

Fonck-Snoddy Prepare For New York to Paris Jump

"Biggest Feat Is Left To Do," Says Capt. Fonck

Two men, possibly three will compose the crew of the Sikorsky S-35, giant New York-to-Paris plane. They are: RENE FONCK, Captain French army, world war ace, who flew in 1919 from Paris to Casa Blanca, Morocco, a non-stop record.

ALLAN P. SNODDY, Lieutenant U. S. Navy, member of Commander Rogers flight to Hawaii last year.

Possibly: HOMER M. BERRY, Captain, noted balloonist, and meteorological expert.

Capt. Rene Fonck

By JAMES HASWELL
NEA Service Writer

New York, Aug. 21.—Captain Rene Fonck, dapper Frenchman whose ambition is to make the first non-stop flight between New York and Paris, speaks not a word of English.

Lieut. Allan P. Snoddy, American naval aviator who accompanies him speaks no French.

"How'll you talk to each other?" the interviewer asked. Fonck grinned.

"We won't have time," he said "unless we're shipwrecked."

"—And if we're shipwrecked," he added, "we won't have anything to say."

Lieut. Snoddy Capt. Berry

Biggest Stunt Left

The flight headed by this short, blue-eyed, merry French national hero is—if it succeeds—the second non-stop flight of heavier than air machines across the Atlantic.

The distance is 3800 miles; the prize is $25,000 offered by Raymond Orteig in 1919—and the real reason for the flight is, because, according to Capt. Fonck:

"It's the biggest stunt left to do in the world today."

The first trans-Atlantic flight in 1919 was made by Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown, who subsequently were knighted for his gallantry on the expedition. The British flyers took off from New Brunswick, Canada, and flew 1980 miles in 16 hours, crashing at Clifden, Ireland, wrecking their plane but escaping themselves.

Two dirigibles, the Los Angeles and the British R-34, also have crossed the Atlantic, while several flights—notably that of the N-64, U. S. Navy—have been made by hops of several hundred miles each.

Of all the flyers, Fonck believes he is best equipped. He is using a giant biplane, several times larger than standard designed by Count Igor Sikorsky—the Russian who formerly built planes for the Czar—and built at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, under Fonck's personal supervision.

Has Three Motors

It has three motors of the latest design—Commander Richard E. Byrd used a three-motored plane in flying to the North Pole—each of 1500 horsepower.

The plane measures 101 feet from tip to tip, with a wing area of approximately 1000 square feet. It carries 2500 gallons of gasoline, enough to drive the motors 4000 miles in a dead calm.

This gives 200 miles margin and is admittedly the greatest element of risk in the plan.

"If the wind blows against us all the way—Fonck shrugged fatalistically, when discussing the plans, "we won't have enough fuel to make it up."

"But I have spent three years studying them, and I don't believe they will. According to my calculations, if I pick the right moment to take off, the winds will be with me over half the distance."

Float Three Days

If forced down, Fonck estimates his plane will float for three or four days on buoyancy supplied by empty gasoline tanks.

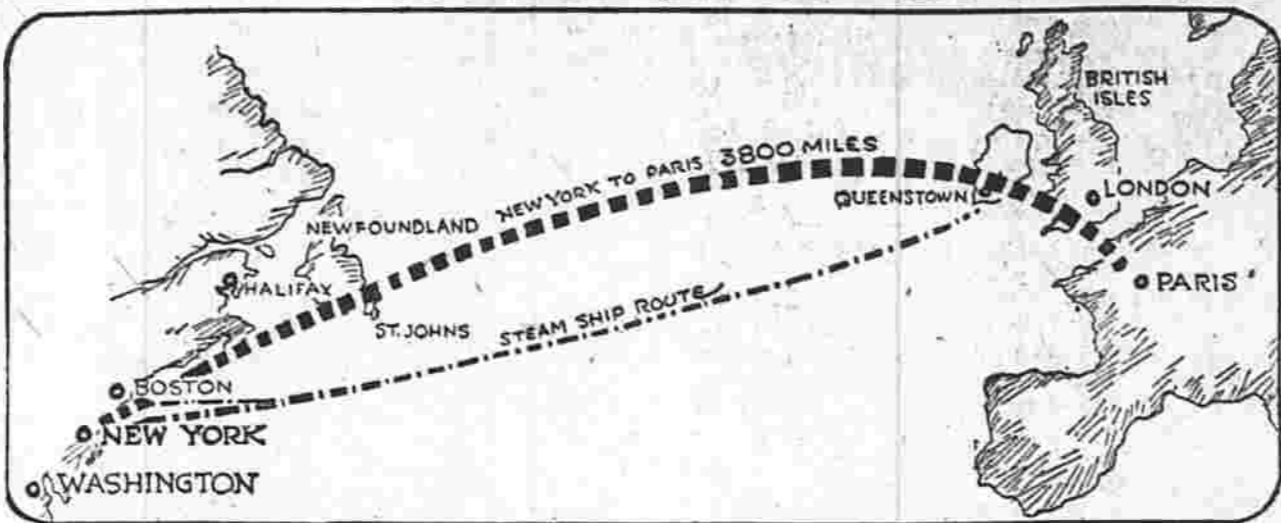

Once down, then the flyers' only chance to escape alive is to summon aid by wireless.

The plane carries a small, efficient radio set designed by Charles Clavier of Paris and operated by a wind-driven electric motor.

For food the men carry a big basket of cold chicken sandwiches. An emergency ration is provided to be used in case of shipwreck, and the plane is equipped with a small distilling outfit to make seawater drinkable.

Likewise, Fonck explained with Route of Longest Non-Stop Flight.

The heavy-dotted line indicates the great northern arc along which Capt. Fonck plans to swing his plane, from New York over Boston, Halifax, Queenstown, southern England, to Paris. It is for the most part far away from the steamship lanes.

Far-Spreading Wings

Primitive Indians Made Largest Sun Dial in World's History

Announcement of the discovery of the largest sun-dial in America has just been made by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The sun-dial is four and eight miles long. It was used fifteen centuries ago. It stands in Honduras, Central America in the Copan Valley.

Here, from about the first to the sixth century of the present era, flourished the city of Copan, the capital of the so-called Old Maya Empire. Maya Indians, descendants of this ancient race still live in Honduras.

The city was surrounded by a range of hills which rise to a height of 500 feet.

Found Two Monuments.

High on the eastern range one and seven-eighths miles east of the city, a stone platform was found. On the platform was found a fallen stone monument.

On the very crest of the western range at a distance of two and a quarter miles due west of the city, a similar stone platform and monument, now also fallen, were found.

In 1916, the suggestion was made by Professor Robert Willson, Harvard astronomer, that these two monuments constituted a primitive astronomical instrument, a sort of sun dial for observing the sun's position.

Because the western monument stood out sharply against the horizon, he thought it probable that the monuments were used for an observation of a sunset. If an observer stood at the eastern monument and sighted along its edge to the western monument, there would be two days in the year when the sun at the time of setting would be directly on the line connecting the two monuments.

It was decided this year that it would be highly valuable to determine the exact day at which, the sun set behind the western monument in order that a more exact correlation could be ascertained.

Accordingly, early in April, Dr. Morley, Dr. John Lindsay of the Department of Terrestrial Magnetism of the Carnegie Institution, and a number of other scientists, proceeded to Copan taking with them astronomical instruments and chronometers for making exact observations.

time at which to start burning the brush.

Dr. Morley says that the reason for waiting word from the priests were so that the burning would be pleasing to the gods and the subsequent crops would be good.

BORGE'S SWIMMING MYSTIFIES ATHLETES

Philadelphia.—Arne Borge, former Olympic swimming star for Sweden now a member of the Illinois Athletic Club, of Chicago swimming team has mystified everyone who saw him in his extraordinary record-breaking feats recently at the national A. A. U. swimming championships here.

The first glance at Borge gives one the impression that he is just learning to swim. That is, if you see him before he puts on his tremendous speed. Then, too he seems very slender and his physical make-up reveals little to prove his power and endurance. Borge, swimming cruls declare, has not the form of his team-mate Johnny Weismuller, American champion.

Endurance and speed is what Borge has and he cuts his way through the water as never a swimmer has done before, here, there or anywhere. He has a peculiar way of "shooting" through the water, all his own—called orthodox by critics—yet this never worries him. He, alone knows just how fast he can travel. Unlike other confident athletes, Borge almost always goes through with his announced plans.

Just as the contestants lined up for the one-mile swim at the meet, someone asked if anyone knew the world's record for the distance. Borge instantly replied: "The world's record is 22 minutes and 34 seconds, made in Australia in 1924, by myself and today I'll do the mile in 22 minutes."

Borge did even better than that. He shot through the mile race in 21 minutes 46 2-5 seconds.

To Risk Life in Parachute Test

At the left is R. Carl Oelze, civilian aviator of San Diego who will risk his life at Inglewood, Calif., within a few days to determine whether the mammoth parachute, shown above, will allow a plane to land safely when its motor stalls. The parachute, which is 50 feet in diameter and made out of 275 yards of silk, will be carried in a box on the tail of the plane, with cords attached to the framework. It will be dropped out, the motor killed, and Oelze hopes the plane and parachute will float down to earth without damage. If the test is a success, the idea will greatly decrease the aviation death toll.

There is scarcely a motor car of importance today that does not reflect in either design or practice the influence of Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers. This is because in the past three years the organization of which Mr. Chrysler is the head has pioneered more improvements in the automobile than had been brought forth in the preceding decade.

The result has been quality beyond comparison and now Mr. Chrysler further emphasizes this quality—makes it more than ever outstanding in all price classes—by his plan of Standardized Quality.

Mr. Chrysler is the first and only large scale manufacturer building four cars under one name and one management in one group of unified plants on a standardized quality basis. This standardization of quality is the result of an extraordinary complete coordination of engineering and manufacturing facilities and resources.

Thus every motorist is enabled to buy in any of the four general price classifications, with complete assurance of receiving all the brilliancy and dependability of service for which Chrysler has established a reputation throughout the world.

Several attacks by brigands on the state police are of little help for the brigands have usually carried out their looting and departed before the police can arrive. In their strongholds in the mountains they are safe as in a fortress, and have successfully repulsed several attacks by soldiers.

Seven robbers entered the village of Boukourt recently, killed two peasants and after looting all the stores and houses drove fifty head of cattle to their mountain stronghold without much opposition. The peasants have taken to burying their money and valuables and maintaining guards throughout the night and day.

LITTLE JOE

SENSE AND NONSENSE

We know a girl who's so dumb she thinks a baseball fan is a cooling device.
There is this about cheering, it doesn't hurt, is easily done, costs nothing, and frequently helps some one.

Boarder: "Look here, this is disgusting. I've been here over a week and I haven't had clean towels and there's never any soap to wash with."
Lady Help: "Well, you've got a tongue in your head, haven't you?"
Boarder: "Yes, but I'm not a cat."

Alice: Isn't it awful how Gladys lets all the men make love to her?
Virginia: I don't know. How does she do it?

The boyish haircut for girls looks a great deal better than the girls haircut for boys.

FLAPPER PHILOSOPHY

There were not enough men at the dance to go round, and one young lady observed: "What a whole of a difference just a few gents make!"

They are trying to invent a new title for restaurant waiters. Why not call them culinary financiers?

The first necking party was probably staged by a couple of affectionate giraffes.

So many try to kill time by talking it to death.

A WARNING

There, little girl, don't cry. With these folks standing by, conceal your troubles with a cough. Or you may wash your make-up off.

There are many remedies, but few cures.

While you never can tell what a woman will do, the gossips seem to be pretty good mind-readers.

Congress is discussing changes in the Volstead act. I wonder just how many "dry" seats there are in the House of Representatives.

DON'T SLEEP

"Just think of it," exclaimed Flora. "A few words mumbled over your head and you're married."
"Yes," agreed Dora the cynical. "And a few words mumbled in your sleep and you're divorced."

"Hot? Say, every time it rains that girl is a cloud of steam."

KNobby, NOT NOBBY, POME. Some wear 'em short, But fail to please— The girls with The knobby knees.

The Doctor: "I can't cure your husband of talking in his sleep."
Housewife: "But couldn't you just give him something that would make him talk more distinctly, doctor?"

Truth crushed to earth will rise again, of course, because it will not lie.

"Look at that man Charleston." "That ain't the Charleston, he's throwing a fit."

"Yes, a very economical couple. They eloped to save themselves the cost of a wedding." "They don't look very happy." "They're not; but they're living together to save the cost of a divorce."

A CHANGEABLE FELLOW Wanted: Temporarily colored truck driver, experienced driving White truck. Apply Gorham, Inc.—Chicago American.

"Buy me some socks, today," said he. One of those roughneck guys. And did she give them to him? Yes, And, right between the eyes.

CAMP MEETINGS END TOMORROW

Dr. Frick and Dr. Rees to Be Principal Speakers at Final Session.

(Special to The Herald) Willimantic Campground, Aug. 21.—Bishop William F. Anderson who was scheduled for Friday was compelled to change his plan and come Wednesday evening. Even then a railroad accident, not to his train, but to a freight delayed him so that he did not arrive until 9 o'clock. Meanwhile Dr. Rees and Mrs. Rees carried out a program of praise and testimony till the bishop arrived. He gave a most interesting and illuminating address upon "Spiritual Lessons from Nature."

Dr. Rees, the evangelist, has been making deeper and deeper impressions upon large gatherings both morning and evening daily by his fervent gospel messages. Thursday evening a large number came forward to the platform for blessings.

Dr. Philip L. Fricks, radio preacher of Schenectady, N. Y., has large audiences daily at his lectures on Psychological Interpretations of Religious Facts. It is a line of thought differing from what has hitherto been attempted at this campmeeting. Friday he gave a fine address on "Personality, and the Majesty of Spiritual Experience." We don't think often of our personality. Some think only of the body, yet scientists tell us that the various chemicals composing a human body are worth only 98 cents. God has given a man an intellect and spirit. How far above the unconsciousness of a stone is the consciousness of man. Why have we now the telephone and the radio? Because man is a thinker. Man is also a spiritual and moral being. So he needs God. God has made laws for the natural world. So there are laws for man's spiritual being which he cannot violate with impunity. So Christ is a necessary environment that man's soul may develop and live, even as a fish needs the water. "The real thing about a man is his religious experience," says Prof. James. Of course, man was made for God, and if he chooses to live only as an animal, he is simply committing spiritual suicide. Signor Capelle, the great Italian tenor, said by some to be a second Caruso, is to sing this (Saturday) evening, and Dr. Frick is to take a unique theme entitled "Nightingale Island."

Tomorrow is the camp's "Big Sunday." The schedule of speakers has been slightly altered, according to the word of the district superintendent, Rev. Myron E. Genter. Dr. Frick is to preach in the morning as per schedule. In the afternoon Dr. George H. Spencer of Boston, is to be the speaker; and in the evening Dr. Rees gives the closing sermon of the campmeeting. Signor Capelle sings at all three services.

BIG FLOWER SHOW AT COMMUNITY CLUB

Detailed plans are nearly completed in connection with a Flower Show that is to be held at the Manchester Community Club on Friday, August 27th. The exhibit will include all of the later fall flowers such as asters, gladiolus, dahlias, zinnias and other late blooms. This exhibit is the outcome of a similar showing made recently under the auspices of the playground. So much favorable comment and enthusiasm has been aroused in the first showing and the repeated requests from the flower lovers throughout the town that the late flowers be given an opportunity of a showing that Director Washburn has decided in favor of the requests. Any one may enter orders in the show whether in the town or out and it has been understood that a number of out of town entries have been already made. Suitable prizes will be awarded to the exhibitor having been adjudged as showing the best blossoms in their class. The rules and regulations for the competitors will be published later in these columns. Any information regarding the exhibit may be obtained through G. H. Washburn, telephone 2033.

The Same Story Each year I have advised those needing heating systems to have the work done in the Summer months.
