and had to be gathered in by Blair Patterson, attendant, guardian and legal adviser. The part of Van Dyck was played by Raymond Tilden and that of Patterson by Crombie Donaldson and like all others in the cast had the proper interpretation and execution. Eva McComb took the part of Mrs. Forbes, and for her share in the elopement arrangements and other antics usual at a week-end house party of New Yorkers, spent most of her time trying to win herself back into the good graces of her grouchy husband. That she more than succeeded under trying situations, showed she knew the art of acting. Henry, the butler, on probation and under suspicion, with a fondness for jewelry, especially if it was laying around loose, was closely watched by the audience as well as the house party guests. The part was well taken by Harold Maher.

Congratulations Due
It would be difficult to go through the cast and give special praise to any one member above another, for they were all exceptionally good, and the directors are to be congratulated not only for the success of the comedy as a whole, but also for the aptitude with which the parts were assigned.

The presentation of "Dulcy" last night has given the Town Players a firmer grip upon the good will of the community, and the productions in the future will be awaited with pleasurable anticipation.

With each program last night an application for membership as an associate in the organization was handed out, and it is hoped that many of the people of Manchester will avail themselves of the opportunity offered to become affiliated with this popular organization and give it their support and patronage.

SALM TO GET HALF MILLION IN BUY-OFF

Lawyers Fail to Deny That Rogers Will Pay Count to Quit and Stay Away.

New York, Dec. 10.—Count Ludwig Salm is to get $500,000 in return for abandonment of his separation suit against his wife and a promise to remain in Europe, it was reported today, following the sudden and unexpected adjournment of his action yesterday to January 17.

The money would be paid by Henry Huddleston Rogers, Standard Oil millionaire and father of Countess Salm, the former Mill-cent Rogers, in return for the fortune the Count also would abandon all efforts to gain the custody of his two-year-old son, Peter, who is now with his mother.

Attorneys on both sides today refused to confirm the report that a half million dollar settlement was being negotiated, but they failed to deny the rumor.

CONSTRUCTION CO. TO FIGHT COMPENSATION

Appeals From Kosik Award on Ground Case Had Already Been Disposed Of.

The Manchester Construction Company has appealed in superior court from the finding and award of compensation to John Kosik, of Manchester, by L. J. Noonan, compensation commissioner of the First District.

The company says that Kosik was denied compensation by Commissioner Donohoe of the Second District when he applied on grounds that he had been poisoned by fry while working for the firm in Bolton.

Later, it says, Noonan allowed compensation when Kosik claimed he had been poisoned while handling cement in Manchester.

SHOVEL MAN MULCTED $50,000 FOR ACTRESS

Jury Gives Anne Caldwell Verdict For Tenth of Claim Against Hubbard.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 10.—Anne Caldwell, New York actress, was awarded $50,000 by a jury in federal court here today in her suit for $500,000 for breach of promise against John W. Hubbard, millionaire Pittsburgh shovel manufacturer.

The verdict was returned when court opened here today, after twelve hours' deliberation by the jury.

Attorney O. K. Eaton for the defense immediately filed a motion for a new trial.

TRACK-SWEEPER KILLS 2 IN CRASH WITH AUTO

Pelham, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Elmer L. Hommedeau, theater manager, and Miss Eleanor Jordan, of City Island, were killed today when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a trolley track-sweeper car. Clifford Kingsbury, of New Rochelle and Miss Ellen Harris of Throg's Neck, also in the automobile, were uninjured.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. H. J. Zimmerman of Bissell street who has been undergoing treatment at the Manchester Memorial hospital for the past ten days is improving.

Twelve tables were filled with players at the whist held last night at the Manchester Community club house. The winners of first prize were Miss Helen Maloney and Monroe Stoughton. Mrs. Mark Holmes and Mrs. Karl Keller were hostesses.

Anthony Smith of East Hartford paid a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication in the Manchester police-court this morning. Smith told Judge Johnson all he had to drink was two glasses of wine that a friend gave him. He then boarded a car with the intention of going to his home, but was found here at midnight at the south end terminus and placed under arrest.

SHEPPARD WINS AGAIN ON McCLINTOCK WILL

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10.—The supreme court today denied a rehearing in the McClintock will case.

The high court at the October session had decided the will of "Big" McClintock which named William B. Sheppard of Chicago as chief beneficiary, should be admitted to probate. The supreme court did not pass upon the validity of the will itself. Sheppard stood trial in Chicago for McClintock's "germ" murder; it was acquitted.

DOZEN MEN INJURED IN RIOT OVER STRIKE

Bay State Iron Workers Raid Employes Still on Job and Battle Ensues.

East Bridgewater, Mass., Dec. 10.—A dozen men were injured today when forty striking iron workers at the Old Colony Foundry Co., and their sympathizers swept down on a group of other employes and their special guards.

Three men were so badly hurt that they were taken to a hospital for treatment. Others had broken noses and black eyes.

When the battle was over 13 special guards went to Brockton to obtain warrants for four ringleaders.

MAY BE BIG FINES FOR GRAIN REBATING

Total of $720,000 Likely to Be Collected From Buffalo Firm, Says Official.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Fines totalling $720,000 may be collected by the federal government from grain shippers as the result of the conviction of Spencer Kellogg Sons, Inc., granting rebates in violation of the Elkins Act, United States Attorney Richard N. Templeton stated today. Indictments are pending against three other firms, and probably will be tried in Elmira next month.

The Kellogg conviction was returned by a federal jury last night.

Grandsons of the British King

These two young men, when they grow up, will be two of the social leaders of Europe. They're grandsons of the English king—sons of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. The one playing with the train of cars is her second son, The Honorable Gerald Lascelles (that's the proper way to address him); and the other is his older brother, The Honorable G. H. Hubert Lascelles.

COMEDY THE AUDIENCE DIDN'T SEE

That all the fun and excitement of a comedy does not occur in the audience and that often situations arise behind the curtain which are most interesting was proven last night when "Dulcy" was shown at the Circle Theater.

It appears that just before one of the actors was due on the stage for a certain part in the play, he asked Albert Pearson, the leading man, to blow his nose for him as he was afraid he would get the embellishment off.

Pearson did his best but in his efforts part of the actor's mustache was ripped off. There remained but ten more lines of the play to be said before he was due back on the stage. This was about two minutes or less and in this time, he ran down stairs, glued on another piece of mustache and raced back just in the nick of time to prevent an awkward situation.

Charitrix

This is Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger. His mother announced in Philadelphia that he is to return from exile in Germany to visit her Christmas.

AGE FINALLY SCORES WIN OVER YOUTH

"Sandy" Herd, famous professional golfer of England, comes forth to dispute the thought that youth is supreme in sport.

At 58 years of age, he recently captured the professional golf championship of Britain. It is his second victory in the event, for he won it just 20 years ago. It is 24 years since he won the British open, the first man to do it with a rubber-cored ball.

It was a rather strange coincidence, that the other finalist was Jack Bloxham, who is 48, proving 1926 has been a great one for the veteran golfers in Great Britain.

Against Dad-in-Law

NEW DOCTOR FURNED TO DEATH IN HOME
New York, Dec. 10.—Dr. Edward Waltzfelder, 73, was burned to death today in his home by fire of unknown origin. The aged physician's body, burned almost beyond recognition, was discovered by neighbors who smelled the smoke and investigated.

QUALITY IS HIGH IN STATE VAUDEVILLE

Bert Hughes and Company Give Town New Game—Ben Smith a Big Hit.

(By Member Herald Staff)
The five acts which make up the State theater's vaudeville bill this week are all of high quality. It is seldom that a city, Manchester's size can enjoy so well balanced a bill, and one that has so much novelty. Although many Manchester people are busy with their Christmas shopping the attendance at the theater last night was unusually good. The applause which greeted the different acts showed that the audience agrees the show is a good one.

The novelty act, the one which is most interesting, perhaps is the last one. Bert Hughes and Company introduce a new game—basketball played on bicycles. The company is made up of three girls and two men. One acts as a referee and the other two try to bound a basketball into the cage-like affairs on the stage. There is plenty of comedy and a real thrilling game is played.

Ben Smith, billed as a "Troubadour" is 100 per cent pleasing. Ben sings pretty little songs—some of them his own—tells some good stories, and shows a grin that would make anybody laugh. Ben, it may be said, drew forth the greatest amount of applause.

Speaking about quality—that's where the third act comes in. The Buckridge-Casey company presents some mighty fine songs, good dance numbers, and piano selections in a charming manner. Lighting effects are well employed and the male singer has an unusually fine voice. The one lady in the company sings, acts and dances well.

One of the most amusing front stage bits ever seen here is that given by Ergotti and Herman. The man of the act is almost in the midget class, and he does some clever acrobatic stunts with the aid of a very talented woman.

Bert and Betsy Ross, act number two, present an amusing line of patter that might be pepped up a bit. But they are enjoyable.

"The Popular Sin", the feature motion picture on the program is one of the season's best. Florence Vidor, Greta Nissen and Clive Brook play an amusing satire on ultra-modern life.

Backstage Notes

Bert Hughes and Company, the novelty bicycle act, feel at home here. They are all natives of Manchester, England. They have just returned from a tour of Australia. In their stage life they have played the Coliseum, London, three times. This is the first time in this country they have played independent of the Keith circuit.

Ben Smith makes Columbia phonograph records when he isn't doing anything else. He is an old time professional ball player, and for several seasons teamed up with Hughie Jennings on a vaudeville tour. Incidentally, he saw Jennings the other day at a sanitarium. He predicts that Hughie will have a big league team next season.

The Buckridge-Casey Company is new to vaudeville but not to the stage. Both Buckridge and Casey have played in several big musical comedy companies, and the songs they sing are taken from some of the shows they have played.

The first act that comes on the stage is Ergotti and Herman. Ergotti is the little fellow and his first name is Herman. The lady who plays with him is his wife and her name is Irene. Ergotti was born in Germany and he played with a big acrobatic troupe before falling in love with Irene, and making a vaudeville team. He has played nearly every country in the world. He has been on the stage 20 years.

Bert and Betsy Ross have a cottage at Coventry Lake and are well known to a lot of Manchester people. They have been seen here before. Perhaps their Coventry Lake friends will turn out strong to welcome them to the local stage.

TOWN SNOW PLOW FIRST ON JOB

The 'own of Manchester snow-plow got the jump on the State Highway department this morning for the first time in some years when it appeared on the roads ready for work before the state plow and started. In a short time the roads were being opened and as the plows kept ahead of the storm, there were no highways which could not be traversed.

Connecticut Company cars held to their schedule practically all the time and plows were kept running throughout the Manchester division lines. Main roads leading into town were kept open by the State Highway department plows while the local machine took care of streets owned by the town.

SELECTMEN TO MEET ON MONDAY EVENING

Manchester's Board of Selectmen will hold its regular December meeting Monday night in the Selectmen's rooms in the new Municipal building. There will be several sidewalk hearings, and considerable business to transact that has accumulated since the last meeting.

Manchester people desirous of appearing before the board on questions of particular interest should be at the Municipal building at 8 o'clock Monday night. The Selectmen's rooms are on the second floor of the building and in the right hand corner of the floor.

PACHITCH, PATRIARCH OF SERBIA, PASSES

Father of Jugo-Slavian Union and Radical Figure in Balkans For 60 Years.

Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 10.—Nikola Pachitch, famous radical leader of the Balkans and former prime minister of Jugo-Slavia, died today at the age of eighty-one.

Nikola Pachitch had been a leader in Balkan politics for nearly sixty years. He was ever a fearless, picturesque, headstrong leader.

His political career was bound up with the fortunes of little Serbia, the center of so much intrigue and bickering. He was prime minister more than a dozen times. He was twice sent to prison because of differences with the Obrenovitch dynasty.

His greatest triumph was at the Paris Peace conference when he succeeded in bringing the Croats, Serbs and Slovenes to accept the present constitution of Jugo-Slavia, thus insuring a greater Serbia.

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS

FIRST "CHURCH NIGHT" DRAWS RECORD CROWD

Second Congregationalists Have Novel Stunt For Bringing Out Members.

Two hundred and twenty-five men, women and children who look upon the Second Congregational church as their church home, gathered around the supper tables in the church vestry last evening for "Church Night." Last month a committee chosen for the purpose divided the parish into five neighborhood groups, each to have charge of a supper and entertainment during the five successive months.

For December Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright were appointed for the section including Woodbridge, North Elm, Washington and Henry streets. They called a meeting of the families in this section and appointed Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Wilson to head the committee on supper arrangements, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Wells and their assistants to have charge of the ticket distribution and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor and their committee to provide entertainment.

The first of the "church nights" was a pronounced success and it is believed the series will do much to promote sociability and good fellowship in the church family. The long rows of tables presented an attractive appearance with red crepe paper, red candles and dishes of rosy red apples. The room was further decorated with pine and evergreen boughs and red berries. The committee served a hot, appetizing supper which was enjoyed by all.

The Eighth School District orchestra of nine pieces, with their leader, Mrs. W. M. Suprenant, played a number of selections. Chorus singing of popular songs from leaflets provided by Watkins Brothers was led by W. J. Taylor, with Carl Borst at the piano. The wife of the pastor, Mrs. Frederick C. Allen gave for a reading a selection which always amuses an audience—"The Birds' Christmas Carol" by Kate Douglas Wiggin. George Martin of Hartford who has a fine robust tenor voice sang: "For You Alone," "I Passed—By Your Window," "Where'er You Walk," "The Birth of Mary," generously responding to recalls.

Mrs. Ora Sherwood, well known local pianist, favored with two lively numbers and accompanied little Betty Foreman who sang two songs in her sweet, childish voice.

A one-act playlet by six young people followed, entitled "The Every Member Canvass." Those who took part were Mrs. Frank V. Williams, Miss Charlotte Foster, Miss Florence Strickland, Miss Alma Bailey, Albert Tuttle and Harold Bells.

Rev. F. C. Allen brought the program to a close with a few congratulatory remarks to the members of the various committees for the social success of the December "church night."

TOWN TRACTOR MAKES LOCAL DEBUT TODAY

Arrives in Time to Scare Threatening Storm—Is Powerful Machine.

Manchester's new Caterpillar tractor with its Wausau snow plow attachment was seen on the streets for the first time today. It was delivered to the new Municipal building just after noon and was immediately put to work clearing out streets that the town force has not reached in their work.

The new tractor is a powerful affair, the same type that the U. S. government used in its army tanks during the war. It has a big 60-horsepower engine and rolls on the famous caterpillar tread. It can be used in grading streets, pulling up stumps of trees, pulling down standing trees, hauling a string of loaded wagons, cutting out new streets, and clearing away debris following storms, not to mention the heaps of snow it will run right through.

The Wausau plow which is attached to the tractor will plow a width of 21 feet and do it in good time, too. The plow is given its force from the rear of the tractor, not from the front as it seems when the tractor is working. The plow, in reality, pulls into a drift, instead of nosing in.

The tractor will be a familiar sight on the town's highways the next few days widening the streets that have already been plowed and opening up the roads in the outskirts.

METHODISTS DECLARE AGAINST AL SMITH

Not Because He's Catholic, But Because He's Wet, Says
Clarence True Wilson.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Methodist reform forces of the country will oppose Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York for the presidency not because he is a Catholic, but because he is wet, D. Clarence True Wilson declared today in opening the 17th annual meeting of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

"We will stand for a man who is loyal to the 18th amendment and the Volstead act and enforcement, regardless of whether he is Protestant, Catholic or Jew," said Wilson.

COPELAND ASKS INQUIRY INTO U. S. INDIAN BUREAU

Washington, Dec. 10.—A senatorial investigation into the administration of the bureau of Indian affairs was demanded today by Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York. "I make no charges against the bureau," said Copeland. "I urge this investigation simply as a means of enlightening the country on all matters pertaining to the Indians of whom we are the trustees."

Bishop Brown—Rip Van Winkle

Like Rip Van Winkle, Bishop William Montgomery Brown, deposed by the Episcopal church as a "heretic," revisited Omaha to look over the city where, as a youth, he used to drive a coach for a wealthy family. Where the family then lived there now is a vacant lot strewn with rubbish, and Bishop Brown had to hunt half a day before he could find a carriage to drive. But he did find one, as this picture shows.

The NUT CRACKER

by JOE WILLIAMS

Pop-eyed investigators with blunt visions report that 4,444,444 players have already been picked for eleven places on annual All-America screams.

This is considerable more than a simple problem in hysterical mathematics: it is simply ludicrous.

A player who had died months before was once named on an All-American guffaw by Walter Camp. That's how hard up the racket used to be for football stars.

Now only players who fail to make somebody's All-America roar, are those who died before their names reached college publicity departments.

Back in days when football was still an experiment, like the promise to "obey" in marriage vows, a man who got around a bit and knew his shin guards had a chance to turn out something that resembled a representative nationwide eleven.

But today it's different, like feminine dandruff on a girl's shoulders. Football stars are as thick as wrong numbers in a telephone booth. Some are thicker. Especially between the acoustics.

Picking eleven standout players from an endless sea of bobbing helmets is a good trick if you do it, and a better one if you don't try.

Willie Stevens was not picked on anybody's All-America titter. Willie belonged. He forwarded-passed Prosecutor Simpson from midfield and caught him himself back of the state's own goal line.

It's plays like this great cause cheering sections at the Deaf and Dumb colleges to boll over with cataclysmic silences.

Low-powered squawkers are saying Mr. Dempsey ought to have a spot on one of those scream teams because of the way he threw nine-tenths of country for a loss at 3 to 1 last fall.

And it's a barb-wired crime to keep a guy like Gillette out of the hand-picked album: he's a great safety man.

Our choices for a backfield: Adam, Eve, Cain and Abel. Try and go further back than that.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO HOWITZER SMOKER

Local National Guard Unit Hopes to Gain New Members This Evening.

In an effort to arouse more interest in National Guard work for the express purpose of securing new enlistments, arrangements have been made for a smoker to be held under the auspices of the Howitzer Company this evening at the local State Armory.

Every member of the Howitzer Company is entitled to bring a friend. After the regular drill which will begin at 7:30, there will be several boxing bouts between competitors well known here. There will also be a supper served which will consist of frankfurts, cheese, cider and cigars.

BROADCASTING IS NOW BIG BUSINESS

New York—Following the precedent established by the National Broadcasting Company in separating broadcasting activities from other business interests, Alfred H. Grebe has organized the Atlantic Broadcasting Corporation.

With Grebe as president, the new organization has purchased the Grebe group of stations which includes WAHG and WBOQ. The new organization will have its main studios in New York City and the transmitters at Richmond Hill, Long Island. The studios are of modern design and elaborately furnished.

Station WAHG will be equipped with a 5000 watt Piezo crystal monitoring system transmitter. The transmitting equipment is of the latest design for maximum volume and sharp tuning.

The initial program of the Atlantic Broadcasting Corporation on Friday, Dec. 17, sets the date of the corporation's inception.

SAVED BY COTTON

Dallas, Tex.—Attorneys were just about to foreclose on the home of a widow living near Dallas recently. A cotton broker told the woman the calamity could be averted if she could sell her cotton crop at 25 cents a pound. R. B. Ehrlich, hotel proprietor, purchased the cotton at 25 cents a pound declaring he would place a bale of it in the lobby of his hotel and put a sign on it telling the world that he was going to hold it until the market price of Texas midland cotton reached what he had paid for it.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Roger Williams (14)

Sketches by Kroesen, Synopsis by Braucher

The arrival of Quakers at Boston, in 1656, created great excitement. The Bay Colony frowned upon the newcomers, who professed to be guided by an "inner light," which meant more to them than the commands of Massachusetts officials. These frenzied disciples of George Fox were unlike the gentle Quakers of today.

The Quaker zeal often created disturbances. Once a Quaker threw a meeting into disorder by crashing two bottles together.

"Thus will the Lord break you in pieces!" he shouted at the assembly of New England worshippers.

The colony took strict measures with the Quakers. They were whipped, committed to the House of Correction, and many were sent back to England. But they gloried in suffering and kept increasing in number. They drifted to the Providence settlement, giving Roger Williams a severe test for his religious principles.

Belgium will produce 25,000,000 tons of coal this year, breaking all records.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING BEGINS EARLY IN MANCHESTER.

Holiday shoppers will be given ample opportunity to do their trading in the Manchester stores this season. Merchants generally report an unusually early commencement of Christmas buying. This is as it should be. The interests of both shoppers and merchants are best served in this way. Better selections can be made, and more general satisfaction had from Christmas purchasers.

It is also an evidence of good times in Manchester, and evidence that people have thoughtfully planned for the holidays, and have money to carry out their plans. Of course, the Christmas Clubs have helped. But the general run of Christmas shoppers have learned by past experience that last minute purchasers are not satisfactory.

The stores will be opened next Thursday afternoon, December 16, until 6 o'clock, and every evening during Christmas week until 9 o'clock. It is anticipated that there will be a very noticeable lack of the old time last minute rush. Some of the larger stores have even considered closing stores at 6 o'clock Christmas eve. This has not been definitely decided upon, however, the public are urged to read the local merchants' advertising where any such change if decided upon, will be announced.

KILLS GASHAWK, RABBIT PREY, AT SAME SHOT

New Canaan, Dec. 10.—Herman Schneider, of this place early today saw a large goshawk with a rabbit in its talons. Schneider got his shotgun and fired, killing both goshawk and rabbit. The bird was found to measure 52 inches from wing to wing.

Skeletons believed to be those of the Vikings were unearthed recently at Reay, Caithness, Scotland.

WINTER FIRE LAID TO SUMMER GUEST

Milford Shore Blaze Followed By Arrest of Woman as "Idle Person."

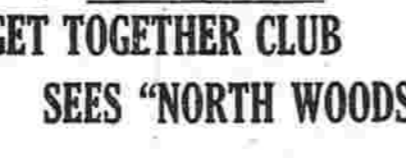

Milford, Dec. 10.—Milford police are holding Mrs. Mary Conlin, 52, a widow, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on a technical charge of idleness, pending an investigation of a fire at Silver Beach last night in which the cottage owned by Samuel Silver, of Bridgeport, was slightly damaged.

According to the police after the fire department had extinguished the blaze, a woman's footprints were discovered in the snow about the cottage.

They found that Mrs. Conlin arrived at the resort yesterday and then traced her to the railroad station where she was waiting for a train to take her to New York.

The woman for four years has been a summer resident of Silver Beach, where incendiary fires have destroyed several cottages. The authorities are holding Mrs. Conlin for a hearing in the town court Monday morning.

GET TOGETHER CLUB SEES "NORTH WOODS"

Gets Vivid Description and Pictures of Austin Cheney's Hunting Trip.

Austin Cheney, superintendent of broad goods weaving for Cheney Brothers, took 120 members of the mill's Get Together club on a hunting trip to the Canadian north woods last night. He "took" them with the aid of the new Cheney Hall motion picture apparatus and his own vivid story of experiences.

The members were greatly interested in Mr. Cheney's exploits and it was nearly 10 o'clock before the meeting was over. The story of the trip was reported in The Herald when Mr. Cheney told the Chamber of Commerce members about his adventures.

Al Flossa, a magician of highest rank, was present and entertained the audience with some of his mystifying stunts. Mr. Flossa worked through the audience and had everybody guessing.

The Dressing-Yarn Dye-Ribbon departments furnished the supper last night. It consisted of breaded veal cutlets, tomato sauce, spaghetti, and a quantity of side dishes. It was one of the best Get Together dinners served in a long time, and Get Together dinners have a reputation of being pretty near unbeatable.

The regular business session followed the dinner.

RADIO SET FREE AT RIALTO TONIGHT

A complete change of program will take place at the Rialto theater tomorrow when two features will be shown. A big canvas and every color of paint has been used in "The Carnival Girl" one of the features to be offered. The production is from the story by Raymond Cannon concerning the troubles of a young and beautiful tight rope walker and her little brother in an act in a sideshow in an amusement park. From this beginning it launches into equally exciting adventures of the girl and boy as run-aways, the villain being the manager of the show who is a rum runner on the side, and the hero being a coast guard officer who pursues the heavy. These scenes necessitated many different exteriors and interiors and skillful camera work. However, the director seems to have made a good job of it and the result is a fast-moving story, convincingly told and with an ever-changing background. Marlon Mack plays the role of "The Carnival Girl" and is ably supported by George Seigmann, Allan Forbes, Gladys Brockwell and others.

The second feature "Pride of Sunshine Alley" is one of those rare pictures that carry an almost universal appeal to all kinds of audiences. It tells the story of a regular "Pollyanna" who in the midst of poverty, finds something to be cheerful about. How her sunshine is finally rewarded forms the basis for the story which is an exceptionally good one. Kenneth McDonald and Violet Schramm have the leads.

The final chapter of "The Fighting Marines" which stars Gene Tunney will also be shown as well as a comedy and a news reel. The program which closes its engagement tonight is well balanced and fairly bristles with thrills.

The two feature pictures are "Dame Chance" which features Gertrude Astor, Mary Carr and Robert Frazer, and "Fighting Fate" a story of a young pugilist who accomplished the impossible by coming back. Billy Sullivan plays the stellar role. A comedy and a news reel will also be shown.

This evening a handsome five-tube radio with a wide range and notable volume will be given away. An event for the kiddies will take place Saturday afternoon when five pairs of ball-bearing roller skates will be given away to as many children.

DEATH OF MRS. ZADROZNY

Mrs. Agnes Zadrozny, wife of Joseph Zadrozny of 67 North street, died last night shortly before midnight at the Memorial hospital. Death was due to a complication of troubles. She had been in the hospital since Nov. 4. She was forty years old. The funeral will be held Monday morning at the St. Bridget's church at 9 o'clock and the body will be placed in the receiving vault in the St. Bridget's cemetery. Mrs. Zadrozny is survived by her husband and two sisters. The latter live in Cungstown, Ohio.

SO. METHODIST MEN TO HEAR REV. NEILL

St. Mary's Rector to Tell of Recent Trip to Ireland—Oyster Supper to Be Served.

The Men's Friendship club of the South Methodist church will hold its annual election of officers Monday night in the church. At 7:30 an oyster supper will be served and at 7:30 the business meeting and election of officers will be held. Arthur S. Gibson is the president of the Men's Friendship club at the present time.

Following the meeting Rev. J. Stuart Neill of St. Mary's Episcopal church will give an illustrated lecture on his recent trip to Ireland. Sam Anderson, old time fiddler, will play a group of "old country" airs.

MORE ABOUT TROLLEY CREWS

Six more Hartford trolley men are seen on Manchester and Rockville runs as the new bid-in in which local conductors and motormen are joined with Hartford operators. One of these crews will have a Stafford Springs run, one which will get into Hartford too late for local men to get home in time.

Gustav Walz and Harry Slayden, motormen on the Cross-town and Green lines, will remain on their runs but will have to go to Hartford to start them in the morning. Sullivan and Tedford will have the night runs on these cars while the relief hours will be taken care of by Jack McKenna.

Six local spare men have taken Hartford runs. They are Gilroy, Shields, Mohr, Chapin and Schuster. Shields will be on the East Windsor Hill run.

Following is a result of yesterday's bid-in: Stafford-Manchester combination: Hrsen and Birge; Carl Kress and William Belote of Hartford. Rockville: Nights: Edwards and Dover of Hartford; Ludke and Tom Tedford. Charles Bridgewater and Joyce, Walker and Byron Davis.

Next to the pleasure of receiving a practical gift is the realization that it is a dependable gift from a reliable store. When you choose a furniture gift at Shoor Bros., you can be certain that it will carry lasting satisfaction. Reliability supports every purchase here.

TOWN PLAYERS.

The Town Players have earned recognition as a Manchester institution. For a year this little band of devotees of the little-theatre idea has been at work, asking very little in the way of public notice or commendation, given much of the time and labor of its members, taking with becoming seriousness the critical undertaking of comprehending the theatre and interpreting its understanding. It has achieved surprisingly. So important is its achievement that in its separate way the Town Players organization has quietly taken a place more or less comparable to that so firmly occupied by the Manchester Choral club as a factor in Manchester's artistic and cultural life.

There were certain marks of sheer amateurism about last night's production of Dulcy. But they were in such sharp contrast to the general theatre intelligence, to the amazing histrionic capacity of the cast as a whole and to the manifestations of sincere, indefatigable study which marked the production that their only effect was to endear the whole earnest, clever group of young folks to their audience, as almost the only evidence that the performance was not merely one of paid professionals.

Considering the short period in which the Town Players have been in existence, Manchester has every reason to be not only proud but delighted with them.

NAVY NUTS.

Through the muck and muck of the oil scandals, from the beginning, has floated the figure of Captain J. K. Robison, U. S. N., now retired—without, it will be remembered, the promotion to rear admiral which would have been his had he not become more or less impregnated with the fumes of oil.

There was long a suspicion that Robison might perhaps have been gainfully mixed up in the leasing proceedings, so helpful was he in bringing them about and so enthusiastic, not to say reckless, in his defense of the leases when there was almost nobody else so poor as to do them honor. That suspicion has pretty well faded out. And E. L. Doherty in his testimony, puts the finishing touches on it.

Robison quite evidently was not crooked in the matter of the oil reserve. He was just a nut.

He belongs to that always considerable class of naval officers who are so wrapped up in the idea of naval responsibility that they are forever frightening themselves to death and trying to throw the country into a panic over some imminently impending naval war, demanding bigger and more ships, bigger and more guns, more if not bigger men—and of course more and higher rank for the officers—so that America's navy may be all set to rally forth and wipe up the seas with the enemy.

Robison's nuttiness ran in the direction of naval fuel oil. There wasn't enough on hand, he was quite sure, to enable us to fight Japan, so according to Admiral Gleeves—another nut—was going to attack us right straight off. It must be had at all costs. Congress was a fool. The President was a fool. The public was a fool. Only the navy knew what was to be expected—and only the Gleeves-Robison part of the navy at that. Nobody would do anything adequate about oil, in any regular way. So Robison advised everybody to do something in a highly irregular way. He would have called it cutting red tape.

Teapot Dome and Elk Hills would never have been hung around the neck of the Republican party if it hadn't been for the navy nuts.

There was just as much chance of our being attacked by Japan in 1920, after the showing we made in the world war, as there is today of our having to defend ourselves against an onslaught by the Orkney Islands. Yet the Gleeves and the Robisons had the navy breathless. Every young officer who was sent to a Pacific station at that time made his young wife good-by in full expectation that he would never see her again. The navy had a first class war scare all of its own. And there probably wasn't a dollar of graft or the expectation of graft in the whole business. Just nuttiness.

It might not be such a bad idea to set up a board of alienists to pass upon the fitness of promotion in the navy of candidates above the rank say of lieutenant-commander. Test them for war-scare nuttiness and retire the nuts.

JEWELS.

Mrs. George Treadwell of Albany thought so lightly of her jewels that she left them in her parked car while she went to make a telephone call. That was in Manhattan, and Manhattan is no kind of a place to leave jewels in a parked car. When Mrs. Treadwell got back from her phoning the jewels were gone. They are still gone, though for more than a month New York police have been trying to get track of them.

These jewels, according to report, cost $35,000.

Thirty-five thousand dollars is just about all the money than an average industrious American citizen can earn in seventeen years by working six days a week for about fifty weeks a year. It is just about the amount of money that provides the food and clothes and housing and education and recreation of the average American family from the time the family is formed at the marriage altar till the eldest boy or girl is through high school and ready to help.

When a woman carries $35,000 worth of gems around with her in a little bag she is, in effect, carrying around with her seventeen years of existence of a group of people likely enough quite as individual and quite as valuable to society as her own family group.

Perhaps if more women realized this there wouldn't be so many cases of leaving little bags of jewels lying around indiscriminately. If more women realized it, as a matter of fact, it is possible that there would not be quite so many of them willing to own seventeen years of a family's wherewithal just by way of casual adornment.

AT THE END.

"Mr. Rockefeller will remain at Orlando until spring," says a news dispatch that tells of that notable's departure on what has come to be his annual pilgrimage to Florida.

Another news dispatch, which makes no mention of the proposed duration of the oil magnate's Florida sojourn, says that the venerable John D. has fallen so greatly of late that his friends were shocked at his feebleness.

He who used to be called the "richest man in the world," and who in his period was unquestionably the greatest organizer and getter of wealth, is eighty-seven years old. For a dozen years or more he has attended exclusively to the business of growing older. He has made longevity his sole aim and purpose. Apparently he has about shot his bolt. Perhaps he will come back from Florida. Perhaps not.

There is a Hudson Bay Co. station up in northern Canada that is a hundred and twenty years old. It had been erected three years when there was recorded in its books the birth of an Indian papoose whom the trader flippantly called Skeezick. That Indian papoose grew up as an attaché of that station; has grown old and older there—and at a hundred and seventeen is set on a trap line this winter, with his wife, who is 98, and a couple of grandchildren, three or four hundred miles from civilization.

If the only thing worth while at the end, whether one has trapped furs in the wilderness or trapped millions in trust forming, is to keep on living and keep on your feet, old Skeezick has beaten John D. by just thirty years, with prospects of making it more.

LOAFERS.

If the Rogers family gets rid of Count Ludwig Salm for the half of one of its forty millions of dollars it would seem to the ordinary American that it would be a good bargain for the Rogerses.

This penniless bum, who seeks in an American court to get possession of the child which is the issue of his marriage to a girl heiress and which is natural heir to an immense fortune, when asked in court if he had ever done any work since his marriage, indignantly replied, "Certainly not."

If he had hesitated, or stammered, or made some sort of apology, no matter how then, people in this country might be able to stomach him. A man, however, who not only fastens himself onto a rich family by the device of marriage to a silly child, as a meal ticket, but is utterly unashamed of that kind of proceeding while holding himself far superior to earning his own living, has no place on this side of the Atlantic, even temporarily. We breed some pretty good loafers of our own, over here, but they do not pin on the badge of loafdom and strut, while trying to squeeze money out of a woman.

STEALING TAXIS.

The American Negro has no great aptitude for major crimes against property. Cold blooded, cruel schemes is foreign to his whole nature. If he does a criminal act it is, nine times in ten, the result of a sudden, unconsidered impulse. We have no Negro Gerald Chapmans.

Who on earth but Negroes would have picked a taxicab to steal, when it was decided to steal some kind of an automobile in which to go south and dodge a hard northern winter? Cars, cars, everywhere, and not a car to steal but a taxi! Under the circumstances the colored men and brothers didn't do so badly when they got almost to Berlin from New Britain before being caught.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Dec. 10.—"Dry navy? Hell, we're the coast guard!" This is the new, unofficial motto of the 11,000 men who guard our shores and whose only duty, in the popular mind, is to chase rum-runners.

For every rum ship it captures, the coast guard claims to save a hundred lives.

Hurricanes came this fall to Florida, the Bahamas and Cuba. In each instance the coast guard was ready to lead the work of rescue and restoration. With equipment and personnel doubled for combating the smugglers, the guard was in excellent shape to turn to what it considers its apparent duty, the saving of life and property.

Reports of this hurricane work only recently reached the coast guard headquarters here, shortly after a series of congratulatory and thankful letters from the Cuban president, the governor of the Bahamas, American and British ambassadors to Cuba and other officials.

They told among many other things, how coast guardsmen carried provisions—and water—to Bimini, most notorious of smuggling nests, which was almost wiped out.

In the Florida east coast hurricane, the entire base at Fort Lauderdale and a 75-foot motor ship were destroyed, but the guard's active mobile patrol boats in Florida waters survived, and, according to Commander S. S. Yeandle here, saved hundreds of lives.

They yanked human beings from angry waters and sinking boats at Miami, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and other harbors as they rode out the storm.

Vivid stories of these rescues and of the performances of guardsmen caught on shore have come to headquarters. A hospital corpsman, caught on shore in the worst of the storm near Fort Lauderdale, opened an emergency hospital, commandeered supplies and treated more than 400 patients before medical men had obtained control of the situation. A half dozen physicians have written to his superiors here to praise his work.

Others on shore liberty when the storm broke went on duty as provost guards or at digging wells and roofing damaged hospitals.

First outside relief came to Miami and Fort Lauderdale on coast guard boats from Key West, which brought doctors and medical supplies.

Then a special relief squadron of about 1,000 men was sent from bases at New London and points south.

At Bimini and Gun Key, Bahama bases of the rum-runners, the pollution of water which it left behind. Coast guard relief expeditions put on full speed to bring good water and food.

No attention was paid to smuggling then—by either side. Their supplies landed, the gobs set about digging wells and other measures of safety necessary before the real task of rebuilding. Minor expeditions were sent to the relief of the outlying keys.

After the terrific assault of the elements on the Isle of Pines, the boats did similar work and the task of rebuilding. Minor expeditions were sent to the relief of the outlying keys.

This is the sort of work the coast guard calls its own. It never asked for the rum-chasing job. It took that because one of its duties is to prevent smuggling.

And if the nation is the least appreciative of its service, the coast guard feels the best way to show it would be to drop the term "dry navy."

And that good Joan whom English men
At Rouen doom'd and burn'd her there—
Mother of God, where are they then?
But where are the snows of yesterday?

Nay, never ask this week, fair lord,
Where they are gone, nor yet this year,
Save with this much for an over-word—
But where are the snows of yesterday?
—Francis Villon: Ballad of Dead Ladies.

A THOUGHT
Mercy and peace are met together;
Righteousness and truth have
Kissed each other.—7s; 4s; 10.

Walker—Flowers
New York, Dec. 10.—Mickey Walker and Flier Flowers, prize-fighters in that much-discussed middle-weight championship bout in which Walker gained a questionable decision, may engage in a rematch here in March under the patronage of Tex Rickard, as a result of a conference scheduled for between the promoter, Jack Kohn, and Walk Miller.
The latter intends to make Kearn's live up to the ninety-day clause in their last contract, promising Flowers a return match within that time, if he lost the title.

CHURCHES TO CANVASS MEMBERS FOR FUNDS

"Every Member" Plan Considered Most Business-Like—3 Churches Here Adopt It.

The Every Member canvass which will be undertaken this month by most of the 5638 Congregational churches in the United States and by other denominations is recommended by the National Council of the church as the most business like and successful method of financing a modern church. It has become an annual institution with this denomination and experience has proven that the canvass promotes the unity of the church. Each adult church attendant is asked to make a separate pledge.

St. Mary's Episcopal church and the Center and Second Congregational churches will conduct the "Every Member Canvass" the coming Sunday. At St. Mary's church the work will begin on Sunday and continue through the week until completed. Henry Thornton is chairman of the committee which includes George N. Chapman, senior warden; Sidney Elliott, junior warden; John H. Hyde, secretary and treasurer; Albert T. Dewey, James Harrison, William C. Cheney and William J. McKinney. Teams have been organized and captains appointed to call on the parishioners and have them renew their pledges for the year 1927.

and to secure additional pledges. Center Congregational W. W. Harris is chairman of the finance committee and head of the Every Member canvass at the Center Congregational church. C. E. House is church treasurer and Bert F. Andrews his assistant. The budget of this church for 1927 totals $15,000 and it is hoped to raise this amount by pledges on Sunday. Letters and pledge cards have been sent throughout the parish and it is expected that many of the pledge cards will be received at the Sunday morning service. In the afternoon a committee of some thirty men, working in pairs, will visit the homes of those whose pledges have not been received in the morning. Young people of the church who are interested in the canvass and have talent in drawing, have made some very clever posters on the subject which will be on exhibition Sunday. At the Second Congregational church a large party of both men and women will act as canvassers next around the supper table at the church last week and later received instructions for the work of securing pledges on Sunday afternoon. Last evening the subject was again brought to the attention of the congregation by a playlet in which six of the young people had a part. It was entitled "The Every Member Canvass" and was presented at the close of the first "Church Night" program.

TEST FOR PEARS
Honolulu—A series of experiments begun several years ago, is being completed and gives promise of another agricultural industry for the Hawaiian Islands. The experiments center around the preserving of the native avocado (alligator pear) with the "shell" removed. Owing to the great demand on the mainland for the tasty pear, the experiments were undertaken.

EMPEROR OF JAPAN ILL DEVELOPS PNEUMONIA
London, Dec. 10—The Emperor of Japan, who has been ill for some time, has now developed pneumonia and his condition is critical according to cable advices from Tokyo today.

London now has a dog beauty parlor.

Announce Boxing Card for C. B. A. A. Smoker Dec. 15th

Four Manchester boys will fight in the boxing-card smoker arranged by Cheney Brothers Athletic Association for December 15 at Cheney Hall. It was revealed when the card program was made public today by Secretary John J. Jenney. The other participants are from Hartford, Rockville and Stafford Springs. The show has been sanctioned by the Connecticut A. A. U. In arranging the program Mr. Jenney has been aided by Al Hubbard, A. A. U. commissioner of Hartford and George Hurley, chairman of the registration committee of the A. A. U. Both are anxious for the promotion of amateur boxing in Manchester. They have succeeded in making the A. A. U. to change its past views.

The card follows:
136 lb. class—Barney Youseman (Hartford), Art Ellard (Manchester).
105 lb. class—Eddie Camp (Hartford), Eddie Reed (Hartford).
147 lb. class—Kid Buck (Stafford Springs), Jack McDonald (Hartford).
118 lb. class—Pat McCavanaugh (Manchester), Danny Murphy (Rockville).
128 lb. class—Tommy Dowd (Manchester), Tommy Pagan (Manchester).
147 lb. class—Ray Hall (Hartford), Billy Haun (Rockville), John Morey (Hartford) Otto Haun (Rockville).

Of this attractive card, which calls for seven three-minute bouts, every one is expected to be crammed full of action. Eddie Camp is the state champion in his class (amateur) but he lost to Eddie Reed two weeks ago in Middletown. Both Kid Buck and Jack McDonald are practically new at the game but have that willingness to mix it up that makes any bout well worth watching.

Pat McCavanaugh needs no introduction to local boxing enthusiasts. He has fought many times here and has never failed to acquit himself in a commendable manner. Danny Murphy will be remembered because of his work against Excellence here recently. Tommy Dowd of the Carpenter shop is making his first appearance. Tommy Pagan is the lad who battled Joe Neve at the April smoker. Both Hall and Billy Haun are real clever and Morey and Otto Haun are far from being second-raters in their class. The latter whipped Kid Lewis of Bristol here at the last C. B. A. A. smoker.

One of the oldest English folk dances is the Abbots Bromley Horn dance, held annually in England for hundreds of years. The dancers, 12 men, wear deer skulls with antlers attached. The custom is traced to the Danish invasion and the worship of Thor and Odin.

TROTSKY TRIES COUP IN 3rd INTERNATIONAL

Seeks Leadership of Opposition to Soviet Methods on an All-Countries Scale. Moscow, Dec. 10—Leon Trotsky today attempted a comeback to his former power. Exercising his constitutional right, the former Soviet leader appeared before the representatives of fifty-two countries attending the session of the executive committee of the Third International, and offered to lead the opposition organization on an international scale. Trotsky was supported by M. Zinoviev, who like Trotsky, recently was shorn of power in the councils of the Soviet. "His story is with us, and we will win in the end," Trotsky declared, addressing the meeting. The all-Russian party dress today castigated Trotsky, declaring that by his action he has broken his word to the party leaders not to renew the factional struggle for which he was recently disciplined.

DELANEY WEIGHS IN SUCCESSFULLY TODAY

Waterbury, Dec. 10.—Setting at rest reports that he would be overweight for his bout tonight with the Jamaica Kid at the State Armory here, Jack Delaney tipped the scales at exactly 172 1-2 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon before State Boxing Commissioner Donohue. STUDENTS WORK. Austin, Tex.—Part or all of their expenses are being earned by more than half of the students at the University of Texas. Of the 4710 students enrolled for the fall term, 2310 are employed. Of these 1290 are men and 882 are women. About 100 men students and 205 women students are self-supporting. MILLION BIBLES. Seattle, Wash.—The final shipment of 1,000,000 Bibles to supply earthquake-stricken cities in Japan was loaded recently on the steamer President Grant for Yokohama. The earthquake and fires destroyed many books and other household effects in Japan.

ECONOMY.

"Auntie, will you please wash my face?" "Why, Bobbie, I thought you could do that for yourself." "Well, I can, but I would get my hands wet, and they don't need it."—West-Sussex Gazette. SHE'S A TRAVELER. New York: May have my young man and two or three girl friends in the kitchen tonight? Mistress: Why? Maid: I'm celebrating my arrival at my twenty-fifth place.—Dorf, Berlin.

SLEEPS AS L TRAIN RUNS OVER HIM AND THEN SOME

New York, Dec. 10.—Allen C. Craig is a heavy sleeper and he takes his sleep where he finds it. Today an elevated train ran over Craig, who had chosen to sleep in the middle of the tracks. There was a hurried call for physicians. When they came they said Craig was uninjured, just sound asleep. The police charged Craig with intoxication and jailed him, where he slept on.

Saloniki is to have an extensive international fair.

REED COMMITTEE DECIDES ON SOME MORE PROBING

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Reed committee today decided to re-open its inquiries into the senatorial primaries in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Oregon and Arizona. This action was taken in order to hear witnesses missed at the earlier sessions of the committee. The hearings will be confined to the senatorial primaries in each of these states.

BRIDGEPORT ODD FELLOWS TO BUILD A TEMPLE

Bridgeport, Dec. 10.—The South Congregational church at Broad and Gilbert streets, which was recently purchased by the Algonquin club for $60,000, for a site for a new clubhouse, was today sold by the club to the combined Odd Fellows lodges of Bridgeport for $55,000. It is believed the organization will erect a temple on the site. The Algonquin club abandoned the site, it is said, because it was too expensive.

MOLASSES CAKES BURN.

Cakes containing molasses burn easily. Bake such cakes in thick loaves that require long baking. Line the tins with greased paper.

SPONGE CAKE.

Never grease the pan in which you are going to bake a sponge cake. Instead, line the pan with un-greased paper.

BIG TAIL CROP

Tacoma, Wash., More than 170,000 pounds of salted whales' tails were sent to Japan during a period of two weeks recently. The delicacy is in great demand in Japan where it forms one of the items of diet. The amount sent 170,000 pounds, represents a value of about $41,000.

Belles of South Africa are taking to American perfumery.

CHILDREN LEAVE DOOR OPEN, THIEVES DO REST

Bridgeport, Dec. 10.—It was learned today that the home of Dr. J. W. Schwartz, a dentist of this city, had been entered last Thursday evening during the absence of the family by thieves who got away with jewelry valued at several thousand dollars and $65 in cash. It is believed that children had left the street door open.

TWO FINE FEATURES FEATURED AT CIRCLE

"Transcontinental Limited" and "Midnight Kiss" Showing Tonight and Tomorrow.

Two features that will be pretty hard to beat in any motion picture theater are showing at the Circle tonight and tomorrow. "The Transcontinental Limited" features Johnnie Walker and Eugenia Gilbert and "The Midnight Kiss," adapted from the immensely popular Broadway stage success, "Pigs," includes such celebrities as Janet Gaynor and Arthur Housman in the cast. Showings tomorrow will be continuous.

Johnnie Walker is his usual breezy romantic self. This time he is in the role of a soldier—and by the way, he is most attractive in a uniform. How he wins the charming daughter of the engineer of "The Transcontinental" is most appealingly told in this very romantic drama. Alec Francis is the engineer—and only a man of his years and varied experience can so aptly and gracefully apply himself to a job of running trains—as if he had to run them all his life. Eugenia Gilbert is most charming as the heroine. Her grace and performance promise much for her. She fits into this picture as the proverbial glove does the hand. Edith Yorke as the wife of the engineer and Bruce Gordon as the villain of the story complete this most admirable cast.

The younger generation comes into their own in "The Midnight Kiss." This clever dramatic comedy produced to the tune of so many laughs on Broadway by John Golden and which has continued its triumphant way through the country, has lost nothing of its cleverness in its adaption to the screen.

Rather it has gained in atmosphere, situations and characterizations. "The Midnight Kiss" is a story of conquering youth that brings home the bacon of success in the picture and for the audience these same youthful heroes bring genuine entertainment that is decidedly novel.

Janet Gaynor and Richard Walling, two of the most promising of the younger school of players, head the particularly well chosen cast. George Irving, Tempe Pigott, Doris Lloyd, Arthur Housman, Gene Cameron, Gladys McConnell, Herbert Prior and Bodil Rosing complete the cast.

AN EVEN BREAK

Georgia Tech, once called the "Golden Tornado," but hardly more than a mild breeze of later seasons, came out just fifty-fifty on a point scoring basis during the 1926 chase. The Atlanta team counted 37 points while the opposition got the same number. Of the nine games played Tech won four and lost five.

Poet Envoy

Paul Claudel, above, celebrated poet and authority on Oriental diplomacy, is expected to be France's next ambassador to the United States. Premier Briand, it is understood, has selected him to succeed M. Berenger.

MAKE RESERVATIONS FOR MIDNIGHT SHOW

Seats For State's First Midnight Show May Be Had By Applying at Theater Now.

The seats for the State theater's New Year's midnight show are selling rapidly. Now is the time to make reservations! Eight acts of vaudeville, "hand-picked" by the management, will be the feature attraction. Many other novelties will also be on the bill. This midnight show will be the first of its kind ever presented in Manchester. That local people appreciate such an innovation is well manifest in the tremendous advance sale of tickets.

All seats for this show will be reserved. Make reservations today by phoning the State theater, 1777, or by applying at the box office.

PLAYED BIG ROLE

Paul Scull, Penn's famous drop-kicker, played a big role in the Quaker's last three games. Scull won the Penn State and Columbia games by sensational field goals and enabled the Red and Blue to gain a tie with Cornell in the finale by booting the ball over the crossbar in the ebbing moments of play.

"15 Eggs to the Dozen!"

THAT'S the way one man who feeds his hens Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash expresses his increased production. "I gather 15 eggs for every dozen that I got before I used Ful-O-Pep," he says.

You can increase the number of eggs you are getting every day, too. Right now is the time to do it—extra eggs mean real extra cash profit at this time of year.

This is the famous feed that contains Cod Liver Meal to make the other ingredients give additional value. Every mouthful gives the hens all feed—no waste—and young and old layers keep right on producing. Eggs are larger, better-flavored, and uniform in size with strong shells. And next Spring you'll have wonderful hatching eggs.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

To the home of PROF and MOLLE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October of 1898, comes MARTHA DALTON, a nurse, bearing a woman who had fainted on the train on which Martha had been traveling.

Elwell, an artist. He has a son, JIM, aged 5. Late that night twin girls are born to the woman, who dies without revealing her name. The Elwells adopt the girls. The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been named MARGARET and ELIZABETH and nicknamed RUSTY and BETTY.

America enters the World War and Jim Elwell enlists. Two nights before he goes away he discovers that one of the twins loves him and he loves her. He tells his mother this, but she does not tell her which twin it is, as he wants her to love both girls equally while he is away.

The day before he leaves, JIM takes the twins to Chicago for a good time. While dining at hotel they are approached by a woman who says she has recognized the ring Betty is wearing, a diamond that had been worn by the girls' mother. Later, when they are alone, the woman holds the ring up to the light and announces that JOHN DANVERS, who she says is the girls' father, had "changed the pictures."

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

NINA KINGSLEY handed the ring to Betty. The girl held it as Nina had held it and looked through a hole in the setting against the light.

"Oh, what a beautiful face!" she exclaimed, turning excitedly to the woman. "Who is it—our mother?"

"Yes, that's the picture of your mother," replied Nina Kingsley. "Do you know where Mr. Danvers is now?"

"Why—my goodness!" the woman exclaimed, seemingly surprised at the question. "Didn't you know? Why, John Danvers has been dead nearly twenty years. He was killed in New York in a street accident in October of 1898!"

"The month the girls were born," said Jim in a low voice.

"Killed?" the girls echoed in unison, and then Betty added, as she turned to Jim, "That, perhaps, was the reason why Prof didn't get any answers to his advertisements in the newspapers."

"Do you mind telling us, Miss Kingsley?" Jim asked pointedly. "Just how you came to know my name?"

The woman whose fame in the theatrical firmament had failed to reach these benighted ones from Indiana laughed softly and permitted herself another graceful shrug of the shoulders.

"Why, I asked the waiter," she confessed with fine naïveté.

"Jim," said Jim Elwell to himself. He looked at the woman keenly and her eyes, after a brief counter with his own, dropped.

"And can you tell us where the relatives of the mother may be found?" Betty asked, her eyes bright with unshed tears.

Nina Kingsley replied slowly that she was awfully, awfully sorry. "That is something I really cannot tell."

"She's a liar," Jim Elwell told himself and even then he felt the positive accuracy of his snap judgment. "She knows, all right. There's some-reason—some personal reason—why she won't tell, and I didn't have to get these kids back to Camdenville early tonight, I'd ask a hell of a lot of questions."

"What gets me," said Betty, "is how she came to know your name."

However, that might have been a hard thing to do, even if Jim had had the time. Nina Kingsley announced that, sorry as she was she had to leave. She was taking the train for New York, and would they excuse her? She could be reached in New York, you know, by mail, or they would forward it to her. She wrote an address down for Jim.

The matinee was ruined for all three of the young sojourners in Chicago. They were late, in the first place, and the two girls violated all the proprieties of the theater by constant whispering.

To their eager questions Jim replied that he was convinced Nina Kingsley had lied to them. She knew more than she had told, far more, he was sure.

"I don't doubt that this is your mother's picture," he told them. "Mollie and Prof can check up on that, for they're likely to remember what your mother looked like. But for a woman who knew so much about the ring, Nina Kingsley knew surprisingly little in answer to some of the questions we asked her. She lied when she said she had learned my name from the waiter. The waiter didn't have any more idea of what my name was than a rabbit."

"But he might have found out for her," Rusty volunteered, "by asking at the desk where you registered for us. Of course, I think she was lying."

"She didn't have to know my name," Jim interrupted, "to write me the note. She could have said dear sir with just as good results. No, she knew it all along and it just popped out when she began to write. That's where she made her mistake."

"What gets me," said Betty, "is how she came to know your name."

"Little girl," and Jim patted her hand, "I'd give this trick nickel in my pants pocket to know the answer to that!"

It was the opinion of the entire Elwell family that night, when they had returned to Camdenville and had related the strange story to Prof and Mollie, that the mysterious Nina Kingsley had not told them the whole truth.

"Nina Kingsley," repeated Prof over and over, "that name certainly ought to be familiar to old-timers like Mollie and me if she was as big a hand as she was on the stage as she admitted being."

Mollie declared positively that she had never heard of the name. "And I've always been interested in news of the stage and always read it in the papers," she supplemented.

Both Mollie and Prof had received a distinct jolt when they examined the ring and beheld in the trick setting the picture of the woman who had come to their home that dismal night in October more than eighteen years ago and had died after leaving behind the two little girls that were to grow up into the wonderful creatures that were now formally known as Margaret and Elizabeth Elwell.

"Why Prof!" Mollie had said, slightly staggered, as she lowered the ring from the light.

"It's her, all right," the elder Elwell pronounced. "It's her to a T. That nose and mouth, Mollie, I wouldn't forget them in a hundred years. Girls," and he turned toward the eager twins, "this has been a big day. Somehow I feel that some thing's gonna come of it sooner or later. And to think," he went on, "that the ring has been layin' around here for more than eighteen years and we never had sense enough to try to find out the reason for that peculiar setting!"

"Really, she told us very little when everything is summed up, with the exception of father's name and how he died," said Rusty in an exgrieved tone. "We've hardly any wiser now than before we met this Nina Kingsley."

"And we have no proof that that information is correct," Jim pointed out, skeptical now of every assertion the woman had made. "I'll bet four dollars that the name Nina Kingsley is phony, as well as the New York address she gave us. You might try out the address right away, just to be curious."

"And it's my further belief," he concluded, "that she could have told us the name of the brother the girls' mother spoke of so many times that night. She's playin' a crooked game, and I'd be willin' to gamble on it."

All Camdenville. It seemed, was at the little railroad station the day Jim Elwell went away. He was not the only one. There were dozens just like him, young boys dressed up in their Sunday best to give them a brave appearance; garments that were to be shed in a few days in favor of issue uniforms handed out by grumpy quartermaster sergeants.

Jim, who was now so tall and straight and broad-shouldered and beautiful in his young manhood. A few flags waved in false cheerfulness. The Camdenville brass band blared vociferously and sweat-limped. Jim swung down from the step.

"Goodby, Prof," and he wrung his father's hand and kissed his cheek. "Goodby, Mother," and Mollie clung to him with a bra's smile.

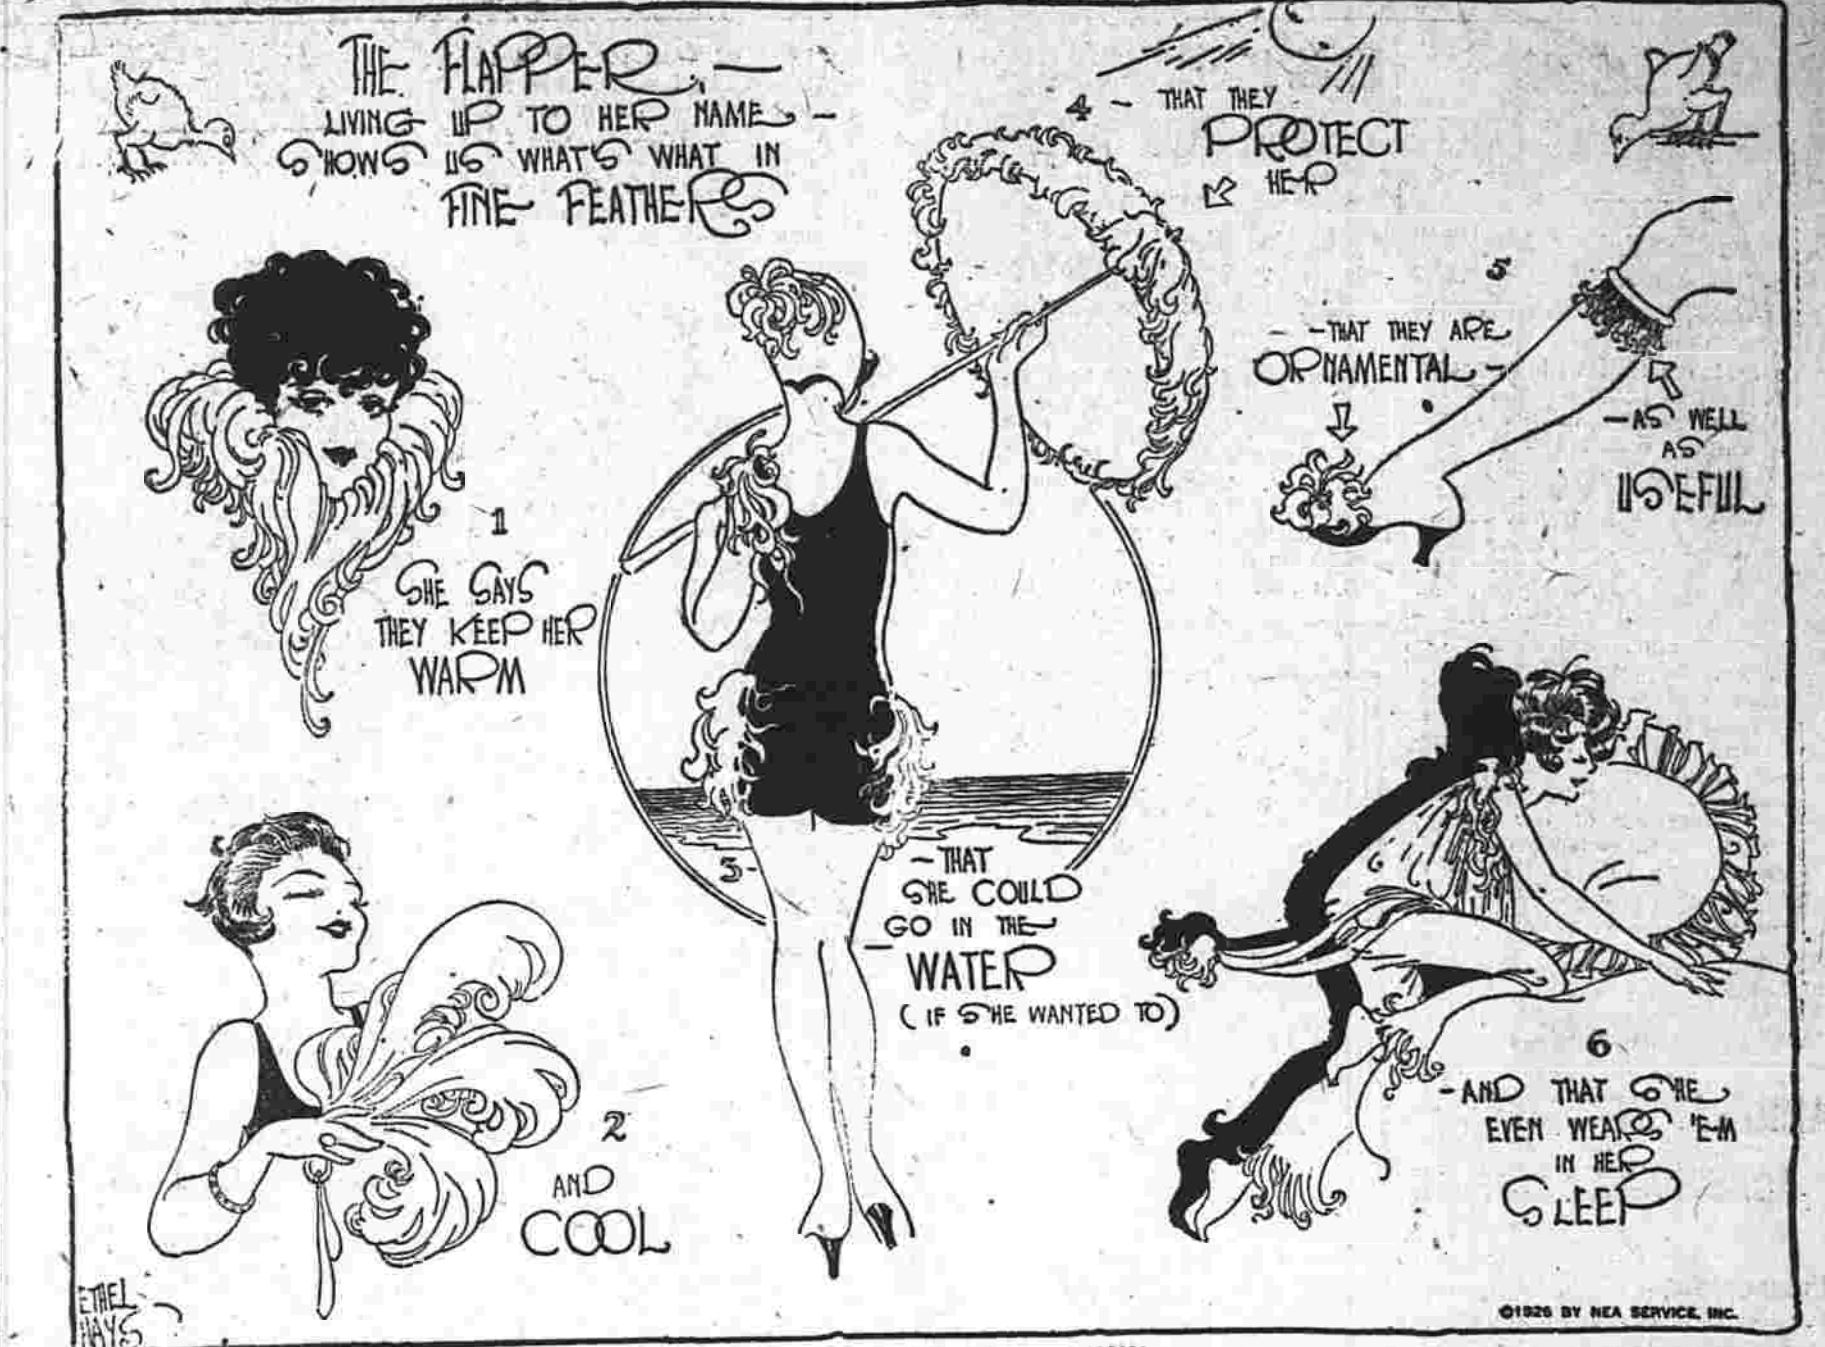

"Goodby, pals," and he passed out impartial kisses to the twins, one of whom, it was true, was nothing more than a pal but the other the girl who shared with him that great secret that both had discovered that moonlit night beneath the elms.

And so Jim Elwell went away.

(To Be Continued)

What of the Elwells, now that Jim has gone? And what of Jim himself?

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

"A Short History of Woman"

A certain lofty-domed author who just finished a tome about the history of faith now takes his pen in hand to write "A Short History of Woman." He naively confesses that he will start with the biology of sex and illustrate woman's place in society from the earliest days to the present time. Maybe the title is really meant to be funny. Anyway, it'll make interesting reading for all girls. We can probably "laft and laft and laft," and then again maybe we can't—sometimes these boys aren't as green as they look!

"Chair Number Please"

How would you like to live in a house all furnished with chairs and tables and beds with little brass check numbers right on the front of them? And just as company sits down to tea the house auditor comes along, wanting to get the number of the chairs, and you, the hostess, must say, "I'm so sorry, but will you please stand up and let the man get the numbers?"

This is the experience of the American "old men's wives" in China, according to Alice Tisdale Hobart, who has written into her book called "By the City of the Long Sand," the tale of her twelve years of homesteading in as many different places in China. The chain of houses for their representatives is furnished and "brass-checked" by the various oil companies, according to Mrs. Hobart. Auditors come through at periodic intervals, to see whether the chain of houses in the chain house went off with any of the Lares and Penates ere they moved on to a new post and more brass checks.

"Suppressed Surge of Revolt"

"The great moment of homemaking upon me. But even as I turn I am confronted with the worn and discarded chairs, tables and beds of a recently vacated company house, all tagged with tiny but conspicuous brass number plates.

"Without joy now I stand looking at them. I have never told even my husband of the despondency which takes hold of me in this most exalted moment of the last couple of years—the surge of revolt as I look around and see my house already stamped by the impersonal god of business, and scarred with the battle of other people's lives.

Elis and Oranges

And this paragraph on marketing in China may interest you: "Certainly you could not go yourself to buy your chickens and vegetables in the early morning market, across the river, in the city down one of its dark and slimy streets. Even the hardest would find his appetite lessened by those coating of slime, and its little carving shops with wooden tubs in which float eel and other twisting slimy waterfoods and baskets piled high with old green eggs.

CARE OF LINOLEUM

Wash the kitchen linoleum with warm water to which milk is added in the proportion of a cup of milk to a gallon of water. Then wipe dry with a clean cloth.

KEROSENE ON FLOORS

On a hardwood floor use no water, but wipe it with a cloth moistened with kerosene. Rub hard with another cloth until the wood is perfectly dry.

Glossy Hair Ever Curly

That glow in my hair, that fluff, that wave are not due to a hair-dresser. I have no time for that. They are due to a dressing some famous experts made for me. I call it my Wave and Sheen. That glitter, that curl, that seeming abundance come from applying that dress twice a week.

I think every girl and woman will be glad to know it. Your hair's beauty will be doubled in an hour. You will need no more Marcel waves.

All toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. You will find my guarantee with the bottle. It will cost you nothing if it doesn't do what I say. Go try it today.

Yes, It Might Be Worse! When you yearn for a new mulberry overstuffed sofa, and cast disdainful eye upon the old tapestry one, reflect that things might be much worse—it might wear a brass number tag!

Would This Get You? I can get a thrill, you see. From eyes like thine, Which look into mine—

He wrote that all by himself, did the millionaire "shovel king" who wrote so much liltine love poetry that he's in court today trying to keep from paying $100,000 in back of promise money to the lady who so moved him.

All I arise to remark that any girl who had to read that should get no less than a million!

Rose By Any Other Name

The club girls are "all set up" again. It's because of the first sentence of paragraph 158 "Women Doing Housework" of "Instructions to Enumerators," U. S. Census Bureau, January 1, 1920.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs requests that the title "women doing housework" be changed to "home-maker."

It's very nice, of course, to attempt titles of proper respect. But whether "the home-maker" will find dish-washing any more pleasant than "the woman doing housework" is quite a question.

Good Nature and Good Health

STORE WORKERS MUST BUY SHOES THAT FIT WELL

This is the third of a series of four articles on the health of the store worker. During the holiday buying season a great strain is put upon the clerks, and the suggestions found in these articles are invaluable.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

A study of 97 workers in department stores who had never complained of foot trouble revealed the fact that 77 had foot trouble or footstrain.

Forty-three wore shoes that were too short.

Forty had heels which upset the body build.

Nineteen others wore heels so high that they were injurious.

In 59 cases the shoes were so badly fitted that they produced distortions of the feet.

Shoes Must Fit

Rubber heels are of advantage in lessening the noise and in aiding walking. Ventilation is better in low shoes than in high shoes, but above everything else, the shoes must fit the feet.

Girls from 15 to 25 were found to be the most likely to buy shoes too short or too narrow, and indeed to buy them wholly for appearance and without relation to their use.

The investigation of health control in mercantile life made by the Harvard medical school indicated that department store employees seldom are likely to dress suitably. Fashions dictate to them just as they do to the household worker or the woman of leisure. Furs in summer and thin stockings in winter are worn if they are the mode.

Thin Clothing

Frequently stores and business establishments are compelled to heat them to an undue extent in winter because of the thin clothing and the small amount of it worn by women workers.

Many establishments insist that employees wear a certain color of garment, but naturally cannot demand a thickness or quality that will be desirable. This is left to the employees.

The department store investigations showed that objectionable odors about the bodies of workers fort to employees. The cause is were a frequent cause of discomfort usually excessive sweating, which can be overcome by a daily warm bath, with soap and a caly change of under clothing.

Where such odors persist, and when they are due to some infectious disturbance of the nose of some other portion of the body, the persons should have medical attention.

Leering Suggestion

By Olive Roberts Barton

We are indebted to Sigmund Spaeth in a recent magazine for recalling the days of loud lang yare in an article called "The Songs You Forget to Remember."

He tells us that American morals, manners, tastes and absurdities are actually written into our popular songs. Although our sons and daughters are moved to hysterical tears over ballads of the past such as "Only Me," "My Mother Was a Lady," and "After the Ball," it appears that after all, the songs of a quarter of a century ago, must be given credit for containing more natural enthusiasm than present day lyrics, which are full of "leering farce and snickering suggestions."

Mr. Spaeth says that "our foolish ancestors may have been naive, but on the whole their taste in music was not to be despised."

Music can express any emotion and arouse any emotion. Most of the popular music of today is sensual. Yet we allow our children to buy record after record of cheap sensual music, while all the while we are making them practice, one, two or three weary hours a day at their exercises on the piano in order to teach them good music.

If the mature and sophisticated want popular music and jazz, that is for them to decide. I have no quarrel with every one making his own decision when it comes to personal taste in music. But how, as a nation, are we ever to improve musically if we are going to feed our children on emotionally cheap music?

A child's musical education should be first to recognize good music, next to love good music, third to play good music. He should be allowed to listen to excellent records, and they cost no more than all the cheap-John stuff of the music mills. Children have never had an opportunity like they have now, with phonograph and radio, of learning what beautiful music is. But our music seems to be like our politics. The more we have the worse we choose to make it.

With our tom-toms and jazz, you might move us off to the South Seas, without the Southern Cross dropping out of the sky. Musically, it is about where we belong.

SALADS FOR WINTER.

Do not neglect salads in the winter time when you naturally crave heavier food. While the food value of a green salad is not large, the salts and vitamins it supplies are most necessary to the system.

CARE OF LINOLEUM.

Wash the kitchen linoleum with warm water to which milk is added in the proportion of a cup of milk to a gallon of water. Then wipe dry with a clean cloth.

KEROSENE ON FLOORS.

On a hardwood floor use no water, but wipe it with a cloth moistened with kerosene. Rub hard with another cloth until the wood is perfectly dry.

East Is West In Co-Education

AMHERST MEN SAVE RARE BOOKS FROM FIRE

Famous Jones Collection Rescued By Students in Burning Of Old Amherst House.

Amherst, Mass., Dec. 10.—The historic Amherst house burned during the night and the Jones collection was rescued by students in burning of Old Amherst House. Amherst students, forming a human chain, saved the famous Charles Minot Jones collection of books, furniture and antiques, which, as the Jones library, was housed in the building. A woman was rescued by a policeman, an Amherst fireman dropped twenty feet through a skylight and two Northampton firemen were overcome. The fire loss was estimated at $250,000.

Built in 1880 The Amherst House, now used as an apartment hotel, was built in 1880. It was a four-story brick structure. Mrs. Louise J. Lane, who lived on the fourth floor, was carried out by Patrolman William J. O'Brien.

Charles E. Stiles was the Amherst fireman injured. At the height of the fire word went around that the Jones collection was in danger. The Amherst college students stepped out from the crowd, volunteering for salvage work. They formed a human chain, passing the books and other articles out of the burning building. The fire, which started in a boiler room and worked up through an old elevator well, not only burned the house but destroyed four stores, a barber shop and the local office of the Postal Telegraph Co.

YANKS WANT PLAYERS New York, Dec. 10.—Miller Huggins admitted today that the New York Yankees were in the market for an infielder, an outfielder and two pitchers and that pending deals for the men in question might be completed at the American League meeting in Chicago next week. The outfielder was to come from a minor league club, Huggins asserted. Yankee players who might be involved, according to unofficial estimates, were Aaron Ward, Joe Duggan, Bob Shawkey and Sam Jones.

The floorboards of a jewelry shop in Birmingham, England, when reduced to ashes, yielded enough precious metal dust to pay for the cost of new flooring.

Manchester Opens Season Against Hartford Tonight

S. T. S. Seeks Victories Over New Britain and Rockville As 1926-27 Season Opens Up

Coach Kingsley Picks Team; Carrol Hurlbert Elected Captain; Season Starts Next Tuesday.

Notwithstanding the loss of its basketball star, Rudy Pospisil, through graduation, the local State Trade school has high hopes of being able to secure revenge from its two foremost rivals, New Britain and Rockville High this season.

Three new teams The schedule as arranged by Faculty Manager Stanley Rice, appears to be a trifle harder than the last one. Three new schools have been added and three old ones dropped.

Kingsley Is Coach The 1926-27 Trade school team is being coached by former S. T. S. star, Ralph Kingsley. He was captain of the team during the '24-'25 campaign and is at present an instructor at the local school.

Hurlbert Captain Carroll Hurlbert has been honored with the captaincy. He has been on the team for three seasons and is one of the only two first-string regulars back from the 1925-'26 team.

Lost to Rivals Last season, the Mechanics experienced a highly successful season, winning 17 of their 21 games. However, this apparently commendable record was somewhat defaced by the fact that Rockville and New Britain scored the four defeats.

Following is the complete schedule: Tuesday, December 14, Wethersfield High school at Wethersfield. Friday, December 17, Stafford High school here.

Friday, January 31, Alumni, here. Friday, January 7, Springfield Vocational school at Springfield. Tuesday, January 11, Kingswood at West Hartford.

Wednesday, January 13, Rockville High school at Rockville. Friday, January 21, Wethersfield High school here. Tuesday, January 25, Stafford High school at Stafford Springs.

Friday, February 4, Continuation School, here. Friday, February 11, Springfield Vocational school here. Saturday, February 26, New Britain Trade school, at New Britain.

Tuesday, March 1, Continuation school at Waterbury. Friday, March 4, New Britain Trade school here. Friday, March 11, Rockville High school, here.

Friday, March 26, Bridgeport Trade school here. The Cloverleaves-Cubs football fire is still smoldering and where there's a spark, there's hope it is said.

Last night (before the present snowstorm) it was stated at the north end that the Cloverleaves were willing to clean off the field if the Cubs would play Sunday. The point the Cloverleaves stressed was that they are anxious to show their ability against the Cubs and give the challengers an opportunity to grasp the town title.

The Cloverleaves say Manager Bill Griffin will be glad to talk "turkey" with the south end officials in regard to the above proposition. Today's snow could be removed as easily as that already here. A power tractor will be used for the purpose. Peasants of Kertch, Russia, are working day and night to pay paying quantities of gold from the dust of a recent volcanic outbreak that destroyed their farms, and are praying for another eruption.

YELLS TABOO IF JENNINGS COMES BACK

Hughy Jennings, famous as a manager in both major leagues, is convinced that his nervous breakdown, which almost proved fatal, was brought on by too strenuous methods on the coaching lines.

In the old days when I was with Detroit, I was on the coaching lines every minute of every game and yelling constantly," says Hughy. "As a result a headache would start in the first game and last throughout the season. I kept it up for about 10 years and now I'm paying the penalty of too much enthusiasm."

"If I ever return to the majors it will be in a silent capacity." That would hardly seem like Hughy Jennings.

MCCARTHY ARRIVES FOR PERSSON BOUT

Clever Boston Heavyweight Tackles Harry Persson Monday Night at Foot Guard Hall.

Pat McCarthy, clever Boston heavyweight, who will meet Harry Persson, Swedish champion, in the George Mulligan's first indoor show of the winter at the Hartford State Armory Monday night, is due in Hartford today.

Jim McDonald, McCarthy's astute manager, sends word from the Hub that McCarthy is in fine shape and confident of winning over the rugged Swede, who is being ballyhooed as a real contender for Geng Tunny's crown.

Connecticut fans will recall the great fight McCarthy gave Johnny Risko at the Hartford Velodrome last summer. Risko, after a sensational winter in which he beat Berlenbach and gave Delaney and other headliners several busy evenings, was a hot favorite to beat McCarthy but he hooked and jabbed Risko all over the Velodrome ring.

The decision was a draw but Risko's face plus a pair of black eyes was evidence that Pat had given the aggressive Clevelander a tough evening.

He says he is up in the big show to stay this time.

YANKS WHIFF EASY Tony Lazzari Leads All Victims In This Art; Proved It In Series.

New York, Dec. 10.—The New York Yankees, pennant winners of the American League last season, also carried off another rather dubious record. The Yanks were the easiest team in the league for opposing twirlers to strike out.

No matter how warm the weather, the rival catcher, also the plate umpire, were sure to spend a comfortable afternoon in any game in which the Yanks took part. A free-swinging club is always the easiest to take on strikes and the Yankees were no exception to the rule.

With a team composed of Ruth, Meusel and Paschal in the outfield, Gazella at third and Koenig at short, Lazzari at second, Gehrig at first and Pat Collins behind the bat, the club, exclusive of the pitcher, averaged 53 strikeouts per player during the season.

Just One Defeat Cornell, after experiencing several lean football seasons, came back strong in 1926. The Doble eleven dropped but one game, Columbia winning a hectic 17-9 battle. It tied its ancient rival, Pennsylvania, in the final game of the campaign, which was no little accomplishment, considering the Quakers went into the tilt a favorite to win.

BABE RUTH'S JINX BACK IN BIG SHOW

Lad Who Whiffed Sultan of Swat Three Times on Debut Signs—With National League Team.

Philadelphia, Dec. 10.—Herbe Pruett, former southpaw of the St. Louis Browns, who jumped into fame overnight by striking out Babe Ruth the first three times he faced him, is to return to the majors after being shunted back to the bushes for a couple of years.

Pruett, who was a jinx to Babe Ruth during his stay with the Browns, is to return to the National League as a member of the Phillies, for which the Bambino is very thankful. Pruett reads like fiction. A scout of the St. Louis Browns, giving the once-over to two independent teams down in Missouri, picked Pruett as a big league prospect rather than the pitcher he was sent to look at. The offer was so attractive that Pruett gave up his college course at Missouri to become a big leaguer.

What is known in baseball as a "screw ball" was Pruett's best bet. It is like the fadeaway and thrown by a southpaw is poison for a left-handed batsman. During the season of 1922 Pruett struck out Ruth 10 out of 11 times, Ruth hitting a home run on the only occasion he wasn't set down on strikes.

The "screw ball" is hard on the arm. Pruett, slight of figure, couldn't stand the strain of using it almost exclusively in order to get by. Send to the Oakland club of the Coast League. Pruett changed his style, developed a pretty fair fast ball and a mighty good curve, resorting to the "screw ball" in the pinch only. "That fellow Pruett sure had my number," remarked Ruth recently in discussing the ease with which the collegian struck him out. "I know when I stopped to the plate that I wasn't going to get a fast one to hit, nothing but that 'deceptive screw ball.' Knowing this I would get a stance at the plate that I believed would enable me to connect but I always just missed. Pruett threw me only one fast ball in all games he worked against us and I hit that one for the circuit."

"If I had only waited him out, he wouldn't have made me look foolish, as the pitches were usually swung and missed were usually soft as they floated up to the plate. I just couldn't resist the temptation."

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Inside Stuff Is it possible to try to play too much inside baseball? Positively yes!

As a matter of fact, it is a very easy matter to overdo the strategy stuff in any line of sport. Baseball, football, hockey and all other sports have certain fundamentals that must be mastered. A team well coached in these, having in addition great natural ability, will get somewhere regardless of the inside stuff.

The strategy of any sport is really of secondary importance. No manager or coach can think for his players or execute the plays. Career of Rickey One of the brightest baseball men I ever talked with, is Branch Rickey, who managed both of the St. Louis clubs.

Rickey has a keen mind. He knows baseball. Yet Rickey has never met with much success as a manager. In truth, I am of the opinion that Rickey knows too much baseball for the good of his players. The one thing that kept Ty Cobb from being a great manager was his inability to get on level with his teammates. Cobb could think quickly and execute his thoughts just as rapidly.

Smart Manager Rickey, as an American League manager, knew the weakness of every opposing batter. It was hard for him to understand why his catchers and pitchers didn't have the same knowledge on their finger tips. Rickey knew the signs used by every other club in the league. He knew when the hit-and-run, steal or sacrifice was on, and even went so far as to have some word sign whereby he could impart that knowledge to his catcher.

Football Jinx Chases Harvard, Evans Finds moment he noticed the sub rushing on the field. The unfortunate part of the affair is that Harvard, in no way to blame for the situation, was the team to eventually suffer.

Baseball and football produce more complicated situations than all the other sports put together, with baseball considerably in the lead in the matter of puzzling situations.

Over a period of 21 years that I have spent in the majors, not a year has passed without my learning of something happening that just didn't seem possible.

I believe it is conservative to say that every year at least a dozen plays are put up to me that are not definitely covered by the playing code.

In a great many instances some ground emergency that the umpire failed to cover makes it necessary to draw on common sense in reaching a decision.

It was a strange coincidence that in two important games played by members of the Big Three, disputed points, involving scoring plays, came up.

Harvard, seemingly with enough wits to bear, received the tough break in each case. In the game with Princeton, the second guessers had it that Jake Slagle kicked a field goal on a fifth down. The officials held to the contrary.

Since the field goal was not the deciding issue, it really didn't matter, but it seems as if the governing body of college football should have issued a bulletin covering the situation just to set things right.

However, in the Yale game, a tough break that went against the Crimson was the deciding factor in the result. The facts concerning that play are certain to be discussed when the next rules committee meets.

Here is the way the stage was set. It was early in the second period with the score standing nothing to nothing and Harvard in possession of the ball on her own 20-yard line, the third down and 11 yards to go.

PRO TENNIS SLATED FOR SEVERE RAKING

U. S. L. T. Executive Committee Plans War Against C. C. Pyle and Associates.

Moriarty's Plans I note that George Moriarty, new manager of the Detroit Tigers, says his club will try to win ball games with the least possible number of signals.

His observations as an umpire have taught him the lesson that the slushy style is the best way to get runs, particularly if you have a team that can hit.

Moriarty rightly feels that he has such a combination in the Tigers and he intends to make the most of the team's natural ability, rather than cram the players' heads with theory on how to win ball games without base hits, inside stuff.

Too Many Signs Speaking of having too many signals on a ball club, always reminds me of the New York Yankees under "Kid" Elberfeld. The "kid," a mighty smart player, insisted on having a sign for everything. In those days it was not unusual for a pitcher to catch a runner napping at third.

Wid Conroy, playing third for New York, had a sign when he was to cover and the pitcher would count three slowly after getting the sign, then have the ball to third. Conroy's sign was passing the right hand over the forehead. It worked well in the spring but trouble happened in the first warm day of June. With no intent to give the sign for a snap throw to third, Conroy wiped the beads of perspiration from his brow and the next moment was hit in the side of the head with a snap throw by Pitcher Jack Warhop.

He was rendered unconscious, the ball rolled into left field and the winning run crossed the plate.

The next day Conroy insisted on a new sign that would not be confusing.

High School Starts Schedule With Capitol City Five Here; Have Two More Games at Home

Will Be First Game For Both Teams Tonight — Manchester Has Well-Balanced Unit — Hartford's Strength Not Known.

Hartford High's as yet untried basketball team of 1926-27 will make its debut against a likewise untried Manchester five this evening at the School street Rec. Neither team has played this year and the relative strength of the two is something that as yet remains to be seen.

But the present and the future can only be judged by the past. On that basis, then, it would indicate that the two teams would be evenly matched. They were so in the last contest in which they appeared, a battle that was won in the closing minutes by one point. Manchester took that game in Hartford.

Manchester, however, had a wonderful team that year, with Mantelli as the pivot man. His work then was instrumental in the victory, but this year Manchester has no Mantelli. He has become ineligible because his age exceeds the limit established by the Headmasters' Association.

But Coach Clarke says this year that he has moulded together a compact unit with material, some of which is green, and some that was left from last year. Chief among the veterans of the team of last year are Holland, Gorman, Keeney and David LaCoss, a guard, was on the squad for most of the season and is expected to start in some of the games.

If plenty of good hard work and intensive practice will make a basketball team, Manchester should have a combination that will give Hartford a battle from start to finish. Practice sessions this year are fewer than they ever were, but the amount of work done by the boys has paid up for this.

Four alumni men, all playing basketball on outside teams, have volunteered their services as a scrub team to give the varsity practice. The graduates, who number among them Madden and Mistrutta have played against the team once a week since practice started. With them have been Mantelli and Quish. At first the graduates had an easy time of it but of late weeks the varsity has been holding its own and even coming out ahead in some instances.

The boys have certainly been going at a rapid pace for the past two weeks and if they hit their stride they will be particularly gratifying to Hartford.

Three home games will be played in a row. Hartford comes tonight, New Britain next Friday evening and the Alumni on the Friday evening following. Then the team will start to travel.

In the preliminary tonight the second teams of the two schools will mix it up. Dancing will follow the game and will last until 11:30.

A GREAT RECORD Lafayette, one of the few unbeaten football teams of 1926, ran up a total of 335 points for the opposition in nine games. Washington and Jefferson, an ancient rival, gave Lafayette its toughest battle, the latter winning, 16-10.

A federal hospital, completely equipped and having aboard a competent physician soon will provide medical services for Alaskans in isolated communities.

The British, for example, will adopt on Monday a re-written rule, which they say will "clearly define the amateur." The writer seems to remember that that was done some years ago by a man of great perspicacity. He characterized an amateur as a guy who wouldn't take a check.

However, the English say they have put what they are pleased to call "teeth" in their resolution and now I presume that there will be nothing left for C. C. Pyle but an arid and comfortable old age.

Similar action, it is whispered, will be taken by the executive committee tomorrow. The committee probably will draft a rule forbidding an amateur to play against a professional. Then its deliberations will be duly read into the activities of the amateur.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. Can a fish walk or climb trees? Yes. It has been established definitely that several types of fish can live out of water.

The climbing perch, which abounds in fresh water throughout nearly all the Malay countries is in the habit of leaving the water whenever the fancy seizes it, well as Ceylon, India and Burma, traveling cross-country, and climbing up the trunk of any tree it may choose.

Some of its marches are of great length, leading over high hills or broad, dusty prairies, until it eventually reaches a river or lake to its liking.

It is supposed that in its traveling the fish employs certain stiff spines on the cover of its gills, while within its head it also possesses a series of chambers where water may be stored for use in breathing on land.

Even in our own country some eels and minnows can travel from one pond to another near at hand when the intervening territory is more or less level and overgrown with moist grasses.

In the upper Andes of South America are found climbing catfish, and fish which crawl out of the water to skip and play on the shore.

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine at Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

REVENUE, PUBLIC SAFETY AUTO LAW OBJECTIVES

Activities to Safeguard Public Now Equal to Other Work Of Motor Vehicle Dept.

Public safety activities of the state motor vehicle department have grown gradually in the nine years since its establishment until, numerically, they equal the other activities of the department. This is graphically shown on a chart of motor vehicle and aircraft regulation which has been compiled by the department.

Commissioner Stockel of the Connecticut department pointed out in a recent address that in the early stages of motor vehicle laws, a motor vehicle administrator had few, if any, safety duties. The early problem was almost entirely to issue registrations and numbers; but, he explained, the registration law, and the operator's license law, have provided such an excellent foundation upon which to base police supervision and such good identification of cars and operators that it has been natural for each lawmaking body, from time to time, as necessity for control and discipline arose, to make safety laws founded upon enforceable through these two systems.

Today, each motor vehicle law has two equal, important objectives; to gather revenue and insure public safety. The safety activities of the Connecticut department have been extended as the traffic in the state increased. In 1918 the first year when the state law required the reporting of motor vehicle accidents, 1987 such accidents were reported to the department. At that time, there were slightly more than 100,000 cars registered in the state. Last year, with about two and one-half times as many motor vehicles registered, 22,568 accidents were reported to the department and there will be more accidents reported this year, if the present rate continues.

The motor vehicle department now engages in twelve different safety activities: (1) disciplining of registrants and operators; (2) bulleting and the giving of public safety addresses; (3) co-operating with the state police; (4) co-operating with the state highway department; (5) co-operating with the public utilities commission which controls public service lines; (6) approval of headlight devices; (7) maintaining interstate motor vehicle relations; (8) preparing statistics and newspaper and radio publicity; (9) co-operating with city police departments; (10) co-operating with automobile and cycle clubs and schools; (11) requiring safe location of gasoline stations; and (12) maintaining federal motor vehicle relations.

The non-revenue producing activities have to do with (1) suspensions of licenses, (2) complaints, (3) accident reports, (4) financial, responsibility requirements, (5) hearings and conferences, and (6) information and news clipping bureaus.

SHOES AND SHOOTS

Honolulu—An American millionaire's son is recovering from the surprise of a volley of buckshot, aforesaid shot being fired by a Chinese rice planter while shooting birds off his rice paddy. It happened when the S. S. Ryndam, "floating university," was in Honolulu recently with a cargo of college students on a world cruise.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 10.—Out on windswept Riverside Drive, overlooking the Hudson, a little marble urn stands in the shadow of Grant's tomb.

It tells its own story: "Erected to the memory of an amiable child, St. Claire Pollock, died July, 1797, in the 5th year of his age."

The monument was placed there by a kindly Irishman in memory of his son who was killed in a tumbler off the cliff.

One hundred years after the father had placed the urn in a corner of his far fields, the builders came to construct a tomb for a famous soldier and a former president.

They lie there side by side now, great man and little child. About them the green carpets have been torn up by the marching city. Thousands see Grant's tomb and looking the Hudson, a little marble urn stands in the shadow of Grant's tomb.

Not all the hurrying girls who pitter-patter along Park Row are New Yorkers. But a certain newsboy can tell the New Yorkers from the ladies from Topeka, Tomkinsville and way points.

"The subway ventilator shafts blow the skotts," he told me, "and the New York galls won't walk over the gratings. The others can't."

FARMS IMPROVED
JARDINE REPORTS

Progress Noted in All But Few Areas in Annual Report to President.

Washington, Dec. 10.—(United Press).—Progress and improvement in the agriculture industry, except in a few regions, took place during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine reported to President Coolidge today.

"Generally speaking the position of agriculture is better now than it has been any year since 1920 despite reverses in the cotton states and part of the spring wheat states," Jardine said in his annual report.

"The net income of the agriculture industry for several years with a 1925-26 is estimated at about $2,757,000,000 or 4 percent more than for the previous year."

Cotton Prices
Jardine said the slump in cotton prices makes it doubtful whether this year will carry forward the story of improvement. An average price of 18 cents a pound for cotton would be necessary to yield southern states an income equal to that of last year.

Wheat farmers, with heavy yields, are having a good year, while the corn belt is in better shape than it has been for several years with a tendency toward a better balance between hog and corn production, Jardine said. The sheep industry is enjoying its fifth consecutive prosperous year.

"A brief summary of agriculture conditions show that farmers are getting results from the steps they took, following the depression of 1921, to curtail over production and to bring their leading enterprises into profitable balance. Agriculture is now unquestionably on the upward grade as a result in large measure of the intelligence, energy and determination of the farmers themselves."

The surplus problem can be solved through a better adjustment of production to market requirements, and through marketing, Jardine said.

"I recognize the difficulties of controlling production but I am convinced nevertheless that through organized and well directed efforts much more can be done than we have hitherto done to eliminate the recurring surpluses that prove so detrimental to the farming industry," he said.

Better Control
"Better Control of the movement of agriculture products into consumption channels is needed. This means that adequate marketing, storage and credit facilities must be available and that producers must be organized to act together in their marketing operations."

"Legislative action should be designed to create and enlarge such agencies and supplement their efforts. What is needed is concentrated and coordinated effort backed up by adequate resources."

Jardine urged farmers to band together. Pointing out that there are 6,500,000 tillers of the soil, he contended that through organization these men could save millions of dollars annually by co-ordination, through cooperative marketing associations.

Readjustment of existing freight rates on agriculture commodities must be made to aid farmers lift their business on a plane with other industries, Jardine stated.

Farmers bear an undue taxation burden, the Secretary declared. While not recommending a tax reduction for farmers, he urged that there is often relief possible by readjusting the state's tax system.

Radio has increased agriculture efficiency and made life more pleasant on the farms. The Agriculture Department is now the world's largest radio user and 1,000,000 farmers have receiving sets to listen in on "Uncle Sam's Agriculture College" lectures and entertainment features.

Cool to Cal

When you've flown over the north pole it's hard to get excited about a mere president. Witness the fact that when General Umberto Nobile called at the White House with the dog mascot who accompanied him on the Norge's polar flight, the pup snubbed Calvin Coolidge cold. The dog is shown here with Nobile.

Fiction? No

A quadrangle instead of the conventional "triangle" was disclosed when Mrs. Isabelle Keyes Burch and Captain Arnaldo Marson, pictured above, were arrested in San Francisco. They had eloped from New York. Mrs. Burch is the wife of Marson's son-in-law, London Walkup Burch, who was left in New York with his mother, Mrs. Marson. The photos were taken after the arrest of Marson and Mrs. Burch on federal charges.

CRIMINOLOGISTS ARE BEST MOVIE WRITERS

New York, Dec. 10.—It is now the contention of the movies that criminologists make the best scenario writers.

"This may sound formidable to the average person," declares Tod Browning, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director, "but criminology is a study of man. The most humane men of my acquaintance are noted detectives and criminologists. They have learned to fathom the minds and motives of the human race, an ability which every good scenario writer must have. The realism of the screen consists of the portrayal of authentic mental reactions. The scenario writer who can set them down on paper has the mind of a criminologist." Browning is noted for his direction of such crook stories as "The Unholy Three" and "The Blackbird."

Paris.—Although French wine growers complain of the loss of the American market, the price of wine here has skyrocketed, due largely to a poor yield in the vineyards. A cask of the best Bordeaux wine now costs nearly a thousand dollars while the cheapest good brands sell at 400 francs.

MAN USES ELBOW IN PLAYING PIANO

Los Angeles, Dec. 10.—A new and radical form of piano technique is being introduced to the musical world by Henry Cowell, 29-year-old California composer and pianist—the elboworte.

Cowell, who claims entire credit for the innovation, has devised a technique which utilizes the elbow, forearm and palm, as well as the fingers, in his piano playing.

It is possible to strike 48 keys simultaneously by utilizing the "sensitized elbow" according to the musician, who has astonished critics in Europe and America by his new technique in tonal effects.

In playing via the new technique Cowell wears buttonless sleeves. His discovery, he said, was the result of 10 years of practice and experimentation.

BACHELOR DELEGATION IN SENATE ENLARGED

Washington, Dec. 10.—(United Press).—First there were six and now there are ten—bachelors and eligible widowers in the United States Senate.

The election in November swept out of office three United States Senators who were married and replaced them with three United States Senators who are unmarried. And now there are nine United States Senators who are eligible for the society matrons of the capitol.

The line will automatically start on the right because there has always been a scramble for the social position of a senator's wife, a high social position in the capitol.

Senators' wives are always invited to high social functions and require a position of honor at White House dinners. Once a month the wife of the vice president entertains the wives of senators at tea. There is hardly a vacant afternoon or evening in their social calendar.

But the six stalwarts to comprise the bachelor bloc in the senate have stood steadfast, through social attacks for many years. Senator Hale, Repn., Maine, and La Follette, Repn., Wis., are the only real bachelors in the present senate.

But their bloc is augmented by Senators Hefflin, Dem., Ala., Walsh, Dem., Mont., Trammell, Dem., Fla., and Pine, Feppn., Okla., who have long been widowers.

Now comes Senators-elect Tydings, Dem., Md.; Wagner, Dem., New York; Walsh, Dem., Mass., and Brookhart, Repn., Iowa in the new senate to swell the thinned ranks of the brave defenders of Cupid.

This newly enlarged group will comprise the largest Unmarried Bloc in recent senate history.

A society editor here deprecates the situation as follows:

"Senator-elect Walsh of Mass., is of delightful presence and a charming companion at dinners or other occasions, but he has proved invulnerable to the shafts of Cupid. Judge Robert Ferdinand Wagner of New York will come unknown in the social way, even among New Yorkers who claim to know everybody. Judge Wagner is in his late 50s and it would seem that he too, would be proof against the tender passion.

The Senator-elect from Maryland—Millard E. Tydings—is in his thirty-sixth year and has been one of the gallants of the lower house. Recently the president of the Maryland State society, he has been quite active in the domain of Vanity Fair and is accomplished in every way. Mr. Tydings belongs to many clubs and maintains a pleasant home in Havre de Grace."

So you know what that means!

Was in Ben's Harem

Mrs. Bessie Woodworth, pictured here with her husband, Emerald Woodworth, was responsible for the arrest of "King" Benjamin. A former member of the House of David colony, she told authorities, she had been one of the beauties of "Shiloh," the erstwhile Purnell "harem," and that her marriage to Woodworth was "arranged" along with many others to forestall disclosures of the "King's" alleged immorality. She and her husband eventually fled the colony and recently they disclosed to state officers the Purnell hiding place.

LAMPREY EEL
Bellingham, Wash.—A Puget Sound fisherman thought he had caught a baby sea serpent when his net disclosed a wriggling creature with a sheep-like head, glaring eyes, long teeth and a big black fin. But naturalists pronounced it a baby lamprey eel—one of the few ever found that far north.

FRANKLIN LETTER

As a trickle charger, it can be permanently connected to your battery and in effect converts it into an automatic light socket "A" power supply. Its high rate supplies a ready reserve of power for the largest sets. The new Balkite Charger is a permanent piece of equipment. It has no tubes and nothing to replace. Entirely noiseless, in most cases it can be used during reception. Can be used with 4 or 6-volt batteries. Price $19.50. FOR THOSE WHO REQUIRE A CHARGER OF ONLY LIMITED CAPACITY—THE BALKITE TRICKLE CHARGER—$10. Ask your dealer. Fansteel Products Company, Inc., North Chicago, Ill.

THE TINYMITES

The Tinymites watched Santa Claus, and they were surely thrilled because they'd always heard a lot about this famous happy fellow. They knew that when his job was done each year it brought folks heaps of fun. Perhaps that's just what made him laugh until he shook like jello. The doll upon old Santa's knee seemed just as cheerful as could be. It smiled and on its forehead hung a funny little curl. And then they heard old Santa say, "I'm glad they fixed you up this way. I'm sure on Christmas morn you will please some little girl."
