

OUR TOWN PLAYS A MAJOR PART IN SESQUI SHOW

Draperies from Cheney Brothers and Furniture
from Watkins Brothers Adorn Conn. Building.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Manchester is well represented
and receiving considerable advertisement in the Connecticut building located on the Sesqui-Centennial grounds at Philadelphia. Many of the different states and foreign countries are exhibiting in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The Connecticut building is located on Broad street, about half way between the main entrance
and the "Manufacturers" and Traders' building. It is a building of red brick and represents in a smaller way, the old City Hall in Hartford. In the rear of the building is a frame structure furnished with period history of the trying days before the Revolution and is used by the governor of the state
on any occasion that he has to visit the exposition.

Cheney Silks.
Only one floor is used in the exhibition, this extending from Broad street and on this floor each window is covered with a green silk drapery with a white satin back. In different places around the wall
are placed small framed cards
which tell to all that visit the place
that the drapery was manufactured
by Cheney Brothers of South Manchester, Connecticut, and donated to the state by them. The natural trend of visitors is to the right and here can be found the names of the different towns in Connecticut, 168
of them in all, with the population from the time of their incorporation and the population as of 1920. There is also the monthly record of the board of health of the state which shows the estimated population as of April 1, 1926,
which gives Manchester 21,501.

On a shelf above are found the directories of all of the principal towns and cities in Connecticut and it is only natural that the Manchester directory is there. It is somewhat of a thrill to turn to your own name and find out that you are living at No. _____ street
when you know that you are not at home at all.

The same is true of the telephone directories in the Southern New England having provided the sets of telephone directories that are used throughout Connecticut.
Manchester is given more space
than any other town or city in Connecticut and there are admired by all and in the room to the rear of the building, with the exception of the carpets and rugs
the greater part of the furniture is from Watkins Brothers of this town.

The Trip.
There has been much said about
the exposition being incomplete
and not worth the trouble to visit,
but such is not the case. Leaving Manchester at 8:55, daylight time
there is a connection made in Hartford with a short wait of ten minutes. Once aboard the train
there is no further change of cars necessary until the passengers are unloaded at the Broad street station of the Pennsylvania railroad.
This trip takes the travelers over the Hell Gate Bridge and through the tube a quarter of a mile under the water. The feeling of a sort of depression is felt in the ears, but is unharmful. New York seems only a stop-off place. The Rockaways on a Rockville local with this particular train. Once again the train speeds south. There is the opportunity to turn in as soon as the train leaves Hartford, the trip including the sleeper is $14.55. Philadelphia is

LOCAL "EX-COPS" TO HOLD REUNION

Thirty-five Former Wearers of Brass Buttons to Hold Affair at Ocean Beach.

On either the last Saturday or Sunday of this month, the ex-policemen of Manchester, numbering 35, expect to go to Ocean Beach,
New London, for their first annual reunion and outing. It will be an unique affair for it is doubtful if there has ever been a reunion of so many men who have formerly worn
the blue uniform and the brass buttons in a town of this size.

Thirty-five men who will be included in the invitation represent patrolmen, supernumeraries and regulars and one officer. They all have been members of the department for varying periods. Some were officers of long standing,
others were either appointed regulars a short time before they resigned or had remained as supernumerary policemen. One man had received his appointment as a super
but had never worn the uniform.

Several of the ex-cops conceived
the idea of holding a reunion and other ex-cops who were approached were in favor of it. It seems now that the outing will become a reality.

CANTON REIGN OF TERROR INSTITUTED

Underworld Fights Back at Everybody Connected With Mellett Murder Probe.

Canton, Aug. 6.—Canton's underworld is on its last legs but snapping back.
This is the declaration today
of those connected with investigation into the Don R. Mellett slay-ing, following a reported frustrated attempt to attack county prosecutor C. B. McClintock, early this morning. Bricks were thrown into the home of Herman R. Writ-ter, state director of industrial relations, resulting in the placing of national guardsmen about his home
early today.

It is reported that the underworld has issued orders to "get"
Don Mellett, because he "knows too much."
That certain underworld characters are reported preparing androids concerning alleged violations of the liquor laws by noted citizens,
in a vicious effort to have the federal investigation halted.

Dynamiting early today of the home of George Muntean who is said to have incurred the enmity
of the underworld, was the fifth attempt to kill Muntean. A week ago somebody placed ten sticks of dynamite under the hood of Mun-tean's car.
National Guardsmen about the home of McClintock were aroused early today by three men who kept driving past the house. A guardsman approached the machine
and jumped on the running board.
He was knocked down by a blow
from one of the men as the car
sped away.

KELLEY ALIVE IN HARTFORD SAYS CLEARY

South End Man Certain He Saw Old Insurance Agent
in City Park— Was Reported Dead Years Ago.

Despite newspaper reports which said five years ago that William Kelley, insurance man of this town, had died in the Middletown hospital for the insane, a Manchester man comes forward with the statement that he saw the supposedly dead man in Hartford this week. Kelley was said to have died and to have been buried in Boston, according to all information that could be gained about him.

Seen by Cleary.
Paul Cleary of Newman street is the man who is responsible for the statement that Kelley is still alive.
It was in a Hartford park this week
where Cleary and another Manchester man were sitting. The other man called Cleary's attention to the little fat man sitting on another bench nearby.
"Do you recognize that man?"
his companion asked.
Cleary looked at him long and closely.

"Sure," he said. "That's the old man Kelley, the one who drank the bottle of ink to commit suicide. But I thought he was dead."
A closer look at the old man assigned him that he was really the Manchester insurance solicitor. It seems that Kelley is now living in Hartford but has no occupation.

For a good many years William Kelley was a well known character on the streets of Manchester. He was an insurance agent who carried policies on which the weekly fee
was something like 10 or 15 cents per week. His clients were many and his weekly tour or collections brought him in touch with many of the people of this town.

Acted Queerly.
Beginning about six years ago
Kelley began to exhibit symptoms
of insanity and was considered rather "queer" in his actions. He did not become violent, however,
until one day, laboring under the illusion that he was in financial straits, he attempted to commit suicide by swallowing the contents of a bottle of ink.

This occurred at the Orford hotel.
He was given medical assistance and the effects of the ink gradually were neutralized. Kelley was then examined and was sent to the insane asylum at Middletown.

Reported Dead.
Some time later a report reached Manchester of the effect that he was dead. The report further stated that his body had been shipped to the home of his brother in Boston for burial. That, as far as anybody here knew, was the end of Kelley.

Cleary, however, is positive that the man he saw in Hartford was Kelley. And one who knew Kelley by sight would hardly be likely to forget him for he was an unusual looking man.

RUMANIA IN FEAR OF RUSS CIVIL WAR

Masses Troops on Border as Precaution Against Splash of War in Red Union.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—Rumors of serious internal difficulties in Russia,
even extending to armed clashes,
continue to reach Berlin from various eastern points and particularly from Warsaw.
It is impossible to judge the veracity of these reports, which in some instances are lurid and picture the Soviet regime as being menaced by a revolt within the Communist party and mutinies in the red army.

From Bucharest comes a report
that Roumania has decided to concentrate troops along the Dnieper frontier, in view of clashes near the border with Soviet troops and Russian regulars.
A semi-official statement issued in Bucharest declares that the Russian revolutionary movement
threatens to grow serious and emphasizes that the Roumanian frontier concentration is of a purely precautionary and not aggressive
character.

Will He Becloud the Sky With "Air Flivvers"?

This shows Henry Ford displaying an experimental model of the new "air flivver" that Otto Kaplan, a young Detroit inventor, has developed in Ford's private machine shop. Ford believes that there is a big market for planes of this type, and it is hinted that his factory may turn them out in quantities. The plane measures only 18 feet from wing tip to wing tip, is 12 feet long, weighs only 320 pounds and can develop a 100-mile speed with a three cylinder engine.

NIP ATTEMPT TO STEAL HALL JURY RECORDS

State Policemen Scare Away Burglars; Mrs. Riehl Tells Story of Murder Night to Special Prosecutor.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 6.—A daring attempt to rob the home of the late Azariah Beekman, former prosecuting attorney of Somerset county, in Bound Brook, early today, provided the newest sensation
in the reopened investigation of the murder of the Rev. Edward W.
Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.
Officials believe that two men,
seen trying to break into Beck-man's house, were seeking official records of past investigations into the Hall-Mills murders. These records are reported to be in a trunk in the Beckman home. Beckman was the original prosecutor in the murder cases four years ago.
Interested Persons.
State troopers frightened the two men away. They were seen by John Neuhauer of Pound Brook.
He said he recognized them as persons interested in the renewed investigation of the murders.
Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, today reiterated that he had ordered the arrest of Ralph Gorsline, vestryman in the Rev. Hall's church at the time of the murders, and Mrs. Nellie L.
Russell, negroess and material witness.

Simpson today planned to question
all the servants employed in the Hall home at the time of the murders. State troopers guarded the home of these servants last night.

Mrs. Riehl Signs Statement.
Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 6.—Mrs.
Louise Geist Riehl, formerly a maid in the home of Rev. Edward Hall in New Brunswick, N. J., today formally told Senator Simpson,
in his office here, the story of what transpired
in the Hall home on the night of September 14, 1922, when Hall
and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choirster, were murdered.

Mrs. Riehl's testimony, which she signed, partially confirms previous reports that she claimed Mrs.

Coolidge Now An Out-and-Out Fishing "Bug"; Health Better

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 6.—President Coolidge today enters the second month of his vacation many miles removed from the terrific heat of Washington.
Thirty-one days in the mountains
have worked wonders with the chief executive. The lines of worry and hard work for the most part have left his face. A healthy tan has supplanted the pallor of the city. According to his doctor,
Mr. Coolidge has gained three pounds in weight and his muscles
are hardening under outdoor life.
Has Learned to Play.
But more than anything else
this year's vacation has benefited
the President in that after many years he has learned to play. He has taken up fishing with an avidity that marks him from now on as an ardent disciple of Isaac Walton.
Heretofore, outdoor sports have fallen to interest. The President Golf never claimed him. Two attempts were enough. Tennis was too strenuous. Once even, he remarked that fishing was good sport
for boys, but not so much in the way of entertainment for an adult.
Since his arrival last month at White Pine camp in the Adirondacks, however, scarcely a day has gone by but what he was to be found, casting for pickerel and brook trout.

IS UNDER WATER FOR AN HOUR AND HALF

Houdini, in Airless Casket, Breaks Record of Hindoo
Who Claimed "Trance."

New York, Aug. 6.—Harry Houdini gave a demonstration
yesterday of remaining for an hour and a half sealed in an airtight metal casket
at the bottom of the swimming pool at the Hotel Shelton,
without any visible means of obtaining air.

He was lowered into the pool and exactly one hour 21 minutes and 21 seconds later
the casket was lifted to the surface. A doctor reported his pulse to be 142. Before going down it was 84.
Houdini, who is an opponent of spiritualism, had announced he would make the experiment to prove that any man could stay sealed up under water for a long period without being possessed of "supernatural powers."

His record yesterday eclipsed
by half an hour that made by Rahman Bey, Hindoo, who recently remained sealed in a zinc casket for one hour at the Dalton Swimming School
after going into what he called a "trance."

Houdini kept in communication with his personal representative, over a telephone connected with the casket.
The oxygen in the casket
according to physicians, should have been entirely used up
in three or four minutes.
There were several doubting Thomas who insisted that oxygen was supplied by the electric batteries in the casket, or through the telephone wire.

POINCARÉ CHANGES HIS DEBT ATTITUDE

Suddenly Acts to Bring U. S. Pact Before Body of Cham- ber Within Next Week.

Paris, Aug. 6.—Premier Poincaré has apparently changed his attitude toward the settlement of foreign debts. The premier, it was learned today, has now decided to ask the cabinet for approval of his submission of the American and British debt settlement plans to the Chamber of Deputies for immediate ratification.
The agreements have already been submitted to the foreign affairs committee and the finance commission of the Chamber, so that they may be laid before the Chamber next week.

Appears Sane.
Police seized young Bearse and took him before Police Captain Daniel F. McCarthy.
According to Captain McCarthy,
Bearse showed no sign of insanity.
Young Bearse, according to the police captain, said that his intense love for his mother prompted him
to slay her but he went no further,
suddenly declining to talk.
Says "God" Told Him.
Bearse, according to police, said
that "his mother 'died twice'" during the early morning hours, the first time, he said, he revived her but the second time she failed to open her eyes.
Finding her dead, young Bearse

HORRIBLY SLAYS HIS MOTHER FOR "LOVE" OF HER

Springfield Youth Strangles
Parent Then Frightfully
Mutilates Body; Says
"God" Told Him.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 6.—Mrs.
Fred A. Bearse, middle-aged wife of the treasurer of Hampden county, was strangled to death in her home today by her son, Richard Bearse, 22 years old.

After dragging the body to the kitchen, the young man, with his fingers, tore out her eyes and heart.
Perfectly calm when arrested by police, young Bearse said: "I did it because I loved her—my love was intense."

Estranged From Wife.
Bearse and his wife had separated and the son spent part of the year with his mother and the remainder with his father.
The shocking tragedy was discovered by police. The officers were summoned to Mrs. Bearse's home,
No. 25 Palmer avenue, in the residential district, by neighbors who heard the sound of pistol shots.
Hardened policemen could hardly believe their eyes when they entered Mrs. Bearse's home. The young man, his night clothing covered with blood, was kneeling beside the body of his mother. The body had been mutilated.

DR. E. W. CHENG IN CRIMINAL TANGLE

Chinese Physician, Celebrity, Held on Girl's Statement for Illegal Surgery.

Boston, Aug. 6.—As Miss Erma Warfield Sawin, 21, pupil at the Sargent School of Physical Education and instructor of athletics at the Andover playground, lay sick
in the General hospital at Lawrence,
Assistant District Attorney George
Albert and police were questioning
Dr. Ensang W. Cheng, Chinese physician, said to have been named by the girl as having performed illegal surgery. Miss Sawin is not listed as critically ill.
Dr. Cheng was arrested at his summer home at Situate. He denied he was responsible for Miss Sawin's condition.
It was reported to police that the young man involved was a Harvard student, who is now with his parents in Indianapolis.
Dr. Cheng created a sensation
nineteen years ago in Berkeley,
Cal., when he married a society
belle. In 1900 he entered the University of California but, in his senior year, transferred to Harvard and a year later entered the Harvard medical school.
His wife was granted a divorce
in San Francisco in 1914 on the grounds of "desertion."
In his school days, Dr. Cheng was a skilled baseball player and track athlete.
It was reported at police headquarters that a student doctor was being sought. The student was said to be an associate of Dr. Cheng.
Dr. Cheng has been practicing medicine in Boston. He is thirty-nine years old and the son of a wealthy Chinese merchant. He was born in Honolulu.

MANCHESTER MAN FINED IN GLASTONBURY

Held Up Glastonbury Farmer on Hillstown Road Wednes- day Night.

Four Manchester men, Raymond
Dunn of Hamlin street, Hillard
Johnson of McKee street, Oliver Jarvis and Arthur Pilsrud, were placed under arrest last night,
charged with holding up Anthony Kendall and family on the Hillstown road just over the Manchester line in Glastonbury Wednesday
night.
Deputy Sheriff House came to Manchester yesterday and with the assistance of Chief Gordon and Sergeant Barron the men were rounded up last night about six o'clock and taken before a Glas-tonbury justice. They pleaded guilty and were allowed to go on payment of costs of court, which amounted to about $28 in each case.

EDERLE BATTLING IN ROWDY SEAS

Five Miles Off English Coast at 4.45— Last Half Mile the Supreme Test.

Dover, Eng., Aug. 6.—Still swimming, Gertrude Ederle was sighted
two miles northwest of the Goodwin lighthouse at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon.
Miss Ederle was estimated to be about five miles off the English
coast and approximately eight miles northeast of Dover. She was reported as being in good shape and standing an excellent chance of making the swim victorious.

If she can catch the next tide
she should be able to drift to a point about half a mile off Dover
and then will come the supreme test as she battles against the strong off-shore currents.
Miss Ederle, if she succeeds, may not land till midnight. She has 20 miles of swimming and drifting, though in sight of shore. She has probably covered 80 zig-zag miles already.
At 7:30 o'clock Miss Ederle was five and a half miles off Dover.

Started at 7:08.
Cape Nez, Aug. 6.—Leaden skies have gathered, the sea is becoming rough, and the barometer
is dropping, yet out beyond mid-channel, Gertrude Ederle, American swimming champion, making a valiant second attempt at swimming the English channel. She took the water at 7:08 this morning.

Miss Ederle was last reported
thirteen miles out, and no boats have returned as yet from the tugs
which are accompanying her.
The fisher folk of Cape Gris Nez
are clustering about the light-house here eagerly scanning the sea, watching for the first glimpse of the girl on her return—victor or vanquished.

Miss Ederle arose at 4 o'clock
this morning. At 6 o'clock she received a coat of olive oil and just before entering the water was given four coats of heavy grease.
Her swimming suit carried an American flag and the emblem of a swimming association across the breast. Her costume was topped with a red bathing cap.

The French flag in the light house dipped three times as Miss Ederle started swimming.
Rival Swimmers Hand.
Lillian Cannon, rival cross-channel aspirant, was the last to shake her hand, but William Burgesse, Gertrude's trainer, waded in up to his knees and kissed his protege on both cheeks. He then climbed into a rowboat with the swimmer's sister and her manger.

HUGE GESTURE BY LABOR TO BACK CALLES

Sunday Demonstrations All Over Mexico Planned; No Ban Yet on Priest Who Approves Calles' Acts.

Mexico City, Aug. 6.—The Mexican religious controversy is in as tight a deadlock than ever. On top of President Calles' rejection of Peruvian offers of mediation came preparations for anti-clerical demonstrations on Sunday.

Rumors of peace, however, were still afloat, this time being based on a report that the church might be willing to declare an armistice
if the administration would submit the religious regulations to a vote of Congress. It is to the present however, President Calles and his cabinet have maintained that the regulations are to be enforced
without any stipulations whatsoever.

The anti-clerical demonstrations planned for Sunday will be held under the auspices of the Mexican Federation of Labor and will be nation-wide. It is the purpose of those planning the demonstrations to show the strength back of the government.

Not Excommunicated.
The reported excommunication
of Father Anguiano, pastor of the Catholic church at Alvarado, Vera Cruz, has been denied by the Episcopate. Father Anguiano's action in writing a letter supporting the government position has caused no small concern in the episcopate, but it was stated today that excommunication would only come on orders from the Holy See.

The episcopate has issued a statement declaring that "the church did not provoke the conflict and is disposed to accept a just settlement, but is unwilling to defray its duties." This statement brought little hope for an early end of the controversy.

Dispute Over Boycott.
The economic effect of the religious controversy is still rather difficult to estimate.
Catholic leaders declare that the boycott which has been called is in full force and that business has been seriously injured. The government, on the other hand, declares that the boycott's effects have been inconsequential. Impartial observers would estimate that business has probably been reduced by about one-third below normal.

Tenants are threatening, however, to declare a rent strike.
Leading bankers declare that there have been no unusual withdrawals of funds.

Late Report of Fighting.
Some excitement was caused by belated reports from the provinces of disorders which accompanied the closing of the churches a week ago, and the ardor of many zealots was fanned by the reports, which declared that more than a score
had been killed throughout the country. Nevertheless it appears now that the danger of serious disorders is past, and there are no
evidences of any organized effort towards disorders and riots.

President Calles has withdrawn from the presidential palace and gone to Cheputemec Castle, while repairs are being made on the palace.
Del Rio No Better.
The condition of Archbishop
Mora y Del Rio fails to improve.
The archbishop has developed a fever,
besides the symptoms of a nervous breakdown, and is unable to leave his bed.

K. C. Protest Unheeded.
Washington, Aug. 5.—Appeal of the Knights of Columbus to President Coolidge and the State Department for protection of American citizens in Mexico will not alter
this government's policy of hands
off the present religious controversy in Mexico. It was indicated at the department today.

The department has taken the position that the present strife
below the border is purely an internal affair and warrants no action by the United States unless American lives and property are actually endangered.

Thousands of protests have been received at the department over the action of the Calles government in enforcing the religious edicts.

Rights Protected.
To all of these, the State Department has replied in a routine letter that the treaty rights of American citizens were being protected, and that every precaution was being taken to protect these rights in the future. Specific cases of alleged injustice have been referred to American Ambassador Sheffield in Mexico City for investigation.

Among government officials
there is a feeling of optimism over the final outcome of the Mexican troubles. They believe that an adjustment will be made by the Calles government and Catholic church officials.
Another Priest Yields
Another defection in the Catholic ranks was reported today when the government announced that Father Jose Marin of the St. Ines Temple at Puebla had announced his will-

TONY MAKES GOOD; LOSES 24 POUNDS

It is costing Tony Lazzari a lot of aviridpols to stand out as the best looking rookie of the year in major league circles.

When Tony reported to the Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla., on March 1, he weighed exactly 179 pounds and looked fit.

In the Coast League his playing weight had been 170 pounds, never less than 165. He figured he had only 10 pounds to take off to be in the "pink."

Change in climate, being the main thing of the Yankee infield in two winning streaks of eight and sixteen games and trying to live up to advance notices, have taken their toll in weight from the temperamental son of Italy.

Five months since the training season opened, with the campaign half over, Lazzari now tips the beam at 155. He has shed just 24 pounds in winning his big league spurs.

LUXURY CAR FOR HUNTING BUILT FOR MAHARAJAH IS OF POLISHED ALUMINUM.

Bombay.—The last word in luxury cars for hunting purposes has just been received in India.

It has been completed to the order of the Maharajah of Bharatpur and is a remarkable four-seater enclosed car styled a "howdah saloon."

Mounted on a 20 h. p. Rolls-Royce chassis, the body is of the four-door type and the whole of the finish, including the bonnet, wings and valances is of polished aluminum.

So that it can be suitable for hunting tigers the fore part of the roof is made to slide. This permits the owner to stand on the seat and shoot at the game through the roof. The front seats are of the "fly up" variety, so that quick exit or entry can be made.

Mounted on the boot is a detachable double dickey seat for carrying two attendants, who face the rear.

Very powerful lamps are used. A powerful searchlight is mounted on a standard just off the wind screen on the outside, and there are also two powerful lamps facing the rear, one on each side of the back mudguards.

THIS LETS MOON OUT OF RAINFALL DEBATE

Washington.—The moon has nothing to do with rainfall, and there is no such thing as a wet or dry moon, the U. S. Weather Bureau declares. Recent investigations have disproved the old saying that the moon is wet if it hangs as though pouring out something, and dry if the points of the crescent are turned up. According to this saying, the equator should be always dry, whereas the region is notorious for heavy rains.

QUEEN MARIE WILL VISIT UNITED STATES THIS FALL. ACCOMPANIED BY PRINCESS

Bucharest.—Queen Marie's often postponed visit to the United States will be made this autumn. The American secretary of the Queen has announced that Her Majesty, accompanied by her only unmarried daughter, the Princess Elena, will sail about September 8 for New York.

The Royal visitor's plans after that are indefinite but it is announced that eventually she will travel as far as Seattle, to visit at the estate of an American friend, Mr. Hill. The trip will probably last only two months as it is necessary for her to return to Roumania before Christmas. Two ladies-in-waiting and a military adjutant will accompany the Queen.

Roumanian papers, so far as they may have suggested a husband for the beautiful young Princess may be found in America, because of the scarcity of royal or near royal candidates near home.

The real object of the visit is understood to be that it will counteract many stories as to the condition of Roumania and the Royal family in particular, which have appeared.

NOW YOU TELL ONE

Manchester, Eng. "I have a house cat with a remarkable appetite for cheese," a subscriber wrote to a local paper.

"Every time cheese is placed on the table, Tabby sits and begs for some. Inquiring into the cause of this extraordinary taste, I discovered that the cat ate the cheese and then went to a mouse-hole in the woodwork and blew his breath heavily into it. That was his way of enticing the mice to come out."

There's Nothing to Longevity But Heredity, Says Famed Centenarian

By MILTON BRONNER.

London, Aug. 6.—"The first and only rule, if you want to live to be one hundred years old, is to be very careful about the family in which you are born."

The man who said this to me with a twinkle in his blue eyes was General Sir George Higginson, the most distinguished centenarian in the world, and still going strong. This marvelous old man, who claims kin with the Massachusetts Higginsons, celebrated his hundredth birthday the other day, was honored by the king and queen and princes, attended receptions in his honor and made four or five impromptu speeches.

It makes an American realize how short is the history of our country when he figures that Sir George was born only 50 years after our Declaration of Independence. In 1845, three years before our far-away war with Mexico, he became an ensign in the crack Grenadier Guards. He served in that body for years, taking part in the Crimean War and was twice promoted for brilliant service in the field.

Oldest Guardsman.

At the age of 90 he published a book telling of 71 years of a guardsman's life. Today he is the oldest living guardsman and the oldest living alumnus of famous Eton College. I saw him in his beautiful residence on the Thames at Marlow.

"I can't give you any other rules about achieving the century mark," said Sir George.

"I can't tell you not to smoke. I have smoked. In fact, I did a great deal of smoking when I was in the trenches in Crimea. Let's see, that was seventy odd years ago."

"I can't tell you not to drink. I have been a moderate user of the good vintage of my adult life. 'I can't warn you to be very careful about your diet. I have always eaten what tasted good to me. I am still eating meat."

"I can't tell you not to worry. A soldier in the field in war-time in command of men is bound to do some worrying and I have done my share."

Inherited Strength.

"But it's very advisable to be born in the right family. From my ancestors I inherited my strong constitution. I also inherited their tendency to longevity. For their generations back I can trace ancestors who lived to be over 90. One died as the result of an accident on the ice. I think he was well over 90."

"One of my earliest recollections goes back to the days when I was four. My father was at that time in command of the Grenadiers stationed at Windsor. I was with my nurse in Frogmore road when a pony carriage came along. It was driven by a portly personage wearing a great buff coat and a broad brimmed hat which partially concealed his fleshy face. He patted me on the head and said a few kindly words.

Two Kings.

"He was King George IV. Similarly some years later when I was playing with my sisters in Kensington Gardens, London, we attracted the attention of King William IV. When I was a young boy I saw a very young lady in Kensington Gardens."

"She was later known to fame as Queen Victoria. I was one of the throngs of Etonians who cheered for her on her wedding day. Sixty-five years ago I became military instructor to the young gentleman who was to be King Edward VII and that gracious monarch often afterwards honored me with his presence in my home."

"The veteran did not add that the present king and queen are his friends, so much so, that he stood godfather to the first born son of Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles. But it's the little things that drop out in his talk that make one realize the flight of time. He recalls when his nurse used to light a fire with flint and steel and a tinder box. The water required by his family was obtained by a footman from a neighboring pump. Traveling was by coach and they used to set out with great flourish from the White Horse cellars in what is now Piccadilly.

As to his personal habits at 100 Sir George said: "I usually go to bed at ten. I have no business on hand. I get up about eleven the next morning. I read my own correspondence and answer most letters by hand. And I don't use spectacles either."

"In fine weather I manage to get my mille walk. If I have business in London, where I sometimes preside over meetings of some boards of charities, I motor to town. I rarely miss services at Marlow Parish church on Sundays. I still reside regularly over the monthly meetings which have to do with the Borlase School. Time doesn't hang heavy on my hands."

$50,000 PRIZE NOVEL NOT A PRIZE TO FANNIE HURST, GOSSIPS HINT

No recent publication has attracted such wide advance gossip as Fannie Hurst's "Mannequin" (Knopf)—the story that captured a $50,000 magazine and film prize. "Inside" Hierarchy circle relate that Miss Hurst was by no means proud of this effort and held out against its appearance in book form. After all, the screen and magazine are transients, while a book has a certain degree of permanence.

Fannie Hurst.

The story goes that she sat down one afternoon with a little pin money in mind, and wrote the general idea of a scenario and was greatly surprised on being notified that it had been the $25,000 prize plot. To get the other twenty-five thousand she had merely to sit down and write a magazine serial. With which at hand, she thought she had turned over a nice deal until her husband-business manager reminded her this sum was considerably less than she had been getting for a novel, plus serial rights. She hadn't thought of that! But it was done and, so the tale continues, she sped her typewriter that too much time might not be consumed for the money involved. That, it would seem, ended it. But it didn't. The magazine people had sold the English rights. Feeling as she did about the book, she wasn't keen about having it circulated in London and way points. The contract, however, allowed the magazine to sell world rights and Miss Hurst—if the tales be true—reached down in her purse and bought them up herself—one at a time.

Then her American publishers came after her, and she held out against book publication. There was much argument and, after a careful going over of proof sheets, she finally relented—going abroad shortly thereafter.

With such a hectic history, the novel is bound to be pretty much what it is—a good tale for movies and "to-be-continued" magazines. That it will enjoy a great sale is certain. But it seems to us that Miss Hurst is right if she felt it would add little to her reputation.

James Willard Schultz, a white man, married an Indian maiden, became a member of the Blackfeet, fought in Indian wars and, some 20 years ago, recorded all this in a sensation-creating volume, "My Life as an Indian."

Since then he has penned much about Indians and Indian life. Now he presents his first novel, "Sun Woman" (Houghton-Mifflin). Sun Woman is an Indian girl for whom two white traders fight, the while entering into trade intrigues. The American Trading Company at Ft. Benton in the fifties is the scene of the novel, which has many colorful pictures of native life and a sprinkling of melodramatic action.

"The Exquisite Perdita" of E. Barrington is none other than "Perdita" Robinson, otherwise Mary Darby Robinson, mistress of George IV when he was prince of Wales, and scurvily cast off by him—yes, even snubbed by him. "Perdita" comes on the heels of the very successful "Glorious Apollo," and hence is certain of wide reading. "Perdita" is no new figure for the romancers and dramatists and, thanks to her adventure. George the Fourth has come down through time as a symbol of royal heartlessness.

Perdita was, after all, a terrible sentimentalist and a shallow, silly girl. Miss Barrington presents her as such, but one feels the author shares this sentimentalism particularly where moral questions are concerned.

How Much Per Year for Shoes

Miss C. buys each year six pairs of shoes, costing about six dollars a pair. That's $36.00 a year.

Mrs. B. pays about eleven dollars a pair for her Cantilevers, but finds she requires only three pairs a year, since they wear and hold their shape so well. So she expends only $33.00 a year for shoes.

She always enjoys foot comfort and has a quality look about her shoes which Miss C.'s footwear lacks.

Miss B. has learned by experience that the price paid for a pair of shoes is a poor measure of their real value. What matters is the cost PER YEAR. The is a truly economical shoe, giving splendid value. It continues to look well a long time, because it is so carefully and expertly made from such excellent quality of leather, linings and other materials.

In addition, it has the characteristic Cantilever combination of lasting comfort and refinement of style.

Most women who once wear the Cantilever stick to it.

Just try it on your foot and you will see why. No obligation to buy.

There is much enthusiasm with the younger element of the Federated church as also with the older ones over the picnic which is to be held at Lake George, Wales, Mass., next Thursday, August 12.

The church picnic was held there last year and was considered by all who attended one of the finest spots for such a gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. George Neff and father Henry Neff, of Stafford road, entertained several of their relatives last week among whom were Mrs. Chauncey Wheeler and Miss Jennie Sturtevant of Crystal Lake, and a friend Henry Lewis of Hartford, aged 88 years, the time was pleasantly spent with reminiscences and old fashioned music and social time.

PROTESTS MATERIALS IN SCHOOL BUILDING.

New Canaan, Aug. 6.—Building Inspector Bernard Doerher is in direct conflict with the town committee in charge of the new and expensive high school here over material used in the building. Doerher contends that material in the structure is not up to standard and has ordered its use discontinued. The committee, headed by Stanley P. Mead, insists the material is even better than it need be and has told the contractors to keep right on using it.

POE'S STORIES: The Pit and the Pendulum (4)

Hope had vanished when the prisoner turned his eyes from the pendulum to the dish of food at his side. The rats had now greatly increased in number and had devoured all but a remnant of the spiced meat that had been placed at the man's side. They had grown bolder and fastened their sharp fangs in his fingers as he waded them away.

His left hand had been left partly free that he might eat the spiced meat, thereby adding to his thirst and increasing the torture.

He rubbed some of the meat on the surcingle that bound him. Then he lay still. At first the rats were terrified by the cessation of movement. Then the boldest leaped upon the surcingle and smelted it. It was like a signal. They swarmed over him, tearing at the cords, dodging the destroying pendulum unerringly.

THEY NEVER KNEW TOM SIMS

BEGINS HERE, PLEASE

JIMSON WEED, who is called "JIMP" for short, because he is, falls into a well and loses his job, and why didn't you start to read this great novel five days ago?

JIMP makes a million dollars. He marries PEARL HANDLE, who is a FINE GIRL, because he wants her for his WIFE. She is the daughter of her father, MR. HANDLE, and his wife, MRS. HANDLE.

The old man doesn't take such a fancy to our JIMP, so he shoots at OUR JIMP every chance he gets.

The STORY hasn't been very good so far, but it gets BETTER right along now. Today we have a thrilling chapter because the AUTHOR was away from home last night and a BURGLAR slipped in and wrote it.

REALLY, you are in luck. You haven't missed much by not READING the first four chapters.

JIMP and PEARL are on their honeymoon. Figure out the rest.

NOW GO AHEAD CHAPTER V

CHAPTER FOUR of this world's champion novel ended suddenly yesterday when our Jimp rushed out and placed his finger over the hole in the angry father's pistol to avoid being shot.

We were forced to leave him in this dangerous position, afraid to remove his finger. The author was not registered at the hotel, so got sleepy and left.

As today's installment begins, however, our Jimp has been all night with his finger over the hole in the pistol.

"Would you shoot your son-in-law?" begged Jimp, his arm aching. His hand was numb. But he was afraid to change fingers.

He was single no longer, so could not afford to take chances with the life which belonged to another.

"Would I shoot my son-in-law?" mocked the angry father. "I not only would but I will."

The hotel manager entered. "What's this?" he cried, cried he. "Make him take his finger off the hole in my pistol so I can shoot him," said the father, making a complaint.

"Can't shoot him before he pays his bill," said the manager.

"Hang the expense! I'll pay his hotel bill!"

When she first saw the ocean. The two had never met before.

"Let's go swimming," suggested Jimp.

"Goody! Goody!" agreed Pearl. "Let's do go swimming."

The loving young husband and his darling wife registered at an Atlantic City hotel. They were given a room on the tenth floor. This was high but then so were the rates.

"I can't find my bathing suit," wailed Pearl, rummaging through her bag. "I know I put it in before we left Omeo."

"What's that?" asked Jimp, pointing to a small object which had fallen to the floor.

"That isn't it. That's a button off my dress."

"What'll we do?" exclaimed Jimp. "I have mine. Perhaps you can rent a suit until we send for yours."

Pearl turned her bag upside down, spreading its contents about the bed. As she did so her bathing suit dropped out of a vanity case in which it had been hiding.

"Goody! Goody!" exclaimed Pearl, patting her hands together. "I've found my bathing suit!"

But the poor girl was counting her bathing suit before she had it on. Even as she giggled with delight a strange thing happened. A baby moan swooped down from the head of the bed. It passed a moment in flight above the bathing suit, snatched it at one gulp, then departed. Only the hole in the air where the suit had been remained.

"Goody! Goody!" exclaimed Pearl. "Now, what was Pearl to do? Her suit really was gone. How would she go in swimming without a bathing suit? It was afternoon and hours before darkness. How would she go?"

You don't know our Pearl. If you did, you wouldn't ask.

Snatching a handkerchief from among the clothes, she ripped it in two pieces. Discarding the larger piece, she grabbed a needle and her nail scissors.

A few minutes later she stood before her husband in a new lathing suit. It was a trifle longer than those seen on the beach at Atlantic City, but Jimp was proud of her modesty.

"You'll have to wash your neck a few inches lower," he said.

Pearl examined her neck in the mirror. Jimp was right. She must wash lower because she had no talcum powder.

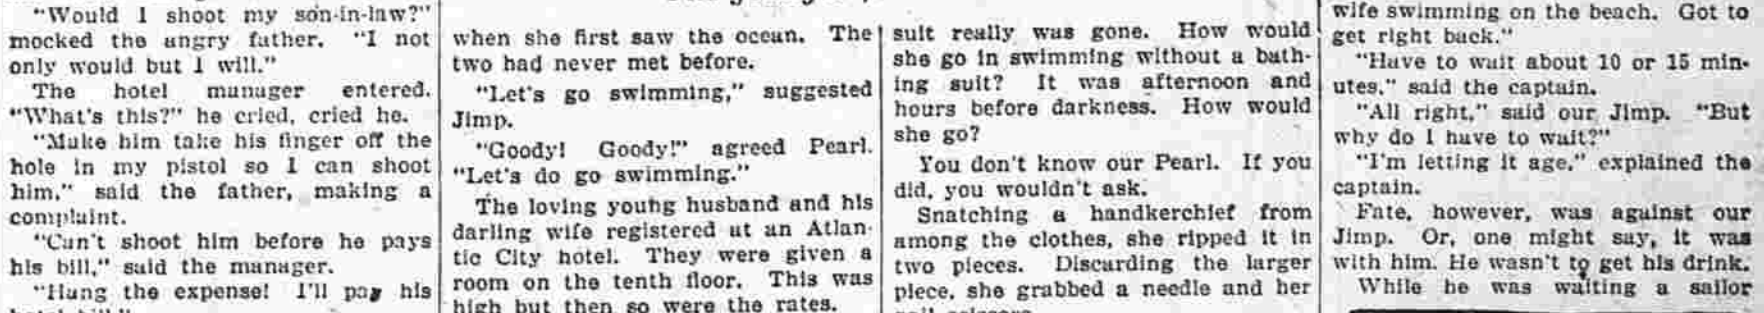

The lovely young wife, however, had often washed her neck. Several deft strokes with the wash cloth and she was ready to go swimming.

The beach was crowded because there were a lot of people there.

Several people were so skinny, or so knock-kneed, or so bowlegged, that they were in the water. One poor girl was in the water up to her neck. That's how skinny she was.

Our Pearl and our Jimp took their places in the sand upon the beach. Never had life seemed so wonderful. They were so happy that this before they married.

Pearl didn't have to go into the water and Jimp couldn't swim.

BANG!

tumbled into the room. "Sea serpent! Sea serpent!" screamed the sailor.

Jimp and the captain rushed above. They reached the deck to find groups of sailors gesticulating excitedly.

There, about a mile astern, and coming toward the ship, was a tower of water. A huge pipe-shaped head bobbed up and down.

Every one saw the sea serpent. That was the strange thing about it all. And, they saw it was coming to the ship.

On it came. It struck the ship. The ship was thrown hundreds of feet into the air, shattered.

Jimp grabbed a life-saver on the way down, a real one, not a drink. "I'm continued tomorrow," said he, as he hit the water.

CALLING PARTY SHOULD FINISH CALL ON PHONE

This is answered by the statement that the person who makes the telephone call should end the conversation, except in a few instances. The exceptions to the rule are as follows:

When a woman is conversing over the telephone with a man, it matters not whether the woman or the man did the calling. It is the woman who should bring the conversation to an end. That is her privilege, and the man should never place himself in the position of ending the conversation. On the other hand, especially if the woman is calling up a man during business hours, she should be careful not to continue the conversation too long lest the man might find it necessary to excuse himself. This is a difficult thing to do, no matter how tactfully he may be able to accomplish it.

If a woman calls up another woman it should always be the woman who calls up, who brings

Salpina's report and are holding him in order to check up.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY AUSTIN H. CLARK
Smithsonian Institution

Ingratitude of the very basest sort is practiced by this pretty little butterfly, the so-called "Large Blue" of Europe. The beautiful deep blue color, exquisite daintiness, and apparent feebleness of the creature quite belie its nature. The female of this butterfly lays her eggs on the flower heads of the thyme, carefully choosing buds that will be opening when the little caterpillars hatch, and also choosing plants that grow on ant hills.

The caterpillars on hatching are exceedingly small, only one-thirty-second of an inch in length. They feed on the blossoms of the thyme. The caterpillars shed their skins three times, reaching an eighth of an inch in length, and then begin a different mode of life, toward their best friends but by a commendable change of heart toward fellow caterpillars.

When feeding on thyme blossoms these caterpillars are enthusiastic cannibals. If by unhappy chance two meet each other one promptly eats the other. But after the third moult they are no longer cannibals, and several will live happily together.

The ants are friends of theirs because toward the end of the body on the back the caterpillars have a honey gland that secretes a liquid of which ants are extremely fond. In order to secure this honey, the ants constantly attend the caterpillars and so far as possible protect them from all harm.

After the third moult the caterpillars lose all interest in thyme, and crawl down off the plants. They go into the nests of ants, into the homes of their protectors, where they comfortably take up their quarters and fatten up by eating protectors' babies.

You would think the ants might protest against the eating of their young by these feeble little caterpillars. They could easily kill them if they wished to. But instead, if you disturb an ants' nest, the ants will carry the ferocious little caterpillars off to safety before they do their young.

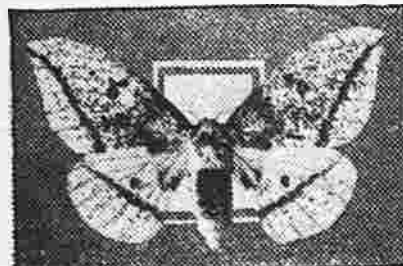

NOT RARE, THOUGH RARELY SEEN.

Among our giant moths, one of the very largest is the fine imperial moth. This measures about the same as the cecropia, our largest kind, across the wings, but the wings are narrower.

The color is bright lemon yellow with markings of dull rose which are much more extensive in the males than in the females.

The moth flies only in June, and is not rare, though ordinarily not often seen.

The caterpillar, which varies from green to brown or nearly black and is sometimes spotted, feeds on more than fifty different kinds of trees, including pines.

Imperial Moth.

In the late summer the caterpillar burrows in the ground and there makes a cell in which it transforms into the pupa stage, in which stage it spends the winter.

INSCRIPTION SALE.

Apparently the system of inscription auction sales put into effect at Hartford yesterday by the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association has not only resulted in the bringing of good prices for so much of the members' product as was offered, but has served to satisfy the minds of the growers that here, at last, is a method by which they will receive, for their crops, the utmost that it is possible to get by any marketing operation whatever.

THE NEGRO AGAIN.

Directly in line with what the Herald had to say yesterday on the Negro question is the protest registered by Hartford Negroes against the selection of parts of the city largely given to Negro colonization as targets for sensational "drives," with accompanying exploitation of whatever criminal happenings transpire in those localities.

the sake of pulling our Mr. Reed's chestnuts. Reed started out on these primary investigations in hope of establishing a reputation as an inquisitor comparable to that of his fellow Democrat, Senator Walsh of Montana.

Things broke very nicely for Reed, for a while, it must be admitted. But when he undertook to make all the purely local political deals and arrangements of Illinois Republicans the target of his snooping he stepped into a puddle.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 6.—Impressions at a Broadway "first night" performance in midsummer:

The audience trickles in like soggy tallow of melting candles. Most of them seem uncomfortable. The "regulars" seek plausible excuses for being in town. All the "first string" critics are missing.

A general rush for the dozen and one cranberry stands of the neighborhood. The night becomes raucous with their cries for service. They mill and push for standing space, hands reach over heads and filled glasses trickle over and spill.

This is the feast day of the transfiguration of the Lord. God appeared in a cloud to Christ and Peter, James and John as they were praying on a mountain.

Tong Wars Kill Chinatown; Mott, Doyers and Pell St. Quiet

New York.—Twice-blessed is the spirit of Sam Wong, one of Chinatown's own who carried out the code of his clan only to cross the law of the white man. Sam was buried as a Christian. He was also laid to rest according to the rites of the faith of his forefathers. Before they electrocuted Sam, On Leong Tong warrior for murder, the white man converted him to Christianity and his friends were forced to share the final adieu to their kinsman. The white man took the mortal remains of Sam Wong to a church and blessed it. A brass band of white men preceded the hearse playing a funeral march. Behind the cortege followed a Chinese band competing with musical incantations to drive the devil away from Sam's spirit.

Christian Prayers.
At Sam's grave a Christian prayer was said while those firm in the faith of the Orient dropped chickens, rice and other provender to bid Sam over the Great Divide. Prayer scrolls were also entombed. Sam Wong's friends did their best but it wasn't like the funeral of Tom Lee, Mayor of Chinatown, nor when Chin Tong War, the last owner of an aristocratic queue, was played to rest. Then one could hear the drums and cymbals and the jazz-like Chinese flutes even above the rattle of the elevated railroad along the Bowery. The Chinese mourner wore their native costume instead of their present garb of American business suits.

With Sam Wong they buried a large part of the picturesque Chinatown, famed in movie, song and word for its oriental mystery, hidden wickedness and tong wars.

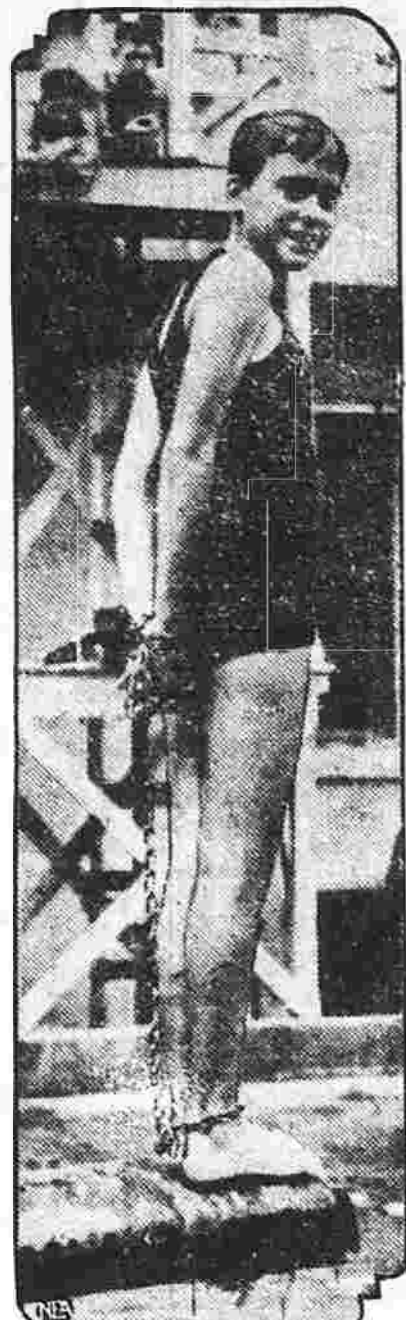

The white man with his square-jawed detectives, his real estate values, and his missionaries, has swept the ancient glamour from the crooked, narrow streets formerly screening "joss" houses where the Chinese worshipped idols of their land across the seas.

Chinatown Moving.
The last tong war is completing the Americanization of Chinatown. The Chinese are moving their shops elsewhere and a Chinaman's home follows his shop. The vivid reports of tong shooting last Christmastide caused many feminine shoppers after bric-a-brac and out-of-townners after chop-suey to seek less dangerous territory.

"The Chinese are all moving away," said Yen Sing, one of the remaining shopkeepers in Chinatown. "Some move to Fifth Avenue, some to Park Avenue. I live in Brooklyn."

However, the sightseeing buses still attract an army of tourists. Mott, Doyers and Pell streets are now as quiet as a country lane. Even the fake opium dens and the "joss houses" kept for tourists only have disappeared.

NEW YORK NICE TOWN TO BE IN.

New York.—A million and a half dollars annually in pennies, nickels and dimes drop into the cups and caps of the 200 crippled and blind beggars selling chewing gum and pencils on the streets of New York. The estimate was given by the police department. Frank L. Dunn, secretary to Lient. William C. Whitley, commanding the mendicants' bureau of the department, estimated that the average cripple should pay an income tax of $7,000.

The great sucker districts for professional panhandlers are Wall street and Fifth avenue. On a good day, undisturbed by police, Dunn believes a panhandler clears $10 easily.

Waller's Homer; Brownell's Fielding; McLaughlin's Hitting; Vin Farrand's Pitching, Give Shamrocks Victory

East Glastonbury Nine Overwhelmed by 10-3 Score; Mantelli Signs—Taftville Here Sunday.

East Glastonbury may be perched at the top of the Hartford County "Y" League with practically a clean slate but this didn't mean a clean slate to Clemson Shamrocks last night and the boys from the City of Stones had to be content with the short end of a 10 to 3 score. The winners played errorless ball behind the superb twirling of "Vin" Farrand who retired six on strikes and did not issue a single pass. The next game for the Shamrocks will appear here Sunday when Taftville appears here. McLaughlin's hitting was a feature.

Locals Score Early
Manchester was not long in hopping into the lead last night. The locals pushed over two runs in the first inning. A pass to Bowers and consecutive hits by Kelly, Brownell and McLaughlin, accounted for the two tallies. After that the Shamrocks were never in danger of losing the lead although the visitors scored three runs in the fifth inning when they bunched three hits.

Waller's Homer
Waller celebrated his return to his former teammates by smacking one of Denier's fast ones over a circuit clout. The drive was one of the longest clouts ever seen on the Community grounds and the fans gave the clever backstop a hearty applause as he concluded his trip around the sacks. The ball cleared the right field fence by thirty feet and sailed into field, The fielder had no chance to get Waller at the plate. It was useless to try and he seemed to sense it at the crack of the bat.

Brownell's Fielding
Dick Brownell's snappy fielding at shortstop was a feature. Dick had six chances last night and the lanky fielder made good on every one of them. Some of his chances were real hard to handle. If Brownell continues to field in the manner he did last night, it is apparent that the Shamrocks will have little to fear of balls driven toward that territory when the town championship games are played.

Mantelli Is Signed
Manager Clemson announced after the game that he had signed Elmo Mantelli, the flashy outfielder from the South. He will play with his team for the rest of the season. Mantelli, he says, will be in the lineup Sunday against Taftville. Elmo was with the Sons of Italy and then with Cheney Brothers. His hitting and fielding has been commendable. Tonight the Shamrocks will practice at Hickey's Grove at 6 o'clock and all players are requested to report.

Looks Close Enough But Try It And See

Lillian Cannon borrows a telescope from M. Bernicot, keeper of the semaphore on the coast of France at Cape Gris Nez, for a look toward her goal—the shores of England, 20 miles away.

LILLIAN ALL SET FOR CHANNEL SWIM

Cape Gris Nez, France, Aug. 6.—Whether I succeed in swimming the channel or not, I am sure I will always shall look upon the experience as the happiest of my life. I have enjoyed the preparation for the swim; I love this little French village, with conditions strange to me, and I love the people, the boys and girls in the village, and I love to talk to them. I delight so much in my endeavor here that I am getting a real affection for the channel itself. Most of the hotel guests and visitors are French and English people. They all watch me in my training and talk to me about my work. They are always pleasant and wish me luck. Many think it strange that an American girl should come all the way over here to swim the channel. I never tire of talking to the fishermen who live on the channel and regard it with great respect. One of my trainers, Jack Weidman, the "Dover Shark," studies the channel like a clergyman with his Scriptures. He will often go out alone, finaling himself carefully, and swim about to study the tides and strength of currents. When he comes in he jots down notes like a civil engineer after a survey. Jabez Wolfe, former veteran swimmer and trainer, reminds me more of a physician treating a patient. He goes in the water with a thermometer on a string and takes the temperature of the water every few minutes. He will often go to the beach at the pulse of the tide. On the whole we are a happy company, and the life is new and novel. The channel seems to cast a spell that is not unlike the spell of the desert. I don't want to stay by the channel forever, like a desert rat in the sands, but I must confess that I am fascinated. I guess the one cure will be to swim it.

RAY MOREHART DOING NICELY FOR PALE HOSE
Ray Morehart, Eddie Collins' understudy at second base for the White Sox, has been playing nice ball whenever he's been able to break into the game. Ray is speedy, a good fielder and fair hitter. He got his start in the Michigan-Ontario League several years ago.

HOW TO SWIM by Lillian Cannon

During the breast stroke the arms and hands are under water all the time, while the head is entirely out of water. The first position in the breast stroke is with the shoulders just at the surface of the water, the arms stretched straight forward with hands touching and the legs in a straight line behind with ankles touching. The hands are turned back to back and the arms sweep backward until they are at right angles to the body. Then the elbows are bent and the hands brought together under the body until they touch. Then they go straight ahead to the first position, which completes the cycle of movement.

ALLOWS MILL TEAM TWO HITS; HANNA'S THREE ERRORS HURT

Local Sport Chatter

The St. Mary's are not content with winning from Cheney Brothers last night. They still crave action and more scalp. Now that they have won their series from the mill team, the Saints want a shot at the Sons of Italy and don't care a hang who knows it.

Sunday the Saints have a tentative booking to play in Windsor against the General Electric Company and definite announcement will be made tomorrow.

North End fans are anxiously awaiting the appearance of the Taftville team here Sunday afternoon to oppose the Shamrocks. The famous Murphy brothers will be in the lineup of the visitors as usual.

WALKING IN SLEEP FATAL TO SOLDIER

Scout Suicide Theory of Hartford World War Veteran; Was Known Here.

Richard C. Rockwell, 37, of Hartford, who is reported to have committed suicide Wednesday night in New London when he jumped from a ninth story window in the Mohican hotel, is well known to members of the two local units in the Connecticut National Guard.

Popular at Camp

Rockwell, a World War veteran, was first sergeant of Company M., of Hartford, 169th Infantry under Captain Leslie M. Pierce. During the recent encampment at Niantic, several of the members of Company G and the Howitzer Company made his acquaintance. Other ex-service men here may remember him from his splendid record in the World War and his service at the Mexican Border in 1916.

It was at Selchepay, April 20, 1918 that Rockwell then a member of Company D, 102nd, Infantry of the A. E. F., distinguished himself in action. He was badly gassed at the time.

Scout Suicide Theory

While the New London dispatches report Rockwell's death due to suicide, this cause is not accepted by those who knew him intimately. They point out that Rockwell had been a victim of sleep-walking and believe that this is how he met his death.

OLD RANCH TO GO.

Fort Worth, Tex.—The Great Matador, most famous of Texas ranches, is to be sold soon for colonization in farm blocks. The Matadors have two ranches in Texas, comprising about 800,000 acres. They have about 4,500 head of cattle, conservatively estimated to be worth $3,000,000.

Reunited After 70 Years

Separated for 70 years, Mrs. Johanna Johnson, 76, of Tacoma, Wash., has met her "baby brother," Albert Larson, 71, of Melott, Ind. And a fortune teller brought it about. Recently Larson tried to learn the address of his sister, from whom he had been separated by the death of their parents when he was a year old. The fortune teller told him a letter hidden in his home would give the clue. He went home and found an old letter written by relatives which enabled him to get knowledge of Mrs. Johnson's whereabouts.

Denver Supreme Court To Rule On Public School Bible Reading

Denver, Colo.—In a brief filed in the Supreme court here in the famous Bible-reading case appealed from the district court of Weld county the question of whether or not Catholics, Jews and others are to be barred from the public schools of Colorado because of their views on religion has been squarely submitted to that judicial body.

where the King James version of the Bible is not countenanced by the church. Numerous authorities for the stand against Bible reading are also cited.

Nevada, Montana, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin are the only states having old-age pension laws.

Millions at Play

The board of education of the Platteville consolidated schools issued an order last year that the reading of portions of the King James version of the Bible should be a part of the regular morning exercises in all classes, the reading to be done by the teachers without comment. Catholic parents protested and in several instances refused to allow their children to attend the exercises, resulting in another order from the board, that such students must attend the Bible reading with other pupils.

Charles L. Vollmar, one of the Catholic parents asked the district court for an alternative writ of mandamus, restraining the board from enforcing the Bible reading. The board demurred was sustained by District Judge Robert G. Smith, and the case came to the supreme court.

The brief recites: "It is against the conscience of Catholics, Jews and others to read or listen to the reading of a Protestant version of the Bible, and it is as much against the conscience of a Jew or Catholic to read a Protestant Bible as it would be to participate in some other for the protestant religious worship. Matters of conscience cannot be classified to degree."

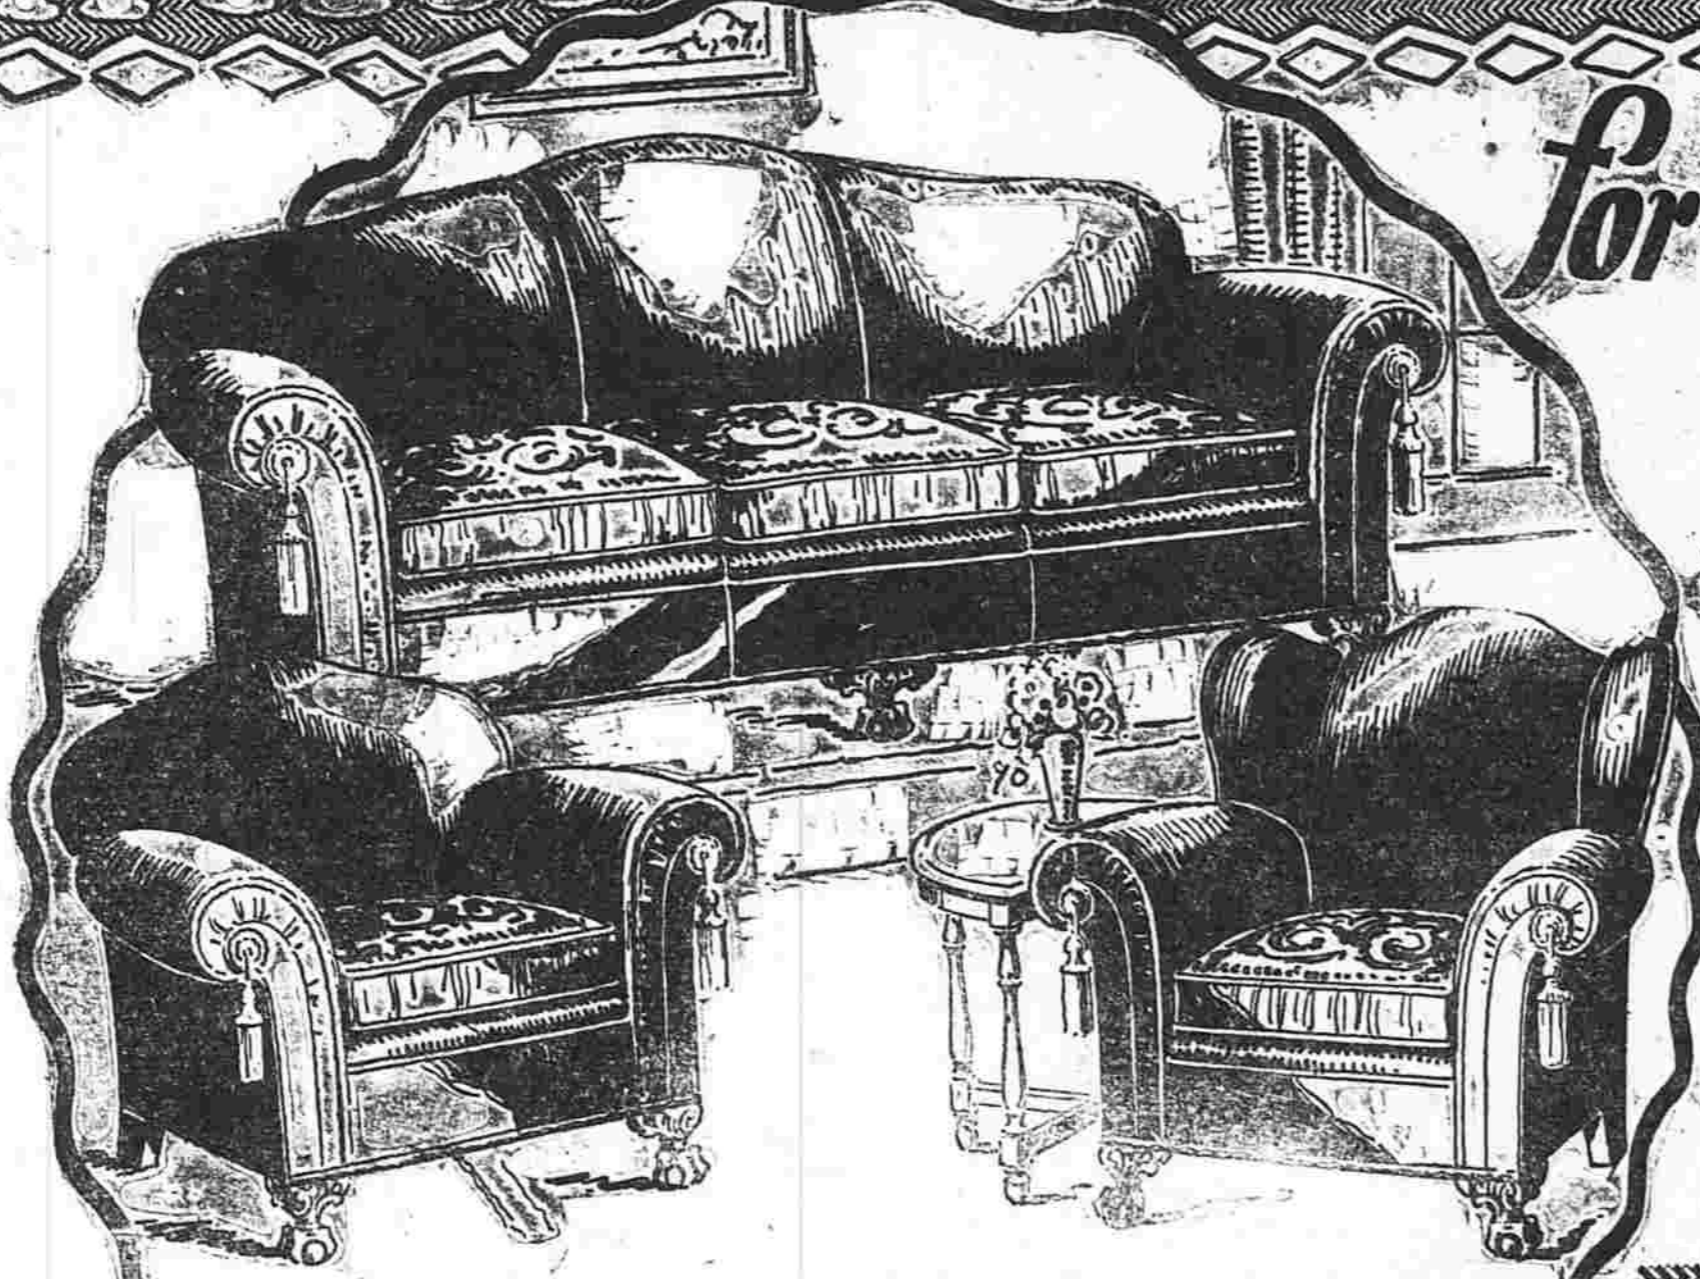

"The proponents of Bible reading in the public schools, if successful, will effect an era of religious persecution comparable with that of Diocletian, Louis XIV or Henry VIII. Freedom to worship God in accordance with the dictates of conscience is said to be a fundamental principle of American liberty. Religious liberty does not and cannot exist when conditioned upon the surrender of a civil or political right or privilege."

The brief was filed by William H. Scofield and Harold G. King, attorneys for Vollmar and the voluminous brief attacks as unconstitutional the action of the Platteville school board, citing the national and state constitutional provisions for complete religious freedom. The argument also discusses the Catholic faith and shows

How many million dollars he represents vacationing at Dinard, Brittany, only Andrew W. Mellon knows. And the U. S. Treasury Secretary told only that his European visit didn't concern war debts.

Protestants Meet Diaz Thirty-two American Protestant ministers, who are investigating religious conditions in Mexico, today called at the Catholic Episcopate and discussed the situation with Bishop Pascual Diaz. Dr. Alva W. Taylor, spokesman for the Americans, said they were extremely anxious to get the Catholic viewpoint in order that they might form a more intelligent opinion.

A THOUGHT

They that trust in their wealth, and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches; none of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him.—Ps. 49:6, 7.

When the desire of wealth is taking hold of the heart, let us look around and see how it operates upon those whose industry or fortune has obtained it. When we find them oppressed with their own abundance, luxurious without pleasure, idle without ease, and despised and hated by the rest of mankind, we shall soon be convinced that if the real wants of our condition are satisfied, there remains little to be sought with solicitude or desired with eagerness.—Dr. Johnson.

SAYS STATE COPS TOOK LEGAL PRIVATE GOODS

Waterbury, Aug. 6.—Edward B. Reilly, local attorney, today filed a complaint against state policemen with Superintendent Robert Hurley, alleging that members of the group who raided Shell Hitecock Lake in Wolcott, last Saturday night, seized property other than liquor in the cottage of Eric Erickson. Mr. Reilly issued a statement today announcing that he would take the case to the Superior court unless his client's property was returned.

UNUSUAL POINT IN LAW RAISED BY GARAGE MAN

A Waterbury garage owner has raised a point about motor vehicle operation which appears not to be covered by the state motor vehicle law. Especially at this time of the year, he has informed the motor vehicle department, many cars registered in other states come into his service shop for repairs and adjustments, some of which require considerable time to be made. It becomes necessary for the garage foreman or his workman to take such cars out for a road test on the highways of Connecticut, but neither the foreman nor any of his workmen are licensed operators of any state other than Connecticut.

Whether these mechanics may legally operate cars bearing the registrations of other states and, if so, for how long, is a question the garage owner propounded to the Connecticut department.

He has received in reply a letter from the motor vehicle department saying that the Connecticut law evidently does not clearly cover that point and there has been no interpretation of it in that connection. However, it is the personal viewpoint of Commissioner Stoekel that after the State of Connecticut has passed upon the qualification of a person to the extent of issuing an operator's license, that license is good for the operation of any car whatever in this state, irrespective of the car registration.

In other words, a car bearing a Massachusetts registration may be operated in Connecticut by a Connecticut operator. The question of length of operation under such circumstances is another point, concerning which the Connecticut department has notified the Waterbury garage owner that it considers fifteen days the limit, after which the person responsible for the car should be prosecuted under the registration law but not under the operator's license law. A definite provision to cover such a situation will be sought in the next session of the Legislature.

Frances S. Hall, widow of the slain rector and who is charged with the double murder, knew of a tryst between Hall and Mrs. Mills on the fateful night.

Mrs. Hall Listened In Mrs. Riehl also told Senator Simpson that Mrs. Hall had left the house several hours after the rector had departed. Willie Stevens, Mrs. Hall's brother, also went out, Mrs. Riehl said.

On the night of September 14, according to Mrs. Riehl's story Mrs. Mills telephoned to the Hall residence and asked to speak to the clergyman.

During the conversation, Mrs. Hall "listened in" on an extension telephone, said Mrs. Riehl.

"I said that the telephone call was for Mr. Hall," said Mrs. Riehl, "and then I looked around the janitor and saw Mrs. Hall take the receiver off the hook of the extension telephone."

Hall left the house hurriedly after the telephone call, said Mrs. Riehl, speaking to Mrs. Hall as he was coming down the stairway.

The scene in the Hall home on the morning of September 16, 1922, when the bodies of Hall and Mrs. Mills were discovered, was described by Mrs. Riehl to Simpson. She said that Barbara Tough, another maid, when told that Hall was dead, exclaimed:

"My God! He's been murdered!"

SENATOR SIMPSON ASKED MRS. RIEHL IF SHE KNEW WHAT THE RECTOR HAD SAID TO MRS. HALL AS HE LEFT THE HOUSE AFTER THE TELEPHONE CALL.

To See "Mills."

"I could not get all of the conversation," said Mrs. Riehl, "but he said something about seeing Mills about bills."

"Did he speak of Mrs. Mills or Mrs. Mills?" asked Simpson.

"He said he was going to see Mills about bills," Mrs. Riehl said that the telephone call came between seven and eight o'clock and Hall left the house in less than one hour after.

Mrs. Hall departed from her home some time after the clergyman had gone, said Mrs. Riehl.

"The next time I saw Mrs. Hall was at the breakfast table on the following day, (September 15)," Mrs. Riehl said.

"Was there any undue excitement?"

"Well, they were all talking about Dr. Hall not having returned during the night."

Contradiction. In contrast with the affidavit taken by Mrs. Riehl today, Mrs. Frances Hall, on November 1, 1922, made the following statement to newspaper men:

"They told me that the telephone call came from Mrs. Mills but I only knew that from the outside. I did not overhear any of the conversation. Between the time that Mr. Hall left the house and the time I went out with my brother (Willie Stevens) in the early morning, I did not, at any time, leave the house."

Her father ran up an American flag on the bow of the tug.

The swimmer's last remark was: "I hope the next time, I'll cross the channel by airplane."

There was no jazz music aboard the tug, Alsace, which was following Miss Ederle.

"What's the use," the swimmer said, "the musicians all get seasick."

The tug, bearing newspapermen and photographers, caught up with the Alsace. A second tug left Boulogne an hour and a half after the start had been made from Gris Nez.

Dove His Dubious. Dover, Eng., Aug. 6.—The sea is running heavier and a strong wind is blowing, making the effort of Gertrude Ederle to swim the English channel more difficult.

At 1 p. m. today Dover had reports that Miss Ederle had passed the half-way mark in the channel and was swimming with strong strokes.

The seas and wind on this side caused the experts along the water-front to doubt the possible success of the American girl, although they pointed out that with nightfall the wind and sea may calm, and if Miss Ederle can remain in the water until the opportunity for a dash to the shore affords itself, she may have a chance of success. It will take strong swimming, however, the experts say. "Go to Folkestone."

When it was reported that Miss Ederle was thirteen miles directly north of Cape Gris Nez, the old salts along the Dover water-front advised reporters waiting on shore that if they want to greet Miss Ederle if and when she lands they had better "leg it down to Folkestone."

The quadside experts, and there are scores of them here, opine that "Old Bill Burgess" is going to "get the girl well up north mid-channel before the tide turns and then let her drift back down the coast."

They believe that the tides are running so that Miss Ederle probably won't be able to make the final sprint for shore much before she reaches Folkestone.

Miss Ederle's position as last reported was almost directly opposite the Dover cliffs, and if she is to drift down channel, with the tide she probably will have to land further down the coast than Shakespeare Beach, Dover.

E. C. BENEDICT ESTATE AT GREENWICH IS SOLD.

Greenwich, Aug. 6.—Announcement was made here today of the sale of the Commodore E. C. Benedict estate to a socially prominent woman whose name is being withheld. The purchase price was $500,000.

The property sold includes the Benedict mansion and a large guest house with twelve acres of land on the main land, and Tweed's island off the estate. The Benedict estate is one of the show places of the eastern United States.

CASE AGAINST GAINES DISCLOSED IN TRIAL

Prosecutor Asserts Morbid Relation Existed Between College Girl and Her Father.

Seattle, Aug. 6.—Following the selection of a jury in the trial of Wallace C. Gaines, Prosecutor Colvin began outlining his case. He charged that Gaines had led his daughter into an unnatural relationship, and as a result Gaines' second wife left his home and went to California.

When the daughter realized what a position she was in, she took steps to break away. Colvin will attempt to show that Gaines had made repeated threats against his daughter's life.

Her battered body was discovered on the shores of Green Lake on the morning of June 17. Her head had been crushed in with a stone which was found by her side.

COOK RAILS AT WORDS OF PREMIER BALDWIN

London, Aug. 6.—Premier Baldwin was bitterly attacked by Secretary A. J. Cook of the Miners' Federation, for sending a message to the United States declaring that there is no want among the British coal strikers. Cook charged that Premier Baldwin had made use of an American Press association to further his campaign to prevent aid being given to the British miners by Americans.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PLAYS TO BE GIVEN IN PARIS.

Paris.—A permanent English language theater has been founded by two enterprising English actors Edward Stirling and Frank Reynolds. They inaugurated in 1922 a season of drama and comedy in English which they have repeated several times since then.

It is proposed to produce at this theater the plays of several French authors for "try out" which if successful will be later put on the boards in New York or London. In addition to the troupe which will play in Paris, there will be two others, one which will tour the important cities of England and Scotland and the other, the resort centers of the Riviera, the Channel, Switzerland, Holland and Egypt.

COLORED LIGHTS WILL END GLARE

Auto Headlights With Two Color Lenses Solves Big Problem.

Glaring headlights find another solution in the use of two-color lenses. It's the idea of Karl D. Chambers, a scientific research engineer of Asheville, N. C., who recently described his solution to members of the Society of Automotive Engineers. Chambers worked over this problem of headlighting for three years. In that time he rejected the suggestions of many lighting experts for headlights with their beams thrown down below the horizontal and spread out wide across the road. He wanted a light that would throw its beam even above the horizontal, to detect pedestrians and other objects, and still not be glaring. So he devised what he calls the "complimentary color headlight." It consists of a lamp with two lenses so arranged that either may be used by merely pushing a switch. One lens is blue, the other orange.

Work With Lamps. In conjunction with these headlights, there is a filter box in front of the driver, containing a blue and an orange sheet of glass. When either sheet is pulled down before the eyes of the driver, the light of the same color is automatically turned on, by electric and not mechanical control.

Looking through this filter, Chambers finds, a driver could see even better than he would with the aid of the ordinary white headlight turned on at full strength. Its greater advantage, however, would be its ability to absorb the light of approaching cars—all but those using the same colored headlights. Mere changing of the filter on the part of one or the other driver, however, would relieve that. Another method to avoid the use of the same colored lights by drivers going in opposite directions, Chambers suggests, would be a rule designating a blue light for driving north and east, and an orange light for going south and west—or whatever way each community might decide.

Red Signals Seen. Whatever the arrangement, a driver using the orange filter and light would see the approaching blue lights as mere candle lights. There would be no interference in the illumination of the road. Strangely, neither orange nor blue filter keeps the driver from distinguishing red danger signals as such, says Chambers. Color-blind persons who couldn't tell red lights except as a shade of green, under the present system, would face the same effect with use of filters, he adds. Meeting cars unequipped with this system, Chambers finds, any color used would absorb three-fourths of the glare. And the cars with the white lights would be at no disadvantage either, because the amount of light from the colored lamps is no more than in use at present.

MOON DREAMS.

Somehow or other, ya sorta relax, an' all the world swings into tune. How different the mind is, how different it acts whenever ya sit 'neath the moon.

Ya turn to sky-gazing and dreamin' a bit, and ya lull all your troubles ta sleep. Ya soon get ta thinkin' that life seems ta fit, and your worries are only mind-deep. The toll that has troubled you all through the day, and robbed you, you think, of your fun, runs on, out of mind, when you're loafin' in this way, and you're kinda glad, now, that it's done.

Out there, 'neath the moon, there are heaps you can gain, and most always the dark turns to bright. Your old mind rests easy and starts workin' sane, and the past heavy burdens seem light. Ya sorta give in to the freeness at play, and ya come ta find out, as ya roam 'neath the moon that, though it is a long ways away, it can bring common sense close ta home.

PARIS COURTS DECIDE AIR TRAGEDY VICTIMS CAN GET NO DAMAGES.

Paris.—An important decision on the rights of air travelers has just been rendered by the Paris Court of Appeals. The heirs of two victims in a recent air tragedy brought suit against the company but their claim was denied by the Civil Tribunal on the grounds that it was specifically stated on the tickets that the air company was not to be held responsible for accidents.

The Court of Appeals reversed the decision ruling that the clause of non-responsibility was null and void and the claimants were awarded 25,000 and 100,000 francs respectively.

GRAPES APLENTY. Carthage, Mo.—Judging from recent forecasts the 1926 grape crop of the Ozark region of Southwest Missouri and Northwest Arkansas will total 1,200 cars, which will net the growers close to $1,000,000. Weather conditions have been ideal for grapes this year. The forecast is for more than double last year's crop.
