FIGHTING 5TH STILL RETAINS REPUTATION

Voters Take Two and a Half Hours to Elect a Few Officers—Clerk Faints; Plenty of Arguments.

The Fifth School District ran true to form last evening. From nine o'clock until one this morning the voters discussed everything and anything. Of the six clauses in the call, but one was disposed of, the election of officers and that little item took just two and one-half hours. At one o'clock while the voters were in the midst of a discussion which culminated in Mrs. A. E. Loomis fainting, a call out of the blue sky to adjourn was unanimously carried. Before that motions to adjourn were made in flocks and voted down. The motion as made was for a sine die adjournment.

Officers Elected

The officers elected were: committee man, Harley Palmer; F. R. Manning, clerk and also treasurer; Louis Lane, collector, and Mrs. Walter Brown and Walter Snow, auditors.

The above really covers all that was actually done at the meeting as far as action was concerned, but if all that was said were written it would take volumes.

Crowd Comes Early

The crowd came early. The call was for eight o'clock standard time which caused a little misunderstanding because those living near Manchester concluded it was eight o'clock daylight, and consequently were there an hour too soon.

Autos were parked all around the little school, and on both sides of the road. There were present numbered 92 but there were probably fifty more on hand to see and hear what was going on. The little room where the meeting was held was too small for the crowd even though the men lined up along the sides and even behind the moderator's chair. The low, open windows, however, made it handy for one to stand out in the cool of the open air and take part in the meeting just the same. At times when a vote called for a raising of hands it was odd to see the windows filled with raised arms on both sides of the room.

Show of Strength

It was evident from the very start of the meeting that there was to be a show of strength at once for instead of electing a moderator by an aye and nay vote a check list ballot was asked for. As usual F. R. Manning and Arthur E. Loomis were named. The vote showed that the Mannings had about a two to one lead over the other faction but that did not smooth things over. Manning was elected moderator, with 53 votes to Loomis' 25.

The first matter taken up was the election of officers. This started all sorts of arguments. Some wanted the business transacted in the order of the call. Others demanded that the meeting proceed as is usual with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, the first item to be taken up. The meeting had not been in session more than two minutes when the first motion to adjourn was made and at frequent intervals through the evening "I move we adjourn" came from the crowd. It served no purpose other than to delay the proceedings until a vote was taken on the motion.

Many Arguments

In the arguments that followed before the election of officers came up personalities were banded about and the moderator had frequently to rap for order.

The list of candidates for committee man grew to 13 in a short time. Here are the nominees: Fred R. Manning, Louis Lane, Thomas Prentice, Wallace Palmer, Robert McLaughlin, Raymond Peck, Mrs. Thomas Prentice, Richard Manning, Edward Keeney, K. B. Loomis, Arthur Manning and A. E. Loomis.

Harley Palmer received 52 votes, Wallace Palmer 16 and A. E. Loomis 10. The rest had one or two.

Collectorship

Then followed a vote for collector with three candidates, Louis Lane, Irving Wickham and the Manchester Trust Co. Lane received 56 ballots, Wickham 27 and the Trust Company 4.

The vote for auditors found Walter Snow, Mrs. Walter Brown and Irving Wickham in the field. The first two were named with Mrs. Brown receiving 52 votes and Mr. Snow 51 as they were voted on separately.

The vote for clerk gave F. R. Manning the post with 52 votes, Mrs. A. E. Loomis received 16, Irving Wickham 13 and Peter Fry 11.

F. R. Manning was also elected treasurer with 53 votes. The Manchester Trust Co. received 28 votes and Peter Fry 6.

Took Much Time.
To elect these officers took just two and one-half hours by the clock. The ballots had to be dis-

$18,000 INCREASE IN SCHOOL BUDGET

Joint School Board Consider Appropriations for 1926-27; Salaries Raised.

An appropriation of $392,329.92 will be asked to pay the expenses of schools in Manchester during 1926-27. This figure was determined yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Joint School Board. Last year's appropriation was $373,570. The increase of $18,759.92 is due to raises in salaries and, in part, to the fact that the town has taken over the Trade School.

In the Ninth

The Ninth district appropriation this year is $262,375. This is an increase of $9,591.02 over last year's budget. The Trade School budget for the coming year was fixed at $4,854.92.

The first eight districts will cost $36,175 with the Eighth district appropriation alone amounting to $60,000. Special appropriations to take care of special instances total $20,000. The Evening School appropriation is $8,000.

REPUDIATES TALE OF $100,000 BRIBE

Judge O'Conner Again Contradicts Reporters As to Accusation of Vore.

Washington, July 1.—The reporter offer of a $100,000 bribe by the organization of William S. Vore, victor in Pennsylvania's Republican senatorial primary, to "buy off" the opposition of Judge Frank X. O'Conner, a Philadelphia magistrate, was clouded with further mystery today when O'Conner repudiated before the Senate slush fund committee to deny the story again.

O'Conner said he never had given on the story of the bribe offer to Philadelphia newspaper men, although Philadelphia reporters since have testified under oath that the magistrate told them of the alleged offer.

Just Ahead of Arrest

O'Conner walked into the hearing in the committee was about to send a deputy sergeant-at-arms to arrest him.

Senator Reed questioned O'Conner, referring to a newspaper story printed on the day after the Pennsylvania election, which said the magistrate had accused the Vore organization of offering him a bribe of $100,000 to withdraw his opposition to Vore in the senatorial race.

"I was tried to buy off my opposition to his candidacy for the United States Senate," the story quoted O'Conner as saying. "He first offered me $75,000 to withdraw my opposition to him in the 48th district. This I refused, and then on the last day on which I could withdraw my candidacy for Congress, he offered me $100,000. This I declined."

Reed then read the reply O'Conner made to the committee on his earlier appearance. It was: "I am not responsible for that story in any shape or form. So far as those statements are concerned, I never made them. They are manufactured."

Reed tripped O'Conner when the magistrate said he had talked to newspapermen on election day. In his earlier testimony, he said he had not talked to newspapermen at any time on election day.

O'Conner said he didn't remember seeing Herman H. Anderson, one of the Philadelphia reporters, who testified that the Philadelphia magistrate told him of the bribe offer.

Could Be Pepper Untruth

"Did you ever talk to George Wharton Pepper at his home?" "I was there on one occasion. Before the primary."

"Was any conversation made by you to conversation between yourself and Vore and a man named Albert M. Greenfield?" "I can't recall it. Mr. Pepper mentioned no names. He told me to stay away from the opposition. Then is George Wharton Pepper says you told him that Greenfield and Vore had been to see you he doesn't tell the truth?"

MUSSOLINI TO KILL OFF PRESS BY NEW ORDERS

One Newspaper to Province, All Fascist, No Personal Editing—Soldiers Watch Workers.

Rome, July 1.—Armed soldiers of the Carabinieri are patrolling the streets of Rome and the industrial centers today, as the new law increasing the Italian working day from eight hours to nine becomes effective.

The government explains that the presence of the soldiers in the streets is merely as an object lesson to any Communist or Subversionist trouble-makers who might try to stir up the workers to protest against the increased working hours.

Thus far there has been no indication of any great opposition to the new order on the part of the workers, inasmuch as they have recently received wage increases ranging from ten to 25 per cent.

About Wipes the Press

The new drive for economy will probably later on be directed more severely against pleasure seekers. It is understood that Premier Mussolini now has in contemplation an order closing all bars and cabarets at ten o'clock at night.

The orders for limitation of Italian newspapers are most drastic and it is now planned to permit only one newspaper to be printed in each province, it is said. The newspapers will become hardly more than official gazettes, for they will be confined to statements of the Fascist party actions, official communications and details of the construction work that is going on.

Ends Personal Journalism

Foreign news will be limited to the briefest dispatches. Features will be wiped out almost entirely. Personal journalism, which has long run rampant in Italy, will be killed off.

Premier Mussolini is highly optimistic of the success of the new regulations and declares that while some classes may suffer under the new laws it is better that a few rather than the whole nation suffer.

STUDENTS BANDITS FOR VACATION MONEY

Five Michigan Undergraduates Accused of Holdup and Double Shooting.

Detroit, Mich., July 1.—Warren charged five University of Michigan students with staging a hold-up of Harry Somers' roadhouse June 21, in which two patrons were shot, were recommended today by James E. Chenot, assistant prosecutor.

Clara Monroe, 20 of Ann Arbor, is under arrest and has admitted driving the automobile, according to deputy sheriffs and Lawrence O'Farrell of Iron Mountain, Mich. According to deputy sheriffs the student committee the robbery to get funds for their summer vacations. They obtained about $400 in cash and $1,000 worth of jewelry.

Jack Zimmerman and James F. McGill, patrons shot during the hold-up, recovered.

HOLD EX-CONVICT IN NEW YORK MYSTERY

Attack on Two Women Linked With Disappearance of Wealthy Relative.

New York, July 1.—Samuel Serota, a well-dressed ex-convict with a $50,000 bank account, faces a charge of felonious assault in connection with the brutal beating of seventeen-year-old Ruth Mehl and the shooting of her aunt, Grace Mehl.

Serota has been identified by both women as one of two men who entered their Brooklyn home and beat them into unconsciousness.

Police also believe he can throw light on the mysterious disappearance on April 29 of John Mehl, brother of Grace and father of Ruth.

The women state that Mehl was last seen by them when he drove away in an automobile with Serota. Both the disappearance and the attack are attributed by detectives to a plot to obtain possession of land worth $400,000 owned by Mehl.

DEAN JONES OF YALE COLLEGE IS RETIRED

New Haven, July 1.—Frederick S. Jones today retired as dean of Yale college after more than a quarter century in that office and was succeeded by Clarence Whittlesey Mendell, Dunham professor of Latin Language and Literature. This is the most important change in Yale since the retirement of President A. T. Hadley.

New England Makes Rubber; Solves Problem of Monopoly, High Prices

Boston, July 1.—Synthetic automobile tires, produced by New England experts, are going to lead American tire manufacturers away from the dominion of British rubber interests—and automobile tires will be lower in cost.

This announcement was made today as the result of experiments conducted at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where chemically pure rubber has been produced. Synthetic experiments continue for the purpose of finding the correct adulteration to make the imitation adhere properly.

TALCOTT BROTHERS BUY ACKERLY MILLS

Firm Wants Control of Water Privilege—Will Develop Plant Later.

Talcott Brothers company of Talcottville today bought the Ackery mills in Dobsonville and also what is known as the Phoenixville mill just above them.

In discussing the matter today with C. Denton Talcott, who is head of the concern, he stated that the company had acquired the property for the purpose of controlling the water privilege. The stream which furnishes the water power has its source in the Bolton hills and supplies the Walker reservoir in Vernon which now becomes the property of Talcott Brothers.

The transaction also includes the site of the Minor White mill that was burned down years ago. This is just above Talcottville. The modern brick mill at Dobsonville was built for Mr. Ackery during the recent war. It is three stories high and of heavy mill construction. The mill is in first class condition. During the World War Mr. Ackery manufactured powder bags for Cheney Brothers. The mill is on what is known as the Tankeroan river which supplies water power for Talcott Brothers. Mills were first erected on this stream by Peter Dobson who manufactured cotton warp and cotton twine. Later they became the property of the late R. B. Parker for many years manufactured cotton warp. Work at the Phoenixville mill was discontinued years ago. For the last few years the mills have all been shut down.

Mr. Talcott told a Herald man that the firm had no immediate plans for the development of the property. However, it was not their intention to allow the up to date Ackery mill to stand idle forever. The first and foremost reason for the purchase was the control of the stream.

BANDITS TAKE PAYROLL OF BIG N. Y. HOSPITAL

New York, July 1.—Five armed bandits today held up the girl cashier of the Roosevelt hospital in broad daylight and escaped with $10 in stolen automobile. The $10 in was part of a $24,000 payroll, most of which already had been paid out.

MINISTER TO GREECE

Washington, July 1.—President Coolidge today nominated Robert S. Skinner, of Ohio, now consulting general at Paris, as minister to Greece.

Dance Hall Clean-up a Hard Problem For N. Y. Authorities

New York, July 1.—The band keeps playing in 673 licensed dance halls here despite repeated charges from reformers that these "jazz palaces" are very wicked places.

Immorality, liquor traffic and obscenity dancing riot in many of these dance halls, it is alleged. The employment of young girls, as hostesses who dance with alcoholics, the holding of "romper nights" during which the squads of hostesses are costumed accordingly, the practice of night club hiring the hostesses as "steerers," form the basis of complaints to the police.

Evidence Difficult

The authorities are making every effort to clean up objectionable dance halls but it is difficult to secure sufficient evidence to revoke a license. Since January 1, there have been 67 arrests made in "jazz palaces." Of these only five received sentences, the remainder being discharged or drawing suspended sentences.

New York's Great White Way tonight is the main crossstreets are dotted with these pay-as-you dance establishments. Some are run on a gigantic scale, occupying an entire square block with elaborate decorations within and a staff of 150 hostesses at times.

Many of the establishments cater to the "stag" male patron and the unescorted girl. One card prints the following on its menu card: "Refined Evening."

"Here the unescorted girl is assured courteous treatment and a refined evening of entertainment and of real dance pleasure."

The hostesses are paid from two to five cents a dance receiving their wages from the number of dance tickets they can produce at the end of the evening. Patrons receive a block of eight tickets for $1.

There are special numbers known as "sports" dances in which the male patron surrenders two tickets. By skillful coquetry a hostess may extract a number of tickets for one dance from her partner.

WALSH OUT OF SENATE FIGHT, CAPITAL HEARS

Democratic Hope Against Butler Said to Seek Federal Judgeship Instead of the Toga.

Washington, July 1.—Members of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee have read with astonishment press dispatches from Massachusetts this week containing several statements of former-Senator David I. Walsh.

Since his defeat for reelection in 1924 national Democratic leaders have regarded his candidacy this year as a certainty, but now with Congress about to adjourn and the Senatorial campaign committee ready to start actual work on the campaign, they are little less than flabbergasted by Walsh's hesitancy about running.

Say He Won't Run

Say He Won't Run. Democratic colleagues here have received delicate word from Walsh that he will make the fight against Senator William M. Butler, certain of his former friends profess to know that he will not run.

On just what grounds they base this knowledge they refuse to state. The prospect of Walsh out of the fight has naturally had a gloomy effect upon the national Democrats who believed that he would prove the most formidable candidacy that could be put forward in Massachusetts against Senator Butler.

Seeks Judgeship

Walsh's recent utterances have revived the belief generally prevalent throughout the winter that he would like appointment to some office. As a lawyer of high reputation and as a former Governor and Senator he would naturally fit into the choice for some Federal office to which it would be necessary to appoint a Democrat.

It is being openly said that the former Senator would like best a judgeship but in the event that office was not available he would accept appointment to a Federal commission which would bring him to Washington and back among the friends he made in the Senate.

Money Difficulty

Walsh, who has never been rated as wealthy, has found it difficult to raise the necessary money for his campaign this year and even should he be elected he would be forced to go through the same experience two years from now.

Early in the winter it was reported that "Barney" Baruch, the angel of the emergency party, had pledged $25,000 to the Massachusetts Democratic campaign. Whether this amount will be withdrawn in the event of Walsh's failure to run is not known.

FEAR ACCUSED FATHER MAY DIE IN CELL

Gaines Innocent of Daughter's Death, His Wife and Brother Declare.

Seattle, Wash., July 1.—Fear that Wallace C. (Bob) Gaines may die in his cell before he is brought to trial on a charge of murdering his daughter, Sylvia, was expressed today by his attorney, Robert S. MacFarlane.

Gaines' second wife and William Gaines, his brother, today stated that they believed Gaines was wholly innocent of the murder.

The body of Sylvia Gaines, who was disclosed today, was still lying in the Butterworth mortuary here, despite the tearful pleas of her mother, Mrs. Harry E. Maynard, who asks that it be sent to South Farmingham, Mass., for burial.

SING SING JAMMED TO BEAT NEW LAW TO IT

Last Hour Arrivals Get Benefit of "Time Off" Denied by New Statute.

Ossining, N. Y., July 1.—The population of Sing Sing prison was swelled today to 1,526, a new record as the result of a "rush" of convicts to the prison to take advantage of the old time-off law. At midnight the new law went into effect, providing that a prisoner guilty of a felony must serve the minimum sentence imposed.

The Kramer Brothers, Leon and Jacob, of the Whittemore gang, entered the prison before the deadline. Thomas Clougher, former New York City department of health official convicted of milk graft, was also among the forty-odd prisoners who got in before midnight.

In one glided dance hall the balconies are reserved exclusively for sailors in uniform. This balcony was recently raided and four sailors turned over to Federal authorities charged with possessing liquor while six others received suspended sentences on the charge of disorderly conduct.

THIEVES GET A FORD GIFT TO ART MUSEUM.

Detroit, July 1.—Three robbers who apparently had spent the night removing treasures from the walls of the Art Institute fled with a $75,000 Persian rug recently given the Institute by Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford, when a policeman interrupted them as they were carrying out their loot early this morning.

FORTY THOUSAND IN NEEDLE STRIKE

Huge Walkout Begins in New York—Fight Against the Jobbers, Not Bosses.

New York, July 1.—Forty thousand garment workers, affecting 1,600 shops, were called out today in one of the greatest industrial strikes in the history of labor.

The first unit call was set for ten o'clock this morning, and at that hour the first 6,000 quietly left their work and departed, gathering at the headquarters of their associations.

Other thousands will be called at intervals in the next two or three days until not a needle will be at work in the trades in the whole city. This plan was adopted to avoid disorders, it was said.

Not Against Employers

The strike is unique in that it is not directed against the employers, but against the jobbers. The union demands that the 200 jobbers, who control 75 per cent of the work in this city, explicitly recognize their responsibility to the men and women making the garments.

This the jobbers refuse, as they are not direct employers. Aimed at Association.

The strike is aimed at the Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association, whose members have for years been quartered in a building in the west of the field at 8:05, landing smoothly five minutes later. Motion pictures of the landing, the transfer of the mails and Gov. Trumbull entering the plane were taken on the field and the film was placed in the cabin for delivery and development in Boston.

Gov. Trumbull Arrives

Gov. Trumbull arrived from Plainville half an hour before the mail plane arrived. Because of the shelter of the mail cabin he did not change to his usual flying togs and was wearing his straw hat as the plane took the air.

Beside post office officials and aviation enthusiasts there were several hundred people at the field this morning. When the planes, with Gov. Trumbull riding in the monoplane, arrive here at 7 p. m., today a formal reception will mark the initiation of the first air mail to the south. The governor will continue his New Jersey where another reception will be given, with Gov. Smith of New Jersey, and Gov. Moore of New Jersey, as well as other officials of the two states, present.

Nearly 6,000 letters had been received here at noon for shipment on the south-bound plane this evening. Many of them were so addressed that the envelopes and cancelled stamps will be returned to senders who in most cases are stamp collectors.

Arrival at Boston

Boston, July 1.—Amid din of screaming factory whistles, the zooming of airplanes overhead and floating above streams of water shooting high into the air, the first mail airplane reached the East Boston airport today, linking Boston closer to the west and middle west.

Dickinson's Threat

Rep. L. J. Dickinson (R., I.), is leader of the farm bloc in the House. He is regarded as "regular." Today he made this announcement:

"We are going to advise the farm organizations to see that members of Congress elected in a November election are committed to a program of real farm relief, which must embody the principle of equality for agriculture under our economic system."

"Real farm relief" means the McNary-Haugen equalization bill, which was endorsed by Vice-President Dawes and ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, both potential presidential candidates in 1928, and which President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon both denounced as "economically unsound."

South and West Union

Where there is a choice between a Democrat friendly to the farm bloc's program and a Republican who is non-committal or vice versa, the national farm organizations will combine to elect the friendly one, it was said.

Dickinson made reference to a coalition between the Democratic agricultural West and the Republican agricultural West which was significant. It is in line with the political theories of a considerable number of Democratic leaders who see in such a coalition the only hope of overcoming the domination of the conservative, tariff-protected industrialists of the East.

CONGRESS TO GO HOME FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Washington, July 1.—Congress, it appeared certain today, will be "out of the trenches" by the Fourth of July.

GOVERNOR HOPS WITH 1st AIR MAIL TO HUB

Trumbull In Center of Glee-Ful Celebration at Boston as Long Desired Service Is Actually Begun.

Brainard Field, Hartford, July 1. Air mail service between this city and New York and Boston was successfully inaugurated this forenoon when the first mail carrying planes of the Colonial Air Transport Co., arrived here at 8:11 and after leaving receiving mail left for Boston at 8:26.

Governor John H. Trumbull, who is chairman of the Colonial Air Transport Company directors, boarded the Fokker monoplane which was piloted by Major T. O. Freeman.

About two thousand letters, weighing 35 pounds, were placed aboard the Colonial bi-plane here for delivery in Boston and vicinity. Before Governor Trumbull entered the enclosed cabin of the monoplane 25 pounds of letters for Hartford and nearby points were taken off and rushed to the Hartford post office, where the count showed 572 letters for the city of Hartford and 320 for other towns in the district.

Quick Delivery

One letter mailed in Danversport, Ia., at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon was delivered this forenoon to a woman on Wethersfield avenue in this city. Several other letters mailed in Chicago last night were delivered around Hartford before noon this morning. Another letter mailed last night in Cleveland left ten o'clock was rushed from here to Chester, Conn.

Major Freeman took off at Teterbrook, N. J., shortly before seven o'clock this morning and because of the light breeze he made a path west of the field at 8:05, landing smoothly five minutes later. Motion pictures of the landing, the transfer of the mails and Gov. Trumbull entering the plane were taken on the field and the film was placed in the cabin for delivery and development in Boston.

CONGRESS TO GO HOME FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Washington, July 1.—Congress, it appeared certain today, will be "out of the trenches" by the Fourth of July.

A general agreement to postpone action on Rivers and Harbors legislation until next December left nothing on the congressional state today but the Dill race control bill and the second deficiency bill, which appropriates money to begin the government's new buildings program.

FINDS SAUSAGES JUST EXACTLY WHAT WATER WESTFALL

Westfall, July 1.—They're watering the sausages, not the milk, now, according to Professor L. B. Allen, pure food expert of the state department of health.

Samples of sausages made in western Massachusetts received for examination by Prof. Allen today were found to contain fifty per cent water.

The Evening Sky In July

This map shows the constellations visible at 9 p. m. July 1, 8 p. m. July 15 and 7 p. m. July 31 in latitude 35 degrees north, but it is also practicable for use in any part of the United States or southern Canada.

At this time, that beautiful little circlet of stars known as Corona Borealis, the Northern Crown, is directly south of the zenith.

Due west of this easily recognized group is Bootes, the Herdsman, containing the brilliant Arcturus, one of the finest stars of the northern hemisphere; while next to Corona on the east is the huge constellation of Hercules which contains no stars brighter than the third magnitude but is a famous group representing the great hero of antiquity.

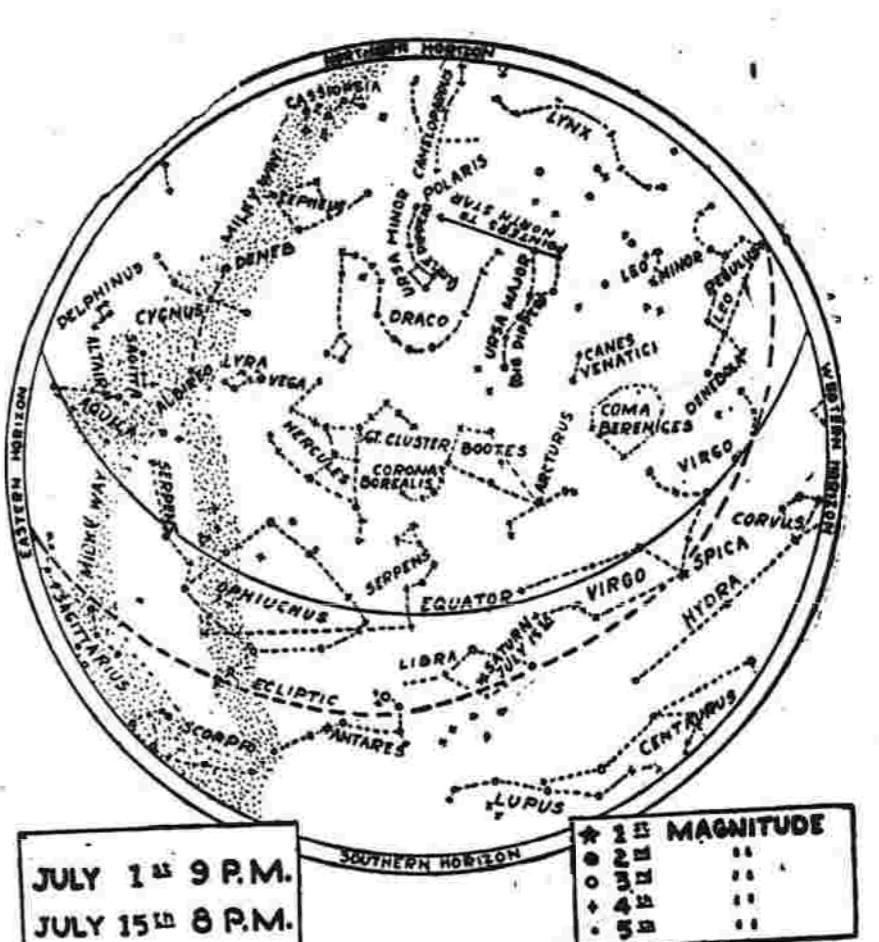

Hercules stands with his foot on the head of Draco, the Dragon, which lies directly north.

Like Faint Cloud.

In the constellation of Hercules in the position indicated on the chart, visible to the naked eye as a faint, luminous cloud but resolved by the telescope into a magnificent universe of many thousands of stars, each a sun.

This cluster is estimated to be at a distance of 36 thousand light years from the earth, so far away that is, that light traveling at the speed of 186,000 miles a second takes 36 thousand years to come to us from this great island universe.

The fiery red Antares, the brightest star in Scorpio, is one of the 20 brightest stars in the sky and has been found to have a diameter of approximately 400 million miles. This is the greatest diameter yet found for any star and places Antares above all other bright stars in size.

JULY 1st 9 P.M.
JULY 15th 8 P.M.

Capricornus.
The planet Saturn is the only bright planet visible at this time, though Jupiter, now in the constellation of Capricornus, will rise within an hour in the southeast.

Saturn is still in Libra and will be found a little to the west of the meridian, to the northwest of Antares in Scorpio and some distance east of Spica in Virgo, which is now well over in the southwest.

Saturn surpasses both Antares and Spica in brightness but is a little inferior in brilliancy in Arcturus in the west and Vega in Lyra, now high in the eastern sky.

Stars is now in Pices and rises near midnight. It is now brighter than any star except Sirius and is increasing in brightness as it draws nearer to the earth. Venus is still a beautiful morning star, passing from Taurus into Gemini during the month.

The planet Mercury will reach its greatest distance east of the sun on July 10 and may be seen in the evening twilight in the northwest for a few days before and after this date. It ranks among the first magnitude of stars in brightness, much resembling Vega in Lyra, though seen at a disadvantage in the twilight.

HEBRON CHURCH HAS CENTENNIAL

Hundreds of People Gather from Nearby Towns Today for Observance.

Special to the Manchester Herald.

Hebron, June 30.—A better day for the celebration of the 100th birthday of the present St. Peter's Church building could not have been secured if ordered. People began pouring into the town at an early hour. A special bus chartered for the occasion brought a party out from Hartford. Others came in private cars or buses and the church was packed by 11 a. m., when the historical sermon was preached by the Rev. George T. Linsley, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford.

He spoke of the fact that the present year is the 150th birthday of the United States as a nation, the 225th anniversary of the founding of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, as well as the 13th of the building of the present St. Peter's church, referring to the growth of the church in this country be alluded to the fact that few of the early colonists on first coming to these shores had any intention of making a definite break with the Mother Church in England, and that many of the Puritan ministers of that time were ordained clergy of the Church of England. Such were the Rev. Thomas Hooker of Hartford and the Rev. Mr. Davenport of New Haven. One great reason for the separation of the colonists from the English church was the fact that in order to secure ordination candidates were obliged to cross the ocean as there were no bishops here to perform the ceremony of ordination. It is a fact that one in five of those crossing the ocean for this purpose lost their lives, either by shipwreck, disease or other disaster. A great peril of the times was the dread disease of smallpox.

PROHIBITIONISTS WANT PARTY BROUGHT BACK

Petitions Now Being Filed at Town Clerk's Office.

Petitions signed by about 100 people have been filed with Town Clerk Samuel J. Turbigton, requesting the establishment of prohibitionists as a party. In order to bring this about it will be necessary to secure 4000 or more names in the state.

In 1920 the prohibitionists lost their standing as a party in Connecticut because they failed to register a certain percentage of the total vote cast at the 1920 election. Since that time men and women of prohibition leanings have given their votes to one or the other of the two predominant parties, or else did not vote.

The proposition of those who have signed the petitions, is to give the prohibitionists the privilege of nominating men or women for the state on local elections who are favorable to prohibition. Signing the petitions does not alter the voter's standing in either of the two parties. All the petitions that are out have not yet been filed. It is certain Manchester will more than do its share to bring this object about.

Members of St. Peter's school attended a reception given in honor of the president of the school, Dr. Benjamin Bissell, held at the rectory on Monday evening. Instrumental and vocal music was a feature of the evening. The school is in full swing now, with Dr. Bissell giving lectures on Milton, Dr. Warren presenting the subject of Chaucer, Dr. Hite that of early Green Philosophy, and Dr. Alexander Krappe giving high lights on the plays and life of Moliere. Dr. Krappe is booked to give lectures at the summer school of Columbia University next week, so will be here only for the present week. The teachers of the school are all men of experiences as university teachers and the course is greatly enjoyed. Wellington Sloane Mus. B., in addition to the above mentioned gives daily lessons on the history of music. He will use the phonograph to illustrate his course, as time goes on.

THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1926.

JEREMIAH SMITH.

Let us consider the case of Jeremiah Smith. It is worth remembering. Mr. Smith is a Boston economist of high celebrity in a small but competent circle.

When the new Hungary, broke and harassed and knowing not which way to turn for relief from financial and economic chaos, appealed to the League of Nations for piloting out of its maze, the League, with better discrimination than it perhaps guessed, picked the Boston man to go to Budapest and advise the Hungarians, if possible, how to steer their wobbly ship of state.

He accepted the job, threw up what matters he had in hand in America and sailed for Europe. That was two years ago. So tremendous was the job, such enormous labors were involved, that it pretty nearly finished the American financial mentor.

On Tuesday Mr. Smith bade his final farewell to official Hungary and incidentally thereto the Premier handed him a check for $100,000, in payment for his two years of service.

Jeremiah Smith is not a rich man, though he probably knows more about getting rich, if he wanted to, than John D. Rockefeller ever dreamed. But he wouldn't take the check. Nor would he allow the Hungarian people to pay a nickel toward his two years' expenses.

"Enter it in your books as a gift from the American people to the people of Hungary," he said. "The only compensation I desire is the appreciation and friendship of the Hungarians."

And despite all remonstrances, that remained the basis of settlement. He has brought a nation out of the fog of despair, has guided it to the actual realization of prosperity and sound financial arrangement, and is regarded by the people of that nation as the greatest and most wonderful being on earth, the savior of their beloved country.

And he wouldn't even let them bestow an order on him or decorate him.

We submit that this is an unusual man. And if Massachusetts people should want him for their governor or as their representative in the United States Senate he would probably be beaten so badly in the primaries or on election day that his candidacy would be a huge joke.

AIR POLITICS. Edward P. Warner, professor of aeronautics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, just nominated by President Coolidge to be assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aviation—under the bill passed by the present Congress after the Mitchell agitation—is probably as well qualified for the post, so far as knowledge and character are concerned, as anyone who possibly could be chosen.

Not all the opposition to President Coolidge that has developed in Congress, in his own party, has been occasioned by his antagonism to radical experimentation in the so-called farm relief. This is a big and broad country and there is room in it for a good deal of resentment when the idea gets abroad, as it certainly has among the western agriculturalists, that "Coolidge is President of Massachusetts."

This is a nonsensical idea, of course, but there is just enough apparent evidence of its truth, in his too-frequent consideration of Bay State men for important federal posts, to lend color to it. Not that these men are always appointed, but wherever there is opportunity there seems to be always a chance that one of them will be;

with the effect that the West gets the vague impression that the government of the whole country is being administered by one small locality. If Prof. Warner is so outstandingly the best man for the navy air job that the service would lose through any other appointment, then his selection is fine business, politics or no politics. But if there is anybody outside of New England measurably as well fitted, then it is a little unfortunate, perhaps, that President Coolidge could not see some one more than a mile and a half from the Boston state house.

WET MONEY.

We don't know who is contributing the forty thousand dollars a month that is being paid into the treasury of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment each month, according to the testimony of one of its officials, but we do not believe that it is the people who are engaged in diverting denatured alcohol, nor those who are cooking it, nor those who are rectifying it into spurious whiskey. We do not believe it is the bootlegger nor the highjacker nor the smuggling syndicates. We do not believe that a nickel of it comes from the keepers of speakeasies. We do not believe that in any single instance this association has ever received a cent of support from any member of any criminal class whatsoever, for substantially the entire criminal world of the United States is deeply concerned with the maintenance of the status quo.

If the eighteenth amendment should be repealed—or rather when it shall be repealed, for there is no doubt in our mind that its repeal or legal annulment is merely a question of time—the opportunity for the reaping of vast sums of easy money by the very worst class in our population will end automatically.

And if the contributions do not come from the bad elements in American life it follows that they must come from pretty decent people. That they are coming in immensely increasing amounts, while the contributions to the Anti-Saloon League's funds are steadily falling off, seems to us one of the hopeful signs of the times. It looks as if the anti-demoralizationists were beginning to fight.

HERO.

The Boston yellow—and they are a saffron lot—have an excellent opportunity for the creation of "heart interest" in the case of the youth of 19 who battered in the skull of an elderly woman shop keeper and robbed her till of something less than five dollars.

For it appears that he committed his barbarous murder "for love." He needed money, poor boy, to get married! "I love him more than life," exclaimed his fiancee, a bit his senior. "He is no murderer. There was no murder in his heart."

That's the cue. From that point on the yellows, by properly playing up the "heart interest," ought to be able to rig the morose sentimentality of Roxbury, South Boston and Charlestown into a fine state of tears and blubbers over the plight of the love-lorn gallant whose case was so desperate that of course he just naturally had to destroy whatever old ladies happened to stand between him and his marriage fees.

It is almost as good as certain that the trial of this unspeakable young scoundrel will be worked up into a running feature, with a crowded court, idiotic women sending flowers to him and all South Boston boosting for his triumphant acquittal. For that is the way they do it in the Hub of American culture.

SUCKERS.

The unusual success of the pre-holiday bull market in the stock exchanges indicates that the big boys are going to be able to buy all sorts of firecrackers and torpedoes for the Fourth. Having had their day of bargain counter shopping after the late lamented spring slump, they have staged as pretty a boom in selected self-owned securities as has been rigged in many a day, with the result that popt-eyed Mr. Public is again sticking his fingers in the fire to get some of the chestnuts.

The one thing that the private speculator cannot seem to understand is that when he buys United States Steel at 144 somebody is selling it to him; and what he never asks himself is, "Why?" The annual early summer unloading on the public is now under way, and most of the big boys' vacations this year ought to be spent on five thousand ton yachts with Roman baths and gold plated smokestacks, if they can be built quick enough under the stimulus of cost-plus, regardless of expense.

UNJUSTIFIED.

A British rum ship was seized by the Coast Guard in Long Island Sound. She had papers from a West Indies port to St. Pierre de Miquelon. She claimed that she was in American territory in search of fresh water, her supply having been spoiled. That was late in 1924. Ship and cargo have been held at New London ever since. Yesterday Judge Thomas in the federal court at New Haven dismissed the libel against her, setting the vessel free.

For a year and a half the owners of this ship and cargo have been deprived of their property.

Suppose that it was an American ship, with papers from Britain to Italy, that was held in this manner in a French port by the French government. Would there or would there not be a tremendous outcry from all over the United States against the "outrage?"

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

Washington, July 1.—Minnesota has two really remarkable representatives in the United States Senate—Henrik Shipstead and Thomas D. Schall.

Each is an unusual man, and they present a striking contrast. Shipstead, the senior as a senator, though junior in years, is the lone Farmer-Labor senator. Schall is blind.

Shipstead is a radical; Schall a "regular," of the Republican faith. It's surprising that the same state should have sent to the Senate two such different individuals.

At least they're alike in one respect. They both know how to fight. Schall made his initial speech on the Senate floor a few days ago—not his first in Congress, for he served five terms as a representative, but his first in the upper house.

It was a rip-snorter. Schall won over Magnus Johnson in the election of 1924 and Magnus filed a contest. It dragged along until the day Schall made that speech. A resolution—which was adopted—had been introduced declaring the contest all off and Schall thought to his Senate seat.

Schall thought the time had come to tell what he thought about the people who put Johnson up, so he said, to contest his election. He surely told.

He didn't blame Magnus much. He said "he never knew what it was all about."

But for the contest's "instigators"—well, such expressions as "assassins of character," "slander," "skunks," "perjurers," "blackmailing pettifogger," "conscienceless shyster," "lying tongue," fell thick and fast from the senator's lips as he talked.

The Senate sat and quaked. It was terrible.

Finally, when Schall was through, "I appeal to the senator," said Senator Ashurst, "to withdraw this speech. I know how the passions rage when a man is falsely attacked, but I say to my friend from Minnesota that, as the years roll on, he will regret this speech." Doesn't that hint that it was quite a speech?

The fury of Schall's manner, affected as he had as much to do with making it terrifying as the words. For all his blindness, Thomas D. Schall is no man to stir up.

Senator Shipstead's type is so unlike Schall's that I doubt if he'd bother about a personal attack on him.

He's interested in principles. On such subjects he can create as much of a rumpus—though, again, an entirely different kind—as Schall. Human rights, big politics, national tendencies and the trend of the world—those are the themes Henrik Shipstead waxes vehement on.

He can wax vehement to good effect. There isn't a finer presence in the Senate than his. Very tall and physically fit, with a head of blonde, nordic hair, a flashing blue eye and a booming voice, he looks and sounds the ideal orator. And don't think he hasn't anything to say! He has. He's an outstanding senator.

He doesn't like politicians. "Public opinion's the wind," he assured me once, "and a politician's the miller. You've seen a windmill? It turns and turns, as the wind shifts and shifts. No matter the direction, always it turns that miller's wheel and always it grinds grist for him."

DAILY POEM

DETOUR When you're hiking long the highway, an' the family's in the car, an' you've picked a level by-way that will take you wide and far, you are sittin' kinda pretty, with your frets and cares behind, 'cause you've left the bakin' city, an' there's nothin' on your mind.

As you speed along, you wonder o'er the beauty spread around an' you're thinkin', why in thunder are you livin' in a town? There's the sweet perfume of clover and the fresher ozone brings thorough pleasure to the rover who's enjoying nature's things.

Roads are wondrous as you sail by, cause you're in a measure that is bound to come to you. All in all, ya get to thinkin' in the open you're not drinkin' in the dust of city street. But the feelin' quickly switches. Who said touring was so fine with its bumps and ruts and ditches—when you hit a detour sign?

IN NEW YORK

New York, July 1.—Manhattan's oldest and perhaps most famous "flop house" is located on the Bowery not far from Hester street.

Here, for 30 cents a day, a man may obtain shelter. In past years, when the cost of living was less, the price was considerably lower, varying through the years from 15 cents to 25 cents.

The tides of poor-pursed men ebb and flow with the seasons. Winter finds the place the scene of a rush, but with the warm weather the men flow out, hither and yon, to the "occupational jobs."

And yet, though the summer days call them into the out-of-doors; to farms and road gangs and summer resorts and railroad camps, they are back in Manhattan with the first sting of frost.

What is the lure that brings men back to 30-cent rooms and meager rations and benches in Bowling Green?

And yet they do come back, as one can learn from a chat with a manager who has been on the job more than a quarter of a century.

And one learns, too, that from the manager down, they all resent the use of the word "derelict" in connection with their fraternity. They are "poor men", yet, but their reputations have been colored by a few "drunkards."

What tales these drear looking places hold!

The Boss Is Away Sale

An advertisement by T. J. Kidney, manager of floor covering depts.

THE "boss" is away on a vacation, you know. It's the first time in our history that he has been gone for a whole month at a stretch, so we employees are running the store. "Beat last July's record" was the last thing he said before he left and we've decided to accept his challenge. We have planned this big event, with each department manager or each salesman in charge of a department responsible for two or three days.

The boss made no restrictions whatsoever. We can do just about what we like!

The first days—today, tomorrow and Saturday—have been assigned to the floor covering departments and we have made some unusual reductions in order to put this department across the goal.

Help yourself to these exceptional values—and you'll be helping us to make a record!

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK President, The American Nature Association

Probably the surest way to create a riot and place one's neck in danger of the noose would be to that stards in the little churchyard at Santa Maria del Tule.

This little village is some 23 kilometers east of Oaxaca, Mexico. It is not notable of itself but boasts a tree that probably took root in the soil long before history was a matter of civilized record.

It first caught the attention of Alexander von Humboldt in 1803. Cutting a shallow hole on the outside of the tree, he inserted a square board on which was a Spanish inscription. The tree valiantly proceeded to head the wound so that all that was visible is "der v Hum" of this traveler's name.

Various measurements have been made under the supervision of a tree guard of soldiers and in the presence of most of Santa Maria's population) was taken by Dr. Hermann von Schrenk of the Missouri Botanical Garden. Measured breast high, the tree was found to have a girth of 126 feet. Its health was found to be excellent; its massive, comparatively short and deeply fluted trunk, sound; and its full crown strong.

NEW BANKRUPTCY RECORD IN CONN.

602 Petitions Filed During Year Ending Yesterday; Five More Than in 1922.

New Haven, July 1.—A new record for bankruptcies in Connecticut in a year was set during the fiscal period ending yesterday, according to statistics issued today by Richard P. Carroll, deputy clerk of the United States District Court here, who reported a total of 602 petitions filed in the twelve months ending June 30. The previous high record was made in the year ending June 30, 1922, when 597 petitions were filed here. Bankruptcy petitions in Connecticut jumped to a high point in 1919 and have continued to rise since. The numbers filed in the various years since that time are: 1920, 540; 1921, 597; 1922, 555; 1923, 480; 1924, 524; 1925 and 602 in 1926.

Seventy, January and June were during the past year was reached in January, when 70 petitions were filed and reached its lowest point in February with 23 petitions. To start the year July had 52 and to end it June had 70. The Connecticut district of the United States court has handled 8,157 petitions in bankruptcy since the present bankruptcy act went into effect in 1898. The average number of petitions filed has been 291 per year.

TWO BIG FEATURES ON THE STATE'S BILL

Bill Hart in "Tumbleweeds" and Bebe Daniels in "The Palm Beach Girl."

A sparkling, rollicking comedy, laid in the society atmosphere of Palm Beach and other Florida beauty spots, glorified by the bewitching presence and humorous antics of Bebe Daniels, and pending for its thrills upon speed-boat racing is what picture-goers may expect to see at the State theatre Friday and Saturday in "The Palm Beach Girl."

Just picture Bebe as a gawky country girl trying to learn the manners and customs of the smart social set, falling in love with a handsome millionaire, adventuring with bootleggers and running wild in a sixty-mile-an-hour speed boat, and you'll begin to realize the hilarious fun and hysterical thrills wrapped up in this picture.

The story was adapted from the yarn by Byron Morgan and the play, "Please Help Emily" by H. M. Harwood, and is packed crammed full of speed, spice and suspense. There are enough funny gags and comedy situations to keep audiences in a constant uproar of laughter. Forrest Halsey wrote the scenario and Erle Kenton wielded the megaphone.

Lawrence Gray, who gave such a good account of himself opposite Gloria Swanson in "Stage Struck," and "The Untamed Lady," is happily cast as Bebe's leading man. Josephine Drake, Marguerite Clayton, John Patrick and Armand Cortes are others who assist Bebe. Of the many exciting highlights in the production the big speed boat race—actual reproduction of the annual regatta near Miami

William S. Hart in "Tumbleweeds"

A lot of people keep asking why "Tumbleweeds" was chosen as the title for William S. Hart's new photoplay for United Artists Corporation release, and want to know what it means, and how it applies. Here's the answer:

During the settling of the Cherokee Land Strip between Kansas and Oklahoma back in 1889, the cowpunchers had to seek green fields and pastures new, because the cattle ranchers on the strip were forced to move and the cattle were dispersed.

The punchers, as Hal G. Everts, author of the story "Tumbleweeds" had it, referred to themselves as "tumbleweeds" because they were continually on the move, and pointed with disdain to the lowly squash, anchored to its vine, till somebody cut it loose for cooking purposes. They had a song—

"I never cease my roamin' I'm always hard to catch— But the punkin stays forever In the same ole garden patch."

Bill Hart plays a typical tumbleweed in the picture which King Baggot directed, and which comes Friday and Saturday to the State theatre, but he finally ceases drifting. It is said that this is the biggest and finest picture the foremost western star has ever made. A fine case is announced with Barbara Bedford as leading woman. C. Gardner Sullivan adapted "Tumbleweeds" for the screen.

Added attraction for Friday and Saturday "The Song Reel" one that we all know "Daisy Bell." Tonight the State theatre will present a double feature bill, Lillian Rich in "The Love Gambler" and Bob Custer in "The Dead Line" and don't forget the Famous State theatre country store that will also be on tonight. Come and take home a gift.

WERNER NOW ORGANIST IN HARTFORD THEATER

Local Piano Player Secures Position in Strand Theater; Formerly at State Theater.

Fred Werner, formerly a piano player in the State theater orchestra and well known local musician, yesterday commenced work as an organist in the Strand theater in Hartford. Mr. Werner's new work was obtained after long hours of practice.

Manchester High school, Mr. Werner has been conspicuous in local orchestras. For the past five years he has been organist at the German church on Cooper street. Since the vaudeville has been discontinued at the State theater, Werner has practiced under the tutelage of the organist at the theater. The manager of the Strand theater heard him play once while on a visit here and saw what he believed to be the prospects of a first class organist. Consequently he signed a contract with the Manchester artist.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA

Thomas Jefferson (4)

In 1775 Jefferson was sent to the Continental Congress as an alternate. With John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston he was named, in 1776, to draft a declaration of independence. Jefferson wrote the document, which was adopted July 4, 1776, because, Jefferson used to say, it was "a hot day and the room swarmed with flies."

Re-elected to the next session of Congress, Jefferson declined, feeling that his native state needed his services more.

Two of Jefferson's pet measures were defeated by Virginia, one for abolition of slavery, the other for schools in every county of Virginia.

Jefferson was elected war governor of Virginia. His wife, Martha, saw her husband the most honored man in the state. She saw British troops march into Charlottesville (4 miles away), and saw the Monticello estate stripped of grain and tobacco by the soldiers. She knew George Washington and visited Martha Washington at Mount Vernon. (Continued.)

"A & P" INCREASES ADVERTISING FUND

Newspaper Space Now Being Used in Larger Volume by Retail Store Organization.

Announcement comes from the main offices of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company that the company's advertising appropriation for the current year will show an increase of $500,000.

A. & P. as it is known throughout the country is a large and consistent user of newspaper advertising space, and the bulk of the advertising increase this year is being devoted to newspapers for the furtherance of local retail business in every community where A. & P. is established. A magazine campaign will also be inaugurated.

The familiar red front of the A. & P. store is to be seen in practically every neighborhood trading center in the larger cities, and in the smaller communities as well.

The administrative and buying organization of the A. & P. is world-wide. In London, England, is a purchasing office with a complete purchasing staff. Food brokers from all parts of Europe regularly fly to London to offer their merchandise to A. & P. In South America, A. & P. maintains five coffee-purchasing offices—one at Santos, Brazil; one at Rio de Janeiro and three in Columbia. These buyers make several trips into the interior each season, 300 and 400 miles, to the coffee plantations, where they inspect and examine the coffee in the growing bean, on the trees.

In San Francisco, A. & P. maintains thirty-six large buildings, used as food distributing depots, are maintained as advantageous points throughout the United States. Bakeries are operated in various cities. Potato warehouses and cheese-curing plants are located at strategic points. A crop of trained buyers constantly travel through domestic food-producing areas. Food chemists and laboratorians are actively engaged in testing foods.

Recently the A. & P. inaugurated free group insurance for its employees. At different times during the past few years A. & P. employees were given the opportunity of subscribing to shares of the company's preferred stock, and last year, both preferred and common were offered.

The organization is perhaps the most unique in the food retailing field today.

Helping Youth to Long Health

This is the second of a series of four articles on public health work.

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING
Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

In a previous article it was pointed out that children learn by example under the watchful care of the parent, and gradually develop powers of independent observation. Many dangers that are readily seen by the parent do not present themselves to the consciousness of the child, or, if they do, are not clearly perceived and are accepted as dangers "on faith."

The child has difficulty in appreciating the catastrophes that are averted, though they may have been of very grave concern to the parent.

In the same way the adult mind registers no reaction to unperceived dangers. It reacts very feebly to accounts of unperceived dangers related very vividly. The mind becomes thoroughly aroused, however, when the danger is clearly perceived or known to be imminent.

Difficult as the task is, one purpose of these articles is to present to the reader a mental concept of some of the unseen dangers that are constantly almost automatically being averted by the activities of two important co-operative forces of modern society, the medical profession and the department of health.

The one fact that should be impressed upon the minds of the readers of this article today is that tributed and the voters had to march around the hall and between the small desks to deposit the ballots and that took time. They were leg weary by the time the officers had all been chosen.

FIGHTING FIFTH STILL RETAINS REPUTATION

Three of the voters with some sort of sense of humor deposited one vote each for Andy Gump, Spark Plug and Barney Google. The moderator was about to take up the other five clauses in the call but he never got to even one. Arthur Manning moved that all of the minutes of the last year be read. That started the hula-baloos again and another hour was wasted. Mr. Manning's motion finally prevailed and the clerk started on her wearisome task with but few paying any attention. The women discussed styles and ever and anon a farmer's voice could be heard above the din, telling about the backwardness of the season and about poor crops.

Legality of Meeting

In the course of the reading the last meeting was finally reached. This was the nub of the discussion. One faction claims the meeting was illegal and the other that it was called according to law. Mrs. Loomis, the clerk refused to read the minutes as she claimed she knew nothing about what had transpired. Arthur Manning demanded that this matter be settled. If it took all night. Motions and amendments followed thick and fast until one's head swam and no one had a clear idea as to what was to be voted upon. The discussion hinged about whether the call was for the first or third Friday in June. Mrs. Loomis' record said the first; others claimed it was the third. Finally a motion was made that the minutes of this meeting be thrown out of the records. Before this motion could be put, another discussion started with every body talking and the moderator trying vainly to be heard. Mrs. Loomis un-nerved, retired from the room and fainted outside. Arthur Manning was engaged in writing a resolution when as if pre-arranged a voice boomed forth: "Move we adjourn."

Finally Adjourns

Quickly the vote was taken and carried almost unanimously, an unusual procedure in the Fifth and the crowd filed out with nothing accomplished but the election of officers after four hours of discussion.

Auditors' Report

It was planned to have a report read which had been prepared by Frank G. Lee, a certified accountant. It never came up but copies of it had been distributed during the meeting. Here is his report: "An examination of the records of the Collector and of the Treasurer of the Fifth School District discloses some errors which are of no great importance; but also discloses a laxity in accounting together with a mixing of district money with private funds, which are inexcusable and of great importance. "For the years 1923 and 1924 the collector's books show absolutely no footings. Under these circumstances it is almost certain that some discrepancy will appear. Careful examination and checking up of the collector's and treasurer's books for these two years shows that in the year 1923 there is a failure to account for $19.33 of taxes collected. On the other hand it appears that in 1924 Twenty (20) cents in excess of collections were turned over to the treasurer. Had the books been footed page by page this would hardly have happened. "The manner of handling of the district's funds by the treasurer is

U. S. DEBT REDUCED $875,000,000 IN YEAR.

Washington, July 1.—The government began the new fiscal year today with a total public debt of $19,433,000,000. It was announced at the treasury.

The surplus for the fiscal year which closed at midnight was officially set at $377,766,000.

The public debt is $875,000,000 less than on July 1 a year ago.

wrong from every viewpoint. The district apparently has had no separate bank account during the years 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. The treasurer appears to have mingled both district money and his own moneys in his own personal bank account, and to have paid the district's bills therefrom. This is wrong legally and businesswise. The district funds should be kept separate and apart from those private funds of the treasurer. This condition was proved by the examination of many transactions. The treasurer's account of moneys paid out does not in all instances square up with the actual transaction. For instance under date of October 30, 1922, the treasurer reports a payment to Watkins Brothers of $31.25. Watkins Brothers report that only $34.78 was actually paid. The difference covers a discount of $6.57 which is not accounted for in the treasurer's accounts.

"Borrowings and the issue of notes of the district therefor seems to have been made without authority by the district by vote or otherwise. Such occurrences could not happen if the borrowing was regularly attempted at a bank. For instance the books show that the treasurer on July 8, 1925, without any authority from the voters of the district, gave to F. R. Manning the district's note for $206.88 and this note is charged against the district. "All notes, purporting to be notes of the district, are notes given the then treasurer to members of his family. The district's records show no authority for at least one of these. This note from a legal standpoint is probably uncollectible, because unauthorized; and the practice of handing out a supposedly district note at the pleasure of an official is to be discontinued.

"The rate of interest paid on these notes has invariably been six per cent. Other districts in this town have done their borrowing at a bank and the rate of interest which they have paid is five per cent. This is the case for at least the last 10 years.

FRANK G. LEE,
Public Accountant.

FISCAL NEW YEAR PROSPECTS AGLOW

Government and Big Corporations Find Outlook Highly Gratifying.

Washington, July 1.—"Fiscal new year" was celebrated by the United States government and thousands of commercial and industrial corporations throughout the country today with glowing prospects for a continuance of the prosperity which has established numerous records in the past 12 months.

Corporations operating a calendar year basis passed the first half of 1926 with correspondingly sound conditions, promising well for the future.

"Good Times" Indicators
Among the fiscal year indicators of "good times" were cited the following:

1. Estimated exports $4,760,000,000 and imports $4,440,000,000.
2. Estimated gold exports $116,000,000 and imports $195,000,000.
3. Governmental receipts, $3,362,755,000, about $182,000,000 over the last fiscal year.
4. Income tax receipts $1,982,000,000 or $200,000,000 better than in 1925.
5. Customs receipts $579,430,000, exceeding last year by $33,000,000.

Figures for the first six months of 1926 disclosed the following:

1. Estimated domestic capital

The SEALED pump is the dealer's guarantee to you of genuine high quality Tydol

HAVEN'T you sometimes wondered, as you watched gasoline being pumped into the tank of your car, whether you were getting the brand of gasoline you asked for?

There is, in fact, foundation for your doubts. In certain cities, notably New York, thousands of gallons of cheap, inferior gasolines have been sold through pumps which bear the trade-marks of well-known, high-quality gasolines.

That deplorable condition is not wide-spread. Yet Tide Water and the Tydol dealers of this locality want to make certain that inferior gasolines never can be substituted for Tydol. They want to safeguard Tydol's high quality, and make it possible for you to be sure that every drop of gasoline that comes from a Tydol pump is genuine Tydol.

Therefore, Tydol dealers have united in sealing every Tydol pump in this city and vicinity.

The sealed Tydol pump

On the intake pipe of every underground tank, which feeds a Tydol pump in this locality, Tide Water has affixed its seal. After the dealer's tank has been filled with Tydol, the intake pipe is re-sealed and remains sealed until the pump again needs Tydol.

This is the seal that assures you that you are getting genuine Tydol.

TIDE WATER OIL SALES CORPORATION
900 WINDSOR AVENUE
Hartford, Conn.

TYDOL ECONOMY GASOLINE

Nothing but Tydol goes into the tank, nothing but Tydol can come from the pump.

This sealed pump is the final step in safeguarding the high quality of Tydol every minute from the time it leaves the refinery until it is in the tank of your car.

It is your visible protection against inferior gasolines, your assurance of genuine Tydol.

The Tydol dealer deserves your business

You will find that your Tydol dealer is proud of the sealed pump. It is his proof to you that he sells quality products, honestly represented. He is a good man for you and for your family to deal with. Patronize him regularly.

Fill up with Tydol

Stop at any Tydol pump. You will find it sealed. Have your tank filled with Tydol. Then notice the faster start, the instant pick-up, the rush of power, the smoother quieter motor.

The increased mileage and decreased carbon will leave no doubt in your mind as to why Tydol is called "the economy gasoline."

And you'll readily see why the Tydol dealers want to protect the high quality of this gasoline with the "Seal of Protection".

The Tydol dealers in this vicinity have united in sealing every Tydol pump. They want to protect the high quality of the Tydol they sell you. They want to give you visible proof that they are selling genuine Tydol and Tydol alone.

2. Foreign flotations in the United States, $50,000,000, a slight decrease over the six months period of 1925.

Government Supplies
The government went into the new year today with an estimated total of $3,800,000,000 to spend during the 12 months, and estimated governmental costs of $3,600,000,000, assuring a material surplus.
Whether or not this means another cut on the ground that the year is problematical, Administration officials generally oppose another cut on the ground that the 1926 revenue cut should be given a longer trial.
From the private business standpoint the six months have been unusually successful and have been marked by a conservative expansion that is believed by such authorities as Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Commerce Hoover to place commerce and industry on the most stable and satisfactory foundation in history.

FEAR ANARCHISTS WILL KILL ALFONSO

French Police Warn London to Look Out for Trio in Argentinian Plot.

Paris, July 1.—Fearing another attempt to assassinate King Alfonso of Spain, now in London, the French police today notified Scotland Yard to be on the lookout for three youths, anarchists with criminal records.
With the arrest of two Spaniards on Monday, the French police announced that they were members of a band of five who had come from the Argentine for the express purpose of assassinating King Alfonso.

The remaining three are at large and it was feared that they would follow the king to England.
The two men arrested are Guadalupe Francisco Accaso, convicted in 1901 of murdering the Cardinal of Saragossa, and Bonaventura Duret, a clever burglar.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN MILBURN, partner in the advertising agency of GRAHAM and MILBURN, hails the birth of a baby girl as the turning point in his and his wife, FAY'S, marriage.

White Fay is in the hospital, John is invited to a swimming party at the country home of PAT FORBES. There he meets several married friends of the Forbes, including NELL ORME, who, Pat hints, is having trouble with her husband.

Fay comes back from the hospital and she and John spend weeks looking for a house, having made up their minds to buy their own home.

NATHANIEL GRAHAM, John's partner, sees a chance of landing an important advertising contract with the MILLTOWN TOOL COMPANY, and he and John and their artist, BRIGGS, work furiously for weeks preparing a campaign.

Finally Graham, with the work in his brief case, leaves for Milltown, and John proposes to Briggs, both of them accompanied by Graham to the train, that they both go out and get drunk.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER IX
BRIGGS struck a dramatic pose. "Unaccountably as I am to public speaking," he intoned, "nevertheless rise to remark that that suggestion has all the earmarks of an inspiration. Klismet."

He gravely stuck out his hand to John.

"There's a bottle in my desk drawer that I've been saving for an occasion. Briggs, this is an occasion."

"It is more than that," agreed Briggs. "It is an event."

When they reached the office, John produced a key and unlocked the double door in the bottom of his desk.

He poured a stiff drink for the artist and one of equal size for himself. There was an elaborate flicking of glasses.

"Well, here's how," said Briggs. "Here's looking at you."

Both glasses were drained. John poured another one. "Here's to the success of Nathaniel Graham's journey," he proposed.

Briggs smiled and drank in silence. "Not that I give a damn about the success of Nathaniel Graham," he said, putting his glass down, "but for your sake and mine I hope he gets what he's after."

"Why, how come, Briggs?" John was setting a table.

"What've you got against Nat Graham?"

"Oh, nothing in particular. I just think he's somewhat of a crab and a pretty cold-blooded fish. If it wasn't for you, I'd have quit long ago."

"Why, you mustn't think that way about Nat. I admit he's a cold-blooded proposition, but he's a real business man, Briggs, and a go-getter."

"I hope," said Briggs stubbornly, "that he lands the contract, because it's your copy he's got with him, and my art. Outside of that—" he snapped his fingers.

"I'll tell you what, Briggs," said John after another drink, putting his arm around the artist, "if we land this thing, it's going to mean more money for you. And if we get one or two more, I'm going to see that you hire another artist to help you out. How's that?"

"Sounds good to me," Briggs responded.

"And meanwhile," went on John, "there's a bottle to be finished."

Between them they emptied it.

lingering over it for another hour and growing more amiable and talkative as the time drew on.

John took Briggs home in the little coupe, driving with fierce concentration to marshal his skidding senses. When he arrived at his own home, Fay, awakened by his noisiness, looked at him challengingly.

"You've been drinking, haven't you?"

"Yes, my dear," he said jocularly. "I have."

"Because—" he was clumsily removing his clothing—"because to most men there's some occasions when a little drink is the thing to do. This was one of them, dear."

"I thought you were working so hard. Is this the way to spend your nights, after telling me that you're at the office?"

"Now, listen, Fay, before you start your accusations. Tonight we finished up the work on the Milltown stuff. Briggs and I went down to the station to see Nat off, and then I invited Briggs to have a drink. Both of us were just about all in, and we needed something."

"Where did you go to some speakeasy?"

"Nothing of the kind. I had a bottle of perfectly good Scotch in my desk. Friend of mine gave it to me some time ago. That's all there was to it. Just a gentlemanly round of drinks between Briggs and me. That's all."

"I've got a hunch, though," he said a little later, "that we're going to get it. I poured everything in my body's pocket, to hear you talk."

"Well," Fay said sharply, "I don't think it's exactly wise to get drunk with one of your employees. Hurry up and get to bed before you wake the baby."

"I didn't get drunk," he cried indignantly. "Besides, Briggs is hardly an employee. You have to treat him like a gentleman in order to keep him."

"Come to bed," commanded Fay, and turned sleepily away from him.

John awoke the next morning with a thick tongue and a splitting head. He was late getting up and Fay was austere silent at breakfast. No doubt withholding comment because of the presence of the house keeper.

"Well, I can take it a little easier this week," he ventured. "How about looking around for a house this afternoon?"

"I'll be too busy this afternoon," she said shortly.

"After I left you I came out here, called on Barry, and told him that I was going to meet him at the Circle immediately. When we met I told him my plan, saying that you were coming to dine with me and I was going to bring you to see us married."

"Immediately he became so angry that I was afraid. He insisted that no one should witness the ceremony, but I would not give in. At last I told him indignantly that I would not marry him secretly or any other way."

"He was beside himself with rage and answered contemptuously that I could not marry him secretly or any other way as he was already married to Laura."

"I begged a minute or two I was so stunned that I could not speak."

"Why were you going through a fake marriage ceremony with me?" I asked.

"Because I found this morning perfectly happy, but when I left him to make a few preparations I began to get frightened."

"It was then, dear, that I thought of you. You were a girl just like myself and instinctively I knew that you would understand."

"I rushed back to the store with exultant that I wanted to buy more handkerchiefs and while you were picking them out I asked you to dine with me."

"After I left you I came out here, called on Barry, and told him that I was going to meet him at the Circle immediately. When we met I told him my plan, saying that you were coming to dine with me and I was going to bring you to see us married."

Fay asked, "Did you say that Nat Graham left last night for Milltown?"

"Yeah. Took all our plans and copy and drawings with him."

"Does he expect to get a decision while he's there?"

"Well, Fay, you know advertising managers. They probably will tell him to leave the stuff and give them time to look it over and make up their minds. But Nat'll most likely keep right after 'em till he gets a decision."

"Why?"

"Because—" he was clumsily removing his clothing—"because to most men there's some occasions when a little drink is the thing to do. This was one of them, dear."

"I thought you were working so hard. Is this the way to spend your nights, after telling me that you're at the office?"

"Now, listen, Fay, before you start your accusations. Tonight we finished up the work on the Milltown stuff. Briggs and I went down to the station to see Nat off, and then I invited Briggs to have a drink. Both of us were just about all in, and we needed something."

"Where did you go to some speakeasy?"

"Nothing of the kind. I had a bottle of perfectly good Scotch in my desk. Friend of mine gave it to me some time ago. That's all there was to it. Just a gentlemanly round of drinks between Briggs and me. That's all."

"I've got a hunch, though," he said a little later, "that we're going to get it. I poured everything in my body's pocket, to hear you talk."

"Well," Fay said sharply, "I don't think it's exactly wise to get drunk with one of your employees. Hurry up and get to bed before you wake the baby."

"I didn't get drunk," he cried indignantly. "Besides, Briggs is hardly an employee. You have to treat him like a gentleman in order to keep him."

"Come to bed," commanded Fay, and turned sleepily away from him.

John awoke the next morning with a thick tongue and a splitting head. He was late getting up and Fay was austere silent at breakfast. No doubt withholding comment because of the presence of the house keeper.

"Well, I can take it a little easier this week," he ventured. "How about looking around for a house this afternoon?"

"I'll be too busy this afternoon," she said shortly.

"After I left you I came out here, called on Barry, and told him that I was going to meet him at the Circle immediately. When we met I told him my plan, saying that you were coming to dine with me and I was going to bring you to see us married."

"Immediately he became so angry that I was afraid. He insisted that no one should witness the ceremony, but I would not give in. At last I told him indignantly that I would not marry him secretly or any other way."

"He was beside himself with rage and answered contemptuously that I could not marry him secretly or any other way as he was already married to Laura."

"I begged a minute or two I was so stunned that I could not speak."

"Why were you going through a fake marriage ceremony with me?" I asked.

"Because I found this morning perfectly happy, but when I left him to make a few preparations I began to get frightened."

"It was then, dear, that I thought of you. You were a girl just like myself and instinctively I knew that you would understand."

"I rushed back to the store with exultant that I wanted to buy more handkerchiefs and while you were picking them out I asked you to dine with me."

"Smooth as cream," replied Briggs, glancing up.

"Mr. Milburn," called Miss Knisely at his back, "there's a gentleman to see you."

"See me? All right." He followed after her.

"Oh, Paul! How are you, old sock?" Glad to see you." He shook hands with his visitor, a distinguished looking young man of thirty or thereabouts, tall, very blond, with hair brushed straight back, and shadowed blue eyes.

"Glad to see you, John," drawled Paul Davidson. "What's this I hear about your being the proud father? I was out of town for a little while—"

"Yes, my dear," he said jocularly. "I have."

yes or no. Regular bulldog that way, Nat."

He patted his mouth with his napkin, pushed back his chair and lit a cigarette. "I'll be sitting on pins and needles until I hear how he comes out. A contract like that, Fay, will just make us. Not so much from the money angle—although their appropriation for the coming year is something like $100,000, and that means $15,000 for us, less our overhead—but it will make our reputation. Think of what it will mean if we're able to say we licked Fatsy Lang and took away one of their clients."

It will mean that a lot of other good accounts will be looking over our shoulder and watching our work. We're young, and one or two really good accounts will just about set us on our feet."

He paced up and down the room, voluble and excited, and Fay said, "You mustn't get so worked up about it, John. It will be such a terrible comedown for you if you don't get the contract. Don't set your heart on it so much."

He looked at her and laughed. "If we don't get it, I won't be fit to live with—I can tell you that," and went on pacing the floor.

"I've got a hunch, though," he said a little later, "that we're going to get it. I poured everything in my body's pocket, to hear you talk."

"Well," Fay said sharply, "I don't think it's exactly wise to get drunk with one of your employees. Hurry up and get to bed before you wake the baby."

Decency

It's Public's Own Affair, Reformer Says, Avoiding Snooper Role.

To conceal or reveal on Broadway? Left, Greta Nissen in "proper" costume; right, Joyce Halley in franker garb, and inset, John S. Sumner.

BY GENE COHN
New York, July 1.—"I really like so many more things than I dislike, and it's ever so much easier for me to say 'yes' than 'no.'"

There you have, in a sentence, a close-up of John S. Sumner, whose name has become a national synonym for "anti." Sumner heads the society for the Suppression of Vice, the organization that has played the role of censor to so many books, films and plays.

Just now it is Broadway's vogue of nudity that troubles his name again into the limelight.

Sumner thinks that, like all "shockers," the "undress parade" will be short. Producers will censor their own shows as an escape from official censorship and the possibility of being closed by the "play jury," he feels. The pace for reform, he says, is already being set.

"The activities of our organization are greatly misunderstood," Sumner insists. "We do not stand over the presses waiting for books to get it. Only then do we scan them with care for any slip. There are plays on Broadway said to be quite objectionable, that I have not so much as seen."

"My role, as I understand it, is that of a public proxy. I do not act in office. Only then do we scan them with care for any slip. There are plays on Broadway said to be quite objectionable, that I have not so much as seen."

"Now I don't think it is any secret that a great deal of the shock stuff is put into plays as deliberate pandering to visitors from the smaller cities of the nation. Coming to New York they start looking for a thrill. It's the same in Paris. In the French capital it is notorious that tourists whisper in the ears of a taxi-driver that they want to be taken to the dirtiest show in town."

And since many visitors to New York look upon it as a sort of Paris in America, the same thing happens. And there are managers prepared to do the pandering. One of the most amusing things is the managerial defense that they are presenting art.

"Visitors go to shows in New York that they wouldn't dare attend at home. In their home town everyone knows what everyone else is doing, and they have reputations to maintain. Once in New York—well, it's the same old story."

"No complaints came in as long as the nudity was confined to brief and foggy flashes that frequently were really artistic—although I don't pretend to analyze art. Then the revues about the stage, and finally descended into the audience. That was the limit. With this shocker removed the show was able to live but a few nights."

As he talked Sumner puffed continuously at a long, curved stem pipe. He admits that he smokes a little too much, proving that he is not the "goody-goody" so many picture reformers are in no respect the "reformer" type.

Aptly enough, the headquarters of the society are primly modest. The brick building is hidden in the Spanish quarter. The office has little furniture, and that little is unpretentious.

Sumner was and is a lawyer, grave of face, quick of wit and keen. He grew up in Washington, the son of a rear admiral in the navy. For ten years he was with a big banking concern. Deciding that there was no great future there for him, he began to study law. For eight years he practiced.

Then, quite accidentally, he came in touch with the reform organization of which he is secretary. A client chanced to be interested and talked with him about it a great deal. Finally he consented to take the position.

"And I find it very interesting," he says, puffing blue cloud of smoke. "Whatever anyone else may think, I consider the society's work important or I wouldn't be doing it."

"Now, as for books—the season has been particularly clean. A couple of years ago when Freud was being heard about there was a rush of vulgar stuff. Like most would-be shockers this group was short lived. Since then the case of psycho-analysis has been presented with rather good taste and decency."

"It will be the same way with the theater. The present vogue will pass. Already Ziegfeld has a review in which no nakedness is allowed. It will set the style. For entertainment is entertainment and the people will go where they can get it. The other—well, they will tire as soon as the first shock is gone."

This And That In Feminine Lore

"You never kin tell which way any pleasure is a-comin'. Whoever would 'a' thought when we aimed at the cemetery that we'd land up at a first-class fire."—Mrs. Wiggs.

Ask any man what he prefers to have for dessert and nine times out of ten he will answer—apple, and usually apple pie, but before the summer apples come in there are cherries and other small fruits that make delicious pies. An unusual filling is a red-currant custard. Wash and pick over a pint of currants and fill a tin lined with pastry. Bake in oven about twenty minutes then cover with a boiled custard sweetened to taste. When nearly cold cover with a meringue made of the whites of the eggs, the custard using the yolks.

The Kansas City school board evidently believes a course in babyology is as important as domestic science, to say nothing of all the other studies girls have to take up. And it's a most popular study with seventh and eight graders. Not only that, but one of the school nurses occasionally borrows a real baby from a nearby mother, which she bathes and dresses, explaining each detail to her interested pupils. The use of horic acid, talcum powder, soap and absorbant cotton are explained to the future mothers. The baby is put to sleep and the girls are taught how to divide up the clock to the best advantage for the baby, how to prepare the baby's food and what should be worn at night or when she is aired in her carriage. As babies must not be handled any more than necessary most of the experimental work is done on a large soft doll.

According to Peggy Hoyt, New York's noted costume and wonderful dresser, a woman neither dresses for men or for other women, but for herself. She dresses as she talks—to enjoy herself through expressing what she is. The exception is the woman who is inarticulate from a clothes standpoint and who remains silent during an exchange of ideas.

An unusual bathing suit, one that would pass the most severe beach inspector, is made of light grey silk crepe with a scarf and sash lined with blue. The sleeves are long and the skirt comes to the knees on the right but is cut with an irregular line on the left so that knickers are revealed. Some women prefer a style like this to usual models which reveal sunburned shoulders and arms.

Yellow is to be a favorite color this season and it is particularly effective in the country and at the seashore. It combines well with greens, blues and lavenders. Large gowns as may be seen in this town, thanks to Joseph Urban, Erts and Ben Alt Haggis. Also he has had Rudolf Friml write most of the music, which makes the presentation pretty close to all-star. Greta Nissen, who went to the movies from a lovely pantomime in "The Beggar on Horseback" reappears now in a pantomimic number "Mlle. Bluebeard."

And, oh yes, there are many more "glorified girls!"

"Poached eggs" was the novel fruit salad served at a social gathering recently. It is so attractive and easily prepared you will want to try it. Canned peaches and pineapple were used. The slice of pineapple was spread with whipped cream, in fact completely covered with it. The half of the peach was placed in the center, the cavity downward of course, the whole served on lettuce leaves individually.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL OF TODAY

BLACKMAIL!

"You do not mean to tell me, Joan, that Barry Cornwall did not love you?"

"He did not, he does not. He never did love me for a moment."

Joan's face grew hard and she sat up straight and the tears dried on her lashes.

"Up until today I thought he did, but now I know much better. When I went over to The Circle after I had bought those handkerchiefs of you, I showed them to him and told him they were a birthday present for my brothers. He looked quickly and said: 'Why darling, I thought you had bought them for me. Today is my birthday.'"

"Of course, I gave them to him, and he was so sweet about it, that when he said 'Dearest, I cannot wait any longer. Let's get married tonight.' I was only too glad to fall in with his plans. I remember now thinking that he acted worried over something."

"But while I was with him I was perfectly happy, but when I left him to make a few preparations I began to get frightened."

"It was then, dear, that I thought of you. You were a girl just like myself and instinctively I knew that you would understand."

that I must have fifty thousand dollars before tomorrow night and I knew if I went to your stepfather and told him of your stopping off to buy me off for that amount and think it was cheap at the price."

"Good-bye, Barry," I said and turned to go.

"He grasped my arm right here," Pulling up her sleeve Joan showed me a black and blue spot.

"Wait a minute, Joan, you heard me say that I must have fifty thousand dollars before tomorrow night," said Barry, "Well, you must get it for me."

"It is indeed! Not the familiar faces of the history books, or the slow embellishment of the schoolroom or railroad station, but the actual piece of parchment that gave birth to our nation."

You view it silently with pride mostly, but not a little pity that the signatures of those great men are getting so dim.

The murals and mosaics and the old man fade away. You are back in a bare room in the Old State House in Philadelphia where sense purposeful men are bending silently over a table and affixing their signatures one by one to this protest against an unwise Samuel Adams, fiery, impatient, eager to be the next. It is like him to sign himself "Sam." And there are the names of all the others, including the committee of five, Jefferson, Livingston, Sherman, John Adams and Franklin, who worked so hard through the hot days of June to draft it. It is in Jefferson's writing.

WAPPING

The Wapping library will be closed Monday evening on account of Fourth of July. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the Federated church next Sunday morning. Mrs. Elizabeth Smith spent a few days at her home in Wapping, the first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith and family from Manchester, moved into Mrs. Robert L. Sadder's tenement house last Saturday, June 26. Last Tuesday evening the members of the tennis club held a meeting at the home of Miss Eleanor Stoughton for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. Wells H. Wetherell and Mrs. J. J. Griffin, 32, staying at the Marine hotel, held for questioning by police, admitted he "picked up" the girl on Market street last night. He claimed that after driving to one of the lake resorts, where they had some drinks, two men struck him in the face, seized the girl and dragged her to a nearby cottage. She could not scream and struggled fiercely, Griffiths said. Carried Off in Car. He followed but the men came out and set upon him again. He ran in search of a telephone to call the sheriff. In the meantime the two men carried the girl into their automobile and fled. Olive Sockwell and George Wickler told police they were driving along Portage Lake when a nude girl suddenly staggered in front of their machine. The car struck the girl and knocked her down. When picked up she was dead. A stream of Akron citizens is flowing through the morgue. Several who have viewed the body claimed to have seen the girl before but did not know her name. BREAKFAST FIRE BURNS NEW BRITAIN WOMAN. New Britain, July 1.—Mrs. Fred Roy, 76, is near death in New Britain hospital from burns received this morning when her clothing caught fire from a gas range while she was cooking her breakfast. Policeman Ernest Bloomquist saw the flames through the window of the woman's room, rushed upstairs and threw a blanket about her.

DUMB-GIRL DEAD, NIGHT RIDE VICTIM

Stolen from Escort, Then Thrown from Car, Hit by Another Motor.

Akron, Ohio, July 1.—A beautiful blonde girl of about 25, lay today in an Akron morgue while authorities sought to unravel the mystery of her identity. The girl was a deaf mute, police have established, but beyond that nothing is known about her. The girl met her death, officers said, after being attacked, thrown from an automobile and run over by another car on Portage Lake Drive near here. J. J. Griffin, 32, staying at the Marine hotel, held for questioning by police, admitted he "picked up" the girl on Market street last night. He claimed that after driving to one of the lake resorts, where they had some drinks, two men struck him in the face, seized the girl and dragged her to a nearby cottage. She could not scream and struggled fiercely, Griffiths said. Carried Off in Car. He followed but the men came out and set upon him again. He ran in search of a telephone to call the sheriff. In the meantime the two men carried the girl into their automobile and fled. Olive Sockwell and George Wickler told police they were driving along Portage Lake when a nude girl suddenly staggered in front of their machine. The car struck the girl and knocked her down. When picked up she was dead. A stream of Akron citizens is flowing through the morgue. Several who have viewed the body claimed to have seen the girl before but did not know her name. BREAKFAST FIRE BURNS NEW BRITAIN WOMAN. New Britain, July 1.—Mrs. Fred Roy, 76, is near death in New Britain hospital from burns received this morning when her clothing caught fire from a gas range while she was cooking her breakfast. Policeman Ernest Bloomquist saw the flames through the window of the woman's room, rushed upstairs and threw a blanket about her.

In the Kitchen with 6 Famous Cooks

EASY MEALS FOR HOT WEATHER

The woman who gets her kitchen work done early in the morning, and most of her food prepared, certainly Miss Michaelis, is the coolest cook. She just needs to do a little simple planning. The fewer roasts and baked dishes in the summer, the cooler the kitchen. I recommend uncooked desserts mostly, too. Fruits are all one needs during the hot weather. In the summer time Miss Michaelis does as much of her cooking as possible on the top of the stove, using only as many burners as are absolutely necessary. "If a woman feels she has to bake," Miss Michaelis says, "she should not use her oven every day in the week during hot weather, but bake enough to last several days or a week." A dinner which Miss Michaelis recommends as particularly easy to prepare in hot weather is all cooked in one pot. It conserves utensils, time and fuel. Just a Little Planning "The woman who gets her kitchen work done early in the morning, and most of her food prepared, certainly Miss Michaelis, is the coolest cook. It's a vegetable dinner. Mrs. Rorer gives proportions for serving four. Fritted squash. Dutched cabbage. Chili sauce. Chilled sweet potatoes. Fanned apples. Watermelon. "Go to the kitchen at 11 o'clock, if dinner is to be served at 1," says Mrs. Rorer. "Put on all your lights two burners, and put on two saucepans half full of water. Cover, and turn to full heat. Wash five medium sized sweet potatoes. Chop fine one small, hard head of cabbage. The water is now boiling, in both pans. Put the potatoes in one and cover. Add a teaspoon of salt to the other, and put in the cabbage. Turn flame down and cook cabbage uncovered for half an hour. Slice three tart apples in a baking dish. Add half a cup of sugar, and put cover with water. Light oven burner, and after three minutes put apples on upper rack, covering the dish. To Candy the Sweets "The sweet potatoes are now tender. Drain, peel, and cut them in halves. Place in shallow baking pan, adding two tablespoons of butter, four of sugar, and four of water. Put pan in oven under the apples. "Put four tablespoons of cooking fat in a shallow frying pan over one burner. Drain cabbage and return to frying pan. Add a tablespoon of butter, three of vinegar, half a teaspoon of salt, and a dash of pepper. Cook to keep warm. "Fry the squash and drain on brown paper. Turn the sweet potatoes. Take out the apples. Dish the squash. Dish the cabbage and sweet potatoes. Turn out all the burners. "This is a very simple meal to prepare," Mrs. Rorer concludes. "And, even though you do use the oven, it is for such a short time that the kitchen does not become excessively heated. If you take the advice of famous cooks, you will keep your summer cooking as simple as possible. It doesn't pay to work too hard in the kitchen in hot weather. To Prepare in One Kettle To prepare it, take a soup pot filled with enough water to cover three pounds of brisket. Season for an hour, lower the flame and let it simmer for half an hour. Add one bunch of carrots, a bunch of turnips and a pound of potatoes, and cook for another half hour. When ready, take out carrots. Dice and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Take out turnips and mash with butter, adding a teaspoon of sugar if desired. Serve the potatoes mashed. Take out meat and fry with onions, or serve with a tomato sauce. Add a Salad and Dessert Now with a salad, dessert, and beverage, one has a complete meal, including soup, and all cooked on one flame! For salad, Miss Michaelis suggests peas halved, on lettuce leaves, covered with French dressing. Fruit makes a good dessert to accompany this easy meal. A Cool Kitchen all summer long!

Take a tip from the six famous cooks who tested Perfection. Be cool!

Hot days are coming! Escape sizzling kitchens and wood or coal drudgery. Six famous cooks recommend the Perfection for cool cooking. Here's what they say.

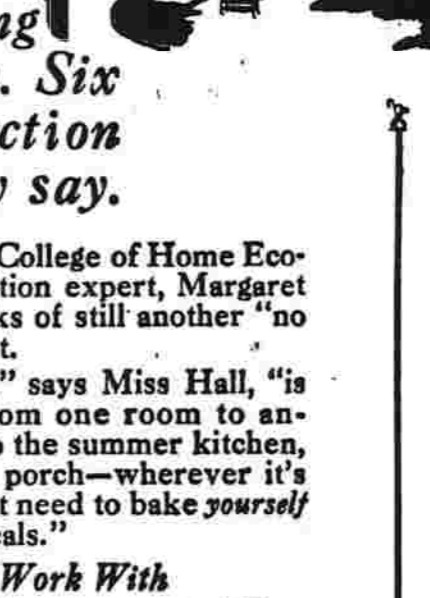

"THE food gets all the heat—the kitchen none," says Miss Rosa Michaelis, New Orleans cooking expert. "In the Perfection burner," she explains, "the heat is confined directly to the bottom of the cooking pot. That means cool cooking!" Mrs. Belle DeGraf, the San Francisco authority, suggests Perfection "top stove" cooking for hot summer days. At Battle Creek College of Home Economics, the nutrition expert, Margaret Allen Hall, speaks of still another "no extra work" point. "The Perfection," says Miss Hall, "is easily moved from one room to another. Move it to the summer kitchen, out on the back porch—wherever it's coolest. You don't need to bake yourself while cooking meals." Cool to Work With The "single row" arrangement of Perfection burners gives you another advantage. Miss Lucy G. Allen of the Boston School of Cookery notices this. "With the Perfection," she makes clear, "there is no reaching across hot flames as with a gas or coal range. You stay away from the direct heat, yourself." You can escape all those things that make summer cooking the most unpleasant of hot tasks. Your dealer will show you the Perfection today—from the one-burner model at $7.75 to the five-burner range at $120. Six famous cooks tested this stove thoroughly and now pronounce it ideal for hot weather. "Buy a Perfection," they say, "be cool!" Manufactured by PERFECTION STOVE CO. Cleveland, Ohio.

With one victory dangling to their belts, the St. Mary's will enter tonight's game with Cheney Brothers at the West Side playgrounds the favorite to repeat. It will be the second game of the series. The Saints copped the first clash rather handily winning 8 to 2.

Tonight, however, may prove a different story, who knows? The Saints may be a trifle too confident. Cheney Brothers will doubtless enter the fray brimming with determination. Just who will win it is hard to say. While it is true the Saints won the first meeting by a six run margin, it is equally true that Cheney Brothers did not live up to expectations. The fact that the tilt is a match between contenders for the town title alone should inject enough rivalry and excitement into the game to give the fans a real treat. Play will start at 6 o'clock. Dwyer and Russell will be the arbiters.

Massey at Second
The Saints will enter tonight's fracas even stronger than they did the first. Although Johnny Dixon is in the Hartford hospital seriously injured, the Saints have found an even stronger second sacker in Sammy Massey, former leader of the Manchester Baseball club. Massey will guard the mid-way sack and will bat second in the batting order. Otherwise there will be no change in the Saint's lineup according to Manager Bulla. He says Pat Carlson will be back at the backstop berth despite his recent eye injury.

Three C. B. A. A. Changes
In the mill team's lineup, there will be three changes. Jack Stratton, leading hitter of the team, will appear at third base. He was missing from the lineup in the first game. Georgetti will pitch with Edgar splitting the left field job. Harry White, who will be the catcher for the Manchester Baseball club under Breckenridge and was formerly a member of the Florence, Mass. Braves.

"BULLET JOE" BUSH JOINS THE PIRATES

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 1.—"Bullet Joe" Bush, veteran Major League pitcher, today was a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates and will be eligible to pitch his first game for his new teammates on Saturday.

GEORGE SISLER, MANAGER

George Sisler, manager and first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, enjoyed his best year in 1922. That campaign Sisler hit for a remarkable average of .420, equaling the American League record hung up by Ty Cobb back in 1911.

THE REFEREE

Who won the singles title in the Wimbledon tennis tournament in 1924?—D. S. W.
Jean Borotra of France.
Where did Louise Fordyce finish in the 1923 western women's golf event?—S. E. F.
Runnerup.
How long has Grover Alexander been with the Cubs and what season did he hang up his best record as a major leaguer?—F. G. E.
Since 1918. Had best season while with the Phillies in 1915, winning 31 games, losing 10, an average of .756.

RICKARD OPENS THE GAME AGAIN

Keeps Wires Hot and Says He'll Name Fight Site Next Week Sure.

By Davis J. Walsh
New York, July 1.—There was a strong bull movement—possibly with emphasis on the adjective—in the heavyweight market, Tex Rickard causing the upward trend by breaking his silence with significant statement. This was to the general effect that he would name the site of the Dempsey-Tunney match for the world's heavyweight championship not later than next week.

In brief, Rickard has closed his deal, either with Chicago or Jersey City, and is all ready to go. His statement followed an exchange of telegrams with the principals, Dempsey wiring Rickard from Las Vegas that he would arrive in Colorado Springs today prepared to get down to active training. The champion asked for five or six heavyweight sparring partners and a line of reformed piano movers began forming on the left while Rickard was thumping over the freight rates to points west.

Calls Tunney East
His next move was to wire Tunney to cease uplifting the drama in Hollywood and begin lifting up the chest weights. Tunney was ordered to report here before July 15 to begin conditioning for the big shot. Rickard declined to say, but it is understood that Tunney will train at Saratoga.

If that is the case, the Chicago site probably is out like a door mat, for if they fight in Chicago, they will train hard by so that the boys may draw their own conclusions and sheer down adequately while doing so.

Watching the Scoreboard
As a matter of fact, the Yankee Stadium, New York City, persists in some quarters as the ultimate spot for the match, regardless of the decree of the New York State Athletic Commission, banishing Dempsey into the silence until such time as he admits that Harry Willis is a heavyweight pugilist. It is difficult to see how the commission can run out on its own ultimatum but some of the local intelligentsia seem to feel that it can and will.

Two factors will operate against this plan. Rickard doesn't like them small and he does like the limelight. His native vanity is such that he would retire from the public management of a heavyweight champion bout only if he saw no other course open to him. He would rather take a loss than see some other man handle such a match at a profit.

Diamond is Spites decided

Bases are filled, one is out, runner on first collides with fielder about to field batted ball. Runner on second and third score on the play. What is proper ruling? The fielder always has the right-of-way, the baserunner must avoid him to escape being penalized. When runner collides with fielder about to make a play on a batted ball, the runner should immediately be called out.

HOME FANS BACK SAMMY MANDELL IN KANSAS BOUT

Battles Rocky Kansas in Chicago July 3 for Lightweight Title of World.

Rockford, Ill., July 1.—Many a collection of family jewels has been given a buggy ride to Uncle Ben's since the crazed citizenry hereabouts first learned that Sammy Mandell, Rockford's slashing sheik, is to battle Rocky Kansas in Chicago July 3 for the lightweight championship of the world, now held by the venerable Rocky. Sammy is the idol of every Rockford schoolboy and the respected friend of hundreds of townspeople. He likes Rockford and Rockford likes him, for Sammy is just a big overgrown boy who feels the weight of seven years in the ring not at all.

DIAMOND DUST

The Pirates walked the plank for the sixth time in a row, losing to the Cardinals six to two. Haines turned in another good game while homers by Blades and Bell spoiled the afternoon for Lee Meadows.

The Athletics nosed out the Yankees in the ninth, five to four, when Poole, who had already hit a homer, doubled with the bases full.

Two rookies starred in Washington's eight to five victory over the Red Sox. Morrell yielded only five hits and Dan Taylor, formerly of Buffalo, got three hits, including a homer.

Four double plays helped Detroit shower of raspberries descended on the field when McManus caught Hellmann with the hidden ball trick while Ty Cobb was coaching at third.

The Indians scalped Tey Lyons of the White Sox, their pet jinx, and won in a romp, eleven to three. Cleveland is now only a game and a half away from second place.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy blinked and Nick blinked and the Dream-Maker Man blinked and Snore blinked. Because it was all dark and their airplane had smashed to pieces when they fell. But neither of the Twins felt hurt a bit. Nothing seemed to hurt on the moon.

But there! They were not even sure they had fallen on the moon, for the moon had disappeared mysteriously after they started up on their airplane ride, and it was still very dark.

"I wonder where we are," said the Dream-Maker Man. "It can't be the moon."

"And it can't be Mars, or Jupiter, or Venus, for they shine," said Snore.

"And it can't be the Milky Way or the Dipper or the North Star," said Nancy, "for they shine, too."

"We must be somewhere," said Nick.

"You're a wise little boy," said the Dream-Maker Man. "Yes, we must be somewhere."

Suddenly a small light appeared in the distance. It looked, at first, like a lightning bug, then it looked like a candle and then it looked like a lantern.

And that's what it was. It kept getting nearer and nearer, and they could see that it was a lantern and that somebody was carrying it.

"Did I hear something?" asked the voice of the person who was carrying the lantern.

"You certainly did," said Snore. "My airplane fell out of the sky. We were traveling from the east side of the moon to the west side of the moon when suddenly the moon got lost. Then I ran out of gasoline and my airplane fell and here we are."

"Well, I declare!" said the person with the lantern again. "You could not have hit it better if you had tried."

And with that he raised his lantern so they could see his face, and who should it be but the Man-in-the-Moon himself!

"I suppose you are wondering how it comes that the moon is so dark and everything. You are on the moon now—yes, sir! You're standing right on it. In fact you are standing right in my onion patch, but that doesn't matter. I put the last of my onions in my cold peas porridge last night. But to go back to the moon. I'll tell you why it is dark. Just after you left, there was an eclipse."

"An eclipse!" cried the Dream-Maker Man and Snore and the Twins. "You don't say so?"

"Yes. I do say so," said the Man-in-the-Moon. "A total eclipse, and the moon got as dark as All Baba's cave. I forgot about it myself and I was shaving, when—poof! out she went like that. And me all lathered up!"

"Well, well, well!" laughed the Dream-Maker Man. "I certainly was fooled that time. I forgot all about eclipses."

"Say," said the Man-in-the-Moon. "If you wait a few minutes, the moon will turn into a boat. We can all go for a ride in it, if you like."

ABOUT TOWN

Charles A. Strant of Hudson street, who recently underwent an operation at the Memorial hospital is progressing as favorably as can be expected.

Mrs. George H. Miller and daughters, Rachel and Catherine, have given up their suite in the Centennial apartments and will spend the summer in Atlantic City.

The boys of the Galahad club of St. Mary's Episcopal church will leave for Camp Washington on Sunday, July 4, and will spend one week in camp.

A very large gathering of Center church folks is expected to take in the annual Sunday school picnic at Elizabeth Park tomorrow. The round trip tickets are less than a one-way fare to Hartford. Cars will leave the Center at 9 a. m. and returning leave the park at four in the afternoon. The baseball field and recreational equipment at Elizabeth Park has been reserved. Miss Marjorie Geary of the Recreation Center will have charge of the games.

Dr. A. B. Moran has purchased a new Country Club De Luxe Buick roadster. The machine was purchased from James Shearer, local agent.

Miss Ruth Skinner of New York city, formerly of Manchester, is here for a visit over the week-end and holiday with her sister, Mrs. John A. Anderson of Elro street.

On account of Monday being a holiday, the state agent who issues working certificates will be at Superintendent Verplanck's office in the high school building on Tuesday, July 4 at 12.15, daylight time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Elmore Watkins and family have left for New Hampshire, where they will spend a month's vacation at New Found Lake.

Judge Raymond A. Johnson is in Washington, D. C., on business connected with the state. He has been away for two days and expects to return to Manchester this evening.

Mrs. Mary J. Walworth and two little daughters who have been making their home with their cousin, Mrs. W. T. Morton, will leave tomorrow for Philadelphia for a visit with relatives and to attend the exhibition at the National Academy of Music, Chesapeake City, Md. Yesterday Mrs. Walworth gave a picnic at Elizabeth Park for her Sunday school class, graduating this year from the primary department at Second Congregational Sunday school. Thirteen of the children attended and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Automobiles were provided by Mrs. Morton and R. K. Anderson.

According to the weekly report from the state department of health, Manchester has one case of diphtheria and one of whooping cough. These are the only communicable diseases reported.

Mrs. Ann Waddell of the Millinery Department of Hale's store has returned after a business trip to New York.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Frederick Wilson and Ida May August.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crowell, of Highland Park, now abroad, are expected home July 5th or 6th. They have been abroad for the past six weeks, and have visited Switzerland and France.

Nature lovers have noticed this summer that there are more Baltimore Orioles than have been seen here for years. It is explained that Boy Scout education has a lot to do with this condition as the boys have been taught not to molest birds' nests. It has also been noted that the Center Spring park is fairly overrun with squirrels, red and gray, this summer.

YURKSHOT-ROGERS.
Miss Violet Irene Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rogers of Ellington and Charles Yurkshot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Yurkshot of Woodbridge street, were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Pinney street, Ellington. Rev. Francis Bachelor, pastor of the Centerville church, performed the ceremony, the single ring service being used.

The bridal couple stood beneath an arch of ferns and peonies. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Helen Yurkshot, sister of the groom. The attendants were Miss Helen Rogers, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Fred Yurkshot, brother of the groom as best man; Edna Rathbun, cousin of the bride was flower girl and scattered rose petals from a basket in the pathway of the bride. The bride's gown was of Nile green beaded georgette, trimmed with ribbon over green silk. She wore a hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses and white sweet peas. The maid of honor wore a frock of June rose georgette with picture hat and carried an arm bouquet of Premier roses.

The reception which followed the ceremony was attended by sixty guests from Salem, Mass., Stafford, Saybrook, Springfield, Hartford, Manchester, Rockville and Ellington.

The wedding gifts were many and beautiful. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Yurkshot left for an automobile trip to New York. On their return they will live at 76 Summer street where they have a home already furnished.

The bride is a graduate of the Rockville High school and for the past three years has taught school in Stafford.

The groom is a member of Rockville lodge of Elks and holds a responsible position with the Burr Nursery company.

JULY 4 ORATION ON COMMUNITY LAWN

Improvement Club Speaker's Platform to Be East of "White House."

The Speaker's committee of the Manchester Improvement club announced today the tentative arrangements for the speaking part of the club's July 4 celebration. As this year marks the 150th anniversary of the signing of American Independence, and as the week preceding the Fourth is being observed by patriotic exercises national in scope, the local speaker's committee has considered it advisable to have one strong patriotic address for Monday evening, preceding the fireworks and band concert.

Present plans are to have the speaker's platform erected on the Manchester Community club grounds, on North Main street, and to have the crowd occupy the space used at the recent Lawn Pete. In addition, there is a large area to the eastward which would accommodate an audience of many thousands. The platform will be erected close to the east side of the "White House," the building adjoining in a measure a background aiding the speaker's voice.

Special Lighting
An electrical committee plans to have the "White House" grounds specially lighted for the occasion. Long lines of electric lights will mark the way from the Community club grounds to the playgrounds, where the fireworks will be discharged.

The New Haven firm which will supply the fireworks had its representative in town today looking over the site where the display is to be set off.

Parking Facilities
One of the problems will be that of finding space for the countless automobiles, as these vehicles will pour into Manchester from a distance of miles around, in view of the attractions such as the two-hours' concert by Colt's full band, and the big display of fireworks.

Police Commissioner Edward J. Murphy has been appointed a committee to take up with the police department, the matter of apportioning traffic on the streets so as to avoid congestion. The one-way rule will be invoked if found necessary, and where there is no blocking of traffic there will be parking in the highway on North Main, Oakland, North School, Woodbridge and adjacent streets.

Fund Is Growing
As the expense of the big celebration is to be met entirely by contributions from the public, naturally the Improvement Club Finance committee is keeping a watch on the subscription list. Thus far the response has been willing enough, but the numbers coming forward with their donations, it is hoped, will increase greatly in the next day or two. Only two days remain for completing the fund, as the Finance committee wishes to close the fund Saturday evening.

Donations may be given to any member of the following Finance committee: William Foulds Jr., Julius Strong, Mark Holmes, C. A. Sweet, Irving P. Campbell, John Spillane, Edward W. Murphy, Geo. Grazadio and C. L. Balch. This evening, tomorrow evening and Saturday evening, C. A. Sweet will be at the Balch & Brown building and will have a subscription list on hand for those who desire to contribute.

WAPPING FINES LOCAL FELLOW FOR FIGHTING

Pays $36.80 as Result of Brawl in Hills Grove Dance Hall.

As the result of a gang fight in which he was one of the instigators, Harold E. White, aged 27 of 68 Pearl street, was found guilty on a charge of breach of peace amounting to $36.80 by Justice of the Peace William J. Thresher in the South Windsor court last evening. Judgment was suspended on a charge of resisting an officer. Gustave Chelstrop, aged 23 of 16 Darling street, East Hartford, was also found guilty of breach of the peace and fined $10 and costs amounting to $31.80. The cases were prosecuted by Truman H. Woodward.

The arrests were made by Constable C. V. Benham at Hills Grove Friday night. It was the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the dance hall and a large crowd was in attendance. Friction developed between two crowds of young fellows from Manchester and East Hartford. Despite warnings from the constable a fight ensued. White and Chelstrop were then placed under arrest. Witnesses at the trial last night who corroborated the statements of the officer were William Hensley, Kenneth Barrey and Norman Hills.
