the exploits of the once winner and victor of a small town movie contest promoted by swindlers, with a trip to Hollywood, all expenses paid, as the grand prize. With the conclusion of the contest, the glib schemers vanish from the scene, their pockets bulging with their disproportionate percentage of money derived from entry fees, while the heroine is left to shift for herself in a city overrun with beauties.

Miss Moore, who is always delightful in a Cinderella theme, can be expected to play her part in a drama of such background. She again has the services of Lloyd Hughes as her leading man and is surrounded by players of proven capabilities.

Alfred E. Green, her mentor in many past screen successes, directed Miss Moore in this new offering.

The companion feature with "Ella Cinders" will be Buck Jones in "A Man Four Square" is one of the best western films Buck Jones, popular Fox Films star, has ever made. Buck has plenty of opportunities for the sort of thing that made him popular and he is supported by a very capable cast. Marlon Harlan and Florence Gilbert, Jay Hunt and Frank Beal are in the cast. R. William Neill directed.

DREAM TELLS HIM OF HIS ADOPTION.

Kansas City.—A 19-year-old boy's dream told him that he had been adopted as a child. When the young man questioned his foster-mother, who lives at Elmira, Mo., telling her of seeing a strange woman in his dream who was his mother, she told him of his adoption as an infant.

Louise Harel, a farmer's wife of Vimoutier, France, gave the world the formula for Camembert cheese.

LONDON MAY INSTALL A MARRIAGE BUREAU

London.—The question has been raised here of the advisability of establishing an official marriage bureau.

Throughout the country, according to local Boards of Guardians, municipal authorities are flooded with requests from bachelors searching for wives and with girls and widows desiring husbands. At Dorset recently a widow asked the Guardians to find her a husband, and the result was that forty applications were received within a fortnight from men who were willing to provide a home for the unknown. When the existence of the prospective husbands became known, applications came in from seven windows and one spinster of 28.

The Guardians threw up their hands and declared it was not their business to arrange marriages, though some members of the board were of the opinion that much good might be derived from the establishment of an official agency for handling applications from men and women who are matrimonially inclined.

The proposal is opposed by Miss

Florence Underwood of the Women's Freedom League.

"If a man wants a wife or a woman wants a husband," she said, "they should go out and look for one. The government has enough to do without running a matrimonial agency."

Billy Evans Says

Seems strange to look at the National League batting averages and not see the familiar name of Rogers Hornsby heading the list. With the season about one-third over, Hornsby, one of the greatest batters in the history of the game, is No. 25 in the ranking. However, Hornsby isn't so far away from the top as the difference between 1 and 25 would make it seem. Measured in percentage figures, just 35 points separate Hornsby from Cuyler, the league leader.

The only possible explanation that can be offered for Hornsby's slump is that the added responsibilities of managing the St. Louis Cardinals have affected his batting average. It is also possible that Hornsby has been hitting in hard luck. By that I mean he has been meeting the ball hard, but always straight at somebody.

The element of luck plays its part even with the greatest of batsmen.

Hornsby's present batting average, which is at least 50 points below normal, is certain to be considerably bettered before the close of the season.

If he fails to lead the National League in batting this year, it will eliminate the only big league player with a chance to equal or better Cobb's remarkable feat of leading a major league at the bat for nine consecutive years.

At the close of the 1925 campaign Hornsby had six consecutive batting championships of the National League to his credit.

In the south, during spring training, he expressed to me the belief that he had an excellent chance to equal if not better Cobb's mark.

With the season one-third over, his chances of capturing the 1926 crown are not so bright, but I am still of the opinion that at the close of the campaign he will be showing the way to the rest of the procession.

I am positive Hornsby is deeply disappointed at the showing of his club to date.

Not inclined to boast and always reticent about offering predictions, Hornsby made this remark to me at San Antonio this spring:

"There are only two ball clubs in the National League I fear, New York and Pittsburgh."

"You can take that as a prediction that I believe the Cardinals will finish third. And a team able to stick in the first division is always within striking distance of a pennant."

"I am going to be decidedly surprised unless my club is in the thick of the fight."

Away to a poor start, the St. Louis Cardinals have failed to live up to the spring predictions of Manager Hornsby and the baseball experts in general. I must admit the Cards looked mighty good to me in the south.

Hornsby was fearful of his pitching and with the exception of Rheim and Keen, he had ample grounds.

While Hornsby isn't the type to worry, I am sure the failure of his club to deliver has been the greatest contributing factor to his present slump at the bat.

Batting championships are decided in October rather than June 15, so don't count the great Hornsby out of the running.

He is sure to be there or thereabouts.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA

General Custer (2)

—By Redner

In the spring of 1873 Custer was ordered to Dakota Territory to protect the surveyors of the Northern Pacific Railway from the Indians, while that line was being located through the Indian country west of the Missouri River. Gold had been discovered in the Black Hills, and led to an influx of white gold seekers into land belonging to the Sioux Indians.

During the next three years Custer and his command saw considerable service in the Black Hills country and along the valley of the Yellowstone.

The plan was that these expeditions would meet and act in conjunction against Sitting Bull and his force of about 6000 Indians. General Crook was to advance northward from Fort Laramie; General Terry was to march westward, and General Gibbons was to come down from the northwest. Custer and his regiment formed a part of General Terry's force. (CONTINUED.)

CALL TO ARMS
SOUNDS AGAIN
Thirty-five Men Needed to Fill Ranks of Local Unit of National Guard.

Once more the young men of Manchester are called upon to do their bit for their state and country. The town has always responded to the call for men whenever the situation has demanded it, both in peace and again in time of national emergency. A peacetime crisis exists today.

The Howitzer Co.
Three years ago the military authorities in charge of National Guard affairs within our state allotted another company to Manchester. The Howitzer Company was recruited within a few weeks' time and with less than six weeks preparation did its first tour of duty at Niantic. For a year and a half its inception the company was quartered in the old day nursery building on Cedar street, the men drilling upon the four-acre lot many times in comparative darkness and the chill of late fall and early spring. In October 1924 the company moved to its new quarters in the drill shed section of the new armory and now with the completion of the new headquarters the men have moved to their permanent rooms which are well lighted and comfortable.

A New Era.
A new era in the military life of Manchester has commenced and another page has been turned in its history, but, as stated before, a peacetime crisis is at hand. Those enlistments of June 1923 have expired and between thirty and forty men have been discharged; with camp time less than three weeks away this Manchester unit of the National Guard needs about thirty-five men to fill its ranks. Will the young men of this town respond to the call, as others have many times before, setting aside some of their personal pleasures to do their duty to the state and nation, at the same time keeping the name of Manchester and its military history unsullied as it has always been? The National Guard is today upon a higher plane than ever before and in return offers much in the way of pleasure and health to its members.

The campground at Niantic is one of the best in the United States and the Manchester armory is certainly one of the best in the state, providing excellent opportunity for recreation during the colder months. A mass meeting for the purpose of recruiting the Howitzer Company to full strength will be held at the armory on Tuesday night, June 22nd, at 7.30. All able-bodied men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five are invited to attend and learn more concerning the Howitzer Company, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard.

FRANCE.

Very small and faint are the whispers in France about the possibility of a dictatorship. Yet it is obvious enough that events are ripening for such a climax.

That is, as a matter of fact, precisely why a dictatorship is probable there. The French parliament is not functioning as a governmental body.

France does not care a rap for formulas, for names, for precedent. She cares for France.

What redism there is in the United States has its roots in no oppression of labor by employers but in the exploitation of the laborer's necessity for eating by such concerns as the Universal Trading Corporation.

The company is a merger of a dozen original firms and stock companies dealing in smoked fish. It is the complaint of the New York attorney-general that it fixes the price which it will pay to the fishermen for the raw catches, and that its profits are outrageously high.

Smoked carp is regarded as a delicacy by practically all Jews. Ordinarily, under the control of the Universal Trading Co., the price is 80 cents a pound.

White fish, sold at forty cents to retailers, costs 7 cents. Smoked shad, sold to retailers at 40 cents, costs 10 cents.

thing to eat. And that party can sweep the country, any time.

SUCKERS.

The fact that easy money rates are instantly followed by soaring prices of speculative stocks on the exchanges ought to be enough to convince the outside citizen that a sudden bull market is no place for his savings.

It took many months for the last bull market to go over the peak and fall of the precipice. It is extremely unlikely that the present one will last so long.

The civilian who reads the excuse of Bennett J. Doty, American member of the French Foreign Legion, that he deserted from the Legion through an attack of homesickness and not through cowardice, will probably be less quick to understand the situation than will the soldier who has served in foreign lands.

There was a Connecticut private soldier in the Philippines war. He was rated by his captain as the best in his company—precise, natty, perfectly set up, obedient, willing, uncomplaining, cool headed and seemingly without nerves.

The outfit got into the big fight around Manila with Aguinaldo's army. As the bullets began to spatter the model soldier disappeared. After the fight, when this company got back to the barrio where it was quartered, there was the missing soldier.

The captain, convinced that the soldier was no coward, decided to ignore the incident, affecting to know nothing about it. For weeks no man in the outfit spoke to the man save in the line of duty.

Afterward he told his captain that he could give no explanation at all of what made him run from the Manila fight.

Young Doty, of whom a good many non-combatant Americans have probably felt a little ashamed, had as good a right as another man to a sudden attack of nostalgia—which is a disease, not a fault.

A tenant of probably foreign origin displayed a soiled American flag over his store door and the American born owner of the property, a woman, cut it down.

police man arrested the property owner for desecration of the national emblem. A judge, who said her conduct made his blood boil, held her in $1,000 bail.

This is all very well, if it is all genuine. But before getting too sentimentally outraged over the removal of the flag from the store door it might be as well to give some consideration to the impulse back of its exhibition there.

The Stars and Stripes, as a symbol, is something to revere—and to die for. As an advertisement it is doubtful if it calls for reverence, mob violence or judicial attentiveness.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By Charles P. Stewart. Washington, June 18.—As a boy in Denmark, Johannes Schmitte, now Dr. Schmitte, was very fond of eels—not as pets but as food.

He was so fond of them that he resolved to devote his life to a study of the eel family. In the course of his investigations he found the answer to a puzzle which scientists have been racking their brains over since man caught his first eel, and we know they were a popular dish as far back as the days of ancient Rome.

Well, Dr. Schmitte fished for baby eels until he caught some. He caught a lot. He found their nursery in fact.

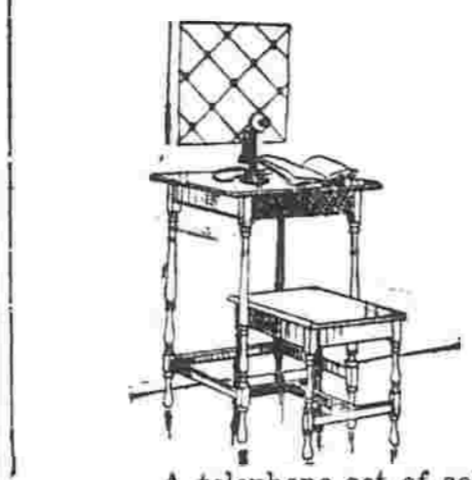

He kept sailing "round and round" and "round the Atlantic in ever narrowing circles until finally, as he drew in toward the Sargasso Sea—that almost currentless expanse of water off the Azores, where all the ocean's derelicts are popularly but erroneously supposed ultimately to come to rest—he really began to get some very small eels.

Ship lovers all, they are tied to the land. And so they build models that cost as much, and sometimes more, than would a salable yacht. A glance at this list shows Booth Tarkington, the writer; Newcomb Carleton, head of the Western Union Company; H. O. Havemeyer, the railroad executive; Johnstan de Forest, lawyer and bank official; George F. Baker, Jr., son of one of the world's richest men—and others of similar status.

For the great leaders must have their playthings and hobbies and distractions. Thus John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is an avid stamp collecting fan and

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 18.—There is, in Manhattan, an organization of "poor little rich men" whose hearts have "gone down to the sea in ships," but who have been divorced from their earnings by the exigencies of business.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, one-time cabinet member and Democratic leader, is president of the organization which is titled the Ship Model Society and the membership list is a cross section of Dunn & Bradstreet and of Who's Who.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Even though this country spends $90,000,000 a year on chewing gum, some movie seats have none on them. A Chicago girl of 17 has three husbands, while many girls twice her age haven't more than one or two. Philadelphia workmen tearing down an old building found an old quart so new no old buildings are safe. In Los Angeles, a girl wants $10,000 because he kissed her once. Retail prices are too high. A man can help his wife clean house by getting out of the way and staying out until she finishes. Being short of cash is a great discomfort. You find it so hard to impress people with your wisdom then. All the self-made men can't brag about it. You can't always depend upon what you don't hear. There are people who won't believe they snore. Every man's a cashier on payday. A bill in Congress would bar fire-

In Sunbury, Pa., thieves carried away a 1000-pound safe, but a pedigree watch dog kept so quiet he wasn't stolen. Here's the news from Hollywood: "No rouge. No lipstick. No ben-na." But that's too conspicuous for the home girl. When an irresistible force meets an immovable object perhaps it's the landlord trying to collect his rent. The balloonist who recently stayed in the air 36 hours knows how many of us fell when the rent comes due. Talk about having a hot time, a man in Menominee, Mich., is charged with burning an entire village. Isn't it time to send relief expeditions for the relief expeditions for the arctic explorers?

PICK-UP FRESHMAN CREW IMPROBABLE

Protests Against Forfeit of Race by Yale Unlikely to Have Results.

Gales Ferry, June 18.—Despite protests that are pouring in upon the Yale athletic committee there seems today little chance that a freshman crew can be organized to row against Harvard freshmen here a week hence. The Yale class has dispersed, its year at New Haven having ended. Beside, any possible candidates for a freshman boat must be examined by physical and medical authorities of the university before they can be seated. Still an effort is being made to round up ten men of the freshman class who are willing to take a chance.

Plan Forfeiture.
Such at least were the conclusions reached here yesterday when William J. Bingham, chairman of the Harvard athletic committee, and Prof. George H. Nettleton, chairman of the Board of Control of Yale athletics, met and discussed the entire situation face to face. These two athletic leaders at least have agreed to forfeit the freshman race to Harvard, "if it might ultimately prove impossible to have a freshman race."

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Anna Winzler at her home on Madison street last evening by about twenty-five of her friends from this town and Hartford. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion, pink and white being the color scheme, and pink crepe paper hats the favors. The feature of the evening was a mock marriage. Those taking part were Marie D. Zwick, as the bride; Mrs. M. Minnick, as the groom; Anna B. Lauff, as maid of honor and Susan R. Zwick as best man. Kathryn Turcek performed the ceremony.

Miss Winzler received some very pretty and useful gifts, including a blue silk bolero set, linen, silver, pyrex and several electrical appliances. Games and dancing were also enjoyed, a Charleston exhibition being given by Kathryn Turcek, after which a dainty repast was served.

Miss Winzler is to be married on June 26 to Walter Rosenbach of Torrington.

"GREEN" HAS PLAYGROUND.

Manchester Green now has its own playground, equipped as well for its size as in this town. The apparatus includes swings on iron standards and other amusement devices. It is located directly behind the Green school.

The playground was made possible through the donations of Manchester Green residents and the apparatus was installed under the supervision of Director Walter Olson of the Rec. Three Manchester Green men, Walter Buckley, Willard B. Rogers and Sherman R. J. Smith, each gave $50 toward the expenses.

POLICE COURT

Fenn Minacci of Springfield was before the local court this morning on the charge of driving an automobile without a license. He was stopped by Officer W. R. Martin on Charter Oak street last night. The car the young man was driving had but one headlight. The officer stopped him and called his attention to the fact. It was then he learned he had no license. Judge Johnson fined him ten dollars and costs.

MILFORD GIRLS' SCHOOL

GIFTS COLLEGE CHARTER
Milford, June 18.—Laurelton Hall, one of the best known boarding schools for girls in this section of the state, is to be known in the future as the "College of our Lady of Mercy." A charter of this effect was received here today from Hartford by the school's authorities. The change will not take place, it is understood, for at least two years.

DR. MOORE CHOSEN LOCAL M. D.'S HEAD

Elected as Head of Manchester Medical Association, Other Officers Chosen.

Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, charter member of the Manchester Medical Association, was elected president of the organization last night to succeed Dr. Noah A. Burr. The election was held at the Hillside Inn in Bolton. It was the fifteenth anniversary and banquet of the association and there was a full attendance.

Other Officers
Dr. Thomas H. Weldon was elected vice-president and Dr. Le Verne Holmes, re-elected secretary and treasurer. Dr. Holmes and Dr. Howard Boyd were re-elected as the committee to have charge of appointing the doctors for Thursday afternoon and evening emergency calls.

After the routine business had been transacted, Dr. D. M. Child was elected to membership by the association. The application for membership by Dr. Charles Goff was also received. The latter will be tabled for action until the next meeting. This is customary in all cases of application for membership in the association.

Silent Tribute

Prior to the supper, the members stood with bowed heads in silent tribute to the memory of their dead brother and colleague, the late Dr. Joseph A. Higgins. Tribute was also paid to the other three members of the association who have died since its organization, F. H. Whiton, W. S. Gilliam and Harry R. Sharpe. The supper, an elaborate affair, was arranged and served under the expert direction of Dr. William R. Tinker, "our refreshment committee," as the other doctors call him.

Dr. Burr Speaks
Following the supper, the new president called upon Dr. Burr to make a few remarks. In a brief address, Dr. Burr reviewed the history of the association touching on the most salient points. During his brief, but interesting talk, Dr. Burr thanked the members for the honor of having served as president.

Dr. Weldon, who served as surgeon with the Governors Foot Guard and Putnam Philaix in the recent European trip, was called upon to make a speech. In an interesting manner, Dr. Weldon related several of the most interesting incidents which impressed him. Dr. E. B. Allen, formerly head of the Medical Department at Chenoy Brothers, was a guest of the association last evening. He was also called upon for a speech and responded with an interesting account of his present work. Dr. Allen touched in part upon the newer phases of psychiatry. Dr. Allen is now affiliated with the New York hospital. He holds a responsible position in the Bloomfield hospital at White Plains, N. Y. This hospital is a branch of the one in New York city. It is devoted entirely to nervous and mental diseases in which Dr. Allen is now specializing.

Following Dr. Allen, other members were called upon for remarks and responded with stories that made the evening one of the most enjoyable the association has ever had.

FAREWELL PARTY.

Sam Smith of Charter Oak street, who is to leave during July to join his brothers, William and Herbert, in Flint, Mich. Twenty-five of his friends of St. Mary's young men club with their companions gave him a farewell party at Brooks' casino, Coventry, last night. Mr. Smith was presented with a leather traveling case by the club members.

Music for dancing was furnished by Bill Waddell's orchestra of five pieces. Games were played. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Knoffa, Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knoffa.

Mr. Smith is a prominent Manchester athlete and was a member of the Saints' basketball team during the past season.

BARNARD 8TH GRADERS HAVE PARTY AT REC

Pupils of Grade 8 of the Barnard school enjoyed a party last night at the School Street Recreation Center. It was the last party they will enjoy as grammar school pupils.

The feature of the entertainment program was Phil Dalee, popularly known as the Rag Artist. Mr. Dalee used various colored cloths and put them together in such a way that prettily colored pictures resulted. Following this entertainment the party adjourned to the gymnasium where dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Collins Driggs' orchestra played for the dancing. The party began at 7:30 and was ended at 10 o'clock.

ROUGH STUFF FEATURE OF H. S. CLASS DAY

Squatrito, freshman cheer leader, started the festivities when he scaled the flag pole in front of the Franklin building and tore down the senior flag which had been floating there. He had hardly completed his task when his act was spied by the senior students. They rushed after him. They caught him but a large group of underclassmen succeeded in rescuing him. Other Stunts. Two other students attempted to place a freshman flag on top of the large block at Main and Eldridge street but were apprehended in the act. They were caught by the seniors, forced into automobiles, and whisked away to Rickety Pond where they were stripped of clothing, greased, and thrown into the chilly water. The two students were then left to walk home.

NEW REPAIR MAN AT DEPOT SQUARE GARAGE.

Bill Streeter, well known Buckland auto repair man has been engaged by the Depot Square Garage and Service station as auto repair man. Streeter has an excellent reputation in Manchester and his connection with the Depot Square garage will prove a valuable addition to the force there. Bill Streeter and Dave Housen will take care of the needs of autoists at this service station from now on.

When the seniors returned from the first ducking expedition they started in search of Squatrito, but up until noon had been unable to wrest him from his classmates. When the senior flag was taken down, Johnny Johnson, manager of the baseball team, attempted to scale the pole to replace the flag, he was unable to reach the top and as a consequence the pole was flagless. Gathering Dispersed. At one point during the mixup around the flag pole, the students became so uncontrollable that Vice-Principal Ralph H. Proctor was forced to use violent means of breaking up the gathering. Principal Quimby also dispersed gatherings at the flagpole in an effort to quell the outbreak.

It was reported that more outbreaks of even more serious nature were expected to take place this afternoon. Word had been passed around among the students that another attempt would be made to place a flag on the pole.

As far as can be learned, this year's Class Day hazing has been the most severe in years. While it is to be expected that the students will spend the day with more or less frolicking, it is against the orders of the school to engage in such tactics as last night and this morning brought.

Later Hazings.

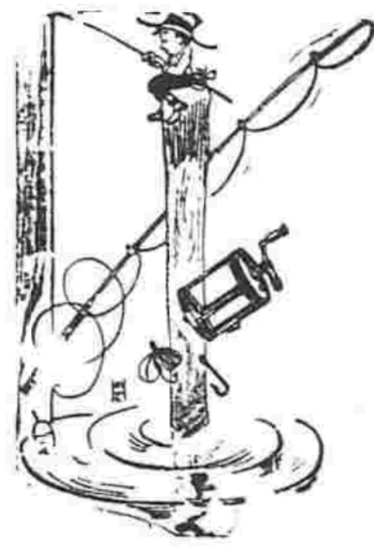

During the noon hour three more students were taken by seniors and carried away in automobiles, stripped of their clothing and thrown into ponds. This brings the total of such duckings for the day to five. Three of the victims were freshmen—Clifford Hayes, Leslie Buckland and William Kanehl. One was a senior, Johnnie Wright, catcher for the High school baseball team. The name of the other boy could not be learned. Some were taken to Case's pond and others to Bolton. The much-feared continuation of trouble at the flagpole this afternoon was averted. This, was mainly due to the fact that all the male members of the High school faculty patrolled the scene. Several of the teachers stood near the flagpole to prevent any outbreak of mischief. A slight drizzle of rain which started to fall about 1:30 helped to break up a possible repetition of the disturbance and the teachers finally succeeded in influencing the students to disperse.

HOLDUP MURDERERS GET DEATH SENTENCE

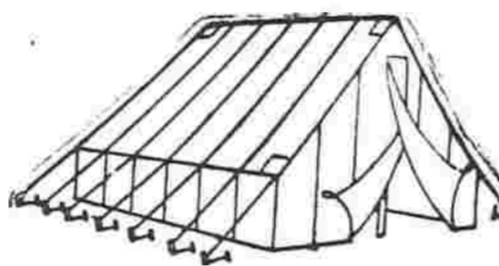

New York, June 18.—John Maxwell, 21 and William and Kasimir Barszoyuk, 23 and 23 respectively, were sentenced today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison the week beginning August 2 by Supreme Court Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn today. They were convicted of the murder, February 13 last of Mrs. Mary Betsch, 60, of Brooklyn; who was killed in the hold-up of an A. & P. store in Brooklyn.

Bridgeport Only Remaining Obstacle as New Britain Trade Cancels and Colchester Is Defeated 4-1.

But one lone game remains between the local State Trade school baseball nine and an undefeated season as a result of yesterday's win over Bacon Academy in Colchester by a 4-1 score and the cancellation of the game scheduled with New Britain Trade school next week.

Students Excused

Director A. A. Warren said today every student in the Trade school who desires to make the trip to Bridgeport a week from today will be excused from school. Buses and private owned automobiles will carry the student routes. The game will be played at Seaside park. The reason for the cancellation of the New Britain game as given by the manager of the team is that he did not feel his team was strong enough to compete with the local team. Recently Manchester defeated New Britain in New Britain by the overwhelming score of 19 to 0.

Pospisil Fans 14

Yesterday's victory over Bacon Academy at Colchester was featured by the pitching of Rudy Pospisil and the batting of Ramsey and Connelly. Pospisil, who had fanned 163 batters this season prior to his game, added 14 more victims to his list. He now has 177 victims. Only three batters faced Pospisil. In no case did more than four batters face him in any one inning. In the fourth and fifth innings he retired the side on strikes.

Review of Game

"Happy" Connelly has reason to rejoice today as the result of his splendid performance yesterday. It will be remembered that in the last game Connelly turned in an erratic exhibition of fielding. But yesterday was a different story. The youngest and smallest player on the Trade school nine more than redeemed himself by polling out three solid bingles. One was a terrific smash to deep center that went for a home run. No one was on base at the time. Each of his singles scored a run for Manchester. Therefore Connelly was largely responsible for three of the four runs his team scored.

The Only Misplay

Colchester's only run was a gift, pure and simple. Yrabanic secured Pospisil's only pass, took second on a fielder's choice and scored from second when Dick Ball threw wildly to third when the runner attempted to pitch that sack. Two were out at the time and two strikes had been called on the next batter. He fanned on the next pitched ball after the runner scored.

Here is how Manchester scored its four runs:

Second inning: Picini was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. He was sacrificed to third and scored on Connelly's single.
Fourth inning: Ramsey singled and scored on Kozlowski's double.
Sixth inning: Ramsey doubled and scored on Connelly's single.
Ninth inning: Connelly hit a homer.

DIXON'S MIGHTY TRIPLE STOPS COLORED STARS AS SAINTS STAGE THREE RUN RALLY IN NINTH

Burkhardt Knocked Out of Box in Third—Seelert Saves the Day—Score is 10 to 9.

Some 200 baseball fans who traveled to the West Side playgrounds last night witnessed the best exhibition of long distance hitting seen on a local diamond this season. Smoking red hot singles, doubles, and triples bounced from the bats of both the St. Mary's and Hartford Colored Stars. So fierce were the slugger that two pitchers were forced to give way before the onslaught. After the smoke had cleared from the battlefield it was found that the Saints were winners by one run, the score being 10-9.

Burkhardt Hammered

"Big Jack" Burkhardt was assigned to the burden of pitching for the Saints. Jack loved to pitch and against the colored players. He has done so many times. But last night they were in a hitting mood and as a consequence knocked his offerings to all corners of the lot. Nine hits and eight runs were pounded off his delivery in the three innings he pitched. Repeatedly he put the ball through the grove with two strikes on a batter and as a result vicious line drive hits rattled off the bats.

Dixon Is Hero

A timely triple to deep left field by Jack Dixon, the Saints' shortstop, with Partons and St. John on the paths in the last of the sixth inning tied the score and Dixon scored a moment later on an infield roller, thus winning the rally. St. John, Partons, Dowd and Ferguson led the assault for the Saints. St. John made three hits and the others pounded out a pair of bingles.

The Cardinals advanced to within a hair's breadth of the two leaders by smacking the Braves twice, four to two and six to two, behind the good pitching of Rhem and Keen.

Brooklyn and Chicago fought a see-saw ten-inning battle, the Dodgers finding themselves ahead ten to nine when the smoke cleared away. Marriott broke into the game and celebrated by getting three hits and a sacrifice fly which sent in the winning run.

The Yankees got only three hits off Ted Blankenship of the White Sox and lost six to two. Sheely's homer with two on took the starch out of the Yanks.

After having pitched 33 consecutive scoreless innings, Ed Wells of the Tigers was massaged thoroughly by the Athletics and beaten 12 to 8.

Sherry Smith of the Indians took a long drink from the fountain of youth and sent the Red Sox down with five hits, winning three to one.

Zachary of the Browns worked off part of his grudge against Washington, his alma mater, by beating the Senators nine to seven. Ken Williams' homer with the bases loaded provided most of the fireworks.

EXPECT ONE THOUSAND AT FIELD DAY PROGRAM

Band Concert as Added Attraction—Six Manufacturing Concerns to Compete in Track and Field Meet—Baseball Game Rounds Out Program.

With a band concert as an added attraction indications today were that at least 1,000 persons will witness the annual field day program to be held at the West Side playgrounds tomorrow afternoon and evening. Six industrial concerns will compete in the track and field meet events. This will be followed by a baseball game between Cheney Brothers and Crompton-Knowles of Worcester. Later a band concert will be rendered for two hours and this will be followed by dancing in the auditorium of the West Side Rec until a late hour.

Meriden Strong

Interest in the outcome of the track and field meet runs high. Owing to the large number of entries from the two Meriden companies it would not be at all surprising if the handsome silver loving cup was carried back to the Silver City. On the other hand, the other manufacturing concerns are expected to provide plenty of competition. Those entered in the meet including the number of individual entries from each concern follow: International Silver Company of Meriden, 25; New Departure Company of Meriden, 19; Cheney Brothers, 12; New Departure of Bristol, 9; Crompton-Knowles of Worcester, 5; and New Haven Federation, 3. This makes a grand total of 73 athletes who will compete in the various events.

The officials of the meet as announced today are: Referee, Walter Olson; Clerk of Course, John Carthy; Starter, Walter Olson; Scorer, George Hunt, Jr.; Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the individual winners of the first, second and third places. WORCESTER NINE HERE TOMORROW

Play Cheney Brothers in Annual Field Day Program—Holy Cross Star Coming.

In conjunction with the annual field day program at the West Side tomorrow afternoon, Cheney Brothers' baseball team will play the speedy Crompton Knowles Loom Company nine of Worcester, Mass. The game is scheduled to get under way at four o'clock. Jack Dwyer and Ralph Russell will umpire.

Windsor Locks Team Comes to the West Side Tonight

Tomorrow the Sons will go to Florence, Mass., where they will play the Braves of that city. The team will leave Farr's store at 11:30 and will make the trip by automobile.

Jeffries, Sharkey in Ring Tonight Again

New York, June 18.—Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, names to conjure with in the long ago, will return to the ring tonight but not to fight for the world's light heavyweight title as they did at Coney Island 25 years ago. They will act as seconds, according to an official announcement, to the son of another old champion and former foe, Bob Fitzsimmons.

Young Bob will meet Theodore "Tiger" Flowers, the Georgia negro, in a ten-round, no-decision bout at Boyles Thirty Acres, Jersey City. It will be Flowers' first appearance in a local ring since winning the world's middleweight championship from Harry Greb Square Garden. Flowers' title will not be at stake, as the bout will be fought at catchweights.

WINDSOR LOCKS TEAM COMES TO THE WEST SIDE TONIGHT

Sons Make Second Appearance Against Up-River Team—Rabbit to Pitch for Visitors.

Windsor Locks team will make its second appearance tonight when the Sons of Italy stack up against the fast Windsor Locks team at the West Side. Billy Dwyer, who is out with an injured leg, will play if his injury will permit. Sipples has been pitching in other towns during this season and has won most of his games.

Windsor Locks has seen the Sons before and has lost to them by a score of 4 to 4 in that town. The visitors have also split even with the Saints in two games, both of them fast and close. Their pitcher tonight will either be Rabbit or Palmer. It is probable that the former will hurl for he works best against local teams.

Fisher, the new hurler that the Sons have signed, will be on hand at all games whether he starts or not. This clause is in his contract and he will be used as utility man in games that he does not begin.

Dwyer and Russell will be the umpires tonight.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

- Rube Marquard, famous National League southpaw, made a most auspicious start in 1916.
- Working against Brooklyn, the Rube, who was then on the Giants payroll, blanked the foe with neither hit nor run. It was one of the greatest bits of pitching he ever turned in during his lengthy major league career.
- Oddly enough, the Rube, later in the same campaign, went to the same campaign, held hitless and scoreless at the waiver price. Fame is, indeed, fleeting!

PRINCETON IS DUE FOR DEFEAT TODAY

U. of Washington Perfect Crew Expects Easy Win at Carnegie Lake.

By Davis J. Walsh
Princeton, N. J., June 15.—Hailed as the "perfect crew" by those who see all, know all and probably tell nothing, the University of Washington's eight-oared varsity will be put under the whip this afternoon for the first time in the east and, by nightfall, this section may have a pretty general idea of just how much of a beating, if any, it is in for at Poughkeepsie.

The so-called skyscraper squad, said to average 6 feet 3 inches in height, no less, in down on the calendar for a 3.4 mile race with Princeton on Lake Carnegie. It probably will be less a race than an informal go-as-you-please-if-at-all.

In the first place, it won't require a perfect crew to beat Princeton. In the second, the

DEFEAT OF AMERICAN STAR BIG SURPRISE

One of the outstanding surprises of the recent women's international tennis tournament at Paris was the defeat of Elizabeth Ryan by Joan Fry, youthful English lass. The American fell before her rival, 7-5, 2-6, 11-9. The girl from England played the best tennis of her career.

proposition seems to have developed a mutual admiration complex. "Chuck" Logg being a Washington product and naturally Rusty Callow's best pal and severest critic.

Little Unusual
During the past week, Princeton has stood aghast as it beheld the spectacle of the rival coach riding in the Princeton launch and bellowing instructions to the Princeton oarsmen. That isn't being done seven days in every week and neither is the shouted exchange of figures on rival time trials as two coaches pass each other in their launches.

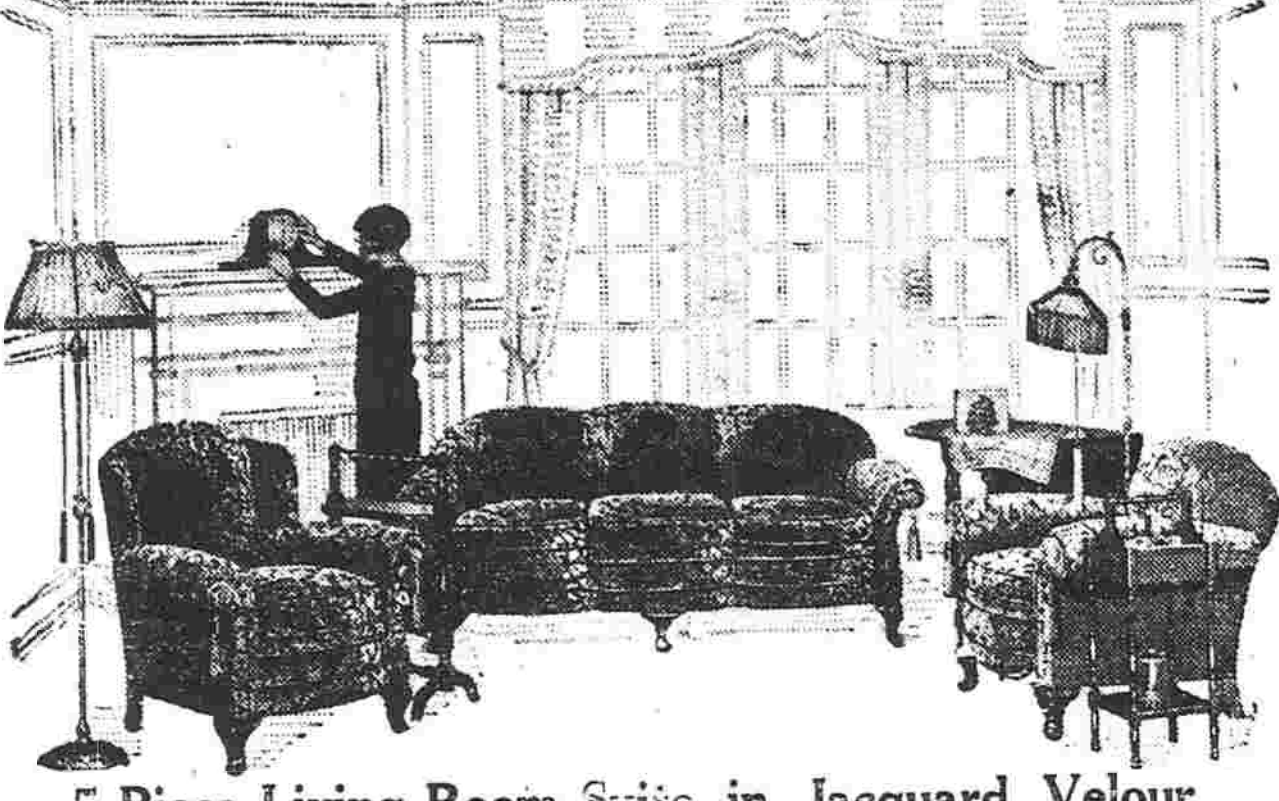

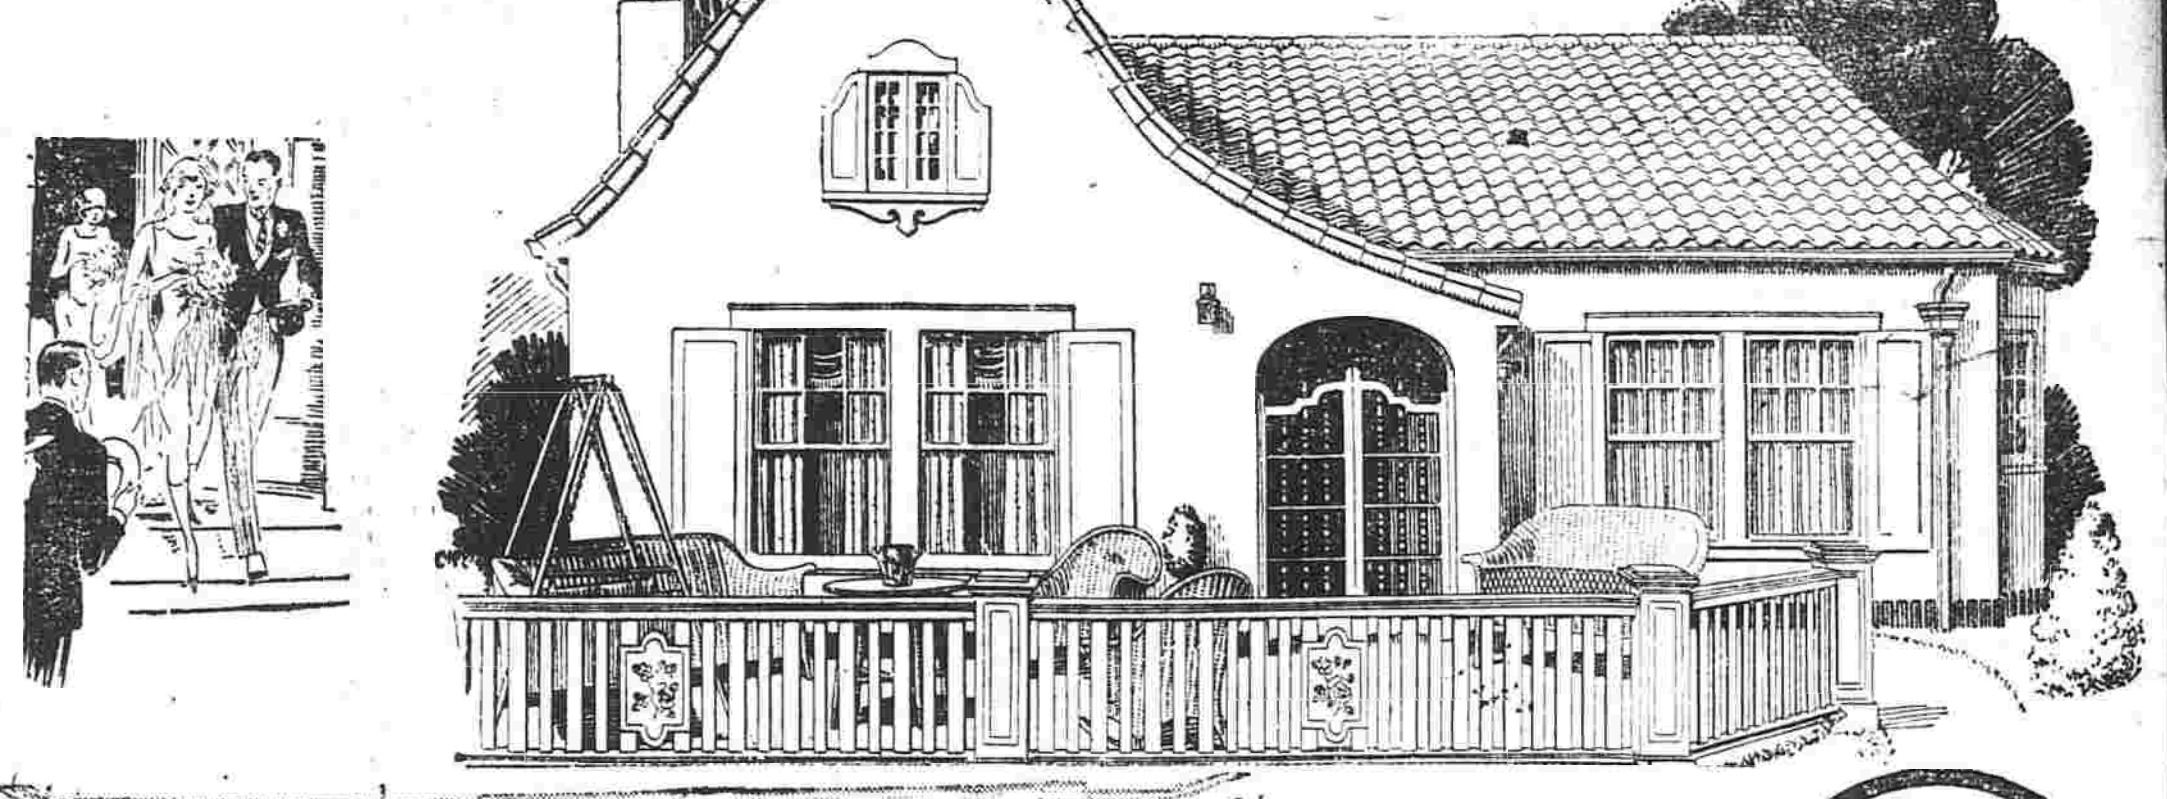

The spirit of the occasion indicates that Washington will row just good enough this afternoon to preserve its record inviolate. At that, some of the volunteer pull-headers are pleased to note the possibility of a Washington disaster. They claim that with the racing start and the comparatively short distance of the race, Princeton has a real chance to up-end the form chart. I don't believe it.

Poughkeepsie the Object
However, there is little doubt that Washington's stay at Princeton is a dangerous experiment. Its real objective is Poughkeepsie, yet it has been training on Carnegie's still waters and concentrating most of its attention on the four-mile distance. The fact that Callow saw fit this week to elevate Bolles and Blethen to the varsity indicated that, as far as he was concerned, the huskies were far from the perfect crew.

Anyhow, they claim here that Washington is not a racing crew and that any attempt to raise its beat above 24 has resulted in raised oarsmanship. They said that Al Ubrichson, the great stroke, is suffering from a wrenched back, and is not able to give his assignment the good, old college try. Discounting these stories at about ten cents on the dollar, the writer still feels that it is possible that Washington's visit has done the huskies. However, that is without significance as far as today's result is concerned. Unless the huskies are a vastly over-rated outfit, they will beat Princeton, standing up.

CHAPTER XLIII

AUDREY shook her head. Her eyes were filled with tears. "Not that, John, not that." The boy clasped her hand more tightly. "Don't cry, Audrey, I'm not worth crying about. But can't you tell me why, dear? Don't you love me?"

Audrey covered her face. "Daddy—I love him," she whispered.

Parrish looked at her miserably, but did not let go of her hand. Audrey lay against the pillows, very still, so that he was frightened and leaned over her. "Audrey! Are you feeling worse?"

"I'm all right," she whispered.

"Just so tired, that I'll stay," Parrish held her hand still more tightly. "Anyhow, dear, I love you and I'll always do anything in my power to help you. If Mr. Morton right here so I can see you now and then. Don't you worry about me, Audrey."

She looked at him a little more calmly. "It's daddy, John. He's so lonely, and he's been through so much in his life. John, he was in love—with my mother once and she failed him. And since he's lost her, I've got to make it up to him, haven't I?"

Parrish considered. "What about Nona? What if he marries her?"

"Well," said Audrey slowly, "Nona's a dear girl, but he won't marry her. I intend that he shall marry me."

The nurse entered the room. "Time to go now," she said to Parrish.

It was late in the evening when Morton woke and, stretching his arms above the coverlet, pondered the events of the hours just before. When the memory of Audrey's illness returned, he sprang out of bed and ran to the house telephone. The butler, who answered it, told him that Audrey had awakened earlier in the day and that he would ask the maid whether she could be seen.

Morton dressed in feverish haste and rushed out into the hall. Hearing Audrey's door, he heard the murmur of voices within. The door was slightly ajar and he pushed it gently open. John Parrish had returned and was seated by Audrey's bed, holding her hand and talking in a low tone. Morton could see the girl's smiling face in the mirror.

Across the room the nurse sat with a book in the little wicker chair where Morton had held his forty-eight-hour vigil.

As he stood there Audrey caught sight of him. "Daddy," she cried, so that the nurse looked up and frowned.

Morton hurried to the bedside. "Audrey, sweetheart," he said, and knelt beside her, with his head on the coverlet. Then he began to sob with great, dry sobs that shook his body from head to foot.

Parrish looked on aghast.

The nurse came to him and touched him on the shoulder. "You mustn't do this, Mr. Morton, you are exciting our patient. Hush!" Morton apparently did not hear her, for he still crouched by the bed, his head in his arms.

"Don't mind him," Audrey said, looking up at the nurse. "I'm not sick any more. And I'm so happy to have him here that nothing will hurt me."

Parrish nodded to the nurse. "I guess we're all so happy that nothing matters," he said.

Morton and Parrish were having breakfast together three days later and talking over the work that had piled up at the office during Audrey's sickness.

"I'm going to put you in charge for a while," said Morton. "I want to take Audrey back to Rochester and get her established in a house that she can manage herself. I think she needs responsibility and something to interest her."

"Then, after we've been there a few days, and I feel that I can leave her for a time, I'll wire you to come and take the office there while I return to New York for a couple of weeks."

Parrish was staring at him. "Do you mean that you intend to give me charge of the office, Mr. Morton?"

"I'm afraid I'm not competent."

Morton shook his head impatiently. "If there's one thing about you that irritates me, Parrish, it's your infernal howl that you are not competent. You would have won in business and also in love if only you had had a slight superiority complex instead of an inferiority. For heaven's sake snap out of it."

Parrish looked puzzled. "I guess you're right," he said. "But when I tried to show my independence by running around with Violet Montgomery I got into hotter water than ever."

Morton looked up. "That's different. Trying to show somebody how smart you are never works. But just going coolly ahead in an assured way, that's the way to succeed. I wish to heaven you'd tried that with Audrey. She'd have fallen for it. All women do."

"Well," said Parrish, with half-uncanny audacity, "you ought to know—Audrey and Nona and the rest."

Morton looked at him in silence for a moment; then he laughed.

"Well, I guess I am lucky. Audrey for an adopted daughter and Nona—Nona's a wonderful woman. Jean, any man might be proud to have her love."

Parrish looked at him curiously.

The butler came in with a telegram which Morton laid beside his plate for a moment.

"Where is Nona now?" asked Parrish. "Doesn't she come here any more?"

Morton stopped to think. "I don't know about Nona, whether to send her away or not. She's a loyal, sweet girl. I think she can be a world-famous dancer, too, John."

He was interrupted by a gay little laugh at the door. And, turning, both men saw Audrey, dressed in street garments for the first time since her illness.

"You didn't know I was coming down, did you?" she laughed. "The doctor said I could get up this morning if I felt like it. And I do—I'm hungry."

She came forward and both Morton and Parrish sprang to help her to her chair.

"I heard what you said about Nona, daddy, and I think it's true. She is a sweet girl. I'm sorry I was hateful to her at first when I was so jealous."

"So you're not jealous any more, Audrey?" said Morton. "That's good."

Audrey puckered her forehead. "I don't know. But I do know I feel different about Nona. She loves you sincerely and she is kind to those about her."

Parrish's face brightened and he moved a little nearer to Audrey. Morton pondered, with a half-smile on his face.

As he turned to his plate again he saw the telegram lying on the table, cloth and tore it open.

"I've had finished reading a rather lengthy message he turned to Audrey. "Can you bear some rather exciting news?" he said.

Audrey nodded, trying to maintain composure. But Parrish saw her face go white.

"It's just this," said Morton, "that we need never fear that man Smith again."

"Why not?" said Audrey.

"Because he's dead," Morton responded. "I haven't told you why I went to Arizona, my dear, because I didn't want you to brood over it. But I went to see him indicted and put in prison on several counts. When I left for home I was fairly certain that he wouldn't bother me again. This makes assurance doubly sure."

"What happened?" Parrish and Audrey chorused.

"The deputy who was with me that day, whose wife Smith had seduced, shot him in the prison yard while he was at work. I knew that there were many avengers on his trail, but this particular story was unknown to me."

As he looked rather sober. "He tried to hurt other people and now he is dead. I can't help being glad."

"Now we'll forget him forever," said Morton, tearing the telegram to bits.

The butler entered again, this time bringing a huge florist's box. He laid it in front of Audrey, but Parrish hastened to open it for her.

"Nona's card," cried the girl, lifting it off the moist green paper laid over the flowers. "And not a word written on it." She began to delve into the box.

"Why, here's a letter for you, daddy," she said, in a startled tone.

Morton hurriedly opened the envelope. In a moment he threw the letter down in front of Audrey and Parrish.

"Harry dearest," it said. "I have made my own decision. The more I thought of our last talk, the more ashamed I became of clinging to you when you didn't want me—not really, at any rate."

"So today, I signed a contract with Sunshine for the London venture, and by the grace of God and hard work, I'm going to make good. I hope you'll be glad to see me succeed."

"Give my best love to Audrey, and tell her to get well soon. Also tell her I'll not stand between you and her any more. Good-bye and good luck. Nona."

Parrish's face turned gray as he finished the note. But Audrey cried out in wondering pleasure, as she drew out a bunch of American Beauty roses.

Morton watched them both closely. Audrey laid the flowers down in a moment and picked up the note again.

"Daddy," she said rather slowly, "this leaves you free to marry me. Parrish put his hand suddenly on her shoulder."

Morton rose from the table and, instinctively, they followed his lead.

"It's time for me to speak," he said. "You two young creatures love each other. You must have each other. My time of love was past 20 years ago. I will tell you about it."

Audrey looked at him wondering.

Parrish drew her to a couch and Morton stood before them.

"I've told Audrey, John," that I loved her more than anything else in the world, and that her mother ran away from her father. I've told her how I followed them and found her mother, the first Audrey, dead, deserted, and how I brought the little Audrey away with me to be my own adopted daughter.

"It was while digging her mother's grave that I found a wide vein of ore—an iron-ore stroke of fortune. Something that was fresh and simple and loving in me was buried in that grave."

Audrey interrupted. "That's why you need me, daddy, and why I am not going to leave you to marry John."

Morton went on. "Do you know I adopted you, Audrey? It was to save you from any disgrace that might hang about your babyhood. I wanted to shield you from that knowledge forever. But I haven't been able to. It seems the whole story must come out."

"Audrey, you know I told you your mother left her husband alone when she ran away with Smith?"

Audrey nodded, speechless. Parrish had put his arm around her but now he stepped back.

Morton held out his arms to her. "I need not have adopted you, sweetheart," he said. "I did that to hide from you something—something I'm going to tell you now. I wanted to hide it from you and from all the world."

They waited for him to go on. His face was drawn and he breathed laboriously.

"I cannot ever marry you, Audrey," he said. "I drew a deep breath. 'If you and John love each other, you must not consider me.' 'I was the servant, Audrey, whom your mother left back there with the baby.'"

He was shaking as Audrey took his hands.

"I cannot marry you—" he threw his head back.

"I am your father!"

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

Birds and Girls.

"Birds of a feather flock together. But they don't. A girl with a beautiful fair skin and red hair marries a man who looks like a reformed orang-outang. An auctioneer makes a friend of an auctioneer and a banker would rather spend a day with an Adirondack fishing guide than with a whole vaultful of bankers. Burglars during the daytime go and swim in the Y. M. C. A. pool. Forgers in their time off sing in the choir, and choirmasters when they are not singing shoot craps."

—Stephen Leacock.

Woman's Beauty.

Millicent "just can't" afford a manicure every week, and she asks me how to shine her own. Like a child, Milly-for-short. Have a stiff nail brush, a thin file with round edge, emery board, sharp nail scissors, orange stick, two buffers, rose powder and paste, cuticle remover, soap, powdered pumice and bleaching cream. If very long, cut with scissors before shaping, the shape fits the finger; oval nails for oval fingers, squarer ones for blunter digits. Never a sharp, talon-like nail. While one hand is soaking in warm soapy water for 10 minutes, cold cream is on the other. A bleaching cream is put under the nails. Loosen cuticle with remover. Remove stains with peroxide and pumice stone. Polish.

Unit Mamas.

"A child born of a woman who has been to college should be taken from the mother as soon as weaned and placed in some institution where it would be properly cared for." This statement in an irate letter from a wealthy New York manufacturer to an eastern girl's college has excited the country. But who wants to argue?

July Fourth Party.

Perhaps the children want a Fourth of July party. Make it an Uncle Sam birthday party. Invitations may be written inside folded water color flags. Decorate with rosettes and bursting of special Fourth of July decorating paper. Guests can find partners for games by matching broken colored candies. Blue dishes on special paper doilies on a white cloth could decorate the table with a centerpiece of "birthday cake" made from a white paper covered round box from which red ribbons lead to the place cards and favors at each place. Bell-shaped sandwiches, flag cakes and ice cream, and red and white candies make an appropriate light menu.

Table Manners.

The hostess is served first at a formal dinner in order that the guests may "follow suit" her manner of handling the food, and in order that she may give any necessary directions to the servant about it. A teaspoon is never left in a cup and no beverage is sipped from the spoon. The spoon is merely for stirring and one first sip from the cup. Bread is broken into small pieces before buttering. Salad is cut only with the fork.

Garden Notes.

A few little don'ts from "Garden Making and Keeping" by Hugh Findlay, professor of agriculture at Columbia University, may intrigue the busy lawn-mowing gudeaman.

"Do not," says he, "work on the lawn when it is wet. Do not cut the grass too close during the dry periods. Do not water the lawn too often, but when you do, saturate the soil well. Much damage is done by sprinkling the surface soil especially when the sun is high. Water in the late afternoon or evening. Grass may be cut shorter during the early spring than in mid-summer or early fall. Do not cut a new lawn too closely. When the grass is about three inches high, set the lawnmower blades high, and cut just before a rain."

EVER MAMIE DISAPPROVES

Jerry Hathaway cut me dead. I will never forget the look of disgust and scorn in his eyes as he did so.

For a moment I was too surprised to realize that seeing me get into the Robinson family car Jerry thought I had lied to him. Believing his eyes instead of me, he made up his mind that I was going to dinner with J. D. Robinson.

I sank back in the cushions of the luxurious car and I think I wept a little. I didn't realize that under the same circumstances I might have suspected Jerry. Of course, he didn't know that I was going to dinner with Joan Meredith.

I didn't have the slightest idea that I should have explained the whole thing to him.

"But he didn't give me a chance," I said, excusing myself. "He just made that accusation before I had time to say anything. He is a jealous, suspicious, unbelieving man and I am glad I found it out early in the game."

I was, however, to have two other encounters, which were rather unpropitious, before I reached the splendid home of Joan Meredith that evening. I had never in my life been in such a wonderful house.

But at that time, however, I was so torn up over the things that had happened during my ride to it that I was not as appreciative of its beauty as I would have been under any other circumstances.

I had only recovered slightly from my "cut direct" from Jerry and was just in front of the Beaux Arts Cafe when the car was held up in traffic.

We were right at the curb in front of the doorway when, much to my surprise and joy, I saw Mamie coming out.

"Oh Mamie, Mamie," I called.

She stopped, looked at me long enough to recognize me and, alas, long enough, evidently, to recognize the car, for she shook her head sorrowfully and passed on.

I could not understand, and was of course, greatly hurt.

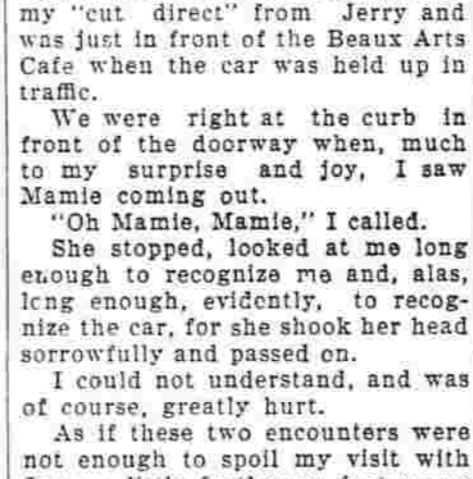

As if these two encounters were not enough to spoil my visit with Joan, a little further on just as we had crossed the bridge to the north side and were turning into the drive I heard my name.

The chauffeur thinking I wanted to speak to Doctor Flint for it was he who called—drew up to the curb.

Steam-Roller In The Home

by Olive Roberts Barton

We hear a lot about children these days. Mothers have taken a back seat, so they say.

But I have one mother in mind who, although she may have taken a back seat, manages to do all the driving from it.

She is a pleasant woman, lovely to meet, gratifying to know, and a very firm friend.

But no one in her household thinks of making up his own mind or acting upon his own impulse without the cue from her.

Her husband is told what overcoat to wear, the children are told exactly what to play and how to play it, the cook is (or was, for there is no cook now except at intervals) told seven times a week precisely how much butter to put into the potatoes, the laundress was reminded every Monday for years not to forget to hand the table linen up for mangling direct from the wringer. She chooses the family friends as she would sort corn.

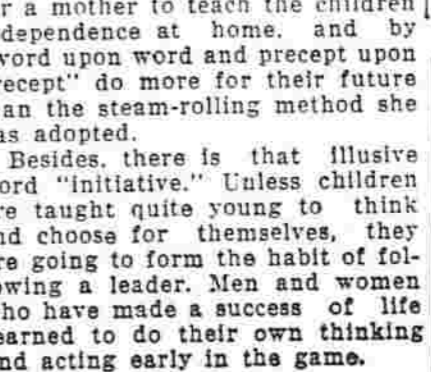

She's often right, and she is so accustomed to think she is right that she insists on her family accepting her will as final; her finger is on every button that runs the works, the cameo of her strong personality leaving its imprint, in fact, on the impressionable natures of those about her.

How much more intelligent it is for a mother to teach the children independence at home, and by "word upon word" to prevent them from doing more for their future than the steam-rolling method she has adopted.

Besides, there is that illusive word "initiative." Unless children are taught quite young to think and choose for themselves, they are going to form the habit of following a leader. Men and women who have made a success of life learned to do their own thinking and acting early in the game.

The Danger In Waters

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING

By the term "dangerous water" is meant any water that may cause illness or death if used for drinking purposes and there are many such waters. Few realize that millions of deaths have been caused in times past from drinking water that was contaminated with such germs as those of cholera and typhoid fever. By serving as channels of communication, by furnishing opportunity for recreation and by providing water supplies, streams and lakes rank among the foremost of our natural resources. Not by any means the least useful function of such bodies of water is that of providing healthful recreation in the form of fishing, boating and swimming.

A common-places though important function of water courses is the drainage of surface washings. In many instances, man has used the stream, often unwisely as a means of disposing of sewage and industrial wastes.

About the most dangerous form of pollution to which a body of water can be subjected is that of receiving human waste, that is, the discharges from the human body.

Even a very small amount of such pollution becomes a most serious menace, or if you will pardon plain words, one person suffering from typhoid fever has been known to infect the water supply of an entire city causing hundreds of deaths from this disease.

A short time ago an outbreak of typhoid fever occurred in a small town in one of our middle western states. Upon investigation, it was found that this outbreak was due to a cross-connection which allowed polluted water to enter the mains of the regular drinking water system.

It so happened that a national conference, being held in the little town and no less than eight states have since sent in reports of persons who were infected by drinking this water and who developed the disease after they had returned home.

And Why Not?

ATHLETE WINS YALE'S BROWN SCHOLARSHIP
Greatest Junior Honor Goes to Philip Bunnell of Scranton, Football Captain.
New Haven, Conn.—With a program of construction greater than any other university has ever attempted at a single time Yale is to tackle also the erection of the largest university library on earth. Twenty-one large buildings are to be destroyed this summer to make room for the library which John W. Sterling, one-time New York lawyer, provided in his will. The library is to cost $8,000,000. It will be two years in the building and when done will dominate the university in its height. The structure is designed to house 5,000,000 volumes as soon as it is done.

Upon completion of the library the university staff will be faced with the task of moving at least 3,000,000 volumes from their present temporary quarters in various buildings, as well as about 2,000,000 more that are in the present library. Engineers have drawn a plan which calls for construction of temporary bridges, across Elm street, one of the most congested in Connecticut, so that truck loads of books may be moved without holding up either the city traffic or the book-moving. And the books are to be arranged so they can slide into permanent shelves in the library the moment they reach that building.

GENERAL STRIKE IN AUSTRIA FEARED

Example of English Workers Has Stirred Up Unrest on the Danube.

Vienna, June 18.—Possibility of a national strike in Austria excited by the recent walk-out of workers in fundamental industries in England, is arising daily here with a growing feeling of industrial unrest.

A bare week after the settlement of the great English strike, the civil employees of Vienna threatened to strike, and although there has been no actual walk-out as yet, the workers are continuing to hold the strike weapon above the heads of their employers.

One Strike Vote. School teachers have used the same lever to secure more pay, and the city employees of Vienna have flatly voted to strike unless the municipality accedes to their demands.

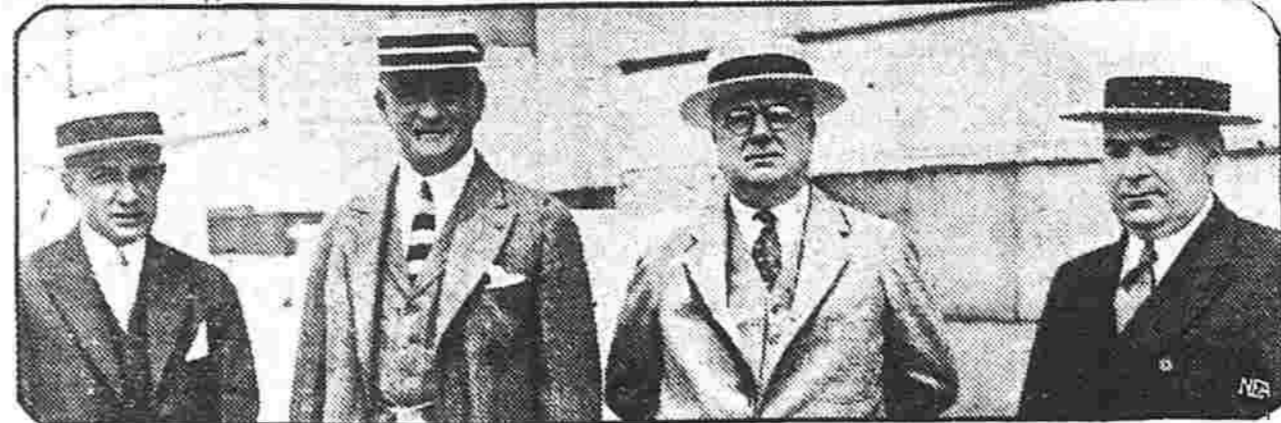

There has never been a general strike of all employees in Austria. But the English example, regardless of the interpretation of the outcome, has commended the idea to the labor leaders here.

SPANISH ARENA BULLS BOLT, SMASH AIRPLANES

Seville, June 18.—Five bulls escaped from the full-fighting arena, invaded an aviation field nearby and destroyed several planes of the Seville-Lisbon air line today.

The bulls, pursued by a mob of attendants including several mounted pleriders, stampeded into the planes, destroying the wings, fuselages and other parts.

By Joe Dugan. The bluff hunt, a play much used when I broke in to the American League, but now rather obsolete, tests not only the mechanical play of a third baseman but his thinking apparatus as well.

When Ty Cobb was in his prime he used to pull this play often, having the batter work with him in confusing the infielder.

ASK WORLD TO HELP IN SHAKESPEARE FUND

London.—Five distinguished Englishmen representing art, architecture, finance, literature and the stage, are to act as an advisory council to the governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon in the work of erecting and endowing the new building to take the place of the one burned down by fire March last.

They are Sir Charles Holmes, Director of the National Art Gallery; Guy Dauter, President of British Architects; Reginald McKenna, the famous banker and financial authority; Sir James Barrie, and Harley Granville-Barker, a distinguished English actor.

Conversations have already taken place between the Council and the Governors at Stratford-on-Avon and various suggestions and plans for the new theatre have been considered.

Today $333,000 are available for the work of reconstruction and endowment, $110,000 of which has been supplied by public subscription. This sum, however, is considered to be totally inadequate for the work in hand, and further appeals are being made all over the world for further subscriptions. It is generally agreed that it will be impossible to build a new theatre adequate to the representation of Shakespeare plays upon the old site, and it is likely that the ruins of the old theatre will be adapted to the purpose of a conference hall while an entirely new theatre will be built not far off.

Special mention is made of the large number of subscriptions received from Americans in the appeal for new funds, and hopes are expressed that many more donations will be received from the United States.

Edina, Mo.—Three women of this neighborhood drag the roads, under contract and like their work. They are Mrs. Gertie Oliver, Mrs. Perry Vandiver, and Mrs. Elmer Francis. They drive mule teams and have been doing it for several years.

Chicago.—Ten men went into a Turkish bath house and came out cleaner than they had anticipated. While the men slumbered that night robbers had taken $700 and their watches and jewelry.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Did you see any sign of a china elephant and a toy clown?" Nick asked the corner policeman in the city of "Any Place At All."

The policeman started to answer but as his voice began to get farther and farther away, the Twins looked up quickly to see what had happened.

And there, if you please, was his head about half a mile up in the air, and keeping on going. At last there was no head to be seen at all—nothing but a long, long neck!

Then, as they looked, his head started to come down again, and finally it settled back where it belonged, on his shoulders.

"I beg your pardon," he remarked, "but I had to speak to a friend of mine on Jupiter. Now, what did you ask me, please?"

"We're looking for Inco, our china elephant, and a toy clown called Flops," said Nick. "We were told that he came to Drowsy Land on the Moon. Did you see him?"

"What did he look like?" asked the policeman, and his voice trailed off in the distance. Not up this time, but sideways, his long neck stretching down the street and around the corner.

By and by the policeman's head and arm appeared again, and in a minute he was as good as new. But he had tight hold of an automobile which he pulled around in front of him.

"I'll not arrest you for speeding this time," he said to the driver. "But you must do it again. Remember if you do, I'll see you. I see everything, for I can stretch my neck over house-tops and trees and around all the corners. Now go, but remember what I told you. You are not allowed to drive over ten miles a minute on the moon. Do you promise?"

"I promise," said the man, so the policeman let the poor trem-bling fellow go and he disappeared around the corner again like a flash.

"Now please tell me your troubles all over again," said the policeman to the Twins. "I was something about an elephant and a—"

But away went his head again, this time around another corner. His head kept disappearing and coming back until finally Nick said to Nancy, "Let's go. Let's go. We'll never find out about Inco and Flops this way."

Nancy laughed. "Wouldn't it be great to have a stretchy neck like that," she said. "We could stand still and let our necks do all the running around for us."

"I should say not," said Nick. "It's more fun to have all of you on an adventure instead of just your head."

"That's right," nodded Nancy. "But this city of Any Place At All keeps you on the jump too much. I don't think we'll find Inco and Flops here anywhere. We'd better go on to the next place. Goodness! Here comes that giant boy again. If we don't run, he'll pick us up again and squeeze us like he did before. And—"

But the giant boy had spied them and it was too late to run. He did not squeeze them, but this time he whirled them around over his head three times and then threw them across a moon mountain. They did not know it, but they were in a place quite as queer as they had left.

A PUZZLE A DAY

The inn was filled with American tourists who had come to attend the British Amateur Golf matches, held at the Muirfield golf course. One party left the inn in a hired automobile at 10:00, averaging 20 miles an hour. Another party left the same inn in their own machine, 1 1/2 hours later. They traveled over the same route but averaged 30 miles an hour. The second party overtook the first at the entrance of the "course."

How far is the inn from the Muirfield golf course?

CLASS DAY RITES OF SENIORS TODAY

High School Graduates Observe Annual Fun Making Custom — Class Song, Poem and Ivy Oration.

"Non Sibi, Sed Omnibus."
(Not For Self But For All).

With their class colors, brown and gold, predominant and with the underclassmen cheering them, members of the Class of 1926 of the South Manchester High school held class day exercises this afternoon in the High school assembly hall. Led by standard bearers carrying two brown banners with '26 in large gold letters upon them, the Seniors marched proudly into the hall at two o'clock.

GEORGE KRAUSE
President.

George Krause, Senior class president, delivered the Ivy Oration. It follows:

"As we, the Class of 1926 gather here this afternoon, our memories take us back three years to our Freshman days, when our ambition was to become Seniors. Graduation seemed a distant goal to us then; but the days full of work and happiness have passed all too swiftly and we are, perhaps, a bit startled to find that we have reached our goal. Our associations of four years ago have meant more to us than words can tell, and the fact that we are no longer privileged to enjoy them brings us to a realization of the love for this school which has grown in our hearts. It is to leave something tangible as a token of our love and appreciation that we have assembled here today to plant the ivy—a symbol of growth, expansion and loyalty. During the four years that we have worked and played together in these halls, we, as a class, have done our best to uphold the standards of our school, and we are proud of our athletic standing. Our athletic teams have had a very successful season. The basketball team was one of the best in New England. Our third year football team produced a team capable of holding its own with the best. The baseball team made a creditable showing. We were represented by the best track and tennis teams in years. The Dramatic Club successfully presented its ambitious production of "Little Women" and the debating team, although defeated, gave a good account of itself. You all know of the success of the Boys' Glee Club. Truly we have reason to be proud of our leadership in academic work, and in our school and athletic organizations.

"Freshmen, your class has shown a great deal of spirit this year in athletics and clubs. Your basketball team won the class league, and a large percentage of its members is on the honor roll. Keep it up—do not forget that you are here primarily for academic purposes.

"Sophomores, next year you will be upper classmen and more responsibility will rest on your shoulders. Try out for the athletic teams and the dramatic and debating clubs as they need new material to progress. Even if you do not make them you can at least give them your support.

"Juniors: On your shoulders rest the responsibility of Seniors. The school's activities will measure their success and growth by the strength of your support and leadership. We place our trust in you to maintain the standards and ideals of this school.

"Classmates: In a few days we shall no longer be the Senior class of South Manchester High school. We shall have taken leave of our High school and of each other; and may our Ivy carry thought of us to these we leave. With the presentation of this travel to the Junior class we hereby resign all Senior duties and privileges and accept for ourselves the larger responsibilities of life.

"The Response.
William Hill, president of the Junior class, received the brown and gold banner of travel, the symbol of membership, and delivered the following response to the Ivy Oration:

"Seniors: The Class of 1927 are just as busy to see you leave this High school as you are to leave it. During the four years that you have been here, your work, as a class, has been of the best and you have set an example which the proud and lower classmen may be proud to follow. You have been most successful in your undertakings. For instance, your various methods of raising money for the Washington Trip fund showed executive ability on your part, and may we hope that we shall be just as capable next year. We have had a very prosperous season in athletics, for which much credit is due to the seniors, many of whose members have helped form the nucleus of the teams. Our basketball team has been most successful as indeed it has been for the past three years. Our baseball team did not win the majority of its games, but made a fine showing and, when defeated, it took its defeat with good grace. Our football team, though football in this school is still in its infancy, had a fine season. Our track and tennis teams have been especially good, and have more than held their own against some of the finest teams in the state. Although we will be considerably weakened by losing many

OVER 100 PRESENT ON TRIP TO STORRS

Manchester Business and Professional Men Inspect State College and Play Baseball.

More than 100 members and guests of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce went to Storrs yesterday on an inspection trip through the Connecticut Agricultural college plant. The trip had been planned for a number of weeks and everything was ready for the Manchester party when it arrived at the college.

An excellent dinner was served in the college dining hall and the party was welcomed by President C. L. Beach who made a brief speech in which he told of the formation of the Connecticut college and similar institutions in other states. He outlined the subjects that are taught at Storrs and gave a short resume of each course. President Austin Cheney of the Chamber responded to the welcome with a few words.

Tour of Inspection

Following the dinner two parties were made up of the Chamber members and guests. One party, led by Professor Dodge, started at the greenhouse while the other, under the direction of Professor Davis, began its trip at the new Community house. In that way congestion was avoided and no one place was crowded.

The new Community house was one of the chief plants of interest at the college in some measure due to the fact that all its furnishings were supplied by a Manchester firm. It was erected through donations from people all over the state and as it stands now can hardly be equalled in any college of the size in the country. Rest rooms, workrooms and a capacious auditorium are contained in the Community house and the auditorium has a stage on which almost any size production could be given.

Visit Greenhouse

Leaving the Community house the party went to the hot-house where plants and trees from all over the world are growing. Some who had never seen bananas growing saw two or three plants in the hot-house on which were great bunches of this fruit. Cactus plants and palms that reached a height of 20 feet were seen in this place as well as some of the most gorgeous tropical flowering plants which are at home only in lands close to the equator.

Practically all parts of the college were seen over by the different groups and inspection was made of the dormitories, laboratories and classrooms in the various buildings.

The Cattle

Sleek cattle, calves less than a year old and enormous black horses were seen in two of the barns. It was feeding time and the students who stay at the college each year were giving the calves their milk. Each pail of milk was weighed and a certain amount given to each animal. Some of the students were milking and others feeding the cows while on two animals milking machines were at work.

The extensive chicken farm where all the Storrs country-wide egg laying contests are held was one of the chief points of interest. Many thousands of chickens are kept in these pens and it is a well known fact that birds from the college have won prizes at practically every show held in the country during a long number of years.

Some Ball Game

After the college plant has been inspected the party went to the athletic field where a ball game was played. Now about this ball game, the results were rather vague and it is a tossup as to which team won. The first was captained by Walter Olson and the second by U. J. Lupien. Neither team would concede defeat and both claimed victory. On a vote taken among the spectators the result was a tie. However, Olson's team had more men than Lupien's and the majority vote swung by the three extras gave the verdict to the men of the Recreation Director.

About this time some of the players complained of stiff joints and lame backs. On the advice of a doctor who was present, it was decided to call the game and declare it a tie. Then the journey home started.

A number of the Chamber members had seen the college before but to most it was a novelty and a well worth seeing. Few of them realized that such a well-equipped efficient college plant existed so close to Manchester.

NOTES

In one of the pens near the cow barns was an enormous bull. It lay on the ground, half asleep and did not wake up until Walter Olson went in to bait it. Mr. Olson's exit was very undignified, to say the least.

His brother, John, proprietor of the paint shop, looked in wonderment at the hothouse plants, remarking on the pickles that were growing there. He meant cucumbers.

The baseball game was rather a family affair, three Keiths being lined up on one side. Only one, Warren, hit safely.

A. Podrove, Prop. Phone 10

HOOVER-TRAINED. Washington.—Numerous resignations of executives and experts in the Department of Commerce provoked Secretary Hoover to remark recently that the department had developed into a sort of "post-graduate school for business." Mr. Hoover said 60 men had left the department within the last year to join the staffs of business firms.

FIVE DANCE NUMBERS ON PARTY PROGRAM

There will be five dance numbers by members of the recreation center dancing classes on the program of the garden party to be given under the auspices of the League of Women Voters in the court at Educational Square next Tuesday evening. At the time the spring dance exhibition was given in the Recreation Center gymnasium there were many requests for the program to be repeated out of doors. Many will therefore be gratified to know that four of the most popular numbers of the program will be given in such a delightful out-of-door setting.

The Highland Fling, the difficult and picturesque dance of the Scotch people, will be danced in typical Scottish costumes by the following little girls: Carolyn Neill, Janice Remig, Virginia Johnson, Ernestine Montie, Edwina Elliott, Irene Pola, Barbara Hyde, Dorothy Hultman, Mary Dolan, Mary Miroglio, Ursula Segerdahl and Alwina Winkler.

Attired in Japanese kimonos and carrying Japanese paper fans eight little dancers will entertain with a Japanese Fan dance. Those taking part are: Edith Wolfe, Robina Hall, Bernice Robinson, Zita Brennan, Lillian Johnson, Laura Bissell, Ida Anderson and Phyllis Kraetschmar.

The number which will perhaps prove to be most effective given out of doors will be the May Pole dance. The yellow and green of the May Pole streamers and of the tarlatan dresses make a colorful picture on the lawn. The Poppy dance will also be given and still another novel character dance known as the Clown dance which will be done in Yama costume.

Mrs. Franklin Dexter will give two solo dances. Robert Gordon will sing, accompanied by Archibald Sessions and a musical program will be furnished by members of the high school orchestra.

SAVES TIN ROOF

Hilo, Hawaii.—During the recent Mauna Loa eruption, a Hawaiian whose home was in the path of the molten lava rushed to his dwelling and peeled off its tin roof. It was one of the few tin roofs on native cottages in Hawaii, and prized as an extraordinary possession and a signal of distinction. He saved the roof. The village was destroyed.

ANY MORE WARS?

Washington.—If there are any more wars around, Robert Henry Livingston, alias Matt Greene, wants to be declared in. Livingstone, who says he is 106, says he enlisted under General Taylor for the Mexican campaign of '46 against Santa Anna; was with Commodore Perry in '52; served under General Scott in '56 against Mexico; was with Custer in his Indian campaigns; fought under Roosevelt in the Spanish-American War and helped General Pershing win the World War.

NEW STAR FOUND

Cambridge, Mass.—A new star has been discovered, ten million times brighter than the sun. But its light is of the 14th magnitude 4000 times too faint to be seen with the naked eye. Scientists figure that the catastrophe which gave birth to this new star happened ten million years ago, long before the glacial period on earth.

Constance Talmadge, the film star, has won a notable reputation for the smartness of her millinery.
