

CHENEY BROS. COMPENSATION LEADS STATE

Commissioner Noonan Tells Get-Together Club Em- ployees Are Better Off Than Under State Act.

In the opinion of Compensation Commissioner Leo J. Noonan the employees of Cheney Brothers are better off under the substitute compensation plan which the local firm operates than they would be under the Connecticut state law. Mr. Noonan, who is the commissioner for this Congressional district made that statement before 200 members of the Cheney Get Together club last night at the regular monthly meeting in Cheney Hall.

Mr. Noonan was introduced by Howell Cheney, who supervises the Benefit Association, the compensation organization of Cheney Brothers. Mr. Cheney said that the job of compensation commissioner was not an enviable one. He believed that Mr. Noonan filled it supremely well. Mr. Cheney recounted some of the bad situations which arose from the present compensation act. Most often the man who was hurt received nothing from the courts, and when he did, it was paid out to "ambulance chasers" or "sympster lawyers."

No Deaths Here
Under the present law the question of fault is put aside. The courts refuse to take into consideration who was to blame. Compensation is awarded in accordance with facts. Mr. Cheney said that in 70 years Cheney Brothers had operated without a single death occurring directly as a result of an accident. There have been but five major accidents since the firm's organization, as far as present records show.

The Cheney Benefit Association act which was authorized by the Legislature in 1911 was the first compensation law to pass in Connecticut and social legislation ever enacted by this state. It was also among the first of its kind in the United States.

Takes Four Subjects
Mr. Noonan said that he would discuss four questions he believed would be of greatest interest to Cheney Brothers workers. The four subjects were: 1, the employee status under the compensation act and the steps he must take if he does not want to be governed by it; 2, the relationship of the Cheney Benefit Association to the state compensation act; 3, the necessity of reporting an accident by the employee as soon after it happens as possible; and 4, awards for accidents due to gross negligence and carelessness.

When compensation acts first went before the Supreme court they were thrown out because they were compelling. The court suggested an elective compensation law, and the various states immediately prepared acts that would allow the employee and employer the right to reject compensation under the law, and the right to enter the common courts for awards. Under the Connecticut law the employee may reject the law, but he must then enter the common courts and the same conditions arise which had to be contended with before the law was enacted. The employer may reject the settlement under the compensation law, but he goes into court then stripped of all defenses. In reality, when the compensation act is rejected the suit becomes one of damages.

Greater Benefits
In considering the second question, that of the relationship of the Benefit Association of Cheney Brothers to the present state law, Mr. Noonan says that the Cheney employees have a substitute compensation law. Greater benefits are received under the Cheney act than under the state law. No allowance is made for dependents, wife and children, under the state law, while the Cheney act does provide for such an allowance. There have been but few disputes under the Cheney system while there are a great many under the state enactment.

Under the law there is in reality no appeal from the decision of the Benefit Association Board of Trustees. But Cheney Brothers have always allowed an appeal any time that a dispute has arisen. An appeal from the Compensation Commissioner's office under the state law is always based on a question of fact. If the higher courts find that evidence has been submitted upon which the commissioner could possibly base his finding, then the courts always sustain the commissioner.

Should Report Quickly
In explaining the third question, that of the time allowed for reporting accidents, Mr. Noonan cited several cases. He said that there had been the case of a girl who suffered from cancer in her right shoulder. She claimed that she had brushed her shoulder on a corner of a table while at work. She had not reported it, however, and her em-

PRISONERS MAKE OFF IN REFORMER'S AUTO

Rahway, N. J., Nov. 19.—J. F. Geyer, a reformer of Plainfield, N. J., addressed the inmates of Rahway reformatory last evening on citizenship and conduct, but four of the prisoners who probably needed the lecture most did not hear it. While Geyer was delivering the lecture, the four youths sawed the bars of a window and rode off in Geyer's automobile, parked on the grounds. A search for them was under way today.

CROOKS BOMB MAYOR'S HOME IN RUM FEUD

House Shattered, No Lives Taken, When Illinois Feud- ists Miss Aim as They Speed By.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 19.—Gangsters, speeding by in an automobile, hurled a bomb at the home of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, near here, today, shattering every pane of glass and blowing off the doors of the home.

The blast was heard for miles. The lives of the mayor, his wife and brother, Gus Adams, who were sleeping in the rear of the home, probably were saved by the fact that the bomb fell about ten feet short of the front porch.

The attempt on the life of the Adams brothers is the second to be made by gangsters, alleged to be members of the Birger faction, that has been made in recent days. Several days ago, two carloads of men rode through town and fired a fusillade of machine-gun bullets into the home of Gus Adams and a neighbor.

Homes Adjoin
The homes of the Adams brothers are adjoining. Their friends, the Shelton gang, bitter rivals of the Birgers in the southern Illinois feud, is said to have increased the latter gang against the mayor and his brother.

In the first attack it is believed that gangsters had intended part of the machine-gun volley for the mayor's home but owing to the speed of the cars, missed it. Today's attack occurred early this morning. The bomb tore a gaping hole in the front yard, the weather boarding of the house and practically every window and door was shattered.

Windows in houses on both sides of the mayor's home were blown out. A night watchman said he saw the car, from which the bomb was thrown speeding westward.

The car was traveling at such a rapid speed, he said, that he could not identify the occupants or tell the number of men in the machine.

The detonation of the bomb was felt more than a mile from the town. Had the thrower of the missile hurled it ten feet further and struck the house it is doubtful if the occupants would have escaped with their lives, officers said. No arrests have been made.

ANDREWS SEEKS HALF MILLION FOR SNOOPERS

One Spy Paid $10,000 a Year, More Than Dry Chief Gets, Committee Learns.

Washington, Nov. 19.—A half million dollar snoopers' fund for special prohibition agents during the next year is being sought by Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement. It developed yesterday during the House Appropriation Committee hearings.

In the last appropriation bill the prohibition unit was allowed $200,000 for undercover agents, informers and stool pigeons and for the purchase of evidence. The unit, however, expended something close to $380,000. This year in his testimony before the committee, Gen. Andrews asked that this special fund be raised to $500,000.

The lump sum appropriation for prohibition next year has been fixed by the Treasury Department at $13,280,000 or $2,500,000 more than allowed in the original appropriation for this year. The prohibition unit, however, was given a deficiency appropriation of approximately $2,500,000 so that in reality, the amount for next year's prohibition enforcement will be the same as this year's. This expenditure is exclusive of the work of the Coast Guard, amounting to as much more.

Informers Got $10,000 a Year
It was brought out during the hearing that A. Bruce Bielaski, New York undercover agent for the prohibition unit, who testified in the Dwyer trial, was paid at the rate of $10,000 a year. The sum is considerably more than the annual salary of Gen. Andrews himself.

TROUBLE AHEAD OVER U. S. ACT IN NICARAGUA

Grave Results Likely to Come From Protectorate; Mexico Resents Slurs at Her Government.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Extremely grave complications may arise out of the state department's establishment of a virtual American protectorate over Nicaragua. An open clash with Mexico is one of them. American marines are occupying Nicaraguan coastal ports and American warships are patrolling Nicaraguan waters under orders to prevent gun running and any more revolutionary fighting. The little republic.

There is an embargo on arms and ammunition from the United States to all Central American countries save Mexico, whose political liberals sympathize with the rebellious liberals of Nicaragua.

Far More Serious
If Mexico chooses to stand stiffly upon its sovereign prerogatives and send arms into Nicaragua, and American armed forces carry out their orders to prevent the entrance of such shipments, something far more serious may ensue between the United States and Mexico than the diplomatic controversy now going on concerning land and petroleum laws. The situation is admitted to be extremely delicate. Dispatches from Mexico City today told of keen resentment there over the summary action of the American State Department in establishing American naval forces in Nicaragua on a more or less permanent basis, and more particularly over accusations of "Bolshevism" and "Communism" leveled against the Calles government by the state department.

To Maintain Diaz
Ostensibly the American marines and warships are to be kept in Nicaraguan territory to protect American lives and property and to "discourage" further revolutionary activity of Nicaraguan liberals. Actually these forces are to maintain in the presidential palace Adolfo Diaz, who was elevated to that position last year under the auspices of the State Department's representatives at Managua, the capital.

The course of the State Department in the present Nicaraguan situation bears a marked resemblance to the course of the State Department in a Panama situation some years ago, prior to the building of the Panama canal. It is perhaps a coincidence that Nicaragua is to be the field for the second Atlantic-Pacific canal. Army engineers have already surveyed the route. The American government, in the Wilson administration, bought the perpetual rights for a Nicaraguan canal for $3,000,000.

Meanwhile, there were unmistakable indications today that a storm is brewing in Congress over the establishment of another American protectorate in Central America.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, announced today that as soon as the Senate convenes he will introduce a resolution demanding the recall of American marines and warships

PRINT ON THE PAPER, SHAW TELLS SWEDEN

Selling It Blank Leaves Britain Ignorant of Her Literature, He Says.

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 19.—The financial award of the 1925 Nobel prize which George Bernard Shaw yesterday refused to accept will automatically be funded and reserved for the Nobel library of the Swedish royal academy, it was learned today.

The Swedish newspapers today expressed their appreciation of Shaw's unselfish ideals and his practical wisdom in refusing to accept the money when he already has enough for his wages.

In rejecting the $37,500 which comprises this year's award, Shaw recommended that the money should be used to encourage intercourse in literature and art between Sweden and Great Britain.

"Sweden invites us to buy 'her paper,' the famous critic and playwright said, 'but there is nothing printed on it. The function of Swedish papers, it seems, is to wrap Australian apples. Yet Sweden's most valuable export is her literature, of which we in Great Britain are deplorably ignorant."

GET BRITISH SCHOONER
WITH $200,000 IN RUM
St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 19.—The British two-masted schooner Paloma, with a cargo of 5,000 cases of liquor valued at more than $200,000 aboard, and her crew of eleven, fell into the hands of the Coast Guard today. Cutters started to tow the capture to Savannah.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, the spectacular "Pig Woman" upon whose testimony depended the main hope of the prosecution in the Hall-Mills case, here is shown being sworn in as a witness. The head of her nurse appears near the face of Mrs. Gibson. Beyond the cot at the edge of the picture are the defendants, right to left, Henry Stevens, Mrs. Frances Hall and Willie Stevens.

CLUB'S CAMPAIGN OVER $5,000 MARK

Avalanche of Gifts Today— N. T. Pulsifer, New York, Sends Check.

Already Reported . . . $4,102.25
Added Today . . . 1,023.25
Total . . . $5,125.50

Comfortably over the $5,000 mark went the total for the Manchester Community Club campaign today. Result—great rejoicing among the club members. When the committee workers at the club headquarters in "The White House" found the $5,000 milestone safely passed a burst of enthusiasm followed in which an impromptu celebration was staged, with much chattering, congratulations and showers of paper confetti.

One of the very pleasing gifts received today at headquarters was the sum of $38.52 given by pupils of the Ninth School District. Community Club officials agreed that this was a fine example of neighborhood spirit. Furthermore, today's list included many other substantial donations from residents of the Ninth District, and these are deeply appreciated by the Community Club.

Check From New York
W. W. Robertson received in his mail this morning a check for $100 for the Community Club campaign sent by N. T. Pulsifer, of New York City. Mr. Pulsifer is remembered by other residents as the former head of the Oakland Paper Company's mills at Oakland. He is the president of the world-famous

JEW'S PLAN DRIVE FOR HUGE PALESTINE FUND

Gate at Boston to Plan Col- lection of $7,500,000 in U. S. in 1927.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Close to 1,500 delegates from forty states in the Union arrived today to attend the national conference of the United Palestine Appeal. Representing the bulk of the Jews of America, these delegates will gather here officially to greet Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization.

The conference will usher in the 1927 campaign for $10,000,000, to which sum the Jews of America will be asked to contribute $7,500,000. This will mark the most gigantic single effort engaged in by Jews of this country for the raising of funds for the re-building of Palestine.

"Truth," Says the Gibson Woman, Nearing Death

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 19.—"I have told the truth and I am ready to die," said Mrs. Jane Gibson, star witness in the Hall-Mills case, from her bed in the Jersey City hospital today.

She said this in a statement to Thomas J. Golden, secretary to Dr. George V. Hanlon, which she asked him to write down because she realized she had but little time to live.

"I have told the truth. Now let justice take its course. I told it four years ago, but people would not listen to me. It seemed to them that everybody connected with the case was looking for money. They tried to bribe me, and when that failed, they threatened me and they tried to poison my stock and burn down my home. They fore-

AIR BOOTLEGGERS USE FORD BARN

Plane With 14 Cases of Liquor Seized in Hangar at Dear- born Airport.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 19.—Henry Ford today was to personally direct an investigation into aerial bootlegging at his Dearborn airport.

State police last night seized an airplane, loaded with fourteen cases of whiskey, in the airport's hangar.

Ford arrived at the airport about the time of the raid. According to Inspector Ira H. Harmon, Ford said: "My men in charge of the airport have been suspicious for some time that aerial bootleggers were violating the courtesies and privileges we extend to all airplane pilots, by storing their planes overnight before hopping over to Canada shortly after dawn the next day to get their loads. We are bound to stamp this out, the more so because suspicion may attach to some of our own employees who possibly know about these activities."

AMOS DISCOVERS A FREAK KIDNAPING

Darlen Sleuth, Scenting Booze, Stumbles on Case of an Ab- ducted Taxi Man.

Darlen, Nov. 19.—When a taxi cab bearing a New York license whizzed by Amos Anderson here last night, he gave chase and after a run of two miles placed under arrest three men. When Anderson searched the cab he discovered another man, a prisoner, in the rear of the machine. This man, when questioned, told Anderson that he was a taxi driver and had been halted in downtown New York by three men, who asked to be driven to the Bronx. On reaching their apartment destination, the men attacked the driver, who gave his name as Vincent N. Politana. They then drove eastward.

All were taken to the police station and today were taken back to New York by detectives from that city. The three men gave their names as Arnold Moore, John H. Gordon and Charles J. Green, all of New York. The New York detectives say Politana is a bona-fide taxi driver.

OWLS AND GOSHAWKS VISIT MIDDLETOWN

Not Fraternists But Birds of Prey From the Far North; Now Shiver Your Shakes.

Middletown, Nov. 19.—An invasion of owls reached its climax here today when a barred owl perched on top of the cross above St. John's Catholic church at the head of Main street, roosting calmly on its perch 150 feet above the street.

While this owl was sleeping the day away an official of the state hospital reported a snowy owl, rare visitor from the north, flying about the grounds and moving within twenty feet of the observer.

Job: Frazier, a Cromwell resident, reported finding a snowy owl dead on the Cromwell meadows. Another snowy owl roosted on the weather vane that tops the Arrington hotel roof.

"With the arrival of the owls here a suburban resident today reported killing a goshawk that had attacked a flock of turkeys.

Four separate attacks by hawks on turkeys in this district have been reported in the last few days.

BIAST ON OIL TANKER KILLS SEVENTEEN MEN
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 19.—A terrific explosion aboard the Norwegian oil tanker Manilla, docked at Sparrow's Point, this afternoon is reported to have killed seventeen men and injured more than fifty others.

A call was received in Baltimore for aid and doctors and ambulances were sent.

STATE SERVANTS FOR 48 HOUR WEEK

Boston, Nov. 19.—Servants employed in Massachusetts are organizing to demand the state 48-hour law be enforced in households. The first organization meeting was presided over by George W. Palmer, one-time contractor, now a butler.

Palmer said he went into service to "understand the servant problem and help the women domestics." He said that in two years, during which time he had served twenty-four masters, he found himself "a wreck."

NEW ENGLAND'S TEXTILE TRADE IN NO DANGER

Here For Ages to Come, De- clares Big Mill Man; Filene Board Reports on Indus- tries' Needs.

Hartford, Nov. 19.—"The textile industry has existed in New England for ages past and it will be here for ages to come. It is needless to worry about the industry's future." So Edwin Farnham Greene, treasurer of the Great Pacific Mills, told the New England conference in one of its sessions here today. To keep the textile industry at its maximum, "research and applied science" are being called in by the industry's managers, and what they have done for the steel and oil industries, Mr. Greene declared, they will do for the textile industry.

In the same way Ernest V. Alvey, of New York, told what the Ipswich Hosiery mills have done to save their portion of the textile industry.

Filene's Report
The New England research committee, headed by A. Lincoln Filene, Boston merchant, reported his ideas as to what New England industry needs today, putting them under the following five heads: Emancipation from traditional ways of doing business; recognition of the fact that most of the industries are competing in a buyers' market; the need for closer co-operation between manufacturers and distributors and among individual concerns in different industries; keeping New England products up-to-date in accordance with the changing demands of the public demand and stimulation of that demand rather than waiting for a demand to develop; and more vigorous promotion of industrial development by New England communities through intelligent plans for the ultimate in financing surveys and other proved means of attracting new industries.

The Filene committee also suggested that the Council establish a department of research to co-operate with all New England industries and communities as well.

Advertising Viewpoint
Col. Frank Knor, Manchester, N. H., newspaper publisher, reported for the committee on public relations and community organization, declaring that the time has come for New England to talk back to those who insist in spreading unfavorable reports about New England conditions not in accordance with the fact.

The aim of the pension fund plan is to provide for the ultimate inability of the members of the fire department who are serving full-time. The district proposes to provide for the men who in time will be unable to perform their duties, Mr. Hohenthal said. There are various ways of realizing money for this purpose.

Services rendered outside the district often not rewarded. Sometimes rewards are also given for fine service at fires within the district. It was also pointed out that the money secured by sale of obsolete fire apparatus could just as

ONE COUNTY LOTTERY SALES $50,000 WEEKLY

Bridgeport Man Ran Three Pools, Is Arrested; Many Agents to Be Taken.

Bridgeport, Nov. 18.—"This form of gambling has been general throughout the county but there was no use striking unless I could get the man who was directing the business; when I could get him I struck promptly," said William H. Comley, state's attorney, today, in his first comment on the crusade started from his office two weeks ago against lottery ticket selling.

A fourth arrest in the crusade was made this afternoon when Sergeant Frank Virelli picked up Joseph Bunyak, of 200 Ann street, on a charge of violating the state statute against lottery ticket selling. Bunyak owned three lotteries: "Reliable," "Horseshoe" and "Flint."

The lottery tickets to the number of 75,000 have been sold in Fairfield County each week for a long time past at 60 cents to $1 per ticket and that people in every walk of life are known to have bought the tickets, is an informal statement made at the county court house today. Buyers of the tickets may be arrested for the sake of making examples while the crusade is on, while many other arrests of persons for selling tickets are assured.

Three men arrested before today and released in bail of $5,000 each are James C. Welch, of New Britain; Clifford J. Lewis and George Sherwood, of Bridgeport.

SIMPSON RESTS PROSECUTION IN THE HALL TRIAL

Last of Evidence Presented When Razor is Offered and 84th Witness Gives Testimony.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 19.—The state rested its case in the Hall-Mills murder trial at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon, on the thirteenth court day of the trial.

There was nothing dramatic about the conclusion of the state's case.

"That's our case," said Simpson simply, as he sat down quietly and mopped his forehead with a handkerchief.

Simpson had called 84 witnesses, forty less than were under subpoena. He was reported however, to be holding back one or two for rebuttal.

When the state rested its case, Robert H. McCarter of the defense rose with a plea to strike out evidence regarding Dr. Hall's card on which Willie Stevens' fingerprint was said to have been identified.

McCarter argued that the card had passed through many hands and that its history was not properly traced.

Judge Charles W. Parker denied the motion.

The defense made a motion that the testimony of Miss Millie Opie be stricken out as not having been connected with the homicide. She had testified regarding papers having been taken out of the Hall home and placed in an automobile. The judge denied the motion.

McCarter then moved to strike out the evidence of witnesses who had told of conversations they had heard regarding the slain rector's romance. This motion, too, was denied.

The Defense Opened its Case
At 2:30, with Attorney Clarence Case making the opening statement, he had a map of De Russey's lane put on the wall and illustrated his remarks with a pointer.

Somerville Proceedings
Somerville, N. J., Nov. 19.—Barbara Tough, maid in the home of Rev. Edward W. Hall, murdered minister, four years ago, was recalled to the stand today, in the Hall-Mills murder trial.

Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked her if after the murder of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills she had seen in the home the razor which he introduced in evidence a few days ago.

"I don't remember," said the maid.

The razor, it had been charged, was the property of Dr. Hall. Barbara Tough had been asked when she was on the stand before if Willie Stevens used a razor and she said she "shaved down now."

Can't Remember
"Did you see this razor in the house after the murder?" asked Simpson.

"I don't remember whether I did or not."

"Where was it kept?"
"In the medicine chest."

"Did you go to the medicine chest at all after the murder?"
"Yes."

"Do you see it?"
"I can't say I did."

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her brothers, Henry and "Willie" Stevens, the defendants, seemed to be in a happy mood when they came into court this morning. They shook hands with their attorneys and talked animatedly. Mrs. Hall smiled as she talked to the lawyers. She seemed in better spirits than on any day since the trial began.

Spectators crowded the little courtroom to capacity, but the throng at the doors was considerably smaller than yesterday when Mrs. Gibson told her story from a box.

Inspector John J. Underwood, right-hand man of Simpson in the investigation, was the next witness. Underwood said he had been working with four detectives on the case since August 8, last. He said he met Phillip Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror at the home of John S. Beggans in Jersey City and there received from Payne the professional card of Dr. Hall which the state contents bears the fingerprints of Willie Stevens.

Tracing Card
Beggans is commissioner of public safety in Jersey City and appointed Underwood as investigator in the Hall-Mills case. Underwood said Payne gave him the card on the evening of August 15. Underwood said he gave the card to fingerprint expert Dr. W. J. Drayton of Jersey City Police department.

Major Calvin H. Goddard of New York, a consultant on arms and ammunition identified photographs of bullets.

Simpson said he proposed to show that the bullets shown in the photographs were the bullets found in the body of Mrs. Mills.

"It is important that I show what kind of an automobile was used in the shooting," said Simpson.

are one of the best preventive measures developed. They keep children so busy that they don't have time to do the things they ought not to do. As a local instructor puts it: "Bill's been so busy stealing bases that he hasn't time to steal anything else."

The "Trouble" Hours. "Not everyone realizes how much free time children have during the school year. If their day is from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m., and if the school takes up the time from 8 to 4 there are six hours left free, each day for five days making thirty hours a week, and besides there is the whole long Saturday in which they can follow their whims. That makes forty-eight hours, or an equivalent for each child of nearly two entire twenty-four hour days a week of free time, not counting Sunday.

There are just as many temptations in the winter as in the summer, and the zest for them is equally great, if not greater, because the children are tied down to school work for so many hours that when they are released in the afternoon they may well be compared to spirited animals. They are ready for the first thing that offers itself.

If there is a Community center where they may turn for expression of pent-up energies, delinquency wanes. If a community closes its playgrounds after the summer months on the theory that children are different in winter from their summer natures, then trouble begins, and the juvenile courts are busy."

At Burr Nurseries. This noon the executive committee and a committee of canvassers visited the Burr Nurseries on Oakland street. C. R. Burg had marshaled his entire force, and Mark Holmes, in behalf of the Community Club, explained the purposes of the campaign. The solicitors then passed through the gathering and received many donations.

At E. E. Hilliard Plant. A very successful visit was made at the plant of the E. E. Hilliard Company yesterday noon. At 12:30 six automobiles containing the executive committee and solicitors drew up at the main office. Those present consisted of S. S. Simon, F. B. Clarke, Charles B. Loomis, Mark Holmes, Fred H. Wall, G. H. Washburn, Mrs. G. H. Washburn, Mrs. Oliver Bingham and Mrs. James Shearer. The party was met by Mr. E. E. Hilliard, who escorted them through the structure which has the distinction of being the oldest woolen mill in the United States, and led them into the new mill.

There is a great expanse of floor, flanked by huge piles of finished cloth in neat rolls, the employees of the firm were gathered. Mr. Washburn made the address, and the solicitors then passed through the entire mills. Many donations were received.

C. B. Loomis Views. Treasurer Charles B. Loomis feels that besides providing recreation facilities for grown-ups the Community Club, which has a strong following of local boys, is doing much to keep down delinquency. Director G. H. Washburn is especially popular among the boys. Mr. Loomis said today: "Juvenile delinquency knows no season and therefore a recreation program like the Manchester Community Club is as important for all year as it is generally conceded to be essential during the summer vacation months. Playgrounds keep children out of the courts. They

ABOUT TOWN

The Cyp club of Center church has issued invitations to young people's organizations in other local churches to be present at the lecture by Dr. Weston of Boston at Center church on Sunday, November 28. Professor Weston is one of the speakers at the Sunday school convention in Hartford at present in session. Sunday school teachers of Center church plan to attend the meeting this evening, leaving the church in automobiles at 6 p. m.

Albert Willis of Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, with Mrs. Willis and their daughter and son, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Willis of East Center street. Mr. Willis, who was formerly a resident of Glastonbury, has been in Nova Scotia for a number of years but has returned to Connecticut to locate.

Andrew Raleigh of Baltimore, Md., who was formerly a resident of South Manchester, has returned to town for the winter. He is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lewis of Cambridge street.

The young people of the Swedish Congregational church will serve a supper in the church vestry from 6 to 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Mrs. Rachel Munsie is seriously ill at her home on Center street and may possibly have to undergo an operation.

The M. X. club will meet this evening with Mrs. Arthur Starkweather of Starkweather street.

Miss Margaret Cudman of the Midland Apartments and a teacher in Hartford schools, is confined to her home with illness.

Miss Anna Denner of 58 Chestnut street has entered the Memorial hospital for a slight operation.

Group 4 of the Memorial Hospital Linen auxiliary will meet Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to sew. Anyone desiring help will be welcomed.

There will be a first annual masquerade given by Eleanor Duse Lodge, No. 1399, Daughters of Italy at the K. of C. hall Saturday evening, November 20th.

Last night a strictly amateur basketball team was organized at the Recreation Center. They elected as manager Oliver Gotburg and captain, George Weiman. This team is composed of twelve players out of the gym class. They have quite a few games scheduled. Most of them will be played away from home.

Mrs. Anna R. Miller of Spencer street announces the engagement of her daughter Eva M. Miller, to Fred W. Hecht of Naticoke, Pa. The marriage will take place on Thursday afternoon the 25th of November at 3 o'clock at the South Methodist Episcopal church.

OMNIBUS CREW SAVES DROWNING MAN'S LIFE

Rio De Janeiro (United Press)—The driver and conductor of a Rio omnibus became life savers long enough to pull an unfortunate bather from the waves on Copacabana beach, in Rio. The men, Isaltino de Souza and Joao de Mello, saw a swimmer struggling in the surf, obviously in distress. They left the bus, dived into the sea, and pulled the bather ashore.

The life saving omnibus crew received the government medal for distinction of the first class for their bravery.

SAWYER PICTURES NOW SHOWN IN MANCHESTER

A Complete Showing at Kemp's Music House.

One of the best known lines of pictures in this country, are now being sold in Manchester. They are the Sawyer pictures, and Kemp's Music House, has been chosen as the dealer in this town to handle this line.

The reason for the wide popularity of these pictures, is because they are genuine photographs of real nature studies, particularly of New England scenery, as well as other parts of the country. A great many of the pictures have been taken in New Hampshire, Maine, New York State, Vermont, and the far west pictures taken along the Mohawk Trail, Hudson River, Lake Winnepesaukee, and other parts of New England, are very popular sellers, as these places are often visited by people from Manchester.

There are beautiful lake scenes, mountain, orchard and forest scenes that are ever popular with the buying public. The photographs of these beautiful scenes bring out the natural coloring and shading in a most effective way. Roads are so natural, that one might think they were on them. Hills, valleys, streams, and woodlands are shown at their best.

A complete showing of these beautiful pictures, is now on display at Kemp's Music House, and as pictures make most desirable Christmas gifts, Mr. Kemp feels that the people of Manchester will take advantage of the unusually low prices of these Sawyer pictures and give pictures this Christmas. The public is invited to look over the display. The north show window is very prettily decorated this week, with a display of these Sawyer pictures, as well as a very fine showing of "cat pictures" which are now very popular.

ADDITIONAL TRAIN SERVICE
Effective Monday, November 22 the New Haven Railroad announces that an additional round trip service will be placed in operation week-days between Willimantic and Hartford. The new train will leave Willimantic at 7:10 A. M., stop at Andover 7:30, Bolton (flag stop) 7:45, Manchester (to leave passengers at 8:02), and will be due at Hartford at 8:20 A. M. Returning the train is scheduled to leave Hartford at 8:10 P. M., Manchester (to take passengers) 8:30, Bolton (flag stop) 8:45, Andover 9:00, and due Willimantic at 8:20 P. M.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Wednesday evening the Debating Club held its first social night of the year in the assembly hall. A debate on the strike question was held. Mr. Quimby, substituting for a speaker who could not attend, and Joe McCluskey spoke on the affirmative side of the question, and Geraldine Dodwell and Jacob Rubnow took the negative side of the question. As there was no decision rendered, nobody knows who won.

Considering the fact that it was the first debate of the year, it wasn't so bad. The three student members of the club who spoke had quite a scrappy and well prepared debate. The rebuttal was thrown open to the entire club, so that everyone might be permitted to voice his opinion.

The attendance last evening was large, and after the debate a one-act play was put on. Emma Strickland and Bob Mercer took part. Their interpretation of the two roles was extremely good, since they had had only two days in which to prepare the play.

After the play had been given, games were played, following these dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Art McKay's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

There will be a band rehearsal this evening in the assembly hall. The band will play at the football game in Willimantic Saturday, and so this rehearsal will be extremely important. Bandmaster Harold Turkington earnestly requests that all members be at the hall promptly at seven o'clock so that as much time as possible may be put into the rehearsal.

WARRANTY DEEDS
Following are the seven property transfers recorded in the Warranty Deed book at the Hall of Records this week up until yesterday noon:

Robert B. Calvert to E. J. Holl Lot 27 with buildings thereon in Marvin Green tract.

James Hopa to Fred and Mary Hope undivided 1-3 interest in Lot 2 in Rolston tract on Florence street.

Sarah J. Little and Margaret McKinney to Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Wilson land on Holl street.

Anton Kendall to Bernard and Daniel Bursack property on Hartford road.

Manchester Construction Company to Vincent Flebick, Lot 55 in Midvale tract.

Edward J. Holl to George Forbes, Lot 35 in Hollywood tract.

Edward J. Holl to Stella L. Hayes, Lot 74 in Hollywood tract.

COMEDY DUO TOPS STATE VAUDEVILLE

O'Connor and Wilson Keep Audience Happy—Connie Talmadge in Feature.

A well balanced bill of vaudeville was presented at the State theater last evening. This week the State has secured five acts, each entirely different from the others, and gives a real variety in entertainment.

Billy and Ethel were the performers in the first act, a revolving ladder act. These two evidently liked to show folks how nearly they could come to breaking their necks without really doing so.

Next came "The Four Caddies." Presumably they were supposed to represent several things. Some of them they represented, but others not so well. As a quartet they were good. What especially pleased last night's audience was imitations of a banjo song, and an imitation of John McCormick singing on a Victrola.

Following them came Hattie Althoff and Co. Miss Althoff did some clever impersonating, while another member of the company showed the audience how to make fingers play tag with a grand piano.

Several popular songs and dance numbers were also good. What was funniest, perhaps, was the French conductor who evidently didn't know whether to conduct the orchestra or not, and was always trying to decide.

The fourth act was the one which made the biggest hit last night. O'Connor and Wilson are quite a comedy duo. They brought down round after round of applause.

The last act was the Caulfield Ritchie Revue. There were so many and such a variety of steps, and novelties in this act that it was almost impossible to take in everything. The audience also accorded this act much applause.

The feature picture was "The Duchess of Buffalo" with Constance Talmadge. It is a picture with many comical situations in the midst of snowy Russia.

READY FOR HEAVIEST TRAFFIC OF SEASON

State Hopes to Keep Traffic Record Clean—Expect 40,000 Cars on Roads to Bowl.

A careful effort to keep the state record clean throughout the intercollegiate football season will be made by state, New Haven and West Haven authorities today and tomorrow when nearly 40,000 cars will be brought into state highway traffic, it is expected, on account of the Yale-Harvard football classic at New Haven.

It will be the last big football game of the season at New Haven. The state police department reported today that the Yale-Army and Yale-Dartmouth games, both of which attracted to the Yale Bowl crowds larger than the entire population of some Connecticut cities, went off without any traffic casualties of consequence on the main highways into New Haven.

Tomorrow traffic will be fully as heavy, if not heavier than that brought out by the Yale-Army game, although the Bowl itself having been packed to capacity for the latter, will not accommodate any more people. But there is invariably heavy interstate traffic on Yale-Harvard football days, owing no doubt to the large number of Harvard undergraduates and alumni who make the trip to New Haven by automobiles.

The state motor vehicle, highway and police departments are co-operating with the police of New Haven and its environs, the New Haven Automobile Club and the Connecticut Company, along the lines followed but at the serious big games in New Haven, to keep traffic congestion down to the minimum and avoid accidents.

While the state police report for the Army and Dartmouth games indicates good traffic conditions on the state highways, New Haven city reports indicate the occurrence of several minor accidents within the city limits, most of them at street intersections. Nineteen cars were thus involved at the time of the Army game and forty-seven at the Dartmouth game which brought in considerably more traffic from other states.

BOWLING

Clara Jackmore and her sister Nan Taggart won a special match from Martha Boyle and her sister Mae Sherman last night at Murphy's alley. The margin was 21 pins. Nan Taggart made the high single with a score of 106. The high three string went to her also, 269. The Boyle sisters won the first game by three pins but lost the second and third by margins of 18 and 6 respectively. A large audience witnessed the much heralded match. Howard Murphy presented each of the girls with a box of chocolates as a reward for their efforts. The scores:

Jackmore Sisters
C. Jackmore ... 77 77 76-230
N. Taggart ... 79 106 84-269

Boyle Sisters
M. Boyle ... 65 85 78-228

PUBLIC POLO MATCH AT TROOP B ARMORY

Polo of the fastest and most expert type will be seen at Troop B Armory in West Hartford tomorrow night when two complete games of four periods each will be played and the entire evening's entertainment will be open to the public without charge. No seats are to be reserved except those in the season boxes and some of the finest players of Hartford and Springfield will be seen in action, many of the ponies used being privately owned, thus assuring unusually interesting examples of what a well-trained pony can contribute to the game.

Play will start promptly at 8:30 and as a capacity audience is expected at this demonstration of what indoor polo offers in the way of thrilling competition, it is advisable for out-of-town spectators to be on hand early.

The teams scheduled to play are so evenly matched that neither of the games has been termed a preliminary, and the type of players is assurance that there will not be a dull moment.

The Blue Herons team, which is new to audiences at the armory, will be opposed to the Troop B team. In one match, The Blue Herons consist of Leon C. Dewing of Hartford, at No. 1; James O. Safford of Bloomfield, at No. 2; Lewis J. Powers, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., at back and Edwin S. Dewing as substitute.

For Troop C, the team which defeated Fort Ethan Allen at the opening game of the present season, the line-up will be Robert R. Steiger at No. 1; Lieut. M. A. Wilson at No. 2; Benjamin Aninger at back and Barclay Robinson as substitute.

In the other game, the Troop E team will play against the Freebooters. For Troop E, Private Esdor will play No. 1; Lieutenant Richard Henderson will be No. 2 and Lieutenant Carl Nelson will be back.

On the Freebooters team Lieutenant E. S. Tracy will play No. 1; Staff Sergeant Byron A. Peyton will play No. 2 and Captain T. E. Voigt will be back.

Captain Charles P. Pendleton of Troop B will referee both games.

PHIL PLANT SEEKS DIVORCE IN PARIS

Paris, Nov. 19.—The romance of Constance Bennett and Philip Plant is dead, according to society gossip here. Plant, the young millionaire, left yesterday for Africa on a hunting expedition with his step-father, Col. William Hayward. This trip is made in attempt to make young Plant forget his shattered romance, it is said, and it is reported that before he left he made arrangements for a divorce.

The marriage of Plant and Constance Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett, the actor, came as a considerable surprise to New York society a little more than a year ago.

Motorists in Britain who wish to do part of their traveling by train may do so, carrying their cars at special rates.

LOCAL BOY GIVEN PARTY IN ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Francis McKinney, small son of Mr. and Mrs. William McKinney, Eltro street, who has been confined to the isolation hospital in Hartford for the past five weeks with a serious attack of diphtheria, passed his twelfth birthday at the hospital Tuesday of this week, and wants all his schoolmates and friends to know how happy the day was made for him.

One of his nurses at the hospital made a birthday cake for him and arranged a special chicken dinner in his honor. His friends and classmates here "showered" him with birthday greeting cards. Miss Ruth Manson his teacher in the seventh grade at the Barnard school sent a beautiful bouquet and the pupils a crate of oranges. Miss Catherine Shea, a former teacher, also remembered him with cut flowers, and altogether he had the happiest birthday possible under the circumstances.

Francis is making as favorable progress as can be expected when it is known that his particular case of diphtheria was only the second of its nature, according to his physicians, since the establishment of the isolation hospital. The disease has caused grave complications, but the doctors are optimistic as to his complete recovery.

English bell-founding is now so highly regarded that orders for bells are now being received from Dutch and Belgian towns, though the low countries are the home of the carillon.

TENEMENT FIRE FATAL TO TWO, PERHAPS FOUR

New York, Nov. 19.—Fire which swept a tenement building on Madison Avenue early today killed two persons and resulted in serious injury to four others. Twenty-five persons trapped by the flames were carried from the building by firemen. The dead are: Hyman Bush, 42, a tenant, and his 11-year-old daughter, Emma. Bush's wife, Rebecca, 37, and their two other children, Dora, 9 and Esther, 6, and a boarder, Emanuel Borg, were overcome by smoke. Physicians said the children had little chance for recovery.

ANNULMENT FACTS

Cardinal Bourne Considers Full Publicity in the Marlborough Case.

London, Nov. 17.—Publication of the evidence taken by the Diocesan Council and presented to the Rota Tribunal in support of the decision to annul the marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt, is being considered by Cardinal Bourne, it was learned today.

Criticism of some newspapers and in some ecclesiastical circles has been so severe that it is understood some of the advisers of Cardinal Bourne have suggested to him that he should make public the evidence to show that the annulment was only granted after the most careful inquiry.

Reverend Vincull, who acted as defender, during the hearings on the petition for annulment is understood to have made a prolonged fight against the granting of the annulment and to have personally interrogated the petitioner, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, as to why she had waited twenty-five years before seeking an annulment on the plea that she had been coerced in the marriage by her parents. The reply of the petitioner is reported to have been that she was "never reconciled to being the wife of the Duke of Marlborough and never ceased to protest."

Catholic circles here are considerably aroused over the criticism which the case has aroused, and a spokesman for the church today denied that there had been any partiality shown in the reaching of the decision for annulment because of the high station of the parties concerned.

PLANNING TO CUT

RADIO DEADLOCK

Leaders of Opposing Factions in Congress to Get Together For Solution.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Machinery was set in motion today to break the congressional deadlock over radio control and secure early enactment of legislation in the forthcoming session to cover every phase of radio broadcasting.

Senator C. G. Dill, Democrat of Washington, and Rep. W. H. White, Republican of Maine, authors of conflicting bills and leaders in the fight which resulted in the whole subject being sent to conference committees of House and Senate, have agreed to meet within ten days and iron out all minor differences.

The big question, to be left for the conferees, is whether one man or a commissioner shall rule radio. The Dill bill provides for commission control, while Rep. White would give Secretary of Commerce Hoover authority to regulate broadcasting, subject to decisions of an appeal board.

ASKS DIVORCE FROM

SURGEON, MISSING

Bridgeport, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Edith Selby Bill of this city, today instituted divorce proceedings against Dr. Philip W. Bill, who until his disappearance two weeks ago was the leading physician and surgeon of Bridgeport.

Mrs. Bill asks a divorce and alimony. She charges cruelty and misconduct, the misconduct occurring at an unstated time.

Shortly before he disappeared, Dr. Bill decided the Clinton avenue house to Mrs. Bill. A report that he had given his wife a check for $50,000 was denied.

OHIO ALSO SERVES

Washington, Nov. 19.—Ohio comes forward with a concrete assurance that President and Mrs. Coolidge will enjoy an approved Thanksgiving meal. A large crate containing three very heavy, and very live turkeys arrived at the White House this morning. They were the gift of People's National Bank of Mount Pleasant, O.

MILLIONS USE IT TO STOP A COLD

NICARAGUA.

We shall be greatly mistaken if it does not turn out that Secretary Kellogg has poked a hornet's nest. He has, with the greatest promptitude, recognized a government of Nicaragua which bears extremely suspicious symptoms of having been handpicked by Mr. Kellogg's man in Nicaragua.

American marines will be maintained in Nicaragua and American warships will patrol its coast. The State Department announces, "until all need for their presence is ended."

Secretary Kellogg's obsession of revolutionary radicalism breeding in Mexico—and everywhere else on earth, for that matter—is becoming a bit tiresome. The proceeding in Nicaragua is outrageous. That affair is none of our business. Into the bargain, Kellogg has dealt an entirely unnecessary slap at the Calles government.

Americans do not want a war with Mexico. Some few big business men may, but the fathers and mothers of the boys who would have to fight it decidedly do not. And if Kellogg isn't driving the ship of state as straight as that rock as he knows how, we are much mistaken.

It is very seriously to be hoped that President Coolidge will give him an early and emphatic tip to back up.

MARIE'S DEPARTURE.

Whether the departure of Queen Marie from America in advance of her scheduled time for leaving is entirely due to the physical condition of King Ferdinand, it is perhaps not untruthful to say that a great deal of optimism indeed for anybody, let alone her Rumanian majesty, to declare the American visit a complete success.

Marie, evidently, has entertained rather picture-book notions of democracy. She came over here, evidently, under the impression that Americans were conscious, every minute and all of them, of their equality with anybody, anywhere, at any time and in any place—and especially with one another.

Instead of a nation Marie has encountered a nation slightly uneasy, not from any consciousness of inferiority—far from it—but at the unaccustomedness of the experience of entertaining royalty, and just a little Main-street in expressing its lack of poise in jokes. Naturally a good many of the jokes, being nervous ones, have lacked delicacy and appropriateness.

And naturally, too, when Queen Marie did her own selecting of her American intimates, she ran the risk of bringing together some irreconcilable chemical elements which had no notions at all about mutual equality—and she had no luck with the risk.

The royal tour, for these reasons and others related, has really lasted about as long as it could without degenerating into something very like burlesque. This is a very good time indeed to bring it to an end.

It is a pity. Not that we particularly need kings and queens in our business, but we do need more knowledgeable contact with the outside world. We are as insular as you please, and incidents like this show it.

BAD TACTICS.

From now till the jury takes the case the defense in the Hall-Milly trial will be fighting for salvation. Four days ago the case erected by the state looked feeble. Today, with the tremendously dramatic testimony of Mrs. Gibson in the record, it is a very different looking case indeed. And the defense helped to make it what it is.

It is easy enough to imagine the effect upon the jury if the defense, instead of cross-examining an almost dying woman for two hours and a half, had put the onus of the cruelty of bringing her into court upon the prosecution and had refused to be a party to such proceeding by refusing cross-examination altogether. A telling effect on that jury—or any jury in its place—would have been resulted. Instead, a heartless grilling and grating in strengthening the testimony given by the heroic woman.

If that jury, after that merciless, utterly cruel and frankly desperate strategy of the defense, can fail to believe the story told by Mrs. Gibson it will have to be an extraordinary body of men.

BERGIN OIL.

If, as the news dispatches are telling us, the German Bergin process for reclaiming oil from coal cuts the cost to the neighborhood of $20 against $35 for imported fuel oils of equal potentiality, then it would appear as if the Germans had something revolutionary in their possession.

Employment on a large scale of such a process by a great economic factor like Germany would work two ways to reduce the price of natural oil. In the first place it would take the country using it out of the field of competition for the product of oil producing nations; and it would also automatically promote the development of oil-from-coal in other countries, even though, as in this case is intimated, the country owning the process should decide to keep it secret.

That the Germans did, indeed keep their dye patents secret for years was far less due to incapacity of other peoples to duplicate them than to lack of interest. It is doubtful if there would be any such lack of interest in the case of a low priced oil. And it is equally incredible that, if once they set about it, French or American or English chemists could not speedily find out what was that the Germans were doing with coal.

At all events, the Bergin process seems suddenly to have jumped largely into public notice. And since the object it aims at is an essentially sound one, economically, it would not at all be surprising if something important developed from it in the not distant future.

"GHOST STAG."

The "ghost stag" of the Adirondacks has been killed. For ten years a magnificent buck deer, now grown to the ten-prong stage of antler, had baffled hunters of that region. A New York state assemblyman gets the distinction of bringing him down.

Many of the finest kind of men hunt deer. Yet there are a great many persons who will not thrill to the achievement of the New York man.

A stag is a noble creature, one of the most beautiful things on earth when he is vibrant with life. Dead, stiffened, converted into a rather inferior sort of meat, he is nothing wonderful. And not to be little the achievement of outwitting so canny an animal as a ten-year-old buck, it is, after all, no great thing to pull a trigger and turn loose a bolt of death fabricated by somebody else in a factory. There is no combat, no victory won at personal hazard, about plunking a thirty-three into a deer. And the effect is about the same as shooting a cow. The animal dies, and that is the end of it.

How many more years that stag would have roamed the recesses of the Adirondacks, if it hadn't been for the intervention of the New York man, nobody knows. How many more times he would have seen the sun come up, how many more thousands of miles his slender legs would have carried him through woodland coverts, is to be guessed.

Anyhow, a personality is ended by a rifle shot.

We do not intend to find fault with the institution of hunting. But sentimentally we wonder whether sometimes the better sportsmanship does not lie in finding the quarry—and then withholding the fire.

NOT APPLICABLE.

Connecticut manufacturer might say to the research committee of the New England Council, now meeting with the New England Conference at Hartford, in the words of Hugh Wylie's Wildcat:

"You talk sense but you ain't talking to us."

When the research committee says that New England textile manufacturers have not assumed such functions as style planning and forecasting, but have permitted these functions to be assumed by the converter, the jobber or the retailer, it is quite evidently thinking about the textile mills of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island perhaps. It certainly did not refer to the Cheney Bros. establishment in Manchester, where, for years, precisely the thing has been done that the research committee now suggests ought to be done.

SHAVIAN.

It might have been known he would do it. George Bernard Shaw, wittily accepting the spirit of honor of the Nobel award, declines the $40,000 that goes with it. He wisely suggests that the money be used to make Sweden better acquainted with British literature and Britain better acquainted with Swedish literature—which is a graceful and intelligent suggestion if there ever was one.

We should have known Shaw would not take the money because nobody ever thought of such a thing as his not taking it. Such is the Shavian way.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Nov. 19.—If the United States Senate refuses to seat William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith, as seems far more than likely, the organization—that is to say, the committee membership—of the upper house in the 70th Congress will be dictated by Senator Henrik Shipstead.

With Vare and Smith out of it, the Senate lineup will be: Democrats, 47; Republicans, 46; Farmer-Labor, 1.

The Farmer-Laborite is Shipstead.

The Democrats will submit their list of committee candidates. The Republicans will submit theirs. The Democrats will cast 47 votes for theirs and if Shipstead votes with them that will clinch it. The Republicans will cast 46 votes for theirs and if Shipstead votes with them he'll make it a tie, which Vice-President Dawes will break by voting with the Republicans.

The 46 Republicans include six irreconcilable "Progressives," who will vote against the regulars on most propositions, but their precedent is to throw their strength to the latter on committee assignments.

Presumably they will do so on this coming occasion. This is assuming that the regulars' committee selections are reasonably acceptable to the insurgents, but it's safe to predict that they will be. The regulars will win their own organization. They'll realize that their only way of getting it is by at least semi-satisfying the insurgents—and also Senator Shipstead. So they will have to make concessions.

So will the Democrats. The Democrats have less insurgency in their ranks than the Republicans. They will not have to make many concessions to insurgency in their own ranks, but must make them to Senator Shipstead. Otherwise he'll vote with the Republicans.

Congressional committee assignments are highly important. The committees don't have quite the last word to say on pending measures. Their recommendations can be turned down, but they seldom are. Occasionally they are a good deal modified, but they generally get through in substance.

A committee can also pigeon hole propositions it doesn't like, and when that happens, it is extremely difficult to drag them out into the light again.

Then there's prestige. A Republican administration doesn't like to have a Senateful of Democratic committees.

And a Senateful of Democratic committees can seriously run the program of a Republican administration.

Even an insurgent feels under some slight obligations to his party label. Usually he thinks he has discharged them by voting for his party committees. Up to that point, unless his feelings are too violently outraged by selections he disapproves of, he's regular. This applies to both Republicans and Democrats.

But Senator Shipstead has absolutely no strings on him. He has complete freedom of choice between the two big party committees. What's more, it seems pretty certain that he will have the casting vote between them.

So the next Senate, in all probability, will be organized by Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota.

Old Masters

Like as the waves make toward the pebbled shore,

So do our minutes hasten to their end;

Each changing place with that which goes before,

In sequent toil all forwards do contend.

Nativity, once in the main of light,

Crawls to maturity, wherewith becomes crown'd,

Crooked felings 'gainst his glory fight,

And time that gave, doth now his gift confound.

Time doth transfix the flourish set on youth,

And delves the parallels in beauty's brow;

Feeds on the rarities of nature's truth,

And nothing stands but for his scythe to mow:—

And yet, to times in hope, my verse shall stand,

Praising Thy worth, despite his cruel hand:

—Shakespeare: Revolutions.

New Rugs for Thanksgiving Decorating featuring new shipment just received

NO MATTER what room you are planning to refurbish for Thanksgiving, be it the dining room, living room or a bedroom, you should start with the floor coverings. The general rule is to have your darkest color on the floor, working to lighter tones in upholstery, draperies, wall hangings and ceiling (in the order given). If you are just planning to freshen up a room by the addition of a new rug, then you should select it now. Many big shipments from the leading mills in the country have been received this week and our stock is now extremely large and the variety great.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 19.—James W. Dean, who once upon a time signed his name to this daily letter, wandered into town the other day for the first time in a couple of months.

I asked him, as an old-timer who once kept a keen eye on the Manhattan passing show, what in particular caught his attention.

"It's the way this darn town changes," said Dean. "I came through here on the way to the Dempsey fight. I stood at the very window from which I'm looking now, and I saw a building begin to sprout, like a slender stalk of corn. Today I look out and there stands a 20-story giant with a big sign out telling me that offices are for rent. And that's just between the light and now. I don't dare go down town."

Again! Not many weeks ago I noticed the wreckers doing their worst on old Delmonico's. Ah, thought I, I'll drop by and pick up a few picturesque details about old Delmonico's in wreckage. Arriving at the spot, a spearlike structure, beautiful in line and eccentric in needle-like design, hit my eye. I thought I was on the wrong street.

"Say," I asked a policeman, "Where's the old Delmonico ruins? I'm all bewildered." "There it is," he said, pointing to the monument of steel and concrete.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By AUSTIN H. CLARK Smithsonian Institution

Things are not always what they seem to be. For instance, this is an animal and not a plant. It has a long stem which raises its flower-like top high above the sea floor. But down among the branching arms it has a mouth into which continually flows a stream of the little microscopic creatures of the sea.

How does it catch these? Each of the feather-like arm branches has on the upper side a little groove lined with little cilia always beating downward toward the mouth. These catch the microscopic creatures and pass them on to others until they reach the mouth.

These creatures, called sea-lilies, have a jointed, limy skeleton of more than two million separate bones. They are so brittle they can only live where it is very quiet and the action of the waves is very slight; that is, in deep water.

This type of sea-lily I have dredged in great abundance on the south coast of Japan in water from 300 to 812 feet deep. They are found southward to Tasmania, and very similar ones are abundant at certain places in the Caribbean region, especially near Havana, Cuba.

CONDITION OF STATE ROADS

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19

Road conditions and detours in the State of Connecticut made necessary by highway construction and repairs announced by the State Highway Department as of November 17th, as follows:

New Canaan-Poundridge road, route 184, is under construction, slight delay to traffic.

RUSSIA ABOLISHING MARRIAGE CEREMONY

Takes One Step Further Toward Making All Unions of Equal Responsibility.

Moscow, Nov. 19.—Complete abolition of the formal marriage ceremony was one step nearer in Soviet Russia today. The All-Russian Central Executive Committee gave its approval to a bill proposed by the council of People's Commissaries which abolished all legal differences between registered and unregistered marriages.

Despite strong protest from many peasant communities the executive committee passed the bill with only one dissenting vote.

Proponents of the bill declare that it discourages promiscuous relations since it enforces legal responsibility.

Opponents of the bill declare it is bound to make for polygamy.

Peasants in Revolt

Copenhagen, Nov. 17.—Reports that peasants are in revolt against the Soviet government are again current here. Peasants in the Pskov district are reported to have killed several Soviet officials in the town of Rostov.

A six-hour battle between the peasants and the Soviet troops is reported near Pskov, with the peasants finally put to flight.

WITH 3 DEGREES, FAILS TO HOLD JOB, SUICIDES

New York, Nov. 19.—Discouraged because of his failure to hold a position in a restaurant, Frederick Stoney, 24, possessor of degrees from three universities, jumped to his death early today from his tenth floor apartment on Riverside Drive.

"I don't understand why college men are not given more consideration," he said to a doorman in the building, a few hours before. He lived with his mother, a widow.

THANKSGIVING 1926

All Ready for Thanksgiving!

Thanksgiving Day is coming—the day when everyone of us expects to be either guest or host—a day when a man is pretty sure to meet folks he wants to impress favorably. You'll want to look your best.

We're splendidly ready with correct clothes, furnishings and footwear of good quality, moderately priced. Checking the list at the left may prevent overlooking some important item.

From Top to Toe Your Thanksgiving Needs are Here!

Soft Hats, Caps, Mufflers, Gloves, Collars, Ties, Negligee Shirts, Dress Shirts, Shirt Jewelry, Neckwear, Underwear, Hose, Garters, Belts, Suspenders, Oxforas, High Shoes, Overcoats, Mackinaws, Sweaters, Knit Vests, Tuxedos, Business Suits.

Leather Wind-breakers

Quality Suits and Big Warm Overcoats

Leather Wind-breakers rightly named, for they certainly do shut out wind. They're light, and not cumbersome under a coat.

Quality Suits and Big Warm Overcoats that you'll like for their smart style and splendid workmanship as well as their great warmth.

$25 $30 $35 $45 to $55

Fine Madras Shirts

Carefully weighed every way—Our well balanced underwear stock.

Wanted weights for men of all weights. We don't try to stretch long thin underwear over a short thick man.

Nor expect a tall man to let his feet "hang out up to his knees" from a too-short garment.

"Comfort" means fit, as well as warmth.

Duofold Mungingwear Haines Glasterbury makes.

A shirt begins with the cloth; no one can make a good shirt of poor materials. It must be of firm weave; colors must be there to stay. That's the sort of materials you'll find in these shirts at $3—guaranteed good. They're good way down to de-tails. Shirts $1.00 to $7.50.

Your shoe "overhead" depends upon the quality of the shoes you put on your feet. In Winter especially.

And while you're figuring what you save through having shoes that will withstand hard Winter wear, add a bit for the comfort and health protection of shoes that will keep your feet dry and warm.

That's the kind we have here—moderately priced.

$6.00 to $10.00.

ROCKVILLE COMING HERE FOR ANOTHER ATHLETIC CARNIVAL

J. J. Regan Company and Cheney Brothers to Meet Dec. 3 in Indoor Competition.

Rockville and Manchester are due to lock horns in another friendly but spirited athletic engagement again shortly.

Secretary John J. Jenney announces that on Friday night, December 3 the J. J. Regan Manufacturing Company of Rockville will send representatives here to oppose Cheney Brothers in an indoor athletic sport carnival which will be held at the School street Rec.

Last year, these two firms met in a similar affair and the result was a 28 to 26 tie. A toss of coin gave Rockville the silver loving cup which was very successful and both firms have been looking forward toward another meeting.

The program of events will include bowling contest between both men and women consisting of five players on a side for total pinfall in three games; pool, eight players on a side playing as partners; basketball, checkers, three contestants from each side; tug-of-war, five on a side; horse-shoe-pitching and setback.

C. B. A. A. Must Watch Cunningham in Order To Defeat Poquonock

In its game at Poquonock tomorrow night, Cheney Brothers will be opposed by several former St. Joseph players. Cunningham, Poquonock's ace is again playing in a St. Joseph's uniform as are Case, Cranowski, Leonard and Romako. Poquonock opened its season Saturday by defeating Windsor Locks.

Next Wednesday the Cheney team will play in Elmwood. Jack Barton is again captain of the deers and has Frankie Larson, Ike Barton, Hurley, Giraltis and Plank. On Thanksgiving afternoon, the locals will journey to Tatville to play the newly organized Tatville Celtics who have such stars as "Rabbit" Gauthier and Yerrinton. Former high school stars, "Stretch" Eccleston and Coady, formerly with the Baltic Wanderers. Phanewill will be held in reserve. On Thanksgiving night, the Cheney team will furnish the spot for Danielson, Danielson's probable lineup will be Keach, Reeves, Blakeley, Porter and Gonreau. Blakeley was the big gun for Danielson last year, when the locals defeated them 43-36. Reeves starred in the second game which Danielson won 30-28 in a whirlwind finish.

TIGERS LONESOME AT SAN ANTONIO

Detroit, Nov. 19.—It looks now as if the Tigers would be a rather lonesome body of athletes when they go to San Antonio next spring for training. When the "tiger management" selected the spot for the spring workouts it was believed that the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the world, would train in San Antonio also and it was planned that the two teams would meet in a series of exhibition games.

Now it develops that the Cardinals are going to Florida colony of major league clubs. However, the Tigers will have plenty of opportunity to play exhibitions against the strong Texas League teams.

It was the first year that Tex Cobb managed the Detroit team that it trained in San Antonio. It found the climate favorable but perhaps a bit too hot. When the players returned to the April climate of the American League they suffered somewhat from the cold, having been training in mid-summer heat for seven weeks.

SOCCER GAME

The fourth and final meeting of the Springfield and Newark American League soccer teams will be at League Park, Springfield tomorrow afternoon in three games—already played by these clubs, the New Jersey outfit has won two and the Babes one.

Springfield is still without a win in the last dozen starts and a big effort will be made this week as the team's position in the league chart is becoming serious. The club officials are at present rebuilding the team and following closely the signing of Stewart, a goalkeeper from Quincy, McMillan, a fullback from Brooklyn, and Reid, a fullback from Bethlehem Steel, three players, Fitzsimmons, Carson and Cyril Turner, were released.

The eleven to meet Newark will be on the usual lines, with Black in goal, Reid and McMillan as fullbacks, Black, Stewart and McNair half backs, and the forwards will be chosen from Fitzsimmons, Campbell, Pinayon, Travers, Turner and Lawson.

JUNIOR LIGHTS TONIGHT

New York, Nov. 19.—Tod Morgan of Seattle is an eleven to ten favorite to retain the junior lightweight championship in his 15-pound bout with Carl Duane tonight.

19 Men Answer First Basketball Practice Call at Trade School

The bugle call for basketball practice sounded today at the local State Trade school and a promising squad of 19 boys reported for the first afternoon at the School street Rec gym at 4 o'clock.

Ralph Kingsley, former S. T. S. player and now an instructor at the school, has been engaged to the team. Stanley Rice, coach and instructor, has been named faculty manager. He is arranging a schedule which will be fully as strong as the one last season when Manchester won 15 games and lost 4.

Those who reported for practice today were: Tomasek, Kinne, Murphy, Lauridsen, Watrus, Connelly, Lewis, Ramsay, Robinson, Hewitt, Travers, Dobinski, Edgar, Man-chuck, Renn, Belcher, Schoon, Chapman and Klotzer.

CLOVERLEAVES RECEDE FROM FORMER DEMANDS

Champions Agree to Use Neutral Officials to Play Over North; But Teams Cannot Agree on Money Question.

Evidently realizing that it was up to them to recede a few steps from the strict terms announced, the Cloverleaves compromised with the Cubs last night to such an extent that the town title football match was almost arranged.

Both teams gave in on one of the three points at stake but failed to agree on the money question.

The meeting between the representatives of the two teams took place at the North End. Each team was represented by three men. Angelo and Captain Johnny Groman appeared for the Cubs while Coach George Mooney, Manager William Griffin and Captain Brunie Moske were the arguers for the champions.

The Cubs refused to play the game at Hickey's Grove without any toss of coin.

The Cloverleaves withdrew from their stand in regard to officials and agreed to let neutral men officiate.

The question of money was the only hitch in the proceedings. The Cubs held for a 60-40 split while the Cloverleaves' minimum was a 75-25 split. The champions also offered to play winner-take-all and for a side-bet.

Now that Princeton has formally withdrawn from the Big Three, it is to be hoped the boys will proceed to take up football in a serious manner.

There will be a national convention of riding clubs held in New York in January, but we see no mention that John McGraw of the Giants is to be among those present.

The good people of Stroudsburg are going to throw a fancy feed for Gene Tunney . . . It is crooked, only reported that Dempsey's chef will prepare the meal.

The dope chart shows Connie Mack used eight different right fielders last season, at least one or two of whom were ball players.

It seems that Princeton was unable to see the humor of the Harvard football situation, which has, indeed, been quite comical in recent years.

The old army game is something that is frowned on in modern football councils, but it seems to be going over fairly well for the West Pointers.

Women like to look in mirrors to bask in the reflected glories of drugstore complexions.

So many of our boys have been bawled off by Queen Marie's men that Mr. O'Goofy is surprised of the engineer and fireman are still on it.

What's become of the old-fashioned wisecracker, who used to throw the party into a panic by saying "And so's your old man!"

All the home-coming battles aren't fought on the gridiron, as many "unavoidably delayed" young husbands will tell you.

TUNNEY INCLINED TO GIVE GIBSON THE AIR?

New York, Nov. 19.—That Gene Tunney may be disposed to act independently of his manager, Billy Gibson, was indicated today when Gibson admitted that he knew nothing of the heavyweight champion's conference with Humbert J. Fugazy, looking toward a title fight under Fugazy's promotion next summer.

However, nothing can be done until the time comes for a promoter to come out with an arena and a suitable challenger. Gibson declared.

He was present when Tex Rickard informed newspapermen that he intended to Spike Fugazy's guns by tying up all contenders and thus producing the logical challenger.

SETTLEMENT DAY ON GRID TOMORROW

Walsh Prefers Yale to Harvard, Like Abscessed Tooth to Lockjaw.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, Nov. 19.—It won't be long now, as the gent said who had just had his hair cut.

By nightfall tomorrow the Big Ten conference will be no more and either Michigan or Northwestern or both will have fallen heir to the title. Two hours later, Stanford's right to the Coast championship probably will have been established and its sundry victims properly identified. In the east, the Yale-Harvard game will supply the winner of the Yale-Harvard game in order that we may be able to turn our attention to something important.

Status Quo
The east, as a matter of fact, should remain, as is, in consequence of the day's schedule, for Brown is to play New Hampshire State, Lafayette is to play Lehigh and the Navy is to play not at all.

Of the three, the Navy may experience the greatest difficulty, since the Middle probably will be forced to scrimmage with their scrubs. I can't see Lehigh winning from Lafayette.

Boston College and Holy Cross, of the undated teams in this section, also draw "breathers" with Gettysburg and Boston University respectively.

Nebraska should defeat New York University, providing the cornhuskers are not unduly weakened by the possible loss of two players who suffered severe injuries trying to draw to an inside straight.

Northwestern is favored over Iowa, a victory here will end Northwestern's conference season without a defeat and force Michigan to win from Minnesota in order to get a tie. I think Michigan is due to win from the Gophers.

Stanford can win the Coast title by beating California, which it should readily do.

In case anybody cares, I like Yale over Harvard in about the same way I like an abscessed tooth much better than lockjaw. Notre Dame and Drake? Please don't be so young!

HARVARD BACKFIELD DEPENDS ON WEATHER

"Wet" and "Dry" Squads Ready to Go in at Yale Bowl Tomorrow.

Cambridge, Nov. 19.—Harvard's football family, sixty-five strong, including players, coaches, athletic officials, trainers, doctors and managers, is off for New Haven today.

Coach Howson still is undecided on the make-up of his backfield. The make-up of the line, however, has been definitely settled.

Sidney Rudman of Cambridge and Bob Mesdow of Springfield will be at the ends. Captain Clem Crady of Newton and Charley Pratt of Philadelphia will be at the tackle berths. Byrd Kilgour of Cincinnati and Gilford Stewart of New York will be at guards with Ernie Gamahe of Leonminster at center.

Jake Stafford will call signals to a trio of carriers composed of Madison Sayles, Eben Clark and Dave Guarnaccia, should the footing be heavy or slippery.

The other offensive quartet has Elliott Putnam at the head of a backfield of Henry Chauncey, Arthur French and Al Miller. These backs have been termed the "dry" candidates.

A Purple Moon

Ralph "Moon" Baker, captain and star player on the Northwestern University football eleven. Baker has been one of the big reasons for the great success of the Purple this fall. He will wind up his college grid career against Iowa this Saturday.

Here's a moon that never sets—Ralph "Moon" Baker, captain and star player on the Northwestern University football eleven. Baker has been one of the big reasons for the great success of the Purple this fall. He will wind up his college grid career against Iowa this Saturday.

Here's a moon that never sets—Ralph "Moon" Baker, captain and star player on the Northwestern University football eleven. Baker has been one of the big reasons for the great success of the Purple this fall. He will wind up his college grid career against Iowa this Saturday.

THESE GOPHER STARS MAY UPSET YOST'S TITLE HOPES

Michigan and Northwestern now hold the inside track in the Big Ten football chase. The Purple, with only Iowa yet to face, stands a good chance of sticking to the top, but the Wolverines are apt to meet a tartar in the husky Minnesota eleven when they clash at the Gopher stronghold tomorrow.

Above are four stars of the Spears aggregation—Joesting, Nydahl, Almqvist and Peplaw. They make one of the strongest backfields in the middle west. In case one of them gets injured the Gophers have still another flashy fellow to shove in the lineup—Barnhart.

Joesting is one of the best fullbacks in the game, while his mates are all fast and clever ball-toters. They're certain to cause Michigan plenty of trouble.

Marquette Crack Football Squad Claims World Champ Quarterback

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, Nov. 19.—Marquette University may or may not be the team it was in the salad days of "Red" Dunne, for that has been a moot point since the Jesuits gained a rolling fall over Kansas Aggies, the then unbeaten bellwethers of the Missouri Valley Conference. In the words of an old ditty, it took a good man to do that, which nobody can deny. Marquette doesn't. Through the good offices of Edmund S. Carpenter, it breaks right down and confesses that it is good.

Furthermore, good or indifferent, Marquette wishes to announce that of the worst one can give it is honorable mention among that growing list of schools that think they harbor the greatest quarterback in the land.

O'Keefe is the gentleman's name and Bob Mesdow of Springfield is the name that can do every other thing but climb a tree on roller skates. The boy's given name is Rupert but he seems to have lived it down.

Speaking of names, the genius who gave to a waiting world the Golden Avalanche, the Thundering Herd, the Crimson Tide and sundry products of syllabic greatness would be strictly among friends in the shadow of the brewer's. Isn't Marquette the Golden Avalanche? It is, taken it from Mr. Carpenter.

"Just a word for Marquette," he says. And then proceeds with five hundred of them.

Most of his rhetoric is confined to the worthy O'Keefe but he drops a typographical pearl or so before Don O'Keefe, captain and center, who, it seems, hasn't made a poor pass in four years of college football. Donald must be steadier than a dripping spigot. It also appears that he is the key-man of the defense and quick death on forward passes—the other team's.

Carpenter has a kind word for the coach, Frank Murray, but it isn't until he reaches the matter of O'Keefe that he becomes maudlin. Among other things, he says: "Coach Frank Murray had to work no less than seven sophomores into varsity positions. He has shown his real worth by building one of the cleverest and most versatile teams we have ever had. We outsmarted the heavier Aggies, who were leading the Missouri conference, and pulled a surprise by winning the Missouri Valley title. He is a better and better in every game. 'The Golden Avalanche' has completed 17 passes in 26 attempts in the last four games, and not one has been intercepted.

"Rupert O'Keefe, our quarterback, can pass, punt, hit his punts accurately, more than half of them rolling out of bounds within the Aggies' 20 yard line—and MU averaged 53 yards on 15 kicks," tackle, plunge the line, skirt the ends, break through a strong out field, catch and return punts and use his head. His judgment is well nigh perfect."

From which I gather that this man O'Keefe isn't a quarterback. He's a miracle.

ANOTHER PAIR OF THOMAS BROTHERS STAR OUT WEST

Los Angeles, Nov. 19.—If history really does repeat itself, a few million gridiron fans in this country the scheduled to hear considerable about two brothers on the University of Southern California varsity.

They are Max and Lloyd Thomas, younger brothers of John and Harry Thomas, who set the Big Ten buzzing with their pigskin accomplishments at the University of Chicago a few years back.

John Thomas enrolled in Alonzo Stagg's institution in 1919 as a freshman. The following year he held down a regular berth in the backfield and his brother Harry scampered about with the Maroon yearlings. In 1921-22 both were regular backs on Stagg's eleven and John was named as fullback on Walter Camp's All-America team the latter season. John and Harry Thomas will long hold the memories of Chicago students and alumni. Even songs have been written about them.

Max Thomas, now a junior at U. S. C., received his freshman training under Stagg at Chicago. Then he transferred to his present alma mater but was unable to play last season because of Pacific Coast conference rules. He is wearing the varsity uniform this year, however, as is Lloyd, a sophomore.

Howard Jones, Trojan mentor, sees big things in store for these boys. He claims they are natural born players. And they probably are—at least their older brothers were. Both boys are backfield men, and again they compare exactly to the Thomases of Maroon fame. John the elder, was a fullback and Harry played halfback. Max the elder, plays fullback while Lloyd fills a halfback berth. Oh yes, and all four played football at the same high school in Jamestown, N. D.

Max is especially good at open field running. He is fast and shifty and is also a good man on the sending end of a forward pass combination. Lloyd shines on the defense. He also is fast and when he tackles they stay tackled.

TEA RECOMMENDED FOR GRID PLAYERS TO QUENCH THIRST

In Final Article, Oberlander Says It Not Only Replaces Water But Soothes Nerves

All-American Halfback, 1925 (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

In my mind, the preliminary training season prior to the actual contests is the most uninteresting and dullest drudgery of the game.

The squad must reach condition in the shortest possible time. This end can be reached only by driving it to its utmost.

Fundamentals continually repeated sap the enthusiasm of the group. It is hard monotonous drill and if some element of interest can be induced the "ask-appears-much-better" try to make the players enjoy the disagreeable features of the game.

It was a method of our coaching staff to devise group and individual contests so that the squad might more actively and heartily cooperate with them in the accomplishment of this unavoidable task.

Scoping contests were arranged to discover the keepest eye and the surest hand. Forward passing contests for groups, accuracy and distance passing for individuals, weaving contests for the backs, potato racing and various sprints and obstacle races were devised.

Scores were kept and tabulated at the end of each day. At the close of the season small trophies were awarded for group and individual merit. Spirits always ran high and groups delighted in defeating their opponents even though done with a great amount of exertion.

It has been proven that a player's efficiency is increasing if, before each meal, he is accustomed to rest quietly on his back for at least a half hour. With it was compulsory and a very rigid check was kept.

These rest periods break up the long stretch of activeness between arising and going to bed. Muscles become relaxed and rested. The excited nerves grow quiet and the digestion of the following meal is more easily accomplished.

Another suggestion is the use of tea between the halves and after the game to relieve thirst. It not only takes the place of water in quenching thirst but in addition it has a soothing effect on the nerves. It should be served weak, slightly sweetened, without cream, and hot.

Our team would consume a five-gallon canister during and after one game.

It seems that some coaches delight in scrimmaging their teams to the point of exhaustion. After the competitive scrimmaging has been completed there is little occasion for any unnecessary roughness. Many good men have been needlessly injured. Once the scheduled games have begun, the Dartmouth first team scrimmaged but once in two years.

This is the final Oberlander article.

HOCKEY

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 19.—Boston was leading the National Hockey League today as a result of the Bruins' 2 to 0 victory over the Detroit Cougars here last night.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Les Canadiens, local representatives of the National Hockey League, are in last place today following their 2 to 1 defeat by the Ottawa Senators here last night. Ottawa is now tied with Chicago and the New York Rangers for second place.

New York, Nov. 19.—New York hockey fans were not overly pleased today at the showing of the New York Americans in their first appearance of the season here. The local sextet lost 2 to 0 to the Montreal Maroons.

New Crop of Heavyweights Opens Guessing Contest On Next Champion

By DICK WILLIAMS.

New York, Nov. 17.—What to do in this heavyweight scramble; what to do, indeed!

As soon as a prospect begins to look good, he either falls over his own feet and fractures his chances, among other things, or someone pegs him on the goatee and he folds up like a bridge table.

Harry Persson, the human tapestry from Sweden, is the latest to puncture himself. Harry, who has more art on his bosom than Professor Van Dyke has on his legs, is one of those birds who, figuratively speaking, fell over his own feet.

Harry had done fairly well since coming here from that dear Sweden. He has bested Johnny Risko, a rough, tough customer, and Carl Carter, the saddled colored, octopus from Harlem. Then he met Bud Gorman and the works blew up. He fouled the bounding Bud and put a kink in his title aspirations that Jimmy DeForest may never be able to iron out.

All this ballyhoo about Jack Sharkey fails to click with this thinker. It had as well be lifted for Bud Gorman. Gorman once trimmed Jack in a slapping contest that would have done credit to a convention of grade school teachers. Both are slappers, although Sharkey appears to be an ambidextrous slapper whereas Gorman slaps only with his left wing.

Maloney's Chances. There's Jimmy Maloney. He kicks a palooka into the ice house occasionally, but he isn't a solid puncher. Instead, he's a small swinger who would have to have all the gods of luck sitting under his stool to hit a Tunney, a Dempsey or a Delaney. And when he missed—O!

Monte Munn is the best prospect in sight. He's a year away, but he's a potential champion. He isn't as fast as Gorman or Tunney or Dempsey, but he's faster than he looks, especially with his hands. For a novice he blocks with remarkable effectiveness. He has the faculty of meeting punches out in front of him, sort of picking them out of the air like Old Jack Johnson in his halcyon days, that makes it hard to push a TNT against his chin. It takes a great eye to that and Munn seems to have it.

Munn is a straight puncher. He never swings. He never requires a circular trajectory to get up steam. He spots his mark and shoots at it and when one of those huge mitts lands, there's dynamite in it. He's not a Jack Delaney for accuracy yet, nor is any fighter in the game today for that matter, but he can be.

Figure This One Out. Paul Berlenbach might beat Tunney. He'd never beat Dempsey, even the current Dempsey. He'd never beat Delaney, yet he may beat Tunney while Tunney would beat Delaney. Try that one on your garglette. Yet there's reason behind this apparent madness.

Tunney is a boxer, a waiting type of general who depends on the other fellow coming to him. He'll even outwait Delaney, who also is at his best with the enemy coming in. If Delaney had to abandon his most effective style to take the aggressive, Tunney would be too big and strong for him.

Berlenbach would carry the fight to Delaney and Delaney can just about reverse a man's anatomical order if he catches him coming in. Let him get an oncoming target to shoot that right hand at and the customers, in nine cases out of ten, can start home. He showed that against Flowers and even Berlenbach.

Berlenbach would carry the fight to Tunney and because he's the strongest big fellow in the game, not even barring Tunney, he'd tear down Gene's defense and pile in with that crushing left to the body. One or two of these explosions and Tunney would be likely to buckle. Let the Old Ox crack any of them a couple in the lobby and much of the gimp is gone.

Picks Nebraska. Why, then, you'll ask, couldn't Der Paulie get to Delaney. He could, if anybody considers that a help. He'd get just far enough to take one on the button, like he did on three prior occasions. Then if still perpendicular, he'd be obliged to back up and collect his scattered parts before he'd had a chance to lash out. Tunney would hit Oom Paul, but not hard enough to stop his drive. Delaney would hit him 50 per cent harder than Tunney ever hit anybody, and that would be hard enough. In other words, Delaney's right hand would halt Paul as he plunges in; Tunney would only ask him.

Delaney is big enough for Tunney and so is Berlenbach. Size doesn't count when they get past 175 pounds. Witness Maloney and Arthur DeKuh of recent date, likewise, a score in the past that have been reviewed and reviewed. Jack Dempsey, Monte Munn and Berlenbach are the best shots for the crown in the future, with Munn at least a year away. If Tunney succeeds in outlasting Delaney, provided Dempsey doesn't upset him, Munn is his worry after this year.

The big Nebraska lawmaker's our choice for the title, provided the New York boxing commission does not wreck him by sending him against the British navy or the Leviathan before he's out of his pugilistic swaddling clothes.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
JUDITH MARTIN, instructor in Pendleton University, is caught in the feud between the student radicals led by her admirer, ERIC WATERS, and the conservatives, led by DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor.

Dr. Dorn is attracted to her and tries to persuade her to conclave the dean.

MYRA ALDRICH, a student living in Judith's boarding house, is in love with Eric and jealous of Judith.

When "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, tries to blackmail Dean Brown's wife, Judith befriends her and asks Eric to silence her.

Eric is arrested as a material witness when Shea's body is found in a creek.

Judith finds Eric waiting at her home several days later. He tells her that Mrs. Brown has secured his release by telling prodigious lies to the prosecutor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX

"MARRIED women!" gasped Judith. "He didn't mean—"

Eric nodded. "Yes he did. The dean's wife."

Judith sat perfectly motionless for a full minute, her hand clutching the door of the car.

Eric went on. "She had told them that I spent the night before Christmas with her."

Judith recoiled. She stared at Eric, who was calmly puffing at his pipe and fingering the throttle. He did not look at her.

"But—" she gasped, after a time. "Why?"

"That's just it," said Eric. "Why, in God's name?"

Judith shook her head. "I can't understand it. It's horrible."

Eric spoke slowly. "Well, it is. But it had one compensation—it got me out of that roach-tobacco-garlic jail."

Judith was not listening. "Eric," she said, "Mrs. Brown did not do that to you."

"Eric," she said, "Mrs. Brown did not do that to you. She saved me from Shea before she came to me after your arrest, almost in a frenzy and said we'd have to get you out, some way, any way."

Eric took his pipe out of his mouth and reached with one hand for his tobacco pouch. "Hold the wheel a minute, Jude, while I fill this chimney."

Judith gave him another puzzled glance, as he calmly poured the tobacco into the bowl of the pipe and drew the string of the pouch tight again.

"All I can say," he mused comfortably, "is that she had an exaggerated sense of gratitude, but it's very fortunate for me."

"Eric," Judith answered, "do you suppose she thought you'd kill her?"

"She looked at him fearfully. But instead of anger, a chuckle greeted her question. "By golly, Jude, do you suppose so?"

Judith turned away to the far horizon, her eyes clouded.

"Well, I hadn't ended the story yet," said Eric. "When the chief had finished bawling me out for my affair with the dean's wife, he picked up the envelope the jailer had brought in, and tore it open, keeping one scowling eye on me all the while."

"Then he read it through to the end, laid it down and looked at me. 'Seems I've talked out of my turn but if you know what's good for you, young fellow, you'll keep this under your hat.'

"If you ever let this conversation out, to your best friend, there are other charges we can push. The prosecutor hadn't told me the lady didn't want you to know. Damn fine woman, I should say. Didn't want you to feel under obligations to her. Now you can clear out."

She went up the steps and knocked, and could hear the sound echo in the rooms within.

"And I did. So that's that. Look at that little creek, Jude! Peach of a jump on horseback. Someday we'll get some horses and try it. What say?"

The girl beside him turned toward him without looking at the creek.

"Eric," she said, very low, "it strikes me that this is something of an obligation you are under." She waited for his reply, with anxious eyes fixed on his face.

It came. "Sure thing. Damn fine woman. I agree with the chief."

"But I can't quite see how you could accept such a sacrifice."

Eric shot a quick glance at Judith only meant that the prosecutor's opinion doesn't matter a great deal for the time being. He'll keep it to himself. I imagine he rather fell for Mrs. Brown himself. And before long I'll have a chance to correct his impressions. So you see it's nothing to worry about."

Judith smiled uncertainly. "Well, that's true. And of course, both she and I do owe you something—perhaps more than we realize."

She glanced at the bruised spot on his brow, and then at his smiling green eyes, and her face softened. "Women spoil you, Eric, and I fear I'm as bad as the rest."

Eric reached over and patted her arm very lightly. "But they never regret it, old dear."

They turned toward home, Eric still puffing calmly at the pipe, and Judith watching the fields and hills fly by.

"That's your theory of Shea's death?" Judith asked after a while.

"I'm not sure it was murder," said Eric. "It would have been quite easy to slip off the road over that bank. Strange motor accidents happen every day. That's one reason why I think it's all just a low conspiracy against me. The dean was out to get me by hook or crook, and Shea's death offered a chance. But just wait. He'll get his."

Judith laughed. "He already has, I guess. The police told him to get out of the Shea case and stay out. He'll be frantic to know why you went released."

Eric chuckled. "Serves him right if he finds out. But—I'm not satisfied with letting the police crack him down. I shall have something to say to the gentleman myself some day, though I may not say it in so many words."

"If I were you, I think I'd lie low for a while now, Eric."

Eric smiled. "Do you know," she said slowly, "as they were passing home, that brute on your head didn't look like one received by running into a door, Eric. Are you sure you weren't in a fight?"

"I don't fight with my fists, old dear. I don't have to," he answered loftily.

The river under the Strathmore bridge gleamed dully when Judith stopped to look at it that afternoon. There was a thin film of ice near the bare brown banks. She turned away from it with a little shudder and went on, past the prim rows of professional houses, until she came to Avon Place.

Here too, the shades and bunched knockers of the houses reflected the calmly ordered lives of their inhabitants.

On the walk before Dean Brown's English cottage, Judith paused, looking curiously at the house front. Every shade was down and the door mat was placed primly against the wall.

She went up the steps and knocked, and could hear the sound echo in the rooms within. For a moment there was silence. Then she thought she heard footsteps. But the sound turned out to be only a movement in the trees nearby.

With a curious glance at the windows, Judith turned away. A little boy trundling a wooden wagon up the driveway next door called out to her. "There's a nice, cozy home," Judith went down the steps toward him.

"How do you know?" she asked. "Cause I dropped my ball in their cellar window just now and I rang and rang and nobody came. Guess that ball's gone. Philoprosopical resignation was on his childish face, as he pulled the little cart on up the drive."

When Judith had last seen the house, curls of Christmas smoke were hanging about its chimneys and every window welcomed the traveler with a wreath. Standing now, stark and deserted, with every window dark, it seemed as lonely and sodden as a human being struck down by insupportable grief.

With a little shiver, Judith walked slowly down the path to the street. Under the elm that lined the sidewalk, she turned about for one last look. She stood quiet still, clasping her hands, her eyes glued to an upper window.

For a second, just as she turned the white face of the dean's wife had appeared there.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

Jenny Lind, loveliest singer of long ago, traded love for a career, we are told, and the historian who breaks the tale, tells how Jennie sang with an absent look in her eyes. Scores and scores of years ago. Women have changed much since then. Singers rarely wear red roses in their hair as Jenny Lind always did. Funny that the same old problem persists—love or career. Funny and foolish, when so many women prove that they can have both!

A wealthy man named Hu drank tea with a wood-cutter. "He drank it all in silence, and after a pause said humbly in an awed tone, 'It is good—good, the extremes of Heaven and Earth! Dare I ask the name?' It is 'black dragon' or 'white dragon'?" No, the flavour is more like that of 'birds' tongue' or 'before the rains.'"

"The wood-cutter smiled and then said, 'My Lord is mistaken in thinking that the variety of tea is all-important. Of course the leaves must be properly treated, but what gives the flavour is the water used. My Lord can never have tea like this because he cannot obtain such water.'

"Does he see that dip in the mountain-side? Beyond that ridge there lies a lake fed by an everlasting spring; in the lake ten thousand lotus plants spread their wide leaves and bring forth their blossoms, white and rose-red. I rise in the light of the still-concealed sun, and make my way by a bird's path to the shores of that lake, and wading in the shallow water, drain from the heart of each leaf, one by one, the crystal dew-drops collected there. With these dew-drops I infuse my tea."

All this in "The Autobiography of a Chinese Dog" by Florence Ayscough.

Not all of us can brew our tea in such romantic waters, but the water is the thing, no matter how fragrant the orange pekoe. Fresh water just brought to a boil, say those who know "tea as tea."

Mrs. Frances Skinner as a woman with an interesting job. She is the only woman member of the gang of a hundred craftsmen who are rebuilding the famous Rose Window of Rheims Cathedral. The pieces of this most marvelous of all church windows were caught in cheesecloth sacks by soldiers standing under fire as the windows were bombed. Much of the glass was so shattered for us, and it means years of painstaking matching. This is Mrs. Skinner's job.

Dresses made of delicate spun glass are seen on foreign ballroom dance floors. It takes about six months to make enough spun glass material for one dress. They say that a ball room full of these gowns gives the effect of a roomful of iridescent butterflies.

And here's a quote that may be of interest—

"In the experience of one of the leading pediatricians in the country, no harm has ever been observed in babies nursed by mothers who smoke immediately." But we are reminded that in 1915 a certain French commission made a report to the effect that fewer children were born to women employees of the tobacco factories than to women employed elsewhere.

Gazing upon the scrambled-broods of too many women, one might opine that it would be a good job to get most of the potential mothers jobs in tobacco factories!

Emma Goldman, who never believed in marriage when she ran on her rampage over America, has married. She practically admits that she doesn't believe in the institution any more than she ever did, but that it's the custom, and conformance to custom protects one from interference and peeping Toms, Emma at 57 puts personal comfort before the Causes with a capital that spelled her younger years.

It is comforting to realize that even the strongest swap theories when they become too distasteful, for the easier thing, even though their minds may not accept the easier thing entirely.

One-piece lingerie which takes the place of about four pieces which women wore in yesteryear has proven so completely satisfactory in this busy day that no woman would think of going back to the old-fashioned wardrobe. Now we have one-piece menus. One dish which takes the place of the old-fashioned meal with soup, vegetable, meat, gravy, potatoes, salad, dessert, etc. There's a cook book by one Chambers called "One Piece Dinners" which should meet the needs of the housewife who has some interests outside the home.

The Queen of Sheba must have been "nothing but a man-chasing sapper," for you may recall that it was the queen who, when she heard of King Solomon, went to him in Jerusalem with a very great train of camels laden with spices and gold and precious stones. And you may recall that King Solomon was not excessively bored by this exhibition of "man chasing." Of course there may have been such things as conventions and custom which said that queens called on kings first, so today's sapperhood should not take the historical incident too seriously.

Women's clubs of America spend more than 200 million dollars yearly, comments Ida Clyde Clark, writer and lecturer. She comments that most of this 200 million dollars is flung from husbands' pants pockets. She razes sex barriers in club work and says that "It's high time we stopped working as sex groups and started working as human beings."

Sounds good, but why spoil the men's clubs, and why have ours spoiled? All theories to the contrary, we aren't alike, we don't especially like chewing the rag about the same thing, and why should we?

Nervous and Irritable.

Quite fearlessly, Mrs. Banning, who is a prominent club woman in Duluth, and intensely interested in politics as well as in writing, went to Vassar College, her own alma mater, and accused college women of being lacking in charm.

"Women lack poise," she says. "They have become fighters. They argue too much and resist too tentaciously. They are overly conscientious about living—nervous and irritable about it. They take their bumps hard and are constantly on the lookout for more like fearsome riders. They are glittering and hard, shrill and articulate, but in their frantic getting they have lost the art of accepting gracefully and letting men do things."

Mrs. Banning questions our handling of husbands, fathers and sweethearts.

"The truth is we don't need men as we once did for support, companionship or leadership. We have practically reduced man to a checkpayer, and that is less obligatory than it was once with women making as much money as men."

"Factlessly, we show men how unnecessary they are, and drive them from us. Someday there will be a completely different type of man to deal with, one that may not be nearly so chivalrous and generous as today's model, and it will be our own fault. While we were finding ourselves, we lost our lovers. While we were too busy to be charming and lovable, we lost the art."

If the modern woman is disillusioned, she begs us to remember that women probably have been disillusioned in ages before, but

AUTHOR DECRIES WOMEN'S LACK OF CHARM

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

New York.—There was never a time in history when women had so much beauty, and so little charm, according to Margaret Banning, author.

Says she: "Beauty is a drug on the market. So too are spectacular feminine careers—women who can fight their own way and pay their own checks—women who can hold their own in arguments and burst into print about their emotions and sex experiences—women who can do everything but fascinate men."

"Where," she asks, "is the charmer, the woman who could launch a thousand ships—or even ten?"

In discovering themselves, getting the vote, being modern and uninhibited, Mrs. Banning believes women have lost something in the shuffle that is infinitely more precious than independence—some essential quality of loveliness, some potent lure that brought men to their feet.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN because they know that only ALL-BRAN—100% bran—brings sure results. If eaten regularly it brings permanent relief in the most stubborn cases—it is guaranteed to do so, or your grocer returns the purchase price.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Fine in cooking too. Try the recipes on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan, and is served in leading restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

Unpleasant breath, pimples, sal-low skin, hollow cheeks, circles under the eyes are spots before them—these are a few of the warning signs of constipation. Defeat them with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Constipation may lead to over forty serious diseases. Back from the inside it sends its hideous poisons to torment you and wreck your health. It can ruin your appearance. Don't neglect it.

Legion Leader Seeks Discharge of Washington Professor For Radical "Definition."

Washington, Nov. 19.—Prof. Henry Flury taught his biology class at Eastern High school today as usual, but if Major General Amos O. Fries, district commander of the American Legion, has his way, it won't be for long. Fries has demanded that the young professor be discharged because of a definition of Socialism he recently made in a magazine contest. The board of education of the District of Columbia has refused to discharge Flury, and for the time being at least has upheld the right of a public school teacher to express personal views outside the classroom. Flury defined Socialism as "a big question mark."

"It asks why, with all the wonderfully productive machinery and improved methods of organization, the workers are still slaves. It asks why our civilization is so cruel and ugly? It asks why little children still toil in factories. It asks why those who create do not enjoy the advantages of what is created, why those who build automobiles walk, why those who build palaces live in hovels? It asks: "Is not the industrial civilization we have created a Frankenstein that has made itself our master?"

'TOKIO' BAZAAR BRINGS CROWDS

Decorations Feature—Sell Nearly All Articles—Entertainment.

Center church folks needed the state armory auditorium to accommodate the crowds who wended their way to "A Street in Tokio", the name given the big bazaar held yesterday afternoon and evening in the parish hall of the church. While the latter lent itself perfectly to the scheme of decoration it was entirely inadequate to house the great number of attractive booths as well as those who came to patronize them.

SEE BIG GROWTH IN AIR TRANSPORTATION

Many Corporations Planning Large Increases in Operations Next Year.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Rapid expansion of aeronautical transportation in 1927 was predicted today by William P. McCracken, Jr., air secretary of the Commerce Department.

Reports to the department show several of the large air transportation corporations are planning to increase their capitalization and equipment early next year, pointing to an effective air freight and passenger carrier service over most of the United States.

"During the present fiscal year most of the important centers of the country will be interconnected by this new form of transportation, carrying mail, express and passengers," said the annual report of secretary of Commerce Hoover, made public today.

Among the corporations contemplating expansion programs are the National Air Transport, Western Air Express, Colonial Air Transport, Philadelphia Rapid Transit, Ford Motor Company, Mid-Western Airways, the Pacific Air Transport and Florida Airways, according to department advisers.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION COUNCIL IN CONFERENCE

Hartford, Nov. 18.—The Young Peoples Conference of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education began its annual meeting this afternoon at Central Baptist church here. Among speakers on the program are Rev. John W. Brush, of New Haven; Rev. Allan C. Walters, of New Haven; Prof. A. J. W. Myers, of Hartford, and Prof. O. W. Warrington, of Boston.

SHIPS IN TROUBLE IN LAKE SUPERIOR STORM

Eagle River, Mich., Nov. 19.—One steamer is being towed to port and another is fighting a blinding snowstorm and blizzard on Lake Superior, according to the freighter Cottonwood is aground and virtually helpless near Copper Mine point. Rescuers are standing by to take off her crew. The Wren was reached by relief tugs in heavy seas after much effort and is now being towed to port.

ABOUT TOWN

President Austin Cheney has called a meeting of the directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce for Monday at 1:15 p. m. The meeting will be held in one of the private dining rooms of the Hotel Sheridan. Every member of the board is urged to make a special effort to be present.

Temple Chapter, O. E. S. will initiate candidates at its meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows hall. At this time also the books will be closed for the year and Worthy Matron Mrs. Lucius Foster will be elected for the year and returns of the chain of bridges and what parties held at different times since the first of October. The hostesses include Mrs. Minnie Goslee, Mrs. Etta West, Mrs. Annie Verplanck, Mrs. Harriet Norton, Miss Florence Snow, Mrs. Adele Bantley, Mrs. Maud Hills, Mrs. Emma Bees, Mrs. Lucia Jones, Edith Hart, band. Hostesses unable to attend the coming meeting may send the proceeds to the secretary, Mrs. Minnie Goslee.

Memorial Temple Pythian Sisters are reminded of the meeting at Orange hall by special dispensation Monday evening at 7:30. As the supreme chief has requested, the roll-call of members will be read and every sister should be present to respond. An entertainment with refreshments will follow the business.

Girl Reserves are to leave Center church tomorrow by 12:52 trolley for Hartford where they will take part in the rally at the Y. W. C. A. building. As this is the infant corps among the Girl Reserves of Hartford county, it is hoped there will be a 100 per cent attendance.

Mrs. Louise Gilman is in charge of the entertainment which will be given in the evening. She has arranged to put on a fancy floor drill by the W. B. A. Guards, another by the Royal Neighbors, as well as other musical numbers.

LAWYER, ONCE HIGHLY CONNECTED, JAILED

Storey Loses Long Fight to Keep Out of Prison For Receiving Stolen Stock.

New York, Nov. 19.—After battling for more than five years to escape punishment, Frank De R. Storey, well-known corporation lawyer and once a friend of President Coolidge and other notables, was today ordered committed to Sing Sing to serve a sentence of from two and a half to five years for receiving stolen property.

The sentence was imposed June 10, 1920, by the late Judge Malone in general sessions. As the last of a series of legal moves since that time Storey carried his case to the court of appeals, which decided against him only at the November term.

The conviction was based on Storey's possession of 100 shares of Northern Pacific railroad stock valued at $5,000 which has been stolen from the office of John Gaus, Jr., a steamship broker, on Nov. 14, 1919.

REPORT OF A CATALINA ISLAND SWIM UNVERIFIED. Los Angeles, Nov. 19.—Unverified reports from Huntington Beach today were to the effect that Walter A. Taber, San Bernardino swimmer, had successfully made the 28-mile channel swim from Catalina Island to the mainland.

HI-JACKERS GET PRIVATE STOCK VALUED AT $40,000. Babylon, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Eight "hi-jackers" wearing handkerchiefs for masks, bound the caretaker, his wife and sons to chairs and worked three hours removing a pre-war stock of liquor worth $40,000 from the home of the late J. Stanley Foster, banker, near here.

FATHER OF HARDING ILL AT REST HOME. Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—Dr. George T. Harding, 82, father of the late President Warren G. Harding, was reported "resting comfortably" at his son's rural rest home near here today. Dr. Harding, Sr., was brought here several days ago. It was said at the sanitarium he is suffering from infirmities and slight diabetic conditions.

SOUTH COVENTRY MAN FOUND DEAD IN RIVER. Willimantic, Nov. 19.—Word was received here today of the finding of the body of Ernest Lyman Noble, of South Coventry, in the Seekonk river at Providence. Mr. Lyman, who was 53, had been under treatment for mental ailments at the Butler hospital in Providence, and disappeared from that institution on November 5.

GOVERNMENT MOVES TO BEAT GRIDIRON SCALPERS. Chicago, Nov. 19.—The federal government moved against Army Navy game ticket scalpers today when Mrs. Mabel G. Reincke, collector of internal revenue, assigned deputy collectors to enforce at 21 ticket agencies the statute providing all tickets must be stamped with the sale price.

HORSES, HORSES, HORSES, HE'S CRAZY OVER HORSES

That's just what he is and what he has been all his life since he was 12 years old. More than 4,000 horses have passed through his hands and many more will be before he is dead, for he is still a young man. He is a horse dealer who is well known in this town. He is a man who can look at a horse from a distance of 100 yards and diagnose it. He can cure it of what it is suffering and if it is healthy, he can keep it that way. He knows the tricks of the trade, not from what he has read in books, but from experience. And he says that the automobile will never drive the horse from the roads.

STATE RESTS CASE IN THE HALL TRIAL

(Continued from page one) that he saw a scratch three inches long on Mrs. Hall's face when the funeral party was on the ferry. "Was it a fresh scratch?" "It seemed fresh. I saw it when she raised her veil. When the ferry started some relations got out of another car and came over and opened the door of her car and she laughed and talked with them." Mrs. Hall remained unmoved as the witness confirmed previous testimony of the scratch on her face.

ADMITS JAIL TERM

Frank Caprio, a private detective, admitted on cross-examination that he had spent a term in the state's prison at Trenton. Caprio testified that a razor which Simpson offered in evidence had been given him by the late Azariah Beekman, prosecutor of Somerset county, shortly after the murder. He turned the razor over to Simpson three or four weeks before the present trial opened.

Caprio testified he had been assigned by Beekman for two or three weeks four years ago "to watch the Hall home."

Robert H. McCarter, senior counsel for the defense, went after the hammer and tongs. "Did you plead guilty in New York of attempted extortion?" The witness couldn't remember and the spectators laughed.

"Did you not serve a year on Blackwell's Island?" Caprio denied that he had. "Well, then," McCarter shouted, "were you not sentenced on July 1, 1917, to three years at hard labor in Monmouth county, New Jersey, for obtaining money under false pretenses?"

Says He Appealed. "I didn't serve no three years in prison." "Were you convicted of that offense?" "Yes."

After he was sentenced in Monmouth county, he served a term at the state prison in Trenton, he finally admitted. "Did you serve the term?" "I appealed the case."

"Did you serve a term?" "I was exonerated afterward." The answer was ordered stricken out. "Did you go to state's prison at Trenton?" "I was sent, yes."

Court recessed at 12:24 with Caprio still on the stand. Caprio was recalled at the opening of the afternoon session. McCarter asked him how much Prosecutor Beekman paid him for the three weeks services he put in four years ago "watching Mrs. Hall's home."

"150," Caprio said. On re-direct examination Simpson asked Caprio if he ever went to McCarter's office and tried to sell him the razor. Caprio denied he had. McCarter then asked the witness if he didn't come to his office to sell

MARIE HURRIES TO SEABOARD TO SAIL

Has New Unpleasant Experience With Louisville Militiamen.

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train En Route to New York, Nov. 19.—The famous smile of Queen Marie of Rumania was missing today as she sped towards New York to sail home to King Ferdinand, reported gravely ill.

The royal train is due in Jersey City tomorrow. Although regretting exceedingly the necessity of canceling her tour, the queen hurried east to prepare for the sailing of the liner Berengaria on November 24th. She will stay at the home of Charles E. Mitchell, banker, at Tuxedo, N. Y., until her steamer sails. Prince Nicolas will go to Cincinnati and Detroit today and later rejoin her majesty in New York.

Queen Marie made what was probably her farewell social appearance at a ball in Louisville, although she was reluctant to attend. She also visited the log cabin in Hodgenville, Ky., in which Abraham Lincoln was born and the place where "My Old Kentucky Home" was written.

The activities of four Louisville militiamen caused "displeasure" aboard the royal train. The officers of Major George M. Chesire, established martial law along the highway and commandeered cars in the name of her majesty and Gov. William J. Fields, of Kentucky. Three of the guests, including one woman on the royal train, were ordered out of their machines by the militiamen when the latter's automobile sprung a puncture.

Major Stanley Washburn, aide to her majesty, wired Gov. Field today demanding an explanation or apology for the action of his militiamen.

FIVE DIE AS STEAMER BURNS ON ST. LAWRENCE

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Five lives are believed to have been lost as the result of a fire which destroyed the steamship Montreal, crack St. Lawrence river boat of the Canada Steamship Lines as she passed from Montreal to Quebec. No passengers were aboard.

The fire started in a hold forward where cattle were quartered. Spreading rapidly, the flames took hold of the forecastle where most of the crew were asleep. Five were trapped before they could leap into the river.

BRITISH MINERS REJECT PROPOSALS AFTER ALL

London, Nov. 19.—The British miners have rejected the government proposals for ending the coal strike which has been in effect since May 1. Official announcement was made today that the miners voted 460,806 to 313,200 against acceptance of the government proposals.

CONTRACTOR FOR BOMBING JOBS FOUND MURDERED

Chicago, Nov. 19.—George Martini, alleged leader of a "bombing syndicate," was found murdered in an automobile near his home today. He had been shot through the head.

Martini was known as a labor organizer and "sluagger." He had been indicted in numerous bomb outrages and was charged by police with being leader of a syndicate which took "bombing contracts."

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS

New Haven, Nov. 19.—Walter S. Long, of North Canaan, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $8,664 and assets of $6,762. The Paris Style Shop, Inc., of Waterbury, owes $15,665 and has assets of $10,324. Samuel Meyerson, a New Haven grocer, has liabilities of $4,241 and assets of $650.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Nov. 19.—Treasury balance as of Nov. 17: $156,496,186.69.

Out of Tunnel Into Matrimony

An intended journey from New York to "the great open spaces" ended in matrimony in New Jersey for Mary Kelly, 16, and James Berbrick, 23, of Long Island, because they set out through the four-mile Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel under the Hudson River. Tired and dirty, they were found by a patrolman upon their emergence on the Jersey side and taken to the North Bergen police station where this picture was made and a hasty decision to wed was reached. Mary was still in her male attire when a justice of the peace tied the knot.

NEW ENGLAND TEXTILE TRADE IN NO DANGER

facts." He pointed out that New Englanders have broadcast pessimistic reports concerning the district and that other sections of the nation have seized upon these reports not only to criticize but even to pity New England and "to discount her present and future standing in the business world."

Maakig Little Effort. Colonel Knox's committee urged New England to spend money in advertising New England outside, pointing out how other sections have done the same thing with marked success. "The way is open for every New England city, but the region is getting but indifferent results in promoting expansion. Despite the advantages they have despite the fact that they are making no effort, others are making none, and some of our industrial cities are shrinking. If New England wants industrial expansion she can have it, but many of us will have to change our ways materially to get it."

Fewer Farmers Needed. Steady and marked decrease in the relative number of people engaged in agriculture in New England is a cause alarm. J. G. Lipman, of New Brunswick, N. J., told the delegates to the conference. He said that efficient tie-up of agriculture and the discoveries and inventions and scientific progress of modern industry will enable one-third of the country's population to produce practically all of the food, fats and fibre material required by the entire nation.

The day of self-sufficient agriculture is largely gone. Our industries are creating commodities easily and cheaply. The crude and painful methods of the self-sufficient farmer must suffer in competition with centralized and well-organized enterprises. An endless number of commodities have come to save the farmer long days of toil and effort. They have made it unnecessary for the farmer to be a jack-of-all-trades. They have encouraged him to specialize.

Budget Arrangements. Endorsement of the plan of the New England Council to raise an additional $50,000 for its work next year was given by the Connecticut Council at a meeting during the morning. The total budget will be $100,000 and Connecticut's share approximately $20,000.

The Connecticut Council voted that its share be raised by solicitations entirely within the state and by its own officials. The council was against solicitation by a committee from the New England Council.

Power was conferred on the State Council to act in raising the required funds.

All members of the State Council were re-nominated and re-elected without opposition. The list of those elected for one year follows: E. Kent Hubbard, of Middletown; Joseph W. Alsop, of Avon; Ernest E. Rogers, of Southington; Elijah Rogers, of Goshen; Isidore Wise, of Hartford. For two years—E. G. Buckland, of New Haven; Stanley H. Bullard, of Bridgeport; E. O. Goss, of Waterbury; H. C. Knight, of New Haven; Wilson H. Lee, of Orange, and Henry Trumbull, of Plainville.

The conference adjourned late this afternoon without date.

ROB DIAMOND DEALER BELOW THE DEAD LINE

New York, Nov. 19.—Two armed bandits, working below the police "dead line," entered the office of Joseph Pomerants, a diamond dealer at 68 Nassau street, in broad daylight today, bound and gagged Pomerants and escaped with a wallet containing diamonds valued at $15,000.

Pomerants was tied to a chair. Police, who released him some time later, said he couldn't remember his name or what had happened. They think he was drugged.

Yea, A Turkey!

Eighty local people sat in at a whist Wednesday night at the Manchester Community Club. All enjoyed themselves immensely—and one woman fetched home a fat Turkey—first prize.

That's only a sample instance of how your community center gives pleasure to many. Does your good to meet your friends and neighbors evenings.

Give To The Manchester Community Club Financial Campaign

- Help thousands to enjoy:
- The whists,
  - The reading rooms,
  - The pool rooms,
  - The dance hall,
  - The Old Folks Concerts,
  - The Community Sings,
  - The Skating Carnivals,
  - The Tennis Court,
  - The Baseball Grounds,
  - The Neighborhood Gatherings.

Gifts Welcome From Any Part of the Town

Help us keep active our community center, where the people of our neighborhood can come together as neighbors to enjoy one another, and to do the things, whether educational, recreational, or cultural, which we like to do—under organized leadership insuring the greatest degree of self-expression.

Note how everybody is giving—so many gifts from the South End, from the Bon Ami plant, the Burr Nurseries, the E. E. Hilliard plant. Your neighbors are giving. Are you?

What's a Queen in the Life of a One-Year Old, Anyhow? Queens mean nothing at all in the life of this wee baby in Kirby, Wyo. The infant's mother carried it down to meet Queen Marie's train, and Queen Marie leaned far over the railing of her car to shake its hand. But the baby never gave Marie a tumble. "Me for Ma!" its expression seemed to say.

Bergin Oil May Bring Germany Much Wealth

Berlin, Nov. 19.—Germany's operation of the Bergin process for producing oil from coal, it is claimed, may make this country independent of foreign oil supplies within a few years. Construction of a new plant at Nachterstedt near Ascherleben in Central Germany is reported to have started, and is scheduled for completion within two years.

Growing reports to the effect that oil extracted from coal, by the Bergin system, is likely to cause an upheaval in the entire world oil trade, are strengthened by the interest which Standard Oil, Royal Dutch and other immense corporations have manifested for the Bergin process.

It is not yet certain whether any of the great oil combines will succeed in buying an interest in the new oil-from-coal plant in Central Germany. Experts consider it doubtful, however, that the Bergin process, which will control the operation of these works, will allow foreign firms to gain insight into German secret processes, which are calculated to complete with the natural product.

Professor Friedrich Bergius of Heidelberg, the inventor of the process, has attempted to dampen the ardor of enthusiastic prophets. He discounts reports that his invention will evoke a revolution in the world oil markets and, perhaps himself over-zealously seeks to persuade the public that oil-from-coal will not rival the natural product.

Concealing Value. Other experts suggest that Dr. Bergius is eager to conceal the true significance of his system until he is ready to enter the world market on a large scale. Premature disclosure of the importance of the Bergin process, it is insisted, would put competitors on their guard.

A reckoning of production costs appears to fortify the contentions of opponents of Bergin oil advocates. Dr. von Jellinek of the Bergin laboratories at Heidelberg, has computed that oil products, extracted from coal by the Bergin method, will cost 93 Marks ($23) per ton—or only 78 Marks (about $20) a ton—if electrical energy is generated at the plant.

Meanwhile, the world market price of the natural product fluctuates between 140 and 190 Marks ($35-$47) per ton. To compete with Bergin oil, then, world petroleum prices would have to take a big drop.

Whether the development of the Bergin process will emancipate Germany from foreign oil imports, as the German press suggests, is likely to remain undecided for several years. But experts recall that other scientific achievements in Germany during recent years have performed economic miracles. Thus, the inauguration of the Haber-Bosch process for obtaining nitrogen from air not only spares Germany a yearly import of approximately 800,000 tons of Chile saltpeter, but now enables Germany to export 135,000 tons of fixed nitrogen annually.

Nitrogen Parallel. "This performance," it is asserted, "suggests that a parallel development in the oil industry is not unthinkable."

On the other hand, it is argued that the swift growth of motor-fuel consumption, the increase of automobiles in Germany and German expansion of commercial aviation will augment the domestic demand for oil to such an extent that foreign imports will continue to be essential to meet Germany's requirements for many years. It is estimated that in 1927, Germany will require about one million tons of fuel-oil.

Not New. The Bergin process, around which international oil corporations have centered their interest, is not new. Experiments, starting in 1909, led to the issuance of a patent in 1913. The process depends upon the hydrogenation of coal under 100 atmospheres pressure at 430 degrees centigrade for a yield of about 45 percent oil which can be refined for gasoline, ammonia and other end-products.

HEBRON. Roads here were badly washed as a result of Tuesday's storm. The telephone service was also badly upset, several lines being thrown out of order.

The auction held at the Sarah Hobcock place on Godfrey Hill Wednesday brought out quite a number of out of town people. Grover Clark of Springfield, his father and mother and several other members of the Clark family were present, representing Mrs. Clark who owns the place.

Mrs. Frank H. Raymond, was the recent guest of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Pendleton in Colchester.

Mrs. A. W. White of Montville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. White of New Haven and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawley White of New Britain were week-end guests at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Amanda Potter.

A meeting of the town school committee was held at the town clerk's office Monday evening. Robert E. Foote was chairman. Supervisor Charles M. Larcomb was present and gave a talk on penmanship, showing samples of the handwriting of pupils from the Hebron schools, and comparing them with the average supposed to be attained.

Gradings of Hebron pupils attending Windham High school were also shown and discussed. It was voted that Robert E. Foote be appointed a committee to adjust certain irregularities concerning transportation of high school pupils from this town to Willimantic and return. The next meeting will be held at a date to be announced in December.

LIVE STOCK SHOW OPENS NEXT WEEK

International Exposition Will Continue Through December 4.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—(United Press).—The twenty-seventh annual International Live Stock Exposition, now called by its promoters the "World's Fair of Agriculture" will open here Nov. 27 and continue through to December 4.

Secretary and Manager B. H. Heide, who has directed the international fair for a quarter century, will again direct the exposition. Foremost breeders of North America have been preparing their best cattle, horses, sheep, and hogs for competition and champions from every stock show of consequence in America, will be entered.

More than 11,000 head of live stock will be entered in the 900 classes of the exposition for $100,000 in prizes and numerous trophies.

Nearly every province in Canada, and every state in the union will be represented in the International Grain and Hay Show, which will include approximately 5,000 samples of selected grain, small seeds, and hay.

Experts from the 650,000 membership of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of the continent, will attend the Fifth National Club Congress, compete in contests, and give demonstrations in their own building on the grounds.

The Department of Agriculture, and state universities and agricultural colleges will have displays and furnish lectures on agricultural problems.

Judging contests, evening entertainments, horse shows, and other attractions will be on the daily program of the visitors.

SEE BIG INCREASE IN U. S. AIRWAYS

Annual Commerce Report Predicts 12,000 Miles By Next July 1.

Washington, Nov. 19.—(United Press).—By the first of July the major centers of the country will be connected by 12,000 miles of airways. Assistant Commerce Secretary MacCracken, in charge of commercial aviation, said in the Department's annual report today.

More than 7,000 miles of airways are now in use, MacCracken said, and 5,000 additional will be ready by the end of the present fiscal year for the transportation of mail, passengers and express.

MacCracken said the Department had made rapid advances in stimulating interest in commercial aviation and revealed that all air mail routes were now operated by private operators.

"The work of the Department in development of the new aviation division," he said, "has during the past fiscal year been of preparatory order like that in the industry. It may be said, however, that already commercial operations have been undertaken in reliance on the provisions of the air commerce act in a number of directions, and it seems certain that the Post Office Department will be able to let contracts for the transportation of mail during the present fiscal year. It will thus convert a very large postal loss into certain postal profit."

"The purpose of the Government has been three-fold, first, to secure better development of this new form of transportation for commercial purposes; second, to create private commercial services which can relieve the Post Office of its direct expenditure upon air mail; and third, by the creation of a large commercial air fleet with its accompanying personnel and its background of the manufacturing industry to give a fundamental military reserve to the country."

HOW MUCH PER MONTH? The fairest way to judge shoe value is by the cost per month, or per season.

The first cost per pair is less important, and often misleading. One pair of shoes at ten dollars may be really less expensive than another pair at six dollars which only holds its shape half as long, or soon goes out of style or is uncomfortable or has a cheap look.

One of the many advantages of the CANTILEVER SHOE. (For Men, Women and Children).

VANDALS DESTROY COMMUNITY SIGNS

Principal Bentley Sounds Caution to School Children—Reward.

In all the rooms of the Union, Robertson and Hollister street schools of the Eighth District this forenoon Principal Thomas Bentley had notice served that school children must take care not to insure in any way the Community Club posters displayed on the lawns on Main, North Main and Oakland streets. School children are legally under the jurisdiction of the school authorities while on the way from their homes to school and return, and any intrusions regarding the posters will result in disciplining for the offenders.

Principal Bentley's words of caution were the result of wholesale destruction of posters of the Manchester Community Club on Main street late yesterday afternoon. Every lawn on Main street, from Depot Square to Middle Turnpike, flaunted a colored poster announcing the Community Club campaign, and the posters were placed with the consent of the owner of the property in each instance.

Late in the afternoon, some persons went along the street and raised havoc with the Community Club printed matter. Each poster had been mounted securely on a staff, the staff being driven into the ground. Thoughtlessly or maliciously, the offenders clubbed the posters to pieces, leaving the fragments scattered on the ground.

There was much indignation among Community Club members at the outrage. The executive committee in charge of the financial campaign immediately offered a $25 reward for information which would result in conviction of the guilty parties.

The club's committee on printed matter got busy early this morning with a fresh stock of posters and a working force, and the posters were restored to all of the lawns once more. This display of posters in this manner has been carried into effect on North Main street and Oakland street, and is an effective reminder of the Community Club campaign. In addition, a poster on every lawn gives visible evidence of the community character of the campaign and the co-operation of the residents on whose lawns the posters appear.

COLUMBIA

Columbia Grange held its annual competitive program Wednesday evening. The meeting was open to members of Grange families, and a large audience was present. The contest was between the tall and short members of the Grange. The tall program came first and consisted of a session of a country school, with speeches and songs by the pupils. Mr. E. P. Lyman was also present as committeeman and made a speech. The program of the shorts consisted of 4 numbers. The first was a comic duet "The Chorus from the kitchen" by Raymond Lyman and Mrs. Elsie Collins. The second number was a session of the Columbia Sewing Circle, the various members of the Grange. Jokes relating to various members of the "talls." The third number was a song and tableau "Two Little Girls in Blue," and the last number was an exercise by several, entitled "In the good old days." Judges were Mrs. Carl Alfred, Charles Pomeroy and John Bowman, all of Echo Grange. Mansfield. They decided in favor of the "shorts." The next meeting of the Grange will be Dec. 1, and at that time the travelling gavel will be presented by Killingly Grange. This gavel has been on the rounds for two years, and is to go to each Grange in Connecticut taking 12 years to complete its travels. Columbia Grange will hold it 30 days, at the end of that time passing it on to another neighboring Grange. This is the first Grange in this section to have it.

"Hamlet Honeymoon" to Happiness

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. De Mille and three of their children, Catherine, Cecelia and John.

Cecil B. De Mille's Greatest Love Story

BY DAN THOMAS NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, Nov. 19.—"Hearts Are Trumps," said the billboards. And "Hearts are trumps," said Cecil De Mille to himself. Whereupon, despite poverty, artistic obscurity and social disparity between himself and Constance Adams, he went out forthwith and married the lady. Both had been members of the "Hearts are Trumps" company. All this happened many moons before De Mille became a name to conjure with in the film capital of America. Twenty years ago it was that Constance Adams, a judge's daughter and popular debutante of Orange, N. J., took her fling at the stage, and gave her heart to a strolling player who couldn't even pay for a honeymoon. Footlight Honeymoon But she did not miss the wedding trip after all. For De Mille was, if not prosperous, at least resourceful. He got them both a job in a company which was to tour in "Hamlet" to the Pacific Coast. And that tour was their honeymoon. After two weeks in Los Angeles, they decided that they would come back some time and make the town their home. Six years later they did return to Hollywood, and have lived there ever since. Miss Adams' parents, contrary to tradition, had approved the match. But the young husband at first found it very hard to reward their faith in his ability.

Players Discovered Hearts Were Trumps

Like all players, he had times of prosperity and jobless periods of tramping from agency to agency in search of work. After the De Mille baby, Cecelia, was born, her father often walked from 14th street to 157th street to save his nickel to buy milk for her. "I had plenty of time to walk, but I had few nickels," he explains. "So I walked." Adopt Three Children Cecelia started life as a hungry little daughter of poverty. Now her slightest wish is answered by her father's millions.

But the De Milles have not been satisfied with bringing up their one child in luxury. They have adopted three other children, Catherine, 15, John, 11, and Richard, 3. They make no distinction between their own child and their foster children. "I believe every wealthy man should adopt as many children as his home will hold," says Cecil De Mille. "Because I worked so hard for my money, I realize what it means, and I know how to use it for my children's benefit—and let for their ruin." Twenty years of married happiness in Hollywood have made the De Milles believe that where there's a will to harmony, there's a way. "We didn't start with the idea of divorce. We started out to see this marriage through to the end of life. And that's why we've been happy," they say.

The oldest inhabited castle in Scotland is that of Dunvegan in the island of Skye. After being lighted by tapers, torches and candles for more than a thousand years, it has now been wired for electricity.

COURT CUTS FIRM'S TAXES OVER HALF

Objects to Stamford Discrimination Win in the Superior Court.

Stamford, Nov. 12.—The H. E. Verran Co., Inc., six mill owners here, today had their taxes reduced over fifty per cent through a decision handed down by Judge Arthur F. Ellis, of superior court. The Verran company objected to an assessment of $1,679,690 placed against their plant by Stamford's Board of Assessors and after the Board of Relief failed to reduce the figure went to the Superior Court, where the matter was taken in hand by a committee. Judge Ellis' decision follows the committee report. Under the original assessment, the Verran company was to pay $23,347.69 in taxes to the town while under the Judge Ellis' decision the tax will amount to $11,509.96. The Verran company had paid a tax installment of over $13,000, pending the outcome of the appeal and now will file a petition asking the selectmen to rebate $2,430. The Verran company case was a test case arranged by the Lincoln Club here, which charged the assessors with favoring some manufacturers and over-assessing others. A general tax reform scheme is now expected to be started.

HIT-AND-RUN BOY TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Believing He Had Killed Woman, Disobedient Lad Commits Suicide.

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—Because he believed he had killed a woman with his father's automobile, which he had been forbidden to use, and then did not stop, Oscar Heinlein, 14, committed suicide at home here today by shooting himself through the breast with a shotgun. Police were called to the scene of young Heinlein's accident and removed Belle Jenkins, 60, to a hospital, where it was discovered she had a broken arm and dislocated shoulder. A weather vane, brought to the Dutch settlement of Albany in 1656 is still in use.

For Your Thanksgiving Table

That old fashioned New England holiday, so popular with us all, is at hand again. It generally means the gathering of the entire family at home and a big feast that makes the youngsters dance around at the prospect of all the good things to eat and the older folks wish they were younger so that they could eat more too. You will find that we have a large list of things that you will want to help make the occasion a success.

THRILLS ABOUND IN CIRCLE'S PROGRAM

"The Sign of the Claw" and "The Ridin' Rascal" Two Thrilling and Delightful Pictures Here Tomorrow.

There will be only two more chances tonight for you to see that big double feature that has aroused so much comment at its showing in the Circle theater. Surely "Wages for Wives" and "Doubling With Danger" are all that anyone could ask for, and more. The first is an amusing comedy of a triple threat, a marriage difficulty, and the latter a story of deep mystery and long laughs.

For tomorrow only the Circle will present another fine double feature program. Thrills? Yes, nothing else but. Both pictures are just simply filled with them. The first is "The Sign of the Claw" with the wonder dog, "Peter the Great." The other is "The Ridin' Rascal" with the immensely popular Western star, Art Acord. Here are two features to thrill and delight you. If you are looking for a couple of hours of good entertainment, just drop around to the Circle anytime tomorrow afternoon or evening.

The instinctive fear of animals for fire is well known—but how about the reaction of an animal to electricity? The answer to this unusual question forms the basis of a very thrilling scene in the new Gotham Production "The Sign of the Claw," which features the famous dog star, "Peter the Great." "Peter does everything but talk and in his case, speech is not necessary as his actions speak louder than words.

"The Sign of the Claw" sets a new high mark for producers of dog pictures to shoot at and "Peter the Great" ranks miles ahead of any other screen dog seen here.

"That's a cinch—tick photography," chant the wise ones, when they see a thrilling episode on the screen.

If the players who risk their lives and sometimes give their lives to make those thrills could hear such remarks, they would be forgiven for the violence they might employ.

In "The Ridin' Rascal," the Art Acord starring vehicle for Universal, Art Cord and S. E. Jennings, the "heavy" in the picture, nearly fell to their death when they were fighting on the edge of a high cliff while the company was on location in the heart of the Sierra Mountains.

HOLD NORWALK MAN ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Norwalk, Nov. 19.—Patrick A. Keane, 30, is in a cell at police headquarters under bonds of $1500 on the charge of bigamy. According to the police Keane married Mrs. Viola Keane on Nov. 4, 1918 in New York City. Without getting a divorce, he married Hazel Eva Mosher of Danbury on Feb. 14, 1923. The first Mrs. Keane is responsible for the charge. Keane was making preparations to leave town.

The second woman Keane married has also disappeared.

RADIO SET FREE AT RIALTO TONIGHT

The contest which has been conducted the past week at the Rialto theater will close this evening with the presentation of a five tube Atwater Kent radio set to the lucky person whose coupon number corresponds with that drawn from the receptacle on the stage of this playhouse. It may be well to state here, that the winner must be on hand to receive his prize, otherwise the drawing will proceed until a number is drawn whose owner is in the audience. Of course no one holding one or more coupons in the contest will want to be absent with such a prize in view and a crowded house is looked for. The two features being shown for the last times today and this evening should keep the audience entertained until the winner of the radio set is announced. They lack nothing in the way of thrilling drama and can be strongly recommended to the fan who desires action that makes the minutes slip into hours unnoticed.

An unusually excellent cast helps to make "Unknown Treasures," one of the features, entertaining screen fare. The leading characters, Gladys Hulette and Robert Agnew seem admirably suited for their different roles. The story's main interest appears to be sustained mystery, and if this is the case it succeeds. A roaming ape with a savage temper furnishes a fair share of the thrills and the rest is furnished by decidedly "spooky" happenings in an old desert house, where a search for the hidden treasure is being carried on. The other feature being shown for the last times today also specializes in thrills, but of a different nature. It is a virile drama of the steel rails and is called "Perils of the Rails." Helen Holmes carries off the honors in this melodrama, and her support is exceptional. A rollicking comedy and a news reel complete the program.

There will be a complete change made tomorrow when "Affinities" and "Pals" will be offered. The first named is an uproariously funny farce written by Mary Roberts Rinehart and enacted by Colleen Moore and John Bowers. "Pals" is a fast moving western starring Black Beauty an almost human horse and Rex, an intelligent canine. Art Acord and Louise Loraine are featured among the human actors. Another chapter of "The Fighting Marine," starring Gene Tunney world's heavyweight champ, a comedy and a news reel will also be shown. Another contest for the children will be held tomorrow, five pairs of ball bearing roller skates being given away to as many lucky kiddies. Coupons will be given to every child entering the theater, and the drawing will be the same as last Saturday.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 19.—Two big PN-10 naval planes which are to attempt a non-stop flight of 1,789 miles to Panama, left here this morning for a final test flight to Hampton roads. Each carried seven passengers. It is expected the planes will hop-off for Panama early next week.

DISBARRED LAWYER UP ON MEAN FRAUD CHARGE

Norfolk, Nov. 19.—Salvatore P. Cenuario, former city prosecutor of Norfolk and disbarred in Connecticut, will go on trial today in New York, charged with fraudulently obtaining money from Italian residents of Brooklyn.

He is charged with obtaining the names of purchasers of homes through titles issued by a trust company, then representing himself as an employee of the company and collecting the charges for searching titles.

COBB NOT AFTER RED SOX

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19.—Ty Cobb, former Detroit manager today denied wired a news service that there is absolutely no truth to the report that he is negotiating for the purchase of the Boston Red Sox, with Tris Speaker as manager.
