STRANO SENT TO CHESHIRE BY THE COURT

Youth Who Beat and Robbed Man in Manchester Sentenced; Other Local Case; Cheap Carfare Plan Proposed.

Hartford, Sept. 28.—Salvatore Strano, of Hartford, 20 years old, was sentenced to the state reformatory by Judge John W. Banks in the Superior Court here today on a charge of robbery with violence. It was alleged that Strano and another youth several weeks ago robbed and beat a man in the woods near Manchester.

Another Local Case. James Juliano, of Manchester, was fined $200 and sentenced to thirty days in jail for violating the liquor laws. He was alleged to have sold a drink to a state policeman, who arrested him. Juliano's plea was guilty. Louis Bellinger, of New Britain, who it was alleged assaulted the owner of a North street wine cellar while he was trying to steal some of the wine, was sentenced to thirty days in jail on charge of breach of the peace. The charge of statutory burglary was nolleed in view of conflicting evidence, the state's attorney said.

Cheap Fares. Hartford, Sept. 28.—Weekly passes selling for fifty cents and entitling their holders to ride anywhere on its lines at any time are proposed by the Litchfield Railway Co., of Stratford, and authority to put them in effect was requested of the Public Utilities Commission at a hearing here today. There was opposition to the plan, however. Patrick Healy, of Waterbury, representing the State Railway Association, and Clifford C. Wilson, of Bridgeport, representing bus lines in that city, and W. J. Flinkinger, vice president of the Connecticut Company, appeared against the proposed pass system.

RED CROSS WORKERS FLOCKING TO FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28.—National Red Cross workers today took charge of all relief work here, citizens committees being relieved of all duties. Two hundred additional Red Cross workers from northern cities are on their way here. Evacuation of the east coast district by Florida National Guardsmen began last night.

Cost of clearing away debris from the streets here totaled $200,000 so far, an additional $100,000 was appropriated by the city commission for continuation of relief and repair work. The official death toll total remains at 109 with 17 bodies still unidentified, with only 405 injured remaining in the Jackson Memorial hospital. Many of the doctors and nurses who were rushed here from other cities last week are now returning to their homes.

TO COST QUEEN MARIE $15,000 TO CROSS POND

Paris, Sept. 28.—Queen Marie of Roumania today engaged through her representatives the presidential suite on the Levisan and fifteen additional cabins for her personnel. The ship sails for New York on October 12. The total cost of the passage is approximately $15,000, although it is understood that the United States line has donated the presidential suite.

The royal party will travel to Cherbourg on a special train, the queen riding in President Domergue's own private car. They will board the ship from a special tender.

American warships in European waters will congratulate at Cherbourg to give Queen Marie a royal salute, although the Rumanian embassy here still maintains that she will travel incognito.

NOW GAMBLE AND DANCE WHERE SULTANS REIGNS

London, Sept. 28.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Constantinople says the Yildiz Palace, home of past Sultans, was opened last night as a gambling and dancing casino. The dancing salons include special jazz and Charleston rooms. More than 100 prominent Turkish women participated in inaugurating the dancing. The prefecture issued invitation to an illuminated fete which was held in the palace grounds at midnight.

TEMPORARY WALK FOR RICH ESTATE

East Center Street Job; East Center Street Job; Other Business.

Bidding time until after election which comes next Monday the Board of Selectmen cleaned up a batch of routine matters in a special meeting last night. Most important of the work transacted was the board's vote to construct temporary concrete sidewalks fronting the Rich property on East Center street near the junction with Porter.

Sidewalks have been built all the way to Manchester Green with the exception of a strip in front of the Rich property and from there to Walker street. This was held up because the heirs of the Rich estate, represented by C. Herman Cheney, threatened to sue the town if the grade in front of the home was cut down and if some trees along the roadway were destroyed.

WALKS HELD UP. The Selectmen did not care to involve the town in a costly law suit and withdrew the order to build the walks until some sort of an agreement could be reached with the Rich heirs. However, C. Herman Cheney is steadfast in his objections to the construction of the walks as originally planned by the town. The Green residents have been looking forward to walking through the mud again this winter, and also blame the lack of mail delivery in that section of the Rich estate objection to walks.

OWNERS BEGIN SUIT AGAINST THE UNIONS

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 28.—A legal fight against the International Ladies Garment Makers' Union was started here today by Coral, Inc., makers of wearing apparel, who moved their plant here from New York when the garment makers' strike started early in the year. Judge Samuel Young, in City Court, today issued a temporary injunction restraining the union organization and its local subsidiary No. 127 from interfering in any way with the Coral, Inc., affairs.

TWO MURDER WITNESSES RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

Hartford, Sept. 28.—Carmelo Bongiovanni of New Britain, and Joseph Sanson of Hartford, two men held as witnesses in the murder here of Carmelo Tiralongo of Torrington, by Cesare Barbieri, have been released from jail after their cases were nolleed by Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney. The men had been held on the technical charge of being accessories in the escape of Barbieri after the crime. The state's attorney has not yet announced his decision as to the disposition of the Barbieri case. It is not expected the case will come before the court this week.

GOVERNMENT TRACES $40,000 MORE IN BONDS

Part of $391,000 is Found; German Industrialist Is a Poor Witness; His Memory Fails Him at Times.

New York, Sept. 28.—The government today traced $40,000 in Liberty bonds, part of the $391,000 paid to the late John T. King, by Richard W. Merton, German industrialist, for having a $7,000,000 claim approved by the alien property custodian, from the King account to that of Jesse Smith in Washington.

How Traced. The bonds were traced through the testimony of Edmund Toland, examiner in the department of justice. After he left the stand in Federal Court, United States Attorney Ducker conducting the government's case, announced that he would put no more witnesses on.

Hazy Witness. Merton was a hazy witness this morning. William Rand, counsel for former Alien Property Custodian Miller, questioned Merton concerning the papers he had drawn up for the $7,000,000 claim when he visited and talked with George Williams in the alien property custodian's office in 1921.

When on the stand before Merton said Williams advised him how to draw up the papers, and then suggested changes.

When the stand before Merton said Williams advised him how to draw up the papers, and then suggested changes.

Not Remembered. Merton couldn't remember. "Didn't Williams say to you," Rand pursued, that it did not make any difference to the government whether the Swiss society lost $1,000,000 or $1?"

90 PASSENGERS SAFE; TAKEN FROM LINER

Mexico City, Sept. 28.—All of the ninety passengers and all members of the crew of the Ward Line steamer Mexico which ran aground in Madagascar shoals, near Progresso, have been rescued, dispatches from Progresso today stated. The rescue was effected by the American steamer Rajah, with the Hamburg-American liner, Rio Panuco standing by and co-operating.

STATE REPUBLICANS IN SESSION TODAY

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 28.—The first meeting of the New Haven members of the Republican State Central committee and the upstate Republican committee members, since the announcement of peace between the two factions, is to come this afternoon when the State Central committee meets at the Allyn House to fix dates for the town caucuses for republican candidates for the lower house of the legislature, since the announcement of peace between the two factions, is to come this afternoon when the State Central committee meets at the Allyn House to fix dates for the town caucuses for republican candidates for the lower house of the legislature.

The Charleston has exerted no invidious influence on Scottish dancing. They do the Highland Fling just as they did when the first bagpipe piped and the younger generation finds it just as good exercise as the modern dances anyway.

Insanity, Cold; Starvation Face 43 Entombed Miners

By Howard C. Mayer. Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 28.—Insanity, cold, starvation. These three grim perils stalk side-by-side blazing the way of dead 43 miners entombed in the G. Pabst mine here since Friday at noon.

On the G shaft, the lowest level, a crew of ten men, working on a suspended platform, are relining the opening with steel, concrete and timber.

The rescue party is working 280 feet below the level of the ground and a survey of the black workshop, dimly illuminated by carbide lamps, reveals that if the entombed men are to be saved it will not be through this method of rescue.

GERMANY'S PRESS RAPS M. POINCARE

General View is That Premier Will Be Unable to Wreck Agreement.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—While government officialdom today maintains a calm attitude toward Premier Poincare's outbursts on the subject of Germany's war guilt, the entire German press continues its attack on M. Poincare. The papers accuse him of rejecting a spirit of hatred and bitterness into Franco-German relations; at a moment when Foreign Ministers Briand and Stresemann are trying to lay the foundations for a lasting peace.

The general view is that M. Poincare will be unable to wreck the Franco-German understanding, especially since France will need Germany's support to stabilize French finances.

Other Press Comments. Berliner Lokal Anzeiger: "M. Poincare's blood guilt, concerning the origin of the war is not lessened by his charges against Germany." Herr Stresemann's mouthpiece, Taegliche Rundschau, says: "Poincare has every reason to keep quiet regarding the question of war guilt, since he personally was one of the conspirators who caused the war. But Franco-German conciliation will march onward despite M. Poincare's speeches."

OGDEN MILLS IS NOMINATED BY NEW YORK'S REPUBLICANS TO OPPOSE GOVERNOR SMITH

For Fifth Time Al is Chosen Without a Dissenting Vote; Mayor Walker Nominates Him; Leaders Say It Means Washington Next

Convention Hall, Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Governor Alfred Smith, Iddel L. Mills, the wealthy scion of an old New York family, was nominated by the Republican state convention today to oppose Governor Al Smith, the fifth time Democratic nominee, in November.

Democratic leaders viewed the renomination of the governor as a distinct step toward his winning the presidential nomination in 1928. They predicted the governor's reelection this fall by the greatest vote in the history of the state.

While the delegates met, and women, paraded around the convention hall, shouting cheering and blowing horns, scores of them loudly proclaimed the governor as "our next president" and "one of the greatest Democrats of all time."

Edwin Corning of Albany, chairman of the Democratic state committee, was placed in nomination for lieutenant-governor after the gubernatorial nomination was made. Corning's name was placed before the convention by John B. Curtin of King's. Corning was nominated unanimously by acclamation.

PROBE IS STARTED ON RAILROAD CRASH

Engineer Says Something Was Wrong With Signals; 8 Dead, 40 Hurt.

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 28.—An investigation of the cause and an effort to fix responsibility for the collision of the Scranton flyer of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Lehigh Limited, almost under the shed of the Union station here, in which eight persons were killed and forty injured, was scheduled to open today.

The Jersey Central train ploughed through the Lehigh train at an intersection of the two roads here yesterday, in clear weather, and after the trains had been in full view of each other for some minutes. The Lehigh Valley railroad issued a statement implying that the blame rested with the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Henry Schmidt, engineer of the Scranton flyer, who is in St. Luke's hospital, suffering slight injuries, said: "I think something was wrong with the signals. I threw my brakes and blew my whistle. I was too close and could not stop. If the Lehigh Limited had been moving faster the accident would not have happened."

GOVERNOR DESIGNATES FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Hartford, Sept. 28.—Governor John H. Trumbull today issued a formal proclamation designating Monday, October 11 as "Fire Prevention Day" in Connecticut.

The proclamation is as follows: "It is apparent that the increasing loss by fire of lives and property can only be characterized as a shameful waste, inasmuch as the great majority are attributed to carelessness and are preventable by proper care."

The proclamation lies in sober thought, sound education and intelligent action. I therefore urge that all citizens and particularly school authorities, give attention on that day to the study and teaching of fire prevention. I suggest also that if this sort of suggestion is to be effective the ordinary virtues of care and common sense be emphasized in this connection, not merely as objects of annual veneration but as every day economic necessity."

DRY BEEF FUNDS

Washington, Sept. 28.—Thirteen million dollars will be requested for prohibition enforcement during the fiscal year 1928. It was said at the Treasury today.

HEBRON

In connection with the announcement that the Hebron School Fair will hold its annual exhibit on Friday, October 1st, the special premiums offered to winners on that occasion are of interest.

The Highland Dairy Club also offers fifty dollar prizes, apportioned according to entries.

In addition to these generous offers, the Way family of Gilead again come to the front with prize offers to boys and girls of sixteen years or under who raise the best calves.

This offer was made some time ago and the provision is made that those who compete shall be members of the Hebron Junior Dairy Club.

Eighteen sturdy boys and girls of the town have joined this club and will be eligible for the prizes offered which are as follows: First prize, a registered Ayrshire heifer calf, about two months old, donated by Dr. Cassius Way of White Plains, N. Y., a former resident of Gilead.

The registry transfer papers go with the calf, and the competitor must also exhibit a Plint Corn from one eighth acre. There are second and third prizes of calves given by Mr. Kingsbury and by G. Daniel Way of Gilead.

In addition to this money has been offered by persons interested, for further prizes to the amount of eighty-nine dollars. The fourth prize is of ten dollars, and the sixth is of three dollars, ending with an offer of ten dollars in cash for the best essay on calf work.

The number of prizes is encouraging to the children giving almost everybody a chance. Mrs. Alfred Hutchinson also donates twenty-five dollars to be divided into nine prizes for the girls of the town sixteen years or less of age, for winners in baking, sewing, canning and flowers competition.

Hebron Grange offers a purse of ten dollars to be divided into four prizes of four, three, two, and one dollars respectively, for those boys and girls of nineteen years of age or younger, residents of Hebron, who will own, raise, and exhibit a pen of five pullets and one cockerel of any one of the four breeds—White Leghorns, Barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, or Wyandottes. The American Legion also offers special vegetable prizes of $2.50, $1.00, and $1.00.

The exhibit will be at Hebron Green this year, with town hall and school house open for the display. The livestock will be shown on a nearby lot. Interest in this exhibit has increased from year to year and is looked forward to with special enthusiasm this year, by people of the town and vicinity. Many former residents come back for the fair as to a sort of Old Home Day.

William Ford, of Roxbury, carrying two sample cases of gems accompanied Mr. Haring to a West street retail jewelry store.

Ford told police he placed one case at the door while he went inside with the other, returning immediately for the second. In the brief space of seconds, however, it had disappeared.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS SMITH GIRL'S PLENGE

New York, Sept. 23.—The parents of Dorothy Smith, pretty young model who leaped from the fourth story of an apartment here yesterday were here today in an effort to clear up the mystery surrounding events preceding the girl's dramatic jump.

The girl, who is in a serious condition at the hospital, threw herself from the window, suffering a fractured skull and other injuries. Francis Murphy, 24, who lives in the apartment, and John J. Fitzpatrick, 21, are held without bail on statutory charges.

Miss Smith was with two men in a cabaret, police said, later returning to the apartment. According to her story to the police before she leaped into unconsciousness, she was with two men when three strange men burst into the apartment.

Miss Smith's father is a mill operative of Holden, Mass.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY GIRLS TO KNIT SWEATERS

The Happy-Go-Lucky girls held an enthusiastic meeting at the Manchester Community clubhouse last evening and discussed plans for the winter.

Among other things they decided to abolish dues and to admit to membership any girl in her early teens. When the need for team work arises each girl will be expected to lend a hand.

Mrs. G. H. Washburn who meets with the girls has agreed to instruct them in the art of knitting sweaters. They have chosen to knit in preference to any other handicraft for this season.

Meetings will be held in the conference room every Monday evening from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. Mrs. Washburn and the president of the club, Miss Ruth McMenemy, will be held at this time.

DAILY REVIEW

New York, Sept. 23.—Movements of stock prices today represented little more than the inevitable reaction of speculative leaders which had been "sold to a stand-still" by the bearish professionals in the preceding week or ten days. Even this recovery, slight as it was, was contested every inch of the way by the bearish faction which has been tenaciously clinging to its position and working vigorously for lower prices.

Outstanding strong spots were: General Motors, in the motor group; Brooklyn Union Gas and Consolidated Gas in the utilities; American Smelting, in the metal stocks; Du Pont in the high-priced specialties; and practically all of the motion picture stocks.

The steel and petroleum stocks lacked incentive, though U. S. Steel broke away from the independents after the noon hour and sold up two points to 150 1-2.

American Smelting traced on reports of a possible increase in its cash dividend, Allied Chemical sold off a few points, but made a moderate recovery in the late trading.

My-Products Coke lost about five points, but recovered. Du Pont's nine-point rise to 385 featured the high-priced shares.

NEW STYLE VAMP IN "WANING SEX"

Baby Flapper Vamp Scores
Over Old Fashioned Vampire in Film.

Enter the new type of vamp, the 1926 model. She makes her debut in "The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Norma Shearer, now at the Circle theater. The tall, slinky, green-eyed mammas whose glossy gowns fit them with the fidelity of court plaster and much less distraction, whose languorous, tabasco glances and ravishing smiles led the weakened victims to doom, have been replaced. The flapper vamp is now in style. She may be old but it doesn't show, and instead of dragging her victims in with a hard-boiled "Kiss me, fool," she lures them with baby-talk and extravagant flattery. She is blonde and fluffy and helpless, and all she knows about men is that they should be made comfortable. And, boy, she's deadly!

Mary McAllister, once a favorite child star, is personifying the new model vamp in "The Waning Sex."

"Ask any woman with a husband," says Mary, who hasn't one, "and she will admit that the baby-faced, sweet, shy, frightened little widow, grass or sod, is the most dangerous vamp in the world. The kind who looks into a man's face and says, 'Oh, aren't you big and strong and wonderful.' The old-fashioned vamps always commanded their men. They haven't a chance with the vamps that lead them with flattery and the more subtle wiles."

Conrad Nagel is the hero who eludes the wiles of the new-style vamp, and the cast of the picture includes Norma Shearer, star, and George K. Arthur.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 28, 1926.

VITAL.

Within a comparatively few days there will open, in the state of New Jersey, what is perhaps entirely fair to term the most important American murder trial of the century.

It was highly important that Gerald Chapman should be tried in Connecticut for the New Britain murder—very important indeed. And it was very important indeed that the result of that trial should not be nullified by any sort of legal trick or fiction whatsoever.

Far more important than it would have been had the crime in question been of a sporadic nature, or if it had been a crime of passion. The especial importance of the Chapman trial lay in its test of the power of the police authorities and of the courts of this state to effectually safeguard the people and business of Connecticut against the forces of organized criminalism.

The state won the contest, demonstrated its superiority to the strength of the union of criminalism and criminalism's lawyer protectors. So far so good.

But the New Jersey trial—the Hall-Mills murder case—is possibly of even greater importance to our civilization than was the Chapman case. This is also a test of the strength of society, but in this instance as opposed to the strength of entrenched respectability stubbornly determined to avoid the law against homicide.

In advance of the trial it is impossible of course to have any certain opinion as to the actual blood guilt of all or any of the four persons under indictment. But enough has been brought out to provide positive proof that there has been, in two counties of New Jersey and on the part of a large number of persons of hitherto accepted respectability and influence, a tacit if not an active conspiracy to prevent the perpetrators of a capital crime from being brought to justice, whoever they may be.

Such an alliance, fighting tooth and nail at every step, with the weapons of reticence, of perjury, of suborned lies and obstruction, to nullify the most vital of all human laws, is a more destructive enemy to society than any band of gunmen and fences that ever pulled off a million dollar mail robbery or emptied a lot of half a million dollars' worth of furs. If it shall be successful.

Not in more than a lifetime will respect for the law be normal, not in a life time will men and women be safe from the trigger fingers of persons with grievances, in that state, if this effort to debauch the law machinery of New Jersey prevails. If this forthcoming murder trial fails to wrench the truth out of those who know what happened at the Phillips farm in New Brunswick on that night four years ago, then the state of New Jersey will have taken a long step in decadence.

It is this which makes the Hall-Mills trial of such transcendent importance.

POLAR TRAGEDY.

It is inconceivable that any good could come from halting to trial by the Danish government the two Eskimos who, between them, killed Prof. Ross G. Marvin of Cornell University in 1909 in the trackless waste of polar ice and then invented the story of his drowning.

The circumstantial confession of the killing, many years after the death of Peary's side, carries with it no intimation that the real facts have not been disclosed.

These Greenland Eskimos are not a blood-thirsty lot. There is little of guile in them. Even the simple invention that Marvin had broken through rubber ice and disappeared must have been more or less of a tax on their ingenuity. From all accounts they could not make up the story of Marvin's apparent madness even if disposed to.

And granted that the white man suddenly fly into a violent temper and deliberately prepare to abandon one of his two companions to his fate without food in that vast waste, it certainly is indication if not proof enough that he had gone dangerously insane—for he was the last man to have done such a thing in a normal state. And if these two simple creatures did find themselves at the mercy of a madman it is a serious question whether they did not have a perfect moral right to kill him before giving him opportunity to kill them.

In any event there are no witnesses, no circumstantial evidence, nothing to go on but the free-will confession of one of the pair. It would appear highly improbable that any legal action will be undertaken. The law of the courts can hardly run in high polar latitudes.

PERSHING REFUSES.

General John J. Pershing's refusal to become a candidate for the office of national commander of the American Legion doesn't add to the chances of the legion's projected pilgrimage to France to commemorate the 10th anniversary of this country's entrance into the World War.

Though a legion committee has been working for two years or more on plans for the trip, it remains for the Philadelphia convention to vote on it in October.

Recent indications of French hostility to the United States have been a decided wrench in the machinery.

When General Pershing's name was first suggested for the legion commandership the point was strongly emphasized that, regardless of other Franco-American feelings, Pershing, personally, was as popular on the other side of the water as ever—a fact amply demonstrated during his recent stay in Paris.

The theory was that his leadership of the new peace-time expeditionary force would eliminate all possibility of friction between the French and the visiting Americans.

The prevailing opinion seems to be that, after all, the legion will go. Firstly, the bitterness arising from debt settlement talk has a little subsided.

Secondly, the legion would like the trip and the bulk of the French—who are no more debt-talking politicians than the bulk of Americans—undoubtedly would welcome it.

Thirdly, calling the affair off, after it has been so much discussed, certainly would create a painful international impression.

All the same, General Pershing's acceptance of the legion commandership, with his indorsement of the expedition, would have clinched matters. His refusal leaves the outcome open to question.

NOT USELESS.

A German historian has just presented a new and intimate account of the career of former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany.

His portrait is hardly flattering, even though his treatment of the deposed emperor is sympathetic. He shows how Europe again and again was led to the verge of war because of Wilhelm's passion for playing the "great power" game.

He shows how Wilhelm rejected an alliance with England, a score of years ago, because he wanted to develop a big navy—as a sort of toy, one gathers—and with Germany and Britain allied this would have been impossible.

He shows how the foreign policy of Germany again and again was shaped, not in accordance with the aspirations of its people, but in accord with Wilhelm's own overweening ambitions. It's a book worth reading, in these days when you find so many people wondering if the World War wasn't just a frightfully useless blunder on the part of all concerned.

A blunder it may have been; but not useless. Not entirely so. Whatever may be said, at least the peace of Europe is not now dependent on the whims and caprices of one egotistic, fame-seeking man. At least the world has learned that the "great power" game is dangerous to play at when the lives of millions must be the pawns.

HARMONY.

Fastidious is the well nigh inevitable consequence of overwhelming political strength in one party. It is the price which any political organization must pay for building up an unbeatable volume of power.

The Republican organization has experienced something of this in Connecticut. The Ullman organization in New Haven and the King organization in Fairfield county came into being when the Democratic party began to fade as a real contender for political supremacy.

Now the Ullman faction, on the heels of a local victory which has very nicely saved its face, accepts the best of all possible times to return to the fold of regular organization. The Bridgeport group having considerably earlier come back to the reservation, being convinced that for years it had been making bad medicine and following the wrong leadership.

Both bodies are gracefully and graciously welcomed into the councils of Connecticut regular Republicanism. Their presence, with the absence of any future contention, is a practical guarantee of the party's ability to serve the people of Connecticut even more efficiently than in the past.

THOSE 5-CENT CIGARS.

Tom Marshall's remark about this country lacking a good five-cent cigar may still be true. But there certainly are plenty of them.

Department of Agriculture statisticians report that during July production of cigars selling at five cents or less reached a high record exceeded only by two other months in history. The output was 281,555,115 for the month.

Either five-cent cigars are getting good or a lot of congressional candidates spent some money.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Virginia's resources in the form of national shrines appear to be absolutely inexhaustible.

It makes the most of them, too. They draw tourists. A single shrine's appeal is limited. It has to compete with other shrines. But in Virginia a tourist can keep on traveling for a month, at the rate of at least a shrine a day, and sometimes a whole cluster no more than an hour or two of traveling apart.

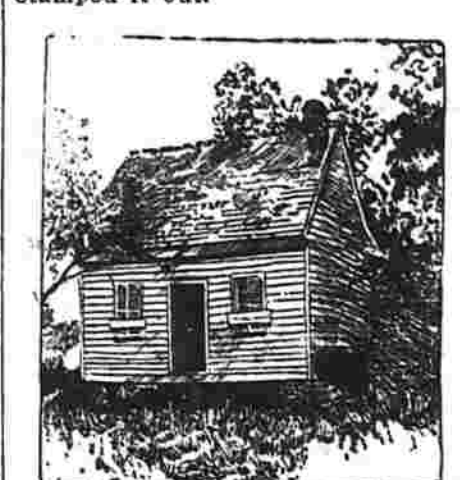

Other states with good shrines don't develop them as they should. Virginia cultivates them for all they're worth—which is a great, great deal.

The Walter Reed Memorial Association is about to contribute a new one—the house in which Dr. Walter Reed, conqueror of yellow fever, was born. In Gloucester county; Sept. 13, 1851.

Well, Dr. Reed has a shrine coming to him, if medical men ever did.

By proving that mosquitoes were responsible for the spreading of the dreaded yellow jack, he not only saved countless thousands of lives, but reclaimed for settlement vast areas which had been practically uninhabitable, because of the disease.

The Panama Canal probably never could have been finished, such were the fever's ravages among the workers, until he stamped it out.

Where Dr. Walter Reed was born.

The old Reed homestead has been abandoned for years.

The Memorial Association has obtained an option on it and will take it over shortly, restore it and fill it with mementoes of one of the greatest surgeons who ever lived.

Other shrines are all about it—Yorktown, where Cornwallis surrendered; Jamestown, where the first permanent English settlement in America was established; Williamsburg, the old colonial capital of the state.

Virginia overlooks no bets in the matter of shrines.

When Dry Czar Andrews made his compact with England, for help in the suppression of rum-running to the United States, there was considerable criticism, to the effect that this country must be pretty hard up if it has to appeal to the British for aid in enforcing its own laws.

It appears that this fault can't be found with the bargain Andrews expects to make soon with Canada. That is to say, while it's true that the United States is appealing for aid to Canada, so is Canada appealing for aid to the United States.

While "hicker" is pouring from the wet parts of Canada into the United States, American moonshine is pouring from the United States into Canada's dry provinces. Canada is as anxious to dam this moonshine as Andrews is to dry up America's Canadian source of supply.

It's to be a reciprocal arrangement, Andrews says. It is whispered around the White House that President Coolidge's secret service escort is back from the Adirondacks a good bit tired out.

It must be remembered that the president isn't permitted to go even hiking or fishing without this retinue of attendants tagging along. Now, without being an athlete, the present chief executive can stand a deal of wear and tear and they do say he led his guards, in the country, some pretty rough trails.

They're husky chaps, but sitting around the White House—for the president gets little exercise when in Washington—is a sedentary job and maybe they weren't very "fit" when they journeyed into the north. The president is of the wily type that would stay in condition on a diet of die.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 28.—What has become of the hefted, belligerent male of yesterday?

Time was when the tattoo parlors of the Manhattan waterfront bel displayed signs reading "Black Eyes Painted—50 Cents." Time was when there was scarce a barber shop on the Bowery and the East Side, but displayed such a card.

Strolling about the other day I found these cards missing from the shop of the most famous of waterfront black-eye painters.

"How come?" I inquired. "What's the use? No business any more. I don't know whether these birds are proud of having black eyes or whether there ain't any more fights. I give it up. They was always a sailor comin' in. He hated to show his gang that someone give him a sock in the eye. Just don't get 'em any more. Sailors seem a quiet lot nowadays. Aw, the whole bunch is goin' soft."

On the other hand a new industry has sprung up in connection with the Alpine "sun ray" manipulators. It has been linked, without any intent upon the part of the ray doctors, with the sinister drug traffic.

Everyone knows, or has heard, of the drug addict's pallor. For years it has been a brand easily recognized by the sleuths. It has been thought ineradicable. But Broadway "sun ray" parlors produce a tan within a few moments, and I am told that addicts far and near have been rushing to adopt this disguise.

"COUNTRY STORE" AT STATE TOMORROW NIGHT

"Mantrap" Shown for Last Two Times Tonight; "Surprise Night" With Country Store.

Tomorrow evening there will be the weekly "Country Store Nite." The usually large number of presents will be given away. It will also be a "surprise night." The State theater management has several surprises in store for those who attend. All who attended last week's country store will remember the surprises there were in addition to the regular offerings. Of course, there will be lots of fun and plenty of laughs. "Country Store Nite" is getting bigger and better each week. This week it will be best yet. You should not miss it.

In addition to the country store there will be presented a double feature picture program. One feature will be a UFA production, "The Waltz Dream." UFA has recently sent two pictures to our shores, and this one, "The Waltz Dream," has upheld the standards which UFA had previously set for better pictures.

"The Waltz Dream" is another merrier "Merry Widow" to delight you. The seductive strains of the Viennese waltz runs through the film like wine. Romance lives in this picture of Vienna at its merriest. A cold princess, a dashing young officer forced to marry her—a gay Viennese beauty who helped him to forget. Passion! Color! A climax to surprise you—a perfect picture delight!

The other picture will be a thrilling story of the shining rails—"The Phantom Express." It is described as a railroad drama with a new twist. It has one of the most thrilling wrecks and rescues ever screened. In addition to the many thrills, it has an appealing love drama.

Featured in the cast are Ethel Shannon, David Butler and little Frankie Darrow.

For the last times tonight the State presents "Mantrap," a different love story of the great North Woods. When you see this picture you will be convinced that all the vamps are not in the big cities. Neither are all the flappers. Clara Bow shows that both are more dangerous in a lonely country where they can appeal to the sympathies of lonesome men.

"Mantrap" has been proclaimed the most unusual love drama ever filmed. It is a story of the love of two men for a woman. Adapted from Sinclair Lewis' latest novel, it is a startling story of love in a different way. Do not miss seeing this picture.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the State will present five acts of select vaudeville and a feature picture, "Aloma of the South Seas" featuring Gilda Gray. All the vaudeville acts are guaranteed by the management to be a New 1 quality. The bills for the past two weeks will bear out that statement.

"Aloma of the South Seas" is a beautiful picturization of the South Sea Islands where the original form of paradise still holds sway. It's a fiery romance of big, silver tropical moons beneath which flourishes a powerful love story in which a native dancing girl vies with a wo-

On The Spot — By Telephone

TOLL telephone charge stands for much besides money value. It represents also the factors of speed, personal contact, and the distant handshake, offered by toll telephone service.

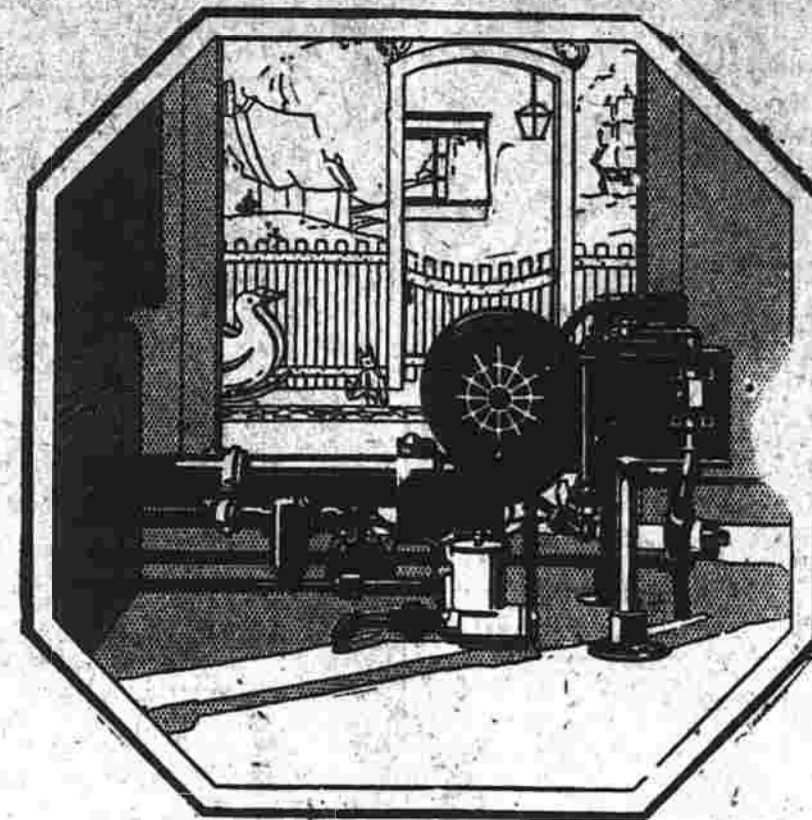

The Cudahy Packing Company does not overlook these facts. Mr. J. H. Boyle, Bridgeport manager, writes: "Toll telephone service has now become an essential part of our business and is the arm by which we welcome our distant friends who cannot take advantage of our personal administration."

Have you tried being "on the spot" through toll telephone service?

Let our Local Exchange Manager show you the way to be on the spot by explaining the various classes of toll telephone service and recommending those best adapted to your special needs.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

The regular September meeting of the Post was held last evening at 8 o'clock at the School Street Recreation Center. Many items of business were discussed including the purchasing of furniture for the Veterans' room at the Army. A committee from the Post is working with the committee from the Spanish-American War Veterans and it is hoped that furniture can be purchased very soon and the room put into shape for use.

Comrade Howe who is still at the Hartford hospital was reported as much improved. Edward B. Harrington was regularly initiated a member of the Post.

The following committee was appointed to take charge of the Armistice celebration and the Armistice dance: Walter Sheridan, chairman; Herman Boroski, V.ctor Bronkie, Edward Harrington, Wesley Shields, David Heasley, Clifford Cheney, James Harrison, James Irvine.

Comrade Carl Hansen was elected chairman of a committee to organize a bowling team which will enter the Legion County tournament.

The following committee was elected to confer with the proper authorities for the placing of the Gorman field piece which is at the present time at the Army. It is hoped that with assistance of the improvement committee of Manchester that the field piece will be finally located on the green at Manchester opposite the depot. Committee: William Newman, chairman; William Thornton, David Heasley.

Members of the Post who are planning to attend the Philadelphia conference should report immediately to Walter Sheridan so that reservations may be made.

Comrade Maidment was instructed to appoint a committee which will make recommendations of officers to be elected for the coming year.

Comrade Clifford Cheney was called upon for a few remarks regarding his fishing trip this past summer at York Harbor, Maine. Comrade Cheney told a most interesting tale of the catching of the 600 pound tuna fish and of the many exciting experiences before the monster was finally landed. Doubtless Comrade Cheney and his friends were the pride of Maine during his stay at York Harbor.

Sketches by Redner, Synopsis by Braucher

The British pressed forward rapidly. Marion, alone, spurred his powerful mount to its utmost but the pursuers hung on.

Capture seemed certain when the Swamp Fox came to a fence seven feet high, with the British just behind.

The fence was a tremendous hazard, but Marion took the dare. Spurring his horse forward he made, straight for it. The powerful animal seemed to soar in the air as it cleared the fence and landed safely beyond the ditch beside it. Francis Marion was never captured. (NEXT: Stephen Decatur.)

TWO WINNING TEAMS

Winners in the horseshoe tournament for the town championship conducted at the West Side at summer are two teams, Leggett-Lamprecht and Nelson-Feeney, the standings today disclose. Each of these teams won 39 games and lost six while their nearest competitors were McIntyre and Thompson with 36 and 9 and Furphy and Fogarty with 35-10.

Just when the championship will be decided is not yet known for it has been deemed inadvisable to continue the tournament out of doors. If a suitable throwing court can be constructed indoors in either of the Recreation buildings, the championship will be played off there. Director Chaney is now looking up the indoor court construction and rules.

George Uhle Leading Twirler
In Major Leagues This Season

Next to Uhle Is Pennock;
Kremer and Rhem Well
Up; Old Timers Slipping.

Uhle Gets Palm

George Uhle, big right-handed hurler of the Cleveland Indians, is just about a sure bet to lead the major league gunners in victories this year.
Up to the final week of play, Uhle had 25 triumphs to his credit against but 10 defeats. His twenty-fifth win was a nifty fourth-inning defeat of the pace-setting Yankees. It put the Indians within two and a half tilts of first place at the time.
Nothing can keep Uhle from experiencing his best year since coming into the main tent in 1919. Uhle's greatest campaign previous to the present one was put over in 1923. That year George won 26 frays, losing 16. The season before that his record read 22 wins against 16 defeats.
This year the mainstay of the Indians should turn in 26 triumphs, at least, possibly 27, eight of which is sure to place him at the top of the heap.

Uhle

Pennock of Yanks

Next to Uhle comes Herb Pennock of the Yanks. Pennock has carried much of the pitching burden of the Huggins outlay this season. A trail, thin fellow, direct contrast to Uhle in physical makeup, Pennock has won 21 games, while losing 11. It's Pennock's best season since 1924 when he won 21 and dropped 9. The year previous to that he had an even better average, winning 19 and losing 6.
The National League's outstanding hurler is Ray Kremer of the fast-slipping Pirates. Kremer has won 20 games to date, while dropping but 5. This is Ray's third season in the majors, during which time he has hung up an enviable record.
In 1924, his debut campaign, Kremer copped 18 tilts against 10

WTIC WILL BROADCAST
WORLD SERIES GAMES

Station WTIC will broadcast the world series baseball games, according to an announcement made last night by C. W. Beynum of the Travelers Insurance Company after completed arrangements were announced by WEA. The Hartford station will be hooked up with a chain broadcasting through station WEA, New York.
The first game of the series will be held Saturday, October 2, in New York. The second game will also be played in New York Sunday and then the teams will journey to St. Louis for the next three games, starting there Tuesday. Monday will be traveling day. The reverses. Last year he won 17, while losing 8. Thus over a three-year stretch his mound efforts read: 55 victories and 23 defeats. A mighty fine record for a third-year tot.

Rhem and Meadows
Plint Rheme of the Cardinals and Lee Meadows, Pirates have done exceptionally well this season, too. Each should reach the 20-game mark in victories before the chase closes.
Rhem has been one of the big reasons why the Cards are in the thick of the National League gonfalon gallop while Meadows, along with Kremer, has done considerable to keep the Me-Keechie forces from falling out of the first section of a sickening thud.
Rhem, like Kremer, is but a youngster, this being his second season in fast company. Away to a good start a year ago, Rhem fell down about the middle of the race and was of but little use to his team.
This year, however, he's been going like a house ablaze all season and now rates one of the premier gunners in the majors. With another year's experience behind him, Rhem should hang up an even more formidable record in 1927.
Old Stars Fade
This has been a rather disastrous campaign for fellows like Walter Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie, Dazzy Vance and Eddie Rommel. Each reached the 20-game mark in victories last year. None will make this time, however.
Johnson has been finding it a tough matter to stay above .500 while Rommel and Vance have shown little, or less, all season. Coveleskie, after a poor setback, has been doing better, especially during the last few weeks, but the Pole will not come anywhere near his startling performance of 20 wins and 5 defeats, established a year ago.
Speaking of 20-game winners, there won't be a great many in this year's campaign. Outside of Uhle, Pennock and Kremer, who have already arrived, Rhem and Meadows and Mays and Shocker stand the best chance of getting in the elite class.
New York games will start at 2:30 p. m. and the broadcasting will probably start at 2 o'clock. The St. Louis games will be heard here an hour later due to the difference in time. The baseball broadcasting will finish in time for the regular WTIC programs it is expected.

Local Sport Chatter

The S. M. H. S. grid squad ended its heavy practice in preparation for the opening game yesterday afternoon with a lengthy scrimmage between the varsity and the scrubs.

Coach Tom Kelley said last night there will be no more scrimmages for the high school squad. The remainder of the week will be devoted to signal work and the rehearsal of plays which will be used against the Whaling City.

Asked what sort of play the S. M. H. S. eleven will attempt Saturday, Coach Kelley said that it is more or less according to how the game develops.

Joe McCann, former Pirate A. C. star, will be back for the high school when the game starts Saturday. McCann will also do the bulk of the punting.

Interest in the sport of horseshoe pitching has rapidly ascended of late in Manchester until it has reached a peak never gained before.

Over the West Side where a tournament is in progress, competition is keen. At present Charlie Feeney and Sam Nelson are tied with Bill Leggett and "Punk" Lamprecht for the leadership and a play-off will have to be made.

But Feeney is far from worrying over the outcome of the play-off match with Leggett and Lamprecht. He pointed out the fact that on the last meeting between the two teams Nelson and he had been victorious by one-sided scores.

The echo of the special match between Lange and Renn and Nelson and Feeney has far from died away judging from the comment heard on the streets last night. It was the unanimous opinion that the match was one of the most keenly contested ever seen here.

The writer of this column met Feeney on the street last night and was informed that he (the writer) had been made the defendant in a horseshoe pitching challenge hurled via of the Hartford Courant this morning.

We must beg to be excused from the path of this arrow-bearing challenge. Not that we are afraid of receiving a coat of kalmalein, but just as a matter of dignity. It would be neither good horse-sense or horseshoe-pitching sense for us to accept the def—because we have long since stepped into retirement.

The writer, however, gets some consolation out of the fact that Feeney's special train bearing the challenge also included a similar note of warning to Henry Lange.

AMERICAN LEAGUE VICTORIOUS OVER NATIONAL 13 TO 9

Younger Circuit Leads in World Series Wins; First Series Was in 1903.

New York.—The American and National League pennant winners have met 12 times in world series combat. The American has 13 victories to its credit against nine for the National.

The first playoff was staged in 1903. The Boston Red Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates clashed that year. The Sox won, five games to three, taking the last four to come out on top. It was one of the greatest uphill fights the classic has ever witnessed.

There was no series held in 1904 but in the following year the Giants and Athletics went to the mat. The Giants won, taking four of the five frays. This was a most unusual classic in that every game the losing team was blanked.

In 1907 and 1908 the Cubs came back to easily whip the Detroit Tigers. The Cubs won the first year by taking four of five games, the opening brush ending in a tie. The second fall Detroit busted through with a lone triumph in the five embroils.

In 1909 Pittsburgh and Detroit staged their memorable series, the Pirates grabbing the honors four games to three, winning the decisive combat, 8-0. This was the series in which Babe Adams broke into immortal fame by turning in three victories.

The 1910 playoff was a walk-away for the Athletics. Mack's boys tripped the Cubs four games to one, despite the pre-series dope the Cubs would knock the Quakers.

In 1912 the Red Sox and Giants clashed. The series went eight games. Boston won four to New York's three, the other resulting in a tie. The Giants sought to atone for their failure that fall by beating the Athletics in 1913.

In 1914 the Boston Braves threw a wrench in the Mackian machinery and set the baseball world to gossiping by downing the Athletics four straight times. (They're still talking about that sensational success in Beantown today.)

The 1915 playoff was a cinch for the Red Sox against the Phillies. The Phillies could garner but one brush in five. The next fall the Red Sox came back to trim Brooklyn by the same count.

In 1917 the White Sox took another fall out of the oft-defeated Giants, four tilts to two, and in 1918 the Red Sox came through again to crush the Cubs four to two.

The so-called "scandal series" of 1919 went to the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds whipped the White Sox five games to three, the series having been extended to best five out of nine that fall.

In 1920 Cleveland slammed its way to the first world tilt in Forest City history since the club entered the American League. The Brooklyn Dodgers were the victims, five games to two.

Then in 1921 the famous Yankee-Giant argument started. The Giants won the first two years, taking five out of the eight games in 1921 and four victories to none in 1922 (the second game of this playoff terminated in that famous 3-3 tie). In 1923, however, the Yankees finally came to, beating their old rivals, four to two.

Billy Evans Says

The Darling Athlete. Few men have achieved success in any line of sport who were not willing to gamble with fate and had the courage of their convictions.

It is those who are willing to dare who ultimately reach great heights. The conservatives get only so far and then stop.

When Walter Hagen was quoted as explaining the failure of the English at golf by saying that they were "too gosh-darned lazy," he was severely taken to task by many sports and editorial writers.

It is very doubtful if Hagen used the expression "too gosh-darned lazy," for that isn't his style of speaking.

No doubt that was the English writer's idea of typical American slang to convey Hagen's real thought that the British didn't work hard enough at golf, failed to take it seriously.

While Hagen's criticism of British golfers may not have been rehearsed at the time, he showed he had the courage of his convictions in explaining the failure of England to uphold its golf prestige.

Hagen also expressed the opinion that most English players were prone to safety-first tactics rather than take-a-chance methods.

Prescribed Proper Dope. For a time nothing but criticism came Hagen's way, not only from England but his own country as well.

Now that the original sting of his remarks was worn off, the belief is gaining ground that Hagen uttered a large mouthful of wisdom when he said the British were "too gosh-darned lazy."

No doubt the remedies that Hagen offered for the failure of the British to win hurt, but after all it seems the potion he prescribed was the proper dope.

In defense of Hagen comes so great a golfer as Roger Wethered, one of England's best, who says: "Hagen is right in his belief. British golfers need the will to win as well as the way to win. We do not practice as do the Americans. We work 10 or 15 minutes to remedy an apparent fault that the Americans will keep after for hours."

"The Americans keep on nagging me about how tough things are breaking for them. We are rather content to offer excuses for our poor scores. Allis is merely another sign of weakness."

So it is beginning to look as if Walter Hagen was just as good a golf critic as he is a player.

Of Gambler Type. One outstanding reason for Hagen's success as a golfer, aside from his great ability, is the fact that he is a gambler. No shot is too difficult for him to attempt.

If a three will win for him but by playing safe he can tie with a four, Hagen invariably shoots for the three, although in taking such a chance he lays himself open to a five or six.

One day while watching Hagen in action, I noticed that when he failed to hole out he usually over-ran the cup. When I spoke to him about it, he sharply replied: "There is no chance of sinking a putt unless you at least reach the cup. Which explains Hagen's theories of golf, a willingness to take every reasonable gamble to attain results."

McGraw Is Another. I am inclined to favor Hagen's theories in all lines of sports.

John McGraw has been a famous figure in baseball because of his ability to turn out pennant winning ball clubs. McGraw is decidedly the gambler type.

Illini Football Veterans Feel Loss Of Grange in Stiff Schedule Ahead

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Without the services of the great Grange but with more than a dozen veterans on hand, Robert C. Zuppke, famed football coach of the University of Illinois, faces one of the stiffest schedules in Illini history.

The schedule includes eight games and in the list are teams rated to be the toughest in the Big Ten conference.

Michigan, Chicago, Iowa and Ohio, conference battlers, Pennsylvania, one of the leading Eastern eleven, defeated last year by Illinois, and Coe, Butler and Washburn, foremost among middle western smaller schools, will be the Illini opponents this season.

Coe, the only team on this year's list which did not play the Zuppke team last year, will open the season at Urbana, October 2. The following Saturday Butler will invade the Illini stadium.

Northwestern's Football Prospects Called Bright; 100 Candidates Report

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Prospects for Northwestern's Purple football squad are rosy-tinged this fall. A squad of more than 100 candidates was expected to report for the opening practice September 15 and the men will include thirteen veterans, headed by Captain Baker.

Other last year heroes, who will be back, include Frank Schumacher and Paul Griffith, halfbacks; Earl Bovik and Waldo Fisher, ends; Ralph Johnson and Rudolph Schuler, tackles; "Zieg" Solheim, quarter; Otto Siebenmann, Alvin Schuler, Herman Cohen and Gordon Rahr, guards.

Stutesville was an Oklahoma Aggie Star last season and Russness formerly played with the University of North Dakota.

Northwestern's expected weak spot this season will be at center and the problem of the coaches will be to develop a successor of Lowry, all-conference center last year and now a member of the coaching staff.

INDIANS WIN 2D; PHILLIES VICTORS

INDIANS 5, ATHLETICS 4. Cleveland, Sept. 28.—Cleveland clinched second place by nosing out the Athletics in the ninth, five to four. George Burns got his 64th double of the season and drove in all of Cleveland's runs, while George Uble chalked up his 27th victory.

RIVAL WORLD SERIES MENTORS ONCE WERE MASTER AND PUPIL

New York, Sept. 28.—Everything goes wrong at dress rehearsals they say, but this one today should click with commendable regularity. First off, it will feature the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, two interesting ball clubs in their first post-season workout in preparation for the impending World Series but one of the secondary angles of the situation may prove the more interesting, at that.

I refer to the fact that the contending clubs happen to be managed respectively by Miller Huggins and Rogers Hornsby. Seemingly, it hasn't occurred to anyone that managerial workmanship will be neatly and quickly done, with an utter lack of responsibility for goods left over thirty days, by a man who once was master and another once his pupil.

Rogers Hornsby was just a kid reeve when he reported to the Cardinals in 1915 and Miller Huggins was the aloof manager, honored and respected if not altogether loved for himself alone. Today, Hornsby has become the greatest man on the far bank of the Mississippi while Mr. Huggins, meantime, was permitted to go hence without apparent regret to seek his fortune in the great city.

Before he departed, however, he turned his attention to Hornsby and, in a moment of weakness, changed the young man's batting stance and made of him what possibly is the greatest right hand hitter of all the ages.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 28.—One of the most versatile backfield combinations in Michigan football history is at the disposal of Coach Fielding H. Yost this year.

Punters, passers, line plungers, broken field runners, off-tackle line smashers, drop-kickers, place-kickers, players who excel in one or several of these arts are included in the host of backfield candidates.

At least one good kicker in the backfield with one or more among the linemen in reserve has been the policy of Coach Yost since he first inaugurated his system of coaching back in 1900. In accordance with this Yost will have three veteran kickers to choose from when composing his backfield: Bennie Friedman, Jim Muller and Louie Gilbert. In addition to these, Frank Harrigan, the Grand Rapids basketball flash; George Rich, Lakewood, O.; Paul Cook, Muskegon; Harold Greenwald, Chicago; and Dudley Black, Poland, O. are all past masters at the punting game and will be available for instant use if necessary.

Forward passers are again bountiful in the roster of Michigan backs this season. Capt. Friedman, will, of course, bear the burden of Michigan's passing attack this season, unless something unforeseen interferes, while assisting him at the work will be George Rich, Bill Puckelwartz, Chicago; Louie Gilbert, Kalamazoo; Frank Harrington, Henry Totzke, Benton Harbor and Austin Hughes, Gary, Ind. Never before has such an array of Michigan pigskin tossers been assembled at once on Ferry Field and Michigan supporters will place much faith in the ability of these men to aid in the Wolverine scoring attack.

In Molenla, Friedman, Cook, Rich, Stewart, Weber, Babcock, and Miller, Michigan has as sweet a running combination as any school in the big ten. "Big Bo" Molenla, the Detroit line smasher is all set for another season of line cracking and fans won't soon forget what he did to Navy, Ohio State and Minnesota last year. Not far behind him is Walter Weber, the Mt. Clemens line smasher who replaced Molenla in several games last year.

"Just what are you and George going to do today?" asked Cherry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIV

DURING the week that followed, Faith Lane wondered rather uneasily, yet not quite unhappily, if she had indeed, as Cherry had said, "cast a spell" over George Pruitt.

lap supper of fruit salad, cheese, strawberries, and cream—"I do it seven days a week, Cherry. It's not going to hurt you this once, and you'll help, won't you, honey?"

At breakfast on Sunday, just ten days after George Pruitt had first come to call, Faith was serving buckwheat cakes to the entire family.

"Shut up! You're just jealous because you weren't invited!" Cherry snapped.

Mrs. Lane was vast and unconcerned in a thin, faded percale bonnet and apron, and Mr. Lane, in white cotton undershirt, his suspenders hanging in great loops about his bony hips, was reading the real estate section.

"And listen to this, Smarty," Junior flung the sports section to the floor. "It wasn't for Faith, you'd not have a look-in at the Pruitts, and you know it darn well!"

"Here, listen to this, Mother," he said. "New Building Plans—that's the headline—Robert Lee Hathaway, rising young architect, has taken out building permits for two model bungalows in the new Englewood addition. His own plans are to be used in building these charming homes, one of which is pictured on this page, and contract has been let to Builder James G. Lane, of 3518 Myrtle Street. Work is to begin immediately. These are only two of many projected new homes in this popular subdivision, just opened to the public." Builder James G. Lane! Now, what do you think of that, Mother?"

"I don't order your Tuxedo—yet," she said calmly. "Pass me the butter, Dad, please. Everybody had to get it."

"I just hope you ain't made any mistake on your fingers," Mrs. Lane sighed.

"Oh, listen to this!" Cherry cried. "Lanes all over the paper this morning! "I haven't neglected the household, Mr. Lane," Faith answered gently. "I've got the dinner on in the fireless cooker and Cherry can dish it up when Dad and Joy get back from church. You haven't a date until this afternoon, have you, Cherry?"

"You know I haven't," Cherry answered sulkily. "Bob's coming over at four, and we're going to drive over to Marlboro for supper. But I think it's mean of you to make an all-day Sunday date, and leave me to fix dinner and wash up a whole

Gloves to Match With the leopard skin coat, gloves with leopard skin cuffs are considered smart.

HOLD DISHES LOW A waitress should be instructed always in passing dishes to hold them low enough so that the guests may help themselves without difficulty.

SPOIL EASILY Keep cereals in a covered glass jar, in a cool, dry place, as they spoil very easily.

GIVES VARIETY You can vary the monotony of poached eggs by serving a mushroom sauce over them.

Good Nature and Good Health

"Alice in Wonderland," is still alive, and even the Cheshire cat, a real cat that split and meowed in everything, has not been dead long. I saw the very spot this summer where Alice went down the rabbit hole. We stood in the library of Christ College, Oxford, when the custodian dramatically pulled a shade, pointing to a green court and a little brick house, he said, "there's where Alice in Wonderland lived. Alice was Alice Liddle, daughter of Dean Liddle of Christ Church, Lewis Carroll, a teacher of mathematics in the college, was a great admirer of little Alice and her cat, and wrote the story about them, quite an exact copy of the now a married woman living near London."

For a moment there was an awkward tension, and then I said, "Come on, I'm hungry, I just remember that I haven't had any luncheon today. Whether I am more like an angel or a chicken may be discussed and disputed, but there can be only one thing about my healthy appetite, and it's making a noise just now like a tiger which must be appeased."

INOCULATION OF SUSCEPTIBLE HELPS CHECK DIPHTHERIA This is the second of a series of five articles on diphtheria, tomorrow: Avoidance.

as determined by the Schick test, are given the toxin-antitoxin injections. When the diphtheria antitoxin alone is injected, the immunity to the disease lasts only three or four weeks. The immunity following the toxin-antitoxin injections is likely to last for a considerable period.

They picked America's most beautiful girl at Atlantic City not long ago. At least they say they did. But does anyone really believe them? Not at all. The real case of "many a rose is left to blush unseen and waste its fragrance on the desert air."

When we arrived at the Beaux Arts Restaurant I found much to my surprise that Mamie was waiting for Jerry.

Children or older persons found susceptible to infection might then be injected with a mixture of the diphtheria toxin or poison and the antitoxin, which neutralized the poison, and thus develop protection against the disease without developing hypersensitiveness or without any serious symptoms.

There is not the slightest evidence to indicate that death has ever occurred from toxin-antitoxin properly prepared. The hazard is no greater than occurs with any medical method involving the preparation of potent principles. The fact that these preparations actually secure results is an indication of their virtues. In New York City more than a million injections of toxin-antitoxin have been given, and there have been no serious effects of any kind. The health department records show a decrease in diphtheria amounting to at least 5000 cases a year, since this method was introduced.

Poor France! "The limited diet" has been ordered! She shall have only two-course meals, hath said M. Poincare. But he adds that he means real courses. That does not include soup, hors d'oeuvres, vegetables, salads, desserts. It means that the diner can have only fish and steak or a cutlet, or the cutlet and a roast or fowl, but not fish, steak and roast. And no doubt they feel terribly aggrieved.

At eleven o'clock, Faith had finished her household work, had made the salad and dessert, leaving them to chill in the ice box, and had dressed her hair hastily in her year-old white tulle and fresh, freshly cleaned and altered and touched up with new collar and cuffs of hand-embroidered white silk.

Gentlemen do prefer blondes, and Anita Loos, author of that interesting tome on the danger of too much pigment, continues to insist that they do. She admits, however, that the preference may be given to the blonde personality as well as to the maiden with spun-golden hair, blue eyes and cheeks of damask roses. Now, you guess just what is a blonde personality? Being a brunet, I'm cattily enough to opine that it's something I'm glad to be without.

Speaking of Anita, who probably uses emerald and ruby-trimmed bath tubs since she wrote her tale of Lorelei in a day or so on a train, someone arises to speak of lady novelists, and says, "By a lady novelist, I mean most men novelists. They are forever solving problems."

Women other than novelists will solve problems. And sometimes, gazing upon our flourishing crop of neurotics and neurosisticians, one is inclined to favor the male policy of "taking life easy and letting the world get along somehow." Observe male and female clubs. Males eat and play chess in theirs. Women meet together to consider ways and means of improving the estate of the indigent Phoenicians.

Never a Marcel Wave By Edna Wallace Hopper My hair is ever-curly, with never a Marcel wave. And it always has a glow. The reason lies in a hair dress made exclusively for me. It was perfected for me by great experts when I had my long hair bobbed. Now all toilet counters supply it under the name Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 50c. I cannot conceive of a girl or woman going without it when she knows. No one who sees my hair will do so. Nothing else I have ever found makes hair so lustrous, so wavy, so fluffy, so abundant. My guarantee is enclosed with every bottle, so its cost to you is nothing. It doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.

High schools and colleges depend not a little upon their athletic prowess for reputation. The high school student or college student who makes a team feels the responsibility of all the tribunes on his shoulders. The first thing he does is to start in training. He not only punches and runs and tackles and spars but he sleeps, diets, does without tobacco and condiments and altogether gets into a physical condition that might well gladden his parents hearts. That is, if he is training under trainers who understand their business, and specialize in man-making. Training is a science—the most expert preparation is going to drive the part of a trainer. The weighing, the physical examinations, the dietetic work connected with it, outside of the actual muscle manipulation, all play an important part. Trainers must, and do as a usual thing, know their business. But high schools and smaller schools, although they may have excellent coaches, do not always have trainers to put boys into physical trim for their athletic sports, and the boys undertake it themselves. At this age boys are doing most of their growing. They grow fastest between the ages of fifteen and seventeen. Girls spread their growing over a greater space of years and begin to shoot up earlier. Boys' muscles are unseasoned, and often too short for their fast lengthening bones. They need sleep,

Sour Stomach "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gas stomach, and relief will come instantly. For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips". Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U.S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

It is hard to figure a woman. The wife who abuses her husband most in private brags about him most in public. The man at the top is usually some one who has been in the habit of going to the bottom of things. "A woman, is a person who spends two years making up her mind to have her hair bobbed and the rest of her life wishing she hadn't. Sheik: "My father is so wealthy that he lights his cigars with ten dollar bills." Flapper: "That's nothing. Everybody in my family bathes in Gold Dust." A sausage maker recently discovered the missing link. The cat had it. "Get way from me you two-faced thing," said the Edison disc to the Victor Record. Professor—I take pleasure in giving you 81 in mathematics. Student—Make it 100, sir, and thoroughly enjoy yourself. De Example Set. No one's makin' speeches 'Cep' de honey bes. De principles he teaches Sounds right sensible to me. He says: "Keep lookin' foh de sweets Dat's growin' everywhere; An' of some no-count weeds you mees? Pass on an' don't you care." As he comes a-bringin' De goods 'um 'roun' de farm, He says: "A little singin' Ain' gwinter do no harm." I tells you lots of us would get Mo' joy 'um life if we kep' follerin' de example set By Mistah Honey Bee. "Holding husbands not easy," says a writer. Of course, it isn't. And it's harder still to bounce them up and down on your knee. A crank may be a genius who hasn't quite arrived. Most of the "new" ideas are just old ones dug up from mankind's dump heap. She: "While your asking papa for my hand I'd play something lively on the piano." He: "I'd rather you didn't dearest. You know some people can't keep their feet still when they hear lively music." The honeymoon is over if he no longer gives a darn what his wife thinks of Valentino. Dear Old Lady: "How do you like school, my little man?" The Little Man: "I like it closed, lady." Marriage was once a major operation; now it is just a minor one. Many a girl has introduced her sugar daddy to her mother—and found herself a step-father away from the bank roll.

It was his second offense.

URGES AVIATION FIELD FOR TOWN Chamber of Commerce Should Move to Get One Here.

A prominent local business man today made the prophecy that within less than five years, aviation fields will be located in every town and city of importance in the state. In his opinion, the public little realizes the short time before airplane service, both passenger and mail, will be established throughout Connecticut.

It is his candid belief that now is the time for Manchester to awake to the thought of establishing a landing field here in Manchester. The matter is referred to the Chamber of Commerce by the speaker as the proper organization to consider the affair. Airplanes are being used for commercial purposes now in practically all the principal cities in the country.

Manchester has several places which might be drafted into use for landing field. The golf links on South Main street and the old links at the Center are suggested.

ACCOUNTANCY COURSE FOR EVENING SCHOOL

The public evening schools in Manchester will offer a new course in the curriculum this year, that of accountancy. Last year this course was started but previously, it had not been included in the list of studies. This study will be taught by Francis Lee, a certified public accountant and an experienced teacher at the local High school. Night school opens next Monday night. Registrations are being made now.

The accountancy course will be open to adults who have sufficient knowledge in the principles of bookkeeping to continue with the more advanced study. An opportunity will be given during the early stage of the course to review the principles of bookkeeping.

Classes in accountancy will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings in Room 25 in the High school building. Sessions will start on Monday night.

Courses in bookkeeping will be taught under another instructor for those who are not yet prepared for accounting work.

The course in accountancy will embrace the theory and practice of single and double entry bookkeeping, profits, statements, analysis of statements, partnerships, corporations, controlling accounts, factory ledger, private ledger, installment sales, agency, consignments, venture accounts, correction of books and statements, insolvency, realization and liquidation, application of funds, statements accounting for variation in net profit, inventories, notes and acceptances receivable, accounts receivable, average data, cash, review of mathematics of accounting and cost problems on textiles.

Students who wish to register for subjects at evening school can do so by meeting Principal A. N. Potter tomorrow night.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR'S DAUGHTER IS MARRIED

An account has reached the Herald of the wedding, Saturday, September 4 of Miss Clara County Taylor, daughter of Rev. William F. Taylor, formerly a pastor of the North Methodist church of this town, but now of Altadena, Cal. The ceremony was performed at Sag Harbor, Long Island, by the Rev. Mr. Barrett, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and the bridegroom was Archibald P. Johnston, son of Pliny Johnston of Pasadena, Cal., and at one time a prominent educator in Cincinnati.

The bride spent eight years of her childhood in the North Methodist parsonage. She moved with her parents to Covington, Ky., later to Cincinnati where she was graduated from Hughes High school and Ohio State University at Columbus. For several years she has made her home with her father in Altadena.

The bridegroom was graduated from the engineering department of the University of Cincinnati and is now connected with a manufacturing concern in Sag Harbor, N. Y.

SURPRISE SOCIALS FOR WHIST PARTIES

Whists at the West Side Rec this year will be conducted on a new plan, it was announced today. Instead of the usual session of nothing but card playing, it is planned to have a series of surprise social affairs in conjunction with the whist parties. The opening of the whist season at that building will take place on Saturday evening when six prizes will be awarded. The two first prizes will be silk umbrellas.

A prize committee with a permanent chairman will be chosen and changed from time to time for the purpose of buying the awards for the winners. All who attend the whist parties will have a voice in the election of this committee which can be changed as often as the meetings see fit. In this way the prizes that are purchased will be satisfactory to all, it is expected.

The parties will be more on the order of social affairs this coming winter. The auditorium will be used by the players a little more than it has been just now with programs are being withheld so that they will be surprises to those who attend.

The prize committees will act as hostesses for whist parties while they are in office.
