turned this morning by the force of between 200 and 300 marines who combed the wrecked area in an effort to find the bodies of those who are missing.

TALENTED ACTORS IN JITNEY PLAYERS

Gifted Performers to Appear Here on Friday for Benefit of Kiddies' Camp.

Various gifted actors and actresses who call themselves The JITNEY Players, the unusual group under the direction of Bushnell Cheney, whose automobile stage enables them to give performances all over New England during the course of the summer, and who will appear in Educational Square on Friday night under the auspices of the Kiwanis club for the benefit of the poor children's camp at the Hebron Game club.

Alice Keating of New York and Madison, Conn., who is Mrs. Bushnell Cheney in private life, has played a remarkable series of roles with The JITNEY Players. Her parts include characters as diverse as a Renaissance princess, a pert sergeant girl, a malevolent hag and mid-nineteenth century English lady of quality.

The troupe was formed in 1921 by New York and Madison, son of the senior member of Cheney Brothers of this town, founder of The JITNEY Players, has formerly worked with the Theatre Guild. He has directed the fortunes of his own group with ever increasing success in the three years of its existence.

Bushnell Cheney, Yale 1921, of New York and Madison, son of the senior member of Cheney Brothers of this town, founder of The JITNEY Players, has formerly worked with the Theatre Guild. He has directed the fortunes of his own group with ever increasing success in the three years of its existence.

Dorothy Coit of New York is the songstress of the company. While she is an expert actress, she is equally competent as a singer, and presents two groups of folk songs and ballads between the plays. During the past winter she has studied with masters in Rome and Florence. She has played in a number of New York productions.

Richard Skinner, Harvard 1924, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a most experienced comedian, played comedy parts for The JITNEY Players last summer with very great success. He has appeared with John Barrymore in Hamlet and is also responsible for the publicity of The JITNEY Players.

Ilse Bloeda of "The Provincetown Players" last year and of "The Guild" this season has returned again for the fourth summer tour of "The JITNEY Players."

Other members of this interesting aggregation are Joaquin Southey, Harvard '12, who appeared last year in "The School for Scandal"; Edgar Barrier, Columbia '24; George Macready, Brown '21; Constance Smith, president of the Vassar Dramatic club; Henry Bragdon of the Harvard Dramatic club, and John Everts of Exeter Academy. SHAWL PAGEANT AT COLCHESTER Unique Social Affair Put On By Daughters of American Revolution.

(Special to the Herald.) Colchester, July 14.—A delightful social event was the "Shawl Pageant" given yesterday afternoon in the old-fashioned garden at the Misses Elizabeth and Sarah Bigelow at Colchester Green.

The party was held under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Colonel Henry Champion Chapter, with the object of raising funds for work on the Naval and Army Chapter House. This tiny building has recently been moved to the center of the town, restored as far as possible to its original furnishings and general appearance, and is a place of unique attraction with a genuine flavor of antiquity. It was the home of the first member of the Foote family and bears the date of 1702. So far as is known it is the oldest house in the town.

As the term "Shawl Pageant" would suggest, the gathering was almost entirely a feminine affair, and ladies from Colchester, Westchester, Hebron, Glens, Salem, Williamsville, Meriden, East Hampton, New Britain and other towns and cities of the state participated in the parade.

The parade was through side streets, and filtered into the Place d'Etoile from all sides. In the Place d'Etoile, on a tribune of honor, were President Doumergue, the Sultan, Rivera, Premier Briand and members of the Cabinet. The troops passed in review about the identity of the Consumers' League which has started a movement here to give the salespeople in the stores a half holiday on Saturday.

As to the results of the campaign it is said that the merchants, at least in New Haven and Hartford, are evenly divided in their opinion. They do not deny that business is very quiet during July and August, but counter by saying that if the public wants to shop afternoons and evenings they must keep open for business.

As to the results of the campaign it is said that the merchants, at least in New Haven and Hartford, are evenly divided in their opinion.

HELLO Everybody!

In our old copybook of school days there was an axiom: "Experience is a dear teacher."

Right! The only sad part is that it makes us pay as we ride. Some months ago we tried to give a fellow the benefit of our experience with tires. We tried to sell him a Goodrich Silvertown.

He wouldn't be sold. He said he could get a Blowhard Tire down the street for three dollars less. And he was going to save that money. We told him he'd pay twice as much for that Blowhard as for a Goodrich before he got through with it.

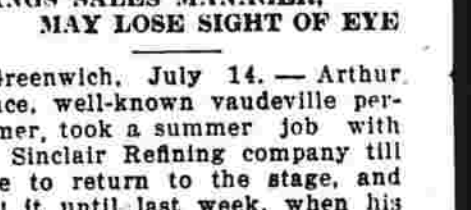

And he did! He got less than six months' service—he had the tire vulcanized twice, and that meant $3.50 at least each time; it let down on him about four times; his wife wouldn't drive the car with the tire on the wheel.

Yesterday he was in and bought two Goodrich Tires. Think how much grief and money he would have saved had he bought them six months ago.

Thank you!

9TH DISTRICT EXPENSES ESTIMATED, 1926-27

but the Ninth District has consistently lived within its appropriation. There are two items in every year's expense that it is impossible to estimate and which vary from year to year. The first is the factor in the amount of coal required to heat the plant; and the second is the amount of sickness which may occur among the teachers, incurring special expenses for the employing of substitutes. It is the custom in this district to allow teachers not to exceed two weeks for absence on account of sickness with pay. During the past year the heating expense was $1,100 more than the actual expense for 1924-25, but we have continued the estimate at the same figure as the actual expense and the appropriation for this year.

Next year's budget is very confusing insofar as one attempts to draw a comparison between the expenses of last year, the present year, and the estimated expense for the coming year, because of the introduction of two entirely new factors. The cost of any new school and the expenses of the Buncce school have never before appeared in the expenses of the Ninth School District; and during the coming year, the expenses of janitor services, heat, light, and water for the Trade school, which have heretofore appeared in the Ninth District account, will in the coming year appear in an independent account for the Trade school. The statement above has, however, endeavored to itemize the amounts which were incurred this year for the Buncce school, and those which will during the coming year be taken out of the Ninth District budget and transferred to an independent budget for the Trade school. But because of these new factors and transfers it is almost impossible to make a percentage comparison between our actual expenses of this year and our estimated expenses for the coming year.

By carefully examining the figures above for item it will be found that there is practically no change in any source of expense which the Ninth School District account will be called upon to maintain for the coming year over the identical item for the past year, with the exception of the teachers' wages and an increase of $250 for the appropriation of library and apparatus, and an increase of $500 required for text books and supplies. All of the other items are trivial and do not effect the general result.

The increase in teachers' wages amounts to $11,674.70. This estimated increase is divided between two items, $6,400 for four new positions not heretofore required, three of them in the High school and $5,274.70 for increases in the salaries of old positions. The total additions to the salary expense amount to just under 6 per cent. Of this 3 4-10 per cent goes towards filling new positions, and 2 6-10 per cent towards increases in the salaries of old positions. It is estimated that there will be an increase in the rate of pay of our old positions of 2 6-10 per cent next year over last year. Considering that the average of our teachers' salaries is still below the average of the state and the average of our own class, this cannot be considered an excessive rate of promotion. The provision for new teachers include one additional teacher which may not be found necessary but which was put in by way of safety to take care of possible increased registration in the fall. If this does not materialize there will be a saving of $1800 to $2000 over the estimate.

is the first regular Republican of national prominence to be so bold. Time Not ripe. The practical politicians among his advisers believe the time is not yet ripe for any declaration on his part, and thus far he has apparently subscribed to their counsel. Many things can happen in the eighteen months or so before a decision must be made, they point out. Even administration spokesmen concede, however, that if the Republican convention were tomorrow, Mr. Coolidge might have considerable opposition because of the Midwestern revolt against his policies. They also say, in the same breath, that if the price of corn should advance to more equitable levels this revolt will evaporate like one of the prairie winds that fanned it.

Captain Herbert H. Bissell and acting First Lieutenant Edgar M. Thompson and acting Second Lieutenant Michael Minicucci were engaged in a battalion drill on the other end of the drill field. First they had callisthenics by battalion and then functioning as a company, had close and extended order drilling by squad, section and platoons. Target designation on landscape targets and on natural ground was also held. In the meantime the Howitzer Company under Captain Allan L. Denton went through its special drill program so as to be in the "pink of condition" when they come in for their conspicuous part of the Governor's Day program, the firing of the howitzer guns at Giant's Neck. The making of a target was the guest of honor. In this instance, the Howitzer Company strives to make its best performance. Last year the governor commented on their marksmanship and also fired several shots himself. The machine gun companies were busy yesterday in the valley west of the camp ground. Target practice was in session. Several good scores were reported.

Gun Wakes 'Em

While it has been customary on the part of many of the soldiers in the camp to get up at dawn, the call at reveille, in effort to gain a few more "winks," there were but few who were not completely roused yesterday morning when the 75-millimeter gun was fired by Sergeant Ferguson and his two assistants from the Howitzer Company. The terrific boom fairly shook the entire camp and due to its unexpectedness, nearly every soldier in camp was taken by surprise and was unable to go to sleep again. The giant gun, which hitherto has only been fired as a salute to the governor, was now being fired twice a day, at morning and at retreat. The sound of the gun may be heard for miles around the camp, visitors report.

Following the discharging of the gun, the regimental band immediately marched down the main street in front of the company streets. And it is the fine music which this band, under Warrant Officer William Tassilo, produces that is to make the beginning of each day impressive. The band incidentally, is led by its well-known bandmaster O. W. Prentice, of Manchester. There are a few other Manchester musicians in the band. And incidentally it might be mentioned that the band is marching down the drill field playing a well-known march as the article is being typed.

Cleaning Camp

After every soldier is up, dressed, and has his morning meal of cereals, bacon and eggs, scrambled eggs, hash or whatever the mess sergeant may have prepared, the detail is sent to clean the entire camp of every bit of paper or loose articles which have been strewn about during the previous day. This done, and the camp once more in the tidy condition which is mentioned, the band is marching down the drill field playing a well-known march as the article is being typed.

Colonel D. Gordon Hunter, commanding officer of the regiment, announced today that the band had been completed for the filming of a motion picture entitled, "The Battle of Niantic." This picture which will be directed and photographed by Joseph F. Reed, of New Haven, an expert photographer, will be the specific purpose of revealing the true impressions of camp life here. It will show both the work carried on in the annual encampments as well as the humorous side of which so much has been written from time to time. Lieutenants Colonel Grville A. Petty and Captain Richard H. McLaughlin, the chaplain, are assisting Mr. Reed and Colonel Hunter in producing the picture. Rehearsals started today.

The story will be based on a rookie who is handsome but dumb. It will show how he bids farewell to his mother on leaving for camp and then later, while during a dream, he learns war has been declared on the United States and that enemy forces are planning to attack Camp Trumbull. Actual pictures of battle ships will be included in the film supposed to be those of the enemy approaching Niantic on the Sound. And it is during his slumber that Private Smith, as he will be called, becoming enraged over a humorous incident, leaps into an airplane and bombs the fleet, destroying it. Later he is just about to be decorated for bravery but the Top Sergeant pricks him with his bayonet and tells him it is time to get up for drill. The film will be composed in such a manner that there will be abundant comedy injected in it. Captain McLaughlin is working on the scenario now and expects to announce his cast shortly.

Every man in the regiment will be included in the picture in the war scenes. The pictures will be taken in Hartford first and then will be sent to Manchester and other town and cities which are represented in the 19th Infantry. It was reported that Captain Joseph I. Lawton, of Company B, Middletown, and well known to all the soldiers in camp, had been selected to play the part of Private Smith, the rookie. Captain Lawton is popular among the soldiers and is well versed to play the hard impersonation which confronts him.

Brief Notes

Lieutenant Arthur M. Grayson, of Company E, Hartford, is busy preparing his athletic program. An inter-company baseball league on the elimination basis is being arranged. A silver loving cup will be awarded. Last year, Company G went into the finals in the regimental championship only to lose out 1 to 0. This year the Manchester unit has high hopes of winning the title. A silver loving cup has also been offered to the winner of the lightweight champion in the boxing art and several spirited bouts are expected to take place. It is possible that a few of the men in the Manchester companies will be in the camp.

Major Harold L. Burr of Middletown, who is in charge of the Medical Detachment said today that the soldiers were in the best health of any previous encampment in several years. He reported that there has been an unusually low amount of sickness. Only one serious casualty has occurred. Private Salvatore Salafia of Company I, of New Britain, was pushed to the rear of London hospital Sunday night for an operation for strangulated hernia. He will not be able to return for any of the encampment although he is reported as making good progress. The Medical Detachment is all equipped with everything necessary for ordinary emergency and medical cases. They have medicines, bandages, drugs and antiseptics in their neat tent all ready for possible emergencies. Ambulances and stretchers are also available.

Good Clerk

John Von Deck, company clerk for Company G, of Manchester, is one of the most efficient clerks in the regiment. And he only received the promotion recently. Last year while here as a private, he was detailed to Colonel Harry B. Bissell's tent for similar work and it was largely on his fine work at that time that he received the promotion. He succeeds Robert Frazier who is now mess sergeant.

For motion picture entertainment at camp in the evenings, first class five-reel films have been secured by Captain Richard H. McLaughlin Monday night. "The Goose Woman" was shown and last night, "The Storm Breaker" was scheduled unless adverse weather interfered. Tonight the film will be "Sporting Life" and tomorrow night, "Under Western Skies". Comedies are also on the bill of entertainment but the fact that darkness does not develop early enough has made it impossible to show the comedies for the past two nights.

Private Chetelet, of the Howitzer Company, who injured his ankle in an accident at Manchester Sunday morning expects to be able to join the company in its drills by tomorrow. He has been on the sick list since his arrival here.

Although there is much mirth in camp, there is also a bit of gloom as the officers and men read the daily accounts of the terrible catastrophe near Dover, N. J., where the ammunition depot was blown up by lightning with the loss of an inestimable number of lives.

Yesterday Captain Bissell took all the non-coms in his unit out on a tactical walk. The subject dealt with scouting and patrolling. It included different kinds of concealments and the various formations to be used in various situations which might crop up in actual warfare.

RID CAMP TRUMBULL OF "CRAP" SHOOTERS

(Special to The Herald)

Camp Trumbull, Niantic, July 13.—Colonel D. Gordon Hunter, commanding officer of the 19th Infantry, encamped here, is being praised today for his speedy work in ridding the camp of two persons alleged to have been impersonating the companies and engaging in "crap games" with loaded dice thus swindling the soldiers of over $1,000.

It is said the men, John Fitzgerald and Albert Strom, both of whom come from New London, were the same pair who, invaded camp last year and swindled the soldiers in addition to stealing supplies. Last year they succeeded in evading arrest until the latter part of the second week but this year it was a different story. They were caught the second day.

Colonel Hunter told The Herald correspondent that the men garbed themselves in blue denim such as are worn by the machine gun companies and then mingled with the other soldiers and started crap games. Monday night while a game was in progress, Officer of the Guard, Lieutenant Donald Witter, of Company F, Hartford, with a detail of his guard, raked the game and captured the pair. They were immediately recognized as the same who entered camp last year. Colonel Hunter ordered that the men be turned over to the State Police at the local barracks. This was done and the men will face trial in New London shortly.

LOCAL CHAUTAUQUA SECURES CENTRAL LOT

The meeting of the guarantors of the Swarthmore Chautauqua which opens in Manchester July 27, has secured the lot south of the Armory on Main street. The committee consists of Fayette B. Clark, E. J. Hill, and O. F. Toop who spent much time in looking over locations and in order to serve all communities in the best possible manner and provide ample parking space for all who attend picked this central location. The lot is also located on the trolley line and within the walking distance of all sections. This location will prove ideal.

The committee of guarantors is leaving no stone unturned to make this year's Chautauqua the most successful ever held. Season tickets are being placed on sale through solicitors and it is honestly hoped that the people of Manchester and vicinity will appreciate the high character of the performances that will appear this year.

The artists and performers will include: The Lowell Patton Artists, Montville Flowers, Frank B. Pearson, Hollmann—The Pigeon Man, The Emerson Winters Co., Frank McGlynn, (In Abraham Lincoln), Dunbar Singing Bell Ringers, Harrison-Hufsmith Rectal Co., Zedler Symphonic Quintet, Apple-Sauce, (the comedy hit of the last two seasons).

PHILIPPINES. Let there be no surprise if the enterprise of dispatching Carmi Thompson to the Philippine Islands...

Very significant is the publication of a sharp difference of opinion that has arisen already between Thompson and Wood.

There has been too much smoke of Filipino resentment against the Wood administration, not to be some fire; far too much propaganda against the so-called results of the Harrison policy...

It is always thus, in all countries, in time of war. It has to be, and the adoption of such a policy of one-man rule does not involve failure of the principle of self government...

For Belgium, in her desperate financial crisis, to shift the machinery of government from the hands of an inadequate parliament into the hands of a sovereign of especially high mentality...

Senator Albert S. Cummins is the first Republican of standing in public life to make the personal prediction that President Coolidge will not be a candidate for re-election in 1928.

It should be taken into consideration that if Calvin Coolidge should be re-elected to the Presidency in 1928 he would be the first of all the long list of chief executives of the United States to undertake the service of more than eight years as the nation's head.

The Belgian franc has not depreciated itself. Neither has the French franc. Both, in every human probability, have been subjected to vast secret bear raids by great international banking interests...

It is these interests that seek to create a real dictatorship—over all the rich spots of the world.

Now I know what he meant. He meant, for instance, Pennsylvania. He meant Illinois, if Senator Cerrato's charges of corruption in the Republican Senatorial primary there are made good.

There was a Lorimer scandal and a Newberry scandal and they didn't prevent the present one, but they were individual scandals and only counted as such.

It was named by Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Charles G. Dawes can hardly be called a Coolidge administration man. He has an ambition to have an administration of his own.

So far as Pennsylvania is concerned, William Scott Vare probably will be elected to the Senate next November, but that he'll be seated by the Senate itself is hardly possible to imagine, after the scandal which attended his nomination.

Earthquake on the Island of Malta. Doesn't matter. We just wonder if cows there give Malta milk.

while that is not as long as several Presidents have served consecutively, to follow it with another four year term would be to break all records.

And while Coolidge's temperament peculiarly fits him to withstand the extraordinary strain under which an American President must always labor, it is extremely doubtful if, at the end of another two years, he will be anxious for a further continuance of the task.

THE WAR IS OVER. The Great War is over. Among the names mentioned as possible appointees to an office of honor in the State of Connecticut is that of a man whose panic stricken adventures as a draft dodger, whose eventual entanglement in the military dragnet and whose final discharge from the service within two weeks because, in the words of the medical camp commandant, "he is such an arrant coward that he would be a detriment," made his name a byword throughout a whole county. It was not Hartford county, thank God!

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART. Washington, July 14.—Just before the congressional primaries began a few weeks ago Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin, the oldest member in point of service, in Congress, told me that Congresses of today are liberal as compared with the first one in 1789, but that money's power in politics probably is greater now than ever before in history.

Representative Cooper's accounts is that we've progressed in the 33 years since he first was congressman, but what he's afraid of is that money will gain control, and start us back the way we came.

Liberal legislators like Cooper, are very much pleased with the Pennsylvania disclosures and with what they look for still to come. They're not pleased with the evidence of crookedness, of course, but their impression is that crooked capital has overdone itself and will have to stay under cover for a long time to come.

The investigating committee, it's no secret, thinks it's hardly scratched the surface. Senator Reed is authority for the statement that, as fast as it can, the committee's going to clear down to the subsoil.

The committee's in luck in that it has a majority hostile to the administration. Such revelations as it has made naturally are no favorable advertisement for the administration in power, and if it had been an administration committee, it's safe to say it would have hushed things up in short order.

Just how it happened to be an anti-administration committee isn't hard to guess. It was named by Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Charles G. Dawes can hardly be called a Coolidge administration man. He has an ambition to have an administration of his own.

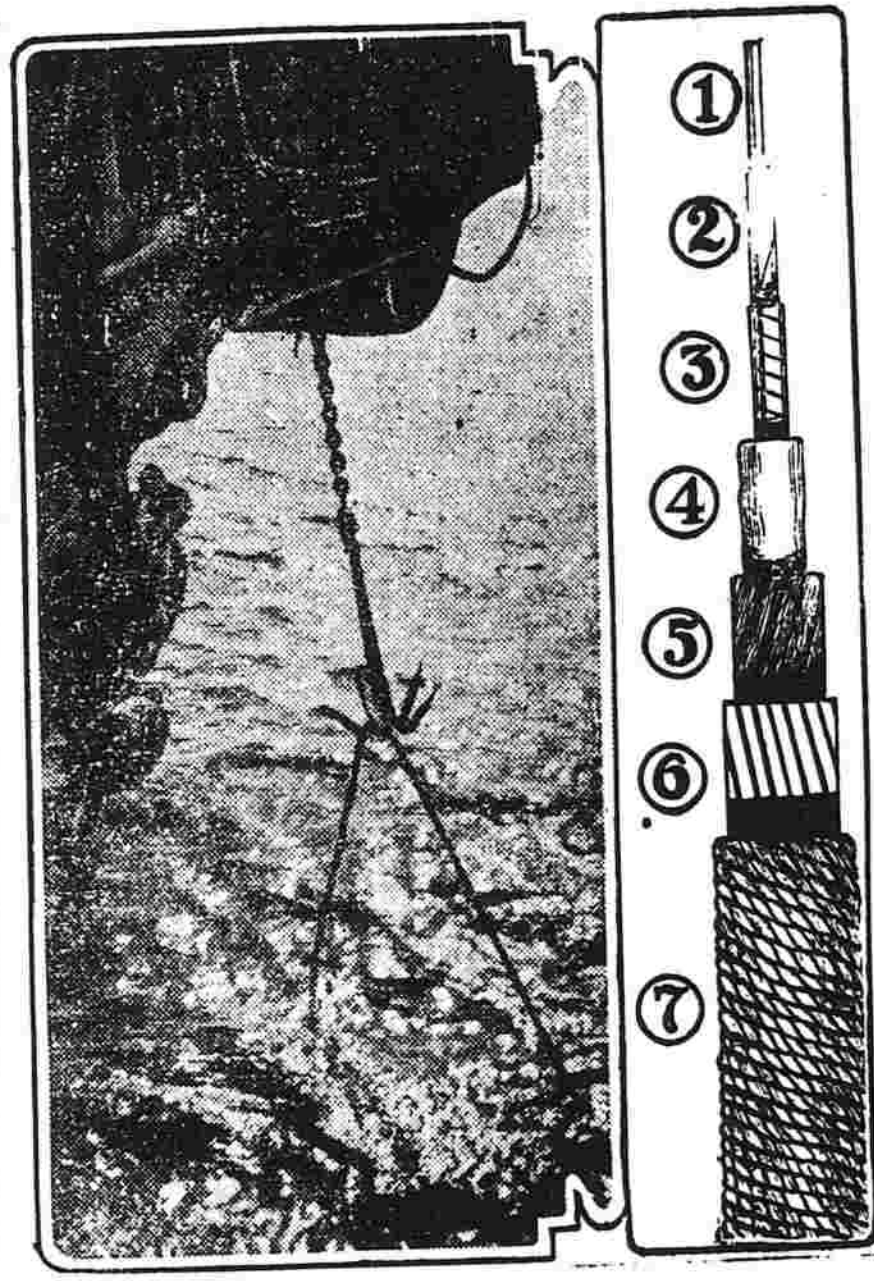

Thin Strip of New Alloy Challenges Radio for Supremacy as Messenger

BY ISRAEL KLEIN. Science Editor, NEA Service

A thin copper wire, wrapped with a narrow ribbon of a new sort of metal alloy, is challenging radio for the honors of carrying messages across the Atlantic.

That Narrow Ribbon. What makes this speed possible is that narrow ribbon wrapped around the copper wire. Its entire length is 3500 miles.

The new cable runs from New York to Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, and from there directly across to Penzance, England, to be connected by land wires to the main office in London.

Ship picking up cable in water three miles deep. To the right is shown the new trans-Atlantic cable. Its description is: 1—Copper wire carrying electric current. 2—Flexible copper tapes to carry current if central wire breaks. 3—Permalloy tape whose wonderful magnetic qualities keep signals from jumbling. 4—Thick covering of gutta percha to hold currents in their path. 5—Wrapping of jut to cushion the pressure of three miles of sea water. 6—Steel armor wires to protect cable. 7—Wrapping of tarred hemp cords.

IMMIGRANT ISSUE AS EXPERT SEES IT

British Student Gives Light on Big American Problem; His Policy.

By MILTON BRONNER.

London, July 14.—J. W. Brown, secretary of the International Federation of Trades Unions and one of the most influential and best informed labor philosophers in the world, has some ideas for America on the subject of immigration.

"Nothing in history is more interesting or important than the problem of migration," he says. "It has made history."

"At the present time there are three great waves of migration, of which you in America hear little. There is a vast migration from China into Siberia, Manchuria and Mongolia. There is a flow of Hindus into southeastern Asia and the East Indies. And there is a movement of blacks from the tropics of Africa to the new great industrial and agricultural regions which are being developed in that continent."

J. W. Brown. Brown was secretary of the recent world emigration congress in London and is the author of a new and monumental book on "World Migration and Labor." For years he was active in the British emigration and labor movement. He studied at Oxford and Vienna.

"From the standpoint of Europe, emigration has its good and its bad points. The bad points are: the country loses money with each emigrant who departs and also loses productive power. The good points are that emigration relieves unemployment, creates a new market and makes the old country the recipient of money that the emigrants send back."

"Europe is atrociously handicapped in the present struggle for world business with the United States."

"America is a unit. Europe is like a number of small shopkeepers in one town whose first desire is to cut each other's throats and whose mutual quarrels enable the big store in the adjacent town to gobble up all the trade. Europe has had a political Locarno. It now needs an economic Locarno."

"As to America's policy of shutting out further huge streams of immigrants—you probably would have come to it sooner or later, regardless of any nationalist movement. The time is coming when the United States will have all the population she can provide for."

13 DRIVERS LOSE LICENSES THIS WEEK

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are thirteen names on the list. One was a Connecticut operator convicted in another state. One case was appealed. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspending drivers operating motor vehicles.

INDIANS CHEATED.
New York.—Peter Minuit was swindled when he paid 60 guilders, or $24, for Manhattan Island in 1626, according to Tunis Bergen, former president of the Holland Society. Mr. Bergen said that $24 in 1626 was the equivalent of $2,000 today. He said that the 20,000 acre tract included in the sale was a barren waste, unutilized and full of stagnant ponds.

BABY 17 POUNDS.
Kansas City.—Spencer Wood went to General Hospital the other day to greet his 17th child, a 15-pound girl. Mrs. Wood gave birth to a baby a few years ago that weighed 17 pounds.

THE STORY OF EDGAR ALLAN POE (2)

A wave of popular charity followed the burning of the Richmond theater, and the Poe children were offered refuge in different homes. Edgar was taken into the family of John Allan, a Scotsman of Baltimore. The family was not wealthy at the time, Allan operating a tobacco shop and living above the store. Allan was an indulgent foster-father.

Poe received an old-fashioned grounding in literary essentials in Manor House School, in a London suburb. The Allans were abroad five years.

In 1815 Allan went to England to establish a branch of his business, taking his wife and six-year-old protege.

Returning to Richmond in 1820, the Allans placed Poe in a school conducted by a former Trinity College teacher. At this time the young Poe was quick in brain and body. He won the favor of his teachers by his intelligence, and his body was so sound that he once swam a six-mile stretch on the James river and walked home.

Toll of Tuberculosis

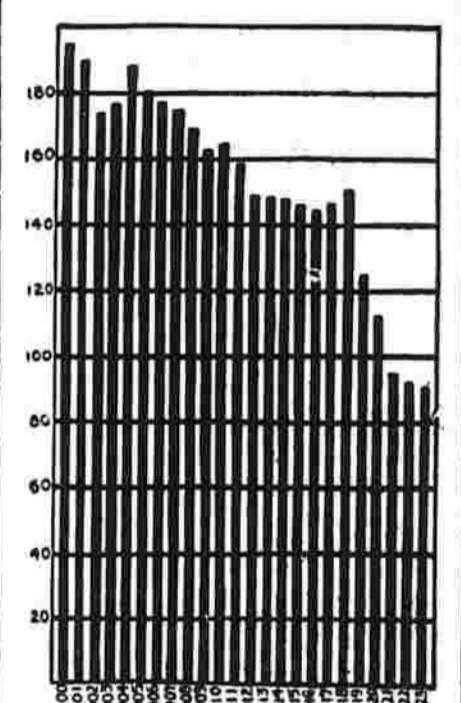

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING
Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service

In a preceding article there was given a chart showing the decrease in typhoid fever in the United States during recent years. Today a chart is presented showing the reduction in tuberculosis during the same period, which is almost as striking as the reduction in typhoid fever.

Particularly is this seen to be true when it is remembered that the combating of tuberculosis offers a much greater variety of problems to be considered and of obstacles to be overcome than does the control of typhoid fever.

There are, no doubt, many factors concerned in the lowering of the death rate from tuberculosis, and opinions differ somewhat as to the extent and influence of these factors.

It can hardly be gainsaid, however, that pasteurization of milk, the production of milk from tuberculin-tested cows, anti-tuberculosis campaigns conducted by health departments, and voluntary social agencies, better and more abundant food, better living conditions, shorter hours of labor and improved methods of diagnosis and treatment have contributed their share

The figures in the chart represent the deaths per hundred thousand population for the period indicated.

Constantinople, July 14.—Fifteen men, four of whom were political leaders, convicted of conspiring to assassinate Mustafa Kemal Pasha were hanged at dawn today in Smyrna.

The hangings were separate and were held in various parts of the city, for exemplary reasons.

ONCE SPIC AND SPAN OFFICE BUILDING

The Army flair for neatness is traditional. Lock at this which once was the administration building of the Picatinny arsenal. It was the only army building swept by fire.

"SILENCE" SCORES HIT AT STATE THEATER

Skillfully directed and delightfully acted, Rupert Julian's production of underworld life, "Silence," is about as thrilling a photoplay as one can see in a month of Sundays. Suspense, dramatic action and sure-fire thrills follow one another in quick succession to one of the most sensational and exciting climaxes ever witnessed on the screen. This is a picture of the highly-successful stage play of the same name which ran for nearly a year in New York and on out, and one can scarcely suggest any improvement in the treatment of the theme.

"Silence" is a highly-exciting underworld story which deals with a gentleman crook who shoulders responsibility for a slaying committed by his own daughter. To shield her he permits himself to be condemned to death and despite every attempt made to have him tell the truth, he maintains silence. The scenes are laid in prison and in the underworld. The featured players are Vera Reynolds, who delightfully portrays a dual role, that of mother and daughter; H. D. Warner, as the crook, Raymond Hatton, Rockcliffe Fellows, Jack Mulhall and Virginia Pearson. The picture is decidedly well worth seeing.

For tomorrow another double feature bill—Norman Kerry in "The Love Thief," the way to a man's heart; It's easier to bob than cook. See the little bobbed siren make the famous love thief act like an awkward amateur. It's racy, stimulating, exciting, gorgeous. It's everything you want to see in a picture. See Norman Kerry and Greta Nissen. You'll learn about love from them! The most outrageous fire in the kingdom. Girls melted before his cupid darts like wax before a flame. How to love, how to be loved, how to avoid love. It's all in this brilliant court-and-military drama spiced with suspense and comedy. You must see it.

The companion feature for tomorrow will be Evelyn Brent in "Flame of the Argentine," a picture ripping in mystery and plot! Thrilling in situations and escapes! Vivid in atmosphere! Heart-wrenching in emotion! Breathless in the great racing climax.

The added attraction for tomorrow the famous Country Store night. More presents than ever. Don't miss it.

SCATTERED DESTRUCTION

A roof crashed in at the town of New Hope, N. J., a mile and a half from the Navy ammunition depot at Lake Denmark. Shells were hurled in all directions over the countryside by the explosion and a barrage rained down as terrific as on a battle front in wartime. The population fled madly from the stricken region, and scores of civilians were injured by the bombardment.

RUMORS OF IMPENDING BULGAR REVOLT DENIED

London, July 14.—Revolution may break out at any moment in Bulgaria, unconfirmed reports to the Westminster Gazette from Budapest said today.

The reports state that the insurrection is being engineered by Prince Cyril, brother of Boris, who is acting on behalf of former King Ferdinand.

LILLIAN CANNON TO START CHANNEL SWIM ON JULY 23

American Girl Doesn't Mind Cold Water of Channel and Is Confident of Success—Trainer Looks for Warm Weather.

Cape Gris Nez, France, July 14.—Lillian Cannon, Baltimore swimmer, probably will be the first of the half-score prospective channel swimmers now assembled here, to enter the water in an attempt to reach the cliffs of Dover.

By Lillian Cannon. Cape Gris Nez, France.—Although no woman has ever succeeded in swimming the English channel, there is no physical reason why she should not.

Dr. Frederick Graves, of Newcastle, England, believes that women should always be at the game, according to a letter I have just received.

"There are strong reasons why woman should stand the long swim better. Her larger layer of subcutaneous fat, a bad conductor, does not let her vital organs chill so easily in the body-cramming cold of long immersion.

"Look at the women on a cold day with their thin shawls and stockings, low thin dresses and bare chests. They rarely look cold, but the men, muffled in their overcoats, are pinched and chill."

JACK CAN'T MISS WHIPPING PAUL

Walsh Insists Delaney Is Too Good for Berlenbach; Scrap Tomorrow.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH New York, July 14.—Jack Delaney will win the light heavyweight championship of the world on Thursday night. He can't miss.

Whoever has charge of the field, or whoever regulates the supervision of the field, should at least try and make it a regular diamond.

Two men, one two-ton roller, a little lime, three new base bags, mark out lines defining the corners' boxes at first and third.

Did any fighter ever kayo Mickey Walker before Joe Dundee turned the trick?—D. S. A. Yes! Phil Delmont in one round in '25.

DIAMOND DUST

Hack Wilson's thirteenth homer of the season gave the Cubs a two to one victory over the Braves and put the Bruins in fourth place.

The slugging Senators beat the White Sox thirteen to nine and took third place away from the pale hose.

OLD JOCKEY WINS. London.—"I guess I'll be riding the ponies when I'm 80," said Jockey Joe Childs.

WEST SIDE DIAMOND NEEDS IMPROVEMENT SAYS "INTERESTED"

Sports Editor, Manchester Herald. Dear Sir: Just a few remarks regarding the condition of the playing field at the West Side Recreation Center.

Whoever has charge of the field, or whoever regulates the supervision of the field, should at least try and make it a regular diamond.

Two men, one two-ton roller, a little lime, three new base bags, mark out lines defining the corners' boxes at first and third.

Where did Detroit get Bob Fothergill?—D. F. C. Rochester, International League.

What was the outcome of the fight between Tommy O'Brien and Eddie "Kid" Wagner, held at Philadelphia last year?—F. G. H.

How many seasons was Joe Bush in the majors and with what clubs did he play?—D. S. W.

Fourteen, and played with the Athletics, Red Sox, Yankees, Browns and Nationals in the American League.

WORTH KNOWING

Zack Wheat, veteran Brooklyn outfielder, oddly enough, has had his best years in the majors during the last three seasons.

In 1923 and 1924 Zick hit .375, the highest he ever reached. Last season he came back with an average of .359.

Wheat has been in the big show since 1909.

These circumstances may have had something to do with the super-curious fight he waged. Not many 23-year-old young men are capable of facing such a desperate situation with an air of utter unconcern and abandon.

Manell again showed he is no puncher, although he seemed to have had the right of power and no loss of motion.

SONS OF ITALY HAND INSILCOS FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON HERE

YANKEES CRIPPLED BY LOSS OF STARS Ruth and Meusel Out at Critical Time May Hurt Pennant Chances—Seven Game Margin Not Enough.

No ball club can lose two star players like Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel and not be seriously handicapped.

In addition, several of the Yankee pitchers are ailing. It is possible that Walter Hoyt, who is having the best year of his career, may be out for several weeks.

Local Sport Chatter

Instead of athletic teams as the contending bodies, the little girls of the East and West Side playgrounds will use their dolls as instruments of war.

While to some it may appear an exaggeration, the absence of Meusel from the Yankee lineup, makes as big if not a bigger hole than the withdrawal of Ruth.

Meusel, having his greatest season, is unquestionably the most valuable outfielder in the American League, unless your preference lies with the Battering Babe.

Harris Talks Pennant. "This is really an easy year to win a pennant in the American League," thinks Manager Stanley Harris of the Washington champs.

"New York is the only club that has played consistently good ball. The two big winning streaks of 11 and 8 games put over by the Yankees, are just about the margin now held in the race.

"If one or two clubs had been able to keep within striking distance of the New York club, they would now be in a position to press the Yankees who are badly crippled.

"However, the rest of the clubs have been busy killing each other off in other words, splitting even, thus enabling the Yanks to stay out in front, even though they have been off their game for several weeks.

"But it might be worse. The Yankees have tossed away perhaps a half dozen games by erratic defensive work late in the fray, or the club would now be about 15 games in front.

"Coupling a real punch at the bat with pretty good pitching, is the reason the Yankees are breaking out in the lead.

"My club, as well as other probable contenders, has been unable to bunch a batting punch with pitching."

Homer Chance Goes Glimmering. Any chance that Babe Ruth may have had to break his home run record of 59 made in 1921, will vanish if leg injuries keep him out of the Yankee lineup for any great length of time.

For three weeks Ruth has been unfit for play. With water on one knee and a "charley-horse" in the other, Ruth has not been in shape to do himself justice.

The leg ailments have greatly handicapped his free swing at the plate and there has been a lack of co-ordination that makes for home runs. Over a period of two weeks I have seen Ruth fail to drive at least a half dozen balls out of the lot by a matter of a few feet, simply because the swing lacked a little more power, due to bad legs.

Proper striding while at the bat is as essential in getting distance as the correct stride of a pitcher is absolutely necessary to get speed on the ball.

It looks as if Babe would have to forget his cherished hope of making 50 home runs and concentrate on putting over a .400 batting average.

NUMBER THIRTEEN MEANS NOTHING TO CHAMPS

Golfers' mental hazards which frequently present more trying problems than the actual bunkers and sandpits of the fairways, have been conquered by Bobby Jones and Jess Sweetser at the expense of superstitious belief in number 13 as unlucky.

The Insilcos of Meriden lost its first game of the season to the Sons of Italy at the West Side lot last evening by the score of 2 to 1. Young Ed Walsh bowed to the veteran Ginger Cleary of Hartford in one of the best pitcher's battles of the season.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

©1926 BY NEA SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JOHN and FAY MILBURN, to whom a baby girl has just been born, buy a home of their own when the advertising agency, in which John is a partner and copy writer, lands an important contract.

Previous chapters told how John, while Fay was in the hospital, met NELL ORME at a party and was attracted by her beauty and puzzled to hear from PAT FORBES, his host, that Nell was having trouble with her husband, Forbes, who has a wife and three children, hints that he is dissatisfied with his own marriage.

DR. DICK MENEFE, John's best friend, gets married to MARGARET WAYNE, and Margaret's younger sister, CLARA, runs away and marries CLIFTON LANE, whom John cordially dislikes.

John works late one evening and chances to see the handsome ELEANOR MASON, whom he takes to dinner. Fay hears about it through a neighbor, and there is a quarrel.

Christmas comes and both of them are very lonely at being away from their people in Washington. There are several visitors during the day, including the DONALD VAUGHNS, whose life, John explains to Fay, when they had gone, was more or less a tragedy because they wanted children badly and were unable to have them.

"A fine lot of bolsheviks you are!" sneered Noel Boyd.

John, "I like Mrs. Orme very much. We'll have to have them out some time."

"Pretty nice people," he agreed. "What did you think of him?"

"Oh—I don't know. He's very quiet, isn't he? I think she's beautiful. She has lots of poise."

"Uh-huh," he grunted.

They were beginning to find themselves in the midst of quite a social whirl. There were several other dinner invitations during the weeks that followed, and then there came a bid from the Noel Boyds to their "Parlor Bolshevik Party," as the written invitations expressed it.

"What do they mean by Parlor Bolshevik Party?" asked Fay. "Does it mean that Mrs. Orme is long hair and the women short? And must we wear old clothes? I'm afraid I'll have to call up and ask Marlan Forbes. She knows them better than we do."

"Knowing the Boyds," said John, "you know they just had to be 'different.' Ordinary invitation wouldn't do. I wouldn't pay any attention to it, if I were you. If they really wanted it a costume party they'd have said so. I'll tell you what—let's go in evening clothes."

They did—and so, they found, did all the other guests.

"A fine lot of bolsheviks you are!" sneered Noel Boyd. Himself he wore a dinner coat with no vest, a white silk shirt, a black Windsor tie and a black velvet tam-o'-shanter.

"You said Parlor Bolsheviks, Noel," laughed Pat Forbes, an immaculate little figure in his dinner clothes. "Hello, Vera. I see you haven't any of your husband's crazy notions left."

Vera, in green, tight-fitting gown, was an exotic figure with her black hair, unbobbed and drawn back smoothly, and her pale face. She made some smiling reply to Pat and at once took hold of John's arm.

"I've been avoiding me," she accused, and led him to a quiet corner. "Do you know everybody here?"

"Well, there are quite a few I don't recall—" John began, but she cut him short. "Oh, you'll bump into them presently."

There was a punch in a huge bowl off in a corner, and there John, in a queue of drinks for Vera and himself, met a man named York and a young, fapperish sort of a girl whose name he was not quite sure of but which sounded like Cecil. Eleanor Mason was there, too, and I have met all my friends on the other side. It is probably a felony. Everyone on the boat has committed it. Some persons told me that they wanted to visit the steerage, but were not allowed.

Speaking of steerage, some of it, about 100, has been spilled into our quarters. A mistake. A mistake. I say. First time I ever happened. But someone who wore a hat instead of a shawl bought tickets for the entire 100 and here they are, language, beads, babes, et al.

They got aboard back from second class. Not as sensitive as we Professionals!

Tourists have organized amusement. We have a community song leader who has taught us a duet about ham and eggs. We are all writing last lines to a limerick about a whale who lived too far from his tail.

We have tablecloths and poises in the old former steerage room, and clean napkins every other day.

Camp style service. Coffee and tea pots are put on the table and we pour our own. Huge bowls of salad and the water pitcher, too, are passed by our own fair hands.

One certain speaking of food upon certain occasions, such as voyaging, but since you might like to know what "us poor girls" endure when we rough it, here's today's menu:

Breakfast: choice of fruit, cereal with milk, ham or bacon and eggs with potatoes, rolls, jam, coffee.

Lunch: soup, veal stew, potatoes, combination salad, dried peach pie, tea.

Dinner: soup, roast beef, potatoes, sweet corn, salad, crackers and cheese, tapioca pudding, coffee.

Bread and crackers are served mid-morning, and tea and cakes mid-afternoon. Which seems to be the main trouble.

Deck and cabin tourist third space is altogether too small for the number of passengers. There is space for only a very few deck chairs under a roof. When it rains deck suns, a golly number must flee to staterooms.

We hear few complaints, however. Accommodations may not be Ritz, but we figure the many nice juicy francs we are saving to spend over there.

Besides, we tourists are the only ones who saw the two whales spout yesterday!

John spoke of having such a nice time out there at your swimming party."

"Great," commented John, busy with his steak. "Say, Pat, what's become of that guy Fry—and Smith? Golly, those boys were cards!"

"They live around the corner," Pat told him. "The whole gang of us live within a block—the Ormes, too."

"Oh, yes," and John's tone had a studied carelessness, "how's the Ormes?"

Forbes shrugged. "All right, I guess. Haven't seen them for a month, I suppose it is." He looked at his watch, "seven-thirty," he announced, and walked into the next room and started tinkering with the radio. "WAPQ's on with a great concert, starting at seven-thirty. 'Scuse me for leaving the table."

He took his seat again, and a burst of music came from the radio. "Great, ain't it?" and Pat wagged his head in satisfaction. "Got a radio, John?"

"None. I'm waiting till they get the darned things perfected. Trouble is, you buy one today and inside of a month the doggone thing is obsolete. I can wait."

"You'll have to get one, John," said Fay. "When Judith gets old enough to want one."

"Plenty of time, Fay, plenty of time."

"By that time," put in Forbes with a malicious grin, "there might be one or two more."

"Pat!" reproved his wife.

"What's the matter, Marlan?" John asked in feigned surprise. "Pat meant in good spirits at dinner. 'Thought you'd like to do something to celebrate," he remarked jovially. "Got a nice raise this week." He added, winking at John. "Bought a bottle of real pre-war stuff. Boy, it'll knock your eyes out."

"I don't want to go blind," laughed John.

"Never fear," said Pat, and proceeded with the carving of the steak. "Just think," Marlan said a little later, "this is the first time you've been over here, Fay, since your baby was born. How time does fly! How long has it been?"

Fay answered, "Well, Judith is a little more than a year old."

"When did you leave your summer place?" John asked Pat.

"Oh, long 'bout the middle of October."

"I'm crazy to see it," said Fay.

introduced and he had greeted Howard, had time to take in the picture that Nell made in her tight-fitting black dress against her marble-white skin.

It was the first time, he told himself, that he had seen her hair, it having been concealed by her bathing cap when they had met before. A few features she had described its color. It was neither dark nor light, he thought, and it glinted beneath the lights like burnished copper.

She dropped into a chair beside him. "Well," she began, "when I saw you last, you had just become a father. How does it seem now? Still thrilled, or has the novelty worn off?"

"No chance of the novelty wearing off," he smiled. "Judith presents a new phase every day."

Pat Forbes was trying to make himself heard. "I'm asking you a question for the fourth time, 'who's going to do the Charleston with me?'"

"It's beyond me, Pat," laughed Neil Orme, and Fay said, "Marlan, how do you account for Pat's mastering every new dance step?"

"I'll tell you," said Pat gravely. "I see it done once, and then I've got it."

"Sounds pretty thin, Pat," John remarked. He turned to Marlan. "Why, the kid's an expert," he laughed. Pat, for want of a partner, was doing the Charleston alone.

Neil Orme stood up. "I'll try it with you, Pat," and took his arm. "Don't be too critical," she called to John.

She had that confidence, John noted, that is possessed by all good dancers. The grotesque steps were baffling to her at first, but in a few minutes she had mastered the principle, and presently she and Forbes were hitting it off fairly well.

"Tell you what," breathed Pat when their radio orchestra had signed off and he was mopping his forehead, "it takes me to teach 'em."

"Well, I like that!" said Fay. "It seems to me you had the material to work with."

"Prophet without honor," sighed Pat. "I'm going to buy another drink."

Howard Orme pulled out his watch. "Time we were getting along, Neil," he remarked quietly. His lips closed in their characteristic thin straight line.

On the way home, Fay said to

A WOMAN'S DAY ABROAD

BY ALLENE SUMNER

On Board S. S. Leviathan, July 14.—We are going to Europe. We are on a big boat. The boat is moving. We will reach Europe in six days, all going well. God willin'.

My style is modeled after that of little Rollo. A friend gave me a complete set of the Little Rollo Abroad books for a bon voyage gift. They should never be given as bon voyage gifts by those people who follow etiquette in all her many phases.

Lemons, dried beef, sassafras root and soda straight are bon voyage gifts recommended by every wistery traveler.

There are 2000 passengers on board, most of them in the tourist III cabin.

They, like Kwennie Astorbilt, just can't stand all the effete tokens of an effete civilization as carried on in First Class.

I must digress a moment and mention that one can go to Europe and come home again for $180 round trip if he or she travels like most of us on this boat are.

Second class travel is $157 up, one way. First class, $290 up, one way.

Most of the tourist third class travelers have solved the problem by paying the third cabin fee and sneaking under gates into second class for morning broth, afternoon tea, and deck chair space.

An official in blue serge and gold braid tells me that these tourist third class people are easily hurt and so sensitive that it is hard to make them stay home and play on their own side.

"They know they're as good as anyone else," he says, "and they won't take orders."

Ever since a doxy steward shoots 'em home. But even they can't keep a good tourist down.

A few slyphs have even achieved entrance into that sacred of sacreds, First Class, where the bloated plutocrats walk on ponderous feet over orientals and gaze upon cil canvassed and deck chair space.

There's a certain spot on this ship where one of the gates which separate the sheep from the goats collides with a lifeboat. If one is agile, one can climb the lifeboat and into the region where staterooms rent for a thousand dollars or less.

I have met all my friends on the other side. It is probably a felony. Everyone on the boat has committed it. Some persons told me that they wanted to visit the steerage, but were not allowed.

New Fringed Skirts of Paris Join Severe Lines and Feminine Charm

Youthfulness of the Silhouette Is Retained.

The fringed gown that indicates a return to femininity. Left, white chignon with fringe bolero style; right, canary yellow untrimmed except for self-colored fringe.

Paris, July 13.—The most popular trimming for evening dresses today is fringe. This extremely feminine type of adornment has completely conquered the heart of the Parisienne, and all the newest importations emphasized its effectiveness.

Fringe offers a practical solution of the silhouette problem. Undoubtedly women are tired of straightline frocks, but they adore them.

In Paris as well as in New York, there is an unwillingness to give up entirely the youthfulness of the straightline, no matter how eagerly girdles, pleats and circular flounces are presented.

Keeps Line Straight

Fringe, used as Chanel and many of the French couturiers are using it, keeps the silhouette straight, but allows for all the motion and vibration of the circular hemline.

The photographs today show

Fringed gown of pearls with two heavily beaded tabs hanging from waistline.

bodice should be correspondingly unadorned.

The fringed model you view from the side is of canary yellow chiffon—a color that is extremely smart now both here and abroad. It is untrimmed save for self-colored fringe applied in three tiers from a deep crocheted heading, and long graceful tassels that hang from the shoulders, and tiny pin tucks on the bodice.

Here again, the entire play is given to the fringe. All fringe, however, is not silk. It may be of metallic threads, sequins or beads.

In the third costume is a fringe of pearls. The passerette between the two rows of fringe is of silver lined beads which makes them glitter and glow against the white chiffon.

Trend Unmistakable

Two tabs, heavily beaded, hang from the waist to the hem of the skirt in the back. The color effect here is charmingly worked out. The frock is of white chiffon shading to cream, and the pearl fringe and silver lined passerette touch it with exquisite shadings and sparkling traceries.

These three frocks show very definitely the trend of the Paris styles for evening. A suggestion of richness and an exotic quality is retained, the plainness of last season without disturbing the slender lines or youthful effects.

The return to feminine styles is practically affected. Certainly the trend is so unmistakably indicated that there can be no doubt whether we are drifting.

GOOD COMBINATION

With lamb or mutton chops serve tomato sauce and green peas.

BETTER ROASTING

When roasting beef that is very lean put a few bits of fat in the roaster. After the beef is seared and the flour brown, reduce the heat and cook more slowly.

ICE CREAM PIE

A very delicious pie for summer is made by filling a puff paste crust that has already been baked with a layer of ice cream and one of fresh fruits or pineapple and whipped cream.

CHEAPER, TOO

A boiled syrup of sugar and water is preferable to any sugar for sweetening iced tea or lemonade.

SAVES WOODWORK

Every housekeeper who has had difficulty keeping painted doors clean will welcome the new glass finger plates that protect vulnerable points.

INTERIOR DECORATION

Cretone baskets, lampshades and screens that are given a coating or so of varnish take on an interesting antique finish and are impervious to soil.

LOOK COOL, AT LEAST

In furnishing your summer home, remember that cool colors, such as green, blue, the paler yellows and warm grays give much more of an illusion of coolness than the warm reds and oranges.

FASHION HINTS

HAIRDRESSING

There seems no trend in favor of long hair, and the most smartly dressed woman are closely shingled. Occasionally part of the hair is allowed to be long enough to be worn in biscuits over the ears.

VERY DASHING

The new military cape that fastens cavalier fashion on the shoulder, is to be seen in chiffon and broads, as well as in more serious fabrics.

FEAR FOR OYSTERS

London—Half a million oysters have suddenly died in Japan, causing alarm among the pearl culturists. This may turn out to be another instance of the damage done when ocean currents stray from their beaten paths. The sea inhabitants have so accustomed themselves to the seasons that when the currents cause them to go awry disaster follows.

IN BARN 8 YEARS

Paris—Because she unwisely fell in love with a soldier, Gene Letort was kept imprisoned in a barn by her family for eight years. Constable discovered her and ordered her release.

PREVENT DISASTER

Washington—Discovery that limestone, dolomite and stry are suitable for preparation of the pulverized rock used in preventing explosions in coal mines has been announced by the Bureau of Mines.

by Olive Roberts Barton.

We were walking down street together one morning, my neighbor and I, and my neighbor's greeting of neighbors about never seeing each other and how busy everybody was, I began the Calamity Jane growl about not knowing what I was going to do if things did not let up and give me a rest.

I dissertated on spring, how I hated to see it come, and how, instead of getting out and watching things grow, as I had a mind to, I had to look after house-cleaning, getting clothes ready for the family for warm days, packing away winter things, making things over, and all the rest of it.

I growled and growled and growled and the more I talked the madder I got at the way spring was treating me.

Suddenly I remembered: "Oh, how's Jim?" I asked. "Is his leg all right?" My neighbor sighed. "I'm afraid he'll always be a little lame," she said. "I've given him all my time. But he's pretty well out of the woods now so I can give the rest of the family some attention. Philip was scolding last night—Philip is her husband—he says I can only do one thing at a time. But I told him that I just do the best I can."

I looked at her, quietly efficient and calm. I knew that her family would not lack any attention, and that her husband was a nervous kicker. Her son had had an automobile accident and she had cared met either Mr. Robinson or some sharp reporter, who would be sure to dig up the fact that I was one of the last people to see poor Martha Cleaver alive.

Sure enough there was a cash girl at my locker, and the moment I hung up my hat she said, "Miss Dean, Doctor's in his office. If you would come to his office."

"Certainly," I answered and followed her.

Doctor Flint met me with a very serious face as I opened the door. I could see that he was trying to smile, but he made me feel that if he smiled very long his face would crack.

"Will you be seated, Miss Dean?"

I sat down but I didn't speak a word.

That got the doctor's goat at once. Finally after clearing his throat once or twice, the old hypocrite said most pompously, "I will not disguise from you, Miss Dean, that the Morton Department Store is placed in a most disagreeable position by the death of Miss Cleaver."

"Yes?" The word was as incoherent as I could make it.

DEER ON RAMPAPE

Worcester, Mass.—A wild deer went to business in the heart of the business district here recently. It was captured in a furniture store, after the animal had batted three policemen, a veterinarian, and game warden. The champion wrestler in the police department for a former football player and others battled with the animal in alleys and back yards for an hour before the deer ran downtown and into the store where it was finally hoisted.

DR. FLINT INTERVIEWS JUDY

"Now you, my dear," said Mamie, looking at me with something she could not explain in her face, "you, who only a few weeks ago had nothing to your name after your bag had been stolen, are talking of getting fifty thousand dollars from a man whom you hardly know as if it were perfectly easy."

"Good Lord, Judy, do you think you are a vamp? I think you have gone crazy over something you have seen at the movies."

"Do you know, Judy, how frightened you were that night when you thought you were penniless and alone in this great big city? I think I have never seen such bewildered agony on any face in all my life."

"You will never see it again on my face, Mamie," I told her. "I learned a lot since that time. I always knew I had magnetism, and now I think I know how to use it."

"Have you learned to separate a man from fifty thousand dollars of his money? You may find that a little different from asking for a box of candy," Mamie said with as much sarcasm as a girl of her temperament was capable.

"That remains to be seen," I answered as I put on my hat to go to the store.

I was early, but I had a shrewd hunch that I would be asked to come to Doctor Flint's office and I wanted to get that over before I

A PUZZLE A DAY

The climax of the city's Fourth of July celebration consisted of 16 colored pictorial fire-wheels telling the history of the day. The committee numbered them and gave directions to have them placed on 16 posts, as shown in the illustration, so that they would be lighted in the correct order. But in the last-minute confusion eight wheels were put on wrong poles. By this change each row of numbers totaled 70. Can you discover what the final arrangement of the wheels was?

I've Got a Dad I've got a Dad. The other guys have only things that money buys. And lots of things the others hain't got. (I should say ain't.) And some have bikes and radios, and hear the bands and great solos, and knows the things that fellows knows.

But I've got a Dad. I've got a Dad—a jolly chum, and listen to me, gee, that's what some kids ain't got. Sometimes there is a guy, you know that lives around the house and so they call him Pop—but gosh, he's slow.

EXPECT FEW PRESENT AT SCHOOL MEETING AT SCHOOL MEETING

No Contests But Tax Will Be Laid—Cooper Hill Schoolhouse to Be Discussed.

Only an average attendance is expected at the annual meeting of the voters of the Ninth School district which will be held tonight in High school hall. As there will be no contests for the offices, it is expected that the meeting will roll along without any hitch. The principal business of the meeting will be laying the tax for the expenditures of the coming year. The voters will also be asked to act on a plan whereby the district will lease the Cooper Hill schoolhouse for a period of years from Cheney Brothers. Attendance at the school meeting is usually light except when contests for offices are imminent. The hot weather of the summer keeps many of the voters at home and it is doubtful if there will be one hundred present tonight.

CHAUTAQUA GIVES FREE SESQUI TRIP

Trip to Philadelphia Prize for Selling Most Tickets; Opens July 27.

An unexpected and attractive opportunity is within the grasp of some citizens of Manchester to attend the Sesquicentennial International Exposition to be held at Philadelphia, opening June 1st, 1926, and running to December 1st, 1926, as the guest of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association. There is to be a special party formed consisting of one fortunate person from as many of the 300 towns on the Chautauqua list as can qualify. The party will spend three days in Philadelphia at the expense of the Chautauqua Association and will attend all of the interesting features of the Exposition under conditions that will insure their getting the best out of their trip. The appointment of the person from Manchester to be a member of the Sesqui Party is left in the hands of the local Chautauqua committee with certain reservations. The text of the official offer which has been extended to the local Chautauqua committee by Chautauqua headquarters follows: The Swarthmore Chautauqua Association will pay the railroad fare of one person to be selected by the Manchester Chautauqua from Manchester to Philadelphia, "The Sesquicentennial City," and return to Manchester and his hotel expenses for a three days' stay in Philadelphia as a member of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association Sesquicentennial party. PROVIDED: 1. Sufficient season tickets are sold in the Chautauqua campaign of 1926 to cover the contract and local expenses. 2. All season tickets are sold at full price. 3. No season tickets are given away or sold to guarantors in excess of the actual number required for their families. 4. First opportunity to act as delegate is given by the Committee to the person selling the greatest number of season tickets. Other people from Manchester appointed by the Chautauqua committee will be welcome as members of the Chautauqua Sesquicentennial party and will receive the advantages of special rates for accommodations and entertainment which the Chautauqua party will secure. Such extra people will pay their own transportation and hotel expenses. All people wishing to enter the ticket selling contest are asked to report at the Recreation building at eight o'clock either tonight or tomorrow night where they will be given full instructions and tickets to sell. Those who have already signed up as ticket sellers are:

CIRCUS PAYS BILLS.

Before leaving town, the Walter L. Main circus made two damaged settlements. One was for a damaged fender on an automobile. The fender was damaged when the driver ran his machine into one of the six-horse band wagons. Although the circus claimed $3, the damage was settled for $1.50. Damages of $15 were paid P. J. O'Leary for circus bills on his building in the rear of Main street placed there without his permission.

REC NOTES

A setback party will be held Wednesday evening in the West Side Rec. This affair will be open to the public. The East Side boys, losers in the baseball game with the West Side playground last week, have challenged the other team to a game which will be played on the West Side grounds at 9:30 on Saturday morning. The women's swimming classes at the Rec will meet as usual this evening under Miss Laura Glidden. Miss Worcester having gone away for the summer. There will be two lessons in this course and a new course will be started immediately following. The picnic for the boys and girls of the West Side playgrounds has been postponed until next Monday because of the weather.

SCHOOL ST. DUMP IS AGAIN ON FIRE

The week could not be complete without a fire at the School street dump. It generally comes at the end of the seven days, but this time it took yesterday for its weekly break-out. Flames were shooting twenty five feet and smoke rolling sky high when Fire Chief Al Foy's attention was called to the fire. There is hardly any danger except to a house across the street and fearing that someone would turn in an alarm that would excite the town, the chief called out his apparatus by telephone.

No Easy Task A fire at the dump is not so simple as it seems in telling unless one sees what occurs. Nos. 3 and 4 companies must respond. Twelve hundred feet of hose must be laid. The Spruce street company carries 750 feet and as soon as that is dropped from the truck it must go back to its quarters and load up again in case another alarm is turned in. The School street truck unloads about 500 feet and then must go back to the hydrant and is on School and Summit and start to pump the water the 1200 feet.

Knocked Off Feet

Yesterday the two men in charge of the dump grasped the nozzle and awaited the water. As the water reached them it came with such great force that they were knocked to the ground. They would have been thrown into the flames except that a length of hose burst near the engine which stopped the flow of water. A new length was put in and the battle began. It took until nearly four o'clock before the fire was smothered.
