

MANCHESTER'S DIGITS CROSSED IN BIG STORM

Town Escapes Damage in Tempest That Works Havoc and Takes Life in Many Places.

Manchester, with a luck that is rapidly becoming proverbial had her fingers crossed and again escaped practically unscathed yesterday from a storm that attained a great violence in neighborhoods in practically every direction and at inconsiderable distances.

This town suffered, from the southerly barrel electrical disturbance and wind and rain storm that came suddenly on the scene yesterday afternoon, when the rain was blowing from the south, the nervousness that comes to many folks with phenomenal day time darkness, a few wettings and the average experiences of a long drawn out thunder storm—which incidentally was a fine thing for crops, gardens and lawns—while all about us the wind was doing serious damage, lightning played with disastrous and sometimes fatal effect, and hail slashing tobacco crops.

Only Partial Force.

We got only a fraction of the hurricane-like wind that visited Hartford, when many trees were blown down, telephone and lighting service demoralized and two buildings burned through lightning bolts.

Careful inquiry here failed to disclose any damage done by the storm. Not even the blowing down of a tree was reported. The general opinion by farm folks was: "If that's the worst, let 'em come."

7 DEAD IN NEW ENGLAND

Lightning Kills Four, Two Drown, Falling Limb Fatal.

Boston, July 19.—Emerging from one of the worst storms in recent years, New England began a clean-up today as the sun shined brightly and a 100-mile-an-hour wind that killed seven persons and took a property toll of approximately $1,000,000.

Lightning bolts claimed four lives, two persons, dumped into the water when their pleasure boat was overturned, were drowned, many trees were crushed to death by a falling limb. Springfield, Mass., was hard hit by the onslaught of the elements, damage there alone totaling nearly $500,000 while Portsmouth, N. H., also suffered heavily from the brief but furious storm.

An awe-inspiring electrical display, accompanying the cyclonic winds enhanced the fury of the storm that was punctuated by ear-bursting peals of thunder.

Halitones pealed the area of the storm in some places, shattering windows.

Trees were uprooted, chimneys were blown down, telephone and telegraph wires were scattered and tangled and traffic and communication was disrupted temporarily by the storm.

Damage done to the crops cannot be accurately estimated for several days but it is feared that it will run high.

While running for shelter, his wife clutching his arm, Soturno Mantani, 56, of Springfield, was struck by a limb of a falling tree and crushed to death. Mrs. Mantani barely missed a similar fate.

Marie A. Dubois, 19, of Adams, Mass., was killed when she touched the hand of her brother, Alfred, who had been felled by a lightning bolt and who, strangely enough, was not seriously hurt.

Leo McCaughey, 14, of Lowell, Mass., was killed by lightning while digging clams at Hampton Beach, N. H. The same bolt knocked two others, standing nearby, unconscious.

Edward I. Snow, a farmer, was killed by lightning while driving his cows home from pasture in Maine.

George Guillette, 26, and Joseph Trudeau, of Springfield, Mass., were drowned when spilled from their canoe in Watershop pond by the wind, although both were excellent swimmers.

Fred Felch, 50, of Salisbury, Mass., was killed when lightning struck a tree under which he had taken shelter when the storm broke up a ball game he had been watching there.

Scores of persons in the path of the storm were injured and several were reported on the verge of death.

CHURCHES FIGHT SESQUI EXHIBIT

Penn. Religious Bodies Want Show Grounds Closed or Ad- mission Fee Lifted.

Pittsburgh, July 19.—Sweeping like the tide across the Quaker state, a wave of opposition to the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia remaining open on Sunday has found united support among Pittsburgh churches.

When the governing body decided to throw open the gates Governor Gifford Pinchot declined to intervene.

W. Friesland Kendrick, the Philadelphia mayor said that he would make no effort to close the exposition.

Now those who urged the Sunday opening with a view toward swelling the thus far disappointing attendance, are wondering whether the move was a wise one.

First the Presbyterian church withdrew its support from the Sesqui-Centennial. Other churches fell into line. The latest defection from the ranks of the Sesqui-Centennial supporters was that of the Pittsburgh Council of the Church of Christ, representing all Protestant churches in Allegheny county. The regular admission fee is being charged on Sundays, and it is to this that the churchmen are opposed.

They petitioned the governor to stop further payment on appropriations made by the state legislature for the exposition.

National appeals are being circulated in several denominations.

THREE FACE CHARGE OF DRUNK DRIVING

Two Plead Guilty, One Case Continued — Week End Brings in Nine Cases.

Saturday and Sunday produced nine cases for the local police court this morning. Three of the men who faced Judge Johnson were charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, three were charged with intoxication and the other three for minor infractions of the motor vehicle laws.

Howard D. Warnock pleaded guilty to the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested Sunday night by Officer R. H. Wirtalla. He had a slight accident at Bissell and Spruce streets and when the officer investigated the case he found Warnock was intoxicated. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $125 and costs, which was paid.

William J. Newberry pleaded guilty to the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Complaints were received by the police that a man was driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor on Spruce street. Captain Schendel sent Policeman Wirtalla to look up the matter and he found Newberry. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $125 and costs which was paid.

Herman J. Layman of Wethersfield, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor was represented by Attorney Joseph Griffin of Hartford, who asked for a continuance of the case until August 2. The request was granted and a bond of $150 was furnished by Layman's brother for his appearance at that time.

Three north end men, Stanley Polenski, Michael Kulinski and Roulanisky Grolowski, were each charged with intoxication and all pleaded guilty. Polenski has been in court on several occasions and the fine imposed on him was $20 and costs. The other two men were fined $10 and costs. All paid up. They were arrested by Policeman Martin after complaints had been sent to the police about them.

Guy W. Ferguson of Oswego, N. Y., pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding. He was arrested by Officer Wirtalla. A fine of $10 without costs was imposed.

Frank Palmer of New Haven was brought into court on the charge of recklessly driving a five-ton truck. He was arrested by Sergeant John Crockett. Palmer drove down Center street at a speed of 35 miles an hour. Judge Johnson found him guilty and imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

FAST FOREST FIRES SWEEP COAST REGION

San Francisco, Cal., July 19.—While a thousand men fought desperately throughout the night to check the advance of the flames, northern California was the scene of three raging forest fires of huge proportions and six minor blazes, centered street at a speed of 35 miles an hour. Judge Johnson found him guilty and imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

HERRIOT SEEKS TO SOLVE NEW FRENCH CRISIS

Briand Falls Again and Socialist Ex-Premier Is Vainly Striving to Organ- ize Government.

Paris, July 19.—M. Herriot suddenly announced that he had succeeded in forming a new cabinet.

Paris, July 19.—The franc plunged further downward today. On Saturday Edouard Herriot, former Socialist premier, accomplished the downfall of Callaux and the whole Briand ministry by bringing about the refusal of the Chamber of Deputies to sanction the financial dictatorship sought by the cabinet for the minister of finance.

It is now reported that M. De Monzie, who has once been ousted as finance minister, has agreed to accept that post in the Herriot cabinet.

Opposition Already.

Even before the Herriot ministry is formed opposition to it has become so strong that it is rumored that representatives of the Chamber and Senate opposition parties plan to send a delegation to President Doumergue to protest the selection of M. Herriot to form a government.

M. Herriot learned yesterday that the task which he made for himself when he brought about the defeat of the Briand government is no sinecure, and as a matter of fact it was reported last night that he wanted to give up the task of forming a ministry but was persuaded to continue by President Doumergue.

M. Callaux, the defeated minister of finance, whose defeat was brought about as much by personal animosities as by opposition to his demands for dictatorial powers, sat back and watched with satisfaction the efforts to secure a new minister of finance.

May be Briand Again.

M. Briand, professing to be greatly relieved, has gone fishing in Normandy, but his shadow hovers over the political scene. There are many who believe that it will not be long before Briand is again back in power, but probably with a new finance minister, and that he will be able to meet the demand for dictatorial powers and secure parliamentary approval.

The franc slipped to the lowest point in its history today when it reached 48.30 to the dollar.

SUNDAY ACCIDENTS

HURT 4 AT MILFORD

Then, To Make It a Day, Lightning Hits a Barn and Burns
It Up.

Milford, July 19.—Four persons are in the Milford hospital today following a series of accidents here during yesterday afternoon, and last night as the result of heavy week-end traffic and the severe electrical storm which swept this section during yesterday afternoon. One fire due to the storm caused a loss of $2,000.

George Bristol of Hillsdale, N. J., his son, William, 17, and Max Stacey, 15, were hurt when an automobile driven by a Bristol man collided with a machine owned by Harry Miller of Hamden. None of the injuries is dangerous.

Michael Sackfa of Stratford was struck by a trolley car at Myrtle Beach and his leg broken.

HAY CUTTER LOSES ROLL "DIFFERENTLY"

Finds Owner of Hay Didn't Own the Land It Was Growing On.

Norwalk, July 19.—Anthony Gabriel today reported to the police the loss of ninety-two dollars in bills on Saturday evening.

Gabriel was hired to cut the hay about the house on a nearby street and in the course of his work his employer asked him to lend him enough money to change a one-hundred dollar bill. Gabriel produced a roll totaling ninety-two dollars, which the man accepted "for a couple minutes" and entered the house.

An hour later a woman in the house declared the man, a stranger to her, had bought the standing hay and had departed after paying her.

Ty Cobb Autographs Baseball For Herald's Contest Winner

Sherwood McCreery Meets Famous Player — Chats With Him in Dressing Room—Story of Trip.

Last April The Manchester Evening Herald conducted a baseball contest for Manchester boys. Each contestant chose his favorite big league player, and wrote a 200 word story about him. Billy Evans, famous American League umpire, and sports editor of the NEA Service to which The Herald is the exclusive Hartford County subscriber, was the judge.

The prize to the winner was a trip to New York to meet his favorite, Sherwood McCreery, 14-year-old of High street won the contest with his story about Ty Cobb. Accordingly Sherwood had a chance to meet Ty when he came to New York. The chance came this past week. Sherwood had a wonderful trip, saw a dandy ball game, and saw the sights in New York. And, all it cost Sherwood was what he spent in souvenirs. The Herald paid the rest. Sherwood has written about his trip for Herald readers. His story follows:

(By Sherwood McCreery)

We left Manchester last Wednesday at 4 o'clock on the start of my trip to New York to meet Ty Cobb.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 19.—Arthur S. Riehl, whose charges against his wife effectively blew the dust from the four-year-old Hall-Mills murder mystery, has disappeared. It was learned today when authorities started a search for him.

Two investigations are under way at the command of Governor Moore of the sensational charges made by Riehl in his plea for an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Louise Geist Riehl. She was formerly a maid in the home of Edward Wheeler Hall, the minister whose name was found in a lonely field beside that of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer.

Determined to Probe

Riehl stated that his wife told him she had received $5000 to buy her silence on the circumstances surrounding the murder, and that she, together with Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens, Mrs. Hall's brother, were at the Phillip's farm where the murder occurred on the fatal night.

Gov. Moore said that he is determined the murder shall be solved if it is humanly possible to do so. A re-opening of the case would result in a thorough grand jury investigation.

Mrs. Riehl continues to brand her husband's charges as false.

Ferdinand David, chief of Middlesex county detectives, arrived today, having been recalled from his vacation in Chicago to work on the case. He was connected with the investigation four years ago.

He admitted that the investigation had been re-opened and that he was working on the case. A conference is expected to take place between Gov. Moore and Prosecutor John E. Toolan.

Pyramid Reader Sees Awful Things Due Right Away Quick

London, July 19.—Tomorrow will be one of the most vital days in history, possibly the beginning of a period of chaos, disruption, wars and earthquakes.

At least this is the assertion made today by Rev. Walter Wynn, of the United Free Church at Chesham, who claims that from study of the great pyramid near Cairo, he was able to foretell the world war, predict the date of Germany's application for an armistice, and many other equally important events.

Wynn's predictions are arousing enormous interest throughout England, superstitious persons fearing that the events he foresees mean the sudden end of the world. Wynn does not make clear exactly what is to happen but he is certain that an era of catastrophe is about to be ushered in.

DYNAMITE NEARLY FREES 6 MURDERERS

Chicago, July 19.—Henry J. Fernekes, the "midnight bandit" was in solitary confinement today charged with dynamiting a wall of the county jail in an attempt to gain his freedom. Fernekes, five times a murderer, is now awaiting death on the gallows.

The explosion that rocked the jail late yesterday tore a gaping hole in the wall of what is known as Murderers' Row. Had the charge been a little heavier, the blast would have penetrated the 12-inch wall of brick and concrete, and six desperate criminals would have walked to freedom. They include, besides Fernekes, Martin Durkin, Russell and Robert Scott, Ralph Reno and John Walton Wynn.

5,000 LISTEN TO MINISTER WHO KILLED A MAN

Fort Worth Pastor Shoots Remonstrant Dead in Study— Says He Feared for His Own Life.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 19.—On Saturday Rev. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist pastor of the First Baptist church and a fundamentalist, shot and killed D. E. Chipps in his study. Yesterday he preached to five thousand persons who crowded and sweltered into the building. His pulpit is less than 50 feet from the spot where he killed Chipps. He is at large on a bail bond of $10,000.

He appeared dapper and fresh as he entered the pulpit, whether or not he is guilty of the charge of murder lodged against him, he did not appear to have lost any sleep. He seemed confident in his plea of self-defense.

He wore a dark blue coat, gray trousers and a tie with large polka dots. He appeared the same as on the previous Sunday morning when he attacked Mayor Meacham, in whose behalf Chipps was remonstrating when he called on the pastor yesterday.

The First Baptist church had been crowded with sensation seekers before, persons who want to hear "The Texas Torpedo" about his austere Gospel and voice the wrath of his God against Modernists and Evolutionists.

Today they flocked to hear a man accused of a capital crime, tell why he killed. The preacher, however, confined his sermon to his version of the way to the soul's salvation.

Norris took as his text the first verse of the eighth chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans.

"There is therefore now no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus," wrote Paul in this verse, and in the second verse: "For by the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus made me free from the law of sin and of death."

Mr. Norris' quotation from Scripture was one of the two or three bits if his sermon which might have been taken as reference to the killing.

"Who is he that condemneth?" the minister asked. His words were heard by thousands who listened over the radio. The sermon was broadcast by Station KFQB, which is maintained by Mr. Norris's personal newspaper, the Searchlight.

Norris maintains that Chipps, a wealthy lumberman, went to his study and threatened to kill him. Chipps was so menacing, Mr. Norris told authorities, that he saw nothing to do except shoot. So he took the night watchman's pistol from his desk and fired four times. Three bullets struck Chipps, who died on the way to the hospital.

Chipps had gone to see Norris about the pastor's attacks on Mayor Meacham, spread through his newspaper and over the radio from his pulpit. Mayor Meacham has been preparing to widen the street which passes his store, and Mr. Norris charged that an exorbitant price was being paid to a Roman Catholic convent on the street for land to be taken.

After yesterday's sermon hundreds of Norris' parishioners grasped his hand and he has received scores of telegrams from admirers.

Norris went about his pastoral duties as usual today. He was preparing for his nightly open air services during the week on the south side where he preaches during the summer months.

Accepts N. Y. Invitation.

He announced yesterday that he had accepted an invitation of the First Baptist church of New York City to speak at that church on Sunday, August 1.

Among the telegrams and telephone calls received by the minister from friends throughout the country was a message of sympathy from W. B. Riley, well known fundamentalist leader of Minneapolis.

Chipps was lured yesterday afternoon. A large number of friends gathered at the grave for the final services.

BANDITS KILL TWO, GET $5,000 DEPOSIT

Newark, N. J., July 19.—George M. Condit, 70, a messenger for the Reid Ice Cream company, was killed and Joseph Duff, 18, another messenger, was wounded today when four bandits fired on them as they left the company's plant here with $5,000 which they were taking to a bank. The bandits escaped with the money in a limousine, eluding pursuing policemen.

PINCHOT MAY HEAD A BOLT, BACK WILSON

Urged by Insurgent G. O. P. Senators to Support Dem- ocrat in November Sen- ate Fight.

Washington, July 19.—Governor Gifford Pinchot, who spent $185,000 in an unsuccessful effort to wrest the Republican senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania from the Mellon-Vare forces, who combined spent more than $2,000,000 is not going to "make up" with the organization.

Definite word to this effect reached the capital today and occasioned not a little excitement in political quarters because of reports that the governor may swing his support to William S. Wilson, the Democratic senatorial candidate, who will oppose Rep. William S. Vare in November.

Blue Men Urge Bolt.

Progressive Republicans like Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin and others, are openly urging their followers in Pennsylvania to bolt the Republican organization and unite behind Wilson. Upon this feature, the governor, so far as is known, has not committed himself, but he is determined that "the fight shall go on."

LINCOLN OBSERVES WATERMELON RITE

Only Town Named After Mar- tyr in Life Time Holds An- nual Ceremony.

Lincoln, Ill., July 19.—Residents of Lincoln talk of the "watermelon christening" much as the Bostonians speak of the tea fest, as the Chicagoans "the fire." They are observing the anniversary today.

Twenty-four United States cities or towns bear the name of Lincoln, but only this one was named in honor of the Civil War martyr before he passed on.

As a struggling country attorney, Lincoln lived in a town that was a mere handful of small dwellings. It was known as Postville and praddled out at a crossroads 35 miles northeast of Springfield.

In 1839, Lincoln's bill creating Postville the seat of Logan county became effective. A railroad invaded the county in 1852. Three pioneer real estate promoters bought a section of land near Postville and laid out a village named Lincoln.

Lincoln was their legal advisor, and the town was named after him.

Lincoln bought two watermelons from a country peddler. With a humorous flourish, he squeezed a handful of the red melon seeds, performing the "ceremony" of baptism for Lincoln, Ill.

CANTON CITIZENS PLAN BIG CLEANUP

Committee of 100 Formed to Seek Mellet's Slay- ers; Police Head May Go.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 19.—George Psaltis, alias "George the Greek," notorious Western Pennsylvania underworld character, wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellet, Canton, Ohio, publisher, today was taken into custody by police here.

Canton, O., July 19.—With the meeting of the Intra-City Council of all the civic clubs of Canton today it was expected that a committee of 100 of the leading business men of Canton will be named to work with the county officials and possibly with state and federal officials in prosecuting the search for the slayers of Don R. Mellet, 36-year-old publisher of the Canton News, and in cleaning up the city.

No definite plans have been formulated, but it was generally believed, that a shake-up in the Canton police department, possibly resulting in the suspension, resignation or dismissal of Chief of Police S. A. Lengel, was imminent.

5000 Petition Governor

A petition directed to Governor Viv Donahay and signed by approximately 5,000 church-goers yesterday asking the governor to use every power within the grasp of his office to investigate conditions here and conduct a clean-up of the city, was to be forwarded to Columbus today.

In the meantime, while rewards for the apprehension of Mellet's slayers slowly mounted toward the $30,000 mark, Ora Slater, Cincinnati's most famous detective, placed in command of all the probes of the Mellet case, was conferring with city officials and following up several new clues.

Pastor Threatened.

It developed today that Rev. W. H. Longworth, pastor of the First Congregational church, who some time ago made a fight for a clean-up of the underworld here, had received death threats similar to those sent to Mellet.

Rewards Bear Fruit.

The reward totaling more than $25,000 offered by citizens and organizations out to avenge the death of Don R. Mellet, Canton publisher, and to wipe out conditions which made the murder possible, has brought fruit.

Information which may be of importance has been turned in.

This was the announcement today of Detective Slater.

"I have received a number of tips and leads," Slater said. "Just what they are worth still remain to be seen but it is probable at least some of them may lead us to the slayers. I am making no promises but I do say that we may strike 'pay dirt' any minute."

RADDING AGAIN IN STREET ROW

New Patrolman Who Started Fourth of July Riots in Mixup With Local Man.

Officer Aaron Radding made good his promise to "treat offenders as I would a bull in a barnyard" early Sunday morning. He was given considerable opposition, however, and the affair wound up in the police station whither the officer and the man he had the trouble with went.

Following is the story as reported by eyewitnesses:

Several men were in front of Farr's store early Sunday morning talking about various things when Officer Radding came along. He told Paul Balsieper, one of the men, to stop his loud talking and gave him a push. Balsieper was caught off his balance and almost fell. When he recovered he went for the officer and lifted him from the ground.

Fight Starts.

Officer Radding aimed a blow at Balsieper's head with his club but the other man ducked, catching the club on the back of his neck. Thoroughly angry by this time, Balsieper went for the officer again but was held. Officer Radding drew his revolver and most of the crowd ducked behind convenient poles and into doorways.

Somebody in the crowd called Captain by telephone and he dispatched Sergeant John Crockett to the scene. He took in the situation and the whole crowd accompanied Balsieper to the station where he told the captain his grievances.

No Arrests.

What the outcome of the affair will be is not known but no arrests were made.

Officer Radding's first trouble in the section came on the night of July 4 when a crowd of men and boys created quite a disturbance with firecrackers near Murphy's restaurant.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the Board of Police Commissioners, it was reported today, and no doubt a hearing will be given the patrolman soon.

FUNERAL OF MRS. C. D. TALCOTT.

Impressive and largely attended funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Talcottville for Mrs. H. Maria Talcott. While the body was being borne from her late home to the Congregational church she loved, and in which she labored so long, the church bell was tolled. Miss Carrie B. Lull, the organist, played softly "Jesus Lover of my Soul," "Abide With Me," and other favorite hymns of the late Mrs. Talcott as the people of Talcottville assembled in the church to pay their last tribute of respect to one whose kindly qualities and Christian virtues had endeared her to all.

During the service the Colonial Quartet of Hartford sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." Rev. Francis P. Bachelor, pastor of the church read passages of scripture and spoke in eulogy of Mrs. Talcott.

The bearers were all foremen long in the employ of Talcott Brothers. They were: William Crooks, Samuel Douglas, Louis Thorp, J. E. Bradley, Alexander McKenna and E. Koch.

Committal was in the family plot in Mount Hope cemetery, Talcottville.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Frank Behrendt of 156 Birch street died suddenly Saturday afternoon at his home. Death was due to cancer but Mr. Behrendt had been walking around apparently in good health when he was stricken.

His funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home. The Rev. H. O. Weber of the Concordia Lutheran church officiated and burial was in the East cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and a stepson, Earl Judatz.

DR. HOLMES RETURNS FROM CAMP VACATION

Nearly 400 Medical Men at Carlisle Barracks in Pennsylvania.

Nearly 400 officers belonging to the Medical Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army completed a two weeks' course of instruction at the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania. These officers came from most of the states east of the Mississippi River.

Dr. Le Verne Holmes of this town, who spent two weeks at the camp, said today:

"The Medical Reserve Officers attending the school numbered 229 physicians, 77 dentists, 12 veterinarians, 5 chaplains and 52 specialists, such as laboratory experts, sanitarians and medical supply officers. There were also 380 medical students belonging to the Reserve Officers' Training Camp—the R. O. T. C.—who will be commissioned as first lieutenants when they graduate from their medical, dental or veterinary schools.

The Medical Field Service school is the West Point of the Medical Department of the U. S. Army. It trains professional men for all branches of medical service, and during the summer it conducts a six weeks' course for R. O. T. C. students and camp courses of two weeks duration for physicians and members of other branches of the medical reserve.

"All those attending the school, both the physicians and those not yet graduated submitted themselves to army discipline which meant that they lived under conditions of camp life. The officers as well as the R. O. T. C. students were quartered in a tent where they underwent the routine of military service as distance organizations, provisionally formed for training purposes.

"The experience gained in the school is of great service during emergencies in civil life as well as in war. There are likely to be fires, storms, floods, explosions, train wrecks, strikes and also panics and epidemics whose control requires quick thinking, and a knowledge of how to command men. Doctors are the natural leaders in all these conditions, and often they are the only leaders of the camps. If boy scouts are of value in teaching first aid and self-reliance, then the Medical Field Service School is of still greater public value in providing leaders to conserve and preserve health and life.

"What did the men do in camp? They went to school and did about all the things that boys do in a school camp. They drilled for an hour every morning, attended classes for five hours, and did problems in the field on two days each week. They played ball and pitched horse-shoes, published a camp paper, held reunions of their former regiments and colleges, and went to church on the parade ground on the parade day. They also made a tour of the battlefield of Gettysburg. Every moment was taken up and time passed as rapidly and as happily as in a recreation camp.

A striking feature of the camp was its democracy. Colonels and lieutenants were equal, for all were learners. The lieutenants played ball and led the social life, and the colonels showed the younger men how to run ambulances and do the administration work of the larger units.

"The school was conducted as nearly as possible under conditions like those of an army in the field. A battle demonstration was staged with guns, and bombs and airplanes, and smoke screens; the R. O. T. C. boys picked up the wounded, gave first aid, carried them back to first aid stations from which they were carried in ambulances to the hospital five miles to the rear.

"Another exercise was that of map reading and of locating aid stations and hospitals, and laying out ambulance routes as in actual battle.

"Professional men in private life are familiar with all phases of the practice of medicine among private patients and in institutions and business houses; but the U. S. Army is almost the only institution that affords training for great emergencies, when entirely novel situations must be met. An emergency will not give rise to a panic while a large body of men are trained to handle the situation.

Doctor William Feating of Wilimantic, a former Manchester resident, was with Dr. Holmes at the camp.

SHOT IS FIRED AT LOCAL PAIR

Unknown Assailant Fires at Party in Glastonbury Saturday Night.

No trace has yet been found of the person who is alleged to have attempted to hold up two Manchester persons on the Glastonbury road Saturday night and shot at them.

Earl Kennedy and Alfred Bacon had been on a fishing expedition to Moodus and were returning with a large string of fish. According to the story told by Bacon, they were riding along in their Overland sedan near Buck's Corner when suddenly someone yelled at them to stop. The command was not heeded and instead the driver stepped on the accelerator. A revolver shot was fired.

The Manchester couple reported the matter to a Glastonbury constable. Several hours' searching were fruitless. Persons who live in the locality report that they saw two men standing near the scene shortly before the shooting took place.

BRITAIN NOT TO SEEK
U. S. DEBT CONCESSIONS

London, July 19.—The British government will make no effort to secure a revision of the terms of the debt funding agreement with the United States, despite renewed public agitation. The British government realizes that any such effort would be hopeless, and believes that those who are agitating for a revision are laboring under misapprehension as to the possibilities of any concessions being secured.

PROGRESSIVE SALES PLAN IS ADOPTED

Manchester Electric Company to Reward First Buyers in Special July Sale.

A new kind of sale is being conducted by the Manchester Electric Company this month. In their previous monthly sales they have found that goods sell rapidly after a few customers have purchased the articles and then told their neighbors what an excellent value was obtained. And so this month, the progressive customers are to be rewarded by a special price. The ten dollar Thermox Oven Cooker will be on sale at $7.95 this month, but the first purchaser will obtain hers for only $6.00, the second for $6.25, the third for $6.50 and so on with twenty-five cent increases until the sale price of $7.95 is reached. And, of course, those who forget to buy during July will pay the regular price of $10.00 for their Cooker.

Every Manchester housewife will want one of these Cookers when she sees the work it does. It not only roasts and bakes like any oven, but also boils, steams, and stews foods in the unexcelled electric way that prevents the shrinkage in weight caused by most cooking, and retains the full flavor and food value of the meals cooked electrically. Like all electric cookers, it cooks largely on stored heat, so that the cost of operating is surprisingly low. A delicious short cake is cooked with one cent's worth of electricity, or a four-pound roast of lamb together with potatoes and peas, perfectly cooked on three and a half cent's worth of current.

For picnics, foods can easily be carried in the Cooker and served hot. Or six quarts of cold liquids can be kept cold for several hours. The Cooker operates from any electric outlet and uses less current than an electric iron. For cool cooking during the hot weather, and for fireless cooker purposes the year round, it deserves a place in every Manchester home. A demonstrator from the Landers, Frary & Clark factory will be at the Manchester Electric Company's Main street store all this week to show how all kinds of cooking are done, with this Thermox Oven Cooker.

QUISH RESIGNS.

It has been reported that Superintendent Policeman Paul Quish, who has been on the force but a week, will resign. The reason given is that Quish has secured work at his trade as a plasterer in Wilimantic. His working in Wilimantic would make it impossible for him to do spare work on the police force. Last night was his last night on the West Side beat, which he has been covering. Quish is the second policeman to resign in two days.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS HAVE BUSY SEASON

Manchester building contractors are having a busy season. The most important project in new construction is the Masonic Temple at the Center for which the Manchester Construction company have the contract. The brick will be furnished through the Berlin firm of Stiles and Reynolds. Local concerns who have received sub-contracts are W. R. Palmer, electrical wiring, the Manchester Lumber company, W. G. Glenney company, G. E. Willis for lumber and masons' supplies. The sub-contracts for plumbing and heating have not as yet been awarded.

MARY BROWN.

Mrs. Mary Brown, 89, widow of the late Fred C. Brown, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Christine Gee of 91 Fairfield street early yesterday morning. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2.30. The Rev. W. G. Reynolds of Glastonbury will officiate and burial will be in the East cemetery.

Mrs. Brown is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Gee, Mrs. Evans Griffin of Hartford and Mrs. Ralph Sorenson of East Hartford, also seven grandchildren.

MORROW-MARTYNY.

A pretty home wedding took place Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Fogli, 39 Brantford street, Greenacres, when Mrs. Fogli's sister, Miss Lillian E. Martyny became the bride of George W. Morrow of Steelton, Pa.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Watson Woodruff, pastor of Center Congregational church. The double ring service was used. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Mildred Hutchinson and Evelyn Hutchinson was ring bearer, both being nieces of the bride.

The bride's gown was of buff and blue georgette and she carried a bouquet of Madame Butterfly roses and gypsophila.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. Guests were present from Springfield and other places. Mr. and Mrs. Morrow left later by automobile amid a shower of confetti for their new home in Steelton, where the groom is employed as a metallurgist.

As a means of preventing robberies, an Illinois bank is doing business behind locked doors, admitting only known customers.

G. O. P.'S BRYAN.

Borah is the Bryan of the Republican party. What the verbose prophet of Nebraska did to the Democratic party the strikingly similar senator for the sagebrush of Idaho can do and will do to the party of Lincoln, Taft, Roosevelt and Coolidge if his permanent cyclone of words be permitted to influence its membership.

Like Bryan, the Idaho mad mul-lah goes storming through the land, appealing to the most primitive instincts of the people, twisting and contorting their patriotism into a strange structure of fanaticism—and always with the same end as that aimed at by the Commoner, the establishment of a personal following strong enough to land him in the White House.

Like Bryan, too, Borah is strangely, crudely ignorant of America. He has never walked among the people outside his own tiny constituency of sheep men and best growers. What mingling he has done with the great mass of the American nation has been aboard a hobby-horse, his own shouting voice drowning the opinions of the millions he crazily aspires to lead.

Bryan never had a moment's contact in all his years, as an observing citizen, with the life of the United States. He knew a Nebraska town or two, perhaps a few counties—and he thought he knew his country. Borah knows a wide and empty state, and he knows the capitol at Washington and the columns of newspapers. His intimacy with the great nation that he would love to lead is hardly greater than that of the Grand Lama of Thibet—he has sought out less knowledge of it than the Swedish prince who lately came here for a few weeks with his eyes and mind open.

Yet this is the man who is ram-paging through the country with his eyes closed and his mouth open, doing his foolish best to commit the Republican party to a policy of Pussfoot Johnson enforcement of prohibition.

Just why the press of the Republican party should so hang on the words of this essential ignoramus of American life, and should broadcast to the country every vacuous utterance of a man who is doing all that he can to spread discord in the party, we frankly cannot understand. There is no reason for the G. O. P. to sacrifice itself on the altar of a single bull lugged individual any more than there was for the Democratic party to let the Nebraska dervish drag it out of the paths of political principle into the desert maze of political lunacy. Let Bryanism be a warning against Borahism.

HIGHER-UP.

Some of the New York newspapers are congratulating their community that under Police Commissioner McLaughlin, for the first time, an earnest and apparently effectual attempt is being made to get at the individuals who are really responsible for nine-tenths of the mighty tide of criminalism that is lapping at the foundations of society—the fences.

Surely it is a tremendously important step that the metropolitan police are taking. And if their feet do not halt midway it cannot help accomplishing much for the safety of property and of life, not only in New York but in all this eastern country.

But it is an error to imagine that in the mere detection and apprehension of the fences the police will have accomplished the abolition of the system of loot. There is another group beyond, and the police cannot reach them. Back of the gunman and the truck thief, back of the loft burglar and the fur-raider, and back of the big rich fences who are the real employers of these direct-action crooks, stands that sinister influence that the police cannot touch at all, the lawyers who devote their knowledge and their relationship to the courts to bring immunity to the receivers of stolen goods.

There are hundreds of them in New York. There are thousands of them in the United States. Men wrapped about by the protecting cloak of an honorable profession, who are yet at heart as intensely criminal as the murderers and robbers and fences whose protection they make the real business of their lives.

No police force and no combination of police forces in the United States can win ultimate victory over crime so long as our law colleges turn out, every year, hundreds of attorneys who, lacking all ethical background and often bred in the very centers of depravity, are yet admitted to the practice of law and who proceed at once to become allies to the underworld.

The real "man higher up" is the criminal lawyer who steers and directs and accords the way for the nation's thieves.

Until the bar associations recognize their responsibilities to society and keep this spawn out of the courts and out of the practice of law, more than half of the best efforts of the best police departments will continue to go for nothing.

HOOVER WAS RIGHT.

Mr. Hoover was right and this newspaper was wrong. Hoover, knowing the broadcasting folks better than the Herald has any opportunity of knowing them, foresaw that they would put both feet in the trough, so to speak, in their scramble for the best morsels of wave length. We had always supposed that people who had invested large sums of money in radio stations and the maintenance thereof were persons of ordinary common sense and so argued that they would, in all probability, refrain from pulling the broadcasting edifice down about their ears in a mob attempt, to all pre-empt the same rafter.

It appears that we flattered them. It is more or less nonsense to blame Congress for the radio mix-up, even though it might very well have attended to the business of providing authority for radio regulation. Congress had a perfect right to assume that the broadcasters were normal human beings and not candidates for psychopathic observation.

But perhaps, after all, even the broadcasters ought not to be too severely criticized. We have developed, in this country, the theory that every conceivable human activity must be regulated by statute, and have so far incorporated that idea into our civilization that the sense of personal self-regulation has become atrophied from lack of use.

So that when the broadcasters found there was no law to prevent them from smashing up their own business they just naturally went to it with a rush, as water will run out of a pan when a hole rusts through.

DESERTER.

Because he was a foolish optimist the head of a string of Southern banks risked the money of thousands of depositors in a bubble enterprise and lost it. And because he fell a little short of being a man of fortune he killed himself.

It is impossible not to be saddened by the spectacle of high hopes ruined, of bitter disaster coming as the penalty of well intentioned folly; impossible not to feel sympathy for the plight in which this man found himself as his air castles tumbled and spread ruin broadcast.

And it is almost equally impossible not to feel, too, a little contempt for one who runs away from the fight, leaps in panic out of the world because the battle has gone against him.

If this banker had no further use for his life, he might have, used what was left of it in working such amelioration as he could of the trouble he had made. Among his depositors there may have been one person left penniless by the crash, ill and alone. He could at least have stayed alive and taken care of that victim of his errors, even if he could not have helped to make others' losses less by employing his experience and knowledge of his institution's affairs.

There are circumstances under which it takes a Spartan mind to severely criticize suicide. But they are not the circumstances of money lost, nor of disappointed ambition.

CANTON.

The murder of Publisher Don Mellett has brought Canton, O., into the public view as it has not been since the days when it was the home of a President, William McKinley. Anger surges in the city toward the police, who, the reform element declares, are indifferent in this case as in the prosecution of crime generally.

Canton has something over a hundred thousand people. It is not as large as New Haven, Bridgeport or Hartford, by considerable. Yet last year the police arrested 18,000 persons, about one for every six of its inhabitants. Counting out the traffic violations, there were over two thousand arrests for drunkenness, 640 for violations of the liquor laws, 484 for gambling, 18 for maintaining disorderly houses and 56 for dope peddling.

This would seem to indicate a considerable degree of activity on the part of the police. Yet it of course does not prove that there may not be, too, a great deal of inactivity.

The point is that Canton is a typical American city. In 1919 the prohibitionists pledged us their word of honor that if we would adopt the 18th amendment America would be swept clean of vice and crime in five years. The 18th amendment was adopted and ratified. What of the pledge?

FRANCE.

France is nearer the cracking point today than in many and many a year. It was hardly to be expected that her parliament would have risked revolution by once again bringing about the fall of the Briand government and refusing to sanction the financial dictatorship which alone can prevent, seemingly, a debacle of French business and industry.

The patience of the people has been enormous. But they are dynamic, the French, and give little sign of the effect of strain until the explosion itself.

Time you find out what it's all about it's all about something else.

If the police ever get after us we'll get a job as vice president and never be noticed at all.

There's one fine thing about a straw hat. When you get real mad you can bite it.

It's an awful waste of money to raise a son and then let him do just as he darn pleases.

A THOUGHT

Wealth maketh many friends; but the poor is separated from his neighbor.—Prov. 19:4.

Gross and vulgar minds will always pay a higher respect to wealth, although it is a far less efficient source of power than talent, happens to be far more intelligent.—Colton.

CHAMBER TELLS A FEW 'DON'T'S'

Continues Campaign of Warning Against Frauds for Local People.

This is the twentieth article in a weekly series prepared for The Herald by The Chamber of Commerce.

In the Chamber of Commerce campaign for the prevention of fraud or for the warning and protection of the Manchester public against frauds, the word which seems to be made most frequent use of is

DON'T

So it seems in order at this time to compile a selected list of Don'ts for the average investor and purchaser.

Don't get the idea that you are any smarter than the average man or woman. If you have that idea, you don't need to read this article. It will never do you any good and you are ripe to be picked by every slyster that comes along. The smart-alex and the know-it-all are easy prey for the real salesman as they are quick to sense their egotism and play on it to accomplish the very thing they came for. This type of person furnishes the subject for most jokes and stories when a group of salesmen get together. Most salesmen have some sense of decency and some conscience in dealing with the ordinary prospect, but this is all put aside and forgotten when they stack up against a man who professes to be smarter than the average.

Can't Beat 'Em Don't get the idea that you can beat them at their own game. They are skilled in it before they start out on the road, have studied every angle of it, get a chance to practice it all day, every day, and have seen thousands of human minds react to it, so you haven't a ghost of a chance.

Don't think you can get something for nothing. It just isn't done. The greater the bargain offered you, or the larger the return on your investment, the more cautious you should be.

Don't try to mix your investments with gambling. Gasoline and booze are a safer combination. The world there is a fairly stable, well-recognized, firmly established rate of return for the average investor. There is a reason for it, not an arbitrary fixation, but the result of economical conditions. Some individuals receive larger returns, but these cannot always be truthfully termed investments. The larger the return, the more nearly one approaches the dividing line between an investment and a gamble.

Recommendations Bad Don't be influenced too much by endorsements, recommendations, or lists of prominent people. Why should you be influenced to buy something that you do not want or do not need simply because someone else whom you may know, or know of has felt the need of it? It is a sign of feeble-mindedness to be influenced by the simple fact that some friend of yours has bought or invested.

Don't take any stranger's word for the fact that he is a classmate or a grandson or a brother of some friend or acquaintance of yours. Or, if you do take his word for it, let it go at that. Don't be influenced by that fact, to do anything you would not otherwise do. A salesman that has to lean on his relationship or on mutual friends is a weak sister, and must either have a poor line of goods or a weak line of talk.

Don't be deceived by names. A favorite resort of fakirs is the use of a well-known name or the use of a name closely resembling that of a successful businessman or a well-known trade article. Their Game Don't be foolish enough to think that any salesman is coming from New York, Chicago, or any other large city to sell you a $100 "investment". Big cities are full of money and if the investment was any good it could have been sold in New York.

Don't take any stock in the "last chance" argument. The so-called "selected list" usually comprises as many hundred thousand names as the promoters can secure. It is bunk, pure bunk. Prize Puzzles Don't fall for the prize puzzle advertisement, whether to get a house lot, a pearl necklace, automobile, or piano free. Remember always that you never get anything free; that you always pay, and you can bank on paying about ten times what the thing is worth, or what the merchandise were bought from a legitimate source. This may seem like an extravagant statement but investigation of actual cases have shown it to be true. As a matter of fact, most of the merchandise acquired under these conditions have absolutely no value, yet millions of dollars are thus annually plucked from a greedy and gullible public.

Don't feel that you have to buy or even to return ties, pencils, cigars or other merchandise sent you by mail unorderd. Don't advance any money on a C. O. D. package unless you have ordered it and know what it contains, where and exchange the goods if not satisfactory. Don't trust strangers with your money or any valuable papers. The smoother he talks and the more plausible his line, the more suspicious you should become. Bill Collecting Don't give any strangers authority to collect your bills. If there were

The District government has been under heavy fire throughout most of the last session of Congress.

Representative Blanton fought it until he snapped under the stress of his campaign and, under his doctor's orders, had to go home.

District Commissioner Fenning has been shown to have exploited shell-shocked or otherwise mentally incompetent war veterans conclusively enough to have been forced to return part of the money.

Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the mentally afflicted, has been asked to explain why he burned 7 1/2 tons of coal per patient each year for the last 10 years; why he has 1 attendant to every 3 1/2 patients at St. Elizabeth's Hospital with an average of 1 to 10 in other asylums throughout the United States; how he found time away from his own wards, to testify, as an expert witness, at $250 daily for 14 days, at the Leopold-Loeb trial.

If District Commissioner Rudolph's hardware business enjoyed no undue advantage over its competitors, in sales to the District government, how does it happen that, in one fiscal year, it sold $70,000 worth of goods to the District, as compared with $14,000, its nearest competitor's record? That's what the investigators want to know.

Today is feast day of St. Vincent of Paul, adviser of the queen and oracle of the church of France in the seventeenth century. Five women were hanged as witches July 19, 1699, at Salem, Mass. Today is birthday anniversary of Dr. Charles H. Mayo, who was born July 19, 1855.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, July 19.—The District of Columbia government is to be investigated while Congress is in recess.

The House of Representatives left a special committee, before it adjourned, to attend to it—Congressmen McLeod of Michigan, Gibson of Vermont, Reid of Illinois, Houston of Delaware, Gilbert of Kentucky, Hammer of North Carolina and Whitehead of Virginia.

Indications are that an investigation is badly needed. Perhaps there won't prove to be any fire, but there's an awful lot of smoke.

Washington's city government is of more than local importance, for the whole country governs the capital and is responsible for doing a good job.

What kind of a job is being done? "The government of the District of Columbia," says Congressman Gilbert of the investigating committee, who already has spent five years looking into its affairs, "is approaching a scandal, and I warn all concerned that the situation can't be remedied by the passage of laws."

"It can only be done by a change in personnel. "We need not pass laws and ex-

"THE GREATER GLORY"
ENDS HERE TONIGHT

Anna Q. Nilsson Stars With Conway Tearle in Vienna War Story.

Tonight you will see the final snowing of Conway Tearle and Anna Q. Nilsson in "The Greater Glory" at the State theatre.

About 2,000 persons figure in the cast of "The Greater Glory," June Mathis' colossal screen epic. The story is a poignant drama of Vienna before, during and after the war. Vienna was once the gayest capital of Europe except, perhaps, Paris.

After the war Vienna went through a complete metamorphosis. Its defeated population was gay no more. Instead, it was hungry and tired. Revolution followed revolution. There were bread riots.

June Mathis reveals in "The Greater Glory" a phase of the war which has not hitherto reached the screen. The epic drama is based on the celebrated novel, "Viennese Medley," by Edith O'Shaughnessy, wife of an American diplomat in Vienna. Miss Mathis and a vast company spent more than a year on the production of the picture. Curt Rehfeld directed.

For the added attraction on the same bill we have "America's Polar Triumph" with Lieut. Commander Byrd, U. S. N.

The dramatic story of the dauntless courage, the pluck and dogged perseverance that carried the Stars and Stripes across the perilous crags of ice at the top of the world. All the "props" and sets of Hollywood, all the stars in the film firmament, all the millions of all the film magnates cannot make a picture with half its dramatic power. The end of an eternity of struggle—the climax of a million dreams, hardships, heroisms and heartaches.

Official Record of the First Flight Over the North Pole.

Also Our Gang Comedy in "Better Movies," a great comedy. Don't miss this show. Tomorrow and Wednesday the State theatre presents Richard Dix in "Say It Again."

"Say it again, I love to hear those words."

Remember, that ditty? It was very popular a few years ago. And how about this one which seems to be all the rage right now—

"I don't believe it, but say it again."

Well, Richard Dix heard it and decided the time was ripe in which to build a comedy around that phrase, "Say It Again."

He told his idea to Paramount production officials and they agreed with him. Gregory La Cava was assigned to direct it. Alyce Mills and Chester Conklin head his supporting cast. "Say It Again" arrives at the State theatre tomorrow and Wednesday.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

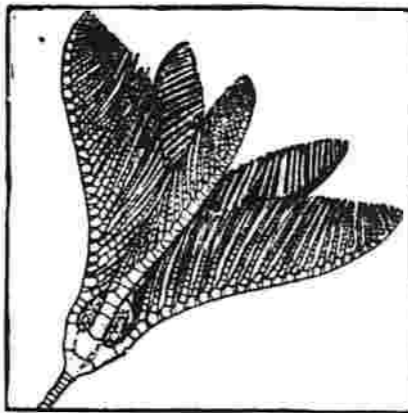

BY AUSTIN H. CLARK
Curator, U. S. National Museum

This animal lily is a true animal and not a plant. On land animals have to move around to get their food, while in the sea the water is often filled with minute plants and animals floating about in it much as particles of mud float in the water of a muddy river.

Therefore an animal in the sea does not necessarily have to move about to get its food. It can stay in one place and let the water do the work of bringing food to it.

Oysters and clams and barnacles—this, and so do many other things of wholly different sorts, among them this animal lily.

This particular individual was one of several which were brought up from the bottom 9328 feet, or one and eight-tenths miles, beneath the surface. It was dredged ed by the Albatross off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

An Animal Lily

What is it like down on the ocean bottom so far beneath the surface? In the first place it is always darker than the darkest night, for no light ever gets so far below the surface.

There is, of course, the fitful, ghostly light from the numerous phosphorescent creatures, a sort of curious slow lightning with brighter, flashes now and then.

Water Pressure. In the second place it is always cold, a perpetual unchanging cold of only a few degrees above the freezing point. It is always still—no noise of any sort even the faintest whisper, so far as we can tell.

The pressure of the water at that depth is staggering. We live under a pressure of roughly fifteen pounds to the square inch. That is the pressure exerted by the air about us. Going down into the water there is an added pressure of one atmosphere, which is what we call the pressure under which we live, for each thirty-two and eight-tenths feet.

Therefore this creature lives under a pressure of about 280 atmospheres, or over two tons to the square inch. Compare this with the fifteen pounds to the square inch under which we live.

Yet there are very many kinds of animals in the sea that live much deeper than this sea lily. Indeed, a fish has been brought up from 19,806 feet, or three and three-quarters miles below the surface.

Sea lilies of one kind or another are found in all seas, and some of them live in very much deeper water than does this one.

There are 20,000 knitters of woolen goods in the Shetland Islands.

OUR IRISH BAND IS ONLY ONE OF KIND IN THE U. S. A.

Manchester has an unusual band; in fact it is the only band of its kind in the United States. St. Patrick's Irish Bagpipe band is the name of the organization. It celebrated its first anniversary last Saturday. It was organized a year ago by William Beattie.

The Irish bagpipe different than the well known Scotch bagpipe, in that the Irish instrument has two drones, while the Scotch has three. As far as can be learned, the local St. Patrick's band is the only organization this side of the Atlantic that uses the Irish instrument.

Irish bagpipe bands are quite common in Ireland, but for some reason or other, the Irish instrument has not been used in bands in America. The Scotch bagpipe has been used exclusively.

St. Patrick's Band was organized a year ago by William Beattie of this town. At first there were but five members, but this number gradually increased until now there are fifteen. The bagpipes the local musicians use were brought from Belfast, Ireland. Having but two drones, the Irish instrument has a slightly different tone from the one used in Scotch pipe bands.

A celebration in honor of the band's first anniversary was held Saturday night. The organization paraded from the Franklin school up Spruce street and down Main street. Following the parade, the members gathered at the home of John Fallon of 119 Eldridge street. Here an old time Irish celebration was held. Singing of Irish songs and dancing of Irish dances continued into the small hours of Sunday morning.

The uniforms of the Irish bagpipe band differ from the Scotch uniforms. The Irish wear a brown kilt, green coat, yellow shawl and green socks. The local band has already had the kilts for its uniforms made. The cloth for these kilts was woven at the Talcott woolen mills. The other parts of the uniforms have not been used in the future.

In a year's time the band has made marked progress. Beginning with a group, only one of which knew how to play the instrument, the members, as they joined the band, were forced to spend a great deal of time in learning to play the pipes and in practicing.

William Beattie, who organized the band, is bandmaster. John Fallon is major.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB ON ANNUAL OUTING

A chicken dinner and a good program of sports and games were enjoyed by 38 members of the Men's Friendship club of the South Methodist church on their annual outing at Columbia lake on Saturday. The dinner was served at Nordlund's at 2 o'clock and was followed by the other activities of the outing. In baseball Tom Rogers' team defeated Robb's nine by the score of 17 to 5, due largely to the wonderful playing of Archie Haugh. Haugh came back with a volley ball team to trim that of John Winterbottom's by two games to one. Frank Mullens' with his abnormal reach and scientific style of play, was a big factor in the victory.

Rogers and Haugh were better in two-out of three games in the quilt pitching tournament over Gibson and Glenney.

President Arthur Gibson was head of the general committee in charge of arrangements. The Rev. William F. Davis, former pastor of the church, who was recently elected to the club, was present, as was also George W. Ferris, vice president, who never misses an outing.

SONS HIT HARD TO CONQUER NAUGATUCK IN TWO BATTLES

Sipples at Best Form on Sunday—Team Makes Large Number of Errors But Wins in End.

Two more victories were added to their already long string by the Sons of Italy over the week-end. Both games were won over Naugatuck, one here and the Sunday affair in that town.

LeBell, who made among his three hits, one home run, the Sons smashed out 12 bingles of various kinds and shut out Naugatuck here Saturday. LeBell's homer, like St. John's, brought in runners on bases.

Foley started to pitch for Naugatuck but in the first inning he was touched for enough hits to bring in two runs. This was only the start of the festivities and the locals laid off or were held off until the fifth when they scored again.

A big crash came in the seventh. Leary had replaced Foley on the mound for Naugatuck and was breezing along prettily when he received several severe jolts. LeBell hit for the circuit, McCann singled, Sipples doubled, St. John walked. Alexander scored two men on a double and Larson and Lamprecht, who followed him, each singled. Five runs came across the pan.

This put a crimp in Leary's sails but finished the scoring for the game. Naugatuck was held to two hits by Fisher who pitched a masterly game while the Sons seemed to be able to hit when they pleased.

Alexander and Ballsieper were up among the leading batmen, each with two hits, one of Alexander's a double. Fox and Tuckey were the only Naugatuck batters to hit Fisher.

Sunday's game was won by the score of 7 to 4 with Tommy Sipples doing his stuff for the locals. He allowed only three hits while the Sons were pounding out seven. Leaders in batting were Bill Schieldge and Mike Zwick, each of whom connected twice. Both men hit well in the pinches.

Naugatuck scored four runs in the third inning without making a hit. All of the Manchester errors, there were seven, were committed in this frame and for the rest of the battle Naugatuck was held without crossing the pan again.

Manchester failed to score until the fourth frame and were behind. They scored two in this inning and followed this up by one in the fifth, two in the sixth and one each in the seventh and eighth.

Next Sunday the Sons will entertain the Polish Americans of Rockville here and on Friday night will stack up against the All Rockville at the West Side. This will be the second of a series, the first to be played on Wednesday.

METROPOLITAN PLAY OFF ON NEXT SATURDAY

New York, July 19.—The third play-off for the Metropolitan golf championship between Gene Sarazen, defending champion, and MacDonald Smith, Lakeville pro, will be held at Salisbury Plains next Saturday. They were still tied today following a double-play off of eighteen holes each yesterday, each shooting a scintillating seventy-two in the morning round and a brilliant seventy-two in the afternoon.

The gallery gave Sarazen an ovation when he dropped a long putt at the final hole as the culmination of a hectic day.

A single by Stephenson gave Root of the Cubs a two to one decision over McQuillan of the Giants.

TEX RICKARD TELLS HIS SECRET TODAY

The Low Down on Dempsey-Tunney Bout Due This Afternoon.

Chicago, July 19.—Despite Tex Rickard's diplomatic denials that a definite decision had been reached in the matter of a Dempsey-Tunney world's heavyweight bout, it was authentically learned today that the New York impresario had confided to certain notables close to the sporting public that the bout would be staged here in September, on or about the sixteenth.

The site, as originally announced in New York Saturday, is said to be Soldiers' Field in Grant Park, although Rickard declined to confirm this until this afternoon when he has promised an official statement disclosing all details in connection with his visit here and, presumably the announcement of the bout, including the site, the promoter and the backers.

Two emissaries arrived here this morning from New York to persuade Rickard to delay the issuance of this statement until after the New York Athletic Commission meets tomorrow. Rickard received several telephone calls from Gotham yesterday and this morning imploring him to withhold his announcement, most notable being one from Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, who said he had been in conference with Commissioner Muldon of the New York commission. Rickard was unwilling to disclose the nature of the conference.

Statement This P. M. Rickard, however, declared these interruptions would have no bearing on the issuance of the statement, which would transpire this afternoon as per schedule.

Chicago will become the promoter's permanent headquarters, he told reporters, if he decides to stage the Dempsey-Tunney bout in this city.

What, if any, impression Rickard's announcement will have on the Illinois state boxing commission was a matter of conjecture today, but it was rumored among those reputed to be in the know that the holding of a Dempsey-Tunney bout at this time and the "intrusion" of Rickard would create no little concern at the commission headquarters.

Rickard denied that he has married Miss Maxine Elliott Hodges, 19-year-old actress of Chicago, formerly a well-known child actress. The promoter declared he was only engaged to the actress, however, and that they would be married in the fall. He gave her age as 25 and said he had known her for eight years.

PUTNAM SILK COMPANY TEAM LOSES TO CHENEY BROTHERS

McLaughlin Keeps Hits Scattered While Team Mates Hit With Ease—Locals Get Revenge.

A savage attack which brought with it 11 hits scored eight runs for the C. B. A. Saturday and won for them over the Belding-Hemingway company team of Putnam. Even though McLaughlin allowed 10 hits, the visitors scored only four runs. Putnam had previously defeated the locals in a game at that place.

Clary Hanna led the attack on the visitors. He went to bat four times and connected safely in three of them. Others who added to the visiting team's discomfiture were Lewis and Foley, both of whom hit twice. Emil Pitt came through with a triple on one occasion.

Cheney Brothers started right out after Plankey in the first inning when they brought in two runs on two hits. They continued their scoring in the third with two more runs on four hits. Nothing more happened for the locals until the seventh when they put forth their best efforts, scoring four more men.

Putnam did not start until the second inning when McLaughlin allowed one hit. A run came over but further scoring was stopped by the local pitcher who retired the next three men in a row. The visitors came through again in the fourth when they made two more tallies. A belated rally in the eighth netted them another and Cheney was masters of the situation for the remaining innings.

McLaughlin Keeps Hits Scattered While Team Mates Hit With Ease—Locals Get Revenge.

Putnam had previously defeated the locals in a game at that place. Clary Hanna led the attack on the visitors. He went to bat four times and connected safely in three of them.

Cheney Brothers started right out after Plankey in the first inning when they brought in two runs on two hits. They continued their scoring in the third with two more runs on four hits.

Putnam did not start until the second inning when McLaughlin allowed one hit. A run came over but further scoring was stopped by the local pitcher who retired the next three men in a row.

The visitors came through again in the fourth when they made two more tallies. A belated rally in the eighth netted them another and Cheney was masters of the situation for the remaining innings.

DIAMOND DUST

Bob McGraw's pitching was the big gun in Brooklyn's 2 to 1 victory over the Reds. Pete Donohue also was there with bells on but Cincinnati's errors spilled the beans.

The Cardinals nosed out the Phillies in the ninth, nine to seven, on Southworth's homer. The Quakers slid gracefully back into the cellar.

The National League race today looks tighter than a mail order suit after a thunderhower as the result of Cincinnati's defeat by Brooklyn. Only three games separate the Reds and the fifth-place Cubs, with the Giants a game and a half behind the Bruins.

Washington lost to Cleveland, five to three, and slipped back into the second division. The Indians beat Coveleskie for the first time in two years.

TWO SWIMMING RECORDS

Hoosick Falls, N. Y., July 19.—Two new swimming marks by girl swimmers, were in the records today. In the meet at Babcock Lake here Miss Martha Norellus swam the 500-yard free style in 12:55, a new world's record. Miss Eileen O'Mara covered the 200-metre backstroke course in 3:22 1-5, a new American record.

Value of mineral production in British Columbia in 1925 set a record when the output totaled $61,492,242.

Now begins the great national sport betwixt American and Frenchman.

Someone has settled for us the little matter of port tipping by telling us to give about what we would in our native land.

Small House Needn't LOOK Small

Since one of the best ways to cut down expense in building a home is to make the outside dimensions of the house as small as possible, a number of builders sacrifice both appearance and convenience to their desire to gain compactness.

In this house, however, the designer has been able to steer past both dangers. As a result, here is a home that requires an excavation only 24 feet square, that contains six rooms and a bath, and that still looks spacious and comfortable, outside and in.

The New England doorway in the front alcove, with the graceful fan light above the door frame, lends dignity and charm to the house, and the comfortable vestibule and spacious living room add materially to this impression.

It Kills Old and Young

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service.

Whooping cough, like measles, but in striking contrast to such diseases as diphtheria and typhoid fever, has steadily refused to yield to the efforts of health officers and physicians in their attempts to control it.

Here again as in measles, we have a period in which the disease exists in a highly contagious state, the symptoms of the disease being for a time not sufficiently manifest to enable one to be certain that the condition is whooping cough.

This period in which the disease is not recognized may last from three to ten days, or even longer. It is often difficult to recognize whooping cough until the characteristic whoop appears, particularly if the disease is mild; though a cough which is paroxysmal, especially if it is accompanied by vomit-

The accompanying chart illustrates the rise and fall in the tidal waves of whooping cough, the figures based on 100,000 population.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL! FIRST LESSON

The Answer to Longing Old as Eve and Fresh as the Sun.

Ruth Andrea demonstrating the exercise for keeping the chin beautiful.

SYMPTOMS—A wrinkled and sagged condition under the chin revealing too much of the mechanical structure of the neck.

DIAGNOSIS—The tissues are undernourished and require stimulation and rejuvenation. Such a condition is natural as one advances in years, and is an indication of age, so it should be postponed in life at late as possible.

TREATMENT—Station both your thumbs at the corner of your lower jaw. With your fingertips moving from the center of your chin, gently follow the creases, erasing and molding the flesh with gentle strokes. Before you start, dip your finger tips in a nourishing skin food or massage cream and work in all your skin will absorb. Do this night and morning. The wrinkles will do a fade-out.

PROPER CARE After using, an electric iron should be carefully covered to protect it from dampness, and the cord should be disconnected.

TO AVOID SHRINKING Flannels should be washed in several waters, all of the same temperature.

Home Page Editorials Culture Lies Within Us

by Olive Roberts Barton.

A famous New York preacher said, "Real culture is a love of loveliness. All loveliness is founded on truth. There is truth in line, truth of tone, truth of thought and truth of living. There can be no real culture without truth."

There lived on a farm many miles from a railroad or street car an old lady who had been a widow for fifty years. She had a daughter and nearly all of the farm work.

The house inside was bright and sweet with chintz and rug and pets, the kitchen as immaculate as hands could make it. Behind the house where even the few travelers on the lonely road could not see it, was a garden.

UNUSUAL SANDWICH If you want an unusual sandwich to serve for afternoon tea, try thin slices of nut bread, with a filling of pineapple and cream cheese.

CARE OF BREAD BOX Scald out the bread box often during the warm weather as bread has a tendency to mold quickly.

RESTORE FRESHNESS When lettuce or salad greens are wilted, wash them carefully in a pan of cold water into which two tablespoons of lemon juice or vinegar have been added.

BUYING HINT During the summer months, purchase flour and meal in small quantities at a time, as they have a tendency to become rancid, and they are frequently attacked by worms or insects.

YOUR ICE BILL Never put warm food into the refrigerator. It raises the temperature and increases the ice bill.

THOSE SMALL FRUITS Strawberries, cherries, currants and all small fruits that decay rapidly will keep much better if they are removed from the box in which they are purchased and spread out on a platter or flat dish until needed.

LIVED HERE 30 YEARS, NEVER SAW SO. END

Jimmy Cavallo, for over thirty years a fixture in the North End, has sold his little business and with his adopted daughter, has gone to Canada.

It was said of Jimmy that although he lived for over thirty years within a block of the railroad depot, he never saw it. At any rate, no one ever saw Jimmy away from his little store on North Main street. He never was to the Center and never in his life was at the South End.

Day in and day out, seven days a week, Jimmy could be seen in his little store. During the warm weather he sat on a chair on the sidewalk. In winter he sat just beyond the door of his store. He slept and ate in a little rear room. His adopted daughter boarded with a family on North street.

Knowing this, the old resident rubbed his eyes on Saturday when they found Jimmy missing from the store. When they heard that he had gone to Canada they could hardly believe it.

"I've known Jimmy for over 25 years," said one man. "I live near him and can see him daily but I never saw him go over 20 feet from his store in these 25 years. I believe that he never saw the railroad depot, and that's only a half block away from his store. I'm certain that he never was in the South End because he often asked me what kind of a place that section was."
