

LEGISLATURE PASSES BILL TO AID DEPTS.

Lower House O. K.'s Deficiency Measure to Raise $928,000—Brief Session of Both Branches.

Hartford, Feb. 8.—Passage by the Lower House of the State Legislature of a deficiency appropriation bill carrying a total of $928,400.64 was the chief feature of a fifteen-minute session in the state capitol today. The money is to be used by various state departments to make up deficiencies they either have incurred or will incur between now and July 1, next.

Elwyn T. M. Clark, chairman of the appropriations committee, moved the passage of the bill under suspension of the rules and won his point without debate. The bill was transmitted to the Senate, which by that time had adjourned.

Favorable reports in the Senate today were as follows:

Incorporations committee—Changing name of Waterbury industrial school to Elisha Leavenworth Foundation; extending to January, 1929, time for organizing the Mortgage Bond & Title Co.; permitting the New Britain T. A. E. society to hold property to $250,000 in value.

Reference Changes.

Three changes in the reference of bills were voted by the Senate as follows: sending from the motor vehicle committee to the Judiciary committee the bill relieving automobile owners of responsibility for injuries to their passengers; from the roads, rivers and bridges committee to the claims committee a bill changing methods of paying for building bridges on trunk line highways; and from the education committee to the cities and boroughs committee a bill amending the charter of the New Haven Teachers' Retirement fund.

House Reports.

The House received two favorable reports from the appropriations committee during its brief session. One bill amends the charter of the Torrington library concerning appointment of directors, while the other bill extends the time for organizing the Fairfield County Title & Mortgage company.

Adjournment in each house was taken to 11:15 a. m. tomorrow.

TWO HUSBAND SLAYERS FACE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Both Live in Florida Where White Woman Has Never Before Been Executed.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 8.—Each convicted of husband slaying, two white women, the first in Florida to be sentenced to such a fate today face electrocution at the state prison farm at Raiford unless appeals are granted, or Governor John W. Martin intervenes with executive clemency.

Mrs. Berta Hall, comely middle-aged woman, was convicted in Circuit Court here with Gordon Denmark, her alleged lover, on October 9, last, of the murder of her husband, James H. Hall, and on October 15 she was given the extreme penalty by Judge Daniel A. Simmons.

Initial steps in a state supreme court appeal have been taken and it may be three months before all legal measures to save Mrs. Hall from the doubtful distinction of being Florida's first white woman to be electrocuted will be exhausted.

Anna ("Billie") Jackson, 26, was convicted before Judge Simmons last week of the murder of her husband following a quarrel in their apartment, the verdict automatically carrying the death penalty since the jury did not recommend mercy. Her attorneys have until February 15 to file a motion for a new trial after which, if the motion is denied, an appeal probably will be taken to the supreme court.

WIFE OF BUD FISHER GETS WEEKLY ALIMONY

Comic Artist Must Pay Her $500 Weekly Supreme Court Decides.

New York, Feb. 8.—Harry C. (Bud) Fisher, noted comic artist, must pay Mrs. Fisher, the former Countess De Beaumont, $500 a week alimony, Supreme Court Justice Tierney ruled today.

She had been granted a separation February 1. The Fishers were married aboard the U. S. liner Lehigh. They went to England, quarreled almost immediately, Mrs. Fisher testified at a previous hearing, and stopped at different hotels. She charged he beat her and drank too much. He denied the charges.

CAROL WILL REFUSE THRONE UNLESS HELEN IS DIVORCED

Prince of Rumania Says He Does Not Love Wife and Cannot Live With Her Even If Made King.

Paris, Feb. 8.—Prince Carol of Rumania has announced his intentions of renouncing his rights to the throne, if his retirement is made upon his return to his wife, Princess Helen, it was learned authoritatively today.

The prince has been in conference here for several days with emissaries of Queen Marie who has suggested to Prince Carol that he return to her in a private capacity, without conditions, and discuss with King Ferdinand, in his dying days, the future of the Rumanian dynasty.

Loves Mme. Lupescu.

Thus far Prince Carol has resisted these overtures, declaring that he still loves Mme. Lupescu and will remain loyal to her, and moreover, he has announced his dislike of the intrigues of Bucharest.

Mme. Lupescu, however, has declared her willingness to step into oblivion if her retirement is necessary to the return of Prince Carol.

"I want to do the right thing for my country, and I will sacrifice myself and my love," Mme. Lupescu told her friends here recently.

Resents Interference.

Prince Carol has told the emissaries of Queen Marie that he resents the intervention of his parents in his private life and feels that the king and queen abetted in the publication of his relations with Mme. Lupescu, but that these relations are known to the whole world he believes it his duty to stand by Mme. Lupescu.

The emissaries of the queen have told Prince Carol that King Ferdinand is dying slowly, although he is not aware of this. The physicians have been unable to perform a complete operation upon him, and radius treatments are merely prolonging his life and are not affecting a cure.

Wants a Divorce.

Prince Carol has let it be known that he has his desire to see or attempt a reconciliation with Princess Helen. He has said that if he ever discusses the restoration of his rights to the throne, he will insist upon a divorce from Princess Helen.

"I don't love Helen and she doesn't love me," Prince Carol told the queen's emissaries.

"I won't be king unless I get a divorce. I won't live with Helen; I won't go through that mockery. I am going to be king some day. I will fulfill my duties to the best of my abilities but I must be allowed to live my own private life."

Princess Helen, however, is decidedly popular in Rumania and it is believed that any attempt to discard her would be rather dangerous to the business.

When Prince Carol left Rumania he understood that Princess Helen would also leave the country and he feels that it is unfair that she returned and has continued to increase her popularity.

MILFORD BOARD O. K.'S VACCINATION ORDER

Trained Nurse Tells Parents That Two of Her Children Died as Result of Virus.

Milford, Conn., Feb. 8.—Following a meeting of the Board of Education here last night the school authorities remain unshaken in their attitude towards compulsory vaccination for school children.

When the meeting was called to order fifteen Milford residents protested against having their children vaccinated in spite of the school authorities and Board of Health ruling that all pupils should be vaccinated or have a certificate signed by a physician that vaccination was unnecessary for the present.

Mrs. Olga A. Anderson, a trained nurse, addressed the meeting and told the board that two of her children died as the result of the virus and she feared that another child, which the school authorities refused admission to the school, would suffer the same fate if vaccinated.

After listening to a talk by Rev. C. H. Reimers, of Durham, secretary and treasurer of the Connecticut Medical Liberty League, the board voted to adhere to its policy of enforcing compulsory vaccination.

R. R. STOCK SOARS.

New York, Feb. 8.—Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad stocks continued their meteoric rise at the opening of the New York Stock Exchange today, the common advancing twenty points to 115 and the preferred 11 1/2 to 117 within thirty minutes trading. This fresh jump was in response to the announcement that the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Nickel Plate had bought practically all the available stock and removed it from the market.

'CAL' NOT TO RUN IN 1928 SAYS BUTLER

Head of Columbia College Makes Prediction at G. O. P. Banquet—Prohibition To Be Issue.

New York, Feb. 8.—Considerable interest and conjecture was aroused in political circles today as a result of the prediction of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, that President Coolidge will not be a candidate for renomination in 1928.

Dr. Butler's prediction was made last night in an address at the Riverside Republican club.

Guest at White House.

Dr. Butler was a guest at the White House last week. He disclaimed any direct information from Washington, however, asserting that he voiced only his own opinion.

Dr. Butler said:

"I am taking it for granted that when President Coolidge thinks a right time has come he will make a public statement of his unwillingness to have his name considered in connection with the Republican presidential nomination of 1928. Has Common Sense.

"One of the President's strongest characteristics is his common sense, and common sense dictates his course."

LEADER OPPOSES KU KLUX KLAN

State Legislator Says He Will Fight Bills Having Religious Aspect.

Hartford, Feb. 8.—William M. Citron, of Middletown, House leader, will vigorously oppose two bills which have religious aspects; a third bill concerning non-employment by the state of aliens; and a measure which provides that railroads pay wages by weekly instead of monthly.

The bill prohibiting ministers from marrying persons who enter into contracts concerning religious education of their children, and the measure forbidding membership in secret organizations whose administrative head is in another country to state residents were characterized by him today as "Ku Klux Klan bills" and "vicious legislation."

Hardships for Help.

"Many hardships to railroad employees would be imposed," he said, "by delaying weekly payments of wages. Extra or part-time workers would be particularly affected, as their earnings are not large and they lead a more or less hand-to-mouth existence when times are dull."

Mr. Citron estimates that a system of interest payments to be maintained under the measure by the railroads as reimbursement to employees for delayed payments would not offset the inconvenience and loss to the men. Railroad workmen he has interviewed are strongly against the measure, he said.

"The proposed act to forbid employment of aliens by the state would also work hardship," he said, "and might tend to place families under charitable state care. The largest group to be effected is the employes on state highways."

ONLY TWO PASS

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 8.—From a class of forty who were examined by the state board of pharmacy commissioners, only two passed. They are Anthony J. Paolillo, of West Haven and Maurice Savin, of New Haven.

Registered pharmacists licenses will be issued to them according to an announcement of H. M. Lerou, of Norwich, secretary of the board.

Britain Forgets Troubles As King and Queen go By

London, Feb. 8.—Great Britain's troubles industrial, political and economic—were set aside for a brief space today for indulgence in traditional flourish.

King George and Queen Mary rode in state in the ancient swaying state coach, bedecked and bejeweled as Cinderella's coach in a fairy tale book, from the Buckingham Palace to the Palace of Westminster, for the state opening of Parliament.

WOMAN INVOLVED IN TURNER CASE

Officials Say Mexican Girl Figured as Motive in Slaying of Soldier of Fortune.

Portland, Me., Feb. 8.—That a girl in Mexico furnished the motive rather than the financial troubles was hinted at the trial of Benjamin H. Turner, of Myrtle, Iowa, charged with slaying James D. Halten, soldier-of-fortune. The trial, with a woman foreman and a second woman in the jury box, was resumed today.

Sheriff King F. Graham testified that, seeking a motive, he asked Turner if "a lady friend" was involved. He answered, according to the sheriff, that "the money was bad enough but there was something worse than that. Halten put something over on me. Those devils can't do that and live." The sheriff said that Mrs. Constance Kilbourne, who helped Turner get out of jail in Mexico, was brought in. Turner said: "Mrs. Kilbourne knows all about it." Mrs. Kilbourne, continued the sheriff, told how Turner was sent to a Mexican prison for helping a man in Mexico City and how he was acquitted on the ground of self defense.

CANTONESE ARMY BEATEN; SOVIETS MASS ON BORDER

KING GEORGE WORRIES OVER CHINESE WAR

In Brief Speech to Parliament He Declares For Hands-Off Policy in Far East—Wants Peace.

London, Feb. 8.—King George today prorogued Parliament with one of the shortest speeches on record for a like occasion.

Chief interest in the sovereign's speech centered on his remarks concerning the Chinese situation. After declaring that he had felt it necessary to despatch armed forces to the Far East to protect British residents in China, as a result of the recent rioting at Hankow and the anti-British agitation throughout China, the king said it was the desire of the British government and people to place their future relations with China on a basis of friendship and good will. The king declared for a policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of China.

Is Worried Him.

"The continuous civil war in China and the anti-foreign, and particularly the anti-British agitation with which it has been accompanied, have caused me grave anxiety," King George said.

"As a consequence of what happened recently at Hankow and at other places, my government felt it necessary to despatch to the Far East a sufficient force to protect my British and Indian subjects against mob violence and armed attack."

Wants Peace.

"But I earnestly desire a peaceful settlement of the difficulties which have arisen, and my government has caused proposals to be made to the Chinese authorities which should convince the public opinion in China and throughout the world that it is the desire of the British people to remove all real grievances, to renew our treaties on an equitable basis and to place our future relations with the Chinese people on a footing of friendship and good will."

Hands Off Policy.

"My government will maintain our traditional policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of China."

The king touched briefly on other matters to come before the present session of Parliament, as follows:

"My relations with foreign powers will continue to be friendly."

"Proposals will be laid before you at an early date to enable effect to be given to the change in style of

PROBING DEATHS OF THREE WIVES

New Bedford Police Suspicious—Last Spouse Had Been Locked in House by Husband.

New Bedford, Mass., Feb. 8.—Deaths of three wives of Andre Charroux were under investigation today.

An autopsy was held in connection with the death of the third wife with the possibility that a double exhumation may play a part in the investigation.

The probe today was under the direction of Medical Examiner Charles Shanks and his findings will be turned over to District Attorney William C. Crossley.

Apparent alcoholism was the probable cause given in the case of the last two wives of Charroux. The first wife died from natural causes in 1912, the second on September 28, 1925 and the third on Sunday.

Moonshine was discovered in the Charroux home after the deaths of Wife No. 2 and 3. Another fact disclosed today, was that wife No. 2 had been locked in the house by her husband.

REPORT SAYS RED ARMY IS READY IN MANCHURIA

King George Tells Parliament He Wants Peace in China—Britain Postpones Action On Troops Enroute For Far East—Shanghai Safe From Attack.

IN CHINA TODAY

The Cantonese advance on Shanghai has been stemmed. Sun Chuan Fang's forces have won victories beyond Hangchow and it now seems unlikely that the Cantonese will be able to attack Shanghai.

Reports have been circulated that the Soviet army is massing troops on the Manchurian border.

King George opened the British Parliament today and declared the desire of his government for a peaceful settlement of the Chinese affair.

The British Cabinet will take no action on the demand for the diversion of troops enroute to China, for several weeks.

NEWS FROM FRONT

Shanghai, Feb. 8.—While news from the war front in the vicinity of Hangchow today indicated that General Sun Chuan-Fang had turned the scale of defeat against the invading Cantonese armies, this apparently was a prospect of a successful immediate fighting in the vicinity of Shanghai, officials of the international settlement continued to hold themselves prepared for any emergency.

Hope For Best.

"We are hoping for the best, but we are preparing for the worst," said American Consul General Clarence E. Gauss. He added that he was not worrying about the situation at Shanghai.

Reports from Nanking, Sun's headquarters, indicated that Sun Chuan-Fang's answer to the recent United States proposal to make Shanghai a neutral zone was to point out that the Nationalists are the aggressors in the present campaign, and that therefore he has been compelled to resist the southern advance toward Shanghai.

Nationalists Optimistic.

Dispatches from Hankow said the Nationalists were optimistic regarding the prospects of signing a sine British agreement, following the resumption of negotiations between Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, and Owen O'Malley, British charge d'affaires.

The Cantonese armies are reported now to be nearing the border of Kiangsi province and it is estimated that their position is about 190 miles from Shanghai, which leads observers here to anticipate the failure of the present thrust against Shanghai.

The Cantonese are bringing up reinforcements but they are at a great distance from their main base of supplies and this has hampered their attack.

The forces of Sun Chuan Fang are being continually reinforced and it has been possible to relieve the troops in the front line, thus giving the weary Cantonese forces fresh opponents.

VOTE $100,000 EXTRA FOR NEW COURT HOUSE

Frank Cheney, Jr., Makes Suggestion—Rep. Johnson Presents Resolution; Sen. Smith Presides.

Hartford, Feb. 8.—Hartford county's legislative body today voted an extra $100,000 to pay for the proposed new county court house here. The money was appropriated without dissent when Frank Cheney, Jr., chairman of the county house committee, explained that of nineteen bids received for constructing the new building all were far above the sum previously appropriated. The previous appropriations for land and building totaled $1,875,000. Mr. Cheney declared it was not advisable to alter the plans for the building and he assured the legislators that with the money already in hand every thing could be provided except the furnishings.

Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, presented the resolution for the new appropriation while Robert J. Smith, of Manchester, presided over the meeting.

U. S. INTERESTS IN TURKEY FEAR TREATY LAPSES

Feeling of Resentment Toward Americans Is Seen Growing.

Washington.—The future of American interests in Turkey hangs in the balance, it is indicated by private dispatches received here from Ankara and Constantinople.

Although the Turkish government itself is disposed to be friendly toward the United States, there has developed a feeling of resentment against the Americans among the Turkish people and business men because of the Senate's recent refusal to ratify the Lausanne treaty.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, the American high commissioner, is now in Ankara, presumably seeking an extension. The State Department, however, has refused to discuss for publication the instructions given him and declined after the Senate rejection of the treaty, to make known its official attitude of the Turkish question.

Secretary Kellogg explained that it would be an act of discourtesy toward Ankara if his views were placed before the American public before being presented to the Turks.

Despite this caution, it is known that this government is not overly optimistic as to the probable outcome of the Bristol negotiations. One official declared that virtually the only American hopes rests upon the commissioner's ability to convince the Turks of the wisdom of the present arrangement.

Unless a new arrangement is made before the American ships will automatically be subjected to discriminatory tariff rates higher in some cases by 60 per cent and in other by 30 per cent than the rates applied to the products of American competitors.

Whether the Ankara government will go so far as to close the American schools is, of course, problematical, although its right to do so is unquestioned.

Leading American director of Near East colleges, who have never been obliged by the Turks to close their doors for a single day on account of wars political disturbances.

9TH ADOPTS NORTH END SAVINGS PLAN Schools All On Same System Of Thrift Deposits By Children.

It was announced today by Superintendent F. A. Verplanck that the Ninth School District has put into effect the same system of savings as has been used in the north end for some years. It is known as the Educational Thrift System.

In the Ninth school district, a system of school savings was established more than thirty years ago. Stamps were sold by the children and the stamp books when filled, were turned in and the money deposited. It was called the Penny Provident System. The chief fault with this system, Supt. Verplanck explained, was that pupils occasionally lost the stamp books.

After about fifteen years, this system was displaced in favor of another evolved by the school authorities in connection with the Manchester Trust Company. But last month at the request of the bank officials, the same system as is used in the North End schools was inaugurated in the Ninth.

An announcement in a circular delivered to Ninth District homes states that a plan has been adopted by which the school accepts deposits from the pupils and sends them at once to a Manchester bank, where an account is opened in the pupil's name. A deposit may be in any amount from one cent up.

A pass book is issued to each depositor. On each Wednesday, in the morning, a short period is devoted to receiving the deposits. The pass book must be brought to school each time a deposit is made. The children receive interest at the prevailing bank rate. Deposits can be made on Wednesdays only.

Not Obligatory. "The school saving system is not obligatory," Mr. Verplanck said this morning. "We do not, of course, insist that the pupils make contributions. We merely tell them of the plan and encourage them. Many pupils have other forms of savings and are unable to avail themselves of this method."

The circular says: "We hope for hearty sympathy and interest in generally aiding the children in this important enterprise. An improvident child is sure to be a thriftless grown-up.

"The habit of saving is vitally important. For many it is the only road to good food and warm clothing; for others, it leads to a college education or an automobile; to the more fortunate, saving means simply the safeguarding of what has already been stored by. To everyone, everywhere, it is the most essential element of comfort and self-respect."

Savings of Pupils. The annual report of the committee of the Ninth School District carries this statement prepared by Supt. Verplanck: "The system of school savings carried on in connection with the Manchester Savings Bank has been continued through the year. A survey showed that scores of pupils in High School and Barnard School had continued their thrift habits and were depositing money directed in the Savings Banks of the city. The school savings account for the year is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: School Name, Amount. Includes Lincoln School ($2,718.17), Washington School ($1,863.42), Nathan Hale School ($319.40), Bunce School ($437.67), Kindergartens ($48.43), Open Air School ($171.83). Total: $6,058.95.

Beyond a doubt the diners at the Chamber of Commerce banquet this year are scheduled for a treat. The two speakers who have been obtained this year are an unusually well-paired team. Just as an incitement to stimulate the imagination, there are printed below, two of Mr. Bayliss' nonsense rhymes, one of which has been reproduced from Fun Shop and the other from The Saturday Evening Post.

The Sweetheart. To learn to drive the auto, dear, First put the lever into gear, Then push your left foot in like this, That's fine. Now teacher gets a kiss. Now step upon the starter, so; That makes the precious engine go. Now let your left foot back like this Good! Teacher gets another kiss. Upon the gas you now must step. That fills the engine full of pep. That's great! You are a clever miss. Here teacher gets another kiss. Now change to second. Now to you. You do that just as well as I. Now stop the car right here, and then We'll do the lesson once again. The Wife. First, see your car is out of gear. How? By this gear-shift lever here. How can you tell? Why, feel it. See? The thing is simple as can be. Now step on that to make it start. Here! Scott! You'll tear it all apart if you don't take your foot off quick. The second that it gives a kick. Now throw your clutch. For goodness sake! Your clutch! Your clutch!! No, not your brake! Why? Cause I tell you to, that's why! There now, you needn't start to cry. Now pull this lever into low; Step on the gas, and start off slow. LOOK OUT! You almost hit the fence! Here, let me drive! You've got no sense. Busy Salesman to New Buyer. Here's your gas and there's your spark. Turn your lights on after dark. There's your brake, emergency; Here it's held in neutral, see? Here it's low and here it's high. That's all. Don't hit a truck! Goodbye.

NECKGEAR DELUGE AGAIN FLOODS P. O.

St. Louis Mail Peddlers Again Busy, Pending Department Ban.

South Manchester mail carriers are again toting heavy loads owing to a fresh deluge of "blind Paunes Bill" neckties, sent out from St. Louis, apparently by the trainload, to persons all over the country who have not ordered them, do not want them and see no reason why they should be put to the inconvenience of returning them as an alternative to paying for them.

It is a number of months since there was a similar flooding of the mails here with these examples of textile rubbish. Some time ago the Post Office Department took under consideration the plan of denying the use of the mails to vendors of commodities for which no orders had been placed, so serious a load had the practice imposed on postoffice and carriers.

Lay Off for a While. Possibly because they did not wish to court the adverse notice of the government at such a time there was a prompt diminution in the amount of such "sent-on-approval" matter. But as the department has not yet definitely decided to do anything about the nuisance the vendors, probably concluding that the clouds have rolled by, are at it again.

This time the necktie folks are inclosing return postage, no doubt on the theory that the recipients will feel obligated to either remit or return the goods. Of course there is no such obligation. Any person who without invitation sends goods to another asking him to purchase does so at his own risk. Citizens who resent being made the target of such selling methods can contribute to the abatement of the nuisance by simply putting the packages away, holding the merchandise subject to the call of a representative of the shipper—who will probably never appear.

MANCHESTER PERSONS SEE MISS GEARY WED

Attend Brilliant Ceremony at Montclair, N. J., Saturday Afternoon.

Manchester people who attended the wedding of Miss Marjory Crane Geary, recently recreational director in charge at both South End recreation centers, and William Woodlock, included her associates, Miss Ruth Calhoun and Miss Gladys Holland, Miss Helene Cumberly, Miss Helen Scott and Miss Florence Macon.

Miss Calhoun, who returned from New Jersey last night has given The Herald some details of the event which will be of interest to Mrs. Woodlock's many local friends.

The ceremony took place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Crane home at 17 Glenridge Avenue, Montclair, N. J. The quaint old-fashioned house is more than two hundred years old and has been in the possession of the bride's mother's family for many generations, and there the bride was born.

The decorations were palms and early spring flowers. The ceremony was performed by the rector of the Episcopal church in Montclair, the single ring service being used. The wedding march, from 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' by Mendelssohn, was played by Miss Cumberly. "O, Promise Me" and "The Star" by Rogers were sweetly sung by Miss Krofer, a friend of the bride.

The bride attendants were Mrs. Page as matron of honor and Miss Thomas of Springfield as bridesmaid. Stuart Ryder of Dalton, Mass., was the best man.

The bride who was given in marriage by her mother wore a gown of white chiffon over white silk; its only ornament being a Rhinestone buckle. She wore an exquisite veil of silk lace, an heirloom in the family, which fell from a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid wore lavender and yellow and carried arm bouquets of orchid sweet peas and yellow marguerites. A reception for relatives and intimate friends followed the ceremony, the bride and groom leaving for a short wedding trip to parts unknown.

On their return they will live in North Troy, N. Y. The bridegroom is employed in Waterford, N. Y.

SHOOTS DOG, DOESN'T KILL IT; IS FINED

Manchester Man In Court Today For Cruelty to His Animal.

Herman H. Kuhnke of North School street was found guilty of torturing and cruelly killing a dog in the Manchester police court this morning by Judge Johnson.

According to the story of Dog Warden F. A. Krah, his attention was called on Sunday to a dog that was in the woods bordering on Union pond. On investigation he found the animal tied to a bush. It had apparently been shot and was still alive. He learned that the dog belonged to Kuhnke. In court this morning the latter said he wanted to dispose of the dog and took him to the woods. He fired four bullets into the animal and supposed it was dead. He left the dog intending to return Monday to bury him.

Judge Johnson was of the opinion that he should have made sure before leaving it. A dog left for an hour and a half after he had received four bullets must have suffered agony. He therefore fined Kuhnke $25 and costs.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES.

The Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor has taken up the matter of birth registration, urging a fuller and more prompt compliance with the laws of those states which require registration and pointing the necessity of the adoption of such laws in states where they are not already in force.

Connecticut, of course, has ample law providing for the registration of all births by the physician, nurse, midwife or lay person in attendance. Just the same there is not the slightest doubt that not only are registrations often unconsciously delayed but sometimes omitted altogether, in the end, as the result of the delay.

Calling attention to the injury in after life that may be done to the child by failure to register its birth, involving proof of citizenship, the legal right to go to school or to leave school to go to work, the right to an inheritance, to marry, to hold office and so forth, the Bureau urges that better registration be made an issue by women's clubs, Chambers of Commerce and by individual mothers.

It strikes us that the appeal to the mothers is the most effectual means that the Bureau has hit on or that could be hit on. Let every mother interest herself in the matter of seeing that her child's birth is properly registered with the competent authority—this, in Connecticut towns, being the town clerk. Attending physicians, midwives or nurses are required in this state to file certificates of birth with the town clerk within ten days after the event. They do not always do it.

It would work a speedy reform in this matter if every mother, within a couple of months after the birth of her child, should make it her business to visit the town clerk's office and ascertain whether registration has been made. If she discovers that it has not she has a remedy. Let her complain to the police or the prosecuting attorney. The doctor will have broken a law and rendered himself liable to arrest.

THESE SUICIDES.

There is an angle of the suicide problem, just now occupying considerable of the thought of the nation, which we have not seen developed but which might be interesting if the facts were inquired into. And that is the extent of the shift in the suicide tendency from the rural to the urban districts.

Time was when it was a very common thing to read of some hard working farmer being missed by his family, frequently just after "chore time," and then found hanging from a rafter of his own barn. The sameness, the everlasting routine of the agricultural existence had simply tried him out. There is hardly a farming community of twenty houses in the country where some old red barn could not be pointed out as the scene of one of these sombre tragedies—so much alike one to the other.

We hear of less of this class of self killings nowadays. Instead it is the over-strenuous business man who shoots himself in his office, the neurotic rich woman who jumps out of a hotel window, the "busted" financial adventurer who runs his car off a dock, the "butterfly" girl who drinks shoe polish or the self-muddled student who reads himself into despair over crazy German philosophies. The farmer, wearied by the sameness of his job and the aimlessness of existence, instead of taking a rope and going to the hay mow, cranks up the diver and goes to town to the movies. So long as the human being has something in reserve, something up his sleeve, he is not likely to turn so sour on life as to put an end to it. The automobile and the radio have given the ruralist that something in reserve. Too many city people have exhausted all their resources and find themselves, what with philosophies and the hectic life, just where the farmer used to find himself with endless work and no diversions.

"BAUMES" LAW.

Legal opinion in New York, where they are operating under the life-term provision of the Baumes law, and the same opinion in Connecticut, where a similar provision, making life sentences obligatory in cases of fourth-offense felony convictions, is before the Legislature, seem to be almost diametrically opposed. In the former state the only lawyers who have anything to say against the compulsory life term, as a rule, are those whose practice is confined to the defense of criminals and who, in a sense, hold retainer from the whole underworld. In this state the proposed "Baumes" law has few friends even among prosecuting officers.

The difference in the attitude of the New York bench and bar toward this method of disposing of felons and the Connecticut attitude is strikingly demonstrated by the declaration of Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Gibbs, who has come out in advocacy of allowing judges to impose life sentences even on first conviction felons, at their discretion.

We have not been able to understand the objection of the Connecticut prosecutors to the obligatory clause of the proposed measure in this state, because it would seem to be almost self-evident that a criminal four times convicted of felony had outrun all claim to mercy and had destroyed any lingering faith that he might become of use somewhere outside prison walls.

However, it is possible that the mere agitation of the question will call into active operation the habitual criminal law already existing in Connecticut which, in some of the courts of the state at least, seems to have been forgotten.

REAL BONE DRY.

In spite of the fact that it has been definitely determined that there is to be no strengthening of the prohibitory laws at this session, Representative Sprout of Kansas has just introduced a new bill into the House of Representatives to which he has attached the label of "Federal Bone Dry Law."

It prohibits the sale or possession of intoxicating beverages for medicinal purposes. It provides jail sentences for first offenders. It prohibits the possession of intoxicating beverages, whether such possession be in private dwellings or otherwise. It provides special assistant district attorneys for every county and every city of more than 25,000 population, in the country. It endows United States Commissioners with the qualities of trial courts and the power to put offenders in jail.

That's the stuff! That's the way to run this man's country right to the liking of the real bone dry prohibitors.

That law reflects the true Kansas spirit—the energetic determination of boss your neighbor which long ago gave that entirely delightful commonwealth the title of "Bleeding Kansas."

Strange, however, how few people one ever hears of moving to Kansas.

And why doesn't a preponderantly dry Congress adopt the Sprout law with a bang?

NUISANCE.

Why is a comptroller-general? Lieut. Ralph U. Hyde, U. S. N., was ordered to serve as aide to Rear Admiral B. F. Hutchinson. Because young officers detailed to serve as aides to high officers in the navy must be more than ordinarily immaculate and must encounter various other small expenses not imposed in the ordinary line of duty the law provides that they shall receive extra pay at the rate of $200 per annum.

Lieutenant Hyde did not get this extra pay. To explain, the Assistant Comptroller-general of the United States, who rejoices in the name of Lurline R. Ginn, sets forth in a paper approximately as long as the Declaration of Independence, which for preparation, typing in multifold and for various processes of filing and so forth probably cost as much as Lieut. Hyde's help-up pay, that three special requirements must be met in the case of officers serving as aides before they can get their money. The document gives all of these requirements in detail—with citations of no less than five cases—and declares that the "president submission falls to meet either of these requirements."

One of the requirements is that the officer must not rank above a Lieutenant. Mr. Hyde is a Lieutenant. Another is that the duty performed for the rear admiral must be exclusively and strictly personal, confidential and of a routine character as contrasted with general staff duty. Mr. Hyde's duty was, of course, precisely that. The third requirement is that the assignment must be for duty with a particular officer, designated by name. Hyde was assigned to duty by Admiral Hutchinson.

But the lieutenant does not get his dough and the comptroller's office has not yet been dynamited.

TWITTING ON FACTS.

Louisiana is the latest state to ban Darwinism—not through Legislative action but by order of the Superintendent of Education, who has yielded to the demands of a fundamentalist group and excluded the study of the biological sciences from the public schools.

The peculiar sensitiveness of some of these southerners in the matter of monkey descent reminds one of the boy who can stand any amount of untrue abuse but who sees red when his companions begin to "twit on facts."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Feb. 8.—The Hon. T. Webster Wilson, congressman from Mississippi, is serenely confident that he has begun what will blossom into complete government censorship of all the magazines in America.

He has introduced a bill to this effect. In the first place, he is going to push it himself, and in the second and vastly more important place, he is sure that the women of the nation are going to hammer the other congressmen until they put it over for him.

Later on, he says the bill may be extended to cover books, but books contribute a mere drop of filth to the magazine's bucketful. The Wilson bill provides for a National Board of Magazine Censorship to be appointed by the president with five members who will have the right to select as many helpers as they find necessary. These helpers will be jobs for plenty of assistant censors, as there are said to be some 25,000 or 30,000 periodicals, appearing from twice a week to once a year.

All magazines would be censored before publication. The publisher of any magazine who failed to send a copy to the Censorship Board and have it approved before issuing it would be liable to a maximum imprisonment of 10 years and a maximum fine of $10,000. Express companies handling such an uncensored magazine would be liable to a fine of $5000.

Congressman Wilson has a choice collection of horrible examples of the type of magazine "obscenity" he seeks to abolish. They include pictures of nude women and various articles, poems and stories which are even more exciting than the pictures.

He has found "smut" in some of the ritzier magazines as well as the lowest. He even mentioned Scribners. "I've been accumulating magazines and reading them for three or four months," he explained. "I find many of them lewd, lascivious and indecent. These magazines need a great reformation. They are exercising license, not liberty.

"Some states have laws, but they can stem the flood of this stuff from other states. Most of these magazines go by express. They call it the highest form of art to print a photograph of a naked woman. Huh!

"There's no question that my bill, in some form or other, will sooner or later be made a law. Since I introduced it, I have had 50 or 75 letters, most of them from women's organizations, congratulating me and asking how they could best crystallize sentiment for such a law.

After close inspection of Congressman Wilson's exhibits, your correspondent is able to state that a great many good people haven't any idea of the sort of material being printed in some of our magazines. Some of these magazines aren't nearly as popular as they would be if the nature of their contents were generally known. As this interview was given, Congressman Wilson was finishing preparation of a speech in which he planned to name names and quote excerpts right on the floor of the House. It promised, because of the excerpts, to be by all odds the hottest speech made in the Sixty-ninth Congress.

Banker Not Alarmed At Today's Luxuries

THE DECLINE OF $25,000!

New York.—Avas: money surplus in the nation, says the economist!

A sterility of social accomplishment that requires extravagant substitutes, says the spokesman of a passing aristocracy!

And there you have a pithy summarizing of conditions that have thrust some 50 blocks of Park Avenue, Manhattan, into the world limelight as a section given to such extravagances as perhaps were never equaled upon this planet.

"Fifty years ago," recalls Chas. R. Flint, financier and representative of an earlier-day society, "the very Alps of society got along very nicely on $25,000 a year. One must remember, however, that hostesses in that day were accomplished. They could entertain without calling in Broadway celebrities at princely fees. The present-day guests are nouveau riche. Lacking the social assurances they com-

dent of the Park Avenue Association.

His figures show, among other things, that the cost of keeping the pretty ladies of Park Avenue well groomed is $192,000 a year. Something like $15,000,000 a year goes to the bootlegger. Rentals at $10,000 a year are very reasonable. Something like $12,000 per day goes into bouquets for millady. Other expenditures are similar and a man with a mere $50,000 a year is comparatively poor.

Yet, a check shows, this avenue of lavish spenders does not represent the society of the "flue" books, social registers and four-hundreders. It is, largely speaking, the loose money corralled into a given area.

Mental Attitude

"One of the first elements to be considered," cites Prof. Atkins in surveying this condition, "is the mental attitude of the individuals. The display of feminine finery is not so much to be blamed upon the woman as upon the man. He wishes to set off his wife or daughter or sweetheart, or whatever she may be, and, in a sense, she becomes an advertisement of his prosperity. So do his imported automobiles and yachts.

"All this, of course, is native to a land in which money is the equivalent of social standing. Whereas blood and culture are the entrance cards in many countries, here it is dollars. Park Avenue was associated with social distinction. Naturally those with money who want to make a certain impression feel they have to live there.

"The basis of it all is a money surplus. Starting with Puritan thrift, this nation became industrially powerful and rich. Having produced and consumed a maximum we find an overflow. There has to be an outlet. The individual, having spent to his capacity on necessities, having given himself every comfort and luxury he needs, turns to greater luxuries.

"And here comes what I consider a most important and healthy sign. In the list of these expenditures two items struck my eye: one was $15,000,000 spent in art galleries and the arts in general, and the other a similar amount for travel.

"We need but to check back on history. Rome, grown rich on slavery and conquest, turned its money to esthetic purposes. Here we see Park Avenue spending almost as much on the arts and upon broadening its world scope as it does on its apparel. As the arts become appreciated this amount will grow and we have reason to feel that, perhaps, they will flourish as never before.

"What is more, there is no reason to believe this money surplus will dwindle. On the contrary it should grow and what, at this moment, seems extravagant will become commonplace and greater expenditures will be recorded in the future.

"It is true such figures placed before the eyes of greedy persons are better propaganda than all the soap-boxers. But all the advertising mediums are indirectly full of the same sort of taunts to the very poor.

Fifty Years Ago

"Fifty years ago," says Flint, a type of the old "order" going back into his memories half a century, "accomplishment, not wealth, was the open sesame to New York society. The rivalry was not for display but for talent.

"A hostess of the 70's and 80's depended upon her own ability as an entertainer. She would have held up her hands in horror at the idea of importing a troop of jazz singers or chorus girls to amuse her guests.

"Consequently there were no bills for entertainment. New Yorkers of that day dined very largely at home and entertained in their homes. Such items as amusements, automobiles, beauty shops and restaurants, which mount into millions on Park Avenue today, did not gnaw at the income of 50 years ago.

In those days, Mrs. Robert L. Cutting was the social leader of New York, an accomplished musician, linguist and conversationalist. She occupied the proscenium box at the old Academy of Music, and when Patti sang in New York, she bowed to Mrs. Cutting in her box just as she would have to royalty.

"Twenty-five thousand dollars a year would keep one stepping along in the social pace of those days, in spite of many considerably larger incomes. I would say it was an average income of society 50 years ago.

"Park Avenue represents the concentration of the social leader. Cream always rises to the top, and in a country that numbers some 2200 multi-millionaires, a congestion of display in the country's wealth center is bound to come.

"Park Avenue also represents the transition period in New York's change from a city of homes to one of apartment houses. It does not necessarily represent New York's money.

"I see nothing to view with alarm in the situation. If a man devotes his life to amassing a fortune, the least he ought to gain in return is the fun of spending it as he chooses, and living where he wants to during the process."

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Lewis and Clark (2)

Jefferson accepted Lewis' services and the daring young man chose as his companion Captain William Clark of Virginia, a brother of George Rogers Clark. With 43 men they set out in May, 1804, from the mouth of the Missouri river in Illinois. They poled and towed their three boats. They were young, strong and depended on their rifles for food.

Half a dozen years before Lewis and Clark set out, the Minnetarees, raiding Montana's plains, had captured an Indian girl.
The Shoshone girl, Sacajawea, "bird woman," was brought back to the Minnetarees' village on the Missouri river in what is now North Dakota.

The Minnetarees sold her as a wife to a French trapper, Toussaint Charbonneau. She gave birth to a child. Her path and that of the explorers now poling their weary way up the Missouri, soon were to cross. Guided by her they were to defeat the wilderness and win fame in which she never shared. (Continued.)

JACK LOCKWILL AT ROCKLAKE

Now Bevins admired that spirit. He grinned. "Where can you play?" he asked. "Anywhere you put me," was the answer. Bevins sent him into right field, the position of least importance. Jack demonstrated that he could cover as much ground as the big tent of Barnum and Bailey's circus, and when he grabbed the old apple it flew away from him about as often as a criminal could escape from a Sherlock Holmes.

LITTLE JOE

POLICEMEN SELDOM BELIEVE A PUBLIC PARK IS THE PUBLIC'S.

Magovern failed to appear at practice the day before the freshmen were to play the sophomores. Captain Bevins dejectedly informed the team that Stants was down with the flu, which would prevent him from pitching. "And there's nobody else who can hold the soph down," he declared. "With the Bad Egg shooting 'em over for them, they'll make us look like a hobo's dress shirt." "I can pitch," announced Jack.

"Probably he's weak with the war club," said Bevins to "Stants" Magovern, the pitcher, as Jack got ready to take his turn in batting practice. "Show him up." But Jack whanged Magovern's shoots to all parts of the outfield.

FORD'S THEATER

WASHINGTON.—Aroused by the danger of famous old Ford's theatre, where Abraham Lincoln was shot and fatally wounded by John Wilkes Booth, being wiped out by fire, a group of members of Congress have rallied to a proposal to make the theatre a national shrine. The danger of destruction by fire is increased, it is declared, by the fact that thousands of small bundles of paper are stored in it by the War Department. The theatre, a dingy, musty old building, is usually passed up by sight-seeing guides who pilot tourists through stately government buildings and past magnificent homes of foreign envoys in the national capital. But a stream of visitors wanders into Tenth street each day to gaze at the building, and the old house across the street, in which Lincoln died.

SNOWY WINTER FAILS TO INJURE THE BIRDS

Numerous Flocks of Quail in This Vicinity Show No Apparent Decrease.
Reports from the outlying districts in the immediate vicinity of Manchester indicate that, despite the continuous blanket of snow that covered the country from the earliest beginning of the winter until a few days ago, the birds have wintered unusually well. Sportsmen and other bird lovers who have interested themselves in feeding and protecting the feathered wild life, and who have kept tabs on their birds, say that there has been very little mortality among them. The contributing cause, they say, lies in the fact that the snow has not crusted, as it so often does, burying the ground-living varieties and preventing others from obtaining access to food and the needed gravel.

A number of flocks of quail which have been under observation in various parts of the town and surrounding country are reported as having shown no perceptible decrease in numbers, while the conditions have not been at all adverse to the survival of partridges. This is the last year of the long closed season for quail, under the existing law, but it is believed that the Legislature will continue the protection, as most sportsmen throughout the state and certainly a large majority of those in this vicinity, favor the continuation of the closed season.

STATE GIVES GOLD TOMORROW EVENING

Two Features and $50 Offered; 8 Acts for Thursday Night With Richard Dix.
The Gold Rush will be on tomorrow night. Not the picture but a real Gold Rush at the State theater when $50 will be distributed in five $5.00 gold pieces and ten of the $2.50 denomination. On the same bill will be two features and a lot of fun. On Thursday evening, Bargain Night, the State will present again eight acts of select vaudeville in the biggest bargain night bill yet offered.

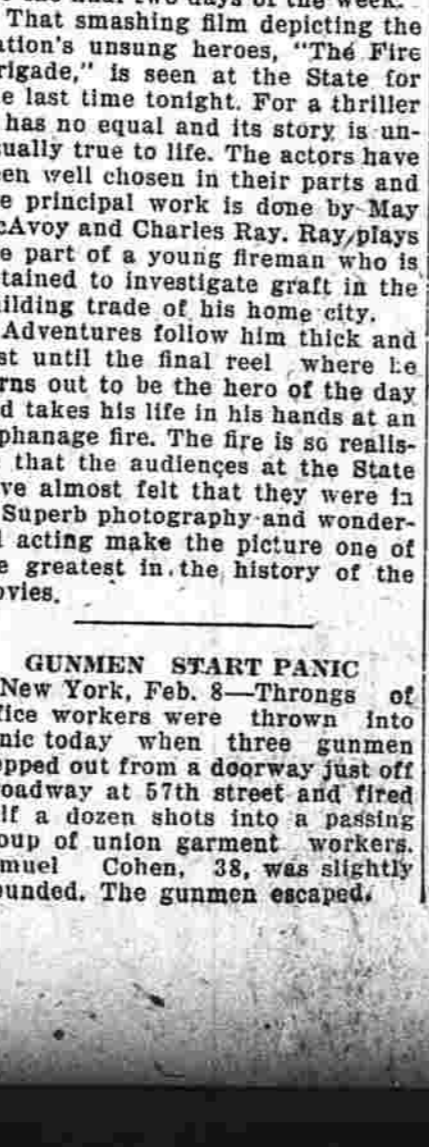

ROYAL MOUNTED POLICE PICTURE AT RIALTO

In the film version of "The Country Beyond" which heads a double feature program at the Rialto today and tomorrow J. Farrell McDonald impersonates Sergeant Cassidy—of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. He is a striking figure in his picturesque costume, absolutely correct down to the smallest detail. It was closely inspected by members of the police in Jasper Alberta, just before he went before the camera. But MacDonald does not wear the uniform throughout the play. He appears in civilian clothes when he goes to New York on a search for Virginia, the French Canadian girl (Olive Gordon) and it is there that some thrilling adventures occur. "The Country Beyond" is one of James Oliver Curwood's most widely read novels and in the screen story the making of the Southwest is called "Border Women" and deals mainly with the life led by the Texas Rangers, a hazardous occupation. William Fairbanks and Dorothy Revier are co-starred in "Border Women." An hilarious comedy and current news will also be shown.

"SORROWS OF SATAN" AT CIRCLE TONIGHT

Adolphe Menjou Starred Here For Two Days—Engagement Opens This Evening.
"Such fine a bit of acting as ever Menjou has done in his life." That is the comment of one of Manchester's movie fans who saw an extraordinary showing of the great gentleman actor in "Sorrows of Satan" which is playing today and tomorrow at the Circle theater. And he was right. Menjou was never better and never appeared to such a degree of perfection than in this feature.
Not only is Menjou convincing and wonderful, but he is surrounded by a galaxy of stars, each one of whom is a leading personality. For instance, Carol Dempster is well known as a leading lady while Ricardo Cortez rarely appears in films unless he is the principal character.
Then there is Lya DePutti, the exotic European actress who is taking the country by storm. Since her first appearance in this country with the great German film "The Blue Bird," Miss DePutti has been in demand by producers everywhere.
The picture is directed and screened in the true D. W. Griffith style and manner. Nothing is left unsaid and the nice subtleties are handled with a delicacy and tact that are Griffith's alone. The book of Marie Corelli has been clothed with glamor by this master of production and if the story created a stir when it first appeared 30 years ago, it will create a hot in its screen version.

BOY SCOUT DOES HIS 'GOOD TURN' FOR DOG

It Cost Him His Shirt Tail But That Isn't What Makes Him Anonymous.
"Be a good turn daily." That is the first Boy Scout law and the one that every Scout tries to live up to. One member of Troop 6 of the South Methodist church lived up to the letter of this law on Saturday. He was on a hike with the rest of his troop in the Keeney street section when he saw a dog; one of whose legs was bleeding. The boy caught the animal and found that it had been bit twice in the leg with 22 caliber bullets.
He went to work and extracted the bullets, applying a tourniquet to stop the bleeding. Having no cloth banding with which to make bandages, he tore a piece from his undershirt and wrapped the dog's leg with it.
Then he took the dog to the police station. The police found out who the owner was.
Scout customs, it was explained, prohibit the mention of the boy's name.

Coffee and crullers were served.

LUMBERMEN OF STATE CUT TREES TOO SOON

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 8.—Connecticut owners of second growth timber cut their trees too soon to realize the full lumber values and thus have difficulty in competing with regions where trees are allowed to stand until larger. This is the opinion of State Forester Austin F. Hawes, who says the trees should be left to grow until they produce enough high-grade lumber to yield a good profit.
He estimates that eight-inch trees, cut to make 1,000 board feet of lumber, represent from two to four times as much labor as when trees twenty-five inches in diameter are used. The felling and cutting up takes twice as long, skidding three times, loading four times and sawing twice as long.
For distribution among forest owners, he has prepared cards which outline the rapidly increasing value of timber after it is beyond the eight and ten-inch diameter stage.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

All material for the Freshman issue of the "Somanhis Events" should be in the hands of the editorial staff by tomorrow. This is necessary to getting the edition out on time.

Being the Freshman issue, it is hoped to have many contributions from the Freshman class. Stories, essays and poems are especially solicited. Every member of the Freshman class should contribute something to this issue of "Somanhis."

Of course that does not mean that everything contributed will be published. That would be an impossibility, but it is good practice for anyone to write, and all the Freshmen should hand in something.

All contributions by the Freshmen may be given to Miss Burke and Miss Trippe, Freshman English teachers, or may be made to the members of the Freshman class "Somanhis" staff. This staff is comprised of the following: Editor in chief, Janet Simon; assistants, Gustav Anderson and Patricia Maroney, James Cole.

Besides making contributions to the literary department all the students are asked to contribute to the joke department and to the alumni department. School jokes are needed. If there have been any good jokes in any of the class rooms, or if anyone knows of what some alumnus is doing in the way of working something up for a party, a trip, or any other such item of interest, he should write it on a piece of paper and either hand it to one of the staff or put it in the "Somanhis" box outside of room 28 in the main building.

Such contributions would be much appreciated by the editors. Both the glee clubs have held their regular weekly rehearsals. The boys rehearsed yesterday, and the Girls' Glee Club held its rehearsal this afternoon.

Both clubs are preparing diligently for the rendition of "The Man Without a Country" and also for the big interscholastic glee club contest to be held in the spring. The boys won this contest last year and expect to repeat this year.

The orchestra will rehearse as usual tomorrow the seventh period in the assembly hall. There are several new numbers to be learned, so every member should bring his instrument, and be prompt in attendance.

Band rehearsal will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 in room 28. Bandmaster Harold Turkington has a large number of new pieces for the band. They include both popular songs, concert numbers and marches. Every member is requested to bring his instrument on Thursday, and to be in the band room promptly at 3:30 o'clock ready to play so that rehearsal may be started immediately.

Tryouts for the boys of the Soc and Buskin club for the one act play to be given at the Senior class social were held last Friday. The cast selected has been announced as follows: A young man, Terrence Shannon; another young man, Charles Treat. The name of the play is "When Two Is Not Company." It is a humorous one act play with some very clever lines.

The Writer's Club will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon, the seventh period, probably in room 28. Definite announcement as to where the meeting will be held will be made later. Miss Viets, faculty advisor, is planning some interesting work for the club to do.

The Senior Latin class is now taking up Book II of the translating of Virgil's "Aeneid," the most noble of Roman epic poems.

There appears to be quite a little interest in the announcement that the Constitutional oratory contest will again be held in the High school. Mr. Potter is in charge of the contest, and expects to have several speakers at work before the end of the week. There wasn't very much interest taken in this contest last year, but it is hoped that a large number will become interested enough to try out this year.

This contest has much value. It helps the speaker to a better understanding of the Constitution and the men who made it and who maintained it. Although there is quite a little work connected with the preparation of a good speech on the Constitution, there will be plenty of help for those who desire to try out. Mr. Potter will have some material for the speakers to work from and some of the teachers will probably help. There is a wealth of references in the local public library besides. Two years ago Sherwood Mercer, who represented the local school, received honorable mention at the Hartford county tryouts in Hartford. Manchester should send a winner to those tryouts this year. Anyone who can speak and who is at all interested in the Constitution should try out for this contest. Mr. Potter will make an announcement as to the topics which may be chosen this week.

The Senior French class is now taking up the reading of "Histoire de France." Previous to this class read "Madame de la Selgriere."

HEBRON

A ground hog or woodchuck has been exhibited at the post office for the last day or two, which was caught by Claude Jones' dog. It was small and thin with apparently no food in its stomach though it had a mouthful of grass between its teeth when the dog killed it. Apparently it came out of its hole at the appointed time and was intending to stay out and look for rattons. Mrs. Lulu Lord and her son, Morgan, of Manchester, accompanied by Mahlon Chapman of Rockville were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett G. Lord. Miss Esther Lord, who has visited Miss Clarissa Lord the past few days accompanied her mother and brother to their home.

Quite a number of people have been to see the hemlock tree in the rectory yard, which was broken down in the big gale a few nights ago. It was twisted and splintered in such a way that it resembles the work of a miniature cyclone. The tree was a vigorous one of two or more feet in diameter and was perfectly sound.

Mrs. Henrietta (Swift) Rathbone celebrated her 87th birthday on Sunday. VERNON CENTER

A congregational meeting of the First Congregational church of Vernon duly called to act on the pastor's resignation offered the previous Sunday to take effect May 1st was held in the church lecture room last Sunday morning. The resignation was accepted with the expression of regret and the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, Our beloved pastor, Rev. Edward Ellis has expressed a desire to be relieved from further duties as pastor in this church after May 1st, and the same has been granted, although with reluctance, therefore be it

"Resolved, That it is with profound regret that our relationship as pastor and people is soon to terminate. Many happy gatherings to the church membership, also renewed interest in the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor society are among the fruits of Brother and Sister Ellis' labors with us. We hope and trust that this action upon his part will be an opening door for higher activities elsewhere, for which he is exceedingly competent and most worthy."

A resolution of sympathy was also unanimously adopted as follows: "Whereas, Having been obliged to submit to the will of Him whose ways are past finding out in removing from our midst a most estimable woman and an earnest Christian worker in the church and community in the person of Mrs. Annie E. Ellis; Therefore be it

"Resolved, That in this passing from Earth of a beloved wife and mother this church hereby extends to our pastor and family our united heartfelt sympathy, fully realizing that they as well as the church and Sunday school have suffered an irreparable loss."

The meeting of Vernon Grange on Friday evening was entertained by an illustrated stereopticon lecture on "Market Gardening" delivered by Prof. Wilkinson of the State Agricultural College at Storrs. Refreshments including scalloped oysters, potato chips, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by a committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. Perry Lathrop.

The Mother church, which was postponed while Mrs. Ellis was in the hospital, will take place on Friday evening of this week, beginning at 6:30. The supper will be for all members and supporters of the church without charge, only an opportunity to contribute to its expense. After the roll call of members, to which each may answer by repeating a verse of Scripture, reports of the work of 1926 will be brought with musical numbers rendered by the "Earnest Workers' Class of the Sunday school."

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Here after, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips."

Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

What This Country Needs Is a Little Co-operation

A MAN'S JOB

They sat silently for a long time; then he spoke a little nervously.

"What are you thinking about?" he asked. He knew he had to say something.

She blushed and moved uneasily in her chair.

"Never mind," she answered sharply, "it's your business to propose, not mine!"—Tit-Bits.

Did Jock Malone ever knock out Roland Todd, English middleweight?—V. B. D.

Yes, in 1924, in 10 rounds.

PLUMBING FIXTURES

Prices alone should never govern either the selection of the fixtures or the plumber to do the work. Assurance of good material and workmanship is certain only when there is no false economy in buying plumbing and when good judgment selects the men to install it.

COMMUNITY GIRLS BEAT STAFFORD BY A ONE-SIDED SCORE

Long Inactivity Fails to Slow Up Locals—Materially. Score Is 22-10.

Despite the effects of a long stretch of inactivity, the Manchester Community Girls still possessed enough pep and skill to drub the Stafford Springs girls' basketball team last night in the Town Hall at Rockville. The score was 22 to 10.

Summary table for Community Girls vs Stafford Springs. Columns: Player, Points, Rebounds, Assists.

The Manchester team lined up as follows: Gibbons, Hansen, Gustafson, Maloney, Morgan, Schubert. On the second team were: Lupien, Shields, Brock, C. Gustafson, F. Gustafson. Waterbury won from the first team, 15-8, 15-12, 16-14. The second team scores were 15-9, 15-8, 10-15, 7-15, 9-15.

COMMUNITY SECONDS WIN AGAIN 24-22

STRIBLING'S POOR FIGHT

New York, Feb. 8.—Young Stribling, Georgia's candidate for fist honors, today seemed to be as far away from heavyweight title consideration as ever. In spite of the fact that he clearly earned a ten round decision over Sailor Eddie Huffman, of California, at Madison Square Garden last night, the bout was scheduled as Stribling's comeback but the pace was slow and Stribling did little to make it faster. He fought a "countering" fight most of the way.

The C. B. A. A. bowling team will go to Thompsonville this evening to roll against the Bigelow-Hartford company. A return match will take place here February 23.

Weavers Win Two Games From The Old, Old Mill

LEAGUE STANDING

League standing table for Old Mill, Ribbons, Spinning, Weavers.

The chances of the fifth consecutive title for the Weaving Mill in the C. B. A. A. senior bowling league are far from slim. Although still in second place, the plucky Weavers are battling gamely every inch of the way and last night reduced the Old Mill's lead to one full game. A large audience at Murphy's alleys saw the Weavers cop two out of three.

There are fifteen more games to be played. Last night's games were the first of the sixth round. The Old Mill and the Weavers will meet but once more—on February 28. However, the Ribbons and Spinning teams must not be overlooked or underrated. They are liable to spring upsets that may cause either the Old Mill or the Weaving Mill to falter. The Spinning, in the instance, won three games from the Weavers. All but one game resulted in a total team single of well over 500. One was as high as 590. And that's bowling.

Seventy-eight marks were registered by the two teams. The Weavers made 37 spares and four strikes; the Old Mill, 33 spares and four strikes. Fully a score of marks were "blown" also.

The Old Mill, hitting 549, won the first game by 46 pins but then rolled by the Weavers in the second game to lose by 24 pins, 321 to 487. In the final game, both teams hit some attractive scores but the Weavers topped the most pins, winning by 46 pins, 590 to 544.

Joe Canade scored the high single of the evening with 127 while Ernie Wilkie captured the high three string with scores of 116, 117 and 122.

Following are the scores of the two matches: Old Mill (1) vs Weaving (2)

LOCAL BOY LEADS SPRINGFIELD NINE

Gil Wright Is Captain Of Bay State College Team Which Goes South.

Led by a Manchester boy, the Springfield College baseball team will go on a southern training trip this season for the first time. Gil Wright, one of the most popular athletes ever graduated from the South Manchester High school, is captain of the Springfield team.

Gil is in his senior year and his election as captain of the team tends to show the high esteem in which the local boy is held. While at the local school, Wright made 3 fine records and also played well with the Manchester team under Breckinridge at shortstop.

Capt. Gil Wright has the following reserves to lead this year: Al Johnson, pitcher; "Pop" Erickson and "Lefty" Beach, pitchers; Joe Kalkoff and "Stretch" Mahnkirk, first basemen; James, second base; Jenkins, Linell, Craig and Misar, outfielders. Likely men from the reserves are Al Johnson, pitcher; Yates, outfielder; H. Wright, outfielder; "Bob" Wagner, third base; Follette. Among last year's freshmen there are Duncan and Williamson, outfielders; Steeves, catcher; "Red" Johnson, pitcher and one or two others who were outstanding.

The southern trip schedule is as follows: March 21, William and Mary; March 22, North Carolina State; 23, Elon college; 24, Washington and Lee; 25, Bridgewater college; 26, University of Virginia; 29, Maryland university; 30, Navy; 31, Georgetown; April 1, University of Delaware; April 2, University of Penn.

LEAGUE NOT READY TO THROW JOHNSON

Organization Will Probably Remain as It Is For This Season at Least.

By DAVIS J. WALSH New York, Feb. 8.—Quite contrary to general belief, the American League will not throw Ban Johnson overboard for a younger and more tractable successor, unless Johnson forces the league's hand by attempting to reclaim his former position of power. The organization, in any case, probably will remain as is, for the season of 1927 with Frank Navin of Detroit, tactfully conducting its affairs as acting president, and William Harridge, Johnson's secretary, looking after the detail of the office.

To Take No Action The writer was informed today by a man high in baseball's councils that the league, far from rushing into the light of day with Johnson's successor at its scheduled meeting today, as had been rumored, would take no action at this or any date in the immediate future out of consideration for Johnson's health. It is understood that an ouster at this stage of the proceedings might very well prove fatal to Johnson.

In No Hurry "Comiskey, Landis and other men who had been opposed to Johnson recognize this humane necessity," it was pointed out. "There is absolutely no hurry on our part to put another man in Johnson's place. Navin, as vice-president, was elected for just such an emergency as this. Johnson's secretary, William Harridge is a capable man who is qualified to conduct the detail affairs of Johnson's office in his absence."

"It has been said that we can't start the season the way we are. Why not? If we are satisfied, everyone else ought to be." "Nothing has been done about appointing a successor to Johnson because we don't want to make it any tougher for Ban than we have to."

Informally, however, several men have been discussed, it was admitted. They include E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland club; George Wharton Pepper and John K. Tener, former governor of Pennsylvania.

BLOOD LIFE APPEARS

New York—The blood of the chimpanzee and the orangoutang is more closely related to human blood than that of common monkeys. Dr. H. Gideon Wells told a class at Columbia University recently. Dr. Wells said that the blood of the anthropoid apes are more closely akin to human blood than the bloods of horses and donkeys are related to each other.

PRINCE COMING TO SYDNEY. Montreal, Feb. 8.—The Prince of Wales will arrive at Sydney, N. S., on August 1, according to advices received here. The reason for choice of Sydney as the port of arrival is that it was the landing place of King Edward when, as Prince of Wales, he made his first visit to Canada.

Watch for "The Scarlet Letter"

Here's Brand New Way to Win the Varsity Letter.

ELLIOTT NUGENT, NORMA LEE.

Columbus, Feb. 8.—Ohio State University has just awarded an honorary variety "O" to Elliott Nugent, author and star of the play, "The Poor Nut." The award is made for "service" to the university. "The Poor Nut" deals with college life, and during the course of the plot, the young Ohio graduate speeds around the stage under track carrying the scarlet and gray of his alma mater to glorious victory. For nearly two years Nugent, at night and during matinees, has kept the name and fame of Ohio State before the public. Hence the honorary "O."

MOSQUITO WAR

Washington—Scattering poisoned sawdust from airplanes is the latest method used by entomologists in the war on mosquitoes. The United States Marine Corps fliers are conducting the experiments. The sawdust is laced with a weak solution of arsenic and is said not to be injurious to fish, birds or persons because of the dilution of the poison.

COMMON SEVEN!

Washington—"Your fine will be $8," pronounced a judge when Allen S'aton, negro, was brought before him on a traffic charge. S'aton, reached into his pocket for his money and a pair of dice fell clattering to the floor. The judge stared over the bar of justice at a natural seven. He reduced the fine to $5.

Corned Beef and Cabbage Made McTigue 'Comeback'

By JIMMY POWERS.

Keeping Tabs On Fisticuffs Latest Wire Results

New York, Feb. 8.—Corned beef and cabbage made him what he is today—I hope you're satisfied. Ever since Michael Francis McTigue started his sensational spurt of spectacular knockouts every fight fan in the country has been chirping, "Well, I'll be blowed, the old son-of-a-gun has been hiding behind a pair of boxing gloves for 14 years—how come?"

And down the line wherever flat noses and thick ears are the mode you hear an echoing chorus of mystifying "how-comes."

Corned beef and cabbage, "me bit" comes the ready answer of this grinning, rejuvenated Celt who will be 40 years old next fall and who is out there at night slashing, tearing, ripping vicious rights and lefts to surprised youngsters in the papers about die—er—skating fox we all know so well. Dr. Jekyll used to sniff a mysterious powder that changed him into Mr. Hyde.

Michael Francis pulls his chair up to a steaming dish of "red mike and violets," as that famous dish is known in the quaint patios of the Bronx. "I'll tell ye, me lad," he says in answer to my question for the low-down on his change, "I used to rade all this scientific balderdash runnin' in the papers about die—er—bohydrates, caloric values and nitrogenous foods. 'Begorra, all my life I used to nibble away at lettuce and such like a faint-hearted rabbit. 'After Delaney bats me, I sisters' pinded trainin' fer awhile and ate meats and built up energy and a fightin' spirit. Now I feel like a lion and there's not a bit o' blarney in that, so help me Hannah!'

Mike is now matched with Jack Sharkey. A championship bout with Jack Delaney in Browning. The red-faced, freckled old Mick who once held the light-heavy crown has battled them all for years with but one lone knockout against him. What an interesting career he has had, polishing it up to date with a dramatic and savage knockout of Paul Berlenbach in four rounds. No one sat down once in the Garden that night. Mike is one of a brood of 13 children. He was born in Kilmonaugh parish, County Clare, Ireland. His real age is 39. He met Jack Britton when he came to America and he followed him everywhere. He spent long hours in a gym emulating Britton's lightning left that could stab a hole in the eye of a needle. Watch Mike closely in action and you will see the resemblance to the old master. Remember what a treat it was to see Jack turn sideways and lash out with a rapier-like left? Mike has the same trick down pat. "I used to pride myself on bein' called a boxer," says Michael, "now all I want to do is fight. All Irishmen can fight. But it took me 40 years to find it out!"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while bathing with a party at Ocean Tower, N. A. At the Hotel Majanaca, where they had been eating, an inquiry is begun, after a doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounces him dead.

They entered Room J to find it almost filled with would-be witnesses.

CHAPTER XIV RIGGS and Robin Sears thought deeply, and were suddenly brought to attention by the decided tones of Miss Folsom, as she said: "Well, then, I'll ask you, Mr. Barron, and you, Mr. Sears, to go with me at once to the office and give your depositions."

detective, Dixon, were at their wits' end to decide which ones were important to be listened to and which should be summarily dismissed with scant attention. Men and women both, nearly all with an air of mysterious knowledge, thronged the place and more or less insistently tried to pour forth their stories.

one of these men who assisted! "No, I wasn't," Tracy spoke up for himself. "I had my wife to look after and there was plenty of help about if the man was in any danger." "You, Mr. Barron?" Miss Folsom's voice was tense. "Did you assist the rescuers?"

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

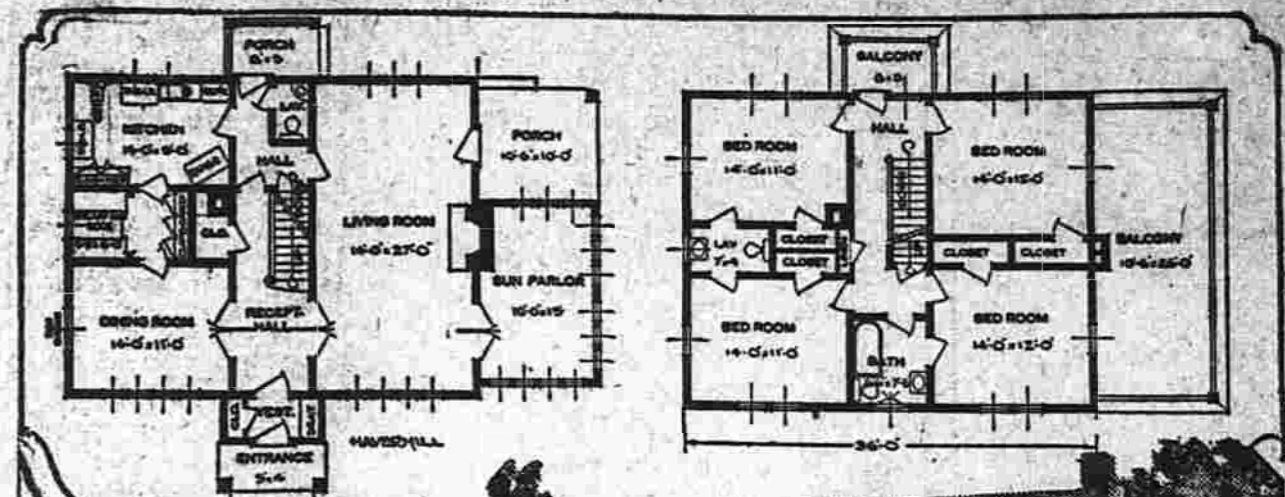

"Why weren't you here to meet us?" This, says one of the charming Mrs. Roosevelt who went hunting wild game in darkest jungles with their respective husbands, Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt, was the greeting given them when, traveling half way around the world to meet their hunter husbands, they arrived at the trysting spot a few hours later than their said husbands.

The sweet young thing revolved before the family in her Artist's Ball gown. She was to be the ace of spades. Black satin fashioned the thigh-length skirt, and a white velvet cape of spades made the bodice.

Emphasizing the Large Living Room

To home lovers whose pet chamber is the living room, this plan, known as the "Haverhill," should particularly appeal. Letting out onto a spacious solarium and small back porch, the living room, 14 by 27 feet, lies across one entire end of the house.

GILDA GREY COOKS "LOBSTER CABARET"

So long as Gilda Gray can dance so entrancingly, no one would mind it particularly if she couldn't cook the simple foods that she herself prefers, but she can branch out into fancy cooking and make a French chef quite green with jealousy.

Rob Smooth Draw to one side, add flour, rub until perfectly smooth and add the stock, the kitchen bouquet, salt and pepper. Add the lobster that has been boiled and cut into large pieces. Make four pieces of the tall, four of each claw. Stand the mixture over hot water for ten minutes.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Some of the sporty roadsters are equipped with rumble seats, but most family sedans have a grumble seat—both are back of the driver. An arm protruding from the car ahead means that the driver is: 1. Knocking ashes off a cigarette. 2. Going to turn to the left. 3. Telling his young son to shut up, he won't buy any red pop. 4. Going to turn to the right. 5. Pointing out a scenic spot. 6. Going to back up. 7. Feeling for rain. 8. Telling his wife, hic, yes, he's sure the kitchen door is locked. 9. Saluting a passing motorist or going to make a stop. How to Avoid Traffic Cops Leave your car in the garage. Give your machine to a cousin. Stop making payments on it. Don't buy a car at all.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS A COMEDIENNE

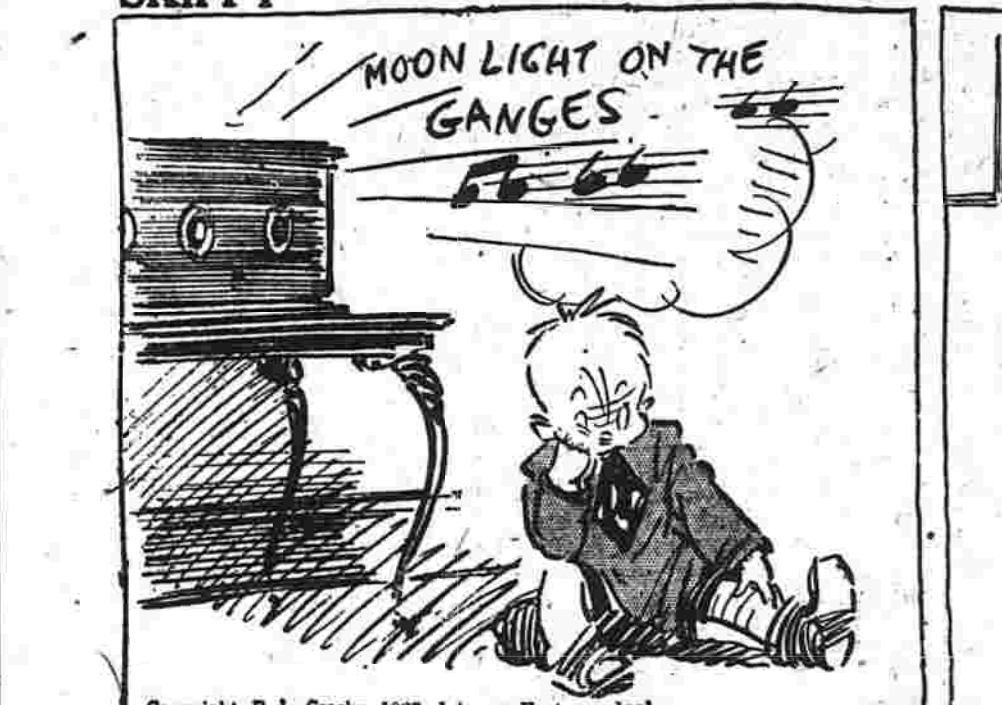

Surgeon (to attendant)—Go and get the name of the accident victim so that we can inform his mother. Attendant (three minutes later)—He says his mother knows his name. Motto of the four-wheeled shell: Love 'em and flir 'em. As I was going to St. Ives I passed a man with seven wives, And each wife, as I heard afar, Was telling how to drive the car! Loser to Hospital, "Is the way a paper heads the story of a race between a car and a train for a crossing, and it wasn't the engineer. Reporter—And what does Goldstein give as the cause of the accident? Doctor—Search me, both arms are broken and he can't say a word. Safety slogan: Drive as you would have the other fellow drive. "There's always something. The better your brakes, the greater the danger to your rear fenders." He headed not the traffic cop, He raced ahead, pell-mell, So the doctor told the sexton And the sexton tolled the bell. The most unlikely thing in the world, is a used car owner looking for trouble. Chauffeur (after collision): Are you hurt? Butcher Boy: Where's my liver? The traffic policeman had made a mistake. He had ordered a car to stop when there was really no reason. The driver, a middle-aged woman, was justly indignant. "Pardon me, madam," said the officer, "but I thought at first you were too young to drive." "I waved and she saw me, but she didn't stop," said a policeman, giving evidence against a fair motorist. Evidently she wasn't that sort of girl.

THE TINYMITES BY HAL COCHRAN

Alas, alack, the Tinymites have had a lot of fun fishing, but falling in the sea, to them, was about the worst of all. They found the water rather cold, and though they all were brave and bold, they didn't just appreciate their recent sudden fall. They heard the ship they'd fallen from go sailing off with distant hum, and then they quickly realized the danger they were in. The waves began to rush and roar so they struck out to swim to shore, all hoping that their battle with the waves they'd safely win. Then Scouty shouted to the rest, "It's hard to swim when fully dressed, but try real hard. Don't give up hope and all will be all right." The others, cheered by what he said, then picked up speed and moved ahead. They saw the land draw closer so they swam with all their might. In just about three minutes more they saw a big man up on shore. The Tinymites were wond'ring if 'twas safe for them to land. What was he doing? Something queer. They watched him close as they drew near, and saw that he was holding ends of long rope in his hand. Said Scouty, "We are caught, I'll bet. He's hauling in a big fish net." And, sure enough, the Tinymites were captured in the thing. The man began to pull in fast, and to the little strands of rope the bunch began to cling. It merely swept them off their feet but, after all, 'twas quite a treat, for they had all grown tired and really felt a touch of fear. Within the net they reached the shore, and then they heard the old man roar, "My goodness, what a funny catch. What are you doing here?" (The Tinymites find an alligator in the next story.)

MONEY BACK SURE AT CHAMBER DINNER

"Bag of Tricks" Worth More Than Price of Ticket—Starts At 6:30 P. M.

If there is any man in Manchester so worldly minded that he requires a guarantee of value before making an investment, he need have no hesitation in investing in a Chamber of Commerce banquet ticket. This is no speculation; this is a sure thing for every man. Either he goes for a good dinner, to see a good show, to hear good speakers, or just for hard, cold, dollar-and-cent return of merchandise. Scott Simon's Sack of Mystery contains more than enough merchandise to equal the price of the ticket. One article alone which will have to be drawn for during the evening, is worth the price of ten tickets.

The committee issues a final caution to those who have not already made their table reservations to do so at once, and makes the final announcement that dinner will be served at 6:30 sharp, and this means 6:30, not 6:45.

It is intended that this year's banquet shall close as nearly as possible, at 10 o'clock, and to make every minute, as well as every dinner, "chuck full."

William H. Cowles, Manchester's famous apple grower, is helping out the digestion with a big, red apple at each plate.

Captain Toop issues a call for his waitresses to report at Cheney hall at 6 p. m. sharp, as their dinner will be served there first, and there are certain details in connection with setting the tables which they must attend to.

All members of the Fish and Game and Rod and Gun clubs are cordially invited to attend the showing of the six-reel picture tomorrow night. No admission will be charged, and the lower Cheney hall will be used.

Mr. Moore, during his stay in town, will be the guest of N. B. Richards, whose guide he was during the latter's hunting trip through the New Brunswick preserve this fall.
