

SAN FRANCISCO IS STARTLED BY PAIR OF QUAKES

Worst Shake Since 1906 Centers in Salinas Valley; Glass Breaks, Folks Get Up, Little Harm Done.

Two sharp earth quakes which brought residents of the section affected from their homes but caused no damage other than the breaking of several large plate glass windows were felt in the central coastal region of California early today.

The first shock was at 4:35 and the second exactly an hour later.

The center of the tremors was apparently an old fault line in the San Juan mountains overlooking the fertile Salinas valley in Monterey county, 75 miles south of San Francisco.

Salinas, county seat of Monterey county, felt the shakes most severely. People rushed from their homes and hotels but a survey showed no damage and no glass was broken in Salinas.

Some residents of Salinas reported that the 4:35 quake was the most severe felt there since 1906 when San Francisco was the center of a severe earth disturbance. At that time Salinas was on the outskirts of the shock.

In the East Bay region, including Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and Richmond, the second shock was felt most severely, although no damage was caused in that section.

A third but minor shock was reported from some points in the affected area registering at 6:45 or approximately two hours after the first shock and an hour after the second.

This shock was felt in the East Bay regions but felt faintly in San Francisco. It was not noticed in some points which felt the other shocks throughout the 200-mile coastal area affected and was felt in other parts.

At San Francisco

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—The central coastal region of California, from Petaluma, 50 miles north of here, to San Luis Obispo, 250 miles south, was shaken early today by two sharp earthquakes which appeared to center in the Salinas valley, 75 miles south of here.

No damage other than broken plate glass windows had been revealed by a hurried telephonic check of towns in the radius of the tremor.

Salinas reported that while the first shock, which registered at 4:35, was the most severe felt there since the 1906 earthquake which devastated San Francisco, no damage had been reported.

The entire town of Salinas was awakened by the severity of the quake, however, and within a few seconds lights flashed on and throngs gathered in the streets.

Half Minute Rattle

The first shock was about half a minute duration and the second which came at 5:35 a. m. was a brief sharp shake which lasted but a few seconds.

The second shock appeared to be of greater intensity, however, than the peak of the first tremor.

The first shock was not felt 40 miles south of San Luis Obispo and apparently did not extend further north than Santa Rosa.

Inland it was felt for approximately 50 miles. Crockett reported that it was felt there and was of great severity.

San Francisco and East Bay cities felt both quakes with clear sharpness, dishes rattling in cupboards, loose doors swaying and in a few instances plate glass being broken.

San Juan, Hollister, Monterey and other Monterey County towns felt the tremors, all agreeing that the shock had centered in the Salinas Valley.

Steers Ship in Dark Among 365 Islands

Manchester is getting a reputation all over the state as being the town where interesting people live. And the town continues to live up to it. Now we have a captain of lake steamers telling of his experiences on the second largest body of fresh water on the globe. It is not pleasant work, he tells you. Sailing at night with the lives of 2,000 entrusted to your care, threading your way between islands, and in one lake there are 365 of them, is no easy task.

Chicago Gangs Sign 'Official' Peace Treaty

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Chicago's gang warfare has ended. An "official" treaty of peace was signed by the four principal leaders of gangland in a room at a downtown hotel shortly after midnight this morning.

The gangsters were brought together, it was reported, through the efforts of high city and county officials, worried over the forthcoming election.

"Scarface Al" Capone, leader of the powerful Cicero faction, was a proud spokesman for the amalgamated forces of gangland today.

"Yes, we have signed a treaty of peace," Capone admitted. "Tonight for the first time in two years I will sleep without a gun under my pillow."

The negotiators are, beside Capone, Maxie Eisen, George (Bugs) Moran and Vincent (Schemer) Drucci.

EDW. J. HOLL BUYS PROCTOR PROPERTY

Desirable Land on Center Street to Be Developed for Sale by Lots.

The property of the John Proctor estate located between Center and West Center streets, west of Cooper street, was sold today to Edward J. Holl, local real estate promoter. The Home Bank & Trust Company, administrator of the Proctor estate, made the sale.

This lot of 13 1-2 acres is one of the most desirable areas of undeveloped land in Manchester. It has a frontage of about 1,000 feet on Center street, and nearly the same frontage on West Center street. The new Center street pavement, sidewalks and curbing, along the property will be completed this fall.

Appraisal

The Proctor homestead is located on the property, and the whole parcel of land was appraised by the town's board of assessors at $55,000. The late John Proctor's family purchased the property originally for $2,500.

E. J. Holl intends to convert the whole 13 1-2 acres into a subdivision. The land is admirably suited for building lots, and Mr. Holl predicts it will be one of Manchester's best sections.

"GREATEST MERCHANT" OF AMERICA DEAD

J. G. Shedd, Once Farm Boy, Head of Marshall Field & Co., Passes at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—John G. Shedd, New Hampshire farmer boy who became one of the world's greatest merchants, died early today at St. Luke's hospital from the effects of an operation for relief from appendicitis, performed last Sunday.

Shedd, who was head of the board of directors of Marshall Field and Co., where he started as a $10-a-week shipping clerk fifty-four years ago, was 76 years old at the time of his death.

The death of Mr. Shedd ended one of the most romantic business careers in the history of the world. A career that led the late Marshall Field, himself called the "Merchant Prince," to publicly give credit to his chief aide as "the best merchant in the United States."

HURT, FIGHTS FIRE AS CABOOSE IS DERAILED

Shore Line Freight Conductor Prevents Heavy Loss in Guilford Accident.

Guilford, Oct. 22.—A serious wreck was narrowly averted here yesterday afternoon when the last car of an east-bound freight was derailed at a point near Lette's Island station on the New Haven railroad's Shore Line division and dragged the caboose off the tracks.

Conductor George Meyers, of Quincy, Mass., riding in the caboose, suffered cuts, bruises and a possible shoulder fracture, but he and his flagman were able to extinguish a fire that started from the caboose stove and threatened destruction.

The Colonial express, also east-bound, was halted and Conductor Meyers was placed on board and sent home. East-bound tracks were blocked for nearly four hours while west-bound traffic suffered a half hour delay, the tracks being used first to put the Colonial through and afterward by the wrecker.

BANDITS SPRAY "SUPPER CLUB" WITH BULLETS

Terrorize 41 Customers With Hail of Lead, Wound and Beat Several, Get $20,000 in N. Y. Raid.

New York, Oct. 22.—Six bandits, armed with rifles, shotguns revolvers and perhaps a machine gun, early this morning held up 41 men and women in the Biarritz night club, on West Fifty-Fourth street, and escaped with $20,000 in cash and jewelry.

Two men and a woman were beaten by one of the bandits as the other gunman terrified the patrons of the club by firing shots through windows and into the ceiling.

Start Machine Gun

Two of the bandits brought what may have been a machine gun into action when Walter Timponi, brother of the manager of the club, showed fight. Timponi was wounded and a watchman was knocked unconscious with the butt of a revolver when he showed signs of resisting.

After a round of bullets had splattered against the walls, the crowd became quiet and lined up along one side of the room. There was no further violence and the bandits left with their unusual assortment of weapons as quietly as they had entered.

Rough to Women

Miss Elsa Darling, one of the entertainers, became hysterical and was struck on the head with the butt of a gun by one of the bandits. When Miss June Carter, hostess, handled by another robber.

The hold-up took place about five o'clock this morning. The club is a few doors from Broadway and opposite the Hotel Harding. The bandits arrived and escaped in a taxi cab, believed by the police to have been driven by a member of their gang. They got away only a few minutes before the police reached the scene.

When Timponi answered a bell at the street entrance, he was faced by the bandits. As he stepped back, the leader of the gang, apparently believing he was trying to escape, struck him over the head with the butt of his revolver.

Lined Up

Two of the bandits were ordered by their leader to guard the stairway while the other four went to the club's quarters on the third floor. They searched the guests and entertainers, while the other three fired shots into the ceiling.

"Line up against the stage," the bandit leader shouted, and those in the room lost no time in complying.

"We've got enough bullets to riddle all of you," the leader warned when one of the guests fast came into the line-up quite fast enough to suit him. Turning to nine of the entertainers, the bandit leader bowed low and said:

Girls Exempt

"We don't want to take anything from you girls, just stand to one side and you won't be bothered."

It was at this point that Miss Darling became faint and staggered toward the doorway. One of the bandits, presumably thinking she was trying to escape, handled her roughly, while another struck Miss Darling on the face as she went to the door. The bandit leader ordered his pals to leave the two women alone.

When Walter Timponi, brother of Frank Timponi, the proprietor, attempted to escape from the club room, he was slugged several times with the butt of a revolver.

As the guests stood lined up against the wall, one of the bandits tore off their jewelry, rings, brooches, necklaces and their cash and wallets were taken. The proprietor lost $500 in cash and a diamond ring he valued at $1,000.

Frank Kench, cloakroom attendant, the bandits took $200 which was to be used today to pay his moving expenses.

Timponi told the police he was certain one of the bandits carried a machine gun but some of the guests said they thought the weapon was an automatic Springfield rifle.

WITHSTANDS 60,000 VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Edward Braden, of Walkill, a line man for the United Hudson Electric Co. had 66,000 volts of electricity pass through body and is alive today.

Working on a pole carrying the main transmission line of the company through Sawkill, near here, Braden got his climbing spur in contact with a copper bus on a cross arm. He fell to the ground unconscious, a distance of 35 feet, and the only injury he received was being painfully burned about the feet and hands.

SIX INCHES SNOW IN NEW ENGLAND

Heavy Fall in Northern Regions Cuts Communication, Buries Crops.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 22.—While Cuba was coating her hurricane dead and Florida was thanking her lucky stars that she had escaped and while California was excited over earth tremors today, northern New England was digging out from under six inches of snow, left in the wake of a storm that carried down telephone and telegraph lines, disrupted transportation and ruined crops.

Many Wires Down

In central Vermont telegraph and telephone wires were down for miles, isolating many communities from the outside world.

In Aroostock county, Maine, the potato crop is buried under the heavy blanket of snow and all along the course of the storm-automobiles are stalled, according to reports reaching here.

PEARSON RETURNS

Helge Pearson, former organist and choir director of the Swedish Lutheran church here has been re-elected to that post and will resume his duties here on Sunday. Mr. Pearson has been absent during the summer, having been engaged as a Boy Scout executive in Connecticut.

He is the organizer and director of the Beethoven Glee club, an organization of young men connected with the church. He will continue as director of the choir and of the Glee club.

Marie's Yankeeland Tour Like Gilbertonian Opera

By VIRGINIA SWAIN.

New York, Oct. 22.—Walk right up to the box office! Greatest musical comedy in history!

Her Majesty, Queen Marie of Rumania, begins her American tour! Gilbert and Sullivan, down on the River Styx, must be writing with envy of this new comic opera with words by Marie—hit high space rates—and music by the great American populace.

Here is the cast complete—count 'em—

The plump prima donna queen, the beauteous ingenue princess, the pale, fazed young juvenile prince—the deep-dyed intriguing villain in the queen's party, swooning and whispering and gasping their teeth—the bewildered chorus men from the American state department, the high-stepping American society of dames of the ensemble—and above all, the tragico-comic end man, Eddy D'Favara, Rumanian charge d'affaires, tangled up in red tape and caught betwixt the queen, the mighty Simone Lahovary, the American reporters and the bill collectors.

The prologue: a rainy morning in New York harbor. Several hundred young men and women of the press huddle in the sleet storm on the deck of the customs cutter, sharpening pencils and cursing royally roundly.

The Leviathan in sight. The queen greets reporters. The first reporter: "Say, Queen Marie, how do YOU eat corn on the cob?"

GARY TALKS OF STEEL TREATY WITH EUROPE

Suggests a Concordat Between Industries of This Country and Those of Foreign Nations.

New York, Oct. 22.—in an address before the American Iron and Steel Institute today, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, suggested the possibility of a concordat between the steel makers of the United States and Europe.

"We have heard considerable discussion," said Judge Gary, "relating to anticipated competition between iron and steel manufacturers of the United States and foreign competitors, but it is believed that, should it become necessary, an international conference will be held between these interests and a full open discussion indulged in after which a fair understanding could be reached."

Approval of Country.

"Of course, no agreement between the different interests relating to prices could legally be entered into, without sanction of our law administrators. But, if necessity arose, it is thought the approval of the public authority and the country might be obtained."

There is no indication that the demand for steel products will be substantially reduced in the near future, said Judge Gary. Discussing general business conditions, he said:

"Crop reports indicate that production this year will be nearly as large as 1925, which was a bountiful year. Money is plentiful, collections are satisfactory. There is sufficient labor to meet all demands, and workers should be and are entirely satisfied with their rates of pay and conditions of employment. The administration at Washington is reasonable and fair towards all interests, and we have reason to believe that the majority of Congress will support the President."

No Tariff Threat

"So far as the question of import tariff is concerned, said Judge Gary, "we believe no legislation will be attempted and certainly none passed which will be really harmful to the business of the country."

While there will be continued competition in the steel industry by foreign producers, we think from statements they make that there is no reason to feel they will seriously interfere with steel production in the United States."

FIGURES SHOW BIG INCREASE IN RADIO

Washington, Oct. 22.—Figures again are brought out to prove what an error Thomas Edison made when he said radio was losing in the race toward popularity against the phonograph and other musical productions.

These are official figures, just issued by the Department of Commerce, reviewing information compiled in the biennial census of manufacturers for 1925.

According to these figures, radio shows quite a healthy growth.

In two years, from 1923 to 1925 the census shows the value of radio apparatus manufactured in this country jumped 215.5 per cent. It was $24,000,470 in 1923. It was $170,390,572 last year.

The number of tube type receivers increased more than a thousand per cent in these two years, although their value went up half as fast. Against these, crystal set manufacture decreased nearly 50 per cent, and with them went a decrease in the number of headsets for their use.

That, as well as the increase in tube sets, shows a great increase in the number of loud speakers which the census bureau reports as 318.3 per cent.

That this interest isn't waning is attested by several of the larger radio manufacturers. One firm after another reports it is several thousand sets behind in their orders.

SENATOR BINGHAM TO SPEAK AT NEW HAVEN LUNCHEON

Hartford, Oct. 22.—Senator Hiram Bingham, J. Henry Rorabaack, chairman of the Republican state central committee, and candidates on the state ticket will be among the speakers at a New Haven county luncheon at the Hotel Taft on Thursday, October 28. Others who will be present are members of the state committee from New Haven county, chairmen and vice-chairmen from each town, the registrars of voters, and nominees for representative and Senate.

Rural Districts Suffer Worse Than Havana

Fearful Death Near as Plane Sank to Water

Folkstone, Eng., Oct. 22.—The Imperial Airways plane which fell into the waters of the English Channel yesterday with seven Americans aboard, has been abandoned as a total loss, it was announced this afternoon. None of the Americans have suffered any ill effects from their adventure.

Undaunted by their experience yesterday, Mrs. O. J. S. Bonney and of Columbus, O., planned to continue their journey to Paris today by plane.

F. Kanvaris, of Jeffersonville, Ind., who was a passenger on the fated plane, said today that Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harrison of Cincinnati, who were also passengers, bade farewell to each other as the plane slowly settled in the channel waters.

QUEEN'S PLEBEIAN COLD PERSISTENT

Causes Worry to Retinue as Royal Visitor Returns to New York Today.

New York, Oct. 22.—Queen Marie of Rumania returned here today from Philadelphia, bringing with her a cold that caused her considerable discomfort.

The queen's vigorous program of entertainment and sight-seeing to which she has adhered faithfully, coupled with several trips through the rain, are believed responsible for the cough, which is causing worry among her retinue.

The queen made the trip from the Baltimore and Ohio train depot in New Jersey to Manhattan by way of the Twenty-third Street ferry, staying in her car on the boat.

Gets Harbor Salute

The royal ferry was accompanied by a police boat. Harbor craft signaled the royal visitor with throaty whistles as the ferry swept by.

Queen Marie was attired, fetching as usual, in a mauve hat and dress and a moleskin coat trimmed with fur collar and cuffs. Princess Helena wore a purple morning dress and a squirrel coat.

The queen spent the night in her rolling bedroom in the Pennsylvania railroad yards in Philadelphia.

Another busy program faced the queen today. She was to lunch at the Bankers' club, following which President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, was to receive her on the College campus. She is to be the guest of the Young Women's Christian Association this evening.

BANK BANDIT'S "GIRL" HAS $20,000 WARDROBE

Also $4,700 in Cash, Believed Part of Loot Taken from Indianapolis Bank.

Detroit, Oct. 22.—Grace Ford, 25-year-old Indianapolis girl and possessor of a $20,000 wardrobe, was arrested here today after $4,700 in cash, alleged to be part of the $40,000 loot in the hold-up of the Union Trust company, Indianapolis, on October 15, was found in her room in Indianapolis.

She was found in the Stratford Arms Hotel, a companion, Helen Rose, 22, also was arrested.

According to Detective William Brickley, of Indianapolis, who reached Detroit today, the Ford girl is the sweetheart of Jesse Stevens, who has been arrested in Indianapolis in the bank robbery case.

Greenwich, Oct. 22.—Judge James R. Mead today nolle a manslaughter charge against Harold Schmutz of Greenwich, and ordered his discharge. Schmutz two weeks ago accidentally shot and killed Giuseppe Ferraro of Greenwich, while they were hunting together here.

Swarms of Refugees Flock to City; Vast Destruction Is Wrought on Plantations; Thousands Destitute; Capital Starts Relief Work; Harbor Full of Dead from 100 Craft Destroyed

Havana, Oct. 22.—Six hundred dead, possibly a thousand injured and seven thousand or more homeless as a result of the hurricane which swept Havana and Western Cuba on Wednesday were indicated today as reports began to trickle into the capital from the stricken provincial towns, isolated since the storm.

These figures were based upon reports brought from inland towns and villages by six couriers who traveled 150 miles to bring their messages.

Property damage, in the light of these reports, was estimated at $75,000,000.

Hundred Vessels Lost

A further check-up of shipping revealed that approximately 100 vessels, large and small, foundered in the storm and many of the members of the crews still are missing. It is believed that between fifty and one hundred of them have been drowned.

The reports of the messengers indicated that the towns on the interior had been hit harder by the storm than Havana itself. The stricken populace appealed for immediate relief. Despite its own crippled condition, the Havana organized relief expeditions and rushed them to the more stricken areas.

Terrible Havoc

Terrible havoc in the outlying districts was indicated. Literally thousands of homes were wiped out and hundreds of families are on the verge of starvation. A condition of grave distress was reported in every section of the storm area by the couriers.

The sugar crop appears to have been particularly hard hit. Dispatches from Pinar Del Rio, coming by courier, indicated the entire crop in that section was destroyed. Sugar factories also were reported destroyed or badly damaged.

An immediate increase in the price of sugar is predicted as a result of the storm.

Hundreds of Refugees

Refugees by the hundreds were arriving in Havana today from nearer storm-swept districts. All were practically destitute and many were in a serious condition due to hunger and exposure. Each family had its own story to tell of the horror of the storm.

The fate that overtook many of the seamen on the boats which were sunk became apparent today with the appearance in the harbor of bodies mutilated by sharks and other huge fish. The authorities said this circumstance would make it difficult to ascertain with any degree of certainty how many lost their lives in the disaster.

No Americans Killed

No Americans were killed in the Cuban hurricane, the American Red Cross was advised today.

The Red Cross has authorized its chapters to receive contributions for a Cuban relief fund.

BILLS IN MAIL BOXES AGAINST THE LAW

South End Postmaster Warns Local Merchants to Discontinue Practice.

Postmaster Oliver F. Toop of the South Manchester Post Office today gave warning that it is against the law for merchants to deposit handbills in mail boxes either at private homes or places of business.

Mr. Toop said he had received several complaints of late regarding the stuffing of mail boxes with circulars by representatives of several local stores. He hopes this practice will be discontinued in order to prevent further trouble. It is allowable for the merchants to distribute these handbills but not to put them in the mail boxes as this troubles not only the mail carriers but the tenants themselves.

TROLLEY ROAD BUYS COMPETING BUS LINE

FIRST HEAVY FROST VISITS MANCHESTER

Mercury Drops to 20 But No Damage Reported in This Neighborhood.

Although Manchester has been visited by frosts this far this year, the first killing frost was reported this morning. At places the thermometer registered as low as 20. As far as could be learned nothing was damaged by the frost in this territory. All of the home gardeners have already harvested their crops. The tobacco is all in and those potatoes still in the ground were not affected by the drop in temperature. Many residents who have flowers still in bloom in small plots have been taking the precaution of covering them at night so they still have a few more days to enjoy the beauty of them.

It was first thought that the apple crop would be ruined by the frost but inquiry made at Cowles farm at the Green, the biggest orchard in this neighborhood brought the answer that although last night's frost was a heavy one it was not heavy enough to damage the apples still on the trees. News dispatches from various parts of the state show that at New Haven the thermometer dropped to 23 and the reports varied from that figure to 20 from other places. From the Weather Bureau comes the information that last year the first killing frost came on October 11. Records for the last fifty years show that October 23 was the average date for the coming of this frost so this year hits the average. Local weather sharps predicted the frost day before yesterday during the heavy rainstorm. They said it would be followed by a cold spell.

A food sale will be held by the members of the Young People's Fellowship of St. Mary's church in Hale's store tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

W. G. GLENNEY HORSE KILLED IN ACCIDENT

One of the W. G. Glenney Company's fine truck horses was shot today following an odd accident in which two of the horse's legs were broken. The accident happened in the company's lumber yard at the north end.

A heavy load of lumber was being drawn by a team of horses. The driver crammed the wagon on a side hill and the load overturned. One horse was caught in the fall of lumber. The big fellow was shot soon afterward to relieve its suffering. The horse weighed 1800 pounds and was one of the finest the Glenney Company owned.

OUR TOWN GAVE $3,700 TO NEAR EAST RELIEF

Word has come from the Near East Relief office in Hartford that the amount of cash and pledges received from Manchester last spring as a result of a campaign here was about $3,700. This, according to the statement from the Hartford office, is one of the best records made by any town in the state during 1925.

The number of sponsorships, or gifts of $100 obtained by the Manchester committee, was fourteen, which is a larger number of this kind of gift than has been received in any other town in comparison with the population.

TAKES $2,000. LEAVES HER HUSBAND, 6 CHILDREN

Bridgeport, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Mary Dettitel, 30, wife of a local contractor and the mother of six children, ranging in ages from twelve years to nine months, has been missing from her home since October 15, it was announced by police today. Coincidentally with her disappearance, her husband alleges, vanished $2,000. Dettitel is unable to assign any reason for his wife's decamping. She ran a small grocery store.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Aaron Burr (9)

At the battle of Monmouth, Burr was in command of a regiment, which, owing to some officer's blunder, was under a withering fire from the British. Burr's horse was shot under him, and his second officer in command was killed. Shortly after this battle, Burr was sent on leave of absence when his health failed. He was then 22.

In June, 1779, Burr was recalled to service. He was with General McDougall, at Newberg, when he received a new chance to show his bravery.

McDougall had tried for months to communicate with General Washington. All his messengers had been killed. He asked Burr to try it.

The journey across mountain passes and through forests was one of the most dangerous that could be imagined. Burr accomplished it. A month later, while Burr was ill in bed in New Haven, he heard of an impending British attack. Rallying the Yale students, Burr stood off the enemy until women and children had escaped. (Continued.)

SPECTACLE HEADS STATE VAUDEVILLE

Evans and Perez Thrilled House With Stunts; Good Film Feature.

The State's vaudeville bill which was presented yesterday for the first time opens and closes with a bang. The five acts which are presented are better on an average than have been seen here, so far this season. Evans and Perez open the bill with a spectacular balancing act. Here are two fellows who realize the monotony of the ordinary tumbling and stunt acrobatic shows. They have introduced daring, thrilling and spectacular novelties that make their turn stand out as one of the best in vaudeville. They deserve a good hand and they got it last night.

WAPPING

The Federated Workers will give their chicken pie dinner this evening from 6 to 8 o'clock. There will also be a sale of fancy articles, aprons, candy, and home cooked food at the booths. A miscellaneous program and music by an orchestra will be given after the dinner.

The Dewey Richmond Co. invite you to the opening of their new store, 767 Main street, South Manchester, Saturday afternoon and evening, Oct. 23-Adv.

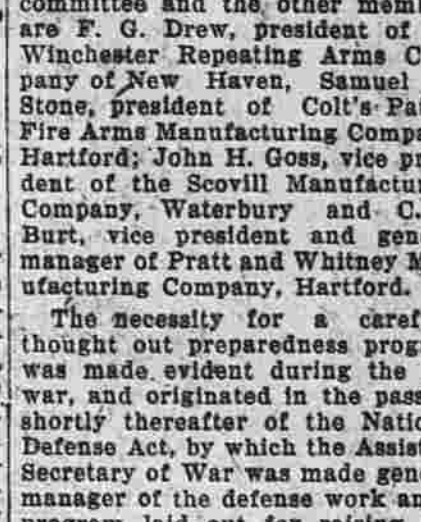

ASS'T WAR SECRETARY FLYING TO CONNECTICUT

Hanford MacNider Coming in Airplane to Manufacturers' Banquet.

The Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider, who will be one of the speakers at the annual banquet of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut in Waterbury, Oct. 29, will come by airplane that day from Norfolk, Virginia. Piloted by an army aviator he will land at Bethany Field, near Waterbury, where he will be met by Senator Hiram Bingham and Major Talbot O. Freeman and taken at once to the Hotel Elton, where the banquet will be held and where Senator Bingham will also speak. The manufacturers' sessions will open with a luncheon at 12.30 at the offices of the Chase Companies in Waterbury, to be followed that afternoon by an executive business session, also at the Chase Companies and the banquet at 6.30 at the Hotel Elton. Other speakers preceding the secretary will be Major-General John P. O'Ryan, formerly commander of the 27th Division and John Q. Tilson, leader of the United States House of Representatives, Governor Trumbull will preside as toastmaster.

Secretary MacNider who assumed his present office a year ago, was formerly National Commander of the American Legion and holds the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre with five citations. He will speak to the association on the subject of industrial preparedness and he himself has under his direction the entire industrial preparedness program of the War Department. The country is honored for this work and in 1925 the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut appointed a special committee to work in cooperation with the Bridgeport Ordnance District of the War Department, as the Connecticut section is known. W. R. Webster, vice president of the Bridgeport Brass Company is chairman of the committee and the other members are F. G. Drew, president of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company of New Haven, Samuel M. Stone, president of Col's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing Company, Hartford; John H. Goss, vice president of the Scovill Manufacturing Company, Waterbury and C. R. Burr, vice president and general manager of Pratt and Whitney Manufacturing Company, Hartford. The necessity for a carefully thought out preparedness program was made evident during the last war, and originated in the passage shortly thereafter of the National Defense Act, by which the Assistant Secretary of War was made general manager of the defense work and a program laid out for raising and equipping a large army. The country was laid out in districts, each of which must find contractors to produce certain articles of specified nature, in the time required, should an emergency ever arise. Estimating must be done by each concern in question as carefully and accurately as for any order and the result is that positive and not imaginary information is being procured.

EXCELLENT MELODRAMA AT RIALTO THEATER

The management of the Rialto theater does not feel that it is too much to say that the melodrama, "The Pride of the Force" which opens a two days' engagement at this theater today, is excellent entertainment. The story, written especially for the screen, concerns itself with the incidents in the life of one Danny Moore, a patrolman, who, at the beginning of the story, has just been slated for promotion to a sergeant. How he loses the promotion through no fault of his own, how he is demoted to desk duty, but finally persuades the Police Lieutenant to let him go out on a raid, this time winning promotion, but at too great a price—as he is forced to arrest his own son and daughter—makes for a melodrama of thrills and suspense.

The all-star cast employed in the picture was chosen with a keen eye for types and acting ability. Tom Santschi is admirable as the hero cop, James Morrison could not be better as the weakling son, and Gladys Hulette is her own charming self as the policeman's daughter. "The Pride of the Force" has that intangible something that sets a sure-fire hit apart from the average film.

Another chapter of "The Fighting Marine" will also be shown. Gene Tunney has the leading role, of course, as he is the one and only fighting marine who carried his endeavors outside the army into the prize ring to win a championship. The picture has attracted many to this playhouse and as it progresses there seems to be a subtle quickening in the action.

A comedy "Chase Yourself" is a certain blue killer and the rest of the short subjects are up to their usual standards.

GOT MARRIAGE LICENSE BY PERJURY, CHARGED

Stirling, Oct. 22. — Sheriff Frank C. Tillinghast went to Hope Valley, R. I. with a warrant issued by C. B. Montgomery, town prosecutor for the arrest of Benjamin B. Essex, charging him with perjury in securing a marriage license on March 29, last, under which he married a local girl. Prosecutor Montgomery today declared that he has information indicating Essex has previously been married though his license indicated he was a single man.

SMITH FADING.

Al Smith is no longer a two-tone bet. Every day that the New York state campaign continues shows a singular growth of optimism among the Republicans and a shrinkage in the confidence of the Democrats. Before the state convention of the latter's party it was their firm conviction that the only problem confronting them was to get Smith to run. If he would but consent to take the governor's job once more there would be nothing to it—no Republican in the state of New York could possibly beat him.

Well, Smith consented, and for a little while the sun shone brightly on a scene of perfect content so far as the New York Democracy was concerned. Then Ogden L. Mills began to fight. And pretty soon the sun went behind a film of cloud. The cloud has been getting bigger and darker ever since.

It has been a lusty and mighty intelligent fight that the Republican candidate has put up. For the first time Smith has been compelled to face a battler who was not afraid of him—who did not hesitate at all to swap punches at close range and who, as a matter of fact, has done most of the leading.

Mills has put Smith consistently on the defensive—a position to which the wizard vote getter of the sidewalks has never been used, and in which he does not show to so much advantage as when setting the pace to some listless and scared-to-death candidate.

The effect of this has been to produce a good deal of solemnity in Democratic circles in the Empire State, where the Smith backers are biting their cigars in two as they ask one another, "Say, are we going to be able to beat this bird at all?"

Which means that Smith is rapidly losing that enormous prestige which goes to the political candidate regarded as a certain victor. The band wagon vote is nothing like as big an asset today as it was a month ago, for the Smith party.

But the force that is working most effectually for the defeat of Governor Smith has, after all, not too much to do with either the Republican candidate nor with band wagon aspirations. It is the knowledge, lying the back of many and many a New York head, that if Smith is beaten in this year's state election he will automatically disappear as a candidate for the presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket two years hence, while if he wins he and his followers will as sure as death bring about a repetition of the 1924 shindy in the party's convention.

There are a great many thousand Democrats in New York who like Al Smith, who would be willing to keep him on as governor for another term or more, but who are utterly opposed to his presidential ambitions. And among these people there is a growing sentiment that the way to eliminate Smith in 1928 is to "beat him now."

The regular Tammany vote alone, cannot give Smith even a majority in New York City if the independent Democrats there turn to the Republican side of any fight. And it is because of a feeling that in great numbers these independents are going to quit Smith this year, very largely on the 1928 issue, that Republican forecasters are not only predicting that Mills will carry the up-state counties with a sufficient plurality to override the New York City Democratic majority, but actually claiming in all seriousness that he will carry the city as well.

And more surprising things have happened. Mills, plus the shadow of the forthcoming presidential campaign, is a heavy load for even the redoubtable Al to get away with.

ICE.

Good, rugged window-pane ice in Manchester this morning and reports of snow in northern New England ranging to eight inches in the upper latitudes of Maine may or may not give support to the forecasts of the glaciometers predicting an early and horrendous winter.

But coming a day or two after the experience of Cuba with the most disastrous hurricane in eighty years, to say nothing of the Florida blow of last month, and especially in view of the fact that there is nothing so very extremely extraordinary either in the Manchester ice or the Maine snow this late in October, the suggestion presents itself that we folks in this neck of the woods will keep our own climate, if you please, and are not open for swaps with either the Antilles or the extreme south of the United States.

There is more joy in one of these keen, stimulating, frosty mornings, followed by the benign, ripe sunshine of a Connecticut fall day, than in all the squashy, mushy, gushy, gooey tropic softness that poets or real estate prevaricators ever imagined.

And if we have to burn lots of coal, we get out of this climate of ours the vigor to earn it—thank God!

HOSPITALITY.

Whether or not the guests at the New York reception to Queen Marie knelt and kissed the hand of her Rumanian majesty the while she was seated on a veritable throne, we do not know. At least one reputable newspaper said they did. Other newspapers, equally reputable and enterprising, made no mention of such a proceeding, though they referred to the "throne." Our guess is that some of her own subjects may have kissed Queen Marie's hand and that the Americans, to whom such proceedings in public are not customary, did not.

At all events, all matters of this sort in connection with the visit of the Rumanian queen consort seem to us to be vastly less important than they do to those persons in whom they induce slight attacks of nausea.

There are always a lot of people rather lacking in background and in the broader social experiences yet whose money or the accident of position bring them into contact with situations where, for want of precedent, tutelage or heaven-given wit, they don't know how to behave. That some of them should cut weird capers is inevitable.

The last thing that Americans would wish to do, on the occasion of a visitation such as this, would be to display any lack of courtesy or hospitality. But of course it is just as true of the visit of a queen as of the visit of a Limehouse navy that there is neither true hospitality nor true courtesy in making a fuss. Nothing on earth can make any guest anywhere, more uncomfortable than the knowledge that his host is abandoning all his own ways in a ridiculous attempt to adopt the ways of the visitor, of which he knows little and has every reason to care less.

The highest honor that Americans could do Queen Marie—if they are genuinely anxious to honor her—would be to treat her precisely as they would a distinguished American woman. So far we have no recollection of a string of people kneeling and kissing the hand of the wife of a President of the United States, for example.

We do not agree at all that it is improper or unpatriotic to acknowledge with all due ceremony the presence of this very especial social representative of a foreign nation. We do think, however, that it is poor hospitality to make a monkey of her by making monkeys of ourselves.

KEEP OFF!

The reputation of the United States marines, not only as a particularly desperate fighting force but also for a tremendous esprit de corps and pride of service which renders its members as incorruptible as valorous, makes these fighting men the logical fellows to pick for the guarding of the malls. It is conceivable that many a thug would hesitate to tackle a marine-guarded mall truck who might, otherwise, give but scant heed to the presence of an ordinary hired man with a gun. Romance, tradition, prestige, operate on the side of the "devil dogs."

Yet it should not be forgotten that even a United States marine is not bullet proof, and that whoever may be entrusted with the business of protecting valuable persons from criminal attack necessarily labors under a very great disadvantage as compared with the criminal.

The latter occupies the superior strategic position of knowing beyond doubt who it is that he is out to overcome, while the guard cannot identify the criminal as an enemy until the latter has gone into action—and then, as is oftentimes the case, it is too late. This would be just as true of a Marine as of any other sort of guard.

It is in recognition of this fact, no doubt, that the post office authorities have issued a warning to the public—and it ought to be well blazoned from one end of the country to the other—to keep away from the vicinity of mall cars, mall trucks or any place where valuable mails may be in transit.

The Marines are on the job to protect the malls and they are under orders to take no chances. In these circumstances no respectable citizen can afford to give the impression, at any time, that he may even possibly be contemplating a raid on the malls, because Mr. Marine will be extremely likely to shoot first and enquire afterward. That is the only way in which he can make good on his job. And the Marines have a habit of making good.

HELL!

Nicholas Murray Butler said, in introducing the Lord Bishop of London to a New York dinner party last night, that it would be a mistake to get rid of the word "hell," as proposed by some clerical persons; because, "If there is to be no hell, what is to happen to the vocabulary of a man of high temper and careless speech who wishes to express himself with vigorous completeness? I should particularly deplore the loss of hell."

Nicky needn't worry. He'll get it, all right, for them words.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington, Oct. 22.—William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, is celebrated as a political forecaster.

Maine is his barometer. Page doesn't base his predictions solely on barometer readings any more than a weather forecaster relies exclusively on them. He considers other indications too.

Still, what the barometer says generally is more important than any other single indication. Page sizes up all the other signs, verifies them by his barometer and then predicts. Most of the time he proves a good guesser.

Politicians long have believed that Maine election results indicate how the rest of the country will go. Maine is Republican. Sometimes it's more strongly Republican than at others. Page notes the Maine majority, compares it with the normal margins in the other states, and draws his conclusions.

If the Maine majority is large, he concludes that Republican states will stay Republican and that doubtful ones will go Republican. If it's small, he concludes that the Democrats will carry doubtful states and maybe some Republican ones.

Page says any other state undoubtedly would make as good a barometer as Maine but all the rest have their elections in November, while Maine votes in September.

Now in 1922 the Republicans' Maine majority was hardly up to the mark, though not quite small enough to suggest a Democratic landslide elsewhere.

So Page foresaw Democratic gains in the House of Representatives but not enough to give them control. That's what happened. The Republicans barely retained control.

In 1924 Maine went strongly Republican and Page prophesied a strong Republican house. It happened. The Republicans have 188 more members in the present house than Democrats, Socialists, Farmer-Laborites and Independents put together.

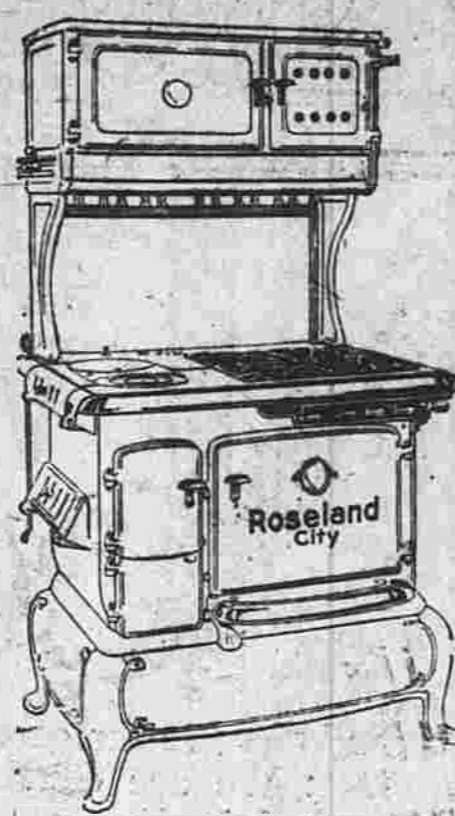

This year the Pine Tree State was Republican by nearly as large a majority as in 1924. So Page surmises that in the November elections if the Republicans lose anything, it won't be much.

But Chairman Oldfield of the Democratic congressional committee says "pooh-pooh" to Page's prediction.

If Maine ever is a barometer, he contends, it's when the whole country is voting on the same issue or issues. This year, he points out, different sections are voting on many different issues. In one spot it's farm relief, in another the world court, in a third prohibition, in a fourth the tariff—oh, numerous issues.

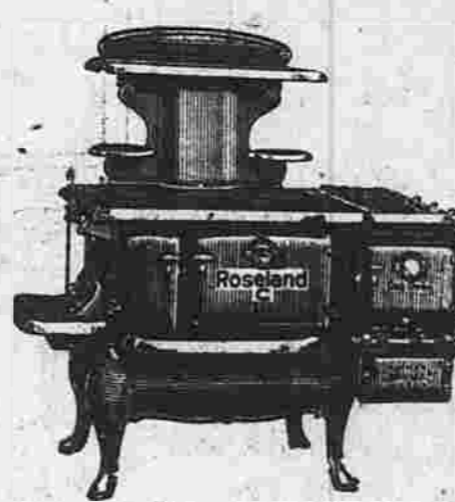

It seems a Maine barometer reading varies with the reader's politics.

Better Ranges For Fall and Winter

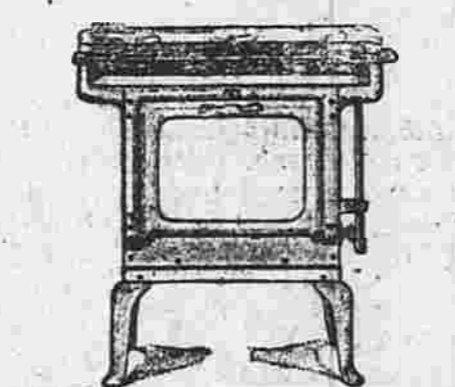

Probably one of the largest stove displays we have ever shown includes this high grade, popular Roseland City Combination Range. It burns either coal or gas—with an oven for both and a broiler for gas. Four open gas burners on top, with pilot light and simmer. Only 37 inches wide. On Easy Terms.

$148.50

A popular coal range—this Roseland C model. It is made of smooth, heavy castings—a quality range throughout, yet marked at a very moderate price. It has a large oven and is economical in fuel. Easy Terms.

$66

This small three burner gas range will fit into the smallest of kitchens, yet will take care of a good size family, with its surprisingly roomy oven. The door is finished in white porcelain. On Easy Terms.

$17.50

(Mantel for this range, $6.50 extra.)

Three High Grade Suites You Can Own

Wouldn't you like to own one of these fine suites? They are made by two of our best factories at Grand Rapids and Jamestown so the quality is assured. Yet the prices are surprisingly low when compared elsewhere—although they are Watkins' regular low prices. Easy terms, extending over a year—at the prices noted—make it possible to own any or all of them!

Eight Piece Suite of Hepplewhite Design $420

Hepplewhite brought a new simplicity and elegance of treatment to the designer's art, and in this exquisite dining room suite we have made many of his happiest characteristics are clearly evident. American walnut with butt walnut drawers and doors, is the chief woods used in combination with American gumwood and birch. 40 inch sideboard, extension table, arm chair and 5 side chairs. $420. With china, $515. Exactly as sketched.

A Maple Colonial Suite of 4 Pieces $355

Thoroughly American is the use of maple in the fashioning of this Colonial suite. Richly grained curly maple is used on all large surfaces while posts are of straight grain maple. Drawers are of mahogany plywood and solid mahogany! A rich, mellow, brownish tone glorifies this fine cabinet wood. Full size bed, 59 1/2 inch dresser, 44 inch chest and chair, exactly as sketched. $355.

Watkins Quality Living Room Suites Three Pieces $298

And last but probably most important is the living room suite. No other room gets as much use as this, nor does any other type of furniture show up poor workmanship so quickly. We have built our finest spring construction into the suite sketched and covered them with a rich, durable Jacquard of very high pile. The color is a deep, interesting taupe with dark blue background. Reversible cushions can be had in either the same material or wool tapestry. Davenport, arm chair and wing chair, as sketched, $298.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 22.—No custom of the rural districts has lent itself to so many comic cracks as that of "going down to see the train come in."

"I have no doubt that, with the age of autos and radios, this charming old pastime went out. But in New York it remains a pathetic and popular sport."

I know a man who goes to Grand Central Station at least twice a week to meet the incoming train from Indiana. Catching him at it recently he said, rather wistfully:

"Well, you see I almost always see somebody I used to know, and in a place like New York it's certainly grand to meet somebody from home and hear all the home news. Then, too, the train brings the most recent newspapers. I buy them from the news butcher and go to my office and read them."

There is another man I know who, every few months, goes into the New depots just to read the big train schedules. On this schedule is the name of his home town and he likes to convince himself that trains still run there in case he decides to take one.

It is not likely that either will ever go back, but there are innumerable thousands who yearn for the "old home" but who admit they wouldn't know just what to do if they went back. They haven't enough money to retire and they feel they couldn't hold just an "ordinary job" or undertake a business venture all over again.

And so they just go along yearning, never seeming to be able completely to adjust themselves to the complex social life of the great city. Their inclinations are to be chummy and friendly and neighborly and these desires are not so easily realized in the larger cities.

There are quite enough people in New York now who go down to meet the trains from Indiana and way points.

DEWEY-RICHMAN
OPEN NEW STORE
Enlarged Stocks of Jewelry,
Silver, Glassware, Books,
Stationery and Novelties

Dewey-Richman Company announce the opening of their beautiful new store at 767 Main street tomorrow, and invite the people of the new etched designs in Sheffield plate. A display of cut glass, always so attractive, fills a spacious wall case. Fountain pens will be strongly featured in the new store and special displays of Waterman, Montblanc and Parker Duofold pens are shown. Next comes cases of the new colored and gold decorated glassware, Stouffer's gold and decorated china and mantel clocks. At the rear of the store where the wall cases contain new stocks of books, including a large assortment of bibles. A display case of ivory goods stands at the end of the store. Here also are to be found greeting cards of every description. Returning along the north side of the store we come to the circulating library, then a large collection of children's books, Dennison's goods, office supplies, Carter's inks, brass desk sets, men's and women's leather goods and a splendid display of Easton, Crane and Pike correspondence papers and cards, envelopes with colored linings now so popular. The display case near the entrance of the north side is filled with Sterling silver flat and hollow ware and gift novelties.

The new building in which the store is located has just been completed by Albert T. Dewey and Leonard J. Richman. It is 42x109 feet, of brick with tapestry brick front and cast stone trim. The main floor contains two stores, each 19-1-2x100 feet, while the second floor front is divided into four offices. The construction of the building is very substantial, steel construction columns extending from cellar to roof. Large skylights near the rear of both stores give an abundance of light. The stores are lighted by single type holophane electric fixtures. The general contractor was E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr. Hubbard and Montit did the concrete work; Arthur Corbin the brick work; Johnson Electric & Hardware Company the electrical equipment; Joseph Benson the painting; Samuel Moore the plumbing and heating and an Oil-o-Matic oil burner was installed by Merton Strickland. The entire floor of the Dewey-Richman store is covered with tile mosaic in an attractive tile design. This was furnished and laid by the G. E. Keith Furniture Company.

Senior Bowling League Starts on Monday Night

There will be but four teams in the senior bowling league at Cheney Brothers this season instead of six. This should make the competition much more spirited. Furthermore the Weaving Mill will not enter the league with as strong a team as last year which all goes to indicate the circuit will be far more evenly balanced.

The season will get under way Monday night. All matches will be rolled at Murphy's bowling alleys. Hamilton Metcalf is vice-president of bowling in the A. A. and Herman Hill is treasurer. As usual John L. Jenney is secretary.

Following are the teams and the schedule.

- Weaving Mill
Schubert, Capt.; P. Cervin, F. Cervin, Taggart, Ballspeper, Haugh, Benson, Brennan, Stratton, Spinning Mill.
- Reggits, Capt.; R. Sad, Finnegan, R. Lamprecht, E. Johnson, Pontello, R. Fogarty, Suhie.

NEVERS IN FAVOR OF PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL PLAYING

Editor's Note:—This is the final of a series of articles by this author.

BY ERNIE NEVERS

All-America Fullback, 1925 (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

When a college star ends his athletic career through graduation, his first thought is to how he shall earn a livelihood.

The diamond and gridiron stars have by far the better possibilities to get the money.

For years, professional baseball with its big salaries has been a strong lure for college stars. More recently football has offered fancy inducements.

In my final article I will air my views on professional football, a job touching slightly on baseball.

Whil I wouldn't for a minute recommend professional football as a career, yet I am strong for it as a foundation.

The game is far too strenuous for a player to last very long after he gets out of college. He might get away with it successfully for say three years, but after that it would get more difficult each year to keep up with the procession.

As a collegian, I showed enough stuff as a ball player to attract the attention of several major league baseball magnates. I signed with the St. Louis Browns and met with varying success.

From my short experience in the majors, one year spent in the American League I would say that a college star able to make the grade in the big leagues would make no mistake in playing the game professionally.

Three years would give him a bank account that would enable him to take up a business career and weather some of the tough luck that usually besets every college man.

If an outstanding star like Collins or Sisler, he might continue in the game indefinitely, or until such a time as he could no longer deliver. But, unless a college player is able to make the grade as a big leaguer, I would say the time spent in baseball was wasted.

The successful football star loves the game. He gets only three years of it at college. That doesn't quite satisfy his appetite for the sport.

Professional football offers him the opportunity of continuing the game for several years and incidentally makes it possible for him to realize handsomely on his gridiron ability.

I feel that I am conservative in saying that out of two years of professional football and one year of big league baseball, I have made more money than the average collegian would be able to make in five, perhaps, 10 years.

Success in business is measured by one's earning capacity. That is why I recommended professional football strongly as a good foundation. It gives one a working margin when he gets out to revolutionize the business world.

I think every college football star has the right to and should capitalize on his athletic ability, for say three years.

If he saves his money, he is all set to get somewhere in his chosen profession, whatever it may be.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

Tom Edison is out with the crack that the vital spark exists even after death. . . . But maybe he merely means the electric spark.

The impression seems to be general that Old Man Alexander is a drinking man. . . . No one will deny that he kept the Cards in good spirits.

It may be something more than a coincidence that the threatened arrest of Trotzky and the opening of the squirrel season are announced at the same time.

Suzanne says Nick Altrock is a "most amusing buffoon." . . . She should have seen Keenig at short for the Yanks!

The football season is slow getting under way this year. . . . No college professional has assailed overpaid coaches yet.

The sport eds are asking "Who'll be the Red Grange of 1926? . . . That all depends on how much Mr. Cash and Carry has left in the bankroll.

The report is current there will be seven new managers in the big leagues next season. . . . This, however, does not include the great number of new grand-stand managers every season brings.

Even if professional tennis ultimately proves a flop it will have been the means of providing actual work for some of the most aristocratic white flannels in the sport.

Every time we pick up a paper we read that Ruth is demanding an additional 710,000 in his new contract. . . . This situation threatens to reach a point where only the U. S. mint can use him.

It isn't a question of whether Ruth deserves all the money he is demanding; it's a question of whether he can get it.

Mr. O'Goofy hasn't been named on any of the committees to meet Queen Marie but he doesn't mind. . . . "These American queens are good enough for me," he says.

They say Mr. Volstead used to be a great football player in his day. . . . But it's a good bet he wasn't a fullback.

THE REFEREE

What teams participated in the 1905 world series and what was the outcome?—S. D. F.

New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics, the Giants winning four games to one.

How many seasons was Harold Carlson with the Pirates and how long with the Phillies?—C. F. D.

He was with the Pirates seven seasons and has now been with the Phillies three.

What's the best batting record Joe Hauser of the Athletics has compiled during his major league career?—F. G. L.

In 1922 (his first in the majors) Hauser hit .323, his best mark to date.

How far did George Von Elm get in the national amateur golf championship tournament last year and what player eliminated him?—D. F. G.

Semi-finals, Bobby Jones defeating him, 7 and 6.

What's the largest number of rounds Gene Tunney has fought in a single bout?—F. A. W.

Fifteen.

In what division did Jimmy Britt, old-time pugilist, fight?—D. F. G.

Lightweight.

How many world series games have the Detroit Tigers won?—F. G. M.

Four.

Cyril Quetton.

Did Gene Sarazen win the Metropolitan open golf title last year?—S. D. W.

Yes.

How long did Willie Ritchie hold the lightweight championship?—D. F. G.

From 1912 to 1914.

Football Captains

VICTOR HANSON Syracuse.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Syracuse looks for another strong football eleven this fall. It may not rank with the great team of last year, but it promises to hang up a record nearly as formidable. The 1925 aggregation skipped through 10 hard games, losing only one.

The sensational Colgate team was the only one to beat the Orange. O h f o Wesleyan obtained a tie.

The rest all fell before the Syracuse outfit, Columbia being the only one of the eight defeated teams to score. While several of last year's stars have graduated, Coach Reynolds should mold another winner together this year without much trouble.

Victor Hanson, the sensational Vic, is captain of the eleven, this year. Hanson plays end and last year rated with the topnotchers in the eastern sector. He's fast, a clever fellow at grabbing passes and the right type to make a brilliant leader.

Defensively, Hanson plays a great game, too. He tackles hard, spills the interference nicely and is down the field under punts with any flankers in the game.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Yonkers—Johnny Rocco of New Rochelle, and Patsy Ruffalo, of Mount Vernon, fought six rounds to a draw.

At Passaic—Ernie Jarvis of England won the decision over Joie Eulo, ten rounds.

What's "honor" in golf?—D. F. N.

Right to play off first from the tee.

WESLEYAN-AMHERST TO ATTRACT CROWD

The annual football battle for the supremacy of the New England Little Three opens tomorrow at Middletown when Amherst plays Wesleyan on Andrus Field.

Amherst is granted a slight edge over Wesleyan because of its record this season, but on paper the eleven are perfectly matched.

The Lord Jeff footballers gained prestige by holding Princeton to 14-7 in their first game of the season. Amherst's secondary defense is better than Wesleyan's and this will count heavily in the decision.

When Amherst and Wesleyan meet in Middletown a large crowd of Manchester people always make the trip down the river to see the game. Several local football fans are planning to see tomorrow's worth.

BUT FAIR FOOTBALL IN EAST TOMORROW

Not So Hot, Thinks Walsh, Because of Season's Upsets So Far.

By DAVIS J. WALSH, I. N. S. Sports Editor.

New York, Oct. 22.—Only a block who must firmly resist a tendency to call out the fire department to light his pipe will become unduly impressed with the fact that a number of Eastern teams plan to play some football tomorrow.

The East will draw approximately a complete blank on the matter of consequences and significance and will go for a sectional "breathe," which means that the big timers will enjoy a workout and their opponents a polite cleft on the neck for the honor of the dear, old school.

What with Michigan and Illinois meeting at Ann Arbor; Northwestern and Notre Dame at Evanston; California and Southern California at Berkeley; Iowa State and Missouri at Ames; Oregon and Stanford at Eugene; Vanderbilt and Georgia at Nashville; and Seawane and Alabama at Birmingham, there is nothing for it but to look to the Middle West, the Coast and the South for action. The East, largely due to circumstances, will have slightly less action than a standing army.

Brown Not so Good.

Originally, the Harvard-Dartmouth game at Cambridge was regarded as a big number but Dartmouth lost to Yale and Harvard was beaten by Geneva and Holy Cross. At New Haven, they thought well of the Yale-Brown affair until Brown, although remaining unbeaten, was scored upon twice by Bates. So that one is not so hot, either.

The Penn State-Syracuse game suffered a severe chill, too, when State finished four touchdowns behind Notre Dame and the writer can cogitate to remain quite calm in considering the Navy-Colgate meeting by remembering that Colgate lost to Pitt, which lost to Lafayette, was tied by Georgetown and almost tossed one off to Allegheny, which was beaten fifty-four points by West Virginia. Yet these are the most attractive games the East has to offer.

Consider them in relation to the Notre Dame meetings. The former may decide the Big Ten title and the latter a possible leader for the entire section.

The big game on the Coast will be the meeting between California and U. S. C. and in the South the Georgia-Vanderbilt game.

Utah Aggies Have Great Hopes Of Annexing 1926 Football Title

Logan, Utah, Oct. 22.—The football outlook at the Utah Aggies is the brightest it has ever been at the former institution. When Coach Dick Romney took over the coaching reins at the Logan school he began to build teams not for one year but for a period of years. The result has been strong teams over a number of years with a bumper crop at certain intervals. The Utah Aggies won their first championship in 1921 and now with the brightest prospects in a long time, the Utah Aggies are anticipating another conference title this season.

Coach Romney is never blessed with large squads or an overabundance of material but has succeeded in spite of this handicap. The Aggies lose only two men from last year's team, Leddingham, quarterback, and Jaffe, center. Both vacancies will be filled satisfactorily by two of last year's subs, Schaub and Gardner.

Floyd Thomas, speedy halfback, who won an all conference berth for himself last fall will captain the Aggie eleven. Geddes, Hawley, and Schaub will complete the backfield. Thomas and Geddes are light and fast and will cause opposing ends plenty of trouble. Hawley and Schaub are big and powerful and should be able to pound the best line for gains. Gibbs, Wade, Worthington, and Holton form a capable quartet of substitutes.

Ten letter men are contending for places on the line. Martindale and Hamilton will undoubtedly hold down the wing positions. Saunders and Foxley, tackles; Nuffer and Gibbons, guards; Gardner, center, with Love, Lindford and Far-

STUFFY McINNIS WILL MANAGE THE PHILLIES

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 22.—The appointment of John (Stuffy) McInnes as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals next season, succeeding Arthur Fletcher, came as no surprise today to local followers of baseball. McInnes having been prominently mentioned for the post since his unconditional release by the Pittsburgh Pirates some time ago. McInnes signed for two years and it was announced that he would play first base as well as manage the team.

The new manager is extremely popular here, having been a manager of the old Athletics during their pennant-winning days.

er, all letter men, besides a host of others contending for places on the line.

The Aggies are facing the toughest schedule of any team in the conference and this may be the obstacle which will defeat their title hopes.

If the Utah Aggies can survive the hard schedule that faces them without too many losses from injuries the Rocky Mountain title may again journey to the Utah Aggies trophy case.

GENE AND JACK BOTH TO GET BELTS TONIGHT

Trophies to Be Presented to Fighters at Opening of Elimination Tourney.

New York, Oct. 22.—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, principals in the recent heavyweight battle that saw Dempsey's title lifted, will be tendered championship belts by the New York Boxing Writers' Association tonight at Madison Square Garden, during the course of a heavyweight elimination tourney. Tunney's belt will be emblematic of the present championship; Dempsey's was due him during his reign but he never received it because he was suspended in this state.

Jimmy Maloney, Boston and Arthur De Kuh, New York, and Monte Munn, Lincoln, Neb., and Carl Carter, New York, will meet in the main bouts.

Lightly Milled Pure Tobacco Co.

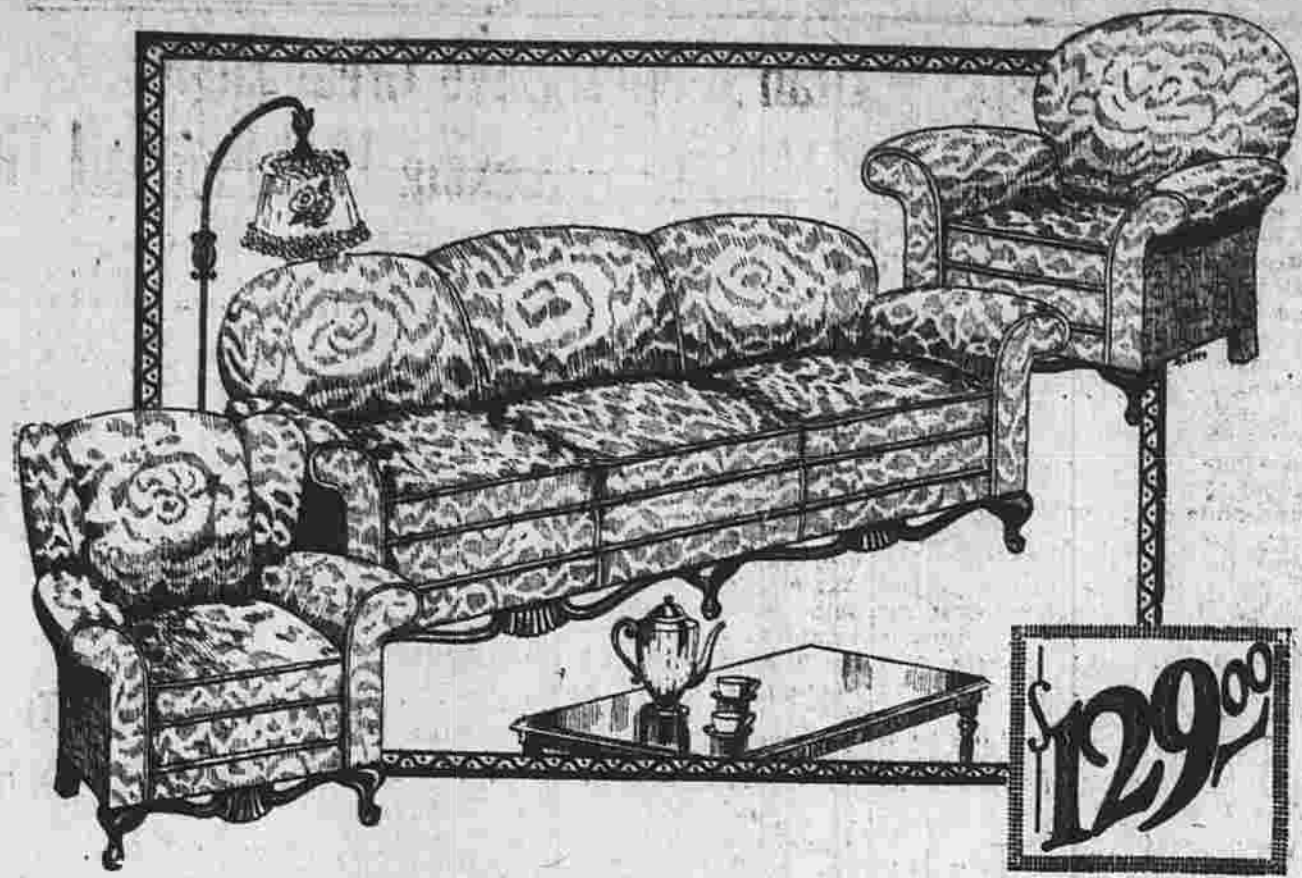

QUALITY where quality should be - in the tobacco

ALL smokers will agree that it's what's inside that counts — yet for years men have paid extra for containers instead of for their contents.

Granger Rough Cut now offers a common-sense innovation. Quality leaf, an exclusive and secret mellowing method, a special cool-burning cut — but no frills. A practical wrapper of soft foil; thoroughly satisfying, mind you — light, tight, comfortable to carry — but inexpensive; and as a result, a pipe tobacco of genuine quality which retails at ten cents!

Economy outside, quality inside; queer to one thought of it before. But it's certainly here now — and certain, too, of a record-breaking welcome.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE JUDITH MARTIN, a teacher, and ERIC WATERS, a student, in Pendleton University, escaped from a raid in a roadhouse where they have been dining, and Judith finds shelter in a cabin while Eric returns to town.

MYRA ALDRICH, in love with Eric, hints that Judith stayed out all night to DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, who admires Judith.

Eric takes Judith on a moonlight hike with EVE GERHART, fascinating town widow, WILL WETHEREL, a frat brother, and others.

Eric wanders off and gets drunk under a tree when Wetherel pays too much attention to Judith. "Ritz" Shea, an unsavory town character, appears by the bonfire after the other hikers have started down the hill for home. Judith is forced to let him take her and the unconscious Eric back to town in his car.

When they reach her boarding house Myra Aldrich opens the door and laughs scornfully at sight of Shea.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

NEITHER of them spoke but Myra snapped off the flashlight and ran past Judith up the stairs.

In her room, Judith listened to the noisy departure of Shea's car and then gave way to tears.

An unusual aroma in the room when she awoke next morning puzzled her. But when she had jumped out of bed and crossed the room to the dressing table it was explained. Her coat, lying over a chair, reeked with wood smoke. The odor brought back the memory of the night's escapade.

She dressed languidly and tried to disguise the pallor and circled eyes which told the tale of the last night's experience. But she was conscious of curious glances as she took her seat at table.

Myra was already there, chattering with Miss McGonigle about the decoration of their rooms. Caroline McGonigle favored lavender curtains and planned to pay for them by "ditching" her Y. W. C. A. dues that month.

Sissie Dean burst into the room. "Whoopie!" she cried. Miss Steadway frowned over her coffee cup. "Convocation today," said Sissie. "No Saturday classes." She sat down with a jolt against the table that set the cups rattling.

"More news, too. Dean Brown's got a line on the mysterious couple that sneaked out of the Blue Moon raid the other night." The officers were sure there was someone in the back room when they entered the place.

"Oo!" squealed Caroline. "How'd he find out?" "The man came back to town alone, walking along the Granville road a couple of hours later. There were patrolmen on the road who saw him, but they couldn't stop him for they had no charge against him. But the dean claims he knows who he was."

Judith caught Myra looking at her triumphantly and seized the first chance to leave the table.

Her room was in confusion from the hasty dressing of the night before. She slipped hastily to straighten it. A time table lying among the books and papers on her desk caught her eye. She picked it up, idly ruffling its pages.

"Saturday special for Middletown leaves 10:50 a. m." The black type seemed to stand out with special significance. She whirled about and made for the closet. Dragging her suitcase out, she began to throw garments into it. The small clock on the dresser said ten o'clock.

Lillian Steadway stopped her in her flight down the steps, while the taxicab waited. "A Mr. Waters has been calling you. I thought you had left the house. But I told him I'd ask you to call."

"If he phones again," said Judith, "tell him I've gone to Middletown for the week end." She ran out and slammed the door.

"I've only fifteen minutes to make the westbound train," she cried to the taxi driver. They set off at a reckless pace toward the station. "Lard-a-massy, what's youah rush?" asked the small negro porter as the cab wheeled up to the station platform. "Dat westbound am a half hour late."

A cold drizzle began to fall and Judith moved nearer the baggage shed for shelter. Beneath its eaves she ran unconsciously into a man and woman standing under a large cotton umbrella. The umbrella bobbed back to reveal the dismayed face of Dean Timothy Brown.

"I beg your pardon," said Judith. The dean bowed stiffly. "How do you do, Miss Martin? I think you have met my wife."

"Yes," said Judith, "at the president's tea."

"Are you going to the city?" the dean continued.

Judith nodded. "For two days. I've been quite stale lately and thought a change of scenery might do me good. There's a musical comedy in Middletown that I want to see. I want to forget schoolteaching for the whole week end."

The dean raised his eyebrows. "Mrs. Brown is taking the Middletown train, too, but she will stop at Foxville to visit relatives."

"I shall be glad to have someone to talk to," said Judith. Mrs. Brown made no response.

As a man passed behind Judith, the dean's wife started slightly. Judith looked around and the dean looked, too.

"Good morning, Judy," said Kitty Shea, thrusting his thumbs into the armholes of a green and white vest and grinning.

Judith nodded. She could not speak. The dean's eyes were on her and the dean's wife was looking at Shea blankly. There was an awkward moment as the man hunched his trousers up and walked carelessly away.

The train whistle down the track shrieked just then and Judith picked up her traveling bag. The dean reached for it but she declined the service and he walked to the train between the two women, trying to shelter both under his umbrella.

"Goodby, my dear," he said to his wife. She repeated the farewell tirelessly. Judith noticed that she did not kiss her husband, nor did he offer her a salute.

The dean put a ticket in his wife's hand and cautioned her not to lose it with the manner of a father instructing his small child. His broad brown back retreated down the aisle and the two women looked at each other.

Judith smiled. "You don't know what a relief it is to get away for a couple of days from the schoolteacher role," she said impulsively. The dean's wife looked at her with questioning in her eyes.

"Are you to visit friends, Miss Martin?" Her voice seemed slightly anxious.

"No," said Judith. "I don't know a soul in Middletown. That's why I'm going there for a rest. I mean to get a rooming house and play grand game for two days."

The dean's wife turned her pale face toward the girl. "What hotel do you consider the best?"

"Oh, the Chamberlain," Judith answered lightly.

The conversation flagged. Mrs. Brown sat moodily looking out the window and Judith tried to read a magazine.

After a time the dean's wife rose. "If you will excuse me, Miss Martin, I think I'll go into the next car. I saw one of my neighbors get into it at the Pendleton station and I'd like to talk to her for a few minutes."

Judith nodded and rose to let her pass. It was possibly a half hour later that a porter came to Judith.

"Mrs. Brown sent me after her baggage, miss," he explained. "Said she guessed she wouldn't get back in here to see you again. We're gettin' near her destination."

Judith was submerged in her magazine when the train pulled into Roxville. She did not look up until they were speeding away from the station again.

Middletown was busy in the bustling, ambitious way that middle western cities affect. Judith found its streets noisy and crowded as her taxi crawled toward the Chamberlain Hotel.

A shoe dealers' convention had monopolized all the rooms at this hotel and Judith sought a lodging at the second best hotel two blocks farther uptown. She noticed that the theater she wished to attend that night was less than a block away.

There was just time to snatch a sandwich in the coffee room before going to the theater. Judith stepped into the evening glitter of Walnut street, humming a little tune of contentment.

The magic of the playhouse scribbled her up as she stepped under its brilliant archway.

Three hours later, with the melodies of the revue still ringing in her ears, Judith came out again and turned her steps toward the hotel. The night had turned off clear and cold, with the first hint that October's radiance was slipping away before the searching winds of November.

In the lobby of the hotel Judith stopped a moment. The gay dance music still sounded from the cafe. She powdered her nose and turned toward the dining room. The head waiter found her a small table near the balcony and sent a man to take her order. Judith studied the menu.

When she looked up from it two persons were taking seats at the next table. One of them was the dean's wife. The other was a young and personable man, who bent to remove her wrap with deft, caressing hands.

Dean Brown's wife finds a friend in Judith in the next chapter, and Judith, to keep from betraying her, gets in trouble herself.

Pops counted up. "Thirteen dollars and a half in one morning. And the day was young. Besides there was always another day!"

The girl had taken typewriting one time to help her with her papers at school. It was the one useful thing she knew. "Pops" had an idea. "My stenographer is sick and I wish you'd go to the office with me tomorrow and take some letters," he said.

She put in a long busy day. At five she was very tired. He handed her three dollars. "What I always pay a new girl," he explained. He kept her for a month, gave her three dollars every night and did not permit her to spend a cent she didn't earn.

She learned to darn runs, to do without records, and the old car got a rest. And she learned how hard it is to get a little bit of money. The most useful knowledge in the world!

TASTE BETTER. Fresh fruit should always be kept cool, but never placed directly on ice.

MAKES IT NEW. Rice pudding is most delicious when served with whipped cream and strawberry jam.

FOR WINTER DAYS. A dessert that will be relished occasionally is hot gingerbread served with honey or whipped cream.

BIG LOTS FAIL. In making jam remember it is essential to cook a small amount at a time, and cook it quickly over a hot fire, stirring constantly.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

Mrs. Francoise Lesepresto had her 105th birthday the other day. And all her sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters and great great grandsons and great great granddaughters thought it would be nice to give granny a swell party. So they all came to Granny's house, several tons of them. Granny, celebrating her 105th birthday, cooked the dinner while they all sat in the living room saying, "Tell you, there aren't many smart, old women like her!... But if granny had been a little smarter they'd have taken out for her birthday dinner or she done their own cooking and dishwashing."

Granny isn't the only woman who finds herself at the age of a well-earned rest still treadingmill about to feed and keep clean and clothe someone who thinks, at any rate, that he or she is dependent on the old fagged out woman. Perhaps the Granannies are to blame. They start their families with a "keep out of the kitchen" policy, and when they're ready to shift, it is no wonder that the family doesn't know what's wanted, pronto.

There are Granannies, too, who, firing through it may be, get their sole consolation and pleasure in life out of basting a turkey or making a plum pudding. They'll keep adorning till they drop, and resent any interference in their domain. I know a high-salaried teacher, unmarried, who lives at home with her mother. The mother is not able to keep house properly and the daughter knows it. She has tried again and again to hire help for the kitchen her own life is too busy to add to it a domestic job, also.

But every high school girl who she imports for evening dishwashing or company dinner-getting is promptly dismissed by mother, who will not admit that she can not do as much as well as ever. As a result, the teacher, unwilling to see her old mother overwork, pitches in herself, and is rapidly approaching a nervous breakdown from too many irons in the fire, including Sundays spent in dinner getting and dishwashing for mother's family, and living in a hap-hazardly managed home while paying into the family exchequer more than she would pay for perfect running domestic machinery anywhere else.

Sometimes the beauty of materialism is grossly exaggerated.

Women students of the University of Washington demand a minimum amount of $2,400 before marriage. Male students put their figure at $2,100. But almost twice as many girls insist on the wife's right to work outside the home as do the men students.

Which is quite inconsistent, for the working wife means the boosted family income and the thing at which I have ever marveled is that the husbands who kick the most about these "working wives" are generally the very ones who contribute least to the family exchequer and who make "the working wife" necessary.

"You may not know our sort of community," Mrs. B. of the mid-West writes me, "but we are so 'untitled' that the very mention of a woman's club frightens most of our women. There are some of us, however, who insist on trying it. But we cannot have it alone and we want these women who insist that they are not interested in anything but housework to change their minds. So we want to start out with a 'food evening,' and start their own job is program stuff. Can you suggest something that would help us?"

Yes, indeed! Get an October "Atlantic Monthly" and either read extracts or have some one review the high spots in Mary W. Grison's "Curious Meals in Curious Places" if you can't get your club scooters interested in the story of the taffy smeared over the Chinese kitchen god at New Year's and the Persian lamb roasted whole and cooked with rice, raisins and nuts, eaten on the desert, nothing will!

A letter sent to the traveling library department of your state library should bring you any number of interesting food books. Ask them for recipe books of other lands.

Men in the role of nursemaids, baby-tenders, is what the future holds, according to the new school of psycho-biologists who say that innately men are as good baby-tenders as women, and only need a little training of this inherent instinct.

"Somebody's got to do it," carp the carpers, pointing out mother's exodus from the home.

Men of Lancaster, England, recently organized a Father's Council which has weekly lectures in baby tending. I, for one, suspect that their explanation "somebody's got to do it," is part of a "shame-you" campaign waged against their women folk.

Appearance and gooseberries! Women may not stay at home as much as they once did, but their young are all the better for their fairing forth to get a few breaths of fresh air unpolluted by the aroma of ketchup and bran water!

Good Nature and Good Health

THOSE HEALING SPRINGS. By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN. The value of a rest or convalescence at some natural mineral springs never has been doubted, and physicians regularly refer patients to one resort or another when they believe the patient requires a change of scene.

The spas and resorts of Europe are familiar to many, and such places as French Lick, West Baden, Saratoga, Excelsior, White Sulphur and other springs are widely known in this country.

Physicians and investigators have not been thoroughly convinced, however, as to the exact factors which are responsible for the benefits to be derived from visits to these health resorts. Some of the waters are of value because of their mineral content, but unfortunately equally good results do not seem to be secured when patients avail themselves of these waters at home or in the hospital.

Investigating Radioactivity. Some have claimed that the radioactivity of the water is responsible for much of the good effects and that much of this radioactivity is lost in shipment.

Work Is Cure For Spendthrift

By Olive Roberts Barton

Practically every natural water has some radioactivity, but, when studies are made of this property alone, comparing it as it occurs in natural water with water especially fortified with radium emanation, there seems to be little reason for believing that the radioactivity property is important.

Dr. W. D. Collins, chemist in charge of the water division of the United States geological survey, concludes that "the best available evidence based on scientific studies of the treatment of disease with radium emanation, on measurements of radioactivity of natural spring waters, and on the reported uses of the spring waters, leads to the conclusion that, up to this time it has not been shown that the small amounts of radioactivity found in natural waters have any effect on the medicinal value of the waters."

Change of Climate. Therefore scientific students of the value of health resorts in the treatment of disease believe that such benefits as are derived are largely the result of a change of climate and of scene.

"What's that, dear?" asked the Girl's mother as the Girl came into the living room with two bundles. The Girl laid one package on top of the phonograph and tossed the other on her mother's knee. "Just some little things I needed. Those are brassieres and silk stockings. Those are six new records."

Her mother opened the small package—the charge check in the handful of silk notions bore the figures, "seven dollars."

"It seems just a day or two since you got stockings," she said with a sigh. "And these brassieres really don't have ten cents worth of silk in them. A dollar seems high. You have about a dozen now."

"Now, Mums, don't grumble," said the Girl. "I got the cheapest things I can. Those other stockings ran the first time I put them on. My lands! You'd think seven dollars was a fortune!"

"What records did you get?" "Six of the peeliest things you ever heard. 'Knick Knack Gnu' is just hot off the stove."

"You got six a week ago!" "My lands! If I asked the kids to dance to them now, they'd walk out on me. Absolutely old, they are. Say, Dick, run along and get me ten gallons of gas. I'm taking the girls to the country. Pops, I'm sorry you have a cold, but it's jolly nice to have the car all the time."

MARIE'S YANKEELAND TOUR A COMIC OPERA

had to clear out another room and borrow another bed.
But the legation has had one bright idea. It has ranged all its tullest furniture in the foyer, so that the queen perhaps will get their allowance raised when she gets back home.
The awning firm that supplied the faded orange door canopy and the red sidewalk carpet calls up to say that there isn't any purple awning, and what does the queen think she is anyway.
Geta wrings her hands. But relief is at hand.
Several dozen society ladies tip-toe in, bearing bouquets and baskets and sheaves of red dahlias and golden chrysanthemums, each with a monstrous card.
Geta clasps her hands and rises. All do a ring-around-the-rosy.

The Rumanian legation, three hours later. There is still a strong smell of vanilla and paint.
The queen's limousine stops at the door, and Marie enters, catching her toe in a worn-out rug.
Out in the wings of Sheridan Circle the American crowd yells its head off. Marie beams on the legation, Ileana drops her eyes and Nicholas the Pale casts a bored eye on all.
Curtain falls to indicate lapse of one day.
In the reception hall of the legation, J. Butler Wright is coaching the American diplomats in their bows. President Coolidge is about to arrive to pay his respects and few of these 100-per-cent American politicians have had much experience in introducing a president to a queen.
The army and navy do pretty well. They are used to salutes and their gold braid and cocked hats help.
But the civilian officials at J. Butler Wright's direction bow and scrape and say their lines. "Your Majesty, will you do us the honor" says the gentleman from the department of agriculture, bowing to the gentleman from the state department.
The state department official bends low and extends his hand. But before the agricultural gentleman can kiss it, a blare of horns announces the president.

Entre-Act: the Wardman Park Hotel lobby.
Something terrible has happened. Radu D'Juvara has lost his shirt. He can't go to the White House without a shirt. He must have a shirt.
Manager Moore is doing his best. He has despaired of finding Radu's shirt, but he's looking for some guest who has one that will fit. He succeeds and vanishes in flight toward Radu's suite, as the curtain falls.

Scene Three: Queen Marie shows how democratic she is by smiling on the crowd from the roof of Mt. Vernon. The Americans toss up their caps and turn cartwheels on the grass.
Scene five and six and seven—more of the same.
Does anyone want to know, where are the kings and queens of yesterday?
They've left their thrones and gone the burlesque stage.

SITE IS SELECTED FOR WAR TROPHY

North and South Ends Fight Over Gun But It Will Rest at the Center.

It has been definitely decided that the large captured German 177 Millimeter Howitzer gun, Manchester's only trophy of the World War, will be permanently located in the center of the town. This information was made public today when it was stated that the local Post of the American Legion had voted 15 to 12 in favor of a central location. As the vote indicates, a stubborn contest ensued between the North and South factions of the town.

Fight Over Site
The post had received a request that the gun be placed at the North End of the town from the Community club and the members of the Post who live in that section of the town naturally voted in accordance. The result was the South Enders barely emerged victorious.

But with the decision, it is certain that the war trophy will be either in the small triangular strip of land near the watering trough at the center or in the Center Park. The former seems to be the favorite site as far as the Legionnaires are concerned.

The Presentation
The captured gun which now stands at the Armory, will be presented to the town Armistice night and they will decide on the location. An effort to learn what would be the preference of the town on the location is in progress. It would be up to William C. Cheney, chairman of the Park Commissioners and that it is understood he will allow the Legionnaires to make their own selection.

The trophy will not be presented to the town without appropriate exercises. There will be a monster parade here Armistice night. It is planned to make the affair the most gigantic since the war. In the parade will be the American Legion, the Army and Navy Club and its auxiliary, the Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliary and both local units in the Connecticut National Guard, Company G and the Howitzer Company.

The Parade
The parade will form at the Army and Navy club at 6:30 in the evening and will march to the final location of the gun where the presentation to the town will be made and accepted. From there the line of march leads to the Manchester Memorial hospital where the memorial trees will be decorated. It is planned to have the nearest kin of each deceased World War veteran present.

In speaking about the matter today Michael J. McDonnell, president of the Army and Navy club said that arrangements were in the works for the erecting of a huge monument here as a memorial to the soldiers who gave their lives in the supreme struggle. This matter has been referred to the executive committee of the American Legion Post here for further action. The monument will not be erected this year and maybe not for several, but it is planned for the future.

RIALTO APOLOGIZES.
Due to the fact that the Rialto theater had installed on Thursday a new heating apparatus, they regret that their patrons have been inconvenienced. Manager W. Coleman assures the patrons of the Rialto theater that they will now enjoy the comforts they are entitled to and at this time, humbly apologizes for any inconvenience due to the above installation.

TO USE MARINES TO PROTECT MAILS
Only Larger Offices Affected; Postal Employees Here Are Armed, However.
The 1,850 Marines who have been mobilized throughout the country with an additional reserve of 650 by command of President Coolidge to guard mail distribution throughout the United States does not affect Manchester. The soldiers will be stationed only at the largest cities in the country. It has been deemed unnecessary and impossible to provide protection for the postboxes in the smaller towns.
However, there is less danger of mail robberies in smaller towns. These places are also well protected, the office employees being armed.
In speaking about the matter this morning, Postmaster Oliver F. Toop predicts that in time to come, it will be necessary to increase the number of Marines stationed about the country because of the rapid growth of the larger towns, such as Manchester.

JOHNSON AND CUSTER WIN FIRST PRIZES
Get Turkeys at Setback Tournament Held Under Auspices of C. B. A. A.
The second sitting of the first of a series of four setback tournaments conducted by Cheney Brothers' Athletic Association took place at the School street Recreation Center last evening. Seventy-six were in attendance and it was necessary to use 19 tables.
R. Johnson and C. Custer were high scorers and won the turkey which is offered as first prize. C. E. and J. Edmonston were tied with G. Hunt and J. Canada for second place but lost the toss of coins for the cravats.
Here are the scores of the top leading scorers for the two sittings:

OBSERVED INSPECTION NIGHT
Mary C. Keeney Tent, Daughters of Veterans, observed inspection night last evening, the program being "With a Right Hand" supper at Center church. More than thirty members of the local tent attended. Guests were present from Libbeth Turner Tent of Hartford. The distinguished visitors included the department president, Mrs. Yale of Bridgeport, the department inspector, Mrs. Mathews of Willimantic and the department senior vice, Mrs. Ramsey of Hartford.
At the close of the business session Mary C. Keeney Tent presented both to the department president and inspector, handsome vases.
Mrs. Ora Ames, chairman of the supper committee and her corps of willing workers, received much praise for the delicious meal they had prepared. The favors and table decorations, which were all in keeping with the Halloween season, added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Where Thomas Dreier Lives and Works
THIS is Snug Gables, at Winchester, Mass., where Thomas Dreier lives the philosophy expressed in his writings. The philosophy of beauty, of good-will, of peace, happiness and content. The philosophy of The Golden Rule in business. The philosophy that this is a mighty good world; and that most men are better than they willingly admit. From here go out the countless inspirations which are helping to bring business to the new-day basis. Snug Gables was built for his work-shop as well as his home. Here both Mr. and Mrs. Dreier carry out the principles they preach. One of Mrs. Dreier's philosophies is genial hospitality. Hundreds of well-known people come to bask in this atmosphere. The late Lord Leverhume was one of the frequent guests. All go away with new ideas on well-directed living. Also on scientific housekeeping, where every item has its studied purpose.
One of the factors in this ideal regime is the serving of La Touraine (Extra) Coffee. At every breakfast, every dinner, it is served in the perfect way. And Mrs. Dreier says that nothing people find here receives more commendations. It fits in with all that Snug Gables is designed to typify. It is as much beyond the ordinary as everything else in this home. Let it add a delight to your home.
Interesting facts about La Touraine (Extra) Coffee
It is the largest-selling coffee in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees in America. In this home of exacting coffee critics, it is considered the supreme result of 27 years of coffee development.
It is the coffee served in many dining places famous for their coffees. In all Statler Hotels, for instance. In the magnificent Shoreland of Chicago. In countless country homes which study fine hospitality.
The blend combines the four finest coffees that grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Each derives its excellent flavor from one of the rarest soils of the earth.
Three of the coffees combined in this blend cost 50% more than ordinary coffee, and 25% more than Sao Paulo; the prize coffee of Brazil. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.
The formula for this blend is a secret, carefully preserved. Coffee experts spent twenty years in perfecting it. No other blend has been made to resemble it. Those who find here their ideal flavor can find it nowhere else.
Mr. E. J. Butler, the noted coffee expert, personally tests, tastes and selects all coffees used in this blend. His duty is to maintain, without regard to cost, this precious coffee flavor. He pays any price necessary to combine in La Touraine (Extra) the maximum delights.
La Touraine (Extra) is sold direct to retail grocers. This is to save middlemen's profits. It is sold in double sealed cartons, not in cans. These and other economies—about 11 cents per pound—pay for the extra quality. Thus users get this matchless coffee without a fancy price.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
This magnificent bird, found in some favor throughout the northern hemisphere, was one of the favorites in the sport of falconry, which has been much practiced in eastern countries from before the beginning of the Christian era to the present time. Goshawks were down at game as large as hares, and it is noteworthy that with our wild American Goshawks, these animals form the favorite prey.

Goshawk

In our continent the goshawk nests mainly north of the United States, in the vast forest that stretches from eastern Canada to Alaska.

Within our boundaries, however, it occupies the mountains both east and west. It is a bird of the woods; there, in some lofty tree it raises its broods.

In the far north, for it extends its range to the tree limit, it preys much on the ptarmigan, especially near the upper limit of its range, and also farther south when both these birds and the goshawks are moving south.

To capture a ptarmigan in fair chase, however, is no trifling task, and often the quarry will mount into the air so rapidly that the pursuing goshawk cannot overtake it, and is forced to give up the chase.

Over most of the country it is in the winter that we come mainly in contact with the goshawk. When the northern hares are abundant we see few of the birds, but in the years of scarcity, the goshawks are likely to come down in numbers.

Then our grouse and domestic fowl suffer from the raids of the "blue darter." Such incursions bring down on his head the wrath of sportsman and farmer alike, and war is waged.

Still, so swift and keen is the goshawk, that comparatively few of them are killed, while our beneficial or comparatively harmless species bear the brunt of the feud. Then the surviving goshawks repair again to the northern wilderness, where they are seldom molested.

MANY POULTRYMEN AT MEETING IN BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Oct. 22.—Poultrymen of twelve towns in this district gathered in Grange Hall here today for the quarterly meeting of the Windham County Farmers' Association Poultry Division, at which William Ryan, a leading poultryman of Stoughton, Mass., told how at his farm four thousand layers are carried through the winter season. R. E. Jones of Stors and F. L. Davis, county agent of Putnam, also spoke.

WIFE DIVORCES SECOND SON OF FORMER KAISER

Potsdam, Germany, Oct. 22.—Princess Eitel Friederich was today granted a divorce from her husband, Prince Eitel Friederich, second son of the ex-Kaiser. The princess was formerly Sophie Charlotte, duchess of Oldenburg, and was married in Berlin, February 27, 1906.

The court placed the blame for the domestic rupture upon the prince.

TYPICAL AMERICAN PLAY AT THE CIRCLE

"Hell Bent for Heaven" Wonderful Show—"Ten Commandments" Coming.

The double feature bill that pleased so well at the Circle last evening will be shown again tonight. Here is your last chance to see how perfectly two features can be shown, one to offset the other.

John Harron, that youth who is rapidly coming up to be the leading screen star is playing the lead in "Hell Bent for Heaven." The story is one that interests everybody. It is so good and so typically American that its appeal is universal. It tells the simple story of Carolina hills. There is just enough love in it to carry the story along and this is as it should be. But there is a lot of melodrama in it and sad parts that will start the tears. The big moment is when the dam bursts and wrecks the village.

The other feature is "Early to Bed." It is just as its title indicates, a farce comedy. You know what that is, a series of giggles and heart laughs. It is the story of a young couple who live beyond their means to impress their friends. An old theme, truly, but in this story there are so many complications that you'll surely enjoy it.

For tomorrow's continuous show there will also be two features. Art Accord in "The Set Up" and Anita Stewart in "Morgan's Finish." The first is a regular Art Accord feature and the movie fans know what that is, a rip snorting western with gun fights galore and all that go with it. The other feature is more subdued in type as benefits Miss Stewart. It is a picture that more will be told about tomorrow.

But forget all dates for next week when "The Ten Commandments" comes to the Circle for another showing. So many have seen this epic that it is wasting words to describe it. The name is enough. What the management wishes to stress on the mind of the theater public is that "The Ten Commandments" will be shown at no advance in prices and that is important. When that information is circulated wide enough the Circle will not be large enough to accommodate all those who will wish to see the great film. There is already much talk in the mills even now so it would be advisable to be certain to be around early on the play dates.

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

W. K. Kellogg

It was not sleep he needed

BREAKFAST... and he was tired, drowsy, lifeless. Why? Eight hours of sleep were surely enough. What ailed him, anyway? What had become of his old-time vigor and zest? Why, he was only a young man...

Yes, and he is only one of a countless number of young men who have grown old and tired long before their time—all because of constipation's vicious poisons. Thank goodness, there is sure, safe, permanent relief from this disease.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it journeys through the body its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it sweeps the intestine clean and urges nature to act normally.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer refunds the purchase price. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone or with fresh or preserved fruit. Sprinkle over other cereals; cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or in the recipes given on every package.

Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Part-bran products are doubtful and sometimes of no use. Why take chances? Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because they know a 100% bran product brings results.

Kellogg's is the original ALL-BRAN. Ask your grocer for a package this very day. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

When a girl expresses her wishes her fellow pays the charges.

Maybe if weeds and grass were cultivated there wouldn't be such big crops of them.

Judge: "You are charged with throwing your mother-in-law out of the window."

Prisoner: "I done it without thinking, sir."

Judge: "Yes, but don't you see how dangerous it might have been for anyone passing by at the time?"

If you find no pleasure in your work you'll find none in your rest.

Scientists have traced the origin of man clear back to the fish. Yes, and a lot of us haven't got over it to this day.

Jones: "I see a new play opened last night with a male chorus of Scotchmen in kilts who came on the stage throwing pennies into the audience!"

Bones: "Zat so? What's the name of it?"

Jones: "The Miracle!"

Mother's Knees

Time was when prattling babes were told

Quaint nursery rhymes, and fairy stories.

And tales about the days of old, And those who made our country's glories.

They heard a lot of things like these

At mother's knees.

But times have changed; La Mode decides

That skirts shall be abbreviated. Along the street she freely strides,

Her lovely legs emancipated. Among the sights that greatly please

Are mother's knees.

Some folks live to a ripe old age while others take calomel frequently.

"Madam, what is the complexion of your new baby, dark or fair?"

"To tell you the truth, he is a little yerter."

No. Thank You!—LET US TAN YOUR HIDE!

—From a display fur ad in Farm and Fireside.

The husband who can't cook these days is just about as much out of luck as the wife who can't make her own living.

There is a great future in the world for the man who can think as fast as he talks.

A girl by the name of Anna Hay wore riding togs nearly every day.

Folks wanted to know: If she did it for show, "No, it's merely a habit," she'd say.

"You never seem to take any interest in anything I do," sobbed the bride. "Don't be unreasonable, my dear," remonstrated her husband.

"It remained awake all last night thinking about the cake you baked yesterday."

Fairy Tale

Once upon a time a ten-ton safe was being hoisted to the twentieth story of a thirty-story building. Not a soul was in sight to watch the operation.

WATSON, ILL IN BED, ONLY 6 P. C. RAISED DENIES KLAN PACT HERE BY DIRECT TAX

Reed Moves Slush Inquiry to Indiana Hospital Where Senator Lies. Lieut. Gov. Brainard Points Out G. O. P. Success in State

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 22.—The Senate slush fund investigation of Indiana senatorial race reached to the hospital bedside of Senator James Watson, Republican, of Indiana at the Methodist Episcopal hospital here today.

Propped up in bed, his face pale and drawn, Watson voiced a weak but insistent denial of charges that he had bartered politically with the invisible empire of the Ku Klux Klan.

His denial was made to Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, who brought his slush inquiry here from Chicago, to hear Watson.

The two grim old political warriors, frequent foes in senatorial debate, met across Watson's bed.

Watson Very Ill

The hearing was confidential, only a stenographer, the secretaries to the senators and nurses being allowed in the room. Thirty newspaper men gathered in the hospital corridor outside the bedroom.

Reed's decision to hear Watson at his bedside was made when hospital physicians reported the Indiana senator's pulse was 135 this morning and urged that he remain in bed. Previously, it was intended to hold the hearing in a roof garden atop the hospital.

Watson's injuries included a strained spine, a five-inch scalp wound, a sprained neck, shock, and a black eye.

Watson denied every statement made at the Chicago hearings which involved him in Ku Klux Klan activities.

Denounces Emmons

He specifically denounced as "falsehoods" the charges of Hugh (Pat) Emmons, former South Bend Cyclops, that he had participated in a deal involving the seating of Senator Earl B. Mayfield of Texas.

Watson, however, admitted having twice conferred with William F. Zumburn, general counsel of the Ku Klux Klan, on the Mayfield senatorial contest, while the attorney was representing the Texas senator. Both conferences, he added, dealt with the calling of witnesses.

Watson also declared he had never had any understanding with any officials of the Klan about his becoming a candidate for the presidency in 1928.

DEM'S DON'T EVEN BOTHER TO PUT UP CANDIDATE

Hartford, Oct. 22.—Fourteen places on Democratic tickets for representative to the legislature have not been filled, according to returns in the secretary of state's office. In several cases where the town is entitled to two representatives the Democratic party has named only one candidate. Such towns are Hebron, Pomfret, Putnam, Salem, Cromwell, Barkhamstead, Canaan, Cornwall, Woodbury, Wallcott, Bethel, New Fairfield, Willington.

FEDERAL CASE BROUGHT AGAINST F. L. WRIGHT

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.—Frank Lloyd Wright, Chicago architect and Mme. Olga Milanoff, Montenegrin dancer, arrested here on warrants issued by Baraboo, Wis. authorities, were released on a $27,500 bond today.

After their arrest by county officials, Wright and the dancer were charged with violating the Mann act by Department of Justice agents.

Hartford, Oct. 22.—In a statement issued today, Lieut.-Governor J. Edwin Brainard pointed out recent Republican financial achievements in Connecticut, and quoted from Governor Baldwin's inaugural message of 1913 to show the difference in method employed by Democratic administration. Only 6 per cent of the state's present income, comes from direct taxation, he said.

"The Democratic candidate for governor and a prominent Democratic newspaper," said Lieut.-Governor Brainard, "insist that Republican administration of Connecticut has been expensive. They have stated that the Democratic administration of Governor Baldwin was, in comparison, much more efficient."

"I have been looking over Governor Baldwin's inaugural message to the General Assembly in 1913, after he had been governor for two years, and just starting on his second term. Let me quote directly from this message.

Baldwin's Speech.

"Our current expenditures during the year last past exceeded our current receipts... in each of the nine preceding years, the current expenditures were kept within the current receipts... This indicates an unfortunate change in our financial policy... The deficit was not due to any reduction of income. On the contrary our current income for that year was larger than it had ever been before... We have borrowed nearly ten and a half millions... The increase in our bonded indebtedness during the last five years has been rapid and unaccompanied by any provisions either for a sinking fund or for paying... The treasurer... urges the laying of a State tax on the several towns of not less than three-fourths of a mill each year. I join in these recommendations!"

These remarks are taken from the printed inaugural message, and they need no interpretation. Governor Baldwin is our chief sustaining witness.

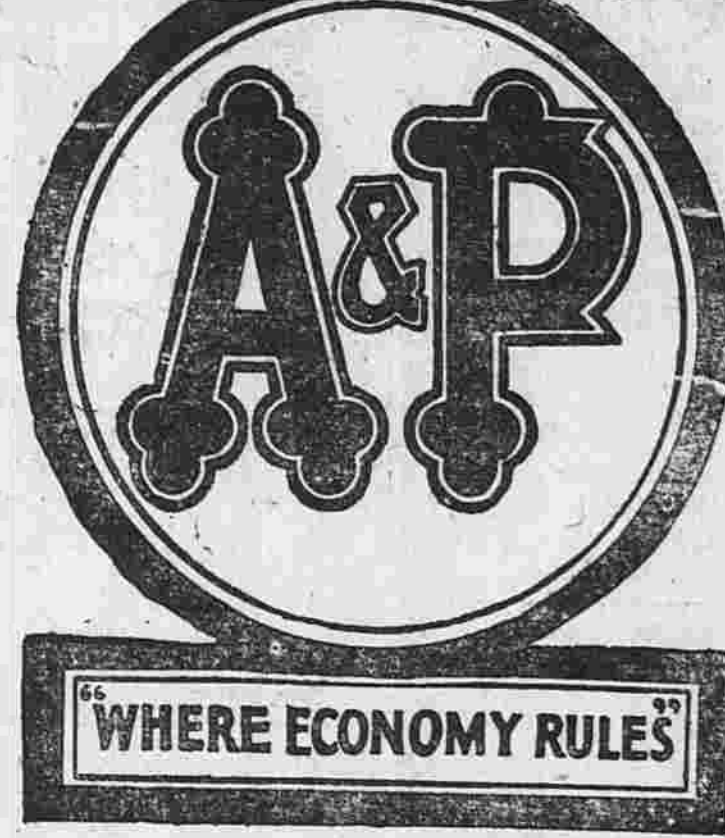

"When he came into office, the state's indebtedness was slightly over 73,000,000 and when he went out of office it was about $11,000,000. Please notice that he advocated a tax on towns to pay off some of this debt. The tax was laid, but the proceeds were not used in paying off indebtedness. They were used in paying current bills of the state. A state tax on towns, which was advocated and put through, is paid to the extent of about 83 per cent by the land owners and home owners of the state. Recent Republican administrations have actually reduced this tax, instead of advocating an increase. Reserve Fund.

"Since Governor Baldwin's time, Republican administrations in Connecticut have built a reserve fund sufficient now to pay off all indebtedness. In addition, we have gone through extraordinary war times, periods of deflation, and have kept up with the normal yearly growth of the state's departments and institutions.

"And, let me finish with this interesting statement—illuminating probably to our Democratic friends—that of the entire income of the state for the fiscal year 1926 only 6 per cent came from the state tax on towns and the military tax, the only two forms of taxation in this state that are paid by the citizens as a whole."

ARTIST HAS TO HAVE HIS POLITICAL AGENT.

Hartford, Oct. 22.—Although he has signified his intention of conducting a back porch campaign for the post of Congress from the fourth district, John Held, Jr., of Westport, noted cartoonist, has found it necessary to appoint a political agent. He certifies today to the secretary of state that Michael J. Goode, of Stratford, has been appointed by him to act in this capacity. George H. Gabb, of Hartford, candidate for sheriff of Hartford county, has named Ithamar M. Davis, of Hartford, as his agent.

BIG SUPER FEATURE IS COMING HERE

Milton Sills in "Men of Steel" to Be Shown at the State Theater.

Picture two men, helpless in a huge iron vat. High above them is a raving maniac manipulating the controls of a giant crane that is swinging a huge ladle filled with molten steel. He is swinging it slowly but surely toward the helpless men in the vat. His sole intent is to dump the molten mass on the heads of the two men who cannot escape. As the ladle approaches the men great masses of the liquid steel slop over and fall to the floor of the steel mill, spraying death to whoever steps in its path.

In this picture, it is Sills and Victor McLaglen who are in the vat with death swinging toward them. Of course they are saved, but it is rarely that Sills speaks thus about any of his pictures.

Sills declares "Men of Steel" is the greatest picture he has ever appeared in, barring none, and it is rarely that Sills speaks thus about any of his pictures.

McKinley Edict Starts U. S. Rule in Philippines

With Washington awaiting the report of Col. Carmi Thompson, special investigator sent by President Coolidge to the Philippines, a new interest in the island question has been awakened. This is the fifth of a series of six articles telling the vital story of the Philippines' development and present status.

By PAUL HARRISON.
Filipino resistance of Spanish rule reached the breaking point in 1896 when several hundred of the most prominent men of the country were imprisoned for participation in a revolutionary plot. Joe Rizal, reform party leader, had been exiled, native priests executed and the people robbed by plundering Spanish politicians.

The Katipunan, secret society that had been spreading in the islands, organized its forces for revolt. On Aug. 26, 1896, three pitched battles occurred. The insurgents were defeated but the flame of war spread.

Spain strengthened the army and scattered the enemy in a fierce campaign in Cavite province. Jose Rizal, wearied by inactivity in exile, had received permission to go to the Spanish prisons in the islands as a doctor. However, the former leader of peaceful revolt happened to land at the time the insurrection broke out. He was arrested and executed. His people sprang to arms again. Their leader was Emilio Aguinaldo, son of a native farmer.

Spain could send no more soldiers and urged a peaceful settlement. Some reform measures were drawn up, the insurgents dispersed and the natives found themselves just as badly off as before.

Enter America.
Now America enters the picture. On Feb. 15, 1898, the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor. Commodore George Dewey mobilized his fleet at Hong-Kong, sailed over to the islands and totally destroyed or disabled the Spanish fleet. The surrender of Manila was refused and the Americans occupied Cavite. Defeat had destroyed the little prestige that Spain had and insurrection began in nearly every province. Aguinaldo and his friends were allowed to come to Cavite and Commodore Dewey supplied his forces with arms. Thus outfitted, the Filipinos enthusiastically started out to perforate the Spaniards. In a few days the natives were in control of nearly everything but the city itself.

Reinforcements for the Americans arrived Aug. 13 and Manila fell before the attack led by Gen. Wesley Merritt. But it was not until February of the following year that the peace terms signed in Paris were approved by the United States Senate. Meanwhile President McKinley had declared that American sovereignty must be recognized in the islands.

War With Natives.
Gen. Merritt had refused the Filipinos permission to enter Manila. The Americans guarded the town and Aguinaldo's army stood about at respectful distance and called the doughboys bad names. Pretty soon the natives figured out that the Americans were afraid of them and started another war that lasted nearly two years.

Virtual peace came with the capture of Aguinaldo by Gen. Fred Funston. Thus, on July 4, 1901, the United States found a new baby on its doorstep—of doubtful nationality and still more doubtful potentialities.

Plenty of Worry.
There was plenty for Uncle Sam to worry about in this baby's 3141 islands, the scores of different tribes with their hatreds and superstitions, the archipelago's economic troubles and what not.

The "Philippine problem" has been growing more puzzling ever since in many ways. It was to canvass anew the problem of its entirety that President Coolidge sent Carmi Thompson to the islands this year.
