

CYCLONE KILLS 14 IN SCHOOL IN MARYLAND

Hurls Building 150 Feet, Smashes It With 55 Pupils Inside; Storm's Toll May Reach 20.

La Plata, Md., Nov. 10.—With a death list of seventeen, which probably will be increased to twenty by tonight, stunned residents of Charles county began today to reconstruct some order out of the chaos that swept down from the skies late yesterday in the form of a savage, twisting tornado.

It left in its wake a narrow strip about twelve miles long and scarcely by five hundred yards wide through this placid Maryland countryside, and made it of a shambles which held the bodies of fourteen school children, three adults, and more than forty injured.

Carried Many Feet
Houses were flattened, trees uprooted, vehicles scattered, but the twister reserved most of its fury for the little frame schoolhouse that stood atop a knoll on the edge of the village. There it struck with demonic fury, lifted the two-room structure from its foundation and hurled it 150 feet away, a mass of broken timbers in a grove of trees.

There were 55 children at their desks in the schoolhouse when the twister struck. Fourteen of them are dead and a dozen others are hurt so seriously that some deaths are considered certain.

Only One Escaped
But there was but one pupil in the school who escaped entirely unscathed in the destruction of the building—little "Johnny" Burr, 11. He had a desk near a window. When the building began to shake and there was the first rumble of cracking timbers, Johnny jumped out of the window and ran for help.

Before he was a hundred yards away he looked backward and saw the building literally lifted from its foundation, bumped over the ground in a series of grinding roars, and then dumped into the grove of trees. Johnny leaped off all the faster. He staggered into the home of Rev. W. S. Helgman, nearby, and shouted:

"The schoolhouse has blown away. Telephone everybody."
The grinding crash of broken timbers had already reached its peak when the schoolhouse was heard above the roar of the wind and the whirring of trees. In a few minutes the whole village of some 800 people was on its way to the hill where the schoolhouse had stood.

Children, some hurt, some merely terror-stricken, were already beginning to emerge from the wreckage as the first of the rescuers reached the hill.

"COLLEGE" ENGINEER SAVES AUTOIST'S LIFE

Locomotive Driver Jams on Brakes, Hits Motor Car Lighter Blow.

East Hampton, Nov. 10.—Quick thinking on the part of Engineer Frank Wheeler of the Williamstown-New Haven passenger train, probably saved the life of George F. Hubbard of Bloomfield, whose automobile was struck yesterday at Chamberlain's crossing by Wheeler's locomotive. Hubbard is recovering from injuries received in the crash at Hartford hospital today. His car was completely demolished and he escaped with a fractured arm and bruises about the head.

Engineer Wheeler, who is known as the "college graduate engineer" because after his graduation from Dartmouth he took up railroading as a profession, saw Hubbard's car on the rails in time to jam on his emergency brakes, striking the machine at a comparatively moderate rate of speed.

MUSSOLINI GAGS ALL OPPOSITION BODIES

Rome, Nov. 10.—The Italian police during the night occupied the offices of all anti-Fascist parties and associations, declaring these organizations automatically dissolved by the new police regulations, according to messages received.

This is the first step taken in accordance with the drastic new regulations voted yesterday by the Chamber of Deputies.

Popolo d'Italia, semi-official organ, announces that the Hon. Violet Gibson, sister of an English peer, who attempted to shoot Premier Mussolini last spring, will be tried by a military tribunal as provided in the new regulations. It had been generally conceded that Miss Gibson made the attempt on the Premier while the danger of forest fires, a menace which always looms at this time of the year, it filled the reservoirs.

Czechs Find Red Spies in Russ Mission

Prague, Nov. 10.—Possibilities of a Czecho-Slovakian conflict with Russia were seen today when the police announced they had unearthed a Communist espionage net involving employees of the Russian mission here.

Seven Communists, including a woman, were arrested. Among those arrested was an army lithographer charged with selling documents to the Russian mission.

BIG STORM DOES LITTLE DAMAGE

Live Wire Falls, Trolleys Laid, Several Washouts Around Town.

Manchester came through practically unscathed in the severe rainstorm which raged here yesterday with torrential fury. Outside of a severe drenching which did more good than harm, a check-up today showed insignificant damage.

It was one of the heaviest and steadiest rain storms that has struck Manchester this year. At times it was a deluge. A strong wind accompanied the downpour. Streets were practically deserted and those who ventured out did so only when it was absolutely necessary. In many instances umbrellas were of little assistance. The wind with the sheets of rain destroyed many trees.

Only One Escaped
The damage done here was remarkably small when the intensity of the storm is taken into consideration. Several trees were blown down and there were numerous washouts.

Off Schedule
Superintendent Henry A. Nettleton of the Connecticut Company reported that outside of throwing the trolleys off schedule for from fifteen minutes to an hour, little damage was done.

A Hartford-bound car was struck by lightning on Tolland avenue in the east side of Rockville shortly after 6 o'clock. There were but few passengers on the car and no one was injured. The trolley crew was Motorman Jack McKenna and Conductor Edward Schuster. About the same time a Rockville bound car was derailed outside of Chroving in the east side of the city.

There were many passengers on the car which was in charge of Motorman Leon Davis and Conductor Edgar Mohr. The derailment was caused by sand which had been washed onto the tracks. This in the same place where a trolley car was derailed recently from the same cause. At the railroad underpass at the foot of Center street a small pond formed.

It was so deep that the old ties, which had been removed from the track, were floating about. This was a handicap to traffic.

Wire Down
Superintendent L. N. Hoebner was out of town today but James McCaw stated that there was little or no damage done to the electric light service in Manchester. A wire broke near the High school building at noon which caused considerable excitement among the teachers in Teachers' Hall. They feared the wire might set fire to the building. The repair crew, however, shortly remedied the break.

Wire Chief Joseph Coleman, of the local branch of the Southern New England Telephone Company stated that the storm had only slightly affected them. Six lines were down which means a total of about 21 telephones out of the house. The telephones connected with the local branch. The telephones put out of commission were in Lydallville, where two trees were blown down. A tree was also blown down on St. James street.

Water Injures
A schoolgirl, Charlotte Newman, 12, of 25 Hamlin street, suffered a fractured collar bone when she slipped and fell on the sidewalk near her home. Arthur Shortis, of Benton street was slightly injured when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile. No other accidents were reported at police headquarters.

Town Fortunate
Manchester can consider itself lucky when the damage left in the wake of the storm in many towns and cities is considered. In La Plata, Maryland, 15 of the 50 schoolchildren in the village schoolhouse were killed when the building was wrecked. The village has a population of but 500. Cedarville, another town in the same state, with a population of only 75, is reported to have been wiped out.

Hartford Record
The heaviest rainfall ever recorded for the month of November with a total precipitation of 2.73 inches at 8:15 last night. The storm did not abate, however, until an early hour this morning so it is probable that the final figures will reach three inches. This estimate can be taken for Manchester.

It is estimated that the storm did more good than harm in Manchester. It put a temporary end to the danger of forest fires, a menace which always looms at this time of the year, it filled the reservoirs.

BELGIAN STEEL GUARDS ASTRID TO THE ALTAR

Swedish Princess Becomes Wife of Belge Prince in Eyes of His Church; Gay Wedding at Brussels.

Brussels, Nov. 10.—As the bells of the Cathedral of Sainte Gudule rang out and guns boomed, Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium was today married to Princess Astrid of Sweden, in a solemn ceremony in the Cathedral. The religious confirmation of the civil ceremony held last week in Stockholm.

Belgium was gay in its rejoicing over its new princess, and no such demonstrations have been seen since that November day, eight years ago almost to the day, when the World War came to an end.

An artillery salute of twenty-one guns resounded before the royal palace at 10:45, notifying the great throngs that the wedding procession had started.

King Leads Party
King Albert, tall and erect in his uniform of the Belgian army, escorted Princess Ingeborg, mother of Princess Astrid, on his arm, down the long marble steps of the palace, and then followed in their train the wedding party, taking their seats in carriages for the triumphant procession to the Cathedral.

Two squadrons of guards, with colors flying, acted as an escort for the wedding party. In the first carriage rode the grand marshal of the court, the Count of Merode and the Countess and that grand old man of Belgium, the Grand Master Adjutant Jambuth.

Close behind their carriage came the king's coach bearing King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Crown Prince Leopold. In a third state carriage rode Prince Charles and Princess Ingeborg, parents of the bride, and Princess Astrid, the cyrene of all eyes and the object of much adulation.

Under Steel Arch
On every one of the thirty stone steps leading to the Cathedral door were two lieutenants of the 78th regiment, to which the young prince followed, with their swords drawn, forming an arch of glittering steel beneath which the wedding party ascended to the Cathedral to receive the religious benediction. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold first entered the arch of swords, followed by Prince Charles with Princess Astrid on his arm.

Monsieur Van Roye, successor to Cardinal Mercier as primate of Belgium, greeted the party at the Cathedral door.

The wedding party took their places before Monsignor Van Roye, near the lectern, outside of the altar because the bride is not a Catholic. The royal parents sat upon a throne in the choir, while the six official witnesses, Prince Charles of Belgium, Premier Jambuth, the Minister of Justice Hymans, Prince Axel of Denmark, M. De Dardel, Swedish minister to Belgium, and Minister of Foreign Affairs Vandervelde, sat in the nave.

18 Princes and Princesses
Fifteen princes and princesses, eighteen of whom were Scandinavians, and diplomatic and official guests were seated in the nave. The general public was admitted to the lateral naves.

Monsieur Van Roye blessed the rings and pronounced the brief ceremonies, while a Te Deum was chanted, the entire service lasting but a quarter of an hour.

Choir Sings Anthems
As the monsignor blessed the rings the bells of Sainte Gudule rang out and a choir of 100 men and 60 children burst into the Belgian national anthem, followed by the Swedish anthem.

Monsieur Van Roye addressed a short sermon to the crown prince and his bride, who wore a silver lace coat robe over a silver brocade gown, cut rather low, but with long sleeves and a long train. The bride's veil was of Brussels lace more than 150 years old and she wore silver slippers. About her throat was clasped a diamond and pearl necklace. Her bouquet was of lilies and orchids.

Queen Elizabeth and Princess Ingeborg, mother of the bride, both wore gold lace and ermine trimmed coats.

Crown Prince Leopold was in the full uniform of a lieutenant of the grenadiers, wearing all of his medals.

It was a merry wedding party, including both royal families, that sat down in the palace, to a luncheon that was the work of the highest art of Belgian chefs.

A great reception was given by the king and queen at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Honeymoon in France
The bridal pair tonight will be guests at a chateau in the Belgian Ardennes, where they first became acquainted. The remainder of their honeymoon will be spent in a chateau in the south of France loaned to them by a prominent French family.

TREASURY BALANCE.
Washington, Nov. 10.—Treasury Balance as of November 8: $215,046,379.45.

Old Swords Are Out in the Hall Murder Trial

Simpson and McCarter Are Ancient Feudists Who Bat- tled Long Ago Over Whitmore Case; Gov- ernorship Perhaps Involved.

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 10.—This Hall-Mills trial here is the first time that Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, the "New Jersey Tornado," and Robert H. McCarter, star pitcher of the million dollar defense team, have met in a murder trial.

"Remember the Whitmore case," was the challenge Simpson shot at McCarter at one of their first tilts. McCarter remembers it as do all the old timers in Jersey, for the Whitmore case created just as much furor 18 years ago as this one does today.

At that time the position of the attorneys was reversed. McCarter was prosecutor, and Simpson defense lawyer. Theodore S. Whitmore, husband of the murdered woman, who was charged with the crime.

Christmas Tragedy
The Whitmore case lacked the lineage, position and wealth, which gives class to this Hall-Mills case, but it had the advantage of time, place and suspense.

On Christmas morning, in 1907, when peace and good will were supposed to be reigning, the naked body of a murdered woman was found with only the bare feet sticking out of the ice in Lamp Black Swamp, near Harrison, N. J.

McCarter, then attorney general, presented strong evidence of the husband's guilt, doing practically everything but placing him on the scene. Simpson, young and unknown, broke through the net of circumstance and had the husband acquitted in record time.

That case was so hotly contested and so valiantly fought by Simpson that it went down in history and made Simpson known as a great criminal lawyer.

Contrasting Pair
Because of the old feud, and because of the difference in the attorneys, and the way in which they handle their cases, the legal technique in the Hall-Mills trial here is quite as interesting as the verdict. Simpson and McCarter are as unlike as the hare and the tortoise. McCarter is of more than average height and of good substantial weight. Simpson's gland regulating height stopped functioning when Simpson reached 4 feet and 11 inches. McCarter is round, smooth and venerable. Simpson is pointed, sharp and nervous.

McCarter looks like a composite picture of the Union Club. Simpson looks like a vaudeville. McCarter suggests a Rolls-Royce and a butler back of his chair Simpson would be at home at a lunch counter—he is frequently found at one.

Hair-trigger Mind
Simpson is quick on the draw with a hair-trigger mind. McCarter is ponderous and legal. He prefaces his objections with throat clearings and "Ahs" which give Simpson an opportunity to put in an aside that is not nearly so amusing to McCarter as to the audience.

Simpson is a showman, de luxe. He builds up his lines and works for his laughs. At every good thrust at the opposition Simpson looks up at the gallery with a "How's that, now?" expression.

JURY IN FEAR FREES CHICAGO GANG SLAYERS

Judge Amazed as Salts, Identified as Murderer of Rival, Is Acquitted With His Lieutenant.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Joe Salts, leader of a powerful south side alcohol ring, and Frank Konell, his lieutenant, stood acquitted today of the murder of John "Mittlers" Foley, an alleged rival gang leader.

A verdict of "not guilty" was returned by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's court late last night. Konell was immediately released, but Salts was re-arrested and placed in jail to answer a federal indictment charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Judge Miller expressed amazement at the verdict. He said: "I expected a different verdict on the evidence presented. I think the evidence warranted a verdict of guilty."

Special Assistant State Attorney James M. Conroy, who prosecuted the gangster, charged that the jurors lacked the necessary courage to convict the pair, fearing bodily harm to themselves.

Two witnesses positively identified Salts during the trial as the actual murderer of Foley.

SENATE MEETS FOR IMPEACHMENT FORM

Defers English Case Till Dec. 13, When "No Jurisdiction" Will Be Found.

Washington, Nov. 10.—For the tenth time in American history the Senate met today to discuss the impeachment of a federal judge, Judge George W. English, of Illinois, on charges of high crimes and misdemeanors in office—without a prisoner at the bar. As Judge English resigned from the federal bench a week ago, administration leaders agreed to adjourn the court until December 13, to allow the House time in which to recommend dismissal of the charges.

This procedure would follow a precedent established in 1799 when impeachment charges against William Blount, a senator from Tennessee, were dismissed, after he resigned from the Senate. The grounds for the dismissal then, which undoubtedly will be copied in the English case, were "lack of jurisdiction, the defendant having previously resigned."

The resignation of Judge English, who presided over the eastern federal district in Illinois, removing the necessity for a public trial, it was agreed.

SCAFFA JURY FAILS TO REACH AGREEMENT

New York, Nov. 10.—Noel C. Scaffa, private detective, charged with kidnapping a woman, was today returned to the county jail on a $500,000 bail following failure of a jury to convict him.

The jury was discharged when it announced it was deadlocked after seven and a half hours debate. The district attorney had not decided early today whether Scaffa would be tried again.

MEX SENATOR KILLED IN POLITICAL DUEL

Mexico City, Nov. 10.—One federal senator is dead today and another lies seriously wounded as the outcome of a pistol battle in a corridor of the Senate building following last night's session of the Upper Chamber.

The dead senator is Luis Espinosa, representing Chiapas state. He met Senator Enrique Henabaw, secretary of the majority block in the Upper Chamber, in the corridor and the shooting started. When the smoke cleared, Senator Espinosa was found dead, with seven bullet wounds. Senator Henabaw's leg had been broken by a bullet and he had another in his chest.

MOTOR BUS DRIVERS TO FORM COMPANY UNION

Hartford, Nov. 10.—Drivers of passenger buses for the New England Transportation Company division of the New Haven Railroad are working on plans for the formation of a company union. A preliminary meeting was held here last evening when F. S. Hobbs, of Boston, general manager of the bus company, and H. Stewart, superintendent of the Connecticut division, appeared for the company and approved the plans for the union.

Delta Chapter, R. A. M., will hold a special convocation tomorrow evening to work the Royal Arch degree.

Hit-Run Driver Is Traced by Auto Number

Hartford, Nov. 10.—The case of Stuart M. Eaton, of West Hartford, who it is alleged failed to stop after his car killed Mrs. Bertha J. Salmonsens, of 90 Babcock street, last night, was continued for a week in police court here today. Eaton was released in $5,000 bond. The charges are evading responsibility and criminal negligence.

Mrs. Salmonsens was crossing Park street in company with two other women when hit by the automobile. The car did not stop but witnesses caught its number.

Joseph Verdi, of 743 Park street, told the police he pursued the car for several blocks but that the driver refused to turn back.

MARIE PARTY HAS NEW PRESS CENSOR

Petresco, Rumanian Official, Displaces Washburn As Reporters' Go-Between.

Aboard Queen Marie's special train (in Colorado), Nov. 10.—Despite an attempted "peace banquet," the internal strife aboard the Rumanian special continued today as the royal party arrived in Denver.

Strained relations bordering on an open rupture existed between the royal entourage and the official in charge of the train following the imposing of a virtual censorship over news emanating from her majesty by Professor Nicolas Athanaseo of Rumania.

A special car today was at the disposal of Lole Fuller, denausee friend of Queen Marie and indirect cause of the new storm. This car, furnished by Col. John H. Carroll, official host to her majesty, was sent to take Mrs. Fuller to New York or any other place she desired.

Press Agent to Go
In addition, Col. Carroll announced that May Birkhead, press agent for Queen Marie, would leave the train at Denver. Miss Birkhead, charged with intrigue by Carroll, was reported improved in health since her nervous collapse.

In the contact of the newspaper correspondents aboard with the queen, Major Stanley Washburn, aide to her majesty, has previously acted as liaison officer. Prof. Petresco's announcement that hereafter he would control the press interviews and would be the one to give forth official information had fair to lead to another conflict even more bitter than when Sam Hill, eccentric millionaire of Washington, was expelled from the train.

Mme. Fuller is Hill's friend and she indignantly protested his elimination.

Professor Petresco at first announced that her majesty was announced that Mrs. Fuller was unable to take the train because of the presence of Mme. Fuller and would not be sorry to see her leave in Chicago.

Col. Carroll, learning of the statement of Petresco, immediately declared that he would be ordered off by no one but him.

Positions Reversed
Today the positions of Petresco and Carroll were reversed, with the professor declaring that her majesty wanted Mme. Fuller to remain and by Col. Carroll producing his special car with the door open.

The "peace banquet" attended by members of the train on board, turned into more or less of an exchange of platforms.

Col. Carroll announced that the railroad was "paying the way" of the royal party and hoped everybody was enjoying it.

"Nobody else is paying a cent," declared the colonel.

M. Leptev of her majesty's staff declared that "nobody took the reports of the press concerning the trip seriously."

One of the newspaper correspondents was called on, and he declared that he and his confederates had "learned over backward" in reporting the situation in order to protect her majesty.

Ira Nelson Morris, Rumanian consul general in Chicago, made a plea for everyone to forget their differences and work in harmony for the welfare of a wonderful queen.

Governor Nellie Ross of Wyoming and pretty Ruth Harrington of Cheyenne, her friend, were the honor guests at the banquet.

NEW WITNESS TO HIT STEVENS ALBI APPEARS

Will Swear He Saw Henry in New Brunswick; Simpson Grills Doctors On Woman's Wounds.

Court House, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 10.—Dr. R. F. Hegeman, of Somerville, who four years ago performed the autopsy on the body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer slain with the Rev. Edward W. Hall in De Russy's lane, today was subjected to a merciless barrage of questions by Prosecutor Alexander Simpson when he testified he did not know whether the young woman's tongue and larynx were cut out by the murderers.

"I didn't open her mouth," the doctor explained somewhat petulantly.

Dr. Hegeman was asked to tell the jury just what he found when he made the autopsy on Mrs. Mills after she was slain on September 14, 1922.

"I found that Mrs. Mills had been shot three times in the head, each bullet penetrating the brain, one bullet passing through the head, the other remaining in the head.

Head Nearly Severed
"Her throat was cut, apparently from left to right, all but four inches of the mid-section of the back of the neck. The muscles were severed down to the spinal column. The wind pipe and gullet were cut about an inch. Simpson interjected bluntly: "did you find her tongue cut out?"

"Dr. Otto H. Schultz, autopsy expert of New York, who performed an autopsy on October 28 this year after Mrs. Mills' body has been exhumed, testified yesterday that the tongue was missing when he made his autopsy."

Shaking his finger at Dr. Hegeman, Simpson repeated: "Did you find her tongue cut out?"

"I didn't open her mouth."
"You say her neck was nearly severed, her head nearly cut off?"

"Yes."
"Yet you tell this jury you can't tell whether her tongue was cut out?"

"I saw no such evidence."
Dr. Hegeman shifted uneasily in his chair. He kept wetting his lips.

"Do you say the tongue and the larynx were present at that time?"

"No, sir."
"Your autopsy was made in 1923?"

"Yes, September 29, 1922."
"Did you put in your notes that these organs were absent?"

"Yes, sir."
"What do you say now as to the presence or absence of the upper portion of the windpipe?"

"The wound looked like it had been made by two cuts."
"But what did you see?"

"I don't recall."
"I was asked if he had made a record of his report on the autopsy. He said he had dictated a report at the time and turned it over to the authorities but that he has no written record now. He kept no duplicate.

Important Witness Found
It was learned today that an unexpected witness has turned up for the state. He is John Farris, of New Brunswick, and is said to have seen Henry Stevens, one of the defendants, in New Brunswick at a time when he claims he was in Lavallette, N. J., the day after the murder.

Dr. Hegeman was proceeded on the witness stand by George T. Totten, former county detective of Somerset county.

A few minutes before Totten took the stand the defendants, led by Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, came into the courtroom. Robert H. McCarter, chief counsel for the defense, arose and shook hands with her. She sat between the other two defendants, her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens.

Charlotte Mills sat among the spectators, avidly reading several letters and passing them to a girl friend beside her.

Jury May Visit Scene.
Before Totten got a chance to testify, Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked the court if the jury would be allowed to visit the scene of the double murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, four years ago.

Judge Charles W. Parker said he would let the jurors confer on this matter at the noon recess and come to a decision on that matter.

Simpson then took up the matter of holding court tomorrow, Armistice Day. He said he had received protests from the American Legion who "objected to the holding of proceedings here with the eye of the nation on the trial."

"It presumes that there will go ahead with the trial tomorrow," Justice Parker said.

If the jury goes to the scene of the crime, Justice Parker indicated in his replies to Simpson they would go on a date which will be secret, so that there will be no crowd present. Under New Jersey laws, neither attorneys for the de- (Continued on Page 2.)

fense or prosecution could accompany the jury.

The court practically but not specifically agreed to allow the jury to go to De Russey's Lane.

Totten Cross-Examination. Cross-examination of Totten was then begun by Senator Clarence E. Case, of defense counsel.

"The cards and other exhibits you found at the scene of the murder were scattered about on the grounds?" Case asked.

"Yes." Case asked him if he took other Somerset county officials with him to the scene and Totten replied affirmatively.

"When you arrived at the scene of the crime who was there?" Case asked.

"A number of persons." "And more kept coming, knowing that something happened there?"

"Yes." Case then picked up exhibit S 17, the professional card of Dr. Hall, found near the bodies and which the state claims bears the fingerprints of Willie Stevens.

No Fingerprints Then "Was the card examined for fingerprints at that time?" Case asked.

"Yes." The witness said the card was examined at the Middlesex county prosecutor's office. There were no fingerprints found on it as far as he knew, Totten said.

Then he showed exhibit S 59, Dr. Hall's eyeglasses, found at the scene.

"These glasses are now broken," Case said. "Were they in good condition when you turned them over to the Middlesex county prosecutor's office?"

"They were." Case asked Totten if a handkerchief was found at the scene with a letter "H" on it.

Totten did see a handkerchief but remembered no letter "H." "You testified concerning clothing of Willie Stevens," Case said. "Where was the clothing obtained?"

"At the Hall home." "Not at the scene of the crime?"

"No." Couldn't Remember Time Case took up Totten's testimony regarding her visit to St. John the Evangelist Church, looking for Dr. Hall the night of the murders.

Totten "didn't remember" exactly what time she told him she went to the church. "Now," said Case, "it has been testified Mrs. Mills' throat was cut. Could it have been done with anything other than a sharp instrument—a knife?"

RED CROSS CHAPTER READY FOR CAMPAIGN

To Be Held Here Nov. 15 to 25—To Conduct Thorough Canvass.

Preparations are going forward for the Red Cross Roll Call, which will be held from November 15 to Thanksgiving Day, November 25.

It was announced today by F. A. Verplank, chairman of the publicity committee, that Fred Van Ness has been named chairman of the forthcoming roll call. J. P. Lamb is chairman of the Red Cross as an entirety.

It is planned to form 15 teams from local churches and prominent organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Masonic Lodge and others. The teams will conduct a thorough canvass of the town covering it in sections.

It is the expectation of these in charge that the people of Manchester will respond to call willingly. It only costs $1 to become a member of the Red Cross for a year.

McSWEENEY—GRiffin.

William J. McSweeney, son of Mrs. Ellen McSweeney of 42 West Center street and Miss Julia Teresa Griffin, daughter of Daniel Griffin of Windsor Locks were married yesterday at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church in that place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. M. Grady.

George F. Wallace sang "I Love You Truly" and "Ave Maria." The attendants were Miss Agnes O'Leary as maid of honor, and Contractor Henry Mutrie of this town was best man. The ushers were John Boland and William Joy of Waterbury, a cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's gown was of white satin, trimmed with rhinestones. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor wore a green crepe dress trimmed with rhinestones and a black satin belt trimmed with silver. Her arm bouquet was of Madame Butterfly roses.

A reception and wedding breakfast attended by 75 followed at the home of the bride, guests being present from Haverhill, Waterbury, Springfield, New Haven, Windsor Locks and this town. The home and the church were decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

On their return from a wedding trip to New York and the Sequelcentennial, Mr. and Mrs. McSweeney will make their home with the bridegroom's mother for the present.

The bride has been employed by the Travelers' Insurance company. She has been entertained at showers by both her bridesmaids, Windsor Locks, and on Monday evening her friends at the Manchester postoffice tendered the bridegroom a chicken dinner at the home of Miss Nellie Fay. His associates presented Mr. McSweeney, who is a letter carrier from this office, with several electric appliances.

ARMISTICE OBSERVANCE AT LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL.

At the High school tomorrow afternoon at 7 o'clock a special assembly will be held in observance of Armistice day. Two addresses will be given showing the changes that have taken place in France since the World War, the first by Captain Allan L. Dexter of the Hotter company who saw active service overseas. His subject will be "France as I Saw it in 1918."

In striking contrast to Captain Dexter's talk will be one by Miss Florence Kelly of the High school faculty who will tell about the France of the present day. Miss Kelly, it will be recalled, spent six weeks in France during the recent summer vacation. She spent much time in study there and had ample opportunity to note the changes which have taken place in that country since the World War.

There will also be special music, including selections by both the girls' and the boys' clubs and the High school orchestra.

In speaking about the program today, Principal C. F. Quimby stated that he desired to extend a cordial invitation to the general public to attend this special Armistice day assembly.

HERE IT COMES.

Freezing Weather and Snow on Way From Mid-west.

New York, Nov. 10.—The northeastern part of the United States is in for some freezing weather today and tonight. Snow already has been reported in the western part of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

High winds will prevail along the coast, the government forecaster has announced, and storm-warnings have been ordered displayed from here to eastport, Maine.

The pocket-sized blizzard which swept across the corn belt of the middle west did considerable damage in Chicago is on its way east, and the mercury here is expected to drop to twenty-eight tonight. Warmer weather is seen for tomorrow.

COMING TO THE CIRCLE

On Thursday and Friday the Circle will have two crackjack features to offer. Viola Dana in "Wild Oats Lane," a story of "detectives as it is title implies, a story of wild life.

The other feature will be George O'Hara, and you know George, in "Going the Limit." Here is one of those speedy, crashy kind of action pictures that keep you on the edge of your seat all of the time.

For Saturday's continuous show there will also be two features besides shorter subjects. Fred Thompson in "The Two Gun Man," a regular wild western and Mary Carr in "The Night Watch."

ABOUT TOWN

William Ostrinsky's advertisement in yesterday's Herald featured a specially priced bedroom suite for his third anniversary sale. The suite, which sells usually at $169 is offered this week at $125. A line in the advertisement names a price of $110. This is an error. The suite is a remarkably good bargain at $125.

Among the marriage licenses issued yesterday in Hartford was one to Hubert F. Custer, a painter of this town and Claire M. McFetridge, clerk, of East Hartford.

Friends of Miss Elsie Cole, of New street, will be glad to learn that she has practically recovered from a minor operation she underwent recently.

The memorial service at the veterans room of the State Armory at 11 o'clock Thursday, November 11 is open to the public. Special reservations will be made for relatives of veterans in whose memory the service is being held.

Thanksgiving favors will be the subject of Mrs. Albert Homewood's lesson at the Manchester Community club tomorrow evening. These lessons in the making of paper novelties are proving very popular. Anyone may come to the classes at any time, a small fee being charged to cover expenses.

Miss Beatrice Shaw of North Elm street will entertain the M. X. club this evening at the home of Mrs. Arvid Seaburg, 331 East Center street.

MISS GEARY RETURNS

Miss Marjorie C. Geary, associate director of the Recreation Centers, returned yesterday from Montclair, N. J., where she has been confined for her home by illness. She will resume her classes tonight in women's dancing at 7 o'clock. The cast of "Dulcy," the three act play which will be given by the Town Players on December 1 will meet for rehearsal on Friday evening at 7 o'clock. Miss Geary will resume direction of the play which has been under the care of Leroy E. Gardner during her absence.

BON AMI HISTORY TOLD KIWANIANs

W. W. Robertson Outlines Romance of Home Industry at Luncheon.

W. W. Robertson of the Orford Soap company today gave the Manchester Kiwanis club a talk on the concern with which he is connected, and reviewed the history of the Bon Ami company for its forty years of life.

It was in 1885, he said, that his father started to make a mineral soap. He then lived in Gastonbury and sold his entire product to G. Fox & Company of Hartford.

Mr. Robertson was looking about for a site for a suitable place in which to manufacture his product and allow room for development and he was induced to come to Manchester. He became acquainted with W. E. Childs and formed by partnership for the manufacture of Bon Ami. This was in 1891.

W. H. Childs and his cousin, under the firm name of Childs & Childs were the selling agents. It was an expensive proposition to start the business as a great expenditure of money was necessary for advertising.

Mr. Robertson in his talk showed the rapid strides that had been made in the manufacture of Bon Ami. Today salesmen visit only wholesalers and the price is the same to each one of them. They are supplied through forty different warehouses in different parts of the country. He gave an inside view of how Bon Ami is manufactured and displayed samples of feldspar, two-thirds of which now comes from North Carolina and formed by the so-called poor whites.

The ware down there is about three dollars a day. The company owns the mines and builds the homes for the men who work in them. They also mine some in New Hampshire and in Canada but labor is higher in these parts and the Carolina spar is the best.

The payroll in Manchester is on an average about $4,000 a week and it is true that twice as much money is spent in advertising as on labor. An illustration of the growth of Bon Ami may be learned when it is known that the company paid the New Haven railroad last year $140,000 in freight charges. It is exported to every known country in the world.

The Japanese have imitated Bon Ami so closely it is hard to tell it from the home article. They have also copied the labels even to the serial numbers.

George H. Washburn and Principal Clarence P. Quimby were received into membership today, and Mr. Washburn was the lucky winner in the attendance prize, donated by L. T. Wood.

COMMUNITY CLUB CAPTAINS CHOSEN

Eight Chairmen Select Teams For Campaign—Meeting At "White House" Tonight.

A special meeting of the captains for the Manchester Community club financial campaign has been called for 6 o'clock this evening at the club headquarters, "The White House," 79 North Main street. Eight captains, representing as many teams, will be present, and the executive committee will also be in attendance. Final arrangements will be considered as regards the territory to be covered by each team, and steps will be taken to prevent lost effort due to overlapping. Each committee worker will be supplied a fat envelope which will contain his or her "working material." This will consist of a map of the territory to be visited, buttons and receipt blanks for prospective donors of funds, and a printed booklet describing the objects of the campaign and the purpose for which the funds are being raised. Each solicitor will be prepared to answer questions and explain fully the work of the Community club in the past and what is planned for the future.

Captains Selected
Up to noon today five of the eight captains had been selected, and the remaining three captains will be appointed before the close of the afternoon. The captains chosen are as follows:
No. 1 Team—Mrs. C. R. Burr.
No. 2 Team—Miss Dorothy Chapin.
No. 3 Team—Miss Mary McGuire.
No. 4 Team—Mrs. Walter Balch.
No. 5 Team—George F. Borst.

explained impatiently. "What's the most you make a week?"

He tries to ignore Simpson, but every once in a while he appeals to Judge Parker to know if a member of the bar has to stand for all those wise cracks.

Not only is there an old feud between Simpson and McCarte, but also between Simpson and Clarence Case, second string man for the defense.

THAT STRONGMAN SUBJECT REFUSES TO BE SETTLED

There has been so much controversy stirred up over the story which appeared in "The Evening Herald" article on Saturday about Elmer Bitgood, the strong man that on the streets today it has drowned out every other topic.

Today the argument advanced was that Mr. Bitgood did not lift a Herald reporter weighing 207 pounds.

This reporter was weighed before witnesses this morning and the scales said 214 pounds. This reporter was lifted with one finger by Mr. Bitgood.

There is being made at this time a strenuous effort to have one of the local theaters to exhibit his feats.

It seems strange but Mr. Bitgood will lift before anyone who calls at his home, Center and Knox streets, a dumbbell weighing 1,220 pounds but is adverse to appear before the public.

REV. NEILL TO LECTURE ABOUT IRELAND FRIDAY

Local Pastor to Describe Recent Trip—Will Be Held in Cheney Hall.

Rev. J. S. Neill's stereopticon lecture on Ireland, to be delivered Friday evening in Cheney hall, is expected to hold much of interest for the great number of local people who have come here from the Emerald Isle, their children and many others who would like to hear about it first hand.

Mr. Neill, who is the rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, with his entire family spent the greater part of the past summer in Europe, and much of the time in the north of Ireland.

He is returning to Portadown where many of his present parishioners formerly worshipped. He will tell an interesting story of Ireland today and show many excellent slides of famous places there.

The Girls' Friendly society of St. Mary's church is sponsoring the entertainment. The Men's Bible class is assisting them. In addition to the illustrated lecture there will be a varied program of music, recitations and folk dancing.

It is fitting for such an evening that the Manchester Bagpipe band make their appearance in the regulation kilts costume, and this has been arranged.

Another interesting feature of the program will be Irish dances in costume by Rector Neill's little daughter Caroline. She learned to execute the dances while over there during vacation. James McCaughey will sing several Irish ballads and give impersonations. There will also be vocal solos by the Misses Eleanor Graham and Agatha Wright.

The paraders will disband at the Armory after the services at the hospital when the dance will be held free to all residents of the town and their friends. Tonight the annual Legion dance will be held at Cheney hall.

full and the face of the world well washed, we are at least in a position to face the much touted "worst winter" with equanimity as far, at least, as water supply is concerned.

FUTURE KINGS.

Belgium and Sweden have rejoiced with apparently real enthusiasm over the marriage of two people who are thought of and referred to, over and over again, as the future king and queen of the Belgians.

MEMORIAM

For a year Arthur Bowers has been numbered among those who are gone. Twelve months ago today death laid its finger on him, stilled his cheery voice.

What the people of this town feel on this anniversary of his passing is not grief, not corroding sorrow, but a kind of quiet joy in the knowledge that he lived, that he was as he was, and that we had the blessing and privilege of his friendship.

There are scores and scores who will never forget him—will cherish his memory as a warm and beautiful thing.

BAD REPORTING.

The Hall-Mills murder trial is probably the first major criminal court case in the United States to be largely dominated, as to its publicity, by women reporters.

The turning loose of sub-sisters to cover special angles of murder trials is no new stunt; it has been done with a certain kind of success, for years. But for women writers wholly untrained in the rather difficult technique of trial reporting to be depended on for the serious work of picturing the day's proceedings, without personal prejudice and without coloring, is new.

To use a woman writer whose claim to fame, if she has any, rests on her peculiarly feminine and emotional point of view, and put her on the job of relating what takes place in the course of a criminal trial, is to set her to a practically impossible task.

There are limitations, which every experienced court reporter knows, to proper expression of opinion as to court evidence. And so flagrant are some of the excesses of the sub-sisters in the Hall-Mills trial that, if the case were being heard in a Connecticut court, these undisciplined and inexperienced reporters would land in jail for contempt, beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The Earl of Oxford and Asquith has just released, coincidental with his relinquishing the leadership of the Liberal party, a new book. The book is called "Fifty Years of British Parliament."

ON THE WAY.

Farmers, anglers and others who in frequent years worry lest winter should ice-lock the streams and ponds before they are filled up need have little anxiety on that score now.

If 1926 is now behind the average year in the supply of heavenly moisture the amount of the shortage must be negligible. With reservoirs stocked, ice ponds well up above the stumps, streams flowing nature are almost unknown, comes to the front as the latest locality to be smitten tragically by the deadly cyclone. Peculiarly pitiable, too, is the death list, consisting as it does almost wholly of little children, crushed in the wreck of the little schoolhouse where they were in attendance.

Given as we are to the impression that this or that part of the country—our own New England, for example—is practically immune to such disasters, we ought to know better. Now and then they come, unwarned, to the most unlikely spots.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 10.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I saw the heavyweight scholar, Gene Tunney, who seems to be everywhere these nights. Not since "gentleman Jim" has there been a pug who seems to have caught on so well socially.

Saw Mary Garden, wandering about our city after a five-year absence. And maybe, after her arguments with the Chicago Opera Company, she prefers Manhattan.

Saw Eddie Cantor, back from the movies, and he told me this one: "A little kid came up to the theater where I was making personal appearances with my new picture. He asked me for six photographs."

Saw Henry King, the movie director, taking a vacation here after filming "The Winning of Barbara Worth" on the Nevada desert.

Against the characters of all these the Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals makes, by unescapable implication, the most reckless and foulest of charges. It says in public print that not one of its male members would dare say in the presence of husband, brother or father of any of these outrageously slandered women, lest he have the lie choked down his throat.

There is a way of putting an end to wholesale libel like that. A thousand suits for ten thousand dollars each, brought by independent American women against the Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, its officers and its membership, would do it—with a bang. And the suitors could not lose.

BIG LITTLE WORDS.

The Earl of Oxford and Asquith has just released, coincidental with his relinquishing the leadership of the Liberal party, a new book. The book is called "Fifty Years of British Parliament."

One chapter on "Political Catchwords" is especially interesting. The early comments on his own phrase "wait and see," which he says became political slang, was "caricatured into a maxim of policy," and was nothing after all but "a common colloquialism."

Maryland, land of equable moderation in all climatic things, where summer is not tropic and winter is but a pleasing interlude, where great storms and blizzards and other catastrophic outbreaks of

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Nov. 10.—The president can't hire a man to work for the government without the Senate's consent, but he can fire to suit himself.

This decision by the supreme court promises to be the subject of a bigger row in the upper house of Congress this winter than any other thing.

The case arose from President Wilson's dismissal of Frank S. Myers as postmaster at Portland, Ore.

Myers was appointed in 1917 for the usual four-year term. A presidential appointment isn't sufficient to install a federal official on the job. It must be confirmed by the Senate.

After Myers had served nearly three years the president decided he was unsatisfactory and removed him. Myers contended that he couldn't be fired any more than he could be hired, without the consent of the Senate.

This means giving to the president a very important power which the Senate always claimed for itself. The Senate, which never willingly surrenders authority, can be depended on to raise a terrible howl as soon as Congress meets.

Senator King of Utah announces that he'll start proceedings, the minute the session opens, to amend the constitution to meet the situation.

How much President Coolidge has desired it has been indicated recently by his adoption, in a number of instances, of a roundabout method of insuring himself facilities for getting rid of his appointees who failed to suit him.

His system was to have the candidate for a job hand in his resignation before getting his appointment. If he didn't walk chalk the president simply would fish out his resignation and accept it.

After a few mysterious resignations the explanation leaked out, and there was a big row in the Senate, where the president had been accused of violating the constitution.

A THOUGHT

Above all things put on charity, which is the blend of perfectness.—Col. 3:14. Great minds, like heaven, are pleased in doing good, though the ungrateful subjects of their favors are barren in return.—Rowe.

LORD MAYOR SHOW INTERESTS LONDON

London, Nov. 10.—Turning back the pages of the centuries for precedent, Sir Rowland Blades, was yesterday inaugurated Lord Mayor of London, with traditional civic ritual and mediaeval pomp.

The Lord Mayor's show—that picturesque procession which has entertained Londoners biennially for centuries—today drew the usual thousands who lined the curbs of the line of march and succeeded in tiling up traffic in the city, while they watched an allegorical pageant depicting the various aspects of London's transport from the days of old up to the present.

Weird and wonderful conveyances borrowed from museums evoked hilarious cheers from the crowds, as litters and sedans bearing powdered and wonderfully coiffured darlings of various periods were paraded by. Olden coaches, ancient bicycles, fire engines, and taxicabs, hansom cabs and busses all wended their way along the processional route.

Sir Rowland Blades is 58 years of age, a keen sportsman, and head of one of the biggest printing and stationery firms in London. He is senior sheriff of the city, besides being a member of Parliament for Epsom.

Following the customary procedure, the new Lord Mayor wound up the procession in the famous gilt state coach, drawn by eight caparisoned horses and flanked on either side by sturdy beef eaters from the Tower of London—beef eaters clad in tight leathers.

The Lord Mayor's coach—which Cinderella used—creaked its way back to the city and was stored away for another two years. It was a glorious show, and the sort of a show that only an Englishman can enjoy, and is enjoyed best by those happy cockneys whose forte is good natured, apt jibes.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Icebergs, even at its lowest part, almost hides the steamer lying alongside. Since it is a rule of Nature that only one-eighth of an iceberg appears above water, it may be seen that the berg shows in the illustration is of no slight dimensions.

The steamer in the background is one of the vessels of the United States coast guard, on ice-patrol duty. Merchant steamers would give this berg a wide berth, once sighting it.

Mount daring warbler!—that love-prompted strain Thrills not the less the bosom of the plain: Yet might'st thou seem, proud privilege! to cling All independent of the leafy Spring. Leave to the nightingale her shady wood; A privacy of glorious light is thine Whence thou dost pour upon the world a flood O' harmony, with instinct more divine: True to the wise, who soar, but never roam— True to the kindred-points of Heaven and Home. —Wordsworth: To the Skylark.

COLUMBIA

A special service in observance of the 210th anniversary of the church and also in memory of the late Mrs. Mary B. Yeomans, was held Sunday afternoon, a large number being present. Music was furnished by an orchestra consisting of A. E. Lyman, cornet; Lawrence Hutchins, saxophone and John Tolken, violin. Mrs. Fred Abell. A paper written by Mrs. Yeomans on the early history of the church was read by Mrs. Cora Hutchins. Remarks were also made by William Collins, Alonzo Latham, Edward P. Lyman, Clayton E. Hunt and Rev. Duane Wain. The paper as written by Mrs. Yeomans gave a very interesting account of the history of the church. The church society was organized October 24, 1716, and the first meeting house was probably built during 1725, the first preserved records showing that December, 1725 at a parish meeting they voted to pay 12 shillings for sweeping the meeting house. This building was probably located where Yeomans' hall now stands. In 1747 it was voted to build a new meeting house 64 feet long,

46 feet wide and 26 feet high on land just in front of the present dwelling of Mrs. Lulu McCorkell. In 1748 it was voted to clapboard the south side and ends with cedar, and back sides with chestnut. These clapboards were still on the house when it was torn down in 1832, 84 years after they were put on. In December, 1753 it was voted to colour the meeting house sky "colloar."

In 1792 a steeple was erected and a bell procured. From the time the steeple was erected, Daniel Huntington was bell ringer till his death in 1828, a period of 36 years. He rang it at twelve o'clock noon and nine at night.

The present place of worship was built in 1832. In the spring of 1850 it was thoroughly repaired, the roof shingled, outside painted, windows on east end closed up and chimney built from the ground up, supports placed under the steeple, lathing and plastering renewed, inside of the desk remodeled, interior painted and varnished with other repairs at a cost of $535. In addition to this the Ladies' Benevolent society at this time furnished the house with blinds, trimmings for the desk, and carpeted the aisles, and the young men furnished the sofa for the desk. At the present time the church is in the best of conditions, having been lately equipped with electric lights, hard wood floors, and new runners for the aisles. The most prominent of the ministers of the Columbia church were Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, famous as the founder of the Indian school which later moved to New Hampshire and was the beginning of Dartmouth College. Rev. Thomas Brockway was pastor during the Revolutionary War and was noted for his patriotism. Rev. F. D. Avery was the beloved pastor from 1853 to 1898, a period of 45 years, and was pastor emeritus to the time of his death in 1908.

Mrs. Mary Yeomans, whose death occurred in the spring, did many things for the church, among the latest being the two beautiful silk flags, hanging at each side of the pulpit, National and State, and the electric lights. She had planned this service, and expected to read her paper, but death intervened. Since her death, her late residence on the Green has been given by her son to the church for use as a parsonage in her memory. Albert E. Lyman is visiting his sister, Mrs. Lester Hurlburt of Charlestown, West Va., making the trip in his auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yeomans of Hartford were among the out of town guests to be present at the special service at the church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Alice Turner of Williamantic was in Columbia Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith of Talcottville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lyman Sunday.

Rev. Duane Wain preached Sunday morning from the text "I stir up your minds by way of remembrance." The communion service followed the regular morning service. Sunday school session was omitted, on account of the special afternoon service.

The Misses Hazel and Lois Gillette of Spring Hill were visitors Sunday.

Miss Edith Sawyer closed her summer home at "The Pasture" Monday and left for Hartford where she will spend a few days, then on to Bridgeport where she will spend Thanksgiving with relatives, and will then go to New York for the winter.

"SOMEBODY'S MOTHER" AT RIALTO TONIGHT

A melodrama with mother love as its main theme is "Somebody's Mother" which is playing on the double feature bill which is being offered at the Rialto theater for the last time today and this evening. Mary Carr has been given the stellar role and it is of course unnecessary to say that no happier notice could have been decided upon. As the white-haired mother who, disguised as a vendor of matches, has fifteen years searched for the man who relentlessly tore her son from her, this sweet faced and sympathetic player does some of the best work of her varied career. Another member of the cast who stands out like a million dollars is Edward Martindale who deserves mention by reason of his electric light, hard wood floors, and new runners for the aisles. The co-feature is "The Grey Devil," a fast action western drama with the three pals Jack Perrin, Starlight the wonder horse and Rex the movie colic star.

It is one of the best pictures of this type released this year and should meet high favor with those who like virile red blooded drama (and there are a few of us who don't.) Rustlers and fast shooting abound in "The Grey Devil" and it more than surpasses the advance reports which described it in highly colored adjectives. The short subjects to be shown include a rib-ticking comedy.

The two feature being shown tomorrow and Friday are "The Northern Code" and "The High Flyer." Both pictures abound in thrills though their themes are widely different. The first named stars Eva Novak and Robert Ellis and has a locale set in the far north where the law of "might makes right" still holds good.

"The High Flyer" has a unique theme as it concerns an elopement by airplane. The thrills are furnished by a villain and his henchmen and the laughs by a couple of youngsters who imagine they are in love with the heroine. Reed Howes, popular ace during the Great War has one of the major roles.

COUNTRY STORE NIGHT AT THE STATE THEATER

Presents Galore, Two Features And Surprise—Musical Comedy, Thursday, Friday And Saturday.

Rain or no rain there never has been a Wednesday evening since the Country Store was inaugurated that the State has not had a large attendance. There is a reason for this, as the Battle Creek ads say. There are always two features, presents galore and a surprise.

Tonight will be no exception. The Country Store will have an unusual amount of presents to give away. As to the surprise, up until noon today Manager Jack Sanson would not say a word.

As for the features there will be Peter B. Kyme's great story, "Rustling for Cupid," and an all star cast in "Pleasures of the Rich." From their titles you can tell the types of stories.

For tomorrow, Friday and Saturday instead of the usual vaudeville there will be musical comedy. Jolly Lew Williams and his Chic Chic Revue is coming to the State. Here is a company of twenty, mostly girls. They have their own scenery and give a whole evening's entertainment. "Wise Guy" Rubin, the classy comedian is one of the principal funmakers in the troupe. He is well known in the larger circuits.

You know what to expect, don't you? Flashy costumes and clever dancing, harmony quartets and chorus melodies, vaudeville novelty and a bunch of comedy rarely seen except along Broadway.

But just as if that wasn't enough for one evening the management has added a great movie feature, the great Eddie Cantor in "Kid Boots." Everybody able to read a newspaper knows who this star is and knows about that famous farce comedy.

LAST SHOWING TONIGHT OF UNUSUAL FEATURE

"The Marriage License" Most Unusual Story Shown Here In Months.

Those who braved the rain last evening to see "The Marriage License" at the Circle were well paid for their efforts for it is a picture once seen never forgotten. It is an unusual picture and that is what makes it stand out from the other features you have been used to seeing. This feature will have its last showing tonight.

The story is about an English girl who marries a titled Englishman against the wishes of the man's parents. They part the couple by sending the son to India. While he is away a son is born but through her machinations, the boy man's mother induces her son to believe the child does not belong to him and as a result he gets a divorce. The poor mother disappears, taking her son with her.

There is a lapse then of 16 years and from then on the story develops into one of the most interesting ever shown here.

Our citizens on all sides agree that the Community Club is carrying on a splendid work for our young people as well as for the grown-ups, and that this work should be continued and encouraged. All of the North End manufacturers are contributing generous sums to this Community Club fund. So are the North End business men. Therefore, to you as an individual citizen we address this appeal.

Cheney Brothers to Usher in Local Basketball Season

Clarke is Developing Fast Basketball Team

High School Coach Sangwine Regarding His Prospects This Year—Several Men Of Last Season's Team In Uniform—New Material Promising.

Prospects for a basketball team in the local high school are being developed by Coach W. J. Clarke who has had his boys working out three times a week for the past month. With a wealth of material left over from the squad of last year, Coach Clarke expects to come through this season with flying colors.

From last year's team there are left Gorman, Holland, Boggin, Dowd, Keeney, Vendrillo, LaCoss and the Shannon brothers. Gorman was a regular member of the squad while LaCoss and some of the others made a berth there during the last weeks of the season. Holland with Lefty Bray was one of the mainstays in the forward court.

Regarding the new material, much can be said about McCann, McCaw, Maloney, Alphonse Boggin and Beer, a new man who comes to Manchester from Fitchburg High school. The latter is slightly built but he handles the ball like a veteran and looks like a real find. He will encounter plenty of opposition, however, in the other members of the squad.

McCann is a boy who is returning to school after an absence of several years. He is tall and heavy with plenty of promise. McCaw looks like a fast center for he is both big and fast. The newest Boggin shows that he can handle the ball as though he were familiar with it and Maloney has experience which he gathered last year as a member of the second team.

The team this year will be more of a combination of the old and new star about whom the framework will be built. For the past two years Coach Clarke has had Mantelli as the key stone of his team and the combination revolved around him. As far as can be seen just now, no one member of this team will take Mantelli's place as the pivot, although Holland looks like a logical man to "swing" the plays.

Practice Handicap
Handicapped somewhat by the fact that so few practice periods are allowed each week, Coach Clark is having his boys work out against alumni men every Wednesday. Mantelli, who is still in school, works out with the team daily and the other alumni who help the coach are Madden, Mistretta and Quish. All four of them were fast men when they were in High school and Madden has come out and played a wonderful game in semi-pro ranks last year and the year before. Mantelli went through two years in a blaze of glory and Mistretta went to William where he played on the team.

Faculty Manager Bailey says that the schedule this year will be a bit lighter than it has been. He announces, however, that Hartford High will reappear on the schedule, playing the first game of the season at the Rec. Last year Hartford demanded an exorbitant guarantee and the game was not played.

Coach Clarke's second team this year will be composed mostly of sophomores. It is his idea to develop the underclassmen so that they will be able to take their places with the varsity when they reach their junior or senior years.

West Point, Nov. 10.—Army's football announcer today following the announcement that Travel, backfield ace who has been on the injured list, will play against Notre Dame on Saturday.

New Haven, Nov. 10.—Bill Kline, star back, has been called to Durbor, Pa., by the death of his mother and may not play against Princeton on Saturday. Wadsworth will replace him.

Princeton, Nov. 10.—With the exception of Jake Slagle, who is nursing an injury, the Princeton squad will get a stiff workout today. Rain has prevented scrimmaging this week.

Syracuse, Nov. 10.—The Syracuse players will wear oilskin pants, the latest novelty, if the field is muddy in the Colgate game Saturday. Captain Vic Hansen, end, may be used to fill the gap at quarterback.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 10.—Defense against Cornell's off-tackle play is being stressed in Dartmouth's preparation for Saturday's game. Picken and Fuqua, ends, are ill with grippe.

SPORT CHATTER

King Basketball, the greatest of all indoor sports, is about to step onto the stage once more while its twin brother, Football, is about to say adieu. A few more weeks and the curtain will ring down on the football season. The principal college games are marked down for the final "act."

Manchester will make its 1926-27 debut on the chalked court tomorrow evening in Meriden when Cheney Brothers tackle the insolence. The local team will leave from the school street Rec at 8:30 sharp, making the trip in touring cars. Manager Hunt announced last night that he had booked a game with the Elmwood New Departures to be played in the High school hall in Elmwood on Thanksgiving eve. The following night the silk workers travel to Danielson.

The Meriden New Departures will have two local players in their lineup when they pry open their season on Saturday night against the local St. Mary's in Meriden. "Cupid" Waddell will jump center and "Cap" Bissell will fill one of the guard berths. Meriden will have Tommy Murphy, Abe Silverman at forward, Waddell at center and Hafner and Bissell at guard. Red Linger and Billy Cooks will be held in reserve.

It is rumored that there will be considerable wrangling between the Cubs and the Cloverleaves this year before they agree on the various details connected with a championship game. The Cloverleaves hold the title and, it is authoritatively said, they will attempt to dictate to the challenging Cubs. Manager Bill Griffin says the game will be played at Hickey's Grove or nowhere. Last year the teams played two games, one on each field, the first at Hickey's. The first game was a 0-0 tie and the Cloverleaves won the second 19 to 0.

The Cubs are without a game for next Sunday. The Frog Hollow Senators have cancelled their game but the South End manager is attempting to secure either the Colored Corinthians or the Ramblers-Tigers of Hartford. Both have strong teams.

It is about time the managers of the Cubs and the Cloverleaves got together in effort to settle their differences. If each waits for the other to make the first move, there will be no game. The Cloverleaves hold the title. Come on, Manager Angelo, it is up to you to start the ball rolling. You are the representative of the challengers, let's charge hurling straight at Manager Griffin.

Here is a bit of news that is interesting. The Plainfield basketball team which had such a successful season last year with four Manchester players in its lineup, plays without the services of a great center captain. All last season the team played under the leadership of a different captain in each game, the players alternating in their turn as captain.

It surely is too bad that a suitable floor cannot be secured in Manchester so that someone can be induced to manage a real top-notch basketball team in Manchester. It surely is disgusting to think that the best basketball players in this town have to go elsewhere to make money. Mantelli, Bissell, Benson, Norris, Madden, Stavinsky and Waddell are without a particle of doubt the seven best basketball players in Manchester and everyone of them has signed to play out of town. Bissell and Waddell are with Meriden New Departures and the other five with Plainfield. Maybe some day, someone will wake up in this town and realize what Manchester is losing.

I understand that Mallory, Stevens and Richeson, members of the 1924 backfield, are under consideration by the self-constituted selection committee.

TAD JONES A "BUST" AS A COACH AT YALE

Social Butterflies Who Make Up Blue Eleven Worship "Tim God," Finds Davis J. Walsh.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
L. N. S. Sports Editor
New York, Nov. 10.—Charging that the Yale football team had been "busted" into a fancied series of injuries and was the victim of its own social indulgence, influential Yale men today were canvassing graduate opinion in a copper-riveted defense, two salient factors to winning football.

Yale has played good and poor football this fall. After the New Haven squad trimmed Dartmouth and the unfortunate outlaws showed them go through to their final games with a clean slate. The Army is to blame for the troubles of the Elfs. Bill Jones' West Point charges broke the confidence of the Blue warriors. It was not so much the strength of the soldiers, as it was the unfortunate mistakes of Tad Jones' players that caused this loss of confidence. West Point scored five touchdowns on Yale efforts.

The Elfs will enter the game on Saturday the underdogs. They will be fighting to save their reputation, a far different aspect than on some former occasions. It may be that instead of psychology will have its effect on Tad Jones' lads.

BOUTS IN HARTFORD ON ARMISTICE NIGHT
Hartford, Nov. 10.—An amateur boxing show that promises to be the best ever offered in Hartford will be presented at Foot Guard hall Thursday, which is Armistice Night.

The cream of Hartford's amateur boxing talent will do battle against boxers from Holyoke, Springfield, Terryville and other Massachusetts and Connecticut towns.
Bat Battalino, state feather-weight champion, Joe Howard, another state titleholder; Plinky Kaufman, regarded by many as the best amateur scrapper in Connecticut; Ray Hogan, Eddie Camp and Ray Hall are among the boys who will spread their wares on this Armistice Night card.

Kaufman journeyed to Lawrence, Mass., last Friday and defeated the New England champion, flooring him in the first, second and third rounds.
Though Kaufman holds no title in this state, there are few in the East of his weight capable of holding their own with him. He is a comparatively new boxer in these parts, having come from Ohio, where he held the amateur welter-weight crown.

There will be at least ten bouts on Thursday night's card, the ideas being to make of it a gala amateur boxing event in recognition of the holiday.

PRINCETON FAVORITE IN GAME WITH YALE

BY TOM THORP

New York, Nov. 10.—Princeton rules a favorite over Yale for the gridiron honors in their engagement in Palmer stadium on Saturday. The well-deserved victory of Bill Roper's Tigers over their Princeton rivals in Cambridge is the factor that lifts the Orange and Black above the Blue. In defeating Harvard the gridiron authorities showed a diversified attack and a copper-riveted defense, two salient factors to winning football.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME GAME SET HALF HOUR EARLIER
New York, Nov. 10.—According to an announcement made public today, the Army-Notre Dame football game on Saturday will begin at two o'clock, eastern time, instead of 2:30, as originally scheduled.

The moving forward of the starting time was made necessary in order to adequately handle the capacity crowd of 70,000, keyed up by the prospect of witnessing the greatest game in the east this season.
The Yankee Stadium was sold out weeks in advance and today thousands of late applicants, some of whom came here from distant points, were faced with the alternative of doing business with the speculators or returning home. Scalpers on Broadway declared they expected to get $25 each for three dollar tickets by Saturday.

BROWN IRON MEN 'KID' OPPONENTS

Use Musical Comedy Wrinkles in Addition to Milk Diet.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 10.—Crimson football coaches today were instructing the Harvard team against a new mode of attack when the "iron men" of Brown come to the stadium on Saturday.
"Tuss" McLaughry, the Brown football head coach, has hit upon a new "system" of assault—the "kidding system."

Brown's football formula, according to information gleaned from football officials, goes much deeper than a deadly running attack and a milk diet. "Kidding" is said to have been a big aid in carrying the eleven men through the most dangerous games of the season without a defeat and without a substitute.

Musical comedy wrinkles were tried with the startling success in both the Yale and Dartmouth games. In the latter contest quarterback "Death" Dooley was singled out. Dooley is a poet of no mean ability and the Brown joke-smiths, according to officials, opened up on him.

Football fans are wondering who the minstrel-like milk fed iron men will pick out in Saturday's game. After the discouraging showing of the Harvard varsity line against Princeton, Head Coach Arnold Horween today was said to be on the verge of making several drastic changes in his forward wall. He is standing pat, however, on the backfield—Putnam, French, Miller and Saylor.

Play On Road.
It is probable that Cheney Brothers will play practically all of their games "on the road." A home and home game is being arranged with Crompton-Knowles Company of Worcester, however. Games are also in the works with Colchester, Plainfield, Tatville and other teams of established merit. The games with Colchester have reached a peak of late years where they are the cause of much excitement. Especially since Referee Herb Smith forfeited the game with the then undefeated Colchester team to the Manchester Atlas.

In speaking about his team today, Manager Hunt said he considered the prospects even brighter

HUNT'S "SIMON PURES" FIRE FIRST SHOT OF NEW CAMPAIGN

Strengthened Silk Workers Travel To Meriden Tomorrow Night To Engage Insilcos; Prospects For Season.

Once again Cheney Brothers' Athletic Association has stepped into the limelight. Its basketball representatives will have the honor of christening Manchester's 1926-27 basketball season. They make their debut tomorrow evening in Meriden when they tackle the well known Insilco outfit.

George Hunt, Jr., energetic manager of the silk mill aggregation, has arranged a strong and well-balanced schedule to lay before his charges. It will include games with some of the leading amateur and professional teams about the state. At least two more games will be played besides the Meriden tilt during the present month. Manager Hunt has looked dates for the appearance of his colorful combination in Poquonock on Saturday, Nov. 20, and in Danielson on Thanksgiving Day night, which comes on Thursday, Nov. 25.

Uses Same Players.
While it is a well known fact that Manchester is not the town it used to be in sports, local fans get some consolation in looking over the accomplishments of the teams that represent Cheney Brothers' Athletic Association on the field of sport. For the silk mill team is the most consistent of any that represents our town from a personal viewpoint. They are the only team in town that select players who do not play with other clubs. It is the policy of Cheney Brothers to put the best possible team on the chalked court but "outsiders" are never used except in case of emergencies.

This is what the fans like to see; a team with the same players in every game. For some time the complaint has been voiced by fans in general that local players are with one team one night, and another the next night. This habit, they say, must be discontinued or else Manchester is doomed to an even deeper descent from its present submergence.

It is probable that Cheney Brothers will play practically all of their games "on the road." A home and home game is being arranged with Crompton-Knowles Company of Worcester, however. Games are also in the works with Colchester, Plainfield, Tatville and other teams of established merit. The games with Colchester have reached a peak of late years where they are the cause of much excitement. Especially since Referee Herb Smith forfeited the game with the then undefeated Colchester team to the Manchester Atlas.

In speaking about his team today, Manager Hunt said he considered the prospects even brighter than they were last season. And that was a successful one. Cheney Brothers will be represented by a squad of eight players, namely: Pentland, Faulkner, Barrett, Boyle, Red Cervini, Anderson, Macdonald and Wiley. Barrett and Boyle are newcomers, whose prestige has long ago been recognized. The former, it will be recalled, held Red Thornton, red-hatched leader of the famous Crescent basketball team scoreless from the floor in a memorable town championship clash a few years ago. Boyle, who received the sobriquet of "Tiger" while with the St. M. H. S. team, is a welcome addition to the squad. His red-hot fighting personality is well-known.

New Uniforms.
The silk workers should make a nifty appearance when they trot out onto the floor in Meriden all spick and span in their brand new maroon and gray uniforms. The jerseys are maroon with gray stripes and lettering and the trunks are gray with maroon stripes.
In meeting the Insilcos, Manager Hunt has not picked out an easy opponent for a season's opening game. In fact, the home team is favored to beat Cheney Brothers by at least ten points. Whether they will do so or not is problematical. We shall wait and see.

Meriden is banking heavily on "Nate" Hurwitz, former star on the New Haven Atlas, champions of New England. Hurwitz will pair up with McCarthy in the backcourt. Druchi will be at center and Teagle and Evans at forward. Humpage, last year's ace on the Meriden High school team, and Gallagher will be held in reserve by Manager Robert Coutis, who is in charge of industrial relations at the Insilco plant. He was previously athletic director at the Meriden Y. M. C. A.

CHURCH LEAGUE BOWLING
In the Church League at Common's last night Team 2 took 3 straight from Team 3 and Team 4 took 2 from Team 1. Henry was the star of the evening with 138 high single, 387 high (2) strings.

Norris, Benson, Madden, Stavinsky and Probably Mantelli, Will Play With Plainfield Team This Season

(Special to The Herald)
Plainfield, Nov. 10.—Already this thriving community has begun to talk basketball. The popular sport is the chief topic of conversation among the villagers each night when they gather after work to discuss the current events. Even the famous Hall-Mills murder mystery trial is soon forgotten when the natives get to talking about the great team they had last season. It was the most successful year Plainfield ever had in any sport and was one which it will long remember.

And there is little wonder that this town is agog with excitement for it is to be represented by the same team as last year. L. T. Salsbury has been re-elected manager. Last season Plainfield's team was composed of six players, four of whom hailed from South Manchester. However this season, Manager Salsbury expects to carry a squad of seven players. Elmo Mantelli, another flashy Silk City star, who at one time played with the Hartford Dixies, will undoubtedly be the new member.

Manager Salsbury is arranging a hard schedule for his team and expects to open the season either this week or next. He has signed the following players to play with his team: Leo Dessinger, Leo Normandin, Roy Norris, Harry Benson, Harold Madden, Walter Stavinsky and expects Mantelli's signature shortly. These players have agreed to give first choice to the Plainfield team and to play with other teams only on dates when Plainfield is not scheduled for a game.

Some of the best of Manchester's basketball talent will wear the colors of St. Mary's Young Men's club this season, according to the plans of Manager Winston Turkington. Most of those players who have been practicing with Plainfield and Meriden during the past two years will be in the lineup for the opening game against the Meriden Enders in that city on Thursday night. They will be up against opposition of the toughest kind when they travel to the Silver City, however, for among the members of that combination are Tommy Murphy and Pat Hafner, formerly of the Dixies. Red Linger, Silverman of the Dixies, Cap Bissell and Cupid Waddell of this town. The lineup is the strongest that Meriden has had so far and will give the Saints a hard battle all the way.
On the other hand, the Saints

Saints Open on Saturday With Many Stars on Team

will start with Madden, Norris, Kerr, Mantelli, Rogers, Dietz, Lutz, Nell Stavinsky, Boyce, Dahlquist and Stevenson. This array of talent will be distributed as follows: Norris in the pivot position with Dietz and Nell to spell him, Boyce, Rogers, and Kerr at guard with Dahlquist, Stevenson, Mantelli and Lutz in the forward positions.
Coach Clarke of the High school squad, who is also a member of St. Mary's club, has taken over the job of whipping the team into shape again this year. With the material he has to work with he should develop a fast representative team for Manchester.
Manager Turkington is doing his best to complete a schedule which will bring many fast attractions to Manchester. He expects to announce the program for the season in a few days.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

ERIC WATERS, rebellious senior, and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, are rivals for the favor of JUDITH MARTIN, young university teacher.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN disapproves of Judith's radical friends and accuses Eric of dealing with "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, in poison liquor. Judith defends him.

MYRA ALDRICH is fond of Judith, but jealous of Eric's attentions to her.

Judith learns of a secret love affair of Dean Brown's wife and boyfriend, her, believing the dean quite heartless.

"Kitty" Shea tries to blackmail Mrs. Brown, and also threatens to expose the fact that Judith and Eric dined at a roadhouse the night it was raided. Eric promises Judith to "shut Shea up."

When Judith is staying in Myra's sorority house alone for the Christmas holidays, Shea tries to force an entrance and she frightens him away by shooting in the air.

Eric returns unexpectedly on Christmas day from his home town, with a bruised eye.

When Judith is talking with EVE GERHAET, a widow, at Eric's fraternity house, one evening after the January term opens, Myra sends word that there is a letter for Judith from Dean Brown, at the boarding house.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"FOR me!" asked Judith, frowning.

"Yes," said Eric. "Myra thought you might want to come home and read it."

Eve was smiling meaningly at Judith. "Well," she said, "excuse me, I'm going after a roasted chestnut."

Judith turned to Eric. "What does that mean?"

He shook his head. "No telling. Why worry? After dinner I'll walk over with you."

Judith tossed her head. "All right."

The note was from the dean's secretary. It requested Judith's presence at his office the following day.

Eric read it over her shoulder. When they had finished, he read it again. "When did you last see Shea, Judith?"

Judith started. "Why do you ask that?"

"Because I believe the dean means to question you about him. You remember that Shea once called you by your first name in front of Dean and Mrs. Brown."

Judith nodded.

"Well," said Eric, "they can't find Shea. I was called in myself yesterday and questioned as to his whereabouts. Of course they won't find him. Shea has too many pipelines around town, not to know that they're after him. He'll just lie low in Middleburg till this blows over."

From his vantage point, behind the massive desk in his sanctum, Dean Brown fixed Judith with a solemn gaze as she entered. His pudgy hands were outstretched on the top of the desk, like starfishes caught too far inland when the tide went out.

"All smashed up—dead some time," she heard the spectated boy say.

"Please be seated, Miss Martin."

When she had taken the chair of inquisition, facing him, he took off his glasses and laid them on the desk. "I hope, Miss Martin, that any feeling of hostility which you may have held toward me has by this time disappeared. I trust you realize that we are both in duty bound to work only for the good of the university and the immortal souls entrusted to our guidance."

Judith smiled, and the dean's brows drew together.

"I was only thinking that I was employed to teach people Latin, not about right and wrong," she said.

The dean ignored the implication. "In the great reform which we are inaugurating in the university, our first step is to stamp out the liquor evil. That is where I hope you can help us."

Judith stood up. "You are insulting," she said. "I have no connection with liquor. I neither buy, sell nor drink it." She made a movement toward the door, but the dean raised his hand.

"Pray do not be hasty," he said. "I only meant that you might be able to give us some information about this man Shea, who is the source of the liquor drunk here. We have a warrant for his arrest."

Judith turned toward him. "I do not know anything about Shea, Dean Brown. I met him casually once at a picnic, but there the acquaintance ended."

"Hm-m," mused the dean, "he be-

He shook his head, as if horror-struck. "Of course not. But the dean will never believe you are innocent so long as you cleave to that young bolshevik, Waters."

The color deepened in Judith's face. "It's a lie, Dr. Dorn. I can't cleave to, so long as I conduct myself as I should. I KNOW Eric hasn't the information they want. I also know that he has never bootlegged. And I CAN'T desert, him now. Why, he believes in me!"

Dr. Dorn took her hand timidly. "There are others who believe in you, too, Judith, and who suffer when you imperil that belief."

Judith's eyes looked into his and fled from them. She pulled her hand away. "If you'd only let me alone, all of you!" she exclaimed. "There's nothing you can do. We don't think in the same language, Dr. Dorn."

He drew back, sadly. "I'm afraid we don't. But I'm sorry. I wish I could help you."

Judith's eyes were filling with tears. Turning abruptly, she walked away from him down the hall.

On the porch of the building, Myra and Will Wetherel were waiting for her.

Wetherel was wearing the memorable green riding suit. "You are just returning from play rehearsal, Jude," he apologized. "I always wear these breeches for the 'Blood and Sand' rehearsals. They make it so much easier to wallow around on the floor in the scene where I make the passionate love to Dona Sol."

Judith laughed in spite of her troubles. "Don't let them make you self-conscious about your breeches. Will, thank God, there are a few people left who live as their own judgment dictates. Don't ever apologize for anything again. Let's be done with apologies!"

Myra was looking at her curiously. "You sound a little bit insane, Judith, like Hamlet in the 'Get thee to a nunnery' speech. What's happened to you?"

Judith only smiled. "I'm just learning what scholastic means, that's all. And I think a school-teacher might envy a gay slave."

Wetherel looked at her. "You and Eric are both a little crazy these days," he said. "He's been nutty ever since he came back on Christmas day, with that ugly bruise on his head."

Myra's mouth opened. "Christmas day? Did Eric come back then?"

"Sure thing," replied Wetherel. Myra turned to Judith. "You didn't tell me, and he didn't tell me. She was silent a moment. "And you used my sorority house to entertain him in 'trator'?"

Judith was very white. "Listen, Myra," she said, "you'd better walk away quiet fast now. I've had about all I can stand today. And I'm just a little bit insane, Judith."

Wetherel shot a frightened glance at Judith's desperate face, and, seizing Myra by the arm, walked her rapidly away.

Judith went down into the sunken garden by the sundial and sat on a stone bench. In fifteen minutes, the two o'clock bell rang, and she picked up the Horace textbook that lay beside her and started wearily for the building again.

Most of the class had assembled when she entered the room, but she saw that Eric had not come in.

A little group by the window turned and eyed her, then put heads together again. "I don't hear a whisper word here and there."

Soon, she began to listen with desperate eagerness. "All smashed up—dead some time," she heard the spectated boy say to the shuddering Miss Reamy. "Car! Full o' empty jugs and bottles—letters."

(To Be Continued)

Shea is dead, and Judith can't help wondering about Eric's bruised eye and his talk of making Shea shut up.

Dear Cousin: I have recently been doing a regular cook's tour in shopping, so expect much news.

Very likely they will be so rejuvenated I shall lose both Jacques and H. Perrone to them, and will die an old maid in spite of two or three rather promising matrimonial prospects.

A brown felt hat pointed pins of cloudy amber, and a bold rose model had large spikes of cut crystal. Besides her felts, Aunt Louise ordered one very stunning black velvet model, which I had sketched for you, with a fitted headpiece and a high upstanding band made of sections of the velvet that gave a turban effect.

I wore one coat she selected to wear over pink pajamas—one shaded velvet-lined with gold lame with seductive roses embroidered casually over back and front. It is short enough to reveal the pink beneath.

I wish you were here with me now—we could have everything our own way for the next fortnight—and you could meet M. Perrone, who has become my slave. Father thinks I am too young to marry—do you?

Good Nature and Good Health

HERNIA IS DANGEROUS AND NEEDS PROMPT ATTENTION

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBIEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygienic, The Health Magazine

When the human body develops, its walls are composed of sheets of fibrous tissue and muscle, covered by fat and skin. This body wall should be sufficient to hold the contents within and to sustain them in their proper position. Sometimes, however, as the body develops, weak spots appear in the wall through which the internal organs push their way, producing what is known as hernia or rupture.

One of the most common types is that which occurs in infants and young children, appearing as a lump in the middle of the abdomen, which increases in size when the baby cries or coughs. The strain of coughing or crying forces certain parts of the abdominal contents to slip from their normal position into the weak spot in the wall.

If the baby lies down and stops crying, the swelling will in most instances disappear. It also tends to disappear if the material is pushed back into the abdomen with the finger. However, such pushing, which is called reducing the hernia, should be done preferably by a physician, since it may do damage to delicate internal organs.

Along comes another educator attacking the military discipline of the public schools! He takes exception to the fact that children have to march in ranks, stand so many inches apart in class, sit in stiff chairs in long straight rows, recite in turn, and all the rest of it.

He stresses the point that military discipline makes followers, not leaders. Soldiers and pupils alike learn to do unquestioningly the things that they are told. It puts no premium on initiative, says he, and the product of our public school system will turn us into a nation of parrots and monkeys, always waiting and watching and listening for someone to imitate.

Well, like all radical statements, it contains a grain of truth. One cannot but agree that any public system of training where millions of children are involved must forego the privilege of individualistic development, and turn out countless numbers of a pattern. We concede the point. And it is probably true also that where a blanket system of education is necessary, as it must be where countless numbers are concerned, children have more or less instilled in them the idea of obedience rather than leadership.

But we need not agree when he goes on to state that the training they thus receive in public school has no preparatory quality for adult
