

QUEEN MARIE TO GET DRESS OF CHENEY SILK

Bernays, Publicity Expert, Talks to Get Together Club; Tells Why Royal Guest Is Coming.

When Queen Marie, of Roumania, arrives in this country Monday she will be presented with a piece of Cheney silk made of the national colors of Roumania.

This plan was made known for the first time last evening at a meeting and banquet of the Get-Together club by Edward L. Bernays, publicity expert from the New York office of the local silk firm.

Her Real Reason.

Mr. Bernays also disclosed the real reason for the queen's visit. He said that Besarabia has been under the control of various Balkan states for many years. Roumania wants the land but has not money enough to support it. The queen is coming to the U. S. to create good will for her country so that our bankers will be influenced to loan money to Roumania.

These two statements illustrated more than columns of descriptive matter, the idea behind Mr. Bernays publicity planning.

To Create Demand.

"My business," said the publicity man after being introduced by Horace Cheney, "is to create a demand for Cheney silks."

"In this country there are 23,000,000 women and I am trying to get over my message to as many of them as follows. There are various methods of getting over the message, the radio, advertising, word-of-mouth and other sources.

"The most valuable publicity is a news item in the newspapers. For instance when we induced the Consul General of France to allow a piece of Cheney silk to be placed in the Louvre we put over one of the biggest publicity stunts in years, and we had Ambassador Herrick to present the silk to the famous museum. Can't you see what effect this had on the women of the world? Silk made in America considered so good that it was placed in a French museum in Paris, the style center of the world. Other stunts was presenting three and a half yards of silk to Mrs. Harding and sending it to Cheney silk American flag to be placed in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington. In the Harding presentation we had three workmen from the mills make the presentation.

Carefully Planned.

"Now all of these stunts are carefully planned. There must be no slip-up on them or the whole effect is lost. Just the right elements must be used. The presentation of the silk to the First Lady of the Land by working men appealed to the fact that they accepted the gift had a great influence on the women of this country.

"Public opinion is the most tremendous factor in creating demand. Theodore Roosevelt probably had this in mind when he perfected as any other. He made a railway journey he shook hands with the engineer and was photographed. This was for the working-man's benefit. Thomas Lipton used yacht races to advertise his tea.

War Started Idea.

"The war brought out this form of advertising. The propaganda sent to the newspapers made it possible to finance the war in this country through Liberty Loans.

"After the war, industries started to take notice of this scheme of creating demand. They reasoned that what the government had accomplished they could.

"At this point I must tell you that you will have noticed that our publicity is always given out on a Monday morning, or in time for a publication in the morning papers. There is a reason behind this. On Sunday there is no parliament in Europe or no Congress meetings here and nothing stirring in the industrial world. In short, we have less competition on Monday than on any other day of the week. Therefore we get better positions and position counts. The editors must judge news value from what news they have on hand.

Some Examples.

"I remember when I was asked by the Czechoslovakian delegates to announce their bid for independence that I advised them to wait three or four days so as to catch the Monday morning papers. It went over big.

"During the last election it was sensed that the voters of the middle west might not vote for Coolidge because he was a silent man, not much of a mixer and presumably cold-blooded. The westerners preferred the opposite type. Then we arranged the meeting of the famous actors at the White House to breakfast with the President and got to the middle west the idea that Coolidge was a good mixer and not the type of a man they

Conn.'s Care of Insane Yields Hope for Cures

Drive along the highways of Connecticut; see the extent to which the state has gone to give the motorist good roads; look at the fine type of bridge construction you encounter along the way; watch the unique method of the highway department has contrived to protect the autoist en route. Then tell yourself—Connecticut does all this, got out of debt doing it and stays out.

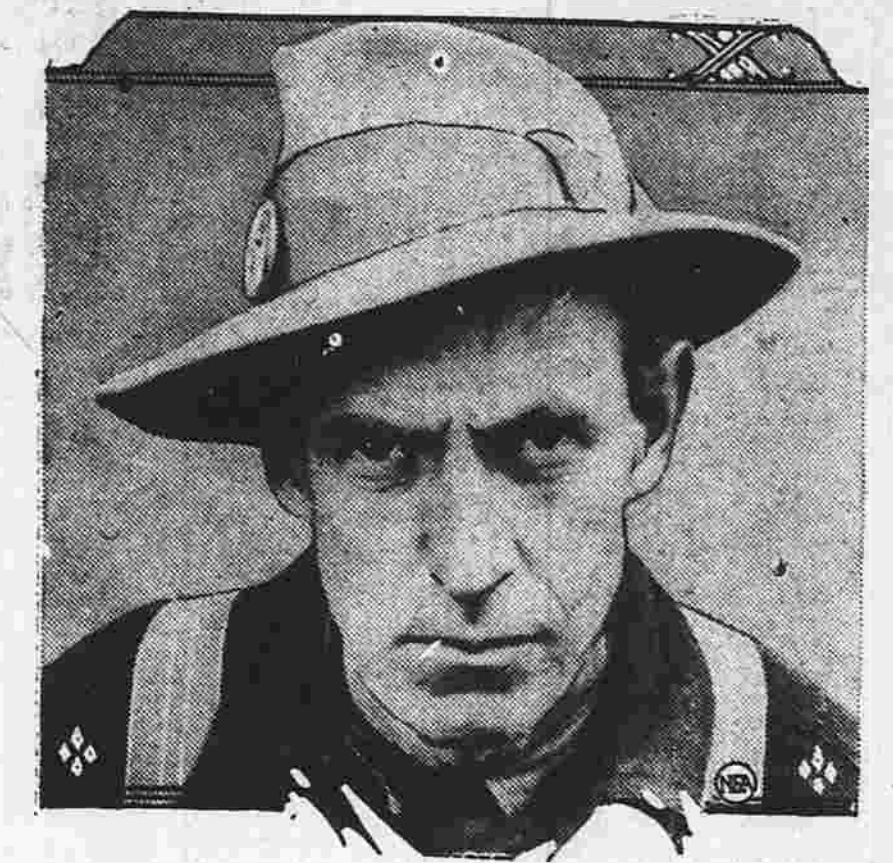

That isn't all Connecticut does with the money it collects in taxes, which, by the way, are lower in proportion than those of any other state in the union. Many other departments operate to keep Connecticut well governed, and they operate just as efficiently as does that which has control of the state highways. Their work is not as striking, perhaps, in that much of it is done unseen. Their need, however, is just as great and their results are fully as satisfactory.

State Institutions.

Consider Connecticut's institutions. Those that care for the state's insane, the crippled children and the blind are among the best of medical care at home, the imbecile, suffering through the misdeeds of his parents, the wayward, and the hopelessly ill. Remember there are 47 other states in the U. S. A. many of them richer and lots bigger than Connecticut but none of them better equipped to take care of these pitiable deficients and to give them a chance to get what little sunshine a life like theirs affords.

An inspection tour through such institutions may be oppressive. It may give you the "what's the use?" feeling. It is none too pleasant to

Only Victim of a Cal Joke

Orman Doty, Coolidge's guide. "Take a good big chew, or you won't look natural, Doty," cautioned the President before this picture was snapped.

ASSERTS COOLIDGE WILL RUN IN 1928

Pittsfield, Oct. 14.—United States Senator Frederick H. Gillett of Springfield was wildly acclaimed by more than 500 Republican leaders from the 1st Congressional district yesterday afternoon when he made the significant prophecy that Calvin Coolidge would be a candidate to succeed himself as President in 1928.

The senior senator from the Bay State, spoke at a meeting in Heaton Hall, Stockbridge, sponsored by the Republican Club of Berkshire County.

Statements Significant.

Political students who heard his remarks believed that following so closely on his summer spent in the vicinity of the Summer White House, during which vacation he was twice the guest of the President, Senator Gillett knew whereof he spoke.

Regarding Coolidge, Senator Gillett said:

"Calvin Coolidge has got two years more of this term and then four years more. We're going to have a Massachusetts President for the next six years."

He Didn't Kid Coolidge, But Coolidge Kided Him

The man who is best acquainted with the informal moods of Calvin Coolidge is Ormon Doty, veteran guide of the Adirondacks, who accompanied the President on his fishing trips. For NEA Service and The Manchester Herald this woodsman tells some of the intimate little anecdotes of the presidential vacation.

BY ORMON DOTY

As Told To Paul Harrison

Gabriel's, N. Y., Oct. 15.—People around here call me the only man who ever kidded President Coolidge.

They're wrong. I don't believe any man ever kidded him, and that includes Will Rogers. You see, this President of ours says far too little to furnish any kind of sport for jokers.

I've been guiding in these mountains for more than 30 years, and in that time I've learned that it's part of a guide's business to keep his party entertained.

It was hard to figure out just what Mr. Coolidge wanted. He'd laugh at funny stories, but never once did he tell one himself. But when I'd go dry on talk he'd sort of prod me up with a question.

Finally, was desperate for stories, so I told him about the time I was in a boat washing a red flannel shirt and an enormous pike came aboard and swallowed everything but the sleeve I had hung over the side. It started off and I hung on, because it was my best shirt. When I finally got scared and let go, the boat was going so fast that it ran 20 feet on shore and smashed to splinters.

"Is that so," said the President, never cracking a smile.

Couldn't Swallow This

Then I told him about the time I caught four fish on one hook. You see, a sucker swallowed the worm, a trout swallowed the sucker, a bass grabbed the trout and a pike gobbled the bass.

"That's very interesting," said the President and went on fishing.

I just happened to mention a 19-pounder I'd caught early in the season. I could tell he didn't believe a word of it, but didn't say anything. Later, when I pulled in one that weighed 15 pounds, I saw him laughing. "Apologies, Doty," he said. "I'll believe anything you tell me after this."

The closest I ever saw the President come to getting angry was when we were sitting in a boat and saw a regular whale of a pike come up and sniff at the President's bait. He swam around and looked at it, rubbed against it and played with it. Then he flipped a fin at the President and slid off.

"He's a mean old devil," Mr. Coolidge growled. "Hope he starves to death."

Several of the party at White Pines were colored boys who had worked in Washington. They asked about a knife I carried and I explained that the woods were full of bears and showed them some tracks I'd made. That night when some of them started for Saranac to see the town they were armed with every cleaver and knife in the camp's kitchen.

HUGE MAN HUNT IS ON FOR N. J. MAIL BANDITS

Killers Who Stole $300,000 Believed Hidden in Mountains; Planes May Bomb Robber Gang.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 15.—Major Mark O. Kimberling in charge of the man hunt for the eight machine gun mail bandits, said this afternoon that it may take three days to comb the Watchung mountain section.

Nearly 1,000 men are engaged in the dangerous hunt. The bandits are believed entrenched somewhere in the mountains fastness, equipped with machine guns, automatics and sawed-off shotguns.

No trace of the bandit-slayers had been obtained up to two o'clock this afternoon.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 15.—Paces of state troopers and heavily armed volunteers today started closing in on a five mile area of wild Watchung Mountain territory where the eight desperate machine gun bandits who yesterday escaped with mail valued at $300,000, after killing one man and wounding three others at Elizabeth, are believed to be in hiding.

The searchers moved slowly, for the district is heavily wooded and contains many rat-trace points from which the criminals could mow down attackers with machine gun fire.

The ruthlessness of the gang, which is believed to be under the leadership of "Killer" Cusiffe and "Bum" Rodgers, has resulted in orders to "shoot to kill on sight."

At Mountain Summit

Today's movement of the pursuing forces followed a report that late last night an automobile roared up the Chimney Rock road to the summit of the mountain. The car has not returned, and there is no other way it could have been taken without being seen.

If the drug-cracked desperadoes are cornered, they probably will be bombed from their position. An airplane will be employed later in an effort to find their position.

It was reported that troopers garbed like the "poor whites" who inhabit the Watchung range had been sent into the hills, carrying heavy service revolvers under their rugs.

Two hundred men are engaged in the hunt for the criminals.

Police on 13 Roads

Police are posted on thirteen roads around an area of about 136 square miles.

All through the night hundreds of police and deputized citizens in every part of New Jersey were feverishly alert, guarding every road and lane, but daybreak found the bandits still at large.

"Shoot on sight" and "shoot to kill" was the order of Major Kimberling, head of the state police, himself and guard their farms. So thoroughly had their homes been spread that it was not believed bandits could obtain food without risking capture.

The state troopers were stationed along the principal thoroughfares in posts of three men. The posts were linked together by telephone. Red lanterns were hung at road intersections last night and every vehicle and pedestrian was stopped and questioned.

Suspect Gang of 30

Major Kimberling said he would not be surprised if the desperate gang had headquarters in the Watchung Hills and numbered twenty or thirty men.

The eight robbers in two automobiles swooped down on the mail truck yesterday, killed John Knz, driver of the mail truck, and wounded John Quinn, the assistant driver, and Major Charles J. Barr, Jacob Christman, who was guarding the shipment. A deadly spray of machine gun bullets scattered the citizens that rushed into the street at the sound of the first volley.

Three Held as Witnesses

Three men were held as material witnesses today in connection with the murder and hold-up. John Doe warrants have been issued for six others. Those held today were Frank Barra, William (Mutton) Stimms and Lee McRitchie, all of Elizabeth. They were held without bail.

Barra, arrested several hours after the hold up, is said by police to be implicated in the theft of $137,000 worth of mail from the steamer George Washington about a year ago and a half ago.

The other two men are under $3,000 and $5,000 bail for connection with the looting of the Merck Chemical Co., at Newark, last July, of a large quantity of drugs.

SEEK THIRD BODY IN MORRIS COVE

Drowning of Women Sequel to Booze Party on Boat; Believed Accident.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—A body believed to be that of Benjamin Hanca, of Philadelphia, was found in New Haven harbor this afternoon.

The harbor guard picked it up at 2:20 p. m. and are now bringing it ashore at the Chapel street precinct.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—Waters of Long Island Sound are being searched in an effort to find the body of Benjamin Hanca, 35, of Philadelphia, who is supposed to have been drowned yesterday morning when a boat in which he was rowing two women from a yacht in New Haven harbor to the shore at Morris Cove upset.

The bodies of the women are in a morgue here today awaiting burial. The women were Mrs. Mildred L. Terrell, 29, and Mrs. Minerva Orr Piteo, 35, both residents of New Haven. They met death by accidental drowning and not through foul play, in the opinion of Dr. M. M. Scarborough, medical examiner.

The bodies of the women were found under an overturned boat near the New Haven Yacht club shortly before noon yesterday. Near the boat was a man's coat, bearing a wallet belonging to Benjamin Hanca, who had been employed as a rigger at the new Yale theater.

Just Fatal Booze Party

At the time the bodies were found, Omundson Omundson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was found aimlessly wandering the streets in the Morris Cove district. After he had been revived, Omundson was told by Coroner Mix and there told a story which removed the case from the mystery class. Omundson was not put under arrest.

Questioned first by detectives and then by the coroner, Omundson is said to have told exactly the same story in each case. Police say they are satisfied that he told the truth.

Omundson was employed by Sherman Holt, of New York and Oyster Bay, as captain of a motor launch. Mr. Holt crossed the sound on Monday to go to Boston on business and Omundson was to await his return, expected today. Omundson knew Hanca and invited him to spend an evening on the boat. Hanca invited the two women to go with him. It was to be a friendly visit and it developed into a drinking party.

At some late hour that night Hanca and the women decided to go home. Hanca volunteered to row them ashore and the party broke up. That was the last Omundson knew of the affair until the bodies were found.

FIST FIGHT MARKS MCPHERSON TRIAL

Lawyers' Bout Throws Court Into Turmoil; Mrs. Seilaff Names "Miss X."

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—The air of Judge Blake's court was still charged with excitement today as the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Almee Semple McPherson, evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, all charged with conspiracy, again got underway.

After a week of bickering, a fist fight between W. I. Gilbert, chief counsel for Mrs. McPherson, and S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Seilaff, threw the court into a turmoil yesterday.

Attorneys for the defense again lost a move to have Mrs. Seilaff declared incompetent upon the grounds that she was once an inmate of an insane asylum.

Locked up as incommunicable, Her sister has stated that Mrs. Seilaff was placed in a Utah institution a number of years ago, not because she was mentally deranged but because she was incorrigible.

Mrs. Seilaff reiterated yesterday that Mrs. McPherson offered her a sum of money to produce a companion to accompany her to a cottage at Carmel, and she said the woman she picked to play the role was Miss Rachel Wells, of Philadelphia. She declared she did not know the whereabouts of Miss Wells at present but thought she was in New Orleans.

Mystery Witness

Defense Attorney Gilbert, representing Mrs. McPherson was expected today to introduce at the hearing a mysterious witness who will attempt to discredit the testimony of Mrs. Wiseman-Seilaff, that she worked on the "Miss X" hoax under Mrs. McPherson's direction.

Before Mrs. Wiseman-Seilaff left the stand late yesterday, Gilbert strenuously attempted to elicit from her the admission that it was her sister, Mrs. Virla Kimball, of Oakland, whom she had engaged to play the role of "Miss X."

PRINCESS ILEANA NOT SOCIAL FIGURE

Hasn't Made Debut Yet, So Probably Will Make U. S. Tour as Mere Child.

Aboard the Leviathan, Oct. 15.—Queen Marie and her suite were guests today at a birthday party for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

In celebration of Mrs. Wilson's birthday, the ship's cook prepared a huge birthday cake and a party was arranged in the "Wilson Room," a memorial room to the late President Wilson on the Leviathan.

The queen announced that she herself will be celebrating a birthday on October 29, her fifty-first.

American swains who hope to trip the light fantastic with Princess Ileana are destined to disappointment.

Queen Marie is a stickler for form and it begins to appear as though Princess Ileana would not be permitted to attend any social functions while in the United States because she has not made her formal debut in society. At any rate the princess went to her stateroom last night, while her brother, Prince Nicholas, joined in the dancing in the Leviathan's saloon.

Prince Nicholas danced to his heart's content, choosing American girls as his partners. One of them was Miss Jane Moore of New York, whom he met at the party.

Commodore Hartley announced today that the Leviathan will dock at 3 p. m., on Monday.

LOS ANGELES SAFE AT DETROIT MAST

Dirigible Reaches Ford Port, in 16 Hours and 25 Minutes, Before Dawn Today.

Detroit, Oct. 15.—The dirigible Los Angeles arrived at Ford airport at 3:30 a. m., today, completing the journey from Lakehurst, N. J., in 16 hours and 25 minutes.

She was lashed to the mooring mast at Ford airport at 5:30 a. m., as 4,000 spectators looked on.

The time consumed in mooring the huge airship was due to no mishap but to a desire of naval and airport officials to go slowly and safely.

Arrived in Darkness.

The throbbing of the dirigible's engines was the first sign of her approach. Then the crowd noted the great ship's outline against the stars. When a big searchlight was turned on the dirigible, it flashed magnificently against the darkness.

On board the airship were Lieut. Commander Charles R. Rosier, commanding officer, who was senior officer of the Shenandoah, stationed in a storm over Ava, Ohio, last year, Admiral W. A. Moffatt, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, three other officers, rated as passengers, one photographer and a crew of forty-four men.

To Return Tonight

The Los Angeles will leave its mooring mast at 3:30 p. m., today, cruise over the city and then head eastward for Lakehurst.

The proposed trip to Selfridge Field, Mich., and the overnight stay at the Ford airport, were cancelled and the homeward trip decided upon because of "favorable weather" conditions, it was announced by Lieut. Charles E. Rosenthal, the ship's commander, and Admiral William A. Moffatt, who were of the Los Angeles party.

LEGION DEADLOCKS IN ITS ELECTION

Johnson of S. Carolina and Savage of Chicago in Jam After Eight Ballots.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 15.—The American Legion, by acclamation, today elected General John J. Perkins and Marshal Ferdinand Foch honorary commanders for life.

The man who commanded the E. E. F. will thus lead his men back to Paris next year and there be greeted by the guiding genius of the allied armies.

Having honored their two great leaders, the Legion proceeded to the election of next year's national commander.

At a late hour this afternoon after 8 ballots, the convention was deadlocked on the choice of commander.

Tribute to McQuigg

H. R. Moody, department commander of Ohio, got the floor and paid tribute to retiring Commanders John R. McQuigg and his administration. The ring of the national commander was given to McQuigg and the delegates started an ovation.

Nominating speeches then began, limited to five minutes each and seconding speeches to three minutes. Alabama yielded to Connecticut and Deputy Commander Jackson put the name of Col. J. Monroe Johnson of Michigan, South Carolina, before the convention.

The next names to be placed in nomination were Howard P. Savage of Chicago, Royal Johnson of South Dakota, and Thomas Amory Lee of Topeka, Kan. The ballot-in; then started.

Johnson got a big hand, but a demonstration was started for Savage, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Michigan parading their banners.

Stubborn Balloting

There was no decision on the first ballot, and the closeness of the race became very apparent. Savage had 485 votes, Johnson had 488, Lee 29, Williams 18 and Commander E. E. Spafford of New York had 9.

On the second ballot there was a break away from Johnson in the Indiana delegation and, there being no unit rule, the delegation was polled. Four votes went over to Savage, who took the lead.

On the third ballot Johnson reassumed the lead with 493 against Savage's 482. Johnson was now 20 votes for election. Other votes cast were: Lee, 29; Spafford, 1; Williams, 18.

The deadlock continued through the fourth ballot, final figures being: Johnson, 495; Savage, 484; Lee 29; Williams, 18; Spafford, 2.

There was no result on the fifth ballot, which stood: Johnson, 495; Savage, 486; Lee 27; Williams, 18; Spafford 2.

On the sixth ballot, the result was: Johnson, 492; Savage, 473; Lee, 44; Williams, 18; Spafford, 3.

On the seventh ballot, Savage went into the lead with 495.

The eighth ballot was ineffective, standing: Savage, 485; Johnson, 473; Lee, 29; Williams, 32; Spafford, 2.

Auxiliary Head Elected.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15.—On the fourth ballot, Mrs. Adeline Wright Macaulay, of Menominee, Wis., was elected president of the American Legion Auxiliary today. Mrs. Davel of Rhode Island, was elected vice president for the eastern division.

NEW HAVEN WOMAN SUICIDE BY DROWNING

Lies Face Down in a Lily Pond in Park Within Sight of Roadway.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—An elderly woman committed suicide here today by lying face downward in the Pardee lily pond in Edgewood Park, connecting Whalley avenue, Edgewood avenue and Chapel street, and is within a few feet of Whalley avenue.

A passing motorist saw the coat and pocket book and notified police of the Edgewood avenue precinct who obtained the body without difficulty.

HER DYING WISH TO BE BURIED AT SEA OBEYED

Florida Woman's Funeral Held on Yacht, Body Consigned to Gulf of Mexico.

Bradenton, Fla., Oct. 15.—Back in death to the place she loved, the body of Mrs. Hiram Byrd, 51, today lay somewhere off this port in the Gulf of Mexico, consigned, as she wished in her will, to the sea.

Mrs. Byrd died following an illness of several months. Last night a funeral cortege of yachts left here soon after sundown with relatives and friends aboard.

Burial was made by the dim light of the quarter moon.

Mrs. Byrd is survived by her husband, Dr. Hiram Byrd, president of the Florida Audubon society and by a son, Wallace, now attending Harvard law school.

Restraint

Restraint seems to be a thing of the past. Medical science treats the violent where once straps and chains were resorted to.

"That is the optimistic part of it. Together with the best of medicine, because a fellow is liable to lose himself in the mass of thoughts that at one time or another rush his brain, is no reason why he should be continually locked up or tied to a bed.

"The patient wants to get into the 'open' ward. There he is allowed freedom, and there the doors are not locked.

"Baths Usel. These baths are never given with the idea of punishment, as some readers may have heard. They are not given to shock the patient.

"Tony hasn't changed much in his half dozen or so years of confinement. He wears a beard now, and his black hair is sprinkled with gray.

"A thorough description of 'Norwich' or 'Middletown' either, would take up a volume. The state issues reports annually that give very fair, honest statements.

Suffice it to say in the behalf of 'Norwich' that the selectmen found things in excellent condition.

Manchester patients being particularly in praise both the institution and the attendants. The state should be proud of its attempt to do the best possible for the inmates, and Connecticut citizens should be proud that the commonwealth affords such excellent hospitals.

What is true of 'Norwich' is true, also, of 'Middletown.' The institution at Middletown is older, and larger than that at Norwich.

Middletown has 2937 patients and Norwich has 2021. The buildings cannot take any more, and, though the crowded conditions do not make the work that is being done seem any less efficient.

"Middletown" has more cases that might be termed "violent" than has "Norwich." This is due to the fact that state prison cases are housed at "Middletown."

Those who have committed crimes that have been attributed to insanity are inmates at "Middletown," and are considered "violent," although Dr. Waterman told the selectmen that he would rather work among them than among any of the other patients.

No Handcuffs. At "Middletown" are some female patients who are at times violent. They are given, at times, to pulling hair and self abuse.

These women are not handcuffed, nor are they strapped. They wear what is called a "camisole." It seems that they simply have a sweater coat on backward. Their arms are folded in under the coat so that at all times they are comfortable.

Attendants allow even these cases a great deal of freedom through certain hours of the day.

Most interesting of the things to see at either institution are the industrial departments. Here the inmates make all kinds of novelties. Rugs are woven, all kinds of fancy work is made, toys, chairs, and bric-a-brac are manufactured.

One fellow is a violin maker and his instruments are made from old soap boxes. These things are sold and the money goes toward a fund for the inmates' recreation facilities.

Dances. Recreation is allowed practically all the inmates. All kinds of games are played. There is a theater, a gymnasium, and athletic field at both hospitals. Here is something in connection with the recreation part of the day's program that would make a good subject for discussion at any club meeting: Some of the inmates who are allowed the privilege of going to the weekly dances have been confined for a number of years. Some of them do not read newspapers or see any outside pictures.

Yet these same inmates are proficients at card playing. Girls who haven't been out of the institution for five to ten years and have no apparent connection with the outside world do the "Charleston" as well as many of their sisters who have complete freedom.

The one gleam of hope that shines brightest in this world of misfortune is contained in a statement Dr. Waterman made to the selectmen yesterday. He said "Thirty per cent of the inmates today are curable." Out of 15 years ago physicians would have been proud to say "ten per cent are curable." That's what Connecticut and its institutions are doing for one small part of its population that is otherwise helpless. The best of homes, the best of treatment, and the most efficient medical aid that can be obtained is being given Connecticut's insane. And so, it bears repeating "Thirty per cent are curable." Connecticut, the best way not along with its highways, its tax system, its motor vehicle department, but, too, with its institutions.

SOVIETS TO KEEP MEMORY OF DZHERZHINSKI ALIVE

Moscow.—The memory of Felix Dzerzhinski, late head of the "G. P.-U." or Soviet secret police, and famed as the creator and administrator of the "Cheka," the chief instrument of Red terror against the bourgeoisie, will not be allowed to die in the Soviet Union.

The presidium of the Supreme Council of National Economy, which Dzerzhinski also headed, has requested the Council of Peoples Commissars to change the name of the Kuznetz Basin to "Dzerzhinski Basin."

The Supreme Council of National Economy has also recommended the establishment of six scholarships in the universities in the name of Dzerzhinski, and has asked that the Semtechinsk railroad be christened "Dzerzhinski railroad" and that all the dead leader's speeches, letters, and literary remains be issued in a complete edition by the government publishing house.

SOMETHING SLIPPED.

Southbridge, Mass.—Reginald Pike and Bert Squires of East Woodstock, Conn., tried to bring together the 19th and 20th century modes of transportation. On a five chassis they put a carryall top of the vintage of 1895. All went well until a bolt slipped. The 1926 part of the thing shot from under. It was captured after a chase of two blocks.

OPEN FORUM

Editor of The Herald, Manchester, Conn.
Dear Sir:—

On October fourteenth New York State is celebrating the one hundred first anniversary of the Erie Canal.

Before the Erie Canal was built the population of Buffalo was five thousand now it is about six hundred thousand. The canal has also caused the growth of western states because it was the only means of transportation and the people went through the canal to the Great Lakes through the Great Lakes to the western states.

The Erie Barge Canal which was built to take the place of the old Erie Canal has proved inadequate so it has been proposed that a ship canal be built from Buffalo to Lockport and then from Oswego to Albany to take its place.

This will give the west the opportunity to ship their goods directly to the Great Lakes then down the Great and Erie Canal to New York harbor without hanging ships.

This canal would be an all American canal and in case of war

American vessels would not be taking the chance of being blown up while going through the canal.

Yours very truly

YOUNG FOLKS UNHAPPY, SAYS DEAN FRANKLIN.

Boston.—"Young people of today are generally unhappy." This was the astounding statement of Dean Lucy Jenkins Franklin, of Boston University, talking to the conference of normal school instructors at Framingham.

"Young people," said Dean Franklin, "seem to be pleasure bent and sometimes morally plunging but in reality they are trying to rid themselves of being bored."

The dean challenged the statement of critics that the present-day boys and girls care only for pleasure and thrills.

She said that the youth of today was really groping for something real, true, and tangible.

Dean Franklin advocated teaching youth in the ways of ethics and advised mothers and fathers to understand themselves in order to understand their children.

HOUSE UNITED

New Bedford, Mass.—Two brothers quarreled. They lived in the same house, which had been left to them "half and half" under the terms of a will. Feeling grew so bitter that one of them went to a lawyer to see if he couldn't have his half of the house torn-down. But finally they made up.

MEN OF THE NIGHT
FEATURE AT RIALTO

Thrilling Crook Drama Today and Tomorrow at Town's New Playhouse.

"Men of the Night" is the feature attraction at the Rialto for today and tomorrow. The film combines the tenacity and thrills of a crook melodrama with the compelling heart interest of a love romance.

Its story concerns a sweet old lady reduced by poverty to selling papers for a living and two crooks who employ her as a shield against the police at their alleged "Art Shop," which is in reality a fence where the products of their thievery is disposed of. A strong affection springs up between the younger thief, a young man of good instincts who seems to be under the dominance of the older partner, and the old lady. She is soon calling him her son and he reciprocates by addressing her as his mother. When she learns that they are a pair of jewel thieves and are planning to rob a titled Englishman that night she follows them, determined to make them and sive up their nefarious calling. She is caught at the scene of the robbery and is convicted of the crime. The story from that point on leads up to a startling denouement in which everything turns out happily for all concerned. Herbert Rawlinson and Wanda Hawley are co-starred.

Another attraction which merits particular attention is "The Fighting Marine," which is running at this theater in serial form. Its chief character is portrayed by no less a personage than Gene Tunney newly crowned king of the squared ring. Gene is given ample opportunity to display his knowledge of the manly art and as many of the incidents occurring in the picture actually happened in his own life the picture is bound to be doubly interesting. Gene's ability as an actor is secondary only to his skill in the ring and this serial has already found high favor with the patrons of this theater. Several short subjects will also be shown. The feature attraction for Sunday and Monday is "The Last Alarm," a thrilling story of the lives led by a company of fire-eaters in a large city. The theme has a cleverly interwoven romance and from a standpoint of entertainment, ranks well up near the top of this year's releases.

Bronze is an alloy of copper, tin and zinc.

WAPPING

The Federated Workers of the Wapping church will meet at the home of Mrs. Asher A. Collins Friday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Stoughton will be assistant hostess.

The Republican caucus of the town of Windsor was held at the Wapping school hall Monday evening with a small attendance. Robert A. Boardman was chairman and William R. Green clerk. Everett A. Buckland was nominated for representative and the following were nominated as justices of the peace: William J. Thresher, Max Adelson, Mrs. Fannie Bidwell, Raymond H. Burnham and C. Leslie King.

The choir of the Federated church will hold their rehearsal at the church this week on Friday evening.

Lloyd S. Grant spent the weekend in New York visiting with friends.

Wapping Grange held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening after the business was completed. The meeting took the form of a social when the worthy master, Franklin Welles and wife who have just returned from their wedding trip, were invited to stand at the front of the stage and while the wedding march was played all marched and congratulated them. This was followed by games and dancing and refreshments were served.

The Wapping Grange degree team will meet at the basement of the Methodist church next Saturday evening at 7.30 for a rehearsal for the first and second degrees.

Wapping Grange was well represented at East Central Pomona Grange, No. 3, at Suffield last Wednesday when ten members attended. It was a very interesting session and Suffield provided a beautiful dinner, which all present seemed to enjoy.

KANSAS SHERIFF HUNTS FOR A STOLEN AIRPLANE

Syracuse, N. Y.—Chief of Police Martin L. Cadin has received many unusual requests but none like the one that came from Gustav Davis, sheriff of Iola, Kan., who asked his cooperation in a search for a stolen airplane.

The machine was stolen from the flying field at Iola and Kansas officials believed the thief had headed East. The fugitive is said to have a cork leg and is an expert aviator. A reward of $100 has been offered for his arrest and the recovery of the plane, the theft of which is the first of its kind ever reported.

CLAN McLEAN ANNUAL MASQUERADE.

The fourth annual masquerade and dance of Clan McLean, No. 252, O. S. C., will be held on Friday evening, Oct. 29th at 7.30 o'clock in the "Plinker" hall. Each succeeding year this affair has been patronized more and more and the members of the committee feel confident that this year the dance will be the best yet and the valuable prizes offered ought to be a big attraction. Waddell's orchestra will provide the music as usual. Tickets can be obtained from the entertainment committee.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Aaron Burr (3)

Burr's genius was essentially military. A habit of command was natural with him. When he received news of the battle of Bunker Hill, he hurried to join the army of George Washington at Cambridge. Burr was but nineteen then, and the gathering at Cambridge was more of a mob of 17,000 men than an army.

Burr fell ill of fever. While he was confined to bed he heard that Benedict Arnold was forming an expedition to Quebec.

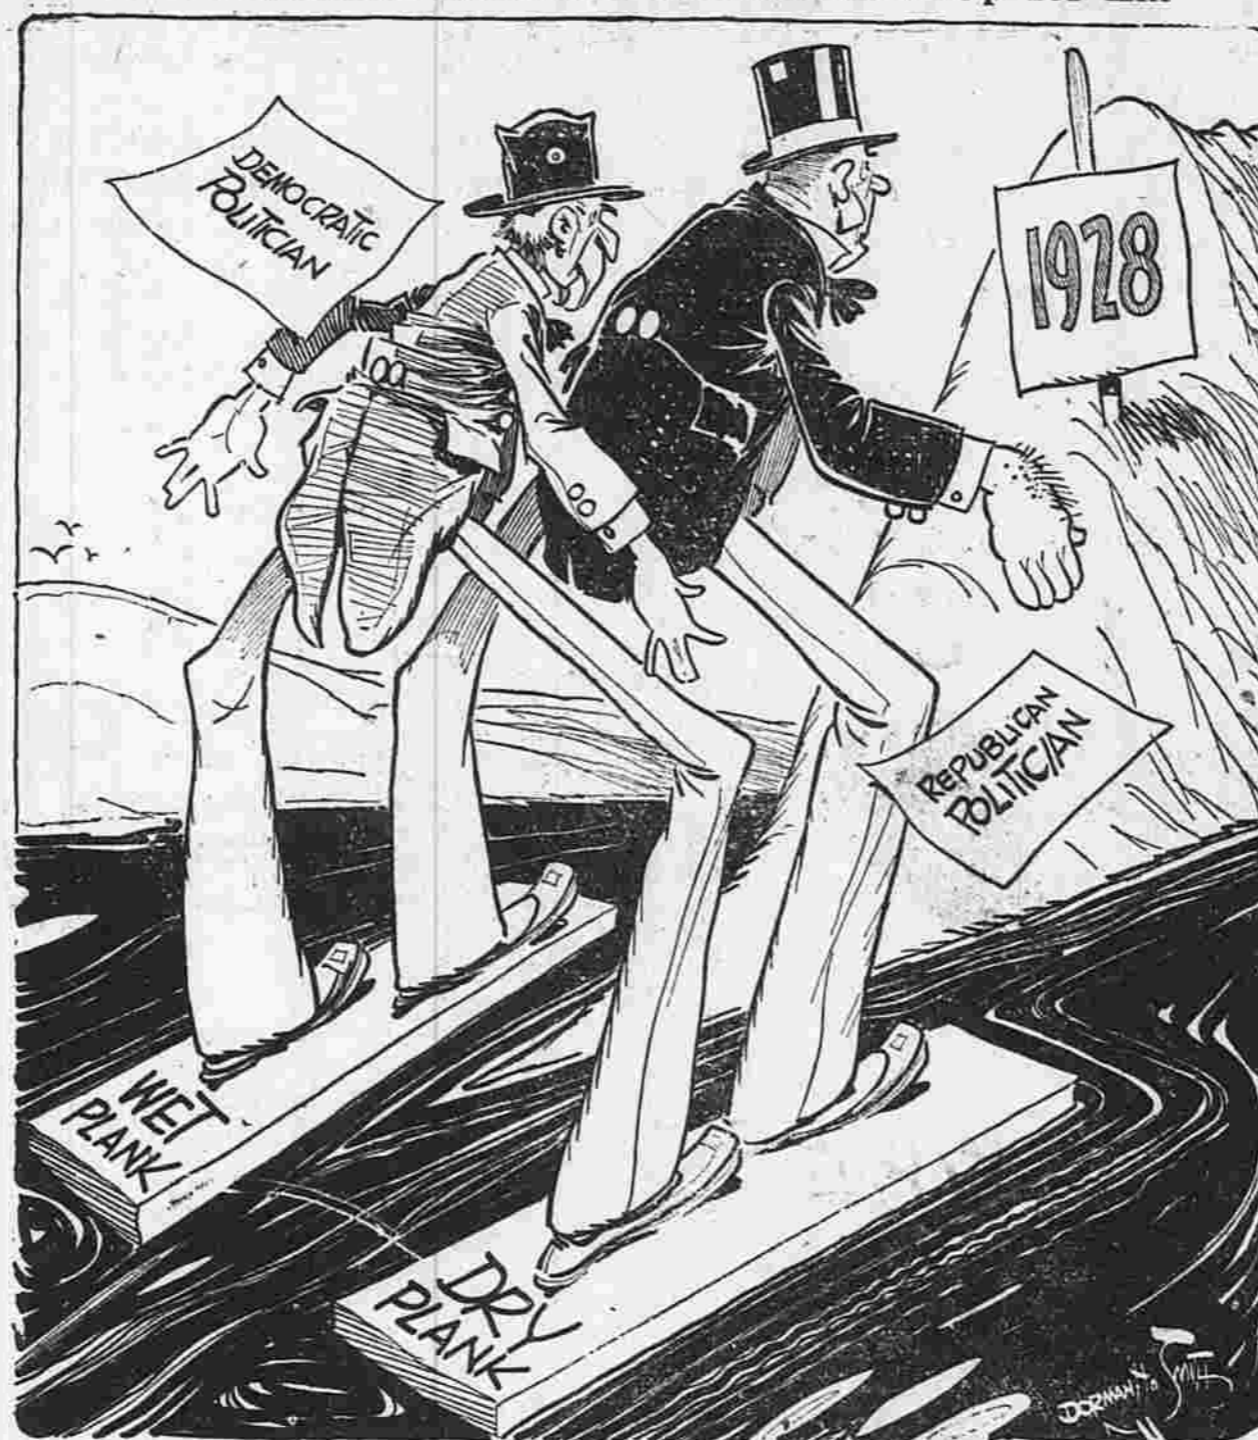

He rose up in bed and declared he would follow Arnold. He put on his clothes and made all arrangements to join Arnold's forces.

Friends and relatives tried to force Burr from his plan, but the young man was resolute. About Sept. 20, 1775, Arnold's troops, numbering 1100, with Burr among them, embarked in eleven transports and sailed to the mouth of the Kennebec, whence the journey was to be made in bateaux. (Continued)

BOXER IS AFTER 3 WORLD'S TITLES

Mushy Callahan Has Fine Chance of Creating Sporting History.

BY DAN THOMAS

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—Three world's pugilistic champions all moulded into one human body—a condition without a precedent in ring circles. And yet it is entirely possible in the case of Mushy Callahan, new world's junior welterweight champion.

Former Newsboy
 The former Los Angeles newsboy had little difficulty in hitting the crown from Pinky Mitchell in their recent bout at the Vernon arena here. In November he will meet Pete Latzo for the welterweight title at Madison Square Garden, New York. And his manager, Eddie Sears, is angling for a titular bout with Sammy Mandell. Callahan can easily make 135 pounds for Mandell if the Rockford "flash" will meet him.

Mushy might drop the verdict to either or both of these opponents. But he is a logical contender, and after what took place at Philadelphia on Sept. 23, I am convinced that anything can happen in the squared circle.

Bob Fitzsimmons became a double title holder in 1897 by stopping James J. Corbett in 14 rounds at Carson City, Nev. He soon relinquished his middleweight crown—although he could still make the weight—because there was a better field in the heavyweights.

ELEVEN STATES HAVE BOYS ON NAVY'S 1926 FOOTBALL TEAM

Annapolis, Oct. 15.—Eleven states are represented, as well as practically every section of the country, on this year's varsity football team at the U. S. Naval Academy here. Bagdanowitch is from New Hampshire; Wickhorst, Illinois; Gross, New York; Warren, Georgia; Born, Wisconsin; Woerner, New Jersey; Hardwick, Virginia; Shapley, California; Hamilton, Ohio; Ransford, Iowa; and Hannegan, District of Columbia. With these men on the varsity eleven, the Far West, the Mid-West, the North-west, the South and the North are represented.

APOLOGIZES TO LADY PEEL FOR SEEKING DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Timothy Whelan, former actress under the name of "Judy King," and wife of a movie "gas" man, apologized today to Lady Peel of England, known on the stage and screen as Beatrice Lillie, following Mrs. Whelan's dismissal of a suit for divorce in which she named Miss Lillie co-respondent.

"I realize now that their association was for purely business purposes," Mrs. Whelan said.

CHALLENGE.

"Bum" Rodgers, "Killer" Cunniffe and half a dozen of their associates have put themselves on the long, long trail that seldom has more than one end—capture and conviction by the sleuths of the United States government.

Police familiar with the circumstances and with the past performances of the men are convinced that it was the Rodgers-Cunniffe gang that yesterday raided a mail truck, killed the driver, wounded three others and terrorized passers-by with machine gun fire in the streets of Elizabeth, N. J.

There is one difference between the police work of the federal officers and that of the police of cities and states—their "cases" never grow "cold." The pursuit never is over till the fugitive is caught.

A year or so ago New York authorities had "Bum" Rodgers where they wanted him—shackled and on his way to Sing Sing to serve a long term. And then they let him go. They sent him up the road in an ordinary day coach of a regular train attended by a single guard. Pals of "Bum" took the seat behind, clouted the guard over the head and took "Bum" off the train at the next stop. Since then several persons have been killed and a huge amount of loot taken by the mob of which he is the head. The other day they killed a New Jersey business man and his son merely to get his automobile after wrecking their own.

This Rodgers is a dope ridden rat. Every policeman in half a dozen states knows all about him and could pick him out of a world series crowd. But because of the constant turnover of police cases he has remained at liberty, to kill and to rob—till now he and his crowd have challenged the United States government.

We shall see whether this Elizabeth crime is permitted to grow cold and be forgotten.

GOOD WORK.

Elsewhere on this page appears a letter from a Buffalo high school girl boosting the proposed Buffalo-to-Lockport-Oswego-to-Albany ship canal. It is printed because in our opinion it is a reflection of a mighty clever and entirely worthy scheme, the enlistment of the young people of a community in community effort on a big scale. It would be our guess, naturally, that all the high school pupils of Buffalo—or at least those in whom civic pride can be aroused—are engaged in the laudable enterprise of writing to newspapers all over the country on this same subject and along the same lines.

Also it is worth noting that the brief and simple character of Miss Esther Everett's letter is very much more effective than the labored, over-written and too detailed communications which usually go forth on such subjects, from boards of commerce, booster clubs and special purpose organizations. Miss Esther doesn't go very deeply into detail. She just tackles the primer of the matter—and that is precisely the part of it that there may be some small hope of getting into the heads of folks in general outside of Buffalo and other directly interested towns.

As between the merits of the project thus advocated by the Buffalo girl and the much mooted Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, we do not pretend to be able to judge. But we do feel that it would be far easier to awaken American public sentiment for an all-United States ship canal than in a project in which we would have to go partners with another country.

However, the really important job is to make it clear to something over a hundred million people that some kind of a Great Lakes-to-Atlantic ship waterway is enormously important to the future well being and development of the United States as an economic unit. And when you can get high school pupils interested in such a business it is an extremely good sign of the times.

Young Miss Everett can feel proud of being one of those engaged in laying the groundwork for one of the biggest jobs of self-help that the American people have ever done or contemplated.

LITTLE JIMMY AGAIN.

Where the United States senate committee, erected to smell into the senatorial primary scandals, gets any legitimate right to be nosing into the internal affairs of Indiana is beyond the comprehension of anybody but a Jim Reed.

That worthy from the Ozark state, however, is little concerned with the legitimacy of any enterprise which promises to give him a chance at the spotlight. Nor yet with its justifiableness. That it provides Jim Reed with opportunity to prance before the American public, and to bully witnesses haled before him on the most dubious of authority, is enough for him. That, and the opportunity to throw some dirt at the Republican party.

This little man sees a chance, or thinks he sees a chance, to take the center of the stage in Indiana and "show up" the dominant party in that state. If he can do that it will add a little more to the likelihood of his attaining to the ambition which underlies all these performances, the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Very profoundly it is to be hoped that this opening or some other will enable him to achieve that objective. Jim Reed as a presidential candidate would be one of the most soul-satisfying spectacles that the Republican party as a whole or as individuals could possibly hope to witness.

WHITE WETNESS.

After all, wetness seems to be the biggest issue in the New York state campaign; but, little to the liking of Governor Al Smith, we suspect, it is not the wetness of beer and light wines but the more immediately vital wetness of milk which intrudes its moist presence into the situation.

Ogden Mills cannily assumes that there are more people who are interested in the purity of the milk fed to all their children than in the percentage of alcohol in recreational beverages consumed by part of the adult population. And so he persists in trotting out daily more facts and figures to prove that Tammany's milk graft has not yet come to an end and that huge sections of New York city are being supplied with impure lacteal.

Governor Smith has done some skillful explaining and some quite lively denying in this matter of milk, but Mills seems to be able to keep the white fluid much more to the fore in the campaign than anybody can keep the amber and red ones.

Mills' theory is, no doubt, that while New York as a whole is probably mildly interested in beer it is vitally interested in milk, and that if it is to have a little stronger beer only at the cost of very much weaker and dirtier milk it will gladly do without the beer.

MACHINE GUNS.

In the New Jersey mail holdup yesterday there was used and left behind a machine gun. It is the same type of machine gun as those known to have been used by gangsters in Chicago. It is a murderous affair, too small and of too limited capacity to fill the place of the military weapons to which it is closely related, but admirably adapted to the business of killing citizens and policemen in raids by bandits.

Why such arms should be manufactured and marketed, unless in deliberate intent to supply criminals with a more effectual means of offense and defense, it is not easy to understand. The gun in question is too cumbersome to be efficiently employed by police except under circumstances in which the military type could be used still more efficiently. It is no kind of a thing to be in the possession of a respectable citizen, who could have no use for it.

It is a murder weapon, pure and simple. Such devices should be outlawed at their source.

PEPPY.

The erudite New Haven Journal-Courier has found an original and ingenious way of reassuring voters who might otherwise be fearful that, should a Democratic congress be elected next month, the business of the country would suffer through Democratic tariff tinkering.

There is not the slightest danger of anything of the kind, says the good old Grandmother, "so long as Mr. Coolidge sits in the White House. Should a tariff reduction bill succeed in making its way through both houses of Congress, the necessary two-thirds vote to overcome the President's veto could never be mustered."

We will submit that this, for enthusiastic support of one's party's attitude on the most vital of all economic questions, is entitled to the brown derby.

"Elect our men, please, because there is always President Coolidge to keep them from raising rim with the business of the country." That is merely another way of saying the same thing.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Stamping out bubonic and pneumonic plague throughout the Americas, just as yellow fever virtually has been stamped out, is a much more serious problem than is generally realized, according to public health directors of all the new world republics, who recently met here.

There are not many human cases of it at present in the western hemisphere, but experts agree that the rats at most seaports have it, and where it exists among rats there are no dissenters from the verdict that it is liable at any time to appear in its human form.

All rodents are subject to plague. In California, for example, the ground squirrels have had it for many years, having originally been infected, the American public health service feels certain, by rats, arriving on ships from the Far East.

At all events, every few years there is an outbreak of the maldy. The American public health service always has succeeded in preventing these outbreaks from reaching grave proportions, though in the last one, a year or two ago, there were between 20 and 30 deaths.

Medical science has made considerable progress in the treatment of bubonic plague cases and now saves about 50 per cent, but in a pneumonic plague epidemic nearly 100 per cent of the cases are fatal.

It is of historical record that in the world's greatest plague outbreak, in the middle ages, about a third of Europe's population died. After the 17th century the complaint practically disappeared from the continent until comparatively recent years, but in India and China it always has been prevalent. Now, authorities concur, it is gradually gaining a ground. The doctors at the Washington meeting were a unit in declaring that there should be no trifling with such a peril.

The rat proofing of buildings and the extermination of rats and other rodents is the only effective form of prevention, according to the public health service.

Killing all the rats between the Arctic ocean and Cape Horn may sound like a large order, though, perhaps, no larger than the extermination of the yellow fever bearing mosquito. Still, it must be done, the doctors say, if the plague menace is to be defied.

Plague may rage in a rat community for a long time, it is pointed out, without the knowledge of human beings in the neighborhood, but sooner or later someone is bitten by a flea from one of the rats comes down with the plague and immediately becomes a danger to others.

Plague in its bubonic form is fairly controllable, because the germ can be transmitted only by injection into the subject's bloodstream, which can be guarded against.

The pneumonic form, however, is transmitted by the breath, is as contagious as the common cold and generally kills in a few hours. The germ is the same in either case, but its effect on the patient varies with the organs attacked—the glands or the lungs. The glandular type of the disease tends to favor hot climates; the pneumonic type colder ones.

The Pan-American campaign against the disease will be launched at once.

FURNITURE, FLOOR COVERINGS, PIANOS, PHONOGRAPHS

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 15.—Those blarney and gaudy electric signs that play siren to the front doors of night clubs have been dusted and repainted after their long summer's rest, and one by one begin to flash again.

This, I am told, is to be an unusually lavish night club winter—even if the club or its patrons go broke making it so.

In so-called exclusive places, court charges are to be lifted to match the $10 per seat situation which obtains at important theatrical openings.

For example, take the glittering enterprise of Roger Wolfe Kahn, the saxophonist son of the millionaire banker, Otto Kahn. Having made more in one year from a dozen jazz bands than his daddy made in the first 10 or 15 years of his business life, Roger is going to step out and show them. His club, I am told, will have mirrored glass floor and mirrored sides—the kaleidoscopic and revealing nature of which I leave to your imagination.

Recently the mother of the "baby jax king" decided he needed a rest from his winter's work and summer vaudeville engagements. She pleaded with him to take a leisurely trip across country. As he was about to depart, new contracts came rushing up. The lad persisted that he could not afford to go. What would become of his orchestra?

I am told Mrs. Kahn suggested he leave it all to her and that she paid the salaries—which came to something like $10,000. It was what one might call an expensive vacation.

Not the least of the expensive night club attractions will be Raquel Meller, whose return was arranged variously by Charlie Chaplin, who announces her as a leading lady in one picture, and by a night club manager who announces that she will sing according to the table-to-table tradition established in Paris.

In fact, the entire night club atmosphere threatens to be very Parisian this season. The Russian influence, created by several score of jobless Slavic nobility, is passe. Practically every ultra-expensive resort announces the assistance of French managers or entertainers or producers.

What tourists learned to enjoy in Paris for a dozen francs or so they now may have at home at the slight fee of anywhere from $15 to $50, including ginger ale.

Another fresh supply of Whittman's just received for the week-end. Get a box today or Saturday. Quinn's.—Adv.

Old Masters

To be or not to be; that is the question: Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer the slings or arrows of outrageous fortune, Or to take arms against a sea of troubles, And by opposing end them? To die; to sleep; No more; and, by a sleep to say we end The heartache and the thousand natural shocks That flesh is heir to, 'tis a consummation Devoutly to be wished. To die, to sleep; To sleep; perchance to dream; ay, there's the rub; For in that sleep of death what dreams may come When we have shuffled off this mortal coil, Must give us pause. There's the respect That makes calamity of so long life; For who would bear the whips and scorns of time, The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely, The pang of despised love, the law's delay, The insolence of office, and the spurns That patient merit of the unworthy takes, When he himself might his quietus make With a bare bodkin? Who would fardels bear,

To grunt and sweat under a weary life, But that the dread of something after death, The undiscover'd country from whose bourne No traveler returns, puzzles the will And makes us rather bear those ills we have Than fly to others that we know not of? Thus conscience does make cowards of us all; And thus the native hue of resolution Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought, And enterprises of great pith and moment With this regard their currents turn awry, And lost the name of action. Soft you now! The fair Ophelia! Nymph, in thy orisons Be all my sins remember'd.—Hamlet's Soliloquy, Act III, Scene I, Hamlet—Shakespeare.

TAKE IT TO FRANCE New York—American tourists, in the number of 226,000, spent $226,000,000 in France in 1922, an estimate by the Bankers' Trust Company reveals. According to these figures, two out of every 100 Americans traveling in France last year were millionaires who spent on an average of $5000.

MARLBOROUGH

At the caucuses which were held Monday night the Republicans nominated T. W. Dobson for representative and Robert T. Buell, Elmer E. Hall and Byron S. Lord for Justices of the Peace. The democrats nominated Willis W. Hall for representative and John C. Vergason, Frank A. Myers, and William S. Lieser for Justices of the Peace. Mrs. E. B. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Blish and infant daughter Dorothy and Mrs. William Calfyn have returned from Philadelphia, Pa., where they have been spending a week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Erving B. Lord.

Willis W. Hall and Frank W. Fuller have been summoned to do jury duty in Hartford at the superior court, civil side. Miss Margaret Wolcott and Miss Hilda M. Anderson spent Saturday in Hartford. Cavalier Forti of Branford was in town on business Wednesday. Sealed bids will be opened Friday, October 22, to the Marlborough-Hebron road a distance of 29,608 linear feet which will be of waterbound macadam.

HULTMAN'S NEW BOYS' DEPARTMENT POPULAR

Giving Away Boys' Football Free With Purchases of $5 or More on Saturday.

Arthur L. Hultman has made a valuable addition to his store equipment in his new boys' department which he has fitted up in the basement of his store. A stairway leads from the main floor to the new department, which is attractively finished and equipped for the display of every article of boys' apparel. That such a department is appreciated by parents of growing boys is evident from the compliments Mr. Hultman has received and from the patronage the new boys' department is enjoying. As a special inducement to purchases of Boys' equipment tomorrow, Mr. Hultman will give a boy's leather covered football free with purchases of $5 or more in the boys' department.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT CIRCLE TONIGHT

Low Cody has undoubtedly been provided with the greatest role of his career in John M. Stahl's production, "The Gay Deceiver," from the great stage success, the Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer picture, at the Circle Theater last time today. The role fits as if tailored for him. It is a radical departure from the light comedy stuff he has been doing until recently, things like "An Exchange of Wives," "His Secretary," "Motte Carlo" and others. It provides a wide range of dramatic expression and full play in the whimsical, casual style that is so distinctly his own.

The second feature on the same bill for today will be "Yellow Fingers," Fox Film's version of Gene Wright's enthralling story of the South Seas, follows the book with startling accuracy. The characterizations leave nothing to be desired—in fact those who have read the novel will see the people step out of the book just as they imagined them to be.

Beautiful little Olive Borden is Scina—a fiery half-caste girl, who has been reared to believe she is all white and who, heartbroken, tries to turn all native when she discovers what she is. From this point on there is something profoundly pathetic about the little girl who had maintained her social prestige on the island because of her white parentage.

Farm Queen

This is the prettiest farm girl in all Kansas, where pretty farm girls are as common as wheat fields. She's Miss Sylvia Glenn, of Van Arsdale, Kas., and with the exception of four years in college she has lived on a farm all her life.

WONDERFUL DISPLAY OF NORTHERN LIGHTS

The Aurora Borealis, more commonly known as the Northern Lights, flashed last night with rare brilliancy. Those who were fortunate to view the grandeur spectacle were of the opinion the lights were the plainest and prettiest seen in the last ten years. It is seldom that the Northern Lights spray the heavens with the beautiful colors they did last night. However, it is probable that the majority of Manchester people did not view the sight because it was not until after midnight that the Aurora Borealis began to stage its thrilling display from the Arctic Circle.

At 2 o'clock this morning the lights were even more spectacular than they were at midnight. At this hour the variegated colored lights shot up from behind a bank of black clouds high into the sky. This is usually a sign of approaching cold weather but the temperature today doesn't seem to bear out this prediction. However, it is often a few days before the cold wave reaches here.

BRASS CITY CHAMPS PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Cloverleaves to Meet Strong Opponent in Waterbury Bearcats.

Manager Bill Griffin, of the Cloverleaf football eleven announced today he has booked the Waterbury Bearcats to play his club at Hickey's Grove Sunday afternoon. The kick-off will be at 2:15 sharp because of the early hour at which darkness sets in.

The Brass City club is coming here with a formidable record having won the championship of Waterbury in its class last season. Manager Griffin was not at all pleased with the exhibition of football the New Britain Holy Cross

"KID MCCOY" TO HEAR SENTENCE ON OCT. 29.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—Norman Selby, once famous in boxing circles as "Kid McCoy," and now serving in San Quentin prison for the murder of his sweetheart, Mrs. Anna Mohr in Los Angeles, is due to appear before the state prison board October 29 to have his indeterminate sentence fixed.

eleven showed here Sunday and did not refrain from telling the Hardware City management words to that effect.

However, it is believed that in the Waterbury club, Manager Griffin has booked a real top-notch opponent—one which may even mar the great record the Cloverleaves have compiled in their three years of organization.

WARNER HAD MORE FOOTBALL TRICKS THAN ANY COACH

Nevers Tells About Time When Players Wore Pictures of Footballs on Jerseys.

By ERNIE NEVERS, All-America Fullback, 1925.

I doubt if any football coach has a greater bag of tricks than Coach Glenn Warner of Stanford. Whatever little success I have had on the gridiron was due to the teachings of Stanford.

"The greatest one-man coach in the country" is the way I have often heard the football experts refer to Warner.

I am sure it is a well deserved compliment, for to me he always has seemed to have the enthusiasm and energy of a half dozen coaches.

Warner deals in diversified football. I am inclined to think that his teams are hard to scout. In no two games last season did we use exactly the same system.

In the old days when Warner had charge of the Calislie Indians, I understand he kept rival coaches busy trying to ferret out his tricks.

I have heard him relate how one of his players once ran for a touchdown from kickoff against Harvard by secreting the ball under his jersey.

I also have heard him tell how in one of the big games all his players had a duplicate of a football sewed on their jerseys, and as the ball was passed each player would make it seem that he was carrying the ball.

I am told it practically was impossible for the opposing team to distinguish between the player actually with the ball and the 10 others with fake footballs.

The stunt of having one of the Carlisle Indians rolled up in a blanket along the sidelines to spring to his feet and remove the blanket as play was started, thereby upsetting the opposition, was another favorite trick.

The rules committee has since so worded the rules that it is now hard to beat them by trickery.

In recent years I know of no trick play used by Stanford that afforded Coach Warner greater satisfaction than the triple pass with the double reverse.

The first time Warner sprung it against California, the greatest rival of Stanford, a touchdown resulted. That was a great break for the Warner strategy.

As fullback of Stanford I handled most of the passes. In this play the ball came direct from the center to me at fullback.

I would make a bluff to go around the opposition's right end. At the same time the right halfback would start running toward me and I would pass the ball to him.

The right halfback then gives the ball to the left halfback, who proceeds to run around the right end.

While the play is not new, yet it requires extreme accuracy on the part of every player for it to go over.

"Bye-Bye—Blackbird"

Joe Humphries, veteran fight announcer, proclaims Sharkey the winner. His voice was drowned in the bedlam raised by the 40,000 spectators as Referee Haley waved Wills into his corner and declared him the loser. By the decision Wills' championship hopes were shattered.

Sharkey misses a vicious right aimed for Wills' heart.

HORNSBY-COLLINS TWO BEST SECOND BASEMEN IN GAME

Billy Evans Considers Them Best in the Last Twenty Years.

By BILLY EVANS

Unquestionably the two greatest second basemen to grace the major leagues in the last 20 years, all things considered, are Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox and Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals.

This is all the more unusual when you consider that it was several years before either star discovered that second base was his forte.

Collins Mack used Collins at short, third and right field before he definitely decided that second base was his proper spot in the infield.

Hornsby played every position in the infield and took a whirl at the outfield before he settled down at second.

Both soon developed into stars, and each already has shown unusual ability as a manager, Hornsby winning a National League pennant in his second year.

Other star players have had somewhat similar experiences.

Not For Sale
During the final regular series of the year at St. Louis with New York, George Sisler, manager of the Browns, pitched the last two innings of the game that ended the season.

It so happened that I worked the first game Sisler pitched in the majors. He had come direct from the University of Michigan.

He had plenty of stuff, including a fine curve, but of course lacked experience. He soon developed into a star southpaw. Then he was shifted to first base, so his arm could make daily use of his ability to hit the ball.

In the final St. Louis game he showed he still possessed the fast breaking curve, for he struck out the first two men to face him.

Yet, after the game when I asked Sisler if he would like to go back to pitching, he replied: "I should say not. I'll take first base for mine."

Antent Babe Ruth
Then there is Babe Ruth, who became the American League's greatest southpaw and after reaching that dizzy height as a pitcher took to outfielding and making home runs.

Ruth is the most colorful figure that ever has played baseball. I doubt if the game will ever see another just like him.

The world series of 1926, by the way, has caused Ruth to suffer a change of opinion as to his greatest thrill.

Back in 1924 I sat next to Ruth in the press box at Washington as the Giants and the Senators waged an extra inning battle, New York finally winning in 12 innings.

During every inning after the ninth I noticed the joy that was mighty nervous. I finally asked the reason.

"You know I pitched the longest world series game ever played, 14 innings, and it looks as if these guys might break it," he said.

JOE McCANN'S WIN STAVES OFF DEFEAT

MANCHESTER WILL WIN

Once more a tie has resulted between South Manchester High and St. Thomas Seminary of Hartford at tennis. Yesterday afternoon these two schools battled to a 2 to 2 deadlock.

Had it not been for the sensational work of Joe McCann, Manchester might have suffered a defeat. The outcome of the match depended entirely on the match between McCann and Dalton of St. Thomas. It was the only match that went three sets. Each player won by scores of 6 to 3 with Dalton winning the second set.

It was impossible to play off the two matches in the doubles because of darkness. A large gallery watched the two rival aggregations in action.

Ty Holland won the opening match from "Hank" McCann 6 to 4 and 6 to 2. McCann is a former S. M. H. S. student.

Dunne, of St. Thomas ousted E. Cole 7 to 5 and 6 to 3.

Niemic of St. Thomas defeated Frank McCann 6 to 4 and 6 to 1. Joe McCann then won his memorable clash with Dalton 6 to 3, 3 to 6, 6 to 3.

There will be no more tennis matches until Spring.

HARTFORD BLUES TO MEET STEAM ROLLERS

Hartford, Oct. 15.—Providence's famed Steamrollers and the National Professional Football League's baby team, the Hartford Blues, meet at the Velodrome in this city Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in a contest which is expected to go far toward determining the New England professional championship for 1928.

The Steamrollers boast many veterans of Brown University teams, among them Jackson Keefe, the shifty halfback who caused plenty of trouble for Dartmouth and Yale last season with his winding dashes; Curley Oden, one of the fastest carriers in the East; and Johnny Spellman, a tackle who won the Olympic wrestling title in his division. With Keefe and Oden in the backfield is Cy Wentworth, plunger from New Hampshire state, who was placed among the leading Eastern college scorers two years ago.

Hartford will present a strong backfield, a heavy line, and an exceptional pair of ends. Shrimp Foley of Syracuse fame, teammate of the flashy Eddie Tron while at Suffield school, is one of the outstanding performers and is fit for the contest after an injury to his right ankle. Louis Eymette, 205-pound batterer from the University of Texas, Chuck Corgan of Kansas City, shortstop of the Jersey City team in the International League, and Jim Manning, fullback and captain at Fordham a year ago, are the others behind the line.

Along the front are found Furlong Flynn of Cornell, Red O'Neill of the Connecticut Aggies, Ed (Heck) Garvey of Notre Dame, Ralph Nichols and Cowboy Dutch Webber of the Kansas Aggies, Eddie Keenan of Washington College, Jakey Friedman of Waterbury, Elmer McCormick of Holyoke, Mass., and Jack Verwilt of Dean Academy.

Eddie McEvoy of Mobile, Ala., Henry Zehner of New Britain and Ken Simendinger of Holy Cross are other prominent backs.

KELLEY IS CONFIDENT

MANCHESTER WILL WIN

South Manchester High will play its opening league game of the football season tomorrow afternoon when West Hartford High sends its crack eleven here to battle with the local warriors at the McKee street stadium.

Manchester dropped its first two games, losing to Bulkeley High of New London, 7 to 2 and to Bridgeport High, 19 to 0. However, the team had showed strong possibilities. The Central Connecticut Interscholastic League is now headed by Meriden.

Coach Tommy Kelley will send his best lineup into the fray tomorrow and has high hopes of victory.

Following is the complete league schedule from today on and also the league standing:

Friday, Oct. 15: Middletown vs. East Hartford at Middletown.

Saturday, Oct. 16: Bristol vs. Meriden at Bristol; South Manchester vs. West Hartford at South Manchester.

Friday, Oct. 22: West Hartford vs. Middletown at Middletown.

Saturday, Oct. 23: Meriden vs. South Manchester at Meriden.

Saturday, Oct. 20: Bristol vs. South Manchester at Bristol; West Hartford vs. Meriden at West Hartford.

Saturday, Nov. 6: South Manchester vs. East Hartford at South Manchester; West Hartford vs. Bristol at West Hartford; Meriden vs. Middletown at Meriden.

Friday, Nov. 12: East Hartford vs. West Hartford at East Hartford.

Saturday, Nov. 13: South Manchester vs. Middletown at South Manchester.

Present Standing:

TUNNEY IS READY FOR ALL COMERS

Will Meet Any Contender at Any Time He Has Told Rickard, Makes Known.

New York, Oct. 15.—Gene Tunney stood forth today as a heavy-weight champion who was willing to meet all comers at the earliest available date.

He made himself clear on that point last night when he promised local boxing writers, in a formal address, that he would meet the best man. Tex Rickard could get "In America or in the world." The occasion was a get-together dinner which Tunney tendered to local sports writers.

At Any Date
"I told Rickard the day after the fight in Philadelphia that I would defend the championship against the man he selected and on any date named by him," Tunney declared. "I meant that. Rickard informed me that he planned a heavy-weight tournament with the understanding that I was to meet the winner. That's all right with me."

Army-Navy Football Game Nov. 27 To Be Season's Big Social Feature

Chicago.—When the Army-Navy football game is played in the West this fall for the first time in history—the two service school teams clashing in Chicago November 27—it will be the outstanding social event of the early winter season.

Distinguished visitors from all parts of the country will attend, sitting in special boxes for which Chicago millionaires have paid from $200 to $2,500 each.

While the center of interest among the thousands of mid-western fans numbering in the millions to the game is the brand of football to be seen in the legend-laden contest, hundreds of Chicago college girls may have other thoughts.

There will be more than 2,500 handsome cadets and midwives in the city when the game is played and one Chicago newspaper has actually appealed to the city's young women to refrain from "flirting too strenuously" with the boys from West Point and Annapolis. Appeal was made for the co-eds to be "dignified and ladylike."

Chicago, with its Great Lakes Naval station and whose citizens are keen for yachting and boating, may be partial to the Navy when the teams meet here.

In order to aid the middies in the cheering and singing many Chicagoans are practicing the cadet's "Anchors Aweigh" tickets to the outstanding football song of the midshipmen.

For more than 20 years this stirring song has inspired the Navy to victory.

"Anchors Aweigh" was written as an Annapolis class song in 1907. The music was composed by Charles Zimmerman, leader of the naval academy band at that time. The song is as follows: "Stand Navy down the field, Sails set to the sky. We'll never change our course, So Army you steer shy-y-y. Roll up the score, Navy, Anchors Aweigh. Sail Navy down the field And sink the Army. Sink the Army Grey."

"Get under way, Navy, Decks cleared for the fray, We'll hoist true Navy Blue So Army down your Grey-y-y Full speed ahead, Navy, Army heave to. Furl Black and Grey and Gold And hoist the Navy. Hoist the Navy Blue."

TONY LAZZERI TOOK BIG FLOP IN FINALE
You can never tell in baseball. Tony Lazzeri, the boy who hit 69 homers in the Pacific Coast League in 1925, fell down badly in the final world's series game. Tony fanned three times on four appearances, once striking out with the sacks loaded.

DUNDEE-ZIVIC.
New York, Oct. 15.—Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, will clash with Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh here tonight in a ten-round bout for the right to meet the champion, Pet. Latzo. Dundee is favored to win.

SIN IN POLITICS UNDER FIRE BY OHIO CRUSADERS

Drive Against Crime Is Organized to Purge State of Lawlessness.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Two units of that organized crime concern known as the underworld are now facing the exterminating fire of crusaders in Ohio.

In Canton, where Don R. Mellett, vice-fighting publisher went down to his death while making an expose of conditions, a well-organized drive against crime and its political protectors is underway.

In Steubenville, an industrial center of about 30,000 population, a ministerial association is carrying on a determined fight to purge that thriving little city of crime.

Both investigations are being aimed at alleged political sinners. Steubenville and Canton, both known for years in the Buckeye state as two small, yet highly important links, in that chain of crime which connects the east with the middle west, have long been 'white elephants' on the hands of law enforcement officers.

In Steubenville. Steubenville, in the past years, has been the scene of many bloody encounters between federal and state officers and bootleggers.

A few years ago a bitter Klan and anti-Klan spirit expressed itself in the form of murderous bullets during a Ku Klux Klan parade and several were killed.

Canton officials admit they have had more than their share of unsolved murders.

The vice-fighters in both cities have succeeded in ousting their police chiefs.

Garter is reported to have left Steubenville.

Mayor John S. H. Patton, of Steubenville, has also had his official crown lifted.

Several Canton policemen have been fired, as well as two members of the civil service commission.

Threats of Death.

Threats of death have indirectly reached the ears of Attorney W. R. Alban, counsel for the Steubenville ministers, and Charles E. Morris, publisher of the Canton Daily News, who filled the vacancy caused by the murder of Mellett.

Both men have emphatically declared that they will "carry on" until "righteousness reigns again."

Since the murder of Mellett and the activity of the Steubenville ministers, several anti-vice drives have cropped out in other Ohio cities and in surrounding states.

Federal investigators working under the direction of U. S. Attorney A. E. Bernstein, with headquarters here, are believed to be amassing evidence against a whiskey and narcotic smuggling branch of the organized chain in Pittsburgh, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago.

McCAUGHEY IS AFTER PITCHING CHAMPIONSHIP

"Pinkey" McCaughey today served notice that he will challenge anyone and everyone at horseshoe pitching at the annual outing of the Army and Navy Club which will be held Sunday at Community Camp at Coventry Lake. McCaughey has issued a challenge to Bill Shields for a hundred yard dash for the championship of Main and Forest streets.

It is expected that over fifty members of the club will go on the outing Sunday. Plans have been completed and it is expected to be one of the most successful events in the history of the organization.

A roast chicken dinner will be served and then in the afternoon will come the anxiously-awaited program of sports.

CALIFORNIA TO PROBE DIVORCE EVIL IN STATE

10,000 Divorces Each Year Alarm Legislator Who Plans New Bill; Will Tabulate Statistics.

Sacramento, Cal.—State investigation of the divorce evil will be demanded at the forthcoming session of the Sacramento legislature, according to the announcement just made by State Senator J. M. Inman.

Inman estimates that there are 10,000 divorces in California annually.

L. E. Ross, California's statistical psychologist, would be placed in charge of the inquiry if his bill secures legislative approval, Inman said.

Will Offer Bill

The state senator said he will introduce a measure providing for continuous compilation by the state bureau of vital statistics of all data relative to divorces in California. The bill will provide that records of every divorce granted be kept in the state archives for reference.

At the present time statistics are compiled on all births, deaths and marriages in the state, Inman asserted, but no state record of divorces is maintained. The proposed law, he declared would serve the following purposes:

Valuable Statistics

1. It would provide accurate information for courts and attorneys in bigamy cases.
2. It would permit men and women about to marry to check up on the marital records of their intended mates. At the present time this information can be gained only by writing to each of

Interesting facts about La Touraine (Extra) Coffee

It is the largest-selling coffee in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees in America. In this home of exacting coffee critics, it is considered the supreme result of 237 years of coffee development.

It is the coffee served in many dining places famous for their coffee. In all Stader Hotels, for instance. In the magnificent Shoreland of Chicago. In countless country homes which study fine hospitality.

The blend combines the four finest coffees that grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Each derives its excellent flavor from one of the rarest soils of the earth.

Three of the coffees combined in this blend cost 50% more than ordinary coffee, and 25% more than Sao Paulo, the price coffee of Brazil. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.

The formula for this blend is a secret, carefully preserved. Coffee experts spent twenty years in perfecting it. No other blend has been made to resemble it. Those who find here their ideal flavor can find it nowhere else.

Mr. E. J. Butler, the noted coffee expert, personally tests, tastes and selects all coffees used in this blend. His duty is to maintain, without regard to cost, this premier coffee flavor. He pays any price necessary to combine in La Touraine (Extra) the maximum delights.

La Touraine (Extra) is sold direct to retail grocers. This to save middlemen's profits. It is sold in double sealed cartons, not in cans. These and other economies—about 11 cents per pound—pay for the extra quality. Thus users get this matchless coffee without a fancy price.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE JUDITH MARTIN, a new teacher at Pendleton University, is kissed by a stranger, ERIC WATERS, on a bet.

"You're a pretty good looking girl," he commented coolly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

THE president's house at Pendleton University is a gracious square structure of decaying brick, well retired from the stress of the campus.

A noseless Pan pours a fountain jet from his crumbling pitcher into a little stone-paved pool near the flagstone path.

Coming up the path one afternoon, two weeks after the Gerhart party, Judith found Dr. Dorn standing by the pool.

"Are you looking for the famous fish?" she asked lightly.

Dr. Dorn started at sound of her voice. "No, they have taken him in. It's getting too cold out here for the old fellow these chill fall nights."

The wide front door was opening from time to time to admit guests as they came up the walk.

"Oh dear," sighed Judith. "I suppose we'll have to go in. The president's invitation to tea amounts to a royal command, doesn't it?"

"It isn't the president's, but the president's wife's. I understand she sometimes has trouble finding Dr. Banbury in time to put him into his party clothes for these receptions."

"So do I," said Judith. "It's very vexing."

Dr. Banbury's stout, jolly daughter, Ida, escorted them to the tea table and presented Judith to her mother.

"Why were you not in my party last year?" she asked. "I hate going to tea alone."

"I'm glad, too," he replied simply as he offered his arm.

A group of young men in navy blue and black, ranged about a davenport in the drawing room, looked up as they entered.

"Why are all the fellas in this corner and the feather hats over there?" she whispered.

Dr. Dorn followed her eyes. "Well I never thought of it before. But these are the faculty wives in the feather hats and these felt-hatted ladies are teachers. There seems to be two camps, and not very friendly."

ones at that." "I know," nodded Judith. "The faculty wives are envious of the women teachers' intellectual status and pay checks."

"Thank you," Judith replied. "But I don't play whist."

"Well," said Mrs. Brown, "you'd probably find it very stogy. We're not exactly a gay set."

But he and Dean Brown had drawn apart to examine an old harpsichord standing in a corner.

"Your hat is neither felt nor feathers. I like it."

"So do I," said Judith. "It's very vexing."

you collect meteorites and are you interested in harpsichords?"

"You're a pretty good looking girl," he commented coolly, taking in the modish cut of her gray coat and the small velvet turban which the professor had also admired.

"Myra's a stunner, too, but Lord! what temperament. Still, I like my women highly spiced. Too bad I'm not hard-bolled enough to kid you both along. But I'd hate to be jerked out before I'd had my beauty sleep some morning and told that Myra had taken potassium cyanide."

Judith laughed shortly. "Or strangled me with her own lily white hands."

Eric looked at her. "Oh, didn't you? Now, that's too bad. I would have let you."

They were rounding a little hill, beyond which the road cut across a little valley and set out for the blue distances. The last town house had been passed many yards back.

"Wheew!" whistled Eric, "a dull evening for Myra. But why tear up the dress?"

"Because I had worn it and you had kissed me, and I told her I hadn't had a chance to kiss you back."

Eric looked at her. "Oh, didn't you? Now, that's too bad. I would have let you."

They were rounding a little hill, beyond which the road cut across a little valley and set out for the blue distances. The last town house had been passed many yards back.

"Because I had worn it and you had kissed me, and I told her I hadn't had a chance to kiss you back."

Eric looked at her. "Oh, didn't you? Now, that's too bad. I would have let you."

Two Days Made Him a Leading Man, But Two Years, a Husband

Pity That's Akin To Love Awakened Romance; Pair Now Is Playing Long Domestic Engagement.

Boyd Marshall and Mitzl.

By Hortense Saunders.

New York, Oct. 8.—"Well, maybe you'll like this man"—those were the words with which Henry Savage, producer, presented Boyd Marshall, to Mitzl, the musical comedy star.

"He was right," says Mitzl. "I did. And I like him yet, in spite of having been his wife for seven years."

However, Mr. Savage was not submitting Marshall matrimonially, but professionally.

"I'll never forget it," Mitzl shook her head positively. "I never felt so sorry for a human being in my life as I did for him that day. Sympathy was my first emotion toward him."

"You see, we were just within two days of opening in a musical comedy and our leading man left. We tried out two or three others, but none looked promising. There we were—costumes lovely, girls beautiful, score marvelous—everything ready for a Broadway success—everything but a leading man for me to drape myself about for the final curtain."

Into this crisis came Boyd. He was asked to sing.

"To an empty theater, empty seats, to a handful of men who were wanting to go to lunch and had empty stomachs—and some of them had empty heads," she laughed and then became serious.

"Unless you are a singer, you can't know what such an ordeal is or have any idea of its horror. A major operation is a joy beside it. The middle ages never thought of anything so exquisite in the form of torture."

"You have no inspiration. You are scared to death—even if you sing all your life. Your throat tightens, and the lighter it gets the worse you sing. The worse you sing the worse you feel. It usually ends in a total collapse or hysteria, or you are forcibly removed from your misery."

"Well, Boyd started to sing. None of us had heard him. I can see him yet, opening his shirt collar, perspiring, and registering agony. Strangely enough, he was able to sing fairly well in spite of his nervousness. He was given the part and two days in which to learn it."

After the ordeal, Mitzl's sympathy sought expression, and she volunteered to work with him for the afternoon so he would be ready.

"After two days he was ready for his part, and we opened," she goes on. "All went well. We had a season on Broadway and one on the road before our romance made much headway. I seem to remember that I did the proposing, but my husband insists he took the initiative. Naturally, thrown together as we were for two years, propinquity had a chance to do its work."

"By the time we reached the diamond solitaire, were very pretty certain we cared."

"Traveling on the road, playing one-night stands sometimes, is a great revealer of character—or the lack of it. By the time you have seen the reactions of your fellow travelers towards trains that leave at 5 in the morning, 'hashhouses,' and fifty stage managers, and when they have seen your complexion when you catch an early train, or sampled your disposition when you didn't—well, illusions have vanished and what remains, if anything, is honest to goodness comradeship."

Mitzl is Domestic.

The two have played in the same company ever since, until this season when Marshall is trying straight drama.

The diminutive Hungarian star and her husband have a home at White Plains, N. Y., where they indulge their enthusiasm for home life, country, dogs, books and friends.

Mitzl is not athletic. She hates golf, plays an indifferent game of tennis, and swims very unprofessionally, but she loves to keep house.

"Particularly to cook," she explained, "but at present I have a cook who won't even let me in the kitchen. However, if she leaves, and I have to officiate at the gas range, we shall starve."

Here's Mitzl's explanation for their happiness.

"I've learned to stop giving uncollected advice, and running other people's lives for them, and Boyd never had any tendencies in this direction. When life seems hectic and things go wrong, we look at each other and say: 'It's a great life, this show business.' And eventually things smooth themselves out."

Little Virginia Allen, 9, a school girl in Clark county, Indiana, was sent home because she wore knickerbockers to school. Her mother sent her right back. Now the case is in the courts. Not long ago two little school girls of Ohio were sent home for wearing socks to school. In both cases, teachers who should be penalized, stuffed childish minds full of prudery and false shame.

It seems shocking to think that any present educational system can shell out teachers so blighted, so Sairey Gampish, such remnants of a dark age.

Especially in an age which accepts knickerbockers quite calmly on grown-up ladies, let alone on little girls of 9! If I were those mother, I would sue on some charge which would cover corruption of a child's wholesome outlook o' things!

"Can you suggest some good book of biography or contemporary novelists?" ask Program Chairman. "Our club has a few dollars for a library, and we want such a book among others."

"Novellists We Are Seven," by Patrick Braybrooke is the very thing. Ask me where it is published. It contains the lives of May Sinclair, Rebecca West (Temple Thurston, Gilbert Frankau, Hugh Walpole, V. B. Maxwell and Ian Hay.

It may be a little early to talk about the youngsters' Christmas books. But parents who wish that there was more readable biography for kiddlets will want to write down "Little Abe Lincoln" by Bernice Rabcock. Little Americans will read breathlessly how Little Abe and his sister Sarah played with their dolls, and how they caught a fat old possum. The first child's version, so far as we know, of the life of the great Abraham Lincoln.

"A garden is a lovesome spot, God wot," said the poet. And if your garden would be a "lovesome spot" next year, you must think of fall planting. Dahodils, tulips, and the hardy roses should be set out this month, say the garden experts, and the gladioli and dahlia bulbs (taken up when the leaves are yellow.

"I just hate English," a young high school girl commented to me not long ago. It developed that she hated Burke's "Speech on Conciliation with America"; Macaulay's Essays; Lamb's "Essays of Elia"; and all the other hackneyed "classics" still fed mere youngsters.

My hat is off to a certain high school English teacher friend who dares throw the "classics" in the rubbish heap and serve her charges some of the interesting and worth-while modern books. For instance, she substituted "Left the Lucky" by Clara Sharpe Hough for "The Ancient Mariner," and let her junior highers read "Diary of a Young Lady of Fashion" rather than "Hamlet."

Good Nature and Good Health

PEDESTRIAN ARMY ALSO HAS TO COPE WITH POISON GAS BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene the Health Magazine.

A special committee of the New York Academy of Medicine has just made available the results of a study of cases of poisoning from carbon monoxide gas.

The quality of gasoline varies in different parts of this country, but all of it contains material which combines with the oxygen of the air to yield combinations of carbon and oxygen.

One hundred per cent combustion of the carbon-hydrogen combinations in gasoline is not obtained even with the best possible adjustment of the carburetor and perfect timing of the spark.

Depending largely on the care with which the carburetor is adjusted, the amount of carbon monoxide exhaust gas may vary from 20 per cent by volume to 13 per cent, or even more.

According to the studies made in New York, even small cars produce as much as one cubic foot of carbon monoxide per minute, while larger cars, buses and trucks produce much more.

This poisonous gas is discharged about fifteen inches above the ground, and is practically the same density as air. There is little tendency for it to rise or to settle to the pavement.

In New York City, studies were made to find out just what happens to this gas. As a result of observations made on a Ford car, it was found that the gas is distributed in a cone shaped space which spreads out so that the head of a person of average height, standing a few feet back of the car, was surrounded by an atmosphere containing from four to six parts of monoxide gas to 10,000 of air.

If the car is traveling about ten miles per hour, the exhaust gas is elongated, and a car following 30 feet behind would be surrounded by exhaust diluted to one or two parts of monoxide gas to 10,000 of air.

The gas tends to hang in the street in a layer of from five to ten, or at most 15 feet deep. Naturally if the wind is brisk, the gas is more rapidly disseminated. Most serious is the gas from large motor buses, because the amount of carbon monoxide is greater.

Scientific evidence as to the effects of varying concentrations of gas on health is not at this time available. Crossing policemen and others who work constantly on the streets sometimes complain of symptoms which may be due to the breathing of small quantities of the gas.

Contamination There is no question whatever that the increase in the number of cars, particularly of trucks and buses, may produce serious contamination of the air. In garages and repair shops, the problem is much more serious. Numerous deaths have been reported from the running of motor cars in closed garages or poorly ventilated repair shops. Forced ventilation is absolutely necessary.

Much can be accomplished with this problem by insuring a proper adjustment of the carburetor, and chemists are already at work on the question of control devices that will eliminate the possibility of the dissemination of carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust pipe.

It is also possible that a fuel may sometime be devised which will replace gasoline for internal combustion engines. Much of the carbon monoxide in automobile exhaust gas, that represents a sacrifice of miles per gallon, is not produced for the sake of power, but in starting a cold motor. The present average content of over 7 per cent of carbon monoxide gas in the exhaust material must be considered both wasteful and dangerous.

No headache, bad cold, sour stomach or costive bowels

Get a 10-cent box now. You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, though Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Enter, the Christmas Spirit

By Olive Roberts Barton

Peace on earth, good will to men! The frenzy has begun. September magazines carried advertisements for Christmas suggestions. October brings special catalogs of Christmas cards, and already the leisurely fortunate are picking up bargains in the stores for the merry three months ahead.

The leaves are green and luxuriant on the trees, warm south winds carry no hint of frost, the year is in the fulness of its yield—vineyards and orchards are producing an unprecedented crop, dahlias and asters are blooming in luxuriant riot. Chrysanthemums, harbingers of winter, have not started to unfold their spicy aromas to the world. The birds are with us. It is still summer.

The middle of last May, in a distant city, I passed an open door in a hotel corridor. Within was a display of Christmas wreaths and decorations. The mercury stood probably at ninety. I remember that the salesman was in his shirt sleeves. He was selling wholesales to the stores, taking orders in advance to be delivered later—orders for all Christmas goods are given nearly a year in advance. That is necessary in order to handle the enormous volume of business. Toy factories and novelty shops work all year. From now on a large percentage of boxes delivered to the stores will be Christmas merchandise.

Efficiency! Business preparedness! American forehandedness! The person who gave the first gift to commemorate the birth of the Babe in the Manger, started something. It shows what we can do with an original idea. It seems to matter not whether we lose sight of that original idea or not. We have made a rather magnificent thing out of a symbol that is supposed to imply humility, service and sacrifice. There is no thought or reverence in our cool calculation that starts its preparedness twelve months ahead.

Peace on earth! I wonder how many homes Christmas brings real peace to! An aftermath of bills and worry is not peace.

FOR THE PANTRY. White oil cloth makes a very practical covering for pantry shelves. It can be fastened down with thumb tacks which are very easy to remove so that the shelves themselves may be scrubbed.

EASIER TO WASH. It is advisable to dust off your windows first before you wash them with hot water, soap and a bit of ammonia.

WRAP UP BRASS. When brasses are not in use, they should be wrapped in newspapers with small bags of camphor attached to keep them from tarnishing.

GREAT BRITAIN SEEN AS BEST U. S. CUSTOMER

Nearly Half Our Exports for Year 1926 Will Go to British Ports.

Washington — The tremendous importance of Great Britain, both as a customer and source of supply for the United States, is disclosed in figures on foreign trade available at the department of commerce.

In the year 1926 nearly one half of all the goods sold by American industry will go to Great Britain or countries under its immediate protection.

Imports Increase The United Kingdom and Canada accounted for over $900,000,000 of American exports, relatively small sales having been made to other states under control of England, such as British India, Malaya, Hongkong, Australia, New Zealand, British South Africa and Egypt.

Imports from Britain, however, were more widely distributed. Canada and the United Kingdom furnished this country goods valued at $492,000,000 for the seven months ending August 1, while imports from British Malaya were $267,740,000 and British India $101,755,000.

Imports from Great Britain were $140,000,000 greater in the seven months than the corresponding period last year, while the gain in exports amounted to $35,806,000.

Experts at the department of commerce explained that the big increase in imports was primarily due to advanced prices of rubber which came in in great quantities from British Malaya, in the first six months of the year.

From July to the present time, however, the United States has succeeded in partially breaking the British rubber monopoly and imports have declined in price to a material extent. Just what will occur in the future was said to be problematical as British interests are making a strong effort to renege higher rubber prices.

Other Factors Another factor contributing to the increased imports from Great Britain is the fact that outstanding prosperity has marked the American business picture in the last year, resulting in an unusual demand for many exotic products which are produced in British soil.

Official regard the increase in exports to the British possessions as of importance, in the face of keen competition from England, Germany and other European producers and in spite of a falling off of total exports to all countries of $127,000,000 in the seven months.

United States increased exports to all British territory excepting the United Kingdom, the largest boost having been in business with Canada to which was sold goods valued at $419,753,000 in the Jan.-August period, against $386,132,000 last year.

The trade to the British possessions was mainly in manufactured goods, representing the greater efficiency of American industry as compared to that of foreign countries.

Our Total Trade Commerce department figures show that the aggregate trade both import and export of 55 principal countries in 1925 amounted to $55,500,000,000, representing approximately nine tenths of the world foreign business.

That was an increase of 13 percent over 1925 and 54 percent over 1913. Whether the usual annual increase will be seen again this year is somewhat doubtful according to experts who predicted that the trade would not be far from that in 1925.

British trade was greater than that of any other nation. The exports from United States in 1925 amounting to $4,910,000,000 were larger than the exports of any other country, and outside of Great Britain exceeded the combined exports of any two other countries.

The next time you are down town call in and get a tube of Minox Ointment. Keep it in the house at all times for burns, cuts, bruises, etc. Quinn's.—Adv.

BERGE, DESIGNER, HEADS STATE BILL

Expert With Pins and Bolt of Cloth on Good Program; Fine Picture.

(By Member Herald Staff.) Alphonse Berge, Parisian dress designer, is the headline attraction on the State's vaudeville bill for the last of the week. His act is unique, and is entertaining to the nth degree. Monsieur Berge fashions gowns and street frocks with a rapidity that is amazing. He uses two girl models, bolts of cloth, and a handful of pins.

The beauty of his work is greeted with "ohs" and "ahs" from the audience and the whole act is a treat for the women. The last act on the bill is the WIRTALLA'S dancing school for Children opens Saturday afternoon October 16th, in Orange Hall. Aesthetic, Ballet and Ballroom Dances Taught, also Department.

"Five Musical Romances" is a fine music is produced by instruments by this company and a French horn quartet is a feature. Helen Wreth sings and plays her violin in a way that captures the audience quickly.

Clifton and Brent do comedy acrobatic stunts cleverly. They seem to be able to get a laugh out of almost any kind of a flop, and the audience took to them last night.

The Ariels present an unusually clever balancing stunt. The lady of the act is very attractive and thrills with her daring feats on top of the pole her partner is balancing. The picture program couldn't be better. Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson and Louise Brooks are featured in "The Show-Off". It's extremely funny. The comedy and news reel this week are good and there's a lot of fun singing one of those funny song reels.

ILLEGAL MOTORING SPOILS THIEF'S WIND. Greenwich, Oct. 15.—James Hyatt, of Danbury, was taken back to that town today for trial on the charge of theft of an automobile after he had upset the local police department. He entered this town at Glenville, raced a policeman and beat him to the center, only to be stopped by traffic at the Post Road Junction. A police squad went hunting him. Hyatt, worried when he was stopped by the traffic, abandoned the machine and started cross-lots on Lake avenue. The squad looking for him came along and set out on a race on foot that lasted for a mile. Then Hyatt's wind gave out. NEW YORK GUARDSMEN TO GIVE SWORD TO QUEEN. DIDN'T KID COOLIDGE; COOLIDGE KIDDED HIM

Just for a joke I sneaked through the woods and let out a growl as they went by. It was several miles to Saranac and about half a mile to camp. But I'd just got there when I got a telephone call from the town. "Mistah Doty, ah jes' wanted to tell you we has been chased by bears! Yassuh, three of 'em run us all the way to th' city limits."

Next day, out fishing, the President said, as seriously as anything, "Any bears around here, Doty?" I said some people had seen tracks and heard growls. "That's fine," said the President, straight-faced, "now we'll know where those boys are." Not one of them ever left camp after dusk after that.

Mr. Coolidge was a good walker. I remember once when we were late for dinner and had two miles to go. The President was stepping it off so fast that Oscar Otis, the camp caretaker who was along with us, had to run once in a while to keep up. I couldn't resist giving Otis a little, but the President cut me short: "Doty, Otis is cold."

There was no love-feasting or political palaver during that vacation. Once we found a lake was posted with a "private" sign and a secret service man brought the owner so Mr. Coolidge could ask permission to fish. The man wanted to have a little chat, so he said, "Mr. Coolidge, my father voted for you in Massachusetts and I voted for you at the last..."

I dragged him in, safe but chilly. "Man, man, that lake's deep; I swum straight up for five minutes. Mr. President, sah, stay outen them boats, lessen yo' name gwine to be Dawes."

This is the latest portrait of the king of England, painted by Sir Arthur Cope, R. A., especially for the Royal College of Music. It is pronounced an excellent likeness.

THIEVES STRIP AUTO AND THEN DESERT IT

A Ford coupe owned by Joseph Farr, of Cottage street, was stolen last night in Hartford and found this morning near the golf links on South Main street, stripped of every removable part. Manchester police are working on the case.

Last night Nicholas Farr and Paul Cline, of School street, went to Hartford to a theater. They left the Ford parked under an electric light on Arch street within a few yards of Main street. When they returned the car was gone.

This morning a workman at the Manchester Country Club found a Ford coupe in which was a license bearing the name Nicholas Farr. He reported the matter to the police. It was found that the car had been stripped of all its tires, cushions, battery, generator, air-pump and other removable parts. Nick puts it this way:

"There was nothing left that could have been stolen without a wrench except the headlights. They also stole an overcoat which I left in the car."

It seems apparent that more than one person was involved in the matter. One man could have not carried away the stolen parts. It is believed that several were implicated in the case and that some rode in another automobile to the spot on South Main street where they "picked up" their friends and the stolen parts.

The automobile was insured.

ANDREWS NAMES FIVE DRY ZONE SUPERVISORS

Next to Last Step, He Says, in Completion of the Prohibition Organization.

Washington, Oct. 15.—What Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, dry chief, described as the "next to the last step" in completing the government's prohibition reorganization was announced at the Treasury today in the appointment of five zone supervisors. The last step will be completed when congress enacts the bill providing for the creation of a prohibition bureau in the treasury.

George P. Busch, of Garden City, N. Y., ex-soldier, for the North Atlantic zone.

Maurice Campbell, of Pelham, N. Y., former motion picture producer and director for the Famous Players Lasky Corporation, Great Lakes zone.

John E. Cooper, of Healdsburg, Cal., rancher and former army engineer, Pacific zone.

O. D. Jackson, prohibition administrator at New Orleans, Gulf zone.

M. O. Dunning, collector of customs at Savannah, South Atlantic zone.

Busch, Campbell and Cooper will draw salaries of $5,200 annually, while Dunning will be paid $6,000 a year.

Andrews announced that the zone arrangement had been made for more efficient administration of the prohibition laws. The zones were laid out with particular reference to the stopping of liquor smuggling which calls for co-operative effort of the Coast Guard, customs and prohibition forces.

ASQUITH GIVES UP HIS LIBERAL LEADERSHIP

Differences With Lloyd George Lead to Resignation, Which Stirs Up Commotion.

London, Oct. 15.—Lord Oxford and Asquith, better known in America and everywhere outside England by the simple title of Mr. Asquith, as he was known during his long career culminating in his premiership of Great Britain at the outbreak of the World War, resigned the leadership of the Liberal Party, thus providing a first class sensation in British political circles.

His resignation is directly due to differences with former Premier David Lloyd George. These came to a head during the great general strike last Spring, when Lord Oxford opposed the strike with the utmost vigor as menacing the destruction of Parliamentary Government, whereas Lloyd George failed to identify himself with this view. Ever since then the dissension within the Liberal ranks has been acute, until it has finally culminated in today's drastic step by the aged veteran.

U. S. CRUISER TO SUPERVISE NICARAGUA PEACE TALK

Mexico City, Oct. 15.—The United States cruiser Tulsa arrived today at Corinto, Nicaragua, where the American delegates will attend the peace conference between the government and the revolutionary delegates, according to advices received in Nicaraguan revolutionary quarters here today. The peace conference is being held under the auspices of the American government.

GOVERNMENT SOON OUT OF AIR MAIL

Bids for Contracts to Be Advertised Within Month, Announces P. O. Chieftain.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Definite steps towards relinquishment of the Trans-continental and the overnight New York-Chicago Air mail services were taken today by the post office department.

Postmaster-General New announced that within thirty days advertisements will be issued inviting bids from contractors to take over the services. They will be returnable sixty days from the date of their issuance.

This period is deemed necessary to allow potential bidders an opportunity to arrange for financing the enterprise. There is now no organization in the aviation field fully equipped, either mechanically or financially, to assume operation of the government-operated air mail service.

SENATE PROBE OF INDIANA MONDAY

Stephenson Now Reported as "Talking" After Mum Session of Grand Jury.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15.—"Stevie is back in the fold!" "Stevie" was the message brought back here today to rekindle the dying embers of Indiana's independent political house cleaning.

It was brought here from behind the grim walls of the state penitentiary at Michigan City where "Stevie"—D. C. Stephenson, ex-dragon who it is said pulled the wires which actuated Indiana's alleged puppets of state and municipal officialdom—is in "solitary," serving a life sentence for the death of Midge Oberholzer almost a year ago.

And the man who brought the new life blood to the emancipated investigation was a public official of high standing—Grand Jury Deputy William H. Schaeffer.

Saw Dragon in Prison. Schaeffer, accompanied by Earl Klinck, former ally of Stephenson and co-defendant with him in the Oberholzer trial, talked with Stephenson in prison shortly after Stephenson's dramatic appearance before the Grand Jury, empaneled to probe charges of corruption in Indiana politics, and his equally sensational refusal to talk before a civil court before which he was summoned to give a statement of his assets in a damage suit.

Schaeffer was sent by Court Asher, devoted pal of "Stevie," who could not believe the street corner gossip that his idol had "sold out" to the very men he had said he would expose in return for alleged promises of freedom.

Klinck and Schaeffer said that Stephenson reiterated all the vast mass of charges that have emanated from him, but it is known that he did not reveal the location of the documentary evidence which supports his allegations. This, he maintained, as he has in the past, will be produced "when the circumstances warrant."

Senate Probe Monday. The United States Senate committee headed by Senator James Reed of Missouri, will convene in Chicago Monday to probe the situation.

The new developments brought by Klinck and Schaeffer today had quite overshadowed the search for Midge Meade, 23-year-old former associate of Stephenson's, who dropped from sight just as the Grand Jury became interested in reports that she might hold at least a part of the missing Stephenson documents.

STATE MAY ESTABLISH NEW GRADE OF MILK

"Pasteurized Certified" Classification Proposed—Board to Hold Hearing.

Hartford, Oct. 15.—Consideration is being given the establishment of a new grade of milk to be known as "pasteurized certified" by the State Milk Registration Board. A public hearing will be held to discuss the matter in the old Senate chamber, State Capitol, on November 10.

Agitation for the new grade resulted from epidemics of septic sore throat during the summer alleged to have been spread among the users of milk from several dairies selling certified milk. At present the board issues certificates on the basis of sanitary conditions and the quality of the milk regardless of whether it has been pasteurized.

5 MILLION POLES SIGN TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

Coolidge Receives Beautifully Bound Books Sent by Emancipated Nation.

Washington, Oct. 15.—To President Coolidge yesterday was presented a testimonial signed by 5,000,000 Poles expressing the admiration which the Polish people bear for the American people.

The message, beautifully bound in one hundred volumes, together with a gold medal, the gift of the Polish people, was presented by Dr. Leopold Kotowski, chairman of the National Sesquicentennial Committee for Poland.

The presentation at the White House was attended by the Polish Minister. Dr. Kotowski said in part:

"The spontaneous tribute paid to the people of this great democracy by the people of Poland on the Fourth of July and the nation-wide message of friendship, of which I have the signal honor to be the bearer are the living proof that the love for those highest and noblest ideals of humanity—freedom, equality, justice and peace among nations—which animates the American and Polish people alike, binds nations more closely together than any material considerations."

President Coolidge responded that it was a "pleasure and privilege" to receive the testimonial.

MAY QUIT HEADSHIP OF U. S. FOOD OFFICIALS

Hartford, Oct. 15.—Thomas Holt, state dairy and food commissioner, will attend the annual meeting of the Association of Dairy, Food and Drug Officials of the United States at Washington, October 19-22. Mr. Holt is president of the organization and will retire as such at the meeting.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains. There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digestion from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry, Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved. And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe. Fletcher's Castoria safely relieves Constipation, Wind Colic, To Sweeten Stomach, Flatulence, Diarrhea, Regulate Bowels. Aids in the assimilation of Food, promoting Cheerfulness, Rest and Natural Sleep without Opium.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

GIVE BEST ROUTES TO THE YALE BOWL

State Recommends Traffic Follow Certain Lanes to Games.

The big football games this fall in the Yale Bowl, beginning with the Yale-Dartmouth encounter tomorrow, are expected to bring into the traffic on Connecticut highways nearly 35,000 automobiles, or approximately one-sixth as many pleasure cars as are registered in the state. A large proportion of these cars carrying football enthusiasts to New Haven will come from out-of-state points and will be in addition to the normal Connecticut traffic, to say nothing of the many Connecticut-registered cars in the processions which do not figure regularly in state highway traffic.

The long lines of automobiles proceeding from practically all directions on the main trunk line highways will create unusual traffic problems, especially in and about New Haven, where the traffic lines converge, and to prevent confusion and accidents, so far as possible, the state motor vehicle, highway and police departments have entered into arrangements with the Yale Athletic Association, the Connecticut Company, the New Haven and West Haven police and the New Haven Automobile Club to direct traffic in an orderly fashion.

The state departments interested have agreed upon the best main routes through various parts of Connecticut to the New Haven city line. These routes have been designated on handy cards provided by the state which the athletic association will enclose in all envelopes in which tickets will be mailed for the Yale-Army and Yale Harvard games.

The New Haven authorities mentioned take up the directions at the New Haven city line, where the state authorities stop. The Connecticut Company has provided a traffic map of New Haven for inclusion in the envelopes with tickets. This map shows the streets that ought to be followed by automobilists on trunk line routes designated by the state, and the trolley routes. In addition, white arrows on blue backgrounds pointing the way to the Yale Bowl have been advantageously placed on poles and trees along the routes within the city. On the reverse side of the map leaflet appears a detail map on a larger scale showing the Yale Bowl and the relation of its different portals and gates to the surrounding streets, routes and official parking places.

The state highway department has so arranged its trunk line work to expedite traffic on the main routes to New Haven, and recommendations of the motor vehicle department have been carried out. Every available state policeman has been assigned to state highway traffic duty for the days of the most important games, and men will be posted at dangerous locations.

The following are the main routes to New Haven recommended by the state:

No. 1. Hartford route (in good condition)—Enters New Haven by the way of North Haven, where traffic is split, one route continuing into the city by way of Middletown avenue and the other by turning to the right at North Haven center into State street and thence to the right into Dixwell avenue.

No. 2. New London route (in good condition)—Enters New Haven by the way of Branford and East Haven and will be directed by traffic officers from the city line to the Bowl.

No. 3. Waterbury route (in good condition)—Enters by the way of Cheshire, Mr. Carmel and Centerville, Whitney avenue, Putnam street and Dixwell avenue.

No. 4. New York route—Enters by the way of Washington Bridge at Devon to Milford, and over Milford Turnpike to Forest street.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Anna Dart who has been spending the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Holmes, left for her home in Providence Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Clarke of New Haven motored here Thursday on their return taking with them Mrs. Lucy Clarke, who will spend the winter in New Haven.

A well baby conference was held at the hall Thursday under the direction of Dr. Haskins, assisted by Miss Lewis. 17 babies and little children were examined and weighed and measured.

Mrs. Robert Hall of East Hampton was in Columbia Thursday calling on relatives, and usually comes through when a safe smash is needed.

"The Cottage," Watkins Brothers' suite of model rooms, the mecca of thousands of visitors every year, will be open for the first time since redecorating and refurbishing, tomorrow. This time the rooms have again been furnished in the American furniture, but in a variety of periods, ranging from the very earliest Colonial period in cherry woods to the more refined

The school dental clinics have started, Chestnut Hill and Hop River village being the schools visited Thursday. It is planned to have the schools visited this fall and again next spring, for the necessary work to be done on the children's teeth. A noticeable improvement in the teeth of the children is noticed, due to the work done by the clinic last spring.

A hard thunder shower visited this vicinity Wednesday evening, accompanied by heavy rain for a short time. Wells in this vicinity are very dry and considerable moisture would be appreciated. No frosts have been felt here, as yet, and gardens are still green.

WATKINS BROTHERS NOW 52 YEARS OLD

To Celebrate Event With Concerts and Novel Displays Beginning Tomorrow.

Fifty-two years in business will be celebrated by Watkins Brothers tomorrow in their annual Fall opening. Extensive preparations have been made for the event and those who attend will note some interesting changes in the displays as well as see the very latest fall merchandise grouped complete for the first time.

It was fifty-two years ago this October that Watkins Brothers first opened their doors to the public of Manchester and they have decided to celebrate the event in this unique way.

Novel Displays.

When the doors open tomorrow regular visitors will hardly recognize the main floor of the store, for a new display plan will be inaugurated. At the rear of the store in what was formerly the section used for small gift pieces of furniture for a new antiques department will be opened. Here will be displayed, from time to time, choice bits of original Colonial and early American furniture offered for sale like any modern pieces of furniture in the Watkins store. For a number of years Watkins have been specializing on refinishing and restoring antiques and some of the pieces recently restored for customers will also be on display, showing how antiques can be enhanced by proper refinishing.

"The Cottage."

"The Cottage," Watkins Brothers' suite of model rooms, the mecca of thousands of visitors every year, will be open for the first time since redecorating and refurbishing, tomorrow. This time the rooms have again been furnished in the American furniture, but in a variety of periods, ranging from the very earliest Colonial period in cherry woods to the more refined early American period of Duncan Phyfe and Sheraton. Upstairs, On the top floor, five more display rooms have been furnished and decorated. A sun room, living room, dining room and two bedrooms make up this suite and all the furniture used will also be found on other floors of the store displayed in their proper departments. A trip to the top floor will be well worth while for those who are looking for furnishing ideas. On this floor is also situated Watkins large bedding shop.

Evening Concerts.

During the afternoon and evening concerts will be presented on the main floor, using the Orthophonic Victrola and Steinway Duo-Art Reproducing Piano. The program follows:

Blue Danube Waltz—Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.
Fugue: Paganini—Lawrence Tibbets.
Stars and Stripes Forever—Sousa's Band.
Tanhauser: Pilgrims Chorus—Victor Male Chorus.
Rigoletto: Caro nome—Marion Talley.

Martha: M'aparl—Tito Schipa.
Sylvia—Associated Glee Clubs of America.
Il Trovatore Selections—Robert Armbruster.
Amorese—Genevieve Pitot.
Novelty—Harold Bauer.
Nocturne—Paderevski.

EDISON AGAIN TURNS TO BELIEF IN SOUL

Inventor, Long "Free Thinker", Concludes Indications Favor Immortality.

New York, Oct. 15.—Thomas A. Edison has again experienced a change of conviction on the subject of the immortality of the soul. In an interview with Edward Marshall in the November Forum the inventor says that if there is any evidence bearing one way or another on the question that evidence is in favor of life after death.

The aged inventor speaks vaguely in the interview and never commits himself, but admits that he no longer sees anything incredible in the possibility of the soul's being immortal.

Though he does not admit that evidence of any weight in one direction or the other now exists, he thinks that the indications are favorable to the existence of a soul rather than against it. He urges religious teachers to seek genuine evidence and endeavor to build up proof which the skeptical cannot laugh at.

In earlier interviews Mr. Edison has denied that there is any reason to suppose that the soul is immortal. For years he and the late Luther Burbank were the great luminaries of the Free Thinkers' Society.

More than 150,000 miles of motion picture film is produced in the United States annually.

893 MAIN STREET SO. MANCHESTER, CONN.
Opposite St. James' Church.

Many a show flops for lack of a ballyhoo.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

A "TOUGH GUY."

The actor shown in the accompanying picture usually takes the role of a "hard" man with a soft heart. The answers to these questions can be found on another page. 1-Who is shown in the accompanying picture? 2-What state has for its motto, "In God We Trust"? 3-Where is Colgate University? 4-Who wrote "David Copperfield"? 5-Who wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin"? 6-Who was Richard Hakluyt? 7-Which is the largest lake in the United States with the exception of the five Great Lakes? 8-What is the name of the longest river in the world? 9-What is a caribou? 10-What is the date of the World War armistice?

SENSE AND NONSENSE

They say long hair makes a man look intellectual, but not when his wife picks it off his shoulder.

Above all things, girls, never fall out with your chap when in a hammock.

Many a house falls to pieces when a creditor takes a lien on it.

Why Editors Hide Out. (Monroe County (Mo.) Appeal.) Last week, the proof of one appeal news story stated that a certain young Paris lady was a "Janitor" at one of the nearby colleges, when it should have been "junior."

In another news article in regard to a wedding, the proof disclosed the fact that "the young people will 'love' in a nearby town," instead of "live."

Take it easy, take it calmly, and one will get along better. Besides the lunatic asylums are overcrowded.

The Summer Gone

The summer gone—I loved it so—I hoped that it would never go; I was enchanted by its spell, But knew I must not love too well— Day comes ere night and sun ere snow.

One summer I was with you, though; At night we watched the moon-light flow; Dreamed days while sun through branches fell The summer gone.

You may forget it, but I know In winter, when swirled snow-flakes blow, I'll smoke and let the smoke-wreaths tell Me of a land where dreamings dwell, And live again, by firelight glow, The summer gone.

Fairy Story—Once there was a young man who loved his wife and his mother. One day his sweet bride asked which of the two he loved more. "My mother," he said, hanging his head. "That's good," she replied sweetly.

Now and then one picks up a magazine on the stands these days that makes one curious to see the stuff the editor rejected.

You can often judge a man's character by what he thinks laughable.

Dibble: What's the greatest war song ever written? Dabble: Here comes the bride!

Yes, yes—go on: Both girls riding in the machine which overturned were injured. Miss Lane was cut about the face and hands and Miss Swain in the back seat. Raymond (Wash.) Herald.

Simile—Works as perfectly as a fountain pen in the demonstration window.

THE TINYMITES BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

At break of dawn, midst chill and dew the good old sun came peeking through and woke the snoozing Tinymites to start another day. "Course Cooky was the first to rise, and when he opened up his eyes he said, 'I'll have to find some food,' so hopped out of the hay. "I'll make a breakfast mighty good," said he, "like every good cook should." And then he started out to find a morning bite to eat. He searched and searched and grew forlorn, and then he came upon some corn. "Ah, ha!" he loudly shouted, "this should prove a tasty treat." He filled both arms and started back, and soon he reached the old hay stack. "Come on you sleepy Tinymites, and help me start a blaze." All thoughts of sleep were quickly dropped, and up the little fellows hopped. They cooked the corn and had the finest meal they'd had in days. "I'll tell you what we ought to do in the next story."

CHRONIC KICKERS AGAINST THE TROLLEY SERVICE FAIL TO APPRECIATE MANY ADVANTAGES THAT NO OTHER LINE WOULD AFFORD.

Yes, Mother of 17 Was a Bit Fussed When 15 Had Measles at Once

This is the Barini family, largest in all Montana, with Papa Barini at the left and Mama Barini on the right.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 9.—Only once has Mrs. Dan Barini, champ mother of the great open spaces, been a bit fussed as it were, by her 17 children. That was when 15 of them had measles at once!

It was rather difficult for Mrs. Barini to get them all cured without the aid of a doctor, she confesses. But she did it. Today Mrs. Dan Barini, cutting the 10 loaves of bread for dinner, says she won't be happy until she has a family of at least an even 20, and that a round two dozen would be better.

But then there are disadvantages, also—aside from the high cost of pork chops. Take radio, for instance. A small family might get along with a low-priced set and headphones. But the strain of 17 little and big Barinis waiting their turn for the ear-phones meant only one solution—a four-speaker type. Ten loaves of bread for one meal, a half bushel of potatoes and six pounds of steak may sound like inevitable financial ruin to a father. But Mr. and Mrs. Dan Barini are sure that prosperity and children came together. The singer, Madame Schumann-Heink, declares that each of her eight children gave her one higher note. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Barini contend that each little Barini brought a few more dollars to the family coffers. The Barinis were born in Switzerland but married near Butte, where they started a dairy ranch, living in a little two-room house. That was in 1905. The second installment of the family of 17 arrived as twins, the second year. That meant another room on the house. By the time five or six rooms had been added, the erstwhile two-room house began to resemble a Cleveland, O.—If you want a job on the Cleveland Police Department you must be a good speller and write a legible hand. "Show me a man, who is a good speller and I'll make a policeman out of him. The rest will follow naturally," according to Safety Director Ed Barry. His statement followed receipt of a report on sixty-five applicants for police jobs, from the Civil Service Department.

ASIDE FROM WHICH HE MAY BE A GOOD MEXICAN
Greenwich, Oct. 15.—James A. Hulva, supposed to be a Mexican, is being sought by police of New York, Port Chester, Greenwich and Stamford for a string of alleged offenses against the law that started when he bought a truck in New York on a series of notes and ended at Stamford when he is supposed to have burglarized a tailor shop that was in bankruptcy. He is wanted also for alleged bad check passing, for damaging the heating in the home of Arthur Bull Sullivan, wealthy New Yorker, here, and for some minor affairs including obtaining money in various illegal ways.

CEMETERY AS BEDCHAMBER FOR THIS MAN
How many Manchester people have got the nerve to sleep in a cemetery at night with the wind howling through the trees making weird sounds? This is what Roger Payne, the "Hobo Philosopher" who is touring the United States on foot, did last night. And the spot he selected was underneath the branches of a giant pine tree in the East cemetery. "Weren't you scared?" a local reporter who interviewed Payne, asked.

Advises Farming. "The best method I know for a man with a wife and a family is to get one or two acres of land near a city, build a home, plant fruit and nut trees and grow vegetables enough for family use. To produce enough surplus to exchange for those things needed from the outside, some special line should be taken up, such as bees, poultry, hares, mushrooms, flowers or nursery work. A few pleasant hours' daily work, averaging about 50 cents a year, should easily supply all needs."

Answers Questions
Mr. Payne was asked by the reporter from The Herald who interviewed him to give a concrete example of how it is possible to live under such conditions. How can a man with a wife and a family live on but one day's work a week? he was asked.

Payne, who advocates the same theory expressed years ago by David Henry Thoreau, the greatest philosopher America has ever produced, gave the following reply: "A little more difficult, but quite possible. A little foresight, however, is necessary before marriage. Instead of the hindsight which most people use afterwards, the man who can offer his future wife nothing better than the back part of a store, or rooms in a lodging house,

WILL WIN IF VOTERS GO TO POLLS, SAYS MILLS

New York G. O. P. Candidate Convinced He Will Beat Smith on Full Ballot.

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Charging Governor Smith with evading the important issues in the campaign, Ogden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, left here early today for Olean and Jamestown where he said he would continue his attack on the governor's financial policies in the management of state affairs.

Ever since the campaign started, Mills said, Governor Smith has attempted to evade the question of sound public finance by pleading humanitarian motives. "It is the old stunt that Al Smith has pulled for years," Mills declared. "It is his favorite stock in trade. He has never yet been confronted with charges of extravagance and recklessness without attempting to divert attention by proclaiming his devotion to the cause of humanity, which, according to his own estimate, he alone possesses."

Mills told the voters of Chemung county that Governor Smith misinterpreted his recent declaration that the state should return to the "pay-as-you-go" policy instead of resorting to bond issues.

"He would have the people believe that I am insensible to the helpless wards of the state," Mills said. "He himself answered this charge when he stated that I favored the original $50,000,000 bond appropriation. I did. The war period had stopped necessary building, an emergency existed and I have never denied the wisdom of borrowing in an emergency."

Mills said today he believed the up-state registration figures assured a presidential year vote. "If the voters come to the polls," he said, "just as sure as the sun rises tomorrow I'll trim Al Smith."

Smith Scorns Milk Issue.
Hempstead, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Declaring that there are real issues in the campaign but that "milk is not one of them," Governor Smith declared here today it was time his Republican opponent, Rep. Ogden L. Mills, told the voters where he stood on the important issues. "Mr. Mills shouts 'Tammany,'" he said, "but it is a peculiar fact that every man from Tammany hall was voting for the reorganization amendments while his own party was fighting them," the governor said.

RYE BEACH RESORT IS DESTROYED BY FIRE
Rye, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Paradise Park, Rye Beach amusement resort, was almost entirely in ruins today as a result of a $75,000 fire which raged through the night. Thomas Norton, a fireman, was injured. The cause of the fire was not determined.

DISPLAYING PICTURES OF PASSION PLAY

Many Visitors at South End Library to See Famous Drawings.

The South Manchester Library has obtained from the National Library Art Club a very interesting and unusual set of pictures portraying the characters and scenes in the world famous Passion Play from Oberammergau. This collection of rare pictures have been on display at the South End library for some time and have been causing considerable comment. Miss Josamine M. Smith, librarian, stated today that the pictures will remain but a few days more and those who have not noticed them as yet should take advantage of the opportunity.

Origin of Play
Passion Plays which depict the passion of Christ became numerous from 1200 to 1500 especially in Germany. The only survival is that now taking place at Oberammergau in the Bavarian Highlands. In 1333 as an act of gratitude at the cessation of the Black Death plague which had killed the countless numbers, the villagers vowed to represent the passion of Christ every ten years. They still continue to carry out their promise.

The inhabitants of this region are very skilled in wood and ivory carving. Their realization of art is wonderful. The impersonator of Christ considers his part as an act of religious devotion and the other players are said to be consecrated to their work with prayer. There are 600 actors in the cast. They are all villagers and act their parts with dramatic power and appreciation of character. The gospel narrative is closely followed and the oldest text in existence was written about 1600.

ed that last year the Boys' Glee club won the inter-scholastic Glee club championship. Several new numbers are being learned, and a number of others will be begun on shortly.

The Girls' Glee club is also learning new selections. Like the boys' club, the girls have increased their membership this year. The girls were second in the inter-scholastic contest for girls' glee clubs last year.

The dancing classes were started this afternoon. The classes will be instructed in modern dancing by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wirtalla. There are two classes, the advanced class and the beginners. A large number attended both classes this afternoon, and it looks as if the classes will be as highly successful as they were last year.

The advanced class is being taught "The Valencia" and will be taught all the new steps that are coming into vogue. The beginners, of course, are being taught the straight fox trot and waltz. After these dances are mastered Mr. and Mrs. Wirtalla expect to be able to teach the beginners some of the new steps.

The "hand" used in reckoning the height of a horse is equivalent to four inches.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday afternoon, the weekly assembly of the school was held in the High school assembly hall. The orchestra was in full attendance, and played remarkably well for the professional and the recreational. The proper instruments have now been added so that the orchestra is a small symphony orchestra, an achievement for which Miss Dorward has been working for three years.

During the course of the assembly, Mr. Quimby warned the boys against smoking. He was quite emphatic in what he said. He said that he didn't think that high school is the place for boys who want to make themselves "little old men" by continually smoking. He has warned the boys many times before against smoking.

Miss Dorward conducted a "singing assembly" yesterday during part of the assembly time. Arrangements are being made gradually for the annual class socials. The senior social will be held the Tuesday before Thanksgiving, and the junior class party on December third. Definite dates for the other class socials have not as yet been set.

The first public appearances of the Glee Clubs and orchestra will probably be during the week of November seventh, which will be National Education Week. Both the orchestra and Glee clubs are doing excellent work.

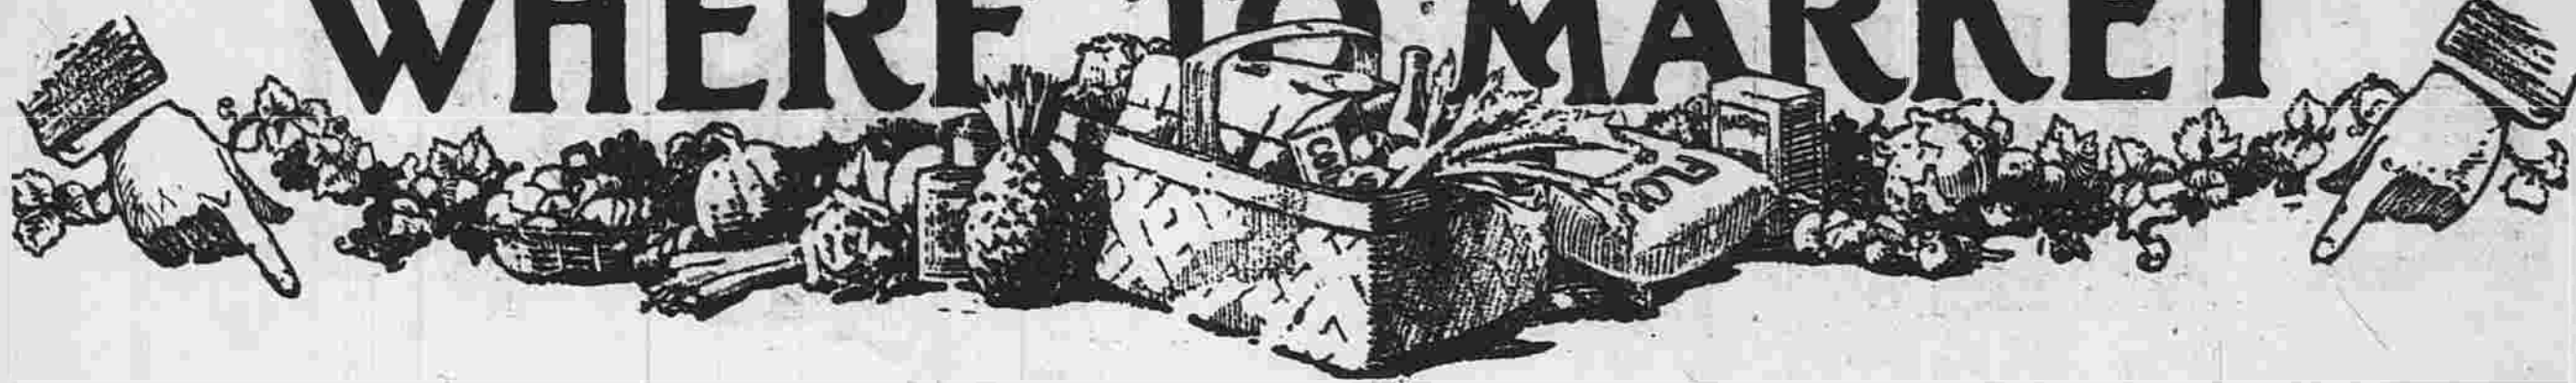

The orchestra is now in reality a symphony orchestra. Clarinets, trumpets, brass tenor, first and second violins, alto, pianos, and drums are now included in the makeup of the organization. Under Miss Dorward's capable direction, the orchestra is now capable of rendering in an excellent manner symphonic concert numbers. Some of those being prepared for presentation are "Racooni March," "Over the Waves," "Princess of the Sun Overture," Franz Schubert's "Marche Militaire," and "Fairy Tales." Many other equally fine numbers are included in the orchestra's repertoire.

The Boys' Glee club now contains twenty-two members, an increase of four over last year's membership. It will be remembered

A. F. L. LAYS OFF THE PROHIBITION QUESTION

Also Smothers Attempt to Introduce Mex Religious Controversy Before Body.

Detroit, Oct. 15.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor was in session here this afternoon writing the final chapter of the forty-sixth annual convention of the labor body.

Today's session of the council was expected to take up only questions of immediate necessity to close up the convention work here and arrange the time and place, probably Washington within a fortnight, to take up the larger issues.

Formal notification was to be forwarded to Los Angeles of the selection of that city as the 1927 meeting place of the federation.

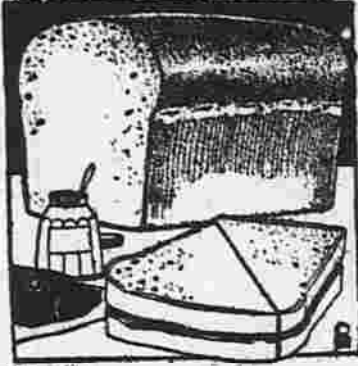

The federation yesterday afternoon voted to send a commission to Mexico to make a study of the labor situation in that country, with particular reference to the relations between organized labor and the Calles government.

The Mexican religious controversy was dragged on the floor for a few minutes only to be smothered before it could start a flame when the Federation voted to maintain its policy of non-interference.

With the unanimous reelection of President Green and the entire personnel of federation officers yesterday the convention insured a continuance of the general policies that have marked the Federation during recent years, including a non-partisan position in politics. The prohibition question was not mentioned.
