

HOHENTHAL CARRIES DRY WAR TO BRITAIN

In London Declares He Will Close Up the Saloons Even If the People Do Regard Him as Another Pussy-foot Johnson.

England was introduced today to an American prohibitionist, crusade and a Manchester man is the leading crusader.

A cable bearing a London date-line reached The Herald today announcing the arrival of Emil L. G. Hohenthal, of this town, in the British capital. Immediately upon reaching London Mr. Hohenthal an-announced his intention of launching a prohibition campaign in England. "Close 'Em Up."

E. L. G. Hohenthal

"You can tell me another 'Pussy-foot' if you like," Hohenthal told English newspapermen. "I am out to close up your booze shops."

Mr. Hohenthal left Manchester on January 21, sailing from New York Saturday morning January 22. He said before leaving here that he was to make a tour of England and the continent in the interests of prohibition. He did not intimate that he was leaving to enter an intensive campaign against England's saloons.

Different Attitude

Previously Mr. Hohenthal has toured Europe lecturing against liquor traffic, but his statement to the English newspapermen hints that he plans to wage a different kind of war during this present European trip.

FILM EXPLOSION PUTS BIG PLANT IN PERIL

Three Persons Burned in Fort Lee Fire That Threatened Universal Studio.

West Fort Lee, N. J., Feb. 2.—Three men were seriously burned in a mysterious explosion today which wrecked the two-story film reduction plant of the Cello Film Company here, showering the studio and laboratory of the Universal Pictures Corporation with burning debris. Motion picture film valued at $2,000,000 was imperiled by the explosion.

The blast blew out the roof of the building and shot flames fifty feet or more into the air.

The emergency fire department of the Universal Company promptly got into action but owing to low water pressure the flames spread rapidly.

Six small storage buildings of the Universal Film plant were burned. The studio building was ignited but the flames were quickly got under control and the damage was not great.

Why Was He Murdered?

WHY was Garret Folsom wealthy bachelor, slain? Apparently he was a man who made friends easily and had few if any enemies.

What kind of brain could conceive of a plan so diabolically clever as to wait for Folsom to go in swimming and then stab him under water?

SMITH TO WIN SEAT IN VOTE OF COMMITTEE

Poll Shows Illinois Man Victor in First Step But Senate Is Likely to Reject Report.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Although favoring the seating of Col. Frank L. Smith of Illinois, the Senate Elections Committee discussed his case for two hours today without reaching a decision on his appeal for permission to take the oath of office at once, pending a final decision on the slush fund charges raised in his primary campaign.

The committee will meet again tomorrow.

According to a poll, the committee will draft a preliminary report recommending that the Senate permit Smith to take his oath of office at once. With Smith an actual member of the Senate, the committee then would proceed to an investigation of the slush fund charges.

Doesn't Insure Seat

This procedure by the committee, however, does not insure Smith's admission, as indications point to the Senate rejecting the committee's recommendation and again barring the doors to Smith.

The probability that the Reed committee will ask the Senate in the near future to impose jail sentences upon three of Smith's supporters in the recent Illinois election will not enter into the question of seating him. The Reed committee will, however, meet Monday to decide what course to take in citing for contempt those friends of Smith who refused to answer questions at the Chicago inquiry last year.

Threatened

Those threatened with jail sentences are Samuel Insull, multi-millionaire utility head of Chicago who gave $158,735 to Smith's campaign; Robert E. Crowe, Insull's attorney of Chicago and possibly Daniel F. Schuyler, an Insull attorney who contributed $3,600 to Smith.

Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, who refused to tell where he got $50,000 which he contributed to the campaign of William S. Vare in Pennsylvania, lost his entire office equipment.

So quickly did the flames spread that when the first firemen reached the building women were clinging to fire escapes in the rear, their escape by stairs being cut off.

Prests attached to the adjacent church participated in the rescue work.

WATERBURY BLAZE HITS ANNIVERSARY

Half Million Dollar Fire Comes on 25th Return of Conflagration Date.

Waterbury, Feb. 2.—Coming on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the great conflagration that wiped out the heart of Waterbury's business district, a fire of unknown origin today destroyed the Moriarty building, a large frame structure on East Main street, doing damage that may total $500,000.

Five companies of the fire department fought the blaze for hours after rescuing ten women from the rear of the structure, which was used for tenements. Adjoining one side of the building is the Immaculate Conception church and on the other the Klalto theater. The old Fox theater stand side by side. The fire threatened to spread each way. The blaze lighted the entire city.

Stores and Offices Swept

Seven stores and a score of offices were gutted by the blaze. Among the stores were Shalitz's, dyers, Butler Printing Co., Sunday Tribune, a restaurant, a shoe store, and a fruit store. Several professional men's offices on two upper floors also were destroyed. John Moriarty, owner of the building, lost his entire office equipment.

So quickly did the flames spread that when the first firemen reached the building women were clinging to fire escapes in the rear, their escape by stairs being cut off.

Prests attached to the adjacent church participated in the rescue work.

SCOLDS JOHNSON FOR 'RIPPER BILL' OFFER

Stamford Mayor Tells Manchester Man to Keep Hands Off; Not Guilty, Says Judge.

Hartford, Feb. 2.—Mayor Alfred N. Phillips Jr., of Stamford today sent a protest telegram to Rep. Johnson, of Manchester, because of an alleged "ripper" bill that Mr. Johnson presented to the Legislature last week.

"I am capable of putting our own house in order," Mayor Phillips declared, and "we want no interference from Hartford." The mayor accused Mr. Johnson of trying to put over a "Bridgeport ripper bill" on Stamford.

"I have absolutely nothing to do with any 'ripper bill' matters affecting Stamford," Mr. Johnson declared when he received the telegram. "I know nothing of the import of the bill. It was handed to me for presentation by Daniel F. B. Hickey, house clerk."

By the time Mr. Johnson discussed the situation, Mr. Hickey was on his way back to Stamford.

The state legislature today almost made a record for brevity, meeting for a few minutes to act on two bills in each house, and adjourning until tomorrow. Committee hearings caused the short morning session.

The Senate appropriations committee reported favorably on granting $8,000 for the state firemen's association.

SCARY WOBURN FIRE

Two Tanneries Burn, Fifty Roof Fires Start.

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 2.—This city was thrown into a turore of excitement today as two leather factories burned and sparks started no less than fifty roof fires. Fire officials estimated that the fire damage would be over $100,000.

Residents of adjacent streets ran from their homes and assisted the firemen in extinguishing the roof fires.

The plant of the Ballard Patent Leather Company where the fire started, was destroyed and the factory of the Robertson Leather Company, a quarter of a mile away, was fire swept. A lumber yard was in danger but firemen succeeded in stopping the flames after two buildings in the yard had been destroyed.

MURDERER OF TWO POLICEMAN TO DIE

"Red" Moran, Cold Blooded Slayer, Gets His Wish of Going to Electric Chair.

New York, Feb. 2.—Thomas (Red) Moran, convicted of having shot and killed two policemen, was sentenced by County Judge George W. Martin in Brooklyn today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison during the week beginning March 14 next.

Moran was convicted of slaying Patrolmen Edward Byrn and Frank Sosklowicz when they stopped an automobile he was riding in to question him.

Defense counsel pleaded insanity but throughout the trial Moran insisted he was sane and declared he wanted to "go to the chair and get it over with."

Moran was declared to officers that she and her three children had been beaten severely by Lista before he retired last night.

"I'm sorry the way I did it, but my heart is lighter," she declared. "Now I feel that my children are safe."

WIFE, DAUGHTER KILL MENACING HUSBAND

Fear Driven, Cleveland Women Chop to Death Man Who Threatened Family.

Cleveland, Feb. 2.—Alternately wielding an axe and a hatchet, Mrs. Anna Lista, 36, and her daughter, Elizabeth, 13, early today dashed in the head of Anthony Lista, husband and father, as he lay sleeping in bed here, according to the woman's statement made to the police.

"I struck him first with an axe and then Elizabeth hit him with the hatchet," Mrs. Lista admitted. We were afraid for our lives; he had threatened to kill us."

The wife declared to officers that she and her three children had been beaten severely by Lista before he retired last night.

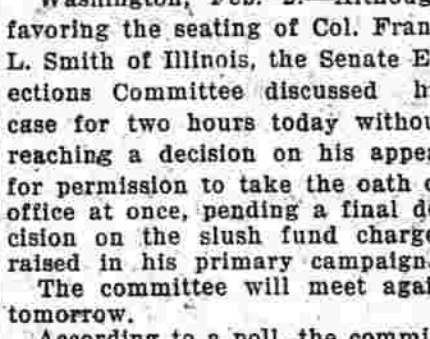

"I'm sorry the way I did it, but my heart is lighter," she declared. "Now I feel that my children are safe."

ROCK ISLAND PAYS DIVIDEND

New York, Feb. 2.—Directors of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad placed the common stock on a five per cent dividend basis today, when they declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share. This is the first dividend paid on the common stock since reorganization.

NELSON RESIGNS AS AN ASSESSOR

Tells Selectmen He Is Dissatisfied With Salary; Just Started Term.

Samuel Nelson, Jr., member of the Board of Assessors today sent his resignation to the Board of Selectmen. The board will take action on it at the next meeting.

Mr. Nelson has been a member of the Board of Assessors for three years and only last fall was re-elected for another term of three years. He has done the clerical work of the board ever since he has been a member of it and spent practically all his time on the work since early last spring.

Mr. Nelson was paid a weekly wage for his services during the summer and for the past three months, November, December and January the assessors received $500 each. It is understood that Mr. Nelson is dissatisfied with the salary and believes he can earn more money in his insurance business.

If his resignation is accepted it means that it will be necessary to elect two assessors next fall instead of one. As the work is now practically completed another assessor would not be needed until that time.

LIPTON, FREE OF TRADE, TO SEEK 'MUG' AGAIN

Hopes to Challenge For American Cup and Will Build a Cutter.

London, Feb. 2.—Sir Thomas Lipton, who has retired from active participation in the tea and chain grocery business that bears his name today, has been drawn from business will give him more time for yachting.

"I hope to enter a challenge for the American cup within the year," said Sir Thomas. "I hope to have a new boat designed for racing against an American boat next year, and it will probably be a cutter."

ILLINOIS CO-ED NINTH 1927 STUDENT SUICIDE

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 2.—Bernice Richardson, Milliken College co-ed, killed herself in the girls' dormitory yesterday after she had been notified of her failure to pass mid-term examinations.

Miss Richardson was the second American co-ed to kill herself in many days, and the ninth student victim of self-destruction since the first of the year.

Miss Richardson's home was in Mattoon, Ill. Monday evening the names of successful students in the examination were posted. Miss Richardson's was not among them.

Yesterday noon she was summoned to the president's office. She knew what it meant. Instead of answering the summons she went to her room and swallowed poison.

MAKE THRILL RESCUES IN BURNING HOSPITAL

College Infirmary at Ann Arbor, Set on Fire, Collapses As Patients Are Safe.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 2.—A fire today is believed responsible for a fire which destroyed the convalescent ward of the University General Hospital last night. The loss is $150,000. Between fifty and sixty patients, many of them on wheel chairs were said to safety on chutes, were removed from the flaming structure just before the roof collapsed.

CHINESE TO MERGE IF ALIENS FIRE SHOT

Manchu Officers Will Force Chang to Join Cantonese Against Foreigners; Chen Blames British "War Neurosis" For Peril; British Deny Negotiations Are Off; U. S. Isolated in Dealings; European Ships Seized.

London, Feb. 2.—Great Britain's proposals to China are being published tonight.

Since there is as yet no recognized government in Canton, Great Britain proposes that these proposals be incorporated in local agreements until such a time as it is possible to draw up a treaty with a recognized government.

Shanghai, Feb. 2.—The situation in the Shanghai Area was intensified today, with the Cantonese forces commencing foreign vessels for the transportation of Nationalist troops.

French, Swedish and Japanese steamers at various points have been forcibly taken over by the Nationalists for carrying their troops to Hankow, where the Nationalists are being concentrated for a counter move against the southward advance of the Manchurian forces of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin.

A report from Mukden, Chang's headquarters, said Chang's officials have declared that if a single Chinese is killed at Shanghai as a result of the influx of foreign troops, his officers will force Chang Tso-Lin to join the Cantonese forces against the British.

Can Be Settled, Says Chen

London, Feb. 2.—"A settlement can be reached at once if there is a cessation of the war atmosphere and the war neurosis created by the menacing concentration of British troops at Shanghai," declared Eugene Chen, Chinese Nationalist leader, in a cablegram to the Independent Labor party here today.

Chen declared that he had made flat statements to the British representatives that the international concentration of British troops at Shanghai will not be tolerated by Cantonese troops and that lives and property held in jeopardy by the forcible seizure of the international settlement at Shanghai. If this is the real aim and purpose of the British concentration there ought not to be any longer any anxiety or fear in view of categorical statements I have made today to the British representatives."

Still Negotiating

London, Feb. 2.—The British foreign office today denied that negotiations between Eugene Chen, nationalist leader in China, and British Charge O'Malley have broken down.

Apparently the government is instructing O'Malley to parley with Chen concerning the expedition which is being sent to China by Great Britain.

Hankow dispatches state that Chen has refused to sign an agreement with the British because the British are concentrating troops at Shanghai and for him to sign would appear to be an action under duress.

The foreign office issued the following statement:

"The report that discussions between charge O'Malley and Eugene Chen have broken off is incorrect. Information at present available is that in the course of negotiations regarding the future status of the British concessions at Hankow and Kiating incidents must be postponed."

The foreign office will publish the British proposals to China tonight. These proposals in general follow the outline given by Sir Austen Chamberlain in his speech at Birmingham on Saturday.

United States Isolated

Washington, Feb. 2.—The United States has been forced into a position of virtual isolation in its efforts to deal with the Chinese problem, developments today indicated.

While this government is waiting for a set of Chinese delegates to come forward to open negotiations for new treaties, the various Chinese factional leaders are apparently paying but slight attention to Secretary of State Kellogg's proposals. At the same time Japan and England, two other powers with important interests in China, are treating with China independently of the United States. France, the fourth major power interested in the far east republic, has moved neither to support the American stand nor to adopt a course of her own.

Of U. S. Own Choosing

The independent stand of the United States almost entirely at this government's choosing. That this position will be adhered to for the time being is borne out by comments of State Department officials today on the negotiations between the British and the Cantonese at Hankow. These officials explain that developments at Hankow are of only academic interest to the United States and while they are being closely watched they have not reached a point where they might influence the attitude of this government.

Observers here point out that the divergence of action by the Noted Alienist Blames Uncertain Philosophies For Upsets — World Unrest Phase, Says Bishop.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—With the death of Bernice Richardson, 20-year old Milliken college co-ed, enrollment in the "suicide class of '27" today stood at nine.

That number of students, seven boys and two girls, have taken their own lives in American universities in the past thirty days, an average of one every 78 hours, or approximately one every three days.

What is back of this alarming wave of self-destruction? Educators, ministers and alienists, thoroughly aroused, have joined forces in a concerted effort to fathom causes underlying this weird epidemic and to adopt measures to stamp it out.

Phase of Unrest

Officials and faculty members of Chicago and Northwestern Universities are known to be studying the situation. While officials refused any definite announcement concerning their plans they admitted the subject was being given serious study.

Many views, some of them extreme, have been advanced as to the cause of this unprecedented wave of suicide. Rt. Rev. Thomas C. Darst, chairman of the Bishop's Crusade of the Episcopal Church, had this to say:

"These suicides are but one phase of the restlessness, the murmurings, the rebellion and the turmoil which the world is experiencing. All of it indicates the desperate need for the Kingdom of God to become a reality. When our young people, especially our students, begin to commit suicide in numbers, it is evident that existing conditions are radically wrong."

Dr. William J. Hickson, noted alienist who attracted nation-wide attention through his efforts to fathom the mentality of Leopold and Loeb, college-boy slayers of Bobby Franks, believes "suggestion" may have a big part in the current epidemic, meaning that the example of the first two or three suicides inspired the tendency in other depressed students.

Blames Mechanistic Philosophies

Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the Peoples church, blames the present educational system for the high rate of self-destruction. He says:

"Our universities make a mistake of teaching uncertain philosophies which rob life of its ideals. What do any of us know for certain? These materialistic, mechanistic theories only tear down our treasured ideals and take all the heart and beauty out of life."

Dr. Bradley pointed out that all of the students who have killed themselves since the first of the year were students of philosophy.

A prominent medium at Madison, Wis., goes so far as to assert that the wave of self-destruction is the result of a nation-wide suicide pact entered into by students whose purpose is to attempt solution of the mysteries of the hereafter.

Eastern Connecticut Mills Busier Than In Years Before

Norwich, Feb. 2.—Textile mills in Eastern Connecticut are showing more signs of activity this winter than in years before, and rumors of the plants moving south are dying away. Even the Connecticut Mills, which have decided definitely to depart from New England, are running to capacity.

Among busy plants in this section today are Plainfield, 1,250 hands; Tataville, 2,200 hands; Baltic, 600 hands; and Mousup, 600 hands, all on cotton work. Sixteen hundred workers in the mills at Grovesvorne have been given overtime work for several hours a day, while 800 people in the Pico mills at Killingly are on day and night shifts.

Full time employment, with some overtime, has come to the Wauregan Mills, 500 hands, and Lockwood Mills, 500 hands, while the Ashland Mills, employing 500, are working night and day. The mills at Occum are on full time.

For the first time in three years the Eagleville mills in Tolland county are turning out material, while the finishing plants at Greenfield, Glasgow, Jewett City, Aspinock and Sterling, employing a total of 2,000 people, are busier than they have been for two years.

Thread mills are on full time this winter, and most of the worsted and woolen mills are in better shape, according to their officials, than they have been in months. Briggs Mill, Sterling, is working on day and night shifts.

MAY BRING END TO SMUTTY PUBLICITY

"Peaches" Case Likely to Cause Secrecy Law In Opinion of Judge.

New York, Feb. 2.—"Daddy" and "Peaches" today retired to their respective apartments to rest and recover, if possible, from the charges and countercharges which they hurled at each other during the trial for separation in White Plains.

The honking geese and the rubber eggs have had their day in court, and now the attorneys for Edward West Browning and his young wife, the former Frances Heenan, are engaged in preparing briefs which they will submit to Justice Seeger within two weeks.

The judge will then study these documents, the testimony given during the trial, and eventually, in perhaps a month, he will render his decision.

Won't Know Status

Not until then will "Daddy" know how large a slice of his reputed millions will go to the youthful "Peaches," if any; nor will she know whether she and "Ma" Heenan can continue to live in luxury or whether they must go back to their former roles of shop girl and news reporter.

The only tangible result of the performance so far is considerable wear and tear suffered by the White Plains court house at the hands of the mob which witnessed the trial, and a strong movement to have some litigation held in private in the future.

Justice Seeger himself announced that if ever again such a case comes before him, he will bar the public from the court, and also the press.

He believes that before another year is passed a statute will stand on the books making secrecy in such a case mandatory," he said.

London, Feb. 2.—Great Britain's proposals to China are being published tonight.

Since there is as yet no recognized government in Canton, Great Britain proposes that these proposals be incorporated in local agreements until such a time as it is possible to draw up a treaty with a recognized government.

Shanghai, Feb. 2.—The situation in the Shanghai Area was intensified today, with the Cantonese forces commencing foreign vessels for the transportation of Nationalist troops.

French, Swedish and Japanese steamers at various points have been forcibly taken over by the Nationalists for carrying their troops to Hankow, where the Nationalists are being concentrated for a counter move against the southward advance of the Manchurian forces of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin.

A report from Mukden, Chang's headquarters, said Chang's officials have declared that if a single Chinese is killed at Shanghai as a result of the influx of foreign troops, his officers will force Chang Tso-Lin to join the Cantonese forces against the British.

Can Be Settled, Says Chen

London, Feb. 2.—"A settlement can be reached at once if there is a cessation of the war atmosphere and the war neurosis created by the menacing concentration of British troops at Shanghai," declared Eugene Chen, Chinese Nationalist leader, in a cablegram to the Independent Labor party here today.

Chen declared that he had made flat statements to the British representatives that the international concentration of British troops at Shanghai will not be tolerated by Cantonese troops and that lives and property held in jeopardy by the forcible seizure of the international settlement at Shanghai. If this is the real aim and purpose of the British concentration there ought not to be any longer any anxiety or fear in view of categorical statements I have made today to the British representatives."

Still Negotiating

London, Feb. 2.—The British foreign office today denied that negotiations between Eugene Chen, nationalist leader in China, and British Charge O'Malley have broken down.

Apparently the government is instructing O'Malley to parley with Chen concerning the expedition which is being sent to China by Great Britain.

Hankow dispatches state that Chen has refused to sign an agreement with the British because the British are concentrating troops at Shanghai and for him to sign would appear to be an action under duress.

The foreign office issued the following statement:

First Meeting Friday to Discuss Details For Manchester's Premier Social Event.

The following committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the annual Masonic ball to be held by Manchester Lodge No. 78, A. F. & A. M.

W. G. Glenny, chairman; Holger Bach, R. O. Cheney, A. T. Dewey, H. E. Montie, J. H. Hyde, Walter Waddell, W. J. Thornton, R. Lamotte Russell, E. J. Holl, Chas. Bunnell, R. W. Goslee, L. H. Heebner, M. Park, Jas. McCaw, N. B. Richards, Harry Trotter, W. W. Robertson.

The first meeting of this committee has been called for Friday night at 6 o'clock at the Sheridan hotel, where supper will be served.

The sub committee appointed and various details arranged in order to make it one of the leading events of the season.

This occasion is always looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by the members of Manchester Lodge and their friends together with many of the Masonic fraternity from surrounding towns and cities in this locality.

"DRAG" FOLK, FREED, SAY THEY WILL SUE

Actress and Director Engage Counsel For Action Against Bridgeport Hotel.

Bridgeport, Feb. 2.—With serious charges against them notified in police court today on payment of $25 and costs, Mrs. Serge Treshant, of Stamford, appearing on the theatrical stage as Beverly Elmer, and Edwin Elmer, stage director, announced they had engaged counsel to start a suit for $100,000 against the Arcade Hotel, of Bridgeport, for defamation of character.

Miss West is appearing here in "Drag" and Elmer is the stage director. They were arrested in the Arcade hotel yesterday morning by a police sergeant who declared he had been called by the room clerk. Elmer insisted he was merely calling on Miss West in her room, talking over affairs of their show.

BARGAIN VAUDEVILLE AT STATE TOMORROW

Seats in the State theater will be at a premium tomorrow night when eight acts of vaudeville will again be presented. The State management has inaugurated a new Thursday night policy and for the past three weeks it has been "Packing them in." For the same vaudeville admission price eight full acts of vaudeville and the feature picture are presented.

Tomorrow the feature picture will be "Hotel Imperial," featuring Pola Negri. On Friday and Saturday the usual five acts of vaudeville will be presented.

The kiddie Saturday matinee coupon will appear in The Herald Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

SMITH, SISWICK TO BE TOLLAND COMMISSIONERS

Hartford, Feb. 2.—Tolland county commissioners were elected in the Lower House of the legislature today and their names will be presented before the Senate tomorrow. They are Harry C. Smith, of Vernon and George Siswick, of Stafford.

Their terms are for four years from next October 1. Mr. Smith was also elected to fill a vacancy now existing in the commission.

BOSTON-MAINE TO TRY DIESEL ENGINE

Orders Trial Locomotive of Revolutionary Type From German Krupps.

Boston, Feb. 2.—Management of the Boston and Maine railroad announced today that within a few months the road will add to its fast freight service 26 new locomotives, latest products of American and German manufacturers.

The railroad has arranged to have sent from the Fried Krupp works at Essen, Germany, a trial locomotive—the first Diesel direct-drive locomotive to be operated in the United States, and specifications are being prepared for bids on twenty-five heavy duty steam "full jeweled" locomotives.

Expect No Lay-ups. The new locomotives will be the first to be bought by the railroad in four years.

The Diesel geared locomotive, which burns crude oil, can be used for either freight, passenger or switching service. Unlike steam locomotives, according to the announcement, the Diesel geared locomotive can be kept on the road almost constantly.

CHINESE TO MERGE IF ALIENS FIRE SHOT

(Continued from page 1) Powers has greatly strengthened the position of China. Heretofore the powers have been more or less united and thus have been able to keep Chinese aspirations safely in check, but now, with the foreign front broken up, the Chinese are making appreciable headway in their program for obtaining complete equality.

Might Compel Union Military expediency may bring about a union of forces in the event of hostilities or an open break, but even this cooperation will be avoided as long as possible, government officials indicated.

It is explained in this connection that the movement of additional American naval forces toward China is not being made in conjunction with the British. Both President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg have declared that American and British governmental interests in China are not antagonistic, inasmuch as the United States has no "ambitions" to defend.

Nevertheless the powder keg on which both powers happen to be sitting at this time is in Shanghai and this government's interests in that city are similar to those of Britain, although they do not take the form of concessions.

Meanwhile the government is withholding official comment on the Chinese problem even to the point of refusing to divulge information concerning developments immediately affecting American citizens. No statements or reports have come out of the State Department since last Thursday and the carefully guarded news that 1,200 marines were being sent to Chinese waters was made public only because of a "leak."

MANY ARRESTED IN ALLEGED MEX PLOT

Leaders of Catholic Organizations Among Those Seized in Tampico District.

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—Scores of persons have been arrested in Tampico, following the discovery of an alleged Catholic plot against the Calles government, according to dispatches received here today.

Leaders in Catholic organizations, including the Knights of Columbus, are said to have been arrested.

The alleged plot is understood to have been fomenting for many weeks, the instigators having been active among workers in the Tampico oil fields.

The arrests which have been made were carried out in widely separated parts of Tampico.

COMMIT MANCHESTER MAN FOR INSANITY

David Powers, who makes his home with his brother Ernest Powers of Chestnut street, became violently insane last night and after he had been examined by a local physician he was hurried to the retreat at Middletown in Holloran Brothers' ambulance. A complaint was received by the police at 10:30 last night, Sergeant John Crockett who was delegated to investigate immediately got in touch with Dr. Howard Boyd who examined the man and ordered him taken to Middletown.

Author "Finds" Fictional Guide

Portland, Me., Feb. 2.—Gilbert Patten, author of the Jack Lockwill strip now proving a big smash hit with readers, returned here today from a short hunting trip.

He met a guide in the vicinity of Moosehead Lake, which lake recently had the distinction of having Champion Gene Tunney fall into it. This guide in all seriousness told the author he was the guide of "Frank Merriwell."

Patten, under the name of Burt L. Standish wrote the "Frank Merriwell" series and laid some of the scenes in this territory.

AUTO SHOW HERE ON MARCH 10-12

Will Be Strictly Local Enterprise—Twelve Dealers to Exhibit.

The Manchester Auto Dealers Association will present the latest models of the cars they represent under the auspices of Co. G., Connecticut National Guard, in an automobile show at the State Armory March 10, 11 and 12. This year's show will be strictly a local enterprise. No outside promoter will be in charge as was the case in previous shows.

The show manager will be Captain Herbert G. Bissell of Company G. Thirteen members of the automobile association and three members of the National Guard company will constitute the committee in charge. The automobile dealer's committee is James Stevenson, George Betts and H. A. Stephens. The Co. G. committee is Russell Hathaway, Thomas Quish and Walter Tedford.

Twelve dealers will exhibit and the floor space has been divided among them. Accessories and other exhibits will be placed in the side rooms.

OPEN FORUM DEFENDS THE GODLESS IN LETTER TO HERALD

Editor of The Evening Herald: Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to comment on a statement made by Col. Agnew of New York on Sunday evening, Jan. 30 at the Center Congregational church. Col. Agnew stated that there were 10,000 persons in town who have not got their names on the church books. This is very serious. Col. Agnew also said that these 10,000 are Godless and it seems by Col. Agnew's statement that the good people of this town were so worried about their morals and social welfare that they have gone to the trouble of conducting a mission especially for their benefit and he calls on the business men to fight.

Who ever heard of a business man fighting?

But to return to the reason for the mission and the moral and social welfare of the 10,000 not affiliated with any church. As for their moral welfare I would like to ask Col. Agnew as it comes the nearest to him, or woman is the last states prison offense committed? Was it among these 10,000 Godless people or inside the church? Oh no. We had to step inside the folds of the church only a few weeks ago to find it. But of course no long hair or woman is a church member it matters not what they do. It seems that Col. Agnew's chief objection to these people is because their names are not on the church books.

I wonder if when we all stand in the presence of God will He ask each and every one of these 10,000 were their names on the church records and if they answer in the negative will He say "Depart from me, ye cursed?"

Perhaps the people who do not attend church have good reasons for not doing so. It is quite possible that if there were not so many hypocrites inside the church there would be fewer God-fearing (not Godless) men and women on the outside. What the churches need to do is to convert the church members including the clergy and then there will be no need of a mission to bring the 10,000 God-fearing people into the church.

SURPRISE MRS. CARGO

The Women's Missionary society of the Nazarene church very pleasantly surprised one of their members, Mrs. John Cargo of Pearl street, yesterday afternoon on the occasion of her birthday.

Mrs. Cargo was presented with a fine potted fern as a token of esteem. Refreshments were served, and the afternoon was spent very pleasantly, Mrs. Woods favoring the company with piano selections and some of the other members also taking part.

CARPENTERS HERE WANT $9 PER DAY

Notify Contractors They Seek Increase After May 1 This Year.

Local carpenters have notified the contractors of their demands for an increase of a dollar a day for their services after May 1. The present schedule is $8 a day and they are out for $9.

In an interview this morning at least three contractors said that to them it was a very inopportune time to seek an increase. The building prospects in Manchester, and for that matter throughout the state and nation, do not look very promising.

The increase in the cost of labor means that it will cost more to build. The contractors argue that it is discouraging to young people who are thinking of building to find that it is going to cost so much more. The contractors discourage the idea but will meet later to determine what can be done.

TWO NONAGENARIANS IN TEMPERANCE UNION

Mrs. Anna Hastings and Mrs. Jane Tracy Are Both 93 Years of Age.

Unusually interesting and well attended was the meeting of the W. C. T. U. held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. B. Mann of Linden street. It was a memorial program of the life of Frances Willard, author, educator and president of the National W. C. T. U. in 1879.

The local Union has two nonagenarians among its members, Mrs. Anna Hastings, of Highland Park and Mrs. Jane Tracy of South Main street. Both are 93. Mrs. Tracy had a birthday yesterday and the Union remembered her with flowers. She is reported to be in good health at present.

Four new members were welcomed into the Union yesterday. At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments.

A. & P. STORES PLAN STRONG COMPETITION

That the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, with several chain grocery stores in Manchester, intends to spend $2,000,000 in this district, with headquarters in Springfield, Mass., was disclosed today by P. S. Comstock, general manager of the Springfield branch. The money will be expended in the construction of a $450,000 bakery in Springfield, in establishing new stores, and in meeting competition throughout the area controlled from Springfield.

The new bakery will begin operation about April 1 and goods will be distributed at all stores operated from the Springfield headquarters. An expansion of the meat departments of the A. & P. stores is also planned, with some of Springfield's largest meat packers already preparing to deliver large quantities of their goods to the A. & P. warehouse in Springfield.

STATE BANKRUPTCIES FEWER

New Haven, Feb. 2.—Fifty-five petitions in bankruptcy were filed in the United States District court for Connecticut during the month of January. The number was a large decrease from that registered in January, 1926, while the liabilities involved this January were very much smaller than those in January of last year.

TWO PROPERTY SALES

Robert J. Smith today announced two property sales made through his agency.

WHITNEY ENTERTAINS AT KIWANIS LUNCHEON

Famous Impersonator Gives One of His Best Numbers at Hotel Sheridan.

Edwin H. Whitney of Boston, well known story teller and entertainer gave the Kiwanians at their meeting in the Hotel Sheridan this noon, in the 20 minutes allotted to him, one of the best programs it has been their privilege to enjoy.

Mr. Whitney told some of his experiences in the 24 years he has been before the public as a platform entertainer. He related off in rapid succession story after story, changing from the dialect of a Down East farmer to that of a southern gentleman, and with plenty of Irish wit mixed in. His facial expressions and clever impersonations kept the Kiwanis members in an uproar from the minute he started until he stopped, except when he gave the men something to think about by a little poem he recited on making people laugh.

Edward F. Taylor sang two solos and President William A. Knofla in behalf of the club presented to Charles Ray a past president's pin.

Scott Simon and Gigan Lewis, were formally introduced to the club by the chairman of the Educational committee, Rev. W. P. Reidy.

The attendance prize was won by Wilbur Messier. It was a box of candies sent direct from California by Clifford R. Bissell who is out there for several weeks.

DECORATORS BUSY BEAUTIFYING HALL

All in Readiness For A. O. H. Golden Anniversary Tomorrow Night.

Decorators are busy today putting the finishing touches to Knights of Columbus hall on Bissell street which will be the scene tomorrow night of the golden anniversary celebration of Division No. 1 of the A. O. H. It is expected that there will be about 250 present, many of them guests from out of town.

The Warranoke Inn will be used as a reception hall to receive the principal speakers and guests as they arrive in town. Out of town guests will also be received before the banquet begins in the lounging rooms upstairs in the K. C. hall.

A corps of waiters will arrive early tomorrow to begin preparations for the banquet.

CITY CLUB TO NAME BANQUET COMMITTEES

At the regular monthly meeting of the Manchester City club tomorrow evening the committees to take charge of the annual banquet will be named. The annual banquet comes as a general rule in April. Because of the desire of the club to make the affair this year as elaborate one it is planned to name the committees early so that the members can have plenty of time to plan for the dinner.

At tomorrow night's meeting several other important business topics will be brought up. Following the meeting a buffet luncheon will be served.

NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 2.—See-sawing up and down Broadway, I came upon Charles Chaplin, seemingly escaped from his lawyers and troubles and having a most merry time at the annual gambol of the Lambs Club. . . . And most riotously was he received by his fellow actors. . . . Will Rogers, who had left his mayoralty chair on a California hillside to attend the festivities, gave Charlie a typical Rogers greeting. . . . "We don't care if Chaplin has a wife every week," said he, "we want him to keep on taking pictures." . . . And Charlie seemed vastly pleased.

Saw Flo Ziegfeld, minus the mustache which these many years has aided him in appearing dignified. . . . And why he dispensed with it he will not tell. . . . Mayhap his good wife, Billie Burke, may have complained—as have so many wives—that it scratched her face. . . .

Saw Al Jolson attending the birthday party of a rising young screen star. . . . Saw Sam Bernard in the process of celebrating a half century on Broadway by returning to musical comedy. . . . And among the members of his company I caught the name of one, Miss Goodie Montgomery, identified by the lobbyists as none other than the daughter of the late Dave Montgomery. . . . And since Fred Stone's little daughter, Dorothy, has been getting into the bright lights lately there seems reason to believe that the daughters may carry on the famous Montgomery and Stone tradition. . . .

Saw Eddie Foy, looking somehow like a shrunken old man and yet retaining that whistling, comic curl of the mouth that never failed to get a smile. . . . He's just finished his memoirs. . . .

Saw two camels gazing gloomily out of a Broadway window where they were doing advertising service. . . . Peering from the outside in was a shivering little bootblack who seemed completely hypnotized by wonder. . . . Inside a half dozen high-pressure salesmen were demonstrating the value of a certain automobile device. . . . The gaily blanketed camels looked wonderingly on. . . . What a strange oasis for these wanderers of the desert. . . . Perhaps the bootblack sensed this as he stood with unbelieving eyes. . . .

Whizzing by a snow-laden amusement park I was minded to compose a simile: "Deserted as a roller-coaster in winter."

Here's one going the rounds that attributed to Walter Winchell, a column writer of these parts:

"Two chorines met on Broadway. 'Who's the gentleman I seen you with last night?' asks the first. 'That wasn't a gentleman, I'm a brunet.'"

Johnny Held, who draws those high-proof flappers for the comic magazines, recently ran for constables or something in a nearby artist colony where he maintains a ranch.

Sending his campaign items about the county, he decided to keep tab on the newspaper notices. So he subscribed to a clipping bureau.

A couple of days ago he received a bulging envelope. For a time he glanced at the headlines and read:

"Held for Murder." . . . "Artist Held in Love Nest." . . . "Held for Trial." . . .

Then he stopped!

GIBERT SWAN.

Old Masters

Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting; The soul that rises with us, our life's star, Hath had elsewhere its setting, And cometh from afar; Not in entire forgetfulness, Nor yet in utter nakedness, But trailing clouds of glory do we come From God, who is our home, Heaven lies about us in our infancy!

Shades of the prison-house begin to close Upon the growing boy, But he beholds the light, and whence it flows, He sees it in his joy; The youth, who daily farther from the east Must travel, still is nature's priest, And by the vision splendid Is on his way attended; At length the man perceives it die away, And fade into the light of common day.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A play will be given at the senior class carnival by a cast of girls selected from the Soc and Buskin Club. The play is entitled "Sardines." The cast which has been selected is as follows: Anne Carroll, Zileen Donahue, Mattie Edson, Louise Phelps, Lucy Watkins, Edith Balch, Lizzie Pike, Madeline Woodhouse, and Alfreda Catherine Carney.

The Writer's Club held a meeting this afternoon. The essay was the topic brought up for discussion. This club has been formed for the purpose of encouraging writing among the students. At present there are only members of the senior class enrolled, but later on it is intended to allow underclassmen who have ability as writers to become members. Miss Viets, senior English teacher, is the faculty advisor.

The February issue of "Somanhis Events" will be published on the eighteenth of this month. It will be the Freshman number. All members of the Freshman class are invited and encouraged to write for this issue. All contributions should be in by the end of this week.

A feature of this month's issue will be a section given over to the various clubs of the school. The Latin Club, the German Club, the French Club, Le Verce Francais, and all the English clubs will make contributions. From each of the foreign language clubs the contributions will be in the original language of that club. This was successfully tried last year.

It is expected to enter "Somanhis Events" in the annual Columbia University Inter-Scholastic Publication Contest which will be held next month at Columbia University in New York. School publications from all over the country are entered in this contest annually, and the one selected as the best is recognized as the leading periodical of its class in the country.

Any publication that receives even honorable mention in this contest counts itself pretty well up in the list. "Somanhis" was entered for the first time last year, and received words of high praise from William Murphy, who was general chairman of last year's convention and contest.

The band will rehearse tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Announcement is made because bandmaster Harold Turkington is anxious that there be a full and prompt attendance. There is much work for the band to do, and only by full attendance at rehearsals can this be accomplished.

Bids to the Junior Prom are now being distributed throughout the school to all those who have applied for them. The Prom will be held the twelfth of this month. This event is always looked upon as the foremost social event of the year at the High school. This year's junior class is working hard to make the 1927 Prom the biggest yet held.

In speaking of social events, the question is being raised quite frequently among the students, "Why are there no social hours held?" There has been only one social hour this year at the High school. For a time the dancing classes took the place of such events, but now that these classes have been completed, there are no social hours of any kind being held in the school. The students are wondering why.

Preparations are being made for the Senior Class Washington Trip, which will take place the latter part of April. As usual, the seniors maintain candy booths in the main halls during recesses. A short time ago the Louise Phelps sponsored the Wesleyan Glee Club Concert, from which a considerable sum of money was realized for the fund. As was announced in yesterday's Herald, there will be a carnival staged by the Senior class the latter part of this month. The proceeds from this affair will go toward the Washington trip fund. One of the groups is planning a moving picture benefit, while the others have other plans in mind which will be worked out later.

The orchestra rehearsed this afternoon in the assembly hall. The High school orchestra has earned quite a reputation for itself this year, playing for this occasion, and that occasion. The orchestra appeared at the Town Player's presentation of "Dulcy" in the Circle theater a short time ago, and has played for the League of Women Voters at one of their conventions a couple of weeks ago, and for the Lincoln school Christmas tree party shortly before Christmas. Besides these public appearances the orchestra plays for the school assembly each week.

The orchestra is under the direction of Miss E. Marion Dorward, supervisor of music. It is a well trained organization, and is in reality a small symphony. It has a large and capable string section, a woodwind section, a brass section, and the drums and bells. The orchestra has grown remarkably since it was first founded three years ago by Miss Dorward.

The College division of the senior class is now taking up the study of "Comus," Milton's famous masque. Other works of Milton, including "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso" have been studied by this class previously.

LAMP SHADE CLASSES

A crystal bead lamp shade class will start at the West Side Rec on Monday evening, February 7 at 8 o'clock. This is open to all members of the Rec with no charge for instruction. The class will meet every Monday evening, and one may enter at any time after the opening date. Those wishing to attend should call or see Miss Hardy at the West Side Rec for information concerning the necessary materials.

HEBRON

A union meeting of the Christian Endeavor Societies of Hebron, Glend, Andover and Marlborough, was held at Marlborough on Sunday evening. Horace Porter carried a bus load of members from the center.

Miss Eunice Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Clinton Porter, has passed the probationary period as nurse at the Middlesex Hospital in Haddletown, and has been accepted as a regular student for trained nursing.

The Rev. John Deeter occupied the pulpit of the Hebron and Glend Congregational churches on Sunday, though he was still affected by his attack of rheumatism. Wintrop and Albert Hilding, who have been staying at the home of their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Forcer, for the last five weeks have returned to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hilding.

At the annual meeting of the Hebron Library Association Monday afternoon the following officers were endorsed from a slate made up at a previous meeting: President, Mrs. Charles J. Douglas; vice president, Edward Hilding; secretary, Mrs. Wm O. Seymas; treasurer, Mrs. T. D. Martin; board of directors, Mrs. Della Porter, Miss Clarissa Pondleton, Walter C. Hewitt, auditors, Mrs. Edmund Horton, Miss Susan B. Pendleton, Mrs. Marietta Horton was appointed a member of the association to take the place of Walter S. Hewitt, deceased. The treasurer's report showed a surplus on hand at the beginning of the year of about $150 more. There are also invested funds to the amount of a little over $1,500. The librarian's report showed that while there has been some falling off in book circulation in general there has been an increase in the circulation of books among school children. Twenty-nine new names have been added to the list of those taking books from the library. It was voted to add the names of the Rev. and Mrs. John Deeter to the list of members of the association. It was also voted to give the librarian, Miss Caroline E. Kellogg, leave of absence for two months with pay.

Mrs. Della Porter spent the week end at the home of her son, Roger W. Porter.

The eight teachers of the town schools were present at a teachers' meeting held at the Center on Monday afternoon. Reading devices were discussed and reports given on progress in various projects previously assigned and tried out in the schools.

Donald, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Robinson, was taken violently ill with high fever and convulsions Monday afternoon. He is under a physician's care and was reported as more comfortable.

Parachutes are now being used in dropping mail bags from airplanes.

BRIDLE PATHS

Very interesting is the proposal of Dr. G. E. Corwin, deputy state commissioner on domestic animals, to develop the old woods roads and perhaps make new slashes in the state forests and parks for the use of equestrians. Riding is making a surprising come-back in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, and despite the circumstance that there is scarcely any place suitable for the use of saddle horses, any more, larger and larger numbers of persons each year are learning to sit a horse or renewing their acquaintance with the long neglected exercise.

Of course the hard surfaced roads that have been built for automobiles are unfit for riding, as they are utterly destructive of horses' feet at any gait beyond a walk and are about as hard on the rider as on his mount. So that riders have to confine themselves largely to a few country roads, and even there are always likely to encounter the motor vehicle which is the bane of equestrianism.

Dr. Corwin's notion would seem to be a particularly good one were it not open to immediate objection on the part of the tax payer, who can claim, with a very considerable show of truth, that state money expended on bridle paths in state reservations would be decidedly for the benefit of a very small group, relatively speaking. To be sure, the amount of money so spent might be small, and the paths themselves might well be justified as fire breaks, but it is pretty certain that there would be a loud squawk from a lot of non-riders in case the project were undertaken.

Perhaps it might not be a bad notion to employ the license system to this problem as it has been applied to fish and game conservation. Very few persons who can meet the expense incidental to horseback riding would notice the slight burden of a small license fee required, say, of all pedestrians using the state bridle paths; and yet the total of such fees might easily meet the whole cost of creating and maintaining the riding ways, as the fishing license money meets practically all if not all the cost of stocking the waters of the state with game fish.

Such a system would silence the criticism which would be almost inevitable if it were proposed to devote tax money to the development of bridle paths.

CRUSADER

For the first time we have some doubts, some slight reservations in our enthusiasm for State Senator Frederick C. Walcott, president of the State Board of Fisheries and Game. Not by a long way, that our faith in the capacity of that gentleman has diminished. On the contrary, we are shaken in our desire to see him move up the line to the governorship, eventually perhaps to the United States Senate, only by a sudden conviction that such a career would be a waste of altogether unusual qualities of his which he has just allowed to become known. Commissioner Walcott's report is the trumpet call of a crusader. It is a message of truth in a wilderness of bunk. It is one of the most courageous documents we have ever seen emanate from a public official anywhere. It takes accepted sophistries by the slack of the pants and gives them the bum's rush.

"The trend from the country to the city; from the home to the apartment, from housekeeping to housebreaking"—exquisite crystallization, that!—"has become an immigration, an invasion. Soft living is conducive to soft bodies and dull minds. The scientists have added eighteen years to civilized man's natural span of life; the statisticians tell us that the workingman's hours of leisure have increased twenty per cent in twenty years.

"Can man's added years be made worth while? Are the increased hours of leisure to be spent in idleness, in being entertained by organized excitement, turning over his hard earned savings to the interests who have commercialized his desire for pleasure? The new leisure thus far means idleness, thoughtlessness and mischief instead of self expression, self improvement and meditation.

"With mass production and automatic power, automatic machinery and automatic music has come a decline in manual dexterity; the individual has become submerged. Civilized society seems on the verge of complete socialization, after the manner of the bees and the ants, in which the individual counts for nothing. Are we unprepared for this gift of leisure? Are we intelligent enough to turn it to our advantage or shall the surplus earnings of our new 'culture wage' be turned over to the manufacture of predigested automatic excitement?"

There is one effective cure for this condition, declares the commissioner—back to the country, breathe fresh air, own some land and live on it.

To that end Mr. Walcott summons the combined foresightedness of Connecticut to making the rural districts of this state as beautifully attractive as they should be—by conservation, by reforestation, by restoring the woods and the fields to naturalness and productivity.

Realization, vision, the courage of conviction ring in this report, which might have been expected to be a more or less inconsequential array of statistics.

Walcott's position in the public life of Connecticut ought to establish itself. His is the most resonant voice that has been raised against the fat stomach and the black cigar behind the automobile wheel, the program of loafism, by which many people are living. Leadership in this crusade is a big and splendid job—bigger and better than any to be offered by political convolutions. It is our hope that he sticks to it. Perhaps he could in time accomplish something for the religion of the true outdoors. We doubt if there is another individual in the state who could do as much for it—or any dozen.

MEDICINAL LIQUOR

We confess to complete inability to understand the necessity of the whiskey making corporation, which has been born in the brain of General Lincoln C. Andrews, as a source of supply for medicinal liquor. The plan is cumbersome, involved and calls for the investment of an unbelievable amount of money—on which somebody, naturally, is going to take a large amount of earning.

Andrews' argument that it would be excessively costly to supervise the manufacture of medicinal whiskey in established distilleries is not convincing. There have been very respectable people engaged in whiskey distilling. Even Mr. Mellon himself, whose rectitude is recognized even by his enemies, used to be a very extensive owner in whiskey plants. There are numbers of perfectly reputable distilleries in the country, idle because of prohibition, which are capable of manufacturing as good a grade of whiskey today as they ever did in the past. Distilling is not yet a lost art among those professionals who, out of respect for the law, no longer practice their vocation.

If Andrews should carry out his "threat" to license a number of such concerns to produce medicinal whiskey his department would probably have no more trouble in having the law complied with in that matter than is met with in any one of a dozen other activities carried on under government supervision—the certification of packing house products for example.

There is no sound reason for proceeding as if every distillery company in the country were an enemy of the nation, of criminal instincts and practices. If good whiskey can be produced and sold at eighty cents a pint on prescription, and if the distilleries can make a couple of hundred thousand dollars a year as salvage from the wrecking of their business in the interest of the moonshiner and the bootlegger, we see nothing in the proposition to scare anybody, not even the driest of drys. And there is something decidedly scary about the special corporation plan. It is redolent of potential graft.

PERIL IN CHINA

Contradictory reports follow each other from Washington as to the plan of the United States government with relation to the protection of Americans nationals in China. Sailing orders for a regiment of Marines to leave for the Orient tomorrow would seem to indicate that the government has at least some notion of depending on arms to prevent loss of American lives or property in the troubled areas of China.

It is increasingly doubtful whether, aside from any question of right or policy, it is possible to extend protection, there, by the employment of force. There is not the slightest similarity in the present situation and the Boxer situation twenty-six years ago. That was a matter of facing mobs in one Chinese province. Now it is a question of meeting, on its own ground, an embattled nation.

The latest news is that the officers of the northern army of Chang Tso-in are a unit in declaring their purpose of instantly joining forces with the Cantonese the moment foreign soldiers kill a single Chinese—and of expelling the invaders.

Such an exigency would, of course, result in the loss of ten, twenty, a hundred times as many lives as are now by any possibility endangered. And who can doubt that, unless at the end of a very long major war, the purpose of the "defense" would be defeated after all?

China is militarized—capable of conducting real warfare. And who knows what the attitude of Japan would be in case of such a conflict?

If foreign troops are employed in China there is almost certain to be a bloody time of it—and most likely disaster for the Caucasians engaged. We do not belong in that galley—why should we take an oar in it?

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

A HUNTED BIRD OF COLOR

By ARTHUR N. PACK, President, American Nature Ass'n.

In beauty and intelligence the pheasant ranks among birdland's elite.

When he lives in the open, unprotected by stringent game laws, he is harassed from morning till night by hunters and beasts of prey, and desperately tries to conceal his glittering beauty.

In England the pheasant shooting season lasts from Oct. 1 to Feb. 3. To prepare for this season pheasants are turned by game wardens into a preserve and bountifully fed for several months, becoming nearly tame. They are then jugged and shot down by hundreds; this can hardly be called sport!

Most pheasants have brilliant iridescent feathers, red facial skin, and long graceful tails. The Himalayan pheasant, of the Himalayas, one of the rarest and costliest of birds, has iridescent wings tinged with green, blue and wine-color; his head and neck are jeweled with orange and emerald green.

The male and female eared pheasants from China are alike—the only couple of pheasants of which this is true. Their tail feathers tinged with blue have been sacrificed for centuries to mandarins and milliners for use on hats.

It would be hard to distinguish all the varieties of pheasants, but among the most beautiful are the golden, the silver, and the amber. Fortunately very few pheasants are sold in the United States market for food because the demand for breeding purposes is greater than the supply. The ringneck, because it is hardy, and a great destroyer of harmful insects, is at present the most popular for breeding.

The establishment of pheasant game refuges and breeding farms by states and private owners will help to replace the vanishing wild life in America.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Feb. 2.—The world powers obtained their concessions and treaty rights in China partly by force and partly by bribery.

The susceptibility of Chinese officials to bribery has long been notorious. There has never been any adequate check to such practices and graft has permeated the whole system of Chinese government, both at Peking and in the capitals of the provinces. If the Cantonese Nationalists come to control the country a new order of things may be expected.

The first attempt on the part of a western power to establish relations with China was made by Queen Elizabeth, who sent a vessel in 1596 which did not arrive. The East India Company later established a trading base at Canton and Lord Macartney established an embassy in 1793 during the reign of Emperor Kien Lung. Lord Amherst, the second ambassador, was greeted insolently, however, and sent back home with an insulting letter because he refused to bow his head nine times to the ground before the emperor.

British animosity was aroused and subsequent events led to a series of military and naval movements which established western domination.

The Chinese were peace-loving, industrious and mercantile in spirit. They were poor soldiers, poorly equipped for fighting and lacking any martial tradition. Although they were courageous, they were subsequently slaughtered in great numbers by trained European units.

Despite their weakness, at the beginning of the western invasion, the Chinese were arrogant. Englishmen and Frenchmen were regarded as "barbarians." All men under heaven worship the emperor of China, was a national motto.

China had been the Athenian Greece of the east, radiating culture and enlightenment all about Burma and Tibet. No other sovereign could pretend an equality with the emperor and official documents described the British king as "reverentially submissive." Foreign diplomats were regarded as late as 1850 as little more than dust under the feet of Chinese officials.

Of course poor old China was riding for a fall. Time came when the despised powers were kicking her all over the place.

England began war in 1841, routing all forces which opposed her, and forcing the Chinese to sue for peace. The result was the treaty of Nanking, by which the ports of Canton, Amoy, Peking, Ningpo and Shanghai were opened to British merchants. Britain obtained permanent possession of Hongkong and an indemnity of $21,000,000 was paid.

In 1857 a Chinese refusal to apologize for seizing a Hongkong crew accused of piracy led to a declaration of war. The Chinese fleet was virtually wiped out and French and British troops took Canton. A treaty was then negotiated by which the British obtained more important concessions, but the French and English ambassadors were attacked while en route to Peking to ratify it and the allied forces marched into Peking, defeating Chinese armies on the way. The treaty was promptly ratified.

British penetration was extended when "Chinese" Gordon was loaned to the Peking government to put down the Te-Ping rebellion. In 1883 came the Franco-Chinese war over French domination in Tonkin, and in 1894 Japan gave China a bad licking and seized Korea. China had to give up Formosa, pay Japan a large indemnity and open up additional ports to foreign commerce.

In 1900 Secretary of State Hay effected the "open door" policy, which had as its object making China an open market for world commerce, establishing administrative reforms and strengthening the integrity of the imperial government.

But in the same year came the Boxer uprising, which ended with another allied occupation of Peking and other cities. Indemnity for massacre of foreigners was fixed at $735,000,000, but the United States was later instrumental in reducing this to $337,500,000.

Many Chinese have been grateful for these good offices of this country and for various examples of comparatively fair treatment at our hands. After the Boxer outbreak, Chinese students began to study in America and in England in larger numbers and hundreds of them are now among the leaders in the Nationalist movement.

In Peru a private company operates the postal system under contract with the government.

Your Income Tax

Salaries paid employees constitute one of the largest items of business expenses. To be allowed such claims must conform closely to the words of the revenue act of 1926, which provides for the deduction of "a reasonable allowance for personal services actually rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable and whether they are, in fact, purely for personal services. Money paid an officer of a corporation for which no services, or services inadequate to the compensation rendered, is not deductible as "salary." Reasonable compensation is held to be an amount that ordinarily is paid by like enterprises in like circumstances for like services.

For example, an officer of a corporation, received in 1926 compensation in excess of the amount ordinarily paid for services such as he rendered, and which bear a relationship to the amount of his stock holdings. The excess would not be treated as salary but as a distribution of profits upon stock, and the amount of such excess would not be considered a deductible item.

Bonuses to employees may be deducted by employers when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that, when added to the stipulated salaries the total does not exceed a "reasonable compensation for services rendered." When the amount of a salary of an officer or employee is paid for a limited time to his widow or heirs in recognition of services rendered by the deceased, such payments may be deducted. Salaries paid employees absent in the military, naval, or other service of the government, but who intend to return, are allowable deductions.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Nathan Forrest (9)

Fort Pillow, Forrest's next objective, was attacked on April 12, 1864. Even after capture seemed inevitable, the garrison, composed partly of negroes, resisted, and it was only after one of Forrest's officers had cut down the United States flag that the attack subsided. Reports of the "massacre" were carried to President Lincoln.

Lincoln, after hearing the facts of the case, was convinced that a "massacre" had taken place, but not at Forrest's instigation.

Wrath throughout the north flamed high at Forrest, but after the facts were known, the Confederate general was exonerated.

In May Sherman left Chattanooga on his famous march through Georgia. He reckoned with Forrest, assigning General Sturgis, with 8000 men as rear guard. It was not enough men. At Brice's Crossroads, Forrest, at the head of 2000 men, lashed Sturgis' forces into a pell-mell retreat that lasted all one night.

JACK LOCKWILL AT ROCKLAKE

by Gilbert Patten

"Blindfold him!" commanded the leader of the kidnappers. "Immediately one of the band stepped before Jack, holding a handkerchief that had been folded to tie over the eyes of the helpless captive. Through the eye-slits in the mask which the boys wore, Jack saw a pair of crossed eyes. He knew at once that the fellow was the boy called Crossfire, who had warned him to look out for Tom McNally."

"Stand still!" growled Crossfire in a disguised voice. "You'll scarcely feel it when the ax falls." Then, to his surprise, Jack felt Crossfire quickly cut the rope that held his hands behind his back.

Jack continued to hold his hands behind him. He was forced to mount the scaffold. "Kneel down, freshman!" ordered the leader. Then Jack snatched off the blindfold and kicked the headless figure at his feet. It was a dummy.

Uttering a whoop of laughing derision, Jack tore away from the hands that were holding him. "You're a bunch of bungling dubs!" he cried. "The Grand Vizier is a grand fliker, and the Bad Egg is rotten." Then, as their hands grabbed for him again, he smashed them aside. Whirling, he launched himself in a flying leap over the heads of the circle of fellows at the foot of the platform.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL FOR CIRCLE THEATER

Two Pictures Tomorrow and Friday—Last Showing of "Blonde and Brunette" Tonight.

Adolphe Menjou ends up his run at the Circle theater tonight in "Blonde or Brunette," the whimsical comedy which delighted Circle audiences yesterday and this afternoon. On the other hand, the Circle has booked for tomorrow and Friday two features, George O'Hara in "California or Bust," and "Lure of the Wild," with the Wonder Dog. That brilliant young comedian, George O'Hara, has struck his fourth home run on the F. B. O. field in "California or Bust," his latest starring vehicle which is showing at the Circle theater tomorrow and Friday. With three preceding successes to his credit, namely, "Going the Limit," "Is That Nice?" and "The Timid Terror," George has eclipsed his previous brilliant record and blazed a new trail to high-powered entertainment. Being a romantic appearing young man, possessing a genius for portraying comedy, the actor is happily cast in a picture that is rich in humorous situations and tender love scenes. The story, in addition to this, is jammed full of frills and excitement, and moves along at a thundering pace. Byron Morgan, who wrote the famous racing yarns for the late Wally Reid, is responsible for this classic of the dirt road, and O'Hara, whose hobby is driving, fairly glories in a role which permits him to indulge in his favorite pastime. Phil Rosen is to be commended for his splendid direction of this excellent cast which includes Helen Foster, John Fox, Jr., John Stepping and Irving Bacon.

The "Lure of the Wild" is a thrilling drama of the love of a dog. Playing the principal role is the Wonder Dog, Lightning and an all star cast supports him. Last call for Adolphe Menjou. He is here tonight for the last time in the comedy, "Blonde or Brunette," a picture that enthralls and amuses from beginning to end. Menjou is immense as the man who has to choose between a blonde temptress and a brunette siren, each of whom holds him in her grip.

Eternal Triangle

The eternal triangle, that perennially popular motif of the drama, has in this instance been adroitly made fun of in this picture by no less a personage than the ultra-debonair Mr. Menjou, with Greta Nissen and Arlette Marchal, as his chief antagonists. The French have always been clever in making froth of domestic oppressiveness and a neat Gaulic touch is much, in evidence in this offering, which was adapted from

COVENTRY

The Ladies' Fragment society will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter S. Haven. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith and two daughters were Sunday guests at Mr. and Mrs. S. Noble Loomis. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Highter of Hartford spent the week-end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Petr Nielsen. Miss Nelsine Nielsen of Manchester spent the week-end at home with her parents. The Misses Little and Marlon Eill and brother, Lawrence, who attend Rockville High School, were home over the week-end. Miss Ruth Taylor of Hartford spent the week-end at home with her mother, Mrs. A. B. Porter. On account of mid-year exams, Miss Laura K. Kingsbury remained at Storrs this week-end, but will come home Thursday for the remainder of the week. Saturday night will be the annual Christian Endeavor banquet followed by an address. John E. Kingsbury and Fred Pitkin of Manchester attended a meeting Monday at New Haven in the interest of producers of natural raw milk.

EIGHT ACTS AT STATE ON THURSDAY EVENING

Bargain Night Features Jazz Band—Black Bottom Contest Tonight With 2 Features.

Tonight the cleverest interpreters of the Black Bottom in this section will compete for honors on the State theater stage. Handsome prizes are to be awarded by the management to those who are judged the best. On the same bill will be two of the real big features, Ufa's "Faust," from the opera of the same name, and "The Price of Success."

Eight more big acts will be seen at the State on Bargain Night, tomorrow evening. On the same bill will be the Fashion Plate Trio, the smallest jazz band in the world, members of which play 25 different instruments. The other acts are big-time vaudeville sketches and the feature picture on the bill is Pola Negri in "Hotel Imperial," a Paramount production.

LITTLE JOE

SOMETIMES IT DOESN'T PAY A FELLOW TO PAY HIS GIRL'S YOUNG BROTHER TO TELL HIM WHAT SHE THINKS OF HIM.

Germany's leading directors. Particular interest attaches to the appearance of a new and important screen discovery in the role of Marguerite. This is Camilla Horn, a twenty-year-old girl whose beauty and sensitive response to the camera have roused great expectations. Gosta Ekman plays the title role, and Valentine, the heroine's brother, is played by Wilhelm Dieterle.

The Black Bottom contest this evening should bring out a record number of entries. The management has several names so far and expects more before the contest starts. The second feature on tonight's bill will be "The Price of Success," starring Alice Lake and Alma Bennett.

Next Week that spectacular film of a thousand thrills, "The Fire Brigade," will be shown at the State.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. Frank House and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Strong and Mrs. Emma Skinner all motored to Warehouse Point, last Monday evening and attended a whist and dance at the Parish House.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Johnson are both convalescing after an attack of the grip.

The Young People's play, "The Path Across the Hills," will be presented at the Staffordville Federated Church on next Thursday evening, February 3, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Rev. William D. Woodward, father of Rev. Truman H. Woodward, is pastor of that church.

Benjamin Hathaway spent Sunday with friends and relatives in New Haven.

A week from next Wednesday evening, February 9, there will be an interesting game of basketball between the Wapping Community Club five and the Cheney Brothers' club five, played at the Parish House here.

Every week day in the year there are sold 35,000,000 newspapers in this country. The number of families in the United States is estimated at 24,000,000.

NEGRI PICTURES
 Pola Negri returns to distinctly foreign roles in a wholly foreign background, in "Hotel Imperial."

The result has been acclaimed the greatest performance she has ever given, greater even than "Passion" which first brought her to the heights of fame. In order to give the picture a perfect foreign atmosphere, Paramount gave Miss Negri an almost wholly European cast and production staff. Erich Pommer, formerly head of UFA, Germany's leading film organization, produced it as his first in America. Mauritz Stiller, noted Swedish director, also makes his American debut with this film. The cast, besides Miss Negri, includes three Germans, two Russians and only one American, James Hall, who plays opposite the star.

The tremendous success which has been won by "Hotel Imperial" is attributed to "Bear out the contention that Miss Negri does her best work when portraying colorful foreign characters. In her supporting cast, beside Hall, are George Siegmann, Max Davidson, Otto Fries, Michael Vavitch and Nicholas Soussanin.

"Faust," the main feature of the Wednesday night bill is an adaptation of Goethe's tragedy of the same name, produced by the German UFA company and stars Emil Jannings, who made a hit in his first production shown in this country, "Variety."

FOLLIES BERGERE GIRLS AT STATE IN HARTFORD

"Kosher Kitty Kelly" Film Feature—Vincent Lopez Coming Next Week.

Heading the vaudeville program at the State theater, Hartford, for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is a remarkable production by the ten Follies Bergeres girls, who have made a sensation in Paris and on the continent as well as astonishing New York with their daring and versatility. These beautiful and graceful girls dance high above the audience, do spectacular fencing and otherwise entertain in a unique and delightful manner.

Co-featured with this striking novelty are the Henstreet Singers, an unusual organization of talented young women who were recently featured in the Greenwich Village Follies. They have effective costumes and settings and a magnificent repertoire of songs.

A third vaudeville presentation of exceptional merit is offered by the State in the Man Jean Troupe, which has a surprise novelty act that is a whirlwind affair of interesting features from start to finish.

The feature picture, "Kosher Kitty Kelly" is one of the most enthralling and dramatic stories of romance between the Irish and the Jewish youth of today that has ever been presented. Absolutely hilarious in some situations, of suspense and excitement in others, it holds the interest from first to last and has an all-star cast, featuring Viola Dana, Vera Gordon, Nat Carr and Tom Forman. One of the stirring climaxes is the big fire scene in which Kosher Kitty and her sweetheart have a stirring part. A double romance, with its complications, is unfolded throughout the story.

Short films, State news and other features will complete the program, and the twenty-five piece State symphony orchestra, directed by Bert Williams, will give selections from the popular light opera "Countess Maritza" as the overture.

Literally state-wide interest has been aroused by the State theater's announcement that Vincent Lopez will appear in person, with his entire famous orchestra, at that playhouse for three days beginning this Monday, February 7th. This is positively the first time this great master of modern music has been seen at popular prices.

Women Very Poor Sports Molla Tells the Scribe

Says Women Not Suited for Tennis; Too Jealous; Cannot Mask Feelings; Her Frank Opinions.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2.—If you ask Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, women are not good sportsmen, and never will be. They are not good losers and won't pretend to be. And they'll never behave in competitive sports as the traditions of sportsmanship rule they should.

These are the opinions of the former national women's tennis champion, whose pursuit of Suzanne Lenglen, for the world's title furnished rooms of interest, part of which was in tennis and the most of which was in temperament.

"Women are not suited to tennis," was the frank declaration of the woman who for several seasons was rated the greatest of her sex in this country and the one who had a chance to dethrone the mercurial Suzanne before that lady turned pro.

"Women are nasty, jealous creatures," said Molla, as she created after a hard practice set on the flamingo courts. "Their natures are bound to come out. They will not, or cannot, mask their feelings. And so tennis, which is hot and fast competition, is not suited to the feminine temperament, or rather, the feminine temperament is not suited to tennis."

"When I lose, I'm furious," she continued. "I have been rated a good loser because I cover it up. But I don't like it, not a bit. Here in America, you've got to be a good sportsman. But why? Why must you pretend to take the 'sporting attitude' when you don't want it?"

Hardly a feminist argument, it was suggested. But then Mrs. Mallory is hardly a feminist. She is happily married to Franklin I. Mallory, New York broker, and has been for seven years. With Mr. Mallory she is in Miami Beach for a month, arriving in mid-January, to enjoy surf bathing and golf, watching the polo games and, incidentally, to refresh her court game.

"I don't know anything about tennis," declared Mrs. Mallory, when someone expressed the wish to talk with her about the game at which she excels. Her listener wore an incredulous look.

"I never have read any of the texts on the theory of the game, nor studied the technique of the good players with whom I've been matched. I just play tennis."

"Did you never study one of your own strokes, which you thought might be improved, with a view to strengthening it?" she was asked.

"Just once," she confessed. "Several years ago, when all the experts said I had no backhand, I went out every day and played with a professional until I developed a backhand."

"But this question of temperament you were asking me about," Mrs. Mallory said. "Did you ever see a woman who answered the American definition of a 'sportsman'?"

Her listener remained tactfully silent.

British Girl, Automobile Racer, Starts On 14,000 Mile Trip Journey

London, Feb. 2.—Violet Cordery, the young English racing automobilist, who recently established many new long-distance records in Italy, will shortly start on one of the most adventurous motoring journeys ever undertaken by a woman.

In an automobile designed like a tent on wheels she proposes to drive around the world, under the official observation of the Royal Automobile Club of England.

The trip will occupy about five months, about 14,000 miles being covered.

The trip will be more in the nature of a reliability trial than a stunt.

There are the opinions of the former national women's tennis champion, whose pursuit of Suzanne Lenglen, for the world's title furnished rooms of interest, part of which was in tennis and the most of which was in temperament.

"Did you never study one of your own strokes, which you thought might be improved, with a view to strengthening it?" she was asked.

"Just once," she confessed. "Several years ago, when all the experts said I had no backhand, I went out every day and played with a professional until I developed a backhand."

"But this question of temperament you were asking me about," Mrs. Mallory said. "Did you ever see a woman who answered the American definition of a 'sportsman'?"

Her listener remained tactfully silent.

"I don't know anything about tennis," declared Mrs. Mallory, when someone expressed the wish to talk with her about the game at which she excels. Her listener wore an incredulous look.

"I never have read any of the texts on the theory of the game, nor studied the technique of the good players with whom I've been matched. I just play tennis."

"Did you never study one of your own strokes, which you thought might be improved, with a view to strengthening it?" she was asked.

C. B. A. A. BOWLING RACE TIGHTENS UP

Old, Old Mill Favorite But May Falter During Final Eighteen Games; Weavers Confident.

League Standing

Old Mill 28 17
Weaving 26 19
Ribbon 23 22
Spinning 13 32

With but six more nights to go (18 games) and Andy Anderson's Old Mill enjoying a slight lead, the sentiment about the mills is that the Weaving Mill will be forced to accept second place when the final standing of the C. B. A. A. bowling league has been completed.

Again Monday night, the Old Mill, under command of "First Lieutenant" Charlie Stays as chief coach, gained on its arch rivals, the Weaving Mill. Both tasted defeat but the Weavers swallowed three pills while the Old Mill was cured after taking but two doses.

From now on until the league schedule is finished, the interest in the outcome of the race, increases greatly. The question is whether or not the Old Mill can keep up the pace. Some think it will falter, but they are chiefly the members of the Weaving team. General opinion, however, seems to favor the chances of the Old Mill. One thing is reasonably certain and that is, that it will be no walk away for either team.

Dick Shea of the Ribbon Mill has boasted his average sufficiently to dislodge Bunnie Schubert as a regular member of the C. B. A. A. bowling five which Thursday night will roll against the Wallace-Carnes Company of Bristol in that city. It will be the first leg of a home and home match with the local date being announced later.

"Hammie" Metcalf also announces that the local bowling team which is composed of Ernie Wilkie, Joe Canada, Mike Suble, Frank Cervin, Dick Shea and Bunnie Schubert, will meet the Bigelow-Hartford Company of Thompsonville in a home and home match, the first leg to be rolled in Thompsonville a week from tonight with the final leg at Murphy's alleys, February 23.

Following are the scores of Monday's games:

Frank D'Amico Gets Praise From Press In Sunny South

Yale's Polo Teams Get Practice On Hobby Horses In Gymnasium

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 2.—Yale University's pony polo teams are given their preliminary practice in stroking by means of hobby horses mounted in the Yale gymnasium.

After a long course on the wooden steeds the men are sent to work with the speedy ponies housed in Yale armory, the regular indoor polo field.

Veteran players also use the hobby horse scheme in warming up so as to do away with the long journey out to the armory, which is located behind Yale Bowl.

The hobby horse idea is considered to have played an important part in building up Yale teams which have consistently walked off with indoor and outdoor National amateur and Intercollegiate championships ever since polo was adopted here.

Well Known Life-Saver Swims Big Ocean Race; Prominent Entries Made from All Along Coast.

Florida newspapers are devoting considerable space to an ocean swimming marathon which has been planned by none other than Frank D'Amico, life guard, who is now stationed at Ormond Beach.

The race is to be held during the middle of the month and will be from Daytona Beach to Ormond Beach, a distance of about five miles. Prominent professional swimmers are said to have entered.

Well Known Here. Practically everyone in Manchester knows Frank D'Amico. His feats in the sunny south have attracted considerable attention and his picture has often been seen in the papers. He is a good swimmer and has saved many persons from drowning during his career as life saver.

Herby Flavell Speaks. As Herby Flavell, former local boy, now in Florida says: "Frank is even better known here than back on the sidewalks of the silk town, which is a broad statement."

Continuing, Herby writes: "Frank has his event at heart and has done some real conscientious planning for it. He is well liked here and goes big with every class of people. His first swim here this season was with none other than the celebrated, Eile Janis, noted dramatic star."

The Ormond Topics, one of the most conservative society magazines at Ormond Beach, says in part about the proposed swimming marathon: "Genial Instructor."

"There is much interest hereabouts in regard to the ocean swim from Daytona Beach to Ormond Beach and Frank D'Amico, our genial instructor of natation, has consented to sponsor the race. He is now taking entries in his office at the new Ormond Beach bathing pavilion. He will start the race and will clock them at the finish. It promises to be an ultra-gala event."

"One reason why the success seems assured is because local swimmers are firmly convinced of the truth of the theory that ocean swimming is better for the muscles of the body than the still-water variety of natation. Breasting the salty wavelets puts new vigor and vitality into swimming. They admire also the records made by D'Amico in bigger ocean events. D'Amico's record here is a seventeen mile swim."

Herby Flavell is now assistant cashier at the Hotel Ormond Beach. Herby gives us his word that D'Amico's work there is worthy of praise.

WAPPING'S STRING OF WINS LIABLE TO SNAP VERY SOON

Meriden Silent Five Plays There Tonight; Crucial Game Next Tuesday In Hartford.

Wapping's undefeated basketball outfit, minus Elmo Mantell and Johnny Boyle, will put its reputation at stake tonight when it swaps shots with the Meriden Silent Five in the tobacco village.

The two mentioned players have been requested by the Elmwood Ende management to refrain from playing on the night before the Elmwood game which is played on Thursday evenings. However, it is understood both will be in uniform but will not play unless needed.

Bobby Boyce, former S. M. H. S. player, will assist in the backcourt for Wapping this evening. It is understood he will be the only change in the Wapping's lineup which will probably be George Hills and Madden forwards, Possibile center and Mistretta and Adams guards. Connelly and Angell will play part of the game at forward and Thurz will go in for a while at guard. The totals have never lost a game to the Waterbury team and hope Friday will be no exception to the rule. The Trade school has won three and lost three this season.

It was announced yesterday that two new schools will appear on the local schedule this season. They are Meriden and Middletown Trade schools. The schedule will include 13 games. It was also stated that when Springfield, Vocational comes here for a return game on next week Friday, it will be accompanied by faculty bowling and handball teams.

Dancing will follow the game this evening in Wapping and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand to watch the dead and bound players perform. They are an attraction in themselves not to mention the style of basketball they exhibit.

TERRYVILLE CANCELS THIS EVENING'S GAME

Manager George Hunt announced this morning that the manager of the Terryville West End basketball team has cancelled the scheduled game for this evening. It may be arranged for a later date, it was stated.

Cheney Brothers will play the Service A. C. of Hartford in the State Armory in Hartford Saturday evening.

Surf Sports

Honolulu.—With additional athletic facilities on Waikiki beach the Hawaiian native sport of surf riding is today claiming more followers than ever before. The Outrigger Canoe Club has new buildings and enlarged quarters as part of the general landscaping scheme of the new $5,000,000 hotel near completion on the beach.

BOY WONDER APPEARS

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Backers of Earl Lookabaugh, a Chicago boy playing in his first big tournament today, picked the youth to win the national three-cushion billiard championship tourney.

Lookabaugh furnished the first big upset of the meet last night when he defeated Gus Copulos, the Greek champion, 50 to 32.

Brings Out Difference Between "Hard" and "Dirty" Playing As Yale Star Did Here.

The following article by Henry L. Farrell, United Press Sports Editor, tends to bring out the fact that "hard" football is not necessarily "dirty" football and in accordance with the statements made by Robert C. Deming, former Yale star in his address before 700 high school students here recently.

New York, Feb. 2.—Charges made by Wyanat Hubbard, former Harvard football star, that Princeton plays dirty football caused a number of discussions among football players and coaches in which frequent references were made to the difference between "hard football" and "dirty football."

It seems like a mighty fine line of distinction to draw and even to coaches have difficulty in explaining to layman just what the difference is between hard football and dirty football.

"If you were a player you would understand," a prominent coach said. "Hard football is using every ounce of strength and every ounce of mechanics permitted by the ethics of sportsmanship and by the provision of the rules. Dirty football is doing things that you don't have to do."

Three years ago the writer was in South Bend on the Tuesday following the game in New York between the Army and Notre Dame. He was talking with Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame coach before the squad reported for practice.

"I don't know what I'm going to do next Saturday," he said. "Adam Walsh, my star center, has two broken ribs and the backfield are hurt and the backfield of four horses is hardly able to walk. Wait until you see them when they come out. The first line couldn't work at all yesterday and I don't know if I can get anything out of them today."

"The Army must have given you a fine beating," it was suggested to him.

"Was it dirty football?" he asked.

Not Dirty Football. Rockne exploded at the question. "Dirty football?" he shouted. "Never! We've all heard stories about dirty football played by the Army but I think I am as familiar with Army football as any coach in the country. They play good, clean, hard football and that's the game. It's no chess match. I'll tell you why there are occasionally more injuries against the Army than in other games."

They are hard youngsters, those Cadets. By Cadets I mean they are physically almost perfect and they are always in condition. They go to West Point as the finest specimens of youth that can be obtained and the strict discipline and the rigor of army life makes them like granite. My and the stars they were tackled in the open or taken out of a play they were taken out hard and when something has to give it is the weaker of the two forces.

Not Tolerated. "It used to be said that Notre Dame played dirty football but I won't tolerate it. If I had a team as big and strong as the Army and as well trained physically my teams would play just as hard."

In this connection it is said of Princeton, Army and Notre Dame that they play dirty football more frequently than it is said of other prominent teams.

And there is a reason for it. The three teams play a style of smashing that calls for the best of physical condition and the players are always in condition. It is the system followed by their coaches that demands a vigorous attack and a desperate defense and when they go against a team that hasn't the same spirit or equal strength injuries are overabundant.

Physically. In recent years Princeton teams practically always went into the Big Three games in better physical condition than Yale or Har-

Ray Strong

Strong, who holds the state heavyweight championship, scored a close decision over the New Britain players in that city last week and Kody has been clamoring for a return go. He is confident he will win this time. Strong fought on the last C. B. A. A. card losing a hair-line decision to Tony Kormac of Springfield.

The complete card as announced by Promoter Jenney follows:

112 Pound Class
Delphus Poulouos, New Britain; Charles Allen, Manchester; Billy Nelson, Eddie Camp, Eddie Reed, Hartford.

118 Pound Class
Joe Kody, New Britain; Ray Strong, Hartford.

126 Pound Class
Tommy Pagan, Rockville; Al Satriek, Rockville.

130 Pound Class
Pat McEvaneugh, Manchester; Ben Morgan, Harold Monahan, Al Ambros, Rockville.

135 Pound Class
Barney Youseman, Hartford; Joe Zotter, New Britain.

140 Pound Class
Johnny Clinch, New Britain; Pancho Villa, Charlie Romano, Al Polowitz, John Falsuski, Hartford.

Worcester is sending a six-man team to the amateur boxing tournament of that city, to Hartford for the amateur show to be staged by the Massachusetts A. C., at Foot Guard Hall, tomorrow night.

Reading the Worcester team is Harry Devine, featherweight, who came to Hartford five weeks ago and gave Bat Battalino, state featherweight champion, the hardest tussel of Bat's busy career. In that mix, Battalino had four pounds on Devine. Thursday night Battalino expects to be close to 125, which will give Devine an even chance of beating him.

Another star amateur on the Worcester team is LeRoy Carley, who defeated "Punk" Kaufman at Hartford five weeks ago. Carley is entered in the same bracket with Roy Rogan of Terryville and the prospect is that these two will collide.

Waterbury, too, is sending a quota of heavyweights so that at least four bouts will be staged among the heavier boys.

The indication is the best show yet offered by the Massachusetts club, which is resuming its amateur activities at Foot Guard after a two-weeks' layoff.

ward and if Yale and Harvard could keep their men as sound as Princeton there must be something wrong with the system of training as there are no giants at Princeton and the Yale and Harvard boys are not natural weaklings. Princeton, on the other hand, could find excuses for having their teams in an inferior condition as they play harder schedules than Yale or Harvard.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRETT FOLSOM while swimming with a party at Ocean Town, N. J., at the HOTEL MAJUSACA, where they all had been guests, an inquiry is made, after a doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounces him dead.

A low knock at the door heralded the approach of Inspector Babcock.

"WHY—why, yes, sir—so far as I know," said Ross.

"None of that, Ross, you know about all there is to know of your late master's friends or enemies. A man of your mental caliber can't be ignorant of the relationships between man and man."

"Then, if this is an examination, sir, I can only say that so far as I have ever seen or noticed, Mr. Neville had only friendly feelings toward Mr. Folsom, personally."

"Why did you add 'personally'?" Had they other relationships than personal?"

"They had business connections, sir, that may or may not have been always serene. I know nothing of those, for they were conducted at offices, of course. But of my own knowledge, having seen Mr. Folsom and Mr. Neville together repeatedly, in friendly and, as I put it, personal surroundings, I call them tried and trusted friends. If you're suspecting Mr. Neville of—"

"Hush. Nobody has mentioned the idea of suspicion! Don't overstep your place."

"No, sir," and Ross again put on his look of quiet, respectful servitude.

Dixon said little more to him. He asked for the key of Mr. Folsom's suite, and Ross immediately produced it from his pocket and passed it over.

The detective wanted to quit him further, for he had a feeling that this man knew his master's secrets, but he felt it was premature for him to hold any sort of an investigation that belonged, by right, to the police.

Just as Dixon was about to dismiss the valet, a low knock at the door of Room 1 heralded the appearance of Inspector Babcock, a lieutenant detective and a medical examiner.

Partly because he greatly wanted to remain, and partly because, in his excitement, Dixon forgot to tell him to go, Ross stayed in the room, and inconspicuously sat in a corner, while the preliminary questions were asked.

The two doctors conferred above the body, while the inspector listened to the story related by Dixon.

The police detective, Jepson, seeing no chance for hunting down clues in this room, sat silent, listening to the doctors in turn with the talk between the inspector and Dixon.

"Who is this man?" asked Jepson, as matters proceeded.

Ross, not being addressed, said no word, and made no move to go.

"Well," Jepson remarked, "as questions must begin somewhere, I'll start in with Ross. Maybe it's a good plan at that."

He began with the usual request for names and dates and places.

Ross answered intelligently and respectfully, and soon Jepson had a neat list of Garrett Folsom's activities of late and data of his life in a general way.

"Well, that's all I can get from this chap," Jepson said. "Let him go. What are you going to do, my man? You've no master now."

"No, sir, I have no plans, either. I suppose I shall just wait around till Miss Folsom comes, and then I'll do whatever she tells me to."

"Oh, yes, of course, the sister. Well, stay in the hotel, for we may want to see you now and then."

Ross departed, and Jepson summed him up as, "well trained, but wooden."

Then he listened to the doctors, who had agreed entirely in their diagnosis and decisions.

"But it's preposterous, all the same," declared Doctor Potter, the medical examiner. "In all my life I've never heard of such a thing! Why, whoever stabbed that man must have stood directly at his side."

"Or in front of him," amended Manning.

"That tossing water?"

"Looks like the work of some one who knew anatomy," suggested Manning.

"Not necessarily," said Potter. "Maybe; but it may have been by accident: that the blow struck where it did. More likely the assassin aimed at the heart, but struck lower than he aimed. You see the tumbling water would divert any aim."

"He may have aimed several times—I mean, aimed futilely, without striking his victim at all, at first."

"Yes, that is possible—probably, even. But in any case, he did hit him fatally, and with a swift deadly aim that hit true and sure."

"Where's the weapon?" asked Jepson.

"The murderer carried it off with him," Potter said, promptly. "He never let go of it. Stabbed and then drew it out and nobody knew a thing about it."

"Somebody," commented Dixon.

"Well, no," Inspector Babcock put in. "If it had been on land, it would have required nerve. But in the water, the weapon hidden, the deed done out of sight, there was little or no danger of being seen or noticed by the busy crowd of bathers."

"That's the secret of it, all," Jepson declared. "Whoever the murderer was, he was mighty cute. He knew he had a cleft, if he kept his head above his shoulders, and he knew he had a job to pick him out from a hundred others. It could have been anybody in that part of the ocean, and I confess I don't know which way to look."

"Hold on, Jep," said the inspector. "It must have been somebody near the victim, to start with. He could have hurried away afterward, and mingled with a group on some other rope, or he might have gone right out of the water and started for home. But before the fatal fall that man had to have the victim and must have been seen by somebody."

"All very well, inspector, but a needle in a haystack is good hunting compared to finding your man out of a bunch of bathers in the Atlantic Ocean!"

"Manning begins at the other end. Seek a motive and a possible enemy and all that. But those things will keep and if you're going to get evidence from people who stood near the scene you'd better get at it at once. For after twenty-four hours, innocent people will have forgotten the circumstances and guilty people will have cooked up an alibi."

"That's all true, chief," Jepson said, with a long drawn sigh. "We don't have a murder case often down here at Ocean Town, but now that we have, I wish it had happened in the town instead of in the ocean."

"It would have been easier to solve in some ways," Babcock admitted, "but in other ways, I think the scene of the crime will be helpful."

"Wish I could see how,"

"Well, for one thing, you know that most of the people who stood near the victim of the attack were guests of this hotel."

"Oh, my land!" groaned Dixon. "then you're going to pull on that string, that's just what Mr. Felham doesn't want!"

"Sorry," and Babcock almost smiled, "but we can't consider the wishes of a hotel keeper when a murder case is on. Now, Doctor Potter, I suppose you're for getting the body off to the morgue and making arrangements for an autopsy?"

"Yes, it must be done, but it will show no further details that will interest you than you already know. Just go ahead, knowing that the death was caused by a stab wound received while bathing in the ocean and causing instant death by internal hemorrhage. That's all. If anything should appear during the post-mortem to add to that report I'll think you know at once. But I think you want to get busy collecting witnesses and arranging an inquest."

"Don't have the inquest here," begged Dixon, knowing how this would distress the manager.

"No," the inspector assured him, "the inquest won't be here, but we may have to call a lot of your guests to testify. There's a long case ahead of us, I'm thinking. That is, unless some stroke of fate or some bit of good luck sends us an unexpected flash of fortune. I mean if somebody confesses, or if somebody else was an eyewitness to the crime."

"There's always a hope of something of that sort," Jepson said. "The probabilities are we'll have to dig and scratch for evidence and get very little. And as to clues—we'll, we can't expect to find those in the Atlantic Ocean!"

"Most unsatisfactory outlook," and Babcock shrugged his big shoulders. "But our duty is plain. Go to it, Jepson. Question everybody who knew the dead man, even slightly, and get from them hints of others who knew him and won't tell."

"Yes, sir," Jepson said, obediently, "I'll go to it."

He Is Only 7 Years Old But My, What A Salesman

Little Self Serve Makes Your Head Dizzy When He Rattles Off Figures—Sells 1,200 Cans of Soup in Two Days—Other Startling Figures.

Seven years ago this week there was born at Main and Oak streets a child whom the Fates destined to become Manchester's premier salesman. Seven years isn't very old for a youngster yet this little chap has on occasions sold 1,200 cans of soup in two days; four tons of fresh fruits and vegetables in a week; 18,000 cakes of soap in a year, and 54,888 loaves of bread in the same time.

When the youngster started to talk about his salesmanship about the time he made his debut here it was thought he was a bit optimistic but as the years went on he could hardly keep up with his sales until now he is too busy with his customers and merely says: "Look up the records. They speak louder than words."

Seen at Headquarters That is what the little chap said

Thomas McCann Mgr. Self Serve

Yesterday when he was asked at his headquarters at Hale's what he'd been doing during the past year. His name is a well known

Here Is a Glimpse of Little Self Serve's Headquarters

Everybody knows him. His first name is Self and his family name is Serve. Rather queer but that's his name. He was hustling around seeing that everybody was feeling at home but occasionally he would say a word or two during a lull in the rush.

"When is your birthday, Self Serve?"

"On Feb. 4," he answered. "I will celebrate for four days. Some celebration, but I think I deserve it. Come around next Tuesday and I'll give you a piece of my birthday cake."

Interesting Facts The visitor browsed about Self Serve's headquarters and learned many strange things. He found that one day the tiny salesman disposed of 1,800 pounds of sugar-cured hams. He learned that this year Self Serve took care of 59,300 more customers than he did the year before and then the figure was up in the 200 thousands. In one year was sold 3,000 bags of flour.

A Reminder "Remember, Mr. Man," suggested Self Serve, "in many of these items, for instance the bread, you learned of but one brand that was sold and we carry five others. And don't think we are selling a few staples. I looked over things this morning and learned that I am handling just 1,500 different items. Yes, that's correct, here's the list."

2,000 In One Day "How many customers do you serve in a day?"

"I can't give you figures offhand but 2,000 is a regular Saturday's business."

"What are Manchester's tastes?"

"The folks here are great for vegetables, canned and fresh. Only a short time ago I started with a trial order of 25 cases of canned vegetables. I'm regularly putting in a 250 case order now. The folks want fancy vegetables, if you please. No common stuff for them, no siree."

"Do women do all the shopping in town?"

Men Shoppers "Not here. It is a case of 50-50. The men seem to like it very much. They browse around, make their choice and walk out. They do it in shorter time than the women and make just as good shoppers, if you ask me. And children? Why bless their dear little hearts, I've seen hundreds of 'em my own age, just seven, walk in, pick out canned goods by the label and walk out. They sure can remember pictures. Foreign people shoot through pictures here. They can not speak English but they know what they're after by remembering what the pictures on the label look like."

Some More Figures Self Serve rushed out to the storerooms at this point so the visitor had to look over some books to get more figures. He found that last year 18,720 pounds of confectionery sugar was sold and 194 tons of ordinary sugar, or 208,000 pounds, were sold. That proves that Manchester has a sweet tooth.

It was also learned that our foreigners are great buyers of greens. They buy greens all the year 'round.

24,000 Pounds of Coffee As to such staples as butter and coffee, it was learned that on Saturday every fourth person at the Self Serve buys butter and last year 24,000 pounds of coffee were sold. And as for eggs last Saturday there were sold 890 dozens.

Some more interesting facts were sought but little Self Serve was so busy that the visitor had to leave him without getting any more information.

Whoever named a certain type of American youth as "shelks" played a low trick on the Arabs.

SENSE and NONSENSE

There are two kinds of interest—interest in the bank and interest in your work—but they both go together.
Many a man wouldn't mind having his kin taken off his back.
In some courts, it seems that one swallow makes a rum-runner.
The mining business is one that must be learned from below the ground up!
Silly Men.

—Newark, O. Advocate.
A man I hate
Is Syllas Binn;
He always wears
A silly grin.
—Hastings, Neb. Tribune.
A man I hate
Is Henry Black;
He always slips
You on the back.

THE TINYMITES BY HAL COCHRAN

(Read the Story. Then Color the Picture)
"By goodness, something's surely wrong," said Scouty as they moved along. "This thing we're on knows how to sail." And then they saw a head rise high and shoot some water towards the sky. Of course the Tinies promptly knew that they were on a whale.
The water that had spouted out, went up real high, then turned about and splashed down on the Tinymites and got them soaking wet. Said Scouty, "We're in danger now. I wish we could escape somehow. Our boat's still dragging on behind, but too far out to get."
The whale picked up a lot of speed and Copy said, "We surely need to keep our wits about us so that none of us will slip." They braced their feet and held on tight and Mister Whale swayed left and right. "Course anyone can realize it was a dangerous trip.
Once Clowny slipped and nearly fell, but Copy luckily heard him fall, and grabbed him tight around

HARRIS-HATCH
 William Carter Harris, son of William W. Harris of 195 Chestnut street and Miss Gladys Frances Hatch, were married Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. French of Park street, West Lynn, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. B. Oliver of the First Congregational church in that place. Mrs. William Proctor McElroy of Louisville, Kentucky, a recent bride, was matron of honor, and the best man was Winfield H. Willis of Saginaw, Michigan.

PUPILS TO PRESENT
THREE ACT COMEDY
 "Her Blessed Boy" to be shown tomorrow evening at the Hollister Street school by pupils of the eighth district.

ROGERS INVIGORATES
ROCKVILLE CHAMBER
 Talks Expiring Body Into Taking New Grip on Existence.
 Rockville, Feb. 2.—Willard B. Rogers, of Manchester, director of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the local Chamber here last night. The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding whether to discontinue the organization or not. After listening to Mr. Rogers' address in which he stressed civic pride and the possibility that several manufacturing plants were considering moving to the south and west, the Chamber voted to continue functioning and to reorganize to meet present conditions.

ABOUT TOWN
 Mary C. Kenney Tent, Daughters of Veterans will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening in the state armory.

At the service of the religious mission this evening at the Center Congregational church, the speaker will be Commandant Charles Abbott of the Salvation Army and his subject, "The Attraction of Jesus Christ." Mrs. Clifford Kiet and Ralph C. Brown will sing a duet and the pianist will be Miss Marion Jacobson.

The Junior choir of the North Methodist church will rehearse this evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Walker, 35 Mather street.

An advertisement for the Rainbow Dance Palace which appeared in yesterday's Herald said there would be dancing on Friday night. This was an error. There will be no dance at the Rainbow Friday. The usual Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday night programs will be adhered to throughout the season.

Local Kiwanians who are in New Haven today attending the New Haven Progress exposition include Wells A. Strickland, W. W. Robertson, Fayette B. Clarke and George H. Washburn. They made the trip in Mr. Strickland's car and planned to attend the New Haven Kiwanis meeting and luncheon in the same building with the exhibition. The latter is proving so popular and is meeting with such success it has been decided to continue it for another week.

Today is Candlemas day and while the groundhog had no true shadow, it is doubtful if we shall have six weeks more of winter. Everything points to an early spring. People are reporting seeing robins, whether they stayed north during the winter as sometimes happen, or whether they are early comers from the south is not known. Still another resident reports pansies in blossom. Henry Coleman of Center street found a bed of them all in bloom near his garage after the snow had melted.

J. Fradin of Fradin's apparel shop is in New York on a buying trip and will also attend an exhibition of spring styles while there.

The American Insurance Union will have a special meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Tinker hall. It is important that every member be present as election of officers will be held and other matters of business acted upon.

Thirteen tables were filled with players at the whist held last night at the home of Mrs. Daniel Griffin of Hilliard street for benefit of the Women of Mooseheart Legion. The first prize winners were Mrs. William Shea and Thomas Brennan, second, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson and third prize, Mrs. Clara Warden and Tony Lupachino.

Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth will follow a brief meeting in Odd Fellows hall tomorrow evening with a progressive bridge and whist, to which they cordially invite their friends. There will be cash prizes in both sections and refreshments served.

Lester Turkington of Ford street was discharged from the Memorial hospital yesterday. He had been in the hospital for an operation on the leg.

Moses Stein of Hartford has filed notice of foreclosure proceedings with the town clerk against Edward Farrell and Carroll Swanson. The property attached is on Wadsworth street. The case is returnable to the Superior court this month.

Mrs. Josephine Holmes of North Main street, who underwent an operation yesterday at the Hartford hospital, is reported to be resting as comfortably as can be expected.

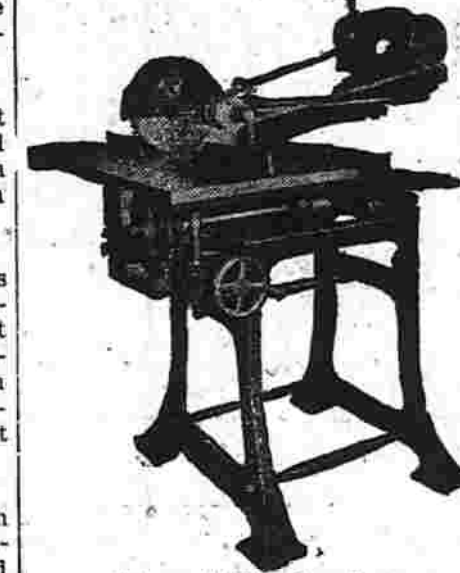

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. George W. House of Benton street had a birthday yesterday and her friends, mostly members of Manchester Grange, decided it should not pass unnoticed. They therefore surprised her at her home last night and passed a merry evening, what being one of the pastimes.

The ladies brought with them a goodly number of cakes, sandwiches and doughnuts. Mrs. Charles Howard made the birthday cake, which bore figures for the years and other decorations in pink and white. Her friends also presented to Mrs. House a handsome picture to remind her of their regard.

The bride's gown was of white crepe de chine with silver edging. Her embroidered lace veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The matron of honor wore her own wedding gown and carried pink roses and sweet peas. A largely attended wedding reception followed, including many classmates of the bride at Simmons college and Lynn Classical High school, also associates of the groom at the General Electric company's plant in Lynn and former classmates at Norwich University, Norwich, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris on their return from a short wedding trip will live at 15 Franklin street, Lynn, Mass.

THE LUNT-JILLSON COMPANY
 ALLEN PLACE,
 MANCHESTER, CONNECTICUT

The three act comedy "Her Blessed Boy" will be presented tomorrow evening at the Hollister Street school by pupils of the eighth district.

The play is given under the auspices of the Girls League of the school and the proceeds will all be used for worthy school purposes. The cast was carefully chosen several weeks ago and has been rehearsing faithfully under the special direction of Miss Esther Anderson and Miss Catherine McGuire, who have had previous experience in this kind of work.

The situations developed in the play are highly amusing and the actors perform their parts well. A large audience is expected and is sure to be pleased with the entertainment.

Between the acts the girls chorus will sing several numbers. Cast of characters: Mrs. Tingle, Helen Bailey. Aunt Virginia, Susan Allen. Aunt Faith, Miriam Karlsen. Helen Tingle, Mary McLagan. Edith Tingle, Eunice Brown. Betty Radway, Marjorie Krah. Eileen Malone, Rebecca Harris. Mrs. Michael Malone, Shirley Wright. Tom Tingle, Hewitt Wilson. Charles Tingle, Stewart Hyde. Howard Tingle, Adolph Obricht. Dennis Malone, Stanley Katka-veck.

The Blessed Boy, John Jamroga.
