DISTANCE LENDS AID TO FRAUDS

Far Away Fields Attract Buyers Who Are Most Always "Stung."

This is the 36th article in a series prepared for The Herald by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

"Distant fields look greenest" is an old maxim which seems to apply equally well in the present day. There seems to be an attraction about something that is a long way off, and entirely unknown, which the same proposition at home would not possess.

During the past week, the Chamber has had inquiries regarding a silver mine in Nevada, a copper mine in Idaho, an oil well in Texas, and coloring schemes from two different states, and a crew of salesmen from Michigan selling an electric vibrator. Not one of these projects had even the slightest shadow of merit, but the haze of romance created by their location in distant fields was sufficient to arouse a varying degree of interest in all of them.

The Chamber wishes to place special emphasis and warning on the electric vibrator salesmen, who have been active in the residential section of the town for several days. These men have a small implement similar to a flashlight tube, containing a dry cell which connects with a massage roller on one end and has a wire connecting with a small sponge on a handle. The most extravagant and misleading claims are made for this instrument. It is guaranteed to cure gopher in thirty days; rheumatism, neuralgia, and neuritis after a few applications. Strained and inflamed joints, contracted muscles, sick headaches, deafness, asthma, sprains and bruises, kidney trouble, even paralysis are some of the ailments which treatment with this do-dad is claimed to have overcome.

One can readily understand how in the early days of electricity the mysterious tingle created by this small instrument would have created surprise and perhaps induced the credulous to fall for the line of bunk which the salesmen give in regard to its curative properties, but in this advanced age it is hard to understand how they get away with it and still reports show that they have done a rushing business. The vibrators are being sold at $14.50, $5.00 on deposit when the contract is signed and $9.50 on delivery. How anyone would pay $5 over to an entire stranger is hard to understand, and how anyone would sign a contract to pay $14.50 for such a miserable little piece of merchandise is still harder to understand. The Chamber of Commerce had the instrument examined by an expert electrician. The actual cost of it has been estimated as not over $2.50. Allowing 100 per cent profit, the first $5.00 deposit would make the salesman a mighty good comedian, but on top of this he comes back and takes $9.50 more and the curious part of it is that they have a list of all the sick people and those suffering from long standing illness or disability, and it is these people's money that they are taking away from them.

In one case reported to the Chamber, the accommodating agent offered to lend the housewife the $5.00 with which to make the original deposit. She would only sign the contract calling for payment of $14.50 when she received the instrument.

The battery contained in the handle is not capable of functioning more than two hours with constant use without renewal. It is simply a toy.

The circulars which are left here on one side, a series of illustrations of the instrument. The illustrations are entirely misleading in that they show violent electrical radiation and they give to the uninitiated, an exaggerated idea of the power of the instrument. On the back of the circular are numerous testimonials from distant states. But one conspicuous feature of the circular is that there is not a name nor an address to show who makes the instrument nor where it is made, nor where repairs or replacements can be bought; not even the salesman or agent's name is printed or stamped on the circular. This of itself is enough to condemn it in the mind of any thinking person.

The Chamber of Commerce has written to a number of the addresses appearing on the testimonials with a view to ascertaining if they are genuine or faked.

Unfortunately there is nothing illegal about the transaction as the men do not sell the goods directly, but take orders and deliver after having secured the purchaser's signature on a contract, but their claims for the instrument are grossly exaggerated and the price is little short of grand larceny.

One gratifying feature of the Chamber of Commerce campaign for the suppression of fraud stock and merchandise sales is the increasing interest which the public are taking in it. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 2nd, 3rd and 4th witnessed a new high record for calls; twenty-one having been received and answered during those three days. As additional evidence of the fact that people are becoming educated and more critical of salesmen who call at their door, the Chamber receives frequent calls from salesmen who say that they have never been in a town where they have had such hard work making sales. Some come with the idea of squaring themselves and explaining their wares and selling methods and others come in an angry mood, protesting the Chamber's interference. In either case the effect is good, as it is hardly probable that these salesmen will return to Manchester.

TWO FINE FEATURES ON RIALTO PROGRAM

"Wasted Lives" one of the feature pictures being shown on a double feature bill at the Rialto today and tomorrow is an excellent picture and in this day and age the term "excellent" means a great deal. It is a modern society drama that might be entitled "Chapters in the Life of an Ambitious Woman," for it really is a chronicle of such a life. The theme is not new but the treatment is a decided innovation. In the story a woman sacrifices true love for wealth and possession. Finding out that marriage without love is purely an illusion, she becomes hard, vindictive and jealous. She tries to regain the attention of a former suitor.

When she finds that he is in love with the sister of her former fiance, she tries to poison the mind of the girl he loves. This brief outline is the web on which has been built what may be termed an "excellent" picture. You will not want to miss this picture for whatever type of entertainment you prefer, be it comedy, pathos, mystery or adventure, you will find it in "Wasted Lives" which has been given a lavish production with a very capable cast including Elliott Dexter, Edith Roberts and Cullen Landis.

The co-feature being shown today is "Fighting Courage," a thrilling western drama starring Ken Maynard, one of the most popular stars who specialize in this type of character. The plot, an engrossing one, moves along at a rapid pace and has some unique stunts. Maynard is ably supported by his splendid thoroughbred horse, Tarzan, who demonstrates once more his almost human intelligence. Selected short subjects will also be shown.

The two big features being shown tomorrow and the next day are "Somebody's Mother," one of the finest mother stories ever told, with Mary Carr in the leading role, and "The Grey Devil," which has Jack Perry, darling stunt rider, and his two pals, Starlight, the horse, and Rex, the movie colie. Shorter subjects will round out the program.

The meeting of the Sunday school board, last Thursday evening, it was voted to hold the November social the Friday evening after Thanksgiving, Nov. 26. The afternoon club of South Windsor held their first meeting this fall at the home of Mrs. Elliott Elmore last Wednesday.

The Evergreen Lodge of Masons, F. and A. M. No. 114, will hold their semi-monthly meeting on this evening at their Temple at East Windsor Hill.

The play, "The Path Across the Hills," will be presented by the young people at the school hall next Friday evening, November 12, under the auspices of the Federated Workers. Mrs. Truman H. Woodward is the coach for the play.

The Parent-Teacher association will hold their regular monthly meeting at the school hall on Monday afternoon, November 8. The subject is Book Week. There will be talks by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. West and Mrs. Grant. Mr. and Mrs. Ashur Collins and family are to spend the week end in Colrain, Mass.

The most powerful electric locomotive constructed in Great Britain has just been built for passenger service on the Paulista railway in Brazil. Its weight is about 100 tons.

No poisonous reptiles and few wild animals are to be found in tons and its six 3000-volt motors develop 2340 horsepower.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

AND SPEAKING OF THANKSGIVING. Here's to the Virtues of Pumpkin and Mince Cranberries, Apple Sauce—possibly Quince— Lending their aid to a dubious Puzling a palate that thought it was Owl. Probably 'twas; for the Turkey's expense Causes the Buzzard no end of suspense. Nevertheless, it's a season of Joy Standing alone in the mind of the Boy; And alone in the thought of the Parents who toll Thanksgiving Night, giving Boys castor-oil. If all the autos in the United States were placed end to end it would be Sunday afternoon. When automobiles first came out horses were scared of them. That's what you call horse sense. A Manchester Ford owner who lives near a grade crossing says his expense for extra parts is negligible. Jay walking is not a bird dance. Automobile Salesman—This controls the emergency brake. It is put to use very quickly in case of emergency. Sweet Young Thing—I see, something like a kimono. A local motorist, on a long trip, needed some water for his car. He pulled up in front of a farmhouse in a backwoods region, and had just started to make his request when a boy came around the corner of the house. "Jim," asked the farmer, "did you drive up them cows Mke I told you?" "Sur, I did, pop." "Get 'em all up." "Yep." "Count 'em?" "Yep." "How many was there?" "One." "That's right." Ichabod Crane was not the only fast rider that lost his head. The person who walked across the street was once called a "pedestrian." Now unless he can hit a livelier gait, he is commonly called "the deceased." To be WRECKLESS don't be reckless. Optimism is the ability to speak of "my car" in the face of a chattel mortgage; six payments still to be made, a bill at the garage, and state and city license-tag time just around the corner. "Thanks for the buggy ride" My Grandma used to say. A buggy ride was quite the thing For the girls in Grandma's day. Buggies now would never do For a couple on a lark. "Cause a buggy can't go far enough To find a place to park. Friend George says—"People are not worrying so much about "What became of Sally" as where to park "Lizzie." College boys don't go so fast that they pass a good parking place.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

This test covers theatrical subjects. Both the legitimate stage and silent drama are included. The correct answers to the questions appear on another page. 1—Who is shown in the accompanying picture? 2—Who played the lead in the picture "The Sea Beast"? 3—Who is the author of the play "What Every Woman Knows"? 4—Who played the lead in the picture "The Black Pirate"? 5—Who wrote the play, "Fallen Angels"? 6—What actor is noted for his interpretation of Merton in "Merton of the Movies"? 7—Who played the male lead in the picture "Variety"? 8—Who is the famous star of the play, "The Music Master"? 9—Who directed the picture "Way Down East"? 10—Who played the female lead in the picture "The Big Parade." Ten men in an abtigate silver Were noticed quite clearly to shiver When with a loud groan A heart stirring moan They found the Ford in the river.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR PICTURE)

Behind the barn there stood a shed, and when he saw it Scowly said, "I guess I'll try the door and see if we can get inside. But then he found his passage blocked because, of course, the door was locked. And so they all decided that the window must be tried. Wee Copsy stood upon his toes and pushed until the window rang. He did it with a little stick he'd found upon the ground. The next thing that he did was jump right through the window with a thump. "Come follow me," he shouted, "and we'll see what's to be found." As soon as they were all inside, a lot of funny things they eyed. A rake, a hoe, a shovel, and a tool chest on a shelf. Said Clowny, "Gee, I love to play with handy tools the live long day. I guess I'll just climb up there so's to try them out myself." So, up the shelf leg Clowny went. Of course you know no harm was meant, yet all the others told him that he'd best let things alone. "Oh, I'll be careful," he replied. "Of all the things I find inside, I'll treat the farmer's tools the same as if they were my own." And then, just guess what Clowny did. He slowly lifted up the lid and climbed inside the tool chest 'mid the hammers and the saws. He started trying to lift one out, and then he quickly turned about. A noise out by the shed door was the thing that made him pause. "Here comes somebody," Copsy cried. They all found spots where they could hide. Poor Clowny found it was too late to hop down to the floor. He quickly let the chest lid drop and huddled down beneath the top. And then the farmer turned a key, and walked in through the door. (To Be Continued.) (Clowny goes on a trip in the next story.)
