

LATIN STATES PLAN ANTI-U. S. ALLIANCE

Central and S. American Republics at Work on Project For Pan-American Union With This Country Barred—Would Oppose "Yankee Imperialism."

Washington, Jan. 3.—President Coolidge and his advisers are considerably disturbed over the increasing evidences of American unpopularity in the countries of Latin America. These evidences have been accompanied by circumstantial reports that a strong movement is afoot in Central and South America, backed by powerful influences, for the organization of a real Pan-American Union, with the United States on the outside looking in, rather than being the directing force, as is the case with the existing union.

It has for its object the welding of the Spanish-speaking peoples of the western hemisphere into a cohesive organization to combat what many South American statesmen consider the persistent encroachment of "Yankee imperialism," and "dollar diplomacy."

Centers in Mexico

There is reason to believe, from confidential reports reaching Washington, that this movement has gained considerable actual headway and that it centers in Mexico City, where the Calles government shows increasing signs of permanency and power. It is known, for instance, that the project has been seriously discussed, and at length, by high Mexican officials and representatives of other South and Central American countries in Mexico City.

Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Salvador, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala all have felt the weight of North America's financial or naval power in one way or another in the last quarter century.

Latin America has seen the gradual encroachment of North American power and dominance into the south by year. It has seen Cuba, Porto Rico, Panama, Haiti become vital United States dependencies, with indications now that Nicaragua is soon to go the same way.

The picture is not a pleasing one to those Latin diplomats who have dreams of a great Spanish-speaking union in the western hemisphere.

Three Recent Causes

Three recent events have now combined to bring the agitation to a head, according to well-informed sources here. They are:

1. The controversy with Mexico, in which the United States challenged the right of Mexico to enact her own alien land laws.
2. The Nicaraguan situation, in which the State Department elevated Adolfo Diaz to the presidency and then sent warships and marines to lend him moral, if not actual, support. Diaz is a favorite with the American State Department of many years standing.
3. The recently concluded Panama treaty, whereby Panama pledges herself to consider herself automatically at war with any power against which the United States goes to war. This treaty has been savagely criticized by the press of South America.

SMITH JOB LOOMS AS CONGRESS MEETS

Seating or Casting Out of Illinois Senator Hogs Attention of Senate.

Washington, Jan. 3.—With the political future of Senator-designate Frank L. Smith, Republican of Illinois, arousing more interest than its own legislative program, Congress reconvened today for the remaining eight working weeks of its life.

The ambition of Smith to take a seat in the Senate as the appointive successor of the late Senator William B. McKinley, "threatened the returning Congress with the possibility of a special session after March 4 and gave administration leaders their greatest worry. As Smith will face a thoroughly hostile Senate, ready and even eager to return him to private life, administration leaders said their efforts would be directed toward forcing an early decision on the Illinois appointee.

Rumors were current here that Smith would come to Washington Wednesday with his credentials from Governor Len Small, of Illinois. If he does, the fight to close the doors of the Senate to him will begin the moment he attempts to present his credentials. All poles have indicated a clear majority against admitting Smith.

New York, Jan. 3.—Patrolman James Devine, who has been on the force only six months, shot and killed a prowler in the rear of a restaurant on Columbus avenue early this morning when the man refused to halt. Police believe that the man, who was not identified, was a burglar. The policeman's bullet struck the alleged burglar in the side as he was climbing a nine-foot fence and toppled him off. The fall broke his neck.

SCARLET FEVER TAKES ANOTHER BIG JUMP

82 New Cases Reported in State Last Week; Other Diseases Increase.

Hartford, Jan. 3.—Another heavy increase in scarlet fever cases in the state was reported by health authorities to the State Department of Health last week, according to the morbidity table issued today. Eighty-two new cases developed, an increase of 22 over the previous week. Bridgeport reported 18, Stamford 12, Willimantic 9 and Hartford 8. Other cases were scattered through every county. There were also increases during the week in the number of cases of diphtheria, typhoid, whooping cough, pneumonia and influenza. Decreases for measles, mumps and chicken pox.

FIGHT MONEY MAY KEEP NAVY OUT OF AIR RACES

Participation in International Air Races is Believed Doomed by Today's Action of the House.

Washington, Jan. 3.—American participation in international air races is believed doomed by today's action of the House, as the committee in sustaining the budget bureau's refusal to give the navy $377,000 to build four racing planes.

The navy, after having won two legs on the Schneider cup in international seaplane speed contests, recently suffered a defeat at the hands of Italian racers. One more victory would give the navy the cup permanently.

MANCHESTER'S PEOPLE 21,992, ASSERTS BOARD

State Health Dep't. Figures Give Bridgeport Second Place Over Hartford; Danbury Nearest to Us.

Hartford, Jan. 3.—Estimating the state's population as 1,566,435 in a bulletin issued today, the State Department of Health upholds Bridgeport's claim to second place among cities in the number of residents. New Haven is first with 184,727, Bridgeport is set at 174,890, and Hartford 168,368. The figures show that 1,377,329 of the state's population is in 46 towns of more than 5,000 population each. This leaves only 209,106 in the 123 other towns.

The estimates which are to be used in compiling vital statistics are given as of July 1, 1927, this date being selected for the reason that it is the mid-year population and provides a fairer basis than other dates.

Method of Calculating

The method of calculation is based on the net change between census figures of 1910 and 1920. As the interval was roughly ten years the annual change is found by dividing the actual difference between the totals by ten. When the annual is determined, the department statisticians find that this is a simple matter to add this amount from year to year, thus continuing the population estimate beyond 1920 by a process called "extra population."

Populations of other large towns are: Ansonia, 19,548; Branford, 7,073; Bristol, 26,087; Danbury, 21,931; Derby, 12,963; East Hartford, 14,311; Enfield, 13,241; Fairfield, 15,541; Glastonbury, 6,296; Greenwich, 26,373; Groton, 11,222; Hamden, 10,713; Killingly, 9,384.

Manchester, 21,992; Meriden, 36,807; Middletown, 22,932; Milford, 14,673; Naugatuck, 16,829; New Britain, 71,068; New London, 20,149; Windham, 14,418; Windsor, 15,282; Norwich, 49,173; Norwich, 30,689; Plainfield, 8,813; Plainville, 6,064; Plymouth, 6,459; Putnam, 9,220; Seymour, 8,321; Shelton, 11,699; Southington, 9,325.

Veteran Jurist Regains Consciousness After Seizure at Middletown Home.

Middletown, Jan. 3.—Judge Silas A. Robinson, retired veteran of the Connecticut bar and bench, suffered a stroke at his home 141 College street here today, and was unconscious for hours, regaining consciousness this afternoon.

Judge Robinson was eighty-six years of age last September. He was appointed to the superior court by the late Morgan G. Buckley, then governor of the state, and served 19 years and five months. Elevated to the supreme court of errors he served five months there, retiring in 1910 at the age of seventy.

'FIND' OF CHILDREN KILLS THE MOTHER

Bridgeport Woman Shot Dead By Gun Said to Have Come From Ash Can.

Bridgeport, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Lena Klendara, 42, mother of six children, was shot and instantly killed in a bedroom of her home here today. Police are holding her husband, Gregory, pending an investigation though he contends his wife was accidentally killed when a revolver fell from his trousers as she was handling them.

Klendara summoned police aid when his wife was shot and Dr. David Greenspan, responding with a police ambulance, found that a .38 calibre revolver had penetrated her head, killing her instantly. Mrs. Klendara was then lying on the bedroom floor, clad in a bath robe.

Was a "Found" Revolver

Klendara told the police that one of his youngest children had found the revolver in an ash can on Hawley avenue, in the rear of his home at 6 Evergreen street. The revolver, he said, was fully loaded, and to protect the children he had placed it in a pocket of a new pair of trousers. These trousers, he said, Mrs. Klendara was handing to him when the gun fell to the floor and discharged, the bullet entering his wife's head.

DOPE FIEND SUSPECTED OF WOMAN'S MURDER

Medicine Chest In Veterinary Home Rife In Slain.

New York, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Catherine Galloway, of Brooklyn, was found dead today in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dell C. Bassett, at Hempstead, L. I., with her skull crushed. The police said the woman had been murdered, perhaps by a drug addict.

Mrs. Galloway's son-in-law is a veterinarian surgeon. The police theory of a drug addict murderer was based on the fact that a medicine cabinet in the Bassett home had been rifled. However, Dr. Bassett told the police that there was none of his professional drugs in the cabinet as he carried them in a small satchel.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The federal narcotics act of 1922, prohibiting traffic in opium, today was held constitutional by the supreme court. The case, which was watched closely by constitutional lawyers because the court had divided in holdings valid two anti-narcotics acts previously passed by Congress, was appealed by Won Wun Tai, alias Wong Sue Jan, convicted and sentenced to prison at San Francisco.

"CLUCK, CLUCK" IS LURE TO POULTRY

Chicken Thieves Woo Their Quarry Conversationally; No More Strangling.

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 3.—Chicken thieves in the Berkshires no longer raid roosts and get away with their quarry by strangling methods. Instead, they have mastered the language of the feathered folks and subdue them with words, according to Detective John A. Blair. The detective is investigating the theft of 100 chickens from the flock owned by Michael Ruberto of Columbus avenue.

Blair said that one man who served a term for chicken stealing told him that he met with great success by talking to the birds. He explained that it took a long time to learn the sounds. Some chicken thieves burn sulphur to make the chickens sleepy so that persons are not aroused by the cackling, Blair states.

MEX LINE QUAKES FELL WALLS TODAY

Series of Tremblors Has Done Million Damage In Mexicali and Calexico.

Calexico, Cal., Jan. 3.—Two new severe earthquake shocks rocked Calexico and Mexicali between 5 and 6 a. m., today, shaking down scores of already battered walls.

Tremblors yesterday started a fire in Mexicali in which two buildings were destroyed, causing a loss of several thousand dollars. Other damage, however, was slight. A number of loosened bricks were knocked into the streets but nobody was injured.

Volcano in Action

Damage to the cities of Mexicali and Calexico by the shocks of Saturday is estimated to be in the vicinity of $1,000,000.

Black Butte, a dormant volcano 40 miles south of the border in Mexico, is reported to be active today. No alarm is felt, however, as the country surrounding it is uninhabited for many miles.

ANDREWS ORDERED TO QUIT POISONING

Instructed By Mellon to Hasten Adoption of Harmless Denaturants.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Secretary of Treasury Mellon today instructed Col. Lincoln C. Andrews to eliminate as soon as possible all poisons from industrial alcohol.

Following a conference with Mellon, Andrews assigned three additional treasury chemists to the dry law, "in an unreasonable sort of way."

"As a matter of fact the revised formula No. 5, going into effect today, in which alcohol is substituted for pyridine, is less poisonous than the old formula, even though the content of wood alcohol is increased from two to four per cent," he declared.

Indicating the treasury's policy, Andrews made public a statement by Dr. J. M. Doran, head prohibition chemist, which said:

"The denaturing substance must be of such a nature as to remain with the alcohol under a most severe manipulative treatment.

"The substance must be non-corrosive and in the quantity used non-poisonous.

"Inasmuch as it is the expressed intent of the prohibition act that these formulas be available generally for lawful purposes, it is necessary that they be of such a nature as to render the alcohol not poisonous, but objectionable and obnoxious when used as a beverage, making it practically impossible for any person to consume these treated concoctions and not at the same time be fully aware that the liquid is unfit for consumption."

The government is seeking a wood alcohol substitute from among the coal tar by-products. Andrews said that the test of alcohol is to be made.

NEW THROWN GAMES CROP UP IN BASEBALL SCANDAL

PLUS MARK FIGURES IN BOSTON TAXIMETERS

Boston, Jan. 3.—Taxi drivers, pilots of 1,160 cabs, had a lot of arguments on their hands today. Seven companies operating the 1,160 cabs here put into effect a charge of a dime above the meter reading. Riders who read the meters couldn't understand it until the driver explained that the advance in taxi fares was to cover insurance rates under the new compulsory insurance law.

COBB AND SPEAKER MAY GET HEARING

Landis Likely to Yield to Demand of Players For Chance at Accuser.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, ousted from baseball by "Dutch" Leonard's now famous tale, may get another chance. Indications today were that Cobb and Speaker at least may be given a new hearing in an attempt to clear their names.

The sensational story related by Charles (Swede) Risberg, one of the original "Black Sox," to Judge Landis, of a "purchase" by the Chicago White Sox of a series of four games with the Detroit Tigers in 1917, has acted as a boomerang in the troubled waters of the former Detroit and Cleveland managers.

Eddie Collins, now of the Philadelphia Athletics, Donnie Bush, now Pittsburgh manager, Ray Shalk, new White Sox manager, and others accused in the "fixing" story of Risberg, are to meet their accused before Judge Landis Wednesday and it is known that strong pressure is being brought by friends of Cobb and Speaker to give them the same opportunity to meet Leonard in a final showdown.

Judge Landis, it was reported, has been appealed to in an effort to have him bring Leonard here to give Ty and Tris a chance to fight for vindication, both having claimed if they were given a chance to meet Leonard face to face, they would make him "eat his words."

The baseball czar refused to comment today on the reported re-hearing for the two famous ex-managers but at the same time he would not say the careers of Speaker and Cobb were entirely ended.

"Are you going to give Cobb and Speaker another chance to clear their names?" the judge was asked.

"I can't say right now," he replied.

"Are you going to let Collins, Bush and Shalk play ball this season or are they to be barred?" he was asked.

He answered: "I can't say now, the investigation of Risberg's charges is just starting. Nothing will be done until a thorough investigation is made."

Cobb and Speaker are not involved in the story of Risberg, he told Judge Landis he was positive that Cobb, then with Detroit, did not receive any of the "collection" claimed to have been given some Detroit players by the Chicago Sox for "throwing" games.

"There never was a better or straighter baseball player than Ty Cobb or Tris Speaker," Risberg told the baseball chieftan.

BIG NAVY BLIMP CUT FROM BILL BY COMMITTEE

Will Be No Airships "Twice As Big as Shenandoah"; Fight Ahead as Cash For Cruisers Is Denied.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The administration's naval program was laid before Congress today, thus paying the way for the bitter fight that is to be waged over strengthening America's sea power. The program was brought out in the naval supply bill, carrying $318,469,530 for the next fiscal year, a reduction of $5,500,000 and with no money provided for cruiser construction to bring the United States navy up to the 5-5-3 parity with Great Britain and Japan. It was laid before the House by the administration-controlled appropriations committee. The naval committee is on the other side of the controversy, and will fight for new cruiser construction.

"With respect to new vessels, the committee is ready to proceed in providing the requisite funds whenever the President shall so recommend," said the committee's report.

Approves Delay

"With the President definitely counseling delay in commencing the construction of the three cruisers which have heretofore been authorized, because of negotiations looking to further limitation of armaments, the committee thinks it is not wise to recommend a course in conflict with that program."

A total of $23,250,000 was recommended for new ships, all either under construction or for which plans and specifications have been completed. These are two aircraft carriers, three submarines, six river gunboats being built in China. Two light cruisers under construction and three others for which plans have been drawn.

The navy's enlisted strength is kept at $2,500, while the marine corps was slashed 1,300 men over the protest of Major General Le Jeune, commandant of the corps.

Out Goes Big Blimp

Recommending an appropriation of $19,065,288 for the navy's air corps, the committee asserted that this amount will carry on the five-year air program on a slightly reduced scale. This amount is $724,000 less than the amount originally proposed.

LANDIS CALLS PLAYERS HIT IN RISBERG TALE

Great Quiz of 1917 Slough To Be Held Wednesday; "Swede" Lets Cobb Out of White Sox Deal.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Clarence Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Ray Shalk, present manager, are in Chicago today in answer to telegrams sent out by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis requesting all members of the White Sox and Detroit teams of 1917 to meet in the commissioner's office here on Wednesday to answer "crooked baseball" charges made by Charles (Swede) Risberg. Risberg, former White Sox shortstop who was expelled from organized baseball for his alleged part in the crooked World Series of 1919, charged before Commissioner Landis that the Chicago White Sox "bought" a four-game series from Detroit in September of 1917. He named practically every member on the Chicago team at that time, including Ray Shalk, Eddie Collins and Urban ("Red") Faber.

Rowland Investigator

Risberg said Clarence Rowland, White Sox manager, was the instigator of the plot. He declared that during the close race for the pennant between Boston and Chicago, Rowland whispered to him that if the boys would get up a sum of money for the Detroit players, the Tigers would "slough" the Labor Day series to the White Sox.

The money was collected, Risberg said, each player on the Chicago team, with the exception of Buck Weaver, contributing. He and Chick Gandil collected the "pool," Risberg said, and paid the money to Bill James, Detroit pitcher. The White Sox won the four-game series starting on Labor Day in Chicago.

Rowland, now an umpire in the American League, came to Chicago from Milwaukee to "face the charges."

His first expression was, "Risberg is a barefaced liar."

Shalk, who hurried here from Farmerville, where he was visiting relatives, was equally emphatic in denouncing his former teammate.

"Present"

Shalk admitted he had contributed to a White Sox "pool" in 1917 but Detroit pitchers, but denied the money was given to the "throw" games in favor of Chicago. Shalk said the money was given to Detroit pitchers as a reward for their fine work against the Boston Red Sox, who were leading the White Sox a merry chase for the 1917 pennant.

Following his appearance before Commissioner Landis, Risberg returned to his farm near Rochester, Minn., but promised to return here on Wednesday to face the men he accuses. Landis announced the Wednesday session would be open to the press.

The commissioner has wired all available players on the Chicago and Detroit teams of 1917 to attend the hearing, among those expected to attend, beside the men already named, are Donnie Bush, formerly of the Tigers and now manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Edward Egan, George Dahbs, Harry Heilmann, Willie Mitchell and Oscar ("Happy") Felsch. Bill James, former Detroit pitcher, is in California, and will not be able to attend.

One Expelled Player

Felsch was one of the eight White Sox players expelled following the 1919 World Series exposure. He said he contributed $45 to the White Sox pool of 1917, and declared that practically every other player on the team did likewise.

From all over the country, players named by Risberg have wired their denunciations of his charges. Eddie Collins, in Philadelphia, telegraphed practically the same story told by Shalk. Collins admits contributing to the pool, but declared it was a "present" to the Detroit pitchers for their fine work against Boston.

Comiskey Shocked

Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, expressed himself as shocked by Risberg's testimony, but declared his utmost confidence in Ray Shalk, his newly appointed manager. He also expressed confidence in the integrity of Eddie Collins, Red Faber and others mentioned by Risberg.

Commenting on the charges to date, Comiskey said: "There's some talk at the time of the trial of the 'Black Sox' in 1920 relating to the gift of a suit of clothes to members of the Detroit club by the (Continued on page 11)

BROWNS THREW 1923 SERIES TO DETROIT TEAM

New Charge of Crooked Deal, But This One Was Not Bought, So Fresh Relation Points.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—At least one and possibly all of a three game series were "thrown" to the Detroit Tigers late in 1923 by the St. Louis Browns, but there was no conspiracy, Bert Walker, sporting editor of the Detroit times today quotes Ty Cobb as saying.

The St. Louis Browns were playing in Detroit. It was late in the season, and the Tigers were fighting Cleveland for second place.

At 1 o'clock, or two hours before the game, some St. Louis players approached Cobb, manager of the Tigers, according to Walker, and said: "You are going to win today's game. We will not try to take it. Those damned — (meaning the Indians) have insulted us all season and we hope you beat them out. Today's game is yours."

Cobb revealed this just before he left Detroit for Augusta, Walker says.

Cobb Didn't Bet

"I was in uniform at the time, and went to the office of Navin, (Frank Navin) president of the Detroit club, and told him the whole thing," Cobb said, according to Walker. "There was still more than an hour in which to get down bets on a sure thing. I do not know whether any bets were made or not. I didn't make any bets, but we won the game."

The Tigers not only won that game, but they swept the series.

John Anderson of New Haven, Rev. Father Teehan and Rev. Vincent McDonough of Hartford, Rev. James J. Timmins were present and sat in the sanctuary.

The body was placed in the receiving vault at St. James' cemetery.

NO NEWS YET ON TAX RATE Assessors Report Today That Local Abstract Will Not Be Ready Until End of Month.

Whether or not Manchester will have a lower tax rate this year is not known yet, it was said this morning at the office of the board of assessors.

False Rumors A report was given circulation today that the tax rate would be lower and the grand list higher. As far as the grand list is concerned, the assessors are not able to give out any information, for nothing but the names of the property holders has been placed in the abstract book.

As To Prohibition At the close of his lecture the Brigadier was asked, "Would you say conditions are worse now, or better than before the days of Prohibition?"

In reply he stated, "I will not give you my own words but the words of one of the police officers who has been located in that district for over 20 years. This place which was one of the worst in New York City, today under prohibition is a Paradise compared with the past. He said the District Court was kept going day and night and most of the arrests were for drunkenness but today there is a large decrease in number of arrests for drunkenness. He also stated that while the hotel was running almost full capacity, they did not have to put out more than 15 or 20 per week for drunkenness."

The Happy Go Lucky Girls will resume their weekly meetings suspended during the holidays. The meeting tonight will be held at the Manchester Community clubhouse at 7:30.

The Men's Choral club will resume rehearsals this evening, when the first rehearsal for the spring concert will be held at the South Methodist church at 7:30. Director Archibald Sessions hopes for a full attendance of the members.

Committees of the Men's club of the Second Congregational church will have a meeting this evening at the Manchester Community club to make plans for the January supper and meeting and the date set for which is Friday evening, January 21.

Sunset Rebekah lodge will install its officers for 1927 in Odd Fellows hall this evening. A supper will be served in the banquet hall at 6:30 under the direction of Mrs. Claude Truax and her assistants.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Arthur D. Jarvis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Jarvis of 79 Keeney street, and Miss Stella Balton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Balton of North School street.

WESLEYAN SINGERS IN CONCERT HERE

Glee Club Champions to Be Heard at Benefit For High School Fund.

When a Wesleyan College Glee club sings in the local high school hall on Saturday night of this week, Manchester will have a chance to hear the finest group of college singers in the country. This was established when the Middletown singers captured the national inter-collegiate glee club championship last year.

The Wesleyan singers are trained to a high degree in the rendition of choral music. It is essential that the such singing, especially men's choral singing that the tone of the group must sound as one tone. To do this is extremely difficult. Those who heard the Wesleyan boys in their Manchester concert last year will recall that the four parts blended perfectly into one harmonious tone.

Another important requisite of choral singing is expression. The style is exceptionally good and most entertaining. Their interpretation and tone quality was what won for them the national championship.

The Jibbers - The Jibbers, a male quartet of the four best singers in the group, will also be heard in several solo numbers that went over big with the audience, and the quartet was forced to respond to several encores. It was undoubtedly the finest male quartet heard in Manchester for a long time. The Jibbers this year are said to be even better than they were last year. This fact alone should call for a capacity audience.

Besides the appearance of these two groups, the Wesleyan string quartet will be heard in several numbers. For such an organization, it would be quite difficult to find another string quartet as fine as this one. Last year many of those present were heard to say afterward that they had never heard a group that was finer.

The Wesleyan Serenaders will accompany the Glee Club, Jibbers and string quartet to Manchester, and will play for dancing after the concert. The Serenaders are a jazz orchestra that can more than hold its own with the best. Their rendition of popular dance tunes is as snappy as anyone could wish for.

The proceeds from the combined concert and dance will go toward the Washington Trip fund of the local high school are raising. Tickets for the concert may be procured from any of the members of the senior class, or by telephoning the local school.

Harold West of Pitkin street while driving east on Woodbridge street in the north end yesterday, saw a car headed in the same direction skidding on the ice towards West's car. West to avoid a collision pulled his car to the south and brought it to a standstill just as the car driven by Adolph Schmidt, suddenly turned towards the west and struck the center of West's car from the northeast.

The accident was investigated by Sergeant Barron who came from the southeast. He found both cars able to proceed under their own power towards the north.

THEATER EMPLOYEES HOLD A PARTY HERE

Come From Various Cities to Enjoy Banquet at Knights Of Columbus Hall.

On Saturday evening the employees of the Strand and Princess theaters in Hartford, those of the State and Circle theaters in Manchester, and of the Gem theater in Willimantic enjoyed a banquet given them by the Hoffman Theatrical Enterprises. The banquet was served in the Kacey hall, and was prepared by Charles Kuhr, proprietor of the State Cafe.

James Cummings, house manager of the Strand theater, was toastmaster. During the course of the banquet a solid mahogany radio table was presented Henry Needles, general manager of the five theaters, by his employees. Mr. Needles is held in high esteem by all those under him.

I. J. Hoffman was present, and expressed his wish to extend to all his employees greetings for the new year.

Mr. Cummings called on the members of each of the theaters to speak. He also called on the orchestra leaders in each of the theaters. Following the banquet those present, numbering about one hundred and fifty, went over to the State theater where an informal get-together New Year's party was held. There was impromptu vaudeville singing and various other kinds of amusements.

Police Seek Fred Schuster, Whose Car Upset and Who Jumped a $50 Bond.

Rockville, Jan. 3.—Police are seeking Fred Schuster, 22, whose automobile turned over here Saturday night, the accident resulting in the discovery of alleged liquor selling in Rockville.

Schuster, after the accident, was placed under bond of $50 on a charge of operating a car with 1926 markers. With him and a woman, whose name is being withheld by the authorities, was Kyrias Sheridan. Investigation led to the arrest of Frank C. Mack on a charge of selling liquor.

When Schuster failed to appear in court today, though Sheridan and Mack were there, the cases were continued until Wednesday and police were ordered to find Schuster. Mack was placed under ball of $500 and Sheridan was released on his own recognizance.

Many members of the present Congress "drink to excess," it was charged on the floor of the House today by Rep. Celler, Dem., N. Y. in the course of heated debate over the government's placing poisonous denaturants in industrial alcohol.

"Many members of this House and the other chamber (the Senate) drink to excess," he charged. "They should not countenance anything that would make liquor poisonous to others who are less informed and less intelligent than themselves."

In the Senate, Senator Edwards of New Jersey, introduced a resolution calling on Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for "all information," on the practice of poisoning alcohol, including correspondence between the prohibition committee and Wayne B. Wheeler, Generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League.

REAL IRISH PARTY A New Year's party was held on Saturday evening at the home of James Fallon of 73 Eldridge street. There were many guests, present both from town and out of town. Michael Weir of Deal Beach, New Jersey, and Eugene O'Neill of West Hartford were among those present.

A regular Irish supper, stew and everything else, was served. Following this two of those present gave exhibitions of Irish clog and step dancing. Games of cards and checkers were played.

All present received gifts. Following the games, dancing was enjoyed. The party broke after midnight.

RADIO SET PLAN

A NEW SWINDLE

You Get a $60 Radio Set If—and There Is a Big "It" Involved.

This is the 42rd article prepared for The Evening Herald by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

"MONEY SAVING NEWS ALWAYS GOOD NEWS"

A $60.00 Five Tube Radio Set Complete for $5.50

This is the heading which appears on a circular received by several hundred people in Manchester this week from the Profit Sharing Radio Company, 232 West 55th street, New York City.

"Buy one of our PROFIT SHARING CONTRACTS for $16.00, which has attached to it (3) three coupons, A, B, and C.

Sell each coupon to three different friends of yours at $3.50 each and you will receive back $10.50, all of which you keep.

Explain to each friend of yours who buys a coupon from you that he is to send $12.50 together with the coupon to the company, for which he will receive a similar contract, with the opportunity to you have of getting a radio set complete at $5.50.

When we have received the coupons accompanied by $12.50 each, for a profit sharing contract, from your three friends, you are entitled to receive, without further cost, a radio set complete. You then will be notified at once that the radio set is being sent you by express.

This completes your contract. Yes! This completes your contract—BUT—There is always someone—many someone in fact, who are reading the bag.

How It Works You pay $16.00 for a PROFIT SHARING CONTRACT—note this—a contract, not a radio set—you pay $16.00 for a contract to sell three radio sets at $16.00 each.

You don't get ANYTHING for your $16.00 until or unless you sell three coupons and your three friends send in $12.50 each, or you are out of luck—it is up to YOU—there is no responsibility on the part of the promoters until YOU have done YOUR part.

A Nameless Orphan The literature sent out does not even give this wonderful $60.00 radio set a name. No way to tell who made it, where it is made, or where you can look for repairs or service.

It is probably some semi-obsolete type of set which the manufacturers are glad to get rid of at any cost, and could afford to sell at a very low price—but do they? They tell you, you will get $60 worth for $5.50. They neglect to point out that you do not get your radio set—ANYTHING for your $16.00 until or unless you sell three coupons and your three friends send in $12.50 each, or you get no radio.

You Start Something Yes, you have started the old endless chain selling scheme where a few get rich at the expense of many gullible dupes. It is a well established fact that very few—less than 10 per cent in fact, of the series of three sales involved in a contract are complete, and no legal responsibility rests upon the promoters unless the three sales are completed and all cash paid in.

How the Chain Grows The following table shows what a flood of cash you have started flowing into the treasury of the promoters who's tool you are, if the scheme works:

Table with 3 columns: Gr., Number, Amt. rec'd. Row 1: 1, 1, $16.00. Row 2: 2, 3, $48.00. Row 3: 3, 9, $144.00. Row 4: 4, 27, $432.00. Row 5: 5, 81, $1,296.00. Row 6: 10, 19,683, $589,787.50.

F. O. Dept. Helps Two fraud orders have recently been issued by the Post Office Department, one of them on the so-called "free lot" scheme, and the second in connection with the envelope addressing fraud.

The "free lot" swindle has been given unlimited publicity all over the country and it is certainly to be hoped that this method of real estate promotion will soon be prohibited by national law.

The concern operating near Springfield, concerning which the Springfield Chamber of Commerce and Better Business Bureau issued

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells.

For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have hollow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged. Liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. a warning, is still active, and several Manchester people have received follow-up letters from them during the past week.

This is one of the most vicious and greedy schemes of this sort that has ever been tried out, inasmuch as the price of the lot is about eight times the price usually asked for one of these "free lots."

In the case of the Springfield Company, the so-called "free lot" nets the promoters about 3400 per cent over the purchase price. If anything is a lie and a misrepresentation, and obtaining money under false pretenses, this certainly is.

In the case of the envelope directing fraud, the advertisement reads as follows: "Address envelopes, earn $18.00—$50.00 weekly spare."

"Address envelopes, earn $18.00—$50.00 weekly spare. No experience. Cunningham Company, 189 West Madison Street, Chicago."

In the form letter sent by the company to those who replied: 1. The work was described as addressing the very class advertisement circulars for "rayon lingerie."

2. $18.00—$50.00 a week was quoted as earnings possible if instructions were followed.

3. It was necessary, however, to order a sample garment at from $2.95 to $4.50 from the company to obtain a supply of circulars, instructions, etc., for doing the work.

This cost would be refunded when $15.00 had been earned "according to the rate of pay contained in the instructions. Only AFTER THE PERMITENCE OF THE GARMENT HAD BEEN MADE, was it disclosed that the rate of pay depended upon sales resulting from the circulars and not upon the volume of addressing.

The nasty feature in connection with this swindle is that it takes money from the very class of people who are most in need of money and they are seeking to increase their income by home work.

The Post Office Department is certainly to be commended for every fraud of this kind that is suppressed. The only thing to be resisted is a demand that the law they cannot take any action until AFTER the fraud has been committed, and the same men can start right up in business again in practically the same line, with a slight variation of method, and operate until they are again ordered to cease.

The Chamber of Commerce has means of getting accurate information in regard to any project of this sort, and is only too glad to investigate and submit the facts to anyone who will consult them.

BIG NAVY BLIMP CUT OUT OF MONEY BILL

712 above current appropriations. The committee, however, rejected the appeal of the navy's air experts for $1,500,000 to begin construction of a huge dirigible, of more than twice the capacity of the Los Angeles.

The navy's air secretary, Edward P. Warner, took issue with Coolidge's recommendation for delay, a record of hearings on the bill disclosed. Congress last year authorized two dirigibles, but made no appropriation.

1000 Plane Program "If neither of the new ships is to be started during the fiscal year 1928 there will be serious danger that the Los Angeles cannot be kept in commission until the first of them is completed," said Warner.

The bureau of aeronautics had requested $9,077,500 to purchase new planes, and this amount was cut to $8,410,000. Reduction of plans wastage, however, will make possible substantial progress on the program which calls for a strength of 1,000 planes at the end of five years, the committee reported.

BEGIN COLLECTION OF SOUTH END TAX

Collector Taylor Expects to Raise Nearly $80,000 on the 1925 List.

Collector William Taylor of the South Manchester Fire District has begun the collection of the tax laid on the 1925 list. It is expected that $79,809.56 will be raised on the 1925 list which amounts to $39,904.767.

The budget for the year calls for $40,000 for the fire district expenses. The remainder of the proceeds of the collection will be turned into the fund to reduce the indebtedness of the district, now $30,000. This will leave a surplus which will be applied on the expenses of the following year.

Collector Taylor is at Home Company No. 4 on School street during the day from 10 in the morning to 6 in the evening. The tax rate this year is two mills, voted at the last annual meeting of the district.

COLUMBIA

There was a Christmas party of 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyman at their home at Columbia Lake, comprising the following: Miss Agnes Lyman and Mary Lyman Smith of Briar Cliff Manor, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lyman of Plainville, Mrs. G. H. Miner of Wetherfield, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lyman, Miss Evelyn Lyman, Mrs. Julia Little and Horace Little of Hartford, Conrad Vanberg of New Britain, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Squier and Howard Squier.

Mrs. Roland Smith spent Christmas with relatives in Marlboro.

Madison Woodward and Jasper Woodward spent Christmas in Windham.

Harvey Collins has purchased a house lot on the state road from Postmaster H. W. Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight A. Lyman have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lyman of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Dwight A. Lyman of this place among those who attended the dedication of the Masonic Temple in Willimantic.

Miss Harriet Fuller has been called to Lebanon to take care of a sick relative.

The young people held a sliding party on the parsonage lawn Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Bessie Trythall, Miss Shirley Trythall and Miss Marie Field spent New Years in Willimantic with Mrs. Lucina Hennesquin.

The monthly school meeting of the school board was held Thursday evening at the Center school house, all members being present.

The annual church meeting and supper was held at the Town hall Friday evening, about 60 being present. This is not as large a number as usual, owing to bad traveling and prevalent sickness.

The Ladies Aid society served a supper at 7 o'clock consisting of fresh ham, apple sauce, scalloped potatoes, salads, cake and coffee. Following the supper, the business meeting was held, the pastor, Rev. Duane Wain presiding. The reports of the various societies were read and accepted.

The report of the church treasurer, Edward P. Lyman, showed the church to be in a prosperous condition, having a balance of $269.08 in the treasury, all bills being paid to date. During the year several improvements were made in the church property, among these being the laying of a new hard wood floor in the church at a cost of over $1,000, electric lights installed in the parsonage, and the gift shortly before her death of Mrs. Mary Yeomans of the electric wiring and fixtures in the church. Later, the church received as a gift from Howard Yeomans of Hartford, in memory of his mother, her late residence on the Green for use as a parsonage.

The pastor and his family are at present living in the new parsonage, and the old parsonage will be sold. The cost of the new floor was largely met by a gift of $500 from the Ladies Aid, the balance being raised by popular subscription. The Ladies Aid also purchased new runners for the aisles.

It was voted at the meeting to increase the pastor's salary $200 for the next year. William Wolff was elected as a new member on the church committee to serve three years, and C. E. Hunt was re-elected as a member of the church trustees for three years.

Edward P. Lyman was again chosen as treasurer and L. E. Winter as secretary.

The annual election of officers of the Columbia Sunday school was held at the regular session Sunday. Clayton E. Hunt was re-elected superintendent, William Wolff, assistant superintendent, Howard Squier, secretary and treasurer, and Lawrence Hutchins, assistant secretary and treasurer.

The officers for 1927 of the Christian Endeavor society are as follows: President—Elizabeth Bertsche. Vice-president—Margaret Hutchins.

Treasurer—Frederick Hunt. Secretary—Gladys Rice. Charles Coyle, Charles Friedrich, Robert Cobb and Rowland Cobb of the West street section have their ice houses all filled with 10 inch ice cut on a pond belonging to Robert Cobb.

At the morning service of the Columbia church Rev. Mr. Wain preached a New Year's sermon from the subject "The Golden Gate of Opportunity," taking as his text the revised version of Hab. 1-9. "The set of their faces is forward." Following the service the communion service was held. The Christian Endeavor meeting was held at 6 o'clock instead of 7:30 as usual. Mrs. Florence Badge being the leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Squier of Hartford were in Columbia Sunday at the home Mr. and Mrs. Frank Squier.

AL SMITH'S PROMISE

When Al Smith, fourth-time governor of New York, declared in the course of his inaugural speech on New Year's day that, though he would try to earn the 1928 presidential nomination of the Democratic party through "devoted service to the people in his present office," he would do nothing else to achieve it, he probably spoke the truth.

Governor Smith is in a very unusual position with relation to that nomination. If he can get it at all he can get it without lifting a finger—and there is not one thing that he could possibly do to improve his present chance of becoming his party's nominee.

It might almost be said that there is nothing he could possibly do which would injure that chance. Because the Smith candidacy became an utterly impersonal thing, two and a half years ago—it passed from the condition of a man's personal ambition, backed by the enthusiasm of political friends, to the condition of an obsession on the part of a cult.

Every Democrat in the country who, through any conceivable or inconceivable influence of the New York governor, could be brought to favor the Smith candidacy, is all ready for it—demanding it, threatening for it, howling for it, seeing red for it. And those Democrats who are against it are so bitterly against it that no argument or cajolery or pressure within Smith's power would stand the millionth part of a chance of swaying them toward him.

The Smith faction in the Democratic party will go to every length to nominate their man without his lifting a finger. And they would do it precisely the same if they hated him instead of liking him, if he were a fool and a knave instead of an upright and able governor.

Because this thing is no longer politics. It is a jihad. STEADFAST. The accusation brought by "Swede" Risberg, that the entire personnel of the Chicago White Sox team chipped in to buy four baseball games from Detroit in 1917, thereby winning the American league pennant, is interesting but lacking in kick.

The baseball public has registered its attitude toward crooked baseball by its wholesale and whole-hearted defense of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker and its equally wholesale and whole-hearted ex-oration of Judge Landis—having, of course, no more knowledge of the private character of any of these persons than of that of the man in the moon.

"Anyhow, it's ancient history and who cares what anybody did in 1917?" That is the position taken by the average fan. Wherefore, what does the average fan care whether "Swede" Risberg is telling the truth or lies?

There is an old mining camp story of a prospector who, having just hit town with a sack of nuggets, was headed for a sand-bag faro game. He met a friend, to whom he made known his destination.

"Don't go," said the friend. "That game's as crooked as a dog's leg. They'll skin you skinnier in twenty minutes." "I know it," replied the prospector, "but it's the only faro bank in town."

Big league baseball is, the only big league baseball there is, and the fan will fan for it, and eat, drink and sleep it, and bet his money on it, till the cows come home, even though it be proved to him forty times over that it is a fairy fraud and himself a prince of suckers. What price honesty in sport?

led to the impression that the people of this country were not united, puts the newspapers of the country and particularly those which support the President's political party, in an uncomfortable position. Uncomfortable but not necessarily uncertain.

Mr. Coolidge asked very much more of the press than he had any right to expect would be complied with. He asked more than any President in our recollection has ever asked in time of peace. And what he asked will certainly not be granted.

We doubt if one American in ten is with Secretary of State Kellogg in his "policy" toward Nicaragua and Mexico. And if there is any reason why the newspapers that represent the opinion of the vast majority of the people in this matter should tacitly acquiesce in a performance which they believe is likely to lead to heavy loss of trade in Central and South America, and eventually to war with Mexico, this one at least cannot see it, and refuses to adopt any such policy.

Frankly we are amazed that President Coolidge, in the course of his long political life, has acquired such poor impression of the newspapers of his country that he imagines they can be commanded to drop their convictions and to mislead the people by a mere presidential gesture.

If Mr. Coolidge wants to back Mr. Kellogg in this Nicaragua mess he is at perfect liberty to do so. But he need not expect that, because he decides to do so, every member of Senate and House and every newspaper that has been criticizing Kellogg is going to shut up or change its tune.

WATERWAYS.

What the people of the United States as a whole do not know about the necessity for a shipway from the Great Lakes to the sea and about the virtues and demerits of the various plans proposed would fill a library.

In a vague sort of way a great many people understand that to open the Lake ports to direct ocean traffic would be an enormous economic advantage, relieving much of the strain on the American rail, way freight system, cutting the cost of export goods sharply and opening up a hundred new possibilities in the matter of competition with other nations for world trade. And that is as far as the common understanding of the matter goes.

So that when Mr. Hoover, as chairman of the United States commission on the subject, reports to President Coolidge that the St. Lawrence river project is by far the most feasible of the three under consideration; that its initial cost would be greatly below that of either the Ontario-Hudson or All-American route and that the traffic costs would also be merely fractional in the St. Lawrence scheme, we are in duty bound to accept the report at its face value.

There is, however, a certain uneasiness in the ordinary citizen's mind about deciding on a Lakes-to-sea waterway that must be closed by ice for many weeks of every year. How many months would the St. Lawrence be open? How many months could it be kept open by any effort? It would seem to the man in the street as though this might have something to do with the merits of the case.

CHILD "PHILOSOPHERS." A sixteen year old boy, Rigby Wile, son of a psychiatrist, killed himself at New York because "after two years of mental turmoil and a comparison of my own ideas with those of various schools of philosophy I find life futile and suicide the only escape for it."

It has always seemed to us that educators who encourage or permit mere children to engage their thoughts in the tangle of abstruse philosophical and metaphysical theories that are written, as a rule, by half mad and utterly abnormal men, assume a tremendous responsibility.

It is only a few months ago that another New York boy, caught in the maelstrom of what he foolishly mistook for scientific analysis of life, killed his mentor and then went maniacally insane.

The human mind, particularly in youth, is akin to a piece of copper wire, capable of standing immense strain applied in a straight line, but twist it back and forth, back and forth, subject it to direction in many angles, and it will promptly snap.

If parents who found their sons and daughters delving into such unwholesome stuff would put their books in the fire, send the kids to sea or a job in a packing house, or a box factory, there would be fewer of these ghastly tragedies. The number of child suicides that the German philosophies have produced in that country ought to be a warning to the rest of the world.

HINDENBURG. President Von Hindenburg of Germany is a strong old man. But he was never brilliant, as a soldier, being, instead, tremendously forceful and extraordinarily tenacious. He is not brilliant as a statesman.

We can readily admit his sincerity when he assures the nations that the German people will assist with all their might in bringing about reconciliation of the peoples of the world. But the trouble is that for every Hindenburg in Germany there is a Ludendorff. The kind of a president of Germany who will do most for the peace of the world is one who, besides earnestly exploring strife, and war, will know how to do something to end the militarization of Germany behind camouflage.

GETS EGYPT'S O. K. Mr. Kellogg need no longer become fidgety with confusion when the name Saklatvala is mentioned. It will be remembered that Mr. Kellogg's State Department once denied the Parses member of the British parliament admission to the United States as a visitor, at which display of panic the world grinned rather broadly. Mr. Kellogg has been vindicated, if the imitative support of one other country constitutes vindication; Egypt likewise has barred out Mr. Saklatvala.

NEWS. "Why Chapman Was Hanged" seems to be, in some newspaper opinion, a live subject. We had been under the impression for some time that the reason Chapman was hanged was just about as involved a proposition as the reason why two and two make four.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York wears a pink carnation in the lapel of his coat every day in the year. Copeland's pink is traditional and all sorts of theories have been advanced to explain how it became a fixture.

One woman who didn't know Copeland was a physician, told him she thought it was ever so romantic that, after winning his first law case with such a flower in his button hole, he had worn one ever since as a matter of superstition.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who is just back in the Senate following his recovery from serious illness, found a large pile of mail awaiting him. His secretaries have been doing everything possible to reduce this pile, but many of the letters which have come since the present session began will require his personal attention.

The fame of the father of "Young Bob", whose term the son was elected to finish, is responsible for many of the letters, which sometimes come at the rate of 200 or 300 a day. The correspondents realize that the elder LaFollette has passed on, but most of them seem to feel that they are writing to the same man insofar as his principles and interests are concerned.

If Senator-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois is barred from the Senate, one of the saddest will be former Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago. "Big Bill" and his big hat were here recently in connection with the Illinois river project. It was he who nominated Smith and he admits it. Didn't Smith pull a boner in taking that $125,000 from Sam Insull? "Well, the people elected him, didn't they?" answers "Big Bill."

The nation may be relieved to hear that walking is the favorite and regular recreation of Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Dawes may cuss now and then—if you call "Hell n' Maria!" cussing—but walking seems to be his worst disposition.

First thing every morning, Dawes goes out doors and walks around his house on Belmont street. Then he walks around it again, and again—for about 15 minutes. Not just to look at the house, you understand, but for the sake of exercise. Subsequently he starts walking toward the Capitol, where he presides over the Senate. Down Sixteenth street he walks and sometimes well onto Massachusetts avenue. Generally, after 10 or 15 minutes of brisk walking—alone—an automobile comes along and gives the vice president a lift for the rest of the way. As a matter of fact, the automobile is the vice president's own, and the chauffeur has instructions to start after him about ten minutes after he leaves the house.

NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 3.—Until a few days ago her picture was still in the lobby of a Broadway theater. The wife of a photo, in fact—one profile and one full face. The passing crowds, perhaps, did not so much as notice them, and those who nudged elbows in the lobby space as they stood in line at the ticket window gave them, no doubt, only the most casual glance.

And therein lies the irony and the tragedy of this particular story. To achieve that moment when her photographs would appear in the lobby had been more than a mere ambition. It had become the symbol of all that life was worth living for. They got that way on Broadway, sometimes—those futilely struggling youngsters, whose egos and pride hide their particular shortcomings.

After all, she had not wanted a great deal, as things go on Broadway. She did not demand stardom. She asked recognition chiefly. A small part with fair opportunities would have pleased her. Just enough to get your picture in the lobby. The crowds may pass by but, after all, it's something to see one's picture there. Maybe you can't get the point of view. Anyway, that's it.

Well this girl struggling along over a period of years, never quite seeming to hit the mark. Yes she got bits, but no parts. And, somehow, she didn't hold anything very long. Well—it was a couple of weeks ago that her pictures finally appeared in a lobby. "Pretty nice, you say, after all that struggle!" Yes, sir, she got a part at last and went to a high-class photographer who charges from $10 up per print.

And then the play went on—but she was dismissed the day after the opening. The picture was still there a couple of days ago when I passed. And that's what's so darn creepy about it. For perhaps you remember reading an item in the newspapers' feeling about the suicide of one Dorothy Smoller in a New York hotel.

There's another picture that's more familiar, and has a more comic story. It shows a girl, formerly of the Ziegfeld squad, dressed in—well, you know what a lot of the Ziegfeld girl pictures are dressed in. About a year ago she married a young man from a very proper family and now her husband is haunted by seeing almost naked pictures of his wife wherever he turns. In sailors' cabins and in funny penny arcades; in those trashy alleys, "art" magazines and in scaplers' windows on Broadway.

I'm told he has spent a considerable fraction of the family fortune buying them up whenever he sees them and hoping in time to put them out of existence. GILBERT SWAN.

But Lamar refuses to wear an overcoat, winter or no winter. And so, every time it snows hard or rains hard, Papa Deets has to hop into his automobile and drive down to Lamar's school to pick up Lamar and take him home—lecturing about the benefit of overcoats the while. Let Lamar pick up a case of pneumonia or something.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE. By ARTHUR N. PACK. President, American Nature Ass'n. Least, hoppers of tree-hoppers are a weird tribe, grotesque in shape and gait, and about the funniest thing to be found among the insect hordes. Stranger yet is the downy blanket in which they roll themselves while they are growing from baby bugs to big bugs—a sort of coverlet of down, made by them in much the same way the spider spins its web. Dan Beard of the Boy Scouts, says they are the sort of bug which could appropriately inhabit a bug-house because they certainly are a crazy-looking lot. In England these insects are called frog-hoppers. Birds and wasps and other live things also have discovered the baby bugs blanket. Occasionally they add the leaf-hoppers to their daily rations. If the object of the blanket is protection, Nature has made a bad job of it, because these soft, sussy, air-bubble wraps are easily penetrated. Send a stamped, addressed envelope and questions about Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington, D. C., through arrangements by this paper. DAILY ALMANAC. CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED. Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour. "California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels. Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without sipping. When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! It coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, congested waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach ache, diarrhea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "laxative cleanser" should always be the first treatment given. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. WAPPING

There were seven members of Wapping Grange who attended the meeting of East Central Pomona Grange, No. 3, which met with Manchester Grange last Thursday evening. There were about one hundred present from the different Granges. All the officers were present except three. There was a class of twenty-three who were initiated in the fifth degree. There was a short program consisting of three songs and a sketch entitled "Toonerville Trolley Station," by members of Hillstown Grange. Refreshments were served afterward by members of Manchester Grange. At the Federated church next Sunday morning the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed, and in the evening the Christian Endeavor Society will hold their weekly prayer meeting, followed by a second service at which Rev. Truman H. Woodward will lecture on "The New Day in Mexico," illustrated by the lantern slides. This will be the first of a course of lectures, the second will be about South America, the third "Panama," the fourth the "Congo River," and the fifth about "Cuba."

HEBRON

A meeting of the Tolland County Farm Bureau was held on Thursday at Mrs. Gertrude Hough's where a dinner was held. County Agent E. B. Tucker was present and led the discussion on the raising of alfalfa. It is the wish of the farm bureau to arouse interest in the raising of this crop among the farmers of Hebron and Columbia. The Young Woman's Club held its past meeting at the home of Mrs. Claude Jones on Thursday, from 2 to 4 p. m. The topic for discussion was that of Christmas. A feature was an exchange grab bag. The next meeting will be in Gilead at the home of Mrs. Glover Rockwell at which time a new name for the club will be under consideration. The birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Hilding, on Dec. 27, at the Hartford hospital, has been announced. Henry Goldman has sent word to the town authorities to eject from his Hebron place two vagrants who are reported to have broken in and taken possession, making themselves at home. Mr. Goldman lives in New York through the winter. Mrs. Nellie Jones Skinner who teaches at the Jones street school is spending her vacation at her home in North Westchester. Up to the time of the last bad storm just before the closing of the schools her pupils had been perfect in attendance for the month of December. Norman Rathbone who was laid up all the fall by a severe attack of spinal meningitis is reported to be improving slowly from week to week. He is now able to walk short distances without the aid of crutches. The hour for services at the Congregational church in the Center has been changed from 12:30 P. M. to 10:30 a. m. The experiment of holding services with a fifteen minute intermission between. Miss Florence Smith is spending her mid-winter vacation from her school duties at West Hartford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Smith. Miss Smith went to Hartford on Wednesday to confer with other educators with regard to the program for the next convention of the State Teachers' Association. Miss Smith is president of the association. Frank Waldo, an aged resident of the town, fell and sprained his knee during the icy period. He is unable to walk and is confined to his chair. He is under a physician's care. Mr. Waldo is suffering from a bad cold. Word has been received from the Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Champe that they were expecting to start from the home of Mr. Champe's parents, in Indiana, for Nogales, Arizona, on Wednesday of this week. Their son John has had the plaster cast removed from his shoulders and head. The little boy wore the cast for a month following an operation for a very neck. A complete correction of the trouble is looked for in his case. The Champe family will remain in Nogales for some days before the return journey to Mexico.

COVENTRY

Henry Schell and Stanley Trigg who have been spending the past week at the former's home have returned to West Lyme, Mass. Miss Laura E. Kingsbury has resumed her studies at the Connecticut Agricultural College following her vacation spent at her home. Miss Ruth Taylor of Hartford spent the week end with her mother Mrs. A. B. Porter. Wilfred Hill of Hartford spent the week end at home. Miss Lina Emma Wheeler a former teacher at Cedar Swamp school was married at her home in Scotland, Dec. 25 to Nathan Gilbert Armitage of Ashford. Royce Harrington was a guest at his uncle's, Tracy Harrington recently. The Ladies Fragment Society will meet for work Wednesday at the home of Mrs. S. Noble Loomis. Thursday evening, Coventry Grange No. 75 P. of H. will meet at the regular hour. The Misses Lillie and Marlon Hill and brother Lawrence have returned to Rockville after their Christmas vacation spent at home. Miss Alice Maylott, has returned having spent the holidays at home with her parents. The Watch Night service was well attended Friday evening and everyone pronounced the meeting as very successful. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Highter of Hartford spent the week end with Mrs. Highter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Neilson. Miss Beesie Williams of New Britain is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Walter S. Haven. Mr. Ernest L. Richards has gone to Farmingdale, L. I. to take a short course in poultry. He expects to return to Autumn View Farm in March. Schools in town open Tuesday. Autumn View Farm and Burap Brook Farm of Andover have recently purchased a bull from R. J. Black of Watertown, Conn. This animal is a son of Fauvic Star who held the world's championship record for milk production for Jerseys for several years.

TEND TOWARD SAFETY IN THIS YEAR'S AUTOS

Smaller autos and perfected safety devices have characterized the automotive development of 1926, experts say in analyzing what the last year has brought to America's greatest industry. Of these two different lines of progress, one, the trend to smaller cars, was well established a year ago and has developed further during the past twelve months. Shorter wheel-base and greater flexibility and engine economy are now recognized and desired characteristics. The other trend is towards safety. The trend toward safety has included perfection of brakes, better bumpers, running boards that are in reality side bumpers, and safety glass. The last named innovation is, according to insurance men, the most significant. Investigation by a Massachusetts insurance association during the year has shown that 65 per cent of all injuries are caused by flying glass and has called attention to the need for abolishing this condition. Manufacture in America of a long tried European type of triplex safety glass has brought about the use of this material in many passenger cars, and automobile accident insurance men predict that the day is in sight when every car will carry it as standard equipment.

MASS. AUTO MARKERS LIKE THIS STATE'S

At least two other states have approximately the same color scheme on their 1927 motor vehicle registration plates as the maroon and white combination used by Connecticut. One of them is California, on the other side of the continent, which fact and a pronounced difference in the cut of the plate and the numerals is likely to obviate any confusion with Connecticut cars. The other, however, is the neighboring state of Massachusetts. In size, the Massachusetts plates differ little from the Connecticut plates. The Massachusetts maroon is of a deeper hue and the numerals of a more condensed type than those on Connecticut plates. Another distinguishing feature on the Massachusetts markers is the placing of the name of the state and the year in the extreme lower corner while the Connecticut plates have them centered below the numerals. It is thought that when the public has had time to become familiar with the markers of these two states, either will be readily distinguished from the other. Under the system of interstate co-operation that has been developed in motor vehicle administrative work in the past few years, the chances of duplication of color schemes are being reduced. The officials of many of the states confer with each other before making their selection of colors. The Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators, of which Commissioner Stoekel of Connecticut is president, has for its underlying object the elimination of confusion in interstate motor vehicle laws and regulation. At the moment it is addressing itself to one of the most difficult problems, that of relieving the headlight glare menace and its deliberations are aimed at bringing about uniform headlight requirements in all the states, so that a man from Connecticut driving his car to Virginia may feel assured before leaving home that his headlights will be legal in all the states through which his route passes. The color scheme used by Connecticut for its number plates during the past year are to be found this year on New York, Michigan and Georgia cars. In an exchange of number plates with other states, Connecticut has received copies of the plates of most states, but several remain to be heard from and among these there may be more 1927 plates with color schemes similar to that of Connecticut.

DICK BARTHELMESS POPULAR LOCALLY

Star of "White Black Sheep" Goes Over Big at State Theater. If the size of theater crowds can be the judge of the popularity of an actor, Richard Barthelmess is one of silver screen favorites in Manchester. A huge crowd jammed the State last night to see Dick in his latest starring production, "White Black Sheep," and the result was that Dick is more popular than ever before. He is cast in an excellent story, and his interpretation of the leading role got the big audience just right. "The White Black Sheep" submits a different Barthelmess, unquestionably a surprising one, supported by a lavish production, Sidney Olcott's usual excellent direction, and a cast of rare perfection. It tells the story of Robert Kincaira, who shoulders the blame for a theft by his fiancée, and is ordered from his ancestral home by his military father. He goes to Northern Palestine, under the British protectorate, and joins the British service. There he falls in love with Zelle, a fascinating Greek dancing girl, who rescues him from an Arab mob and nurses him back to health on the edge of the desert. His adventures in this colorful land, the intrigues of the Arab chieftains, and thrilling escapades, give the story an absorbing interest. Patsy Ruth Miller is splendid as the desert dancer. One of the highlights of the picture is Dick's characterization of a deaf and dumb beggar of Keft Saba. For this sequence Dick has raised a full-grown beggar and offers a remarkable bit of acting. The beard, however, comes off towards the end of the picture, it being but a disguise to serve his purpose. "White Black Sheep" will be shown at the State twice this evening, to-morrow afternoon and evening. Don't forget that Wednesday night will be "Country Store and Surprise Nite." It will be well worth going to this week, be assured that now. The program being arranged will call for more presents than ever before, a good surprise and a fine double feature picture production.

ROMANCE AND THRILLS ON RIALTO BILLS

"April Fool" and "Race Wild" Two Great Features at Local Playhouse. "April Fool" and "Race Wild" are the two features which close their engagement at the Rialto this evening. The first is a sparkling comedy gem on the same type as "Parash and Perimutter" which have become almost American institutions within the past decade. Alexander Carr who has established quite a reputation in this kind of entertainment, appears in the lead. "Race Wild" is a gripping story of the sport of kings, horse racing. Reed Howes is starred and gives a finished portrayal replete with thrills. Selected short subjects will also be shown. micro consists of "The Power of the Weak," a story of thrills and romance staged in the great outdoors of the dramatic west and starring Alice Calhoun, and "South of the Equator," which stars Kenneth MacDonald. Both features rank high in entertaining elements and should prove to be highly pleasing. The new organ installed in this playhouse is nearly ready for use and Manchester music lovers have something to look forward to upon its completion. Plant life cannot exist more than 600 feet below the sea, but animal life has been found at a depth of four miles.

BOTTLES HELP OYSTERS Washington, Dec. 29.—Five hundred bottles were recently floated off Connecticut shores. More than 200 of these have been recovered and their courses plotted. The courses of the currents, as shown by the bottles, indicates where oyster spawning beds should be established, according to Bureau of Fisheries executives.

Of all animals, the tiger is the most susceptible to sea-sickness.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Tecumseh (1)

Tecumseh, outstanding among the Indians, who have played important parts in early American history, was born in 1768 in the Indian village of Piqua, near the present city of Springfield, O. At that time pioneer white men were pushing into Kentucky, a favorite hunting ground of the Shawnees, to which tribe Tecumseh belonged.

In 1780 Piqua was burned to the ground by a raiding party of nearly 1000 white men from Kentucky who defeated the Shawnees.

Tecumseh was eager to avenge the disaster. When he was 17 he was one of a band which captured a party of white men in Kentucky.

The Indians killed all but one of the men they captured. The one unfortunate they spared the horror of the massacre only to burn him at the stake. Tecumseh was sickened by the scene, and while an implacable enemy of the white invader, he swore never to be unnecessarily cruel in warfare. He kept that oath. (Continued.)

"UP IN MABEL'S ROOM" IS AL CHRISTIE FARCE

Production By Maker of "Charlie's Aunt" at Circle Tomorrow and Tuesday. "Man of the Forest" Tonight.

It is generally admitted that the name of Al Christie on a feature picture is as indicative of a big laughter special as the same name on two reel comedies years ago was indicative of a short but hilarious portion of a theatre's program. "Up in Mabel's Room" is the latest fun special from the studio of Mr. Christie. It will be shown at the Circle theatre tomorrow and Wednesday and presents Marie Prevost in the stellar role of Mabel. She is supported by Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver in featured roles and a large cast including Sylvia Breamer, Harry Myers, Paul Nicholson, Carl Gerard, Maud Traux, William Orlamond and Arthur Hoyt.

This farce about a chemist, the gift of a husband to his wife just before the two are divorced, follows a long line of comedy ancestors. "Charlie's Aunt," a byword in every household for laughter, was one of the Christie hits. "Reckless Romeo," "Hold Your Breath," "Seven Days" and "Madam Behave" are some of the others.

As in the case of "Charlie's Aunt," "Seven Days" and "Madam Behave," the basis for "Up in Mabel's Room" is a successful stage play by Marie Prevost, one of the most piquant and popular of the younger stars was obtained for the leading role of Mabel. In addition a brilliant cast of supporting players was chosen for the parts of the husband, wives, spinsters, bachelors and butlers of the plot and in the fun which follows.

For the last times tonight Zane Grey's "The Man of the Forest" is showing at the Circle. Zane Grey Westerns always are so much finer than the ordinary Western that they stand out prominently. And when the prices of all Western actors, Jack Holt, is featured it takes quite a picture to beat it. "Man of the Forest" has made a big hit with the Circle patrons. It certainly is deserving of all the praise accorded it.

Lakes that breathe, canyons with triple echoes, twelve-pined deer with charmed lives and herds of wild horses—these are some of the fascinating features of the California Sierras country photographed by Director John Waters' motion picture company in making Paramount's "Man of the Forest," from Zane Grey's novel. This is the sort of wild country that forms a background for Zane Grey's thriller. Jack Holt is co-featured with Georgia Hale and El Brendel.

THE NUT CRACKER

The new purity slogan in baseball is "Keep the boys under the grandstand."

Mr. Landis went back seven years to spade up some dirt about Cobb and Speaker. Evidently it's never too late to squawk.

Among those who are not conspicuously in the running for the Nobel Popularity Prize of all time is a gentleman—pardon us, a bird—by the name of "Dutch" Leonard.

The first baseball game was played in America in the early '60s. Wonder if it would be asking too much of Mr. Landis to go back to that game and see if the boys did any loose chinning under the grandstand.

There are always two sides to every baseball problem—the right side and the magnates'.

Carmel Thompson doesn't want to give the Philippine their independence, but when Pancho Villa was alive the rival flyweights readily gave him his.

One reason why it's hard to believe there is anything to the new baseball scandal is that Abe Attell's name hasn't been mentioned.

Nor Arnold Rothstein's. How can you have a really worthwhile, high-class baseball scandal without those boys?

Mr. "Dutch" Leonard writes that he used to cry every time he lost a ball game. Crying at all times seems to be the best thing he does.

Well the postmen ought to be for Leonard anyway. He didn't make them deliver those two letters to the American League.

It seems that the fight experts scored their first win of the year when they unwittingly dubbed Harry Persson "The Terrible Swede."

Xmas greetings from Rogers Hornsby to Sam Bread n: Wholly deleted by censor wearing asbestos gloves and gas mask.

Chicago prizefighting has been extended from 10 rounds to 15. This may or may not be another effort to revive Marathon dancing.

Bucky Harris, the Washington manager, is now registered in the Capital Blue Book. Our friend Mr. O'Goofy, wants to know if A. G. Spalding gets that one out too.

LITTLE JOE

IT'S NEVER AS HARD GETTING INTO TROUBLE AS IT IS GETTING OUT.

Add similes: He was as overworked as a candle lighter on Methuselah's birthday cake.

The race track owners of America have called a meeting to improve the betting systems. As we understand it, the plan is to make two suckers grow where only one grew before.

Probably one reason why nothing is ever done to improve the mentality of the race horse better is that an impossibility is always readily recognized.

That little Texas girl who held up a bank single handed ought to be sent to a finishing school somewhere in Chicago.

The papers say she was working for some sort of a degree and we suppose it was this: The mistress of the automatic.

It seems that it was all a horrible mistake. The major league magnats didn't want a divorce from Judge Landis. In fact, they didn't even want an annulment after the popular modern fashion.

About the only difference we can see between a divorce and an annulment is that an annulment is worth more as a news story.

We see by the papers that a burglar stole 1629 diamond rings from a New York ten-cent store. This is something like stealing ball players from the Red Sox.

We are gradually getting back to the good old days of fighting Irishmen. Maxey Rosenbloom is the newest threat in the middle-weight division.

The meeting at which Harvard and Princeton were to bury the hatchet has been called off. The boys couldn't reach an understanding as to whose head the hatchet would be buried in.

Six big league managers have gotten the gate already this year. Which is more gates than we imagined were still left in the country.

COLLINS MAY GO TO "CHI" TO FACE "SWEDE" RISBERG

Latest Victim of Baseball Scandal Says Charges Are "Atrocious Lies."

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 3.—Eddie Collins, third of baseball's trinity to be involved in tales of scandal that traces back to the game's dark ages before 1919 and only one of many named by Swede Risberg as a participant in an alleged "fixing" of the 1917 American League pennant race, will go to Chicago to confront Risberg if Judge Landis wants him to, he said today, but he really considers Risberg's story "too silly" to be required to be answered in person.

To Repeat Charges Risberg is scheduled to come back before Judge Landis on Wednesday to repeat his charges in the presence of the accused, who in addition to Collins include Ray Schalk and Donnie Bush, newly appointed managers of Chicago and Pittsburgh respectively; George Daus, veteran Detroit pitcher, and Clarence Rowland, manager of the White Sox in 1927 but now an American League umpire.

Collins' disinclination to appear was not based on fear of the outcome, he said. Collins claimed that Risberg willfully had confounded a gift made to Detroit pitchers for beating the Red Sox with his tale of scandal.

Atrocious Lie "An atrocious lie," was the way Collins viewed the Risberg story. He added that the transaction was the way Collins viewed the Risberg story.

He added that the transaction was quite orthodox in every respect or, at least, was so regarded before 1920.

"It was not an infrequent custom in those days to present some sort of a gift to the pitcher or team which helped materially in gaining a pennant for the club you represented," Collins explained. "The gift in question was a fund raised at the end of the season as a gift to the Detroit pitchers who had trounced Boston in a series by taking three out of four games.

"As far as I know, Rowland was not the instigator of the idea of the gift. Chick Gandil asked me for a contribution to be used as outlined. That is all.

"This action was taken more than a month after the series which Risberg alleges had to be 'fixed' in advance. As I remember that series, it was a hard-fought affair and at no time, either before or after was there any suggestion or intimation that it had been thrown."

WORLD SERIES BOOT FAILS TO DISCOURAGE MEUSEL OF YANKEES

New York, Jan. 3.—A miff of a fly ball, due to his haste to make a throw, that cost the New York players at least $50,000, hasn't caused Bob Meusel to lose his faith in the value of throwing or his good right arm.

It will be recalled that Meusel invaded Earl Combs' territory after a fly in the final game of the world series knowing he had a much better throwing arm and feeling he would prevent the Cardinals from evening the count by having a runner from third score on the catch.

Meusel muffed the ball most ingloriously. His error paved the way for three runs for St. Louis, just enough to win the game and series.

"It takes more than one error to discourage me," says Meusel. "I will be out there next year, catching fly balls and heaving the ball to the bases trying to catch runners in my same old style.

"Throwing may be a lost art like baserunning, but not with me. I think it is a most neglected feature.

"Outfielders could develop their throwing arms for distance and accuracy if they would practice as they do at batting and fielding, but only a very few do.

"A good throwing outfield put fear into the heart of the opposition and is a great asset to the pitcher."

SIX FOWLS AWARDED AS PINOCHLE PRIZES

Two turkeys for first prize and four chickens for second and third at Army & Navy Tourney.

Two turkeys and four chickens were awarded to high scorers at last week's sitting of the second Army and Navy club tournament. The turkeys were won by F. McCaughy and Stevenson. Person, Donze, Quish and Gleason won the chickens.

The next sitting, the third will be held Friday evening at the club house. Following are the total scores of all the teams entered in the tournament:

F. McCaughy-Stevenson	1101
Person-Donze	1096
Quish-Gleason	1076
Mathison-Eyre	1073
Hope-Hartnett	1053
Lamprecht-F. McCormick	985
Hulgren-J. C. Caughy	983
Sonicksen-Yoko	982
Hayden-Chambers	873
McNally-Reidy	849
Chase-Scott	846
Shields-H. McCormick	801

Billy Evans Says

"He's yellow." That is a much-used expression in the world of sport. Never were three words more abused.

Being yellow, is supposed to designate lack of courage, a tendency to quit in the pinches or more failure to deliver, regardless of the reason.

Never was a word used more indiscriminately than the word "yellow" as applied to sport. I know of a score of cases where it was tacked on some athlete and stuck, despite the fact that said individual anything but deserved it.

The recent appointment of George Moriarty to manage Detroit, and Donie Bush to pilot Pittsburgh, recalls a very interesting yarn that has the word "yellow" back of the story.

Coveleskie's Case

In the fall of 1908, there sprung into prominence a southpaw by the name of Harry Coveleskie. Fame came his way literally overnight. In the short space of about a week he scored three victories over the New York Giants.

At the time the Giants were in a bitter struggle for the pennant and the success of Coveleskie just about killed the chances of McGraw's aggregation.

The Giants argued that Coveleskie was yellow, that he would quit under a tight pull, that he couldn't stand the "riding" that is a part of baseball.

The fact that Coveleskie passed to the minors early the next spring made it seem as if the Giants had the right edge. A few years in the "hustle" and he came back to the Cincinnati Reds for a second trial.

He tarried only a short time, for he simply couldn't get the opposition out. That seemed to settle the question as to Coveleskie's courage.

Unique Suggestion Some years later, the Detroit club, in need of pitchers, decided to give Coveleskie his third chance to make good in the majors.

In the Detroit infield at the time were George Moriarty at third and Donie Bush at short. These two players did all the "riding" for the Detroit club.

The pair always kept up an incessant chatter at the Tiger pitcher and often the comment was far from complimentary and decidedly sarcastic.

At one of the players' meetings, prior to the joining of the club by Coveleskie, his case was thoroughly discussed.

Moriarty held to the belief that Coveleskie was anything but yellow and could be made into a great pitcher if properly handled. He advanced the idea that a sensitive nature rather than a weak heart was the trouble.

The Detroit club agreed that Coveleskie could pitch and that the best way to get results from him was to constantly pat him on the back. The task of making Coveleskie believe in himself was put up to Moriarty and Bush.

Theory Succeeded I worked many ball games in which Coveleskie figured as the Tiger pitcher and never once during his connection with the club did I hear a single player make any adverse comment as to his ability.

I have, however, heard both Moriarty and Bush talk to themselves in a whisper expressing a contrary opinion to the words of praise they had just showered on the southpaw, but Coveleskie didn't get it.

Under such treatment Coveleskie thrived, became one of the best southpaws in the American League. No spot was too tough for him. Any time the Tigers were hard pressed, Coveleskie would invariably re-

SIMON PURE BOXERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—Amateur boxing history will be written to night with the pound of padded gloves when America meets Denmark and Sweden at the international boxing tournament under direction of the New England A. A. U.

Particular interest centers in the heavyweight class with four great pure giants in action. America's hopes are with Ernie Schaff, Third-class signman aboard the U. S. S. Florida. He generally wins by a knockout. Thyge Peterson, Danish policeman, regarded as the outstanding heavyweight of Europe, will oppose the United States sailorman. Frank Salkin, of the U. S. Coastguard Merry is pitted against Nils Hamm, of Sweden in the same division.

The other entries and the divisions follow:

Middleweight: Eberhardt Hansen, Denmark; Olaf Falk, Sweden; Frank Flynn, Charlestown; Billy Beasmer, Worcester.

Welterweight: Andreas Peterson, Denmark; Oscar Kjallander, Sweden; Bernard Barde, Dartmouth college; Tony Tevoloria, Boston.

Lightweight: Carl Jensen, Denmark; Gunnar Berggren, Sweden; George Russo, Boston; Sam Olsen, Charlestown.

Uncle Sam's Largest House of Worship

Excepting cathedrals, this $4,000,000 church, which is to be built in New York for Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, will be the largest edifice of its kind in the United States. Its spire, housing the famous Rockefeller carillon now in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, will tower 375 feet above the ground. In its pews 2400 worshippers may find seats. The site is on Riverside Drive, a stone's throw from Grant's Tomb. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. (inset), is one of the donors.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

To the home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1926, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night she bears twin girls and dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY and BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Finally he is identified at a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him, to find that his memory is gone, that he is like a living dead man.

Specialists despair of his recovery. They believe an operation might be fatal. His parents decide to take him home. The day before they are to leave, NURSE NELLIE DOWNING, who has fallen in love with Jim, is trying to make him understand this when his mother interrupts them.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XXX

NELLIE DOWNING was quite speechless.

"What is it, dear?" asked Jim Elwell's mother, trying to look as if she had heard and seen nothing, and falling lamentably. "Has my boy been naughty again, Nellie?"

Two red spots burned for a brief moment in the cheeks of Nellie Downing. But in the steady gray eyes that looked straight into hers, Mollie Elwell saw no flicker of embarrassment, no hint of self-consciousness.

"No, Mollie," came the answer in low, even tones. After all, Nellie Downing was thinking, she had done nothing of which she was ashamed or had reason to be ashamed. If she cared for Jim Elwell, she had committed no treason in betraying it.

"No," she went on, "Jim has been remarkably good. I am the culprit this time. I have just been telling him how he was kissed by proxy in France by the girl he had known and loved in Indiana."

It was Mollie's cheeks now that showed the quick flush. But her eyes, too, were unwavering. She, too, had come from stock that could give and take and not ask for quarter.

"I'm afraid," she said with a wan little smile, "that the girl he knew and loved in Indiana is a girl that he will never know again."

As she spoke there flashed across the mental vision of Mollie Elwell a picture. It was that of two young girls in lavender frocks as she had seen them on a night in June more than two years before, and she seemed to hear one of them saying:

"Oh, sister, dear, won't you sing 'When Other Tongues and Other Hearts'! My heart is going to break tonight!"

She looked down into the vacant eyes of the wreck of the war had given back to her and as she looked there came drifting across to them on the salt breeze the sobbing tones of a violin with what sounded like a harp accompaniment. A moment later a contralto voice broke into a song

He could hear once more the strains of some unrecognizable melody.

that had touched the hearts of millions—"Oh Trenches Me."

It was too much for the mother of Jim Elwell. She dropped down on her knees in front of her boy with a little agonized cry and threw her arms around his neck.

"Oh, Jim," she cried sobbingly, "are you never going to know me again? Shall I never hear you call me Mollie as you used to do in the old, happy days? Oh, God, give me back my boy again!"

Nellie Downing turned her head to shut out the sight. Mollie Elwell was not the only one who was broken-hearted today. The professional mind of the nurse was trying to express itself over the emotions of the Nellie Downing who was in love with Jim Elwell. She listened to Mollie Elwell's broken voice and then watched the strange manifestations that the music had wrought in the war-torn soldier.

Tears had filled his eyes and little whimpering sounds broke in his throat, like the whimpering of an animal sometimes makes when a harmonic chord strikes on its ear.

His fingers were twitching against his mother's arms, and he was kissing her. . . .

The nurse knelt down and put an arm around Mollie Elwell's waist. "Dear up, Mollie," she said softly, "a world of tender sympathy in her voice. Remember what Prof said the other day: 'As long as life lasts Jim has a chance.'"

"We never can tell what time will bring forth. A year from now, or a month, perhaps, may find Jim his old self again. Take heart, Mollie dear; there's a rainbow in the sky, maybe, somewhere."

Mollie lifted her head. "I'm so ashamed," she said to Nellie Downing. "Please don't mind me. I'm just an old woman. I can't help it."

"Dear," said the nurse, "come in with me and let me bathe your eyes. Jim will be all right out here alone melody. His hands clenched and unclenched; the lines on his face deepened; the tears now began to stream down his face.

"It seems so strange," Mollie Elwell was saying to Nellie Downing as they emerged from the park and approached the nurses' building where Nellie roomed, "that Jim should be so affected by the sight of tears or the sound of music when he is unable to understand a word that is said to him. Dr. Lawson said, you remember, that it was something science could not explain."

"I wonder," she continued after a moment, "if there is any chance that the old familiar sights back home, seeing the girls once more or hearing Betty sing, may fan into life again the smoldering embers in his mind? The doctors seem to agree that his brain, although 'blanketed' as they call it is still alive and not at all like that of an insane person. And I once read of a man whose mind had been a blank for years and yet memory suddenly was restored to him through a fall on an icy sidewalk. Have you ever known of a case like that?"

"Not personally," said Nellie Downing, "although I've seen many soldiers with shell-shocked brains and others whose minds were numbed from gas poisoning. Some of these recovered completely in a few weeks and some died; no two cases ever are exactly alike. They all differ in some way."

"But Jim's case is different in many ways. In none of the others that I've seen was the victim unable to articulate—incapable, like Jim, of uttering a word. The others could talk in a kind of a way but the talk usually was just a drivel of disconnected words. Jim's vocal cords, though, as well as his brain, seem to be paralyzed."

Although she had never encountered any instances of recovery such as the one Mollie Elwell described, she had heard of them, she said. "But you know how such things can be exaggerated."

The big room which Nellie shared with three other nurses was on the north side of the building, with open windows looking out over the wooded hills separating Ocean View from the Atlantic. Through these openings was wafted a faint tangy odor from off the ocean, but the still air of the afternoon was heavy with humidity and the promise of a storm.

Nellie glanced at the little onyx clock on the mantel as they entered. Its hands pointed to the hour of four. Cold water and a little eau de cologne soon did their work and Mollie Elwell once more was fresh and cool, her headache and the traces of her recent breakdown gone. The rumbling of the distant roll of thunder came to their ears as they left the building.

"A storm is coming up," observed Nellie Downing. "I do hope that Prof and Mike get here before it breaks."

Mike Henegan was coming over to say good-bye to his old buddy and his parents and Prof had gone to Staten Island ferry to meet him. Mike's face always was a welcome one to the mother and father of Jim, his whimsical nonsense being good medicine for them all.

"I have some iced tea in the refrigerator with some cake and two quarts of ice cream," went on Nellie Downing as they entered the park. "Mike says his thirst for stronger things is being ruined by me and my ice cream."

They had reached the spot that looked down on the little square where they had left Jim sitting in the rustic seat. Nellie Downing stopped short. The chair was empty. Jim Elwell was nowhere to be seen.

In the next chapter a frantic search is begun for Jim Elwell.

CLOTHES THAT WILL BLOOM IN THE SPRING

Winter Playgrounds Have Pre-Showing of Coming Styles.

By HENRI BENDEL.

From a fashion point of view, Palm Beach clothes, the accepted generalization for all winter resort attire, are very important since they are harbingers of the spring fashions all over the country. Paris designers now have a Palm Beach display which is quite as important as their fall openings. Here all the best points of the winter styles, and all the new adaptations and trends for spring meet.

Styles Are Colorful. Color plays an important role in a wardrobe for the south. White is always the leader. Pastel shades and pure colors such as vivid green, red, orange and clear blue are always lovely against a background of green foliage and blue sea. Grayed colors are less effective, and dull hues have no place at all. Since out-of-door life is the rule, the sport idea prevails in all clothes, and even formal evening attire is less ornate and important looking than in a metropolitan environment. The simple one or two-piece frock of crepe de chine and the colorful jacket are almost a day uniform. And organdies and laces reach the zenith of their loveliness.

Pictured today are three creations for southern wear, which will be worn in New York and other fashion centers later.

Most practical is the sport frock with the coat of canary yellow, flat silk crepe trimmed with the standard collar of grosgrain ribbon sash, or plotch of color, unexpectedly appended.

An organdie frock of salmon pink worn with a large rose-colored picture hat.

Hats Are Wide. Of the two illustrated, both are very simple but knowing. The one with the sash is of salmon pink embroidered in a graceful wheat design, this being used on the sash as well as the frock. Hand embroidered scallops finish the skirt and the caps of the much abbreviated sleeve caps. A large picture hat of rose straw with a velvet bow of a deeper shade is an ideal choice in millinery.

White organdie is effectively embroidered in French blue in the other model, and drawn work is discreetly introduced in the front. The pointed skirt is scalloped in blue, and a white organdie flower at the waistline reveals an edge of blue. The large hat of periwinkle blue is untrammelled save for a satin banding and tailored bow on the crown.

Skirts continue to be short, but not painfully so. Hats are very wide as to brim and adroitly shaped as to crown.

DEEP DECOLLETAGE. There is a tendency in evening gowns to use a very deep décolleté in black and a rather high front line.

BRONZE BUCALES. Bronze buckles for shoes of every shade of tan are smarter this season than silver or leather.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

LILY BULBS

Lily bulbs will not prosper in the house unless the water in which they grow is changed twice a week, and they are kept in a cool place.

OLD RAGS

Flannelette pajamas, silk skirts, old table linen make the best of dustclothes for lightly polished furniture.

WARM PLATES

Plates warmed for dinner under the hot water faucet will not crack or become discolored, as sometimes happens in the warming oven.

FRUIT CUTS

A grape fruit, filled with its own juice pulp and slices of other fruit is the best fruit cocktail. The edge may be pinked with a fruit knife to make it more decorative.

STAINS ON HOSIERY

The stains shoes sometimes leave on the feet of light colored stockings may be removed by washing them in water to which a table spoon of borax has been added.

Good Nature and Good Health

MEDICINE'S PART IN WAR ON DISEASE AND PAIN

This is the second of a series of articles reviewing the progress of medicine since the beginning of the century.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

During the last 26 years use of anesthetics, that boon for mankind, has been vastly advanced. Serious operations can be performed now while the patient is fully conscious, by "blocking off" nerves so the sensation of pain cannot be carried to the brain.

Drugs and Disease. The scientific use of drugs which will act always in the same way and with the same efficiency has become the best method of controlling disease. Medicine has developed from the human body itself many active agents for the treatment of disease. Gland extracts from the thyroid, the pancreas and the adrenal have saved countless patients in the last few years.

Antitoxins are developing. A single discovery like that of the doctors who learned that scarlet fever is caused by a poison developed by a bacterial organism at once threw open the field for investigation, so that erysipelas,

BOWS AND FLOWERS

Loose, soft bows and flat flowers rival each other for first place in shoulder ornaments.

TORTOISE SHELL

Tortoise shell and wood are widely used in ornaments for the street hat or chiffon felt.

Home Page Editorials Civilized Minds, Savage Souls

By Olive Roberts Barton

"What is civilization for, mother," asks Bobby.

"So we can live comfortably and know things and be safe."

"And not fight?"

"Certainly. The more civilized people are the less they will fight. Savages are at war all the time."

Then you think of a time ten years ago when you would have said to Bobby, "Civilized people never fight!" For we believed war to be over! We believed that the world in its strides toward education and its miracles of invention was a new world in which no thought of carnage had a place.

Then we had to acknowledge that the greater education and the miracles of invention not only could be applied to the betterment of the world but to the wrecking of the world.

As far as war goes, education of mind has little place. Ask any detective or specialist in crime what lies behind murder.

"Motive is the A, B, C of all murder psychology," they will tell you and be amused at your ignorance. Motive and murder at synonomous in the world of court rooms and district attorneys.

Now, then, brethren and good sisters, the sermon is about to end. Or rather, you might say, it is about to begin, but it will be short. It is just this way. We send the

But has he mastered that part of him that may hold the seven devils of his own, and the world's destruction? Jealousy, hate, etc. You know the others. As far as character goes, he is as uncivilized as an African heather.

Schools cannot do that for him. Home is where true civilization begins. Civilization of mind hasn't gotten us anywhere, but civilization of heart may.

LABOC TO APPEAR ON BOXING CARD

"Mysterious" North End Chap Has Made Big Hit On Hartford Amateur Cards.

One of the main highlights on the second attractive amateur boxing tournament, arranged by Cheney Brothers Athletic Association for Wednesday evening, at Cheney Hall, will be the appearance of "Mysterious" Billy Laboc of this town. This is the youth who has occupied the spotlight in several Hartford tournaments of late but who, although a Manchester boy, is not generally known here.

Laboc lives at the north end on North School street it is said but as far as can be learned there are many in that end of the town who do not know him well. However, he is reported to have the earmarks of a fine fighter. Those from Manchester who have seen him fight in Hartford report that he looks mighty good. Laboc won the star bout of a recent card in the Capitol City by a knockout in one round. He has also won several decisions. His efforts here Wednesday night will be watched with considerable interest. He is entered in the 118 pound class.

Matched in the same class with the Manchester youth is Adolph Donfrío, of Hartford. Laboc won a decision over Donfrío in Hartford last Friday night at the Nutmeg A. C. bouts after being forced to go an extra round to break a draw.

Eligible Challenger. Promoter John L. Jenney has made arrangements to seat a much larger crowd at the tournament Wednesday night. At the first card, many were forced to stand up about the hall but this will not happen this time. Additional seats have been secured for the occasion.

Mr. Jenney also informs us that a new ring will be installed to replace the old one which was not up to the standard at the first tournament, the ropes being much too slack thus making the boxers prone to injury. The new ring is the one formerly used at the Kacey Hall.

"Wing" Murphy does the announcing for the Nutmeg A. C. of Hartford while "Bill" O'Loughlin has a similar task at other Hartford tournaments but neither has anything to brag about when compared with our own Ed McCartney. The local man has a loud and clear voice that carries to every nook and corner of the hall. And this means a lot when everyone is anxious to learn some particular in regard to the gladiators.

The Youseman brothers of Hartford, Pete and Barney, are booked to participate in the 136 pound class. It appears that one or the other of the brothers has been on practically every card in the state lately. Barney is the chap who twice licked Art Millard of this town.

Mickey Malaguaggi and Jimmy Bernardo staged a fast bout in Hartford last week when Bernardo getting the decision. They are entered in the 136 pound class.

Jimmy Farr, manager of the Rockville stable of amateurs, has requested another chance for the Horn brothers. Both were knocked out here in the previous tournament but Farr is confident both are capable of acquitting themselves in a much more commendable manner.

Manchester's old reliable, Pat McConaughy, is on the entry list while two more local battlers, Tommy Dowd and Tommy Pagan, are also on the card in the 125 pound class.

BROWNS THREW SERIES IN DETROIT IN 1923

from the Browns and won second place over Cleveland by a few points.

Navin denied today that the Tigers were given approximately $1,000 for "laying down" to the White Sox. The money was a pool given to the Tigers for defeating the Boston Red Sox in a crucial series, he said, and not a bribe, to have them throw games.

Navin indicated that he would not go to Chicago to appear before Judge Landis to reply to Risberg's charges. "I have not been asked to go there yet," he said.

It is understood the various Tiger players involved in Risberg's charges will head the call of baseball's czar and appear before him. All members of the club who could be reached said Risberg's charges are false and only the mouthings of a man angered because he was barred from baseball.

Harry Hellman, Bobbie Veach and Bernie Boland, all say they never heard of such a proposal.

The first instance of a championship at stake in 1927 did not link hands with 1926 as an upset Charley Gorman, of St. John, N. B., won the Middle Atlantic speed skating title for the second year in succession Saturday in New York scoring 110 of a possible 150 points.

What We Think In Sports

Regardless of any statements to the contrary, we cannot see Alabama's belated touchdown as a lucky break. Any player who can break through a stonewall defense like Stanford and travel the necessary distance to reach the kicker before he can get away his punt, deserves credit. And Wainlett's case was no exception. If anything, he deserved unusual credit. Wainlett pierced through the California line eluded the backfield defense and crashed into Wilson the punter, with such force that the impetus caused the ball to bound back to the 14 yard line. Then the Crimson punter, who was not to be outdone in five carefully selected plays, Johnson taking the ball on the final punge.

It is true the statistics were entirely in Stanford's favor but Coach Wade showed he had a great fighting eleven that never gave up its relentless attack from the start, even though Stanford showed over a touchdown via the aerial route shortly after the game had started. On two other occasions, Warner's men had a chance to push the pike over the line for a touchdown but lacked the necessary punch. In each case, they were inside the twenty yard line and had to resort to attempts for field goals, both of which proved futile. One was from a difficult angle.

Speaking about the modern game of football as played in the United States, one might be shocked to be informed that in some respects this country is far behind Europe. Down in the tropics, the players wear no shoes. They play the game barefoot. One might naturally be inclined this would seriously interfere with their ability, especially in the kicking art. However, reports to the contrary. One game was won by 50-yard field goal. Ouch! my toes.

While discussing barefoot football, wouldn't it have been a novelty if the Cubs and Cloverleafs had played that snowy day at Hickey's Grove barefooted?

The procession for the successor to Kid Kaplan in the featherweight ranks advanced another leg on its Marathon Saturday night when the name of Red Chapman, Boston battler, was erased from the list because he fouled Benny Bass of Philadelphia in the first round of his scheduled ten-round match in Madison Square Garden. Bass, in the referee's opinion, was struck a low blow by Chapman when he dropped to the floor after about one minute had elapsed. This leave, "Honey" Boy Finnegan, of Boston and Benny Bass as two of the most outstanding contenders for the vacant throne.

The Hartford Dixies, notwithstanding the fine game they put up against the Y. M. H. A. in Springfield Saturday night, do not look like the team they were of old. The absence of Tommy Murphy, Fat Hatner and Abe Silverman, three stars of the Dixie quintet when it was in its prime, leaves a gap that the former substitute players cannot fill as efficiently. The missing trio are pasting with the Meriden Endees, who, incidentally were knocked out of the running for the state championship Saturday night by the Bristol Endees 29 to 28.

Another old favorite with the baseball fans will be missing when the 1927 season gets under way. Zeak Wheat for 17 years regular left-fielder for the Brooklyn team of the National League has been handed his unconditional release.

JOHN MCGRAW LAUDS ALL-AROUND ABILITY OF SLUGGER RUTH

New York, Jan. 3.—"Babe Ruth is one of the greatest all-round ball players the game has ever produced," says Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants.

"If Ruth wasn't the greatest slugger of all times, he would be raving about his marvelous fielding ability, his accurate throwing arm and his remarkable speed for a big fellow.

"Ruth's feat of making three home runs in one game of the recent world series unquestionably was the feat of a super player, but to my way of thinking, two other things he did in the series made a greater impression.

"One of them was a sensational one-handed catch of a fly ball as he crashed into the temporary stands at St. Louis while the other was a perfect throw he made from deep left field to cut down one of the fleet Cardinals at the plate.

"If Ruth wasn't famous for his slugging, he would be hogging the spotlight because of some other feature of his play."

John McGraw knows his stuff and his sense of Ruth is correct. Fandom falls to appreciate his true worth because it knows him only as the slugger.

ANGELI-MANTELLI STAR AS ELMWOOD IS SWAMPED 46-22

Herb Angeli and Elmo Mantelli, two local basketball luminaries, were the shining lights in the Southington-Elmwood game at Southington Saturday night.

The Celtics won over the Endees 46 to 22 mainly because Angeli tossed in eight double-deckers and three from the fifteen-foot stripe. Mantelli accounted for thirteen of his team's 22 points with four field goals and five fouls.

The Southington boys virtually caught the invaders off their feet and jumped into a commanding lead which they increased as the game progressed. At halftime, Elmwood was far in the rear, the score being 28 to 7. Tommy Sipples and Sammy Thornton, two other Manchester boys were in the Endee lineup but failed to score. Chasing with seven twin-counters and Hartford with nine points, helped along the Celtics cause.

Bristling Battles of Bare Fist Days

MY LIFE STORY by Jack McAuliffe

I was making $2.50 a week then as a cooper. I told the folks at home I was making $2.50 and changed the pay envelope every Saturday night because it was a rule of the house that all our boys turn over our pay and take what cash was left after expenses were paid.

"Well, with what I'd saved which wasn't very much, I decided to have a fling on the Bowery one night. It was Saturday, July 11, 1884. My older brother, Con, accompanied me.

"We drifted into Frank White's saloon near Houston street and sneaked into the boxing hall in the back before the bouncer at the bar could kick us out.

It was crowded and Jack Taggart, the announcer, suddenly raised his hat and in his circus bawled voice said: "Will anybody in the house meet Mr. Bob Mace?"

Mace was the house fighter and considered pretty good. I did not know it and in the excitement at the chance to break into the game said "I will!"

Every one in the room jumped up and gathered around me, and I know now they wanted to persuade me to get into the ring immediately before I backed out. I handed my brother a five dollar bill so no one could frisk my clothes. Taggart grabbed me and pulled me into the dressing room.

He gave me some instructions but I did not know what they were all about, I was so excited. Taggart blew a whistle and introduced me as "Mr. Johnny McAuliffe of Williamsburg." I glanced at my brother, Con. He looked as if I was going to be murdered. Somehow at the moment I forgot to be frightened.

I was the first round easily. I copied Dempsey's style I had seen so often and jabbed away with my left and occasionally crossed over my right. I was more confident in the second round and began hammering Mace harder and harder. In the third he called him!

The crowd was in a surprised uproar. Everyone crowded around me and began pouring drinks down me—the first I had ever had. Just before midnight, Con and I decided to go home. I felt safe as

REC FIVE DEFEATS ST. PAUL'S, 43-27

Take Lead in First Half and Hold It Throughout; Boyce, Larson, Star.

The Rec Five added another victory to its belt Saturday night when the St. Paul's combination of Hartford was defeated at the School street gym by the score of 43 to 27. The locals led at half time by 21 to 16.

Larson filled in for Gulish at center and played a good game on the floor. Boyce functioned well at guard but the scoring was left mostly to Welman and Gotberg. The Swede dropped in six from the floor and Welman was responsible for four and two fouls.

In the preliminary game the Outlaws defeated the Rec junior varsity by the score of 31 to 22. The summary:

GIANT-DODGER PACT. Dreyfuss Says Brooklyn Pitchers Were Approached.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 3.—Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today refused to comment on charges contained in a published interview with him in which it was stated that he claimed players of the New York Giants offered money to pitchers on the Brooklyn Dodgers team if the latter would defect to the Pirates in the closing game of the 1921 National League race.

The Pirates' owner expressed himself as hesitant to divulge details of the alleged transactions until Judge K. M. Landis, his commissioner of organized baseball, sits present charges to the bottom. He expressed confidence that Landis can succeed in clearing up any such charges as those now being brought to light and said that in his belief such occurrences were common in days past.

LAST MINUTE RALLY SAVES CRIMSON TIDE

(Special to The Herald) Bowl of Roses, Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 3.—Sixty thousand persons saw the undefeated Alabama Crimson Tide rise to unexpected heights here New Year's Day and tie Stanford in the closing minutes of the tenth postseason clash between east-west elevens, the final score being a touchdown and extra point apiece. Stanford scored almost within the first five minutes of play while Alabama rallied during the final five minutes of the grueling struggle.

Stanford's score came following a series of successful forward passes, Warner's crew springing the Southerner's own reputed asset by using an aerial game against them. A pass to Walker over the line brought the initial score. Bogue announced the extra point. Stanford had two other opportunities to score but was forced to attempt field goals but both were unsuccessful.

After missing several opportunities to score, Coach Wainlett's invaders finally were confronted with a golden chance when Wainlett blocked Wilson's punt so hard that the ball rolled back to the 14 yard Stanford line. Wilson recovered but it was the fourth down and Alabama took possession of the ball. Five rushes were sufficient to turn the opportunity into a touchdown.

Johnson going over for the final inches Caldwell kicked the goal. Alabama's offense was backed practically on Wainlett, who time and again deserted the line to drop back and charge the beefy Stanford row.

Punting on both sides throughout the game was poor and it was noticeable that both teams were slower than during the regular football season. The weather was blamed for it was a near-numbing day.

Statistics showed that Stanford made 350 yards from scrimmage, Alabama 117 yards; Stanford made twelve first downs, Alabama six. Stanford completed eleven out of sixteen forward passes for an aggregate of 183 yards, Alabama made good one pass out of seven and gained nine yards thereby.

In punting Stanford averaged thirty-seven yards and Alabama thirty-five. Penalties were distributed five to Stanford for setbacks of fifty-five yards and Alabama one for five yards.

The attendance was estimated at 60,000. The lineup: Stanford (7) Alabama (7) Phipkey, lb. Enis Poulson, lb. Perry Swan (c) Hagler McCreey, c. Taylor Robesky, rg. Bowdoin Harris, rt. Pickhard Walker, re. Wainlett Lewis, qb. Barnes Hyland, lb. Brown Bogue, rb. Taylor Hoffman, fb. Caldwell

Score by periods: Stanford..... 7 0 0 0—7 Alabama..... 0 0 0 7—7 Stanford scoring: touchdown, Walker. Point after touchdown, Bogue. Alabama scoring: touchdown, Johnson. (sub for Smith who substituted for Taylor). Point after touchdown for Alabama, Caldwell.

Officials: Referee, Quigley; Kansas; umpire, McCord, Illinois; head linesman, Evans, Stanford.

The published interview said that the Pirates invaded the Polo Grounds in August, 1921, with a seven and a half game lead in the league only to lose five games in a row to the Giants. This debacle Dreyfuss attributed to failure of his men to keep training rules.

It was following this series, Dreyfuss was quoted as saying, that the purported proposal of the Giants was made to the Dodgers. The latter failed to push the Pirates out of their lead at that time, however, losing two of the three games to Pittsburgh.

BRISTOL HIGH DRAWS AWAY FROM CRIMSON IN 2nd HALF

Local Sport Chatter

Director Chaney's Red Rive basketball team won another victory Saturday night this booting their stock higher. There are two teams that ought to make a fine attraction for the locals if booked. They are Wapping and the Heller Brothers five of Willimantic. The former had won three games out of as many played scoring over 200 points, and the latter is composed of Sam, Max, Abe, Harry and Hymie, all brothers in the Heller family which has been more or less conspicuous in sporting circles in the Thread City for several years now. Saturday night they went to Norwich and trimmed the Academy there 51 to 14.

Herby Kerr and McCollum, local boys, played the St. Joseph team of Foguonock Saturday night when the Golden Rods of Winsted were forced to accept a 20 to 28 defeat. Both scored but Case and Cunningham were the outstanding stars.

The local Hinyville quintet was defeated by Plainville here Saturday night 28 to 14. No summary was turned over for publication. We would like to hear from the manager of the local team.

The north and south are engaged in another wrangle. This time it is bowling that occupies the spotlight. A match between Al Fenton and Jack Saldella and Bob Brennan and Pete McLagan of the north went over north to Conran's alley. According to reports, the agreement was that Tommy Conran should furnish new pins for the second leg of the ten game home and home match. The Fenton-Saldella combination won by 4 pins at the Casino alley but when they went over north to Conran's alleys found the old pins still in use. The south refused to continue with the match on the grounds that the north had violated the agreement. The south claims the match and the $50 purse. We are waiting to hear from the City in regard to how the matter will culminate.

Another record-breaking crowd is expected at the amateur boxing tournament at Cheney hall Wednesday night. Over 5000 watched the revival of the sport here recently. Cheney Brothers' Athletic association is sponsoring the tournaments.

It is understood that Red Vendrillo, sport promoter extraordinary, will organize a football team next season at the south end. Red has been a "fix" to the north and winning the baseball title twice while piloting south end nines.

Matchett and Marshall, of the Spinning Mill, carried off first honors in last week's sitting of the C. B. A. A. athletic tournament. Each of the winners was rewarded with a chicken. Next Thursday will be the final sitting of the second tournament and chickens will again be awarded the winners.

The bowling team of the Girls' Athletic association of Cheney Brothers have arranged with the Royal Typewriter Company of Hartford for a home and home match starting a week from Wednesday in Hartford and concluding here the following Wednesday.

The Saints will practice basketball tonight in the School street gym at 8 o'clock.

H. S. SECONDS LOSE TO BRISTOL SCRUBS

Maroon Second Varsity White-washes Manchester With Ease. First to fall under the onslaught of the Bristol basketball machine Saturday night was the Manchester High second team which went down to defeat by the score of 45 to 14 in a one-sided game. The Bristol boys scored when they pleased, and that was often. Roberts and White of Bristol did most of the scoring while Johnson of Manchester tied with Shannon for honors with four points.

Close Game Turned Into Walkaway in Fourth Period at Bristol; Farr Knocked Out in First Half.

The Manchester-Bristol High school game in Bristol Saturday night was turned into a scoring bee in the second half by the Bell City team and the locals were defeated by the score of 34 to 20. Farr, Manchester center, was knocked out in the second quarter and from that time on the Crimson was never the same.

Manchester took the initiative and ran up four points before Bristol began to score. The lead went back and forth through the first quarter and ended with the teams knotted at eight points each. After Farr had been taken out of the game, Bristol went into the lead and when the half ended was ahead 14 to 10.

Bristol's team, a fast-passing combination, is practically the same as that of last year. Most of the work on Saturday night was done by Zetarski, midjet forward. This boy, who doesn't weigh 130 pounds, was the pivot of the Bristol team and all plays started from him. He did not do much of the scoring but was a power in the offense.

Hugret of Bristol was the big gun in the scoring column with six baskets. He eluded Gorman for three of these and made three more off LaCos in the second half. His floorwork was not, however, up to the standard of Zetarski or Gorman, the tall center. Rionan, captain and three-year man of the Bristol team, was held pretty well in check by Nino Boggnini until the latter part of the second half when he broke loose and scored three baskets.

In the second half both teams started off strongly but Bristol, taking advantage of Farr's absence, worked plays time and again for scores. Hugret was found under the basket most of the time and while he made three goals, he missed more easy shots than would have accounted for his whole team's score in the period.

Manchester did considerable shooting from outside of the foul line. The locals did not seem to be able to cut for the basket and they were also late in starting to work the ball from the back court. Then, too, the only man on the Manchester team who did any following up was Keeney and he missed several off the backboard.

Bristol drew away from Manchester and at the end of the third period had run up the score to 24 while holding Manchester to 14. They increased this 40 more points while Manchester made only six in the final period.

The summary: Bristol FG. F. T. Rionan, rf. 3 0 6 Allano, rf. 0 0 0 Zetarski, lf. 3 0 6 Comerak, lf. 1 0 2 Fleming, c. 0 0 0 Massey, rg. 0 0 0 Hugret, rg. 6 0 12 Waterhouse, lg. 0 0 0 Rao, lg. 2 4 8 Totals 15 4 34

The books I read and the life I lead Are sensible, sane and mild; I just hate spats, I wear calm hats, But I want my neckties wild. Give men a wild tie, brother, One with comic urge, A tie that will swear, and Rip and tear, when it sees My old blue serge. Some folks say that a man's cravat Should only be seen, not heard; But I want a tie that will make men cry, And render their visions blurred. I yearn, I long for tie as strong, It will take two men to tie it. If such there be, show it to me— Whatever the price, I'll buy it. Give me a wild tie, brother, One with a lot of sins; A tie that will blaze In a hectic haze, Down where the vest begins.

BY HAL COCHRAN

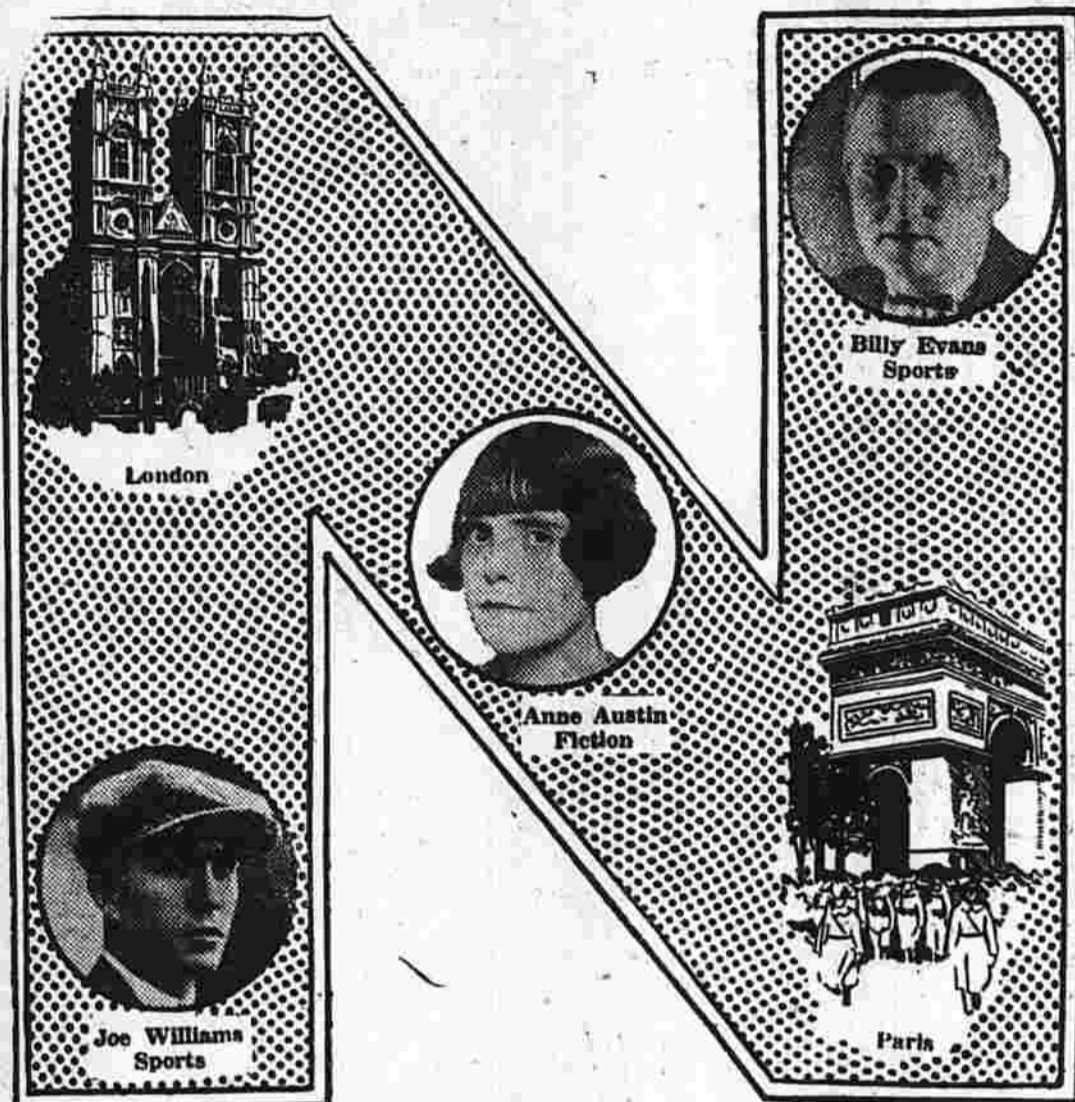

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture) The Tynmites, all full of cheer, have started on the brand new year, and now we find them turning to their snow man once again. Said Scouty, "Gee, but he looks fine. I'm proud the job was partly mine. I surely think he looks just like a lot of living men." And then he added, "Goodness be, how can our funny snow man see?" And, when the whole crowd turned to look, they came to realize that though a lot of pains you take you often make a sad mistake. The Tynmites forgot to give the snow man any eyes. Then, Copy to the rescue came, said he, "This may be quite a shame, but I am going to cut some nice black buttons off my shirt." The ones he picked were proper size to make the snow man two nice eyes, and when they put them into place, he surely looked alert. "Hallo, there, Tynmites. I say, I'm feeling pretty good today. Oh, please don't look so scared because you've really heard me talk." It was the queer snow man who spoke. The Tynmites thought it all a joke, until they stared and saw the happy snow man start to walk. "Well, howdy do," was Scouty cried. "You'd better stand right by my side. I'm 'fraid that you might slip and fall and break yourself apart." And then the snow man laughed in glee. "Now don't you start to fret," said he. "I came to life so I could have some fun. When do we start?" They played a game of hide and seek, and watched the funny snow man sneak into the shade to keep out of the hot rays of the sun. Of course they all knew how he felt. He feared that he would likely melt. If such a thing should happen, it would promptly spoil his fun. (The snow man melts away in the next story.)

"By NEA."

Do you know what those letters mean? You may have noticed them on the corners of photographs in this newspaper, or at the beginning of news stories. Ever wondered what they referred to?

You won't find that line in any other paper circulating in Manchester. It is the "by line" that can be used only by newspapers that are members of the Newspaper Enterprise Association—or NEA Service, Inc., as it has been more recently designated.

Every paper has its own staff of reporters and photographers to cover all events in its own locality. The wire services, in turn, furnish the news from distant cities.

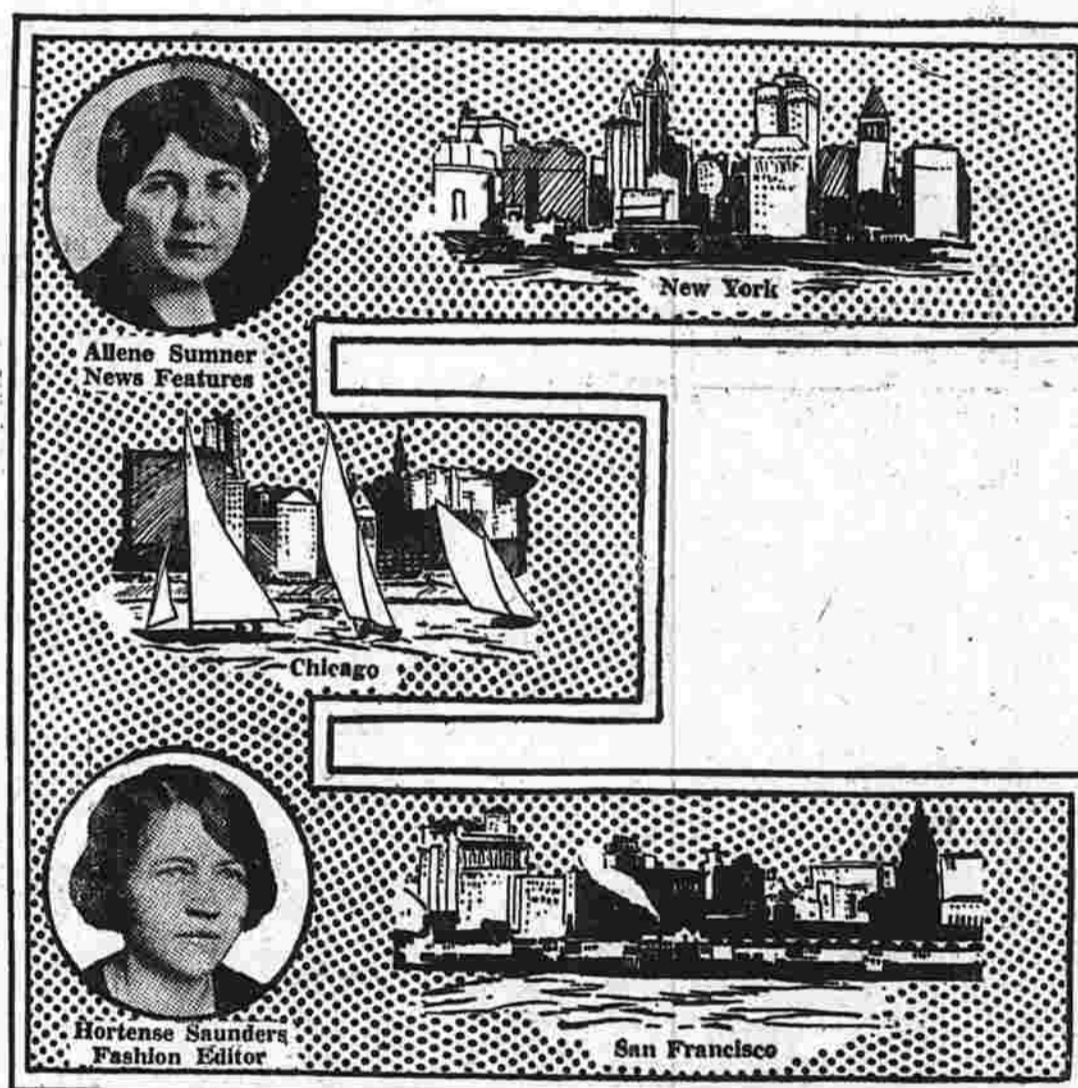

NEA Service is the organization that supplies photographs from near and distant points, feature stories that are off the beaten track, special sports articles, comic strips and the like.

It is a newspaper feature concern, the largest in the world, with more than 800 newspapers as clients.

With its main office at Cleveland, O.; with branch offices in New York, Washington, Chicago, San Francisco and London, and with bureaus, correspondents and photographers in scores of cities in America, Europe and the Far East, NEA sends out a mass of material daily to help its member papers present their readers with features that are entraining, informative and up-to-the-minute.

NEA'S activities are many and varied. When there is a hurricane in Florida, a world series in St. Louis, a battle in China or a murder trial in Fort Worth, it uses the telephoto wires, airplanes, fast mail trains and special couriers to furnish pictures to all of its client papers.

NEA also issues preparedness material to keep you posted in advance—exclusive photos and facts in anticipation of big news events, whether holiday celebrations, national elections, inaugurations, important legislative events, championship contests or court trials that are in the limelight.

In between times NEA sends out other pictures, too—pictures of people, of events, pictures from all parts of the world on all conceivable subjects.

But the photographs constitute only a part of its work.

Of course you have laughed with Salesman Sam, Wash Tubbs, Ethel, and Flapper Fanny. They come from NEA Service. It has a staff of skilled artists and cartoonists who make these comic strips for papers all over the country.

Besides the pictures and comic strips, NEA Service has a staff of trained reporters. They go all over the country, digging up the interesting and the unusual in news.

Then there is the sports department. You've certainly enjoyed reading the sport comments of Billy Evans, famous American League umpire. Evans is NEA's sports editor, and contributes each day a column about baseball, football, boxing and so on. He and his assistants cover all major sporting events and furnish, in addition, feature stories and pictures on various angles of athletics.

Then there is fiction. NEA Service makes a specialty of serial stories constructed especially for newspapers, and has a group of widely known authors writing exclusively for its papers. "Saint and Sinner," by Anne Austin, which ran in The Herald was an NEA serial, as is "Broken Threads."

Nor does this complete the list of NEA activities. The pictorial strip, "The Romance of America," is done by two men on the NEA staff, and is followed by school children—and their parents—in every part of the United States. There are fashion articles and pictures from New York and Paris—you've seen a number of them in The Herald.

And now you have only a bird's-eye picture of what NEA Service is and what it does. It helps this newspaper, and hundreds more, to give their readers pictures and stories that they could not get otherwise; to brighten their columns with humor and fun that make the days brighter for many millions of people.

the reporters and cameramen representing NEA Service. A world series game in St. Louis, a sensational trial in Los Angeles, a general strike in England, a daring expedition to Africa, trouble in Mexico—it makes no difference. NEA will have men on the scene to record it for millions of American readers.

At its major bureau points in the United States and abroad NEA maintains staff men ready to go anywhere, at any time, on assignments. At other points it has its correspondents, both photographers and reporters, who can be depended on to get verbal and pictorial records of anything that takes place in their districts.

Elaborate preparations are made for any event that can be figured on in advance. When something unforeseen arises, the nearest men go into action instantly.

Every day—and every night, too—these NEA men, scattered from New York to Manila, are ready to get news of the world for your information and amusement.

CHAPLAIN OF 169TH DEFENDS THE JEWS

Rev. Richard H. McLaughlin Raps Henry Ford in Hartford Sermon.

"Henry Ford is making a false application of the desire to help America when he attacks millions who are loyal citizens of America—I mean the Jews," declared Rev. Richard H. McLaughlin, at the Church of the Redeemer in Hartford yesterday.

While her mother was in another room, little Doris got hold of an electric curling iron and began to curl her beautifully bobbed hair.

The little girl had her hands clasper over her eye and she was moaning in pain. A doctor was summoned. He found that Doris, in manipulating the curler had allowed it to strike against her eye.

Doris eye will be bandaged for some days but she was very fortunate, the doctor said, that she did not lose the sight of one of her optics.

Kenneth Morrison, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morrison, of Elro street, is seriously ill at his home with double pneumonia.

During the course of his sermon, Rev. McLaughlin remarked: "Has Mr. Ford forgotten that thousands among the boys in the trenches to be brought out by Christmas were Jews? And then he thinks it is Christlike to attack Jews as a race."

Rev. McLaughlin took for his theme, "The Other Cheek" and for his text, "Whoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also," St. Matthew 5:39.

TROLLEY SERVICE IS POOR IN TOWN

Delays and No Service At All Common Since Shift to Hartford.

Trolley service to and from Manchester has been particularly poor during the past week and service on the Cross Town and Green lines has not been any better.

He reports that service on the South Manchester lines is the worst just now that it has ever been in the history of the company and lays the condition to the concentration of all equipment in Hartford.

For example, he points out, not a car left this town for Hartford Friday evening between the hours of eight and nine, due to trouble at the Hartford end of the system.

On Friday evening, for example, he points out, not a car left this town for Hartford Friday evening between the hours of eight and nine, due to trouble at the Hartford end of the system.

On the Green line a car broke down and service was held up until another car could be placed there. The new car was not of the one man type and needed a crew of two men to run it.

It was also reported that more than 100 passengers were stranded in Hartford on New Year's eve because the last car out of the city could not accommodate the crowd going to Manchester.

Conditions like these never existed when the cars here were being operated. Repairs were quickly made, cars dispatched from Manchester and Rockville without serious delays and complaints reduced to a minimum.

This morning the Green car lost an hour and a quarter when its air compressor froze solid. That line had to wait until an extra car could be sent from Hartford.

LITTLE GIRL JABS CURLING IRON IN EYE

Doris Anderson, of Benton street is only seven years of age. But that's a rather sophisticated age these days.

On Saturday evening Doris had planned to go to a party. She knew that she had to look her best so she acted accordingly.

While her mother was in another room, little Doris got hold of an electric curling iron and began to curl her beautifully bobbed hair.

Her mother heard a scream from the little girl. It was a scream of agony and the mother was thoroughly frightened as she came into the room where her daughter was.

The little girl had her hands clasper over her eye and she was moaning in pain. A doctor was summoned. He found that Doris, in manipulating the curler had allowed it to strike against her eye.

Doris eye will be bandaged for some days but she was very fortunate, the doctor said, that she did not lose the sight of one of her optics.

Kenneth Morrison, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morrison, of Elro street, is seriously ill at his home with double pneumonia.

During the course of his sermon, Rev. McLaughlin remarked: "Has Mr. Ford forgotten that thousands among the boys in the trenches to be brought out by Christmas were Jews? And then he thinks it is Christlike to attack Jews as a race."

Rev. McLaughlin took for his theme, "The Other Cheek" and for his text, "Whoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also," St. Matthew 5:39.

SLAVERY

was abolished in 1865, but there are folks today who are making slaves of themselves because they don't use their bean.

Do you use yours—read article on Page 8—and think it over.

MANCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

POLICE COURT

Mike Dubanowski and his wife Annie had an altercation at their home on Union Court yesterday afternoon, and as a result the man of the house was brought into court for assault and breach of the peace.

It required the services of an interpreter to present the evidence before the court. It was brought out that the row was only one of many that has taken place between the pair during the past six years.

Mrs. Dubanowski had been visiting some of her neighbors and when she returned she found the door locked. Entering the house by a side door she had some words with her husband because of the fact that the door was locked.

He retaliated and apparently the wife got the worst of it. Judge Johnson believed that no punishment he could inflict would help matters.

The couple has not been getting along well together. The wife was apparently as much to blame as the husband in the fracas yesterday and the judge therefore suspended judgment.

Clifford Shea pleaded guilty to intoxication. He was arrested by Sergeant Crockett at Turn hall Saturday night. Young Shea had some trouble with the ticket taker at the hall. Judge Johnson imposed a jail sentence of 30 days and suspended execution of the sentence, placing Shea on probation for one year.

The 1927 officers for Dilworth, Cornell Post, American Legion will be installed at a meeting in the state armory this evening.

ST. MARY'S BANQUET PLANS NEARLY READY

Young Men's Club to Dine at Hotel Sheridan on Saturday Evening.

Plans for the annual meeting and banquet of St. Mary's Young Men's club on Saturday evening are nearly complete.

Harold Maher, chairman of the banquet committee, is preparing his list for the chicken dinner which will be served at Hotel Sheridan. The meeting and initiation of members will be held later in the clubhouse on Linden street.

Dick Fritchard, chairman of the entertainment committee, has several new ideas which he will work out during the evening. Under Mr.

Fritchard's committee duties come the planning of the program for the banquet session and the initiation which will be put on in the clubhouse.

Selectman Thomas J. Rogers is expected to act as toastmaster and master of ceremonies. Short talks will be given by several members among them the newest one, Rev. David Kelly, curate of St. Mary's Episcopal church, who will be initiated at that time.

Mr. Maher of the dinner committee is anxious to have all who are desirous of attending the banquet to notify him immediately so that he may make the proper reservations.

Mrs. Carrie A. Taylor of Woodbridge street is suffering with an attack of grip.

January Clearaway

Starting Our New Business Year With a Great Clearaway of All Remaining Winter Wearables.

Store policy makes it a necessity to clear stocks—necessity to accomplish the clearance in the least possible time prompts such drastic mark-downs.

For the garments involved they prominently figure in the Winter's modes. Every garment has at least one distinctive feature—every garment shows its worthiness through quality fabrics and splendid tailoring and finishing.

To purchase immediately is to practice economy in the best sense of the word.
