

SPECIAL JURY FOR HALL CASE IN FEW DAYS

Milwaukee Woman Asserts She Can Identify Man as Double Murderer; Wit- ness Freed on Bail.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 2.—William Phillips, formerly night watchman at the New Jersey State College for Women, was released today from Somerset county jail under $2,500 bail. He had been held as a material witness in the resumed investigation of the Hall-Mills murders.

Phillips was arrested at his New Brunswick home on the day after the arrest of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall.

Bail was set at $5,000 for Phillips and later reduced to $2,500. Frederick E. Koehlein, New Brunswick, N. J., furnished the bond.

A conference at the office of State Senator Alexander Simpson in Jersey City was called for today to outline the fight of the newly appointed special prosecutor.

Exhuming the bodies of Hall and Mrs. Mills for a thorough autopsy, will be one of the first demands of Simpson.

Convening of a special grand jury within the next few days is considered a foregone conclusion.

"I intend to learn first the real facts of the previous investigation," said Senator Simpson, "and then try to find out what influence, if any, was used to block the inquiry."

Meanwhile, authorities here have been shaken into a new frame of mind with receipt of a message from Mrs. Harding that she can identify a man prominent in the case as one of the men in an automobile who stopped her at the Phillips farm the morning of the murder.

Was Third Automobile.

Mrs. Harding's assertions agree in one respect with the machine, according to Simpson, "I will try to find out what influence, if any, was used to block the inquiry."

When Mrs. Harding, or Mrs. Thomas Mahoney as she was known here, arrives in Somerville, she will be confronted by the "big woman" who has always maintained that she saw three automobiles at the scene of the murders. Mrs. Harding says hers was the third machine.

The man accused by Mrs. Harding leaped in front of her machine, according to Simpson, "I will try to find out what influence, if any, was used to block the inquiry."

Mrs. Harding Not Sent For.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Dorothy Virginia DeLoach Harding, 28-year-old Milwaukee woman, who insists that she was close by the night the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were murdered in Somerset county, New Jersey, was waiting at a Chicago hotel today for word from New Brunswick, N. J. She has professed a desire to go east and relate her experience the night of the slaying. She believes that what she has to say will clear up the case.

Thus far the authorities at New Brunswick have not communicated with Mrs. Harding, in spite of her positive declaration that she could identify the man who killed Hall. She revealed his name to reporters, declaring that she was breaking silence to save Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, now charged with the slaying of her husband. Mrs. Hall is innocent, she avers.

The man named by Mrs. Harding figured prominently during the early investigation of the case. She said she identified him by a picture printed in a New York paper after the slaying.

Has Communion Service.

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, accused of murder of her husband, Rev. Edward W. Hall, slain with Mrs. Eleanor Mills, failed to attend Sunday services in the aristocratic Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, of which her husband was rector. Instead a

BRITISH CENSUS FIGURES SHOW SURPLUS WOMEN

London, Aug. 2.—Complete census statistics for the year 1924 show that there were nearly two million "surplus" women in England and Wales at that time.

In June 1924 the population of England and Wales was estimated at 38,746,000 persons, 18,545,000 being males and 20,201,000 females. The marriage rate was 13.3 per thousand, a slight increase over previous years.

CAT, NOT LIQUOR, CAUSED ACCIDENT

So Says Driver, But Judge Believes Him Not; Fined $125 and Costs.

Only two cases came before Judge Johnson in the Manchester police court this morning and one of these was a continued case. Herman J. Laymen of Wethersfield who figured in an accident on East Center street on the night of July 15 at which time his car ran into a telephone pole was brought to court on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was represented in court by Attorney Joseph B. Griffin of Hartford.

The accident in question took place opposite the home of W. B. Rogers on East center street. The Ford coupe that Laymen was driving was badly damaged and one man who was with Laymen at the time was badly hurt and taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital.

The witnesses for the state included Sergeant John Crockett who investigated the accident and went to the scene of the accident at the time and Dr. G. A. Lundberg who was called to give medical aid to the men.

Sergeant Crockett testified that Laymen was driving the car at the time he was intoxicated. He admitted he was the driver of the car. The sergeant said that the man was conscious at the time he had the interview with him. Todd saw the accident and went to the scene. He saw Laymen on the ground in a dazed condition and he said that Laymen wanted to get away from the accident as soon as possible. Todd said that Laymen was intoxicated, and the odor of liquor was very apparent and he could not walk straight.

Dr. Lundberg was there a few minutes after the accident. He did not see Laymen at that time, but saw him later at the hospital. He testified that the man had been drinking and was unable to drive an automobile. He had a very little conversation with him.

The Cat Did It.

In his own behalf, Laymen denied he had been drinking. He said he had one bottle of beer for his supper and that was at 7:30. The accident occurred at 11 o'clock. He said he had no liquor although a bottle partly filled with liquor was found in the car when the accident took place. He said he came to Manchester to attend a dance and the reason for the accident was because he had seen a cat run across the highway in front of him. He became upset and jammed on the brakes. He said it was not a black cat but was a grayish color.

Prosecuting Attorney Hathaway said it was a case of whether he

NURSE, NOT AIMEE, ORMISTON DEPOSES

Makes Affidavit That Evange- list Was Not His Companion at Carmel Cottage.

Los Angeles, Aug. 2.—An Affidavit signed by Kenneth G. Ormiston to the effect that he was at the Benedict cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea with a woman, but not Aimee Semple McPherson, was received today by District Attorney Asa Keyes from Chicago.

Ormiston's affidavit, Keyes said, sets forth that he was at the Carmel cottage with a nurse.

The affidavit, which was received in an air mail letter from Chicago, will be taken before the grand jury tomorrow along with evidence assembled by the investigators, Keyes said.

Previously Keyes had announced that he had dropped the investigation of the McPherson case. He declared that the evidence tending to identify a "Mr. and Mrs. George McIntyre," occupants of a cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea, was too "indefinite and inconclusive" to warrant submitting the case again to the grand jury with a recommendation that the possibility of perjury be investigated.

M'LADY ASTOR AIRS HER IDEAS ON ARMS, RUM

Disarmament Lunacy, Prohi- bition Fine; Won't Believe Girls Here Smoke, Drink; She Didn't, You Know.

Boston, Aug. 2.—Lady Astor arrived in Boston today, a passenger on the steamship Samaria. Lady Astor comes to visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, at Dark Harbor, Maine.

Lady Astor had not been here since 1903, when she divorced Robert Gould Shaw, marrying Viscount Astor three years later. She made a function of being interviewed.

"America has more peace societies than any country in the world," she said, "and you don't get peace with peace societies."

"It is seeing what is wrong in one's country in order to find the cause and remove it, which makes for peace. The world doesn't want war, it wants peace. Just to sit back and hope for peace is not the way. Peace doesn't come this way."

Disarmament Madness.

"Total disarmament is madness. No sane or right thinking person ever wants total disarmament. It is an ideal to work to, but total disarmament right now would be just like getting rid of your police force."

Then she switched to the girl of today saying: "I can't believe it is the mother's fault. If girls are bad their home training is bad. I never had cocktails when I was a girl. My father said to that."

"Prohibition," said Lady Astor, "is a natural means toward settlement. America will never go back on it, you bet. The next generation will not even think about drink. As for myself I won't go to places here where I'll have a shock. I'm only here for rest and to enjoy a month's vacation with my children."

"Of course, prohibition is not a paramount question in England. The coal crisis overshadows everything. General Andrews is enlisting the cooperation of some right thinking prominent people. I heard that Premier Baldwin was helping him."

Doubts Drunk Arrests.

"I doubt very much that arrests for intoxication are on the increase in this country. They must be starting to arrest them now."

Returning to girls, Lady Astor went on: "Girls don't frighten men in connection with the so-called moral decline. You will find that in any home anywhere by earnest parents are always lauded."

"I haven't any ideals for my daughter. I know where she is. I know where she goes. I just want her to be a natural girl. The girls of today are free from tosh."

Turning to the war debt and the alleged anti-American sentiment in England, she continued:

"A debtor and a creditor are not usually the best of friends. For God's sake speak for kindly feelings. Although I don't speak with authority because I don't know, but I have heard statesmen declare that general cancellation of war debts is politically and economically wise."

Just Press Attack.

"The fling of ill-feeling which occurred in England over the war debt was merely a press attack, and right-thinking people passed it by."

"England will stand back of her

WARD'S WHEREABOUTS KNOWN TO RELATIVES

Fact Disclosed When Hoax Letter Declares Him Prison- er on an Island.

New York, Aug. 2.—A note signed "Walter Ward," declaring that the writer was being held captive on Robin's Island, near Riverhead, N. Y., is regarded by police as a hoax.

The note, found in a bottle which was washed ashore at New Suffolk, on Great Peconic bay, read: "God on Robin's Island. For God's sake send help. Walter Ward."

Although officially the son of the millionaire baker has been missing since his mysterious disappearance on May 6 last, officials at the Missing Persons Bureau said they had been notified by Ward's relatives that they had been in touch with him for six weeks and knew where he was.

The bureau will make only a formal investigation of the finding of the new note, it was said, although Ward's present whereabouts is not publicly known.

Ward, who was acquitted three years ago of the murder of Clarence Peters, recently had been reported held captive near Trenton, N. J., after his abandoned automobile was found there with the windshield broken and a large stone on the front seat.

Coolidge May Help Dedicate Monument to Blue and Grey

White Pines Camp, N. Y., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge today received from Marcus Toney, 86-year-old Confederate veteran of Nashville, an invitation to participate in the dedication of the Blue-and-Gray monument at Nashville in September, the exact date to be set at the convenience of the executive. Mr. Coolidge took the invitation under advisement. Toney is one of the few living original Ku Klux Klansmen. He is affiliated with that organization when it was organized to save the south from the "carpetbagger." He fought during the entire war.

Harrison is married, and has two children. He is a timekeeper in the employ of Cheney Brothers, Hart, who is a native of New Britain, has a wife and child, and is a silk in-ventor. However, President Dewey had interviewed both men, and approved of their appointments.

A communication was received from the Fire Commissioners of the South Manchester Fire district saying that drivers of fire apparatus have been notified not to exceed 25 miles per hour at all times.

JUGO SLAV ACT EQUALS WAR UPON BULGARIA

Orders Troops to Pursue Raid- ers Across Border Into Neighbor's Territory.

London, Aug. 2.—The Jugoslavian minister of war has given orders for troops to pursue Comitadjoi Bulgarian soil, an act which is tantamount to a declaration of war against Bulgaria, according to a Central News dispatch from Belgrade.

The Belgrade correspondent of the Central News says that following raids by comitadjoi, from Bulgaria, on the Yugoslavian frontier, a note of protest was sent to Sofia asking that Bulgaria take steps to suppress the comitadjoi.

No reply was received to this protest and the minister of war then gave orders for Yugoslavian troops to take action against the comitadjoi, irrespective of frontier lines.

2 SWIMMERS BATTLE THE CHANNEL TODAY

Dover, Eng., Aug. 2.—Miss Clarabelle Barratt, of New York, began her attempt to swim the English channel at 8 o'clock this morning. She was accompanied by a launch occupied by friends.

Using a powerful breast stroke in a calm, warm sea, Miss Barratt at 10:30 o'clock had covered five miles and was showing not the slightest trace of fatigue.

Local experts expressed the opinion that the latest aspirant for channel honors would succeed, being favored by perfect weather conditions.

Another aspirant, D. I. Drewster of London, started an attempt from South Foreland at 11:30.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Brewster was five miles off Folkestone, having covered eleven miles swimming and drifting.

ASSAILS U. S. FOR CANADIAN POISON DEATHS

British M. P. in Heated De- bate Says Andrews Would Better Stop Flow from This Country.

London, Aug. 2.—Alcoholic poisonings in Buffalo and other points along the Canadian border were the subject of bitter debate in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Rev. Frederick MacQuiston, M. P., of Glasgow, attacked the recent Anglo-American agreement for the suppression of rum-running and declared that Gen. L. C. Andrews, American prohibition director, might better have spent his time in keeping American poison alcohol out of Canada.

Does Canada Kill Americans?

"Have you been informed of American citizens being poisoned by liquor smuggled by their own nationals or British subjects into the United States?" queried Rev. MacQuiston of Sir Arthur Chamberlain, foreign minister.

"Has your attention been called to the poisoning of more than a score of British nationals in British territory by drink smuggled by Americans into British territory?"

"I suggest General Andrews might return to his own country and endeavor to discover the state of affairs there."

Sir Austen said he deprecated the tone of Rev. MacQuiston's remarks and that there is no doubt that both Americans and Canadians are involved in running liquor across the Canadian border.

ACTRESS SHOT DEAD, GIRL FRIEND HELD

Tragedy in New Jersey Sum- mer Cottage Follows Quar- rel of Chums.

Mount Holly, N. J., Aug. 2.—Pearl McSherry, a New York actress spending the summer with two girl companions in a cottage at Brown's Mills, a small hamlet near here, was shot and killed early today.

Police are holding Betty Queen, one of the dead girl's companions. A shotgun was used.

Dorine O'Connor, the third girl living in the cottage, told the authorities, she said that she heard Miss McSherry and Miss Queen quarrelling violently in an adjoining room. A shot suddenly rang out. She told the authorities she ran into the room and found Miss McSherry lying on the floor. The shotgun which the girls had obtained for protection, lay on the floor, still smoking.

Police have been unable so far to learn what caused the quarrel.

2 MAY DIE FROM BLIND CONEY SUBWAY PANIC

500 Persons Involved in Panic, Many Injured; No Cause Is Discovered.

New York, Aug. 2.—Five hundred homeward bound revelers were panic stricken early today during a stampede in a packed Coney Island subway express train running at full speed, with fists flying, women shrieking and windows crashing.

When the train stopped, Abraham Schinsky, 24, and John Benson were taken to a hospital suffering from fractured skulls and internal injuries received when they were trampled on. Twenty-five others were cut and bruised.

Police were unable to learn the cause of the stampede.

Stallion on Trestle.

While more than 100,000 other commuters waited in trains, stalled by a power-house short circuit, along the Long Island railroad, hundreds of passengers in four trains stopped on a high trestle outside of East New York today climbed over slippery tracks and trembling ladders to the street level many feet below.

MEXICAN FACTION WOULD OUST ROME

Schismatic Catholics Declare Many Priests Are Ready to Abandon Vatican.

Mexico City, August 2.—Early efforts to effect peace between the Mexican government and the Catholic Church have failed, it was reported today.

Although no official statement has been made it is reported that members of the diplomatic corps of Mexico City have made overtures, intimating to the Mexican government that they would be willing to use their good offices as intermediaries. Such overtures have brought no response from the government.

"Nothing to Mediate."

While there are many rumors that the Church dignitaries are willing to accept mediation, it is said semi-officially that the government's attitude is there is nothing to mediate, since it is merely enforcing laws which are upon the statute books and that the only way in which the government policy can be changed is through legislation.

The absence of physical violence and the stern stand taken by the government leads many here to believe that the struggle will be long drawn out.

The closing of the church of San Jose Degarcia, a Protestant Episcopal church supported by organizations in the United States, is understood to have been directed by the government as an indication that its policies are not directed at the Catholic Church alone.

Assassination Plot.

Frustation of an alleged plot for the assassination of President Calles has led to strengthening of the government's police efforts, but the tension, which on Saturday and Sunday was electric, did not appear quite so great today.

Eight persons were under arrest today charged with being implicated in the attempt to assassinate President Calles. Their leader is Delores Lemus, 16-year-old government tylist. The others include Andres Araujo, son of a federal senator. The alleged conspirators are members of a Catholic organization which is conducting an active campaign for an economic crisis.

Delayed reports stated that six women and six children had died of asphyxiation in an overcrowded church in Pachuca, in the state of Hidalgo, on Friday.

"Back Government or Go"

Reports that all government employees not wholeheartedly in support of the government attitude would be dismissed were current this morning following the parade here of some 60,000 government employees and members of the Mexican Confederation of Labor.

The government made it plain that it would tolerate no insubordination when it abruptly dismissed Carlos Landa Lozano, attache of

The tour of duty at Fort Ethan Allen included instruction in the duties of a garrison, daily four-hour equitation classes, field tactics and other instructions which the cavalrymen have to go through. The last two days of the encampment were spent at Underhill, Vermont, where the unit bivouaced over night.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY HALL CASE SOON

(Continued from page 1) special service was conducted by the Rev. J. Mervin Pettit in the Hall mansion, at which Mrs. Hall received holy communion. There were present "Willie" Stevens, her eccentric brother, and other members of her family.

During the service, the clergyman was interrupted by a fist fight between Harry Opplegate, a chauffeur for Mrs. Charles Carpenter, a cousin of Mrs. Hall, and a newspaper photographer.

FIRST PROBE "FARCE"

Doctor Says Grand Jury Got No Autopsy Report.

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 2.—Sensational and previously undisclosed evidence "too gruesome in its details to be made generally public," but upsetting all previous theories of the crime in the case of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, were murdered as they sat side by side in their automobile was revealed here today by Dr. E. I. Cronk, health officer of New Brunswick.

Dr. Cronk was one of four physicians who were present at the autopsy on the bodies of the pastor and Mrs. Mills. The record of their findings, which Dr. Cronk declared "has a vital bearing on the criminal aspects of the case," never was presented to the grand jury, he declared.

Dr. Cronk openly characterized as a farce.

Dr. Cronk said that he went to Somerville expecting to be called before the grand jury but that he was never summoned and that the grand jury never heard his official report of the autopsies.

Slain in Automobile.
A comparison of this report and that made by Coroner Long would be "very significant," Dr. Cronk added.

His examination of the wounds, Dr. Cronk said, convinced him that Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills were slain in an automobile and their bodies later taken to the crab apple tree under which they were found.

"Mrs. Mills was shot four times," he said, "two bullets lodged in her skull. A third entered her right temple and went out the back of her head. The fourth merely split her lip. Dr. Hall was shot but the bullet which grazed Mrs. Mills' lips was the one which killed Dr. Hall."

Crime Committed Early.
Dr. Cronk's theory that the shooting occurred elsewhere than at the now-famous crabapple tree was in part borne out by a story of Mrs. Nellie Russell, aged negro, which indicated the couple might have been slain hours earlier than previously supposed.

MANCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Manager Jack Sanson of the State Theater this afternoon got in touch with motion picture authorities in an effort to get an early booking of the film, "The Battle of Niantic." He said he was attempting to give Manchester patrons the first possible showing of the picture.

The "Battle of Niantic," it will be remembered, was filmed at Camp Trumbull, Niantic when the local soldier boys were there. It is a humorous two-act film which deals with the army life.

Captain Herbert H. Bissell, of Company G, plays one of the major parts in the picture, that of a hard-boiled Top Sergeant. Several of the other members of the Manchester companies play prominent parts while the entire personnel of both local units comes into action in the war maneuvers.

"NO-FUNDS" CHECKS CAUSE FRANC SLUMP

(Continued from page 1) is partly from investors who buy French bonds and partly from the Bank of France. The latter transaction is the basic element of viciousness in French financial juggling.

Bank Is Private
The Bank of France is a private institution, partly under government control because it is the depository for government funds (when there are any) and partly because it issues the French paper currency.

Normally, the right to print paper money is safeguarded by a high gold reserve in the bank's vaults. Now, however, the French government has disregarded all questions of an adequate gold reserve, as it was before the war. The government borrows from the Bank of France by the simple expedient of passing a law through Parliament authorizing the bank to increase its advances to the government's account. These advances are really made by the printing press. The bank prints billions of new paper francs and turns them over to the government without increasing its gold reserve in any adequate way.

Printing Press Finance
People in France possessing paper money, as everybody does, since the circulation of gold is illegal, have become frightened lest the francs they hold will never be redeemed by the bank in terms of real money. So francs constantly are falling, as if a huge national gambling game were in progress.

Advances to the government by the Bank of France up to two years ago amounted to 22,700,000,000 francs. Last year they had reached 27,400,000,000 francs and this year they have grown to 33,350,000,000 francs. Simultaneously, the legal limit for note circulation to be issued by the Bank of France, which was fixed at 45,000,000,000 francs early in 1925, was raised to 51,000,000,000, in June, 1925 and again increased to 55,500,000,000 this year.

The Gold Reserve
Behind these huge piles of printing press money, the Bank of France has a gold reserve of $1,108,681,000, by normal reckoning. This is not paper, but the actual yellow metal itself.

It is interesting to note the ratio between the number of francs in circulation. Divide the number of francs by the gold reserve in dollars and the result is approximately 40—the present number of francs that can be obtained for a dollar. As the number of francs goes up, while the gold reserve remains stationary the value of the franc tends to decline.

Living on Loan.
The French government has been living on what remains of the $100,000,000 loan made two years ago by J. P. Morgan & Co. to bolster up the franc.

France has fallen to this plight primarily because the French people refused to bear their financial burden of the World War. They expected to make Germany pay all the war expenses and present them with a handsome bonus of several billions as well. Therefore, they did not tax themselves adequately during the conflict, as Great Britain did. From August 1, 1914, to June 30, 1919, France spent on the war and its immediate aftermath 280,688,000,000 francs. During the same period, the government raised by taxation little more than 60,000,000,000 francs, the balance, about 220,000,000,000 francs being

MEMBERS OF NO. 4 HOLD AN OUTING

Journey to South Glastonbury and Spend the Day Enjoyably.

"A rousing success."
That is what members of the Hose and Ladder Company No. 4, S. M. F. D., term their annual outing which was held yesterday at Colt's Gun Club.

Nearly fifty regular and honorary members of the company left Manchester early yesterday morning for the scene of their outing which is located on the Connecticut River in South Glastonbury. The trip both ways was made by automobiles.

A roast chicken dinner with all the trimmings was served by Chef Osano and his band of assistants. In the afternoon sports of all sorts were indulged in. There were contests in volleyball, baseball and quoits.

The party returned home at 6 o'clock last night.

Four of the members of the party returned in George Smith's motor boat to Hartford. On the return journey, they stopped at the scene of a drowning case in Hockanum and lent their assistance. The facts concerning this are told in another column of tonight's Herald.

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA NOTES.

Today was a big day for the Juniors. All the morning was spent in rehearsal for their pageant. "The Bell," which was presented this afternoon. The story of the pageant deals with the visit of two boys to the Sequi-Centennial where "Miss Columbia" shows them prominent events in the history of our forefathers' struggle for liberty.

The leading part, that of "Miss Columbia" was taken by a young actress from New York. Her acting was influential in making the pageant a success. The Juniors wish to express their thanks for her services and cooperation.

All the Juniors feel that the praise for the success of the pageant rightfully belongs to Miss Sugg. She coached the entire pageant. She was through her efforts that the Juniors were able to learn their parts in such a short time.

Miss Marjorie E. Waddell, of 361 Main street was the very efficient assistant for the pageant. The officers of Junior town were introduced by Miss Sugg last Saturday evening. Each officer then gave a short talk on subjects relative to Chautauqua.

The service commissioners were busy Saturday morning transporting gifts from the Chautauqua tent to the hospital. Each Junior brought a gift to the Saturday morning session at the hospital for the children there. This is one of the many helpful things the Juniors were taught to do by Junior Chautauqua.

Everyone has enjoyed Junior Chautauqua activities under Miss Sugg's leadership very much and all of them want Chautauqua next year.

(Continued from page 1) was or was not under the influence of liquor. The evidence of the officers and that of Todd and Dr. Lundberg was all convincing. The men were telling the truth.

Liquor in Car.
Attorney Griffin thought Laymen attempted to tell the truth as he saw it. He thought it a straight story about the car. It was possible for that night and it was possible for the car to skid. Judge Johnson said that Todd's testimony was clear and satisfactory. He told a convincing and straightforward story of the facts as he saw it. The evidence convinced him that Laymen was guilty. He imposed a fine of $125 and costs.

Speeding.
David C. Wilbur of New Haven paid a fine of $10 and costs for speeding his car. He was arrested last evening by Traffic Officer Wilbur on his way through town and speeding his car up to 37 miles an hour cutting in and out of traffic.

OUR CAVALRYMEN ARE BACK HOME

Six Members of Troop C Return After Two Weeks Training.

Manchester's cavalrymen are dismounted today. Minus their olive drab uniform, the local members of Troop C, First Squadron Cavalry, C. N. G., their annual two weeks of military training at Niantic, have returned to civilian life. Tanned, and with health improved, the soldier boys show the benefits they have gained from two weeks outdoor exercise.

The six Manchester men who are cavalrymen are: Second Lieutenant John Learned, Sergeant Harry Benson, Privates Paul Carlson, Ernest Johnson, Wilfred Bulla and Cyril La Shay. They belong to Troop C from Hartford of which Captain Philip S. Wainwright is the commanding officer. The other units with Troop C were Troop A Headquarters and Troop B from Hartford.

Road Hiking. The first week was spent on the road hiking. Field maneuvers were held in various sections of the state. Among the places where the cavalrymen bivouacked for the night were East Haven, Lake Quonnapaug, East Haddam, Roger's Lake in East Lyme and Fred Stone's ranch.

The second week was spent at the government reservation at Camp Trumbull, Niantic. Governor's Day was held Thursday afternoon. Owing to the absence of Governor John H. Trumbull who was in Wyoming, Lieutenant Governor Brainard acted as his representative. One of the prettiest parts of the exhibition given by the cavalrymen was the sabre charge. It is a spectacular sight to see the mounted men, with heads bent forward and sabres lowered, dashing forward at breakneck speed. And it thrilled the visitors at Camp Trumbull last Thursday.

The military training program at Camp Trumbull came to a halt early Saturday morning when the cavalrymen broke camp and rode home.

Horses Like Water. An interesting part of the cavalry life as related by one of the local members is interesting. It is about the eagerness in which the horses go in bathing.

In his story he tells how some of the horses take to the water like ducks while others are somewhat reluctant about plunging. The men ride the horses into the water and this gives them thrills galore. Sometimes the horses stand around the edge of the water and hesitate. Then all of a sudden they gallop into the water. The "jockey", who is usually clad in a bathing suit, is often thrown to the ground or into the water, providing he is caught unexpectedly. But if he is alert, he rides the horse out into the water until he gets several yards from shore. Then he spills off the horse's back in order to lessen the weight. However, he hangs onto the horse's mane so the animal will not get out of his control.

The Trip Back. Then, after the horse has had sufficient bathing, the rider turns him shoreward. Clinging to the mane, the rider is towed toward shore. When the water becomes shallow enough for the horse to touch bottom things begin to happen. For it is at this moment that the rider attempts to mount the horse again. If he is successful, all is serene but if he is not, it is a different story. The horses usually leap the last few steps to shore in gallops. So it is plain to see if the rider is caught half mounted when the horse begins his spurt, he gets a tumble. And the water is shallow at this point and sometimes gives him a bruise or two.

ANOTHER PARLEY TO BOOST N. E.

Delegates from All Over Section to Discuss Industries and Finances.

Willard B. Rogers, local politician, and general manager and secretary of the Fuller Battery Company of Hartford has been named chairman of the publicity committee working on the second New England Conference which will be held in Hartford Thursday and Friday, November 18 and 19. The New England Conference will be similar to the meeting held in Worcester, Mass., last fall at which time a study was made of New England, industrially, agriculturally and financially. At the forthcoming conference, a report of the studies which have been made of New England since the last conference will be revealed and acted upon in order to awaken New England to a more proficient way of promoting its welfare.

Plan Mass Meeting. In commenting on the conference to be held in November, Mr. Rogers added that a mass meeting will be held in New Haven the latter part of this month at which time preliminary plans for the coming conference will be discussed. Over 1,000 representatives of the various Chambers of Commerce, not to mention numerous representatives from Rotary clubs and other important civic organizations will be invited. Mr. Rogers stated that the exact date for the preliminary meeting had not yet been selected but added it would be announced shortly. One of the main purposes of the session in New Haven is to enlighten the state on the importance of the forthcoming conference.

To Discuss Town. Located as it is, in the heart of one of the most industrial states in New England, Manchester business men will naturally take added interest in the conference. Famed as the "Silk City," and conceded the largest silk manufacturing town in the world, Manchester is expected to be discussed freely in connection with silk manufacture.

LOCAL FISHERMAN GETS 4-POUNDER IN COVENTRY

Ed Morgan will have something to say if there are any more big catches in this section this year. Ed came through with a four-pounder at his cottage in Coventry on Saturday evening and the fish was brought to Barrett and Robbins for weighing and display. It was caught very near to shore and Ed stood on the dock in front of his place to bring it in. It is one of the nicest specimens of bass seen here in some time.

Although not within many miles of where raw material is produced, New England is one of the most progressive manufacturing centers in the country, Mr. Rogers said. He stressed the importance of Boston and New York City, two of the foremost trading centers in the country, being located within 24 hours' transportation time of any part of New England.

When the second New England Electric Conference convenes then in November, there will be more than 2,000 representatives and guests from New England present. Governor John H. Trumbull, who attended the first conference, will act as host to the visitors when they come to Hartford. He and Governor Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, will be the principal speakers. Governor Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, Governor Aram J. Pothier, of Rhode Island, Governor Frank S. Billings of Vermont, and Governor John G. Winant, of New Hampshire, will also be on the program of speakers.

Other Speakers. One of the important speakers in addition to the governors will be Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric Company, and a colleague of Charles Dawes in perfecting the Dawes Plan. Mr. Young's topic will be, "Take the Collar Off New England."

Henry Trumbull, brother of the Connecticut governor, has been elected chairman of the general committee. Stanley H. Bullard, of Bridgeport was named chairman of the program committee.

Those who will assist Mr. Rogers on the publicity committee are: Charles L. Eyanson, of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut and P. L. Gerety, of Seymour.

LOCAL WITNESS TO TRAGIC DEATH

Many Manchester Folks Near Scene of Drowning in Hockanum.

Several local persons were attending the Polish picnic at Light House Grove, Hockanum, yesterday when pretty Rose Karapavacy, 17 year old Hartford girl who lived at 48 Alden street, lost her life in the Connecticut river. Four other Manchester men who were returning by motorboat from attending the outing of Hose and Ladder Company, No. 4, stopped at the scene of the drowning and attempted to aid in recovering the body.

Local Party. However, the Manchester party which consisted of George Smith, Edward McVey, Arnold Taylor and Charles Griffith, Sr., were handicapped by only having a boat hook at their command. The water was twenty-five feet deep where the girl went down and this, too, made the task more difficult. Frank Luckingham, the noted river man, who had been notified, appeared in the meantime and by means of grappling hooks, brought the girl's body to the surface. Dr. H. J. Onderdonk, East Hartford medical examiner, viewed the body and gave permission for its removal to an undertaking parlor.

Eye Witness's Story. Albert Phillips, of this town, was among those from Manchester attending the picnic. Here is his story briefly told:

"The dancing had just started in the hall which stands about 100 feet from the edge of the river. I had just started to dance with the sister of the girl who drowned when suddenly, Mary Schminsky, a Hartford girl who had been with Rose, came running into the hall and over to us.

Alarm Given. "Your sisters is drowning," she cried, addressing my partner, 'Hurry, hurry.' Then she ran back toward the river. In an instant, the alarm had spread all over the

MANCHESTER ROMEO HERE'S YOUR CHANCE.

Manchester Romeos who wish to join the ranks of the Benedicts would be a trifle richer if they sought their Juliet in Northampton, Mass. At least, they could get married in style, if they selected a bride from the Bay State city.

And here is the reason: Some years ago a man named Smith left a fund from which he arranged that $50 was to be paid to every man who married a Northampton damsel.

Everyone made a mad rush for the river. Some of the fellows quickly doffed their outer clothing and dove into the water. However, they were too late. The girl had gone down for the third time and owing to the exceptional depth, it was some time before the body was recovered.

It is believed that the girl fell off a large rock on which she had been standing.

Another Manchester fellow who was at the picnic was Tony Adams, of Florence street. Many Polish residents from the North End attended the picnic.

MEXICO.

Catholics and non-Catholics in the United States are alike breathing more freely since the critical first Sunday of the religious struggle in Mexico passed without the bloodshed which there appeared to be so much reason to fear.

That the parade of the Regional Confederation of Labor was a challenge and constituted a real danger of physical conflict had seemed obvious. But the complete restraint under which both sides held themselves would indicate that we perhaps know little, after all, of the Mexican character.

The Mexican Episcopate's offer to enter into a truce with the government pending a plebiscite is another straw which indicates that perhaps, after all, the church and the state in the southern republic may be able to adjust their differences without disaster; though it must be admitted that the church appears to have little to trade with save the single item of public opinion.

How actually strong its position is, in that respect, nobody can tell who is not intimately aware, at first hand, of Mexican political and religious life.

The high light of the situation is that, whereas high excitement and frenzied fighting had been more than half expected, there has been nothing of the kind. There could be no better sign.

LEANING AWAY.

Two circumstances indicate that Great Britain is leaning toward the conviction that her advantage lies in the fostering of European friendships rather than in further committing herself to association with the United States.

The first is the sudden outbreak of feeling against the terms of settlement of the British debt to America, which was received with more surprise and disconcertion in this country than most of us will admit; the second is the equally unexpected refusal of the British government to accept an invitation from Washington for a conference of America, Britain and Japan on a proposed extension of the Harding-Hughes naval treaties to all naval categories.

This is an about-face on the part of the British, as every indication had been that they would gladly enter upon such an agreement.

There are new forces at work for economic union in Europe. With the industrialists of four or five countries zealously seeking an all-European entente it behooves Britain to watch the course of her own best interest. That there is an important element in her people which sees that interest to lie with Europe rather than with the United States, seems to be indicated by the brusqueness newly developed in England toward American opinion and attitudes.

COME A-BEGGING.

A group of representatives of the British Miners' federation is on its way to this country (on one of the highest priced ships on the ocean, by the way) to conduct a campaign for funds for the continuation of the strike which is crippling the industries of Great Britain and helping to keep up the price of coal in America by increasing the export demand.

We have no idea what kind of a reception these persons will receive on this side, but it is reported that they come as the guests of the American Federation of Labor and the United Mine Workers.

Immediate self interest may prompt the Mine Workers to encourage the proceeding, for the longer the British strike continues the livelier will coal mining be in the United States, the smaller the surplus stocks and the better chance of pulling off another strike of their own by and by. But how the Federation of Labor, which has made a specialty of denouncing redism, can enter into partnership with the Russian Soviets and the Third International as financial backers of a scheme to ruin British business it is not easy to see. Perhaps the news that the money seekers come by the Federation's invitation may not be true. It is of London origin.

ZANGWILL.

Israel Zangwill, who for years was hailed as one of the leading figures in the English-speaking Jewry and a leader of the Zionist movement, died after he had passed the peak of his popularity in America, both among Jews and Gentiles. Zangwill was one of those numerous people who can battle splendidly for success and then cannot stand it after they have attained it. He did as much as anybody ever did to establish his people in this country by creating tolerance among Americans—and in his later years fell victim to an arrogant intolerance of his own which will nigh undid all that he had achieved.

Zangwill's last visit to America has not been forgotten, for he took occasion to make himself gratuitously disagreeable and to indulge in criticism that found its own refutation in its very comprehensiveness.

There are people who seem destined by nature to struggle upward, to advocate hopeless causes, to strive against impossible odds. In such circumstances they are admirable. Let them by some freak of fate get outside their proper character of under dogs and they become bewildered, lose their gyroscopes and run wild. Zangwill was one of these.

In Russia in the nineteenth century he might have achieved enduring fame. In England, in the twentieth, he became an ungrateful scold.

BOUNDER.

The man who precipitated a papal order banning Protestants from audiences with the Pope, by refusing to conform to the Vatican custom of kneeling in the presence of the head of the Catholic church, is now said to be an American professor of architecture named Nelson.

It is extremely difficult to understand the frame of mind in which he made his visit to the papal presence. So far as we know there is no compulsion on the part of any Protestant to visit the Vatican, nor can one accidentally find himself there. It requires considerable pre-arrangement to be received by the Pope. And whoever seeks such reception and then refuses to conform to the usages of the institution, must have a very strange idea of the fitness of things. It would hardly be putting it too strongly to say that the person in question acted like an offensive and arrogant ass.

We are badly represented in Europe by a large class of bounders whom President Coolidge himself felt called on to rebuke the other day. This Vatican visitor seems to be entitled to the chairmanship of the delegation.

MURDER CASE BAIL.

If the reopening of the Hall-Mills murder case in New Jersey results in nothing but another zero total, as there seems to be a feeling that it will, positive harm will have come from the belated action of the authorities; for the precedent of accepting bail from a person formally charged with first degree murder has been established.

To fix a price for the liberty of a murder suspect—and particularly a price which is a mere bagatelle to the accused, as in this case—is a new and retrogressive step in court procedure in New Jersey; and, coming at a time when there is such urgent need for the stiffening of the fight against homicide crimes, there is discouragement in it.

However, there is this satisfaction. The conduct of this case, from the beginning down to date, provides just so much more evidence of the crying need of reform in court procedure in America—perhaps helps to hasten the day when a great moral revolt will bring about such reform.

COD LIVER BABIES.

The Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor is for fat babies. To make 'em fat, says the bureau in a new bulletin, feed them cod liver oil if you can't give them enough sun baths to do the trick.

Pinch the baby's cheeks between thumb and finger till his mouth opens and then keep it open while you bestow upon him the disguised blessing of the oil out of a spoon. You have to keep his mouth open or he will spit the stuff out.

From two weeks to six weeks, half a teaspoonful twice a day is the dosage; from six weeks to three months one teaspoonful, from three to four months a teaspoonful and a half, and from then to two years one and a half to two spoonfuls.

No doubt that will make babies fat and sturdy and fight off any predisposition to T. B. But nobody knows what effect it will have on the disposition of the baby. To have cod liver oil thus forced upon one may conceivably be enough to raise up one more human being with a grievance against society, a misanthrope and a creature full of hate.

WAR HISTORY.

In less than a year America's entrance into the World war will be a matter of a decade ago. In two years and three months or so we shall celebrate the tenth anniversary of Armistice day. By that time there will be very few pupils in the public schools who will have even the vaguest memory of the world's greatest conflict. Half the school children will have been born since it was over.

Are the schools taking every necessary step to familiarize the new generation with the sharp outlines of the great war?

The best of all possible guarantees against avoidable future wars in this country would be perfect familiarity with the tragic awfulness of that one—its terrific wastage in life and treasure, its needlessness, its imperiling of civilization.

No pupil should come out of our schools untaught in the essential facts of the World war, though he conceivably might do well enough without knowing who Julius Caesar was, or that the Spanish came to America before the Pilgrims.

Broadway supplies only a small fraction of this sordid early morning parade.

Unless a usual murder is committed, Broadway seeks to put the sinner on its disturbances. Arrests are not good for the reputation of a cafe, particularly in these days of easy padlocks.

In one of the very popular nightclubs, where the patronage ranges from highest to lowest in society, brawls among bibulous ones can be witnessed almost any night. Flats fly at the very edge of a table occupied by leading society folk and the scrappers mill their way about and all but overturn the table of a former diplomatic attache and a celebrated explorer.

It is all settled very quietly. The brawlers disappear into the night. A chorine hastily seeks to rearrange well-pulled hair and an arrest is made. It is most likely made in the street after a young lady has been bounced into the street from a taxicab.

From apartment "petting parties" come many of the victims. Too much gin and too much jealousy mix badly—and a frightened girl comes limply from a patrol, hysterically crying: "Oh, why did I do it? I love him!" And all about the night harpies chatter their cry of "Want a lawyer, lady?" and "Want some bail money?"

A THOUGHT

A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones.—Prov. 17:22.

He who sings frightens away his ill.—Cervantes.

ARTIFICIAL

Hal Cochran's POEM

A cute little youngster of seven years old had all he could want in the world, I am told. He got all he craved for, despite the expense. His dad, so they say, had more money than sense.

A home, where a nurse-maid was ever at hand, and one that, of course, was the last word in grand. Quite petted and pampered, this poor little elf. He never was made to do a thing for himself. And clothes? He had more than he ever could wear, or more, by a long way, than any kid's.

share. With such things on hand, it is safe if I say that they made him change garments 'bout four times a day.

A pool all his own built right in to the ground, was where the kid swam—with no other kids 'round. The servants, of course, kept their eyes on the child. A towering fence never let him run wild.

With nothing to wish for, with all dreams brought true, with guard-eyes upon him, whatever he'd do, you might think him happy, as happy can be, frankly, by a poor little rich child is he.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 2.—There's a little row of commonplace brick buildings in Manhattan where the lights burn brightly until dawn.

Keen eyes peer from the windows most intently in the hours between midnight and 3 o'clock. The banging of a police patrol gong in the street outside is the signal for a general flurry. Figures scurry down the stairs; street level doors open and darting shapes zig-zag into the darkness.

The patrol stops and police bring out a hysterical woman. Almost immediately the bevy of midnight harpies are upon her, chattering like magpies; each trying to catch the ear of the unfortunate one.

"Want a lawyer to represent you?" "Need some bail money?" Cards are thrust into the prisoner's hand. Hasty verbal deals are made as she stumbles up the prison stairs.

These are the "runners" for the lawyers and bond agents whose places of business circle the Jefferson Square prison. Jefferson Square is the women's prison. Most of the practice is secured in the early hours of the morning. Fear-stricken women make easy prey. They clutch at the first straw.

Unless a usual murder is committed, Broadway seeks to put the sinner on its disturbances. Arrests are not good for the reputation of a cafe, particularly in these days of easy padlocks.

LOWDEN STRONG.

As a farmer's candidate, Frank O. Lowden is spoken of here as the likeliest selection. Should the corn belt prove, in November, to be in a frame of mind which absolutely demands placation, it is believed here that Lowden will be quite a likely choice.

Senator Wadsworth, also of New York, evidently thinks well of himself as a candidate. At present nobody speaks of him as more than an extremely remote possibility, but a brilliant victory in his campaign for re-election to the upper house of congress this year may bring him more to the attention of the voters, as he may, he will sink entirely out of sight at once.

NICK DOUBTFUL.

Speaker Longworth is not considered very seriously, despite his endorsement by ex-President Elihu Root. He is regarded as a political manager of the very highest order.

Assistant Secretary of War McNider has a considerable following for 1932 and occasionally one hears his name mentioned in connection with 1928.

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania undoubtedly had the presidency in mind when he sought the Republican nomination for the senate from the Keystone state, but of course is completely out of the running now.

Six months ago 1928 Republican presidential talk was of President Coolidge almost exclusively. A good many candidates are under discussion today.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

Washington, Aug. 2.—Whether or not President Coolidge is a candidate for renomination in 1928 depends on the coming congressional elections.

If the administration is vindicated at the polls next November—that is, if a majority of the Coolidge kind of Republicans are elected to the next senate and lower house—he can be renominated by wanting to be, and nobody doubts that he will.

If the Democrats and insurgent Republicans—a strong wave of insurgency in his own party will be worse for him than some Democratic gains—get even the senate, to say nothing of the house, away from him, it will be a pretty convincing sign that the country has turned him down.

MAY NOT TRY.

Political Washington assumes that President Coolidge if eliminated himself, will try to throw the nomination to Secretary of Commerce Hoover. Hoover will hardly be much more satisfactory to Republican insurgency than Coolidge is.

Still, a retiring president, even though he retires against his will, is in a position to be very helpful to his choice of a successor. In such a situation Hoover's success will depend on how strong Republican progressivism is then.

If the progressive group in the party makes a formidable showing in the fall, Senator William E. Borah's presidential prospects will immediately improve. Without regarding Borah as a particularly strong contender, Washington's impression is that he may develop into one on short notice almost any time.

HOPE OF BIG PROFIT IS AID TO DECEPTION

"Get-Rich-Quick" Idea Lures Many to Unsound Investments.

This is the 22nd article in a series prepared for The Herald by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

What makes people buy unsound securities? This question oft repeated lead the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to conduct a three years' survey during which time data was secured from 413 persons in fifteen representative states and the District of Columbia, showing their experiences with unsound securities.

Hope of large profits and clever deception by sales agents briefly summarize the principle influences leading to most bad investments. The old "get-rich-quick" lure, the promise of large interest return or of stock bonuses, and the lack of means or inclination to properly investigate, are found to be contributing factors in nearly every case.

Average Loss $1,100. Of the 413 answers which were tabulated, the average investment was found to be $1,190 and the average loss more than $1,100. It was also shown that by far the greater number of transactions in unsound stocks were on a cash purchase basis indicating that the salesman realized the futility of attempting to hold their victims. If given any opportunity for thought or investigation, strange as it may seem the survey showed that a great majority of those buying unsound or worthless securities were business and professional men.

That the salesman or unsound stocks most commonly promise 8 per cent dividends or better.

That in most cases no investigation is made and even where there is some inquiry it is a superficial one, and usually made from references given by the salesman.

That the largest number of sales of securities consisted of unlisted, common stocks in oil, automobile and mining companies.

The prospective victim in the sale of unsound securities appears to be susceptible to approach from almost any angle. Of the 398 cases which this report covered, 202 had their attention called to the securities by salesmen. 162 first learned through someone whom they thought of as a friend. Still others were sold by mail, by published advertisements and even by telephone.

Appeal to Greed. Greed is apparently the emotion most commonly appealed to, although a list of nine primary factors inducing the purchase of unsound securities includes practically everything except the appeal of a sound investment. The appeal stated specifically 200 out of 418 of a sound investment, that the present value of their investment was "nothing," while the average of the 418 reports showed that the investment had shrunk from an average of $1,190 to $69 per investor.

Volumes have been written, are still being written, and will continue to be written warning the investing public against hasty purchases of unlisted or unsound securities. It is inevitable that occa-

POE'S STORIES: The Murders in the Rue Morgue (6)

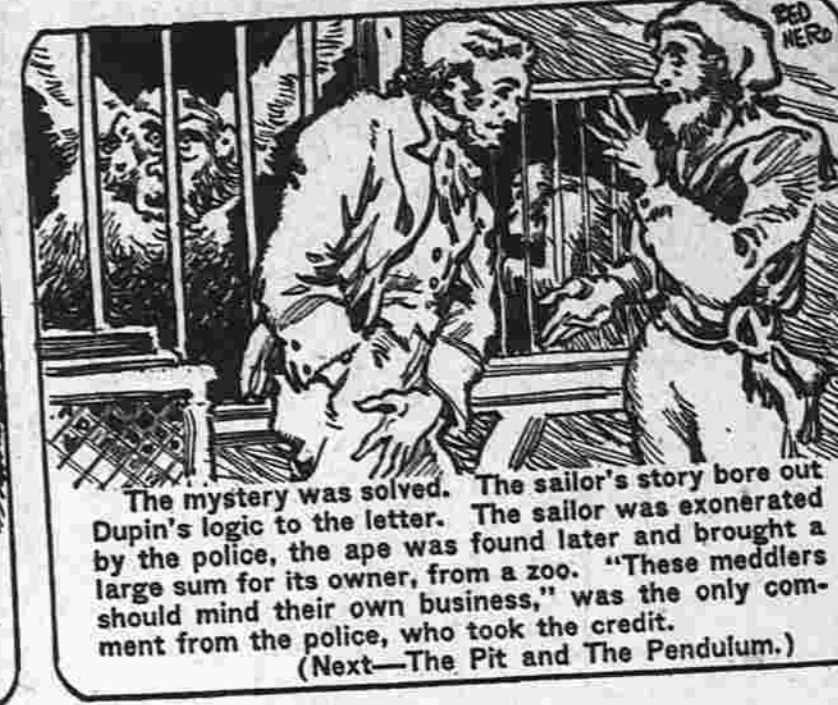

At Dupin's sudden demand that he tell of the murders, the sailor's face flushed and he seized his cudgel, but, awed by the two pistols, sank back into a chair, and told of the deeds. The Ourang-Outang had been given him as a pet during a voyage to the Indian archipelago. On the day of the murders he had come upon the beast in his quarters, shaving.

Angered, he had seized a whip. Under the sting of the lash the Ourang-Outang, razor in hand, had fled into the darkness.

The sailor had followed, and, terror-stricken, had watched through a window while the maddened beast committed the terrible butcheries.

The mystery was solved. The sailor's story bore out Dupin's logic to the letter. The sailor was exonerated from the crime, the ape was found later and brought a large sum for its owner, from a zoo. "These meddlers should mind their own business," was the only comment from the police, who took the credit. (Next—The Pit and The Pendulum.)

THEY NEVER KNEW TOM SIMS

CHAPTER I
JIMPSON WEED was called "Jimp" for short, because he was short. He was short of money. He was short of length. One yard and a few inches elapsed between the top of his head and the bottoms of his feet.

Jimpson Weed was called "Jimp" for short.

Now, about this head of Jimp's—on the outside of it one found as follows: two large ears, one large nose, two brown eyes, one mouth containing 32 teeth, one hat and one chin.

The ears were in fairly good shape even though they listened daily to the soothing syllables of Pearl Handle, the cookie counter girl. Pearl and Jimp worked in the Dirty Pan Bakery, situated in the heart of the beautiful little town of Omeomy, Ohio.

Attached to his body by two legs and a couple of ankles were a pair of feet. These feet had gone thousands and thousands of miles but were in fairly good shape as yet.

And they are going to take our Jimp on some wild adventures, a truly wild adventures. Honest, they are. If you don't believe it, just read the account of the adventures in this great novel.

One day, as he was going about his regular job of filling flies and killing time in the Dirty Pan Bakery, the adventures began. "Jimp! Jimp! Jimp!" The screams continued. Pearl, the cookie girl, was crying for assistance.

Our Jimp grasped his fly swatter in his right hand and rushed to the rescue. He would save the screaming girl.

"Jimp! Jimp! Jimp!"

There was no false alarm. There, perched on top of a cookie, trying to look as much like a raisin as possible, was a fly.

The swatter swished through the air and all was over. The fly gasped his last gasp. Alone and unseeing it went to its death in the Dirty Pan Bakery.

Jimp slipped and fell into the well he was carrying.

Slightly stunned by his sixty-foot fall, he looked up and saw Mr. Etaino in the top of the well.

"You are fired," yelled Mr. Etaino. "Oh!" sobbed our Jimp. "Please don't fire me, Mr. Etaino!"

"Too late to cry now," yelled the bakery owner. "Why didn't you bring the small well. You should have set it well enough alone."

The fire department pulled him out of the well. He went to his boarding house to change clothes.

Dinner was ready, but he had no appetite because he wasn't hungry. "Yes, Mr. Etaino," shouted our Jimp.

"I want you to run out to my farm. We are cooking doughnuts today and have run out of holes."

"You'll find an old well right back of the house. Bring it to the bakery and we'll cut it up into doughnut holes."

Our Jimp was quite familiar with the manner in which the Dirty Pan Bakery secured its doughnut holes. Only the day before he had been sent to steal all the knot holes out of the baseball park fence.

Taking the hole puffer, our Jimp started for the farm. He found two large one and a small one.

"I'll take the large well," he said to himself. "Then perhaps Mr. Etaino will raise my pay so I can marry my darling Pearl."

Wells are very light. Even a large one weighs nothing if the water is drained out first. They are light, but cumbersome.

This well was about sixty feet long and four feet in diameter.

Have you ever tried to carry such a large well?

If you have, then you know how troublesome it was for Jimp.

Turning a corner with the well he bumped into a portly gent.

"Jimp! Jimp! Jimp!" screamed Mr. Etaino, who saw the accident. But the warning came too late. Jimp slipped and fell into the well he was carrying.

Slightly stunned by his sixty-foot fall, he looked up and saw Mr. Etaino in the top of the well.

"You are fired," yelled Mr. Etaino. "Oh!" sobbed our Jimp. "Please don't fire me, Mr. Etaino!"

SPRINGFIELD NINE TOO STRONG FOR C. B. A. A.; WINS 6 TO 3

Ability to Hit in Pinches Proves Deciding Factor in Saturday's Game.

Ability to hit when hits meant runs, enabled the Diamond Match Company of Springfield to win a close contest with Cheney Brothers Saturday afternoon at the West Side diamond. The score was 6 to 3. The game was well played by both teams with the exception of a few instances.

It was a pitchers' battle from the start with the veteran Lynch having the better luck. Each team made two errors. Springfield took a two-run lead early in the contest but Cheney Brothers managed to work their way to within one run of the visitors in the fifth frame. In the seventh, however, the team from the City of Holmes scored two runs thereby securing their three-run lead which was held to the finish.

In the seventh inning there was excitement galore. The visitors got two men on bases, first and second, and twice a man was trapped off between the bases and snipped off. Nevertheless, the visitors found opportunity to push two runs over the platter in the interim.

Run Wild in 7th—Both Teams Hit Freely—Jones Hits Two Homers.

Hartford, Aug. 2.—Gene Sheridan's Hartford team enjoyed a day of hard hitting yesterday when all hands took part in trimming Springfield, 13-5. Lynch did mound duty for the Capital City but was touched for 11 bingles. The efforts of Mayberry, pitching for the Ponies, were a puzzle to Hartford until the seventh.

Game Forfeited When Former Local Man Disputes Umpire

According to a Taftville dispatch, Eddie Zielke, former first baseman on the Manchester baseball club, was the cause of the umpire for setting a game between the Meriden New Departures and the Taftville A. C. Saturday afternoon. Taftville was leading 2 to 0 at the time when the game was called in the eighth inning with Meriden at bat.

The report states that there were two Meriden runners on the sacks and Jimmy Alexander was at bat. Zielke was standing back of the plate awaiting his turn and found fault with a decision regarding a ball served to Alexander. The umpire, after warning the Meridenites several times, ordered him off the field.

When Zielke failed to obey the command despite several of his players advising him to comply with the order, the umpire took out his watch and after two minutes had expired, forfeited the game to Taftville.

HELEN BEATS MARY IN EAST HAMPTON FINALS

New York, Aug. 2.—Fears that Miss Helen Willis would be physically unequal to a successful defense of her national tennis title this month were allayed today as a result of the young Californian's straight-set victory over Miss Mary Browne yesterday at East Hampton. Miss Willis topped off the first tournament she has played since being laid low with an operation for appendicitis in Paris by beating Miss Browne, 6-3, 6-2.

According to an announcement made by Manager Clemson, the local Shamrocks will play at home on Sundays during the remainder of the season. Next Sunday the crack Taftville team will play here.

Thursday night the Shamrocks will play the first twilight game of the season against the East Glastonbury nine, leaders of Hartford Country "Y" League, at the community grounds.

SONS OF ITALY LOSE TIGHT ONE IN MYSTIC

Sipples' Home Run Is Mighty But Doesn't Make Up for Team Errors.

The Sons of Italy team lost a close decision game to the Mystic team in that town yesterday, 4-3. Errors and Holland's wildness were responsible for the defeat. Sipples played at shortstop until the ninth when he relieved Holland and struck out the three men who opposed him on ten pitched balls.

Sipples' home run in the third scoring Zwick ahead of him was one of the longest ever seen in the shore town. It would easily have cleared the centerfield fence on Clarkin Field.

The Sons will play the All Kensington team tomorrow night on the West Side diamond. All Kensington played a tie game with the Sons last Tuesday and has lost but two games in the last seventeen played.

HOW TO SWIM by William Cannon

The Single Overarm. Care should be taken to throw the arm just high enough and not too high, so that the arm will splash when it goes into the water. The elbow should be bent as it comes above the water and the hand reached forward and into the water while the elbow is bent. This keeps the muscles well under control and is not nearly so tiring as a fully outstretched arm meeting the full leverage resistance of the water.

ABOUT TOWN

The State beach at Hammonasset was the scene of the outing Saturday of the Salvation Army band of this town. The members of the organization with their wives and families left here in automobiles on Saturday morning and spent the day at the beach. While there they gave a short concert.

Franklin Richmond, Kenneth Anderson and Henry Madden spent the week-end at Sound View with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Maynard. Mrs. Maynard was formerly Miss Edna Madden of Laurel street and is spending the summer at that place.

Albert Merrer and Elmo Mantel-Hi journeyed to Sound View Saturday night to spend the week-end.

Miss Harriett LaShay of Pine street was a week-end visitor at Sound View.

William McKee of Griswold street and a party of friends spent the week-end at Coventry lake.

Manchester streets looked barren again yesterday due to the many auto loads of local persons who went to the shores. However, there were fewer away from home yesterday than the previous Sunday due to the cooler weather. Nevertheless, there was a large attendance at Globe Hollow.

The cold weather of Saturday and Sunday brought the weekly attendance at Globe Hollow down to a low figure. There were about 50 swimmers there on Saturday and little more than 200 on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Reinarts of Center street, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Metcalf and Mrs. Anna Addy of Garden street were visitors at Hammonasset beach on Saturday.

Mrs. J. C. Anderson and Miss Bernice Juul of Edmond street, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Phair of Hartford, have returned from a motor trip through the White Mountains. They also visited at Lake Winnepesaukee.

The Weldon Beauty Parlor which has been closed for two weeks for redecorating will reopen the latter part of this week or the first of next week.

Miss Barbara Lawrence of Woodbridge street has returned after spending two weeks at Coventry Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw and son Robert, of Woodbridge street, left this morning on a motor trip through New York state.

Mrs. Wells Wetherell and son, Wells, have returned to their home in Omaha, Neb., after spending the past few weeks with Mrs. Wetherell's mother, Mrs. Thomas Shaw, of North Elm street.

Manchester had a clean slate over the week-end, according to reports from police headquarters. Not a single arrest was made and all the police docket called for this morning was a continued case.

Doctor A. B. Moran left today for a week's vacation which will be spent at Atlantic City, Baltimore, and Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Day of Lyness street have returned after spending a week in New York City.

A delay in the work of completing the Gardner street bridge has been encountered by the town engineering department because the Southern New England Telephone Company has not reset its poles through that street. Guard rails cannot be built until the poles have been moved to their new location.

TO MOVE BLUE HOUSE. Gustav Schaller, who recently purchased the so-called "blue house" at the junction of Olcott and Center streets will start soon to move it to a site on Olcott street. Mr. Schaller bought the property from Rev. F. B. Adams, who formerly used it as his home.

The house is close to the highway, trolley cars passing only a few feet away and some time ago an automobile whose driver had become confused, crashed into the veranda of the building.

TO CUT THE SPEED OF FIRE TRUCKS HERE

Commissioners Make New Rule Limiting Apparatus to 25 Miles an Hour.

Fire trucks in this town will proceed henceforth at a speed of not more than 25 miles an hour, according to a ruling made by the board of police commissioners. More than a year ago an accident occurred in which a fire truck collided with another automobile but this was the only instance in which one of the machines has been involved. The fire commissioners have ordered the apparatus to observe the ruling.

In making this ruling Manchester commissioners are following the example set by larger cities in this section. Of course, there is more need for it here because of the fact that general traffic does not stop at the sound of the fire whistle as in other places but keeps right on, sometimes beating the apparatus to the fire.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Work is soon to be started on the Washington street sidewalks by the Ahern company of Willimantic. It was said today. This company is now finishing work on Pitkin street where a combination concrete walk and gutter is being constructed. Curbing has already been set on Washington street. Ridgewood street and South Main street will be done after the work on Washington street. On South Main street walks will be laid on the south side from Taylor street to the south line of the Watkins estate.

The family of William L. Parks of Summit street have returned from a five weeks' stay at Groton Long Point.

CATHOLICS HERE PRAY FOR MEXICAN BRETHREN

Parishioners at Both Churches Asked to Pray That Trouble May Be Settled.

Yesterday at both St. James' and St. Bridget's R. C. churches letters were read from Bishop J. Nilan requesting the parishioners to pray for settlement of the trouble in Mexico where all the Catholic churches have been seized by the state. At the north end church the Rosary was recited at the masses in response to the Bishop's request. At St. James' no special prayers were offered, but the rectors requested their congregations to obey the Bishop's request and offer their prayers for relief of the situation in Mexico.

Last Saturday and Sunday the annual portuncula was held at St. James' church. Next week it will be observed at St. Bridget's. This is a time when a special indulgence will be granted if certain rules of the church are followed.

FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral service for A. Gustaf Carlson, of 32 Pleasant street, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home. It was largely attended, relatives and friends coming from New Haven, New Britain, Addison and Glastonbury in addition to local persons who attended. There were numerous floral tributes. Rudolph Swanson sang three solos during the services: "Face to Face" and "Nearer My God to Thee" at the home and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" at the grave.

Rev. F. C. Franzen, a retired Swedish minister, officiated. The bearers were Axel Carlson, Samuel Nyman, Charles Olson, Charles Johnson, Carl Kjellson, and John Leander. Burial was in the East cemetery.
