Forestry Board Will Seek Apparatus in Hope of Saving Woodlands; 350 at Hartford Conference.

Hartford, June 24.—Connecticut had 646 forest fires this spring that burned 22,000 acres of woodlands, according to statistics revealed today by Lucius F. Robinson, chairman of the State Park and Forest Commission, when he opened a conference of forest fire wardens and woodland owners in the state capitol here today.

Railroads, Smokers.
Mr. Robinson declared that 18 per cent of the fires were caused by railroads, 17 per cent by careless smokers, 14 per cent by brush burning, 7 per cent by camp fires, nine per cent from miscellaneous causes and 3 per cent by unknown causes.

More than 50 persons attended the sessions and listened to addresses on the causes of fires and methods of preventing them.

The Park and Forest Commission indicated that efforts will be made to have the state legislature appropriate money to buy gasoline pumps and hose with which to fight forest fires in the future.

YALE'S NEW GYM BIGGEST IN WORLD

Huge 6 Story Structure Planned—11 Millions in Buildings This Summer.

New Haven, June 24.—Announcement that Yale University has been given $3,500,000 for a new law school plant from the funds of the estate of the late John W. Sterling of New York, means that Yale has now received more than $15,000,000 from that source for new buildings, fellowships, scholarships, professorships and maintenance purposes.

Work on the new law school group is expected to start in the near future as its plans have been completed by James Gambia Rogers, of New York.

Mammoth Gym.

Another large new Yale building in prospect is a gymnasium for which also plans have been drawn. An official information indicates this structure will cost some six millions of dollars, will be six stories high, and will be the largest university gymnasium in existence. A feature is to be a group of swimming pools.

Meanwhile work is under way on two large Yale buildings and three more are to be started during the summer beside a group of fraternity houses. Construction work totaling more than $11,000,000 will be under way about July 1, according to official announcements. In the group are a theater, art museum, recreation building, office building, dormitory, library and fraternity houses.

WET SLUSH IN THAT PRIMARY, SAYS WHEELER

Charges That Brewers Put Up Much Cash for Vore; Pittsburgh Chief of Police Gets Scolding.

Washington, June 24.—Peter Paul Walsh, superintendent of Pittsburgh police should be removed from office for his alleged efforts to force Pittsburgh police to vote for Senator Pepper and John S. Fisher, Republican gubernatorial winner in the recent Pennsylvania primary, Senator King of Utah, declared today during examination of Walsh by the Senate slush fund committee.

King told Walsh he had violated the "spirit and letter of the civil service law" and ought to be removed.

Walsh denied he had made any concentrated efforts to "line up the police" for Pepper and Fisher and said he could see no impropriety in telling his men "to get out a heavy vote and bring in the rest."

Walsh further said he didn't know a place in Pittsburgh where intoxicating liquors were sold.

Wet Slush, Says Wheeler.
An effort to prove the existence of a brewery "slush fund" diverted the Senate committee from its investigation into the political activities of the Anti-Saloon League.

Wheeler made the charge at a secret session of the committee and volunteered to produce witnesses to prove that Pennsylvania brewers had raised a large campaign fund with which to influence the outcome of the three-cornered senatorial race. Wheeler charged that the wet interests threw their support to Rep. William S. Vare, who won the nomination over Senator George Wharton Pepper a nominal dry, and Gov. Gifford Pinchot, the Anti-Saloon League candidate.

Many Witnesses.
Rumors in Senate circles indicated that Wheeler would bring a number of officers of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League here to substantiate his charges if the witnesses could be heard in executive session. The committee was reported to have agreed to do this, reserving the right, however, to make all the testimony public later.

Wheeler met with the committee first in executive session. He declined to comment on his secret testimony but reports spread that Wheeler submitted a list of dry witnesses to the committee with a request that they be called to tell of the alleged brewers fund.

Senator Reed (R., Mo.), told newspaper men that the secret testimony of Wheeler would be made public.

NEW STORY FAILS TO SAVE MURDERER

White Plains, N. Y., June 24.—Frank Daley, New York gunman convicted of the murder of two Mt. Vernon street railway employees in a hold-up there last July 19, must die in the electric chair in Sing Sing prison tonight, Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins ruled here today in denying Daley's application for a postponement of his execution.

Daley made an affidavit on Monday in which he declared that David De Malo, convicted with him in the murder, is innocent. He claims that a man who planned the murder was Daniel Tremarco and not De Malo.

De Malo's counsel attempted to forestall the execution yesterday by rushing the affidavit to the White Plains supreme court.

MOSCOW REDS BROUGHT ABOUT BRITISH STRIKE

Great Labor Battle Instigated by Third International, Blue Book Now Discloses; Government Justification.

London, June 24.—Documents, tending to show that the Third International set in motion, in October, 1925, took steps to bring about a general strike in Great Britain, were published today in the form of a blue book and created a tremendous sensation.

The blue book contains documents seized in raids on the British Communist headquarters last October.

Supplied Money.
These documents show that the executive committee of the Third International sent instructions to the British Communists to stir up trouble between the miners, railroad men, seamen, and employers, preparatory to organizing a general strike. The documents also show that money was sent from Moscow for propaganda to further such plans.

Publication of these documents is understood to have been decided upon by the government as a means of justifying the policy which it adopted during the general strike.

White Plains, N. Y., June 24.—Two indictments were returned today against Philip Elliott and Richard Thorne of New York, charged with having brutally beaten Violet Anderson, 20-year-old motion picture actress, on a lonely road near here.

The men, well known in certain theatrical and literary circles in New York, are now being sought by the district attorney as fugitives from justice. It has been reported that they fled to Canada.

Many experts hold that, if this thesis is finally adopted and incorporated into an international treaty, it will practically wipe out the effects of the Washington treaty.

50 WOMEN, CHILDREN DIE IN MEXICO FLOOD

City of Leon, Guanajuato, Is Swept When River Gomez Overflows Its Banks.

Mexico City, June 24.—Heavy loss of life is reported in floods that have swept Leon, in the state of Guanajuato. Estimates of the dead run as high as fifty.

The river Gomez has overflowed its banks and swept the lower sections of the city of Leon, where thousands of the poorer classes were driven from their beds last night. The victims are reported to be principally women and children.

If the river continues to rise, as it has done for the past five days due to incessant rains, it is feared that the catastrophe may equal that of the flood of 1888, when hundreds of lives were lost.

A passenger train enroute from Juarez to Mexico City is stalled outside of Leon.

WASHINGTON AND NAVY STILL REGATTA CHOICE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—Washington and the Navy today were even stronger favorites for the championship race on Monday, as a result of rowing time trials within nine seconds of each other in the gathering gloom of last night. The Navy made the faster time, 19:12, and therefor was a slight choice over the Huskies, whose time was 19:21.

The Huskies' time would have served to make them odds-on favorites for the race, if it hadn't been for the Navy's earlier effort.

Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia also staked themselves to four-mile trials, which were not time.

The Badgers were out for a five-mile haul, no attempt at speed being made.

California went to the opposite extreme by practicing racing starts while Pennsylvania did little.

A Glimpse, Then Back to Ocean Bed

Giant pontoons had just raised the nose of the lost Navy submarine S-51 above the waters off Block Island, R. I., when—crack!—a cable snapped. Months of work by a gallant salvage corps went by the board as the heavy ship sank back to the ocean bed. The nose of the submarine can be seen in the center of the picture, supported by pontoons, an instant before the mishap.

U. S. NAVY THESIS LOSES AT GENEVA

Arms Sub-Committee to Adopt the Franco-Italian Basis of Comparison.

Geneva, June 24.—The naval sub-committee of the preparatory disarmament conference today voted to adopt the Franco-Italian thesis for comparison of naval strength. This thesis holds that the comparison of navies should be on total tonnage. The United States delegation had maintained that the basis of comparison should be the tonnage of vessels of various classes.

Britain Backs U. S.
The Franco-Italian thesis was adopted by a vote of 11 to 6. The United States view was supported by Great Britain, Chile, Spain, the Argentine and Japan.

The decision is regarded as one of the most vital yet taken. Many experts hold that, if this thesis is finally adopted and incorporated into an international treaty, it will practically wipe out the effects of the Washington treaty.

A Tolstolene Society which was formed in England intends to edit the complete writings and celebrate the centenary on August 28, 1928.

GREAT CATHOLIC FESTIVAL ENDS AT MUNDELEIN

Half Million Persons Gather in Tiny City for Climax of International Eucharistic Congress.

Mundelein, Ill., June 24.—In the green beauty of Illinois' rolling hills, the International Eucharistic congress ended today, taking its place among the foremost demonstrations of faith and devotion in history.

Amid the brilliant-hued gardens of the theological seminary of St. Mary-By-The-Lake in this tiny city, forty miles northwest of Chicago and named for George Cardinal Mundelein, Chicago's beloved prince of the church, four days of religious tribute climaxed in a gigantic solemn pontifical high mass, followed by the procession of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

While a crowd estimated at more than half a million looked on, hundreds of Catholic church dignitaries walked beneath the full-blooming trees beside the lake's blue waters in the final ceremony of the congress.

For more than a mile stretched the procession, a gorgeous medley of gold and white, with brilliant high lights furnished by the richly colored robes of the cardinals and more than 200 bishops, bishops and mitred prelates.

The cardinals in the procession were Bonzano of Rome, Charost of France, O'Donnell of Ireland, Casanova of Spain, Dubois of France, Bourne of England, Piff of Austria, Czernoch of Hungary, Dougherty of Philadelphia, the Cardinal of Boston, Hayes of New York and Mundelein of Chicago.

Through Lanes of Flowers
While the silvery chimes in the chapel sounded, scores of cross bearers and acolytes started the procession, conducting the prelates through the winding lanes of ferns and flowers. Behind came marching Lithuanians, Slovenians, Belgians, Hungarians, Chinese, Italians, French, Spaniards, Poles, Ukrainians, Germans, Britons, Americans, South Americans, Australians, American Indians, Canadians and other national groups, marching in units.

Four bands played softly. Cardinal Bonzano carried the blessed sacrament and as he passed hundreds attempted to break through police lines to kiss his hand and the hem of his vestments.

To Kneeling Hordes
As unnumbered thousands knelt on the flower-studded hillsides the solemn procession began at the seminary chapel, draped in red and decorated with American flags, where Cardinal Bonzano, personal representative of Pope Pius XI, celebrated mass and gave the Pope's blessing, his eminence, Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York delivering the sermon.

Chicago Deserted
By noon today the downtown streets of Chicago were as deserted as on an ordinary Sunday afternoon. City officials estimated that at least 750,000 persons had gone to Mundelein.

Between 125,000 and 150,000 automobile lined up bumper-to-bumper, made the greatest motor caravan in history. These averaged four passengers to the car. Many more thousands made the pilgrimage by rail. Not a few chartered private taxicabs and airplanes.

National Guardsmen are patrolling the highways to prevent disorder.

APPRECIATE BISSELL'S SERVICES TO HOSPITAL

Board of Trustees Sends Letter to Chairman of Drive for Funds Now Being Conducted

The following letter has been sent to Clarence E. Bissell, chairman of the Memorial Hospital fund, by the Board of Trustees of the hospital: "Mr. Clarence Bissell, South Manchester, Conn. "My Dear Mr. Bissell: "The Board of Trustees of the Manchester Memorial Hospital wish to express to you their appreciation of your public spirit and kindness in undertaking to manage the collection of funds for the hospital, and to your associates who have worked with you, for so unselfishly giving their time and interest to the public service.

"While this collection is not completed and is still to be carried on quietly, in such time as you and your appointees can give to the subject, we do not think it is desirable to wait until everything is cleared up before expressing to you and the other workers our full appreciation of the manner and methods pursued by you and your force and the satisfaction which they feel in the success which you have so far met with.

"We fully appreciate that the collection of small amounts from scattered individuals, which is still going on, perhaps cannot be completed even before next fall. The hospital needs these small contributions and the interest of every citizen in the Town of Manchester in its work, which is not and, in the nature of things, cannot be entirely self-supporting. One of the great prizes of Manchester hospital has been the general support that it has received from a very large body of citizens of the town.

"Thanking you again for the conscientiousness and unselfishness with which you have conducted this work, I am

"Yours very truly, "F. A. VERPLANCK, "Secretary of Board of Trustees, Manchester Memorial Hospital."

JONES, MEHLHORN ST. ANNES LEADERS

Two Americans Tied for First Place With Walter Hagen Running Third.

St. Annes and Lytham, Eng., June 24.—Robby Jones, American amateur champion, and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn of Chicago are now tied for the leadership in the British open golf championship, which seems to have simmered down to a race between Americans, with the British contenders pretty well in the rear. Jones played steady golf today and turned in another 72, which was excellent golf considering the weather and the lightning-fast greens. Jones' total for the first 36 is 144, equal to that of Mehlhorn. Thus far Walter Hagen is running third with a total of 145.

DELICATE OPERATION ON LOCAL MAN'S EYE

John Cahill of Burr Nursery, in Hartford Hospital Suffering from Cataract.

With fifty-fifty chances of regaining the sight of his right eye, John Cahill, employee of the Burr Nursery Company, will undergo an extremely delicate operation the latter part of the week at the Hartford hospital for the removal of a cataract. The operation will be performed by Dr. Terry Smith, noted Hartford eye specialist.

The accident in which Cahill injured his eye occurred six weeks ago. He was struck by a piece of wire while engaged in his work. Since that time the inflammation of the eye has been so great that it has been impossible to operate. During this time he has been under the care of a local physician and was removed to the hospital a week ago.

EASTERN STAR MEMBERS OBSERVE GUESTS' NIGHT

Windsor Locks O. E. S. Take Charge of Work Here for Temple Chapter.

More than two hundred members and visitors attended the supper and meeting of Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star in Odd Fellows hall last evening, when officers and members of Euclid Chapter of Windsor Locks were in charge of the ritualistic work.

At 6:30 a supper was served in the banquet hall under the direction of Mrs. Frederica Spiess and her able assistants. The menu included scalloped potatoes, baked beans, cold meats, salads in variety, relishes, coffee and strawberry shortcake.

The decorations were in yellow and green and the tables were in the form of a triangle. Green candles and yellow poppy favors were used. The poppies were the work of the favor committee under Mrs. Victoria Wadwell and were wired to stand up and form receptacles for free-dinner mints.

The lodge hall was very beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, daisies and other spring flowers by Chairman Florence Snow and the ladies of her committee.

A beautiful bible mark, a gift to Temple Chapter from Past Matron Ethel Brainard, was used for the first time. It is of white, white satin ribbon with tied fringe. On one end is the Eastern Star insignia painted in colors.

MALLEY FINED $100 AS RESULT OF CRASH

Manchester Man Also to Lose License Because of Saturday Night's Accident at Bolton.

Pleading nolo contendere to a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Daniel Malley, of 827 Middle Turnpike, was fined $100 and costs amounting to $125.15 by Justice Cannon at a special session of the Bolton police court Tuesday evening. Fifty dollars of the fine was remitted.

The accident which brought about the arrest of Malley occurred Saturday night on the Bolton road near Bill Martin's place a few hundred yards east of the Manchester town line. It was thought at first that the accident occurred in Manchester and Chief Samuel G. Gordon and Sergeant William Barron investigated. They, however, turned their information over to the state police who later caused the case to come up for trial in Bolton.

The automobile which figured in the crash with the one operated by Malley was driven by Mrs. Joseph Haley, former Manchester resident, who now runs a store in Bolton. Two young people were riding with Mrs. Haley in the sedan. Malley was proceeding toward Manchester when his machine crashed into Mrs. Haley's which was on the right hand side of the road.

Following the accident, Malley escaped in the woods but was later accosted by the Manchester police. In court Tuesday night, Malley was represented by Attorney William S. Hyde. Grand Juror Collie Maine prosecuted the case for the state. Justice Cannon, who found Malley guilty, is telegraph operator at the Bolton Depot. As a result of the decision, Malley will lose his driver's license for one year.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Annual Affair Held at South Methodist Church Draws Big Crowd. The annual strawberry festival of the South Methodist church, held in the banquet hall there last night, was one of the most successful in the history of the organization and its success financially and otherwise exceeded the expectations of the committees who had charge of the arrangements. More than 500 people attended and everything for sale was disposed of before the evening was over.

Entertainment consisted of a one-act sketch given by Miss Annie Strickland and Miss Ellen Lewis, vocal solos by Miss Strickland and Mrs. Bertelme Lashinsky, and a series of tableaux by the junior section of the Sunday school directed by Miss Strickland. The series called "The Seasons," was presented against an appropriate background, the stage being decorated in the manner of an old Italian garden. Each group of children was costumed in the garb of the season it represented.

During intermission a five-piece orchestra under the leadership of Collins Driggs played popular music. Mrs. Claude Truxa was chairman of the general committee and sub-committee heads were the following: Decorations, Mrs. William Black and Mrs. Gustave Anderson; candy, Miss Florence Metcalf; ice cream and punch, Miss Margaret Lewis; ladies' aid booth, Mrs. Harry Keeney.

There will be a public whist at the Keeney street schoolhouse this evening. The Good Will club will be in charge.

McPHERSON ROMANCE.
 The story of the abduction of the woman evangelist Almee Semple McPherson is not only romantic—it savors of romance; which, in the finer shadings, is not exactly the same thing. Taking place in the film belt, the whole episode smacks of the studio and the location, of the methods of scenerist and movie director. But that, of course, is far from being proof that the evangelist's great adventure was either framed up or cut from whole cloth. What strains the credulity is a most amazing psychological coincidence that makes its appearance in the unfolding of the drama.
 After a disappearance from a bathing beach, after a long search for the body of the supposed victim of drownings, after an absence of several weeks, after the inexplicable offer of a great reward for the return of Mrs. Semple alive, its subsequent withdrawal, re-offer and withdrawal; after the elapse of a nicely-measured time, the evangelist appears. She is exhausted, bedraggled, having made a typical studio escape from a band of abductors who had been holding her on a Mexican mountain, incidentally seeming to pay any attention to the offers of reward, though ransom was the object of their crime.
 All this it is possible to accept. But now comes the extraordinary part.
 When the refugee evangelist reaches civilization the first thing she does, of course, is to call up her mother by long distance telephone and break the news of her escape. The mother, who has given up her daughter as dead, is hopeful but skeptical. So she propounds a set of questions. She makes the woman at the other end of the line describe a scar on her finger and tell how it came to be there. She makes her give the names and places of residence of various relatives. She inquires the name of their pet pigeon, requires the recital of various dates of importance in the family. And, getting correct answers to all these questions, she cries, dramatically, "My God, it's Almee!"
 Good business; very sensible, rather clever. Not everybody, right off the bat, would have thought of such a means of checking up an identity over the phone.
 Yet it seems, according to the evangelist's story, that precisely the same line of thought had come to the kidnappers. Long before her mother had been called on to exercise her ingenuity in identification and while Mrs. Semple was still prisoner in the mountain shack, the abducting band had been planning to prove, also over the phone, that they had her in their power, by telling the mother certain intimate incidents in her daughter's life, known to the older woman and the younger one but improbably to anyone else thereabouts—such as those dates, names of relatives, the pigeon's name and so on. They had tried very hard to compel Mrs. Semple to supply them with these details, but she wouldn't.
 And that scarred finger—the first thing that the mother asked about in her telephone check-up. Why, so important was that, in the esteem of the kidnappers, that they even proposed to cut off the finger and send it to the mother as grim and conclusive proof that the daughter was in their power. How passing strange that a scarred finger was about the first thing to pop into mother's head, too.
 It may be doing an immense injustice to worthy and impeccable women to cast doubt on the validity of this McPherson romance. But the deadly parallel running between the mental processes of the abductors, with relation to scarred fingers and other such matters, and those of the evangelist's mother is much too deadly to be swallowed safely without a great deal of salt.

VETO OR NO VETO.
 Calvin Coolidge is, above all things else, famous for his extraordinary deliberation in reaching decisions. Sometimes it takes him so long to arrive at a conclusion on a public question that even his best friends become irked and nervous. But having come to a decision he is like adamant in his immovability.

 On the question of farm relief as contemplated by the Haugen bill the President's mind has been definitely made up for a considerable time. He is absolutely, unqualifiedly and uncompromisingly opposed.

It is on the rigidity of the President's resolution that Democrats in Congress are banking when they about face and fall into line for the support of this measure which they have heretofore strenuously opposed. They do not believe in it, they know that their constituents would scold them if they permitted the bill to become a law with their connivance, but they are evidently going to take an active part in passing it, probably in both Senate and House.
 They propose to do this, in complete confidence that President Coolidge will veto the bill, and for the sole purpose of placing the failure of the measure squarely on the chief executive, expecting of course that such action will precipitate an anti-Coolidge revolt in the agricultural states that it will drive him out of the presidency and out of politics.
 Suppose that just for once the President should change his mind. Suppose that for the first time he should suddenly shift ground, as many a president before him has done time and again, and should not veto the bill at all. Where would these Democrats be then?
 If the Haugen bill is passed, President Coolidge would have, if he wished to use them, several excellent reasons to give for declining to exercise the veto power. He could take the position that preponderance of opinion in Congress, after due consideration of all his arguments, is entitled to respect. He could be satisfied that the reduction of the amount involved has removed the measure from the class of actually dangerous experimentation. Or he could, with much grace, decline to disapprove a bill which has had the active support and sanction of the vice-president, whose authorship of the Dawes plan surely gives him the right to speak with exceptional authority on a matter of economic finance.
 So that perhaps the Presidential veto of the Haugen bill—if it passes or is already passed when this is printed—may not be such a dead-end thing as these clever Democrats have assumed. Maybe the President will spring, in this connection, his first Class A joke.

FADING.
 Manchester's list of veterans of the Civil War is shortened by one more name.
 Within the memory of those still young the insignia of the G. A. R. decorated the lapels of many, many thousands of the country's most active citizens, those men of affairs whose decisions controlled in nation, in state, in town, who were the natural leaders in all the activities of the country.
 Twenty years ago most of the soldiers of the great war of the rebellion were less than sixty-five years old, a good many of them under sixty. And that time is well within the recollection of men and women of thirty.
 But in that twenty years, what a change. Only a handful of the soldiers who fought with Grant, who marched with Sherman, who survived the horrors of the Wilderness, who stemmed the storm of Chancellorsville—and who then returned to the business of civil life and marched as steadfastly in the ways of peace as they had in war—are among the living.
 Generations come and generations go, of course; but theirs was a generation that bore a distinctive marking. And its passing is like the fading away of a tangible line drawn across the face of history.
 We are watching the fading, as we watch the fading of the sunset. Soon, before we are aware, the last of the glow will be gone—the final "taps" will have been sounded over the very last of the heroes of the 60's. Finis will be writ across the roster of the Grand Army of the Republic. But the lustre of its deeds will never die.

RADIO TEACHING.
 If the children of the schools of Connecticut are to have music appreciation added to their already rather involved curriculum, to the extent of a forty minute period every other week, it is probably the best of all conceivable methods for the imparting of such instruction that it should be done by radio, as contemplated by the Travelers station and the State Board of Education.
 The introduction of school teaching by radio, even in a single specialty, is of intriguing interest, as suggesting the possibility of now undreamed-of extension of such a method of instruction.
 How can we be sure that the day will not come when most of our public schools shall be conducted by mere monitors, whose duties will consist only in seeing that the pupils remain in their seats and do not throw spitballs into the receiving set, while the impartation of knowledge will all be done by experts a thousand miles away, talking to classes of several millions of youngsters in total?

 Certainly "Teacher" and the microphone cannot have the attention of the children at the same time. Is it possible that in the coming of radio the teaching profession may detect the foreshadow of its doom?

HANGING WOMEN.
 They hanged a woman in England this morning—a woman thirty-three years old, mother of three children.
 In a country where the civil and political rights of women are equal to those of men, like the United States, it is difficult to find any logical reason why a woman should not be hanged for murder if hanging is to be the penalty meted to men for that crime. But no amount of logic can make it seem right nevertheless. It's just a throwback to primitiveness, perhaps, but no man can read of the legal execution of a woman without a feeling that something is outrageously out of whack.
 In England, logic itself comes to the support of this feeling. There, woman may have the ballot but she has no real share in citizen's rights. She is still, in the eyes of the law, the inferior creature. To hold her to the same accountability as her lord and master, even to the floor of the gallows, is beyond justification.
 Yet it is America, not England, that simply does not any longer hang women. Law or no law.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTERS.
 BY CHARLES P. STEWART
 Washington, June 24.—Observe Vice President Charles G. Dawes, coming out of his office in the Capitol building in the midst of a group of farm relief agitators.
 These times Dawes is everlastingly to be seen going into or coming out of his office in the midst of a group of farm relief agitators or else he isn't to be seen at all, because he's inside his office in conference with a group of them.
 Farm relief is in the atmosphere and Charles G. Dawes breathes atmosphere. He doesn't quarrel with it. He inhales it deeply.
 This would be all very well—Farm relief atmosphere is poison gas to Calvin Coolidge.
 He's on record as opposed to farm relief legislation. He says the farmers must work out their own salvation.
 Since the Iowa senatorial primaries he may wish he hadn't said it quite so emphatically. If so, that's all the more reason for him to wish his own vice president wouldn't associate so constantly and ostentatiously with farm reliefers, sympathizing with them in their plans and advising them to go ahead with same.
 What the president may wish, however, doesn't seem to concern the vice president.
 Dawes is well aware that farm relief atmosphere is surcharged with presidential lightning.
 It will be noticed that he has a lightning rod up.
 Dawes' conduct is all the more noticeable in that vice presidents aren't supposed to do with legislation, farm relief or otherwise, and Dawes obviously is doing his best to promote farm relief legislation.
 The theory is that an ideal vice president effaces himself all he can in order not to embarrass the administration.
 Dawes is doing just the opposite and the administration is embarrassed all right.
 But what does Charles G. Dawes care for precedent?

That the White House is sore at Dawes is no secret to anybody in Washington.
 Of course the "presidential spokesman" doesn't say anything about it for publication, but in the first place, the White House can't possibly help being sore, and, in the second place, the evident coolness between the chief magistrate and his understudy proves that it is.
 President Coolidge and Dawes never did hit it off very well together, from the time of the Cleveland convention, when Coolidge didn't want Dawes for a running mate, but for while they gave a pretty fair imitation of being reasonably friendly.
 Now they meet only on the most formal occasions, when they can't help it.
 Even on such occasions they have precious little to say to one another. Dawes wears a Chesire cat grin. Undoubtedly he's getting a lot of fun out of the situation. Coolidge maintains an air of cold hauteur.

DAILY POEM
 POP STEPS OUT.
 "I guess I'll stay downtown tonight," says Mister Married Man. "This best that I keep out of sight. The missus says I can, she might as well just tell me, I'd be sorta in the way. It's actions that, expel me from the household for the day. I watched her fix the table. I could quickly understand. As much as I was able—well, I sorta lent a hand. The tricky little trimmin' that she spread around so free just pictured 'em talkin' women—and it's not the place for me."
 "I'll gladly pay the grocer, and believe me it's enough. But, frankly, I say no sir, as to helpin' eat the stuff. The feed that she's preparin' may be nice and all of that, but I prefer an airin' in the outdoors. Where's my hat?"
 "Of course you know the answer to what's goin' on tonight—the reason why yours truly much prefers to fade from sight. The neighbor 'girts are comin' and a bridge game's in the air, so father's comin' cause he's just not wanted there."

 Hearts may be attracted by assumed qualities, but the affections are not to be fixed but by those that are real.—De Moy.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE
 BY ARTHUR N. PACK

 Aphids or plant lice are among the most common and by no means the least injurious of our insect pests.
 To understand why they so suddenly appear by myriads it is necessary to learn something of their life history.
 Scientists who have studied the group tell us that many of them hatch in spring from eggs that have lain over the winter in some protected place. The individuals are all females and possess the power to bring forth living young without fecundation, and these can continue the process.
 So naturally, with new generations coming into being every few days, the tribe soon overflows the nearby plants. So far the insects have been wingless but soon winged females are produced, and these are able to travel to other food plants.
 After a time both males and females are found among the broods, and these produce eggs which are deposited in crevices in bark, and other situations, there to winter the process. With such methods of reproduction, one would think that the aphids would soon possess the earth, and so they would if it were not for their natural enemies.
 Of special interest are the relations between ants and aphids. The latter secretes a sweet liquid called honey-dew, of which the ants are very fond. Certain ants, in order to insure a supply of this substance, maintain herds of aphids, just as we keep cows.

IN NEW YORK
 New York, June 24.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I saw a sign in front of a new tea and coffee emporium which read: "All you can drink for a dime." . . . I discovered that one can literally drink as much Java or Ceylon as capacity permits for the small price of one dime, 10 cents . . . And, as another indication that Broadway may be setting the pace in reducing the cost of living, inside the cafe is another sign reading: "Do not tip the waiter." . . . The shock is really almost too great . . .
 Saw "Peaches" Browning and her millionaire husband attending a Charleston contest at the Polo Grounds and they do say that "Daddy" Browning can step more than a couple of the tough steps himself . . . Also saw Sam Ryan, the 82-year-old Charleston dancer, who has made enough money during the craze to pay his way back to his old home in Ireland . . .
 Saw Percy Hammond, the drama critic, wearing golf knickers at a first-night performance and not batting an eye . . . Saw John Philip Sousa making ready for his annual tour and seeming most hale and hearty for his years . . . And Bob Burns, actor, having his nose rebuilt for a "handsome hero" part . . . The medal still goes to Ruth Gordon who had her bow-legs straightened so that they would present a better appearance on the stage . . .
 Saw a lot of Broadway actors doing "bally-hoo" stuff at Coney Island shows last Sunday . . . Seems that summering on the road is sometimes precarious . . . And while the role of speller at a side-show may have its shortcomings from the standpoint of prestige, it assures a weekly pay check . . .
 I know one actor who holds such a job in order to make his out-of-town friends think he can afford to summer at the seashore . . . Benvenuto Cellini, the Italian goldsmith, sculptor, diarist and killer, is memorialized in stone over the doorway of the newest 48th street skyscraper . . .
 Sign on a jewelry store: "Pearls and other precious stones." . . . These bright gems, eh what? . . . Al Jolson driving a new Hispano Suiza, whatever that is . . . But it looks like a lot of money.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS.
 BY CHARLES P. STEWART
 Washington, June 24.—Observe Vice President Charles G. Dawes, coming out of his office in the Capitol building in the midst of a group of farm relief agitators.
 These times Dawes is everlastingly to be seen going into or coming out of his office in the midst of a group of farm relief agitators or else he isn't to be seen at all, because he's inside his office in conference with a group of them.
 Farm relief is in the atmosphere and Charles G. Dawes breathes atmosphere. He doesn't quarrel with it. He inhales it deeply.

Mary Ludwig, known to fame as "Molly Pitcher," was the daughter of John Ludwig, a German immigrant, who settled in Mercer county, N. J. Mary was born there, Oct. 13, 1754, and spent her childhood days around her father's dairy farm. At the age of 15 she joined the family of General William Irvine, as a domestic, and went with them to Carlisle, Pa.

In this small town she met John Casper Hays, a barber who had his shop not far from the Irvine mansion. On July 24, 1769, Mary and John were married.

Immediately after the marriage the young husband enlisted in the Revolutionary War and became a gunner in an artillery company.

Mary remained with the Irvines until a message was received from her husband, asking her to return to her parents' home in New Jersey, where she was needed, and where, as the Continental army moved back and forth across New Jersey, there was a chance she might occasionally see her husband. On horseback, alone, she made the trip from Carlisle to her old home. (CONTINUED)

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

This was the letter that the mailbox handed to the Twins in Nip-and-Tuck Town. It said:

"Dear Twins, I am sorry that you are having such a hard time finding Inco and Flins on the moon. But I am sure they are in Drowsy Land somewhere. If you do not find them in Nip-and-Tuck Town, just ask your pink tickets to take you to the Dream-Maker Man. He lives in a castle with seven pointed arrows on Misty Hill."

"Lovely! Yours,"

"The Fairy Queen."

"The Dream-Maker Man," cried Nick. "We never thought of him. Did we, Nancy? He's a good one to go to. Come on—let's start."

"Where to? Where to?" asked he two pink tickets when they heard this. "Where are you starting for? We have to know if we are to turn ourselves into tracks again so we shall be sure to go in the right direction."

"To Misty Hill," said Nancy. "To the Dream-Maker's house."

The pink tickets were trying to decide which one of them should be the track this time, when along came a sandwich plate and a large picnic coffee pot.

"May I pour you a cup of coffee?" said the coffee pot, hospitably. "You have ten minutes stop-over for lunch."

"Thank you," said Nick, "but we aren't allowed to have coffee."

"Well—I like that," said the coffee pot in an offended voice. "I suppose you'll be saying that you don't eat sandwiches either."

"Do they have mustard on?" asked Nancy timidly.

"Of course," said the sandwich plate. "Mustard and horse-radish and Worcestershire Sauce."

"I guess we won't have any, thank you," said Nancy.

"Upity! That's what they are! Upity!" snorted the sandwich plate. "And me priding myself on my seasonings!"

The coffee pot and the sandwich plate took hands and walked away.

"Now, we'd better be going," said Nick. "Come on, tickets, we're ready."

"Won't you take something to read with you?" said a new voice. And there stood two magazines, a red one and a blue one with pictures on the back.

"We'd like to, thank you," said Nancy. "Do you have nice easy words that we can understand?"

"Nothing shorter than 'conglomeration' and words like that," said the magazines. "That's the kind of reading that puts you to sleep when you travel."

"I guess maybe we don't want to read with you," said Nancy. "But perhaps you could tell us if you have seen a china elephant and a clown anywhere. We are looking for them."

But the magazines had walked off in a huff. They hadn't heard the last part of Nancy's speech.

"We certainly had better be starting," said Nick. "This place is well named. Nip to get in and tuck to get out. Every time we start someone comes along and stops us. Quick, here comes somebody else."

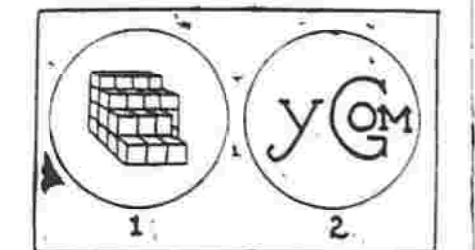

The pink ticket in Nick's pocket jumped out and instantly became a track again. And there was the little car, too.

The Twins got in and started for Misty Hill.

Why Long Chimneys?
Many women wonder why all stoves with long chimneys are superior to those with short ones. It is because the long chimneys insure perfect combustion. In other words, every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches the chimney. There is no chance for soot or odor.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL OF TODAY

BUYING UNHAPPINESS.

After telling me that she had invited me with the intention of having me witness her marriage, Joan Meredith was silent so long that I felt that I must say something. "Well, when is the marriage going to be? Hadn't we better be going?" "There won't be any wedding, Judy," she answered. "Changed your mind, did you? Between matinee and night, as it were."

"No," she almost whispered. "I didn't change my mind. It was changed for me, and it has broken my heart." "Let me go back Judy, and tell you my story from the beginning. You will find from it that riches do not make happiness and that you can buy anything except what you want most."

"My father died two months before my brother and I were born. My mother married again when we were three years old. So you see I never knew any other father than the man my mother married. "Mr. Robinson has been kind to me in a negligible sort of a way, but both my brother and myself have grown up in the care of servants enough for either of us to stay very long with us. Consequently we grew up almost without any restraint. We grew up without any love, and certainly without any feeling of dependence upon or respect for anyone but ourselves."

"Today, Judy, I have found out that it can buy you unhappiness. Greater unhappiness than one who has it not could think were possible. Do you know, dear, I wish I could go home with you tonight without one cent. Go home with you feeling that tomorrow I must set up and earn my daily bread before I could eat it."

Prevention Of Lockjaw

This is the second of a series of four articles on July Fourth. Tomorrow: The Toll of Wounds.

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING
Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service

The symptoms of tetanus are varied. The disease usually develops in from two to 10 days. When lockjaw develops within six days in a man the disease is almost invariably fatal. The milder cases of tetanus usually require a longer period for development and such patients may recover.

There are a number of cases of slow development on record where recovery has taken place even without the use of antitoxin now so generally administered in tetanus infection.

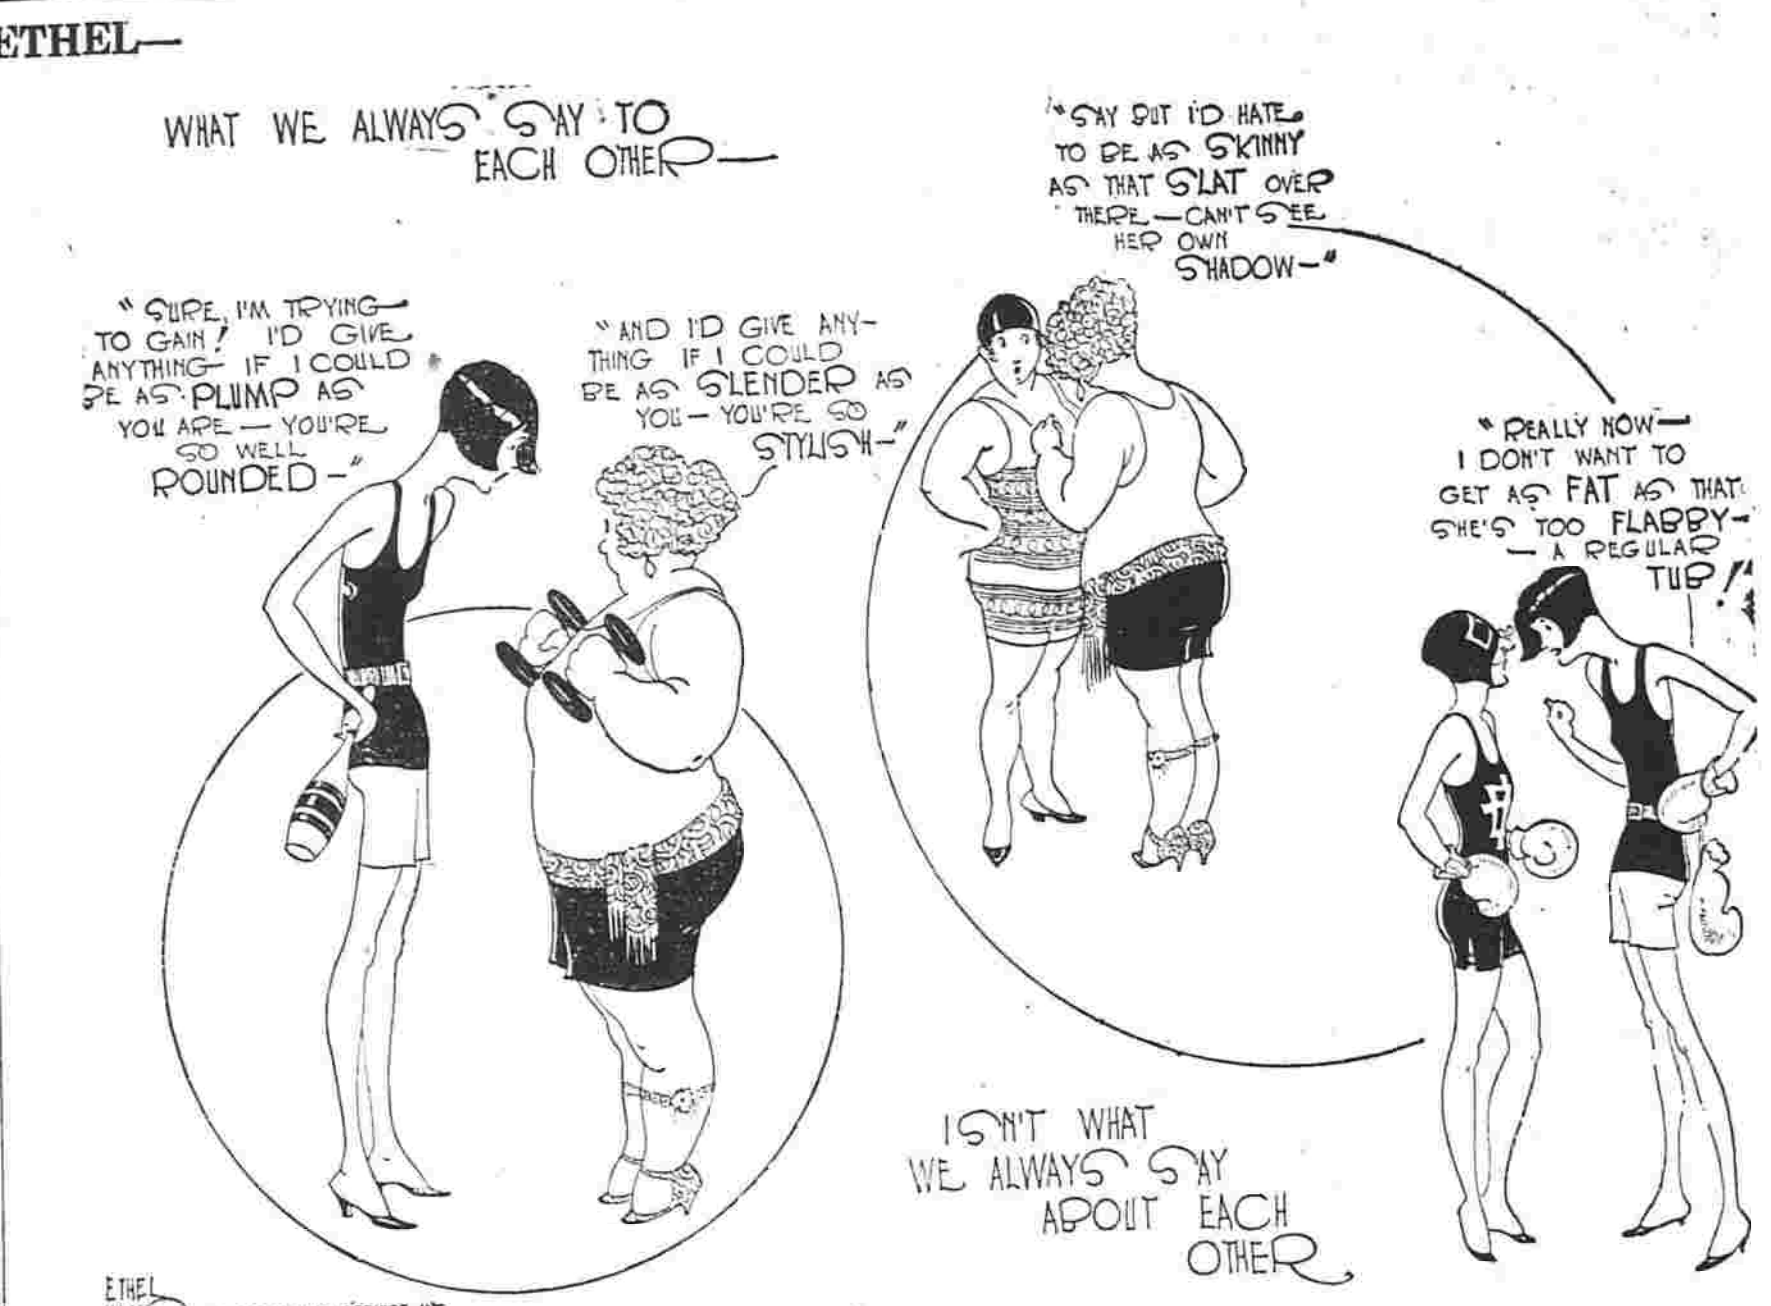

Stiffness
One of the most noticeable symptoms of tetanus is marked stiffness of the neck and the lower jaw. This is why the disease is called lockjaw.

When a person has received a lacerated wound which has been much soiled by dirt or dust; or a puncture wound from a nail or garden instrument or household utensil, he should be taken to a doctor to determine whether he should receive an injection of antitetanic serum.

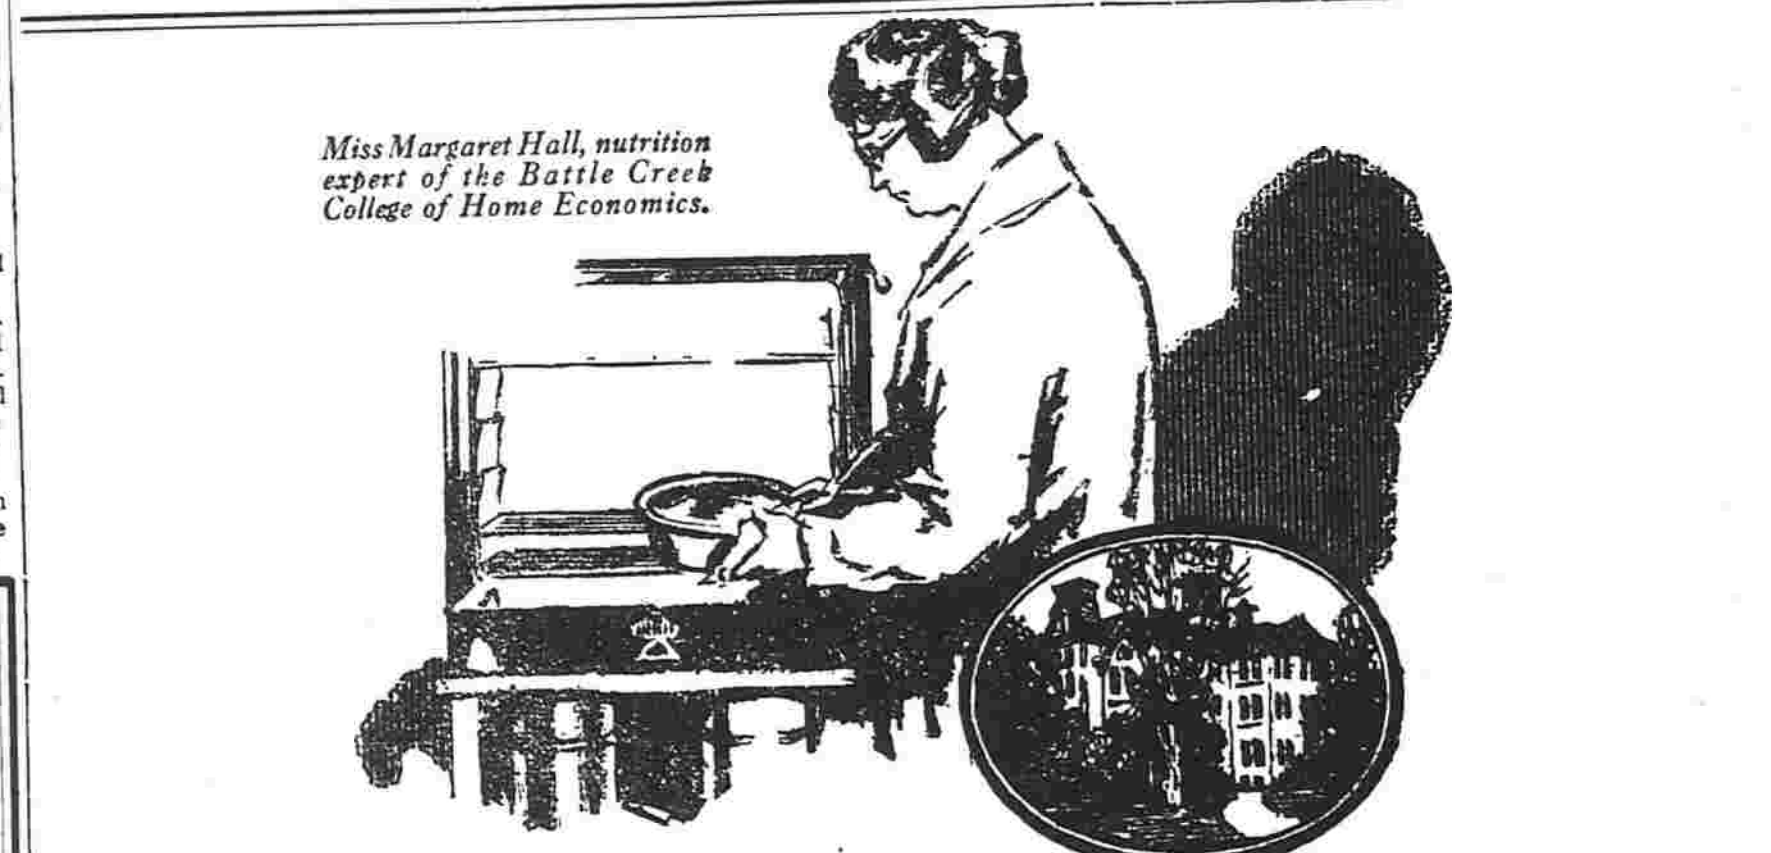

These injections should be repeated at intervals of a week until three doses have been given.

Wounds, however insignificant, may be contaminated and should always be thoroughly cleaned. Puncture wounds or lacerated wounds should be opened and care should be taken to remove every piece of foreign matter.

If sun wadding or other foreign material has been driven into the Antitoxin should, however, be administered if the patient has shown symptoms of the disease, to prevent further danger. The most important factor for you to remember is that tetanus antitoxin should be administered just as soon as possible.

Scientific Battle Creek was more than satisfied

Great institution recommends Perfection after exacting tests

TRULY scientific is the Battle Creek College of Home Economics. Its nutrition expert, Miss Margaret Allen Hall, cooked many meals on a Perfection in a nation-wide cooking test conducted by six famous cooks. Miss Hall expressed the most complete satisfaction with the Perfection.

The results were fine
"Whether I broiled mushrooms, boiled peas or fried timbale cases the results were fine," she said. "The stove lighted quickly. Its heat was steady and even and so easily regulated that I cooked all those dishes at the same time, using a different grade of heat for each."

The flame is steady
"The flame did not creep or crawl. I tested the oven with a standard oven thermometer and found that I could keep it any length of time at the temperature I desired. This is very necessary for successful baking."

Odors don't mix in the oven
"One meal I cooked entirely in the oven, corn and cheese souffle, stuffed tomatoes seasoned with onions, and angel food cake. There was no mingling of odors. This meal saved fuel, too, as I used only one burner. Through the glass doors I could see at any moment how every dish was getting along."

"I'll call it a day, Nat," John called out to him. "Need some sleep." "All right, John," Graham was busy and did not look up.

At that moment, while he hurried down to his car, his mind filled with the wonder of their baby girl, three other babies were being born in Chicago and in a fine residence a childless couple, after a cruel argument, were agreeing on a divorce.

"Fine, baby girl. Seven pounds and twelve ounces." "Well, this is a real occasion. Get up on a proud father, Nat." "That's fine, John, fine," said Graham, shaking hands. "How's Mrs. Milburn?"

In another end of town two men were having a bitter quarrel in the rear of a soft-drink saloon. One of them, growing infuriated, struck the other a vicious blow in the face and the fallen man pulled out a gun and calmly shot him, thus terminating a bootlegging feud of long standing.

Fay had been installed in her own private room. "I thought you'd be here pretty soon," she said after an

CHAPTER III

JOHN dashed out of the elevator at the ground floor and ran into the florist's shop. He cast a roving eye over the array of flowers banked against the walls and in the glass cases, finally pausing in front of some long-stemmed pink roses.

"I'll take two dozen of those," he ordered, and pulled a roll of bills from his pocket.

"Yes, sir," said the clerk. "Take them with you or send them?" "Send them." He gave the clerk the name of the hospital. "Deliver them to Mrs. John Milburn's room. Now, how much?"

"Ten dollars, please. Thank you." The clerk was respectful. Ten-dollar orders were not picked up every minute.

"Make it right away," John ordered, and swung out of the shop. A minute later he was in the cigar store. "I want a box of cigars. Good ones. Box of fifty, I guess."

The fat man behind the counter beamed. "How good? Got 'em as high as 60 cents apiece." Noticing the other's hesitancy, he went on rapidly. "I can make you a special price of 48 cents apiece if you buy fifty. Real bargain."

John was peeling the roll of bills again. "Well, all right." Back in his office he summoned Briggs to his desk. The artist came in from his little room, sleeves rolled up and his soft shirt open at the throat.

"Briggs," said John, "throw away that cigar." The artist removed the short remainder of his cigar and looked at it in wonderment.

"Here," John laughed, showing the newly purchased box across his desk. "Have a good one. Your taste in smokes, Briggs, is almost as bad as your taste in flowers."

Briggs, noting the brand, laid reverent fingers on one of the cigars. "Save it for after while," he remarked, "the butt of the old cigar back in his mouth."

The office door opened and a man came in. He glanced swiftly at Briggs and Milburn in laughing conversation, then walked toward a desk at the far end of the room.

"Nat," called John. "Come over here." The newcomer said, "All right, but make it snappy. I'm busy," and walked over. He was a man of medium height and perhaps thirty years, with light brown hair that was thin, a high forehead and a stool with a bib tied on, and how elephant number two lathered him and took a big honest-to-goodness razor, sharpened it on the shaver's trunk, and shaved him, wiping every blade of lather on a towel, and how he wiped him off, dusted him with powder, brushed him, and held up a mirror.

"The poor elephant who was being shaved got everything in one eye," said I, "and he never even blinked."

My tea companion is now my friend, Ibsen would never have done it, I'm sure. Besides, as a literary critic, I am grand on elephants!

FEMININE STYLE.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Miss Arlyne Moriarty, a recent graduate of Mt. St. Joseph's Music school, will instruct both beginners and advanced pupils in piano and harmony during the summer vacation, at her home, 38 Florence street. Phone 1168-3 for particulars.

A Michigan woman wrote the other day to the publisher of a magazine the following optimistic letter: "I'm thankful I'm living in this 'terrible age.' I believe there never was a time when the world was full of so many folks all trying to help someone else. That isn't all—I am positively certain there never was a time when the world was full of so many 'better homes.' I'm glad I'm living today because today men love their wives, children and home more, I believe, than ever before. I hate to hear folks howling that the world is getting worse. It's a good old world and I love it."

Leftover cake which has become stale may be made into a quick dessert by steaming a few minutes then covering with a warm sauce made in many variations. In fact, chocolate or butterscotch harmonize well with most cakes. For lemon sauce use a cup of sugar, two tablespoons each of flour, butter and lemon juice, little salt and a cup of boiling water. Mix the dry ingredients. Pour the boiling water over and stir for two minutes and stir in the lemon juice and butter.

Fringe is used lavishly on the smart new frocks and coats. Navy blue seems to be gaining daily in the color competition. In fact all shades of blue are chosen for day and evening wear, while reds are to be the rage next fall and winter. A fetching navy blue dress had full peasant sleeves and a turnover collar of white silk printed with navy blue dots.

Cherry Tarts
1 cup cherries.
1 egg.
1 cup sugar.
1 tbs. lemon juice.
2 crackers.
1 tsp. grated orange rind.
1-2 cup chopped nuts.
Chop the cherries, add the beaten egg, sugar, finely rolled crackers, lemon juice, orange rind and chopped nuts. Cut circles of pastry six to seven inches in diameter, put a tablespoonful of mixture on each, moisten the edges with water and press together with a fork, forming a "turnover". Bake in a quick oven.

The problem of the best way to open cold-pack canned fruit and vegetables was solved by a manufacturer of fruit jar rings at last. Strange that no one thought of it long before. Fingers have been cut and eyes have been injured by particles of glass from broken covers pried off with paring knives or other sharp instruments. Two manufacturers of fruit jar rings have come out with the new improved rubber, one places a lip on opposite sides of the rubber ring and the other only one lip. A strong pull on it stretches the ring, lets the air in and breaks the tightest seal. They can be used on either half or screw-capped jars. Be sure to ask for them when you are stocking up with canning supplies.

There used to be a song with words like this: "From all the meats that are good to eat, from turkey down to ham, the one that tickles my palate the most, am lamb, lamb, lamb!"—All of these and sea food too on order at O'Leary's Hotel, Green and Golden streets, New London.

Cut flowers either early in the morning or late evening. Plunge stems in cold water and keep in a cool place for several hours before arranging in bowls or vases. It isn't necessary to use the foliage of the flowers either. Poppies are lovely in a vase filled with green chickweed. I have seen carrot leaves used to good advantage with certain flowers whose foliage was

The texture of your hair is probably as unlike your friends as its color. Were you both permanently waved by the old method you would expect identical results. One of the prettiest of the summer dress styles, is the frock with shirring on the shoulders and skirt to give the necessary fullness. Plain or bordered materials are equally adapted to this mode, although the latter is used, considerable is required as the gathers are in clusters at intervals around the skirt. Smoking is another favorite method of introducing fullness.

Walnut meats.
1-2 pt. cream.
Bake a pie shell of nice richness to a golden brown and fill with the following:
Drain all the juice from the pineapple, add one tablespoonful of sugar. Place this layer on the bottom of the crust. Crush the strawberries and sweeten to taste. Spread over the pineapple. Whip the cream and spread over all. Sprinkle with English walnut meats. Do not fill the crust until ready to serve.

One cannot help but bubble over with enthusiasm about the summer styles in hats and dresses. There is the loveliest new crop of soft white and pastel shade felts in the millinery shops, drooping leghorns and wide-brimmed hair brads for the summery dresses. Crowns are occasionally fashioned of velvet or felt while the brim is of straw, and the trimming very slight. There is such a diversity of styles for both street, sport and afternoon wear, no one particular fashion outstanding apparently. Many of the two-piece gowns are developed in plain and figured fabrics, dots, geometrical and floral patterns. Plain organzas are scalloped with the material, worked in self-color in large embroidery designs, with wide satin sashes tied in a bow in the front. MARY TAYLOR.

CHARTER OAK PARK AUTO RACES JULY 5

Special to The Herald. Hartford, June 24.—Arrangements are fast rounding into shape for the big auto races that will be held at Charter Oak park on the afternoon of July 5 in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial celebration to be held in this city under the auspices of the Improved Order of Red Men with entries received from some of the best drivers in this section of the country.

All the leading make of racing cars will also be seen in action that will make the coming event one of the biggest and best set of races held in this city in years.

Among the star drivers to appear will be Bill Lawrence of Chester, N. Y. who known to all followers of racing as Wild Bill with his Duesenberg Special; Jack Foley of Pawtucket, R. I. known as Ford; Speed King, with his special Ford; Bennie Bramford of New York City with a Sunbeam Special, known as Dare Devil Ben; Louis Hoyt of Havertown, N. Y. who will drive a Duesenberg, is called Reckless Hoyt; George Lyons of Woodbury, Conn. with his Ford called King George of the race track; Roy Longfield of Jersey City, with a Duesenberg called the Wonder Man of the dirt track; Dave Anderson of Woodbury, Conn. with a Dodge Special called the Wizard; Victor Jackson of Staten Island, N. This car has done better than 100 miles per hour. Corliss will drive his car in the big parade to be held on the afternoon of July 5 under his own power, having received a special permit from the National Racing Board. Corliss will not only take part in several of the events but will try for a new world's record during the afternoon.

Eddie Treschel, a local boy who has been riding with Bill Tuttle, a local driver, will make his first professional appearance on a dirt track driving a new Duesenberg Special in two or three of the big events. Tuttle claims that Treschel is a comer and that he is sure to make some of the old time drivers sit up and take notice. He is a demon for speed and in a recent work out slipped around the mile track for an average of 70 miles per hour.

In connection with the auto races several professional motorcycle races will be held with some of the best riders of the east in action. Nearly $500 in cash prizes have been offered in the various events. In the twenty-five mile professional open $100 has been offered for first, $75 for second, and $50 for third place. In the ten mile open to all riders, $75 is offered for first, $50 for second and $25 for third place. In the five mile $40. For second place $25 and for third place $15.

Lillian Cannon Interrupts Swimming to Let Rash From Their Poison Attack Heal.

Lillian Cannon.

By LILLIAN CANNON

Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.

Gris Nez, France, June 23.—The next time you hear anyone speak contemptuously of jellyfish, please contradict them for me.

Jellyfish are important, even if not pleasurable. They swarm in the channel thicker than oysters in Chesapeake Bay and are just as voracious as skeeters in Jersey.

They like me as a companion. So it happened that these lowly and malignant creatures have accomplished what the cold water and mighty tides failed to do. They have interrupted my regular schedule of training swims.

I was poisoned in the back by a particularly vicious member of the jellyfish family. The injury is due to a stinging fluid which they exude. It resulted in a rash which spread over several square inches causing a disagreeable itch and threatening real trouble. As a precaution, my trainer, William Burgess, has ordered me not to enter the water for two or three days. He feared the salt water would aggravate the irritation.

Otherwise, I am feeling fine, and the time will not be lost. I am keeping in condition by work on land. As part of the program, I have taken up golf on the beach. If my swimming were on a par with my golf, I should be able to paddle about across the little creek in an American cow pasture. But golf is great exercise. I am going to challenge Gertrude Ederle at golf after a day or two more of practice and hope to put a little variety into our friendly rivalry.

ONE CELEBRATION ONLY HERE JULY 4

Manchester Improvement Club Promises a Big One; Fireworks, Colt's Band, Sports.

A special meeting of the Manchester Improvement Club's committee in charge of the local 1926 celebration of the Fourth of July was held last evening. The session was in the office of Chairman William Foulds Jr. on Depot Square. Mr. Foulds presided at the meeting and Secretary Julius Strong recorded the proceedings.

Reports of sub-committees were received and these reports gave indication of widespread interest on the part of the townspeople in the prospects of a real celebration of the national holiday for Manchester, July 4.

One Celebration Only
The fact was brought out at the meeting that the celebration planned by the Improvement Club for the evening of Monday, July 5 will be the only Fourth of July celebration of a public character in town. Realizing this, and appreciating the fact that it has a clear field, the Improvement Club feels its responsibility in the matter of arranging a celebration which will be worthy of the town of Manchester for this especially important national holiday, the 150th anniversary of American Independence.

In view of these circumstances, officers of the club announced that plans are under way for what is believed will prove the most pretentious Fourth of July celebration ever held in Manchester—one which will draw 5000 or 6,000 people to witness and enjoy the program.

Sports Added
In addition to the attractions already announced, the committee has decided to add a program of the activities of the day and evening. The high spot in the sports program will be a baseball game shortly after 5 p. m. on the Community pleasure grounds on Oakland street.

This baseball game will introduce the crack colored team of the Atlanta, Georgia University. The team will be made up wholly of students at the Connecticut Sumatra Company's tobacco plantation at Buckland, as these students will be out of college and at work on the plantation by that time.

Besides being splendid players, the students are all pleasing singers and can be depended upon for several concert numbers after the game (especially if they win). Their comedy antics during the playing are always very droll. Opposing them will be J. E. Rand's band of baseball gladiators at the Orford Soap plant—and anyone holding this nine lightly makes quite a mistake.

HARVARD-YALE RACE TO BE CLOSE, PREDICTED

New London, Conn., June 24.—With bids for seats on the observation trains going begging, at $30 per bid, and the harbor filled with pleasure craft, Yale and Harvard oarsmen prepared today to mark time while awaiting the starting signal for their four-mile boat race on the Thames late tomorrow afternoon.

Yale continued to rule a slight favorite but its coach, Ed Leader, was understood to have declared that Harvard was as good as its 1925 eight and that statement just about expressed the general sentiment. The Harvard 1925 crew was no easy victim.

One of the closest races of recent years, in fact, was anticipated today among race followers.

Other Attractions
Among the big attractions will be the fireworks display which will be better than ever this year. Colt's full band of Hartford, will give a two-hours' concert. There will be an address by a speaker known state-wide, and there will be street dancing on Depot Square after the fireworks, lasting from 10 to 12 o'clock.

The Financing
As there is no appropriation from town funds for the Fourth of July celebration, the Improvement Club must rely upon the generosity and patriotism of the townspeople. The committee emphasizes the fact that a man can contribute a dollar and take the whole family to the fireworks display, where he will see many dollars' worth—far more than he could afford to buy for use at home.

In this way, heads of families, the committee points out, can give the youngsters a far better Fourth of July by contributing to the town wide celebration than by trying to go into the market and buy enough to make a decent showing at home. Quantity-buying of fireworks for a town's display will of course overshadow any private effort.

Receiving Donations
The finance committee which is receiving donations for the July 4 celebration consists of William Foulds Jr., Julius Strong, John Spillane, Irving P. Campbell, Edward J. Murphy, Mark Holmes, George Grazziano, Fred H. Wall, C. A. Sweet, C. I. Balch. Sums of one dollar, or less, or more, will be welcomed by the committee.

As the celebration will be for the whole town, citizens from all parts of Manchester will enjoy the fireworks, band concert, and other attractions. Quite naturally, therefore, subscriptions will be invited from all local citizens, north and south.

DIAMOND DUST

Pittsburgh failed to take advantage of its opportunity to regain first place by losing to the Cardinals 6 to 2, when Hornsby hit a homer with the bases full. The Cards are now a half game behind the Reds.

The Robbins climbed in the social swim of the first division by taking both twins of a twin bill from the Braves, three to one and six to four. Petty and McWeeny pitched the bean-eaters to death while their mates won each game with a ninth-inning rally.

The White Sox broke the triple tie for second place in the American League by defeating the Indians, five to three. Chicago is now nine games behind the Yankees.

Both mildness and fullness!

Real delicacy of aroma but without loss of natural tobacco taste and character

"They satisfy and yet they're mild"—this is no mere catch-phrase; it's a taste-description of Chesterfield.

MILDNESS and fullness, the North and South poles of cigarette taste — can they be brought together in one cigarette? Seemingly no; practically yes, and with no compromise or loss of either.

It calls for the best in tobaccos; tobaccos of rare delicacy — the tender silky leaf of the costliest Turkish type; tobaccos of rich mellowness and "body"—the choicest of fine old Burley and other Domestic varieties.

But fine tobaccos alone are not enough. To achieve mildness with fullness, to preserve natural tobacco taste and character without a trace of heaviness, to produce a cigarette that satisfies and that, at the same time, is mild—here is a job that calls not only for the choicest tobaccos, but for the highest degree of skill in blending them.

And in the Chesterfield blend you have it—the exact balancing of one tobacco against another, the accurate toning and shading of each type of leaf, the rich mildness, the satisfying fullness, the rounded-out completeness which belong to Chesterfield and — because the blend can't be copied—to Chesterfield alone!

New Departures Play Sons At West Side Tonight

NEW MEN ADDED TO LOCALS FOR THIS IMPORTANT GAME

Alexander Makes Debut in Right Field— Sipples to Coach Team from Now On.

Sons of Italy. Alexander, cf. Mantelli, lf. Ballsieper, lb. St. John, cf. Sipples, 2b. Edgar, 2b. Zwick, ss. Wallet, c. Fisher, p. Umpires, Dwyer and Russell.

New Departures. Scott, lf. Forslund, 2b. Goodridge, lb. Reilly, cf. Harlowe, rf. Macdonald, 2b. Horkheimer, ss. Walters, c. Lanning, p.

Their first appearance in Manchester is sure to bring the New Departures a heavy welcome by a large crowd at the West Side tonight when they face the Sons of Italy at 6 o'clock. This will be the first time since last year that a Manchester team has played Bristol and the occasion is one that has been looked for by the fans with anxious eyes since the start of the season.

The visitors will have their regular lineup on the diamond, which will include the famous Eddie Goodridge, first base and Lester Lanning, the boy with the Indian skin. Lanning was always at his best against Manchester and his record of games won and lost in this town showed that the win column was just a little better than the other.

To counteract the moral and physical effect of Lanning, the Sons of Italy will inject Fisher of the Elmwood Endees into the fray. Fisher has pitched for the Sons before and from his past performances it is gathered that the visiting team will have something to shoot at when he starts across. His battery mate, Wallet, a member also of Elmwood team, has worked with Fisher and now the two of them together look like parts of a machine.

Sam Kotsch was injured last week and it fell to the lot of the Sons to select a man to take his place in the field and another to carry the burden of coaching the players for the rest of the evening. Alexander of the Elmwood Endees was given Kotsch's position and Tom Sipples selected as coach. Both men will be in their positions this evening.

The Bristol management has promised to bring all the old favorites to Manchester. They will include Scott, Forslund, Harlowe, Malcolm, Horky and Walters. The spare battery man for the visitors will be Brooks, while Zetarski will be held to take the place of anybody who goes out. Zetarski is a good pinch hitter and has started many ninth inning rallies.

On the other hand, the Sons will have the strongest lineup in their history on hand tonight. The first four batters and the second four compare favorably while Fisher, one of Hartford county's best pitchers, is considered a wonderful hitter. In another game with the Sons he rapped out two or three, some of them for extra bases.

Umpires Dwyer and Russell will call the game promptly at 6 o'clock tonight. If the crowd is too large for comfort ground rules will be made concerning hits over the right field fence.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS.

SECRETS OF STARS ON INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

By ROGER PECKINPAUGH

Most valuable player 1925—American League

A knowledge of the strength and weakness of the batsman is invaluable in the proper play of shortstop.

On the batter who is fast, especially a left-handed hitter you must play closer to the plate. Otherwise it might be difficult to throw him out on a slow-hit ball.

On the slow runner, play just as deep as possible. This gives you more time to get directly in front of a batted ball. It is always better to play a grounder in that manner, if possible, than handling the ball to either side.

Batters differs widely as to the field to which they are most inclined to hit. Some are notorious right field hitters, others partial to

WALKER WILL TRY COMEBACK TONIGHT

Fights Joe Dundee in the Garden— Betting Is With Mickey.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, June 24.—They have Mickey Walker ribbed for a smashing rejuvenescence at Madison Square Garden tonight, so convincing in its fidelity to detail as to lead him right back to the championship, just as though physical condition was a thing that one turns on and off like a beer tap. Alleged to be a physical debit when he lost the welterweight title to Pete Latzo in May, the ex-champion is being megaphoned to beat Joe Dundee, so badly that another match with Latzo will be a formality. Perhaps the boys are right.

To Fight Latzo
A long rest, followed by light work leading up to active training would have made Walker a better title bet but, in this way, he would have lost an immediate shot at the championship, which is to come in August to the winner of tonight's fight, a ten rounder.

If Walker was the man who dominated the welterweight situation two years ago, there would be slight argument. But he isn't. Somehow, the boy has slipped terribly since teaming up with Jack Kearns, it having been the latter's luck to lose Dempsey and have Walker go bad on him at one and the same time. Walker is only twenty-five and has engaged in about seventy fights; therefore, he should be as good as ever which is saying a lot in view of the fact that he was the greatest champion we owned in 1924.

That Sore Toe
Perhaps the Greb fight killed him off or it may have been that his admiration for Kearns caused him to try to play another man's game. Whatever the answer, he had to go to the Canadian woods for a spell after the Sailor Friedman fight early last winter and that "sore toe" which prompted the New York Commission to favor him with an indefinite suspension, never has been satisfactorily explained.

His showing against Latzo, for whom he got down to 144 pounds without adequate reason, following his performances against Greb,

SHADE AND FRIEDMAN LED TO THE NATURAL CONCLUSION THAT WALKER IS PASSE.

The chances are that he will never again know the greatness he could and did claim in the old days and his headlong rush into the Dundee match should only serve to certify this idea.

Perhaps Walker will win tonight. The betting says he will, although Dundee, if he has one of his good nights, is a fighter capable of giving even the mighty Walker something to think about.

OPENING BOXING SHOW DATE IS POSTPONED

It was announced today that Cheney Brothers Athletic Association have decided to postpone the date set for the opening boxing show at the McKee street stadium. It was previously planned to stage the first outdoor on July 1.

THE FACT THAT THE OPENING PROGRAM WILL BE STAGED AT THE HARTFORD VELODROME ON THAT NIGHT HAS CAUSED OFFICIALS OF THE ASSOCIATION TO DECIDE TO POSTPONE THE DATE UNTIL JULY 8.

At present no local boxers have signified their intentions of entering the cards. Four Stafford boxers and two from Rockville, however, have sent in their applications. They will appear at the Rec. Friday night to meet the A. A. U. authorities.

SOCCER MEETING CALLED TONIGHT

A special meeting of the captains and managers of the Community Soccer League has been called for this evening at the West Side Rec. at 7:30 o'clock. It is important that they be present. In addition to other matters that will be discussed, the managers of the Celtics and

THE BRITISH AMERICAN CLUBS WILL BE ASKED TO SUBMIT A LIST OF THE MEMBERS OF THEIR TEAMS WHO ARE ENTITLED TO RECEIVE MEDALS.

The Celtics were the champions of the league and the British American club, the runners-up. Twenty-four medals will be awarded at a meeting later. Plans for forming another league will be discussed at the special session.

The annual outing of the Swedish Men's gymnastic club will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Metcalf cottage on Coventry lake.

Work on the new cobblestone wall and stairway at the Center Spring park was resumed this morning.

The following appeared recently in the "Ridgefield Press": A farewell party and dance was tendered Miss Hannah Jensen, head of the Home Economics in the Hamilton High school, Tuesday evening, in St. Stephen's Parish House, by the Girls' Friendly society.

Before the party a supper was served to the members of the society, and a short business meeting followed.

CHILD INJURED

William, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Berthold Shulz of 28 Foley street, sustained a severe laceration of the chin last night when he fell from his tricycle.

The boy was riding on the veranda of his home and the tricycle went off the edge of the veranda and down a flight of concrete steps.

REAL ESTATE DEALS.

The following real estate deals made through the agency of Robert J. Smith, were announced yesterday:

William Kanehl of Center street has purchased a lot on Florence street from Rev. August L. Anderson of Worcester, but formerly of this town.

August Kanehl of West Center street has bought two lots in Pleasant View on Mather street. He has also bought a lot on Summer street where work has already been started on the designs of a cellar. A flat will be erected.

Frank J. Rippin, manager of Burr's Nursery Company, has purchased a lot on Richard Road in Green Hill Terrace.

Esther, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benson of 15 Orchard street, is confined to her home with a badly fractured left arm as a result of a fall Tuesday night.

The child was playing about the veranda of her home and in some way climbed on the railing and fell off. When she fell she landed on her elbow. A local physician was summoned and the child was taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital where the bones were set. Later it was advised that the child be taken to a specialist in Hartford. This was done yesterday.
