

MRS. GIBSON'S ILLNESS MAY HALT BIG TRIAL

Judges Refuse to Allow Jury to Hear Testimony in Hospital; Mills Takes the Stand.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 5.—With the important matter of obtaining the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, who is seriously ill in Somerset hospital, held in abeyance awaiting developments in her condition, the prosecution went ahead today with its case against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, who are accused of the murder of Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Mrs. Gibson is suffering from pyelitis, a pus condition of the kidneys. Her condition early today was reported unchanged from late last night when her temperature was recorded as 102-2-5, her pulse 96 and respiration 24. Earlier in the night her temperature was up to 104-1-5, pulse 112 and respiration 24.

Not in Near Danger. "There is no immediate danger that she will die," said her attending physician, Dr. A. Alexander Lawton, county physician. "In all probability she will recover—after some time."

It had been represented by Prosecutor Alexander Simpson that it was the court's urgent duty to see to it that the important testimony of Mrs. Gibson was obtained immediately because there was a possibility that she would die. He suggested that court be held in the hospital. The two presiding judges, Charles W. Parker and Frank L. Cleary, after interviewing Mrs. Gibson at the hospital late yesterday regarding her condition, announced that the woman's condition was serious and that the question whether Mrs. Gibson would be called to the stand would have to be decided today.

"I do not think she will be able to testify for several days," said Dr. Lawton this morning.

Mrs. Gibson collapsed in the courthouse on Wednesday. Her illness complicated the plans of the prosecution to reinforce its case with her testimony.

No Worse Today. At 9:15 this morning, Dr. Lawton visited Mrs. Gibson at the hospital. Mrs. Daisy C. Kingston, superintendent of the hospital, said that Mrs. Gibson spent a comfortable night and that there certainly was no change for the worse in her condition.

Mrs. Kingston said that if the court decided to come to the hospital and hold sessions there, she was "ready."

"We have a large room that would accommodate the jury," she said.

It was learned on high authority that the court will not go to the hospital for the "pig woman's" testimony.

If, however, Prosecutor Alexander Simpson requests it, court may adjourn for a few days to await her recovery. It is generally believed Mrs. Gibson will leave the hospital soon.

Court was called to order at 10:12 o'clock. The jury filed in rather noisily shortly after ten o'clock. Then came the three defendants and their lawyers.

Mrs. Frances Hall sat between her brothers, Willie and Henry. Directly back of her sat Mrs. Henry Stevens. Next to Mrs. Stevens sat Mrs. Henry Carpenter, wife of the fourth defendant, who is to be tried later.

Willie is Lively. Willie was full of life this morning. He made it his business to talk to several of his attorneys and from time to time struck his hand on his chair to emphasize his remarks. Now and then he gaped about through his thick-lensed glasses at the crowded little theater-like courtroom.

Mrs. Hall sat pale and quiet. Henry Stevens was quite serious. As soon as court was re-convened Issac Vanderver, a photographer, who made pictures of the murdered scene was called to the stand. He is a tall, slightly bald man who talks in a quiet, subdued manner. He identified pictures of the scene that he had taken.

Defense Counsel Clarence E. Case protested against the admission of one photograph, because, he said, the picture which was taken this year, did not show the view that would have been obtained had it been taken four years ago.

The crabapple tree, for instance, wasn't there. The spot where the tree stood was marked by an arrow. Sightseers long since had torn down the tree beneath which Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found shot to death on the night of September 14, 1922.

The picture was finally admitted into evidence.

Vanderver also identified pictures he had taken four years ago at the request of the authorities, of the interior of Rev. Hall's church in New Brunswick, including his study.

PUTS CRITICS IN A TIGHT PLACE

Leaves Brewery Stock to Ministers, Jockey Club Shares to Race Haters.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Charles Vance Miller, multi-millionaire Canadian lawyer and sportsman, had a sense of humor. His amazing will is filed for probate in the provincial court. Among the items are these:

A bequest of $700,000 worth of O'Keefe brewery stock to seven prominent Methodist ministers on condition that they draw the dividends and participate in the management of the brewery for ten years. Miller said he wanted to find out "whether their avarice for money is greater than their principles."

A bequest of $25,000 worth of Ontario Jockey Club stock to three men bitterly opposed to racing—Rev. Ben Spence, leader of the Prohibition Union; W. E. Rayne, former attorney-general; and Newton Rowell, former privy counselor—also on condition they draw the dividends.

A bequest of $2,000,000 to the woman who becomes the mother of the most children in Ontario until October 31, 1935.

GREAT QUAKE IN CARIBBEAN TRACED

Needles Tell of Violent Shocks in Region of the West Indies.

New Haven, Nov. 5.—The seismograph at Yale University recorded a severe earthquake at 3:03 o'clock this morning. The quake, according to the instrument, reached its maximum at 3:16. Yale seismograph authorities declared the tremor was undoubtedly severe and 2,000 miles distant in a southerly direction.

Fordham Confirms. New York, Nov. 5.—Officials in charge of the seismograph at Fordham University today confirmed the earthquake, recorded on the Yale University seismograph at 3:03 o'clock this morning, and placed the locale of the shock at 2,127 miles, south of somewhere in the Caribbean sea, near the Lesser Antilles. Fordham officials said the shock was "an extremely violent one," and began at 3:03 o'clock, reached its maximum at 3:17 and lasted until 4:20.

Georgetown Gets It. Washington, Nov. 5.—A severe earth shock, 1,800 miles southwest of Washington, was registered on the seismograph at Georgetown University at 3:01 o'clock this morning. The disturbance reached its maximum intensity at 3:15 o'clock, Father Tondorf said.

AIR ROUTE BEACON IS UP NEAR NEW CANAAN

New Canaan, Nov. 5.—One of the beacons to mark the New York-Boston air route has been erected on Ponds Ridge, near the New York state line and close to the Stamford city reservoir. A tract of twenty acres surrounding the beacon will be made into a landing field. The beacon is a steel tower about 150 feet high.

Atlas Carrying Earth A Myth, But Local Strong Man, Reality

The ancients believed that Atlas was strong enough to support the world. Looking at early prints you see a man of bulging muscles bearing on his back a globe supposed to be the earth.

BUT WHAT WAS ATLAS STANDING ON? Local wits may answer: "On his feet."

In all seriousness, there is a man, a Manchester man, a real, living, breathing man, who is not a myth. He may not be able to lift the world, but he comes mighty near being able to lift as much as any man now alive.

Without disclosing the feats he has performed and can perform, it may whet your appetite by stating that witnessed by 250 persons he lifted:

FOUR THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, WITH ONE FINGER, and he claims he is getting old, he carried around a man weighing 207 pounds as if the burden were two pounds of steak.

Why does he not appear on the stages of the world as the world's strongest man? The reason will astonish you.

This story, written in a conservative vein, will appear in TOMORROW'S HERALD "Out at Noon"

AUTO INSURANCE CO. HAD DEFICIT OF SIX MILLIONS

Actuary's Report Shows Mishandling of Hartford Co.'s Accounts Before Reorganization.

Hartford, Nov. 5.—Action concerning the fixing of responsibility for deliberately falsified reports of the Automobile Insurance Co. of Hartford, in which deficits amounting to more than $6,294,000 were hidden, will await the return of Howard P. Dunham, state insurance commissioner, who left Tuesday for Los Angeles, to attend a convention of insurance commissioners. This course was intimated by the Insurance Department today, following the issuance of a report by Actuary William M. Corcoran, after an exhaustive examination of the company's affairs during the past four years.

The report shows that liabilities of the company have been understated to the extent of $7,215,000. "Serious irregularities in the book-keeping of the company" are charged in the report, which says that "highly improper procedures were adopted."

Manipulated Entries. "Certain expenditures were charged to accounts for which no such expenditures were, in fact, made. In certain cases also the receipts were so entered as to disguise the fact that corresponding liabilities were created."

Since the discovery of the "irregularities" several months ago the Automobile Insurance company has been reorganized. Through its mother company, the Aetna Life Insurance Company, the stockholders of the Automobile Insurance Company ratified a plan to raise $12,000,000 which, it was stated, would rehabilitate the company.

Charles H. Remington, active head of the automobile insurance company, resigned as vice-president and director of three companies in the Aetna Life group on March 7. Several changes in the directorate of the affiliated group followed. Joel L. England, D. Newton Earney, and Charles E. Deavenport resigned, and the following were elected: Edward Milligan, J. Henry Roraback, Edward M. Day, Richard M. Bissell, and William R. C. Corson.

Reconstructed. The state actuary's report says that the "reconstituted board of directors now possessing a realization of the responsibility of such a board, must be looked to by stockholders and the public to control the future policies of the company and intelligently provide and maintain such a competent administrative organization as will be able to bring complete order into the still disturbed affairs of the company."

COURT STENOG SCORNS $2,657 YEAR PENSION

L. W. Cogswell of New Haven Sure There Is "Some Mis- take."

Bridgeport, Nov. 5.—Leonard W. Cogswell, of New Haven, special stenographer of the Superior Court of Fairfield county, announced today he will not accept a pension of $2,657.28 which was awarded him yesterday by the Board of Control.

"I can't accept this amount; there must be some mistake," said Mr. Cogswell in a statement, in which he declared he will retain his present position. Cogswell asked for a pension of three-quarters of his present salary based on his earnings for the past five years, or $5,700 yearly.

Mr. Cogswell was appointed to his present position about thirty years ago and had served in a similar capacity in the Litchfield county court prior to that time.

ERNST MAY WIN IN KENTUCKY AFTER ALL

Lead of Barkley Is Rapidly Cut Down as Outlying Dis- tricts Report.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 5.—Senator Ernst, Republican, was rapidly cutting down the lead piled up by Alvin W. Barkley, Democrat, in the senatorial race, as incomplete returns from 109 out of 129 counties were tabulated today.

Barkley led by 1,200 votes but Ernst managers, refusing to concede the election, claimed when all returns were in, Ernst would have a majority of from 2,500 to 3,000. Mountain counties yet unheard from are regarded as heavily Republican.

Incomplete returns indicated the election of Mrs. John W. Langley over her Republican opponent, Doug Hays, by approximately 4,500. Her husband, former Congressman John W. Langley, is now serving a two-year sentence at Atlanta penitentiary for conspiracy to violate prohibition laws.

JAPS PLAN 28 NAVY SHIPS IN FIVE YEARS

Tokio, Nov. 5.—The Japanese cabinet, it was reported here today, has adopted a naval subsidiary warship construction program covering a five-year period of expenditure amounting to 261 million yen. The program, it is understood, provides for the building of 28 ships, including four cruisers, 15 destroyers, four submarines, three gunboats, two special service ships and one airplane carrier. The appropriation for 1927 will be 4,720,000 yen, covering the cost of two cruisers, it was said.

FEDERAL RESERVE JANITOR HAD $72,000 IN TRUNK. Los Angeles, Nov. 5.—Wesley Davis, 22, negro janitor of the Federal Reserve bank here, was arrested today when nearly $72,000 in currency was found in a trunk in his home.

Little Tetrazini Takes Big Husband

Florence, Italy, was the scene of the marriage of Mme. Tetrazini, with whose operative achievements the whole world is familiar, and Pietro Vernato, of Rome, a heretofore obscure student of music. The groom admitted that he's 32 while his famous bride maintained she is only 50. Their average weight is normal.

ELM CITY SUICIDE LEAPS 11 STORIES

Louis Holtzer Flings Himself from Roof of Chamber of Commerce Building.

New Haven, Nov. 5.—Louis Holtzer, 45, of 40 Orange Terrace, West Haven, flung himself from the roof of the eleven-story Chamber of Commerce building on Church street, near Elm, today and was instantly killed.

The Chamber of Commerce building is set back above the first floor, the projection of which is roofed over with a skylight. The man jumped from the south side of the building, according to police, and crashed against the skylight, a distance of about seventy feet. Every bone in his body was broken, death having been instantaneous.

Police early this afternoon were checking up on the man's relatives. At that time they had no idea of what impelled Holtzer to jump.

600 BOSTON TECH STUDENTS IN RIOT

Wreck Autos, Halt Trolleys, Terrorize Populace in Rush Night Frenzy.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Twenty persons were injured, five were arrested and scores of students are now facing suspension or expulsion from college following a wild riot of 600 Technology men, leaving Cambridge and this city, through a wake of destruction.

Six of the students are suffering from the effects of tear bombs hurled by the police to quell the rioters battling with reserves in a Huntington Avenue dance hall. Another was run over by an automobile. Scores more were suffering from the set-to with the police.

The rioting began after the annual "rush night," in which the sophomores and freshmen contest the whole campus of a mound of loam on the college grounds.

All along the line of march, that extended from Technology to Brattle Square, Cambridge, and back across the river as far as Huntington Avenue, there were signs of destruction.

Store signs were torn down, windows broken, automobiles wrecked, cars of the Boston Elevated halted, trolley cords cut and windows of the subway tunnel were put out of commission altogether.

In Harvard Square they attempted to take possession of a theatre but were repulsed by twelve husky Harvard students, who held the Harvard square entrance until the arrival of the police.

Storm Police Station. One student was arrested at this point while trying to work mischief with a Boston elevated car and the whole crowd of rioters, nearly 600 in number started the Brattle Square station attempting a rescue.

Frustrated here the mob retraced its steps and part of them bolted into the subway as police tried to disperse them taking possession of a train, and terrorizing passengers.

At Park street they alighted and began their march of destruction.

FRANCO-ITALIAN WAR THREAT CRASHES OUT

CHARGES FRAUD AT POLLS GAVE VARE VICTORY

Sen. Norris Declares Only 32 Democratic Votes Were Counted in 76 Phila- delphia Precincts.

Washington, Nov. 5.—A double-edged sword was being forged today by the militant opponents of the claim of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania to a seat in the United States Senate.

Vare not only will face a bitter attack upon the huge expenditures for him in the primary, but it will be charged that he was fraudulently elected in Tuesday's balloting, it was indicated today in a statement by Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska Progressive Republican.

Although Vare came through the election with a big majority, Norris declared he was repudiated outside of Philadelphia and triumphed there through the manipulation of the ballots.

In 76 Philadelphia precincts which gave Vare 17,000 votes last Tuesday, his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson, received but 22 votes, Norris pointed out.

"These," he said, "are samples showing methods of machine control in Philadelphia."

"Results in some parts of Philadelphia were announced in advance, even before any votes were cast."

"Does any sane, patriotic citizen of the United States think for a moment that these figures are the actual results of a fair and honest election?"

The real significance behind Norris' move to challenge the legality of Vare's election lies in the fact that only a majority vote is required to pass upon—and possibly oust—a senator where his right to take the oath is questioned. To expel a member after he has been seated, and where there is no question of the legality of his election, requires a two-thirds vote.

SEEK BLONDE GIRL IN THE TOMBS PLOT

Visited One of Slain Convicts Before Break—Keepers Are Reported Involved.

New York, Nov. 5.—While five official investigations were under way today to fix responsibility for the sensational jail delivery attempt at the Tombs prison on Wednesday, detectives were searching for an attractive blond girl who visited Hyman Amberg, one of the prisoners who was killed, a few minutes before the attempted break.

Investigations were probing reports that several keepers were involved in the escape.

Amberg and two other convicts, a warder and a keeper were killed in the attempted escape. The third convict to die was "Red" McKenna, who succumbed to his wounds last night.

A third arrest was made and two charges of murder against two men already under arrest today in connection with the attempted jail break.

Nathaniel Eisman, a chauffeur, said to be a former actor, was arrested. Police said he admitted loaning his chauffeur's license to Robert Weiner, who was said to have confessed throwing revolvers over the wall of the prison, and to have waited in an automobile outside during the attempted escape.

Weiner and Oscar Amberg, a brother of one of the prisoners, were charged with murder.

F. S. FITCH, NOROTON, DEAD IN 101ST YEAR

Noroton, Nov. 5.—Francis Stewart Fitch is dead at his home here in his 101st year. Mr. Fitch, a nephew of Benjamin Fitch, the donor of Fitch's Soldiers' home, here, was born in Blazing Star, N. J., February 16, 1825. He was for years in the clothing business in Buffalo and Chicago, finally coming here to open a general store. In 1885, when his uncle died, he retired from business and devoted his time to managing the uncle's estate.

Mr. Fitch was the father of Gilbert L. Fitch, once commander of the old Third Infantry.

MORE CASH FOR OLD IRONSIDES

$225,000 Already Raised to Re- condition Frigate Not Enough, Says Wilbur.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The historic old frigate Constitution soon is to be placed in dry dock at the Boston Navy Yard, preparatory to beginning the actual work of reconditioning the vessel, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced today.

The preliminary work will be started with the $225,000 that has been collected by public contribution throughout the country. Another $150,000 will be required to put the hull in first class condition, according to navy experts. To provide this additional sum, plans are now under way for another campaign for funds this fall and winter.

In the previous drive four and a half million school children made contributions. Substantial contributions of material for spars, rigging and equipment have been made by a number of firms in addition to the money that has been received.

ROW IN PARTY MARIE SMOLDERS

Sam Hill May Stick Along Through Whole Trip 'Out of Contrariness.

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train (in Washington) Nov. 5.—The fires of dissension continued to smolder today among the various forces in charge of the welfare of Queen Marie of Rumania in her tour of America.

Inappropriately enough, the royal party today visited the "Peace Portal" in Blaine, Wash., an individual example of architecture erected by Sam Hill, eccentric millionaire, who is the figure behind the furor.

The discord between the executive guests aboard the train simmered beneath the surface until the arrival of Hill. Following his predominance at the dedicatory exercises at Maryhill, a wordy duel occurred at the horse show in Portland, Ore., in the royal box Hill ordered Major Stanley Washington, aide and close friend to Queen Marie, to leave the train. Washington retorted curtly.

Queen Greatly Upset. "I am the boss and you obey me or I will crush you," said Hill. Washington asked the queen to excuse him and left the box. Col. John H. Carroll, the "official" host to her majesty, rose and accompanied Washington. Her majesty was reported greatly upset over the incident.

Col. Carroll, who is in charge of the train for the railroads, made it a point to ride in the same carriage with Hill. Hill called him "Uncle John" whenever newspaper correspondents were within hearing. Later, in the privacy of his stateroom, Col. Carroll issued a statement in which he suggested that "perhaps the tribute paid to Hill at Maryhill museum (when her majesty called him a dreamer and a worker like herself) has turned his head."

Hill May Tag Along. "Major Washington will remain on this train until the journey is finished," asserted Carroll. "Her majesty selected Washington for her aide because she had found him a loyal friend and adviser in the great war. No one will be permitted on this train except by my consent."

Hill originally planned to leave the party after her majesty returns from Vancouver to Seattle tomorrow but gossip has it that he is now thinking of remaining the entire trip.

DEMPESE LOSSES ROUND IN KEARNS COURT FIGHT

New York, Nov. 5.—Jack Dempsey lost the opening round of his legal battle with Jack Kearns, his former manager, today when Judge Winslow in the Federal District court denied a motion to dismiss all actions growing out of the original suit. Since filing his petition for $33,000 for alleged breach of contract, Kearns has started suits in Pennsylvania and Indiana in an effort to recover for specific instances of contract violation.

The court held that Dempsey must meet each of these actions as they come up on the calendar.

Declare That "Anti-Fascist" Schemes Were Prompted by Mussolini to Frame Italian Grievance; Ambition to Rule Mediterranean Seen in Plans of the Dictator; Garibaldi Held by French Police.

Paris, Nov. 5.—Sensational charges against Colonel Ricotti Garibaldi, which may involve the Italian and French governments, were made in semi-official quarters today, but lacked direct official confirmation.

The semi-official reports declare that the police have evidence which tends to show that although Colonel Garibaldi professed to be an ardent anti-Fascist he was really working in collaboration with the Fascists, from whom he received 2,000,000 lire to organize alleged plots against Mussolini on French soil, for the purpose of discrediting France.

From the same semi-official source came the charge that Colonel Garibaldi organized the Catalan plot in Perpignan and that Col. Macia, who was arrested as the instigator of this plot, was but a tool.

The question of the charges against Garibaldi was taken up by the cabinet today.

Colonel Garibaldi arrived in Paris this morning and was taken from the train at a suburban station to avoid demonstrations. He was immediately taken to the headquarters of the secret service, where it is reported Minister of the Interior, Sarraute, personally will direct his examination.

Italy Locks Doors. Rome, Nov. 5.—The Italian cabinet today decided to cancel all passports which have been issued, as a part of the drastic program which is being undertaken to check the plots against the premier and the Fascist government.

"This action, it is understood, is taken to prevent anti-Fascists from leaving Italy to hatch plots in foreign lands.

The cabinet issued orders to soldiers on duty on the frontier and customs stations to shoot any Italian nationals who attempt to cross the frontier without authority.

Orders were also issued for the abolition of political anti-Fascist societies and newspapers.

The organization of a special police force to guard against anti-Fascist plots was also decided upon.

THE URGE TO FIGHT Italian Ambitions Clash With Safe- ty of France.

BY MILTON BRONNER

Paris, Nov. 5.—France and Italy are heading in for a future war in the Mediterranean unless wisest counsels prevail.

They are constantly rubbing each other in the wrong way. Both are striving to moderate their armies and build up their navies and still be able to say to the world that they are reducing the cost of their armaments.

Each national press goads the other country. Sharp things are said and written.

Mussolini harrowed French feelings with his proclamation of a desire to reform Italian women's dress. It was a blow at French fashions. Subsequently he further aggravated France by placing obstacles in the path of French theatrical troupes presenting French plays in Italy.

Italy's Ambitions. But these are incidental. The underlying and principal source of dissension is Italy's Mediterranean ambitions. She would have the Mediterranean an Italian lake bordered by Italian colonies. Today, the Mediterranean is a much greater potential menace to world peace than the Pacific across which America and Japan are supposed to be making faces at each other.

Where the bulk of the British fleet is, there is the greatest danger. Before 1914, after Germany proclaimed that her destiny lay on the sea, the English fleet was in the North Sea. An eye was cast by the Germans.

Today that fleet is in the Mediterranean. Coincidence, perhaps, but it recalls Mussolini's Kaiserlike assertion that "we are a Medidox is part of his age, and a gesture for his clients. In the jury box I see an aggregation of honest grandfathers, that suggests the annual outing of the old men's home. Rudolph Steffens, 26, looks as if he had only come to bring his grandfather and is chewing his gum until he can decently make his exit. Six of these jurors are well over 60. Many look older. Here again are pink bald spots, wattles, and snowy hair. Behind the press boxes are the witnesses—middle-aged and settled. Ex-vestryman Gorsline, greeting a casual acquaintance with the unctuous manner so successful with the ladies, is slim and dapper but gives to tendons and a corded neck. There is no youth anywhere. Even Charlotte Mills, daughter of the murdered woman, does not suggest it in spite of her short skirts and her ready tears. That girl never had a chance to be young. So it isn't her fault. Seems like pecking on elders. And because of the age and respectability represented, this trial gives one the unpleasant suggestion of pecking on our elders. First it was the young bloods who selected their favorite trees in De Russey's Lane and from their vantage points, settled down for a thrilling evening of pecking on those who wandered so sedately into the lane. Now they have hauled these middle-aged folk, these mothers and fathers, grandmothers and grandfathers into court, and we sit upon them and pounce upon their middle-aged dalliance. It is like catching your nice old aunt or your grandmother in a compromising situation. In some folly you thought they had forgotten, then wishing you didn't know about it. Here are revealed none of the practices which are supposed to be ruining the younger generation. Here are recorded no gin parties, no dancing till morning in a night club or road house, no knee length skirts and cigarettes. Here we come back to the church, to the village choir, the minister, and the harmless chicken sandwiches and home-made cake served at the socials, to quiet country lanes. Here we come back to what the younger generation is urged to come back to, and find it wasn't all it was cracked up to be. Oh, for some flaming youth! What this trial needs is rejuvenation. R. J. SMITH REPORTS

$126 ELECTION COSTS

Hartford, Nov. 5.—J. Francis Brown of Enfield, unsuccessful candidate for state comptroller, was the first candidate for a major office to file a statement of expenses incurred during the recent campaign. His statement, received at the state secretary's office today, shows that he made contributions of $250 to the state central committee and $50 to the Enfield town committee. Other statements received today are as follows:

Robert J. Smith of Manchester, Republican candidate for fourth district state senatorship, $126.92 for advertising, contributions, and expenses of luncheon; Charles J. McLaughlin, unsuccessful Democratic second district candidate, $50 to the town committee of Hartford; C. Edward Mason, judge of probate at Danbury, $150 general expenses of 1926; J. H. Field, candidate for judge of probate, no expenses.

again, heading for the Huntington Avenue dance hall, which was wrecked before police reserves, with tear bombs and free use of clubs, forced the rioters back.

During the march through Cambridge the automobile of Arthur Allen was literally torn apart. The students under arrest, charged with malicious destruction of property, are: Sewall E. Hallett, 28; Arnold A. Smith, 28; Charles E. Lyon, 28; Prescott D. Croust, 28; and Sydney Hardwick, 30.

In Cambridge police court, Hallett, a Greater Boston boy, was sentenced to the House of Correction for five days. He appealed.

The others were held for Roxbury court. Being Serious Charges. Felony charges were ordered brought today against the five students arrested in order to be issued by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley, for arresting police to ask warrants charging inciting to riot, unlawful assembly and destruction of property, felonies punishable by terms up to five years in prison and large fines as well. "These students cannot run rough-shod over Boston citizens," said the superintendent.

PANTHERS OF RED GRANGE CIRCUIT IN DIFFICULTIES. Cleveland, Nov. 5.—The Cleveland Panthers, members of Red Grange's professional football circuit, are in financial difficulties and probably will have to be reorganized, it was revealed here today. "Big" Billy Edwards, president of the league, here today, declared that the Cleveland club had automatically forfeited its franchise by failing to pay players for the game played, a game scheduled for Sunday with the Boston club, probably will be canceled, it was indicated.

TWO PRIESTS TRANSFERRED. Hartford, Nov. 5.—Rev. Charles W. Brennan, of Norwichtown, has been transferred from Sacred Heart church to the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Waterbury as pastor according to official announcement by Bishop John C. Nilan. Rev. Edward J. Quinn, of St. Francis church, Waterbury, has been transferred to the Norwichtown pastorate.

BRIDGEPORT INDUSTRIAL BANK CHARTER DENIED. Hartford, Nov. 5.—The State Banking Commission has denied the application of the Industrial Bank of Bridgeport for a charter. There is no necessity for the establishment of such a bank at this time in Bridgeport, the commission says in its decision.

BELLHOPS CHARGED WITH JEWEL ROBBERY. Greenwich, Nov. 4.—Ernest Hurst and Harry Forbes, bellhops at Pickwick Arms, were today held for trial in the Superior court on a charge of theft of jewels, being placed under bonds of $15,000 each. The jewels, valued at $2,500, were the property of Mrs. Helen B. Lynch, a guest at Pickwick Arms on October 15. Forbes, who is 22, was married here on September 30.

BAD FIRE IN ALBERTA. Raymond, Alta, Nov. 5.—Five buildings including the Raymond Hotel, in the business district of this town today did damage estimated at $200,000.

CARBARN SLAYERS GET STILL FURTHER RESPIRE. Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—The Waltham carbarn slayers today were granted a further respite until January 3, by Gov. Fuller and the executive council. This action was taken in order to give time for exceptions in the denial of a new trial to be considered by the full bench of the Supreme court.

Billy Evans Says

Rumor has it that Glenn Warner of Stanford is to return to the University of Pittsburgh as football coach. He was in charge there before going to the coast.

Warner at the close of this season will have finished a five-year contract at Stanford, two by proxy and three years in person.

For nine years, Warner coached at Pittsburgh with great success. Since his departure, Pitt has built a new stadium seating 70,000. Offering teams that met with just ordinary success, there have always been plenty of vacant seats in the stadium for the big games.

A college stadium is a great thing if you fill it two or three times during the season but a mighty bad investment if you are playing to vacant seats. The interest simply eats you.

It is said Pitt realizes heroic measures must be resorted to to revive the old-time enthusiasm and that Warner is the man to turn the trick.

There is getting away from the fact that Warner is a great coach who gets results. It is the exception for him to turn out a poor team. Usually it is among the first six.

Brought to the coast to match with the great Andy Smith, who died last winter, Warner has more than made good. His proxy, Andy Kerr, had paved the way by establishing the Warner system.

In his first year in person, his team tied California, 24-20, scored twice in the last six minutes of play to even the count. In his second year, he beat California, 26-14 and is a sure bet to repeat this year.

Last season, he also defeated the strong University of Southern California, 13-0. His only reverse was a defeat by Washington, 12-0, winners of the coast conference title.

Success on Coast. The success of Warner on the coast is ample proof of his coaching ability. He has to have him and develop teams that would soon fill the stadium.

In the first big game of the year for Stanford, Warner has already demonstrated his ability to prove equal to the occasion, no matter how tough the assignment.

His eleven recently beat the highly touted Southern California team, coached by Howard Jones, 13-12. Stanford was decidedly the underdog but came through to a glorious victory.

Southern California got away to a 12 point lead through two touchdowns but the resourceful Warner overcame this seemingly insurmountable handicap to win by a one-point margin.

If Stanford permits him to return east, it will be a blow to coast football but a distinct gain for the eastern game. It will take a big man to replace Warner on the coast.

Gridiron Upsets. There is no way of correctly judging the football situation this fall; it's just one upset after another.

In the recent inter-sectional clash between the east and the Big Ten, the experts were twice double-crossed. Michigan was picked to beat the Navy, while Penn was figured to win over Illinois. Just the opposite happened.

I am inclined to think that Zuppke cherished the victory over Penn almost as much as he would a Western Conference title.

Penn recently sidetracked Illinois for Chicago in a home-and-home arrangement, despite a desire on the part of Illinois to continue such relations.

The 3-0 victory of this year, resulting from a drop kick by "Frosty" Peters, make it two straight victories over Penn for Zuppke.

Extraordinary Feat. Brown University is disproving the theory that a team is only as good as its substitutes. The trick is done by refusing to give the substitutes a chance.

In scientific victories over Yale and Dartmouth, Brown didn't make a single replacement. The same lineup that started the two games, finished.

Every now and then some major event comes along that brings an important game without using a single substitute, but I doubt if the stunt has ever been pulled twice in succession as credited to Brown.

25 OF COAST GUARD HELD IN RUM DEALS

Other Arrests Expected But Most Wanted Man of All Has Fled to Sea. Boston, Nov. 5.—New arrests in the Coast Guard probe are expected today. Special agents of the Treasury Department are in Boston and certain Cape towns, seeking petty officers and enlisted men.

They are wanted in connection with the alleged investigation of connivance with rum runners which has climaxed with the arrest here of 25 guardsmen.

One much-sought fugitive, believed to be in hiding on Cape Cod, probably eluded his pursuers and fled to sea with the aid of rum-running confederates.

Meanwhile four petty officers arrested at Base 5 are lodged in "the brig" at Charlestown Navy Yard, while enlisted men taken from four patrol boats at the East Boston base, are detained under guard.

teranean people and our future is on the sea. France's Food Lure. France needs a clear path between her shores and her colonies in Algeria. From them come food-stuffs and, in war, great levies of men. Block that sea path and France is severely handicapped.

France feels at present that she is menaced by the new treaty between Italy, to the east, and Spain, to the west, some sections of which have been kept secret. Italy has Sardinia and Sicily on one side, Spain the Balearic Islands on the other. And Italy has signified that her needs for expansion include Tunis, a French possession, and Syria, a French mandate.

The explanation of why the French people, while eager to economize, are anxious because the new government has taken steps to reduce the army.

Italy's Army. Italy's remodeled army has 30 brigades of infantry, each consisting of three regiments of infantry and one of artillery. She has other military commands in the Alps, in Sicily and Sardinia. Also 12 regiments of cavalry, motorized convoys and artillery, 300,000 militia and 91 squadrons of airplanes with as many more contemplated.

In the Italian navy are 76 torpedo boat destroyers and 43 submarines, most of which are better than the corresponding French men-o-war. And Spain, her new ally, has just begun a submarine and cruiser building program.

All the sticks are laid for the fire. The resumption of the race in armaments. New offensive and defensive alliances. Colonial ambitions. Super-heated, nationalistic feelings brought about by constant journalistic and oratorical recriminations.

Threat to Friendship. Of the last that which followed one of the recent attempts to assassinate Mussolini is representative. It is the surface. Mussolini, afterward addressing his Fascist followers in Rome, said: "It is time to finish with a certain unbecoming and culpable toleration beyond our frontiers if there is a real desire to have the friendship of the Italian people, a friendship which will be seriously jeopardized by incidents like to-day's."

Let there be any doubt about his meaning, the perfectly controlled Italian press painstakingly said he meant France. It was demanded that France send back to Italy all the anti-Fascists who had found refuge in her borders. In France there are 900,000 Italians.

The French press, disregarding politics, retorted promptly. "Soon an Italian anti-Fascist can't sneeze any more without Mussolini holding France responsible," said L'Ouvreur.

Believed That Miners Will Be Ordered Back to Work Within 48 Hours. London, No. 5.—The British coal strike is apparently moving rapidly to an end. The Trades Union Congress delegation, headed by J. H. Thomas, has opened conferences with Premier Baldwin and there is a report in Whitehall that there is a strong possibility of the miners' federation ordering all strikers back to work within forty-eight hours.

The miners' executive is understood to have drafted terms, undertaking to accept district settlements, which are supervised by a government arbitration board.

ROCKVILLE WANTS TROLLEY CO. BARN

"Windy City" Newspaper Points Out Advantages of Locating There.

Manchester is not the only town which is wrought up over the decision of the Connecticut Company to remove its car barns from Manchester to Hartford. East Hartford recently voiced its disapproval of the plan and yesterday the "Windy City" was heard from on the subject.

The Rockville Journal says editorially: "The Rockville has been more than accommodating to the Connecticut Company in the past, why not bring the car barns here? Rockville has plenty of land near the Fair Grounds, some of which is owned by the Connecticut Company, and no better place for the car barns could be had."

The editorial entitled "Bring the Car Barn Here" follows: "It appears to be definitely decided that the Connecticut Company is going to remove their car barns from Manchester and the land now occupied will be used for school purposes. The traveling public will be greatly handicapped if the barns are removed to Hartford, as has been suggested, and the Journal wishes to speak a word on the subject."

What would be the advantage of having all the cars in Hartford? In times of storm it would be harder to keep the service moving. In times of breakdown of the system in Hartford, Rockville and vicinity would suffer. In case of accident or a wreck in Rockville it would be an hour before a wrecking car could get here and all in all the general public would not receive as good service as they now receive.

It is plain to see that Manchester, while it states it wants the car barn to stay does not object to having it moved. "While it is being moved why not bring it to Rockville? Rockville has plenty of land near the Fair Grounds, some of which is owned by the Connecticut Company, and no better place for the barn could be had. Midway between Hartford and Stafford, close to Manchester and South Manchester, it could be easily used as the headquarters of this division."

Rockville wants the car barns.

Wants the car barns as much as it ever wanted anything. It not only means improved service but many new families as well. Think what it would mean to have thirty new families move into this city, especially when one considers the high wages received by the workers at present.

Let Rockville make a real effort to get the car barns. It is definitely decided it will be moved from Manchester and there are plenty of arguments why it should be brought here. Rockville has permitted the removal of the inter-urban, Rockville has permitted the car tracks to remain on Market street, Rockville has been more than accommodating to the Connecticut Company in the past. Why not bring the car barn to this city?

Since the Connecticut Company and the "New Haven" road are practically the same, and since there is a large piece of land purchased by the railroad recently and which is located in the rear of the Board Walk, it might be that the two companies could use the land jointly for a car barn. Surely if Rockville could get the car barn it would be a great advantage.

DR. RUSSELL URGES OBJECTIVE TESTS

Speaker at Educators' Gathering Here Is Against Old Style of Exams.

Dr. Charles Russell, principal of the Westfield, Mass Normal school, gave an interesting and instructive talk before the 64 members of the Central Connecticut Round Table at the Hotel Sheridan last night. Dr. Russell's after-dinner talk was the high spot of an all-day visit to the Ninth School District by district and school superintendents, principals and teachers from Central Connecticut. It was the first all-day session the organization attempted and was a complete success. The visitors were enthusiastic with the manner in which the schools under Superintendent Fred A. Verplanck are conducted. They went home with a fine impression of Manchester.

A Noted Speaker
The executive committee of the Central Connecticut Round Table felt fortunate in having such a talented speaker as Dr. Russell. He is much in demand. At present in addition to his duties at Westfield, he conducts two special teachers' classes, one in Hartford and one in New York. The Hartford class has a personnel of 300. They meet twice a week.

Dr. Russell is a graduate of McGill University in Montreal, Canada. Following his graduation from college, Mr. Russell went to work on a farm where he labored for five years. He said he considered his five years' experience on the farm the best training possible for teaching purposes. It taught you to get up early and work hard and this is just what teachers must do if they expect to be successful, he said.

His Address
Dr. Russell's talk was based on his recent book "Objective Tests." At the start of his talk, he gave an interesting insight on the manner in which he prepared his manuscript. Dr. Russell said he had to type 1,500 pages of copy in two weeks' time. He realized it was a question whether he would be able to copy the 1,500 pages in the allotted time, so he devised ways and means of increasing his speed on the typewriter.

He Explains
"I realized there were three instances in which I lost considerable time, namely: putting in new sheets of paper; pressing the shift key for capital letters; returning the carriage after each line of copy. I devised a system whereby I could save much time. My wife prepared the sheets of paper in the proper order and put them in the typewriter as fast as I could fill them with copy. My children picked up the typewriter copy up as fast as it fell out of the machine. Then I had two wires attached to the machine in such a manner that I could manipulate them with my right foot in the same manner as I operated my automobile foot brake and accelerator. One of the wires raised the carriage for capital letters and the other returned it after each line. You would be surprised at the difference this made. I produced copy with surprising speed."

Dr. Russell advocates the use of objective tests in High schools. This style is somewhat new. It is rapidly replacing the older style of essay examinations. Dr. Russell said that objective tests must be "sold" to the teachers; they must be convinced they cannot do without them.

Teachers Biased
The speaker said that teachers are often inclined to mark their pupils according to personal feelings. He said there is a danger that teachers do not give students credit for the work they do. Dr. Russell said that the fault with the essay tests is that a teacher may ask a definite question and yet the student, because of a slight misunderstanding, may answer the question partially correct. He said the efforts of the children should be given more consideration. In the essay tests the bright students get by without exercising the limit of their capability while the less brilliant student has more difficulty.

Series of Tests
Dr. Russell proposed a series of objective tests, each to have two or three subdivisions. First, a series of statements, some true and some false which the pupil must analyze and determine; second, submit scrambled facts which a pupil must join correctly; third, sentences with missing words to be filled in by pupil and statements concerning study the pupils have had in daily recitations. The latter must be answered in one sentence telling why they are correct or incorrect.

The Advantages
"There is one big advantage of the objective tests," Dr. Russell said, "and that is they can be marked much quicker than the essay examinations because there is but one answer, yes or no. They also contain between 60 and 80 questions while an essay examination is usually limited to ten. The objective tests are far more educational than the essay examinations and give a better idea of what the student knows."

Following Dr. Russell's talk there followed a round table discussion of the subject. Various opinions on the matter were voiced by those present. The visitors were greeted at the Hotel Sheridan by Superintendent Verplanck. The supper consisted of roast turkey with the following:

vegetable soup, baked sweet potatoes, carrots, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, celery, olives, ice cream with peanut butter cookies. Just before the supper, the party joined in community singing. Fred Anderson of Wetherfield was at the piano.

FUNERAL OF ANNA KLEIN

The funeral services of Anna Klein which was held at the Concordia Lutheran church yesterday afternoon was the largest in the history of that institution. Great masses of floral tributes were seen in the church and at the cemetery. Bearers were Andrew Tink, Michael Tins, John Noske, John Howard, John Pallen and John Chivertek. Rev. H. O. Weber officiated and burial was in the East cemetery.

First Aid To Beauty

GRACE of figure, carriage and posture, and beauty of face depend more on the condition of the feet than many women suppose.

A well-known physician recently remarked:

"The feet are mirrored in the face. A troubled foot means a troubled brow."

Many a woman has found a real first-aid to beauty and grace in the

CANTILEVER SHOE

Being made to fit the foot well, it causes no pressure on sensitive nerves and blood vessels, but brings ease and comfort instead.

Its flexibility and natural lines permit good circulation. Its comfort encourages more outdoor walking, which is good for the health and the complexion.

The Fall Conference of Region No. 1 which includes the New England states will be held at Hotel Bancroft, Worcester, Mass. Monday and Tuesday, November 8 and 9 beginning at noon on Monday. National officers will attend this meeting and Mrs. Jane Dexter Rip- pin, national director, will talk on Finance. The object of this conference is to give all who are interested in Scouting an opportunity to discuss their problems with others who, perhaps, have successfully solved just such problems; to hear what other Councils and Community Committees are doing and to take back to the scouts new ideas, inspiration and enthusiasm.

There will be a meeting of all the troops in the auditorium of the School Street Recreation building Wednesday evening, November 10 at 7 o'clock.

Troop 1
Troop 1 has changed its day of meeting from Monday to Friday afternoons at 3:45 o'clock.

Troop 3
Jessie Morgan of Patrol 1 passed the tenderfoot test and was invested with the Scout pin October 23. Nine members of the troop attended and took part in the exercises at the Town Farm October 29. Naomi Foster, Patrol 1, and Emily Smith, Patrol 2, have earned and received the following merit badges: cook, scholarship, health winner.

Troop 5
At the party given by this troop at Captain Shaw's, Eunice Brown won the prize for the prettiest costume and Grace Hickey for the funniest. The troop will meet Friday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

'RESURRECTION' FILM ONE WITH MESSAGE

Hollywood, Nov. 5.—The story of a man's soul is told by Leo Tolstoy in his novel, "Resurrection." This story will be brought to the screen in Edwin Carewe's film version of the noted Russian's book.

"Resurrection" is one of the stories banned by Will Hays. But Carewe soon will start production, despite Hays' edict. The picture may become one of 1927's "ten best," critics forecast.

"Motion pictures run in cycles. Of late the screen has been flooded with the romantic, flapper-type of films of which I believe the public is beginning to tire. The cycle is revolving to an era of serious pictures," says Carewe.

Another reason that might be given for Carewe's selection is that the American public still "eats up" anything with a foreign twang. Count Ilya Tolstoy, eldest son of the author, and Gen. Pleschokoff, formerly of the Czar's army, have been called in as advisors to Carewe.

"In this picture we will try to convey a message," Count Tolstoy informed me. "But it will have to be handled very carefully. When a child is given castor oil it is doctored up with orange juice as a camouflage. That is just what we must do. The public will not accept an out-and-out message. It must be handed them in an entertaining form."

"Resurrection" was the only book copyrighted by Leo Tolstoy. He refused to have his writings copyrighted, so that they might find greater circulation among the masses and exert a greater influence. But he made an exception to his rule to raise money for the founding of a colony in America for persecuted Dughobors.

Rod La Roque is expected to be given the role of Prince Dmitri Nekhuldoff, who loses his soul while in the army and betrays his childhood "idol." Later, learning the girl, Katerina Maslova, has been sentenced to Siberia, he becomes conscience-stricken and follows her. He repeatedly offers to marry her, but Maslova refuses.

The closing scenes depict the reformation of Maslova and Nekhuldoff.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Sam Houston (3)

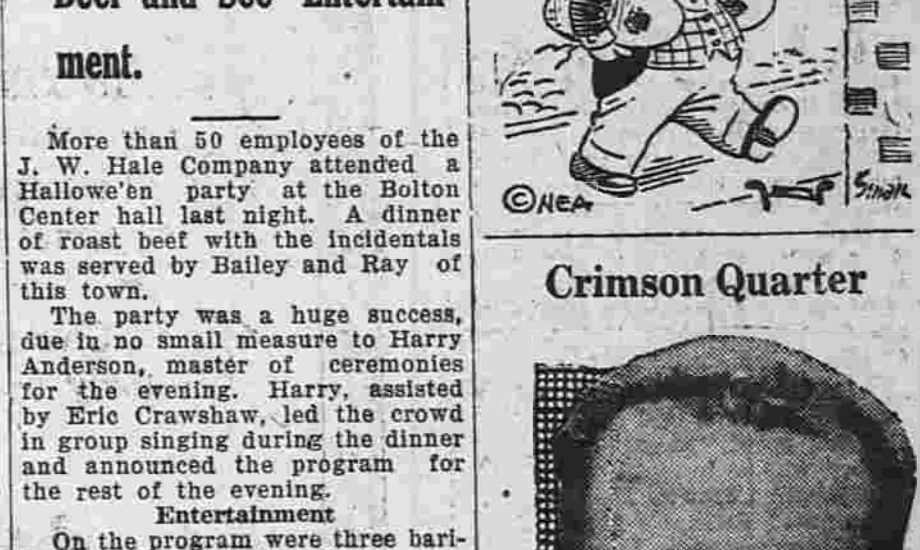

In 1818 Houston, after his resignation from the army, started to practice law at Lebanon, Tenn. His bad health, resulting from his wounds at Horseshoe Bend, had put him in debt. In a year in Lebanon he won his way back to both health and solvency. He was elected district attorney in 1819 at Nashville.

Sketches by Kroesen, Synopsis by Braucher

Leaving Lebanon he addressed the townsfolk from the courthouse steps. His farewell words moved many to tears.

Houston progressed rapidly in politics at Nashville and in 1823 he was elected a member of Congress. About that time he had his only duel.

Houston criticized a Mr. Erwin, postmaster appointee at Nashville. General William White became involved in the quarrel and challenged Houston to a duel. They fought, and Houston shot the general in the hip. Lifting White, who was not badly wounded, Houston told him he was sorry for the occurrence. (Continued.)

Has Chateau Thierry Forgotten 1918?

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chateau Thierry, Nov. 5, (United Press)—Has Chateau Thierry forgotten?

Chateau Thierry will faithfully preserve the remembrance of the bravery with which the soldiers of America fought for the victory which delivered our city. Neither their memory nor their tomb will be forgotten, and the population of Chateau will always reserve the most pressing and cordial welcome for American families which may come here to accomplish their pious pilgrimage.

Thus resolute the newly-elected Municipal Council at their first meeting after the war on December 10, 1919 while the town was still lying in ruins.

Has the passage of eight years changed the attitude of the people of Chateau Thierry? Has the question of the American debt and the campaign of belittlement of America in certain sections of the Paris press chilled the feelings toward the "Yanks"?

Revisits Town

In an attempt to secure answers to these questions the United Press correspondent revisited the little town for the fifth time since the days when the Americans were hammering the Germans back on the Ourcq and the Vesle. Listen to the testimony of the acting Mayor, M. Bethincourt, who remained in Chateau Thierry throughout the war and who will be remembered by hundreds of boys Third Division.

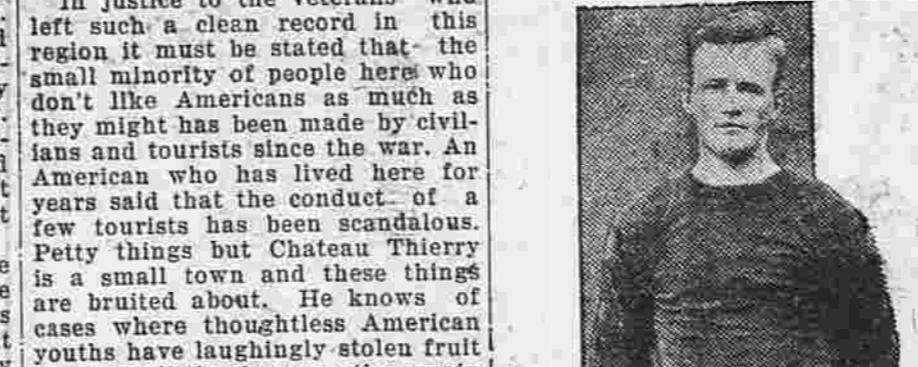

"When you go to the State theatre tonight and after you have seen Ben Benson and Co. in their act, the last number on the vaudeville program, and you do not say that it is the best you have ever seen here or elsewhere you will not be truthful."

The act is billed as "a variety of varieties" and it is that. It starts out presumably as an ordinary dancing revue but before the first act is on the stage two minutes are spent on the "variety" turn. One of the boys is going to see anything but an ordinary turn. With beautiful settings as backgrounds, the dancers appear in clothing evidently resurrected from an ash can. The funniest thing in the world is to appear as an amateur if you are not one but this troupe does it and then to show they are not amateurs they do dancing never before seen in Manchester. And that is not all, they seem to be going to the State theatre tonight and after you have seen Ben Benson and Co. in their act, the last number on the vaudeville program, and you do not say that it is the best you have ever seen here or elsewhere you will not be truthful."

Need Few Yards?

Allen Connell, fullback on the University of Tennessee football eleven. He's one of the stars of the team and a line-plunger of no mean ability. When a few yards are needed he seldom fails to make the distance. Southern critics rate Connell with the best in that section.

There are several score mothers in Chateau Thierry who are warmly grateful to America, because the Methodist Memorial, in charge of Doctor Wadsworth, is running a canteen where they can leave their babies while they work. It is an innovation in Chateau Thierry and there are plenty of evidences that it is appreciated.

In justice to the veterans who left such a clean record in this region it must be stated that the small majority of people here who don't like Americans as much as they might have been by civilians and tourists since the war. An American who has lived here for four years said that the conduct of a few tourists has been scandalous. Petty things but Chateau Thierry is a small town and these things are bruited about. He knows of cases where thoughtless Americans have been laughingly stolen fruit from the little shops on the main street, others have abstracted cheap souvenirs. Some have not shown the reverence and respect the French expect in presence of American and French monuments and memorials.

W. B. Pitts, in charge of Belleau Wood memorial, who has lived in Belleau three years, said that hundreds of French children were killed every Sunday in summer and he has never seen anything except the utmost respect and reverence for the place where 1000 American boys were killed.

"In fact," said Mr. Pitts, "they show more respect than some Americans who come."

Evening Clothes

The peasants still talk about one American who toured the battlefields in evening clothes. He took the early train from Paris after a hard night in Montmartre. The chauffeur who drove him around the battlefields told me about the amazement of the French. They could not understand that he probably meant no disrespect.

No, Chateau Thierry has not forgotten, and it has not lost its liking and admiration for the "Yanks." Any veteran and any tourist who behaves himself is sure of a warm, sympathetic welcome in this quiet little town by

HALE EMPLOYEES ENJOY A PARTY

Fifty of Them Go to Bolton Center, Dine on Roast Beef and See Entertainment.

More than 50 employees of the J. W. Hale Company attended a Halloween party at the Bolton Center hall last night. A dinner of roast beef with the incidentals was served by Bailey and Ray of this town.

The party was a huge success, due in no small measure to Harry Anderson, master of ceremonies for the evening. Harry, assisted by Eric Crawshaw, led the crowd in group singing during the dinner and announced the program for the rest of the evening.

Entertainment

On the program were three baritone solos by Albert Pearson. These were followed by a trio composed of Eric Crawshaw, Harry Anderson and another whose name could not be learned. The audience bore with them for three numbers and then decided that a dance would be in order. Mrs. Gardner was called on and she offered a novelty waltz clog which was loudly applauded. Eric Crawshaw gave a Charleston exhibition.

It was a liberal minded and patient audience to stand for these numbers. That may be seen from the fact that nothing was thrown at the performers during the "dance of the butterflies," executed by Harry Anderson and Elton Johnson. Mr. Johnson wore a low-cut dress of black silk trimmed with some kind of red stuff. He took the male part in this dance while the "female" was played by Mr. Anderson. They made a pleasing appearance, also quick dancers. You had to see it. William Gahrman produced a piano solo and the trio gave their swan song.

Mrs. Henry Lowd gave a humorous reading, "Si and I in the city."

Somebody had purloined several gallons of sweet cider from the Self Service and this was passed around. Those of a sporting turn of mind bobbed for apples in an old fashioned wooden pail but no wagers were laid on the results. Several of those who ducked into the water succeeded in achieving their object but others received only a wetting.

Harry Anderson had fixed up a Chamber of Horrors in the basement of the hall and all went through it, coming out with cases of the creeps.

Old fashioned and modern dancing to music by James McKay finished out a successful evening.

Miss Jennie Johnson was awarded first prize for the prettiest costume and Miss Minnie Sargent took second honors. The prizes were presented by Alexander Lang of the drug department.

The journey to and from the hall was made in one of Perrett and Glenney's big trucks.

The party broke up with the singing of that famous song, "Hale, Hale, the Gang's All Here."

Manchester Plumbing & Supply Co.

Manchester Evening Herald

PUBLISHED BY THE HERALD PRINTING CO. Founded by Elwood S. Ela... Every Evening Except Sundays and Holidays...

FRIDAY, NOV. 5, 1926.

1928 SUICIDE CERTAIN.

Out of the jumble of contradictions and incompatibilities in the results of last Tuesday's elections, stands forth one salient fact that ought to give especial comfort to every American voter who hopes for a continuation of Republican control of this government after the Presidential election of 1928.

The New York governor won his re-election by the imposing margin of some 270,000 votes. And that smashing victory insures his participation in the next Democratic national convention as an uncompromising candidate whose backers will either rule or ruin that convention as they did the convention of 1924.

If Smith once more loses a contest for the Democratic nomination, then just as sure as fate will hundreds of thousands of his infatuated backers do what they did in 1924—bolt his conqueror in the polling booth and vote for the opposing candidate.

If he wins he will probably carry New York. He would not be unlikely to carry Massachusetts if ardently supported by the then Senator David I. Walsh. There might even be a fighting chance for him in Connecticut, despite that 85,000 majority of last Tuesday.

Nothing in politics is more certain than that if Al Smith becomes the Democratic candidate two years hence he will be not only crushing defeated but annihilated. And practically as certain is it that if he is beaten in a convention fight his adherents will slaughter whomever the convention does nominate.

If Smith had only carried New York by fifty or seventy-five thousand it would have saved Wadsworth's senatorial seat to the Republican party; but by eliminating Smith it would have made of the Democratic party a potential danger worth grave consideration, as to 1928. The G. O. P. can afford to lose Wadsworth in exchange for assurance of another case of Democratic suicide in the Presidential election.

INSURANCE.

The report of the state Insurance Department, disclosing almost unbelievable mismanagement of the affairs of the Automobile Insurance Company, of Hartford—with its exposure of understatement of the company's liabilities to the extent of more than seven million dollars and a deficit of more than six millions at the close of last year's business—comes as a shock to the people of Connecticut and an injury to the great insurance business of the state.

Connecticut insurance has come to occupy a commanding position in the financial world, through sheer skill and rectitude on the part of the men who have developed it, combined with a set of laws that have given Connecticut an enviable reputation throughout the country as the home of safe and sane insurance management. But there is keen competition in this branch of finance and the episode of the Automobile Insurance Company will certainly be seized on by competing groups everywhere in an attack on the soundness of all Connecticut insurance.

That such attacks will have more or less effect is almost certain, despite the fact that the state Insurance Department functioned to put an end to the mismanagement of the company in question and to restore the concern to a "reasonably sound financial condition."

If it is possible for the state of Connecticut to still further safeguard the insurance business within its jurisdiction from the possibilities of wildcat mismanagement while quiescent boards of directors sleep on the job, and especially against the carrying on of garbled reports from one year to another, then it would seem to be clearly the job of Connecticut to do precisely that thing at the earliest possible moment. If there is one thing this state can less afford than another it is to permit either its insurance laws or their administration to get a black eye. The business is far too big and too important to allow it, as a whole, to be imperiled through favor of anybody.

WET THIRD PARTY.

Amid millions of words of comment on the wet-and-dry side of the recent election those of the Buffalo Courier Express seem to be the only ones that have gone straight to the core of the subject when that newspaper asks:

Does it presage a continuation of the period of political pussyfooting? Out of the conditions which the future may bring will there eventually arise a third party of national scope which shall gather within itself all those elements which believe that prohibition is the great issue to be fought to a conclusion?

Political parties are the fruit of great issues. The Republican party was born of the issue of slavery, because there was no other party that did not palter with that great disturbing question precisely as the present political parties are paltering with Prohibition.

Prohibition in the United States is a bigger and more intimate problem, closer to the lives of all the people, ten times over, than slavery was to the lives of the people of the North. It is a sterner potentiality in American politics than slavery was.

It will be difficult for a good many Americans, just as antipathetic toward communism as Secretary of State Kellogg, to get into line with his position in excluding from United States territory Mme. Alexandra Kollantay, accredited diplomatic representative of the Russian Soviet Union to the Republic of Mexico.

Under the law the granting of visas to alien citizens intending to visit the United States is discretionary with the State Department, and it lies within that discretion, of course, to exclude persons of destructive political affiliations. If Mme. Kollantay were coming here to pursue a course of proselyting or to disseminate red propaganda, or even to look around, there would be a little fault to find with her exclusion.

But as a matter of fact she is not coming to visit the United States at all. She merely desired to pass through this country on her way to her post as Russian minister at Mexico City. Common courtesy to Mexico, a friendly neighbor, would seem to call for her being accorded the privilege of making the trip in what is, really, about the only practicable way.

We have always believed that Secretary Kellogg is inclined to lean far backward in his eagerness to prevent the red menace from getting a foothold in America. The assumption that this Russian woman, traveling through the United States on railway trains, could do the slightest harm to American liberties is not only ridiculous—it seems to us to be pitifully weak and panicky.

QUIET JIMMY.

The activities of Jim Reed in behalf of the spiritual well being of the American people seem to have come to sudden eclipse. There for four whole days has there been so much as a peep in any newspaper or a tap on any telegraph wire announcing a new delving by Jimmy into the debauchery of the primary ballot. The election is over, so what's the use of Jim spending his valuable lawyer's time, any more, in proving that all Republican nominations are obtained by the profligate and sinful use of filthy lucre? Just the same Jim's ki-hooting about the country on special "senate" investigations, which constited his contribution to the Democratic campaign, will be paid for by the money of the American taxpayer. There is occasion for hope that hereafter, when senate investigations are ordered, it will be stipulated that it shall require a quorum of more than a single member to validate the expenditure of the committee's appropriation.

LABORATORY STUFF.

Of all colleges to produce a huge student riot of exceeding violence Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is the most surprising. When the serious young men of that usually austere institution go on the kind of a bat that they staged last night one thought instantly suggests itself—that they are far advanced in the art of chemistry and can make it out of almost anything.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART Washington, Nov. 5.—John Hays Hammond would be President Coolidge's pick for one of the commissioners of the District of Columbia if he had his voting residence here, according to talk around the White House executive offices.

In a physical sense the void mining engineer does live here rather more than half the time, in perhaps the most beautiful home in Washington.

He has another palace at Gloucester, Mass., but officially he's a New Yorker. That lets him out as a candidate for District of Columbia commissioner.

Hammond has in what he calls the "den," in his Washington chateau, probably the most remarkable collection of photographs in the world.

"Den" suggests a small place, but this is a very large room and, from top to bottom, all four walls are covered with framed pictures of the nobilities its owner has known personally in the course of his long and adventurous career in nearly every country on earth.

These were no ordinary folk. They were the kind who made history—kings, queens and presidents, empire builders, commanders of fleets and armies, lords and ladies, famous authors and artists, cabinet members, explorers, celebrities of every sort and description.

To the last one, these photographs are autographed to John Hays Hammond.

A multimillionaire and one of the world's foremost mining authorities, Hammond at all of these great ones of the earth on terms of equality.

With some of them he has had business relationships. Others he has known intimately socially. He was American envoy at King George's coronation, for instance, and there—he points to it—is the photograph George gave him, with his royal signature on it.

Here's the visage of some Russian potentate whose acquaintance he made while prospecting for gold in Siberia.

There are the portraits of three men with whom he was sentenced to be hanged for rebellion against the government of the now defunct Transvaal Republic. They finally got off, but Hammond recalls that it was a disagreeable experience.

Hammond isn't at all cheery about his acquaintanceship. He's a quiet little man of 71 who spends a large part of his spare time visiting with the children at a municipal playground near his Washington mansion. He's extraordinarily fond of children.

His own are grown up now. His son John Hays Hammond, Jr. is an inventor, who specializes on the radio. His daughter, Natalie, is one of the most prominent—and by all odds the most original—young women in Washington society.

So Hammond, the elder, finds his entertainment with the neighbors' youngsters. They worship him. He's to be seen any pleasant morning at that playground with a procession of them tagging after him. He can be as cold as a clam with grownups, when he feels like it, but never gets tired of babies.

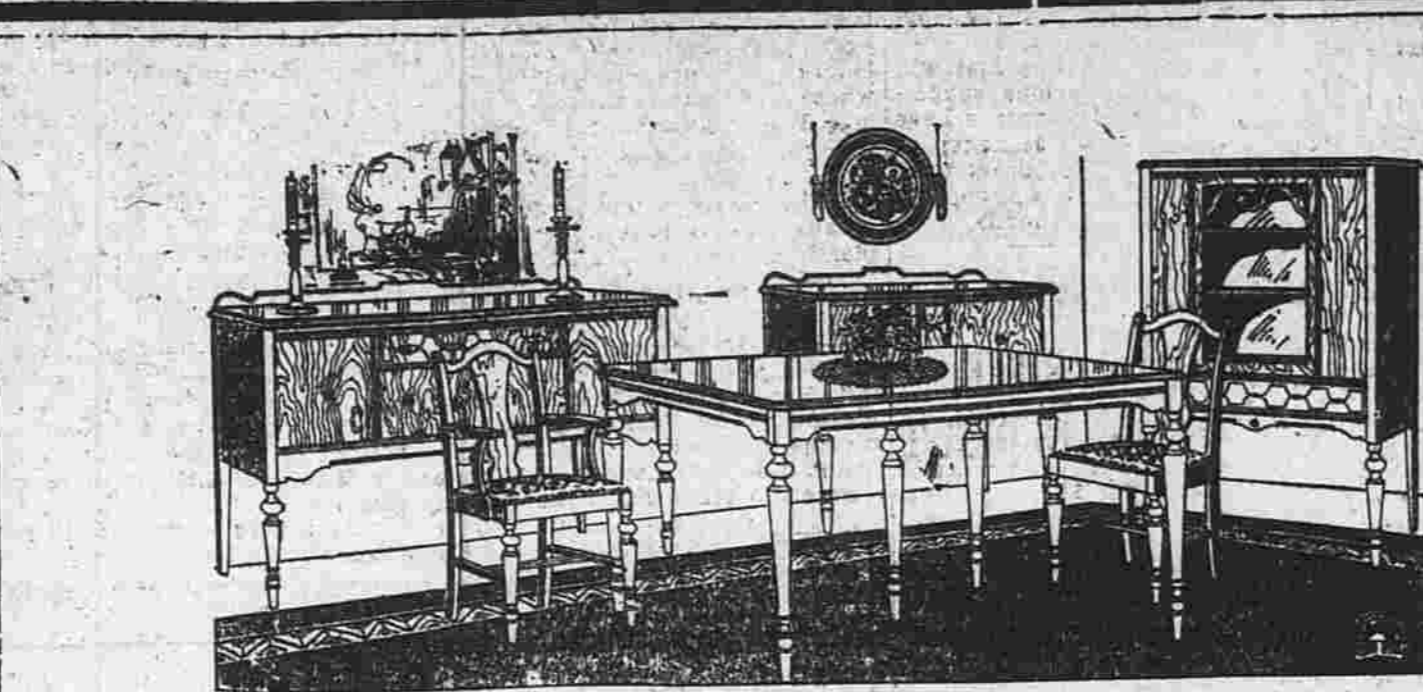

Hammond is slightly bitten by the literary bug. He writes occasionally for the magazines—good stuff, too, mostly about the Wild West as he used to know it. He's also preparing his memoirs.

These latter should be great. It's doubtful if another man can be found who can equal the amazing number and variety of intimate personal contacts he's had with interesting people or the wide range and thrilling nature of his adventures.

And, since these gathering places change from season to season, due to the overnight appearance of new theaters and skyscrapers, I believe I can safely an-ounce to the potential visitor that the winter schedule of Broadway street corners will be about as follows:

Forty-fourth street, and the "quick and hasty" lunch-counters thereabout, will take care of the movie extras as of old. It is here that the agents of the casting directors know they can always round up enough extras for the average film production. Let the word go out that some heavy casting is under way and watch the mob!

Forty-sixth street—The musicians, jazz bands, ad lib, cling tenaciously to this spot, thanks to the proximity of booking offices. Just now, thanks to winter activities in cafes, the ranks grow thin-

Eight pieces in Huguenot walnut and gumwood, come in the light and graceful design sketched above. 60 inch buffet, 40x52 inch table, arm chair and 5 side chairs, on easy Christmas Club terms $130. China, $40. Server, $28.

Is Your Dining Room Ready For Thanksgiving?

NO DOUBT the dining room is the stepchild in your house—as it is in many others—and as such is the room crying hardest for refreshing touches before the arrival of important holidays. Why not celebrate Thanksgiving in a totally transformed dining room—especially when you may without enormous outlay?

Whether it is a whole suite or a single article that your room needs you will be interested in the values waiting for you at Watkins.

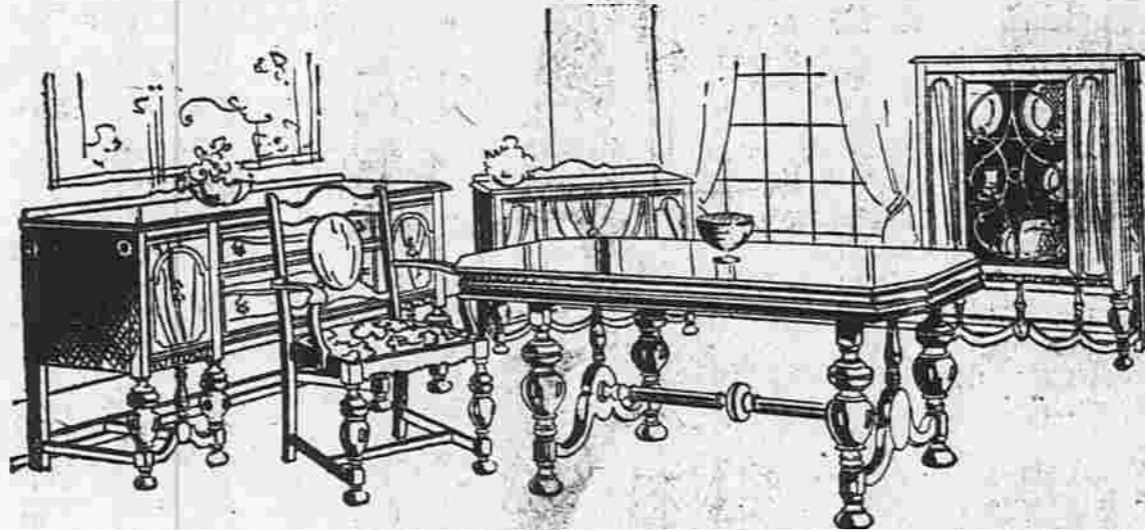

Consider These Suites

Early English Suite in Huguenot walnut finish over selected walnut and American gumwood, consists of eight pieces. 60 inch buffet, 44x54 inch extension table, arm chair and 5 side chairs. Chair seats in a figured blue denim. On easy terms $185.

Nine piece suite of Old English design comes in American walnut and choice gumwood with 66 inch buffet, 44x56 inch extension table, china, arm chair and 5 side chairs. Highly figured butt walnut veneers are used on drawer front. On easy Christmas Club terms $250.

A suite borrowed from the Spanish features red leather seats for its chairs. The suite is constructed of American walnut and gumwood and includes a 66 inch buffet, 44x62 inch extension table, and arm chair and 5 side chairs. On easy Club Terms $298.

Sheraton Suite of mahogany and birch, finished Colonial red, comes with 9 pieces—66 inch buffet, 42x60 inch table, china, arm chair and 5 side chairs. This is a light, dainty type of suite, particularly adapted to the furnishings of our new Colonial homes. Easy Terms $350.

A Jacobean Suite, sketched above, comes in choice walnut and American gumwood with figured maple overlays. 66 inch buffet, 44x62 inch table, arm chair and 5 side chairs. On easy Club terms $317.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc. FURNITURE, FLOOR COVERINGS, PIANOS, PHONOGRAPHS

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 5.—Club rooms have their advantages, but those who follow the various arts and crafts associated with Broadway seem to prefer to meet on the sidewalk.

To the best of my knowledge all available Broadway corners in the mid-Forties are now taken and it would be useless to make application for space.

Each group has, long ere this, learned where to gather, although these meeting places are prescribed by habit rather than written notice.

Forty-fourth street, and the "quick and hasty" lunch-counters thereabout, will take care of the movie extras as of old. It is here that the agents of the casting directors know they can always round up enough extras for the average film production. Let the word go out that some heavy casting is under way and watch the mob!

Forty-sixth street—The musicians, jazz bands, ad lib, cling tenaciously to this spot, thanks to the proximity of booking offices. Just now, thanks to winter activities in cafes, the ranks grow thinner. But, despite the cooling weather, you'll see more hatless heads on this spot than any other in all Manhattan. Why do the young jazz banditti refuse to wear hats? Perhaps a hang-over from the summer resorts? Or collegiate?

Forty-seventh street—Vaudeville hang-out! Here you'll find the acts, from five-a-day to big-time, acrobats to society dancers, hand-spring artists to monologuers. Nearby is a leading trade magazine! Nearby, also, are the booking agents!

Forty-seventh street, across the block to Seventh avenue—Gamblers' hang-out! Everything from crap-shooters to race-horse followers. Chiefly the latter just now. If you want to find out what horse isn't going to win, listen in on an average conversation. This is the land of "chickens today and feathers tomorrow." Tin-horns and gamblers of fairly fat purses.

Forty-eighth to Forty-ninth, also tributors holding their curb market on the sidewalk. Walk right up and get yourself a nice moving picture! Anything in the chame!

Fiftieth street, back to Broadway—Detectives! Both public and private. They meet and compare notes. This is the fringe of the night club. About this section, plays that new criminal, the gentleman gangster. Sharp eyes are "out for new faces. Here come the stool-pigeons with their tales. Here passes the gossip of So-and-So who is running wild with money on Broadway. Where did he get it? I'll wager there's a good fiction plot a day—or oftener—if one were on the inside.

Chorus-girl hang-out in the "Shubert alley" between the Booth and Shubert theaters; high-class musicians up around Fifty-seventh near Carnegie hall; carnival and midway folk around Forty-third; street-fakers and their spawn at Forty-second and Forty-third.

Most of them already are in winter quarters. GILBERT SWAN.

Old Masters

Care-chamber sleep, son of the sable Night. Brother to Death, in silent darkness born. Relieve my languish, and restore the light; With dark forgetting of my care return.

And let the day be time enough to mourn The shipwreck of ill-adventured youth; Let waking eyes suffice to wall their scorn. Without the torment of the night's untruth.

Cease, dreams, the images of day-desires. To model forth the passions of the morrow; Never let rising Sun approve your liars. To add more grief to aggravate my sorrow:

Still let me sleep, embracing clouds

In vain, And never wake to feel the day's disdain. —S. Daniel.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. One of the strangest sights with which Nature provides us is a convention of a multitude of murre. This bird is standing up when he looks as if he were sitting down. They have no particular home and live in crowds on rocks along the Pacific coast.

Since they make no nest one egg is about all the parents can attend to. It can be found on a shelf of rock and the parents take turns keeping it warm. Since the meat of this bird does not taste good hunters leave the murre alone.

It would seem the murre can walk about as easily as you can when your feet are tied but these webbed feet make great propellers and a stiff tail serves as a first class rudder.

When a bird returns after being scared from her rocky ledge she will be poking around turning over one egg and then another until at last she tucks her own beneath her wing. How do you account for that? She will pick out her own chick and theories enough sprang. Works from a rock upon returning from wonder.—Adv.

Murre

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington, D. C., through arrangements made by this paper.

Don't neglect that cough that your boy or girl has. Get a bottle of Quin's Flaxseed. Rock candy and licorice cough syrup. Works wonder.—Adv.

Last Minute News

No holiday festival is complete without music and now with the new Orthophonic Victorias giving us such wonderful reproductions of the world's most famous artists, no home should be without it. These new Orthophonics can be had for from $85 up to $1,000 on our Easy Christmas Club Plan.

When you make out your Christmas list don't fail to include a telephone set for someone. A dozen or more new designs have just been received including many cabinet sets that completely hide the telephone.

If there is a new davenport, a dining suite, a guest room outfit, a secretary, hall clock—or any other piece or suite of furniture your home really needs, why not buy it on the Christmas Club Plan? Have the whole family join together. Make your selection now and pay only a small sum each week until Christmas. Christmas eve your "gift" will be delivered and after the new year you may pay the balance on easy monthly payments extending over a year!

The gift shop is now showing a complete selection of mirrors. Prominent in the display are the Colonial reproductions in mahogany and gilt frames. Then there are so many of the new unframed Venetian mirrors and the ever popular polychrome framed mirrors in both buffet and console types.

There's nothing that will cheer up an otherwise cold room more than a few yards of gay cretonne. For a few dollars you can re-drape the windows, slip cover a chair, make a dressing table dress, cover a screen or in some other way introduce the bright cheerful colors of cretonne. The drapery shop in the basement is always ready to assist you by offering practical suggestions.

Every department is just brimming over with new things for holiday needs. And the lamp section is no exception. One of the largest and most varied stock we have shown for many months is now ready.

MARLBOROUGH

The Dorcas society will hold its annual harvest supper and sale of fancy work in the vestry of the Congregational church on Wednesday, November 10.

The Sunday school held a rally picnic on Saturday afternoon. A good crowd attended and all enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

Robert T. Buell has purchased a six cylinder Hupmobile sedan of Charles Shaller of Westchester.

Miss Addie L. Taylor of Plainville, a former teacher here, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bolles.

A Hallowe'en social was held at the vestry of the Congregational church on Thursday evening.

Misses Cora, Rebecca and Doris Buell of Hartford spent the week-end at their home here.

The town school committee met for organization at the Center school recently. Allan Hall was made chairman. Mrs. E. E. Hall clerk and Mrs. C. A. Pettengill secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holcombe of Hartford have given 25 books to the Richmond Memorial Library.

Work was begun on the road between here and Hebron by D. Arrington of Middletown. This road when completed is the connecting link in a direct route between New York and Boston.

At the state election held Tuesday T. W. Doherty, Republican, was elected representative and Robert T. Buell, R. Elmer E. Hall, R. Byron S. Lord, R. John C. Ferguson, D. and Frank A. Myers, D. were elected justices of the peace and Willis W. Hall was elected judge of probate.

WAPPING

There will be a Christian Endeavor social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lane tonight. All who attend are requested to bring a sheet and a large paper bag. This will be the C. E. society's first social and it is hoped that every member will be present.

On Saturday evening of this week the high school class of girls of the Federated Sunday school will hold their meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Sharp and it is to be the annual election of officers.

Mrs. Wilbur C. Hills attended the whist club meeting which was held at Mrs. Risley's on West Center street, Manchester, on Thursday afternoon.

On next Wednesday, Nov. 10, the East Central Pomona Grange, No. 3 will hold its meeting with Enfield Grange at Hazardville. There is to be a debate—Resolved, That a woman is more help on the farm than a man is in the house. There will be sketches of some of our present day benefactors.

Eugene Platt gave a dinner at his home here on Monday afternoon.

ANDOVER

Mrs. Frank Hamilton spent the day in Hartford recently. Her daughter, Miss Helen Hamilton, came home with her for a short visit from the Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses.

Mrs. Claude Griggs of East Hartford spent Wednesday with her cousin, Mrs. Frank Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Hutchinson who have been spending the summer here have returned to their home in Winter Haven, Florida.

Mrs. Allen H. Newton of Hartford and Andover accompanied them and expects to spend the winter in Florida.

Mrs. William Palmer is visiting relatives and friends at her former home on Staten Island, N. Y.

George Platt has the contract for carrying the mail between the railroad station and the post office.

Roscoe Talbot is working at Steele's crossing.

Mr. Robinson and family have moved from the French place to East Hartford where Mr. Robinson will work in the freight yard.

A THOUGHT

It is not good that the man should be alone.—Gen. 2:18.

No man in effect doth accompany with others but he learneth, ere he is aware, some gesture, voice or fashion.—Bacon.

EVERYONE LIKES THIS COLD CURE

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends a cold or gripe in a few hours

Your cold will break and all gripe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.—Adv.

TWO FINE FEATURES OFFERED AT RIALTO

An attractive double feature program is being offered at the Rialto for today and tomorrow and every person who has ever thrilled to the music, the clowns, the freaks, and the stunts performed in a sawdust ring should make it a point to see "Christine of the Big Tops," one of the pictures being shown on these two days.

Its one of the biggest stories of circus life ever filmed, and for sheer entertainment will be hard to surpass. Probably the biggest "kick" comes when the main circus tent collapses during a storm and kills the proprietor, leaving pretty Christine free to marry Dr. "Bob" Hastings after he has saved her life through a surgical operation so delicate that it seems miraculous.

The story is true to circus life and is capably acted by a splendid cast including Pauline Garon and Cullen Landis.

The second feature is a fast moving western drama "The Galloping Cowboy" which stars Bill Cody, one of the foremost delineators of western characters. Hair-breadth escapes, gun play and fast riding are its high lights and of course there is a pretty romance cleverly interwoven in the main theme.

Another chapter of "The Fighting Marine" in which Gene Tunney displays his skill at the many art will also be shown. This chapter play has found favor wherever exhibited and its popularity can easily be accounted for by those who are following it with interest.

There is refreshing lack of heroics and although the picture is mainly one of heroism there are many elements incorporated in the story which will appeal to those who care nothing for the squared circle or those who gain a livelihood by appearing in it.

Tunney has the happy faculty for gaining one's sympathy and this fact coupled with a fine character

RID-HIGHWAYS OF DANGEROUS DRIVER, IS STATE'S DESIRE

The idea of punishment is secondary in the suspension and revocation of operators' licenses by the state motor vehicle department, according to a paper read by Commissioner Stoeckel before the fifteenth annual safety congress in Detroit last week.

The principle, he said, is to bring the person who has committed an offense before a state authority to determine whether his character and general attributes, in the light of his most recent action as compared with his past record, make him a desirable person to have on the highway.

The licenses of 3403 Connecticut operators were suspended in the first six months of this year. Last year, 3362 operators were suspended.

There is no disciplinary action more nearly perfect than that by which a state exercises its right to take away, temporarily or finally, an operator's license from a person who has proven himself unfit to have it, the commissioner said.

The Connecticut department's first consideration is to get the dangerous driver off the highway. The menace to public safety of an unqualified person at the wheel of such a machine as a motor vehicle is so great that the department takes no chances. As pointed out in the Detroit address, the department provides the facilities by which it is possible for an operator who feels aggrieved to have a prompt hearing before a department inspector whose sole business is to hold hearings. With the opportunity for hearing open to every one on short notice, it was explained, the department feels free to take up a license on any well-founded rumor or complaint.

"This is as it should be," he held, "for a person about whom a rumor is circulating may, by operating an automobile, do untold damage on the person about whom a complaint has been made may commit a crime in the absence of prompt action by an administrator. If, as a part of an organization, there is a hearing section where any person may appear and tell his side of a story, and especially if there is an appeal provided to a high court, than no person has any excuse for making a claim that he has been unduly deprived of his rights."

Adjustments and careful investigation are expected of the hearing section of the motor vehicle department. The department proceeds on the theory that "should there be an apparently bad actor on the highway the first thing to do is to take away his license as quickly as possible and thereafter consider the question as to whether he is or is not so bad as to need further discipline."

FAILURE OF AL SIMMONS AT BAT FATAL TO CHANCES OF ATHLETICS

Of the many factors that contributed to the poor showing of the Athletics last season, none handicapped the team more than the batting slump of Al Simmons.

Having lost the batting championship of the American League in 1925 by a narrow margin, Simmons was expected to carry the big punch of the Athletics in his black bat last season.

However, Simmons was a disappointment from the start and fell far below his work of the previous year. Here is how a veteran American League pitcher explains it:

"In his anxiety to hit, Simmons early showed the fault of being a fall guy for badly pitched balls. He would chase a high fast ball a mile and get plenty of them.

"If Simmons would only wait out his pitcher more he would be a far better batsman. Instead of getting the pitcher in the hole and picking on the cripple, the shoe is usually on the other foot.

"Simmons was base-hit crazy last season, which made him too anxious, with the result that he was hitting at too many bad balls."

Dempsey Must Prove Right To Title Bout

Gene Tunney's next opponent in defense of his title will be Jack Dempsey, provided the former champion satisfies Tex Rickard as to his condition.

It is understood that Tex has an agreement whereby he is to hire himself to the mountains for several months and lead the simple life. Then he is to return to the ring to meet two, possibly three opponents, selected by Rickard.

These bouts will serve as trials to determine Dempsey's right to demand a return bout. If the champion polishes off the rival contenders, the halfway bout for another bout between Tunney and Dempsey will be on.

Many of the ring experts are not sure that Tunney is the better man. The consensus is that Dempsey didn't train properly for the bout that cost him the championship.

The opinion is held, that while his physical condition was all that could have been expected of a man out of the ring for three years, his boxing technique was sadly off.

3-YEAR RIVALS WILL MEET AT MCKEE STREET STADIUM

High School Band and Four Cheerleaders to Add Support—Special Features Planned.

Walter Camp Day, to honor the memory of the man who did more for American football than perhaps any other, will be fittingly observed by the students of the High School Saturday afternoon at the McKee street stadium. The local team is being one of its strongest opponents, East Hartford, here and special features will complete the program.

For the reason that every follower of football knows what Walter Camp represented in American sport, it would be useless to go into detail here about him. Suffice it to say that a part of the proceeds of tomorrow's game will go toward the half-million-dollar memorial gateway that is to be erected at the Yale Bowl in New Haven. Colleges and High Schools all over the country are joining in this movement tomorrow.

About the game, East Hartford has defeated Manchester consistently since football was revived in the local school. But Manchester has shown up better this year than in any other and it is the consensus that the locals may win. Furthermore, Geel, one of the mainstays

ONCE-GREAT TEAMS PLAY TOMORROW

Early Season Defeats Have Taken Glamour Off Saturday Games.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, Nov. 5.—Traditional, rather than competitive significance will be served tomorrow in the meeting of gridiron arch-rivals who once were great, Princeton and Harvard, California and Washington, Chicago and Illinois, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt, Pitt and West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Penn State—these were games that filled the eyes and gladdened the heart when viewed from the kindly distance of September.

But November, austere as a second lieutenant, is the month when illusion dies. There will be no championship decided in the "naturals" of the morrow, though the turnstiles will click as readily as in other and better days, for arch-rivals die hard even when they die together.

The demise of some of those mentioned is strictly unofficial, at that. Illinois, beaten by Michigan, came back against Pennsylvania, protagonist of the hidden ball but using only the hidden touchdown for the day in question. Illinois apparently is a adequately representative team and should win from Chicago with plenty to spare, the Maroon being sub-normal.

Strange Situation

However, it is a strange Illinois-Chicago game when it has no bearing on the Big Ten championship. I might say the same for the California-Washington affair in relation to the coast title.

Having suffered its maiden defeat, Pennsylvania should gain solace from Penn State, which seems to be right obliging in that respect. Though the Pennsylvania patient still breathes, I can't become perturbed over the outcome. Pitt and West Virginia is another game that leaves me cold; neither team means much, except to itself. I wouldn't be surprised if Pitt pulled one out of the hat and won the ball game.

Neither Harvard nor Princeton can affect the Eastern championship, though the former has come back following early season defeats. Princeton will have its stars intact for the first time in a month and it would surprise a lot of people but not me, by winning. A tie game is a good guess on this one.

The New York University-Carnegie Tech affair is another hard one to figure, but, somehow, I can't down the hunch that Tech is due. For one thing, I feel that New York University is overdue for a defeat.

Eleven other unbeaten entries—Stanford, Tennessee, Alabama, Missouri, Kansas Aggies, Notre Dame, West Point, Lafayette, the Navy, Holy Cross and Boston College—will fare into action. I can't see Boston College sloughing one off to Villanova, but Holy Cross can look for squalls against Fordham and the Navy might keep its weather eye on West Virginia Wesleyan.

FOUR MAJOR ELEVENS SHAKE OFF JINX THAT HAS PURSUED THEM FOR YEARS

The grid season of 1926 already has been a most satisfactory one for four major elevens, Brown, Ohio State, Southern California and Purdue.

This quartet has had sweet revenge for a number of defeats suffered over a long period at the hands of bitter rivals. They have killed off the jinx. They have killed off the jinx.

Ohio State, by its 23-6 win over Iowa, brought to an end a five-year dominion enjoyed by the Hawkeyes. When Brown sprang one of the big upsets of the season by defeating Yale, 7-0, it was the first victory scored in 10 years over the Blue, incidentally only the fourth triumph in 40 years of rivalry between the two institutions.

Southern California, after waiting for 12 years, finally managed to get a verdict over University of California. The defeat was most decisive, 27-0.

Purdue's victory over Chicago was perhaps the most cherished of all four. Back in 1894 Purdue defeated Chicago 10-5. Since that time, a matter of 32 years, Purdue often has threatened, but never succeeded in winning from Chicago.

Ed Montie Meets His Waterloo While Dreaming About Hunting

The mere little trifle that Krause lost three games to his wife in last night's session of the Married Peoples' Bowling League held at the West Side Rec. meant absolutely nothing. It is doubtful if any of the members of the league even could recall the fact even if questioned. The answer is simple.

Scalped at Last

Ed Montie was defeated for the first time since the organization of the league two years ago. His wife won the second game from him 55 to 79 but lost the other two. Montie is the only member of the league who had been able to successfully state off the attempts of his "better-half". Mrs. Montie has long since the cherished victory she attained last night. She has even dreamed of it nights while her husband's thoughts were of a hunting trip in far away Idaho.

WILL I EVER FORGET IT!

The best part of it is that both dreams were realized. Last week Mr. Montie went on his hunting trip. It was then that he began to meet with ill-luck. There were a half a dozen others on the hunt with him. They all brought back several deer and bucks. What Montie brought home, he could have carried in his watch pocket. He could have brought home his empty cartridges but that was all.

Still Dreaming!

And last night that same jinx pursued him. Perhaps he was still thinking about the handsome buck he missed at a range of 100 yards. However, he has no excuses or alibis. At least he cannot pass them out among the other members of the league and get away with it. Cheer up Ed, "better days are coming by and by."

(Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

I rate slow disclosure, which is just another way of saying deception, the first necessary move in the successful execution of a pass. The second essential feature in every good forward pass is timing the passer and the receiver in such a manner that both are working together in the same rhythm.

Only by constant and diligent practice is this union achieved.

What I mean by proper timing can be explained in a few words. The passer hurries the ball at that moment when the receiver is in that correct position beyond the secondary defense or wide and uncovered, and at that moment when the end or back is expectant.

The two men are thinking together. The man going down the field thinks to himself as follows: "Now the back is expecting me to cut wide, I do so; now he thinks I am free; I have dodged the defensive and am uncovered; he should be throwing the ball to me. I should turn and sure enough it is coming directly to me. I take it and dash on without losing a stride."

A pass hurried either late or early is folly. When it is made late the defensive man has sufficient time to cover the receiver. When it is made early the receiver has time to cover the passer. If the passer hurries the ball at that moment when the receiver is in that correct position beyond the secondary defense or wide and uncovered, and at that moment when the end or back is expectant, the chance of interception is increased.

In order to accomplish this desired end, the passer must receive adequate protection. He must not be worried by the lineman hurrying the pass.

Nothing should interrupt his rhythmic thinking. He must have sufficient time to carry out his deception. Then he must have an unimpeded view of the field of play. He must size up the situation and select the logical and safest receiver. He must be well balanced when the pass is made.

What is more important, if hurried in making the pass, the receiver is unprepared. The pass is incomplete, which means this year a possible loss of five yards if the second in the same series of downs.

The passer always has an objective when a play is started. He constantly should seek to put it over.

It is unwise to throw the ball when you realize there is little or no chance for successfully executing the play.

A player never should labor under the delusion that he must throw the ball simply because a forward pass play has been called. To do such a thing often is fatal. In such a pinch, the passer must think for himself and try best to work out his own salvation.

PURDUE'S STAR GRID PLAYER AVERAGES 7 YARDS IN 76 TRIES

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 5.—Chester "Cotton" Wilcox is Purdue University's most versatile athlete. He is spoken of in the same breath as west long forward and a wizard open-field runner.

Aside from starring in football, Wilcox is also a varsity letter man in baseball and basketball. Scholarly, he maintains a high average in civil engineering.

In addition to his marked ability, Wilcox possesses the staying power that adds so much to his value. Against the Navy, Wisconsin and Chicago he battled the full 60 minutes. In the Wabash game he played 50 minutes.

Among the Big Ten teams no backfield man in the conference is more feared. The records of his play offer ample proof for such a feeling on the part of the opposition.

Last season, in Purdue's four big games of the year against Western Conference elevens, he carried the ball 76 times, averaging seven yards every time he handled the ball.

Wilcox shines at guard in basketball, being a player of exceptional ability on both offense and defense. He plays second base in baseball and is one of the team's hardest hitters.

SAINTS OPEN SEASON IN MERIDEN NOV. 13

Practice for the Saints will be held tonight in the Rec from 9 to 10 o'clock. It is important that all players be present as the team will be selected at that time.

The locals will open their season against the Meriden Enders on Saturday, November 13. This game will be played in Meriden.

Manager Turkington is working on the schedule now and expects to bring some of the fastest teams to Manchester if a suitable basketball floor can be obtained.

TIGERS UNAFAID OF CRIMSON OPPONENTS

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 5.—Bill Roper brings his Princeton Tigers into the stadium for practice today and thereby serves notice on an anxious world that the Big Three football war is on again. The Tigers who play Harvard tomorrow afternoon will be short ends, but arrived in town accompanied by plenty of pep and confidence.

Harvard is a ten to eight favorite to win this first game of the Big Three series, and the price will probably be down to ten to seven before nightfall.

The Princeton cause would seem to hinge on the physical condition of Jack Slagle, great back of two years' fame. Jack has been bothered with a bad leg for the past two weeks. He has done practically no scrimmaging and had his prep in bandages up to a few days ago.

MICHIGAN JUNIOR IS STAR PUNTER

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 5.—In St. Louis Gilbert, junior half-back, Michigan has one of the best punts in the middle west this season.

A year ago, it will be recalled, Gilbert did much of the booting for the Wolverines, and did it well. But his work this fall is far better than it was a year ago.

In every game Gilbert has been in this season his toe efforts have stood out. His 41-yard run was also a big feature of the Minnesota imbroglio. Gilbert is an expert passer, too, so you may refer to him as a "triple-threatener" without the least bit of exaggeration.

Thanksgiving Sale of Dining Room Suites Still Continues

The very extensive showing of exquisite new Dining Room Suites which we have been offering this week, in our Thanksgiving Sale, has attracted great attention both because of the superior quality and of the astonishing savings offered. On this page we are describing and illustrating only two of the many noteworthy Dining Room Suites now being shown.

Dining Room Suite, Eight Pieces SPANISH IN DESIGN

In this lovely yet moderately priced Dining Room Suite of eight pieces you will note a design which is quite odd yet typically Spanish. The legs and stretchers are strikingly original and very pleasing in their effect, having a tendency to give a rather massive appearance which is quite desirable for a Dining Room Suite. Examination will reveal splendid craftsmanship and most delightful walnut finish. The suite comprises oblong table, sixty-inch buffet, five chairs and one host chair upholstered in exquisite Spanish leather. We are more than justified in referring to this as a sensational value.

Dining Room Suite, Eight Pieces DUO-TONE FINISH

Prominent among the many Dining Room Suites being offered during our Thanksgiving Sale is the one illustrated above, with marvelous woods of genuine walnut veneer in combination with other fine cabinet woods and with a charming duo-tone finish together with overlay effects. Sixty-six-inch buffet, large extension table, five chairs and one host chair. The China Cabinet, as shown, may be purchased separately for $39.75 and the charming Server for $19.50. When you examine this suite you will readily understand how our large buying power reflects itself in lower prices for you. A wonderful value.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
As rivals for the favor of JUDITH MARTIN, young college teacher, ERIC WATERS, rebel senior, and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, head the respective factions of radicals and conservatives in the college community.

Judith defends Eric against the accusation of DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, that Eric dealt in poison liquor from which two students have died.

MYRA ALDRICH is fond of Judith but also jealous of her.

"KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, is trying to blackmail Mrs. Timothy Brown, having discovered that she met a man friend on a week-end trip to the city, without the dean's knowledge.

Judith also knows Mrs. Brown's secret, and has befriended her. She asks Eric to keep Shea from hounding Mrs. Brown.

Judith agrees to stay in Myra's sorority house to supervise the servants during the Christmas holidays, having no relatives to visit.

On Christmas Eve, she goes to the movies and returns, to find the house dark and forbidding.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII

THE great house stood stark among its bare trees. Judith turned and looked back down the road. The little red tail light of Miss Snow's coupe was disappearing around a corner.

When she reached the lamp post on the corner, she looked at her watch. It was only a quarter of ten. A stiff breeze rushing up the hill behind her caught Judith's skirts and whipped them about her knees, and grazed the bare branches of the trees against one another harshly.

It was growing colder minute by minute. Judith ducked her head against the wind and went up the front walk. The houseman and the cook were evidently in bed, for the basement windows were as dark as the other panes.

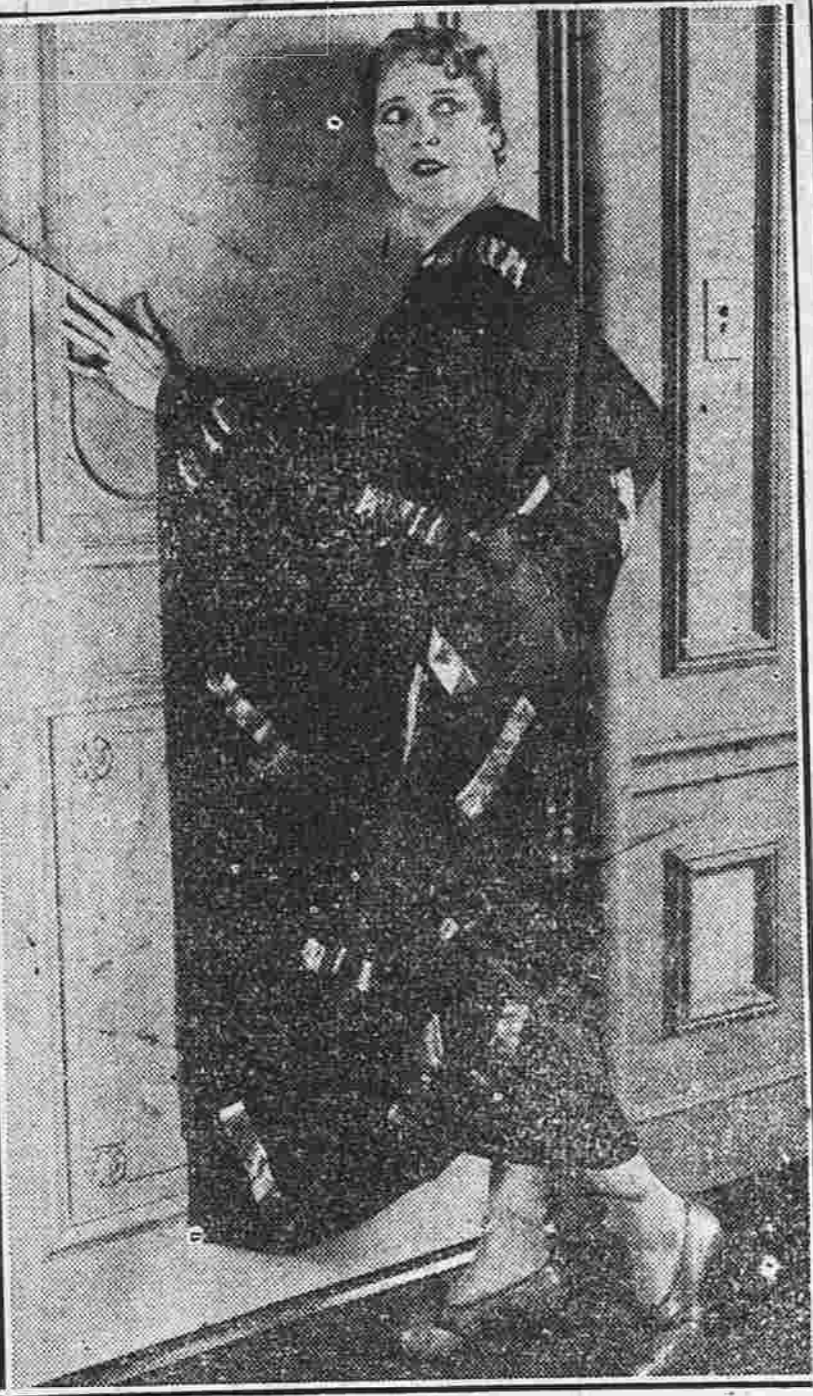

Through the glass sidelight of the door, Judith could see that the great hall was in pitchy darkness.

She drew the key from her pocket and unlocked the door. The next moment she was inside the hall reaching for the electric switch. A flood of light brought back her courage.

Judith shut the door and bolted it. She glanced around the living room before she went upstairs, and saw everything as she had left it. She switched on the light in the upper hall from the foot of the stairs.

The house was very cold, and Judith took a step toward the cellar steps, to summon the houseman to make a fire. But she thought better of it and went upstairs. There was enough kindling in the basket by her fireplace to make a small blaze, and she set to work to start it. It burned sulkily, with many sputterings and feeble flames.

Judith heard a shutter or door banging somewhere in the house and went out into the upper hall to listen. From her post by the stair rail, she could look down into the lower hall through a well around which the colonial staircase curled.

The banging ceased and she returned to her dying fire. While she was working with it, the telephone bell rang with a violence that set up echoes in all parts of the still house.

Judith ran to the extension telephone just outside her bedroom door, and Dean Snow's deep contralto voice answered her.

"I was a little anxious about you," said the dean, "and wanted to be sure you reached home safely. It's going to be a bad night. The moon is going under and little sleet arrows charged in our faces all the way home."

"I hated to see you start off up that road alone, but I didn't know what to do. If I had missed that one chance to be towed, we might still be sitting in the road."

"Never mind about that," said Judith. "I got here safely."

The conversation cheered her, so that she hummed a nameless little tune as she went back to her room. She slipped into a woolly robe and sat down before the tiny fire, with a new magazine in her hand.

Suddenly, the struggling flames blew to one side and went out. Judith looked around. She had left the door open and a great wind was rushing up from the lower floor. The banging had recommenced. It seemed to be in the rear of the house.

She went out to the head of the stairs to listen. The noise grew still louder. She switched on the lights in the lower hall and descended the stairs.

By the door leading to the cellar steps she saw a bell button. She pressed it once, and then again. She could hear it ringing loudly through the servants' rooms below, but there was no response. The bolt on the door was not in place.

She pushed the bolt into its socket and rang again. There was still no answer.

For a moment, Judith stood paralyzed, leaning against the door. The empty house seemed full of a thousand whispers. And through them all beat the monotonous banging in the rear.

Jerking her head up, Judith opened the door into the kitchen, and stood aghast. The half light from the hall shone on the back door, standing wide open, with a great rush of wind sweeping through the room.

Judith made for the string that controlled the electric light. The door swung to behind her, and the kitchen was in darkness. She made wild windmill passes in searching for the cord, but it eluded her.

She ran back to the inner door and pushed it open. There was a little stool nearby, and this she placed against the door. The cord was now easy to grasp, and in a moment the kitchen was flooded with light. Judith rushed at the outer door and slammed it. Then she shot the bolt and turned around.

By the coal range, on the floor, lay a pile of furry little rabbit pellets. The shot gun was propped against the wall.

The pantry door stood half open. With a sudden gesture, she picked up the gun and cautiously pushed the pantry door farther open with the end of it. The closet was bare, and she laughed a hysterical little laugh at a sight of herself in a small mirror on the wall.

Then, holding the gun before her, Judith went through the hall into the living room and thence to the sun parlor and the dining room. She turned out lights behind her as she went and switched them on ahead. There was no one in the lower rooms, at any rate.

She took a slightly firmer grasp on her weapon as she mounted the stairs. The bedroom doors still stood open, on vistas of untidiness in half shadow. Judith explored them all, peering into closets and under beds. She locked the door to the attic stairs, and went back to her room.

It was chill and damp. The fire had given up entirely, and there was no more wood in the basket. Judith examined the door of the dining room. There was no key in the lock. She searched the other doors in the bedrooms, but not a key was to be found.

When she went back to her room, she carried the small straight desk chair to the door and propped it under the knob, as a brace. Then she sat down weakly on the bed.

She was startled by the ringing of the telephone again. But she sank back upon the bed and listened to it without moving.

The shrill bell tore the silence again and again, and still Judith sat motionless. At last it stopped, only to start up in a few moments, with increased violence.

At last Judith rose unsteadily and crossed the room. She pushed the chair aside and opened the door. When she took down the receiver there was no answer.

"There's no one on your line now. Will you excuse it, please?"

"But the phone's been ringing for fifteen minutes," said Judith, sharply.

"The party that called you has hung up," replied the voice. Judith went back to her room and propped the chair against the door. She had set the gun up beside the small table at the head of the bed, and now she moved it so that its muzzle pointed away from her.

She was shivering with cold, and the bed had only two blankets. Fine frozen drops began to fall from the window panes, and the howl of the wind became a nervous rattle. Stepping out of her slippers, Judith pulled back the blankets and slipped into bed in her clothes.

After a moment she looked at her watch. It was midnight. The fury of the wind grew, until she could hear the house creaking in its joints and feel its shuddering, as she lay in bed.

A welcome drowsiness came at last, shutting out the cold and dark and loneliness. She started up in bed. Sounds struck her ears that were neither of the wind nor of the sleet. She leaned against the drawn window blind. The sounds were shuffling footsteps on the concrete floor of the porch beneath her windows.

(To Be Continued)
A tragic night lies ahead of Judith. There is a shot in the dark—and but read it in the next chapter.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Summer

If you can stand a pill of philosophy so early in the morning, or so late in the evening, listen to green-eyed, red-haired Sabine, who queens it in Louis Bromfield's new novel "Early Autumn." Seems to me that Sabine answers that old question of "what's it all about?" as well as any heroine of life or fiction for a long time.

"Long ago Sabine had come to understand that one got a savor out of life by casting overboard all the little rules which clutter up existence, all the ties, and beliefs, and traditions. She had come to seek her companions only among the persons whom she had come to designate as 'complete.'"

"Vaguely she meant by 'complete,' the persons who stood on their own, who had an existence sufficiently strong to survive the assault or the collapse of any environment, persons who might exist independent of any concrete world, who possessed a proud sense of individuality, who might take root and work out a successful destiny wherever fate chanced to drop them."

How right she is! Look at all the dissatisfied, unhappy people about you, and you see that each of the "unhappy ones" is in the throes of readjustment or in the throes of resignation to some human relationship gone awry. Humans with no interests, no resources within themselves, eternally looking to "the people outside" for happiness.

There's the minister's wife, utterly heart-broken because after five years in one parish, they're moving away. She's never gotten used to it in a lifetime. She's used to the town, the people are bound to change and it's up to her to "load down an 'emergency shelf' within herself which 'lides her over people-barren days."

Of course human relationships are one of life's richest gifts. But the truly peaceful, truly happy people who are I know, are those who are dubbed lonely and solitary and pathetic by the world, because they walk so much alone. They have learned the futility of human companionship, but the eternal steadfastness of books, thoughts, art, music all the world as writ in a song and story. A town's name means little to them if it but have book stores, a library, a concert once in a while, and leafy trails to walk upon.

Sabine's definition of "self-completeness" as the only happy people, is pretty good!

A woman writer in the 30's takes her pen in hand in a current magazine to tell a waiting world why she is finally marrying. Some remarks are good. Some are insane. This is interesting: "Few women in this country where men are still fairly plentiful, are spinsters because of lack of opportunity, but the opportunity to marry someone, and the chance of finding the person who satisfies the variety of one's own peculiar needs, are two quite different things."

True, of course, and yet I and many of us know dozens of girls whom we think would make splendid wives who could truthfully say, if any women would speak truth on this sore subject, that no man has ever wanted to marry them. They lack the w. k. s. a. they're too capable; they demand too much, and they refuse to smear jam as a trap to catch the unwary male!

"Woman is her own worst enemy. That is, some women are. One hardly knows which is worse, the stand of women of reputed intellect against the political progress of their sisters, or the insolent and unwarranted pretension of women to do everything that a man can do—and a little more."

It is a man, naturally enough, who writes this. He is John Macy, who breaks forth with a little piece in a current magazine article, "Equality of Woman With Man: A Myth."

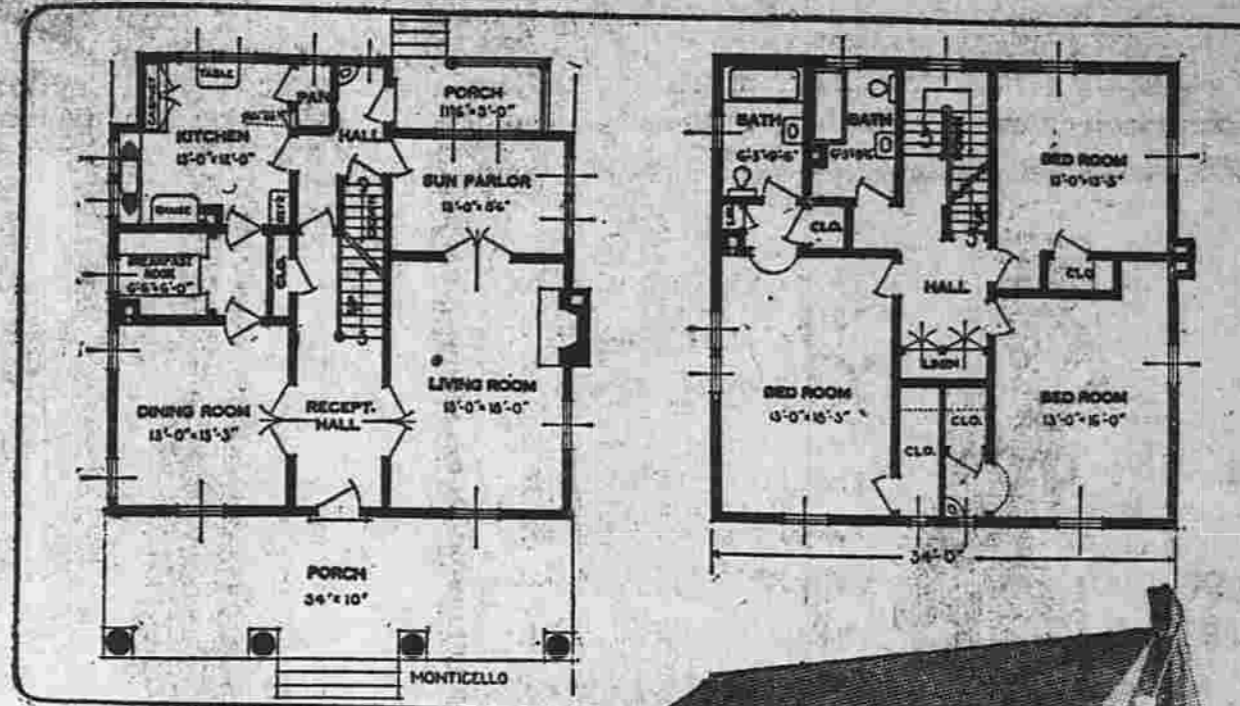

I quite agree with the gentleman's argument that it's all tommyrot for a woman to boast that she can do everything a man can. After all, why should she, when she can do so many things as a woman that a man cannot? But "equality"—well, that's something else again.

HELPS TASTE
Ham, corned beef, tongue and all meats that are not to be served hot are all improved if they are allowed to cool in the water in which they are boiled.

USE DEEP FAT
Frying is the least healthful of all methods of cooking and should be employed sparingly. Frying in deep fat is preferable to the ordinary way of using a thin layer of grease.

COOKING BEANS
Fresh beans and peas should be cooked gently in boiling water with he cover partially off the saucepan to allow the steam to escape.

A SEMI-COLONIAL MODEL WHOSE LOOKS BELIE COST

Complete information about the cost of this house can be obtained from the Standard Homes Corporation, Colorado Building, Washington, D. C. Complete plans and specifications also can be purchased from this company.

Combining notes of dignity and harmony, this house stands out among the semi-colonial models. The charm of its composition brings welcome relief from the uninteresting Colonial style now so often seen.

It may look like a million dollars, but it costs only seven or eight thousand complete. Roof lines, the broad, sweeping porch and the sturdy pillars give it an air of sophistication and stability most uncommon in houses of any where near the price. The interior has been arranged with an eye to comfort rather than the utilization of space at any cost. Note the spacious hall running from front to back. From it, you may enter any room without going through another. The living room is 13 by 18 feet, and imagine the luxury of a bedroom the same size, with bath adjoining; there is another bath for the other two bedrooms.

There are plenty of windows on the sides. There is a sun parlor, a breakfast room, a pantry had an honest-to-goodness back porch—all this with but a 34-foot front. The closet space will prove a joy to any housekeeper.

CANCER CAUSES VARY WITH LAYMAN'S IMAGINATION.

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene the Health Magazine.

Whenever the cause of any disease condition is unknown, a scientific physician is perfectly willing to state that fact in answer to an inquiry. He also is likely to be exceedingly reticent in suggesting any theory of his own.

On the other hand, the lack of established knowledge is likely to encourage all sorts of imaginative conceptions in the minds of laymen, veterinarians, electricians, plumbers, or whatnot, who feel that the world waits for their views.

Dozen Reasons Given
The absence of any definite knowledge as to the cause of cancer has resulted in the announcement of a dozen bacterial organisms as possible causes, none of which has, however, been established.

Among the peculiar ideas in the limelight during recent years have been attempts to incriminate the eating of fish, the migration of cockroaches, and the use of a certain type of cooking utensils.

A dentist in Toledo, O., is responsible for the last view. With a most simple type of reasoning, he urges that both the use of this measure add to the flavor,

Want A Garden?

By Olive Roberts Barton

At the convention of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association in Philadelphia, I was pleased to observe that a statement was made to the effect that the famous gardens of English estates were now inferior to American ones. I regretted, however, that an amendment was added intimating that there was not the general interest in flowers in America that there is across the water.

Be that as it may, I believe most firmly that the time is coming very soon when such a statement will not be true. People have held back from the simple business of growing their own poy beds largely because they imagine it to be a complicated, difficult business that requires a sort of sixth special sense to operate.

Now they are beginning to learn that it is the simplest thing in the world to turn up a bit of soil and put in a few seeds, or bulbs. Nature does the rest. As usual, Mother Nature will come ninety-nine per cent of the way, if we take but one step in her direction. But we must take the first step.

Do you realize that an ugly little bulb that looks like an onion, stuck into the ground a couple of inches (the ground is soft and muddy now and this is the time for bulbs, any time before the ground freezes hard) will be a beautiful tulip or jonquil or hyacinth early in the spring without any further effort on your part? Freezing doesn't hurt it. Nothing will hurt it short of digging it up, and you have no idea what a thrill you will get when you see it poking its little green nose above the ground in March.

Bulbs are cheap! I paid twenty-five cents a dozen for tulips the other day. And a dozen make quite a show. For a dollar you can have a whole bed of them. And they come up every year for you without so much as whistling. Department stores, seed stores, and even 5 and 10 cent stores sell bulbs.

You can't get imported bulbs this year. They are the best, of course. But somebody passed a law keeping them out of our country. Why, I do not know. They were not diseased. Our biggest seed merchants assure us they were perfect. Why the law no one knows! But we have homegrown bulbs! They may not be so big or have such large blossoms, but they will be sweet and gay. When they finish blooming, scatter a dime's worth of flower seed for summer. You will never be without flowers after that. You need very little ground.

FOR HOT DISHES
Thick mats to be placed under platters and hot dishes are a great protection and are very easy to make.

ABOUT POULTRY
Only the youngest and tenderest poultry should be roasted or boiled, the older birds are better boiled, stewed or fricasseed.

ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST CHAINS OF FURNITURE STORES

Stage

New York, Nov. 5.—This is a season of great upsets, as everyone knows who follows the sport pages.

And Broadway is recording a few of these even as the minor colleges rise to wipe the gridirons with the Yales of yesteryear.

Thus, after all the hue and cry concerning syncopation, we have seen modern "jazz opera"—or "native opera" if you will—go off to the storehouse, as "Deep River" closed its brief career, while the old Viennese tunes go merrily on.

We have seen a quiet and polite little comedy of the John Drew vintage move into success with an old-fashioned cast of four—to wit: Frederick Lonsdale's "On Approval."

And now, in the current week, comes an amazing upset in which Chastity is revealed, not only as something to be fought for to the final curtain, but actually emerges triumphant. And this after seasons of plays of modern young ladies to whom the reward of virtue is a front seat in the Old Home for Retired Spinster!

The piece in question is "The Pearl of Great Price" and to the everlasting befuddlement of Broadway playgoers, more money here is spent than usually goes into ten depictions of lust.

What we have is a modernization of the old morality play. But, since times have changed, the trials that beset "Everywoman" and "Everyman" were trifles as compared to those that trip the feet of "Pilgrim." Please recall that there were no autos, night clubs, sheiks, sugar papas and such in the good old days.

At the end, one carries away a great sympathy for the poor girl born to these turgid times, and a greater realization of why so many playwrights have been unable to bring their heroines unscathed through three acts.

Dion Titheradge, the young British playwright-actor, must have been bothered by these perils quite a bit as he sat down to write another current piece, "Loose Ends."

His hero has been in prison for 15 years and is suddenly turned loose in a world inhabited by all the symbols that parade in "The Pearl of Great Price." The gals drink and swear and talk rough and seem to him quite as demoralized as the young women of any drama whose setting is Long Island. To his further amazement a young woman who ran him down in an auto offers her love without wadlock. But he weds her, only to find that the liquor still flows and she keeps late hours with an Earl or somebody. Still another attractive young woman offers to create a situation that "will furnish grounds for divorce."

With such conduct on the part of our young womanhood, one can readily see how upsetting must be such a triumph as in "The Pearl of Great Price."

Violet Heming, Molly Kerr and Mr. Titheradge have the leading roles.

And, again, in "Seed of the Brute," we are led to believe that the domineering boss of an Illinois town has taken advantage of half the female population. His legitimate offspring is a disappointment, but one of his unauthorized descendants turns out to be the owner of a reform newspaper and pursues him to a relentless final curtain. Broadway had heard in advance that this would be a particularly snappy drama and, in a very tense prologue, one may hear lines reminiscent of "Lulu Belle," and dark chapter in the sad decline of M. Belasco. At any rate it is no credit to the chastity of mid-illinois.

MARE NOSTRUM FILM IS COMING TO STATE

Greatest of All Sea Pictures to Be Shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

So many have been the unfulfilled threats and promises of artistically presented plays of high calibre at old-scale prices that the cynical old Manhattan critics gasped when Eva Le Gallienne actually proceeded to go through with it. True, she had announced her Civic Repertory Company in a fourteenth street theater which housed everything from "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl" back in the eery eighties to Italian neighborhood opera and movies in late days.

Thus far Miss Le Gallienne's repertoire has included Jacinto Benavente's "Saturday Night," Tchekov's "Three Sisters" and Ibsen's "Master Builder." Miss Le Gallienne is best at Ibsen. She is one of the few to produce the melancholy Dams—or should it be Norse?—with tempo and humor. We recall no productions of Ibsen other than those of Mlle. Eva, in which real laughs came from the audience. And Miss Le Gallienne, having spent many years in Ibsen worship, is eminently fitted to play him.

The Tchekov piece is native and elemental, humbly flavored and presented by folk who have watched their Moscow Art productions closely. "Saturday Night" is allegory, sometimes a bit obscure, but dealing colorfully of love and life.

Miss Le Gallienne is a brave young woman. She has dared to select some superb artists, several of whom frequently make one all but forget the star. Which is as it should be.

An institute for the study of detecting imitation gems has been established at Vienna.

Advantages of the G-E Cleaner

- 1 No oiling—it has a General Electric motor with ball bearings that are packed in lubricant.
- 2 Unusually strong suction—because of its seven-blade, spot welded, non-destructible fan.
- 3 Dust-proof bag—of blue twill with trap in throat which prevents dirt from falling back into air passage.
- 4 Easy-to-empty bag—has extra large opening at top.
- 5 Bag perfectly sealed—patented, spring type bag clamp.
- 6 Light weight—cleaner body, motor base and cap are of aluminum.
- 7 Adjustable—suction loss prevented by nozzle adjustment screw on front axle which keeps the lips of the nozzle parallel to the floor, whether cleaning long nap rugs or bare floors.
- 8 Handle lock—the handle can be locked in any position, but a spring keeps it upright unless it is locked.
- 9 Snap-on, self-cleaning brush—for loosening surface litter—threads, hair, lint.
- 10—Special casters—making cleaner particularly easy to maneuver.
- 11 Pistol-grip handle—comfortable, with rubber bumper on end to prevent marring of furniture. Trigger switch always at finger tips.
- 12 Long cord—twenty feet. Large, rounded hooks to prevent cutting of cord.
- 13 Guaranteed—by General Electric for one year.
- 14 Complete—with set of six practical, swiveling attachments—easy to connect and use.

CAST IS REHEARSING FOR BIBLICAL DRAMA

"A Dream of Queen Esther" to Be Presented Next Wednesday and Thursday at South Methodist.

Friends and members of the South Methodist Episcopal church are now waiting for the presentation of the great Biblical drama which will be given next Wednesday and Thursday evenings under the auspices of the Sunday school. For some time, the school has been enthused over this great event, and the members have given much time and thought in preparation for it. The committee which has been in charge of the general arrangements is now completing its work. In order to cover all the activities this committee has been divided as follows:

Committees.
Tickets, Raymond Smith and John Winterbottom; posters, Miss Dorothy Hansen; property and stage men, Sydney Strickland, Chris Glenney, Albert Holman, Arthur Benson; curtains and lights, Sterling Lippincott and Arthur Benson; candy, Thomas Prentice and Robert W. Wilson; costumes, Mrs. Sydney Strickland, Miss Helen Keith and Miss Dorothy Gates; pianist, Mrs. C. Ely Rogers; trumpeter, Winston Bendall; harpist, Miss Dorothy Silcox.

The newly formed orchestra of the church will make their first appearance on Wednesday night. At that time the musical program will include selections given by different members of the orchestra in several combinations. On Thursday night the full orchestra will play throughout the musical program.

The Orchestra.
Those taking part in this initial program are as follows: Mrs. Kathleen Howard, cello; Miss Miriam Silcox, cello; Ronald Hillman, bass viol; Robert W. Wilson, first violin; Miss Beulah Smith, first violin; Frances Schultz, first violin; Thomas Corder, second violin; Francis Jarda, second violin; Herbert McKinney, saxophone; Miss Dorothy Silcox, harpist; Collins Driggs, pianist.

The drama, "A Dream of Queen Esther" is written by Walter Ben Hare, author of 100 plays. Filled with wit and humor, it also carries a strong story of the Jewish race by the Jewish maiden who found her way to the Persian throne. There are many tense moments when it seems as if all hope is gone, and the Jewish race is to be exterminated. William Keith, who takes the part of Mordecai, keeps before the audience the guiding hand of Jehovah, and with the help of Esther, is able to save the nation. These parts are splendidly taken by Mr. Keith and Mrs. Hazel Taylor Anderson.

Story of the Play.
A pretty love story is woven into the play and the king and queen are prominent characters. The seriousness of the general theme is relieved by the presence of many princesses bedecked in jewels and costly gowns who come to win the heart of the king. Koosh, the Ethiopian slave girl in the king's palace, entertains the audience with amusing antics as she imitates the princesses in their various poses. Miss Elsie Harrison takes the part of Koosh, and Fred Rogers is the much sought king.

The oriental music adds much to the drama, while the costumes and lighting effects make pretty pictures. The play is staged in three acts. Miss Mabel M. Pollard is coach.

LEGION DANCE HERE ON NOVEMBER 10TH

Next Day (Armistice Day) Memorial Services Will Be Held.

The third annual Legion dance will be held at Cheney hall Wednesday evening, November 10. Massachusetts Agricultural College orchestra will furnish music. This is the same orchestra that played for the Massachusetts State basketball game in Manchester about a year ago. This is a real treat that is offered to the Manchester dancing public.

On Armistice Day memorial services will be held at 10:45 a. m. at the Armory to which all ex-service men and all residents of Manchester are invited. Commander Harry Maidment of the Dilworth-Cornell Post will conduct the service.

The parade will assemble promptly at 6:30 p. m. at the Army & Navy club. Company G and Howitzer Company, all veteran organizations and Auxiliaries will make up the parade. Victor Bronkie has been appointed marshal and Arthur Keating, John Hartnett and J. Fred VanNess as aides. The line of march will be north on Main street to the Center for the presentation of the captured German Howitzer to the town. The parade will then resume march to the Manchester Memorial Hospital for the memorial service and the placing of wreaths upon the trees. President Remsen B. Ogilby of Trinity College will deliver a short address appropriate to the occasion. At the present time President Ogilby is Chaplain (holding the rank of Major) of the 316th Reserve Cavalry of which Colonel Clifford Cheney is commanding officer. Major Ogilby served as Chaplain for five years in the regular army, three years of which in the Philippines and two years at West Point Military Academy. He is a very able speaker and well known to many of our townspeople.

Following the memorial service the parade will continue to the State Armory where it will disband. The armory will be open to the public for a dance which will be free to all residents of Manchester and their friends.

BAZAAR OF SEASONS PROVES A SUCCESS

Amaranth members have reason to feel elated over the success of their "Bazaar of the Seasons" held yesterday afternoon and evening in the Odd Fellows building, under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Russell Tryon.

The artistically trimmed booths representing spring, summer, autumn, and winter were placed in the banquet hall. The spring booth was decorated in a color scheme of green and yellow, with spring blossoms intertwined in a lattice work arrangement. The summer booth, where refreshments were sold, was gay with purple wisteria and Japanese lanterns. The autumn booth was appropriately adorned with autumn leaves and cornstalks with ears of corn, and here all sorts of good things made by the Amaranth ladies were on sale. The winter booth was trimmed with white cotton batting and glistening artificial snow and red poinsettia blossoms. A harvest supper was served in the banquet hall to a large gathering of the Amaranth members, their families and friends. Mrs.

Anna Robb and her large committee had tastefully set the tables and prepared a substantial supper. New England holly or black alder berries in profusion were used in the decorative scheme.

At 7:30 in the lodge hall an especially pleasing program was given by the entertainment committee under the leadership of Mrs. Esther Pickles. Children of the members had a prominent part in the Mother Goose jingles or tableaux representing the familiar nursery rhymes. Percy Cooley of Rockville sang several numbers in his finished style, accompanied by his sister, Miss Pauline Cooley, who also gave piano solos. The ladies on the program committee arranged an original and up-to-date tableau representing Marie of Rumania. Mrs. Carl Bengs was the stately queen.

MISS ELLEN HADDEN.
Miss Ellen Hadden of 121 High street died at her home last night after a brief illness. She had been a resident of this town for 26 years and had been connected with Cheney Brothers for 14 years. She was a member of St. Mary's church and of the King's Daughters, and also a past mistress of Daughters of Liberty, U. L. O. L. No. 125.

She is survived by four sisters, the Misses Minnie, Elizabeth, Della and Mrs. Thomas J. Kennedy of West Springfield, Mass. also two brothers, David and Samuel Hadden of this town. The funeral will be held from her late home at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and at St. Mary's church at 2:30. Rev. James Stuart Neill will officiate and burial will be in the East cemetery.

"15 Eggs to the Dozen!"

THAT'S the way one man who feeds his hens Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash expresses his increased production. "I gather 15 eggs for every dozen that I got before I used Ful-O-Pep," he says.

You can increase the number of eggs you are getting every day, too. Right now is the time to do it—extra eggs mean real extra cash profit at this time of year.

This is the famous feed that contains Cod Liver Meal to make the other ingredients give additional value. Every mouthful gives the hens all feed—no waste—and young and old layers keep right on producing. Eggs are larger, better-flavored, and uniform in size with strong shells. And next Spring you'll have wonderful hatching eggs.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

One thing we notice about those people who boast they'll "try anything once," and that is they never try suicide.

If his hands are soft, and he arises at 8:30 a. m., he probably has a pet remedy for the farmer's troubles.

"Your life hangs by a thread," said the doctor. The patient breathed a sigh of relief; he was married, and often had buttons remain that way for a long, long time.

There was an old fellow named Sidney, who drank till he ruined a kidney. It shriveled and shrank. But he just sat and drank. Well he had his fun don't it, did'n' he?

The book agent doesn't interrupt a busy man; the man just gets busy to fool him.

Elderly lady: I prepare all my meals with a steam cooker. Sweet sixteen who cannot cook: But why do you have to cook the steam?

It beats a circus when the small town belle returns from a visit to the city wearing knickers.

Teacher: "Johnny, what are the two genders?" Johnny: "Masculine and feminine. The masculines are divided into temperate and intemperate and the feminines into frigid and torrid."

"Do you love me?" asked the paper bag of the sugar. "I'm wrapped up in you," was the answer.

She said: "Within our lute of love, There seems to be a rift." Said He: "You'll have to snow again. I didn't catch the drift."

One of the kind of men you seldom meet is one who owes you ten bucks.

"I'm up against it now," said Chas. Sweet as he leaned against the freshly painted lamp post.

According to the Smithsonian Institution, there are now more than six hundred thousand known varieties of insects. A successful picnic season is thus assured.

There orta be a law bunching all holidays so the people could get through with them all at one time and get back to work.

Stranger: "Can you tell me where the post office is?" Citizen: "There it is, right across the street. Any fool knows that."

Stranger: "Yes, that's why I asked you."

A New York apartment house recently blossomed out with a new doorman. When a gentleman called and asked to see Mrs. Brown, the new attendant, true to his calling, detained him with the customary, "But is Mrs. Brown expecting you?"

The caller withered him with a glance. "My good man," he said, "Mrs. Brown was expecting me before I was born. She is my mother."

When a dog belongs to someone else it has not much sense.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

WHO IS HE?

The first question of this test should not be difficult to answer. The subject recently has been the center of a romance. The correct answers to all questions appear on another page.

1—Who is the popular song-writer shown in the accompanying picture?

2—In which American war did Ethan Allen fight?

3—Where are the Allegheny mountains?

4—Who wrote "The Three Musketeers"?

5—Of what state is Mrs. Nellie T. Ross governor?

6—Has the United States president an individual flag?

7—In what year was the Louisiana Purchase concluded?

8—Who was the originator of inoculation against rabies?

9—Who invented the lightning rod?

10—What do the initials A. E. F. signify in relation to the American army?

Because Melinda spilled the beans, Hesaid: "That's one on you."

"Pipe down," she cried, "snap out of it."

Your bean is dusty, too."

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

At dawn the Tynmites arose, and Ukey shouted. "Goodness knows, I'm hungry and I've got to have a tasty bite to eat. Let's all hike over to the hay where all the farmers' chickens lay, and maybe we can find an egg. That sure would be a treat."

The old barn door was open wide and once again they went inside, and climbed high up the ladder till they reached the floor above. Said Scouty, "I am sure, by night that we can treat our appetite. A portion of a nice fresh egg is one thing that I love."

Right soon they found a chicken's nest and Ukey warned, "I think it best that we all keep real quiet so the hens won't stay away." And so the Tynmites all hid and 'twas a good thing that they did, for very soon a hen walked in to seek a place to lay.

Then came a cackle, long and loud. Of course the hen felt very proud, for she had laid a dandy egg. Now wasn't that real kind? She walked around a while and then the Tynmites couldn't see the hen, for she had flown out of the barn and left the egg behind.

"Come on, you Tynmites," Coppy cried. "We've got to get this egg outside. I fear it isn't safe to try to eat it up in here." Then Clowny said, "If you are bound to get the egg down on the ground, just leave the task to me for I can do it, have no fear."

Along lean stick was put to use, and Clowny pried the fresh egg loose, and after it just a little while he rolled it to the door. And then the Tynmites' plans went wrong. The egg kept rolling right along, and 'course they couldn't eat it 'cause it broke upon the floor.

set county jail at the time the crime was committed, was the next witness. Major identified exhibits taken from the bodies of the slain couple...

He said he was forty-eight years old. In answer to a question he said that Mrs. Mills, who was shot to death beneath the crabapple tree, was his wife.

They were married in 1905, he testified, and had two children, Charlotte and Daniel. They were living with him at the time of the murder, he said.

4 Room Home "Four rooms—a living room, two bedrooms and a kitchen."

He was shown a picture of the church and asked to mark with a pencil the place where his wife used to sit when she sang in Dr. Hall's choir. He marked the extreme end of the choir seats.

Asked if he could get into the pastor's study, he said, yes, that the study was never locked.

His wife sometimes looked after the communion vessels, he said. Mills resumed the stand for cross-examination when court reconvened at 1:45 p. m. The court room was packed.

Cross-Examined. Attorney Robert McCarter of defense began cross-examination of Mills.

"Was your wife in the habit of taking automobile rides with Dr. Hall?"

"Seven-thirty."

"Was that the last time you saw her?"

In a low voice that penetrated all parts of the impressively silent court room Mills answered: "Yes, it was the last time."

After his wife left, Mills said, he finished the window box, working on it until about 10:15. He went into the house then and about that time his daughter and son came in. He stayed up until 11 o'clock, waiting for his wife to come home.

There was no sign of her. So he went for a glass of soda water and then went to the church.

"What time did you get to the church?"

"At 11:15."

It has been variously estimated that the murder of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills took place between 9:10 that night and 11 o'clock.

"Did you light the church?"

Then, he testified, he went home and went to sleep. At 2:30 A. M. he awoke, he said. The light was on in the kitchen. He asked his daughter, Charlotte, if his wife had come home.

"I got up and went to the church and lighted it. I looked in all the pews to see if my wife was there. I thought she might have fainted. She had had fainting spells. Then I went home."

Mills said he sometimes left Mrs. Clark in the church when he went out.

Simpson put a map of the church on the wall so the jury could look at it.

Got Children's Breakfast Mills testified he went to the church on the morning of Sept. 15, 1922, the morning after his wife and Dr. Hall were slain. He said, under questioning, that he saw a newspaper clipping on the pastor's desk. He identified a photographic copy of the clipping. One of the clippings carried this headline: "Attack is Begun Against Episcopal Canon on Divorce."

He got up in the morning and got the children's breakfast, he testified.

Meeting With Mrs. Hall. Mrs. Hall's pale face remained expressionless as the witness told of meeting her the next day. He saw her on the morning of September 15 at between 8:30 and 9 in the study of her husband's church of St. John, the Evangelist, at New Brunswick.

"What did she say?" Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked in his sharp voice.

"She said: 'Did you have any sickness?' Mr. Hall did not come home all night. I said neither did my wife. Then it popped into my mind and I suddenly said: 'I know they're dead.'"

"Mrs. Hall said: 'I know they're dead or they would come home.'"

"Yes, she did."

"Why did you sleep there?"

"I was paid to do so."

"Were you alone?"

"Yes, I had full swing of the house?"

"I did."

Prosecutor Simpson took Mills over testimony he gave to the grand jury.

"Did you tell the grand jury in your conversation with Mrs. Hall that you thought it was an eloquent and she said: 'No it must be foul play or they would be home?'"

Vigorous objection to his question was voiced by the rotund, florid faced Attorney Robert McCarter of defense counsel.

The question was withdrawn and Simpson asked Mills if he saw Mrs. Hall again on the day after the murder. He said, yes, about noon.

"Did she refer to the fact that that morning early she had telephoned police headquarters and asked if there had been casualties?"

"Did she ask anything else?"

"She asked if I had heard anything. I told her 'No.'"

Luncheon recess was then declared until 1:30 this afternoon.

Mills resumed the stand for cross-examination when court reconvened at 1:45 p. m. The court room was packed.

Cross-Examined. Attorney Robert McCarter of defense began cross-examination of Mills.

"No, I did not," Mills answered.

"In August, 1922, the Halls went away and you slept in their house, didn't you?" McCarter asked.

"Yes, I did."

"Why did you sleep there?"

NO MORE CONSTIPATION FOR HIM

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and 100% effective

Mr. Dunbar tried resorts and mineral springs in vain. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieved him. Read his testimonial:

"I suffered from indigestion and constipation and visited seashore and mineral springs, which only gave temporary relief. I found no other relief except Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I consider your bran one of the greatest inventions of this age."

Years sincerely, L. D. DUNBAR, Spartanburg, S. C.

Constipation is the bane of health. Over forty diseases may be traced to it. It fills the system with vile poisons and saps strength. You can't afford to ignore its warning signals. Dizziness, bad breath, spots before the eyes, are just a few of the symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your grocer will refund the money. A delicious cereal, ready to serve. Fine with milk or fruit. Use in cooking too.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan, and sold by grocers everywhere. Served at leading hotels and restaurants.

Pomona—Lila Seeley.
Flora—Harle Field.
Lady Asst.—Gladys Rice.

New member of executive commission for three years, Clayton E. Hunt. Following the election, a harvest supper was served.

The Ladies Aid Society held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lester Hutchins, 19 members being present. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The names of 7 new members were presented.

Miss Margaret Hutchins will attend the Harvard-Princeton football game Saturday, as the guest of her cousin, John Yeomans. She will remain in Boston over the week end.

Marshall Squier who cut his foot badly several weeks ago has recovered from his injury and has returned to his work.

Herman Wolf of Westfield, Mass., is the guest of his brother, William Wolf.
Mrs. Theodore Lyman of Plainville is visiting her father, James Utley.

Miss Lila Seeley, a senior at Willimantic Normal school is boarding in Willimantic for several weeks as her studies do not permit her to commute at present.

Miss Margaret Hutchins, who is employed at the Willimantic office of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co., started this week to board in Willimantic, and will continue to do so for the winter.

The anniversary service of the church will be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, instead of in the evening as previously announced.

James Diko, a driver for the Interstate Bus Line was before the Columbia court Wednesday evening charged with reckless driving. On the evening of Oct. 9th, he hit a bull belonging to Isadore Laske injuring it so badly it had to be killed. The case was nolleed on payment of costs. Suit was then brought against Laske for allowing a bull over 12 months of age to be at large on the state highway. This case will be tried next Thursday evening.

Bone Surgeon Now A Master Carpenter

BY FRED H. ALBEE, M. D.

Member Gorgas Memorial Institute Chicago, Nov. 4. (United Press) —The constant whirl of high-powered machine in this great industrial age is causing nearly 3,000,000 non-fatal injuries a year. Electrically driven tools in the hands of the surgeon are most important factors in the rehabilitation of these injured citizens.

In the same century with the introduction of the telephone and radio, the harnessing of electrical power has enabled the surgeon to carry out intricate operations on bones and joints, hitherto impossible, with the same speed and accuracy as the carpenter shapes wood, or the machinist metal.

This speed and accuracy which automatic tools insure in industry only involve profit. When applied to the bones of the body, their speed diminishes shock, shortens the length of anesthesia required, makes possible life saving operations and restores limbs to function.

The shock of such operations with the old clumsy instruments might have cost the patient's life. The analogy between the rehabilitation surgeon's work and that of the carpenter and mechanic is striking. Each is called upon to reconstruct. Each aims to restore to usefulness and good appearance.

Instead of a partially burned house or a damaged engine the surgeon is confronted with a jaw, shattered by shell; a hip joint so riddled by tuberculosis that it causes an awkward and painful limp; or perhaps a spine diseased in such a way that casts and braces afford no permanent relief.

Has carpenter, mechanic, or engineer ever been given a more wonderful opportunity for reconstruction? Yet, until fifteen years ago, the surgeon often failed to meet this opportunity because he worked under the severe handicap of most primitive tools—the hand chisel and mallet!

Since American industry has led the world, because of its ingenuity in devising automatic machinery for manufacturing purposes, it is not surprising that an American surgeon should have been first to adapt to surgery the electrically driven automatic tools already familiar to the carpenter and mechanic.

The first set of such tools ever used in bone surgery is known as the electro-operative bone mill. This contains motor, single saws of different sizes, a circular adjustable trim saw, different sized dowel or peg shapers, end mills, etc.

Today, because of the technique made possible by this "bone mill," bone may, for example, be removed from the shin bone and used as a graft to restore bone lost in a long bone of the limb, from tumor, fracture, infection or gunshot injury. Or a graft of complicated contour may be removed similarly from the pelvis to restore the whole lower jaw in front of the last molar teeth on both sides. It is necessary to choose the pelvis from which to secure such an extensive U-shaped graft because there is no other bone broad enough.

LOCAL KIWANIS AT BIG MEETING

Town Well Represented at Hotel Bond in Hartford Last Evening.

Manchester was well represented last evening in Hartford at the inter-club meeting of District No. 1 of the Kiwanians. The meeting followed a banquet at the Hotel Bond. Among those from the local Kiwanians at the meeting were Charles Ray, George Wilcox, William Knoffa, Charles Robbins, Walter Olson, John Olson, Fred Blish, W. W. Robertson and Arthur Knoffa.

Dr. C. R. Segard, past president of the New York City Kiwanis club and president of the Third Avenue Railway system, was the principal speaker.

POLICE PUFF.

THAT MODEL FROM PARIS MAKES HIT AT CIRCLE

Voted Better of Two Features Last Evening; Shown Again Tonight; Coming Features.

Tonight finds the last showing of those two interesting features Ken Maynard in "The Unknown Cavalier" and an all star cast in "That Model From Paris". The last named was voted by the audience last evening as the better of the two although there were many who liked the western feature.

For tomorrow's continuous show there will also be a double feature. Herbert Rawlinson in "The Midnight Thieves" a melodrama of the old school. By the way, the movie journals which in this case means the trade journals, are saying the old melodramas are coming back into popularity.

The other feature for tomorrow will be Jack Hoxie in "The Wild Horse Stampede". This is a rousing western drama with rattling horsemanship and the roaring stampede of a thousand wild horses. Hoxie at his ridiest with a new surprise beauty that will win hearts and amaze you with her daring exploits.

Honest-to-goodness screen entertainment is what Tom Mix will supply you with on Sunday and Monday at the Circle in "The Great K & A Train Robbery," which was accorded an enthusiastic reception by the first local audience to see it last night. There's a real, thrilling story which shows the ever-popular Tom in the best role of his career. The scenic effects are gorgeous, the surrounding cast is excellent and the direction of Lew Siller is all that could be desired. The picture is a Fox Films product.

Nearly 12,000 husbands are reported missing from London.

MANAGERIAL TIMBER

Ray Schalk, one of the smartest catchers that ever wore a mask and pad, should prove mighty likely managerial material when his playing days are over. He knows the game.

STRENGTHENS WEAK SPOTS

If Connie Mack acquires George Sisler for first base, on top of getting Joe Doley from Baltimore for shortstop, he will have erased the two weak spots in the Athletics' lineup.

DUGGAN IS SLIPPING

Joe Dugan is slipping fast, making it necessary that Miller Huggins look for a new third sacker. Perhaps Mike Gazella will be able to step right into the picture and deliver.

Why this decided preference?

ABOUT TOWN
 Horace Risley, Jr., 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Risley of Highland Park, suffered a fractured wrist in a fall down a flight of stairs at his home Monday and is now under a doctor's care.

Rozanne McGill of Wells street, will be out of school for some time as the result of her accident yesterday noon when she was struck by a motorcycle in front of the High school building. She is suffering from a bad scalp wound and a severe shock, the attending physician stated today.

John Reig of Stafford Springs has sold his nine-room house and other buildings with two acres of land, all in Buckland, to John and Eva Yurgel of Maple street who are moving to their newly acquired property. The sale was made through the Wallace D. Robb agency.

Michael Cheestok of Birch street, an employee of the Case and Marshall Company at Woodland received a badly bruised hand Monday when a heavy piece of iron fell on it.

In the list of committees for Center church bazaar, "A Street in Tokio," the apron committee was inadvertently omitted in yesterday's Herald. Miss Mary Hutchinson is the chairman and her assistants are Mrs. Fred Dart, Mrs.
 Wilbur Loveland and Mrs. A. H.
 Fish.

Miss Clara Mann, formerly of this town, is principal of the new grammar school which will be formally opened for inspection in the town of Middlefield this evening.

A special communication of Manchester Lodge of Masons will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 to attend the funeral of William Hultberg who has been a member of Manchester Lodge for forty-eight years.

A real novelty was introduced at the State theater last evening, an actual football game on the stage.
 It made a great hit with the audience. Although there was not room enough for end runs or passing, line plunges were made in real gridiron fashion. The boys will play again tonight and tomorrow night.

Mrs. J. D. Cheney of Hartford road will give a dance at Cheney hall this evening in honor of her daughters, the Misses Jane and Cynthia Cheney. Out of town guests for the dance will be entertained at dinner this evening by Mrs. John T. Robinson and Mrs.
 John C. Wilson of Hartford.

A son has been born at the Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs.
 David Galligan of 49 Edwards street. Mr. Galligan is a patrolman of the local department.

The Manchester Green Community club will hold its regular meeting at eight o'clock this evening in the school assembly hall.
 A social hour will follow the business.

The much discussed German howling is at last in its permanent resting place in the little park at the Center. It afforded a comfortable seat for high school boys and is waiting for the Green car yesterday afternoon.

MAN HIT BY TROLLEY KNOCKED SPEECHLESS
 Unable to Tell His Name for Hours After Being Taken to the Hospital.

Oxford Parish Chapter, D. A. R. will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock with Mrs. A. E. Loomis of 433 Keeney street. If there are those who desire transportation beyond the trolley terminus at Main and Hartford road they should notify Mrs. Loomis.

Evidently overcome by a weak spell, Antozio Dutkin, aged 65, of Woodland, was slightly injured early last evening when struck by a Hartford-bound trolley car at Station 42, Woodland. He was taken to the Memorial hospital in a passing automobile where it was said the man was suffering from shock and a slight scalp wound.

King David Lodge degree team will have a rehearsal of the first degree in Odd Fellows hall this evening, and all taking part are urged to be on hand.

However, the man, a Russian, was unable to tell his name even though conscious, until an early hour this morning. The attending physician said it was due to shock.
 He said Dutkin's condition was far from serious and added he will probably be discharged shortly.

Sunset Council, No. 45, D. of P., will meet in Tinker hall this evening at 8 o'clock sharp. Reports from the Great Council at Bridgeport will be read and a large attendance of the members is hoped for. After the business meeting there will be a rehearsal for the play.

The trolley car which struck
 Dutkin was in charge of Motorman
 Henry Gardner and Conductor Edward Joyce. It is said that Dutkin suddenly stepped in front of the trolley. It struck him a glancing blow, knocking him to the side of the street. Dutkin did not lose consciousness.

Eleven tables were filled with players at the Pythian whist given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Chace of Main street. The first prize winners were Mrs. George L. Grazadio and Gus Waltz, and the consolation,
 Mrs. J. W. Foley and Mr. Hillis.
 Refreshments were served after the playing and a jolly time was had by all attending.

CITY CLUB NAMES
 BURKE PRESIDENT
 Annual Meeting Held in Club
 Room—Roast Lamb Dinner Served.

A son, William Thomas, was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs.
 William T. Ritchie of 32 Church street. The baby weighed 9 1/2 pounds.

William H. Burke was named president of the Manchester City club at the annual meeting last night held in the club rooms on Oak street. The rest of the officers proposed by the nominating committee and elected last night follow:
 Vice president, William J. Dowd;
 secretary, Thomas Brannan;
 treasurer, James H. Mc-
 Veigh; financial secretary, Robert
 N. Veltch; secretary, Dennis S.
 Murphy; house committee, Earl Mailleper, chairman, Harry Mellisham, Gus Greene; executive committee, P. J. McNeary, Charles Worwick, Harry Ryan.

Reports of officers were read at the meeting and a general plan for the coming year outlined. New memberships were voted and a plan for enlarging the club's quarters was voted down.

Following the business meeting a roast lamb dinner prepared by Ur-bano Osano was served by the house committee.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS DANCE AT RAINBOW.
 The usual modern and old fashion dancing program at the Rainbow dance hall last night was well attended. There was some misunderstanding about the admission price due to a misprint in The Herald's advertisement of the dance. The usual 50 cents admission will prevail however for Rainbow dances.

The hall has recently been fitted up with a new heating equipment and is now as cozy and comfortable for dancing as the best of ballrooms. The new plant is adequate to keep the big hall perfectly warm during the cold winter months.
