secure legislative action whereby the Community Club and the other North End recreation forces may secure the $100,000.00 bequest for recreation work at the North End under the will of the late Willie T. Morton. The funds received in the present drive will enable the Community Club to continue community work and help solve matters for the larger developments later.

The disclosure that the South End is appropriating twenty times as much as the North End for recreation is causing much comment. Advocates of recreation state that it is a strong reason why North End citizens should give what they can to the present Community Club campaign.

"Friend, please your palate but don't punish your throat"

"You like a strong he-man's cigarette."
"So do I. But that's no reason why you should pay for it with a parched tongue or throat."
"Pick a brand that gives you all the punch you want without any punishment."
"Switch to OLD GOLDS . . . and get all the sweet without any bitter; all the pleasure without any penalty."
"They're smoothest—that's why!"

Some men have the mistaken notion that a real he-man's cigarette must be harsh and coarse. That's "all wet." A fine full-bodied cigarette, like a fine full-bodied Havana, is smooth and mellow. OLD GOLDS are mellowed by a new method that takes out of the bite and leaves in all the "kick." That's why you can smoke them without "throat-tickle"; why you can smoke and enjoy them morning, noon and night—without regret or after-effect.

young folks, are of great value to the club.

Mr. Washburn, who is a graduate of Yale University, has devoted his life to recreational work, and is completely convinced as to its benefits for the young and the grown-ups. He said today:

Mr. Washburn's Views
"Recreation, rightly controlled and directed, whatever and wherever the place, becomes one of the most important parts of the training and education of any locality. age, color or station in life. The ideal standards of sport are honor, honesty, proper pride in victory, with chivalry for the defeated, contempt of trickery, the understanding that one cannot afford to win in any battle at the loss of self-respect or the respect of others. These are the standards of play which become a part of the standards of life of young people when they are implanted early in the hearts of boys and girls by instructors who are qualified leaders of youth.

"Teachers testify to the fact that better school work on the part of pupils results from participation in play and recreation activities carried on during the fall and winter. The constant, regular exercises without any long let-up is what really counts. Dentists tell people to brush their teeth every day, not to help business, but to save people the suffering which lack of attention to the teeth will cause. In other words, they realize that preventive steps are better than remedial measures, and that when the danger is constantly present, the measure designed to prevent it should be constantly rather than periodically enforced.

Keeps Bodies Healthful
"A year-round recreation program provides well organized sports during all seasons, which are not only enjoyable to young and old, but which keep the body healthy and full of vigor. A community recreation throughout the year helps keep everyone well three hundred and sixty-five days a year. "Last year almost 300 American cities conducted year-round recreation in charge of experienced workers. If year-round recreation did not pay, if it were not an asset, would these cities be spending money, providing facilities, employing workers and setting up machinery for activities which do not bring returns? Last year more cities are putting their recreation on the year-round basis. These facts are significant testimony to the value of the year-round recreation system."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

This was an extremely busy week at the South Manchester High school. To begin with, there was the Armistice Day assembly on Thursday afternoon.

The orchestra also rendered a solo number, "The Trumpeter." Andrew Rankin rendered the trumpet solo in this number.

On Friday afternoon, the seventh period, a meeting of the Debating club was held in room 26.

The club will hold a social night on Wednesday evening of this week. A committee composed of Dorothy Curran, Esther Carini and Paul Packard are working on an entertainment program for the event.

After school on Friday the first issue this year of "Somnath's Events" was distributed. The new form of the school publication met with great and instantaneous favor with the students.

The first "full-fledged" meeting of the French Club was held after school on Friday afternoon. President Lupien opened the meeting with a reading of the constitution of the club.

At Friday's meeting, nearly all the members of the club were present. After the business of the meeting had been attended to, games of various kinds were played.

The dancing classes were held as usual after school on Friday afternoon. Both classes have progressed wonderfully well in learning to dance in the beginner's class and learning the latest steps in the advanced class.

On Friday evening the Dramatic Club of the Soc and Buskin Club, held its first social night of the year.

The initiation brought much discomfort to the new members and a great deal of merriment to the old members. Each of the new members first had to go into line and march around the assembly hall so that the critical eyes of the old members might look them over.

After this, Charles Treat called each one of the new members in turn to come up before the entire assembly. The victim was then obliged to do whatever he was told. Some of the "gems of the collection" were: one of the fair members had to roll a lead pencil with her nose, the entire length of the assembly hall; two others, an actor and an actress (to be) had to give their interpretation of the latest dance craze "The Valencia" from the stage; two others had to get up on the stage and give an imitation of two town gossip, telling the latest scandal over the back yard fence; and one poor fellow had to make a first class proposal to a girl chosen for him by the old members.

The band made another hit on Saturday afternoon when it again played at the High school football game at the McKee street stadium. The band rendered quite a large number of selections, and was highly commented on by all the spectators.

Mrs. David Gilpin of Rockville is resting comfortably, after an operation she recently underwent in the Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Gilpin is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons of this town.

HEAVY CAR OVERTURNS NO ONE IS INJURED

Walter Scranton of 144 Spring street, Williamantic, was arrested by Sergeant William Barron yesterday morning after the Hudson sedan which he was driving turned over on East Center street near the junction of Benton street.

Remer's car was going up East Center street toward the Green on the south section of the road and was being followed closely by the Hudson. Remer started to make a turn into Benton street and the Hudson cut around on Remer's left across the car tracks and over the curbing.

As the heavy car struck the curb its left rear wheel was smashed, the tire and rim rolling about 100 yards, hitting a house at the side of the road. The Hudson traveled about 90 feet, reached the opposite side of the street and turned over on its side. None of the five occupants were injured and not one pane of glass was broken.

Damage to the Hudson consisted of a bent fender and a broken wheel. The Overland had pulled to a stop and was not involved in the accident.

SWEDISH STRING BAND AT SALVATION ARMY

The local Salvation Army will have as their visitors tomorrow evening the Swedish String band and officers connected with the Swedish corps at New Britain. This is the first time they have appeared in Manchester, and they are looked upon as a fine musical combination.

They will give a program of music and songs in the Citadel on Main street at 8 o'clock.

There will be no charge for admission and the public are cordially invited.

ABOUT TOWN

South Manchester Lodge of Moose will meet this evening in Tinker hall. A large turnout of the members is hoped for as plans will be made for the Christmas party and other matters of business will be acted on.

Mrs. James Wilson of High street, who was operated upon at the Memorial hospital last Monday, is making favorable progress.

Robert Russell, president of the Cyp club of Center Church, gave the members a very interesting talk on Italy at the meeting last evening. He told of his visits to Venice, Naples, Pompeii and Vesuvius, describing in a vivid way the formation of the great volcano and told of his visit to the Vatican at Rome and interview with the Pope, distributing photographs that he had taken personally and postal views of many places. The meeting of the Girls' Glee club followed with almost a full attendance.

The Manchester Male quartet sang at the evening service in the Union Congregational church in Rockville last night.

A marriage license was issued today by Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington to Raymond A. Manierre and Miss Emma Lamprecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lamprecht of Maple street.

The first games in the newly organized Kacey bowling league will be played this evening. Teams 1, 2, 3, and 4 will bowl. The second session will be held on Friday evening, when the next four teams will have the alleys.

Reports from the Hartford hospital indicate a slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. J. Garfield Robertson but it is expected it will be weeks before she is able to leave the institution.

Mrs. Robertson, who formerly lived on Russell street, this town, and now on Maple avenue, Hartford, was injured in an automobile accident on the Bolton road some weeks ago.

Dr. E. G. Dolan has returned from a hunting trip taken in company with a party of Hartford and Bridgeport men. They went up into Canada and were successful in getting some big game.

The Sunday School teachers of the Second Congregational church have planned a supper to be held in the church Wednesday evening.

Selectman Harry W. Keeney, of 18 Belmont street, was slightly injured Saturday noon when a motorcycle ran over his foot. Mr. Keeney stopped out from the sidewalk when he was struck. The motorcycle was traveling at a slow rate of speed.

The 50th anniversary committee of Manchester Branch, No. 1, A. O. H., will meet this evening in St. James' hall at 8 o'clock.

The first games in the newly organized Kacey bowling league will be played this evening. Teams 1, 2, 3, and 4 will bowl. The second session will be held on Friday evening, when the next four teams will have the alleys.

SPOOKS.

Governor Trumbull, in an address on the Armistice in a Hartford church last night, gave a rather surprising indication that he has been bitten slightly by the "red-scare" gaff.

Since when did motorcyclists receive special immunity from obligation to manage their machines, in settled communities, with some slight consideration for the lives and comfort of their fellow men?

THE COAL STRIKE. The British coal miners' walk-out, which was instituted seven or eight months ago, which bred the calamitous general strike, which has brought depression upon pretty much every industry which it has not actually paralyzed, and which has cost something like fifteen hundred million dollars, ends with no gain to anybody.

THE CLUB WOMEN OF THE COUNTRY, according to Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, one of the leaders in this investigation, aim to put housekeeping on a business basis.

HEAVY HANDICAP. As the Hall-Mills murder trial drags on—for there is no gaining the fact that it is doing just that, dragging—there is a realization of disappointment in the quality of the case so far presented by the prosecution.

PRACTICAL. While aviation promoters on both sides of the Atlantic have been indulging in more or less chimerical dreams of early transoceanic flights as a matter of commercial routine, it would seem to have remained for Sir Alan Cobham, British long distance flier, to conceive of a highly practicable use of the airplane, in its present state of development, in hastening the transportation of transatlantic mails.

NEW YORK JEWS. A population survey just completed in New York city discloses that one person in every three in the entire metropolis is a Jew; that the Bronx contains slightly more than one-half of Jewish population, or 52 per cent., while Brooklyn is a little less than one-half of that persuasion, 45 per cent.

FLYING NUISANCES. The phenomenon of a motorcycle driven through the streets of Manchester at a speed which would earn the driver of a four-wheel hicle a term in jail, and with unmuffled exhaust, is as common as it is outrageous. Yet for some unexplained reason it never seems to occur to anybody to do anything about it.

It may be true that a motorcycle under high headways is somewhat less likely to hit a pedestrian or to crash into another machine than an automobile, going at the same rate of speed would be, owing to the greater mobility of the two-wheeled device and to its taking up less space. But that does not alter the fact that many motorcyclists ride through the settled parts of the town at rates of speed that are abominably reckless of consequences, which put life and limb of other citizens in acute peril and compel pedestrians to save their necks by sheer agility oftener than automobiles ever do, though there are ten times as many of the latter as of the former.

As for fancier improvements, like electrical devices, other than lights, which are pretty general, the proportion of homes with any equipment is small.

As a rule, too, the housewife who has to do her own work has the fewest conveniences. The most convenient homes generally are the ones with servants, where the housewife wouldn't have to hew wood or draw water anyway—the conveniences are convenient for the servants, not for her.

So to these women it was a shock to discover that a quarter of the housewives in America have no such thing.

only about one-fifth the total of the population. Since New York gives the country most of its slang and most of its songs, perhaps it is not to be wondered at that there is developing a strong Yiddish-English flavor in the colloquial American language.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Nov. 15.—Modern home conveniences aren't as general as one might think.

Who'd have imagined that only 60 per cent of the homes in the country have stationary wash-bowls?—that the rest still get along with old-fashioned washstands, movable bowls and pitchers, just as in Civil War days?

The General Federation of Women's Clubs has been investigating, to determine just how much the housewife's work has been lightened by up-to-date domestic equipment. The survey still is going on, but it has progressed far enough to surprise federation officials.

Only 75 per cent of American homes have kitchen sinks. In the other 25 per cent the dishwashing is done in those big, deep tin pans that most city dwellers had supposed to be as obsolete as the bustle or hoop skirts.

In only one-third of the nation's homes are stationary wash-tubs to be found.

As for fancier improvements, like electrical devices, other than lights, which are pretty general, the proportion of homes with any equipment is small.

As a rule, too, the housewife who has to do her own work has the fewest conveniences. The most convenient homes generally are the ones with servants, where the housewife wouldn't have to hew wood or draw water anyway—the conveniences are convenient for the servants, not for her.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 15.—I have been told that insomniacs and restless sleepers can chart their whereabouts as surely as a skipper can chart his course.

Instead of compass and sextant they depend upon night noises for their sense of place.

Even the frogs, they tell me, have tunes that vary with their geographic residence; the hay fields sigh differently from other fields and there is a dignity about the faint trembling of a giant California redwood immediately recognizable to the sensitive ear.

Innumerable writers and poets have tried to interpret the "voices of the city."

I have learned, after several experiments, has nothing to do with traffic, or taxis, or rattling subways and elevated, or swish of millions of feet along the sidewalk.

Given a fairly central location, the sounds of the city in the faint hours of the morning are, strange enough, not of the city at all, but of the sea.

It is the boat whistles from the several rivers that come piping in many keys to the city sleepers when all other sounds are stilled.

For street noises the palm goes to Manhattan's fire engines and mail trucks. In a city the size of New York, particularly in the winter season when patchy tenements are quick to blaze, fires are as common as dog fights and fire whistles and bells are anathema to the light sleepers. The early mail trucks carry their sirens and go piping through the dawn.

I have known many out in the woods and in the country who found their nights tortured by creaking of rafters and squeaking of floors.

In New York, a friend who suffers from sleeplessness tells me the most disturbing noise he has encountered is that of elevators switching their way up and down in hotels and apartments. Finally he has been driven to an elevatorless residence.

But it is the boat whistles that stand out in the night. Particularly in fall and spring when fog and rain clouds hang heavily over the Battery.

A strange and somber chorus it is too—as though one rode upon a giant liner, caught somewhere in great fog clouds.

EMMA GOLDMAN'S MARRIAGE VIEWS

Though Wed She Still Thinks It's an Empty Custom, But Private Affair.

Note—No woman in modern time has been more actively hostile to the marriage custom than Emma Goldman who, some eight years ago, was among a shipload of deportees sent back to Russia. She made lecture tours of America, speaking on marriage, and wrote pamphlets. Then, suddenly, came word from Montreal, Can., that Emma Goldman had arrived under the name of Mrs. E. C. Colton. After a lifetime of antagonism, Emma Goldman herself had married a Welch miner. Her followers were amazed and still are. What could this mean? NEA sent a representative to locate her and learn at first hand what Emma Goldman now thinks of marriage. Herewith is presented an exclusive, personally written article, the second in a series of five, outlining her opinions today.

BY Emma Goldman

(Copyright, 1926, NEA) Many people have expressed surprise that I, who have for so many years criticized the marriage institution, should in the end have submitted to it.

Invariably they demanded to know whether I have changed my views, held in the past.

I cannot be too emphatic in my declaration that now, as ever, I am convinced that the institution of marriage, as such, can add nothing whatever to the fundamental motives that bring men and women together. It will always be my feeling that the union of two people is an entirely private affair.

Zibarré Then—Accepted Now Not many years ago this point of view was considered startling and revolutionary. Today it meets with far more general acceptance than some care to admit.

Even conservative people are beginning to realize that while marriage may be a matter of convenience, it has no bearing whatever either on emotional impulses or sex expression.

Certainly the ritual of marriage has no bearing on the life and habits of human beings. At best, the institution is no more than a public sanction of a private arrangement between two people.

Never has the state been able to give more than this sanction, since it will always be love which dominates such human relations.

I often smile at the old references to so-called free love. As though love could ever be anything but free!

Nowadays thousands of people submit to the ceremony of marriage, not because they believe in it, but because it protects them from the vulgar prying into their private lives.

Marriage the Answer And so, if you behold me married today you have, therein, the answer—if you care to have one! A marriage, does not lead to a divorce of one's viewpoint.

The greatest offender against the sanctity of privacy has been the state. Since the reaction ushered in by the World War, the state has relinquished most of its other ac-

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE. Night Migrants. By ARTHUR N. PACK. President, American Nature Ass'n. Since the earliest history men have marveled at the ability of birds to change their habits with the seasons. Even in the Bible we find references to birds flying south at the approach of cold weather. As the study of Nature became more of a science, the motives which led birds to polar lands in spring, and the equatorial regions in the autumn, and the seemingly supernatural power which enabled them to accomplish these tremendous journeys, became subjects of serious study. Just how birds learned to migrate cannot be answered in a few words, and indeed it is certain that various causes have operated. Their actual movements, however, have been studied by many methods. Some birds make their periodical journeys by long flights between favorite feeding grounds, accomplishing these flights high in the air and at high speed. This is true of many species usually considered weak in flight. Some fly at day only, others solely at night, yet others both by daylight and darkness. It is remarkable that many of our small birds, such as warblers and finches, have the power to fly great distances by night, even crossing great expanses of water. Such species usually stop at dawn, hungry and exhausted, and spend a few hours in seeking food, flitting from grove to grove as they feed, and usually moving in the general direction of their ultimate destination. Night migrants usually call to each other at intervals, probably for guidance, and students of birds thus detect many species by characteristic notes. Seldom can one see them, but it is sometimes possible, when large numbers are flying, to glimpse some flitting across the face of the moon. By training a powerful telescope on the moon's bright surface, observers sometimes are able to see night migrants in transit and even to identify them by their flight. Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Natural Magazine of Washington, D. C., through arrangements made by this paper. In the autumn the bee, that hard-working and order-loving insect, often gets drunk. It feeds on over-ripe plums, and the alcohol they contain sometimes intoxicates it. A CLEAR COMPLEXION. Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive-oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all sorts of nervousness, bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Old Masters. A flock of sheep that leisurely pass by. One after one; that sound of rain, and bees; murmuring; the fall of rivers, winds and seas. Smooth fields, white sheets of water, and pure sky; I've thought of all by turns, and yet do lie Sleepless; and soon the small birds' melodies Must hear, first uttered from my orchard trees, And the first cuckoo's melancholy cry. Even thus last night, and two nights more I lay, And could not win thee, Sleep! by any stealth; So do not let me wear tonight away. Without thee what is all the morning's Weath? Come, blessed brother between day and day, Dear mother of fresh thoughts and joyous health. —Wadsworth: To Sleep.

STOCK PROMOTERS KNOW EACH OTHER

Chamber Find Evidences of Affiliations Between Most of Them.

This is the 37th article in a series prepared for The Herald by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

WHY do people buy unsound stocks? WHY do people buy merchandise of out-of-town dealers? WHY do people pay hard-earned dollars to strangers for something they do not see and cannot know the value of?

The answers to the above questions would probably vary as widely as the number of individuals to whom the questions might be submitted. Each one would have a different idea. The fact remains that it has always been done and probably always will be done.

The important distinction between the custom as it prevailed in the olden days and at present is that formerly people were more uniformly honest. Today there is an organized movement, a clearly defined and well-organized type whose business it is to get their living at the expense of others.

Everyday fresh evidences are received of the wide-spread close affiliation which exists between stock promoters. Almost daily of late, inquiries have come to the Chamber regarding some alleged investment with a hounding title.

Through the medium of several investigating agencies, it is almost always possible to establish direct connection with a long line of other fraudulent promotions and criminally fraudulent promoters.

A report has just been received in connection with a typist sheet known as "Market Wisdom." This is a daily service selling at $40.00 a year, published at 148 State street, Boston, and to the uninitiated, would appear like a ready road to wealth as it pretends to give advance information on the movement of stocks, thus enabling the investor to buy and sell at just the proper time to make a profit.

Two interesting cases have come to light recently in regard to the purchase of merchandise by mail: both happened through the agency of the same merchant in connection with wearing apparel.

One man sent his check for a sweater to a firm in Boston. Instead of mailing the goods direct to the customer, the Boston firm sent the goods through the local dealer and notified the customer that the sweater had been shipped to the local dealer and to get it there.

In the second instance the amount of difference was less, being only 67c, 50c in the cost of the article and 17c postage which the customer was paying over and above what the same article could have been had for at the local store.

As this article closes, telephone calls are beginning to be received from people who are opening their morning mail containing packages of cards with a request to remit dollar to be applied to a fund for the benefit of some department of the Yankee Division. The Chamber requests that anyone receiving these cards hold them without action until all facts in connection with them have been investigated.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMS SHOWN AT THE RIALTO

Richard Dix Runs Wild With Huge Audience at State Last Evening.

She was only a little poverty-stricken worker in a pickle factory, but she was always happy—always sunny, however discouraging her setbacks—and then her big chance came. Her reward was an opportunity to appear in a musical comedy—she became a prominent success and now from pickles to fame, almost overnight.

Another picture "The Call of the Mate" a thrilling drama laid in the West which co-stars William Fairbanks and Dorothy Revier. Fairbanks has a splendid chance to demonstrate his athletic prowess in his film and his stunts are nothing short of marvelous.

Two features will be shown tomorrow and Wednesday when "Folly of Youth" and "The Brand of Cowardice" will be shown. The latter is a stirring drama of modern youth and their foibles. It tells in detail the way a bootlegging ring is worked and how one gang in particular was broken up.

The prize, a splendid five tube Atwater Kent radio set will be given away Saturday and as the coupons entitling one to a part in the contest are given away to everyone entering, this playhouse a decided advantage is gained by attending every performance.

PLANNING TO ENFORCE STOP-LIGHT EQUIPMENT

Since the issuance of the state motor vehicle department's October bulletin on the need of hand signaling by motor vehicle operators, the department has received letters from citizens urging the requirement that all automobiles be equipped with stop lights.

"I feel that there are occasions, very important ones, when there is time to make a hand signal, when one hand will be steering, one hand putting on the emergency brake, and the feet engaged in stopping the car," writes a Darien man.

The department has replied that it is not trying to put any stop lights out of business, but, on the contrary, "expects and hopes that cars will always be equipped with the best possible mechanical signals." What the department wants, it is emphasized, is an adequate hand signal system for supplementary use. It believes that it ought to be obligatory to give hand signals of certain type, leaving the question as to when those signals must be given wide open to the judgment of the operator.

RUBINOW'S THIRD ANNIVERSARY SALE

William Rubinow announces the opening of his Third Anniversary sale with its attendant offerings of special values to celebrate the event in today's Herald.

Although he calls this his Third Anniversary, it does not mean that he has been in business only three years in South Manchester. He opened his first store in 1907 and carried on a successful business until 1913, when he retired to give his time to real estate interests.

In 1923 he opened a store in the Park building in the location now occupied by Gardner's Shoe store. The business expanded and a year ago he moved to his present location in the north store of the same building, where he has double the floor space with plenty of daylight, which is so necessary in the selection of garments.

THE QUARTERBACK SCORES TOUCHDOWN

Richard Dix Runs Wild With Huge Audience at State Last Evening.

Have you ever heard of the theater that was "packed to the rafters" of the "huge throng lining the streets outside"? Of course you have. You've often read about such things in books and in stories, but have you ever seen such things? If you were in the State theater, or were outside the State theater after the first show had started last night, you would have witnessed both, and in a way that no book or story ever told.

Also, you have read of audiences that "applaud the actor until the house shakes," or you have heard of crowds that "laugh themselves sick" and you have read other such expressions describing a treated crowd's reactions—in a book or story. But have you really ever seen such things actually happen in a theater? If you were at the State last night, you saw just such things happen, as the huge audience heartily acclaimed the most dashing of all screen heroes, Richard Dix in his funniest, very best and most appetizing picture, "The Quarterback."

Now you can see what you missed by being absent from the State theater last night. But don't give up hope yet, for you can still see this picture either tonight or tomorrow afternoon or evening.

This is a real football picture—not the imaginary college football pictures you have seen before. Fielding H. ("Hurry Up") Yost, a famous football coach known the country over, was secured to "coach" the players for this picture. He did one good job, as anyone will readily agree who sees the result.

Then, too, there are real football players on the squad in this picture. Players who had been with almost every principal college in the country were selected to play in the football game which is pictured in "The Quarterback."

Then, there's a whole lot of story running through the film. Dix is shown as a member of Colton college, downtrodden rivals of State College nearby. State has beaten Colton every year for twenty-seven years when Richard comes to Colton. Then Dix goes out for the team, makes it, and on the day of the big game—oh, we forgot to tell you that there's a pretty girl in it, too. She's Esther Ralston, and she's responsible for Richard's—but why spoil it all! You've got to see it yourself to appreciate it.

THE FAMILY UPSTAIRS COMING TO CIRCLE

Comedy of American Home Life Has 1,000 Laughs and a Fine Story. "Ace of Cads" Last Times Tonight.

"G'wan you, or I'll jist—" you know them; they're "The Family Upstairs," and don't they just drive you bughouse with their everlasting hollering? It's enough to—well, anyway "The Family Upstairs" will be shown at the Circle theater for two days beginning tomorrow.

In this very human comedy of New York domestic life, Macdonald, who won undying fame as "Casey" in "The Iron Horse," plays the part of a father, who is merely the titular head of his family; Lillian Elliott, as the mother, gives Dad to understand that she rules the roost. She can see no faults in Willie Heller, their son, but pop can—and does.

He sees, for instance, that Willie is a pool expert, but an expert at little or nothing else. And dad can see nothing wrong in Louise, played by Virginia Valli, their daughter, but ma can—and does. She sees, for instance, that Louise has never had a boy friend, is just one of those stenographers who work all week for twelve dollars, and who evidently has no intention of getting married. And so the everlasting family squabble goes on until one day.

Charles comes into Louise's life. Then Louise takes him to her home to "see the folks" and ma just has to let Charles know what a really influential family that of Louise's really is. Of course, they're only living in the tenement district until they can locate better. Of course, Louise ought to have a million dollar home, a Rolls-Royce to drive around in—and—

Well, Charles begins to think that he could never support Louise for a wife, and then—yes, you'll know when you see it at the Circle tomorrow or Wednesday.

WAPPING

The Junior Y. M. C. A. met Friday afternoon and elected officers for the Friendly Indians as follows: Little Chief, Thomas Austin; Tom-Tom Beater, David Tripp; Messing Man, John Gellah; Indian Runner, Russell Stoughton; Wampus Bear, Donald Johnson. A lantern slide lecture on "Animals You Should Know" was then enjoyed.

Miss Josephine Congdon attended the football game between Connecticut Aggies and Rhode Island at Storrs Saturday.

A large crowd attended "The Path Across the Hill," a three-act play given by the young people of the local church in the school hall Friday evening. All of the parts were good, although "Salamanca" and "Zuzu" as played by Levi Dewey and Mrs. Nevers, made an especial hit. About $40 profit was netted. It is expected that the play will be repeated in two or three nearby towns in the near future.

DEWEY-RICHMAN PEARL CONTEST A PUZZLE

The Bluebird imitation pearls in the windows of the Dewey-Richman company are attracting much attention and more and more people are going there to take part in the contest. The object of the contest is to pick out the real pearl from a display of 100 in the window. Ninety-nine are imitations and one is the genuine article.

According to the rules of the contest, anybody is eligible and no charge is made for guesses. The person guessing the winning pearl will receive a $50 Bluebird imitation pearl necklace and the second and third winners will receive $25 and $10 necklaces respectively.

To show that the contest is absolutely square, the company is displaying the sealed envelope which contains the number of the real pearl. This envelope will be opened by prominent Manchester people who will act as judges and the awards will be made on their decisions.

There are no conditions and anybody who wishes may make a guess by simply filling out a blank. HAIL THE HERO! Mexico, Mo.—The hero has been found, right here in Missouri. GREEN TROLLEY CAR HITS AUTOMOBILE A Manchester Green trolley car in charge of Guy Hudson, struck an automobile that was being backed out of its parking space on the west side of the street just south of Middle Turpike on Main street, Saturday evening.

The driver of the automobile, James H. Elliott, of 19 Hollist street, claims he did not see the approaching trolley car because his view was blocked by another automobile. Twelve passengers were on the trolley car, which was bound north being due at Depot Square at 4:30. The automobile was slightly damaged.

RUMMAGE AND FOOD SALE NETS FUND $270

From the finance committee of the Memorial Hospital linen auxiliary it was learned today that the ladies have raised for the linen fund by the rummage sale and recent food sale a total of $270. The food sale was in charge of Group 4, and the rummage sale was managed by Mrs. Edna Case Parker, president of the auxiliary, and all members of the four groups and the public had a part in making each project a success.

The auxiliary numbers about forty, and each Monday in the month one of the groups meets to sew for the hospital at the Recreation Center on School street. The auxiliary, or any of the groups will welcome local women who are interested in the work, and they may feel free to drop in at the recreation building on any Monday afternoon to sew for the hospital.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Sam Houston (11)

Houston, in retreat, sent couriers to Coliad, where Colonel Fannin was in command of the New Orleans and Mobile Grays, the Red Rovers and other Alabamans, the Kentucky Mustangs and a detachment of Tennesseans. Houston ordered Fannin to blow up the fort and join him at once.

Fannin could retreat only as fast as his oxen could travel, and he was surrounded in the prairie, without water.

Fannin's men made breastworks of wagons and stood off the larger command of the Mexican General Urrea for an entire day.

CATHOLIC CLUB FAILS TO SHOW UP FOR GAME
 False Report Circulated at West Side That North Ends Had Won Game 18-0.
 For some unknown reason, the Catholic Club of Hartford failed to put in appearance for their scheduled game with the North Ends at Hickey's Grove yesterday afternoon. But one of the visiting players came here and he said the rest were on their way in a truck.
 The outcome of the game was awaited with considerable interest. The Cubs had defeated the Catholic Club the previous week 24 to 0 and the news that the young North Ends were going to play them caused much comment. Over at the West Side playgrounds, some one caused a hurly-burly of excitement by farsely circulating a report that the North Ends had won 18 to 0.

Harmony Is Not Sacrificed to "Periods"
 By JAMES BLAUVELT

The history of furniture is the history of civilization. The household articles with which man has surrounded himself through the ages have reflected his taste and his interests at each period of his progress.

It will always be possible to judge a household by the furniture it gathers around it. Not only because impeccable taste will reflect itself in the choice of furniture, but also because it materially adds to the enjoyment of the home, is it necessary for the mistress of the household to study furniture before she makes her choice.

Architectural line is fundamentally important in furniture. Wherever possible, it must follow the lines of the house itself, and the structure of the room. Harmony of line and color and scale is far more important than a strict adherence to "periods."

However, it is best to learn something about as historic periods in furniture before you begin to combine them. The marks which distinguish periods may be seen in the shape of the backs and legs of chairs and tables, in the ornamental detail, in the carving and metal accessories, and in the upholstery and wood.

We know that before the Renaissance there was no upholstery, and furniture was massive and crude and somewhat uncomfortable. Later, can seats and backs and ornate carving were introduced in an effort toward luxury and beauty.

With Louis XIII, velvets and tapestries and damasks came into use for upholstery, chairs, and couches and for beds. Each successive period is an increasing feeling for beauty and comfort in household goods.

After gaining a general knowledge of periods and tradition, the home maker needs a few practical hints on the choice of individual pieces.

First of all, there is the question of woods. Oak, cherry and cypress came into use in Elizabethan and Jacobean times; walnut, beech and holly were first extensively used between 1690 and 1700, the early American woods were pine, oak, walnut and elm, until 1820, when maple and mahogany from San Domingo were added to the list.

Many women ask: "May we use several woods in the same room?" Here again, I must plead for variety rather than monotony. Blended with care, several different woods give far more charm to a room than a "set" of any one material. Walnut is successfully combined with the duller colors of

New York Nov. 15, (United Press)—Twelve Carnegie Hall concerts of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will be broadcast on Saturday evenings, scattered through the fall and winter, by WJZ, New York and WGY, Schenectady.

The Saturday evening concerts by the Philharmonic are especially for students of music and subscriptions are available at prices, ranging from $3.50 for balcony seats to $12.00 for orchestra chairs for the entire series. Radio broadcasting is making this series of orchestral concerts under noted conductors available to an immensely wider audience.

The conductors for the series to be heard through WJZ and WGY are Willem Mengelberg, Arturo Toscanini and Wilhelm Furtwaengler. Opening October 30, Mengelberg will direct the orchestra for six concerts, October 30, November 6, 13 and 27, December 18 and January 1.

The noted Italian conductor, Toscanini, will conduct the concert of January 15 and February 5, while Furtwaengler will direct the remaining four, February 12, March 19 and 26, and April 2.

The concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, relayed to WJZ and WGY from WBZ, Springfield, will naturally be broadcast only from WBZ on the nights that the Philharmonic concerts are on the air. These concerts together with the series by Walter Damrosch and his New York Symphony Orchestra through the WEAF network will give listeners throughout the greater part of the United States such a schedule of symphonies as never before has been available. The unfortunate part of the arrangement is that all three orchestras will broadcast on the same night, Saturday.

BIG CENTER CHURCH

BAZAAR ON THURSDAY

An entertainment of unusual interest will be the feature of the big bazaar, which the Center Church people are planning next Thursday afternoon and evening. As the setting and decorations are to be Japanese the program also will be Japanese as far as possible. Mr. Remig, the committee chairman, has discovered as students at the Hartford School of Pedagogy some real Japanese, who also are experienced entertainers. The Japanese students are men and women of refinement, who are contributing their talents to the bazaar. They are friends and classmates of Miss Hazel Trotter at the school. Jobo Yosumura is a soloist and Miss Takaku and Miss Tapioka are jugglers. They will appear and perform in Japanese costume and will be accompanied by two Japanese children. In addition to this attractive Ernest K. Scheldge, a magician and ventriloquist of twelve years' experience with the White Bureau, will give feats of magic and conduct a Punch and Judy show. Little Lois Catherine Shelton will give a Japanese dance. Phyllis Kraetschmar and Laura Blasko will give a Japanese Fan dance and Janice Remig and Ursula Legerdahl will give a Yankee Doodle Clog dance. Part of this program will be given in the afternoon. All of it will be interspersed throughout the evening. How Scotland Yard got its name is a mystery. Many guesses have been made, one being that the king of Scotland and their ambassadors occasionally lodged there.

SIDEWALK CONSTRUCTION

With the completion of the walk and curb in front of the Lillian Cheney property on Park street there are now walks on both sides to St. James street. With the exception of a few places where blocks will have to be replaced the sidewalk work in Manchester for the season is about completed. Contractor Ahern has about 1,000 feet of walk to lay in the development of Lakeview on South Main street. TRADE SCHOOL WORK

SHOWN IN HARTFORD

The majority of the articles on exhibition in a Hartford market last week for the purpose of creating more interest in trade school work in that city, were supplied by the Manchester State Trade School. For some time, Hartford has been considering the advisability of building a state trade school. At present another movement is on foot to secure an appropriation for this purpose. It is apparent that Hartford will eventually erect a trade school. Last week an exhibition of the work done in trade schools about the state was held in the city. Samples of the work done at Meriden, New Britain and Manchester Trade schools were shown. Most of the products, however, came from our own school which had machine, mechanical, drafting, electrical and textile work on exhibition. The Meriden Trade school working in cooperation with the International Silver Company, has silverware on exhibition and the New Britain Trade had small tool and gauge work.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

BY SOCIETY SEGER Whereas, it has seemed good to the Ruler of the Universe to remove from among us our beloved friend and fellow member, Brother John C. The Ormond hotel is one of the chain operated by the Florida East Coast railways and is one of the biggest in that state. It numbers among its guests every winter some of the most prominent men and women in the country. Mr. D'Amico will not leave Manchester until next month. Two daggers, said to have been used by Col. CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruity laxative for stomach, liver, bowels

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm children and they love it

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated: this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-aches, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given. Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills: give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle. Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

Manchester Community Club Financial Campaign

Already we have nearly $2,500 subscribed for North End Recreational work. Only quarter way to the goal. Is yours in that $2,500? Your neighbor is helping. Will you? Be ready for the canvasser who will visit you. Recreation builds family life. It is nature's highroad to health. It assures a virile citizenship. Help the Community Club continue its fine work for our young folks. American cities last year spent more than five times as much on public recreation as they spent ten years before. One by one 300 cities have come to realize that it is cheaper and pleasanter to turn youthful energy into channels of team play and good citizenship than to try to reclaim a gang. Yet we are just at the beginning of crime prevention through recreation.

CANCER GERM ISOLATED, ANTI-TOXIN IS FOUND

John E. White, Malone, N. Y., and Dr. M. J. Scott, Butte, Montana. Definite Cures. In their reports, these doctors express the belief that the Glover discoveries have opened the way for what they believe to be the permanent cure of cancer.

The actual effect of the anti-toxin, according to clinicians, is to neutralize the toxins of the disease and enable nature to function properly and complete the healing process. Many of the cases treated at the clinics had, according to reports, run the gamut of the X-rays, radium and surgical methods.

Statistics show that the cancer mortality rate is heavy. Ochsner gives the average toll per annum in the United States as 100,000. A bulletin of the New York Board of Health shows in this city, from August 7 to October 30, inclusive, there were 1,735 deaths from cancer, an average of 131 a week or a grand average of more than 6,000 a year.

Medical history shows that cancer was prevalent hundreds of years before Christ and was treated by Hippocrates 2,500 years ago by cauterization with hot irons.

SURPRISE SPRUNG IN MURDER TRIAL

Well, he told others at other times. You knew there was a world waiting for the information? "I did not."

Case's volley of questions emphasized the importance of Nixon's deputation placing Mrs. Hall and her brothers at the scene of the crime. Nixon was then excused and Soper was recalled.

The two men passed each other exchanging places at the witness stand. Neither looked at the other as they passed.

Soper asked Soper if he had been called to testify before the grand jury in Somerset county in November, 1922. Soper replied that he had not.

He was called, even though he had told Detective Ferris David of Middlesex county, of having passed by the murder scene and of having seen an automobile there.

Quizes Defense Sleuth. David T. Libby was next called. He was asked to identify the hostile to the bribing Simpson. Libby is an investigator for the defense, Simpson brought out.

Planned to Elope. Somerville, N. J., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Eleanor Mills, slain chair slinger, and her husband, Wheeler Hall, were planning to elope, four years ago, shortly before they were shot to death.

They were going to Japan as soon as Charlotte (Mrs. Mills' daughter) was out of school, said Mrs. Barnhardt.

There was a mild sensation when it was charged by Charlotte Mills that a defense attorney had talked to one of the jurors. It developed, however, that the incident consisted in Juror Tillman having spoken to R. H. McCarter, of defense counsel, asking where he could find one of the judges.

Women made up the audience in court today for the most part. Almost every seat was taken when the defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens filed in at exactly ten o'clock.

Death has taken its thirteenth victim directly or indirectly connected with the Hall-Mills murder mystery. Charles E. Waite, former United States Department of Justice operative, died in a hotel in New York City.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Supreme Court Justice Forscheuer today reserved decision on the appeal of Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Browning for $4,000 a month temporary alimony and $25,000 counsel fees to defend the action for separation brought by her millionaire husband, Edward West Browning.

Cubs Smear Burnside 20-0; Cloverleaves 45, Lafayettes 0

Dietz Dashes 55 and 33 Yards for Touchdowns; Cubs Display Powerful Line Against Visitors

South End Eleven Wins Fast and Cleanly Played Contest; Visitors Never Threaten Despite Tully and Landers Brothers; Pentore Looks Good.

Manchester football fans may rest assured there will be sufficient opposition furnished the Cloverleaves if they tackle the Cubs for the town championship this year. That much was proved yesterday when the black and white jerseyed eleven from the South End easily disposed of the heavy All-Burnside gridsters at the Four Acre Lot. About 300 fans watched Coach Earl Wright's pointers team overwhelm the invaders 20 to 0.

The Cubs triumphed despite the fact that included in the lineup of the visitors was none less than Tommy Tully, considered one of the best quarterbacks in the state at one time. Tully is coach of the Burnside team but at the end of the first half, he was so disgusted with the playing of his team that he donned a suit and played through the second half outside of standing his color. Outside of a nearness made little difference. The Cubs kept the ball in Burnside's territory throughout the second half and scored once.

Comparing First Downs There remained no doubt as to which team was the better. Manchester had the ball continually in the enemy's territory. Burnside never even threatened once. Manchester made ten first downs against one. The strong Cub line was too much for the efforts of Tully's line-buckers. Burnside runners were repeatedly stopped at the line and often tossed for losses. Dietz 53-Yard Run Manchester's first score resulted from a fumble but the aggressiveness of the local players made it more than a mere break of a game. Connie Dietz, fleet-footed Cub halfback, picked up Benny Landers' fumble at midfield and raced 53 yards to a touchdown. However, his feat was far from only somewhat winded from a previous play, scooped up the ball and darted into an open field with no one between him and the goal posts. Despite the fact that he is a fast runner, Dietz appeared as a Burnside tackler who hurried himself at the local player from behind. It seemed that Dietz was sure to fall, but gathering up all his reserve energy, he broke free and again started for the goal. This time, nearly overtaken Dietz but Jimmy Mistretta neatly clipped him out of the play. Groman annexed the extra point via a kick from placement.

Mr. Dietz Again Seven minutes of play had elapsed when Dietz made the first score, but it was not the last, or his last. After Pentore had recovered a fumble on the Burnside 40 yard line, Dietz few minutes later skirted his own left end for a touchdown on a sprint of 33 yards. His run covered much more ground as he ran clear across the field and then, at the goal line, several more yards in dodging Burnside would-be tacklers. It was the prettiest piece of broken field running of the game. However, Red Cervini deserves great credit for his part in the play. The Cub fullback took out two Burnside tacklers at the start of the play when Dietz was crossing the field. Had he missed, Dietz would undoubtedly have lost at least five yards.

Half Smoother During the first half of the Cub offensive was not up to true form. Several times plays did not go as they were directed and resulted in opening chances for the defense. In the second half, it was a different tune. Following their instructions from Coach Wright, the Cubs came back a much improved team as far as the offensive was concerned. The defense was outstanding all afternoon. The Cubs worked together much better and should have scored at least twice more.

Antey Letty St. John "Antey" St. John proved himself the most consistent ground gainer in the Cub lineup when sent through the line but the biggest loser when dispatched around the end. He spoiled one chance for a score when he attempted to skirt right end with the ball on the Burnside 12-yard line. The result was a seven yard loss. St. John is a great man through the line or in a broken field but is slow in setting started to circle the ends. Groman and Dietz are the men for these plays and they showed their quality in this respect yesterday, making repeated gains.

Groman Helps Out The final score of the game came in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter. After Kerr's drop kick from the 25 yard line, had gone wide of its mark, the Cubs again gained possession of the ball and marched to the fifteen yard line. Three line bucks were unsuccessful and then Groman broke through left tackle and raced to within one foot of a score. Red Cervini put the ball over with apparent ease. He is almost a sure man for short gains. The kick from placement was blocked but

Table showing scores for Meriden Endeos and Saint Mary's against various players like Murphy, Silverman, McNamara, etc.

The Meriden Endeos, playing at top speed, defeated the Manchester Saints in a whirlwind battle in Meriden Saturday evening by the score of 38 to 26.

The original Manchester lineup started the second half and began to reduce the lead. After a while Madden, who had been playing a stellar game at guard, was ejected from the game because his quota of personal fouls had become exhausted.

Manchester fought right to the end, however and was still fighting when the whistle blew.

Kerr and Madden shone particularly on the defense for the Saints while Mantelli was the main cog in the offense. Roy Norris, tall center of the local team, received a crack on the head in the first half that rendered him dizzy for the rest of the game.

MANCHESTER WINS OVER WATERBURY

Manchester trimmed Waterbury at soccer yesterday afternoon at Brass Park in Waterbury by a score of four goals against two. It was a fast and well played game. Marshall tallied two of Manchester's goals, the other two being made by Nicholson and Wilson. Brown scored twice for the home team.

The Cloverleaves had a virtual "practice session" in their game yesterday at Hickey's Grove before a large crowd winning a one-sided contest 45 to 0. It was the most crushing defeat the local eleven has recorded this season.

McCarthy Recovers Fumble

The second score came shortly afterward. McCarthy recovered Howe's fumble on the kick-off. The Cloverleaves marched on the 21-yard line to within 4 inches of the goal but lost the ball on downs. New Haven kicked out to the 40-yard line. Brennan ran the ball back to the 21-yard line from where Captain Brunic Moske crashed over the goal line for the initial score. Brennan added a point by the drop-kick route.

Coach Moonan sent eight substitutes into the fray as the 2nd stanza began.

The third quarter was scoreless, two fumbles quarter Moske's chances to score. In the final session, however three more scores were chalked up. Moonan Scores The Cloverleaves received and marched to the 10 yard line to the 9 yard line. Walter Moske went over. Brennan made his placement kick good.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE JUDITH MARTIN, young teacher at Pendleton University, is admired by ERIC WAVERS, student, and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN resents her holding aloof from the faculty group, to mingle with student radicals.

MYRA ALDRICH, from Eric's home town, is jealous of his attentions to Judith.

Judith learns of Mrs. Timothy Brown's sad story and secret love, and, believing the dean a heartless tyrant, befriends her.

When "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, blackmails Mrs. Brown, Judith appeals to Eric for help.

Shea tries to force an entrance into the sorority house where Judith is staying for the Christmas holidays, alone, and she shoots in the air, frightening him away.

A few days later, Shea's body is found under his car, in a creek bed. Eric is arrested, because a letter in Shea's pocket is addressed to him.

Mrs. Brown is waiting at the boarding house for Judith, and says to her, "We've GOT to save Eric!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV

THE Stedway door opened and Miss Stedway appeared in the doorway, looking out. She saw the group on the lower steps, then turned back, closed the door and locked it audibly.

"Well," said Will. "She's cordial." Judith said no word. She was trying to speak.

Prudence Brown whimpered and pulled away from her. "Don't look at me like that. Don't—I tell you!"

Wetherel stepped forward, and with cool, masculine assurance, took the situation in his own hands. "You two women have got to calm down," he said. "This is no life and death matter—to act so cuckoo over."

Mrs. Brown sobbed. "But perhaps it IS a life and death matter. He might be hanged!"

"Now you two listen to me," said Wetherel. "I'll take you both to some place where we can talk quietly. It won't do to have your mysterious on the Stedway front steps."

Judith nodded. "All right," she said, dully. But Mrs. Brown went on sobbing. "No, I won't talk any more. I haven't anything to say before a third party. I'll only talk to Judith."

Wetherel tipped his hat. "Well, then, I'll be off. But I'd advise you two to be careful how and where you talk."

Judith put her arm around Mrs. Brown. "We'll go to the campus," she whispered. "There won't be anybody there at this time of night."

Mrs. Brown made a heroic effort to stop crying. They walked hurriedly up the dark street. "Look," said Mrs. Brown suddenly. "Who is that?"

Judith looked toward the street lamp. A man with a police dog was passing under it. "It's Dr. Dorn," whispered Judith. "Pull your hat down and your collar up." The dean's wife obeyed.

Judith quickened her pace, steadying her companion with her arm. They met Dr. Dorn just in the outer rim of the circle of light from the lamp. He raised his hat to Judith. "How do you do, Miss Martin?" he said formally, as they passed. Judith nodded to him.

"He didn't recognize you," she whispered to Mrs. Brown a moment later. "Though I suppose it wouldn't make much difference if he had."

"So that's the kind you are—primping and fussing with your hair, when Eric's in jail for you!"

"Oh, yes," cried the dean's wife. "My husband mustn't know I was with you tonight. Nobody must know anything. I've got to work alone—with your help. Somehow, we've got to save Eric."

one was sobbing on the bed. Judith switched on the light. Myra sat up against Judith's pillow. Myra was not a frequent visitor these days. For one thing, she spent a good deal of her time at her sorority house, to which she expected to remove the next semester. Her face was swollen and stained. She was clutching the front page of the newspaper extra, now torn and crumpled.

Judith calmly took off her hat and coat and walked to the dresser. Myra leaned forward, watching her, her body tense. When Judith sat down near the table, the girl on the bed burst forth. "So that's the kind you are—primping and fussing with your hair, when Eric's in jail for you!"

Judith grasped the edge of the table. "For me?" Her voice was faint.

"Yes," snapped Myra. "For you. And you don't even care. You're heartless and wicked. And you're as untrue to him as you were to me."

"What do you mean, Myra?" breathed Judith. She seemed somewhat dazed by Myra's tumbled words.

"Oh, you know," moaned Myra, relapsing into tears among the pillows. "You just don't want to understand. You can't fool me by acting dumb—like that."

Judith fingered the blotter on the table. Her eyes were wide with fear when she lifted them to Myra. "What did you mean when you said Eric was in jail for me?"

Myra was sobbing frantically. "Now he's in this awful mess, and even if they clear him, his name's ruined for good. And his father'll cut him off. He threatened to, twice before."

She sat up straight on the bed again. "You don't know all I know, you see. Poor Eric is ruined with his family. They'll never forgive him for the scandal he's raised, even if he's innocent. They don't really love him. They haven't any hearts—just pride."

Judith looked at Myra ironically. "You weren't talking this way about Eric's mother when she entertained you down here. I think you came in and woke me up to tell me what a lovely woman she was."

Myra tossed her head. "Don't talk nonsense, when Eric's in jail. Do something for him!"

Judith got up and began to pace the room. "I don't know what to do, Myra. I'm as helpless as you. Tell me what you mean about Eric's being in jail for me."

"Oh!" Myra lunged out. "If he hadn't come back to be with you, he'd have been out of danger. Shea he killed Christmas eve. Eric says he got back to see her next day. She can't prove it. And it's all because of you."

There's too much "slush" said and written about women. An English merchant once told me in a public house, some time ago. He was to give an address of tribute to the women's section of a branch of the British Legion. There was none of the "women, God bless 'em!" in Sir Ian Hamilton's speech.

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

"Woman's place is in the home." Get out the old family ear trumpet and prepare to hear this sung in tenor, bass, baritone, and plain awful.

There will be no sopranos and girlish altos that the person who makes a male production, because—

The government has just announced that more than one million women, 1,098,818 to be exact, last year. Their earnings totaled $3,228,942,092. In case you want to hear it again, it begins like this—three billion, et cetera.

Now, can't you just hear the army of unemployed or low-salaried males yell that if women would get back into the homes a fellow might have a chance to get a job and make a decent living these days?

There may be some little truth in what they say. But my observation has ever been that there is little free sentiment in the business world. The person who does the job best, be this person male or female, will get and keep the job. And as to salaries, the male certainly has his own way there. We wager that one million one hundred thousand males submitting income returns would have a total much more like five billion dollars than three billion, so they have no justified claim coming.

More or less connected with the above comments is the recent outbreak of Margaret Banning. She declares that although beautiful women than ever before, women have little or none of that feminine charm which once made them lauded as goddesses or even one of our ladies of lovely phrases. Mrs. Banning links this fact with the phenomenally successful business and professional careers which women are having today.

The fact cannot be dodged. Men do not emotionally like capable business and professional women. They may some day. But not yet. This sort of woman is still new. Generations of unfamiliarity and prejudice must be beaten down by more generations of familiarity and understanding before the woman of 27 with a $5000 yearly income, her own car, money in the bank, and the ability to pay for her own candy, theater tickets, and dinners will be found as desirable by the male as the sweet young thing of 18 who wears a pink coat but doesn't know how in the world she'll ever get it!

There's too much "slush" said and written about women. An English merchant once told me in a public house, some time ago. He was to give an address of tribute to the women's section of a branch of the British Legion. There was none of the "women, God bless 'em!" in Sir Ian Hamilton's speech.

DRESS WINDOWS WITH DAMASK, CHINTZ, LINEN

Over-curtains of taffeta, edged with narrow fringe and topped by a valance cut in English scallops, were used by W. and J. Sloane in this bedroom. Glass curtains are of marquette.

Glass Curtains Are No Longer White

By JAMES HLAUVELT The inspired textile makers of the twentieth century have seen to it that our modern houses shall go in purple and fine linen. Our curtains, rugs and slip covers may be as rich and costly as we choose, or as simple and quaint.

For the variety of fascinating textiles now available will satisfy every taste and purse. To be smart today, we will probably dress our windows in hand-blocked, linen or glazed chintz or damask. The velour and mohair curtains and upholstery of yesterday are no longer in style.

There was another drawback—they were too well! Every home maker knows the misery of owning a household article that simply won't wear out, and that is still too good to discard, though it has lost its desirability.

The modern decorator demands furnishings that can be changed often enough to keep the house interesting. The tapestries of past centuries were exquisitely beautiful and almost imperishable. But no one could imagine wanting to discard textiles that were masterpieces of art.

Modern looms are making beautiful tapestries also; but the old conventionalized patterns, with their exquisite jewel borders are a thing of the past. Modern tapestries are more vivid in coloring, more naturalistic in design, and modernistic in feeling.

I find damask, Brocade or linen most satisfactory for the modern American home, with sometimes a glazed chintz for variety. In choosing your over-curtains, select a sun-fast material if possible. However, any good material will do, if you are willing to line it for protection against the sun.

For glass curtains, the best material is silk or wool casement cloth, net, silk gauze or marquette. Lace curtains are definitely passe. The glass curtains nowadays must fit into the color harmony of the room.

the draperies and the room. It old cream white and ivory are not used in the most up-to-date homes. Do not be afraid to use in your glass curtains a lighter shade of the predominant color in the over-curtains. View the material with the sunlight shining through it, before you make your selection. Deep ecru or coffee colored glass curtains are attractive in a room which has a great deal of color. For example, you will use striped curtains and upholstery to accentuate the height of the room. You will also use stripes and a straight line arrangement of the material, to give accent to a room full of flowers and curves.

When the over-curtains are conspicuously patterned, you must cut the separate drapes so that their patterns will match when hung. This sometimes means a waste of material but is absolutely necessary to the beauty of your windows.

The valance, or skirt, which encloses the top of the draperies is useful as a decoration, and to lessen the height of the windows. It should be carefully shaped and fitted on a buckram frame. Roughly speaking, the valance should be about one-fifth as deep as the window is tall. Many decorators are omitting the valance, either to give the window height, or to economize on material and labor, or to lighten the total effect of the window treatment.

The old-fashioned pelmet, or narrow band of embroidery used in place of the valance to enclose the top of the window, is coming back into fashion. Painted boards are sometimes substituted for the valance. We usually make the over-curtains reach the floor, and the under-curtains reach the sill. All draperies should be hung with fifty per cent fullness. Tie-backs are either bands of material or silk cords. They may be omitted to increase the height of the window and give dignified straight lines to a florid room.

FATIGUE REMEDY FOUND TO BE MILD LAXATIVE. By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Almost every soda fountain, and certainly every drug counter, contains some preparation which is alleged to have particular virtues in overcoming that "tired feeling" man has constantly sought some panacea that would by a single dose remove the effects of wear and tear just as he has sought some potent remedy to rejuvenate the feebleness of the aged.

A few years ago a German pharmacologist, Embden, startled the world with the statement that acid sodium phosphate, given in small doses, would overcome fatigue.

Muscular Theory. Based on the view that muscles by their activities use up phosphorus, he decided that an additional supply of phosphorus would prevent the inevitable tiredness that comes with too much work. He gave the workers in a certain mine a drink containing about 75 grams of acid sodium phosphate on the morning of days when they were to undergo hard exertion.

Other workers were given a similar drink without the phosphate. Embden claimed that the workers who received the drink were able to do more work and for longer periods than those who did not receive the acid sodium phosphate.

"Character is of physical generation," said someone—it does not matter whether it was a psychiatrist, a doctor of the mind, or a physician, a doctor of the body. The phrase remains and it is worth more than passing consideration.

Take teeth for instance. Any orthodontist, a dental specialist who straightens teeth and the shape of the jaw bones, not only to improve appearance, but to perfect articulation, mastication and health, will tell you that poor teeth undoubtably have an effect on character.

Crooked teeth, undeveloped teeth, teeth that lie hidden in all sorts of places in the jaw that never see daylight unless dental skill gives them birth—such teeth press upon the nerves, and the whole mental and moral calibre of the child or adult is radically affected.

What is true of teeth is true of other parts of the body. A sick nerve may be so situated as to contaminate other nerves that may affect not only the health but mental and moral make-up.

To go further, take a person of sluggish constitution, whose organs function slowly and whose endocrine and ductless glands, are undersized, oversized, or stagnant. All of this may react directly or indirectly on the nerve centers and brain. Consider that new source of many ills, the culprit who now
