

DURANT RAPS WATER CO. IN LEGISLATURE

Guilford Member Says He's Happy Because of Un- favorable Report Made By House Committee.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 15.—The first debate on measures at the present legislative session occurred in the House today on a bill to repeal rights granted the New Haven Water Company at Guilford, and on an unfavorable report on a bill prohibiting sale of fireworks in this state.

Rebukes for the officials of the New Haven Water Company were administered by Harry Durant, Guilford, because of what he termed "abrogation of a contract to pay the town of Guilford $10,000 as damages in the taking of land at Lake Quonipaug."

Gives History of Case

Mr. Durant did not oppose the unfavorable report of the committee on the water company bill but declared his position "after it recites the case's history." "The subject had me crazy two years ago," he said, "and it is with a feeling of relief that I approach its funeral today." Then he said: "If the case should go to court the judge would get the case, the lawyers the money, and Guilford would get the air."

Royal K. Southwick, of Cornwall, the oldest member of the House, upheld Mr. Durant, saying that the state is being used in upholding the company "after it has broken a moral obligation." The unfavorable report was accepted with but few dissenting votes.

The so-called "firecracker" bill was also put aside after a short debate by various members of the House.

Favorable Reports

Favorable reports received in the House today included the following:

Providing for paying $100 by the town of Willington to Stafford as its proportionate share of town court officials' salaries.

Allowing the laying of assessments for snow removal in West Hartford.

Placing West Hartford in the 10,000 population class for consideration of the personal tax law.

Allowing the laying of assessments for water pipes in the Wolcott Hill district, Wethersfield.

A group of bills affecting West Hartford and Wethersfield town affairs.

Providing for electing two registrars and deputies in Sprague.

Amending the forfeited rights act by changing the time of advertisement.

TURNER STARTS FOURTH DAY OF HUNGER STRIKE

To Follow Example of Terrance McSwiney to Excite Sympathy of the Public.

Portland, Me., Feb. 15.—Benjamin H. Turner, slayer of James D. Hallen, today entered the fourth day of his hunger strike with the assertion that he would resist forcible feeding.

At the same time it became known that the young accountant from Mystic, Iowa, was inspired by Terrance McSwiney's famous hunger strike as a means of public protest against what he terms "injustice." Turner believes he nevertheless would have found guilty of shooting to death the soldier-of-fortune if the jury on which sat two women, did not bear evidence that he was a conscientious objector during the World War. Death, he added, was preferable to life imprisonment, the sentence given him.

Physicians state that Turner can fast for ten days by drawing on his natural strength but after that time he will begin to fail. At that time an attempt will be made to administer liquid nourishment.

4 PERSONS KILLED BY ESCAPING GAS

Two Men and Two Women Die in Brooklyn Home—Four Others Overcome.

New York, Feb. 15.—Two men and two women were overcome today by coal gas escaping in an apartment house in Brooklyn.

Two of the victims were married recently and were found in each other's arms. They apparently were overcome while the husband was attempting to carry his bride from their gas-filled apartment.

Of those overcome three were children. They were rescued and revived by neighbors.

The dead: Abraham Pollock, 30; Mrs. Mildred Pollock, his wife, 25; Mrs. Rose Pollock, 25, sister of Abraham; Solomon Pollock, 30, brother of Abraham.

HARVARD STUDENTS WEAR "TIN HATS."

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 15.—Harvard students are wearing "steel helmets," the famous "tin hats" of the World War days.

Since the battle with the police in Harvard Square, the trench hat has become quite a fad in classical Cambridge.

WILL THRESH OUT SCHOOL TRANSPORT

Double Meeting of Boards To Discuss Green District Protests and Pleas.

The moot question of whether or not children living a mile or more from the Manchester Green school are entitled to free transportation to and from school will be given a thorough airing at a special double session of the Town Board of Education, Monday evening, February 21. The meeting was to have been held tomorrow night but today G. P. Sturges of the State Board of Education notified Chairman Murphy of the local board he would be unable to attend and set the date named above. The meeting will probably be held in the Municipal building.

Old Problem

The transportation problem has existed for a long time. Several demands have been filed with the Town Board of Education but that body has not, as yet, seen fit to grant them. Its members have cogent reasons, they assert, why transportation should not be furnished the school children at the Green any more than it should be to those of several other schools in Manchester. They will make their side of the argument known at the hearing tomorrow night.

Ordered by State Board

The special meeting of the Town Board of Education was ordered by George Sturges, attendance and employment officer of the State Board of Education after he had received a protest from Mrs. Harley W. Miner, who lives on the Bolton Road near Piney street. She is the mother of two children, both under eight years, and lives about a mile from the school.

It is said that because of her dissatisfaction Mrs. Miner has not allowed her children to attend school regularly this winter. She declares that it is not safe for children to walk along a state highway where there are no sidewalks. Her children have been taken to school, mainly by Principal Bentley, of the Eighth District, who lives in Bolton. Mrs. Miner, with others, protested to the Town Board of Education about the matter but nothing was done. So now Mrs. Miner has gone over the heads of the local organization and has filed a protest with the state board.

Improvement Club Enters

The Manchester Green Improvement club has also entered a petition asking for transportation for children living in outlying sections, such as Lydallville, Lake street and Vernon street. There are about thirty school children who live a mile or more from the school, it is said. A committee composed of Herbert Chapel, William H. Cowles and Willard B. Rogers represents the Improvement Club in the matter.

Two Sessions

Consequently, there will be two sessions next Monday night. The first will be as between the Town Board and Mrs. Miner, with Sturges acting as a sort of advisor. The second will involve Manchester Improvement Club committee and the Town Board. All in all, it promises to be a very busy evening.

The Town Board of Education consists of Edward J. Murphy, chairman; H. O. Bowers, James Burke, E. A. Lydall, Mrs. George Wilcox and Mrs. A. M. Shearer. Judge Bowers is critically ill and Mr. Burke is in Florida.

CHINA IS "FED UP" WITH FANCY TERMS

Her Envoy in U. S. Says World Powers Just Hand Out Verbal Bouquets.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Asserting that "the people of the world do not realize the seriousness of the limitations the foreign powers have imposed upon China's sovereignty," Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to the United States, declared in an address today that "China will not rest until her independence and territorial and administrative integrity shall become realities."

China will never be satisfied "with mere assurances in the form of high sounding and pious declarations," the envoy said in alluding to a British memorandum of December 25, the recent American policy statements and other declarations made by the powers "since the beginning of the century."

JUDGE BOWERS'S CONDITION

No change in Judge Bowers's condition was reported at the Memorial hospital at three o'clock this afternoon, where Mr. Bowers is seriously ill. Judge Bowers seemed to take nourishment better, but there were no other signs of encouragement in his condition.

ROCKVILLE LEADER DIES AT HIS HOME

Rockville, Feb. 15.—Allan R. Lathrop, 62, chairman of the Ver- non town board of assessors for many years, is dead at his home to- day after an attack of acute indigestion. He was the town's Republican leader.

MORE MARINES TO GO DOWN TO NICARAGUA

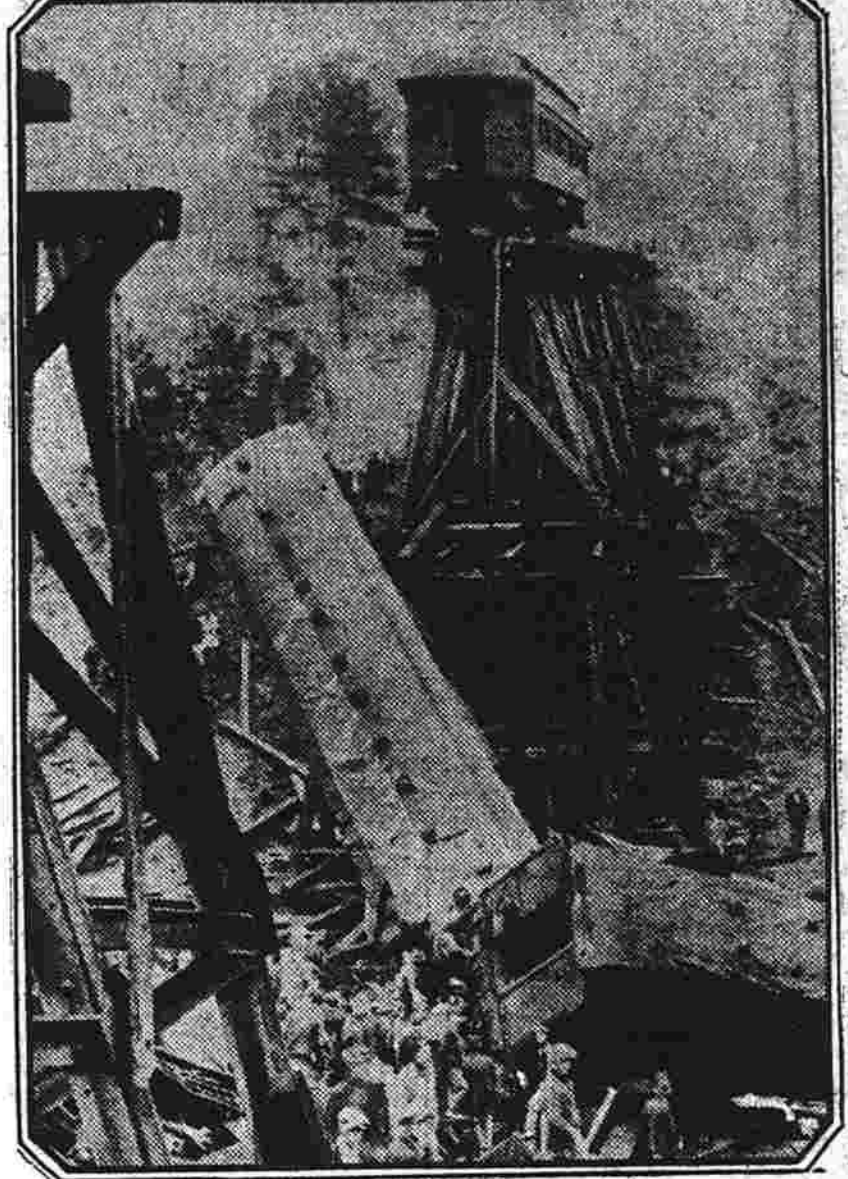

One Thousand Being Concentrated in Virginia—U. S. Wants Fighting to Stop.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The American government is preparing to take a stronger hand in Nicaragua, according to well-authenticated reports here today.

A thousand marines have been withdrawn from guarding the U. S. mails and are being concentrated at Quantico, Virginia. No explanation was made as to the reason for their concentration, but the belief prevailed there they are destined to see service in Nicaragua unless there is a speedy termination of hostilities there.

Admiral J. K. Lattimer, in charge of the American occupational forces in Nicaragua, had a conference today with Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, the Liberal chieftain, at which it is understood Lattimer "impressed strongly" on Sacasa Washington's desire that the fighting cease.

And Only One Was Killed

Why this railroad accident at Demarest, Ga., did not prove one of the catastrophes of the decade is as inexplicable as its cause. While traversing a brand new timber trestle over Hazelwood Creek, the locomotive, baggage car and one passenger coach of a well-crowded train broke through and crashed to the ground fifty feet below, killing but one and injuring seventeen of the occupants. Another coach, the last of the train, was not pulled into the gulch by those ahead of it, remaining on the verge of the break. What caused the structure to give way is unknown.

12 YEAR OLD BOY KILLS SHOPKEEPER

Lad Tells Police He Was Hungry and Tried to Rob Man; Says It Was Accident.

New York, Feb. 15.—A twelve-year-old boy, student in the eighth grade of public school, was being held by Brooklyn police today for the murder of Marcus Gold, 42, a shopkeeper. The boy, Michael Penkrowski, Jr., admits the killing, but claims his gun went off accidentally when he held up the storekeeper and told him to hand over the money in the till.

The boy ran away from home four days ago, he said. Driven to desperation by hunger, he invaded Gold's shop, covered him with the revolver, and while Gold was hastening to comply with the orders levelled at him in Michael's childish voice, the gun was discharged. Gold staggered to the street and summoned a policeman who caught Michael just as the lad was trying to escape.

Because of his extreme youth, the boy can be charged with nothing more than juvenile delinquency. He will be arraigned later.

TRAIL OF SWINDLE LEADS TO HARTFORD

Lewis presented the views of the operators in the central competi- tive fields, consisting of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Most of the producers in this section, he said, are operating at a loss or have been forced to close, because of the severe West Vir- ginia competition. To go ahead under the existing rates, he asserted, would be ruinous to the soft coal industry.

"The miners have a conservative program," said Lewis. "We have no hard and fast or concrete demands, except to negotiate the best scale obtainable with no wage reduction."

Lewis urged both sides to sit dispassionately around the conference table and negotiate a new scale in order to protect the whole soft coal industry which, he said, "is more disorganized than almost any other in the country."

BRIAND'S NOTE ON ARMS CUT, REJECTS PLAN

As Anticipated, French Cab- inet Does Not Approve of Coolidge's Proposal; Jap- an to Agree.

Paris, Feb. 15.—The French Cabinet, meeting with President Doumergue, today gave its unanimous approval to the reply to the disarmament proposals of President Coolidge.

The reply will be handed to the American embassy this afternoon, and as exclusively announced by the International News Service on last Saturday, it is understood the reply is in effect a rejection of the American proposals.

M. Briand, foreign minister, who drafted the note, said it would probably be published late this afternoon or tomorrow.

May Defeat Plans

The reply, couched in diplomatic terms and sympathetic in tone, is nevertheless a rebuff for the Coolidge proposals which may spell their defeat.

Minister of Interior Sarraut, informed the International News Service that the note "points out firstly that the League of Nations is now handling disarmament problems, and secondly that naval disarmament interests all nations not only the five big powers."

Belongs to League

"France can't take the problem of disarmament from the League of Nations—that is the gist of the note," said M. Sarraut.

Italy, it is learned, has indicated that she sympathizes with the French viewpoint, and even in Great Britain, the admiralty has some objections to offer which might prevent a complete acceptance by the British government.

JAPAN AGREES

Tokio, Feb. 15.—Japan is willing to participate in President Coolidge's armament parity, Premier Wakatsuki told the government yesterday, but it is impossible for the government to cancel the appropriation for three cruisers, possibly now being considered by the Diet.

The premier's statement was made before the Upper House of the Diet and in answer to questions arising in the Diet concerning President Coolidge's proposals.

The premier declared Japan's naval and military forces were at a minimum strength in order to provide adequate defense.

"The government, however," he said, "has decided to accept President Coolidge's invitation, because Japan favors any move to preserve peace and to avoid armament competition."

FIGHTING DIES DOWN IN CHEKIANG DISTRICT

Cantonese Withdrawing Troops To Reinforce Their Lines Around Hankow.

Shanghai, Feb. 15.—A slackening in the fighting in Chekiang province was reported today in a communique issued by General Sun Chuan Fang, military governor of Chekiang.

The Cantonese, the communique stated, are withdrawing their troops from Chekiang to reinforce the lines around Hankow, where Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's troops from the north are expected soon to strike a heavy blow.

It was definitely announced from Hankow that the negotiations between Eugene Chen, Cantonese foreign minister, and Owen O'Malley, British charge, have been broken off.

This announcement caused considerable satisfaction among the British and other foreigners here who believe the rupture will lead to military action on the part of Britain and the regaining of the Hankow concession.

It was stated that General Sun Chuan-Fang concurs with Eugene Chen in refusing to consider Secretary of State Kellogg's plan to have Shanghai declared neutral territory.

London today entered its fifth day of foggy gloominess, the fog already having cost nearly a score of lives in accidents and heavy economic losses.

Cities and villages were reduced to ruins. Wide seams opened in the earth, swallowing whole buildings, and crumbling mountain sides buried other thousands of earth and rock.

There were nineteen different shocks within twenty minutes. The earth shocks were so violent that seismographic instruments were wrecked. Details were lacking today because of the destruction of telegraphic connections.

At Sarajevo, birthplace of the World War, ten houses were buried beneath a heavy landslide. The town of Mostar was reduced to ruins. At Morkovic the railway station, post office and many other buildings were destroyed.

In the Ansefild region many houses were swallowed up when great chasms opened in the earth.

CONN. RANKS HIGH IN ENGINEERING

Some of the Greatest Pro- jects in the Country Being Completed Now.

New Haven, Feb. 15.—Connecticut is engaged in engineering projects that rank with the greatest in the country, according to Joseph P. Wadhams, Public Utilities Commission engineer, in the course of an address here today to the forty-third convention of the Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers. Mr. Wadhams is president of the society.

Projects cited by Mr. Wadhams to prove his contention include the seven-mile-long tunnel for the water supply of the city of Waterbury; the Totoket dam at North Branford; the "hump yards" of the New Haven railroad at Hartford; reclamation works at Darien, construction of 200 miles of highway by the state and the building of 36 miles of new lines by the Connecticut company.

The Darien project is pumping 600,000 yards of sand from the sea to make fifty acres of new home sites. The Waterbury tunnel, over seven miles through solid rock, is completed and two miles of it has been lined with concrete masonry. The Totoket dam for the water supply of New Haven is to hold 15,000,000 gallons of water, or enough to supply the city for eighteen months under present conditions.

Sewers and Walks

Mr. Wadhams also pointed out that "city engineers of Connecticut built twenty miles of new pavements, costing $1,470,000, and 22 miles of new sewers costing $821,000 have been built in seven cities."

"Connecticut is taking the lead in commercial air transportation, and may do much toward solving old traffic congestion by taking transportation from the highways and putting it up into the air," Mr. Wadhams predicted.

Gained 90 Members

The society of civil engineers gained 90 members during the past year and has over 600 enrolled on its lists, according to the president.

Clarence M. Blair, secretary, read the business report of the association. At an evening session addresses will be made by General John F. O'Ryan, president of the Colonial Air Transport Company; Col. Leonard S. Horner, president of Niles-Bement Pond company, and Able Mills Saville, chief engineer of the Hartford Water board.

Election of officers is to take place during the session.

COUPLE START FIGHT SOON AFTER WEDDING

Wife Tells Court They Began To Quarrel Five Minutes After the Ceremony.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 15.—Five minutes after they were married she and her husband began a quarrel which continued almost without interruption until they separated.

Mrs. Jessie Vergezson Lawyer, of Church street, New Britain, told Judge Newell S. Jennings in Superior Court here today. She is seeking a divorce on the ground of intolerable cruelty from Leroy S. Lawyer, also of New Britain. The marriage was more or less secret, she said, the ceremony being performed at East Hampton on July 12, 1923. It was not announced until Thanksgiving.

Lawyer denies the charges and is contesting the divorce. The custody of a daughter is at issue. Mrs. Lawyer is 22 and her husband 27. They were married August 1, 1925.

PONZI, DOWN AND OUT STARTS JAIL SENTENCE

Swindler Faces Seven to Nine Years on Theft Charge; Gives Up the Fight.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—Charles Ponzi, one-time juggler of millions, today penniless, faced a sentence of from seven to nine years in state's prison as a common and notorious thief.

Gone was the bravado of the ex-soldier jerker and international coupon wizard as he arrived back from Houston, Texas, to have his sentence re-affirmed.

"I'm licked," said Ponzi. His health is gone, and he remarked that if he had stayed in Texas jails another three months he doubted if he would have lived.

Blows Swapped—Tables and Chairs Overturned at Hearing on Sunday Blue Laws—Woman Starts to Pray in Midst of Fighting; Over 1,000 Eye-Witnesses.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Rioting and fist-fighting in which members of Congress and churchmen swapped blows, women screamed, and tables and chairs were overturned, broke up a Congressional hearing today on a bill which would establish Sunday blue laws in the District of Columbia.

Rep. Thomas L. Blanton, Democrat of Texas, and Rep. Sol Bloom, Democrat of New York, had a personal encounter which wound up with Bloom lying across the table with the Texan on top of him.

Reporter Kayoed

While this was going on, the official reporter went to the floor under the impact of the fist of Harvey L. Bowby, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Blanton also knocked down L. B. Schloss, proprietor of an amusement park, who attempted to pull him off Bloom.

There were almost a thousand people in the committee room when the melee started, and there were several side fights among the spectators. The identities of the combatants were lost in the confusion of screaming women and general panic.

Woman Prays

One woman in the rear of the room mounted a chair and began praying in a loud voice.

The difficulty arose during the examination of the Rev. H. M. Lawson, pastor of the Maryland avenue Baptist church, who had been heckled by the audience and by members of the committee. Bloom protested that the witness was not being given a fair deal, and Blanton resented it.

Charges Bloom

Blanton charged Bloom, an opponent of the bill, with representing "the moving picture people."

"That is absolutely untrue," said Bloom.

Blanton started for him, and Bloom held up a warning hand: "Wait till I get my glasses off." He shouted, but the irate Texan didn't wait. He flung himself on the New Yorker and down they went on the table. Schloss then jumped into the melee and tried to pull Blanton off, and got a blow on the jaw for his part. Schloss also said later Blanton kicked him.

The reporter who was taking the hearing tried to pry Blanton off and Bowby swung on him. The stenographic notes were torn and trampled under foot.

A number of spectators then formed a flying ring and pried the combatants loose.

A semblance of order was restored. When the fighting commenced Miss Hattie Pitts of Washington, raised her hand and shouted, "Lord Jesus save this man."

When the melee was over she remarked: "You noticed the fighting stopped when I called upon the Lord."

WIFE TELLS COURT THEY BEGAN TO QUARREL FIVE MINUTES AFTER THE CEREMONY

5 POWER PARLEY COOLIDGE'S PLAN

Thinks That Is the Only Way To Limit Armaments; Await French Reply.

Washington, Feb. 15.—A five power naval conference, such as has been proposed to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, represents the only practicable means of accomplishing anything concrete in the way of further naval disarmament, in President Coolidge's opinion.

Official Statements
This statement was made officially at the White House today following receipt of advice that France has decided to decline President Coolidge's invitation to such a conference. It was indicated that Mr. Coolidge was disappointed to expect but little from continued discussions at Geneva under the auspices of the League of Nations.

Official Comment was withheld, pending receipt of the French reply, but it was clearly indicated that as far as it can in such a prevent competitive arming in auxiliary naval craft.

Faces Difficulties
The presidential spokesman pointed out the difficulties of attempting reduction of naval armament in a general conference such as is in progress at Geneva, where small continental powers, having no navies at all, have equal voices with the naval powers. Naval disarmament can be accomplished only by the naval powers themselves, in Mr. Coolidge's opinion, and it was upon this thesis that he made his proposal to the four great powers.

GOING TO KEEP UP TO THE CLEMSONS

Richard McLagan, general chairman announced today that the prizes for the annual masquerade ball of St. Mary's Young Men's club on February 25 have been purchased by the prize committee. First prize for the most beautiful costume will be a white gold ring set with onyx and diamonds. Second prize is a white gold flexible bracelet. The prize for the funniest and most original costume worn by a man will be $10 in gold.

For the past five years some member of the Clemson family of North Elm street has won the men's prize. Once two of the Clemson boys teamed up to win the award and last year Harold Clemson, winner two years previously, defeated all comers. This year a lot of folks are determined to "keep up with the Clemsons."

The ball will be held in Cheney hall and Bill Waddell's eight piece orchestra has been engaged.

The women's prizes are on display in the windows of the Dewey Richman company on Main street.

Conneaut, Ohio, Feb. 15.—Beat on almost to a pulp, the bodies of Mrs. Celia Brown, 27, and her son, Frederick Brown, Jr., 5, were found early today in the Brown bungalow, three miles west of here. A baseball bat with which the double murder was committed was found by police.

Father Calls Police.

Fred Brown, the husband and father, called Conneaut officials shortly after midnight. He said he had just returned from work and found that the door of his house was open, and the radio was grinding out a tune.

In the sleeping porch the body of Mrs. Brown was lying. In the basement was that of his son. Nearby was the bloody baseball bat. Both bodies were still warm, he said.

Hold Autopsy.

An autopsy was being conducted this morning to determine whether or not the woman had been attacked. That robbery was not the motive was made evident when it was found that a small sum of money in the house had not been touched.

Every part of the house bore evidence of a terrific struggle, made by the woman and child to save their lives. A trail of blood reached from room to room.

A suspect was arrested by authorities this morning, but after brief questioning he was released. Brown was in a state of near collapse when authorities arrived.

CANADA ADMIRES

AMERICAN SYSTEM

Prominent M. P. Suggests That Dominion Should Get Away From British Plan.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—The question of whether the Canadian government should be based on the English system, as at present, or should be changed to conform more nearly with the United States form, is receiving continually more notice in parliamentary debate, especially since the appointment of ambassador between the dominion and its southern neighbor.

Does Not Meet Needs
Henri Bourassa, prominent Nationalist M. P., asserts there is growing feeling among the people that Parliament does not meet the needs of Canada. Tradition should not be over-emphasized in such a question, he stated, and Canada should not mould its action entirely on that of Britain. The questions should be considered in connection with the best interests of the dominion.

Combine Two Systems
By combining something of the British system, and something of the American, Bourassa believes an arrangement could be arrived at which would meet Canada's needs. He expressed the growing feeling of a large faction when he said: "Let us build something for ourselves."

BANK RECORDS LOST

CASHIER TESTIFIES

King's Check For $23,000 Passed Through Bank But No Record of It Is Found.
New York, Feb. 15.—The lost records of the Midland National bank of Washington Court House, Ohio,—the Daugherty bank—today occupied the center of the stage at the conspiracy trial of Harry E. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, as the government neared the closing of its case.

Vera Veal, cashier, of the Midland bank, testified that the records of October 13 and 14, 1921, were "missing."

A check for $23,163.81, drawn by the late John T. King, Connecticut politician, in October, 1921, was identified by endorsement as passed through the Midland institution, but through the bank records, it could not be traced. It was found among the bank records. The check represented the sale of part of the $391,000 in bonds received as "fee" by King from Richard Merton, German industrialist, for putting through his $7,000,000 claim for war-settled property.

James H. Watson, New York, testified that he sold bonds for King on October 4, 1921. King asked him to make out a cashier's check instead of a check to King's order, the witness said. The amount was for $23,163.81. King said he waited the account only for this transaction and that he didn't want it to show in his regular account, Watson testified.

BOSTON UNKNOWN BEATS CHAMPION

Johnny Vacca Floors La Barba Four Times; Fought For Nothing.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—Little Johnny Vacca, unknown Boston bantamweight, who four times floored Fidel La Barba, of Los Angeles, flyweight champion of the world, and won seven out of ten rounds, received nothing but cheers for his victory, it was learned today.

Because of the snowstorm last evening the Commercial A. C. sponsor of the bout, started to call it off. Vacca rather than miss the opportunity to meet La Barba offered to battle for nothing.

The champion from the Pacific coast was on the canvas three times in the second round and once in the fourth.

Three times La Barba took the count of nine, while the other time he was up at the count of five.

It was Vacca's first appearance in a main bout, and he entered the ring on the short end of ten to three betting.

The first round was even and then Vacca began nailing La Barba on the jaw.

La Barba stood up like a champion under punishment. He opened in the closing rounds. La Barba carried the seventh and eighth rounds and held Vacca even in the ninth. Little Johnny made a grand rally in the tenth and took the honors.

MRS. KOVAS FINED FOR MAKING HOCH

Jail Sentence of 15 Days Is Suspended by Judge Johnson.

Attorney William S. Hyde who appeared for Mrs. Matilda Kovas in the Manchester police court this morning entered a plea of guilty of keeping liquor with intent to sell. The Kovas' home on North street, as stated in yesterday's Herald was raided by the police yesterday morning and besides a still, which was in operation, was found a quantity of liquor in glass containers. The police also had evidence of an actual sale by Mrs. Kovas, but because of the plea of guilty it was not pressed.

Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $150 and costs and a jail sentence of 15 days. Because of the fact that Mrs. Kovas has four children, one an infant, the jail sentence was suspended. Some two or three years ago the woman was burned about the face and arms by the bursting of a still that she had in operation.

In court yesterday morning a man who was charged with intoxication gave his name as Joe Kelly. He is a Lithuanian and it was seen at once that the name was wrong. In the Herald yesterday his name was given as Joseph Garattis. There is another man in town by this name and he asserts that Joe Kelly's correct name is Joseph Karattis.

ABOUT TOWN

Despite other attractions there was a good attendance at the meeting of the Manchester Garden club at the Community clubhouse on North Main street last evening. Two new members were welcomed into membership. Charles M. Murphy donated two attendance prizes for last night's meeting, also one for the members on Coventry. Gleditsia Farm and the lucky ones were Mrs. Wells Strickland, Mrs. Bert F. Andrews and Miss Mary Hutchison. The next meeting will be held at the School street Recreation Center the second Monday evening in March.

OPEN FORUM CALIFORNIA WOMAN LIKES OUR STORIES

Mrs. D. B. Cotter, Former Local Resident, Writes About Life in the Sierras.

Editor, The Herald: The article written in The Herald Jan. 22nd was greatly enjoyed by us. I refer to Mrs. Glen F. Lewis' story on Western life especially the part of it pertaining to the Leather River country, up here in the high Sierras. She gives a very good and accurate description of life up here.

I agree with what she says regarding its beauty of forest fires here—but two years or so ago, (during the dry season) we were at one time surrounded on three sides for a time were in great danger. Since that time I can not appreciate the beauty of forest fires. However, the beauty of the landscapes up here in the Sierras is a continual pleasure.

The last two or three years most of the lumber camps have taken to logging with tractors. I am inclined to say Mrs. Lewis is living on the same straits where he lived and was born, coming to California about twenty years ago from there. Also, the Leather River Lumber company of which Mrs. Lewis' father is manager, is only a few miles from here.

The world is not so large after all, it seems, I was so interested in her story it seemed so familiar, both ways. I have friends and relatives in South Manchester, having a brother with Cheney Brothers, Fred Wippen, and I worked in the silk mills myself as a girl.

I can appreciate how Mrs. Lewis felt on first meeting and getting acquainted in the East, coming from Manchester myself. It was a good many years before I could "let out" enough to speak to folks out here without an introduction. However, in both ends of the country are fine people, each in their own way and I love California.

Respectfully MRS. D. B. COTTER, Spring Garden, Plumas County, California, Feb. 7, 1927.

Doubles Have Day in Films

George Billings as Abraham Lincoln, Anton Vaverka as Franz Josef, Lucien Littlefield as Coolidge and Frank Hopper as Theodore Roosevelt.

Hollywood, Calif. — Copying Franz Josef, even to the medals the famous Austrian emperor wore, Anton Vaverka, the Czech-Slovakian actor, resembles the former sovereign as much as the Atlantic looks like the Pacific.

Vaverka is in the role of Franz Josef in the filming of "The Wedding March," a Paramount production.

Duplicate Decorations Every decoration that Franz Josef wore has been duplicated, and each one meant something in the emperor's life. For 50 years he wore a war medal known as the Officers' Service Cross, a court jubilee medal, the Order of St. George of Russia, his own medal with the face turned to the inside, the broad ribbon of Maria Theresa, the iron crown of Leopold, the Order of the Golden Fleece and the medal of the Supreme Order of Austria-Hungary.

The array was studied out by D. R. O'Hatswell, an English expert on military uniforms and insignia. Von Stroheim's personal memorabilia of the late emperor are vivid, and the director has tried to reproduce other famous doubles is Ceell Holland, who has represented George Washington several times in film plays, and Lucien Littlefield, as Calvin Coolidge in when the World War began.

Other famous doubles is Douglas MacLean's "Never Say Famous and well remembered

MISS POLLARD GIVEN A SURPRISE SHOWER

South M. E. Religious Worker's Impending Marriage Brings Novel Gift Bestowal.

Miss Mabel M. Pollard, director of religious education at the South Methodist church, was given a surprise shower by the teachers of the primary department of the Sunday school at the home of Miss Florence Metcalf on Pleasant street last night. There were 21 persons present. The occasion was the regular meeting of the primary department when it's going up as when it's going to stay down. This Spanish War Veterans day by proclamation of the governor. So there she is—look at her.

It hasn't been customary to put up the Depot Square flag for except every occasion. "Don't expect me to get out there and hoist Old Glory for every dog fight, do you?" is the way Custodian Sweet puts it. Last Saturday there was some small excitement around the Square when the flag did not fly in the early morning in honor of Lincoln day. Somebody accused Custodian Sweet of regarding the occasion as one of the "dog fights" an aspersions which Brother Sweet stoutly denied, even while maintaining that he never could see where Abe messed up to G. Wainwright. He had his own orders from the park commissioners—no specific ones—about Lincoln day, he explained. Finally, before noon, up went the flag.

In some of the songs the girls of the club joined in the chorus.

After the dinner, a session of lively games followed in charge of Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Lillian Kamm. The Guard club also held its regular monthly business meeting during the evening, with the officers for 1927 in charge. Various matters were discussed including the purchase of new uniform dresses for the Guards. Those who have seen the picture admit that it is the greatest that Lillian Gish has ever appeared in and those who haven't have a wonderful evening ahead of them.

Rin Tin Tin's mate will be at the State during the showing of the dog actor's picture, "White London Sleeps," on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and each admission ticket on those three days entitles the purchaser to a chance on a genuine full bred German police dog which will be given away on a date to be announced later. The little pup, which is but six weeks old, will be seen in the lobby while the picture is here.

GAS KILLS 4 MEN IN BROOKLYN HOME.

New York, Feb. 15.—Four men were killed by coal gas escaping in a Brooklyn apartment house. The victims were identified as Samuel Jobbins, Philip Weiss, William Snyder and Abraham Spicandler.

Other residents and the superintendent, Dacasto Larrier, were taken to the district attorney's office for questioning. Larrier said the gas escaped from the heating plant in the basement.

TAXI-DRIVERS STRIKE

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—Town company taxicabs rolled through the streets today with a patrolman seated beside the driver. It was the first move to break the strike of 400 taxi drivers, who seek four dollars a day for a nine-hour day, and fifty-five cents an hour overtime.

STEALS THREE BASES; BALL UNDER HIS ARM

During his connection with the American League as a member of the Chicago and New York clubs, Ping Bodie was a most colorful figure. Ping came to the majors noted for his batting and while he didn't continue his home run spree as a big leaguer, he did some mighty robust hitting.

It is a rather interesting fact that when he made his New York debut with Chicago he came through with a homer, his first time at bat, thereby living up to all the advance notices the New York scriber had given him.

While Ping was a great copy producer, little of it had brain power or baseball strategy behind it. Ping broke into the limelight as a result of great mechanical ability in the field and at the bat rather than through cunning.

However, Bodie figured in a novel play in which I happened to be one of the umpires. It rather belied the thought that Ping wasn't a smart ball player.

New York was playing Cleveland, Bodie essayed a steal. As he slid into second, it was evident the fielder had dropped the ball trying to touch him. It was a hot day and a cloud of dust momentarily obscured the runner and fielder.

In a second Bodie was on his feet, headed for third while shortstop and second baseman were trying to figure out where the ball was.

All the time I was watching closely the actions of Bodie. As he touched home plate I noted that he raised his left arm and the ball fell to the ground.

I immediately sent Bodie back to second base. After the game he confided to me that as the fielder dropped the ball it nestled under his arm pit, so he simply closed his arm tightly over it and proceeded on his way to the plate.

"It would have been a good one if I got away with it," was Bodie's only comment.

The incident convinced me that baseball wasn't entirely a matter of brawn with Bodie.

THAT POST OFFICE.

It is possible that some gnome buried deep in the innermost recesses of the Treasury department at Washington—some nineteenth assistant secretary of the treasury or some segregated bureau chief or some divisional head clerk or assistant head clerk—knows precisely where the Manchester federal building project stands with relation to the curious mixture into which the public buildings program has apparently degenerated.

But if there is such a person, and if he could tell us where we are, and if we are still unable to find him or to find anybody who knows how to find anybody who would know how to find him.

Nobody understands the status of the public buildings legislation any more. We seriously doubt whether Secretary Mellon or Postmaster General New has any very definite idea as to what is going on around them—and certainly members of Congress cannot know, for none of them claims to be clairvoyant, and nothing short of clairvoyance would be able to see through the tangle of cross-purpose bills and reports and recommendations that have beclouded the apparently simple proposition of passing a lump appropriation to be expended, as the House has already voted, under the sole direction of the secretary of the treasury after conference with the postmaster-general.

The best that can be figured out of the situation is that Manchester is being seriously considered, by somebody or other, for the allocation of $150,000 for a building to be erected at the Center. We should most awfully hate to give a bond that this is the present status of the matter; but it does look that way. However, we're going to postpone our cheers for a little while.

BILL BOARD TAX.

Very interesting is the measure now before the Connecticut Legislature which provides that the tax on billboards, when they are so placed as to interfere with scenic beauty, shall be ten cents a square foot instead of the usual three cents a foot which is assessed against billboards at present.

If this law be enacted the superintendent of state police, who is endowed by it with the quality of bill board censor, must determine which boards are to be assessed on the ten cent basis and which on the three cent basis—and we do not envy him the job.

There may be one way out for the state police head, however, in the emergency of the bill being passed. He might just make a sweeping rule that all billboards interfere with the scenery—which they do. It may not in all cases be beautiful scenery per se, but all scenery is beautiful, even when it consists of the backyards of gas houses or a burnt over cedar swamp, in contrast to the hideous billboard.

Let the ten cent rate ride for the lot of them. And then may the next Legislature pass a new differential against the worst offending half, and fix the top tax at a dollar a foot.

FARM RELIEF.

We do not exactly like the assumption of some Democratic newspapers that, if President Coolidge should sign the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill when—and if—it is passed by the House this week, it would be tantamount to a declaration on the President's part that he is seeking another term. There is no fairness in assuming that the President may not very well sign that measure—objectionable as it is and dangerous particularly to the New England textile business—for reasons having nothing whatever to do with his candidacy in 1928.

This idea of "farm relief" through the feeding of federal pay to the one-crop operators in the big agricultural states has become an obsession with hundreds of thousands of American voters. The great farm associations are riddled with it. Whole states and whole sections are controlled by elements who believe in it with that same whole-souled fervor that obsessed the minds of prohibitionists in their fight for the eighteenth amendment.

So it may very well be that the best of all possible ways to combat this economic influenza is to give it its way for a while—let it show itself to be an enormous mistake.

If prohibition had been defeated instead of being victorious, six years ago, we should still have ahead of us all this miserable business of experimenting with it, instead of being at least half way through with the experimentation as we now are—and a hard job is better tackled than worried about.

If we do not yield and give the paternalists a chance to prove their unprovable theory of farm relief there will never be an end to the present discontent and theorizing. President Coolidge may take this view of the matter, without being open to the charge of lacking backbone.

GOSHAWKS.

It is improbable that a hunter, however woods-wise, however well armed or however good a shot, would be able to make plasterer's pay killing goshawks at the rate of three dollars per head, which is the increased figure at which the state has now fixed its bonus for that handsome but devilishly murderous bird. But there are few Connecticut hunters, just the same, who would not put themselves to a good deal of trouble and to the expenditure of a considerable amount of time to have the satisfaction of destroying even a single one of these creatures.

The goshawk is not to be blamed for his proclivities, but he is hatched with a blood lust that directs itself to some of the most prized of our feathered natives. He lives, to just as great an extent as he possibly can, on our already too rare ruffed grouse or partridge. He is fleet, strong and armed with a killing beak. He butchers partridges as coolly and as capably as a stock yard hand butchers pigs—and, we were almost going to say, as rapidly.

If the goshawk thrives in these parts there will soon be no partridges at all. Then he will probably turn to killing off the quail. It is the sporting duty of every hunter and every bird lover who owns a gun to camp on the trail of any goshawk that comes into his neighborhood—till he gets him.

BAD BREEDS.

Peculiarly dreadful was the Brooklyn tragedy in which an ignorant, violent man, self-centered beyond all reason, in a wild passion of revenge murdered a physician whose administration of antitoxin he blamed for the death of his diphtheria stricken child.

There may be those who will find in the crazed grief of the father some faint glimmerings of palliation, some slightest shred of amelioration of the sheer savagery of his crime. But they will need to have a top-sided sense of values if not of justice.

There is peculiar poignancy in the circumstance that the physician had come from a long way across Brooklyn, at the call of his brother, a druggist, to attend to the sick child when no doctor in the neighborhood was available, doing a veritable labor of love and of humanity; and in the fact that the physician himself leaves a young wife and a little baby.

Nothing counted to the wild beast father of the diphtheritic child except that his own offspring was dead and that there was someone at hand on whom to avenge his loss.

Population—it seems to be the one thing of which many people think; getting more and more people into a town, into a city, into a state, into a country. Yet one citizen like that Manpheth doctor is worth how many tens or hundreds or thousands of creatures like the one who cut his throat?

We did not begin our selective process early enough by twenty years in taking in and fostering breeds. It will be a bad thing indeed if we yield to the urge of mawkish sentimentalists and let down our immigration bars. America does not, of herself, produce people who do things like this wolf father.

RED BOGIES.

It is to be hoped that some at least of the panicky individuals who are so constantly affluter with apprehension over the dangers of bolshevism in this country will heed the report issued by the Rand school at New York concerning the progress—backward—of communism in America. The Rand school is not a very pleasant institution, with its blatant radicalism, but it is not lacking in the courage of its convictions and would be far more likely to brag about a growth of communism, if there were any such growth whatever, than to attempt to hide it.

According to new statistics of the school, the whole American Communist group now contains only between 5,000 and 7,000 members, whereas in 1919, at the peak of the movement, the various circles had a total membership of about 35,000.

Five or seven thousand communists among a hundred and twenty million normal Americans! One red for every twenty thousand citizens! A terrible peril surely. And yet there are public officials who are firmly convinced that this home-owning, prosperous people only needs to be unwatched by their own particular eagle eyes for five minutes in order to start a revolution.

The red scare always was silly. It is infinitely ludicrous now.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Feb. 15.—If the children will just turn off that "Horse and Homes" record for a moment, they may like to take of a noble nag which died at the time of the Custer massacre in 1876 and of the Indian scout who owned him and still mourns his loss.

None of Custer's brave troops survived the bloody battle of the Little Big Horn—river, but William J. Bailey, who was with Major Reno's men nearby, is the next thing to an actual survivor.

And if he can locate one or two of Reno's men who may still live and who saw that horse shot down by the red-skins, old Bill Bailey can collect $125 from the government as compensation.

Frazier Helps Him. A bill now pending in the Senate, offered by Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, to reimburse the old scout, now 78 years old. Frazier's office has put in an immense amount of work straightening out the records with the War Department and now all that is needed is proof that Bailey actually lost the animal.

Bill Bailey was one of those immortal kid drummers of the Civil War. His parents in Virginia sided with the secessionists and young Bill, barely 13 years old, ran away to wallop his drum in the Union army, where he served two years. This makes him today the second youngest member of the G. A. R.

Later he enlisted in the regular army and took the name of Baker, lest his parents drag him back home as a minor.

He served in Montana and the Dakota territory and accompanied Custer on the Black Hills expedition of 1874. The army was reduced and Bailey acted for two years in a civilian capacity as interpreter, but in May, 1876, he enlisted as a scout at Fort A. Lincoln, which records show he was allowed daily compensation—and two weeks later set out with General Terry on the expedition which culminated in the Little Big Horn battle of June 25 and 26.

Divided His Command. Custer, believing that he faced a comparatively defenseless Indian village, formed his Seventh cavalry in three divisions, advancing himself on the north with five companies and dividing his other six companies advanced far south of the village, and Major Reno, who attacked the southern end of the village.

Bill Bailey, of course, was with Reno when his horse was shot under him. Reno lost 56 officers and men and retreated across the river to what is now Reno Hill. Bailey, noting a dead sergeant whose hand clutched the bridle of a live horse, took the horse and also managed to get to Reno Hill. Meanwhile, Custer and his command of 208 men were being wiped out.

"We remained on the bluff under fire for two days," reminisces Bill Bailey. "The day after Major Reno sent me to the boat for medicine, I met General Terry and returned with him and an Indian scout named War Eagle to the spot where we had heard firing the first day of the battle. We found the bodies of Custer and his men."

"The general wept, with his handkerchief at his eyes, as he said: "There lies disobedience of orders."

"I had known most of the men personally and was detailed to the task of identification."

Claim Was Outlawed. Bailey served another year after that and then contracted to carry the mail from Bismarck to Fort Buford. He applied first for reimbursement for the horse after five years, only to find that time had passed his claim.

Before he came out of the west, Bailey had married two Indian wives and accumulated first a son and then a daughter. The first wife, who died, was a Mandan woman and the second a Blackfoot. Civilization gripped Bailey after he came east and the present Mrs. Bailey is of his own people.

He served 18 years in the Navy Yard here and then was retired on a pension.

He wants the $125 for that horse largely as a matter of principle, but the money would come in very handy.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 15.—Princely sums are paid for the privilege of owning such as the famous "diamond horseshoes" of the Metropolitan.

A healthy sized office building in a small town could be built for the money that passes when one is sold. It is not often that a sale is executed, for an older society clings tenaciously to this symbol of high social rating and great care is taken that they do not fall into the hands of the nouveau-riche.

Now $200,000 is a goodly figure to pay for the right to sit in an exclusive and widely advertised place, yet such was the figure brought when the first Vanderbilt box changed hands. The second of the Vanderbilt boxes went the other day for a similar amount.

The exorbitant sounding price, however, is partially accounted for by the fact that the ownership of a box carries with it a one-thirtieth interest in the theater and property.

For the high cost of seating second honors go to the stock exchange, where a theoretical seat may be bought for $180,000 with perhaps $10 worth of actual sitting being enjoyed per year. There are 1100 seats on the exchange and ownership of one indicates the definite arrival of the buyer as an important entity in Wall Street affairs.

Speaking of high costs, the accessories required for prohibition increase daily.

Stopping to glance in the windows of six Fifth Avenue jewelry and specialty shops I noticed an astounding portion of the space given over to trick containers and novelties for drinkables.

The test is the "coat of arms cork." Upon specially built corks—made to fit any bottle—are placed initials, crests, coats of arms or designs, after the fashion of fancy motor caps.

There are also corks made to resemble silver statuettes.

Jewelers tell me that among the ritzy classes each bottle is given a distinctive cork and the little groups of serious drinkers go in for distinctive designs.

Artists who formerly were kept busy designing book plates now are called upon to make original monogram designs for the tops of corks.

Each week brings a new wrinkle in bottle carriers for milady. Some are trim leather handbags; some are made to resemble binocular cases; others seem to be thermos bottles that have suddenly grown handles.

And one parting word about our chorines: a bank report that reassured my desk this morn shows a considerable number of chorus girls to be depositors.

Whatever their gentlemen friends prefer, they prefer bonds! GILBERT SWAN.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

NEVER HATCHES TWINS

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

The mother marsh hawk, like many birds of prey, does not wait until her entire clutch of eggs is laid before she begins her patient task of brooding them. In fact, she starts brooding as soon as the first egg is laid.

Young Marsh Hawks

In this way the precious treasures in the nest are never left unguarded, open to the attack of prowling enemies.

Of course her fledglings are not all hatched on the same day. The first of the young hawks makes his appearance several days before the last of the brood breaks his way out of the imprisoning shell. The length of this interval depends on the number of days that intervened between the laying of the first and last eggs.

It keeps the mother hawk on the job longer than would otherwise be necessary, but at least she knows the eggs are not going unwatched. As the young hawks grow the difference in their ages is plainly noticeable. The biggest youngster is able to run about, leaving the nest, which is built on the ground, and hiding in the grass nearby, before his smallest brother can stand erect on his uncertain legs.

Sure of Himself Now!

So Clean Inside, No Fear of Perspiration Offense, However Over-Heated

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would ever be considered.

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Doctors of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system—clear through. Cleanse even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew! The old-fashioned way was "salt." They got action, but they take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are gentle, but they leave the bowels with a slim of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you use cascara, the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cure is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "cascara."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascara tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after!

With the skin fresh and fragrant. All ingredients pure and safe.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly. For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all toxins. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips" Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1878.

Mary K. Browne and Winnie Richards are going on the stage. . . But no matter how hard they try, they will find it impossible to be as upstage as most tennis stars.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Lewis and Clark (8)

Indians stood on the banks and watched as the explorers in their canoes of burned-out logs braved the foaming, whirling stretch of the Columbia's rapids. The boats danced and leaped like straws in the angry current. It was a test of nerve. They took it bravely. Just above the Cascades they landed their rock-scarred craft.

Another portage followed, more days of bitter toil, and the canoes were launched on the Columbia for the last lap.

At the river's mouth storms that had broken the bounds of the Pacific rocked their frail craft. Miraculously they carried on.

Then, in November, they beached their boats where the Columbia kisses the Pacific. Camp was pitched on a high cliff near the future site of Astoria. Sacajawea's dear wish to see the "great salt water" was realized. For hours the Indian mother gazed into the mysteries of the mighty ocean. (Continued)

Billy Evans Says

HAGEN'S PSYCHOLOGY

Walter Hagen is one of the greatest golfers of all time, not only because of his remarkable ability but proper temperament as well. Hagen may worry about his bad shots, but he never creates that impression. Rather, he makes it apparent that on his next shot he will try to erase the handicap of the previous poor one.

THE MENTAL SIDE

It is Hagen's theory that more golfers spoil their game on the green than in any other phase of play. It is not failure alone to sink a seemingly easy putt that throws them off their stride, but rather the worry that is incidental to it.

JACK LOCKWILL AT ROCKLAKE

by Gilbert Patten

Jack went looking for the Bad Egg and found him with a bunch of his associates. "You don't remember me, McNally," said Jack, smiling an icy cold smile, "so I'm going to refresh your memory. I'm the curly-haired kid you beat up when I was six years old. I promised you at the time that I'd fix you for the job some day. Then, with a movement as quick as the winking of an eye, he slapped McNally's face.

The Bad Egg rushed at Jack. He missed his first swing at Jack by a hair. "Look out for left, Lockwill!" warned Chick Bevins, who was acting as Jack's second. "It's full of dynamite." Light and swift on his feet, Jack sparred, looking for an opening. He was cool and confident—a little too confident. McNally was a dangerous antagonist, and suddenly he landed a smash that knocked Jack down.

Joe Schrode—in and out of some of his animal characters.

New York.—For 25 years, theatergoers have applauded Joe Schrode without seeing his face.

To two generations of audiences, he has been a flitting ear, a rolling eye, a wagging tail, a dog's bark and a cat's mew. But never a glimpse of Joe himself has been caught by the people "out front."

For Joe knows the inside stuff, as it were, where animals are concerned. He has been in the front legs of more animals than Noah's shop registry listed.

Men going gray at the temples are laughing over Susie the camel, Joe's present role in Fred Stone's Broadway show. Those same men as children howled at the antics of Imogene, the cow, as played by Schrode in "The Wizard of Oz," a quarter of a century ago.

Since then, camel and bear and dog and ape and cat and lion and kangaroo have been sisters under the skin—when Joe climbed into them. He is the inimitable master of his art. Starting life as a vaudeville acrobat, he has carved out a unique career and now may keep the potatoes of show-dom cooling their heels on his doorstep.

It all dates from his creation of Imogene.

"She was a grand character," he says wistfully. "I was playing on a one-night variety circuit in the west when I met Fred Stone. He and Dave Montgomery were planning the 'Wizard,' and wanted some kind of animal to accompany Dorothy, the heroine, in her adventures."

"They asked me what I could do, and together we worked out Imogene, the cow, blown cuckoo by the cyclone. I designed the costume and picked the actor who was to be my hind legs."

"Imogene developed a strong personality from the first performance. She was never the same any two nights. I was a youngster then, and so flip that even under a hundred pounds of cow, I couldn't keep quiet. Imogene was a great hit."

After Imogene came a long list of successors. Managers read the press notices of this unknown soldier of the footlights, and wired frantically for his services.

He took such famous roles as that of Buster Brown's dog, Tige; Roosevelt's African lion, Naughty Nero; the Laughing Horse in Lew Fields' "About Town," the bear in James Hackett's "Alcayde," the Prehistoric Beast in "Hop o' My Thumb," and "Spark Plug" in De Beck's revue.

Crocodiles, storks, frogs, tigers and baboons were as nothing to his versatility. He spent his winters in the theaters, and his summers in the zoos and circuses, watching all kinds of animals.

Nowadays, the keepers of the Bronx and Central Park Zoos have come to expect a slim little gray haired man to appear soon after the papers announce the arrival of any new animal for the collection.

Schrode may have few expectations of playing an ant-eater or an owl, but he is just as interested in the way it twitches its nose or wags its ears.

Do animals have individual personalities? Ask Schrode—he knows! "There's as much difference between Spark Plug and a frivolous animal like Heeza Horse as between any two men," he says. "I have to feel myself into a part before I can make it real."

"Different kinds of animals call for widely varied treatment, too. There's the dog. He does all his acting with his eyes and tail. Buster Brown's dog had an elaborate eye mechanism which I kept in motion every minute."

"The cat works his chops and arches his back, and slips and slides around."

They Raise Queens, Too, on the Texas Plains

West Texas may be wild and woolly by tradition, but there's nothing frontier-like in the girls it raises—as witness this picture of Miss Helen Dowty of San Angelo. She was chosen queen of the social functions of a San Angelo sorority.

"DON JUAN" BIG HIT There has never been entertainment offered to the public, whether that entertainment be picture, stage or legitimate presentation, that has met with such universal approval as is meeting "Don Juan" which is showing at the State theater, Main and Morgan streets, Hartford, for the remainder of this week, the engagement terminating Saturday night. John Barrymore in the title and leading role has gained so many admirers that he is now the most popular star that ever appeared on the screen.

The difficult role, which could not be essayed by any other living artist, is enacted by Barrymore with fiery emotion that stamps him indelibly as "the greatest lover of all ages." In "Don Juan" Barrymore has enacted a role to live forever. For in this picture is the ultimate thrill which everyone craves—love that dares all, love that leaps like liquid fire through the veins of popular fancy. Like in every other metropolitan city where it has played, "Don Juan" is meeting with a hurricane of praise and thundering acclamation.

Many in Columbia were greatly grieved and shocked to learn of the sudden and tragic death of Mrs. Julia Minor in New Britain, where with her husband she was engaged in making a religious census. Mr. and Mrs. Minor did this work in Columbia several summers ago, and during their stay in town were entertained by several of the best families, who became very fond of both of them for their beautiful Christian character.

At the close of the meeting a rehearsal of the music for the special Sunday evening service to be held on the 27th, was held.

HERE'S REAL RELIEF FROM NEURITIS

In 24 to 48 Hours Pains Are Often Relieved and You Get Rest and Comfort Again.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—may make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

Those are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenru Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced if not almost banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue for two or three days more or until you are satisfied with results.

It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs, Allenru Special Formula No. 2 should give you speedy relief. North End Pharmacy, 80, Manchester Agents, Magnell Drug Co. or any good druggist will be glad to supply you.—adv.

Keep Fit!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.
To be well, you must keep the blood stream free from impurities. If the kidneys lag, allowing body poisons to accumulate, a toxic condition is created. One is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and achy. A nagging backache is sometimes a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. If you have reason to suspect improper kidney functioning, try Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Users praise them throughout the United States. Ask your neighbor!

TEXAS SLAYER OF 13 AWAITS CHAIR LIGHTLY

Electrocution Holds No Terror For Murderer of Wives and Children.

Huntsville, Tex.—The thirteen murdered souls for whose lives he had to pay with his own do not weigh heavily upon the mind of George J. Hassell, 45, a farmer, as he sits in his solitary cell in the state penitentiary here awaiting the hour of his electrocution on February 25.

The electric chair, in a room adjoining his cell, has no more terrors for him than a barber chair, he declares.

There is no remorse noticeable in the prisoner's demeanor; he sits stolidly hour after hour, or entertains neighbor convicts with obscene accounts of his killings.

Hassell was convicted at Farwell, Tex., of the murder last December of his 16-year-old stepson. He confessed, according to the authorities, to the slaying of his wife and seven other stepchildren, whose bodies were found buried in a dugout under the Hassell farm, which was located on the border line of Texas and New Mexico, between Texico, N. M., and Farwell, Tex.

Tried Suicide. Shortly before his arrest in Texico, Hassell attempted to take his own life with a razor.

He told authorities a harrowing tale of how he used a shotgun and an axe in disposing of his wife and eight stepchildren, and later admitted that he had slain and buried a common law wife, Mrs. Marie Vogel, and their three babies, in Whittier, Calif., ten years ago.

Efforts to affix a motive for Hassell's killings have proved futile, and he offers no solution of his own. He says, however, that none of the slayings were premeditated.

He describes the murder of his common law wife by saying that he suddenly found himself choking her, after they had been joking and laughing together for several hours. Immediately afterward he choked the three children, and buried the four bodies under the house while they were yet warm.

The hole under his California home, he relates, was dug in compliance with his wife's wishes. She had a premonition that some kind of treasure was buried there. She little dreamed her own body would constitute the only "treasure" hole was to disclose.

Quarrelled With Wife. While Hassell freely discussed the wholesale slaying of his wife and eight stepchildren on the ranch near Farwell, he evaded questions concerning the motive, declining to reiterate an earlier statement attributed to him that the killings were precipitated by quarrels with his wife.

Hassell is indifferent to any efforts on the part of his lawyer to win an appeal, and appears to regard his execution as the inevitable wage meted by society for his sin. He declares he never had any fear of arrest after his bloody deeds. He seems to have no conscience.

"I am not afraid to die," he says, stolidly.

HARTFORD'S AUTO SHOW NEXT WEEK

State Armory the Scene; Will Continue For 7 Days Sunday Excepted.

Hartford, Feb. 15.—Connecticut's most pretentious automobile show will be revealed to the automobile enthusiast and admirer for seven days at the huge State Armory at Capitol Avenue and Broad Street, Hartford, commencing Saturday, excluding Sunday, Feb. 20.

The show will match the 1927 automobile in that it will be presented along greatly improved lines with numerous appealing features to interest and instruct those who find the automobile a source of constant inspiration. Approximately 200 of the finest cars that have ever been offered by the standard car manufacturers will be on view as evidence that motordom has entered a new era of speed, comfort, safety and individuality.

According to Earle M. Taber, chairman of the 1927 show committee, the new cars are so striking in their mechanical excellence as well as in their external appearance that it has been necessary to provide a new type of automobile show to accommodate them.

"We have given more attention than ever before to the matter of arranging spaces for the convenience of the many thousands who annually attend the Hartford show," he says. "While there will be many significant features to fill in moments when one's attention is not directed to the cars we feel that the 1927 automobile is such a distinct departure from all of its predecessors that it is the big feature of the show. Every exhibitor is planning to display the features of his products in a more graphic way. This means a more interesting, more profitable show for the visitor."

Thirty-two makes of cars will be shown, two of these being new to the 1927 automobile show. In addition, there will be a number of entirely new versions of popular makes. Eight new straight-eights and nine new sixes are promised for the event.

Cars to be exhibited include: Auburn, Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chandler, Chrysler, Dodge, Erskine, Essex, Franklin, Gardner, Hudson, Hupmobile, Jordan, Locomobile, Marmon, Nash, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Overland, Packard, Paige, Pierce-Arrow, Pontiac, Reo Flying Cloud, Star, Stearns-Knight, Studebaker, Stutz, Vette, Willys-Knight and Whippet.

Mr. Taber, however, calls attention to the fact that since many of the standard manufacturers now produce several distinct chassis models there will be at the coming show an unusually large number of cars. Four different cars by one manufacturer will be the rule in several instances. There will be fifty-nine different chassis models this year as against fifty-five in 1926.

The committee head anticipates a record attendance at the show because of the many innovations to be revealed. He says that Connecticut motorists have been eager for the opportunity to see the cars with worn and Hupoid drives, the new straight-eight sleeve valve engine, the car with a four-speed transmission, the new European-type creations, the convertible coupes, the new types of air cleaners, the internal hydraulic brakes, the anti-scurf valve, the cars that can do over twenty-five miles to a gallon and the machines capable of seventy or more honest miles per hour, all of which will be found displayed in the warmth and cheer of the Springfield Armory.

Hartford's twentieth annual Prosperity auto show is in competent hands. In addition to the chairman the committee includes: Major Thomas W. Campbell, president of the Hartford Automobile Dealers' Association; Dwight A. Burnham, treasurer; A. C. Hine, in charge of publicity and advertising; and Arthur Fifoot, show manager. Sensing the beginning of a new era in car ownership the committee has been working day and night to make this exhibition an outstanding event in motor history.

HEBRON

Miss Anne Young, private secretary Chas. M. Amis, came from New York on Saturday and appeared before the board of selectmen at their session at the town clerk's office to make a complaint in regard to the addition to Mr. Amis' taxes on his Amston property. The particular valuation in question is that of the lake frontage. The matter was discussed pro and con and will be decided at a later date.

It is reported that Wilmer Dingwell has bought the Renwick farm in the Jagger district. This place has dwelling house and farm buildings and seventeen acres of land. It is also reported that Max Franklin has bought the place lately sold by Wilmer Dingwell on the Marlborough road.

Charles I. Tennant, a former resident of this place, now living in the vicinity of Dawson City, Yukon territory, writes to relatives here that on returning to his home after an absence recently he found that a bear had broken in and ransacked about his possessions, helping itself liberally to stores of provisions. The bear by bracing on its hind feet and applying its weight against the door had been able to crush the door in Mr. Tennant watched his opportunity and at a later date when the bear made another visit killed it after quite a stiff fight had been put up by the unwelcome visitor. Mr. Tennant lived on bear steaks for quite a while afterwards. This is the third bear he has shot within a comparatively short time.

Edward A. Smith was leader at the Christian Endeavor meeting at the center Sunday evening taking the place of his mother Mrs. Edwin T. Smith, who was away for the week-end. The topic for the meeting was "The Spirit of Missions."

Mr. and Mrs. Randall, Tennant of Columbia were week-end guests at the home of Mr. Tennant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jared B. Tennant.

A copy of the Mexico Microbe from Guadalajara has been received lately by residents here. This paper, formerly edited by the Rev. H. C. Champe, a former pastor here is issued bi-monthly. An arresting item in the last number gives an idea how the boycott works in the Southern republic. The item is as follows:

Ameca, Oct. 15, 1926.—Sr. Pedro Martinez, my bloodthirsty enemy: If you care for your life in anything, I sincerely beg you to leave this place immediately for I assure you in truth that if you do not go your body will be eaten by buzzards and dogs; for you are not worthy of sepulture in holy ground, you are a Protestant mule, a bigger devil than Satan of hell and Protestants deserve to be buried in unhallowed ground and to be destroyed by animals. And leave with all your brood of children and your accursed old woman because with you I shall be stabbed to death in vengeance for all that you have done to the Catholics of this city. I am not afraid of the arms which you say you have for I assure you they are nothing compared with your many enemies because of your evil conduct and your black heart toward the priests of Christ. So leave quick, you accursed old man, son of the whole diabolical crowd, for you shall surely die, cost what it may, and not only you, but with you, as I said, all your children and your hateful wife.

Christ was king and will be until the consummation of the ages. Long live Christ king and the most Holy Virgin Mary.

Sixteen members of the Young Women's club met with Mrs. John Deeter Thursday afternoon and enjoyed a Valentine party. Appropriate games were played. Refreshments were served with heart shaped decorations.

A hooked rug and designed by Miss Clarissa Pendleton is being exhibited at the library. In this rug is worked a design showing part of the town of Hebron as it was about one hundred years ago. It makes a very beautiful and attractive picture. The scene was taken from the picture painted in 1830 by Reuben Rowley for Governor John Peters, which is now in the possession of Edmund Horton. The picture shows the Post Office, tavern and the street looking south from the center, with the governor's residence, St. Peter's church, etc.

Charles M. Larcomb left on Tuesday for a trip to Sanford, Maine, where she is making a visit at the home of her parents. Mrs. Larcomb's health continues to improve. She hopes, if strong enough to be able to re-enter Columbia university to complete a course which she began there last year.

A special program was rendered by the eighth grade of the grammar room of the Center school on Friday forenoon. HARTFORD'S AUTO SHOW NEXT WEEK

State Armory the Scene; Will Continue For 7 Days Sunday Excepted.

Hartford, Feb. 15.—Connecticut's most pretentious automobile show will be revealed to the automobile enthusiast and admirer for seven days at the huge State Armory at Capitol Avenue and Broad Street, Hartford, commencing Saturday, excluding Sunday, Feb. 20.

The show will match the 1927 automobiles in that it will be presented along greatly improved lines with numerous appealing features to interest and instruct those who find the automobile a source of constant inspiration.

According to Earle M. Taber, chairman of the 1927 show committee, the new cars are so striking in their mechanical appearance as well as in their external appearance that it has been necessary to provide a new type of automobile show to accommodate them.

"We have given more attention than ever before to the matter of arranging spaces for the convenience of the many thousands who annually attend the Hartford show," he says.

"While there will be many significant features to fill in moments when one's attention is not directed to the cars we feel that the 1927 automobile is such a distinct departure from all of its predecessors that it is the big feature of the show. Every exhibitor is planning to display the features of his products in a more graphic way. This means a more interesting, more profitable show for the visitor."

Thirty-two makes of cars will be shown, two of these being new to the 1927 automobile show. In addition, there will be a number of entirely new versions of popular makes. Eight new straight-eight and nine new sixes are promised for the event.

Cars to be exhibited include: Auburn, Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chandler, Chrysler, Dodge, Erskine, Essex, Franklin, Gardner, Hudson, Hupmobile, Jordan, Locomobile, Marmon, Nash, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Overland, Packard, Paige, Pierce-Arrow, Pontiac, Rex Flying Cloud, Star, Stearns-Knight, Studebaker, Stutz, Veie, Willys-Knight and Whippet.

Mr. Taber, however, calls attention to the fact that since many of the standard manufacturers now produce several distinct chassis models there will be at the coming show an unusually large number of cars. Four different cars by one manufacturer will be the rule in several instances. There will be fifty-nine different chassis models this year as against fifty-five in 1926.

The committee head anticipates a record attendance at the show because of the many innovations to be revealed. He says that Connecticut motorists have been eager for the opportunity to see the cars with worm and Hypoid drives, the new straight-eight six-cylinder engine, the car with a four-speed transmission, the new European-type creations, the convertible coupes, the new types of air cleaners, the internal hydraulic brakes, the anti-scurf valve, the cars that can do over twenty-five miles to a gallon and the machines capable of seventy or more honest miles per hour, all of which will be found displayed in the warmth and cheer of the Springle Armory.

Hartford's twentieth annual Prosperity auto show is in competent hands. In addition to the chairman the committee includes: Major Thomas W. Campbell, president of the Hartford Automobile Dealers' Association; Dwight A. Burnham, treasurer; A. C. Hine, in charge of publicity and advertising; and Arthur Fifoot, show manager. Sensing the beginning of a new era in car ownership the committee has been working day and night to make this exhibition an outstanding event in motor history.

HEBRON

Miss Anne Young, private secretary Chas. M. Ames, came from New York on Saturday and appeared before the board of selectmen at their session at the town clerk's office to make a complaint in regard to the addition to Mr. Ames' taxes on his Amston property. The particular valuation in question is that of the lake frontage. The matter was discussed pro and con and will be decided at a later date.

It is reported that Wilmer Dingwell has bought the Renwick farm in the Jagger district. This place has dwelling house and farm buildings and seventeen acres of land. It is also reported that Max Franklin has bought the place lately sold by Wilmer Dingwell on the Marlborough road.

Charles I. Tennant, a former resident of this place, now living in the vicinity of Dawson City, Yukon territory, writes to relatives here that on returning to his home after an absence recently he found that a bear had broken in and runaged about his possessions, helping itself liberally to stores of provisions. The bear by bracing on its hind feet and applying its weight against the door had been able to shove it open. Mr. Tennant watched his opportunity and at a later date when the bear made another visit killed it after quite a stiff fight had been put up by the unwelcome visitor. Mr. Tennant lived on bear steaks for a while, a habit which he has since abandoned. This is the third bear he has shot within a comparatively short time.

And leave with all your brood of children and your accursed old woman because with you I shall be stabbed to death in vengeance for all that you have done to the Catholics of this city. I am not afraid of the arms which you say you have for I assure you they are nothing compared with your many enemies because of your evil conduct and your black heart toward the priests of Christ. So leave quick, you accursed old man, son of the whole diabolical crowd, for you shall surely die, cost what it may, and not only you, but with you, as I said, all your children and your hateful wife.

It makes a very beautiful and attractive picture. The scene was taken from the picture painted in 1890 by Reuben Rowley for Governor John Rogers Hornsby in the possession of Edmund Horton. The picture shows the Post Office, tavern and the street looking south from the center, with the governor's residence, St. Peter's church, etc.

ROMANO, CONQUEROR OF HALL, IS ENTERED ON LOCAL PROGRAM

Armard Massey Coming With Holyoke Team; May Oppose Ray Strong, State Bantamweight Champ.

Charley Romano, Hartford fighter who knocked Ray Hall into temporary retirement, has sent in his entry for action on the card at Cheney hall tomorrow evening. Romano has performed here twice before and is easily remembered from his habit of crouching far down as he spars for an opening to release his haymaker. On Romano's first appearance here, he knocked out Charley Malaguzzi, of Hartford, driving him through the ropes into the press row. At the last show put on by Cheney Brothers A. A., Romano, after taking a fine beating in the first round, came back strong and knocked out Joe Zottor of New Britain.

It is not known who will face Romano, but Promoter J. L. Jenney is working hard to get an opponent suitable to the A. A. U. At present, Barney Yousemann is the nearest to his weight. Barney tips the scales at 133 while Romano is two pounds heavier.

Promoter Jenney stated today that although one of the four Holyoke boxers, Reni Chabot, will be unable to appear, Armard Massey, another Holyoke boy, will substitute for him. Chabot, it seems, has got in wrong with the Massachusetts A. A. U. officials over a professional wrestling bout. However, Massey, who takes his place, is said to be a top notcher. He will weigh in at 118 pounds and will doubtlessly oppose Ray Strong, state bantamweight champion. Strong is very popular here. Dan Malley, who conducts a staff of Holyoke and Manchester boxers, speaks loudly in praise of Massey. An idea as to the popular record in which the reserved seat plan is received is seen from the fact that less than 35 ringside and 45 gallery seats remain unsold.

"BABE" ADAMS TO MANAGE MID-ATLANTIC BALL TEAM

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 15.—A star of the national pastime when many present-day fans were riding in perambulators, the veteran "Babe" Adams, ex-Pirate, will be seen again this season on Western Pennsylvania baseball diamonds.

Adams, one of the trio of stars banished from the Pittsburgh Pirates at the height of the pennant race last season because of his stand in opposition to Fred Clarke, then assistant manager, has signed a one-year contract to manage the local entry in the Mid-Atlantic League.

Whether Adams will ascend the mound as player-manager is a question that remains unanswered. Local fans believe that should "Babe" decide to hurl for the "Johnnies" he would easily be the league's outstanding pitcher. The new manager stepped into the limelight in 1909 when he won three games in the Pittsburgh-Detroit World Series. He remained with the Pirates until 1926.

DUFFY STILL AT IT

Hughy Duffy, who holds the highest batting average ever amassed by a big leaguer, .438, made in 1894, is still connected with baseball. He is scouting for the Boston Red Sox.

DISCUSSING TUNNEY'S OPPONENTS

Editor's Note: In the following two articles dealing with the highpoints in the careers of Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney who meet Friday night in a most important heavyweight elimination match, it is revealed:

That Jack Delaney has a better punch than Gene Tunney; That the light-heavyweight champion developed his famous punching ability by chopping wood and not doing so; That psychology made Jim Maloney what he is today after his two defeats by Jack Sharkey; That Maloney got his biggest thrill in flooring De Kuh eight times.

JACK DELANEY

New York, Feb. 15.—Jack Delaney has a better punch than Gene Tunney, therefore Jack Delaney will be the next heavyweight champion, all other things being equal. Delaney is the best combination puncher and boxer in the ring today. He has jumped from the hinterlands of fastiana to the front ranks on his own pluck and determination. His rise reads like a Horatio Alger novel.

He has a large and pretty variety of dramatic K. O. packages—a devastating left hook, a looping overhand right of paralyzing force (it floored Bud Gorman); and his pet, a vicious, swinging right uppercut to the jaw (it leveled Paul Berlenbach and Mike McTigue) that has enabled him to win by kayos fully 50 per cent of all his contests.

"If you think it would interest the fans," says Delaney smiling that smile that would make any girl a trifle goofy about the gills, "I will reveal how I developed my punch.

"A flood up in front of a heavy punching bag one day in Bridgeport. I studied every detail carefully and went to work popping away with all my might at the leather. I slugged and slugged and slugged, changing my methods here, using a different flick of the wrist, there until I knew I was getting the maximum of power out of my strength.

"I took up woodchopping to develop more muscles (and let me warn you here I chopped a hole in my knee, caught septic poisoning, was delirious for five days and nearly died, dropping down to 138 pounds), took up handball to develop timing, took up golf to get the principle of following through and I changed from an egg shell tickler to a knockout puncher all through that hard work.

"A blow that sends a man to the floor comes from a floor. My feet grip the canvas, springy, ready for the nervous energy to be unleashed, then I put everything in a punch, leg muscles, arm muscles, back muscles, all my weight uncoils like a big steel spring.

Delaney is an authority on punchers. He asked him who hit him the hardest and hurt him the most in his entire career.

"Paul Berlenbach," he said a tint of admiration in his voice. "Paul hit me on the chin so hard I thought a paving brick struck me. He is a crushing puncher and has plenty of follow through to his blows. They are vicious. I never want to have him clip me again."

JIM MALONEY

New York, Feb. 15.—Psychology made me what I am today—and I am satisfied.

That is the song Mr. Shamus Maloney of the well-known Maloneys of Irishtown, South Boston, is singing as he goes through his tuning up exercises for the first of a series of heavyweight elimination bouts to see which contender will be lucky enough to take a crack at Gene Tunney's gross prize.

"I lost confidence in myself and when a fighter gets so he thinks he's through—he IS through, I'm telling you," explains the serious looking Celt.

"I had just dropped two fights to Jack Sharkey, one on a foul and the other on a close decision, and I was pretty down in the mouth, as the expression goes. I went so far as to announce my retirement from the ring.

"Then Kid Psychology stalked into the picture in the person of Dan Carroll, my manager. He TALKED me into being a fighter.

MALONEY NOT SO GOOD NOW—WALSH

Sport Expert Says Big Fellow Looks Worse as the Fight Time Grows Nearer.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Long Branch, N. J., Feb. 15.—At the risk of becoming confounded with the technicians, a form of human life somewhat higher than a fallen arch, the writer today is constrained to break down and make a clean breast of the belief that a thoroughly conditioned athlete will not be dropped down in that $200,000 spot with Jack Delaney on Friday night. I saw a pale, lanky, lack-luster Jimmy Maloney step through a brief workout, and the business was not highly impressive.

Later, I tried to persuade Jimmy De Forest to pass judgment on the young man's condition, but James was non-committal and evasive. He would say nothing except that Maloney was not under his care but merely using his quarters here as a training ground. Privately, De Forest is declared to believe that Maloney's system of training didn't meet with his entire approval.

Need of Training
Of course, a shave and a haircut will do sometimes as preparation for a ten-round bout but this one doesn't appear to be that kind of a fight. It will be a right with the great one-punch hitter and, if the latter drops one on his bread, Maloney may need all the recuperative powers that good condition insures.

The writer had no great interest in Maloney's waistline, which was generous enough, in truth. He is one of those natural fat men whose obesity is deceiving. However, one can't go wrong on the state of the eyes and Maloney's are dull and expressionless. Neither can the tell tale white-washed look under the eyes be ignored. Maloney didn't lose this aspect even after several rounds of boxing.

Tries to Wrestle
Maloney was neither fast nor obviously slow in action but he is far from being on edge. In a two round work-out with Tom Kirby, a light heavyweight of Delaney's proportions, Maloney gave evidence of what he hopes to do on Friday by wrestling and pulling the light or man off his balance at every turn. A little bit of that might prove a great plenty to Delaney if the bout went on to ten rounds.

However, Maloney seemed surprisingly open to a right cross. Kirby scored with three of them and Jimmy didn't see them until they finished. If he does that with Delaney, they can count him out with an hour glass.

Maloney was a great bet in my mind—last week. Unfortunately they intend to fight this week. In my unimportant opinion, he is no better than a reasonably good bet now.

He pointed out that Jack Dempsey couldn't keep me on the floor in his heyday when I was a kid of 19 out in Kansas City. He matched me with the conqueror of the man who had caused my retirement.

"I went into the ring that night repeating, Coue's stunt of 'I'm getting better and better every day in every way.' I used to start out in whirl wind fashion and then die down like a burnt out skyrocket. I kept getting stronger and stronger. I smacked over Charlie Welbert, Quifatin Romero, Arthur de Kuh, Franz Diener and Harry Persson."

Maloney, since he came out of his retirement, has been jumping ahead by leaps and bounds. He has all the confidence in the world in himself.

"I got my biggest thrill out of the fight game," he says, "when I stood in the bright light of the ring over the prostrate form of De Kuh. I had him down eight times in two rounds before the K. O. and he was a promising heavyweight at the time."

"I knew I had my punch then and that combined with the old beanwork was an unstopable combination."

Maloney is a terrific puncher and is very versatile. He hits from all angles and from all positions. He keeps his left sometimes hanging clumsily down by his hip. Suddenly he brings it up with vicious, swinging force to stun and jar opponents who catch it either in the stomach, the throat, the heart or the chin.

Kid Psychology, as he calls him, brought back the needed confidence. He shows he has it when he asked for the toughest opponent he could pick in the elimination series, wisely figuring that he "wants the hardest one first while I'm fresh, instead of last when I'm worn."

Said opponent will give him the acid test all right, all right. He's a gent known as Mr. Chapdelaine, nee Delaney.

What American League player in the last 20 years had a style at bat similar to that of Rogers Hornsby? A says Larry Lajoie. B says no.—J. M.
There is a striking similarity between the batting style now used by Rogers Hornsby and that which Larry Lajoie employed. The swing and follow through are much the same. Hornsby, however, stands considerably farther back in the batter's box than did Lajoie.
I understand Charley Robertson, who pitched the no-hit, no-run game against Detroit, in which no player reached first, is to receive another trial in the majors. If so, what club? What minor league club did he play with last year?—M. N.

TWO GAMES NEXT WEEK FOR C. B. A. A.

One This Week Too—Saturday at Collinsville; Practice Tonight; House Back.

Cheney Brothers' basketball team was booked today to play in Collinsville Saturday night. Collinsville holds a 52 to 47 decision over the locals and Manager Hunt's boys are hot after revenge. Collinsville has won something like fifteen successive games, too.
Next week there will be two games on tap for the all workers. Tuesday night they play at Tattville in the third and deciding game of a series and Saturday night go to Westery to meet Battery B.
A practice session will be held tonight at the Red at 8:30, "Nibbie" House, former member of the C. B. A. A. team but of late with Northwestern university, will be back with the squad. He has left college.

SUZANNE CONCLUDES MONTH'S TOUR OF U. S.

Financially Trip Was Success But Tennis Star Was On Verge of Collapse.
Providence, R. I., Feb. 15.—Suzanne Lenglen, French wonder tennis girl, Vincent Richards, and the professional request troupe concluded a month's tour of the United States at midnight.
Financially the tour was a success but Suzanne was near a state of collapse and Richards admitted he too was almost a physical wreck as the result of being on the road continually for a month.
Only 1,500 turned out to see the troupe play here.
Suffering from the effects of tonsillitis, Suzanne left for New York, to sail Saturday on the steamship France.
She told reporters she had no arrangements for a European tour

PUT it down now for a double-tipped, copper-cornered fact: Prince Albert will give you more pleasure to the cubic inch than any other tobacco you ever packed in a pipe. Maybe I'm prejudiced. Even so, my statement holds. I'll leave it to you, after your first P. A. pipe-load.

Buy a tidy red tin of P. A. and follow these simple directions: Tuck about a thimbleful into the bowl of your favorite pipe. Light up, and pull that cool, consoling smoke up the stem. Exhale slowly and get the full benefit of that wonderful Prince Albert taste.

Cool as a claim-adjuster. Sweet as an unexpected inheritance. Fragrant as pine-boughs, swaying in a summer breeze. Mild, but not willy-nilly, if you get me. And of course you do! Make the test today and check-in with what I've been telling you.

You'll probably say I wasn't enthusiastic enough! Anyhow, get some Prince Albert now and get on the sunny side of pipe-pleasure. No matter what your previous experience with a pipe has been; no matter how set you appear to be, try Prince Albert. It will be a revelation!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-round tin tins, and round cylindrical tins, with special convenience top. And always with every bit of the and much the moved by the Prince Albert process.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRETT FOLSOM while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. After being perfunctorily examined by a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Majanica, where an inquiry is started.

"First of all, Miss Folsom, I want a look into Mr. Folsom's luggage and papers."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX "That's all right, then," said Anastasia Folsom to Riggs, "we'll waste no more time over it just now! First of all, have you the slightest idea of any individual whom you consider responsible for my brother's death?"

"No, I haven't, except to say that any one near him in the ocean that morning might be the murderer." "But we can't hale to court all the bathers in the ocean at that time. We must get at it some other way."

"Yes, he excused me—but was Mr. Folsom ever, to your knowledge, a victim of blackmail?" "I am not offended—never hesitate to speak frankly to me, so far as I know he never was annoyed in that way, but it may have been. Innocent men are black-mailed, I've no doubt."

THE WOMAN'S DAY BY ALLENE SUMNER

The woman who lived next door was scandalized. Her 14-year-old daughter had come home from school with a story it was not a nice story at all.

Why Joke? Like those youthful "moderns" farther, if sex is "beautiful and inspiring" and all the rest of their sayings, why use it as a base for the plain vulgar, smutty, dirty stories hung upon it by everyone?

There are an older son and daughter in the home. Very modern young people. Their modernity seems to take the form, in the main, of having no taboos on anything.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

A CHILD'S TEST

This is an easy test, especially designed for children. The correct answers appear on another page: 1-What is wrong with this picture? 2-What Great Lakes city is known as 'The City of the Straits?' 3-In what year was Washington first inaugurated president? 4-What celestial body influences the tides in the ocean? 5-Who was president of the United States during the war with Mexico? 6-What American naval commander wrote after a battle, 'We have met the enemy and they are ours?' 7-What is the capital of Greece? 8-What is the largest country in South America? 9-What two famous explorers went through the northwest territory of the United States in 1803? 10-What is the fifth largest city in America? Any friend ought to know that when we ask for his candid opinion what we really want is flattery.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Automobile Salesman: With this car you can get twenty-five miles to the gallon of gasoline. Fair prospect: Where do I get the gasoline? A sure way to avoid an automobile accident is neither to ride nor walk. A fool and his flivver are soon parted. The doctor opened the door of his operating room and looked at the line of waiting patients and, 'Who has been waiting the longest?' 'I have,' spoke up one individual very promptly. 'I'm the garage man who fixed up your car about four months ago.'

Pedestrian vs Motorist

I gaze across the street so wide, I start, I dart, I squirm, I glide, I take my chances, oh, so slim—I trust to eye and nerve and limb; I scoot to right, I gallop through, I'm here and there, I'm lost to view. My life, I know, hangs in the toss—Another plunge I am across! Oh, give me pity, if you can I'm just a poor pedestrian.

A motto for motorists: 'Pedestrians should be seen and not hurt.' The worst faults about the signal lights for traffic control are that they can't arrest the men and women who won't obey them. The wise thing for a pedestrian to do is to get a suit of armor, insure his life, and then stay home. A motorist may only want half the road and still be a road hog if he wants the middle half. Speaking of practical gifts, a road map and flashlight should be very acceptable to the careful girl who likes motoring. Another fire wagon should be purchased and loaded with machine guns to keep automobiles away from fires.

THE TINYMITES BY HAL COCHRAN

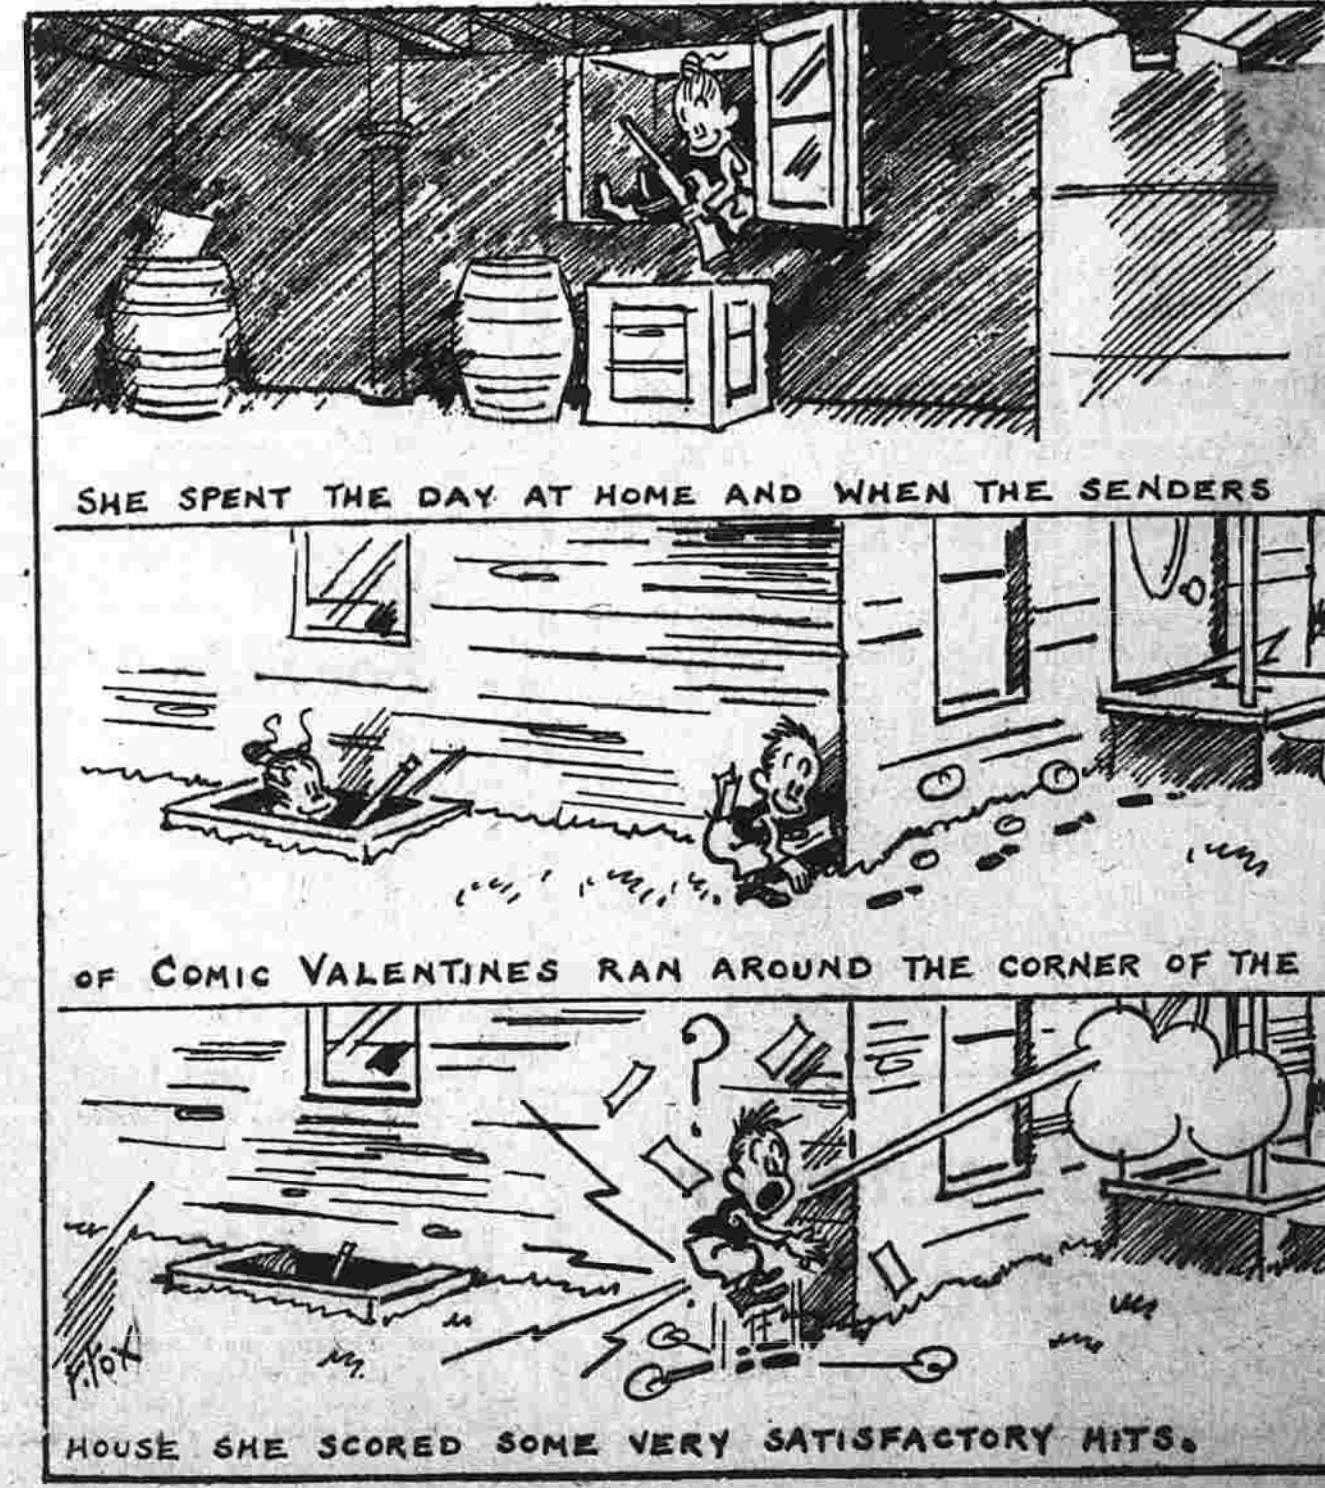

The baby ostrich sure was queer. It eyed the Tynmites with fear and then we Scouty loudly said, 'We'd best be on our way. The mother ostrich may get mad, and if she does that will be sad. She'll bite us, so we'd best be off, is all I've got to say.' Just then the mother ostrich came and seemed to wonder who to blame, for breaking up her monstrous egg. Oh, she was mad indeed. She grabbed poor Clowny by the waist and tossed him in the air in haste. He landed in a sandpile, but was glad that he was freed. The other Tynites scampered round, and got away with leap and bound. As soon as he was able Clowny also disappeared. The bunch all ran for 'bout a mile, then got together after while, and quite agreed that ostriches should always be much feared. They rested for a spell, to talk. Then Copy spied a long board
