

VOTERS APPROVE BOARD'S FIGURES

Cut Only One Appropriation Below Selectmen's Proposals; Highways Budget O. K'd, and Police Second Figure Voted.

Old Man Manchester went into town meeting last night with his mind reconciled to a drastic cut in his living expenses. It has been talked of—a slashing of the town's budget—for the past six months. And, it was taken for granted that the voters were sincere in their expressions that this and the other thing must be done.

Old Man Manchester came out of town meeting with a smile. The voters didn't slash the budget. They just trimmed it neatly here and there, and everybody went home satisfied.

Parks Suffer. The Board of Selectmen's suggestions were accepted by the belligerent approving voters almost to a figure. The only item that suffered was the Parks appropriation, and that went down $5,000 simply because the trimmers had to try but their shears on something.

It was evident from the opening of the meeting that the large group of disgruntled taxpayers was present for no other purpose than to attack the Police budget. And that was one of the items which was trimmed slightly. It was only a shaving off in this department, however, because the $32,400 voted for this year's police expenses is only $1,020.63 less than the amount expended last year.

The highlight of the evening wasn't in the call of the meeting, nor was it on the sheets showing town expenses that were passed out to the voters. It came when Jacob Lauffer, a would-be champion of the over-burdened, arose to tell the voters what they should do. Lauffer just about started his elucidations (Jake didn't use that word) when Moderator William S. Hyde asked him a rather touchy question. It was no pertinent and touchy to Lauffer that he didn't answer it directly. But, Moderator Hyde is a lawyer, and he pressed for a direct reply.

The question was, "Are you a citizen, Mr. Lauffer?" "I'm a taxpayer, and I've got a right to speak," "Answer my question. Are you a citizen?"

Jake insisted he was a taxpayer despite Mr. Hyde's repetition of the question, and he was not a citizen, is not a voter, therefore, and has no right to be present at a town meeting. He quickly told Lauffer that if he didn't stop talking he would be put out. Lauffer, a touchy pugnacon, and Moderator Hyde asked for an officer. Constable Gerald Risley stepped forward and escorted Lauffer from the hall. Aside from being elected a constable by the town of Manchester, Risley is a special officer working from State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn's office.

Had It Coming. Lauffer has been bobbing up at town meetings for the past couple of years, waiting to see how the wind was blowing, and then riding the gale into a lot of bores and guttaws that he has mistaken for applause. He has given the voters something to laugh about while attempting to give them something to think about. Few who listened and laughed realized that he had no right in the presence. Judge Hyde tripped Lauffer up last night, and Jake fell hard. At first the crowd took the turn of affairs lightly but when it was all over Judge Hyde was given a hearty round of hand-clapping.

The first indication that there was feeling against the cost of the police department came when the meeting voted down the motion made by Robert V. Treat, chairman of the Selectmen, calling for sixteen policemen. No motion was offered as a substitute and the matter merely rested until the heat had subsided and then was passed.

Keith's Criticism. George E. Keith arose when the meeting was asked to approve of the various reports of town officers. Mr. Keith talked for forty minutes on the town report, and what it did not contain. He realized the task that was before the Selectmen, but nevertheless he felt that there could be improvement in the way the town was run. He handled. He felt that the reports were not detailed enough, and felt that the reports should be in the hands of taxpayers earlier. No action was taken on any of Mr. Keith's suggestions.

The new East cemetery addition came in for its share of talk despite the fact that this was a live meeting. E. L. G. Hohenthal urged that the Selectmen and Cemetery committee take care that this present beauty spot be kept so. Judge Bowers agreed with Mr. Hohenthal and the meeting promptly voted the Selectmen's proposed appropriation on the cost of the cemetery.

FEW TROUBLE TO VOTE HERE IN ELECTION

Usual Republican Majority Is Recorded at Polls Yesterday; 524 G. O. P. Votes to 103 Democrats.

In contrast to the exciting scenes at the City Hall on primary day was the town election held yesterday. Voters struggled in all through the day but there never was a rush.

When the polls closed at 8 o'clock instead of the City Hall being jammed with men and women anxiously awaiting the result only the officials were present when the machines were read.

The total number of votes cast was 646. Of these the Republicans cast the highest number of votes, 524, for Gerald R. Risley, Thomas J. Rogers, Charles L. Balch, running for assessor on the Democratic ticket was high man of his party, receiving 114 votes.

Little Interest Shown. There was little interest in the election. During the evening hours the City Hall was practically deserted. Most of the taxpayers went to the town meeting at High school hall.

Of course, the entire Republican ticket was elected.

Following are the votes received by each of the candidates:

HALL CASE IN, BRIBERY NOW BEING PROBED

Dickman Says He Refused Carpenter's Check, Took Envelope With $2,500 From Former Prosecutor.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 5.—The State of New Jersey has completed its investigation into the actual murder of Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, who were shot to death four years ago, and has turned to investigate allegations of bribery of witnesses stayed the inquiry launched immediately after the crime. It is predicted that events will take a sensational turn.

The investigation now will center on the affidavit made for the State by Henry L. Dickman, former State trooper. He has charged that he got $2,500 to drop his efforts to solve the mystery. Henry de la Bruyere Carpenter, one of the four indicted for the murder, has denied he was the man who paid Dickman, although an excellent authority has said that Carpenter had been named by Dickman as the briber.

Names Others. It was learned yesterday that Dickman has named others and has given dates and places where he was "interviewed" on his long investigation of the case. This fact was learned, although Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson, appointed to reopen the case, persisted in his stout denials that he knew anything about Dickman's allegations or that Carpenter's name had been mentioned. An investigator on the case who had sworn to what Dickman has sworn to said that the ex-trooper was "hounded" until he accepted the $2,500.

Captain Harry Walsh of the Jersey City Police Department, one of the men assigned to check Dickman's allegations, reported yesterday that he had found the trooper correct in his statement of what happened in New York City.

Three Troopers Used. Dickman gave the names of hotels at which he registered and lived on a scale far beyond his income, which was about $1,500 a year. Walsh, it was said, was assigned only to the New York end of Dickman's statements.

Further details of the allegations made by Dickman in his affidavit and statement to the investigators were obtained last night from two authoritative sources. It was learned that Dickman told his questioners that when he was assigned to the inquiry he put much stock in two other troopers were assigned to help him.

They were Troopers Manigan and Shapiro. Manigan was killed in an effort to frustrate a holdup several years ago. The instructions of the State to report to Amelia Dickman, now dead, who was then Prosecutor of the Peace for Somerset County, and to Fred A. David, Middlesex County detective. Dickman, in his statement to the investigators, alleged that David and Beckman refused to put much stock in discoveries and evidence which Dickman thought was of value.

Accuses Carpenter. Dickman further alleged that some time in March, 1923, he received a call to go to Mr. Beckman's office in Somerville. Dickman said he was in New Brunswick when the call came to him. He went on to allege that Mr. Beckman and Henry Carpenter were in Beckman's office when he got there and that both urged him to drop his investigation.

The former trooper further alleged, according to last night's information, that Mr. Carpenter produced a check book and sought to bribe him, and that Mr. Beckman

Browning's 'Peaches' Quits; Leaves Him for Her Mother

New York, Oct. 5.—"Peaches" Browning and her "Cinderella man," Edward W. Browning, 51-year-old millionaire, have parted—but neither of them would tell why today.

The pretty sixteen-year-old bride has gone back to her mother, Mrs. Catherine Heenan, leaving her honeymoon home in the "princess suite" in the Kew Gardens Inn.

Browning, meanwhile, is at a local hotel, looking careworn and agitated.

"I don't want to talk about this," he said. "All I will say is I am going to be true to myself, also."

He wouldn't say why "Peaches" left. There had been no quarrel, he said. He intimated his bride was only away "for a few days" to visit her mother.

"Peaches" was seemingly as radiant as ever when located at the home of friends in New Jersey. Her mother was with her.

Asked why she and her middle-aged husband has separated, "Peaches" said:

"Mr. Browning will have to answer that." And she added, cryptically:—"And it will be for him to say how long."

Mrs. Heenan said her daughter was ill and "on the verge of a nervous breakdown."

Denial was made by "Peaches" that her husband became angry because she wanted to dance and keep late hours.

The Brownings had been married six months. Shortly after their marriage, Browning said he would have been started from his young bride—"Not even for a day."

MURDER CITIZEN IN RAID ON AIR MAIL

Newark, N. J., Oct. 5.—With the finding here early today of a blood-spattered automobile, posses led by detectives were hot on the trail of two bandits who murdered a motorist and his son last night near New Brunswick, N. J., and attempted to rob the air mail of $500,000.

Police here believed the automobile was the car stolen by the bandits when they fled after killing the motorist, Frank Kearney, 50, a number seller of Maplewood, N. J., and probably fatally wounded his son Robert, 15. The robbers threw Mrs. Kearney into a ditch. She is not expected to live.

Fog prevented the bandits from seeing posters for the mail plane leaving Handley Field, near New Brunswick, for Cleveland and Chicago. The pouches contained currency and negotiable securities valued at $500,000.

In the bandits' own car, which was disabled in a collision near New Brunswick, detectives found two shotguns, four pistols and fifty rounds of ammunition, with which it is believed they planned to rob the air mail.

When their machine was disabled the bandits stopped the Kearney car and demanded the money. When Kearney refused, they shot and killed him and started up the road, carrying Mrs. Kearney and her son Robert with them.

Son Shows Fight. Robert grappled with them. They shot him through the head and tossed him from the car. His condition is critical.

A minute later the bandits threw Mrs. Kearney from the speeding machine. She suffered serious injuries and is not expected to live.

Police believe one of the robbers was "Burrhead" notorious in the East who escaped while on his way to Sing Sing a few months ago.

They were Troopers Manigan and Shapiro. Manigan was killed in an effort to frustrate a holdup several years ago. The instructions of the State to report to Amelia Dickman, now dead, who was then Prosecutor of the Peace for Somerset County, and to Fred A. David, Middlesex County detective. ### NO HOPE FOR 23 IMPRISONED BY BLAST IN MINE

Tennessee Coal Workings Full of Poison Fumes; 4 Bodies Found, 4 Miners Rescued, Out of 31.

Rockwood, Tenn., Oct. 5.—No hope was held today for the lives of 23 men entombed in the Roane Iron Company's coal mine here following a gas explosion yesterday which trapped 31 miners. Four bodies have been rescued.

According to Deputy Mine Inspector A. J. Holden, who is directing the rescue work, there is not the slightest chance of finding any of the remaining 23 victims alive.

They were not killed by the explosion, they are certain to have succumbed to the deadly black after-damp," Holden said.

Danger of another gas explosion loomed today as rescue workers slowly penetrated into the workings.

Waves of Gas Fumes. The gas fumes poured forth in great waves and leaders of rescue operations expressed fear that the coal has caught fire and that there was a possibility of another explosion at any moment.

M. E. Cash, of the federal bureau of mines in Birmingham, Ala., has arrived here with a crew of twelve men in a special car and has taken charge of rescue work.

This morning the rescue workers were still about 1,500 feet from the spot where the remaining mine victims are entombed and it was not expected that any more bodies would be recovered for several hours.

The explosion occurred about three miles from the put mouth exactly the same spot where a similar explosion last year took the lives of ten men.

Mal King, sole survivor of last year's disaster, was a member of the first rescue party to enter the mine. Other rescue crews were quickly formed and entered the mine with oxygen helmets two hours after the explosion.

One rescue party came upon E. G. Boles and Eddie Davis, unconscious from the effects of the gas, and the body of W. C. Elliott on a track about a quarter of a mile from the explosion.

ST. LOUIS GOES PLUMB LOONEY OVER "SERIES"

Armistice Day in Paris a Flop Compared to Mad Delight of Citizens Over 38 Year Hope Realized.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—Keyed high in the upper octaves of a civic emotionalism such as Paris knew on the night of the armistice, the banks of the Big Muddy were a riotous revel this morning as St. Louis awoke to greet the day of all days. To the rest of the country, the occasion was merely the third game of the 1926 world series between the Yankees and Cardinals, but to St. Louis it was the day on which the world began and the past became as nothing.

The alma-seeker stood by in mute amazement, glad of a crumb from the rich man's table. St. Louis never was so humble as that, though it starved for want of nourishment that comes unasked to the town that harbors a pennant winner. It neither asked nor granted favors and today it had the reward that belongs to any town that has fought the good fight and has kept the faith.

Adversity Forgotten. Yes, St. Louis was to have its world's series at last and the 38 years of adversity were only a vague, unpleasant memory hardly worthy of any man's regret in this, the big moment of the town's history.

Indeed, it was not altogether unlikely that, as the merry citizenry leaped lightly from crag to crag, uttering strange piercing sounds, any one deemed it either necessary or expedient to think of the traps of the great famine, when the hour of the big feast was at hand. It was doubtful, in fact, whether any normal citizen took the trouble to think at all.

Certainly the men at the wheels of those careening motor cars, racing up and down the highways with sirens shrieking and wash boilers clattering from the rear axle, had reduced his introspection to a minimum. So had the festering thousands on the sidewalks who shouted aloud for the pure joy of living and likewise those playful agents who pushed and hauled at trolley cars with the rather ambitious intention of rolling them over on the street.

All Thought Up. St. Louis, apparently always had known what it would do if it got a world's series. It couldn't have thought up all these tricks between the time the Cardinals clinched the National League pennant and their triumphant return to town for the third game of the big series, tied with the Yankees at one victory each.

But gifted as it is, St. Louis will have to pull a sort of civic rabbit out of the hat this afternoon when the whole state of Missouri will converge, at least in spirit, on Sportsman's Park with the general idea of sitting itself down in 35,000 chairs. In effect, a dress rehearsal of the millennium was on and most of the boys out this way were due to listen to it and not see it.

Willmantic Youth Dies From Gas Burns. Willmantic, Oct. 5.—Edgar Breton, 20, died in St. Joseph's hospital here today from burns he received last Thursday when an employe of a local gas station filled Breton's motorcycle with ill engine was running.

Sun Breaks Through Rain

Clouds for Third Contest; Haines for Cards, Reuther for Yanks, Start the Volleying; Stands Jammed With 37,000 Spectators.

THIRD INNING

Cards, 0 Yankees, 0

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Oct. 5.—The festive board was laid this afternoon for an old home week barbecue and St. Louis tucked its napkin under its chin, clutched a knife and fork firmly in either hand and fell upon the feast with the gusto of a man who knows what it means to go hungry.

Even a shower of rain could not dampen the enthusiasm. For thirty-eight lean years St. Louis had lived on a diet of bread and water which might be healthful in the extreme but not necessarily sustaining. It was not to be stopped by a dash of rain now.

Pooh-Pooh for the Rain. The entrées, the sweetbreads, the caviar and all the fixings were to afternoon with the staging of the third game of the 1926 world series between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees. And a little rain meant nothing. Never before in world's series history had St. Louis been the scene of the classic and it conducted itself accordingly.

Rain Stops. Thirty-six or thirty-seven thousand roaring, raving but normally sane citizens acted as delegates for the entire state of Missouri to the convention of joy and the possibilities that bad weather might intervene or that the Cardinals might lose and thus stake the Yankees to the edge on the series at the vicarities to one were not given the consideration of a fleeting moment. They felt that the fates, having decreed that the Cardinals were to win a pennant, could not be so inconsiderate as to mar the celebration in any way. The average St. Louisian felt that St. Louis couldn't and wouldn't go wrong.

In fact the gods seemed to relent after giving this evidence of their whimsicality and the rain stopped almost as abruptly as it began.

Unofficial estimates of the attendance placed the number of customers at 37,000. The stands themselves seated 35,000. About 1,500 spectators rested firmly on their flat feet in the rear of the house.

Just at game time, Reuther and Haines were announced as the rival pitchers.

VOTERS APPROVE BOARD'S FIGURES

paratively little considering the fact that the appropriations for streets in the next budget are the largest of the current expenses in the budget. The proposed budget of $7,000 was voted with slight objection. Oiling to cost $15,000 was voted after some discussion as to what streets were oiled and what were not.

The health of the town entered the arguments, but there was little objection to the $15,000 expenditure which it was put to vote.

Alexander Trotter threw the wrench that jammed the smooth working machinery from giving the Park commission what it asked for. Trotter said the Center Springs pond was nothing more than a muck hole, and criticized the way the workmen constructed the stone wall in the new parkway. W. W. Robertson, in the absence of Chairman William C. Cheney of the commission, explained why the board was asking for $15,000. It was at this point that the Lauffer episode detracted from business affairs for the moment.

Rising Vote. A rising vote was necessary on the park appropriations and the tellers reported 266 voting, 172 against and 94 for. A large number present did not vote. The $10,000 appropriation was made.

They came the police appropriation. Chairman Treat proposed $36,000, and it was immediately amended to make the police budget $25,000 by John Sullivan. Here Police Commissioner Rogers stood up to defend the police budget.

There was a murmur of disapproval when Commissioner Rogers took the floor, but none when he sat down. The department's good work, and a clear statement of what the money was needed for was made by Mr. Rogers. The change in the department's budget was made to change its methods and this meant money. Children must be protected on the highways and this called for traffic policemen. In concluding Mr. Rogers said that he felt that the department could get along with the second budget proposed by the Selectmen, that of $32,400. He amended the amendment to the original motion making the appropriation $32,400. When a rising vote was taken 193 favored the second budget and only 3 favored the $25,000 appropriation. Those who had been booing and threatening during the meeting did not rise to vote the question.

The Retreat. As soon as this business had been voted the larger portion of the voters retreated. It was only another evidence of the assertion that the voters were interested mainly in the police budget. It was astonishing to many present that so many had come to oppose the budget and then at the critical moment failed to vote on the question.

All other budget appropriations were voted in less time that it takes to call them off. The meeting came to a close after the following measures were voted. The closing hour was 11:05 p. m. making one of the longest and also one of the most largely attended town meetings in several years.

Other Measures. Voted: That when this meeting adjourns, it adjourn to March 7, 1927, at eight o'clock in the afternoon, and that on said day a tax be levied and the rate of such tax fixed in accordance with the statutory requirements.

Voted: That Alexander Duncan be appointed Sexton and Superintendent of the East Cemetery of said Manchester.

That John Tresch be appointed Sexton and Superintendent of the West Cemetery of said Manchester.

That Martin Koehler be appointed Sexton and Herbert O. Bowser appointed Superintendent of the Northwest Cemetery of said Manchester.

Voted: That the Selectmen be and they are hereby authorized to borrow in the name of the Town from time to time, during the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1926, a sum or sums of money, not to exceed in the aggregate $700,000.00, for the payment of current town expenses, and give the note or notes of the Town for such payable within one year of their date, said notes not to be valid unless authenticated by the certificates of the First National Bank of Boston, Mass.

Voted: That a Committee of three, consisting of Robert V. Treat, Robert J. Smith, and Thomas J. Rogers, be and they are hereby appointed to act with the State Board of Education in the conduct of the Trade School; and that this Committee be and they are hereby authorized to enter into an agreement in behalf of the Town for the operation and conduct of the Trade School.

3 U. S. MISSIONARIES CAPTIVES OF CHINESE

Washington, Oct. 5.—Every effort is being made to obtain the release of three American missionaries who were captured by Chinese bandits at Mallwan, in North Hunan, on September 23, John C. Vincent, American consul at Changsha, advised the State Department today.

The missionaries are Misses Lydia Koebbe, of Grass Lake, Michigan, and Minerva Well, Bethlehem, Pa., and Karl Beck, Philadelphia.

CANADIAN ENTRY FOR THE FISHERMEN'S RACE

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 5.—Canada today definitely entered the fishermen's race to be run off this fishing port next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. W. H. Dennis, donor of the international trophy at Halifax, wired the local race committee that the Nova Scotia fisherman Haligonian would be at the starting line on Monday, alongside the American entries, the Columbia and Henry Ford.

ABOUT TOWN

Helen Davidson Lodge, Daughters of Scotia has been invited to attend the evening service at South Methodist church Sunday evening, October 10, when the pastor, Rev. Joseph Cooper will preach on "The Religion of Sir Walter Scott," and a quartet will render Scottish songs. The meeting will be open to the general public but it is of particular interest to all Scotch people.

Lady Roberts Lodge, Daughters of St. George will hold its regular meeting in Tinker hall tomorrow evening at 8:00 p. m. sharp. A large attendance is desired as there will be an initiation of some that were formerly members of the lodge. Plans will also be made for the printer socials and refreshments will be served.

PROSECUTORS MAY NOW ACT FOR DEFENDANTS

Hartford, Oct. 5.—Judges of the superior court meeting yesterday, adopted a new rule of court procedure which will allow prosecutors to defend accused in any county of the state except their own. The rule, adopted to give small town prosecutors opportunity for more extensive practice, in effect allows a state's attorney of one county to defend in a criminal action in another county. The old rule prohibited such practice and was repealed by the judges.

FORFEITS $6,000 BAIL

Waterbury, Oct. 5.—Alphonse Varlese forfeited six thousand dollars bail today when his case was called in Superior court here. Varlese, a restaurant proprietor, was charged with a statutory offense against a young girl who is confined in a state institution. The girl's father has a $1,000 civil action pending against Varlese.

SHIP ON FIRE WITH 400 SOULS ABOARD

New York, Oct. 5.—The steamship York, with more than 400 passengers aboard, was after today at quarantine, with water being poured into her hold by the fireboat William J. Gaynor.

The ship is of British registry. She sailed from Greece on September 17, and was due to dock here this forenoon.

American Abroad. The Byron carried among her passengers a number of American citizens returning from Greece. There was no panic among the passengers, although for a time before the arrival of the fireboat they were in a perilous position. Two guard boats were standing by in case of emergency.

Sped In Smoke Pall. The Byron was lying off Ambrose channel lightship waiting for a heavy fog to lift when the fire was discovered.

Captain Sigala's immediately ordered full speed ahead and the liner went racing up the harbor, her sirens shrieking, and heavy pall of smoke mixing with the fog to entirely obscure the shore.

An S. O. S. call to the naval communications station brought the Gaynor hurrying down the bay. She turned her burning vessel and started filling her hold with water.

By the time the ship had arrived at quarantine the fire was said to be under control.

City firemen boarded the vessel and filled the hold with live steam, which effectually smothered the blaze.

Witness in Army. According to Dickman's statement, he is a witness of major importance. This alleged witness, according to Dickman, enlisted in the army. Dickman, who was a prisoner on Alcatraz Island when the investigators first found him, says that the important witness was his cell-mate there.

Senator Simpson, in asking that the Hall-Mills trials start on Nov. 3, said that a vital witness was still on the Pacific Coast. It was understood last night that Dickman's cell-mate and this witness were one and the same.

joined in the suggestion. The former trooper, however, according to his affidavit, walked out.

In April, 1923, according to Dickman's statement, he received a telephone call for him to go to Mr. Beekman's house in Bound Brook. He alleges that he talked to the late prosecutor about the Hall-Mills case and that Mr. Beekman told him to look in a letter box in the hall as he went out and to keep the brown envelope he would find there.

$2500 in Envelope. According to the two versions of Dickman's charges, the trooper asserts that he did so and found that the envelope contained twenty-five $100 bills.

Continuing their separate narrations of what Dickman alleged—each person discussing the affidavit unknown to the other—last night's informants said that Dickman declared he gave $800 of the money to Manigan to hold for him. Dickman said he then went to New York City, to a hotel in Broadway, between Forty-second Street and Thirty-fourth Street. He registered under another name. Later, he claimed the $800 from Manigan, who paid him.

Bearing directly on the murder itself was the name of a man, which Dickman is reported to have given to the investigators. This man, who has been called "Mr. Y," was represented by Dickman to have been near the scene of the murder. He was mentioned four years ago but as of minor importance.

"SUBWAY SADIE" NOW SHOWING AT CIRCLE

Speed Reigns Supreme in Picture of Merry Broadway; Jack Mulhall, Dorothy Mackall and Charlie Murray Featured.

An ultra-smart fashion show, unusual scenes in New York's subway, a night club scene that for sheer brilliance has rarely been equaled, a sweet and simple story well told, well directed and well acted and settings that deserve unstinted praise are the outstanding features in "First National's" latest picture, "Subway Sadie," at the Circle Theatre here, today and tomorrow.

Dorothy Mackall, Jack Mulhall and Charles Murray are featured, and First National could not have made a better selection of players. These three are ideally cast.

"Subway Sadie" is a story about a New York working girl who meets a subway guard. They fall in love with each other. But the course of true love never does run smooth, even in pictures. The romance is called off when Sadie gets her cherished opportunity to go to Paris as buyer for her store. The marriage that had been planned is indefinitely postponed.

"COUNTRY STORE NITE" AT STATE TOMORROW

"Variety" Greatest Picture in Years, Presented for Last Times Tonight.

Tomorrow night the State will have its weekly "Country Store Nite" and a real "surprise night."

There will also be a good double feature picture program. The first feature will be "The Earth Woman," with Mary Alden and Priscilla Bonner.

There will also be a good double feature picture program. The first feature will be "The Earth Woman," with Mary Alden and Priscilla Bonner.

The other picture will be "The Pace That Thrills," an auto race picture that is a love thriller that'll knock you off your seat. In it are featured Ben Lyon and Mary Astor.

For the last times tonight the State will present that master UFA drama of the show world, "Variety." Never a picture like this before, and maybe, never another again. See Emil Jannings, the world's finest actor, and Lya DePuilly in the greatest picture in years, and one of the few great pictures of all time.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week will witness the presentation of another good vaudeville bill at the State. Five acts of select vaudeville will be presented. The first act will be Watson's Dogs in "Educated Pets."

The second will be Leddy & Leddy in "Comedy Bits of Trimmings." Following this will come the three Kenna Sisters in "Three Entertaining Misses."

The fourth act will be Bobby Carbone & Co. in "The New Boy." The headliner will be an act of five people, "A Modern Revue." The feature picture to go with the vaudeville will be Gloria Swanson in her latest farce, "Fine Manners," an extremely hilarious social satire of fine people who "get their feet wet in hot water."

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week, the State takes great pleasure in announcing Douglas Fairbanks' latest and best picture will be presented. "The Black Pirate" is a picture filmed entirely in natural colors, and is a thrilling tale of blood thirsty pirates out on the bounding main.

TOWN MEETING.

Manchester's annual town meeting, last night, was a far more satisfactory demonstration of self-government than many of such meetings in the past.

The gathering was also satisfactory in the fact that its determinations constituted a second vindication of the administration of the board of selectmen, every member of which won re-nomination at the recent primaries.

The meeting proved conclusively that the scale of service on which the selectmen have been conducting the affairs of the town is just about the scale which the people of the community want and feel that they can afford.

Under the adoption of the selectmen's preferential budget, contemplating a 14 mill tax, it will be possible to carry on the business of the town on a basis of adequate service without waste or extravagance.

In addition to the matter of attendance—for which the Herald is not too modest to suggest that it may have had something to do—another highly gratifying aspect of the meeting was the long needed action of Moderator Hyde in putting a stop to the illegal and demoralizing practice of permitting non-citizens and non-voters to take part in such meetings.

TOWN ELECTIONS.

There is no drift away from Republicanism in this state and congressional election year, judging from the result of the town elections yesterday.

There is, of course, no tremendous amount of actual political significance in the town elections as bearing on state, congressional and presidential contests, except in times when there is a serious popular revulsion—in which case the October elections in Connecticut have sometimes in the past shown the effect of a strong political trend.

partisan divisions cutting but a secondary figure.

The comparatively few shifts of party control in the Connecticut towns would seem to indicate, if anything, that there is absolutely no partisan excitement in this state this year, nothing whatever to indicate that the November election will not follow what has come to be the normal course in Connecticut, resulting in an unimpaird Republican majority all along the line.

Of course such an outcome has already been discounted. The prestige of Connecticut in Congress was never greater than it is today, the state government was never better administered than it has been under Governor Trumbull, there was never a time when opposition would have had more difficulty in getting a toe hold on the walls of the G. O. P. defenses, and certainly never a time when the Democratic party of the state was at such an extraordinarily low ebb of efficiency, either as to issues or organization.

It only needed the extra proof provided by a Republican gain in the results of the town elections to make assurance doubly sure that Connecticut will turn up a record breaking majority in November, for an off-year state and congressional election.

FIVE DAY WEEK.

The American Federation earned, during the war and under the leadership of the late Samuel Gompers, a certain degree of tolerance even among those people who find little in the policies of that body to commend itself to their intelligence.

When, however, the organization declares for a forty hour week in industry, with two full days off and only five days of labor, eight hours to the day, and announces that it proposes to fight it out on that line, it flies a debit against any credit account it may have had in the minds of the American people, which will promptly wipe out the balance.

American industry can stand no such strain as this which the Federation of Labor proposes to impose upon it. There is a very serious question whether the country is not already over-extended in certain lines in which Federation schedules of wages and hours have produced super-normal costs—such, for example as the building and automotive trades; and in the larger cities it has become necessary for banks to scrutinize with great care loans requested for building at inflated prices, and in many cases to refuse them.

There are any number of lines of industry in which American production prices would become so great as to tear away all the advantages of a protective tariff and open the way for a perfect flood of foreign manufactures.

It would be a pleasant thing, no doubt, if we could all get a fine fat living by working five, or four or three days a week. But it happens that we can't. We cannot let our industrial and business plants lie idle for two-sevenths of the days as well as all the nights, without disaster. We cannot compete, on any such basis, with countries where people work eleven and twelve hours, six days a week—in some eastern countries seven days.

If Henry Ford, with his singularly specialized business, sees fit to run his plant five days instead of six it may be because he finds no need of making his business pay, any longer—or it may possibly be that he hasn't orders enough to keep his factories going more than forty hours. In either case what he does is absolutely no criterion of what other American industries can do and survive.

The sense of the country will be utterly opposed to the Federation of Labor movement—which is another way of saying that the Federation is on a losing card.

WASTED POWDER.

It would seem to an outsider to be rather unfortunate that George K. Morris, chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, in his campaign book article, should have seen fit to paint Governor Al Smith as a conniver and political associate with murderers, bandits, burglars, etc. The addition of some fifty-three millions of dollars to the annual expenditures of the state of New York under the Smith regime would seem to be fairly good material for his opponents to work on, plus the Smith proposal to abandon the barge canal in the interests of the New York Central railroad, plus the development that the proposed "state-owned" water powers are planned to be utilized as profit-taking conveniences by favored corporations.

There is no lack whatever of excellent material for the New York Republicans to employ in their campaign without making quite such a leading issue of the fact that in four years Governor Smith has pardoned 238 criminals and restored the right to vote to 863 ex-convicts. No state election is going to be won in New York by telling the people about the intimate relations between Tammany and the underworld. There is no news in it.

Pretty much everybody in that state already knows that those relations exist and also know just about how close they are and how far they go. No great amount of furor is going to be kicked up by such disclosures.

What can be made effective is to show that the Smith administration has cost the people of upstate New York a lot of money and come near costing them their competing canal.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 5.—To thousands of men in Manhattan such matters as hair, complexion, dress and manure are quite as important as to the army of women who keep the cash registers of beauty shops busy.

And, strange to say, they are not professional Beau Brummels, but dignified men of many professions—chiefly lawyers, doctors, brokers and the like.

The Fifth Avenue dandy, with his immaculate gray spats, striped afternoon pants, trick vest and carefully shined derby, has already been widely advertised. The "sugar papa" and his little brother, the "afternoon tea hound," are all accepted models of sartorial flash.

Smaller cities are not so well acquainted with these types but in Manhattan the number of whom "appearance is everything" is countless.

But there has sprung up, out of the modern pressure of business and professional life, that new self-sentenced "dandy"—the man who will not let himself get old.

He believes that it is part of his business duty to keep himself looking young.

One of a famous firm of "beautifiers" in the "expensive fifties" tells me that over a period of months prominent medical men, lawyers and other professional men have been coming for hair treatments, hair dyes and wrinkle removing.

Although this concern seeks the custom of midlife, it has been found difficult to keep out her aging spouse. If wife is going to stay young then, bigosh, so's hubby.

They arrive at the beauty parlor as soon as the first white hairs appear above their brows. These gray and white streaks are dyed to match the natural color.

"They tell me that a youthful appearance is very important now," explained the artist, who has been beautifying New York for nearly half a century. "They say that good looks is a tremendously important factor today. Really, I don't know what were coming to—though it does make business good—but I can't see why this sudden rush for youth is on. Age and experience were always associated—and now they all want to look young."

There is another place, I am told, where men go to have their hair marcelled. The patrons are, for the most part, Broadway actors, middle-aged men interested in taking "young things" to parties and sugar daddies.

The center of the beautifying industry in New York is the middle fifties, just east of Fifth Avenue.

Here one may see at first hand the gentlemen who invented the permanent wave and who can go through life without worry as the result.

Here one can also see, adorning the walls, the picture of the first marcel wave achieved in America, to say nothing of a life-sized portrait of M. Marcel himself.

This is the very capital of vanity. And there is something about its pretensions and its artificiality that cause me to smile—no matter how seriously others may take such things.

GILBERT SWAN.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The storm-tossed sailor who voiced his pity for the poor people ashore, in the midst of toppling chimneys and flying debris, knew what he was talking about, according to the coast guard folk.

And the way the coast guardsmen tell it, it does sound logical. When anything on land is hit by a storm, they point out, it simply has to take it, whereas a ship gets out of the way.

A storm like the one which did so much damage in the southeastern United States, they continue, is just a big whirl—so big that it appears to be blowing straight ahead, but in reality it whirles, though it's true that it moves ahead at the same time.

It's worst at the center. The experienced mariner knows, from the looks of it, where the center is and takes mighty good care to steer in some other direction, even if it isn't the one he'd prefer to take.

Of course, if a ship is disabled and can't clear the track for a storm's vortex to pass, it's in a bad way—bad as being on land.

But, given a staunch craft and adequate searoom and the guardsmen are a unit in declaring they'd far rather be safely on the billows than ashore in such a hurricane as the one which swept Miami.

Indeed, the guard seem to think that practically all the marine disasters that happen are caused by navigators who don't know their business or who deliberately shave storm centers too closely rather than lose time of going around.

A householder ashore has no choice but must make the best of whatever comes along.

Army and navy aviators quite generally agree that they'd rather be away high up in the air above such a storm as the recent one than on the ground in the midst of it—if they could only remain above it indefinitely.

Aviators are at the disadvantage of having to rise through a gale and descend again into it. They concede that taking off in the Florida hurricane or descending in the teeth of it would have been impossible, but to be above it and stay above it would be greatly preferable they maintain, to being on the ground, blow about by it.

It would be just the same, they add, if an aviator could tell just when a storm was starting, for him to hop off and run away from the worst of it, as a sailor does.

It's true that nobody knows just how high the roof of one of these storms is. Still, it's fairly well established that storm and calm go in layers. A tremendous commotion can be in progress close to terra firma, with fair weather above it—or vice versa.

A great deal of research work is going on along this line at present. Aviation developed it. The time probably never will come when planes will ascend through a severe surface storm, even though calm may prevail on top of it, any more than a ship—with the exception of the coast guard's revenue cutters, which specialize on that very stunt—puts to sea in the face of alarming weather, even though there's good weather on the other side of it.

The time may easily come, however, when planes will maneuver vertically, to get out of a storm center, just as surface ships now maneuver horizontally.

DAILY POEM

COMPARISON

Say, man, when you think you are down on your luck, and shy on the thing that's referred to as pluck, and stop in your pathway and think you are stuck, you're just giving in to the life you must buck.

The thought that will oft help a fellow come through, is thinkin' of people much worse off than you. Their sufferin' the attacks and ne'er bat an eye. Run that through your mind—and you're sittin' right high.

No matter how hard you have hit the reverse, remember, ol' top that it might be much worse. Comparison's really a mighty good salve. Be thankful at least, for whatever you have.

There's always the fellow—just take it from me—who think's you're as lucky as lucky can be. Well, maybe he's right. If his hunch makes you glad, perhaps, after all, things aren't really so bad.

The real fun in life is in wishin' for things. It pep's you to work for whatever work brings. Don't look on the blue side. That just makes you sore. By just keepin' tryin', ya get that much more.

TOM SIMS SAYS— Just a few more weeks before woman's place will be in the fur coat.

One fairly reliable sign of winter is the annual announcement of a plumber shortage.

When Thanksgiving comes, we all can be thankful that bill collectors don't carry guns.

The fellow who thinks life's a joke finds it's on him.

Always be careful about electing a politician who has strings tied to him. He has his drawbacks.

Twenty years ago today those who criticize our young people now were young people being criticized.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Stephen Decatur (6)

Decatur called for volunteers from his ship, the Enterprise, and all clamored to be taken. With a chosen crew the Intrepid dashed for the harbor. The harbor was protected by more than 100 big guns, and a single broadside would have sunk the ketch commanded by Decatur.

As the Intrepid drew near the Philadelphia in the moonlight the Americans were recognized and a cry went up.

Over the side swept the Americans. Tripolitan officers and men, rushing from below, were cut down as they reached the deck. The Americans triumphed in 10 minutes. With torches the Americans fired the frigate. The belated crash of batteries came from the shore as Decatur and his brave men cast away.

Bob-Cat

live growing creature, should sometimes take for his supper some of the new game that comes his way. And when the concealed trap grips his foot, and after days of suffering the trapper comes to kill him, why should he not fight for the life that is being taken from him.

But man is at the head of creation, someone says, and his institutions must not be interfered with. Well, so it seems, for there are those who seem to perceive already the beginning of the end of the age of mammals, of which man claims to be chief, and the beginning of the era of insects.

If this be true should not man carefully weigh the evidence before he destroys even the race of bobcats, for he has not yet learned the place held by this wild creature in the economy of nature. Let us learn more about him before he exterminate him from the world, for when he is gone it will be too late.

TAX COLLECTOR'S NOTICE!

All persons liable by law to pay taxes in the NINTH SCHOOL DISTRICT of Manchester are hereby notified I shall be ready October 1, 1926, to collect a tax of 2 1/2 mills on the dollar laid on the list of 1925, due the collector October 1, 1926.

I shall be at the store of C. E. HOUSE & SON, Main Street, South Manchester every day during regular business hours and Tuesday and Saturday nights until 9 o'clock and at the office of GUSTAVE SCHREIBER & SONS, 285 West Center Street, South Manchester Wednesday nights only for the collection of said taxes.

Take Notice—The law provides that if any taxes shall remain unpaid one month after the same shall become due, interest at the rate of nine per cent. shall be charged from the time that such tax becomes due until the same is paid, also lawful fees for travel or collecting after November 15, 1926.

THOMAS W. GRAHAM, Collector. South Manchester, Sept. 30, 1926.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK

Wild-cat, he used chiefly to be called, but now bob-cat seems to be the accepted name, because his tail is shorter than that of our domesticated cat. His real nature, however, is exactly similar to that of his relative of the town.

In other words, our own town has not changed one iota since those days, now so distant that we do not know either the time nor the place of his enslavement, if such a word can be used to describe the domestication of an animal so little tamed that after all these ages he still takes all, and gives nothing.

Now our bob-cat is by no means the savage and untamable beast that he is usually pictured. Nature, it is true, has decreed that he live by taking toll of such creatures of the forest as are weaker than himself, and in their pursuit he is no more relentless than the robin who searches the lawn for earthworms, or the king-bird who sits all day on the orchard bough snapping up each insect as it comes along.

True, man has invaded the haunts of the original inhabitants of the forest, and has brought with him his flocks and herds. Is it any wonder if the poor bob-cat, finding the creatures on which he used to

LIBRARY MOVEMENT NOW 50 YEARS OLD

Association Members Observe Anniversary This Week in Philadelphia.

"This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the American Library Association and in many respects the birth of the public library movement." Miss Jossamine H. Smith stated today in an interview.

"To signify this year the association is holding an anniversary conference in Atlantic City and Philadelphia during the present week. Invitations have been sent to practically every country in the world, and many foreign delegates have signified their desire to have a part in the occasion. In commemoration of the anniversary, a special meeting and reception will be held tomorrow in Philadelphia in the library of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. This is the same society which served as host to the American Library Association when it was organized at the Centennial in 1876.

"That there are still 51,000,000 people in the United States and Canada who do not have access to public libraries, is a fact recently brought to light by an investigation of library extension by the A. L. A. The fact indicates, I believe that the past fifty years of library process still leaves much to be done in the way of library development. The future plans will accordingly be an even more important topic than the past accomplishments at the A. L. A. jubilee conference.

Also the fact that 51,000,000 still lack libraries, as Miss Smith pointed out, places Manchester with its South End Library established 55 years ago among the more progressive half of American communities.

MANCHESTER COMMUNITY CLUB ACTIVITIES

The directors of the Manchester Community club will have a meeting in the conference room this evening.

The regular Wednesday evening bridge and whist party will be held at the clubhouse at 8 p. m. Players from all parts of the town are cordially invited.

On Friday of this week there will be a food sale at the "White House" it was announced to day by Mrs. James Shearer, chairman of the following committee: Mrs. Charles Loomis, Mrs. John Gleason, Mrs. W. A. Strickland, Mrs. W. W. Robertson, Mrs. George Borst and Mrs. Alex. Shearer. There will be cakes, pies, doughnuts, biscuit and many other home-cooked foods. The sale comes at an opportune time for the housewife to save a little baking over the week end and avail herself of the good things to eat.

An unusually enthusiastic meeting of the Happy-Go-Lucky girls was held at the Community Club last evening with some twenty odd members present. Eleven new members were added to the list of the club. Those taken into the club last night were: Ann Pitken, Eleanor Massey, Shirley Wriest, Susan Allen, Rebecca Harris, Mary Orlinsky, Mary McLagan, Helen Bailey, Bertha Lapp, Lillian Caverly and

REC'S WHIST PARTY WAS WELL ATTENDED

Mrs. Graziadio and Mr. Carlson Win First Prizes; Other Winners.

More than 70 people attended the opening whist party of the season at the West Side Rec. Saturday evening, more than 18 tables being filled. A vote was taken on the question of electing a prize committee but the decision was left until another meeting of the players.

Six prizes were given, the first two silk umbrellas being won by Mrs. Graziadio and Mr. Carlson. Two pillow cases were given to Mrs. Edith Smith for second prize and the men's second, a shirt, went to Louis Chagnot. A pack of playing cards went to Mrs. Torstenson and Mr. Robinson for third prize.

Games and dancing followed the whist party in the auditorium.

WEST SIDE REC NOTES.

A check party will be held at the West Side Rec on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. At this party the practice of giving away turkeys for first prizes will be resumed.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:15, there will be a meeting of all women interested in forming a bowling league. A number of women have signed up but there is room for some more.

Miss Florence Wilson of the Barnard school will meet the women of the Rec at the West Side building on Thursday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of starting a basketry class.

SIPPLES CLOUTED 5 HOMERS, 7 TRIPLES AND 19 DOUBLES FOR SONS IN 1926 SEASON

"Lefty" St. John and Sipples Voted as Most Valuable Players on Town Champions; Complete Record for Season.

Manager Peter Vendrillo today made public a complete record of the Sons of Italy baseball team for the 1926 season. That his efforts were not achieved without many hours of hard work may be assumed from the averages which are included in this account.

The Sons played 49 games and won 28. They lost 16 and tied 4. Included in their list of victories is a win over the Meriden Indians which broke a streak of 12 consecutive wins that team had amassed.

Sipples led the Sons in batting with an average of .469. Dwyer and McKernan were the other players who cleared the 400 mark.

Brief Statistics

Following is some brief statistics concerning the Sons for the season: St. John played the most games 45. He was at bat the most times 153. Sipples made the most hits 60. Wallett had the most putouts 234. Sipples made the most assists 53. He also made the most errors 9. Sipples led in individual batting with a .469 average. Holland, Fisher, J. Farrell, Mantell, Scribbling, Alexander and McKernan had a perfect fielding average. St. John stole the most bases 13. Edgar made the most sacrifice hits 6. St. John made most sacrifice flies 4. Zwick struck out the most 19. St. John scored most runs. Sipples made most home runs 5. Sipples made most triples 7. Sipples made most two-baggers 19. St. John drew the most passes 18, and he was also hit by the pitcher the most 4.

Sipples and St. John were easily the outstanding players on the Sons of Italy team this year and were instrumental in that team winning the town championship from the Shamrocks.

Following are the batting and fielding averages:

ATHLETICS DEFEATED YANKEES THE MOST

New York, Oct. 5.—The New York Yankees American League pennant-winners, lost but one inter-club series all season. That was to the Athletics.

Connie Mack's charges had it on the Yankees virtually from the start of the campaign. The Quakers won 13 of the 22 games played between the two clubs. "Lefty" Grove, Mack's southpaw, was responsible for several of the triumphs.

Cleveland did next best against the Huggins' entourage. The Indians obtained an even break. Boston proved easiest for Ruth and company.

The Red Sox fell 17 times. Then came the Browns with 16 defeats, Chicago 14 and Detroit and Washington with 12 apiece.

MICKY WALKER IS REAL COMER-BACK

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion of the world, was making in much of his former ring prestige today, following an impressive defeat of Shuffle Callahan, Chicago's slugger truck driver, in their scheduled ten-round battle here last night.

Walker's "comeback" was spectacular. He won in the fifth round by a technical knockout after one of the most murderous exhibitions of legalized assault and battery ever staged in an Illinois prize ring.

The ex-welter king won every round. He rained high-powered rights and lefts at the luckless Callahan. At the end of the fifth round, the latter was so groggy and so thoroughly whipped that Eddie Kane, his manager, threw in a towel.

After the fight, Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, announced he would immediately offer a certified check for $2,500 to the Illinois boxing commission and issue a challenge to "Tiger" Flowers for the middleweight championship of the world. Kearns claims Walker is too heavy to seek his old honors in the

Three American League Managers Likely To Get "Gate" Next Season

New York, Oct. 5.—Three new managers will grace the American League next season. That statement will perhaps occasion little surprise around the circuits.

Tyrus Cobb is to retire at Detroit, according to present plans. George Sisler is to be traded by the St. Louis Browns, Lee Fohl is to be dropped by Boston.

Cobb, baseball's wealthiest player, reputed to be a millionaire, has tried of his efforts to turn out a winner at Detroit and intends to give up the game.

It is said Cobb would not have returned this year had there not been a few records that he wanted to break before passing from the active ranks.

While Cobb still can hit the ball as well as ever, his legs have slowed up and it is a great effort for him to cover ground and run bases. Who will succeed him is a matter of conjecture.

It is understood George Moriarty, American League umpire, will replace Sisler as manager of the St. Louis Browns.

Moriarty also was sought by the Detroit club, but St. Louis had prior claim on his services. There no doubt will be traded. It is rumored he may go to Washington in exchange for Joe Judge and a couple of others. Connie Mack also seeks him.

The responsibility of managing a losing club has been a severe strain on Sisler, and has greatly handicapped his play. Relieved of that burden, he soon should be as good as ever and he is one of the greatest first basemen in the game.

While Lee Fohl has done as well as anybody could with the material at Boston, the clamor of the fans for a change in management has practically forced the owners of the club to accept. Rumor has it that Dan Howley will succeed Fohl.

MOBS FRANTIC, SEEING NO CHANCE FOR SEATS

BY FORD C. FRICK

Sportsmans Park, St. Louis, Oct. 5.—You hear much of this thing called baseball frenzy. Here you have it in living example.

Howling, shrieking, pushing mobs that recognize no police barrier and admit of no regulated authority.

Bombs, banners and bugles—whistles blowing; horns tooting frantically; sirens shrieking and wall and shriek again; everywhere clamor and din and confusion—St. Louis has suddenly gone mad—mad with joy, and enthusiasm and pride.

The demonstration culminated this morning with the first mad rush toward a ball park that is all too small to accommodate the thousands of faithful fans who hope against hope to push themselves into a space already jammed to capacity.

The police cordon stretched about the park battled helplessly to stem off the rushing thousands who continued to come on. Ten thousand of that milling, pushing throng will eventually find seats and see this afternoon's game. Fully 3,000 of them have been waiting since yesterday afternoon—standing in line through the long night to insure a seat when the game starts.

But even so Sam Breadon and his Cardinal cohorts have managed admirably. Speculators are more or less unknown here. The Yards have established a clearing house, whereby unused tickets can be directed into legitimate hands and as many visitors as possible accommodated for at least one game.

ST. LOUIS KICKS 'CAUSE BALL PARK'S TOO SMALL

Fans Forget That There Hasn't Been Demand for Seats Previous to This Year.

By BILL CORUM.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—The cash customers in this overheated Missouri metropolis can squawk just as lustily outside a ball park as they can in it. Mixed in with the shouts for Hornsby, Alexander and Southworth when the Cardinals came rolling home were a whole flock of noisy Bronx cheers for genial Sam Breadon.

Sam is the fellow who pays for the bed and board of Hornsby and the other thirty odd Red Birds. Seven summers ago he dug deep to buy them from the Robinson estate, and ever since he has been paying the wear, tear and upkeep, frequently out of the profits of his automobile business.

But the fans have forgotten that seven years is too long to ask any baseball fan to remember. They think of Sam now only as the villain who returned their World Series ticket applications. And when these St. Louisians start kicking they kick like their own Missouri mules. So the Cardinals got the ovation while Samuel got, and continue to get, the "raspberry."

Because 140,000 persons simply can't be put into a ball park that has 36,000 seats, Mr. Breadon is doomed to be unpopular for many days to come.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS.

At New York.—Joe Lombardo of Panama won decision from Frankie Finck of Texas, ten rounds. Arnold Ryan of Brooklyn won on foul from Johnny Leonard of Allentown, Pa., in tenth round.

At Newark.—Jack McVey of New York defeated Billy Leonard of Syracuse, ten rounds.

At Pittsburgh.—Maxie Rosenbloom of New York won decision from Johnny Wilson of Boston, ten rounds.

At Chicago.—Mickey Walker of New Jersey won by technical knock-

When Cardinals Came Back at Yankees

UPPER: Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second baseman, was caught napping off third by a toss from Pitcher Alexander and forced into the home stretch. LOWER: Just as Bell and Alexander were closing in on the Yankee runner, Bell muffed a throw from the pitcher and Lazzeri scored. He is shown sliding home for the second Yankee counter, just as O'Farrell, Cardinal catcher, jumps for the ball.

over Shuffle Callahan of Chicago in the fifth round. At New Orleans.—Tommy Murphy of Trenton, N. J., won decision from Pal Moran of New Orleans, twelve rounds.

First Round Competition Starts This Week; Eight Women Qualify

CHENEY VS. HYDE FOR GOLF TITLE

Former Eliminates F. J. Bendall in Well Played Match 3 Up and 2 to Play.

Prizes for Winners of First, Second and Third Places in Tourney; Two Finish Competition in 2 Weeks; Those Who Qualified and Pairings.

John P. Cheney and John H. Hyde will meet next Sunday morning in the finals of the Country Club Golf championship tournament.

Cheney defeated Fred J. Bendall Sunday in the semi-final match 3 up and 2 to play. He played a fine game. Mr. Cheney's card for the 18-hole match was 77 while Mr. Bendall went over the course in 80.

Following are the cards of the contestants:

Out—	Score
Cheney	44 55 45 43 4—38
Bendall	55 53 44 46—40
In—
Cheney	44 45 54 55 53—39
Bendall	53 45 55 53—40

There will be a return golf match between the Manchester Country Club and the Norwich Country Club here Saturday afternoon.

The drawing for the pairings in the annual women's golf championship tournament were made yesterday at the Manchester Country Club. The eight low scores made during the past two weeks of qualifying were the ones from which the drawings were made.

Prizes Awarded

The elimination tourney for the championship of the Country Club will commence immediately and will be finished within the next two weeks. Prizes will be awarded to the winner of first, second and third places. A Sheraton bridge table will be presented to the winner. A golf club for second place and a leather golf bag will be the other prizes.

Interest in the outcome of the women's tourney has increased steadily during the past few days and now that the pairings have been made, there is even more interest.

The Pairings

Following are the pairings for the first round:

Mrs. William C. Cheney vs. Mrs. Fred J. Bendall.

Mrs. Lewis Allen of Hartford vs. Mrs. Fred T. Blish.

Mrs. Austin Cheney vs. Mrs. Bennett of Hartford.

It's all a matter of picking the packing

HOW much fun you get out of a pipe depends largely on one thing—the tobacco. The pipe itself is the accessory, after all. The tobacco's the thing. That's why the most contented bunch of smokers in the world smoke Prince Albert exclusively.

The instant you open a tidy red tin of P. A., you know this tobacco is unlike any other. That warm, rich fragrance! Only real tobacco could give off such an appetizing aroma. You are completely won to P. A. when you smoke that first load.

Cool as a cove, sheltered from the beat of the sun. Sweet as a breath of clover. Fragrant as fresh-cut flowers . . . fragrant and mild. Yet with a body that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. A rare combination, Men.

It is a pretty safe guess that, if you smoke one tin of Prince Albert—all of it—you will continue to smoke Prince Albert from then on. That has been the experience of other pipe-smokers. It's worth finding out about. Buy some P. A. today.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

Excellent Reports Made by Superintendents at South Methodist Meeting.

The October meeting of the Sunday school board of the South Methodist church was held last night at 7:45 with a good attendance and much enthusiasm. Rev. Joseph Cooper was the presiding officer, with Robert W. Wilson as secretary pro tem. Reports were given by the superintendent of each department in the school, each one showing a great increase in attendance, and many interesting things for the future months. The attendance contest of the primary department reported by Miss Ethyle Lyttle was received with great applause.

Educational Classes
Announcement was made of the educational classes which are to open next Thursday night in combination with the mid-week service of prayer. These classes will be conducted for a period of ten weeks under the leadership of Miss Mabel Pollard. The two courses of study have been chosen from a list of five courses and the schedule is now ready. At 8:45 each Thursday evening there will be presented a course on "Paul and His Work." At 7:30 Rev. Cooper will conduct the prayer service. This week the subject will be "Short Psalms." At 8:45 the course on "The Life of Christ" will be presented. Both classes are open to all.

Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Illness Caused by Shattered Nerves, Sour Stomach and Run-down Condition Relieved by Tanlac. Strength Restored Gains 25 Pounds.

For 2 years, after a nervous breakdown, Mrs. A. J. Cassone, 40 Adams St., Worcester, Mass., suffered untold agonies caused by upset stomach and loss of sleep.

"Life was an ordeal," says Mrs. Cassone. "Food that I ate caused gas and bloated my stomach. At times I could not hold my food. And to make matters worse I couldn't sleep. Every morning found me tired and worn out. I was in a terrible condition, all due to a nervous breakdown.

"My stomach and nerves never bother me now. I can eat everything, I sleep soundly and feel much stronger. Thanks to Tanlac. It relieved my suffering and gave me strength. I have gained 25 lbs. I recommend Tanlac to everyone." Tanlac, made from roots, barks and herbs according to the Tanlac formula, relieves suffering, puts flesh on scrawny bones. Let it help you. Get your first bottle of Tanlac from any druggist.

County Convention
Announcement was made of the County Sunday school convention which is to be held at New Britain. Miss Pollard was put in charge of arranging transportation for representatives from the school to attend.

Leave of absence was granted to Mrs. John Anderson, and John Winterbottom for a short period of time. The following were confirmed as new workers: Miss Ethel Palmer, teacher in the primary department; Miss Dorothy Smith, pianist in junior department; Miss Alice Harrison, teacher in the junior department; Miss Thelma Carr, pianist in the senior department; Raymond Mercer, Mrs. Arthur Gibson and Clarence Taylor were confirmed as teachers in the intermediate department. Mrs. Clarence Taylor was transferred from the teaching force of the primary to the same office in the senior department. Fred Rogers was confirmed as a new teacher in the senior department. Robert Burr was made the new general secretary of the school.

Principal Events
The principal events of the month are the following:
Educational night, Thursday, October 8 at 8:45.

Grand reception of a rallying nature, October 15.
This reception will find all the Sunday school teachers and officers in the receiving line, while all the parents of the entire membership of the school will be invited. All members over twelve years of age will share in the program. After the formal reception there will be a jolly good time with a full program of real old-fashioned games. Opportunity will be given for parents to visit with new teachers of the children.

A rally party for all the children under twelve years of age will be held on Saturday afternoon, October 16.

Rally Sunday

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Here after, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in 2-cent and 5-cent bottles, any druggist. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

APPLES WHOSE SEASON FROM JUST ONE TREE.

What's the use of having dozens of apple trees in your orchard? Have one in your little backyard and eat apples from early summer until late fall. W. E. Hibbard of the North End tells of a tree he saw in the orchard of R. E. and A. Foote in Gilead. This tree bore seven varieties of apples, Astrakans, Baldwins, Golden Sweet, McIntosh, Rhode Island Greenings, Roxbury Russets and Fall Pippins. They are so graded that they ripen one after the other. Soon as one variety is eaten another is ready to pick. The original tree was wild and if you take its fruit as one variety there would be eight on the tree.

school will take place Sunday morning, October 17. Goal attendance for the school is set at 500.

In addition to the regular board meeting last night, the various committees met to make more thorough arrangements for the various activities. A special meeting of the two committees working for the Biblical drama was held, and reports were given. Tickets are now in the hands of the Sunday school workers, and will be on sale on Friday. Raymond Smith and John Winterbottom are in charge of the tickets, while Chris Glennay, Albert Holman, Miss Dorothy Hanson, Sterling Lippincott and Thomas Prentice are working on the general arrangements for the drama.

The next meeting of the board will be held on Monday, November 8.

DID NOT CONNECT

2 SWISS CLAIMS Alien Property Handler Never Realized Little One and Big One Were Alike.

New York, Oct. 5.—Adna R. Johnson, former employee in the Department of Justice, was the first witness called today at the conspiracy trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian. Johnson, an Ohio attorney, who in 1921 was appointed by Daugherty to handle alien property cases for the Department of Justice, yesterday testified that Daugherty did not expeditiously turn over the $7,000,000 claim to the seized assets of the German-controlled American Metals Company.

United States Attorney Buckner grilled Johnson regarding the witness's dictation of a letter on August 2, 1921, turning down an application by Edward Greutert, a Swiss, who claimed twenty shares of the American Metals Company under the transfer agreement with the Metal bank.

Similar Claims
This unfavorable action was taken only a short time before Johnson dictated another letter passing the $7,000,000 claim of Richard Merton, German industrialist, for the Societe Suisse. The claims were of an exactly similar nature. Johnson testified that he did not connect the two claims as similar until the Brookhart-Wheeler investigation in 1924.

"In your best recollection when did you first hear of the American Metals Company claim?" Buckner asked.

"Late in July or early in August, 1921,"

The witness said he had no recollection of the exact dates of conferences with Merton regarding the claims.

Buckner then asked the witness if the Merton appointments were not recorded in the Department's daybook. Johnson replied that no daybook was kept until 1922.

Just Didn't Connect Them
The prosecuting attorney then offered in evidence the letter disallowing the Greutert claim.

"Did you dictate this letter?" he was asked.

"I did."

The witness explained that the matter was handled as a small routine affair.

"Have you any explanation," Buckner asked, "of why you did not connect this claim with the Merton claim when the papers in the case were covered all over with the names of the Metalbank and the American Metals Company?"

"I simply didn't connect them," said Johnson.

SUPREME COURT OPENS

Whitney against Hazard Lead Works; Ralph S. Clark against C. Fred Morway; Allen McIsaac against Junius H. Hale.

Cases assigned for Thursday are: Lydia Lose against Joseph Fitzgerald; World Fire & Marine Insurance Company against Alliance Sandblasting Co.; Virginia Peetee against Hartford-Connecticut Trust Co.

LABOR PUTS ITS O. K.

ON TRAINING CAMPS

Detroit, Oct. 5.—Organized labor does not fear the citizens military training camp as a capitalist weapon.

This attitude was clearly defined today in the action of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in giving unanimous and unqualified indorsement to this phase of the government's permanent program of military preparedness. The executive council in its annual report to the convention in session here declared:

"This kind of training is building up the mind and body of the American youth. It stimulates the patriotic spirit of the youth. He is taught citizenship.

"In the judgment of the executive council we believe it would be advantageous to all of the boys of our country to take advantage of the opportunity afforded to them in these camps."

CONVICT THREE SAVINGS

STAMP COUNTERFEITERS

Cleveland, Oct. 5.—A verdict of guilty was returned in federal court here today against J. E. Zottarrell, Bajjo Russo and Nick Salupo on indictments charging conspiracy to counterfeit war saving stamps. Sentence will be announced late today.

The verdict brought a complete victory for the government in its effort to round up a ring of counterfeiters who are alleged to have circulated more than $300,000 of the spurious stamps.

The three defendants tried here are the last of several who have been convicted of participation in the affair at Chicago and elsewhere.

REC NOTES.

Committees are being chosen for the big annual Halloween dance which will be given in the School street Rec on Friday evening, October 29. This was one of the biggest dances in town last year and is expected to be one of the best this year. It has come to be the one annual dance that the Rec conducts.

Tomorrow afternoon all women of the East Side who wish to form a bowling league are asked to meet at the East Side Rec at 2:30. A class for girls in dancing will start at 4:15.

Women's character, national and folk dance classes will be held tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

TWO DRUNK DRIVERS

GET JAIL SENTENCES.

Greenwich, Oct. 5.—Rudolph Ehlern, of Stamford, was given a sentence of six months in jail in town court this morning for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. This was Ehlern's third arrest for the same offense.

Gustave Johnson, of Cos Cob was given a jail sentence of thirty days and fined $100 for the same offense.

"CAMPUS REBELS"

HERALD'S SERIAL

New Story of Virginia Swain Starts Thursday—About College Life.

On Thursday The Herald will start another of its popular N. E. A. action serials. The new story will be "Campus Rebels," by Virginia Swain, author of "Spinsterhood." The present serial, "Saint and Sinner" ends on Saturday.

"Campus Rebels" is a clever story of real life at college. It concerns four principals, and it isn't artificial. It is just as real as the romantic life of any collegian today. There is another feature in connection with The Herald's new serial worth talking about. The illustrations are the best ever done for a newspaper serial. The photos were taken in Paramount's studio in New York, and the principal parts are acted by Paramount Junior stars, faces that you will see featured in screen plays in the near future. The Herald's fiction editor is certain that all Herald readers

FRANCE TO RATIFY DEBT PACT WITH RESERVATIONS.

Paris, Oct. 5.—Henry Simon, president of the finance commission of the Chamber of Deputies, today told the commission that the government probably would ask ratification of the London and Washington debt agreements, "with reservations," before the end of the year. M. Simon's announcement was made directly after a conference with Premier Poincare.

"CASCARETS" FOR HEADACHE, COLDS, CONSTIPATION

To-night! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret tonight to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clear with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.—Adv.

YOUTH—LOVE ADVENTURE In a College Setting

A New Type of Story

ACCOMPANIED BY THE FINEST ILLUSTRATIONS IN THE HISTORY OF NEWSPAPER SERIALS

CAMPUS REBELS catches the flaming, rebellious spirit of the great American undergraduate and paints a picture of college youth that is real—not merely stuffed shirts in football togs and giddy co-eds with oversized date books.

VIRGINIA SWAIN, author of Spinsterhood, wrote Campus Rebels. It's a story, not of the eternal triangle, but of a quadrangle in college life.

SAINT and SINNER

by Anne Austin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
CHERRY LANE, a conscienceless flirt, is playing the love game with a dozen admirers, including BOB HATHAWAY, a young architect; ALBERT ETTLESON, a married traveling salesman; and CHRIS WILEY, a man of bad reputation.

FAITH LANE, unselfish and womanly, is in love with Hathaway, who adores Cherry.
GEORGE FRUIT, an amateur artist, proposes to Faith on a Sunday outing, but she refuses him. That evening Faith finds that Cherry has disappeared, taking most of her clothes with her.

Before Faith can decide what to do, Mrs. Albert Ettleson appears, and tells the Lane family that Cherry and Ettleson are eloping to New York. Mrs. Lane suffers a severe heart attack. Faith and Bob Hathaway break all speed laws driving to Darrow, where they find that Cherry and Ettleson have boarded the limited for New York, due to leave in five minutes.

At Hathaway's demand, Ettleson opens the door, but confronts him with drawn automatic. Faith, untried, takes the gun from him. Ettleson pours abuse upon Cherry, charging her with promising everything, taking everything and giving nothing.

On the drive back to the Lane home town, Bob shows clearly that he despises Cherry, who appears very little worried, now that she is safely out of the scrape. Faith, to save her mother pain, lies about Cherry's attitude, but to Bob she shows her heartbreak, asking him what is to become of Cherry. He retorts that she had better marry one of the men she is engaged to—and he is one of them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX
"YOU want to marry Cherry—in spite of everything—in spite of today?" Faith managed to speak at last, wetting her dry lips and passing a weary hand over her wind-ravaged brown hair.

"I don't think I said anything about wanting to," Hathaway took her arm with gentle courtesy and led her toward the door. "But you have shown me today the beauty of unselfishness. We can't let her—" he motioned toward the bedroom where Mrs. Lane lay stricken—"worry herself into the grave."

"Cherry would be safe with you," Faith said slowly, and wondered why he could not hear the heavy, grief-laden plunging of her heart.

They went straight to Mrs. Ettleson's room in the second-story hotel, and found her sitting, a forlorn, red-eyed, hopeless huddle on the edge of her bed. They had agreed—Faith and Bob—that it would be better to lie to her, but to see what they could do for her out of the wreckage of her life.

"Cherry had merely gone to Darrow for a day with your husband, Mrs. Ettleson," Faith told her steadily, her kind eyes filled with pity. "They had been planning for your husband to help her go on the stage, but there was nothing but a silly flirtation between them. He told us so, and Cherry was amazed that you could have misinterpreted her letters."

"He'll hate me for interfering," Mrs. Ettleson said dully, tears splashing down the gray pallor of her cheeks.
"No, he won't. A man likes to be fought over," Faith forced herself to smile with gay reassurance. "Go home and wait for him. He's just gone on his regular trip to New York. Believe me, Mrs. Ettleson, Cherry is not in love with your husband. She is in love with Mr. Hathaway—engaged to be married to him."
"I guess he's too crazy to do it," Mrs. Ettleson gasped again. "He used to be awfully sweet to me, when we were first married, and I was kinda pretty," Mrs. Ettleson flushed. "I think I'll go back to work, doll

"Get up off that floor and take your beating!" Jim Lane was saying.

myself up a little, take time to get a few facials and a manicure every week. It makes him jealous for me to work in an office, but I guess that won't do him any harm."

After Bob Hathaway had obtained a lower berth for her, and had ordered a light, delicious dinner—which he paid for—sent up to her room, and Faith had shyly but warmly kissed her goodbye, they went down to his car in silence, the monstrous fact of his engagement to Cherry—whom he no longer loved, whom he despised—stalking like an evil ghost between them, holding them apart.

All her life, Faith thought bitterly, she had been shielding Cherry and Junior, acting as a buffer between them and punishment at the hands of their parents. She had lied for her, shielded her always from the consequences of her foolish escapades.

They had not spoken a word to each other—Faith and Bob—when his car stopped before the shabby, sprawling little house in Myrtle Street.

"Are you coming in?" Faith avoided his eyes, but she saw that his lean, tanned jaws were clamped together so that little ridges of muscle stood out.
"I guess I'd better speak to—Cherry," he answered in a flat, dead voice.
"Long" Lane flung the screen door wide as they advanced up the narrow gravelled path. "Hey, Sis! There's the devil to pay!"
"Not so loud, Junior!" Faith cautioned him, as she stepped upon the porch, Bob Hathaway close behind her. "Aisep," he answered sullenly, but his voice was obediently lowered.
"Say, what d'you think? Cherry ran off with my bus! Yes, sir, Fay as Joy's.

"Guess we'd better go along, Hathaway," "Long" Lane said gruffly. "Dad's a peaceful citizen mostly, but when his dander's up, he's liable to do something he'll regret."

For the second time that day Faith flung herself upon a locked door, behind which Cherry Lane was screaming for help. Long, red welts upon the tender flesh of her little sister! The skin of her own body crawled at the thought.

"Dad! It's Faith! Let me in, Dad!"
"Here, I'll attend to this."
"Long's" voice was suddenly that of a grown man. He hurled his tall body against the flimsy double doors of the shed, which gave almost immediately.

Cherry lay on the dusty floor of the shed, once used as a stable by previous tenants, and now serving as a coal and wood house. In the flickering light of a lantern swinging from the rafters they could plainly see the print of a man's hand on one delicate, apricot-tinted cheek, and across her bare forearm lay a long, angry welt, left there by the vicious slash of the razor strop which Jim Lane held aloft in a trembling hand.

"Get up off that floor and take your beating!" Jim Lane was saying when the doors were burst open. "Get out of here, Junior, or I'll give you a dose of the same medicine! Get out, Faith!" he ordered thunderously, as his oldest daughter stumbled into the shed and flung herself to the floor, to gather her shuddering, sobbing sister into her arms.

"That'll be enough, Dad." Junior strode to his father and snatched the uplifted strop from his hand. "Cherry's not a kid any more. A licking or two when she was a kid might have helped, but it won't do any good now. You'll be ashamed of yourself for this, Dad."

"Cherry, Cherry!" Faith had her sister in her arms, kissing her cruel wet ear, the livid print of her father's hand on her face. Jim Lane glared wildly about him, then staggered, brushing his eyes, and fell to the floor, his head striking the wall. Then he looked up at Faith, and the hand which had been raised against his daughter. He began to shudder as if with a chill.

"Something come over me," he muttered. "Something come over me—all of a sudden. Her mother spoiled her. Oughta been spanked more when she was a child. Never made to mind. Something come over me."

Again he brushed a rough, knuckly hand over his eyes, then seemed to realize for the first time that Bob Hathaway was standing near the wrecked doors of the shed. "That you, Hathaway? I'm sorry you got let in for this. Made a fool of myself, I guess. But when I saw what she'd done to her mother—almost killed her, running away with a married man like that—then coming home as pecky as ever, lying and grinning and not a bit sorry—well, sir, something come over me. But she needed a licking, Hathaway. By God, she needed a licking! But I guess she needed it ten years ago, and it's too late to begin now."

"Mr. Lane," Bob Hathaway came forward slowly, his blue eyes filled with sympathy for the bewildered, ashamed father. "I came over this evening to ask you if you'd let me marry Cherry."
Incredible relief dawned in Jim Lane's mild, tear-filled brown eyes. Cherry jerked upright in Faith's arms, gasped. In the pale light of the lantern her yellow eyes gleamed like those of a tigress.

"I guess I've got something to say about it," her voice rose shrilly, cracking on a sob. "You treated me like a dog today, coming home from Darrow. I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth, Bob Hathaway. Trying to play the noble Sir Galahad, aren't you? Well, I've made my plans, and they don't include any blue-eyed he-saints, either!"

This And That In Feminine Lore

McIntosh apples and plippins are being picked just now at Applecroft, 302 West Center street. Visitors will be welcomed and they will find the orchards well worth an inspection trip. One can thus obtain a better idea of what to include in the winter apple order.

Women often complain that their husbands will not eat warmed over food. No one likes to have the same meat for instance served the same way the second time. It must be brought to the table in an entirely different guise. A suggestion is:

Southern Stew
Made by dicing left-over meat, an equal portion of left-over boiled potatoes and allow one cupful of tomato puree to each two cups of meat. Brown meat and potatoes in drippings, then add one large onion sliced very fine, one half green pepper cut into strips, pepper and salt to taste and the puree. Heat thoroughly and serve very hot.

Even business attire is being influenced by the fashion borrowed from the Far East of wearing more than one coat at a time. Dressing with Chinese women is just a matter of adding or subtracting a coat, it is said. Evening gowns and dinner frocks have two coats, one of light weight material and one of velvet. The same idea is carried out in a combination evening and business outfit, intended for the woman who lives in Manchester and is employed in the city. She provides herself with a sleeveless dinner gown of black satin or velvet and over it wears a one-half wears a long tunic or jumper of the same or some contrasting material, so the decollete cut of her gown is quite hidden and she is correctly attired for business. I believe office girls are still wearing smocks as they might be wearing the evening gown for day wear.

The recipe printed for Governor's sauce which resembles Chili sauce but is not so dark with spices, has been made with success by a number of people. I have a request for a good mixed pickle, and while this one may be a little late, you can leave out the cucumbers and add more onions and it will be just as good. If no ripe tomatoes are available the same amount in half ripe ones will do. Put the tomatoes through the coarse cutter of the food chopper and the cabbage also, or chop them in any way you wish. It calls for the following:

2 cups green tomatoes,
1 quart red tomatoes,
1 bunch celery,
1 small head cabbage,
2 large onions,
2 green peppers,
2 canned mushrooms,
4 sweet red peppers,
5 cups brown sugar,
1 tablespoon pepper,
1 tablespoon dry mustard,
1 1/2 quarts vinegar.

Sprinkle the chopped vegetables with salt and let stand overnight. Next morning drain, pour on vinegar and spices. Boil until vegetables are tender and seal.

What clothes to wear, how to get along with neighbors, how to operate a car, guard the family budget and how to make housework a pleasure are among the questions to be discussed in the course for brides and girls about to be married at the College of Practical Arts, Boston University, which was instituted last season.

Cakes and breads sweetened with honey will stay fresh for a longer time than when sugar is used. Honey is a natural sweetener and is better for the system than sugar.

You can send your daughter to college for from $262 to $1,758 a year according to the American Association of University women. It would be interesting to know just where that $262-a-year school is. Even at Antioch where the boys and girls work half their time and the course is six years in consequence, if I remember rightly, they absorb more than that to be on the safe side.

A novel tea room salad was served in hollowed out tomatoes and consisted of chopped bacon with cold lima beans and mixed with a choice of chicken, veal, or fish, such as tuna, crabmeat or lobster. Wouldn't it serve for the bridge luncheon.

Every corset maker in America has shifted into the making of corselettes, or brassieres, of necessity. The comeback of the stiff, boned corset is as uncertain as the return of long hair. Both mean comfort and saving of time. The scantily boned high corselette saves the adjusting of a brassiere. The insets of two and sometimes four elastic gussets allow great freedom of motion. Some of the youthful models rely on their durable texture and have no boning whatsoever, but they are not yet exactly inexpensive. Some are boned with a cluster of whalebones, or whatever is used, running vertically down the front while still others run them horizontally.

"Just Different" Baked Apples
6 tart apples,
1 cup sugar,
2 tablespoons marshmallow,
1/2 cup chopped dates,
1/4 cup raisins,
1 teaspoon cinnamon,
1 lemon.

Core the apples and pare them about one-third of the way down from the stem end. Place them with the peeled surface upward in a deep baking dish. Make a syrup of the sugar and one and one-half cups of water, boiled together for six minutes. Squeeze some lemon juice over the peeled part of the apples, pour the syrup over them and bake in a moderate oven for ten minutes. Then remove the oven and fill the cavities with a mixture of the dates, raisins, cinnamon and marshmallow. Return to the oven for thirty-five minutes and bake occasionally.

advice more than that to be on the safe side.

A novel tea room salad was served in hollowed out tomatoes and consisted of chopped bacon with cold lima beans and mixed with a choice of chicken, veal, or fish, such as tuna, crabmeat or lobster. Wouldn't it serve for the bridge luncheon.

Every corset maker in America has shifted into the making of corselettes, or brassieres, of necessity. The comeback of the stiff, boned corset is as uncertain as the return of long hair. Both mean comfort and saving of time. The scantily boned high corselette saves the adjusting of a brassiere. The insets of two and sometimes four elastic gussets allow great freedom of motion. Some of the youthful models rely on their durable texture and have no boning whatsoever, but they are not yet exactly inexpensive. Some are boned with a cluster of whalebones, or whatever is used, running vertically down the front while still others run them horizontally.

Good Nature and Good Health

BEWARE OF BEAUTY DOCTOR WHO OFFERS GUARANTEES
This is the last of a series of articles on plastic surgery.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia the Health Magazine

Recently there came to medical attention the case of a woman who had been the victim of the search for beauty through surgery. She was the wife of a prominent merchant in a foreign country.

When she was eight years old she was operated on for the relief of tuberculous glands in her neck. She grew up, married successfully and gave birth to a handsome son. But in the meanwhile her life, comfortable enough otherwise, was disturbed because the scars of her operation showed when she wore evening dress.

Tours Europe
Finally she set out upon a tour of Europe. She arrived in Paris, where she consulted several eminent surgeons, all of whom advised against operation.
Then she heard, through the press notices of the theatrical papers, that American beauty doctors were doing marvels in such cases. In this country she reached finally a beauty doctor widely heralded through paid publicity agents. She was intrigued and coaxed into an operation by cleverly written pamphlets detailing the success accomplished on worn-out actresses and movie stars. She decided at last not only on an operation on her neck but also on face lifting, face peeling, wrinkle removing and similar procedures.

No Anesthetic
These operations were carried on in the office of the beauty doctor, without an anesthetic and rather crudely in the arrangements for cleanliness. A qualified surgeon works in a qualified and reputable hospital. Advertising beauty doctors are not admitted to reputable hospitals.
The woman finally left the ministrations of the beauty doctor. She had unsightly scars, worse even than those for which she had originally consulted him.
Her skin irritated by the caustic chemicals used to peel it, continued to give off fine scales. The lifting operations, the loss of blood the weeks necessary for recovery in a low-grade hospital in which the beauty doctor finally placed her, left the woman nervous, melancholy—mentally a wreck.

A reputable surgeon makes no guarantee of success in plastic surgery. The reputable beauty doctor relies on the shame of the patient and her fear of ridicule to protect him when his surgery goes wrong, as it so often does.

Posed by Yvonne Grey of the Ziegfeld Revue.

CONDITION—Badly shaped eyebrows.

TREATMENT—First stimulate the growth by applying warm olive oil or white vaseline. Apply with a tiny brush, and then rub in with the finger tips. To strengthen them, pull them between the fingers, and shape them with the fingers. If they are conspicuously uneven and form a bad line, you can have the worst offending hairs plucked, and eventually those remaining will form the line you desire. After powdering, brush the eyes and brows, as nothing is more antagonistic to perfect grooming than powder laden brows and lashes.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL OF TODAY IS IT LOVE?

"Of course we won't go," spoke up John Meredith who had heard my suggestion for leaving. "If we should do that there was something they had not been told by Mr. Hathaway."

"Well, isn't there?" I asked, still angry.

"Of course there is, Judy; of course there is," answered John, "and after we have finished our dinner I shall insist that the manager make ample apology for allowing one of his staff to insult my sister's guests."

"Oh Judy, Judy," implored Maimie, "don't let's have any more trouble. I think Mrs. Tremain has some home so we won't have to worry about her and here comes a waiter with another baked Alaska. We'll eat it and get away as soon as possible. Tomorrow, Mr. Meredith," she said turning to John, "you can come back here and make everyone apologize to your heart's content."

"That's right, John," I whisperer, "tomorrow I will explain to you about this silly affair. To-night let's be happy. In a short time, you must remember, you will be out in the African wilds and I want you to think of tonight as the happiest in your life." John Meredith's arm went around me.

"It is, Judy, darling. Surely you can understand that in all my miserable existence I never before have had the joy of looking into eyes that might love me. You do love me a little, do you not?" He stopped and looked at me wistfully.

On the other side of me I felt Jerry moving restlessly. Evidently he was not to remember this night as the happiest of his life.

Again I asked myself the question, as I felt every nerve in my body draw itself taut: "Is this emotional excitement that I am feeling for John Meredith the thing that people call love?"

"I was the more ready to call it so because I had never felt that great mental intoxication before."

BELIEVES HE SAW OAKLAND BURGLARS

Harold Clemson Noticed Two Strangers at Gas Station at Midnight.

Harold Clemson, former manager of the Shamrock baseball team said last night after reading the account of the robbery of the Flats filling station, that he believes he saw the men who broke into the station.

Clemson said that he had been in Rockville and on his way home arrived at Oakland a few minutes past midnight on Friday night. The station was dark but he noticed a car in front of it.

Both men were strangers to Clemson. In answer to his questions they said that they were having a little trouble with the headlights and that they needed no assistance.

Clemson then drove on and thought nothing more of the incident until he read about the break in last night's Herald.

COWBOY EVANGELIST TO PREACH SATURDAY

Texan to Be at the Church of the Nazarene—Has Interesting Life Story.

Rev. Bud Robinson of Texas, the famous "Cowboy Evangelist," will preach at the Church of the Nazarene on Main street on Saturday evening.

The story of this man is unique in the respect that he never attended a school until he was 40 years old. He learned to read by the light of the moon because he was too poor to buy oil or candles.

Thousands of people have heard him and have become converted to Christianity. His message is different from that of other evangelists and he never fails to draw a large crowd wherever he preaches.

His story of his hospital experience following an automobile accident in which nearly every bone in his body was broken is in itself highly interesting.
