

MINE GIVES UP 43 PRISONERS, ALIVE, UNHURT

Ironwood Pit Captives All Rescued—Lived 5 Days on Remnants of Lunches and Birch Bark Tea.

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 30.—The streets of this little mining town were ablaze with light and thronged with happy people last night in celebration of the rescue of forty-three workers who had been entombed in a shaft of the Pabst mine since noon last Friday. They were brought to the surface from their under ground prison late last night. Excited groups paraded the sidewalks and clogged the downtown corners, reciting over and over the story of how the trapped men were found late in the afternoon alive and well, apparently little the worse for their 120 hours of confinement in the bowels of the earth, 727 feet below the surface.

The hero of the hour is George Hawes, safety expert of the Pullman Company of Chicago, the first to reach the entombed men. Sharing the honors is Oscar Olson, chief engineer of the mine, who was close to Hawes when the latter, creeping up the perilous and shattered shaft by means of improvised rope ladders landed at the treacherous eighth level and grasped the hand of Captain Thomas Trewartha, shift boss of the imprisoned men.

Twenty minutes later the whole of Ironwood, all ages and sexes, began to pour over the red-coated hills and swarm about the mine. Hawes, assuring himself that all the prisoners were not only alive but apparently enduring no severe suffering, had quickly made his way to the surface with the tidings.

Food and hot drinks, warm blankets and a plentiful supply of cigarettes were rushed down one shaft and up a creaking runway to the imprisoned group.

Nurses and physicians, who, for six days have maintained constant vigil at the mouth of the shattered shaft, quickly followed the food.

How Trapped Men Were Found. It was after cutting and digging their way upward to the eighteenth level, 800 feet below the trapped miners, that Hawes, Olson and their assistants came on the first evidence that they were getting close to their goal.

Here and there they spied an empty dinner pail swinging from a jutting rock or below the shaft, where they had tumbled after the cave-in on Friday.

"I began working my way slowly up the shaft, as I am of slimmer build than Olson," said Hawes. "At the thirteenth level I managed to scramble into the shaft and rapped eight times. Faintly but distinctly came thirteen answering raps from the chasm. I knocked thirteen times and right away came eight quick, sharp answering pecks against the iron piping."

"I knew I couldn't be mistaken then. Determined to reach them, I threw all caution to the winds and inched by inch crept a tortuous pathway upward. Pretty soon I heard a faint 'hallo,' and in a minute I made out a shadowy form silhouetted against the bare rock by the glimmer of a miner's lantern.

"And there stood Captain Trewartha, a little grin on his face. 'They're all safe,' were the captain's first words to me."

Beside Trewartha were two of his men, these three being on sentry duty. The remaining forty were asleep. The captain led Hawes back into the cavern where the sleepers were awakened.

"And how those poor fellows did crowd around me," said Hawes. "Some of them almost beat me to death, pounding me on the back, so glad were they to see me."

Hilarious, now that the danger was over, they showed Hawes about their prison, where since last Friday they had subsisted chiefly on water and what few scraps remained in their dinner pails when the crash came.

"Here," said one of them, pointing to a mesh smirring in a tobacco can, "here is our restaurant."

"It's birch bark," explained Captain Trewartha. "Some of the boys thought maybe a little bark tea might warm us up some."

R. J. MOMMERS DEAD; WAS VELVET EXPERT

Pioneer in Velvet Passes On

Richard Joseph Mommers.

Cheney Superintendent Who Introduced Power Looms to America Passes Away Unexpectedly; Had Been Employed for 46 Years at Local Silk Mills; Was 80 Years of Age.

Richard Joseph Mommers, superintendent at Cheney Brothers for forty-six years, the man who introduced the power manufacture of velvet to America, is dead. Death occurred unexpectedly at his home 178 Hartford Road, at 10.15 last night. Pneumonia was the cause. He had been ill but two days. Mr. Mommers was eighty years old.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at his late home. In respect to Mr. Mommers' memory the Velvet department at Cheney Brothers will close at noon tomorrow for the remainder of the day. This order was issued today by Clifford D. Cheney, head of the department.

Was Well Known. In the death of Mr. Mommers, not only Cheney Brothers, but the country has lost a most valued man in connection with the velvet industry. For it was Mr. Mommers who was the inventor and builder of the first power velvet loom to be introduced in America. His loss is deeply felt by members of the firm of Cheney Brothers.

Born in Germany. Born in Loberick in the Rhine Province in Germany on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, 1846, Mr. Mommers' earliest age began learning the making of velvet. He was brought up in the velvet industry and while still a young man was a pioneer in developing the manufacture of velvets on power looms. He later was acknowledged as the inventor and builder of the first practical power velvet loom.

Met Cheney Brothers. In 1880, representatives of Cheney Brothers visited Mr. Mommers in Germany. They purchased a few of the power velvet looms from him and succeeded in influencing Mr. Mommers to come to America and start the velvet industry at Cheney Brothers. It was on June 14, 1880 that Mr. Mommers entered the employ of Cheney Brothers and the installation of the power looms here marked the entry of Cheney Brothers into the velvet business.

First in America. It is believed that the production of velvet at Cheney Brothers after Mr. Mommers' arrival here was the first of its kind in the country. Previously Cheney Brothers had dealt in the production of silk threads and yarns, broad-goods and ribbons. Mr. Mommers was instrumental in developing and expanding the growth of the velvet industry at Cheney Brothers. In his death, there was one consolation. He lived to see the velvet business at Cheney Brothers expanded until it reached a growth he little dreamed of.

Some Early History. The first velvet weaving production on power looms at Cheney Brothers and probably the first in America, was made in the building now occupied by the silk washing in the rear of the Spinning Mill engine room. Later a modern mill was erected on the north side of Forest street. This was about 1883. In 1901 and 1902 a large velvet plant was constructed on Elm street. Still later, in 1914, a large modern weave shed was built on Pine street. This was the last

BIG VAUDEVILLE BILL NOW PLAYING AT STATE

"Alma of the South Seas" Is Feature Attraction; "Variety" Here Next Week.

Another great vaudeville bill will be presented at the State theater today, tomorrow and Saturday. There will also be an excellent feature picture, Gilda Gray in "Alma of the South Seas."

The first act on the bill of five select offerings will be Steppen and See, the two boys from Australia. These two have a surprise in store for you.

The next act will be a cracker-jack comedy offering entitled "Just Wait." These two are as funny as they make 'em. If they can't make you laugh, nobody can.

The third on the program will be a big specialty act. It will be a trio of world famous concert artists, Signor Westony, Marie Norrie and Jan Czalsky in a new feature, operatic vaudeville. Signor Westony is a wonderful violinist. He has appeared in concert many times in places all over the world. Marie Norrie is a fine soprano singer and a marvelous dancer. The appearance of this trio at the State tonight will positively be its first appearance on any stage in New England in vaudeville circles.

Another mirth-provoking comedy duo will follow. Stacey and Stave will make you roar, laugh, scream. The tears will be rolling down your back from laughing!

The headliner will be "The Musical Maids" with a company of eight people. It is an unusually fine offering in musical comedy-singing-dancing. In fact, "Musical Maids" is one of the best musical comedy acts in vaudeville.

"Alma of the South Seas" is a beautiful drama of life and love in the paradise of fabled splendor in the South Sea Islands. Gilda Gray, who for several years has been a dancing sensation in back of Broadway footlights, makes her debut as a motion picture star, and does it remarkably well.

As a native dancing girl, she meets a young American who has come to the islands to forget a society sweetheart, who has jilted him. He is despondent, and leaves the "straight and narrow" for a time. "Alma" is attracted to him and helps him to realize that there is a great deal in life left to live for. Then Sylvia, his former sweetheart in America arrives on the scene. She tries to fade Alma out of the drama, but Alma resists. The subsequent events form a mighty drama of loving souls.

The scenery as a background for the picture is superb. Excellent photography make the scenes unusually good. On the whole "Alma of the South Seas" is a picture that should be on everyone's "must list." Be sure to see it.

"Variety," that mighty drama of whirling trapeze ropes and burning passions, will be here at last, on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Critics the country over have proclaimed "Variety" one of the few great pictures of all time. Emil Jennings and Lya DePatti in the leading roles give performances that have few, if any, equals in cinema history.

"Variety," besides being the most sincere and most absorbing human story ever told on the silver screen, is a masterpiece of photography and direction. If only for these reasons, it is a great picture. Not essentially a "long picture," "Variety" is yet a smashing, colossal drama. "Yes," we advise you, "Variety" will be shown on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State.

HOLLYWOOD IS INVADDED FOR ACTORS FOR EUROPE

Hollywood, Cal. — Turn about is fair play. Now that the Hollywood companies have imported most of the famous European actors and directors, the European film concerns are scouting for material right in Hollywood.

Emmett Flynn, well known director, has been commissioned by leading film producers of Europe to survey the cinema capital for possible "finds" to be starred in productions made abroad.

While the Europeans feel they cannot compete with American producers for the stars, because of tightened budgets in Europe, the foreign executives believe that many real "finds" are being overlooked in the abundance of talent in Hollywood.

CRASH IN NORTH END; WOMAN IS INJURED

Mrs. Edward Gates Now in Hospital But Not Badly Hurt as Result of Accident.

As the result of a collision between two cars at Main and Hilliard streets last evening, both cars were damaged to the extent of about $50 and one of the occupants was badly shaken up and taken to the hospital where it was found that she had not been injured seriously.

An eyewitness described the accident this way:
An Ajax car driven by Claude Gates, of North Elm street and occupied by his family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gates, was coming out of Hudson street to the filling station on the opposite side of Main street. The front wheels of the Gates car was already in the driveway when an auto driven by Edward Stein of Buckland, came along Main street going south. It struck the rear of the Gates car. A crowd quickly gathered and it was thought at first that Mrs. Gates had been badly hurt so she was taken quickly to the Memorial hospital. She is still there under observation but it is not thought she was hurt badly.

OLD RUSSIAN MONASTERY TO BE SOVIET LIBRARY

Moscow.—One of the oldest monuments of monastic architecture in Moscow, the Stratnoy Monastery, situated on Stratnoy Place, in the heart of the city, is scheduled to go the customary revolutionary way and become a government office building. The Main Science Board of the government has demanded that the monastery be turned over to it to be used by its administrative staff, and as a distribution center for books published by the Board. The Monastery has not been occupied by monks since the decree prohibiting monasticism, but until now it has been preserved with all its 17th century artistic treasures.

500 U. S. NEGRO DOCTORS TO VISIT EUROPE SOON FOR STUDY OF HOSPITALS

London.—Five hundred negro physicians and surgeons from the United States are to visit Europe next summer to study hospital methods in England and the Continent.

The doctors, who will be accompanied by relatives numbering about 200, will visit Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Italy, from May until September.

A pre-nature announcement of plans for the tour has provoked some lively passage between J. Holahan, director of the American

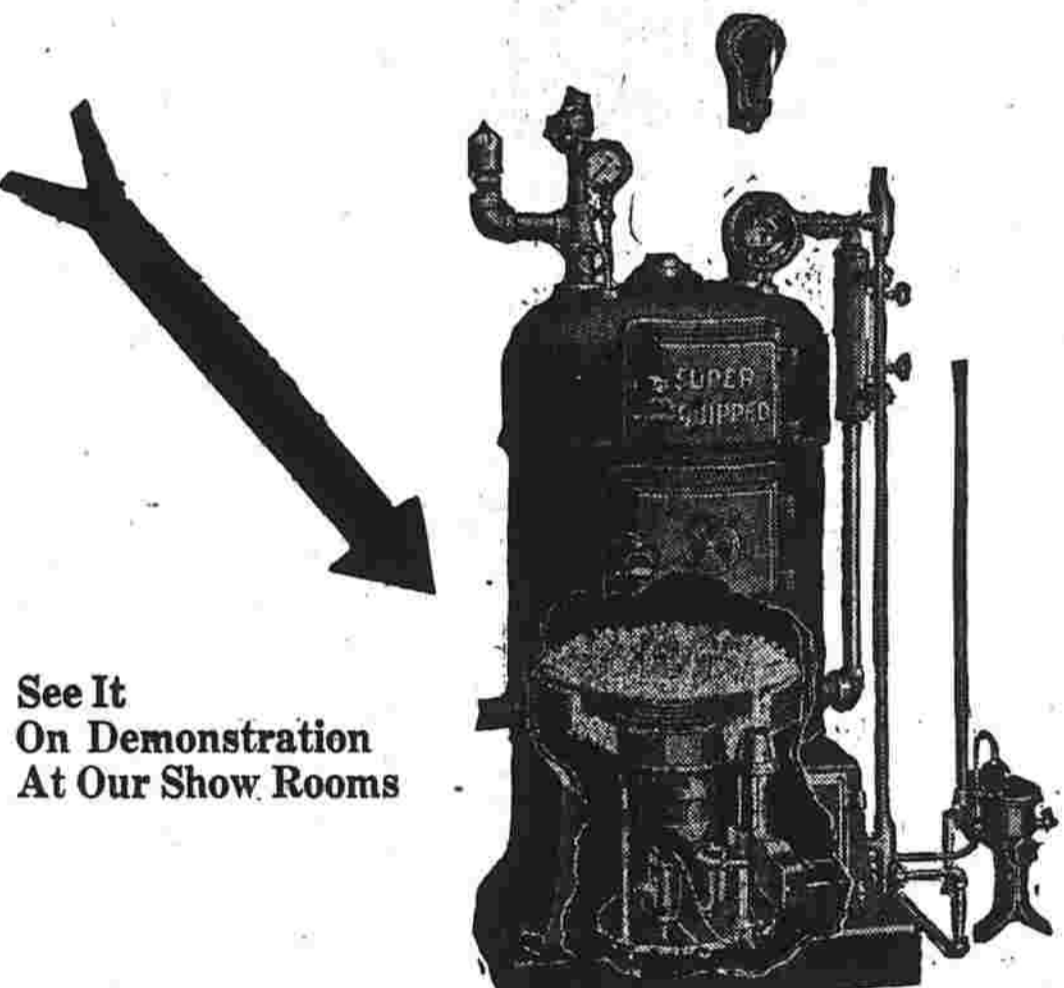

Prof. William Wright, Dean of the London Hospital Medical School, who declared in an interview to a London newspaper that it was "not desirable to have a large number of negro doctors dumped on any particular hospital."

Holahan accused Wright of violating a confidence in disclosing at this time that the tour was contemplated, and declared that he had "insulted" the negro doctors by raising the color question.

Here's the Flame That Has Revolutionized Oil Heating

See It On Demonstration At Our Show Rooms

This is the revolutionary Super-Automatic disk-flame. Compare it with the coal fire in the picture below, and you will see why it is the only correct type of flame for home heating. Like the coal fire, it burns in quiet natural draft, filling the grate area, and supplying heat evenly to all boiler surfaces. All the heat from the oil is absorbed and used to make your home comfortable. Maximum efficiency cannot be given by silent oil burners. The scientific principles involved in the construction of the Super assure you of maximum heating efficiency with a minimum of noise.

Economy is proved. The remarkable economy of the Super-Automatic disk-flame has been proved by many scientific tests, and by the experience of thousands of Super-Automatic users. The Super burns the cheapest oil and the least of it. Many users tell us that they save enough over coal to pay for their oil heaters in a very few years.

Easy to install. The Super is quickly and easily installed. No costly alterations in your heating system are required. You can make the change from coal to oil in the coldest weather without a single minute of discomfort. The heater assembly goes right inside the firebox of your boiler or furnace where it belongs. Children can't tamper with it or trip over it. Your cellar is clear of unsightly machinery, and becomes a clean, attractive room.

"Farmer" Gary Talks of His Life

Interviewer Finds Steel Master at Home, Intent on His Cows and Chickens.

BY JAMES HASWELL

New York, Sept. 30.—The world knows Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, but this is to introduce Elbert H. Gary—farmer.

Judge Gary will be 80 years old October 8. There will be much speculation as to his possible retirement as head of the Steel Corporation. What he says, or what his corporation does, sways the financial world. But Mr. Gary's greatest delight now is in the raising of cows, chickens and ducks.

Farmer's Interests, His
From his office in the financial center of the world in lower New York, his thoughts are directed to the business that has made possible the building of skyscrapers and railways and the creation of the vast urban civilization of today. At his home, on a Long Island farm, he is concerned with the same problems that interest any farmer—crops and the welfare of his livestock.

Interviews with Judge Gary, head of the Steel Corporation, are rare. Words are carefully chosen and weighed, with a thought to the influence they may have. An interview with Farmer Gary is something else. This is to set down such an interview. It was expressed in homely phrases. There was a note of joy and pride in the farm, as it was discussed. And a kodak album was produced by Farmer Gary to illustrate his talk.

"Buttercup's horns have grown longer since this was taken," he mused, turning the pages. There, those were my two dogs. "One of them died not long ago. It nearly broke my heart."

"Here is the old team," coming upon a photo of himself holding the bridles of two dappled grays. "I think they were better matched than the pair we have now."

Judge Gary's eyes are clear and his hands firm. His shoulders were erect beneath his gray suit. His tie flaunted a bit of color.

Pigs Liked Attention
"There," he said, coming to one of himself viewing some Poland China hogs. "These pigs got so friendly they'd come up to let me scratch them with my stick. See."

"But I don't keep pigs any more," turning a page, "here I am watching the ducks on the pond. Here's the chicken run. These are some of the fields."

There were other pictures of Judge Gary and his cows, with his favorite horses, walking in the gardens. Over each one he commented as if to himself.

As he talked his interest grew, and he turned to other parts of the book. Lisbon, Madrid, Valparaiso appeared, as well as photos of industrial magnates, war time leaders, public officials of half a dozen nations.

"There's Charley Schwab," he chuckled, at one point. "We were watching an airplane at West Point. My, how serious he looks!"

"And here I am with Mrs. Gary at a polo game. No, this is better. It looks more like her."

The purchase of his farm, Judge Gary reveals, was brought about by the war. For nearly 20 years prior to that he had spent his summers in Europe, traveling and collecting art treasures.

Gary's Daily Schedule
During the conflict vacations were impossible. In 1919 he found himself with leisure time, but unwilling to resume his trips. The purchase of Ivy Hill followed. Other millionaires call their homes estates, but Gary's is "the farm." It comprises 110 acres. From here he commutes to business in New York.

Now a question about that oft-suggested retirement. It is Gary the unresponsive business man who answers.

"I am grateful for what I have received and enjoyed," he says, "and also I am hopeful of the future."

He yields, though, to talk about his personal life. "I have never answered such questions," he says, "but I realize the interest people take. I guess the time is here when I shall have to."

A typical outline of his day, as he drew it up, follows:
7 to 8 a. m.—Shaving, bathing, dressing.
8 to 8:30 a. m.—Light breakfast.

Elbert H. Gary

8:30 to 9:30 a. m.—Reading newspapers.

9:30 to 10:30 a. m.—Going to office, reading mail.

Then up to 4 or 4:30 p. m. or later—dictation, consultation, attending meetings, and so on.

In the evening his amusements, he said comprised "the theater occasionally. Opera frequently. Dining out and entertaining guests occasionally."

Schoolteacher Molded Gary
His farm is his greatest personal interest today, although he does not neglect his famous collection of art objects at his Fifth Avenue town house.

No small tribute to his mental honesty, is his listing as the man who had most influenced him.

Horace Barnes, teacher of the country school near Wheaton, Ill., which Gary attended as a boy.

Barnes was an exceptional man. Few of his students ever forgot him. At 92 he still wrote to them, Gary among them—joyous letters on the beauty of life as he was finding it.

Second on his list of mentors Gary placed J. Pierpont Morgan, who financed the creation of the steel trust.

Third, Gary named Theodore Roosevelt. Gary, too, disapproved of "malefactors of great wealth" and insisted he was making U. S. Steel a "good trust" instead of a bad one.

Fourth, Gary named his father, Eratus Gary, who emigrated from the ancestral home at Pomfret, Mass., to found what has grown into the town of Wheaton, Ill.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 30.—We who live so close to the tinsed pageant of Manhattan are prone, perhaps, to come to treat as commonplace those glaring phases of our city's life and tendencies that smite the observant visitor in the eye.

Or, writing of this and of that in New York's kaleidoscope life, we may fall to interpret significances noted by the keen stranger.

So it is that I take the liberty herewith to reprint certain quotations from the article of one Irving Brant, a western newspaper man, appearing in a recent issue of Editor and Publisher:

"To walk down Fifth Avenue at this date in early September is to encounter all the allurements that human genius can devise to extract the winged dollar from its uneasy resting place. . . . Fifth Avenue, is a symbol of the age. It stimulates and satisfies the spending urge. Its overpowering beauty, transcending the dreams of silken Samarkand and ruby-laden India, is soporific to the sense of touch. Nowhere else, except at the ring of appeal to that state of mind in which a $20 gold piece looks like a plugged nickel."

He tells of wandering into a Ritzy fur shop and learning that a mink might be had for a trifling $5,000.

"The real basis of my business," the shopkeeper told him, "is that people have so much money to spend they don't know how to spend it."

"I strolled up and down the Avenue looking at the shops and shoppers. The simplest street dress today is a glorious creation of chiffon or silk which would have passed for a ballroom gown a few years ago. . . . For a single window displaying the quiet richness of browns and wines there are a dozen gleaming with the colors of the rainbow. . . . The old-fashioned jewelry store with its display of watches and marble clocks, its trays of rings and shelves of silver has sunk to oblivion in the age of luxury. . . . His shop is a blend of the Palace of Versailles and a Flemish monastery."

"I stopped before a window which displayed an ideal outfit for a boy of 12 years. It centered a large brass-bound trunk . . . for the youthful traveler to a boys' boarding school upstate, in Switzerland or the Appalachians."

"What is happening meantime around the block? The Sixth Ave-

Italy manufactures a third of the artificial silk now produced in the world.

Cleveland, O.—More than 60 carloads of California grapes are standing on Cleveland railroad sidings awaiting a purchaser. But no purchases sufficiently brave to defy a federal edict has come forth.

Halt on expected sales is caused by a notice posted by Federal authorities saying that permits to manufacture 200 gallons of grape juice per year for each family have been rescinded and the manufacture must stop.

This order has struck a death blow at the grape market and brokers are offering the fruit at from 75 to 90 cents a crate, after paying between 62 and 65 cents a crate for freight.

VIENNESE FIRM IS GIVEN RUSSIAN WOOL CONCESSION
Moscow—A concession to manufacture woolen textiles has just been granted by the Chief Concessions Committee to the Viennese firm Bernhardt Altman. The Soviet government has granted the firm the privilege of taking over the factory formerly belonging to the Russian manufacturer Gorbachev, located at Kozino, on the Kazan railroad.

The concessionaire has obligated himself to reequip the factory with modern machinery. He will be charged the regular customs duties for the import of raw materials from abroad, but as far as internal taxes are concerned, will be taxed on the basis of a government institution. At the expiration of eighteen years the works with all the inventory will automatically revert to possession of the Soviet Government.

From A "somewhat Unusual HOUSEWIFE"

"I HAVE just heard from Mr. B____", a magazine editor writes us, "that Mrs. B____, who is a somewhat unusual housewife, said that if it were possible for her to get this bread all the time she would never make any more bread. When I tell you that her family is especially fond of home-made bread you will see that her recommendation is very much worth while."

FROM women everywhere they are coming—enthusiastic comments on White Rose Bread! From "unusual housewives" who still bake in their own kitchens—from discriminating home-keepers who select every food they serve with intelligent care.

It is not surprising that these women should find this new loaf different—more nearly like the finest home-made bread in every way.

For White Rose Bread was perfected with the help of some of the leading food authorities in the country. Authorities who have made a life-long study of home-cooking and nutrition—who are constantly advising thousands of other women on these subjects.

These experts had one desire—to give to women a loaf as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it.

Try White Rose Bread today. Notice the difference yourself. Notice the firm, even grain—its texture, almost like cake texture—its delicious bread flavor. See whether you, too, do not prefer this loaf to any you have ever served.

White Rose Bread is baked not once but twice a day, and rushed to your grocer to be always fresh for you.

Given Chateau as Music School

When Mrs. Pearl Hussey Flanagan, Wichita (Kas.) singer and music teacher, was in France recently she was filled with admiration when she was shown through a 15th century chateau in the Montmartre, in Paris. Now the owner of the chateau, the Abbe Loubiere, has given it to her to use as a school for American girls who want to study music abroad. She is on her way home to raise funds for an endowment.

Prim Flobelle Fairbanks
Won't "Cash In" on Doug

New York.—Doug's little niece, Flobelle, has just added her name to the rapidly increasing list of Fairbankesses in Moviana.

Only Flobelle insists she will not climb to success—if such be her fate—on the fame of her uncle. She will come before the public under the name of Florence Faire.

Flobelle is about 18 and in appearance is a composite picture of Irene Castle, Lillian Gish, Imogene Wilson, Peggy Joyce and Flobelle Fairbanks.

One Year of Convent. She is but one year removed from a convent, and possesses a primness and naivete most unusual among even the very young flicker folk.

"My uncle Doug did influence me, of course," she admits. "Perhaps I shouldn't have thought of going into pictures but for the relationship. My father, who is Uncle Doug's brother, was his business manager for many years, and I've heard little but flims from the time I was toddled on his knee."

"Uncle Doug has a projecting machine in his house and when I came home for vacation I would see them every night. I adored Aunt Mary and although nobody knew it, I would try to act as I had seen her. Sometimes—you won't tell this, will you?—I would act before my mirror in my room at convent."

"When I got out of convent I was an extra in a few pictures, and Mr. Murneau made some screen tests of me and said he liked them. Then I got word that Miss Swanson wanted to make some tests, too. And now I am going to have quite an important part—so they say."

Gloria's Little Sister.

"Yes, I grew up with Douglas, Jr. We were sort of like brother and sister, rather than cousins."

But unlike Douglas, Jr., Flobelle is not to be thrust into stardom for quite a while. The mistake in the case of the younger Fairbanks is so generally recognized, he was hurried too quickly, not an uncommon error in moviedom.

Flobelle Fairbanks.

Flobelle is to play with Gloria Swanson in "Crossroads." Her role will be a versatile one, ranging from a singing girl to a hard-boiled flapper. Because she plays Gloria's little sister, she will appear in most of the sequences—which is pretty good for a beginner.

N. Y. BONUS COMMISSION GOES OUT OF EXISTENCE AT END OF THIS YEAR

Albany, N. Y.—The New York state bonus commission will pass out of existence on December 31. State Comptroller Vincent B. Murphy, of Rochester, who as fiscal officer of the state, draws the checks in favor of the men eligible to receive a bonus, announced today that the total number of claims paid up to September 1, amount to 299,667 out of a total of 414,995.

To date the total amount of bonus paid to World War veterans by this state is $47,117,366.67.

In addition to Comptroller Murphy the Bonus Commission is composed of State Treasurer Lewis H. Pounds, Attorney General Albert Ottinger and Adjutant General Franklin B. Ward.

"An analysis of the figures covering bonus applications shows that the major percentage of the men who submitted claims under the bonus law had their claims granted," said Comptroller Murphy. "Out of the total of 414,995 applications, only 6,434 have been rejected. There still remains 8,394 claims to be disposed of before the commission goes out of existence."

Some veterans who saw service only long enough to put on and take off their uniform, received bonus checks amounting to 33 cents but there were very few of these, the commission said.

A total of 26,174 veterans contributed their bonus to the Veterans Mountain Camp and the Disabled American Veterans' Unit. These contributions totaled $208,965.

Out of Garber Brothers' Factory Come Living Room Suites

—Designed for Beauty
—Built for Duty

A living room is no better than its interior construction

This is how Garber Brothers' Suites are built:

Only hard wood frames are used in the construction of Garber Brothers' Living Room Suites, the covered parts being of solid white maple and birch, the exposed parts are either solid mahogany, solid walnut or birch, depending on the finish desired.

All frames have doweled and glued joints assuring a lifetime of service and eliminating any possibility of the frames becoming loose or shaky after the suite is made.

All Garber Brothers' suites are built with hand-tied springs on webbing foundation. Each spring being tied eight ways, preventing any possibility of the springs "laying down or tipping over." All webbing is double ticked on both ends . . . this assuring a foundation that is resilient yet sturdy enough for a generation of wear. (All antiques of upholstered furniture are found to contain just this type of construction.)

Over the springs is stretched a "new 8 oz. burlap" in such a way as to form a smooth base for the filling material. The regulation filling of a Garber Brothers' suite is a heavy layer of moss, then a layer of hair, then a layer of pure white "layer felt", not ordinary cotton, but garnetted felt that cannot bunch or shift to one side or the other. Finally the outside covering is skillfully fastened in such a way that never is a tack exposed in the finished product.

Probably the most important single item in a living room suite is a cushion. This is due to the fact that cushions have nothing to support them or prevent them from losing their shape. All this is taken into consideration in building Garber Brothers' cushions and in consequence nothing enters into their construction, but small coil springs 1½ inch in diameter and pure white "layer felt." An ordinary size chair cushion contains 49 of these small coils; each one encased in a separate house of muslin. Then the springs are tied four ways on top and four ways on bottom and then the whole unit is covered with a case of new burlap.

To complete the process and make a perfect cushion, the spring unit and felt are forced into the covering by a special machine that insures uniform size and thickness as well as equal distribution of material.

Picture yourself sitting in one of the chairs or the davenport of this suite

An inaudible "ah" seems to escape your lips. Its coziness and comfort is a revelation to you. Feel the difference? Yes, there is an obvious difference between this Garber Brothers' custom-built suite and ordinary living room suites. You just want to keep on sitting there. Its coziness is like a good tonic. That's because this suite, like all Garber Brothers' suites, is BUILT RIGHT. Dependable quality through and through.

The covering is genuine Angora mohair . . . moth proofed and germ cured. Is it serviceable? Indeed it is or we'd not use it. And the pattern is very attractive and the reversible cushions in fine brocatelle add even more beauty to the suite.

You would think a suite of this character costs more than ordinary living room suites. But no, it doesn't. In fact it costs less . . . yes, a good deal less, because you are buying direct from the manufacturer. You are paying a direct factory price. You are paying for furniture and furniture only . . . you are NOT paying for expensive overhead and unnecessary frills, because Garber Brothers' method of manufacturing and selling direct to the public from the same warehouse factory building eliminates this extra expense.

QUALITY and PRICE . . . they both work in your favor at Garber Brothers. And years from now, as well as now . . . you'll be glad that you bought your suite at Garber Brothers.

Other suites from $95 to $750

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Stephen Decatur (2)

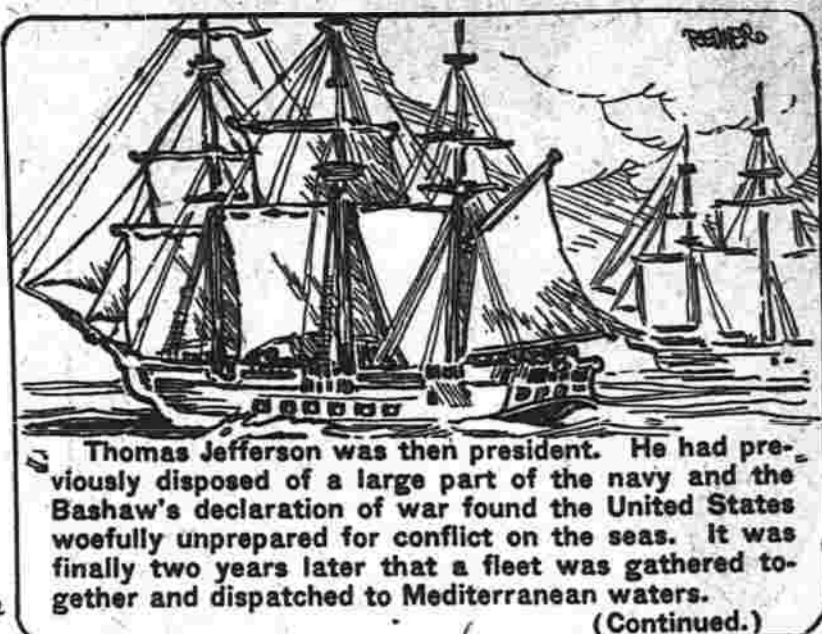

The boy's demands upon Bainbridge were backed with his guns, and the American captain was forced to obey the Algerian's will. He carried the Bey's ambassador to Constantinople, but wrote to the secretary of the navy that he hoped the next tribute to Algiers would be "delivered from the mouth of our cannon."

The next year, 1801, the Bashaw of Tripoli asserted his arrogance after hearing that Tunis had received more tribute than he.

The Bashaw declared war upon the United States, vowing to wipe from the Mediterranean every vestige of American shipping.

Thomas Jefferson was then president. He had previously disposed of a large part of the navy and the Bashaw's declaration of war found the United States woefully unprepared for conflict on the seas. It was finally two years later that a fleet was gathered together and dispatched to Mediterranean waters. (Continued.)

"POTASH, PERLMUTTER" ON CIRCLE DOUBLE BILL

If you're suffering from ennui or grouch, be sure to go to the Circle Theater tonight or tomorrow, and see Samuel Goldwyn's latest offering, an adaptation of Montague Glass' famous stage play, "Partners Again," which Henry King has filmed in a most notable and humorous manner. It is full of fun from the first flicker to the last, and again implants the likenesses of the lovable partners, Potash & Perlmutter, as exemplified by George Sidney and Alexander Carr, in the hearts of the picture-loving public.

As automobile distributors, Abe and Max are a woe. Many and varied were their experiences while coiling in cloaks and suits and movies, but their venture into the automotive field was an inspiration, indeed. Apparently, mortal mind could scarcely have conceived more ludicrous and exasperating situations than the picture carries. And when the pair take to the air in an airplane, a speed records for laughs were broken.

The story is too good to tell. See the picture yourselves and get a good laugh.

In sharp contrast to the above picture, is the other feature, "The Hidden Way" starring Mary Carr who made "Over the Hill" famous. The spiritual value of the picture has been hailed by the critics who feel that the entertainment value is also there, amply represented in the narrowly averted accidents, fights, and robberies, which fill the photoplay with action.

The management takes pleasure in announcing to its patrons that on next Tuesday and Wednesday, it has the honor to show for the first time in the State of Connecticut the famous Irish-Jewish comedy "Kosher Kitty Kelly"—nut sed.

Close Up!—Close Up! The Grand Army Parades Again

With ranks thinner than ever before, the veterans of the G. A. R. paraded above shows the head of the parade, led by the new national commander, the left is Dr. J. W. Benadom, 83-year-old Monticello (Ia.) veteran, who has trained his pet robin to perch on his life while he plays Civil War tunes.

Mr. Tunney's victory was, as you might say, one for the books.

So well did Edward Earl like to shoot that he joined the army, since he couldn't pay dues in a civilian organization. After careful training, he was ready for his qualification tests at Fort Benning, Ga., anxious to raise his company's rating with a good score. Suddenly he developed trouble in his right eye; his sight was only 20 per cent of normal. Undaunted, Earl taught himself to shoot left-handed. After practicing for several months, he has shot a score six points higher than is required for the rank of sharpshooter. A brigadier general pinned a medal on his blouse and promised surgical aid for his defective eye.

School teachers the country over will find it easier to interest the youthful bean in English text books now that the fist championship adorns an erudite skull.

WAPPING

Miles Buscher of Hartford was in South Windsor court last Friday evening, charged with violation of the rules of the road. The charge was nolleed on payment of costs which amounted to $12.62. The trouble was the outcome of an accident near Station 50, on the Springfield, Hartford road last Sunday night. Buscher driving a Chevrolet, collided with a Chandler car driven by Joseph Gans of Hartford.

Anthony Shumont of South Windsor was charged with violations of the rules of the road. On September 7th, he struck James Mooney of Hartford, who was riding a bicycle on Rye street. Apparently Shumont had swung to the wrong side of the road in order to avoid hitting Lawrence Mooney, a twin brother who was also riding a bicycle. James Mooney spent two weeks in the hospital recovering from his injuries. As it seemed evident that there was fault on both sides, Justice William J. Thresher, suspended judgment on payment of costs, which were $18.50.

The Young People of the Federated church are to hold a meeting next Sunday evening at 6 p. m. to try and organize a Christian Endeavor Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Platt, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Webster and Mrs. Hannon all from East Shoreham, Vt., were visitors among relatives and friends in this place and Manchester over the week end.

Lester Adams motored to Woodstock, Vt. on Saturday returning on Monday with Mrs. Adams, who had been spending a week with her parents there.

At the regular meeting of Wapping Grange, Tuesday evening there were about seventy-six present, it being Neighbors Night. The following Granges were present and took part in the program: East Hartford, Enfield, New Britain and Manchester. The program was as follows: a banjo and harmonica duet by Clarence Martin of Enfield Grange, a recitation entitled "The Rivals" by Mr. Covell of Enfield Grange; vocal solo by Mrs. Bacon, accompanied by Mrs. Woodford, who responded with an encore, of New Britain, Grange, a report of the

- The Plaut Company

THOUSANDS OF people have come to the Plaut Company, examined carefully the merchandise and have been astonished to see the superlative quality of the furniture offered. They have seen this merchandise priced at figures that seem almost incredibly low.

But there is no mystery to this, and it is very easy to explain.

Every well informed person knows that buying in large quantities results in far lower prices than buying in small quantities, and right here is the explanation of Plaut's low prices.

PLAUT PURCHASES, made in connection with the great May-Stern and Company organization, the World's largest home furnishers, enable us to buy at prices that would be utterly impossible if our purchases were made on a less gigantic scale. Indeed, PLAUT PURCHASES bring about economies that reflect themselves in the prices we offer our merchandise to you, prices that are unquestionably the lowest, prices that are the natural result of May-Stern and Company buying in millions instead of in thousands.

Buying for all the great May-Stern and Company stores has resulted in great savings for our patrons in the past, and will, even more so, in the future. It has been the cause of Plaut's leadership, it has enabled thousands of people to buy through us the products of America's greatest furniture factories, furniture embodying the finest construction, the most beautiful woods, the most exquisite finishes and the newest designs—at prices that are even lower than you might pay for furniture of far lesser quality.

SALT OF EARTH.

Five days entombed in a mine-working hundreds of feet underground and then saved by the sustained determination and uncanny skill of other men trained in their calling, forty-three miners are rescued, safe and sound, in Michigan. And there were grins on their faces, joyful but humorous grins. It strikes us that there was never a better example of a high state of morale in any group of human beings anywhere.

They had lights, these forty-three men, and they had water, though their only food for the long stressful time had been only the scraps left in their dinner pails. So that the horrors of their situation were mitigated in some degree as compared with the potentiality of no light and no water. Yet their plight was none the less a terrible one. Well they know that their chance of rescue was slender—that death by sheer starvation was the prospect that they faced. Yet their fortitude was master of their fears.

There must have been masterful, heroic minds among that party of forty-three—great men, born leaders; the kind of men who, in other circumstances, become famous. The average must have been high, in courage, in intellect, in the better attributes of manhood. Yet they were just miners, delvers in the bowels of the earth, a sort of men that the world gives little thought to—and no honors.

None of these people, rescued or rescuers, will gain a place in the Hall of Fame. Their heroic experience will be forgotten in a month—save in Ironwood and perhaps in other towns where men go down in pits. But we will say that these forty-three are of the salt of the earth.

NEW YORK ELECTION.

Under any normal conditions the plan of the New York Republicans to make the state campaign on the issue of Tammany control of the affairs of the Empire state could hardly fail of success. Up-state New Yorkers have no relish for the thought of being subjugated permanently to the control of the Democratic organization in the metropolis, and with the state government facing reorganization the argument that, if Tammany wins this year, it will be in the saddle in the state for a generation, could hardly fail to call out every Republican vote up-state and cause it to be cast for the Republican candidates; in which case New York would go Republican in November.

But conditions are not normal. It is doubtful whether Tammany rule can be made the major issue. There is even a bigger question in the minds of the voters—the question of rum.

The Democratic party in New York is wet-dripping wet. And at least half the Republican party is wet-dripping wet. Al Smith is wet. It may help Ogden Mills, among the wets, that he is more or less moist, but it will hurt him with the dries—and the probabilities are that it will hurt him more than it will help him.

Senator Wadsworth is wet-wet-test of wets. That will help him to many a vote that will also go to Smith; his opponent has the disadvantage of being relatively unknown, and, to the upstaters, as merely a Tammanyite.

From a distance, and from the angle of belief that no issue in New York can compare to the prohibition issue, there is much to support the conjecture that the great state will split its vote, in the coming election as never before. Wadsworth, in spite of the dry opposition and largely because of it, seems to be certain of re-election. If Mills beats Smith, however, it will be because New York state, as a whole, does not, after all, put the prohibition question ahead of everything else.

A victory at one and the same time for the Democratic Smith for governor and the Republican Wadsworth for United States senator, would settle the fate of Volstead prohibition in this country—and the New York voters know it.

TOUTING MARIE.

There is a smack of Hollywoodism, of fustiana, of "national playground" promotion, about the moot visit of Queen Marie of Rumania to America. What news comes concerning that momentous excursion of royalty bears every well known ear mark of the professional press agent. Already the Rumanian queen has had as much money spent about her in press cables as if she were a real somebody—a Gloria Swanson, some millionaire idiot's mulatto wife, an acquitted murderer. No mere queen is going to get publicity on this scale except through the good offices of somebody who knows how to get it for her.

Nevertheless there is something less than the Rotarian one hundred per cent. of success attaching to the campaign. Mere juggling of dates, postponements of the sailing of the royal entourage, even an announcement that Marie may not come at all because her king is about to abdicate, somehow fail to get the American nation as well stirred up as it might be.

Perhaps it might be well to have Marie make a four thousand foot parachute jump, rope and hogtie a burglar and, of course, have all her crown jewels stolen, before she actually makes the trip. Or swim the channel in eight hours—with selected witnesses.

We don't pretend to know what Marie is up to. But there is every indication that she is up to something. Perhaps she is about to collaborate a scenario—with Eleanor Glynn.

SCHWAB'S ADVICE.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Co., is an optimist. Looking for brighter things has become almost a religion with him. But, to brilliant hopes and aims, he adds some very forceful action left his dreams perish.

"Ours is the most prosperous country in the world," he said recently, in addressing a meeting of manufacturers. "I believe we are moving toward heights of prosperity as yet undreamed of. This is still a land in which the dreamer may give full play to his dreams."

"But the prosperity of industry is absolutely impossible, in my judgment, without the prosperity of agriculture. There must be the utmost possible co-operation between the east and west, between Wall Street, if you like, and the farmer."

"The only basis which will save our own markets and our foreign markets in the long run will be the basis of efficient and economical production. Is it not possible that farming must be conceived of in a far more scientific way?"

"Certainly one of the most hopeful signs of the times has been the growth of co-operative marketing organizations among farmers, and particularly fruit growers. The fruit growers of the Pacific coast have shown to industry what, it seems to me, are the lines along which industry, in the long run, in its marketing methods, will have to proceed if it is to be permanently successful."

"My suggestion is, therefore, that all of us—heads of industries, farmers, bankers, Wall Street men and ranchers—all of us, get together with the determination to work out these difficult problems to the end that both the farmer and the industrialists continue to prosper."

There is nothing new in Schwab's ideal. But it remains to be worked.

TEAM WORK AFTER STORM.

The Treasury Department comes in for its share of the credit for relief work following the recent hurricane in Florida.

That makes four "executive departments" and one "miscellaneous" governmental branch, as the Congressional Directory classifies them, which can be definitely accounted for as having co-operated in the task of rescue in the stricken district.

The Red Cross—"miscellaneous." The Department of Agriculture, which, through its weather bureau, gave first warning of the tempest, days before it struck the Florida coast, and actually saved many lives and much property at points where the threat was taken seriously and everything possible was done to "snag down" in anticipation of it.

The War Department—with planes and much material.

The Navy Department—with bluejackets, marines and radio service.

The Treasury Department—through the Coast Guard and the public health service, which played a vital part in preventing an epidemic of typhoid and other diseases, as an aftermath of the disaster.

Governmental departments, bureaus and commissioners are often accused of pulling in opposite directions, of jealousies and of general inability to work together. They certainly gave a fine example of team work after the catastrophe in Florida.

SO WHAT'S THE USE.

A newspaper reporter, conducting a survey in Boston recently, discovered that the so-called "menial" jobs pay better than white-collar occupations.

Barbers were found who were making $5,000 a year, taxicab drivers averaging $50 or more a week, waitresses getting $35 to $40 a week, and porters to whom $35 a week was no strange figure.

Many meagerly paid stenographers, clerks and bookkeepers tip barbers, waitresses and porters because they "feel sorry" for them. The Boston reporter discovered that the feeling was mutual—that those in the "menial" positions also felt sorry for the white-collar folk.

There is a strange psychology about tipping. The stenographer who tips the waitress does it sometimes through pity, sometimes through timidity, sometimes to put up a front. At any rate, the "menial" folk are cashing in on it.

DAILY POEM

IN THE FALL. I say there, old garden, you're lookin' forlorn, your growths are all droopin'; you're ragged and torn. Tomatoes are dwindling away. So's the corn. How short does it seem since the time you were born!

Alas, where's your lustre and beauty, fair lawn? It seems you should thrive on the dew of the dawn. But now you grow shabby. You can't carry on. 'Tis said we must know that you soon will be gone.

What ho, there, old oak, are you losing your hold? You seem so subdued now. You used to be bold. And where is the color that made you so gay? Your bright leaves are brown now, and falling away.

Yes, all things around us seem showing distress. The truth is that nature is changing her dress. The dull and the drab will be worn awhile; then, cheer up, we'll return to the brightness again.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART Washington, Sept. 30. Governor or Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is now unmistakably in the limelight as a Democratic presidential possibility.

It all depended on his re-nomination as chief executive of the Cockade state at the recent primary. Beaten, he'd have been out of consideration for the presidency. Overwhelmingly victorious, he's in the running.

It remains for him to be re-elected in November, and Maryland isn't always a Democratic state, but it always is except when there's a disunion in the state Democracy's ranks, and there are no signs of it at present.

So it's reasonably safe to assume that the governor will succeed himself by a satisfactory majority.

Ritchie's limelight isn't quite as bright as Al Smith's or William G. McAdoo's.

It, however, Smith's and McAdoo's limelights cancel one another in 1928, as they did in 1924, then Ritchie's limelight will be about as good as anybody's.

It may or may not have to compete with Allee Pomerene's.

In case Pomerene's elected to the Senate from Ohio, he'll have a powerful limelight, but if he's beaten, he won't have any.

Senator Jim Reed's limelight isn't turned on full blast as yet, and it's too soon to predict how much it will brighten, or whether it will go out altogether.

In the opinion of politicians, Senator Jim was a little too slow in getting into the presidential limelight.

He'll be 68 in 1929, when, if elected, he be inaugurated. So he'd be 70 by the time he was half way through a four-year term, a trifle elderly for the wear and tear of so trying an office.

Then there's the limelight of the dark horse Senator Caraway predicts the Democrats will nominate. Dark horses' limelights are an unknown quantity.

Besides Senator Caraway, a dry, can't see Ritchie, a wet, even in the limelight.

It's interesting to study Albert Cabell Ritchie, as a presidential possibility. His personality is charming. He has finish. He has poise, without "side" Amiable and accessible, he has dignity.

He's a handsome man—a big six-footer, with no superfluous fat but every appearance of plenty of muscle. He'd pass for 40, though they call him a wet. He's for states' rights, the way he puts it.

He's as outspoken a public man as there is in the country. He's made a good many speeches here and there recently. Politicians predict he'd kill himself by his habit of telling whatever he had on his mind, unreservedly. Now they're beginning to wonder if he didn't capitalize his candor.

Ritchie gives the impression that he doesn't take himself as seriously as some politicians take themselves. He has a sense of humor.

No doubt he'd like the presidential nomination.

If it comes his way, unquestionably he'll grab it. If not, there are no indications that his life will be blighted.

HE DIED HAPPY.

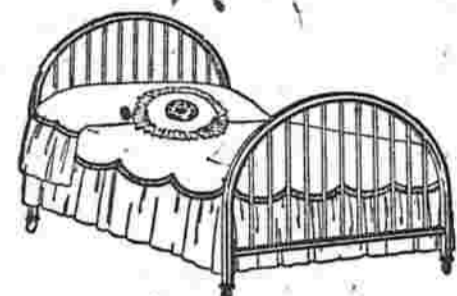

Ossining, N. Y.—Just before he was to die in the electric chair, William Hoyer, negro, ordered the following last meal: One duck, a made into a stew and served with dumplings, four slices of bread, boiled rice, tomato salad, strawberry shortcake, a pint of vanilla ice cream, raspberry soda, twelve "good" cigars and a package of cigarettes.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK President, The American Nature Association

The weasel has been cited as an example of restless energy and this reputation has been well earned. As a tribe, it is of northern distribution. Those found farthest north, which put on a winter coat of white, and known in that state as ermines, used to give their fur to adorn the robes of royalty and others of high estate. Now, since fashion has decreed that all must wear fur, ermine, or its imitation, is seen on those of high and low estate alike.

But before he comes ermine, the weasel is one of the most efficient animals known. His prey is anything he can overcome, and in its pursuit he knows neither fear nor fatigue.

The larger kinds make the hare their prey, pursuing that proverbially swift animal by scent, and tiring it down. Some species are especially designed to prey on mice, for their slender, sinuous bodies, no thicker than one's little finger, enable them to follow to their extremities the burrows of these small pests, and feast on the inhabitants. Others of larger size penetrate the underground galleries of pocket gophers, and kill them with a single bite.

On the steppes of Asia, among the great colonies of ground squirrels, the weasels make their home. And on our own western prairie plains, among the towns of the prairie dogs and nowhere else in the world is found the black-footed ferret, whose special mission in life is plainly the destruction of that prolific rodent.

When man set up his habitation in the wilderness and brings with him his flocks of barnyard fowls, he sometimes places beyond the weasel a temptation that he cannot withstand. A weasel has been known to kill an entire flock of chickens in a night.

But close students of the animals cite numerous instances where weasels have lived for entire seasons in and about chicken-fens, killing only the mice, and never once harming a fowl.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Jules Sauerwein, noted editor of Le Matin in Paris, today indirectly advocated exerting pressure on the United States through a Franco-German understanding, with a view to new debt settlements.

"However, if France and Germany appeared in Washington hand in hand declaring that they were through with war, and asked the United States if it wanted to finish the great work or assume the responsibility for new wars, I am perfectly convinced that the United States wouldn't decline."

Alabama's Grid Prospects Doubtful With Seven Veterans of 1925 Missing

University, Ala., Sept. 30.—Up from an undefeated freshman Down in Dixie, and in other places also, grid fans are asking each other about Alabama's prospects this year. For the last two seasons the Crimson eleven has been able to win the Southern Conference cup in the face of great opposition. Alabama this coming fall will be minus seven veterans of last year. Quite a number of men from the squad that tramped out to California on New Year's Day and beat Washington, 20-19, will be back, but the Crimson supporters cannot forget the fact that the one and only Pooley Hubert, the spectacular Mack Brown, Grant Gillis, Bill Buckler, Ben Hudson, Bruce Jones and Pete Camp—all regulars—are among the alumni now.

Charges A. A. U. Drove Him Into Professionalism and Is Causing His Deportation.

Los Angeles, Sept. 30.—George H. Breslin, Los Angeles attorney, admitted today that his firm, Smith & Breslin, had been engaged to plead a $100,000 suit for damages filed by Charles Hoff, world's champion pole vaulter, against the amateur Athletic Union.

Hoff, who was barred and cut off from expense money several months ago when he failed to keep a scheduled appearance in San Francisco, claimed the A. A. U. not only forced him to become a professional, but added insult to injury by inducing immigration officials to order him out of the country.

The Norwegian athlete, who has been reaping a rich harvest as a vaudeville entertainer, received word from the immigration service in Washington that he must leave the country by October 15, as the secretary of labor had denied his plea for extension.

Hoff named three individual A. A. U. officials as defendants in his suit—W. C. Prout, F. W. Rubien, executives of the National A. A. U. and "Bob" Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific Branch of the national union.

All Kinds of Sports on Program For Coming Week-End in Manchester

Baseball, Football and Soccer On Bill for Fans' Selections

Unusually Well-Balanced and Varied Array of Sports Offer Splendid Entertainment for Saturday and Sunday.

Manchester fans are going to have plenty to select from in the field of sport over the coming week-end. Baseball, football and soccer games are on the program. And there will also be the World Series games via the radio for hundreds. A large number from this town are planning to go to New York City to see the first two games between the Yanks and the Cardinals.

High School Opens Saturday there will be a big football game at the McKee street stadium. The local high school grid eleven is opening its season facing Buckley High of New London. The Sons of Italy baseball team will play in Middletown against the State Hospital team.

Sunday the Cloverleaves will open their 1926 season at Hickey's Grove against the Falcons of Derby. The North End team won the town title last year and is out to repeat the stunt this season.

Soccer Attraction The Manchester Soccer eleven will face a tough opponent in the Hartford Swedes. This game will be played at the McKee street stadium Sunday afternoon. The scheduled game in Waterbury has been cancelled and the home game substituted in its place. It will be a stellar attraction inasmuch as the Swedes won the league title last season.

Over at the West Side playgrounds the fans will have an opportunity to watch the last baseball game of the season. The Sons of Italy have booked the Hartford Colored Stars for a double-header in order to ring down the curtain in a fitting manner. The first game will start at 2 o'clock.

So, judging from this programme, Manchester sport lovers have plenty to pick from and it is hard to tell which is the piece de resistance. Every attraction will be well worth seeing.

Football Captains

PAUL SMITH Iowa

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 30.—Iowa is looking forward to a winning season on the gridiron this fall. And unless the early campaign does it wrong, Burt Ingwersen's boys will cause plenty of trouble in Western Conference circles. Nick Kutsch, the galloping cowboy, is expected to repeat some of his famous feats of last year, while young Cuhel, the hurdler, should likewise show to advantage.

The Hawkeyes are captained by Paul Smith. Smith plays end and, though not the greatest in Big Ten competition, is nevertheless a strong lead at the position. Smith is especially adept at grabbing passes and should prove mighty valuable in the over-head game this fall. Along with Kutsch and Cuhel, he's a big cog in the spoke of the Iowa team.

On the defense Smith is a tough customer for opposing runners to circle. The Hawk is almost impossible to box and, when he tackles, the man with the ball knows he's been hit and usually stops in his tracks.

SOCCER ATTRACTIONS

Springfield professional soccer team is scheduled to meet Brooklyn Wanderers at League Park, Springfield, on Saturday, the kick-off being set for 3 o'clock. As both teams occupy high positions in the American League standing, a keen contest should be the result of this meeting. Like the New York Giants who played in Springfield last Saturday, Brooklyn includes in its lineup several Jewish players from the famous Hakoah club of Vienna, which completed a successful tour of this country and Canada last spring.

The Springfield club management has an aside forward on his way here from Brentford, an English League, third division, club, and he is expected to arrive in New York on Sunday when the S. S. Cameronia docks. He will be in the lineup for the game with Providence on October 9. President Richard E. Hadley announces that the Springfield eleven to meet Brooklyn will be the same as that which did so well against the New York Giants last week.

Class I railroads of the United States spend in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 annually for forest products, and thus constitute the market for about 2 per cent of the country's lumber production.

HORNBY'S LOSS CARDINALS' GAIN

Death of Rogers' Mother Removes Uncertainty; Walsh Looks for St. Louis to Play Great Ball.

(BY DAVIS J. WALSH)

New York, Sept. 30.—Pagliacci made them laugh though the smirk of his lips was false and the heart within him died. But they laughed. That, I think, will tell the story of the 1926 World Series between the Yankees of New York and the Cardinals of St. Louis. Grim fate took a hand in the proceedings yesterday with the announcement that Mrs. J. D. Hornsby had died in Austin, Texas, and the news, simple and tragic, probably decided the destiny of an event of national importance.

Favors Cards The writer believes that the death of Mrs. Hornsby, mother of the Cardinal manager, made certain what probably was an impending St. Louis victory. Every indication pointed toward it, in the first place, but the Cards now will go in there with psychology in their favor and a ball club so endowed seldom goes wrong in a World Series.

The old Athletics were told the Cubs were unbeatable. They went in there to die gamely. They didn't; they lived and won. The Boston Braves were lashed into a lather over an alleged altercation between Stallings and Connie Mack. They went out to avenge a fancied slight and won in straight. The Washington Senators fought to redeem the failure of Walter Johnson and the first thing they knew they had the title on their hands. Pittsburgh found the Senators lidding around and not bearing down in the final games of 1925 and the last rush of the Pirates was too much for any club to sustain.

Never Falls They had psychology batting in tenth position and the old man never fails. For the same reason, they laughed at Pagliacci. He cared not at all whether they laughed or cried and naturally the rest was easy. I think Rogers Hornsby will play great ball in the World Series.

The riter saw him enter the lobby of the Hotel Alamac last night, white faced and distrait, to receive the news he waited for yet dreaded. I think Hornsby will be a better man for knowing that the end has come. Uncertainty is a cancer that knows the vitals and makes of the knees a study in rubberized gymnastics. Uncertainty has ceased for Hornsby.

Iron in His Soul A firm believer in psychology, the writer looks for a new Hornsby to appear at the Yankee Stadium for the first game on Saturday, a man who knows the iron has entered his soul. They say Hornsby has no nerves. If that is true, it is probable that Hornsby will be an inspired ball player for this particular series.

As for the rest of the Cards, what else can they do but play their fool heads off for a leader so recently bereaved?

With money in one hand and honor in the other, they should be able to laugh off anything. Pagliacci did it.

RAIN SPOILS FINAL Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Rain deprived the Senators of a chance to tie the Athletics for third place when a scheduled doubleheader at Philadelphia was called off.

The St. Mary's basketball team will practice tonight at the School street Rec at 7:15 sharp. Because of important business matters which will be discussed after the practice session, every candidate should report. The following are urged to attend: Dietz, Boyce, Rogers, Dahlquist, Faulkner, Strenson, R. Finnegan, Lutz, Kerr, Dowd.

Andy Yorke, of Bridgeport, will referee the big soccer game between the Manchester eleven and the Hartford Swedes Sunday afternoon at the McKee street stadium. This is one of the most important games of the season and a large turnout of fans is expected.

Red Grange, ex-college star, and now of professional football fame, will appear in Hartford a week from Sunday with his New York Yankee eleven to face the All-New Britain tribe. Many Manchester fans are planning to see the highly touted broken-field runner in action. It is the first time he has played in this locality and a record-breaking crowd will no doubt watch the struggle. Sunday, October 1 is the date.

The Cubs football eleven will journey to Middletown Sunday afternoon to play the Sons of Italy eleven of that place. This will give football fans an opportunity to go over north to see the Cloverleaves open their season.

Sammy Pratt, well-known local soccer player, is confined to his home with a bad cold. The club members are hoping for a speedy recovery so he can jump into the tugs again at his favorite position, forward.

The golf match between Fred J. Bendall and John P. Cheney in the semi-finals of the annual championship tournament at the Country club will probably be played tomorrow afternoon. It was stated this morning, incident weather has made playing conditions unfavorable the last few days. John H. Hyde, who beat Raymond Bowers in the other bracket of the semi-finals will meet the winner of the club championship.

The North Ends will practice tonight at the North End playground sharply at 7 o'clock. The new uniforms will be handed out to all the players. Coach Ray Mooney wishes the following men to be on hand: Crockett, G. Wilson, Krol, McKenna, Sacherk brothers, Evans, Mitchell, Galas, Hamilton, Powers, Tracy, Melon, Chartier, Magnuson, Trouton, E. Wilson and Gustafson. The North Ends will play the heavy Clay Hills of Hartford in the preliminary game to the Cloverleaves Sunday.

DEMPSEY TO BOX WAY TO A RETURN COMBAT New York, Sept. 30.—It was reported today that a formal announcement soon will be forthcoming from the headquarters of Jack Dempsey that the former heavy-weight champion will continue his ring career in the hope of getting a return bout with Gene Tunney. This declaration followed a conference yesterday between Dempsey and Tex Rickard, in which the promoter was said to have urged Jack to stay in the ring.

It also was said that he offered Dempsey a proposition whereby he would make his next appearance in Madison Square Garden as the opponent of the winner of a heavy-weight elimination series. Harry Willis, negro challenger, is not likely to appear in the series as it was said that a Dempsey-Willis match was too big for an indoor club.

Both Dempsey and Rickard claim to be incensed at Willis for his interference with their recent plans.

FEENEY ACCEPTS DEFI TO PLAY FOR PURSE

"Radio Charlie" and Henry Lange to Meet in Big Horse-shoe Pitching Contest.

"Am I going to accept Lange's offer to play for a purse of $100? Well, I should say I am. And it will be some match. You can bet your boots on that."

These were the remarks of Charlie Feeney today in regard to the challenge made by Lange in yesterday's Herald. Feeney said the match is as good as settled.

The referees and other matters will be arranged between the two men early next week. The tentative date for the match is a week from Saturday. The probable grounds on which the match will be fought will be Dan Renn's court.

Further details will be announced later.

The road to success leads in the opposite direction from the road to excess.

New York, Sept. 30.—Torn with anguish by the death of his mother, but unwilling to disregard her dying wishes, Rogers Hornsby will lead his fighting St. Louis Cardinals against the Yankees in the opening game of the World Series here Saturday.

Stunned by grief, the brilliant young manager walked the streets with his wife for hours last evening after receiving word from Austin, Texas, that his mother had died. What finally influenced him to stay here for the first two games of the series was his mother's last message, which he received over the telephone from relatives. It was:

"Don't come here, Rogers, no matter what happens. Stay in New York for the opening game of the World Series—and win."

In another message to Hornsby's wife, the dying woman requested her to stay with Rogers. Hornsby had almost decided to leave for Texas with his wife when he received the news of his mother's death.

Carries Out Wish. "As it is my mother's dying request that I remain with my team until after the series is over, I have decided to carry out her wishes, hard as this will be to me," Hornsby said in making his decision to stay here.

He said his mother's remains would be kept for a funeral after the series is finished.

Hornsby is expected to practice with the Cardinals today. He did not appear on the field yesterday.

This afternoon a tennis match between South Manchester High and St. Thomas is being fought at Pope Park in Hartford. Holland, Cole and McCann are expected to bear the brunt of the attack for Manchester.

Oberlin Tutor, Who Coached in Orient, Brings Grid Trick From Asia

Oberlin, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Paul N. MacEachron, who coached football teams in China for six years, has returned to Oberlin and is looking over candidates for the football team.

One hundred points or bust is the slogan this year for under MacEachron's direction the Oberlin College team ran up 92 points last year to 19 for the opposition. Oberlin won all games but one which was tied, 0-0.

This year MacEachron has a play under cover, which can be called the Chinese criss-cross for want of a better name. At the Oberlin Shansi school in China MacEachron saw some queer plays pulled, and he is working on one with Capt. Bill Lewis of East Cleveland, who has gone into training with the early squad.

Oberlin will have the Wilder brothers back again this year as well as Johnny Fleming and Hansbury. About every 10 years the Oberlin lineup shows brothers. Perhaps the most famous were the Fauver twins, Edgar and Edwin, back in '97 and '98. Thompson of Princeton was the coach. In 1900 and 1901 Clarence and Dwight Bradley broke into the lineup. In '13 and '14 the Dunn boys made the team and now Jock and Chuck Wilder from the western tip of old Virginia keep up the tradition.

The schedule follows: Sept. 25, Baldwin-Wallace at Oberlin; Oct. 2, Marietta at Oberlin; Oct. 9, Mount Union at Alliance; Oct. 16, Western Reserve at Cleveland; Oct. 23, Rochester at Rochester; Oct. 30, Case at Oberlin; Nov. 13, Miami at Oberlin; Nov. 20, Wooster at Oberlin.

MacEachron has good material to build with. He comes from Grinnell College, where he graduated in 1911 and was dean of men and coach for three years.

A CAMERA STUDY OF BABE RUTH AT BAT

Here's an excellent photographic study of a batter's various stances at the plate; also, how the hands grip the club at different moments. In short, it shows the great Babe Ruth (George Herman in social circles), Blagtown's behemoth of the budgeon, in the three important instances of a batter's trip to the swatting station—the start of the swing, the halfway point and the follow through.

At the left you see the Bamb's stance as he gets set to smatch the oncoming spheroid over the centerfield fence; center depicts him at the point of connecting; at the right, you see him as he brings his club around—known as "following through" in baseball parlance. The insets reveal how Babe grips his bat during the same three periods—the start, halfway and the follow through. The photos, some of the most unusual ever taken, were snapped by Louis Van Oeyen, photographer for NEA Service, Inc., during a recent visit of Ruth and the Yankees to Cleveland. They form a most interesting study of the greatest long-distance hitter in all baseball history.

THE money that you spend is like the stage counterfeit that passes freely from one actor to another. Its value is fleeting, illusory. It is in your possession so short a time that you can scarcely call it yours.

You must spend—but you can also save. A part of all you earn belongs to you—to keep. The money you deposit in a bank account is real. It is yours.

An account with us will encourage you to keep money by the simple method of depositing small amounts regularly. A system of weekly deposits is the most convenient and successful. Deposits of one dollar or more, with the addition of compound interest, will keep your account steadily growing.
