

WALSH PICKS DEMPSEY, "AS BAD AS HE IS"

Calls Big Fight Greatest Extravaganza of All Time; Jack Is Bad But Tunney Is Worse.

(BY DAVIS WALSH)

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—It is a difficult undertaking to pick a winner of the Dempsey-Tunney fight for the heavyweight championship of the world tomorrow night for the simple reason that one of them is such a poor fighter and the other is likely to be worse.

That is a terrible indictment to draft against a two million dollar house, but the fact of the matter is that Gene Tunney never licked a good man and doesn't figure to change his style now, and Jack Dempsey is a man without legs—a good guy when he had them but far from the man who cut Willard into human hamburger at Toledo seven years ago.

There are no illusions to be maintained about this fight. Tunney never has shown that he belongs in the same ring with the heavyweight champion of the world and the latter has given rather obvious hints that he is about to get the best of the man who has intrigued the general public with the idea that he was and is a man-killer.

Dempsey's legs have gone. On the surface, he is a man in perfect physical condition. His wind is good, his eye clear, his actions those of a man who has reached the pinnacle of physical training. But he is a slightly elderly gent, as we figure things in this racket, and the first thing to show this condition is a pair of legs that refuse to carry their master in the style to which he is accustomed.

Dempsey no longer is up on his toes, shooting punches from here, there and what have you. He has taken to spreading his legs in order to get all the leverage possible into his punches and in so doing, he has cut down his punching speed by a matter of fifty per cent. I look for Dempsey to miss a lot of punches tomorrow night.

As for Tunney, he is a congenial counter-hitter, which is a type that is supposed to be made to order for Dempsey. He retreats under his spots and the leopard changes his spots about as often as the fighter changes his style under fire in the ring. They may have told Tunney what he must do in order to take the play from Dempsey, but once the bell rings and the fight is under way, an actor answering his cue will be no more instinctive than Tunney. He will fight the way he is accustomed to fighting, which is to feint a man, ask him to come on and hit and then either make him miss or take the punch where it might land and answer it with a counter.

Doubts Camp Tales

They tell us that Tunney will be a new man against Dempsey; that he will carry the fight to the champion until one or the other goes down—and stays there. That, they say, is the only way to beat Dempsey.

I am pleased to doubt it, as far as Gene Tunney is concerned. A man with only a fair punch has no particular business mixing it with a slugger who can and will laugh punches off in a high falsetto. Dempsey not only is a great hitter, but is a great catcher, as he proved in the Firpo fight. Therefore, I, for one, would like to know what they mean by telling Tunney to take the

GOES PUNCH EFFigy OF SECRETARY WILBUR.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 22.—Incensed over orders from Secretary Wilbur, cancelling a boxing carnival that was to have been held tonight, sailors from the naval base here erected an effigy of the secretary and "punched" it with gusto. Base officers are conducting an investigation. More than $4,000 worth of tickets had been sold for tonight's show, the proceeds of which were to have gone to the navy relief fund. The action was taken on protests by Norfolk ministers.

COVENTRY SHRINE FOR CITIZENSHIP

Memory of Nathan Hale Lauded as Sesqui of His Death Is Celebrated.

Coventry, Sept. 22.—The man, Nathan Hale, was presented as an inspiration to the youth of today, as representing the highest type of Connecticut manhood, by A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, during exercises held here this afternoon marking the 150th anniversary of the death of Nathan Hale.

It is proper, Mr. Meredith said, to honor such a noble deed of self-sacrifice, and reflection on the life and character of Hale make it possible to visit Coventry, his birthplace, without becoming better citizens of Connecticut and better Americans.

Symbol of Manhood

He spoke of the characteristics of Nathan Hale, of his simple yet busy life, his abilities, manly vigor, and mental alertness. In concluding, he declared that the name of Nathan Hale has become the "symbol of American manhood and of patriotic devotion everywhere."

Former Attorney General Chas. Phelps, of Rockville, also made an address this afternoon.

A pageant, staged by the thirteen towns of Tolland county, was given during the afternoon, and the stage was then set for the evening celebration which is to be a state celebration.

Message From Coolidge

A message from President Coolidge and speeches by George Dudley Seymour, of New Haven, owner of the Hale homestead here; by United States Senator Hiram Bingham, of New Haven; and Gov. John H. Trumbull, of Plainville, will be the chief features of the evening.

PHALANX AT COVENTRY FOR SESQUI OF HALE.

Hartford, Sept. 22.—Carrying muskets that aided in gaining freedom for the American colonies, or their replicas, and dressed in the buff and blue of the old Continental Army, the Putnam Phalanx, historic battalion named for General Israel Putnam, went to Coventry this morning to take part in the observance of the Sesqui-Centennial anniversary of the death of Nathan Hale, Connecticut's patriotic martyr.

MANY PERISH IN FIGHT OF MEXICANS AND YAQUI.

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 22.—Twenty-seven Mexican soldiers and thirty Yaqui Indians were killed when a band of 300 warring tribesmen ambushed a federal detachment near Oros, Mexico, according to word reaching here today.

TREASURY BALANCE.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Treasury balance as of Sept. 20: $387,936,623.71.

TAXI DRIVERS GIVE TIP ON 5 ILLEGAL ALIENS

Chinese as Well as Spaniards Go "Sight Seeing" in Cabs from Boston to New York.

Stamford, Sept. 22.—Alertness of the Stamford police department apparently has checked an effort to admit many foreigners to the United States in defiance of the immigration bars. As the result of information obtained when local police arrested four Boston taxi drivers yesterday afternoon, immigration agents arrested five Chinese in Jersey City during the night and took them to Ellis Island for deportation proceedings.

George Coe, Mortimer Bromberger, Robert A. F. Morse, and George Roberts, all taxi drivers from the Boston district, were today released from police custody and allowed to return to their homes at the suggestion of William A. Riley, an immigration inspector who came here yesterday from Ellis Island to investigate the presence in Stamford of twelve Spaniards.

Gave Information

Morse and Roberts told the inspector they had taken five "Japanese" to New York from Boston in their taxis and were returning when they saw two other Boston taxis outside police headquarters here. They stopped and told of their passengers. The inspector started a movement which led to the discovery of the five Chinese.

Morse and Roberts had been hired to drive the men to New York, their fares having approached them on the street in Boston. The Chinese came to this country on the British Steamer Penar Del Rio, the same vessel bringing the Spaniards, who are being held here until the immigration officers arrange to take them to Ellis Island also.

The Spaniards told Inspector Riley they were merely seeing the sights of the east and had no intention of violating the immigration laws.

PRIEST ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF EXTORTION

With Housekeeper Is Accused of Attempt to Mulct Detroit Bishop of $30,000.

Detroit, Sept. 22.—Rev. Joseph F. Halliary, 59, of St. Leo's Roman Catholic church, and Miss Ada Roman, 57, his housekeeper, today were under arrest in connection with the mailing of letters containing an alleged attempt to extort $30,000 from Bishop Michael J. Gallagher, of Detroit. Miss Roman is being held as a witness, it is understood.

The arrests were made by Deputy U. S. Marshall August Hebert in the parish house. Hebert said Father Halliary was in the midst of frantic packing proceedings when the warrant was served.

MONARCHIST COUP IN GREECE IS EXPECTED

Ex-King George Is in Bucharest With Backing of Enemies of Kondylis.

London, Sept. 22.—A state of general unrest with a view to a movement for the restoration of the monarchy, growing in strength exists in Athens, according to reports from responsible Greek sources reaching London today. Ex-King George of Greece, who has been living in England, left here ten days ago and is now reported in Bucharest, within twelve hours' travel time of Athens. He left England at the urgent request of his supporters in Greece, it is reported.

The regime of General Kondylis is sorely tried, according to private information, and serious trouble may flare forth at almost any time. Opponents of General Kondylis accuse him of showing dictatorial tendencies and charge that he is taking steps so that the forthcoming elections will not be carried out freely under the majority system.

TOM FINLEY WIRES THAT HE IS SAFE

Relatives of Thomas Finley and family, formerly of Manchester but now of Miami, Florida, were relieved last night when a telegram was received reading, "All of us safe. Miami in ruins." Mr. Finley and his family have lived in the south for several years. He is well known here.

BOATS BLOCK STREET TRAFFIC

Carried by hurricane high waters from their moorings in Fair Haven canal, boats were swept into Miami avenue, completely blocking all street traffic and scattering wreckage for many blocks.

HURRICANE KILLS 400 IN PARAGUAY

Encarnacion, City of 35,000 Wrecked by Great Storm Like That in Florida.

London, Sept. 22.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Asuncion, Paraguay, today stated that the city of Encarnacion is a shambles, with four hundred dead, three hundred injured and virtually all houses in the city blown down, as the result of a hurricane which struck there last night.

On Alta Parana, Encarnacion is the capital of Encarnacion province, located on the Alta Parana river, about 250 miles from Asuncion. It has a population of 35,000.

Hears One Hundred Dead

Business Ayres, Sept. 22.—More than one hundred are believed to be dead, five hundred injured and damage amounting to 2,000,000 Argentine pesos caused by a terrific storm which swept Encarnacion, Paraguay, according to reports received today.

PROMISES TO TRACE BONDS TO DAUGHTERY

Government Says Proof He and Miller Took "Divvy" Will Be Given in Few Days.

New York, Sept. 22.—Announcement today by the government today that the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial that the $391,000 in liberty bonds, the so-called "divvy," which Richard Merton, German financier, alleged he paid to have the $7,000,000 assets of the American Metals Company returned to their foreign owners, "will be traced within the next few days to the possession of the defendants."

The government's announcement was made by Kenneth Simpson, assistant district attorney, while Samuel Rosenhand, employed by Goldman, Sachs & Co., brokers of New York, was on the stand testifying regarding the bonds.

That a claim for twenty shares of the seized German-owned assets of the Metals company was disallowed August 2, 1921, by both the United States attorney-general's office and the alien property custodian's office, while the $7,000,000 claim concerning shares of the same trust fund was granted in September, 1921, was testified today.

EXTENDS BRITISH EMERGENCY.

London, Sept. 22.—The king this afternoon issued a proclamation extending the state of emergency for another month.

Home Rule by Wards Brings Queer Results in New Haven

New Haven, Sept. 22.—A community of upward of 25,000 persons in the ward of the city here will continue to be without sewers, pavements and police and fire service as the outcome of a special referendum yesterday by residents of the 32nd ward. A difference of seven mills on the dollar between the ward's tax rate and the regular city rate led to the majority of 113 votes against fully joining with the city.

The 32nd ward lies on the east of the Quinnipiac river here, with the 31st and 33rd wards beyond it, and except for a single artery of travel has no paved streets. Volunteers make up the fire department and constables do police duty, the local government being vested in two associations, Fair Haven East and Fairmount. The district sends an alderman to the city council and shares the city public school system beside voting for the mayor and other city officials as the rest of the city does.

PESTILENCE FOLLOWS IN WAKE OF STORM

ONLY 3 KILLED BY HURRICANE AT PENSACOLA

Heavy Damage Done to Land Property and Shipping; Great Storm Dying Out in Inland Mississippi.

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—Still isolated by the tropical hurricane, Pensacola today continued its efforts to communicate with the outside world by means of radio.

The Pensacola Naval air station several times reported disabled by the terrific storm, wireless the Algiers naval radio station that three persons were killed, many injured and extensive property damage by the 120-mile-an-hour gale.

This was the third message to be received from Pensacola by radio in 24 hours. Late yesterday the naval air station sent a wireless to the effect that great property damage was done. Later the Revenue Cutter Tallapoosa said the gale had damaged many ships.

Island a Protection

While property loss was great, more extensive damage was prevented by the fact that Santa Rosa island acts as a natural breakwater. The air station suffered some damage, accounting for its long silence. The injury was repaired sufficiently to give the waiting outside world the first news.

As the storm damage was being repaired, Pensacola thought of its sister cities to the south, prepared to raise funds for the sufferers in Miami and adjacent towns.

Mobile Deaths

Mobile, cut off from outside communication for several days, had its badly crippled wires partially restored today. No loss of life occurred there but damage to public buildings and public utilities will reach $2,000,000.

The whole of the wharf fronts in Mobile and Pensacola were demolished and the damage suffered by Pensacola will total at least $3,000,000, for Lake Export, a private wharf, was completely destroyed. The Louisville and Nashville railroad reported losses in the Florida port at $800,000.

Electrical Plant and Street Car Services Put Out of Commission in Mobile, Pensacola and other cities and towns, with possibility they may not be fully restored for several days.

The Hurricane Has About Spent Its Force

The last heard of it was that it was moving northward into Mississippi with rapidly diminishing intensity. A light rain with moderate winds was falling today in Vicksburg and New Orleans.

SAVES SIX AS IRISH YACHT BURNS AT SEA

Dutch Freighter Standing by Blazing Wreck—Not Known If All Are Rescued.

Boston, Sept. 22.—A fire and sinking, with six men taken off, was the plight of the yacht Mary O'Connor, out of Belfast, Ireland, according to wireless word received here today from the Dutch freighter Jacatra, which was standing by the wreck, thirty miles south by east of Cape Sable.

Whether there were any more men aboard the Mary O'Connor was not learned. The decks were awash with only three feet of the railing showing above water and the superstructure a mass of flames. The six men of the yacht were aboard the freighter.

The Coast Guard, which picked up the Jacatra's message, sent out the Coast Guard cutter Molava.

AID FUND TO CROSS MILLION MARK TODAY

Washington, Sept. 22.—The nation's contribution to the relief of Florida hurricane sufferers was expected to cross the $1,000,000 mark today. Every incoming mail was swelling a total of nearly $800,000 reached last night by the American Red Cross.

Ten thousand dollars for emergency purposes has been telegraphed to Sebring, Fla., in response to an urgent plea for help.

MOOREHAVEN IS A CITY OF THE DEAD

First Hand Story of Storm's Ghastly Work Told by Reporter on the Spot.

By JOSEPH L. LAUBE.

Moorehaven, Fla., Sept. 22.—This is a city of the dead today, deserted by all but a few desolate souls stranded in high buildings. Words can scarcely describe the gruesomeness, the sorrow and needs of this former thriving little city of 1,400 which now has but 800 of its former population accounted for. Hotels, churches and private homes in Sebring and vicinity are housing these 300 homeless, some the remnants of large families.

A conservative estimate of the dead is 65. The main business street is littered with broken plate glass and debris underneath the dirty water which poured into the city Saturday.

Moorehaven is now practically deserted except for the few women and children waiting in attics to be taken to Sebring for temporary lodging.

Hyacinths Bedeck Dead.

Bodies of the drowned could be seen at high places where they had been swept by the water from the broken dikes. Chickens scuttled from floating boards and house-tops.

Water hyacinths covered many bodies.

Large metal oil tanks lay eight and ten miles from their original position. Where a little stretch of road stuck out of the water, hundreds of rabbits and other small animals were lying drowned, where they had scampered to what they thought a safe place.

Houses were like kindling wood in most places, piled up with corn stalks, straw and dead animals. One of our little party saw a tiny dog gazing with pleading eyes into the mass of foam. We called to him, threw sticks to make him swim to us from the debris and tried to tempt him, but he refused to move. We ended the dog's services with a bullet and marked the spot so the stretcher bearers might know where to find his master when the debris was being cleared.

Seek Dead With Boats.

Natives who had not slept for three days searched up and down what had been streets for their loved ones in boats with motor "kickers." The sheriff, from Sebring, and his deputies had chowhairs and implements and worked in water until their hands bled in an attempt to search out and remove bodies from houses. We hid 18 miles and waded in water to our waists for six miles in going to the scene and returning. The trip was a living nightmare, indescribable in its horror.

100 Coffins in Morgue.

More than a hundred coffins are in Sebring's temporary morgue, established where most of the refugees are housed. Last night when a trainload of bodies were brought into their temporary resting place, tired men, women and children stood in a pouring rain to watch the grim work of unloading them. Women became hysterical while some looked on as though in the midst of a horrible dream.

There is great danger of disease as the sun shines and water is giving up the dead that were not pinned beneath wreckage.

Half-nude babies, women and older children, many in overalls, were taken from house-tops and placed in boats where they were fed and taken to the train for transportation to Sebring.

Small Boy Heroic.

Some of the most heroic work of life-saving in the flooded city was done by young boys. One red-headed lad of 12 or 13 saved his mother and two sisters, none of whom could swim.

How many were drowned in Lake Okeechobee itself is unknown, although fifty or sixty 31 Cases in Two Florida Cities Follow Water Pollution—Navy Hurries Serums—Bimini Swept.

Today for the first time it was possible to get a comprehensive view of the extent of the Florida hurricane disaster.

Southern Florida, hardest hit, is resolutely going about the task of burying its dead, checking the missing and building anew.

The gulf coast, embracing Pensacola, Mobile, Biloxi and other noted resorts, has been extensively damaged, but there has been comparatively little loss of life.

Reports gathered throughout Florida indicated that the death toll ultimately will approximate 450. This figure may be increased or diminished but it is believed the final count will be near that figure. The injured probably total $5,000, and the homeless probably 35,000.

On the gulf coast there were probably 20 deaths. The property damage, even yet, can only be estimated but the state of Florida probably has suffered $150,000,000; the gulf coast less than a third of that.

Miami, Sept. 22.—With the hurricane which wrecked this city and all towns in the vicinity diverted to Pensacola and Mobile the southern coast of Florida today prepared to combat a fresh menace, epidemic. Thirty-one cases of typhoid already have been reported in Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale owing to the pollution of the water supply.

Special supplies of anti-toxin were being rushed here from northern cities to combat the fresh menace.

The official check of the dead in Miami and on Florida's east coast now has passed the 300 mark, and more than 5,000 are injured.

Declare Independence.

"Miami is mistress of her fate." This is the thought put forward by the leaders of affairs in this city.

Denial was made today of a reported conflict between civil and military authorities over relief administration, but rumors continued of a rift brought about by determination of local men to make plain that this city was not helpless and entirely dependant upon outside help in caring for its storm victims and rebuilding.

Rushing Serums.

Washington, Sept. 22.—All available typhoid anti-toxin and tetanus vaccine at the headquarters of the Seventh Naval District have been rushed to Miami to combat the menace of epidemics, according to a message of the Navy Department this morning from the base commandant.

A Coast Guard patrol boat, carrying tents, food and water, also has been directed to the relief of a party of 150 persons, reported marooned off Last Man's river. The Coast Guard cutter Saukkee, which has rendered yeoman service in the relief work around Miami, has gone ashore outside the harbor but is expected to be floated at high tide today.

Three thousand people are absolutely destitute at Miami, the Navy

The Romance of America

THE fence, almost seven feet high, with a deep ditch beyond, looked to be an almost impossible obstacle.

But the foes of American liberty were behind, their horses coming closer at every bound, and Francis Marion, the "Swamp Fox" was brave.

The wily little scout and general of the Revolution was never captured. His escapes seemed miraculous.

Turn to Page 6 today and read the first chapter of Marion's story, the first installment of the "Romance of America" stories which appear in The Herald.

The adventures of Marion, Oliver Hazard Perry, Stephen Decatur, the great railroad builders and trail blazers of the West, the heroes and inventors of young America, will be told in picture form in this series in The Herald. Start these absorbing stories today.

Small fishing craft are known to have been on the lake when the storm broke.

The hotel of the city was taken off its foundations and turned completely around. Corn stalks were cut off clean from their roots. No one will ever know the exact number of dead nor who is beneath the mass of ruins.

The Negro section of Moorehaven was practically wiped out.

Greatest need is felt for funds to send homeless babies, women and older children to homes of relatives in the north. Little money is on hand for this purpose as the town is poverty stricken. Nearby cities send rescue parties, money and food.

The water is slowly receding and greater relief can be given the stricken families in a few days if the water does not rise again from the lake.

dispatch said, and 6,000 more are living by makeshifts. The bread supply of the city was reported insufficient to meet the demand, and there is also some worry over the water supply.

A diver, with sea-going apparatus, was included among the relief agencies dispatched from the Seventh District naval base.

First Wire Restored.

A slender strand of copper wire today linked this city with the outside world for the first time since early Saturday morning when the hurricane tore down all communication lines.

After working a force of approximately one thousand men almost constantly since the wires went down, the Southern Bell Telephone Company was finally able to put one wire in working condition. On the one wire ten separate channels of communication have been established—a telephone wire only for company emergency business, important press wires, and automatic telegraphic printer wire.

If that wire snaps, the entire ten separate lines of communication will be broken," telephone linemen said. "We hope to have long distance toll calls available soon. Thousands are trying to phone to relatives."

Miami Harbor Clear.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Miami harbor is safe for ships, Lieut. Col. Mark Brooke reported to the War Department today. The channel was dragged by the army engineer corps and found clean, he said.

Brooke reported no large vessels were sunk, but that many small boats and barges, including two belonging to the army, were destroyed.

The War Department probably will not be asked for relief other than supplying 1,000 tents and 4,000 cots for Miami refugees, army engineers wired.

John Towers and E. C. Bausch, civilian employees of the engineering corps, are missing.

Brooke estimated the dead in the Miami area at 200.

The city water and ice plants are functioning.

Connecticut People Safe

Norwich, Sept. 22.—Residents of eastern Connecticut in the Florida hurricane zone are safe, according to telegrams received throughout the district here yesterday and today. Hollywood and Hialeah contained the majority of the people from eastern Connecticut.

EYEWITNESS TELLS OF HORRORS AT MIAMI

Two Separate Attacks Made by Hurricane, Hours Apart, With Second the Worst.

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 22.—R. T. Frenk, pilot for the Florida Airways Corporation has reached Tampa after spending Friday and Saturday in Miami, bringing a first-hand account of the storm's destruction.

The most terrific loss of life, according to Frenk, was on Miami Beach and on the Causeway leading from Miami to the beach across Biscayne Bay. Hundreds were in bathing suits Saturday morning when the hurricane descended, he said. There were hundreds in motors and on foot crossing the Causeway from the Beach to Miami who already had had their morning plunge. Many of these were washed out to sea. It may be weeks before the exact number of dead is known.

When the storm started Friday night Frenk left Hialeah, where he was staying and went out to the airport to care for his planes. At midnight the wind was blowing fast and he was unable to get out. He was struck by a flying object and his car was blown into the air. He was rescued by a motorboat that came to his aid.

Many Escaped in Cars

Curiously, Frenk says, many of those who fled to their cars escaped injury, while many of those who remained in their homes were trapped by the wind and killed or injured. At 1:30 A. M. the wind had reached a velocity of 90 to 100 miles an hour. This it maintained until 3:30 A. M. when it died out, and spent four hours and a

It seems unfair to give Mr. Tunney so much publicity simply because he is interested in books.

BAHAMAS LOSS LESS THAN LAST SUMMER

Not More Than Dozen Lives Taken by Hurricane—Rum Ships Are Wrecked.

Nassau, Bahama Islands, Sept. 22.—The Bahamas escaped the hurricane of last Friday with far less serious damage than that done during the storm of last summer.

Although reports from the islands are still meager it is believed the loss of life will not exceed a dozen. The property damage has been exceedingly heavy.

In Nassau the damage was not extensive but in other islands it is reported that great damage was done to shipping and the harbor front.

At Bimini it is feared a number of lives have been lost and ships which carry liquor cargoes have been capsized in port.

Houses and business buildings were wrecked on Andros and Long Island and some lives are reported to have been lost.

FAVORS STIFF SENTENCES FOR AUTOMOBILE THIEVES

Atlanta.—Longer terms on Georgia chain gangs were urged by Superior Judge John T. Humphries in denouncing the practice of giving suspended sentences to youths convicted of stealing automobiles.

Judge Humphries made the recommendation in charging the county grand jury.

Pointing out that 1,308 cars were stolen in Atlanta in the space of one year, Judge Humphries declared automobile thievery will never be curbed unless stiffer sentences are imposed.

Judge Humphries also hit the practice of discriminating in favor of youths who came from good families.

"Before I would discriminate in favor of boys with good families, against the boys who have never had the chances of life they enjoyed, I would rather resign my judgeship," he declared.

PLANNING TO LIGHT UP MORE AIR MAIL ROUTES

Washington, Sept. 22.—With night flying regarded as essential to economical use of aircraft, the Department of Commerce today announced detailed plans for immediate lighting of an additional 1,287 miles of American airways.

The 1,287 lighting program calls for installation of 24-inch revolving search lights at intervals of ten miles along portions of air routes. Blinks will be placed every few miles between the beacons.

Mileage to be lighted before January 1 will be distributed on the New York-Boston route, 185 miles, and on six western routes.

MEX FINANCE HEAD QUILTS

Mexico City, Sept. 22.—The resignation of Minister of Finance Alberto Pani was reliably reported to be in the hands of President Calles today, with the president likely to accept it.

Arturo Elias, half brother of President Calles and present consul general of Mexico in New York, is prominently mentioned as a probable successor of Senator Pani.

POOR POINCARÉ

Yet, in all interests of "national union and conciliation," he allows his colleagues to smoke through their long official meetings. His office is a haze of smoke when they leave, but not until then does the premier rush out, gasping for air.

WHOLE COURT MAY GO TO DISTILLING SCENE

Defense Asks Judge and Jury to Visit Darien Hospital Where Raid Was Made.

Bridgeport, Sept. 22.—If former Lieutenant Governor Clifford B. Wilson gains his point, Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin and the entire jury trying Dr. Anthony R. Campo of 495 Atlantic street, Stamford, on a charge of manufacturing liquors, will move to Darien before the trial ends to inspect the De-len relief hospital, where Dr. Campo is accused of having had a huge distillery. Judge Marvin took Mr. Wilson's motion for such a visit under advisement today and went on with the trial.

Dr. Campo, who is 32 denied all knowledge of the stills and alcohol and denied knowing that the four men working on the stills had their sleeping quarters on the second floor of the doctor's garage.

EIGHTEEN TEACHERS ENJOY CORN ROAST

Members of Local Trade School Journey to Columbia Lake for Annual Feast.

Eighteen members of the local State Trade school faculty followed to Brown's cottage at Columbia Lake last night and held their annual corn roast celebration.

The evening's program started auspiciously with a feast which included the following delicacies: boiled corn, frankfurts, baked potatoes, rolls, cutlers and coffee.

One of the big reasons why the evening's program was a big success was due to the entertaining ability of John Ehmalian and William Roscoe.

Harry Kitching also amused the party with witty bedtime stories and assisted in toasting marshmallows.

"Uncle Walt" is getting to be very popular among the Trade school faculty for his ability to entertain.

A quartet composed of Howard Fisher, William Stenger, Herbert Mason and Ralph Kinsley rendered several vocal selections as did Robert Taylor and Stanley Rice as a duet.

The Circle still remains under the supervision of Manager Jack Sanson of the State theatre which is also a Hoffman playhouse.

Mrs. Otto Sonnicksen, of 23 Walker street, gave a miscellaneous shower at her home at night in honor of Miss Helen Fuller.

TWO MORE.
 That somebody blundered in overloading the Sikorsky plane that was to have taken Rene Fonck and his three gallant companions to France, but instead took two of them to a sudden death, is almost too obvious for discussion. That anybody can be blamed for that blunder is an entirely different matter. Certainly neither Fonck nor Curtin, the widely experienced survivors of the tragic accident, is either reckless or stupid, else neither would now be alive with such a long air record behind him. Certainly the builder of the great plane, Sikorsky, mechanical genius as he is, never would have intentionally left anything to chance. There was too much at stake for that.

It is easy now for any layman to see that the running gear of the plane was not sturdy enough to sustain the great weight imposed by the extraordinary cargo of gasoline under the conditions of a take-off. But to see that now and to have seen it in advance are two separate things.

The old fashioned fabricator of seventy-five or a hundred years ago would have built wheels for such a load at such a speed—if he could have imagined either at all—so that they would not have collapsed. But his way would have been to guess at the necessary thickness and weight of the wheels and then build them four or five times as thick and as heavy as he guessed would have been safe enough, and so be perfectly sure of everything. The trouble would have been that a machine so fabricated would never fly.

These men who are pioneering for the human race in the air must build delicately as well as strongly. Their problems are manifold and intricate and as between narrow walls. It happens that the testing mechanism, in many cases, must be made of human flesh and blood. There is no alternative way, in proving one theory by disproving another, to doing the proving and disproving at the risk of life.

The two men of the Sikorsky who went out of existence so suddenly and terribly have contributed something to the sum of knowledge of aviation. They proved that the take-off of such machines cannot be safely managed with such equipment. They disproved the theory that it could be.

Whether the conquest of the air is going to add enough to the measure of human happiness to make it all worth while or not nobody, of course, can tell. But at any rate mankind is going to fly, habitually, and find out for himself whether or not he is to be the better for it. And the victims whose names will mark the pages of aviation history as sacrilegious to the air are mostly living or yet to be born. All that have gone before are but the vanguard of those who must die before the air is made safe over sea and over land.

Witness the bones of the many thousands who went down to the sea in rickety little ships, during the ages, and who sank and bleached that man might come to cross the ocean in a Mauretania. That evolution took a long time. So will this one.

PRESIDENT YIELDS.
 President Coolidge is yielding to the pressure of numbers in his attitude on the World Court. When he takes the position, as he now does, that the United States cannot accept the terms on which the powers at Geneva have accepted the Senate's reservations to the Court protocol, but must insist on their swallowing the reservations without even an interpretation, he does so, it may readily be believed, because he knows there is no other course open to him. The quacks of "patriotism" like Borah and Jim Reed have so played upon malice and ignorance and national vanity, and have obtained the apparent sanction of so many groups of Americans in the senatorial primaries, that our only hope for entry into the Court is to keep the business out of the Senate altogether. And the President knows it. It is easily to be imagined that Mr. Coolidge does not relish having to be placed in the perfectly illogical position of ignoring the conditions with which the powers have accepted America's reservation five.

It will be recalled that that reservation provides that the Court shall not render an advisory opinion on any question in which the United States claims an interest, without the specific consent of the United States being given. As it has always been supposed in this country that the consent of all League members was necessary to a request of an advisory opinion from the court, this reservation was intended merely to put the United States on a parity with the member nations—to make its objection equal to a veto, just as the objection of any one of the League members would be tantamount to a veto.

But it appears that it has never been decided whether it requires a unanimous vote or merely a majority vote in order to submit a League question for advisory opinion by the court. If the latter, and if the nation should admit the United States to membership on the basis of the fifth reservation, then they would be bestowing on this country powers far beyond what they themselves enjoy. It would be the only nation in the world which, alone and unaided, could block a question's submission to the court. If the former, then precisely equally with the rest would the United States enjoy the veto power.

For this reason the reservations have been accepted with the reservation that the United States shall be admitted on terms of exact parity with the rest of the nations. If anything could be fairer than that we cannot imagine what it would be, for it certainly would not be fair for the United States to have a voice in the matter of submission equal, conceivably, to that of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Poland and Belgium combined.

But the President is helpless. He cannot send the matter back to a Senate largely gone mad with the arrogance of isolation. So he must send this unfriendly, austere message to the powers. What they will do about it remains to be seen. They have their own self respect to maintain. It would be a sick world if they were all ready to throw that quality overboard for the mere sake of currying favor with the American Borahs and Reeds.

"MACRI PICTURES."
 The announcement that Olympia Macri, New Haven woman twice tried for murder after killing her lover, who was another woman's husband, is to exploit her dubious notoriety not only as a screen figure but as head of her own producing company, need excite no great amount of astonishment. It is the logical sequence to the maudlin, moronic sympathy manufactured in the interest of the woman by the newspapers and by a group of hysterical idle persons of means, who wept and gushed over her as if she were an angel suffering agonized martyrdom.

The Herald holds not at all with prudery. It abhors unqualified devotion to the tenet of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." But it does maintain that, if good order and decency are to hold their own, killers and criminals must not be lionized in the eyes of youth, nor made to appear as the central figures of the drama of life, whether they be men or women.

Olympia Macri was an extremely lucky young woman to escape unpunished from her bloody escapade. It might, perhaps, have been anticipated that she would be glad to live the rest of her life as quietly and as far removed from the public gaze as possible. But that would have contemplated a certain amount of understanding, and that understanding she quite evidently lacks. Being, as a matter of fact, a primitive type and the product of primitive antecedents, she is scarcely to be blamed if she regards herself as an heroic figure. And being also of an acquisitive type it is perfectly natural that she, ably abetted by her family, should proceed to capitalize her notoriety in what seems to them the obvious way.

It is no tremendous compliment to the intelligence of the motion picture industry, but it at least shows a glimmering of intelligence on its part, that the Macri woman has not been able to "break into the movies" through any of the regular channels but must organize her own company if she is to acquire the stardom for which her soul and her pocketbook yearn. Perhaps the enterprise will get further than the stock selling phase and perhaps an Olympia Macri picture or two will be made. And then perhaps such picture or pictures will be distributed and shown. But as many an adventurer has discovered it is one thing to make a photoplay film and another to market it, and since the distribution of pictures is a big and complex business and already pretty thoroughly organized, it is entirely possible that, even if the world is tremendously awaiting opportunity to see New Haven's heroine of the court room on the screen, it may be doomed to disappointment.

We believe we can speak for the people of Manchester so far as to guarantee that if any Macri picture should be offered to movie audiences in this town the result would be promptly resented by a house full of empty seats.

OPEN FORUM
 PUTTING US RIGHT.

Editor, The Herald:
 I was reading "Slow Footed Manchester. Men Once Fastest Moving Humans" in Saturday's Herald and it was very good. Not a thing the matter with the story but the last part "Among Motorcyclists."

The old-timers say the first local men to ride one of these machines were Jim Robinson of Highland Park and Ward Atwood. I'll say this, the old-timers that gave that news to the reporter are off their trolley.

The first man in this town to ride a motorcycle was Fred Parker and the machine was a 2 1/2 h. p. Holly belt driven machine made in Bradford, Pa. He only rode it for a short while in 1902 or 1903 and sold it to Walter E. Luettgens. Luettgens rode it awhile and then the writer bought it of Luettgens. This was during summer of 1902 or 1903. Luettgens then bought a Marsh 3 1/2 h. p. power machine.

Without a doubt, Jim Robinson and Ward Atwood did a lot of riding when they rode motorcycles, but they were a long way from being the first to even ride a motorcycle in South Manchester. Now don't think for a minute I am knocking because I am not, only trying to set you right because those so-called old-timers are having a "pipe dream." Ask Luettgens and see if I am not right and, perhaps, he will tell you that I traded the first motorcycle in South Manchester for when I got rid of it, it sure cost good coin in those days to fix it up, as it was falling all the time. It was like the first auto.

ANOTHER OLD TIMER.
 South Manchester, Conn., September 19, 1926.
 To return, however, to Senator Moses. He may be reactionary, but you can't help liking and respecting him. He has ability and, what doesn't often go with it in the case of politicians—nerve.

To senators from states like Norris, La Follette, Smith, W. Brookhart's and Gerald P. Nye's independence is an asset. Nobody disputes that they're genuine independents, but they can afford to be. In "regular" New Hampshire independence is a liability.

Moses doesn't care a hoot. If he doesn't like some "regular" proposition, though he's a "regular," he says so and says it with an emphasis and pugnacity that make it sound perfectly awful.

In his primary campaign Moses got one of the oddest endorsements from his fellow senators in the history of politics. It was as much from Democrats as from Republicans. "We don't like his politics but we like Moses," chorused the former. "We hope he's re-nominated."

CITY TO BUILD RIVER
 Ottawa, Kas.—Having built a bridge at a cost of $125,000, Ottawa now proposes to put a river under it. The steel and concrete structure over the Marais des Cygnes was recently completed. Now a move has been started to make over the river in keeping with the bridge.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES F. STEWART.
 Washington, Sept. 22.—Senator George H. Moses, who will be coming back to Washington as a member of the 70th Congress, because the New Hampshire Republicans have renominated him and a New Hampshire Republican nomination is as good as an election, inasmuch of an insurgent as Senator Norris or Senator La Follette or anybody, when he feels like it.

But oh, what a different kind of an insurgent! Norris, La Follette et al, are insurgents of the liberal pattern. Moses is an insurgent of the conservative, not to say reactionary. Even President Coolidge is too radical for him at times, and when you've said that you've gone the limit.

Ex-Gov. Robert F. Bass of New Hampshire, who opposed Moses in the Republican primaries, based his whole fight on the ground that the latter hasn't always supported the administration in the upper house of Congress.

It's true, too—on the world court issue, for instance. So, in the sense, Moses' victory was another rebuke for President Coolidge. Still, it wasn't the same sort of emphatic rebuke that he received in Wisconsin, in the nomination of Gov. John J. Blaine for the Senate over the present Republican incumbent, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot.

Lenroot is strictly an "administration man." Blaine is completely of the "regular" Republican reservation. Moses doesn't always see eye to eye with the administration, but he's a "regular" Republican in good standing.

From the administration standpoint, the only thing that takes the curse of the Wisconsin result is that it wasn't unexpected. The "dope" all along has been that Blaine would beat Lenroot. The only surprise was that Blaine didn't win by a wide margin. And there, perhaps, lies another little grain of comfort for the administration—there's division in the ranks of Wisconsin "progressive" Republicans.

Blaine not only didn't win as overwhelmingly as he'd hoped, but Herman L. Ekern, one of the late Senator La Follette's chief lieutenants, was beaten for governor by Fred R. Zimmerman, who also calls himself a progressive but isn't of "young Bob" La Follette's faction.

Representative J. D. Beck, a good La Follette-ite, was likewise beaten for re-nomination by Merlin Hull, another progressive, but not a La Follette-ite of this year's model.

Wisconsin "progressive" Republican division is intense in the nostrils of Republican "regularity."

Edmonton, Alta.—Charles Monkman is 97 years old, but he recently challenged Mayor Blatchford to a 100-yard dash, marathon dance, rough-riding contest, long distance swimming or walking race or just anything else the mayor might think of. Mayor Blatchford is considering.

SUN DIALS POPULAR
 London.—Sun dials, are coming into vogue again. The romance of antiquity surrounds them, and they have lived over into this age because of their beauty and associations. In the old days every dial carried its message such as "The longest day must end," "Make hay while the sun shines," "Be true as the dial to the sun," and "Improve each shining hour."

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 22.—In a city so filled with activities and distractions as New York the percentage of absent-mindedness and forgetfulness is bound to be high. Memory training schemes flourish by the hundred and lessons in efficiency play to full class-rooms. Dozens are the methods employed by these very busy gentlemen who hop from their offices to the stock exchange, thence to lengthy luncheons and longer conferences, thence to a broker's office, back to exchange and back to their offices.

Tens of thousands aren't half as busy as they think they are, but manage to get well confused before the day is done, and many affect great activity as a means of impressing those about them. I know a man who sends himself postcards reminding himself of things he has to do.

He will send the postcard when the matter is fresh on his mind and receive it on the following day. Arriving at his desk he will open his mail, come across the postcard and smile at his shrewdness.

One day I saw him looking most disconsolate. "Missed an important appointment," he said. "Completely forgot it."

"But your postcard system. It seemed to me infallible." I commented. "Hell—I forgot to mail it."

Of course you've all heard of the gent who ran the memory school but who forgot to send out his circulars and hence never opened for business.

There are many variations on this in everyday Manhattan life. The notables of Broadway are perhaps far better known by the man-on-the-street than by a fellow notable.

The other day an actress of national reputation was in the midst of a rehearsal when the manager walked in with a rather shabby looking young man.

As an introduction was being attempted the actress started away. "Really, I'm terribly busy with rehearsals. I'm sorry but I can't meet everyone," she said.

"But," protested the manager, "here is a young man you should know."

"Who is he?" said the unimpressed actress. "Oh," interrupted the young man, "I'm only the author of the play."

WATKINS BROTHERS

TOLLAND
 Charles Tildon who was born in Tolland August 31, 1846, died suddenly at his home in Springfield, Mass. Thursday morning. He was a member of the Tolland Methodist church. Mr. Tildon is survived by his wife, Emma J. (Dutton) Tildon, two daughters, Jennie E. and Bessie L. of Springfield, two sons Louis of Springfield, Milton Tildon of California and two grand children Kenneth Wallace Gordon of Springfield and Robert C. Tildon of Boston. Funeral services were held in Springfield Rev. Payson B. Berry of the Memorial church officiating. The interment was in the family plot in the South cemetery in Tolland.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE
 By AUSTIN H. CLARK Smithsonian Institution.
 In all the deeper portions of the ocean, but especially in those regions furthest from the land where the depth is mostly about fifteen thousand feet and the bottom is red clay, the dredge brings up many of these objects. Can you tell why they are? They are the ear bones of whales. Whales' ear bones are extremely dense and solid, much like ivory, and they are the only portions of a whale that will persist indefinitely in the deep sea. The picture at the top shows a nodule of manganese, cut across; this proved that the nodule was formed by the deposition of manganese about the ear bone of a toothed whale, some of the smaller kinds of whales. It was brought up from a depth of 15,600 feet in the mid-Pacific. The two lower pictures show the inner and outer sides of an ear bone of the common porpoise, a large whale from 65 to 70 feet in length. Many of the ear bones lying on the red clay have been there for a very long time—thousands of years—and have become much decomposed or deeply impregnated, in many cases thickly coated with the peroxides of manganese and iron.

DRAGGING HOURS Hal Cochrans' DAILY POEM
 When a fella gets to loafing and is lazy as kin be, an' he's like a dreamin' sailor who l' gassin' out at sea, he builds up a nervous tension and his body's filled with sigh, 'cause there's nothin' like real laziness to make the hours drag by. Not a thought for inspiration, and his minds a total loss; an' his system seems all jagged; seems to sorta twitch and toss. When he's in that sort of feelin', he can tell there's somethin' wrong, for, as sure as heck, it always makes the hours seem twice as long.

Simply waitin' for tomorrow is the way much time is spent, an' it's cause for listless sorrow with the peppy sort of gent. Sure, to let yourself go flipflop may be one real type of fun, but you'll find there's much more pleasure when you're getting something done. Making use of every minute, though you do it sure, but slow, lets you find there's something in it; something worth while as you go. Stead of loafing, you are giling up for coming sudden showers. And you'll always come up smiling if you dodge the dragging hours.

HEBRON

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Miner entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Nye and George Babcock of Fitchville.

Mrs. Harold Gray is the guest for a week of her aunt, Miss Hannah Fuller in East Haddam.

Norman and Robert Rathbone have been suffering from attacks resembling grip which seems to be more or less prevalent.

Miss Marjorie Martin who is employed in library work in Greater New York spent the week-end at the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. T. D. Martin.

Miss Helen Gilbert left on Sunday for Bridgeport where she begins her work in the Unquawa school.

Mrs. Adelbert Tefft, of Hartford, a former resident, is making a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Waldo at their home on the Green.

There are forty more pupils from this town who are attending the Willimantic schools, high and normal, this year.

A part of them are taken on the Colchester-Willimantic bus as the school bus run by Horace Porter can accommodate only about half the number.

The three attending the State Normal Training school are Miss Ellen Jones, Miss Mildred Hough and Miss Eunice Seyms.

The high school attendance has been greater this year than ever before.

The Christian League meeting was held Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Waldo.

Mrs. Fred Brehant, who was to have led the meeting was prevented from attending by the illness of her small child and Miss Edna Nathan took her place.

An informal reception was given to the Rev. and Mrs. Deeter of Gilead hall a few evenings ago by his parishioners of the Gilead Congregational church.

Mr. Deeter has just resumed the pastorate of the Hebron and Gilead churches after an absence of several years in the West.

Miss Eunice Porter is spending the week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Clinton Porter.

Miss Edna is planning to begin training as a nurse in Middlesex hospital next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and four children of Springfield, Mass., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Smith's brother, Edwin T. Smith.

An informant is given the name of the Rev. and Mrs. Deeter of Gilead hall a few evenings ago by his parishioners of the Gilead Congregational church.

Mr. Deeter has just resumed the pastorate of the Hebron and Gilead churches after an absence of several years in the West.

Arthur Hutchinson and three daughters of South Manchester, were week end guests of Mr. Hutchinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hutchinson.

Grinton Will of Mamaroneck, his brother Henry, a student at Wesleyan University, and Randall Holden from Yonkers were week end guests at the home of the Rev. T. D. Martin.

Miss Ellen Jones was at home from the Willimantic State Normal School for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White of New Haven visited their aunt, Mrs. Amanda W. Potter the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Allyn and their son Robert of Hartford spent the week-end at their summer home on Burroughs Hill.

Arthur A. Hillis of Hockanum is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Helen White.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Way and Mrs. Clara Hamner were callers at Mrs. Helen White's on Sunday.

Mrs. Howard C. Champe who is spending some time with her parents here received on Monday, the 20th, a telegram from her husband, the Rev. H. C. Champe from the mission fields of Mexico.

The telegram was dated September 17 and was sent from Mazatlan. It gave the information that heavy floods prevailed there and that bridges were down to the north, cutting off all communication with the United States.

Mr. Champe said that he had received no mail from the United States since the tenth of the month and that there was no use in writing as the letters would not reach him.

Previous letters from Mr. Champe have told of heavy rains in Tepic and vicinity and of the high water mark reached by Lake Chapala which is higher this season than ever before.

Outlets from the lake to the Pacific ocean flooded their banks last year and caused great havoc in life and property.

The conditions indicate even more serious trouble this season.

Mr. Champe expects to join his family here later in the fall for a vacation and will continue his train connections continue broken.

At present the Mexican Southern Pacific is cut off from the northern branch.

FOUR BOXING BOUTS

AT THE KACEY HALL

To Precede Receipt of Radio Returns from the Dempsey-Tunney Battlefield.

Leo Cleary, in charge of arrangements for securing radio returns for Campbell Council on the Dempsey-Tunney fight tomorrow has fixed up three boxing bouts which will precede the principal battle.

Several Manchester youngsters have been gathered in and a fourth bout is in the works.

On the program now are Pagan vs. Sullivan, Urhno vs. Squatrito and Joe Murphy vs. Hard Boiled McCarthy.

The fourth bout has not yet been arranged because a suitable opponent cannot be found for a certain boxer.

The hall is an ideal place for reception of the returns and will be open to Knights and their friends on Thursday night.

"COUNTRY STORE"

AT STATE TONIGHT

Big Vaudeville Bill of Five Acts and Feature Picture, "The Battling Butler," Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Tonight will be the popular "Country Store" at the State theater. What a grand time is in store for all those who come.

There will be a large number of presents given away, as well as some big surprises and lots of fun.

If you want to really enjoy yourself for the evening and perhaps get something valuable be at the "Country Store."

In addition to the country store there will be two feature pictures of remarkable quality.

The first will be "Neil Gwyn," a beautiful story of a peasant girl's romance with a king.

Dorothy Gish is featured in the leading role. That is the story of the famous actress with the enticing silk stockings who vamped a king.

"Sweet Nell of Old Drury"—pretty, witty, warm-blooded, reckless, generous and adorable! Now intimate details of her life and love are revealed in a sumptuous entertainment.

No more beautiful picture was ever made than this one. It was produced in Great Britain by the British National Pictures, Ltd., for Paramount.

Nell will capture your heart just as surely as she did that of a monarch, and just as she did the hearts of a great nation.

For, without a place in history, Nell has a warm place in the hearts of everybody.

The other feature will be Bob Custer in "The Devil's Gulch." This is a thrilling western melodrama of the country where men are men and fords are taboo.

Cyclonic riding, fast moving drama, comedy and suspense make it a fine type of entertainment. You should not miss this excellent program.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the State will present five acts of select vaudeville, and a knockout comedy feature picture, "The Battling Butler," featuring Buster Keaton.

It will be remembered what a fine bill of vaudeville was presented at the State last week.

Another excellent bill will be shown this week. The first act will be the Miller Trio in musical singing and dancing specialty act.

These three have a musical surprise in store for you.

For the second act there will be the popular Paul Brady. You all know Paul, of course.

He's the funniest man in vaudeville, Hank Brown. Hank always sends his audiences into spasms of laughter, until his victims are ready to yell, "Stop!" to keep their ribs from being shattered from excessive laughter.

Then there will be "The absolute funniest man in vaudeville, Hank Brown. Hank always sends his audiences into spasms of laughter, until his victims are ready to yell, "Stop!" to keep their ribs from being shattered from excessive laughter.

The headline will be "A Society Scandal," a musical comedy. There are six very capable people in this act. It is one of the finest musical comedy acts in vaudeville.

"Ten!" Buster's won again! He's knocked the movie audiences all over America for the count in his latest production, "The Battling Butler." Buster never smiles once in any of his pictures—at least, as the soap people say, "he hasn't smiled yet." But that doesn't necessarily mean that his audiences won't smile; oh, no, indeed. They simply roar with laughter!

Buster wasn't exactly a world's champion boxer—but he had a girl, and, well, a man in love will do crazier things than the wildest ravaging maniac. The girl didn't really have to know that her fiancée wasn't the real "Battling Butler," world's champ. Of course not, and so Buster let his girl go right on thinking that he was the real champ, until the thing got beyond the confines of his immediate locality.

And then—the real "Battling Butler" heard of the impostor who was stealing all his thunder. And what did he do? Well, he just challenged poor Buster, who had never been in a prize fight ring in his life, to fight him and to prove which was the real champion. To tell the hilarious outcome of this awful predicament in which Buster found himself would only spoil the story. The picture's a wow, so don't miss it.

One good fight deserves another, so the returns of the Dempsey-Tunney world's championship battle will be announced round by round from the State theater stage on Thursday night.

No need to stay away from the State to get the fight returns. You can get them in the theater, and see the show, too.

The returns will be furnished from the radio returns at Barstow's Radio Shop.

It's coming soon! The most sincere and most human story ever told. "What's that? Why, "Variety." When will it be here? Watch for an announcement soon.

TO AGREE ON MARKERS FOR "GUNPOWDER" TRAIL

Boston, Sept. 21.—The commission to erect markers over the famous route traveled by General Knox, on his trip with ammunition from Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y., to Cambridge, left for Albany today where a joint conference will be held with the General Knox commission of New York State.

SUZANNE'S GOWNS

FILL SEVEN TRUNKS

Tennis Star Is Going to Show Sports Clothes to American Women.

Paris, Sept. 22.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen sang a song of freedom this afternoon as she received a correspondent in her hotel room, where she was hurriedly closing trunks and tucking away finery in her luggage, preparing to leave on the 4 o'clock boat-train for her professional tennis tour of the United States.

"I have no regrets for having turned professional," Suzanne said gayly. "I liberated myself, I am free from the despotic rule of the tennis czar."

Seven Trunks. The correspondent looked about him and saw no less than seven trunks and gauded.

"Ah, yes, they are all mine," said Suzanne. "I am taking forty new ensembles created by Paton, especially for my American tour. They are sports costumes mostly, shetland sweaters and moroccan pleated skirts."

"All my gowns are marked for their simplicity and straight lines."

In the corner of one trunk there were dolls and dolls, the Suzanne Lenglen dolls.

Suzanne explained that she intends to auction these dolls on board the Paris for the benefit of the Seamen's fund.

Mme. Lenglen and a French maid are accompanying Suzanne, but Lenglen Pere remains in France.

Paul Peret, who has also turned professional, will sail with Suzanne.

STRONG MELODRAMA

AT CIRCLE TONIGHT

The epic fight of a woman governor against the political influences that beset her, and her final triumph over the forces of bores, mud-slinging, muck-raking and all the ills to which the political flesh has so long been heir, build up to a mighty climax in "Her Honor The Governor," F. B. O.'s strong melodrama now showing at the Circle theater.

A more tragic and nerve-racking scene than the trial of Governor Adele Fenway's son for murder, with the crashing emotional crisis to which it rises, can hardly be imagined; and that noted actress Pauline Frederick is at her unequalled best in the title role.

Doris Anderson adapted the story for the screen, from an original written expressly for Miss Frederick by Hyatt Daab and Weed Dickinson. Thomas Santel, Carol Nye Greta Von Rue, Stanton Heck, Boris Karloff and Charles McHugh make a fine supporting cast.

Chet Withey has invested the production with power and distinction, and a dedication to Gov. Nellie Ross, of Wyoming, the first woman to hold the honor of chief executive in any state, adds to the impressiveness of the picture.

The picture will be shown for the last time tonight.

HUGH GIBSON CRITICIZES ARMS SUB-COMMISSION

Geneva, Sept. 22.—Violent discussion was precipitated in the preparatory disarmament commission today when Hugh Gibson, American minister to Switzerland and head of the American delegation to the conference, criticized the work of the military sub-commission.

Gibson requested that new instructions be issued to the sub-commission not to engage itself with political questions but to confine its activities to technical considerations.

MINER PAIR SENT

TO THE REFORMATORY

Low Mentality, Court Is Told; 204 Cases on Docket of Superior Court.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 22.—Judge John W. Banks swung into action today to dispose of the largest docket of criminal cases in the history of Hartford county Superior Court, having 204 such matters before him.

John Benzes of New Britain, drew a suspended reformatory sentence on a charge of statutory burglary.

Reformatory terms were given Francis Miner, 18, and Clarence Miner, 20, both of Manchester, for a statutory offense in which a sister was involved.

Assistant State's Attorney Gleason, in presenting the case, told Judge Banks the Miners were of a low degree of mentality.

"The sister had been committed to a home, and that seven children in the family had been inmates of the county home."

Andrew Ronzillo, a Bristol farmer, appealing from a Bristol city court sentence of sixty days in jail for a second violation of the liquor laws, received the same sentence from Judge Banks today.

The judge upheld the lower court in every respect in the case.

Frank Carbone, alleged to be involved in bootlegging, was put into the reformatory zone that was put into effect on Golden Hill and Cannon streets here. The charges against the entire group were nolleed on payment of one dollar each in city court.

CUT RATE FOR VIOLATORS IN WHOLESALE LOTS

Bridgeport, Sept. 22.—More than twenty motorists from Norwalk, Stepany and Southport were caught today in a newly restricted parking zone that was put into effect on Golden Hill and Cannon streets here.

The charges against the entire group were nolleed on payment of one dollar each in city court.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Swamp Fox (1)

Francis Marion, "the Swamp Fox," famous scout and general of Revolutionary days, was the descendant of a Huguenot refugee who, in 1665, soon after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, settled in South Carolina. Francis became a skilled horseman. No harrier was too high for the boy to try.

Marion was of slight build, short in stature, but fearless. He was inclined to silence but at times his eyes flashed fire.

The little general was 43 years old when chosen to represent St. John's Parish, Berkeley county, in the Provincial Congress.

Marion was an impassioned advocate of liberty. His orations in the Provincial Congress helped toward the adoption of the Bill of Rights. Immediately after the battle of Lexington, Marion voted to raise armed forces and he was commissioned a captain in Col. Moultrie's regiment fighting the Cherokees. (Continued.)

TALCOTTVILLE

The Christian Endeavor Society met on Sunday evening. The subject of the meeting was "Missionary Advance in India." Miss Miriam Welles substituted as leader for Franklin Welles.
 The Golden Rule Club held a meeting in the church assembly rooms on Friday evening. Following a service of song and prayer all responded to the roll call with a few words on the subject "What the Golden Rule Club has meant to me." At the business meeting which followed it was voted to contribute twenty-five dollars to the work of the Hartford branch of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions and to hold a social and entertainment in the hall in the near future. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. W. Blankenburg and Miss Dorothy Wood.
 Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Jones of East Hartford, Vt. and Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Richard of Hartford were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blankenburg.
 Charles MacCallum attended the double header between the Cincinnati and Boston clubs of the National League at Boston yesterday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith and family of Worcester, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Felix McCue of Millers Falls, Mass. were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edmund Bradley. Mrs. Smith will visit here for the remainder of the week.
 Mrs. Charles O. Britton and Mrs. Carrie Allen sailed last evening for New York. While in France they will be the guests of Kenneth Britton who is abroad studying literature.
 The Vernon Methodist Episcopal church will hold a peach and corn supper at the church on Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, at 6 o'clock, standard time. The price of the supper is thirty-five cents and as this church is famous for the excellent menus presented a goodly crowd is expected.
 Mrs. Sumner Smith and son Ralph have been spending several days at their cottage.
 Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stapleton of Westerly, R. I.
 Following are the final results of the croquet tournament, in the semi-finals: Louis Smith and Alfred Rivenburg eliminated Miss Miriam Welles and Miss Bertha Dart. Miss Faith Toland and Wilbur H. Smith, Sr. eliminated Miss Sara McNally and Miss Helen Frazier. In the finals Louis Smith and Alfred Rivenburg defeated Miss Faith H. Talcott and Wilbur H. Smith, Sr. The playing of the Ladies' Aid society was a shooting contest which saved his team from elimination and finally brought the championship home.
 The Talcottville Five and Drum Corps will participate in the "Nathan Hale Day" parade to be held at South Coventry on Wednesday afternoon.
 A new heating plant is being installed in the residence of Lucius Smith.
 Douglas Fisk of Rockville is spending a few days at the home of his aunt, Mrs. C. W. Blankenburg.

VERNON CENTER

The Centennial celebration of the erection of the First Congregational meeting house of Vernon on Saturday afternoon and evening and all day Sunday promises to be a creditable success. The best people of Rockville, Ellington and Tolland especially are promising to be present Saturday afternoon for the social gathering, the pilgrimage to the hill-top site of the first meeting house and the old graveyard, for the organ recital rendered by William Randolph Hammond the Vernon Center boy now a noted organist, and for the bare concert in the evening. Ladies are being eagerly engaged for the banquet supper at 8 p. m. (daylight time). President Frederick Holt of the First National Bank in Rockville will be the toastmaster in charge and speeches after the banquet will be given by Doctor Rockwell Harrison Potter and Doctor Sherrod Soule of Hartford, Hon. H. H. Willes of Vernon, and probably by Senator Hiram Bingham of New Haven and Secretary D. Brewer Eddy of Boston.
 The program for Sunday will be as previously announced except that Doctor Potter will exchange numbers with Rev. Mr. English. Pastor George S. Brookes of the Union church, Rockville will preside at the afternoon gathering and Pastor John T. Nichols of Ellington in the evening. Among the musical attractions will be a solo at the morning gathering by Mrs. Elda Hansen Johnston of Vernon Center, whom many will hear by radio on Saturday of this week at 10 a. m. (daylight time) singing from Springfield. In the afternoon the Rockville Union Congregational church will lend its organist, Mrs. May Chapman Holt, and their quartet will render selections. In the evening the anthem will be sung by a union of choirs from Rockville, Talcottville, Bolton, Vernon and Talcottville.
 The little melodrama probably nearly as old as the church building itself, on which organist A. W. Driggs played seventy-five years ago will be played again at these meetings.
 The evening services of the churches in Rockville and Ellington will be interrupted in order that those who attend the afternoon gathering of the Centennial may remain for that of the evening when reminiscences of the past will be given by members of daughter churches in Rockville, Vernon and Ellington. A cafeteria luncheon supper, served by the Ladies Aid Society, will provide again, at the noon hour, for the material necessities of all.
 The meeting of Vernon Grange on Friday evening, disappointed in the expectation of entertainment by visiting granges in neighboring townships, enjoyed an impressive entertainment of its own. After a song by Mrs. Chas. B. Reed, a piano solo by Sister Arlene Skinner, accounts of vacation auto trips were given. Members of Wapping Grange present gave a surprise number and the Grange as a whole sang again.
ANDOVER
 Miss Anna Most spent the weekend with Mrs. Ralph Bass.
 Miss Ida Hamilton and the Misses Vera and Marion Stanley and Margaret Hutchinson left Saturday noon to spend a week in Philadelphia at the Sesqui-Centennial.

Words and Meanings

SAINT and SINNER by Anne Austin

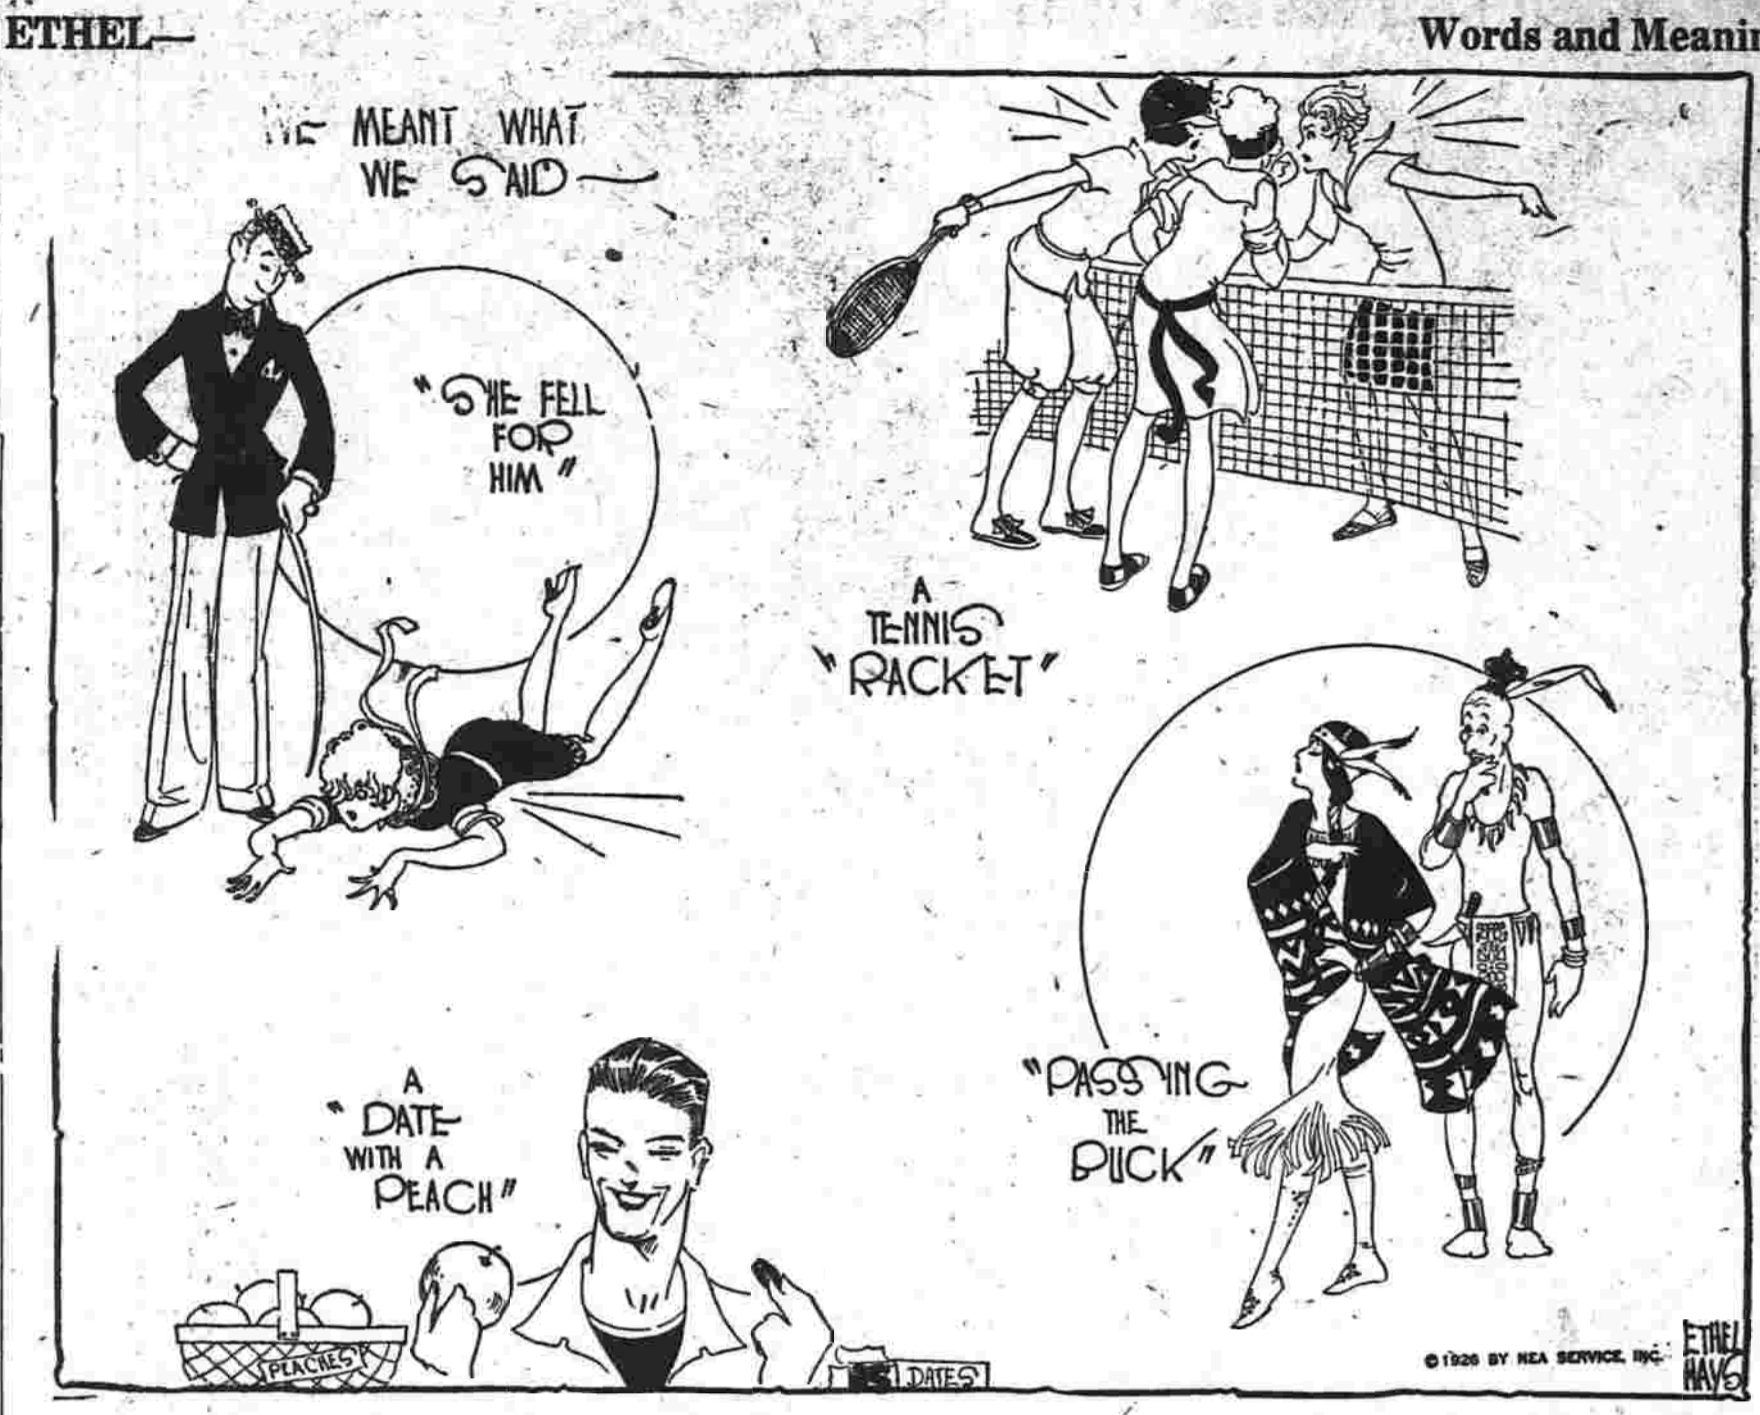

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE... CHERRY LANE, 18, one of a family of four children of MR. and MRS. LANE, typical American working people, uses her beauty to "comp" every man she meets.

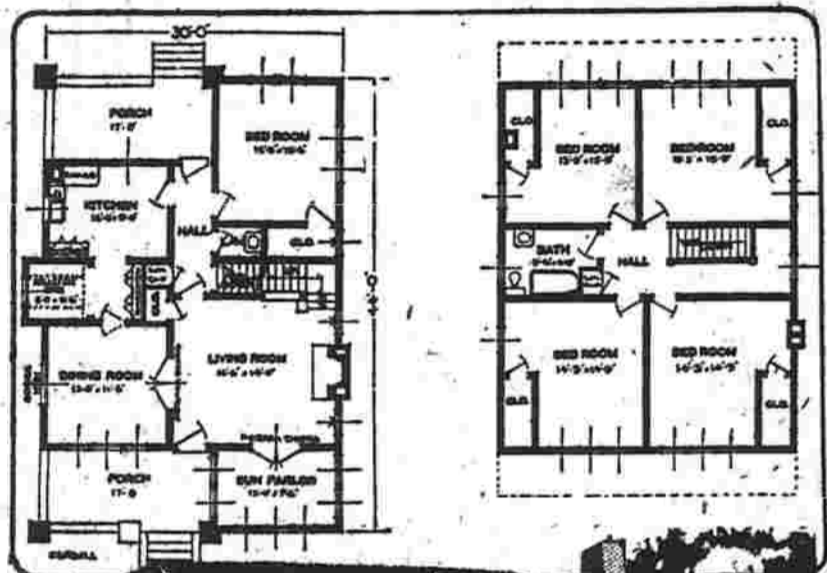

She saw her tall, splendid body with eyes that had been opened by George Pruitt's appreciation.

even the back of her neck was red as she arranged the magnificent roses in the green lemonsauce pitcher. She could not trust herself to speak, for her heart was too full of gratitude toward George Pruitt and toward Aunt Hattie, and tears were quivering on her eyelashes.

pointed a triumphant, skinny forefinger. The pictured dress, of the same soft yellow as Faith's material, was sleeveless, with a long waist line, the bodice, falling in a loosely bloused effect, being joined to the full, flaring skirt with a soft crumpled girde of the chiffon, a great scarlet flower poised on the left side.

STURDY SEMI-BUNGALOW

The semi-bungalow is always popular, and with reason. It has that diminutive, "cozy" appearance that makes a house so homelike, and yet it gives this impression without sacrificing needed space.

The dining room is adequate, and a pantry and breakfast room combined connect it with a well-designed kitchen. Note that there is a first floor bedroom as well as a first floor lavatory in this design.

Woman Writer Discusses Matrimonial Facilities Of Dempsey and Tunney

By ALLENE SUMNER. Which guy would I marry—granted that Providence gave me the chance—Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey? Gentle reader, the premise is altogether theoretical.

Mr. Dempsey already owns one fair wife of his bosom. Mr. Tunney frankly declares that he is not and will not be in the marriage market.

Gene Tunney, fresh from his rub-down after his afternoon practice bout at Stroudsburg, ushered me onto the front porch.

I attempted an interviewing preamble with inane nothings. I was cut short. Mr. Tunney politely but firmly indicated that time was time and he would be pleased with a few definite questions.

Not so good. That means that when the missus greeted her spouse with a nice morning, "Isn't it dear?" she would be met with an "Is it? I hadn't noticed, and now what is your program for the day?"

Sweet nothings went over big in Jack Dempsey's Atlantic City reception room. The price of champagne tumbled and how many eggs a day from white leghorns and whether gentlemen really did prefer blonds—

(But I digress!) "Well, then," said I to Gene, "fishing in—what do you want money for? What's your idea of happiness as acquired through money?"

blue tie and a batik blue shirt. "I bet you know I'm all topped out better."

"I would ask," answered he, "what was more important, consistency or inconsistency of conduct? And I would answer that consistency was a greater definite principle to which to adhere."

The porch railing ranks thinned. "I shall be consistently inconsistent in the fight, formulating an unbroken series of consistently inconsistent moves calculated utterly to bewilder my opponent."

So, if you don't like this yarn, you just pretend I'm kidding you this time. You see, I think you're a peach of a guy, and you're still sort of young and you don't understand women. That's why you don't like 'em—'cause you're scared of 'em."

But, Gene, just wait till you fall, Oh, babe! (Copyright, N. E. A. Service)

Well, he wants to travel and buy rare editions and have money to spare. Gene Tunney is a rich archaeological researcher.

Jack looks to the future. "What do I want money for?" repeated Jack, his brow scowled in thought.

National Women's Golf Tournament Next Week

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Glenna Collett, the Providence princess, will endeavor to emulate the feat performed by Alexa Stirling back in 1920 when she defended her national golf title at the Merlon Cricket Club here at the week of Sept. 27-Oct. 2.

During the last five fiestas there have been four different titleholders. Miss Collett is the only one with two wins to her credit, her first coming in 1922 and the second a year ago. Oddly enough Alexa Stirling was runnerup in three of the five campaigns.

TUNNEY UNWORRIED AS ZERO HOUR NEARS

Amazes Observers Who Had Thought He Would Crack Under the Strain.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—Just one day away from the fight that will either make or break him pugilistically, Gene Tunney has attained the height of physical perfection.

Tunney's mental condition has amazed close students of the game who thought he would crack under the worry. His attitude is that of a business man about to embark on a serious mission.

Yesterday's workout was confined exclusively to the perfection of a defense for the whirlwind attack that Dempsey is certain to uncover during the first few rounds.

Tunney plans to rest today. He will not leave here until tomorrow morning. After weighing in at the office of the State Boxing Commission he will go to the private residence of a friend close to the Resurrection stadium and rest there until the zero hour has arrived.

There will be but one place in Manchester tomorrow night where blow-by-blow returns of the Dempsey-Tunney fight will be obtainable free to the entire public.

The Dempsey-Tunney fight has aroused great interest and even though the champion is being predicted as the winner, there are many who think the seaman will give him the battle of his life if not a defeat.

There is abundant room for several hundred fans to gather and for all to hear the returns clearly.

Local Sport Chatter

The Herald has secured the services of three former college football stars of national repute to write a series of special dispatches on the key to football success.

SONS OUTHITTING SHAMROCKS IN TOWN SERIES .365 TO .229

Tommy Sipples Leads Hitters With .667 Average; Partons and Wright Well Up

Statistics for the first two games of the town baseball series reveal that the Sons of Italy are batting for an average of .355 against .229 for the Shamrocks. In fielding, it has been practically a deadlock with the Shamrocks having the slight edge in percentage, .941 to .940.

Sipples Leading Hitter.
Tommy Sipples, who has pitched the Sons of Italy to victory in both of the opening engagements, is leading both teams in hitting. Tommy has an average of .667. Pete Partons with .556 and Gil Wright with .500 are next.

It has not been definitely settled where and when the third game of the series will be played. Sunday the Sons are booked for an appearance in New London against the Fort Trumbull nine.

Following are the composite averages for the first two games of the series as submitted by Manager Vendrillo:

CHENEY BROTHERS' BASKETBALL TEAM PRACTICES TONIGHT

Cheney Brothers Athletic Association is going to put a basketball team on the season. This announcement was made last night. George Hunt Jr., former manager of the Manchester Baseball club, is to manage the team.

Manager Hunt has called the first practice session for this evening. It will be held at the School street Rec at 7 o'clock. The following players from last year's team are requested to report: L. Cervini, M. Macdonald, W. Wiley, T. Faulkner, J. Pentland, J. Mullen and S. Anderson.

Manager Hunt said there are several other players who may be in the lineup before the season opens. He is at work arranging his season's schedule at present.

DEMPSEY A BIT SLOWER BUT A SANE FIGHTER.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 21.—Jack Dempsey today is slower than the Dempsey of Toledo. Dempsey hasn't all the whirlwind speed of 24. But he has speed of arms and of legs beyond that which any other fighter ever exhibited at 21.

The champion is not the wild, lunging, plunging "devil-may-care" brawler of his earlier years. He is still a fury on attack, but the wildness and recklessness of his charges has gone. In its place has come a bit of caution and a really splendid defense.

"I used to waste too many punches in the old days," Dempsey said today.

A slot machine that distinguishes coins by both their size and weight has been invented, making it impossible to substitute a franc for a quarter or a piece of lead for a coin.

THE PENNANT RACES

While the outcome of the National League race remains problematic, the Yankees appear to have clinched the American League pennant by their crushing defeat of Chicago yesterday. The Yanks with their lead of three games, can sew up the pennant by winning three out of five, while two victories out of five will force Cleveland to make a clean sweep of their five games to tie the leaders.

St. Louis still leads Cincinnati by two games, as both teams were defeated yesterday. By picking up one game on the Cardinals on their next three contests, the Reds can negotiate a tie by winning the fast game of the season, with St. Louis. To clinch the pennant however, Cincinnati must win all four contests while the Cards lose three.

HIGHLIGHTS ABOUT DEMPSEY - TUNNEY ON EVE OF BATTLE

Never Kayoed

Gene Tunney, challenger for the heavyweight crown has never been knocked out. Jack Dempsey, the champion, has one black mark on his record.

In Jack's first year of fighting Jim Flynn, who gave many a heavyweight champion an interesting session, stopped Dempsey in one round.

The story is that Dempsey assumed a horizontal position that evening at the earliest possible moment, so that he might hasten to a restaurant and purchase food that had not been appeased for several days.

In other words he was just plain hungry and accepted the bout as a means to the end, knowing at the time he didn't have a chance with Flynn.

Last Out Once
Harry Greb, former light heavyweight and middleweight champion, is the only fighter who holds a decision over Gene Tunney.

Back in 1922 Greb took down a decision in 15 rounds from Tunney. However, the following year Tunney twice reversed the '22 verdict.

Last year the pair went 10 rounds to a no-decision bout at St. Paul. The newspaper experts gave Tunney the edge.

Dempsey early in his career lost the decision in two four-round bouts to Jack Downey and Willie Meehan.

Meehan, by the way, always has proved a troublesome customer for Dempsey.

Dempsey Leads
Champion Jack Dempsey has a slight edge on Gene Tunney as a knockerout. Jack's percentage is .872 while Tunney boasts an even .500.

In the 77 fights that Dempsey has engaged since he started his ring career 11 years ago, he has won 47 of them by a knockout.

Tunney has taken part in an even 60 contests and has won half of them by rocking his opponent to sleep.

While Dempsey's record is the more imposing, Tunney is able to stop Tommy Gibbons in 12 rounds, the same Tommy who managed to weather 15 strenuous sessions with Champion Dempsey at Shelby, Mont.

Favorite Round
If Champy ever in his career scores a knockout over the challenger, Gene Tunney, what will the round be?

The experts who figure Dempsey to win over the kayo route insist it will not go over five rounds. Dempsey's record bears out such a prediction.

The first round has been Dempsey's favorite session for ending his fights. He has scored 24 knockouts in the opening round.

Only seven of Dempsey's 47 knockouts have gone over five rounds. It took him 15 rounds to finish Bill Brennan.

Favors Dempsey
Fighters as a rule have a wholesome respect and great admiration for champions who have knocked them out.

Tommy Gibbons is one exception to the rule.

On form Gibbons who was stopped in 12 rounds by Tunney, should pick him to defeat Dempsey, with whom Gibbons managed to stay the limit of 15 rounds.

Gibbons, while conceding Tunney a chance, provided Dempsey is not himself, says Dempsey's punching will be too much for Tunney to withstand.

Tunney, always a defensive fighter, probably will find Dempsey's rushing attack such that he will be forced to assume an offensive.

Johnson's Career
Jack Johnson holds a unique distinction among the fighters who have held the heavyweight championship.

Johnson is the only fighter to win and lose the title on foreign soil.

Back in 1908 Johnson journeyed to faraway Australia whither Tommy Burns had taken the crown after winning the rather joke title from Marvin Hart, who was made champion by Jim Jeffries when the latter retired.

Johnson won over Burns in 14 rounds. Seven years later Johnson lost the title to Jess Willard at Havana, Cuba, in 26 rounds.

Because of trouble between Johnson and the United States government, it was necessary that the bout be staged in Cuba.

Ten Rounds With Dempsey BY JOE WILLIAMS

Williams Terms Dempsey "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the Ring."

Editor's Note: This is the tenth and final article of the series by Joe Williams, flistic critic of NEA Service, Inc., relating some of the more interesting and unusual episodes in the pugilistic career of Champion Jack Dempsey.

By JOE WILLIAMS
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, N. E. A. Service)
What kind of a fellow is Dempsey?

I have heard that question answered in ways that were flattering and unflattering to the heavyweight champion.

I know of no better way to answer it than to say that there are few men who know him that don't like him—and don't keep on liking him.

To me he is the most extraordinary figure the fight game has produced in years. An amazing combination of brute savagery and chivalry, a race track favorite and a composite of rumbly thunder and soft sunshine. Truly, a Dr. Jekyll and a Mr. Hyde in equal parts.

Consider this picture: Dempsey is going through his training routine for the Tunney fight on the dock track a mile or so from the roaring surf at Atlantic City. As usual he is all business. His swarthy features are distorted in a scowl. His lips are drawn tight over two rows of even teeth. He is boxing a welterweight named Johnny Saxon, a ham-and-egger from Bridgeport.

The mixing is fast and spirited. The champion is getting a fine leg and arm workout calculated to sharpen his speed. He is stepping in and out without trying to land any heavy punches. Suddenly he lands a short left hook, unmeaningly, and Saxon drops in a heap, completely knocked out.

Starts in on Another
Unperturbed, the twisted imprint of the savage smile on his face Dempsey turned to Bill Tate, the giant negro, and said, "Carry him out." Then looking over his other sparring partners who sat huddled at the edge of the ring he beckoned to Alex Hart, Ohio welterweight. "Come on, you finish the round."

Dempsey early in his career was being carried into the dressing room on the bronze shoulders of Tate limp as a sack of oats. Dempsey was crowding Hart, his new victim, to the ropes, pumping rights and lefts into his hide and jostling him around with a ferocity that indicated beyond all doubt that he was not concerned in the least by what had just happened to the smaller Saxon.

That is the Dempsey you see in the ring, a relentless, unyielding, primitive man in whose makeup the qualities of mercy and compassion have no place.

Now consider this picture: It is the following day. Not wishing to rush his training too swiftly Dempsey decides to take the day off. Where does he spend it? At the Children's Seaside Home, an orphanage for cripples at Atlantic City.

This is no grand flourish, or gaudy gesture. Dempsey loves children. He has been to this orphanage before. With him it is sort of a ritual to be performed whenever he is in or near Atlantic City.

Watching the man move from one of the little white cots to another beaming down on the tiny bent bodies, pushing here and there to take a pair of wax-like hands in his big paws, stopping, finally, to clasp a bed-ridden tot of five with eager eyes and dancing curls to his chest—watching this picture you see the other Dempsey, and it's just as real and genuine a pattern as the Dempsey you see in the ring with eyes flashing and fists flying.

They Call Him "Harry"
Dempsey is thoroughly human and likeable. He has no superior ambitions. He knows his limitations, but does not attempt to hide them. He has certain artificial mannerisms, but I have a suspicion these were adopted to please the fair Estelle.

Dempsey's real love is for his blood kin. None of the Dempseys—and there are plenty of them—are in a way. Dempsey's mother and father are separated. Yet the champion's adoration for the two remains unshaken. He has built home at different places for his dad and his mother.

The only two persons in the world who don't call him "Jack" are his parents. To them he is "Harry" always. Jack is a ring name. William Harrison, as everyone knows, is his baptismal name. Dempsey calls the mother "maw" and his dad "pop."

Dempsey likes and dislikes are violent and enduring. For instance, he will never make up with Jack Kearns, his former manager. He prefers mutual friends to ignore the controversy but when they don't and they indicate a favoritism for Kearns they are promptly dropped from his list.

Dempsey probably "staked" more down-and-outers in the boxing racket than any fighter who ever held the title. Nobody who comes to him is turned down. I am told that his "charity pay roll" since he won the title in 1919 exceeds $100,000, and I'm inclined to believe it.

AS SECONDS THEY'RE GOOD FIFTH RATERS

Dempsey's Corner Stocked With Men Who Know About Everything But Fighting, Says Walsh.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22.—When Jess Willard stepped into the ring at Toledo, he was a man absolutely in his own with a couple of seconds who were more like thirds and a business manager who had hinges in his neck from saying "yes." It may or may not be significant but the fact remains that our Mr. Dempsey is going into the ring on Thursday night with the most singular collection of handlers that ever handicapped a fighter.

They are, rated in order of their importance: Jerry Luvadis, a Greek who knows three words of English and uses them once each year; Gene Normie, a race track man who can tell you how a race should be run but "not" how a fight should be fought; Gus Wilson, a French chef who says he is a trainer and one Captain Mabbitt, a fat man who will be coming into the ring for the first round when the second is over.

I can't think of a more inept combination. Neither can Dempsey, according to reports. They said today that he was considering hiring Philadelphia Jack O'Brien as second and Philadelphia Jack was right the last time they used nail files for tooth brushes.

It also was said that Dempsey was considering Doc Bagley for this role. The Doc is a good man in spite of the fact that he once managed Tunney.

Dempsey, it is understood, has informed his prospective handlers that he wants to fight this fight his own way with no interference from his corner. That, also, is a swell idea.

That fat captain will be waddling around, the French chef must be there to be the extra cook to spoil the broth and the Chicago and New York detective sergeants, four strong, will be on hand.

With this array, it isn't surprising that Dempsey was casting about for a practical boxing man who knows his vitals.

Tunney May Lack Showmanship But Is Nobody's Mugg—Williams

By JOE WILLIAMS.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—Gene Tunney may win the heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey when they begin popping hostile gloves at each other in the Sequi bowl Thursday night—he may, but you aren't sure of it, watching him work up here in the highlands of Pennsylvania.

Tunney's form is deceitful. He goes about his routine work with a deadly earnestness that at times amounts to downright solemnity. Maybe it's this absence of flash and fury—the showmanship stuff—that leaves you uninspired. At any rate, you are.

Nobody's Mugg.
And yet Tunney is nobody's mugg. Some of the boys are saying he is the greatest fighter Dempsey ever met, and perhaps he is. Tunney has whipped some great fighters. He started Harry Greb on his downward path, stopped Carpenter and flattened Gibbons.

Tunney is one of those fighters who ALWAYS is winning. Sometimes he looks bad in the ring but at the end he ALWAYS is the winner. I thought he fought an ordinary fight against the Frenchman but he WON. I didn't think he looked particularly great against Gibbons but he WON.

Tunney in some respects is the most remarkable fighter the game has ever had. He has literally puts an end to the show but it turns out to be the turning point, the blow that gives him the upper hand and leads on to victory.

A left hook to the liver—Tunney's favorite punch—took all the fight out of Greb the last time they met and caused the then middleweight champion to go to Tunney after the fight with the declaration that he would never fight him again.

A right cross to the jaw in the tenth round dropped Carpenter, and promptly changed the complexion of a fight that had been very mediocre up to that point. A left hook to the liver in the sixth round took all the fight out of Gibbons, or most of it anyway, and the knockout followed as a matter of course.

In a previous fight with Spilla, the South American, Tunney had gone along for six rounds in a slovenly, methodical way, showing only limited hitting ability. Then in the seventh he let fire a right-hander that caught Spilla just over the left eye. It almost scalped him, so great was the power and violence behind the punch.

You never can tell when Tunney is going to come up with one of those kind of punches. But now and then he does come up with one and usually there's enough behind it to convince all and sundry that he can hit.

IN THE WAKE OF THE FLORIDA HURRICANE

SPLINTERS AND RUBBISH WHERE HOMES USED TO BE

TWISTER'S TOLL ALONG THE MIAMI RIVER

In the residence section of Miami, Fla.—since the storm. Homes were bowled over like houses built of cards. Here is a flattened out section of street, with a frame cottage knocked into a pancake design and a portion of the barn piled on top as if in satiric fooling. The scene is typical of miles of street in "the wonder city of the tropics."

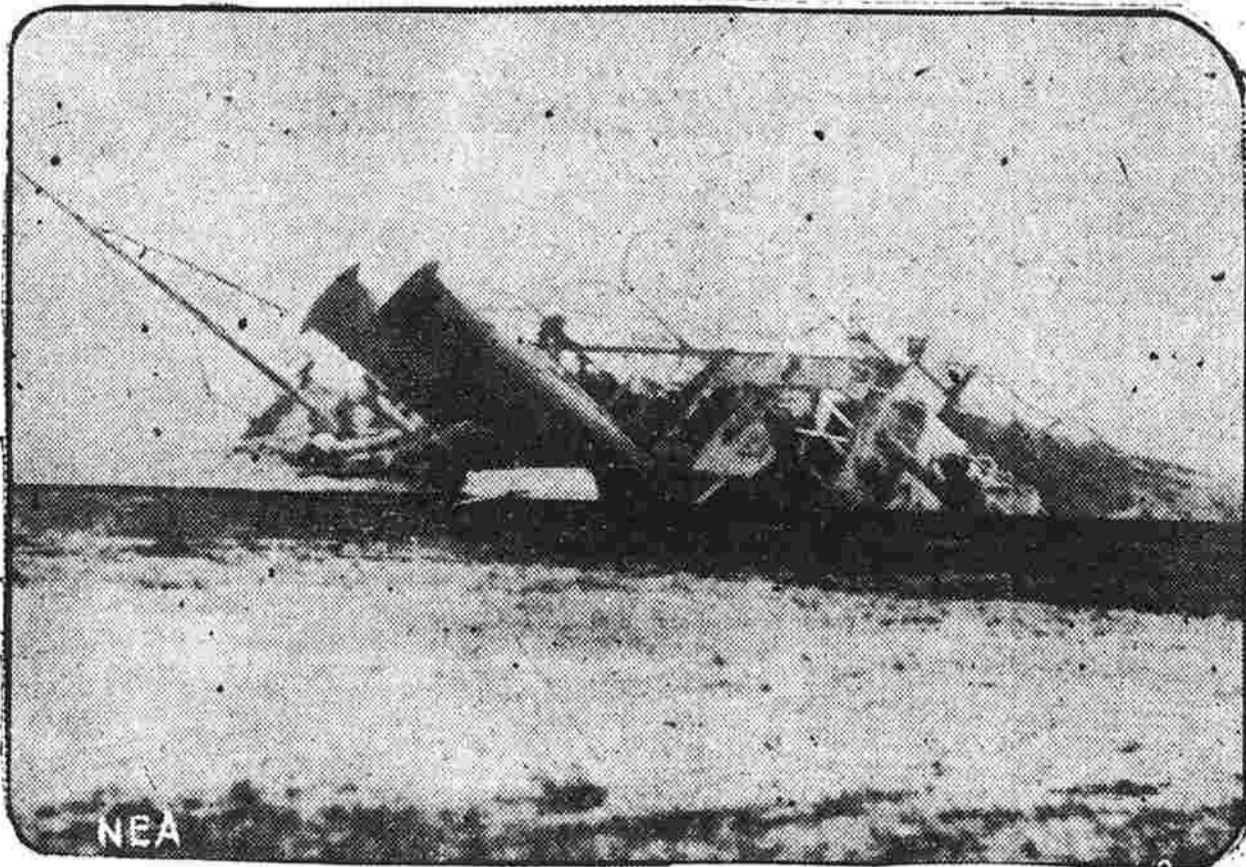

Along the shore line of the Miami River the catastrophic Florida twister left a trail of wreckage and ruin of which this picture shows a typical section. Yachts, houseboats, barges and craft of all types were tossed from the water and left broken and battered as graphically shown above.

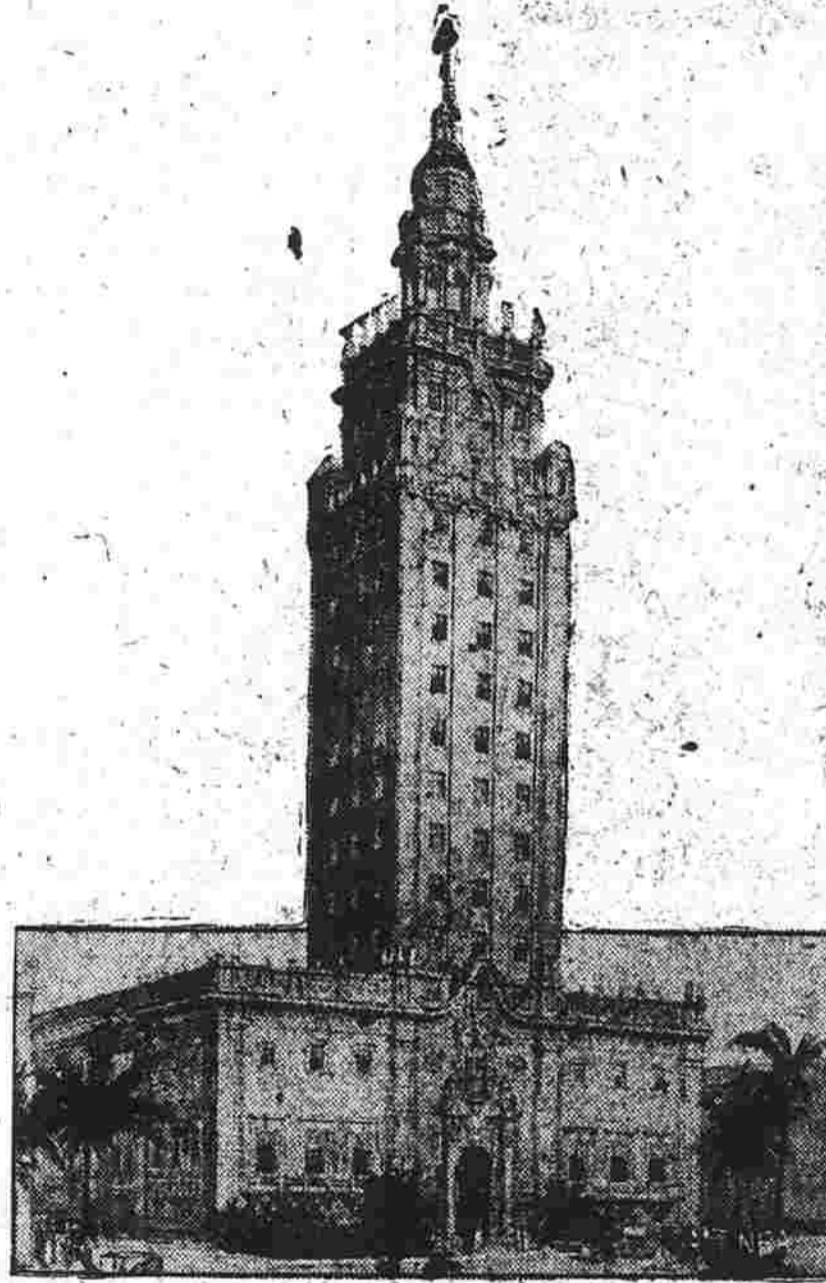

"DAVEY JONES" HAS HIS INNING

Made Leaning Tower by Storm

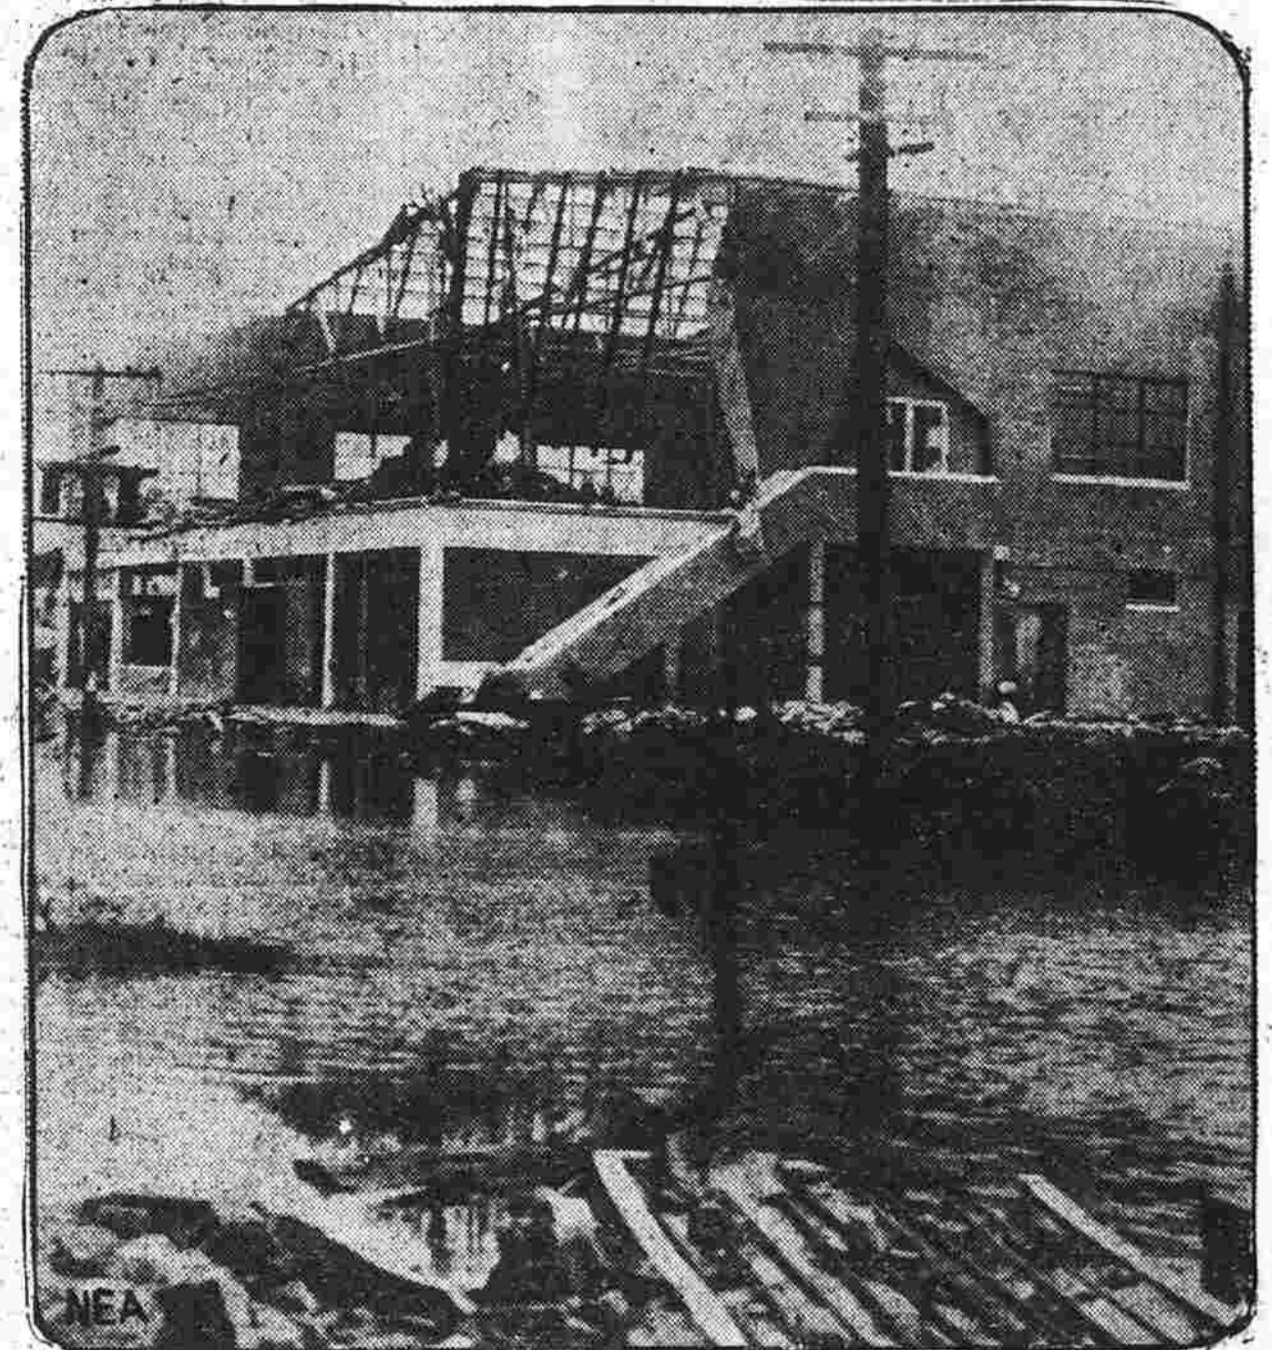

STRONGER THAN CONCRETE AND STEEL

When the Florida hurricane had spent its strength innumerable sea craft had gone to "Davey Jones' locker." Some concept of the storm's strength may be gathered from the above picture which shows the staunch yacht Nahob half submerged. This was the Krupp-built craft once used by Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

The 130-mile-an-hour hurricane that hit Miami and caused a huge loss of life bent over this beautiful tower at an angle of 20 degrees. The building is the plant of the Miami Daily News, owned by James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for president in 1920. It is one of the finest newspaper buildings in the country. A large beacon burned in the tower as:

Miami's modern buildings didn't have a chance when the tropical blasts began battering. Here is the front of a business block, the roof torn off, steel beams hanging like twigs of a weeping willow, the facade caved in past recognition. And the street in front is a pool of backwater left when the sea receded.

JUST 150 YEARS AGO

Capt. Nathan Hale Went to Gallows, Immortal Hero

BY PAUL HARRISON

New York, Sept. 22.—Other than the shuffling of the guards and the light steps of the young man who was marching to death, there was no sound. The waiting crowd shivered a little in the early morning air, stood mute, almost breathless.

Tramp, tramp—a few yards more—a halt. A rope dangled, one end tied in a hangman's noose. It swung back and forth, a pendulum telling off the seconds of life.

Somewhere in the crowd a woman sobbed. The tension broken, the sob was taken up in a series of quick little breath-catchings that swept the circle.

Silence again. The noose swung lower, to be caught by the waiting hangman. He made as if to adjust it, but was halted by a motion from the official. It seemed that the condemned had something to say.

His clean-cut face showing little trace of care, the boy-prisoner stood a moment, gazing heavenward. Nearly six feet tall, he stood and looked out over the crowd, his eyes seeing no earthly thing. Then he looked down at the people and spoke, his voice strong and clear: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Silence, broken finally by a growl from William Cunningham, British provost marshal: "Swing the rebel off!"

Thus, 150 years ago, Sept. 22, 1776, died Nathan Hale, courageous American captain who was destined to become an immortal hero.

FORMALLY REJECTS RESERVATION FIVE

Judicial Committee of the World Court Conference Reports Adversely.

Geneva, Sept. 22.—The last part of the fifth reservation proposed by the United States as a condition of its entry into the World Court was recommended for rejection by the judicial committee of the World Court conference here today.

The reservation which is objected to provides that the World Court shall not take up matters affecting United States interests without the consent of the United States.

The judicial committee maintains that this reservation might restrict the activities of the League of Nations and should be made the subject of a more complete understanding with the United States.

The committee reported in favor of the acceptance of the first four reservations and the first part of the fifth.

KNOWLTON MEMORIAL OBSERVANCE

The annual observance of the Knowlton-Memorial building will be held in the hall at Warrenville, Conn., Saturday, October 2, 1926.

The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 with concert by the Babcock Cornet Band, followed by singing and recitations by the school children. The address of the day will be given by Hon. Arthur M. Brown of Norwich, State's Attorney for New London County.

The "Old Home Day" feature will be emphasized with brief talks by visitors. Former residents and descendants of Ashford families are cordially welcomed.

"The Ladies Aid Society" will serve refreshments from 5 to 7 P. M. at nominal prices. The evening program will include dramatics, special music and dancing, with orchestra.

Philadelphia man has written the Declaration of Independence on a postage stamp. That's one way to make it stick.

THE FOX AND THE PEACHES The peaches were thick in the orchard. All toothsome and bright on each tree. But they made me sadder since I had no ladder. So what were those peaches to me? Oh gee, Those peaches were grapefruit to me!

The peaches are thick in Manchester. On every street and avenue But isn't life funny? You haven't got money So what are those peaches to you? Too true! Those peaches are grapefruit to you!

Two famous pianists, one traveling east, the other west, met at the railroad station on a tiny hamlet in the Arizona desert. "Giving a recital here?" asked X with a deep show of interest. "No, I got off to attend yours," answered Z, earnestly. About the rarest bird to be seen this summer is a Congressman who isn't seeking re-election. If you must be a machine, be a thinking machine rather than a talking machine. Such great progress has been made in surgery that nobody ever lives to a ripe old age.

REVERSIBLE NAME. Sioux City, Ia.—Reversible ties, collars, vests and shirts are not unknown. But how about reversible names? One man in Sioux City has one. He is E. H. Plannap, of 1918 Jones street. Like Hannah, Anna or Otto the name is spelled the same way, backward or forward.

D. OF P. MEETING.

Sunset Council, No. 45, Daughters of Pochonias, at its recent meeting in Tinker hall planned activities for the coming season. The entertainment committee under the leadership of Mrs. Eleanor Prentice has already started rehearsals for a play to be given in the late fall. The committee also plans to have something at each meeting in the way of entertainment or social features. The program given at the last meeting included a short dialogue by Mrs. Prentice and Mrs. Irene Powers; Phoebe Phillips favored with a recitation; Miss Harrington and Walter Williams sang, and Pearl Hollister and Jessie Hutchinson gave solo dances. Miss Lillian McCabe and Charles Heck played piano accompaniments for the entertainers and Walter Williams furnished music for dancing.

CARD OF THANKS.

We hereby most sincerely thank our many friends for the beautiful floral pieces and the many acts of kindness performed during the illness and death of our husband and father, Maranthon Keeney. We would also express our sincere appreciation to the G. A. R., Manchester Grange, Sons of Veterans and the Sexton of South Methodist church for kindly services rendered.

MRS. SUSAN F. KEENEY AND FAMILY.

FUNERAL OF CHILD.

An unusually large funeral was held this afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Agostelli, of 139 Oak street. Their daughter, Rosa, two and a half years old, died after an illness of but one day. All day yesterday and this morning the home was crowded with friends and relatives. The front room where the little coffin lay was literally filled with floral tributes. Burial was in St. James' cemetery.

U. S. COURT WILL HOLD HOUSECLEANING TUESDAY
New Haven, Sept. 22.—The annual "housecleaning" of the United States court for the district of Connecticut will take place here next Tuesday when Judge Edwin S. Thomas opens the September term. Eleven old cases will be dropped. The complete docket of the term shows 351 cases pending. It is indicated that not more than a score of all the cases will actually be heard.
