LANJIS DYNAMITES SLOUGHING CHARGE

Gives Clean Bill of Health to All Players Accused by Risberg and Gandil; No Ruling on Cobb and Speaker; Finds "Pool" Was Real Present.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, today exonerated leading Detroit and Chicago baseball players from charges they "threw" games in 1917.

The diamond czar decided there was no "sloping" in the games of September 26, 27 and 28, 1917, was not collected or paid to Detroit players for "sloping" to Chicago the games of September 2 and 3, 1917, but was paid because of Detroit's beating Boston; that there was no "sloping" of the September 2 and 3, 1917, games, nor of the September 26, 27 and 28, 1917, games, except possibly by Risberg and Gandil.

Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics, Donnie Bush, Pittsburgh Pirates manager, and Ray Schalk, new pilot of the Chicago White Sox, as well as the thirty other diamond stars, past and present, were absolved of all blame by Landis, who upheld the testimony of the accused men that they had merely given the Detroit team a present for winning games from Boston club at a time when Boston was close at the heels of the Sox in the pennant race.

By making the charges against Collins, Bush and other prominent players, Risberg and Gandil had nothing to lose, the commissioner ruled. His decision said, concerning this feature:

"To some it may seem inexplicable that Risberg and Gandil should implicate themselves in these alleged corrupt practices," said Landis. "Obviously, that self implication may have been conceived on the theory that 'they have even incriminated themselves, so it must be true.' However, being already on the charge, it is not likely that they would not affect them and it might blacken the lily white."

Judge Landis made no reference today to the cases of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, ousted Detroit and Cleveland managers. He said no application for a rehearing of the charges made against these men by "Dutch" Leonard, former Detroit pitcher, had been filed with him as yet.

The commissioner also took no action on the application of "Buck" Weaver, banned White Sox player, who has asked to be returned to baseball, declaring he was innocent in the 1919 scandal.

In relation to the charges that two games of a three-game series

NOTED MINISTER TO SPEAK HERE

Worcester Pastor, Chamber Banquet Guest, Has Fine Reputation.

Rev. Robert W. McLaughlin who is to be the principal speaker at the Chamber of Commerce banquet, February 10, has made a wonderful impression on New England during the comparatively short time he has been pastor of Piedmont Congregational church at Worcester.

Mr. McLaughlin came to Worcester from Brooklyn, New York and has brought about a wonderful change in Piedmont church. His evening services have been so largely attended that some of the Worcester churches have found it expedient to omit their evening services in order that their people might attend Dr. McLaughlin's church.

In evidence of Dr. McLaughlin's high standing in his profession, is the fact that he will substitute for Rev. S. Parkes Cadman at his Brooklyn church on this coming Sunday, January 16.

Dr. McLaughlin's presence at the Chamber of Commerce annual banquet will of itself, insure an unusual attendance.

PLAN TO EVACUATE U. S. MISSIONARIES

Removal of Church Workers From Fukien Expected; Chinese Siege Mission.

Peking, Jan. 12.—Preparations for the evacuation of all American missionaries from Fukien province were ordered today by Consul Price in a message to the American legation here. The consul's report indicated that the enemy of the Nationalist troops is being aroused against all foreigners by professional agitators.

The American mission at Shauhu, Fukien province, has been seized by the Nationalist troops. It is understood that American officials here are not in agreement with the British relinquishment of the Hankow concession, and that every possible means will be employed to hold the international settlement at Shanghai against Chinese occupation, should an attack be made.

Williams at Shanghai
Shanghai, Jan. 12.—The U. S. cruiser Pittsburgh, Admiral Williams commanding, and several destroyers and marine reinforcements arrived here today.

Dispatches from Hankow today reported that the Union Jack has been hoisted over the British consulate at Hankow, pending negotiations between the British representatives and Eugene Chen of the Nationalist forces relative to the return of the British concession.

ADIRONDACK VILLAGE IN PERIL FROM FIRE

Two Children Reported Dead In Blaze That Is Sweeping Prospect, N. Y.

Prospect, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Two children were reported to have perished in a fire which threatens this village with destruction. Flames originating in the Adirondack Hotel early this morning quickly got beyond the control of local fire fighters and spread to business buildings. Many residents have fled from their homes. Unless outside aid arrives at once the village is believed to be doomed.

COUZENS' $900 FLIER GREW TO BE 39 MILLIONS

Arabian Nights Tale of Huge Fortune Disclosed in Trial Of U. S. Suit For Income Tax.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.—The story of Senator James Couzens' fortune, which jumped from $900 to more than $29,000,000 in 13 years, was told today at the government's $34,000,000 tax suit against former stockholders of the Ford Motor company.

A stipulation signed by Couzens and read at the hearing by the senator's attorney, former Judge Arthur Lacey, showed that Couzens invested $1,000 in the Ford Motor company at the time of its organization in June, 1903. He borrowed $100 of this from his sister, Mrs. R. Y. Haus, however, and carried $100 worth of stock in her name. The $1,000 was the down payment on a block of twenty-five shares of stock then valued at $2,500.

Reinvested Profits
In May, 1907, out of the profits of his original investment, Couzens bought fifty shares more in the company for which he paid $25,000 and in July of the same year he bought thirty-five more for $17,500. In October, 1908, the company declared a stock dividend of 1,000 per cent which gave Couzens 2,071 shares more.

Couzens held this stock, receiving big dividends in the meantime, until September 2, 1919, when he sold his interest in the company back to Henry Ford for more than $29,000,000.

"PEOPLE OWN AIR" TO BE RADIO TENET

Compromise Bill Will Deny Claims of First Users to Vested Rights.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The congressional deadlock over radio legislation approached the breaking point today. The chief sponsors of conflicting methods of controlling the radio industry—Senator Dill, Democrat of Washington and Rep. White, Republican of Maine—joined in a declaration that a solution of the problem was virtually assured.

The tentative proposals in the new bill, it was learned, include:

Reaffirmation of the doctrine that "the people own the air," denying claims of vested rights by broadcasters who were first in the field, and making government authority over broadcasting supreme in every phase.

Creation of a five-man commission which would become the governing body of the American radio industry.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover to be authorized to carry out the licensing provisions of the act and the decisions of the commission.

A compromise between proposed two and five year licenses, probably requiring renewal after three years.

EVERYBODY NERVOUS OVER U. S. GRAND JURY

Hartford Folk Agog On Rumors Of Big Secret Bootleg Probe.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 12.—A guessing contest has been under way here since a federal grand jury went into action in the post office building yesterday afternoon. Rumors issuing from the building told of an extensive investigation into an alleged bootleg ring. But there was no confirmation of the tale because grand jurors are strictly forbidden to discuss what goes on when they are in session.

The presence today of state police attached to the Groton barracks revived interest in the grand jury and the guessing contestants were certain that the recent capture of a rum caravan under convoy of federal agents at Groton is being discussed in the jury room today. Until indictments are handed down the real secrets of the jury room will not be disclosed.

Radio Locates Son Here, Lost Since '19

Sick Father in Scotland Asks Red Cross to Find Boy—Is Chef at Edgewood Inn.

A most interesting story of a patient in a hospital in Scotland learning the whereabouts of his long lost son in Manchester through the efforts of the American Red Cross and the radio was revealed today.

Father Ill
The father is James Cameron and at the time of the world-wide effort to locate his son, was ill at the Burgh hospital in Ballantrae, Aberdeenshire, Scotland.

The son, from whom the father had not heard since 1919, is Albert Cameron, a chef in the Edgewood House, 281 Center street.

According to the report of the Holyoke Chapter of the Red Cross received by Miss Jessie M. Reynolds, local Red Cross nurse, the case was referred to the Red Cross on August 16 by the worker at the

COASTGUARDSMEN SAVE CREW OF 13

New London Life Savers Rescue Imperiled Men Close To Newport.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 12.—Trapped all night in a terrible blow aboard the stranded freighter Ponham, the crew of 13 were rescued today by the Coast Guard crew from New London. The Coast-guardmen, battling high seas and heavy winds, finally worked their one-hundred foot boat, the Eagle, to the side of the vessel which ran onto the reef off Rose Island, a mile from Newport, yesterday afternoon.

Captain Richard Windsor, of Providence, and his twelve seamen decided to stay upon the Ponham to aid government tug L-49 in an attempt to pull the freighter off the rocks.

Both the Eagle and L-49 threw lines to the Ponham, which, although 45 years old, had apparently weathered the gale.

All Night Battle
The 150 ton freighter, owned by the Providence, Fall River, and Newport Steamboat Line and plying with freight cargoes between those ports, ran onto the reefs during the height of the storm yesterday afternoon.

All through the late-afternoon and last night the craft was pounded by heavy seas and raked by a sixty-mile gale.

FIRE SWEEPS BANKS STILL UNFINISHED

Two $3,000,000 Albany Structures Involved in Early Morning Blaze.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Two new Albany banks, being erected as a cost of $3,000,000 each, were swept by fire early today. Both were sixteen story structures. The fire was brought under control after a two-hour fight.

The first four floors of the New York State National bank were being used. The remainder of the building, as well as that of the Home Savings bank, was under construction.

MEXICO DENIES INTERFERENCE IN NICARAGUA

Reply to Coolidge Hints at U. S. Turning Its Back on Peace, "Imposing Its Strength on Right."

BISHOP DIAZ PUT OUT OF MEXICO

Accused of Promoting Religious Rebellion, Pre- late's Exile Is Announced.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The American government's charge that Mexican arms were being used in Nicaragua, and that the Calles regime was interfering politically in that country was denied flatly last night in a statement from Aaron Saenz, Mexican Secretary for Foreign Relations, made public by the Mexican Embassy. Defending Mexico's recognition of the Sacasa government on so-called "constitutional" grounds, Saenz asserts that his government's action is "based on a principle of justice and respect for constitutional order."

Senor Saenz asserts that it is "absurd to suppose that Mexico wishes to face the United States in a military way," and denies that the Calles government is bound with any other country to unite their strength.

The text of the statement follows in full:

The Statement
"Dispatches from the United States published by the press are to the effect that the hostile elements of the Mexican government are trying to create a serious antagonism between both countries, and in this connection they set forth no reasons, only two pretexts: They charge our government with interference in Nicaragua to offset the policy of the interests of the United States in that country; and, on the other hand, they affirm that the application of the Mexican laws in the matter of petroleum will result in the ignoring of prior rights legitimately acquired by American citizens."

Mexico Not Seeking War
"Any person familiar with the strength of Mexico as compared with that of the United States—and everybody knows this fact—will understand that it is absurd to suppose that Mexico wishes to face the United States in a military way."

Committee Kicks Off Substitute Farm Relief Plans; to Vote Tomorrow.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Indicating approval of the Haugen farm relief bill, the House Agriculture committee today formally killed substitute farm relief measures which have been laid before it.

The committee then agreed to vote tomorrow on the Haugen bill. The bills killed in committee were those sponsored (1) jointly by Senator Curtis, Republican of Kansas, and Rep. Crisp, Democrat of Georgia, (2) by Rep. Aswell, Democrat of Louisiana, and (3) by Rep. Adams, Republican of Illinois, to carry out the debenture plan of the National Grange.

15,000 Troops on Watch, War Department Admits

Nothing to Do With Any Danger of War, However, It Is Asserted; Kellogg Bars Senate Stenographer As He Tells Committee In Secret About Relations; Opposition to "Big Stick."

Washington, Jan. 12.—Fifteen thousand soldiers have been concentrated along the Mexican border for some time in anticipation of possible trouble with Mexico, it was said today at the War Department.

It was emphasized, however that this concentration was in no way connected with the danger of war contained in the present strained relations between the United States and the southern republic. Officials of the department also added that recent orders transferring an unusual number of army officers to border posts have no special significance in the present crisis.

Tenacity Not Changed
Disavowal of desire for war with the United States, contained in the conciliatory statement issued by Foreign Minister Saenz in reply to President Coolidge's message to Congress, did not allay today the tenacity that grips Washington concerning the state of affairs in Central America.

Administration officials accepted at its face value Mexico's expressed desire for peace. They did not, however, accept equally the disclaimer that the Calles government has only an academic interest in the Nicaraguan revolution. Saenz's reply to the Coolidge charges did not mention the acts of Mexican gun-running to Nicaragua, stressed in the president's message.

This was taken as an indication that Mexico will not deny that arms and munitions of Mexican manufacture have found their way into the hands of the Sacasa revolutionists in Nicaragua.

On the contrary, Mexico has taken the stand that the Sacasa government in Nicaragua is the constitutional government, a contention incidentally supported by a number of United States senators, and that such being the case Mexico is as much entitled to assist Sacasa as the American government is to assist the rival Diaz.

A hint that Mexico may possibly make a formal offer to have the whole set of Mexican-American differences arbitrated is regarded as having been contained in the Saenz statement.

Strong opposition to the administration's "big stick" policy in Central America was registered on both sides of the Capitol today.

While Secretary of State Kellogg, behind closed doors, explained to the semi-hostile Senate Committee on Foreign Relations the reasons for the concentration of 15 warships and 50,000 men in the Caribbean, the House Committee on Foreign Affairs staged a quarrelsome open session at which the Coolidge-Kellogg policy was both denounced and defended.

Kellogg surrounded his appearance before the Senate Committee with unusual precautions of secrecy. He insisted upon the regular committee stenographer being dispensed with, and substituted one of his own, from the State Department. He then proceeded to deliver a long statement of the events leading up to the establishment of a virtual protectorate over Nicaragua, and the President's warning to Mexico to keep "hands off" in that republic. He had not concluded the statement when the Senate convened at noon and the session continued long after the noon hour.

Two Critics Present
Two of the severest critics of administration policy, Senators Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, and La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, were permitted to attend the meeting behind closed doors, although they are not members of the Foreign Relations committee. Wheeler and La Follette simply walked into the meeting, and after they were in no one apparently wanted to take responsibility for barring them. It established a precedent in the Senate.

Follows Coolidge's Line
The general tenor of Kellogg's explanation paralleled closely the message sent to Congress Monday by President Coolidge, in which he said the administration's policy in Nicaragua was necessary to protect American interests, the canal

Government officials state that all of these attacks are widely scattered and that within a fortnight the entire situation will be normal. Arrests of additional priests in Durango for alleged complicity in the Indian uprising there are reported today. Twenty Durango priests arrived here today under guard and are being held by the military authorities.

Dispatches from Vera Cruz deny that Bishop Diaz has been placed on a steamship there for deportation to Cuba.

Is Manchester Being Passed?

IS Manchester being passed by in the march of progress by other American cities?

Are the community organizations of Manchester doing all they might to foster Manchester welfare, industry, reputation and standing as an American City?

Granting that the intentions of Manchester organizations are the best and finest in the world, are they going ahead on the right plan?

The Herald is running a series of articles that should and will help to answer these questions in the mind of every citizen of Manchester. The articles tell in a detailed way, just what other cities are doing to meet the everyday problems every modern city must face.

The stories tell how the community organizations of other cities are helping their towns on the factory problem, traffic zoning, advertising and other phases of modern American city growth and progress.

The stories, thus, tell just where Manchester stands.

"In addition to the charge of sloughing the September 2 and 3, 1917, series, Risberg stated that Chicago bought the Detroit two of a three game series at the close of the 1919 season. His only specific allegations are that he played out of position and that he believes that Gandil and two other players out of baseball since 1920 also played out of position. Gandil probably played out of position in all three games, that he noticed Risberg playing out of position, so figured he would do it also, without given a word between him and Risberg, or with any other Chicago or Detroit player at all.

The session of the House committee was attended by less secrecy and more forceful expression of opinion. It met to consider three resolutions (1) by Rep. Huddleston, Democrat of Alabama, demanding withdrawal of Marines from Nicaragua.

MOTOR MONARCHS MAKE THEIR BOWS

Greatest Development Is Refinement in Beauty and Comfort—27 Years Since First Show.

By PAUL HARRISON
New York, Jan. 12.—Twenty-seven years ago, when the first automobile show in the world was held at old Madison Square Garden engineers looked at the carriages that should not have been horseless and said, "We've got a long way to go."

For, in the past year there have been few developments in the automotive world. In fact, about the latest thing on motor cars are the payments.

Not that individual makes have not changed. But each manufacturer's "new idea" seems to be only an adaptation of some other manufacturer's old idea that proved impracticable for his type of car.

Nevertheless, it's the greatest show on earth. At the largest exhibition of the world's greatest industry. There are 307—count them—passenger cars and trucks. There are 4,562—don't try to count them—accessories. When there's a motor car for every purse and purpose there still will be new accessories for every motor car.

There lies the greatest changes of the past year—in accoutrements and refinements of line. Riding comfort, ease of handling, beauty, and conveniences that show up so slightly and cost so much are being stressed above all else. Manufacturers quite frankly are catering to feminine taste. They know full well that the car with seven vanity cases will sell better than the car with seven main bearings.

Mrs. Prospect makes the decision. Mr. Prospect makes the payments. It's a short haul from matrimony to matrimony.

Now about all that mysterious mechanism under the hood. It's just as complicated as ever, for while some parts have been simplified, new motor accessories have been added. There are oil, gas and air strainers, humidifiers, intensifiers, new manifolds, harmonic balancers and whatever else one can think of.

Crankshafts are larger; piston displacement is smaller. European manufacturers and our builders of racing cars have been blazing trails in passenger car construction for small, high-speed, high-compression motors are growing in favor.

The L-head motor, an old idea of recent development, appears in several of the medium-priced makes. A really new idea, found on one of the highway greyhounds is a cam-shaft that operates directly—with no tappets, rockers, or push-rods. It extends along the cylinder head and the cams rotate on the top of the valves.

In transmission of power there are two new developments for passenger cars. One is the 4-speed gear shift, long used on trucks and busses. By next March it will be standard equipment on three 8-cylinder models of a popular make.

Advances are that it allows easier handling in traffic, less abuse of the motor, lower fuel consumption and greater speed on easy hills.

The other new departure in transmission is a worm drive on the rear axle. This, too, has been used on trucks, but only because of the ratio-reducing quality. In the passenger car, however, it permits a much smaller differential housing and consequently a lowering of the entire car. Two makes adopting it have greatly lowered

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

STATE FINDS FEWER JOBS FOR UNEMPLOYED

Hartford, Jan. 12.—A sharp decline in number of jobs available in the state is indicated in the December report of the state's five free employment bureaus. The bureaus handled 4,803 applications and obtained work for 2,600 persons, or 55.4 per cent as compared with 69.8 per cent in November.

Hartford had a total of 1,361 seeking work, and got jobs for 757. New Haven had applications from 1,005, and helped 692 to situations. Bridgeport had applications from a total of 732, and found jobs for 465. Waterbury had applications from 803 of whom 495 were placed. Norwich applications were 711 with 191 jobs obtained.

The center of gravity without decreasing clearance.

But regardless of worm-driven transmissions, nearly all 1927 models are snuggling closer to the ground. Motor cars have taken a long time to get away from the pompous perpendicularity of the hansom cab. Some of the European types now are only 67 inches in height.

Last year, four out of every five automobiles sold were closed models. But the motoring public tired of confinement in glass cases and made with ease upon the first convertible style that was offered. Now many manufacturers are building the closed two and four-passenger cars so that the top may be folded back and the sides lowered.

Bodies and motors, as well as passengers themselves, will be benefited by the attention paid to shock and vibration absorption. Some motors are mounted on rubber cushions to prevent transmission of vibration to the frame. Longer and more flexible springs aid in correcting unpleasant motions.

Four-wheel brakes are found on several of the smaller cars which heretofore have not been considered heavy enough to need them. Small wheel diameters and larger brake drums also give more positive action. The vacuum-operated brakes require only a touch of the pedal.

Lighting still remains a problem. Dimming lights is recognized as a dangerous expedient because the eyes of the driver are not adjusted themselves quickly enough to the sudden change of intensity. A new type of headlamp at the show is large in diameter and flattened into a wide hyperbole.

Radiator ornaments take the form of anything from a larger lightbulb to a nickel-plated young lady dashing somewhere for her clothes.

Probably every model in the show this year boasts some refinement in body styles, but few of these changes are evident. Lines are just a bit smoother, hoods a little higher, tops a bit lower. One fabric body has attracted attention both for its unusual appearance and lightness of weight.

Colors are a riot. Plain black among the show cars is an exception. Designers, approaching a mechanical millennium, gleefully discovered new chromatic possibilities. The result is a phantasmagoria of oriole red, Egyptian red, burning bush orange, cool brown, channel green, mallard green, ocean blue, blue-day blue—and so on around the spectrum.

Standardization, competition and imitation have ruined individuality in the automotive world. But those same three forces have made every car a good car.

SHOT DEAD BY ROWDY WHO STOPPED TRAIN

Conductor Who Rebuked Men Who Pulled Bell Cord in N. Y. Loses Life.

New York, Jan. 12.—Dennis Healey, a conductor on a Third Avenue Elevated train, was shot and killed yesterday by one of two men he had rebuked for pulling the emergency signal cord, stopping the train. When Healey warned the men he would have them arrested, one of the pair drew a revolver and shot him, killing him instantly. The men ran to the street and escaped, but detectives immediately began a city-wide search for them.

QUAKE AT MANILLA

Manilla, Jan. 12.—A gentle but prolonged tremor shook Manilla today. The shock and subsequent vibrations lasted for eight minutes, but only one building was slightly damaged.

NO "PHONEY ART" MAGAZINES HERE

News Dealers Have Taken Objectionable Books From Stands—Campaign On In New York.

Manchester has been affected by the campaign against "phony" art magazines which is being conducted in this state and New York. It is almost impossible to purchase any of these in Manchester today. Previous to the recent campaign, however, they were available.

It appears that the news stand dealers have become cautious because of the happenings in some other cities where stiff fines have been dealt out to the publishers. A survey of several of the local newsstands today revealed that the magazines have been discontinued. Neither Metter's or Austin's smoke shops, two of the principal newsstand dealers, carry them.

That local police would investigate matters if the books were detected on sale again could not be ascertained today. Chief Samuel G. Gordon was uncommittal this morning when questioned on the matter. He admitted he had been approached by a representative of Metter's Smoke Shop who sought to learn just what magazines were considered salacious.

However, the so-called "art" magazines have been previously discontinued at Metter's and it is understood Chief Gordon approved all of the remaining books, magazines and pamphlets carried at that newsstand. He appreciated the fact that Metter's Smoke Shop took the initiative on the matter.

Mr. Austin, when interviewed, stated that he carried no such magazines and declared he would not. He was strongly in favor of the campaign which is being conducted against these publications.

JUCIEST FRUIT EVER NEWSBOYS DECLARED

Crate Falls From Truck—Is Emptied In Less Than No Time.

Christmas came again unexpectedly to the newsboys at the South Herald office yesterday afternoon. Free oranges, big California fruit were enjoyed by all the boys.

It all happened when a crate of oranges fell from a truck on Main street near Oak street. Several of the boys found the crate soon after it fell and helped themselves. But two other boys, not newsboys, tried to take the crate of fruit down Oak street to their home.

They got as far as the Circle theater when the rest of the newsboys saw them. In a few minutes there were no more oranges in the crate and when Officer John McGinn arrived only the empty box remained.

One newsboy is said to have carried home 24 oranges in his paper bag.

WOMAN GETS 20 YEARS FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Berlin, N. H., Jan. 12.—The woman who would rather see her husband dead than leave her for another woman, today began serving a twenty year sentence in state's prison. Mrs. Ella May Brackett killed her husband with a shot gun when, after twenty years of married life, he threatened to leave her.

Stop That Cold Before another day

This Fellow's Happy Now, But He'll Soon Be A King!

Prince Michael

By BRUCE CATTON

The throne of Rumania—that troubled little Balkan kingdom that gained world prominence because it has a pretty queen—is casting its shadows over a chubby, carefree little chap named Michael.

Michael, in the ordinary course of things, would grow up through a normal boyhood. He would play in the sand, go tramping and swimming and fishing with other boys, wear out his clothes, get his face and hands grimy, play at being Indians or cowboys or soldiers or bandits—live as an equal, in other words, in the great democracy of childhood.

But Michael's father is a young man named Carol. Carol, until a year ago, was crown prince of Rumania. Then he renounced his title. Now King Ferdinand, Michael's grandfather, is dying. Michael, from present indications, is likely to be the next king of Rumania.

So over Michael's boyhood a gray, cold shadow rises: A prince who is about to become a king can't be a boy like other boys. He has to be surrounded by bodyguards, school tutors and governesses, and other unympathetic grown-ups whose duty it is to stifle every ordinary, normal boy's impulse and desire and to make him a worried, long-faced man before his time.

So it will be with little Michael; Michael, who is just 5, and who has a sunny, unspoiled smile; Michael, who would get just as much fun out of boyish games and rough-and-tumble larks as any Huck Finn or Tom Sawyer that ever lived; Michael, who looks like any kid in a middle-class American town; and who has his chubby knees and his plump, red cheeks and his bashful smile.

That's what's waiting for Michael. He's going to lose his boyhood, so that he can sit on the throne of Rumania, and when he grows big enough to understand it, become a part of the sordid, scheming intrigue of Balkan politics.

He'll be a king, and wear a crown and have a company of gaily dressed soldiers to precede him whenever he goes out into the city; and some day he'll marry a princess (for reasons of state) and, perhaps, will understand why neither his father nor his grandfather made a happy marriage.

Yes, Michael will be a king. He'll learn, in time, that the kingdom for which his childhood was sacrificed isn't much of a kingdom; that it is only a sort of inconsiderable pawn in the political game of Europe; but that, for all its significance, it is packed full of racial and political hatreds that some day may blow him loose from his throne and cost him his head.

That's the prospect which faces

This 5-year-old; the boyhood that now is his, and that ought to be his for years to come, to be traded, unknown to him, by his country's "statesmen" for a tinsel throne. How would you like for YOUR boy, if you are lucky enough to have one, to be confronting such a sorry future?

CAPE COD CUT OFF BY SURPRISE STORM

Blizzard Blocks Communication on East Coast For Twenty Hours.

Boston, Jan. 12.—New England is digging out from under a ten-inch blanket of snow as the "surprise blizzard" is spending its fury out on the Atlantic ocean.

The only casualty in the storm was reported from Newburyport, where Manfred C. Down fell from a snow plow he was operating and was crushed to death.

Clear and cold weather was the prediction for the next twenty-four hours, but weather forecasters made the same prediction yesterday morning as the storm was breaking.

Cape Cod was virtually cut off from the world for over twenty hours. On the cape, electric light, telephone and telegraph wires went tumbling larks as any Huck Finn or Tom Sawyer that ever lived; Michael, who looks like any kid in a middle-class American town; and who has his chubby knees and his plump, red cheeks and his bashful smile.

That's what's waiting for Michael. He's going to lose his boyhood, so that he can sit on the throne of Rumania, and when he grows big enough to understand it, become a part of the sordid, scheming intrigue of Balkan politics.

He'll be a king, and wear a crown and have a company of gaily dressed soldiers to precede him whenever he goes out into the city; and some day he'll marry a princess (for reasons of state) and, perhaps, will understand why neither his father nor his grandfather made a happy marriage.

ANOTHER REFINERY CREW MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

Edgewater, N. J., Jan. 11.—Two men were seriously injured and twenty-five others suffered minor hurts when a bus in which they were riding to work got out of control on a steep grade and crashed into a brick building here Tuesday. The men were on their way to the Spencer Kelllogg Refinery. Less than a month ago some sixty men on their way to the same concern lost their lives when the launch "Inseed King" sank in the Hudson.

All classes will be conducted as usual after Miss Geary leaves. Miss Hardy will take charge of the dancing classes for women and children and will have all the work at the West Side Rec. Miss Calhoun will be the women's gymnastic instructor.

MYSTERIOUS MALADY SOLVED IN HOSPITAL

Child Cries With Pain—Doctor Finds Needle Imbedded in Her Breast.

Little Rebecca Chambers, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, of 23 Server street, underwent an operation for the removal of a needle from her breast at the Memorial hospital late Monday night and was reported today as being on the road to recovery.

Rebecca was playing with her doll carriage about the house Friday morning and in some manner the carriage tipped over, Rebecca falling on top of it. The child started to cry and at first nothing was thought of the matter. However, when it was seen that the child continued to cry, a doctor was called to see if some bones might have been fractured.

The doctor found nothing the matter with the child the first time he was called but when he was summoned again following the failure of the child to sleep, he discovered that a needle was lodged in the child's breast. He advised the removal of the child to the hospital where the operation was successfully performed. The needle had penetrated beneath the surface of the skin.

STATE ROADS HERE ARE ALL CLEARED

Supt. Hattin, However, Says Householders Are Hampering the Work of Plows.

Little difficulty was experienced by the plows of the State Highway department in clearing off the State roads in and around Manchester yesterday. Only one particularly bad place was encountered, that on West Center street in Hilltown where the tobacco fields and the road are on a level. Snow had drifted here and the plows had hard work getting through.

Department employees kept on the job all day yesterday and finished up this morning at 3 o'clock. Then they began at about 7 today to polish up the work they had done.

Householders who persist in shoveling snow from their sidewalks to the gutters of the road hamper the department and also the town highway department in their work. Plows clear off the road almost to the gutters and the gutters are shoveled out so that water may pass. Householders, however, shovel the snow right on the places where it has been plowed clean.

Supt. Don C. Hattin of the Manchester force of State Highway employees said today that the people of the town could help the force considerably if they would shovel the snow from the sidewalks on their lawns instead of on the road or in the gutters.

Children Cry For

CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

FLAGS' ABSENCE NOT LEGISLATURE'S FAULT

Voted Two Years Ago to Have Old Glory Displayed in Both Houses.

Hartford, Jan. 12.—The General Assembly is taking Governor Trumbull's suggestion that the state and national flags be placed in both houses of the Legislature so seriously that it now comes to light that the Legislature of two years ago adopted a resolution directing the comptroller to put the flags in appropriate stands in the two houses. The resolution was one of those buried in the last-minute avalanche of business in the final two days of the session and compliance with its directions is belated. However, the comptroller's office now has the matter in hand and it is expected that the flags will be displayed when the legislature meets again Thursday.

FRENCH MAKE AIRPLANE OF "FLYING WING" KIND

Paris.—A new French aviation company has just produced a large twin-engined machine of the large "flying wing" type. It is constructed entirely of duraluminum and steel and can be used either as a bomber or as a passenger-carrying aircraft.

The cabin, instead of being long and narrow and situated in the fuselage, is formed in the middle part of the single plane itself where it is believed that it creates less resistance. It is also more spacious and more convenient in shape. The

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Kit Carson (3)

While Carson was trapping along the Sacramento river, in California, a party of Indians drove away 60 horses belonging to traders. Carson and 12 men pursued the band into the mountains. The Indians were feasting on the flesh of stolen horses when Carson and his men found them.

Silently Carson arranged the trappers at points of vantage about the camp. Then, though outnumbered 10 to 1, the white men attacked.

The battle was brief. The Indians, taken by surprise, were routed and fled, leaving eight dead. Most of the horses were recovered.

In the autumn of 1829, while Carson was trapping along the Colorado river, he was left in camp with a few men. Several hundred Indians, ostensibly peaceful, visited the camp. Carson observed that all had weapons and that they eyed the horses suspiciously. Calling his men around him, he raised his rifle and ordered them away. Courage won. The band departed. ©1927 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. (Continued)

CHICKEN FARM PART OF STATE'S PROGRAM

Twenty Live Birds to Be Given Away Tonight—8 Acts of Vaudeville Thursday.

Twenty live chickens from a miniature chicken farm on the State theater stage will be given away tonight as part of the special Wednesday night program which has been arranged for the State. The twenty birds, all good young chickens, will be awarded. On the same program will be a good entertainment and two corking features, Bob Custer in "Cactus Trails" and Lewis Stone in "Don Juan's Three Nights."

The entertainment will feature the State's surprise program and nothing will be given out regarding these features until they are announced from the stage. With the two good features and the added attraction in the chicken farm, the program will be one of the best of the year.

Tomorrow night's program, however, will be a real treat in that it features eight acts of good vaudeville with the picture "God Gave Me Twenty Cents," which opened the new $17,000,000 Paramount and theater in New York. The picture is the work of Herbert Brenon, whose success in "Peter Pan" and "Beau Geste" is well known. Starting in the production are Lois Moran as the wife of Jack Roberts, one of the prettiest girls in Hollywood. She is cast as the daughter of an impoverished gentleman who is in the clutches of a money-grabbing old curmudgeon. "Homestuck" is the story of a girl who thought that the bright lights and a career in the city were better than the love of mother at home. Stubborn and willful, the girl leaves home and faces the trials of the town. Her disillusionment comes only after many hardships but the old mother is still waiting for her with open arms.

Viola Dana is the star of this picture and is the principal character better than the living picture. How she makes the design of a gripping one from start to finish. Tonight Fred Thomson and his famous horse, "Silver King" will be seen for the last time in "Lone Hand Saunders," the picture which thrilled crowds yesterday and last night.

SWIFT MOVING COMEDY AT RIALTO THEATER

A distinct novelty in screen entertainment is the thrilling drama, "Devil's Island" heads the featured program which closes its engagement at the Rialto theatre today. Pauline Frederick has the leading role in this absorbing story of an unusual mother love, fostered by a French convict. How love thwarts the designs of a mother to save her innocent son from a living death and the final happy denouement makes for real entertainment and Miss Frederick rises to greater heights than she has ever known as the self-sacrificing mother. The co-feature is "Horse on Broadway," a virile tale with a fair amount of humor. Cullen Landis and White Star, an almost human equine are starred. The usual shorter subjects will also be shown.

The two features which will be offered at this theatre tomorrow and Friday are "His New York Wife" and "Flashing Steeds." The first named was produced in an effort to prove that there is something new under the sun in the comic comedies. The director took the story of a little girl in a big city, which is usually treated in a heavily dramatic way, and made a brilliant comedy out of it. Starred in the role of the country miss who comes to the big town as a merry widow, with a lurid past and subsequent bed comes involved in all sorts of amusing situations is Alice Day. Fans will remember this diminutive star for her extreme beauty and histrionic abilities displayed in previous pictures. She is said to surpass every role she has ever portrayed in "His New York Wife." Bill Patton has the lead in "Flashing Steeds."

TWO GOOD FEATURES BOOKED FOR CIRCLE

"Speed, Mad" With William Fairbanks and "Homestuck" With Viola Dana.

Dashing at breakneck speed amid a cloud of dust, the small of gasoline and the roar of his racing machine, William Fairbanks, who comes to the Circle theater in "Speed Mad" for two days beginning tomorrow, does a wonderful piece of work. On the same bill will be Viola Dana in a picture filled with pathos, "Homestuck."

In his latest picture "Big Bill" Fairbanks is shown as the first-born son of a rich man who disowns him after the boy is "kicked up" in various speeding escapades and taken into the lockup by an irate cop. With $5 the boy starts out to make his way in the world.

He enters a $10,000 race for the honor of the father of a girl he has fallen in love with and it is in this contest that the picture gathers its greatest appeal. A thrilling jump from an airplane into a racing car, a fight with the ruffian who is driving a hair-raising finish all tend to make "Speed Mad" one of Fairbanks' most successful efforts.

Fairbanks is supported by Edith Roberts, one of the prettiest girls in Hollywood. She is cast as the daughter of an impoverished gentleman who is in the clutches of a money-grabbing old curmudgeon. "Homestuck" is the story of a girl who thought that the bright lights and a career in the city were better than the love of mother at home. Stubborn and willful, the girl leaves home and faces the trials of the town. Her disillusionment comes only after many hardships but the old mother is still waiting for her with open arms.

4 NATIONS MIXED IN MATTIEU CASE

Lawyer For Captain Declares Federal Officers Kidnaped Skipper.

Boston, Jan. 12.—Four countries, the United States, Nicaragua, England and Mexico, are involved in the arrest of Captain William Willis and his crew of the steamship Claire Mattieu, held here today by federal authorities on conspiracy warrants for New York customs officials. The ship was seized at New Bedford as a rum runner.

Captain Willis is a British subject and his boat is under Nicaraguan registry. Because of the unsettled conditions existing below the Rio Grande and Captain Willis' reported mission that he had been engaged in gun-running to Mexico and Nicaragua, an international tangle may arise, it was said today at the federal building.

The British government representatives have been drawn into the case through his British citizenship and because he last cleared from Halifax, N. S. with a cargo of liquor from the "Maurice" and which has not been satisfactorily explained to customs officials.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Jeny on a conspiracy warrant, Captain Willis was represented by Attorney W. H. Lewis. It is the contention of Attorney Lewis that the government officials have made a mistake in arresting Captain Willis and that they have virtually "kidnaped" him.

The crew of 15 on the Claire Mattieu were also arrested but were released on bail.

The case is connected with the arrest of Captain Willis became more involved with the filing of an action by the owners of the steamer Topdalsfor asking damages of $12,000. They charged that the Claire Mattieu rammed the Topdalsfor off Fire Island lightship, New York on Jan. 3.

CROWDS GROW BIGGER AT RAINBOW DANCES

Despite stormy weather, difficult driving, and the harsh cold so far the winter, the floor party of Saturday and surrounding towns and cities, who enjoy dancing, have been flocking to the Rainbow, on Bolton Hill. The management there reports that crowds have been increasing steadily on each dance night. Good music, dancing only in the ballroom, parking space, and good seats near at hand are the major attractions.

The schedule which is being followed now at the Rainbow allows three dancing nights in the week. On Wednesday and Saturday nights, music dancing only is on the bill. Bill Tassilo's orchestra plays the music for these two nights. On Thursday nights old, fashion dances, square dances, waltzes and only now and then a fox trot, are offered to the old timers. Old time fiddlers play for the dancing up to the management feels that this arrangement is most popular with the crowds which patronize the pavilion, and this schedule will be followed regularly each week.

NEW FRENCH MOTOR BUS TO CARRY BIGGER LOAD

Paris—There will be room for everybody and everything on the new style of motor buses which will soon be put into circulation on the Boulevards.

Much more space will be given over to the second class which is now more necessary than ever before. Dogs, cats, and other small animals, if carried in a basket, will also be allowed to board the buses upon payment of a fare to be decided upon.

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER IN PLAN TO REVIVE PIMLICO

London.—The Duke of Westminster, ground landlord of Pimlico, London, is trying to revive the faded glories of that district—once a fashionable area. Conditions laid down in respect of the Duke's 6,000 properties in Pimlico, the leases of which fall in shortly, include provisions for houses to be painted inside and out every two years, and state that no

The reading public has scarce had chance to catch up with the best products of 1926, and yet—presto—come the literary vanguards of the new year. Already four of the 1927 novels challenge our enthusiasms. Particularly do we recommend David Garnett's "Go She Must!" (Knopf). And hastily thereafter "Little Pitchers" (Knopf), by Isa Glenn; "Tomorrow Morning," (Harpers), by Anne Parrish, and "The Plutocrat" (Doubleday, Page), by Booth Tarkington. Furthermore, we predict that you will hear much trumpeting, at least of the first two, long before the present year has closed.

And to close the year's books, as it were, we hasten to recall the omission from our 1926 list of that charming tale "Lolly Willows" by Sylvia Warner; Carl Sandburg's poetic and unique biography, "Abraham Lincoln"; Ring Lardner's short stories in "The Love Nest" and those two chronicles of other days, Thomas Beer's "The Mauve Decade" and Mark Sullivan's "Our Times."

Anne Parrish needs no introduction. Her novel, "The Perennial Bachelor," had the double distinction of getting a prize award and being a best seller over a period of months.

Briefly her new book, "Tomorrow Morning," is of the tomorrow that never come. The Mexicans have a word "manana," generally accompanied by a shrug of the shoulders. It is a lazy gesture. It means putting a thing off until the morrow because one cares not whether it be done or not. Miss Parrish's to-morrows, like our own, are not that sort. Tomorrow becomes an expression of hope. You will do this or that—you know you will—but you can't possibly do it today! There are so many things to be done. But you don't do it tomorrow. And so it goes. Life goes by. It is never done. The tomorrow has never come. One is frustrated.

Thus it is with Kate Star of Miss Parrish's tale. The cold fact was that Kate was commonplace. The kindest thing that could happen to her, perhaps, was that her to-morrows did not arrive. Doubtless she would have discovered the hollow-ness of her dreams and desires and her own incapacities. She hopes for an artistic career, but she has the responsibility of bringing up a son. So she paints post-cards and the like, being surrounded by family necessities and deluding herself into believing that she would have been an artist if she had the chance.

Her son, in turn, feels that he will become a great theatrical designer. But his marriage goes on the rocks and he, too, is saved from knowing what might have happened "manana."

It is all very pathetic, of course, but it is also very true. Miss Parrish has not impressed us thus far as an important writer. She is an excellent reporter and better than most of the contemporary novelists but she can appeal to sympathy, and she can be honest in her viewpoint.

On the other hand, there is Isa Glenn, a young woman who last season produced a first novel, "Heat," which had to do with a military camp in the Philippines, and the disintegration of folk under the tropic sun. There were many things the matter with the book, but the writing was splendid and several of the characterizations superb. She gave promise of something better. This something is fulfilled in "Little Pitchers."

As might be guessed, the title is based on the admonition which one parent passes to another about "little pitchers have big ears."

Here we have an amazing document of a lad reared in an atmosphere of parental warfare. The author has sought to record the scenes of torn married life through the medium of this boy, and to do this is a test of virtuosity.

Someone we forgot who—has compared Mrs. Glenn's achievement to that other extraordinary projection of the child's viewpoint "What Maise Knew" and, surely, the Henry James book is the only one we can think of at the moment that is comparable.

Lucy Dennington was a stage figure. She married an engineer, bore a child and soon was being dragged about Asia, Africa, China and way points by her husband's pobs.

The flattering attentions once showered upon her still are sought. She is frustrated, but she doesn't know why. She still craves the attentions of other men yet she loves her husband. She wants both to have her cake and eat it. She detests herself and pities herself. And through bursts of jealousy, anger and temper that rock the house the youth must sit and look on—wondering what panacea might relieve all this pain.

In many places it is brilliantly colorful—particularly a scorching Brazilian landscape and an exalted mountain retreat.

This book definitely establishes Isa Glenn as a ranking American novelist. We recommend it as one of the first books to read in the new year, for it will grow in importance. As will "Go She Must!" Of which more anon.

CHENEYS SQUARE ACCOUNTS IN TAFTVILLE BY 32-28 WIN

Faulkner Scores Heavily and So Does Normandin; Local Team Plays Better.

Displaying a better all-around offense and a more stubborn defense, George Hunt's C. B. A. hoops team scored a most cherished victory in Taftville by 32 to 28 score.

This evening accounts as Cheney Brothers recently dropped a 25 to 26 decision to the strong team which represents that town.

Last night's battle was nip and tuck all the way with Cheney Brothers having an upper hand.

At halftime, Manchester was leading 18 to 12 but during the second half, the going was much rougher to put it mildly.

Wally Colechester at was Joe Pentland who went on a scoring rampage, last night it was Tommy Faulkner. He hooped in six from the floor and one from the line.

Summary of game results for Cheney Brothers (32) vs Taftville (28) and Normandin vs Gouthier.

Pass and Break Play Is Used by the Best Teams

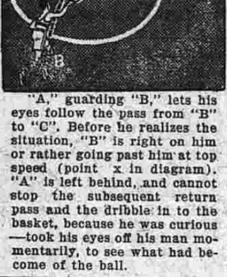

BY G. H. OLSEN

Ohio State Coach Practically every good basketball team incorporates in its play what may be termed the pass and break.

That is, they follow the principle that the best time to lose the opponent who is guarding you is just after you have passed the ball.

This is a sound principle to follow whether you are playing a short pass game or a long pass game, for the reason that the average individual is a curious being.

There is lots of plain, unvarnished curiosity in his makeup. The basketball player is no exception, and the smart player, when on the offense, takes advantage of his guard's curious streak by use of the pass and break; i. e., by breaking or cutting for an open spot or toward the basket just after he has passed the ball.

Even though the duration of this lapse on the part of the guard is very short, it gives the clever offensive player the opportunity he is looking for so he starts out at top speed either into an open space or toward the basket.

The personal of both teams is selected from the leaders of the individual average column.

A home and home match for some time next month with the Wallace-Baras company is in the works.

THREE-YEAR STARS New York, Jan. 12.—There were some pretty nifty three-year-olds uncovered during the past season, according to the official figures just released.

A bill has been introduced in the House in Washington to determine the feasibility of erecting a 100,000 seat athletic stadium in Potomac Park in memory of Theodore Roosevelt. The measure provides $10,000 for a survey.

Maloney Thrives On "Furriners"

Bristling Battles of Bare Fist Days MY LIFE STORY by Jack McAuliffe

CHAPTER THIRTEEN Did you ever hear of a prospective opponent giving an undefeated champion $5 to kid him along and prevent him running out of a fight?

It gave me a laugh, but it really happened. In the fall of 1888 I became my own manager because Bill Madocoy was too busy campaigning for Charlie Mitchell.

Arriving at Boston I went into Paty's saloon to wait for him. I was cold and had eaten nothing since leaving New York, so I ordered me a drink and I soon fell asleep with my head on the table.

That night I learned something. I went back to Paty's saloon and who did I find behind the bar with a mirror in his hand sorrowfully gazing at the bumps and welts on his face but Frazier. He was vain and I had marked him quite a bit.

That gave me an idea. In all later fights when I began to cut an opponent up I always told him about it as I went along.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells about a drastic rule against prize fighting and how a friend of his was given 10 years in prison for attempting to promote a fight.

Maybe you have forgotten who Maloney is. A couple of years ago, he was looked on as a better prospect than Jack Sharkey, the other young Boston heavyweight, who knocked out Harry Wills.

Only 6 of 17 Spitball Hurlers Left In Majors

When the St. Louis Cardinals recently released pitcher Alan Sothern as a player and resigned him for coaching duties, another of the lingering race of vanishing spitball hurlers departed from the major leagues.

A survey of the list now discloses the fact that merely six of the 17 hurlers unaffected by the ruling of the big league magnates against the use of the spitter and other freak deliveries remain in the big show.

And, with one or two exceptions, the last of the spitball hurlers are gradually nearing the end of their string. Within a few years the spitball delivery will be but a memory.

Under-the-Pillow "They must have left something under your pillow last night!"

When some player muffed an easy fly ball or booted a grounder, immediately hundreds of voices in anion would request information as to what he found under his pillow on retiring.

It will be recalled that the Chicago White Sox players who figured in the 1919 scandal, were supposed to have found sums ranging from $5000 to $10,000 under their pillows on the night before the opening game.

Baseball is a game that calls for the active players to accept a goodly number of chances. I have seen stars of the game make a half dozen brilliant plays and then in a pinch fall down in trying to handle the easiest sort of a chance.

For perhaps a year, possibly two, after the White Sox scandal, whenever a player muffed up an easy chance, he was certain to get an echo of the "under-the-pillow" episode.

There are always certain pessimists who believe the world is all wrong. As a rule the pessimist is of a suspicious nature. He can see evil first in all things.

It is that type of fan who got the real kick out of giving the college yell about the "under-the-pillow" stuff every time a player made an error.

It was very fortunate that just at this time, along came Babe Ruth with a flock of home runs that quickly caused fandom, even the suspicious species, to quickly forget.

Joe Canade Gaining In Mill League Race

Ernest Wilkie continues to lead the C. B. A. senior league individual averages with Joe Canade a close follower. Wilkie's average is 106.05. Canade's is 104.10.

Canada has wrestled the high three string honors from Schubert with 264. He also holds the high single, 140. The high team three string still belongs to the Weaving, 1615, while the Old Mill's 604 for high team single has not been bettered.

Following are the team leaders: Wilkie, O. M. 106.05; Canade, O. M. 104.10; Sibley, S. 102.25; F. Cervini, W. 100.01; Schubert, W. 99.04; R. Sudd, S. 99.02; Shea, R. 98.13; Benson, W. 98.13; T. Anderson, O. M. 95.03.

MERIDEN HIGH PLAYS LOCALS FRIDAY NIGHT

First and Second Teams Here at School Street Gym—Third League Encounter For Manchester.

Meriden High's basketball team will be here on Friday evening for Manchester's third game in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League.

Meriden has several variety men back this season. Usually having a good team, the Silver City combination is holding up Meriden's reputation in fine shape.

Man of War, king of thoroughbreds, is the leading sire of the world. Winner himself, in two years of racing, of $249,465, his sons and daughters, 25 in all, have added to that total $358,612.

Man of War, famous Norwegian politician, was willing to accept that amount as a bail to withdraw his suit against the A. A. U.

Hoff, who has been under the ban in United States for some time, seeks reinstatement as an amateur, claiming he has not violated that code. At present he is in vaudiville in an act which features his athletic prowess.

CHARLEY HOFF

Nine hundred bucks doesn't sound much like $50,000 but Charley Hoff, famous Norwegian politician, was willing to accept that amount as a bail to withdraw his suit against the A. A. U.

Suzanna Langlen, the professional tennis star, can return to amateur status, according to the French Tennis Federation, after a five-year period during which she did not appear as a professional.

152 Swimming Records Shattered During 1926

New York, Jan. 12.—A total of 152 swimming records were bettered during the past year, of which women, for the first time, played the most prominent part.

The well-known Gertrude Ederle figured in the international record of most importance and of the 152 records turned in, 89 of them were made by women.

Many of these records were handed in by budding feminine stars who will be eligible for the 1928 Olympic games.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE To the home of PROF and MOLIE ELWELL in Cambridge, Ind., one night in October, 1888...

'There's little chance of your imaginary romance coming true, Dally darling.'

He is shell-shocked at the battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Later he is identified in a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him to find his memory and speech gone.

Now BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVIII GIRLS, said John Clayton, 'read this wire.'

The twins, who had been out all morning, did so, and little squeals of joy escaped them as they got the message's purport.

A few days later John Clayton received a long letter from Nellie Downing, written at the behest of Mollie and Prof and addressed jointly to the girls, Martha Dalton and herself.

The particulars attaching to Jim's accident also were given by Nellie Downing, and in a postscript she told of the splendid fortitude displayed not only by Mollie but by Prof, especially the courage and strength of character he had shown during the first days following Jim's disaster and Mollie's collapse.

'He bore up wonderfully,' she wrote. 'I have never seen a greater exhibition of courage and character. He is a marvel.'

'That letter,' declared John Clayton to the girls and Martha Dalton when he had finished reading it to them, 'is a wonderful document in its unintentional revelation of a woman's heart and mind, in her efforts to show the loveliness of Jim and Mollie she inadvertently has produced a perfect picture of her own lovable character and her unselfishness. I should like to know her better.'

'Beauty and youth, coupled to a fine character, certainly make for a very lovable woman,' he said, 'but this woman, if she were as ugly in face and form as the Witch of Endor, and as old, would still be beautiful and lovable. I know something of the way she has nursed Jim and been his constant servant.'

'But just the same,' she continued with refreshing directness, 'I'll bet she's got faults as well as certain charming young ladies who have been living in a rarefied atmosphere of late.'

'What are you talking about, Margaret?' Martha Dalton asked. 'She was getting back at me,' John Clayton told her. 'I shouldn't patching up this ship's galley for another run. We'd have a decent new house, she sniffs.'

'Who are the poor? In fact they are those people who have insufficient food, clothing and shelter. In imagination they are the people who are discontented with their lot.'

'It takes character to live now-days. There are two ways of living and both are hard. One way is to join the rushing, pushing, elbowing crowd of money-makers, the other is to make a place for oneself where one can live wholesomely and unostentatiously and do a protecting mantle of philosophical prosperity without a jealous pang.'

between the girl sitting on the arm of John Clayton's chair and the one leaning earnestly against the table and facing him. But in that fleeting look which lived for just an instant in the faces of the two girls Nurse Dalton had read the question: 'Have you told?'

John Clayton himself was doing some thinking. Fettered from what he had observed of the girls' actions on the day they had received word that Jim Elwell lived and partly from what had just taken place in his presence, he had come to some sort of an opinion. He was keeping it to himself, but John Clayton had a way of keeping a great many thoughts to himself. It all fitted in so well with his practice of human nature study.

'I suppose,' remarked the old nurse, 'if you think an old nurse hasn't any business to be romantic, don't you? Well,' she went on, 'I'm not exactly a matrimonial bureau but I do love a pretty romance and it seems to me that Jim and this Nellie Downing would supply a good one.'

'That is,' she amended, 'if everything did turn out all right and Jim did get his memory back. Perhaps I'm being too optimistic in my old age, but you see, my dear, I've been through great deal and I've seen very unhappy situations turn out happily. Yourselves, for instance, look where you are now—and for eighteen years it seemed that we never would find out the secret surrounding your tragic birth.'

'I think it would be just lovely, too,' came Rusty's smiling donation. 'But of course,' she added indignantly, 'there is little chance of your imaginary romance coming true, Dally darling.'

'I did, he agreed, gravely. He was glancing sideways rather sharply at the girls. 'It certainly would be grand if Mollie and Martha Dalton and Nellie were to get together and be married to each other. I know something of the way she has nursed Jim and been his constant servant.'

'What are you talking about, Margaret?' Martha Dalton asked. 'She was getting back at me,' John Clayton told her. 'I shouldn't patching up this ship's galley for another run. We'd have a decent new house, she sniffs.'

'Who are the poor? In fact they are those people who have insufficient food, clothing and shelter. In imagination they are the people who are discontented with their lot.'

'It takes character to live now-days. There are two ways of living and both are hard. One way is to join the rushing, pushing, elbowing crowd of money-makers, the other is to make a place for oneself where one can live wholesomely and unostentatiously and do a protecting mantle of philosophical prosperity without a jealous pang.'

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Five Babies in Year Five babies born to her in less than a year has brought fame to Mrs. John Johnson of Tennessee. The 'catch' in it is twins, then triplets less than a year later. Varied comments are made. But despite all the sentimentalists who howl that 'any true woman weathers her baby always,' this is a little too much for even them to swallow.

The Gushers Speaking of the sentimental girls, one of these writes— 'There is no work and no glory that will recompense for the tragedy of going down to the grave without having brought into the world a child.' Such comments as these always make me think of the sophists, of old. The sophists, you may recall, had the little knack of creating an acceptable and worthwhile philosophy from whatever state in which they found themselves. We speak of 'rationalization' today. It is merely the very human process by which each and all of us cast about for reasons why we should find our own possessions and our own state infinitely superior to any other.

Almost Insulting But when a woman who herself happens to be a mother carries the idea of superiority to the grave that she counts as wants and tragic the years of great women who have done everything and had everything but a child, she is little short of insulting to such women as have made life worth living for other women's children and found recompense in full for themselves.

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN New York, Jan. 11.—The head that wears a crown differs not so much from the head that wears a felt sport hat. Women are women in the land of jade and ivory, as in the land of flippers and bobbed hair. And every girl likes strawberry ice cream.

Never before in the history of China has an empress of any other woman of royal blood allowed her face to be reproduced for the ho polloi.

Paris Approves Mrs. Jacobs did it with ice cream. Visiting an 'influential' American lawyer's wife in Peking, she hung her best pastels in the drawing room and invited the emperor and empress to view them. When they came, she served ice cream.

Great as was the thrill of painting an empress, it was no new experience to Mrs. Jacobs. She has done probably more celebrities than any other living painter. Presidents Harding and Coolidge, Bertha, Capt. Lawrence, Ethel Barrymore, Tagore, Alice Longworth, John Erskine, Clemenceau and Madame Wellington Koo are in her gallery, to say nothing of Chinese princesses, French counts, and Arabian poets.

Success in portrait painting rests first of all on the artist's ability to grasp personalities. It strikes the note that makes the model comfortable and gains his trust.

Chinese women and come European share delicate features, exquisite coloring and fragility, she says. 'But none of them know life as American women know it.'

face as pretty and as quiet as that of a doll. Put in comparison, a woman like Ethel Barrymore or Alice Longworth can lay claim to far greater beauty. Their faces show character molded by varied experience.

'Whereas Oriental women worship beauty for itself, American women want their faces to show intelligence. Alice Roosevelt, however, was the only woman of any race who actually asked me not to soften a single line in her face. I am 40, and I want to look 40,' she said, and she meant it.

THIS TELLS WHY THE BOY IS ALWAYS HUNGRY

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Every time a muscle moves fuel is burned. In the body, fuel is burned in the form of heat. The cold and working constantly will give off about six times the amount of heat given off by a banker in a warm office who has not even cooled off in getting there.

This Fable Has Analogies

By Olive Roberts Barton

Who are the poor? In fact they are those people who have insufficient food, clothing and shelter. In imagination they are the people who are discontented with their lot.

It takes character to live now-days. There are two ways of living and both are hard. One way is to join the rushing, pushing, elbowing crowd of money-makers, the other is to make a place for oneself where one can live wholesomely and unostentatiously and do a protecting mantle of philosophical prosperity without a jealous pang.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

Here are some questions which will make you put on your thinking cap. The correct answers appear on another page: 1—Who is the actor shown in the accompanying picture? 2—In what state is Atlantic City? 3—Who is manager of the Chicago White Sox baseball team? 4—Who plays the title role in the picture "The Great Gatsby"? 5—What state does David Reed represent in the Senate? 6—Where is radio station WJAZ? 7—Is the Panama Canal privately owned? 8—In what branch of sport has Bill Tilden won fame? 9—Who is author of the play, "The Show Off"? 10—Is the United States a member of the League of Nations? The royal road to success would have more travelers if there were not so many people looking for short cuts.

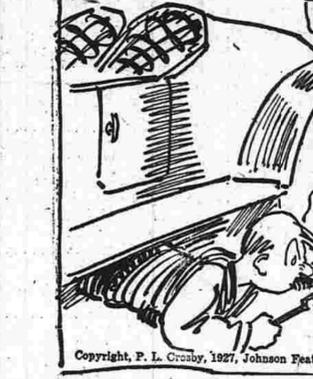

Where, Oh, Where A girl I like Is Ethel Sweet, She doesn't powder On the street Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union We'll now debate Both pro and con—What does Ethel Powder on? Wayland, Ga., Journal Herald Seein' that's the Point you're raisin, She powders on Every occasion. Young Bride—"I want a piece of meat without any gristle, bone, or fat." Butcher—"Lady, you don't want any meat—you want an egg." The youth called up the blond he met at the ball and asked for a date. "Forget it," she replied, "I can't go out with a baby!" "Gripes," said he, "I didn't know you were married." Most men don't wake up to find themselves famous. They usually dream they are famous and then wake up. According to the office girl the trouble with most "permanents" is the shortness of the wave length. The fine old names of Prudence and Patience for twin daughters are passe. The twins now have to be christened Extravagance and Hysteria. We wonder how Solomon's wives ever agreed on a color scheme for the living room. Some girls think that a domestic science course which teaches how to make fudge is complete. We know a girl who likes 'em so well that she calls 'em Cramberries. In the long run, prosperity depends upon hard and efficient work, fairly but not excessively paid for.

THE TINYMITES BY HAL COCHRAN

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture) Said Copsy, "Geo, how queer 'twill seem for us to drive a dog-sled team. Let's hop aboard and start away. I'll be the first to drive." Then someone asked, "Where sh... go?" And Copsy answered, "I don't know. We'll just start on, and then we'll know as soon as we arrive." They clamored on the funny sled, some far behind, some up ahead. And all this time the husky dogs were barking like the deuce. Wee Scouty shouted, "Crack your whip, 'cause that will start us on our trip." And Copsy did as he was told, which turned the big dogs loose. Away they went across the snow, and gee, how fast they seemed to go. The dogs were very strong ones like they have up where it's cold. A storm cloud broke up in the sky and snowflakes soon went whizzing by. "Be careful," Scouty shouted loud, "So you do not lose your hold."

ABOUT TOWN

As is their usual custom during the months the legislature is in session, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad will put on an extra train beginning Thursday of this week between Putnam and Hartford and return.

Two births took place at the Memorial Hospital yesterday. Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Armand Donze of 8 Ridgewood street and to Mr. and Mrs. Dyer Carroll of Buckland.

The Junior choir of the North Methodist church will rehearse this evening at the home of the Misses Lydall, 22 Hudson street.

Mrs. Fred C. Johnson of 3 1-2 South Main street and her mother, both of whom have been ill with diphtheria, are making encouraging progress. It is expected the quarantine will be removed within a week.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will have a meeting at the South Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Florence Mantell of School street who underwent an operation last week at the Memorial hospital, is improving.

The Ladies Benevolent society of the Center Congregational church will hold its annual meeting with election of officers in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The hostesses will be Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. Leonard Church and Mrs. A. Frank Cottrill.

The Girls Friendly society of St. Mary's Episcopal church will give their play "Local and Long Distance" at the entertainment following the regular meeting of Temple Chapter, O. E. S. in Odd Fellows hall this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rubinow of East Center street left this morning for New York City to attend the wedding of their cousin, Jack Epstein of New Rochelle. The reception will be held at the Royal Palm.

The annual meeting of the Second Congregational church will be held in the Sunday school room, tomorrow evening with election of officers and reports of all organizations affiliated with the church. A supper at 6:30 will precede the business meeting, arrangements for which are being made by the attendants of the church living on Main street, south of Woodland including Strickland, Hollister, Cambridge and Middle Turnpike. Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Strickland are chairman of this second supper in the series of five "church night" programs planned for the winter and spring.

Linne Lodge, No. 72 Knights of Pythias will install its new officers at the meeting in Orange hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

All Girl Scouts troops in town will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at the School street Recreation Center auditorium for their regular monthly get-together. Mrs. Eunice Case Holthent will be present to lead the chorus singing.

Stuart, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Wolcott of Hollister street, has returned home from the Memorial hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The Ladies Sewing Circle of the Concordia Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Elizabeth Caverly, past chief of Memorial Temple Pythian Sisters, will install the new officers at the meeting in Orange hall tomorrow evening. All officers will dress in white.

The Justamere Whist club will meet with Mrs. Frank Phelps of Phelps road tomorrow afternoon.

Progressive whist will be played at the Manchester Community clubhouse this evening, with four prizes for the winners. The committee in charge includes Mrs. W. A. Strickland, Miss Helen Maloney, Mrs. R. K. Anderson and Miss Florence Fitzgerald.

The Ladies Foreign Missionary society will join with the Ladies Benevolent society in the meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the Center Congregational church.

MOTHERS' CLUB TO MEET WITH MRS. HOWARD BOYD

Mrs. Howard Boyd of 70 Porter street will open her home to the members of the Manchester Mothers' Club, Friday evening, for their regular January meeting.

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, of the state board of health, will give a lecture on "Child Hygiene" and will exhibit stereopticon views illustrating his subject.

The hostess will be assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. Clarence Bissell, Mrs. Sherwood Gonlee, Mrs. Russell Hawley, Mrs. Samuel Mason, Mrs. U. J. Lupien, Miss Elizabeth Nolan, Mrs. Francis Miner, Mrs. W. D. Robb, Miss Ella Washburn, Mrs. Arthur J. Holmes, Mrs. Ralph Proctor.

BURNS CAUSE DEATH OF 2 YEAR OLD BOY

Gordon Lashay Dies When Scalded With Boiling Water At His Home.

As a result of severe burns suffered from a pan of boiling water which he upset while playing about his home Sunday morning, Gordon, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lashay, of 32 Walnut street, died yesterday afternoon.

The child had been in a serious condition from the time of the accident and slight hopes were held for his recovery. The child was severely burned about the body despite the fact that he was thickly clothed at the time. Gordon was playing about the kitchen with his father when he accidentally backed against the oil stove upsetting a pan of boiling water. The accident happened about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. A doctor was summoned and since that time the child had been in bed. Medical aid, however, could not save the child's life and death came at 12:15 yesterday noon.

Gordon was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lashay. He was two years and nine months old. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the late home. The body will be placed in the receiving vault in the St. James' cemetery.

HOOKS AWAY FROM SCHOOL IS KILLED BY A TRAIN

Norwalk, Jan. 12.—Dominick Paola, 13, died in Norwalk hospital yesterday of injuries received yesterday afternoon when he was run down by the Knickerbocker express on the New Haven railroad tracks in Springwood. Dominick went sliding instead of going to school and then wandered to the railroad where he was watching a freight train pass and failed to hear the express approaching on the track where he stood. He was tossed aside and suffered a fracture of the skull.

STORM DISRUPTS TROLLEY TRAVEL

Ploughs Did Not Arrive in Town Until Late—No Accidents Reported.

Yesterday's snowstorm, while more severe when it was on than any this winter, caused a lighter fall than those in December. About four inches fell during the day but a stiff wind made the weather very unpleasant.

Connecticut Company cars were slowed up and thrown off schedule considerably and it was late in the morning when a plow was put into operation on the Green and Cross-town lines. The Hartford and Stafford lines were kept open without the loss of much time.

Hampered Vision
 Automobile traffic proceeded slowly and with difficulty. The wind blew the snow onto windshields where it stuck and in many cases automatic windshield cleaners failed to clear the glass.

No accidents were reported at the police station but several narrow escapes from mishap were seen. Drivers realized that they could not make speed and slowed up their usual pace to some extent.

It was a regular Manchester Tuesday. It seems that when rainstorms or snowstorms of any severity strike the town, the day is always Tuesday. It cleared up last night, however, in time to allow shoppers to get to Main street.

HERALD ADVS. PULL OUTSIDE OF STATE

Woman in Bradford, R. I., Induced to Buy Coffee Percolator From Local Firm.

According to Royal D. Webster of the Manchester Electric Company, The Evening Herald's circulation reaches beyond the confines of Manchester and carries with it its selling power. Recently the Manchester Electric Co. received an order from a woman in Bradford, R. I. In her letter she enclosed a clipping of the advt. taken from The Herald and an order for one of the Landers, Fray & Clark coffee percolators. Check was enclosed for the percolator.

The lady stated that she had used Landers, Fray & Clark products for years and that she was so pleased with them that when she saw the percolator advertised at a bargain price she decided to get one at once.

NAME MRS. JOHN A. HOOD KING'S DAUGHTERS HEAD

Loyal Circle of Kings Daughters held its annual meeting with election of officers at the Center Congregational church Monday. Reports of the officers showed the following:

Circle to be in a flourishing condition. The attendance the past year has kept up unusually well and the report of the relief committee indicated that a considerable sum of money had been expended for fruit and flowers for the sick and shutins and in other forms of charitable work of the organization. The officers for 1927 are as follows:

Leader—Mrs. John A. Hood.
 Vice Leader—Miss Christine Miller.
 Vice Leader for Afternoon Group—Mrs. Lester Hobenthal.
 Secretary—Mrs. Rollie Hill.
 Treasurer—Miss Mildred Hinson.
 Work Committee—Mrs. Annesley Trotter.
 Relief Committee—Mrs. Charles Dotchin.
