

NINE ARE INJURED IN HARVARD RIOT

(Continued from page 1.) received a smash on the jaw. Holding the crowd off with his pistol, the patrolman sent in a riot call. Reserves Arrive Three wagon-loads of police arrived, a force of twenty-five blue-coats. As he stepped from one of the wagons, Patrolman O'Connor was tumbled and kicked. He was rescued by his mates. Much hand-to-hand fighting and missile throwing followed. The police formed a wedge and with a rush drove the students into Harvard yard, and arrested the forty men on the way. Hold Off Police Cambridge police, with the students cornered in Harvard Square, started to storm the place but were held off by yard guards, who refused to open the portals. Students from dormitory windows pelted the police as the officers stood outside the yard. Finally, the police detail departed. Throughout the rest of the morning automobiles carrying students with ball dashed to and from the police station in Brattle Square and Central Square.

SEX SHOW MANAGERS MAY HIRE EX-ENVOY

Talk Along Broadway That Alexander P. Moore May Defend Against Police Raids. New York, Feb. 12.—To prevent further raids by police on Broadway productions, the name of Alexander P. Moore, former ambassador to Spain, was being considered today in theatrical circles as a czar for the theatre. Moore admitted he had received several offers to become the Judge Landis of the stage but he said that to date he had not taken the offers seriously. "However, if there is a sincere desire on the part of theatrical people, theatre owners and producers to have my help I would give my aid," Moore said. This move to clean the stage from within followed Acting Mayor McKeen's announcement that police now have a blanket order to make arrests wherever they find evidence of obscenity in a performance. The first court fight will come next Monday and Tuesday when producers and actors arrested in raids on three shows will be given hearings. Moore, husband of the late Lillian Russell, actress, said today that the theatre should be saved "from petty outsiders who would ruin it."

HEAVY LOSS AS MARCONI STATION IN N. S. BURNS

Louisburg, N. S., Feb. 12.—Many valuable instruments packed for shipment to Montreal were reported destroyed today in a fire which razed the Canadian Marconi Company wireless plant at West Lottsburg. The plant had been closed down, being superseded by stations at Drummondville and Tamachiche.

NAB TRAIN BANDIT IN ARMY UNIFORM

Three Years Chase Ends in the Philippines When U. S. Private Confesses. Manila, P. I., Feb. 12.—An international chase was at an end today when Private James C. Price of B Company, Thirty-first Infantry, confessed he was Hugh D'Autremont sought since October 11, 1923, as one of three brothers charged with responsibility for the dynamiting of a Southern Pacific passenger train in Siskiyou Tunnel, Oregon. Three trainmen were slain in the attempted hold-up. Price was arrested at Los Banos, Laguna, by United States Postal Inspector Fred Smith who three months ago came from the Philippines on a tip that one of the three D'Autremont brothers wanted for the hold-up was there. Price enlisted in the army in Chicago in April, 1924, and came to the Philippines in 1925. Army authorities declared today that the identification was positive. The prisoner is being held incommunicado.

TURNER GETS 'LIFE' FOR KILLING HALLEN

Is Carefully Guarded As He Says He Will Take His Life. Thomaston, Me., Feb. 12.—State's prison stood ready today to receive Benjamin H. Turner, of Mystic, Iowa, sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of James D. Hallen, soldier-of-fortune. Turner, an expert on poisons, was carefully guarded when he was brought from Cumberland county jail at Portland because he had declared he would take his life. He was convicted by a jury on which sat two women.

WITH THE LOCAL AUTO DEALERS

James Stevenson of the Silk City Oakland Co. reports the following deliveries of new cars during the past ten days: an Oakland sedan to Dr. W. G. Green, Pontiac sedan to Paul Cleary of Newman street, Pontiac de luxe sedan to Wilbur Smith of Talcottville and a Pontiac coupe to C. K. Peterson of West Hartford.

George S. Smith has delivered a Chrysler "5" sedan to W. E. Brockway at Garden street. The Pickett Motor Sales has delivered a Whippet coach to David Collins of Maple street.

NEW RAILROAD SECURITIES

Washington, Feb. 12.—The Chicago and Northwestern railroad today applied to the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to issue and sell $20,573,000 in 4 1/2 per cent first mortgage bonds. St. Louis-San Francisco railroad applied for permission to issue and sell $15,096,340 in either preferred or common stock.

LEGISLATURE BROKE RECORDS THIS WEEK

(Continued from Page 1.) cates the Fish and Game committee expects a great attendance. Claims Submitted Connecticut is asked to pay $50,823 to about thirty different concerns and individuals in claims submitted the Legislature and damage resulting from injury to person or property. The total will be even higher before the end of the session as many bills now before the committee on claims do not specify the amounts that are desired. The oddest claim that has cropped up this year is that of Charles T. Reynolds, once a student at the State college at Storrs, who asks $5,000 because of injuries received when he was a freshman and as such was hazed by the sophomore class following a custom of country colleges that more urban institutions never adopted in the first place. Other Claims Other personal injury claims set forth that victims were occasioned while in the state employ or while on the state's land or highways, and all others are for damage done by deer and other wild animals. Edmund T. Singer and John Cuihane, both Danburians, want money for injuries they contend were received while they served in the National Guard. This is Col. hane's third venture before the legislature seeking money. Belle W. Leonard, of East Lyme, asks $5,000 because of injuries received in an automobile accident. The matter of setting a new maximum speed for automobiles on state highways is likely to be widely discussed and result in a compromise. A bill before the Legislature would have the maximum set at forty miles instead of the present thirty miles. Members of the motor vehicles committee seem to favor or splitting the difference and setting thirty-five miles as the limit. The manufacturers' association is as busy as ever this year. Bulletins are sent out regularly and the progress of various bills interesting the manufacturers is reported with regularity, telephone, mail or telegraph service, or sometimes all three being used. Miss Anna B. Sands, in charge of this work for the average person would think was far from being connected with any industry.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

According to deeds filed with Town Clerk Sam J. Turkington today the following property transfers have been made here: Mary and Catherine Donahue, to Margaret and Susan Donahue, their sisters, property on the corner of Chestnut and Laurel streets. Morris Elman, and Frank Rolston, 60 foot lot on Stephen street to Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Chartier. Bert W. Webster to Jesse B. Loezau, three acres of tobacco land near Hillstown. Gardner's Shoe Store, 847 Main street will be closed all day Monday to re-arrange stock. His Semi-Annual Sale opens Tuesday morning.—Adv. A wild goose, tagged, and set free recently by Jack Miner at Kingsville, Ont., was shot four days later at St. George Island, Fla.

"WE CANNOT HALLOW THIS GROUND"

The somber face of Abraham Lincoln as it looks out from the Lincoln memorial shrine in Washington, is portrayed above. The picture is a closeup of the face of the Daniel French statue of the emancipator (lower left), which is placed in the shrine so that it looks out upon the distant Washington monument. The view of the monument from the statue is pictured at the lower right. A marine just outside the door is sounding a bugle call.

ABOUT TOWN

Bill Tasillo will personally lead his best string orchestra for the dancing at the Rainbow tonight. Modern dancing will be enjoyed. St. Mary's Girls Friendly society turkey supper and entertainment in the parish hall last night was a great success and thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of the parishioners and their friends. The decorations were hearts in keeping with St. Valentine's day. The members of the society were dressed in quaint old-fashioned dresses, made especially for the occasion. The entertainment included a humorous one-act play, music and recitations. Mrs. Augusta Tucker of North School street and Mrs. Margaret Johnson of Woodland street are new patients at the Memorial hospital. The funeral of Mrs. Ellen O'Connor will be held Monday morning at 8:30 at her late home, and at nine o'clock at St. James's church. The body will be placed in the receiving vault in St. James's cemetery. More than 100 persons attended the benefit bridge and whist by the teachers of the Barnard school last evening for the open air schools. A series of entertainments and card parties have been given for this work under auspices of the Educational club which is composed largely of teachers in the public schools of Manchester and other women interested in the work. The party last night was held in the assembly hall of the Trade school. During the evening Edward F. Taylor contributed vocal solos and led in group singing. Fred Rogers was the pianist. About $40 was added to the funds. Louis Leibold of this town, a junior at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, has been honored by election to the presidency of his fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha. Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wilcox and children of Greenhill street, will go to Middletown tomorrow to be present at a family reunion in celebration of the 57th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Baldwin, parents of Mrs. Wilcox.

WEST HARTFORD PASTOR AT 2ND CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. James F. Halliday to Occupy North End Pulpit Tomorrow Evening. Rev. James F. Halliday, who last fall assumed the pastorate of the Congregational church in West Hartford, will be the speaker at the Second Congregational church Sunday evening at 7:30. Rev. Mr. Halliday was pastor for fifteen years of the First Congregational church in Elmhurst, N. Y., the membership of which doubled during his pastorate until it became the largest church in the state of New York, outside of the metropolitan area of New York City and Brooklyn. Mr. Halliday in addition to his

JUNIOR "PROM" AT H. S. TONIGHT

James McCaw With Miss Clara Emmonds Will Lead Grand March. Two hundred and fifty invitations have been sent out for the annual Junior Promenade at the South Manchester High school tonight. Indications are that it will be a complete success. The Junior Prom is the major social event of the year among the younger element. It is always looked forward to with eager anticipation. Tonight's Junior Prom will be led by James McCaw, class president and Miss Clara Emmonds. They will be followed by an usher: Ludwig Hansen, Catherine Fraher, Otto Seelert, Edna England, Rodney Wilcox, Emma Strickland, Ray Warren, Elizabeth Barrett, William Gahrman and Arline Cummings. The couples will join in the grand march. The program calls for fourteen dances and four extras. Two will be waltzes, it is understood. The grand march will form at 8 o'clock and will be preceded by a concert. The patronesses are Mrs. Fred A. Vreplank, Mrs. C. P. Quimby, Miss Mary Cheney, Miss Elizabeth Olsen, Miss Marie Nolan, Miss Harriet B. Condon and Miss Rebecca Estey. The prom will be an informal affair. Tuxedos are not required and although many will probably wear them it is expected the greater proportion of the boys will not. St. Yate's orchestra of Hartford will furnish the music for dancing which will continue until midnight. The High school assembly hall has been beautifully decorated in a Japanese setting. On the stage the famous sacred mountain of Japan, the famous sacred mountain of Japan, is 3 feet long and 3 feet high. These prints were all made by Miss Harriet B. Condon's art classes. The cabinet will meet Tuesday to consider a reply which will likely be made next week. The foreign office declared that Japan will propose no reservations. Kantaro Suzuki, chief of the naval board, admitted today that he is doubtful if an agreement on the questions involved is possible but declared Japan must accept and make a sincere effort to achieve success of the undertaking. Newspapers' Views. The newspapers generally welcome the proposal although some question the sincerity of President Coolidge, attributing his proposal to the domestic situation in the United States. Several papers attack the 5-5-3 ratio, saying changed conditions in the Pacific should alter Japan's attitude. Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, minister of the navy, warned that care must be taken in such a new conference that good done at the first Washington disarmament conference should not be undone. "Japan's attitude has never changed since the first Washington conference," the admiral said. "We will wholeheartedly welcome the proposition for reducing armaments as a matter of principle. As to an actual settlement, we will study with other nations."

FRANCE WILL REJECT COOLIDGE'S PROPOSAL

(Continued from Page 1.) and destroyers, such as was imposed on her in capital ships at the Washington conference. French statesmen declared they and have declared many times since, that a great force of submarines is France's protection against a superior naval power, meaning England, and they had no intention of relinquishing that. JAPAN ACCEPTS. Tokyo, Feb. 12.—Japan will accept President Coolidge's proposal for a real naval disarmament conference at Geneva in principle, leaving the experts to attend to the details, the foreign office stated today. DEATH OF MATTHEW LUCAS

Matthew Lucas of Hilliard street, who became violently insane on January 26 and was removed to the Middletown State hospital, died there yesterday afternoon. Lucas, who was 20 years old, was seized with a fit of insanity in his home and attacked his sister, Miss Jennie Lucas. He was placed in a cell at the police station where he attempted to kill himself by dashing his brains out against the floor but was subdued and taken to the hospital. The body has been brought to Manchester by William P. Quish and the funeral will be held Monday morning at 8:30 in St. James's R. C. church. The body will be placed in the receiving vault in St. James's cemetery.

The Evening Herald Sunday School Lessons

by William T. Ellis
For Every Age, Creed and Nationality.

"EAST, WEST, HAME'S BEST"

The International Sunday School Lesson for February 13 is "Making Our Homes Christian"—Ephesians 5:23-6:4.

After I had been for years poking around the ruins of the Orient, and visiting dozens of ancient churches in Europe and Asia, I suddenly came to a bit of information which doubtless I should have known all along. This is the fact that there were no church buildings in the first two centuries of the Christian era. The sufficient reason why there are no ruins of Christian edifices dating before the third or fourth century is that none such existed. Christianity did not begin to build special houses of worship for at least two hundred years.

Instead, the Early Church worshipped chiefly in homes; and perhaps also in the open air and in synagogues. Once the fact is pointed out, we instantly recall the New Testament allusions to "the church in the house" of this or that disciple. Believers in the New Way met for fellowship, worship and the sacraments in the homes of one another. A modern "neighborhood prayer meetings" has earliest warrant.

Somehow, this simple, important historic fact concerning Christianity does more to elevate the status of the home than any of the beautiful literary productions devoted to the theme. Christianity concentrated upon the home. It was regarded as sacred in itself, and as the place of worship of the followers of Jesus. All the sanctity that attaches to venerable and beautiful cathedrals, blongs by prior right to the holy precincts of the Christian home. The first and most appropriate place of worship, is the family hearthstone. Any effort expended to make our homes Christian is a return to the practice of the first followers of Christ. Just as Jesus in His life resorted to a congenial home of friends, so in His spirit He still doubtless delights to dwell in every Christian home.

Modern substitutes for Home
Anywhere that a family abides may be a true home, however primitive. One-roomed cabins, the world around, have in millions of instances been real homes, where love and religion ruled. Even a modern apartment, or "flat," may be a genuine home, despite its handicaps. It is not the size of the abode, nor its equipment, that makes the true home, but the presence of the family, and the spirit that animates it.

There can be no good substitutes for home life. Certain groups of restless-minded persons have tried to put cabarets and restaurants and motion-picture theaters in the place of home joys but in vain. A new ally of the home has appeared which most needed, in the radio, which enables the whole family, while remaining by the fireside, unitedly to tap the world's wide resources of entertainment interest and instruction. Unlike professional entertainment outside of the home, the radio is religious; sermon, hymn, Scripture, prayer and Bible-teaching are a daily part of its ministry. It is often said that, taken by and large, the most satisfactory product of the radio is its religious addresses and sermons; which carry the ministry of the Word into remotest homes.

At the outset, it is well to get hold of the fundamental truth, attested by myriads of witnesses who have tried all other forms of pleas-

I dunno where th' idea come from in th' first place, or what it's got t' do with th' furniture bizness, 'cept you have the both of 'em breakin' out in a rash 'long 'bout th' same time—February Sales an' February Banquets. Yes, sir, they's always a reg'lar epidemic of both an' this seems t' be a particular vilent season. Not that they does eny harm, but they both kinda give you that tired feelin'.

Prob'ly account of all th' birthdays in February wuz where th' banquet trouble started—between Washington an' Lincoln an' St Valentine an' th' ground hog they give th' thing a start, an' just got t' be where there wuzn't no club, ner lodge, ner church, ner bizness, ner patriotic s'ciety which wuz doin' itself justice without throwin' a banquet in February. An' this year seems like they ain't days enough t' go 'round, bein' th' shortest month, but it seems much longer,—so half of 'em has t' be luncheons—an' a feller gets so much in th' habit thet he can't go into his own dinin' room without reachin' fer a ticket an' singin' My Country 'Tis of Thee before he sets down.

Course you don't git th' chance t' eat t' home very often, 'cause th' women is at it more er less, an' it's only fair with woman suffrage an' such thet they should have t' go thru some o' th' banquets an' other obligations thet goes with it. Now I ain't agin' banquets, only it's easy t' have too many of 'em an' a feller can't stand only about so much.

Course they's some things t' be said fer 'em—like learnin' the national anthem over again, an' how t' appreciate home cookin', an' it's a good test fer endurance, an' you get t' know folks better an' always find some good fellas doin' all th' work which you never appreciated before—an' they's always some other with a fool streak in 'em which is li'ble t' crop out at a banquet an' make 'em look simple.

Well, enyhow, I been takin' most all o' them banquets as they come—but I hed t' go an' miss this Chamber o' Commerce the other night, which I guess took the prize fer all 'round banquet—includin' th' prize fer fool performances, an' without which no banquet ain't nat'ral. I understand th' fake licker act wuzn't on th' official program—just a private comedy sketch which busted onto th' stage—an' it sure did bust. Course, you ought t' make allowance fer the liberty o' th' press, an' fer a member o' th' honored judic'ary steppin' out o' character now and then—but I ain't heard no allowances made. Looks like these moulders o' public opinion sure did some overtime mouldin'.

As fer me, I'm only a advertisin' man, an' not much on ettics an' ettyquet. I know it pays t' advertise, but they's advertisin' an' advertisin'—an' if you git too close t' objectionable advertisin' you're li'ble to be in Dutch.

Manchester Woman Tutor To One Of Lincoln's Sons

Mrs. Anna L. Biddle, Nearly 90 Years of Age, Was Picked Out From Among Several Hundred to Teach Delicate Child of Great Emancipator—Tells Her Story For Herald Readers.

The Wiswam in Chicago in 1860. The bitterest political fight in the nation's history is drawing to its climax. The forces of Stephen A. Douglas, the "Little Giant" and Abraham Lincoln, the "Rail Splitter" are battling fiercely for the presidential nomination.

Slavery Question

A growing restlessness in the South has made conditions in the United States precarious. Slavery, the moot question of the hour, has been brought to a show down and debate can no longer settle its issues. Flat declarations of treason have come from the south and the country needs a firm hand at the helm of the ship of state.

A roar as of an angry surf comes from the hall and grows gradually in volume until the noise is deafening. The old clappers of the wigwam reverberate with the din. Soon the noise died down and a tall, gangling man in rusty black clothes takes the platform.

Manchester Resident

That little girl, now grown old and gray, was a resident of Manchester for many years. She was a member of the town school board for ten years here and was one of the main reasons why the Ninth School district is what it is.

Nearly 90 Years Old

Mrs. Biddle is now nearing 90 years of age but is as active as she was twenty or thirty years ago. She lives at Armaque for home for widows of Episcopal clergymen, on Wetherfield avenue in Hartford.

Typical Grandmother

Conjure up your idea of a grandmother. A woman with a kindly benevolent countenance, delicate white-gray hair coiffed in sort of aureole around her head, dressed in black and wearing a dark colored shawl. A pair of piercing eyes and a ready and winning smile. That is a picture of Mrs. Biddle.

College Graduate

Mrs. Anna Light Biddle was graduated from Oberlin college at Oberlin, O. The first college in this country to give women the benefit of a regulation college course. She was a classmate of the man who was later to be her husband and the picture which is reproduced on this page shows her as she appeared at graduation.

Lincoln and Washington Equal, Measured by History's Yardstick.

Lincoln and Washington cannot be compared as one compares ordinary men, Mrs. Biddle declares. They were so widely different that their merits are not parallel and the only way one can judge them is from their human side. They were both men.

"You see," says Mrs. Biddle, "Lincoln and Washington were different in nearly every respect. Washington, on one hand, was an aristocrat with an education that was ordained for him before he was born. He was rich and had property.

Lincoln, on the other hand, was a man of the soil, one who had risen through trials and tribulations to the position of a lawyer. His early education was gained through the work of his hands and his later successes were more as a reward for his good qualities than anything else.

"The only way you can compare them is as men and there they were about even. Their patriotism and loyalty to country have not been rivaled in history and perhaps never will be."

Tad's Teacher

Neither did she dream that she would be one of Tad Lincoln's teachers, selected out of hundreds of others in her school.

Nation in Mourning

Chicago put on mourning garb in record time. Stores and other business houses were draped in black and the city seemed like a huge funeral church. People spoke in hushed voices and business dragged along listlessly.

People Grief Stricken

A stricken people awaited the coming of the funeral train. Preparations for its reception in Chicago went forward with amazing speed. By the time the funeral engine and its train of black coaches arrived, everything was ready to honor the memory of the state's greatest man.

Thousands View Body

"I did not go to see the body for I think I should have broken down. We girls strolled with the crowd and mourned with the rest of the city but we did not go near the court-house. All day long thousands of people filed through the court-house where the body of the Great Emancipator lay in state for a whole day.

Clever Child

"He was clever and learned quickly and I had less trouble with him than with any other pupil I ever taught. Not a teacher, he didn't have much to do with the other boys but kept to himself."

Loves Her Home

"It is beautiful, this place," she said. "A fit place to spend one's last days in communion with one's memories and books. I am content."

Taught Tad

Mrs. Anna L. Biddle. This photograph of Mrs. Biddle was taken when she graduated from Oberlin College. It is a likeness of her at the time she taught Tad Lincoln.

lin soldier. But he never wore the uniform in Mrs. Biddle's classroom and was always dressed like any of the others.

"There was nothing dramatic about Tad Lincoln. There was nothing dramatic in the introduction of the boy to the class and he was brought in as though he were just another pupil. He effaced himself in the midst of the 64 boys in the classroom and the only difference that could be noted between them and him was his unusual good breeding."

Reconstruction Period

"Just at the time of Lincoln's death the work of reconstruction had begun and a sensible man was needed in the president's chair. The people felt that they had a worthy champion in the homely rail splitter and he was about the most popular man in the north at that time.

He Hated Slavery

"He hated slavery as he hated sin, was to him a reversion to the customs of the dark ages and he could not stand by and see his fellow man bartered as property. He had no sympathy with men who saw whole families broken up on the auction block. Crime meant nothing to him for a man was a man whether his skin were black or white."

Book Lover

Bookshelves and bookcases. Where there is a room for books she makes room. Every available place in the little room filled with books. A book trough rests at the side of her rocking chair and on her reading table are piled more volumes. An old fashioned desk contains more while on the floor are stacked books without number.

Well Mannered

"Well bred and mannered like the gentleman he was, Tad Lincoln was the model boy of the class. Never noisy, he did his work conscientiously and well. He was an exceedingly bright pupil and one whom all the other boys took a liking to."

LINCOLN, THE SAD, ALSO LIKED HIS PRACTICAL JOKES

Some Brand New Stories Told About the "Rail Splitter" By Man Who Knew Him.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—"You know a person can tell a genuine Abraham Lincoln story every time," Jacob L. Thompson, Lincoln enthusiast and collector, remarked today, the day on which the world is observing the 118th anniversary of the birth of the Emancipator.

"I'm always glad to add to the world's knowledge of Lincoln when I can," he said today, as he sat at his desk in the Centennial building, the headquarters of the Lincoln centennial celebration. "I have given Mr. Thompson a wealth of material."

Married in 1842

"Mr. Lincoln and Mary Todd were married Nov. 4, 1842 and on August 1, 1843, Robert Todd Lincoln, the first child, was born. Those dates are correct. At that time the Lincoln's lived at the Old Globe Tavern, kept by a Mrs. Beck."

Where Lincoln Kept Store

Many of the old buildings still exist or already have been restored to their original state. Members of the Old Salem-Lincoln League, working with pick and shovel, have unearthed the foundations of many of the houses which fell away, and these, too, are being rebuilt.

Where Lincoln Kept Store

It was here Lincoln ran a store with a man named Berry. It was here that Lincoln's boat struck a snag in the Sangamon river, the accident changing the course of his life.

His Political Start

Here Lincoln whipped the Clay gang into submission and from Salem he went as a captain in the Black Hawk war.

Death Releases Her

Finally she lay back in the arms of delirium. Raving, she called for Lincoln. Honest Abe came. He sat alone with her at the bedside in the crude little tavern. The world never heard the words they spoke.

BOSSIE PAYS THE BILLS.

Junction City, Kan.—Mae Miller local high school girl, is going to pay most of her college expenses with the profits gained from a single cow. Five years ago she bought a heifer calf and to date she has realized more than $1,200 from the sale of milk and butter and from two calves borne by the cow.

Illinois Rebuilds Old Town Where Lincoln Fame Began

The restored Lincoln and Berry store.

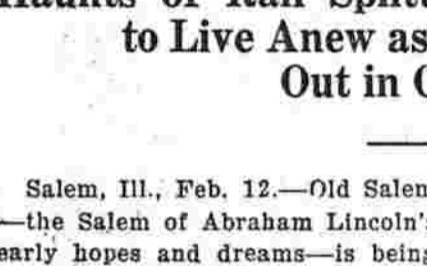

It was in Salem where Lincoln met love and tragedy.

Where he walked 3 miles to repay a customer.

Where he read Blackstone by the light of the fireplace.

Where he practiced surveying.

The bend in Sangamon river which changed the course in Lincoln's life.

Haunts of Rail Splitter's "First Love" Days to Live Anew as Unique Memorial Out in Old Salem.

Salem, Ill., Feb. 12.—Old Salem—the Salem of Abraham Lincoln's early hopes and dreams—is being rebuilt.

Building for building, the little town on the winding Sangamon river where tragedy first met Lincoln and marked him for its own, is being restored.

Old Salem will stand unique among the towns of the country—a monument to a great man's past—a little community of 1830 reincarnated after nearly 100 years.

Here Lincoln worked in the store he partly owned, and here he earned the name of "Honest Abe."

Here Lincoln walked three miles after a day of toil at the store, that he might repay a customer who had been the victim of a mistake in weight.

Here Lincoln wrecked his heart, and almost destroyed one of the greatest minds of the ages.

Lincoln came to Salem about 1831. His boat struck a snag at a bend in Sangamon. As a result of the delay, it is related, Lincoln saw Ann Rutledge and decided to stay in Salem for a while.

Ann was a school girl in Minta Graham's school when Lincoln first met her. The young man took up his job in Berry's store and soon won respect among the townsfolk for his honesty.

Ann Rutledge loved him. They were seen together at the social functions of the little Illinois community. '79rd went around that they were engaged.

But McNeill had a story to tell, and he unfolded it to Ann. His name was not McNeill at all, but John McNamar. His family was old and respectable in New York, but his father had gone bankrupt.

Nation Reverses Memory Today

Abraham Lincoln 1801-1865

ed conversations beat upon her pride. Week after week she went to the little post office. Abe Lincoln sort of the letters. Hers was never there.

Lincoln's love, slow growing, became bold. Ardently he pressed his courtship. Steadfastly Ann clung to her pledge.

Longing to give herself to Lincoln, yet she was held by the firm bond of that promise to her absent lover.

Death Releases Her. Finally she lay back in the arms of delirium. Raving, she called for Lincoln. Honest Abe came.

Now the old scenes are being restored—the Rutledge Inn, the Lincoln and Berry store, the old cooper shop and the roads and paths where Lincoln trod.

Look at Plymouth Rock and other landmarks in New England history, say the Swedish leaders.

The sacred spot which the Swedish people consecrated by prayer and song and friendly treaty with the Indians 300 years ago lies (except for a little stone erected by others) unmarked and unkept. The Swedish people took part in the Sesquicentennial celebration last year and, as then decided that they would begin now to prepare for the 300th anniversary of their forefathers landing in America in 1638.

The program authorized for that celebration will be: 1. The completion of the John Morton memorial building in Philadelphia with all its exhibits, making it a great national Swedish-American museum.

Rev. John A. Anderson

4. The establishment of the New Sweden Memorial Park in Wilmington on the land where the Swedes built their first fort and erected their first log cabins.

5. The completion by 1938 of the history of the Swedes in America in eight volumes, a monument of the achievements of their fathers and mothers.

6. The publication of a magazine devoted to biography and personal history of citizens of Swedish descent, etc.

VANDERLIP TELLS OF MONEY CORNERS

New York—America's gambling appetite has been merely whetted by the recent frenzy of speculation in low priced railroad shares, one of the highlights of which was the skyrocketing of Wheeling almost overnight from $27 to $130.

Now comes Frank A. Vanderlip, economist, author and former president of America's largest bank, the National City, swinging the danger siren of "Stop" in the faces of the country's smaller investors.

"A new crop of gamblers springs up among usually conservative investors following one of these splurges," he told me, warningly.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE WEASEL'S TAME COUSIN

Of all the animals that roam the wilderness none are more savage in the face of an enemy, more relentless in pursuit of prey, more merciless in their thirst for blood, than the weasel and his numerous cousins. From the big wolverene of the northern forests to the slim, slinking weasel himself, there is neither fear, caution nor mercy to be found among the members of this fierce clan. Above all there is no evidence of affection in any animal bearing weasel blood, yet even from this savage family man has succeeded in choosing a member, domesticating it, forcing it to yield to his dominion and to do his bidding. This cousin of the weasel that man has tamed is the ferret. In size he is midway, in color he varies from creamy white to brown, and in disposition he is the equal of any of his untamed relatives. It is a nervous business to which his master puts his most often, one that is well in keeping with his lust to kill. Ferrets are sometimes kept to destroy rats and mice around a residence, but far more frequently they are kept for the purpose of driving a hunted rabbit from its burrow in which he has sought refuge from hounds and gun. Happily this practice is forbidden by law in many states, and sentiment against this use of the ferret is growing rapidly. A lato feminine fad in Paris is the tinting of the finger nails in bands of three colors.

Michigan University Takes Up Boxing; May Become Regular Conference Sport

An Arbor, Mich., Feb. 12.—Boxing a comparatively new sport at the University of Michigan, and which was introduced here several years ago, has now become one of the most popular minor sports on the campus with a large class working daily under the guidance of Coach Ted Sullivan. Its popularity forecasts that it may some day become organized as a minor sport in the western conference with teams representing each university competing regularly scheduled meets, just as wrestling, swimming and hockey.

1928 OLYMPICS GET 40 ACRES FOR CONTESTS

London, Feb. 12.—Official communications reaching London indicate that the Dutch Olympic Games Committee is sparing no effort to ensure that the Olympic Games of 1928 will be a success. Forty acres have been set aside by the authorities in the southern part of Central Amsterdam for the games proper, while one hundred and twenty-five acres have been reserved for motor parks and training quarters. The car parks will be able to accommodate 4,000 cars, and will have their own repair shops.

Street-car lines are being extended practically to the entrance of the grounds, enabling visitors to get to the games within twenty minutes from any part of the city.

In addition to the main stadium, now in course of erection, there will be a swimming stadium, a pavilion for fencing and another for indoor sports, a cricket ground, and a lawn tennis stadium accommodating three center and ten other hard courts.

GOBBY BAN! Ban leaves behind a curious record in contrasts—nobody did more to build his league up, nor more to pull it down.

Lands was the bun on Ban's favorite toe that made administrative walking tougher than marathon swimming in the desert.

Ban's three-masted grinch was aimed at the idea of introducing long gray hair and gates ajar collars in the sartorial scheme of baseball.

WILLIE SURPRISES; DEFEATS H. S. 25-20 Callahan's Outfit Wins Ninth Straight Without Its Captain; Manchester Plays Poorly, Trails All the Way.

(By Staff Correspondent) Falling to show its usual ability, South Manchester High school met an unexpected defeat last night in a Willimantic game.

Second Defeat Last night's setback was the second in a season of defeats. Leaders of the Central Connecticut Intercollegiate League, gave Manchester the other unwelcome verdict.

New Britain High also defeated Manchester but the game has been expunged from the records because of eligibility rule violations.

Intercept Passes: But to get back to last night's game, one reason why Willimantic won was because they were more aggressive, more alert.

Manchester made but two field goals in the first half, one by Gorman and the other by Farr.

S. T. S. FACULTY WINS AT BOWLING

Undismayed by the defeat their pupils took at basketball in the afternoon, Director A. A. Warren and four other members of the Trade school faculty came back and secured revenge from the Springfield Vocational faculty at bowling last evening, winning two out of three games.

Springfield was not consistent and had many scores in the seventies and eighties, though it also had the highest scores.

Did Joe Dugan play third base the first year he joined the Athletics?—F. F.

He did not. He played short for his first two years, then alternated at short and second for two more years. He went to third in his fifth year in the majors and soon developed into the best in the American League.

Did Charley Jamieson of Cleveland ever do much pitching in the majors?—F. F.

Very little. Jamieson in his last year in the minors pitched the outfield as well as pitched and most of his major league career has been confined to the outfield.

DR. CASE TO SPEAK AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Director of Hospital Work in Europe During War to Talk On Near East Relief.

Dr. Edward P. Case who will speak tomorrow morning at St. Mary's church, went to Turkey in 1911 as Medical Missionary. For a year he was professor of chemistry in Anatolia and Marsovan. He was director of the American Hospital in Erzurum for two years. At the beginning of the war this hospital was converted into an American Red Cross hospital of over 500 beds, in which over 10,000 wounded and sick were treated.

In 1915 Dr. Case went to Constantinople and was the director of an American Red Cross hospital of 600 beds. From 1913 until America went into the war he organized and directed American Red Cross soup kitchens in Constantinople, which fed 5,000 refugees daily, besides conducting various clinics for the poor, in one of which over 2,000 patients were treated within six months.

During the war Dr. Case served as senior officer of Rls-Organis hospital, in France, for fifteen months, for which work he was decorated by the French government with the Medaille de la Reconnaissance Francaise. He was at the front during the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Following the Armistice, he was special tubercular examiner and medical consultant at the Port of Brest and was on the Rhine with the First Division of the Army of Occupation.

Dr. Case was deputy commissioner of the American Red Cross work in Poland and White Russia in 1919 and 1920. Here the unit under his control gave clothing to over 300,000 refugees, founded and conducted hospitals, orphanages, relief stations and cleaned up typhus infested villages. Over 130 hospitals and other institutions were personally inspected by him.

At present Dr. Case is a major in the Medical Reserve, U. S. Army and permanent deputy commissioner of the American Red Cross. He is also a Fellow of the American Public Health Association.

OLD FRIENDS LISTEN TO YOUNG MINISTER

Rev. W. F. Davis, Jr., Son of Former Pastor Here, Preaches in Mission Service.

Boyhood friends and old acquaintances listened to Rev. W. F. Davis, Jr., as he preached in a Manchester Religious mission service at the South Methodist church last night. Mr. Davis took his text from the third verse of the 24th Psalm: "Who shall ascend unto the hill of the Lord" and his sermon topic was "Moving on to Higher Planes."

Before and after the service Mr. Davis, who is a son of Rev. W. F. Davis, retired, greeted old friends. The soloist of the evening was C. Elmore Watkins, who sang "Oh, for a Closer Walk With God," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lura Rush.

Assisting with the service were Rev. Frederick C. Allen of the Second Congregational church and Rev. Joseph Cooper of the South Methodist church, and Rev. E. P. Phrasenor, retired.

Williamson, the blind musician, played and sang. The chapel was crowded.

C. D. CHENEY TO AID IN NOROTON INQUIRY

Made Member of Commission On Soldiers Home By Governor Trumbull.

Clifford D. Cheney, head of the velvet department of Cheney Bros., has been named by Governor Trumbull as a member of a special commission to investigate the Fitch Home for Soldiers and Sailors at Noroton and make a report to the General Assembly by March 1. Other members of the commission are Benedict M. Holden and Barclay H. Robinson of Hartford, with the attorney-general and ex-officio member.

The measure providing for the commission was adopted by the Legislature late in the last month, and follows a recommendation by the governor that drastic revision of the management of the home be made.

The Soldiers' home has been a storm center for years. Allegations of gross mismanagement have followed one another at intervals and several attempts to put its affairs on a satisfactory basis have proved of but temporary efficacy.

Abraham Lincoln 1809-1865 UNFLINCHING, he kept the helm while those he trusted best failed him. Farseeing, he looked beyond the issues of the day; when others cried for ruthless conquest and subjection, he labored for the day that would see North and South united again. His goal achieved, he died upon the threshold of his glory. But the lessons he taught us guide us today, and Abraham Lincoln belongs to all mankind. He is one of the world's immortals. Engineered to lowest maintenance and operation costs. The individual triumph of every Automobile Show to date is unquestionably the concert of interest, talk and debate with which the greatest crowd in history greeted the new Hudson Super-Six and the new Essex Super-Six. The Super-Six Principle also revealed in the ESSEX Super-SIX An outstanding characteristic of the Essex Super-Six is the complete absence of labor with which it performs every requirement. At the getway you swing into speed with magic ease. There is no jerk, vibration or mechanical chatter, no waste motion, no explosive jump—sometimes mistaken for acceleration. You glide to the front with flying freedom and ease. And so smoothly, you scarce realize how swiftly. And, so, in all it does, whether spurring at top speed, or doing a comfortable 50 miles an hour all day long, you can realize its silky super-performance, only by the way you distance others. This smoothness means ECONOMY—economy of effort, economy of power, economy in the long life of all moving parts. And in making long tours, or using your Essex all day in city traffic you will find the further economy of physical freshness, that comes from its easy driving, riding, steering and control, and its freedom from vibration at all speeds. In four beautiful new Essex bodies—handsomely appointed and upholstered—the advantages of the released Super-Six principle costs you little more than any "Four".
