Judge Johnson Reporting
For Committee Says No
One Appeared In Favor
Other Legislation.

Hartford, Feb. 18.—There will be no whipping post for wife beaters in Connecticut. This was decided by the Lower House of the Legislature today in rejecting a bill sponsored by Mayor Alfred N. Phillips, Jr., of Stamford, providing corporal punishment for men found guilty of cruelty to wives and mothers.

Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, reporting for the committee, told the House that no one had appeared in favor of the bill and that the committee was against the measure unless women were included. Rejection of the measure was unanimous.

Unfavorable Reports

Unfavorable reports received in the House today included three from the roads, rivers and bridges committee which were withdrawn. They are: concerning the maintenance of the trunk line highways; providing for construction of a bridge in Mansfield, and providing for improvement of the highway between West Willington and Woodstock.

Other unfavorable reports were repeating the fact which was reported to the city of New Britain in Burlington brook, Burlington, the matter having been settled by agreement; increasing the salaries of probation officers, the same matter being considered in another bill now before the judiciary committee; appointing John B. Dillon as judge of the Shelton City Court.

Favorable report was received from the foreclosed rights committee restoring rights to Victor A. Kenny, of Derby, but the matter was tabled until the next session. The insurance committee reported favorably on a bill providing for the manner of investing funds of life insurance companies.

Two Shelton judgeship resolutions were passed under suspension of the rules. The following report was tabled: concerning the appointment of a judge and associate and second assistant judge in the Bridgeport City Court; providing that the annual meeting of the Meriden Savings bank should be held in August; and concerning the appointment of a judge and associate and second assistant judge in the Bridgeport City Court; providing that the annual meeting of the Meriden Savings bank should be held in August; and concerning the appointment of a judge and associate and second assistant judge in the Bridgeport City Court; providing that the annual meeting of the Meriden Savings bank should be held in August.

THE SENATE

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 18.—The Senate today passed from its calendar the following bills: Providing that Travelers Bank & Trust Co., of Hartford, shall hold its annual meeting on the 15th day of January, 1927.

GIRL HELPS BANDIT TO KIDNAP BANKER

Plymouth, Mich., Feb. 18.—A yellow wigged girl and a youth today kidnaped Frank Pierce, elderly banker, and then forced him to open the Plymouth United bank branch where the bandits obtained $5,000 from a vault.

After looting the vault the bandits drove Pierce seven miles into the country where he was released.

TO "SMOTHER" CIVIL WAR IN CEN. AMERICA

1,400 Additional U. S. Marines to Be Sent to Nicaragua at Once—To Remain There a Long Time.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The American government has decided to smother the Nicaraguan civil war, hoping thereby to prevent a general conflagration in Central America.

This was the only explanation advanced today for the sudden dispatch of 1,400 additional marines to the little republic. With these reinforcements, the United States will have in Nicaragua, a mobile force of rifles equal in size to the Seass revolutionary army, and of course, enormously superior in effectiveness.

To Stay Long Time

The other process apparently is to involve policing the entire country, from Honduras on the north to Guatemala on the south—light undertaking in view of the scarcity of good roads and transportation. How long it will be necessary can only be guessed, but the consensus today was that the marines are in Nicaragua to stay for a long time.

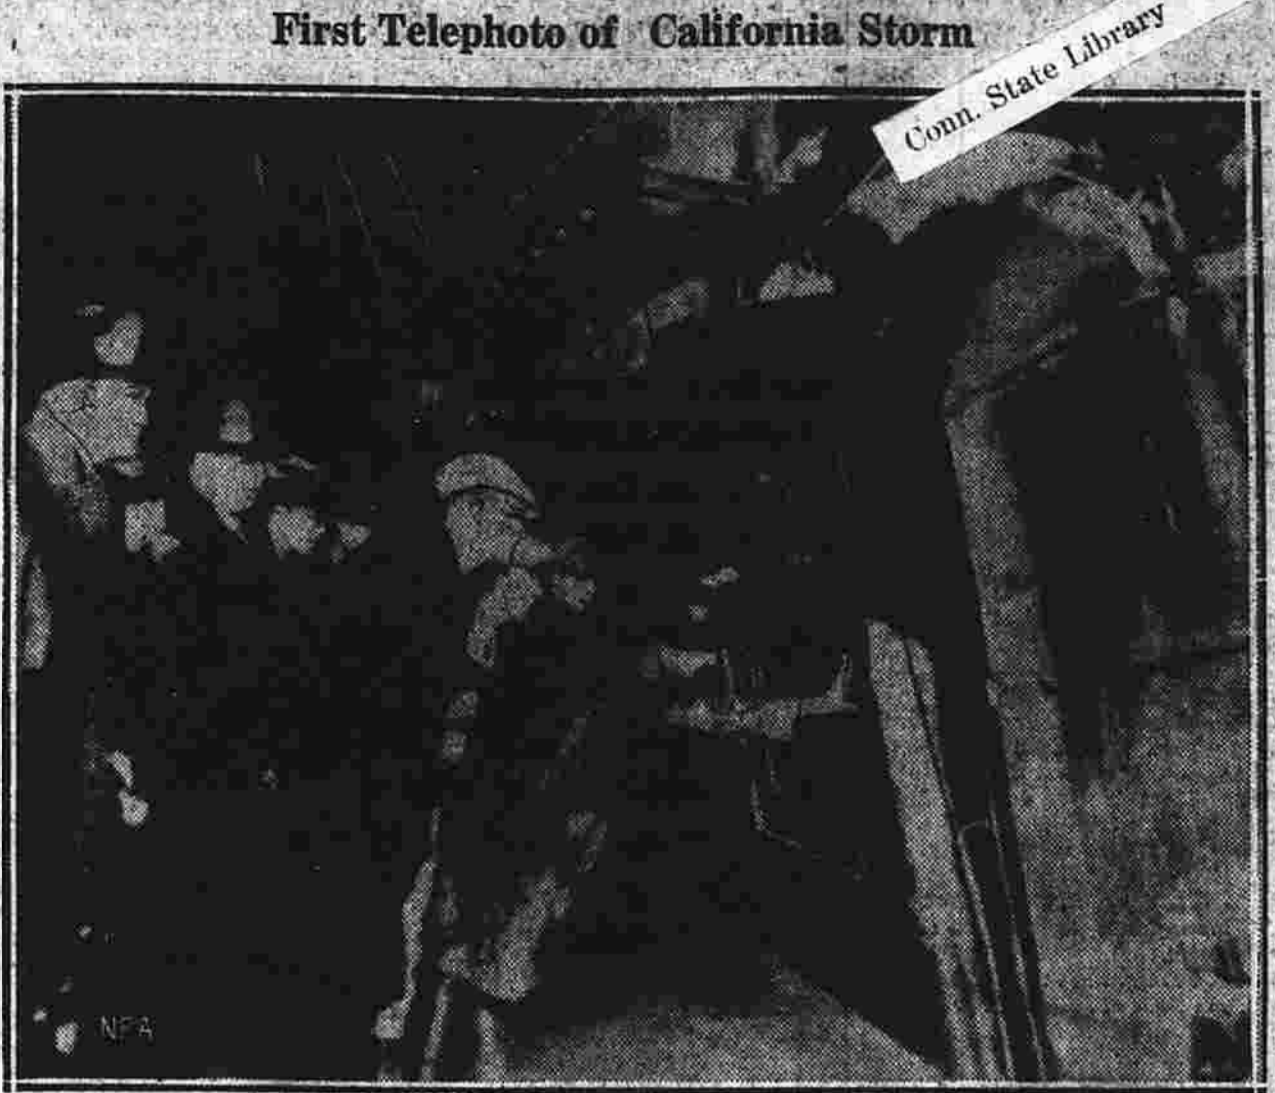

There was not much pretense in Washington today that the marines, bluejackets and airplanes have been concentrated in Nicaragua merely to "protect American lives and property." A handful of marines is nearly every "banana republic" on diverse occasions in the last twenty years.

Unusual Force

The force being concentrated in Nicaragua today is difficult to understand. It is not an ordinary force, but an unusual one. It is not a force of marines, but a force of marines, bluejackets and airplanes. It is not a force of marines, but a force of marines, bluejackets and airplanes.

Besides the large force of marines now in Nicaraguan soil, there is at close hand most of the scouting fleet, which carries thousands of rifles, machine guns, and other equipment.

Adopted from Calendar.

An epidemic of severe storms, including torrential rains, blizzards, tornadoes and snow slides, caused a death toll of more than 20 persons in the western part of the United States on Tuesday, Feb. 15. This telephoto picture shows the coaches of the crack Union Pacific train, the Los Angeles Limited, lying in the swollen waters of Puente creek, near Whittier, Calif. The train plunged through a trestle which had been weakened by the flood waters. Two persons were killed and many injured. The picture, taken by flashlight a short time after the wreck by NEA Service photographers, shows a rescue crew standing in the waters of the creek, ready to help the injured passengers off the train. In the upper part of the picture can be seen part of the bridge which did not collapse.

Shreveport, La., Feb. 18.—Twenty persons are believed to be dead and more than a score others injured today following a series of tornadoes in North Louisiana and Central Mississippi last night.

$ DOLLAR DAY $ HERE TOMORROW

Local Stores Co-operating to Make It Greatest Trading Day of the Season.

Paris, Feb. 18.—Princess Carol of Rumania has only one regret over her renunciation of her rights to the throne, and that is the "feeling" that she has "shirked obligations that came as a birthright."

The prince made this statement today in a remarkable interview with the International News Service. He charged that the initial step in his abdication was taken by his political enemies and that he had signed the abdication papers believing that they were proffered at the suggestion of his family whereas they were really the work of his political opponents.

MR. AND MRS. E. H. STEVENS
HAVE UNEXPECTED GUESTS
Thirty-five friends and relatives gathered at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Stevens on Robert road last night and gave them a surprise house-warming party. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens just recently removed to Robert Road from Hamlin street.

The evening was a most enjoyable one. Setback and bridge were played and there were refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were presented with a handsome gate-table.

After the dinner, there was nearly an hour's high class entertainment. Miss Elsie Palmer, violinist and William Raymond, ventriloquist, opened the program and recited brightly. Other numbers on the program which "went over big" were dancing exhibitions by Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wirtalla, local dancing teachers, and musical selections by Major and Minor. Miss Wirtalla's first offering was a toe dance and the German clog. Mrs. James Shearer accompanied her on the piano.

Novelty dancing followed the entertainment until midnight, with music furnished by Billy Waddell's Beaters, chairman of the dance committee, added some novelty features.

The attendance prizes were won by Mrs. William Parkis and Charles Griffith Sr. They were a silk scarf and a cravat respectively.

The prince spoke in perfect English and throughout the interview turned occasionally to explain his statements to Mme. Lupescu, who speaks only Rumanian and French.

The reaction of Mme. Lupescu who Prince Carol's discussion of a return to Rumania was immediately reflected in an added statement by Prince Carol.

"There are complications and many problems to be solved in connection with the plan," he explained. "I must take time to consider it all."

Previously Prince Carol had listened to the plea of friends who were working for his re-instatement. Their argument being that if he returned to see his father it would win him popular support.

"I hadn't looked at it from that angle," said the prince. Abdicating Twice Prince Carol disclosed for the first time that he has abdicated twice once for the love of Zizi Lambrino and again through what he now believes was a misunderstanding.

MISSING "LADIES NIGHT" DEAD LOSS

Everybody Had Wonderful Time at Get-Together Annual Event.

Some 150 persons who attended the fifteenth annual Ladies' Night celebration at Cheney hall last night today were telling everybody not fortunate enough to attend, what they missed. It was the most successful gathering of its kind since the Get Together club at Cheney Brothers inaugurated these occasions. The dinner, the entertainment, the dancing—all were just a bit beyond other years' events.

The evening's program started with a roast turkey supper served under the direction of Chef Osnano. It was more than plentiful, but what was left, even at that, wouldn't have covered a bird. During the dinner John Conlon, former Manchester man, sang several baritone solos. Mr. Conlon will be remembered as having often sang at the studios of Station WVIC at Hartford. Community singing was led by Edward T. Taylor.

Post Prandial
After the dinner, there was nearly an hour's high class entertainment. Miss Elsie Palmer, violinist and William Raymond, ventriloquist, opened the program and recited brightly. Other numbers on the program which "went over big" were dancing exhibitions by Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wirtalla, local dancing teachers, and musical selections by Major and Minor. # SUPER-HIGHWAY IS PLANNED TO GROW WITH THE TRAFFIC

THIS IS A DIAGRAM OF A NEW TYPE SUPER-HIGHWAY, DESIGNED BY R. E. TOMS OF MONTGOMERY, ALA., AND PROVIDING FOR ITS CONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT IN A 200-FOOT RIGHT-OF-WAY, BY THE ADDITION OF 20-FOOT STRIPS

Chicago.—Superhighways, which will grow with the increase of automobiles and population, are the promised answer to the harassed motorist's prayers.

Engineers attending the American Road Builders' Association sessions here made that promise. As proof of their faith in the future they paid a $1,000 prize to Montgomery, Ala., for submitting the best super-highway plan in a recent contest they conducted.

Toms' plans call for construction of a single traffic unit of 20 feet on one side of the center of a contemplated right-of-way, being room enough at the center if need be for an interurban or street car track.

The right-of-way is to be 200 feet wide, leaving room not only for a double car track, but for four 20-foot units, two on either side of the tracks, and additional widths for parking, trucking and deliveries.

For Future Development

The super-highway plans, besides, contemplate two stages of development, giving them elasticity. One stage is for immediately built up sections. The other is for thinly populated districts.

Probably the first embodiment of the super-highway idea will come within the next year in the immediate environs connecting DuPage, Kane and Cook counties, Illinois, in the latter of which Chicago is situated.

Some $25,000,000 is considered necessary to convert present type roadways into the wonderfully elastic super-highway type as traffic conditions demand without halting passage over the original units.

Space for Parking

In the prize-winning superhighway plan the entire width between the curb and gutter will be paved and the sidewalks will be extended to 15 feet. This will provide a space width of 17 1/2 feet for diagonal parking and for truck delivery.

Highway grade wherever it will be accomplished at points where the volume of cross traffic would endanger the traffic on the superhighway or materially reduce its carrying load.

Experts differ in regard to the carrying capacity of the two separated roadways which will form the super-highway. But practically all opinion is unanimous in agreement that two separate units for opposite directions of traffic are better than a single traffic path equal to the width of the two lanes.

WYOMING MAY SOON OUTCLASS RENO AS DIVORCE HUB OF U. S.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 18.—Now Wyoming steps up with a bid to outclass Reno as the divorce hub of the country, a bill introduced by the state house of representatives and before the senate that would permit divorce proceedings to be started after four months' residence in the state.

Not even Reno can touch the attractiveness of the Wyoming offer, as the Nevada City demands the prospective divorce-seeker to spend six months in its fair environs before legal residence is established.

State senators have been deluged, they say, with petitions for the speedy passage of the bill, but while these letter-lobbyists, most of whom are from towns with resort ambitions, are encouraging the wavering senators, other petitioners from the more staid and conservative communities that do not boast vacation facilities are taking a more religious cast and praying the senators to stay the passage of the bill, lest it be a blot on the fair name of Wyoming.

Meanwhile, enterprising Wyoming business men are thinking up schemes for "dude" ranches for would-be divorcees, where a languishing and disillusioned bride could be entertained by robust cowboys while awaiting the end of her four months legal residence, and an enterprising matrimonial agency business could be carried on as a side line, with neighboring ranches devoted to the entertainment of the male divorcee-bound.

It would be so romantic for Angelina to come back from Wyoming with a framed divorce decree and a blushing groom, also bearing a framed ditto, trailing after her. They met at the Bar-Nome ranch, the old ladies could whisper.

The "Reno" bill as it is getting to be called in the state of open spaces, had a lively struggle to pass the house, but it showed more vitality than opponents gave it credit for, and its fate now rests with the senate.

There is a bill before Congress, now in the hands of the committee on weights and measures, that after January 1, 1926, metric weights and measures shall be the standard in this country. Nearly all other countries have adopted this system.

You'd Be SURPRISED!

BY BILLY EVANS

THE GOLF HOODOO

Mike Brady of the Winged Foot Golf Club at Mamaroneck, N. Y., is known as the hoodoo man of golf. No pro has nearly won so many golf titles as Brady, only to be denied the honor at the last minute.

Not until 1922, after trying for 25 years, did Brady succeed in winning a major championship. He announced the Western open that year. Since then he has won the Metropolitan open, but those two accomplishments are his only outstanding wins.

Fifteen years back things began to break badly for Brady. That sea-breeze made his first real bid for big honors. In the National open, staged at Wheaton, he finished a triple tie with J. J. McDermott and MacDonald Smith. In the play-off he finished second to McDermott who frustrated Brady's championship ambitions. Mike was a good second.

In 1919, I watched Walter Hagen and Brady, after finishing in a tie for the National open title at Braeburn, play 18 holes to decide the championship. Brady lost at the last stroke by a tough break while Hagen's fortune constantly smiled on "Walter the Great."

Brady shot a 78. Hagen a 77. Mike had lost another titular battle.

In 1921, Brady finished second in the Canadian open after looking like a certain winner in the first three rounds. The following year came his first major triumph in the Western.

No professional golfer in the world has threatened so often and succeeded so seldom as Mike Brady. He sure is the hoodoo man of golf, the original hard luck guy.

Competition Forces Cox To Shift Training Base South

For the next three months Walter Randall Cox, hero of scores of Grand Circuit battles, will be getting his mail at Pinehurst, N. C.

Walter is not going south for his health or to play golf, but to train his royalty bred juveniles.

He has always been opposed to training his trotters and pacers in the south. But he has bowed to the persuasive powers of a little snow. At Goshen, N. Y., where the great Walter has had his training base for years, 23 inches of snow blanketed the town from Feb. 1 to almost spring last year. Result—he went south to the milder climate of Florida.

Add to that the annual success of American's premier trotting colt trainer, Ben White, and Will Dickerson, Arden Homestead stable tutor, have with their pupils after giving them their first lessons at Orlando, Fla., and you have two very good reasons why Mr. Cox has changed his northern tune to that of Dixie.

Cox will take 25 horses south, the majority two-year-old trotters. This southern movement is becoming just as popular as that in an ingersoll, Tommy Murphy, three more Grand Circuit greats, and Bill Hodson, eastern reinsman, will train their charges at Macon, Ga. Septimus Palin, Hoosier star who formerly wintered his horses at the Indiana state fair grounds, Indianapolis, has heeded the call of Orlando, Fla. And there are others of lesser importance who are going south to taste the sugar-cane fight in their mouths.

D. M. Frederick, Kirksville, Mo., claims to have eaten a piece of ham 125 years old. The ham was found in the chimney of an old house in England and had shrunk about 60 per cent in size.

OPEN HARTFORD'S SHOW TOMORROW

Latest Automobile Creations At Huge Exhibit in State Armory.

Hartford, Feb. 18.—Hartford's Prosperity Auto Show will be given a memorable send-off tomorrow night when the huge motor spectacle is officially opened by Governor John H. Trumbull. The doors of the State Armory will be thrown open at 1 p. m. to a public that has been eagerly waiting for this opportunity to compare the newest automotive creations, but the official inauguration of the 80th Annual Hartford show will not be staged until 8 p. m.

Governor Trumbull will be introduced by Mayor Norman C. Stevans who, in turn, will be introduced by Earle M. Taber, chairman of the 1927 show committee. A number of distinguished Connecticut men will comprise the official party, in addition to the Governor and the Mayor of the Capitol city. Prominent among these are: Robbins B. Stoekel, commissioner of motor vehicles; Colonel Howard P. Dunham, state insurance commissioner and president of the Automobile Club of Hartford; Mayor General Morris Payne, General George M. Cole, Robert T. Hurley, superintendent of state police, John A. Macdonald, state highway commissioner, William H. Corbin, vice president of Chamber of Commerce, officials of the Hartford Times and Courant, and others.

The official party, including members of the 1927 show committee, will parade in the Armory in the official cars. Together with his official staff and his Foot Guard, the Governor will lead the parade. The Hartford show is second only to the national shows in New York and Chicago.

Judging from the interest already evinced in the new cars there will be a record attendance at the grand opening of this the twentieth annual automotive exhibition staged under the auspices of the Hartford Automobile Dealers' Association. Through a better arrangement of the cars, however, more room has been provided for spectators. The show is to be as comfortable as the 1927 automobile.

While the distinguished guests will make the gala opening doubly interesting to the show visitor it is evident to those who have seen the huge drill shed in process of conversion into a motorized Springfield that the 1927 automobile show in itself and that it will be the center of attraction throughout the week.

A number of brand new surprises in the way of new models have before seen in Connecticut are in store for show visitors. Lines will be complete and the cut-away chassis will be more interesting and instructive than ever. More

More than $12,000,000 worth of musical instruments are sold annually in foreign countries by American manufacturers.

MECHANICAL INNOVATIONS WILL BE REVEALED

Something like sixty new mechanical features await the motorist, not including innovations in bodies as well illustrated in the case of the convertible coupe which becomes an open roadster on short notice.

Thirty-two makes of the popular cars will be shown. These include: Auburn, Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chandler, Chrysler, Dodge, Buick, Essex, Franklin, Gardner, Hudson, Hupp, Jordan, Lozier, Packard, Marmon, Nash, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Overland, Packard, Paige, Pierce-Arrow, Pontiac, RKO Flying Cloud, Star, Stearns-Knight, Studebaker, Stutz, Velle, Willys-Knight and Whippet.

Every day will offer special features, and the Governor's Foot Guard society orchestra will play afternoons and evenings throughout the week. One of the biggest features will be the Hartford Automobile Year Book, an elaborate reference book of Hartford's auto affairs and its cars. There are 18 pages of car photos and many articles by well-known motor officials and experts. It will be on sale at the show.

WAPPING

The regular Sunday school of the Federated church will be held on next Monday evening, Feb. 21 at the church. The committee for decorations and games is as follows: Miss Clara Chandler, Alfred Stone, Lola Stiles and Howard Sharp. The refreshment committee is Charles Dewey, Levi T. Dewey, Mrs. Hattie Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Sharp and Mrs. Paul Schildick.

Howard Burger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Burger was taken to the Hartford hospital on Thursday of this week.

Dwight Stoughton who has been working in Riverton, N. J. for some time returned to his home here recently.

There were about forty who attended the Parent Teachers' wine party on Wednesday evening at the Center school. There were also tables. Mrs. Robert Lane received the ladies' first prize and Frank House the gentleman's first prize. Mrs. Ethel Bobby and Raymond Hall received the consolation prize.

George A. Frink Jr., who is stuck with the grip, had several consultations on Thursday of this week.

The Senior Y. M. C. A. held their meeting at the home of Robert W. Sharp on Wednesday evening. Rev. Elmer Thienes, secretary of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. was present.

SCORNS TRIBUTE

Paris.—France does not desire German homage to France's unknown soldier. Recently a spray of red flowers was placed on the tomb. A sign read "From the youth of Germany to the unknown soldier." The police commissioner ordered destruction of the flowers and requested a court order forbidding unknown persons to place flowers on the tomb.

TOBACCO IS BLAMED

Ithaca, N. Y.—Arsenic brought into the body through the continued use of tobacco is blamed by Dr. Ervin P. Smith as one of the principal causes of cancer among men. Arsenic is sprayed on the tobacco in the fields and is used again as a preservative in the sheds, he says. He made known his belief at the International Convention of Plant Sciences here.

THIN BABIES HEALTHY

New York—Thin babies are more healthy and have more resistance to sickness than fat ones, says Dr. J. L. Blumenthal, director of the bureau of child hygiene. "Conservation of energy is achieved in good muscle tissue, not in fat," says the doctor. "Mothers should not worry if their babies are not the 'butterball' type."

COPIES ARREST ORDER

Kennebec, Wash.—Theodore Smith, a telegraph operator here, was sitting at his key when a message came in from Norfolk, Neb. It was from the sheriff, ordering Smith's arrest on an embezzlement charge. The operator copied the message and delivered it and himself to local authorities.

BOYS AND GIRLS

SOLD IN CHINA

Peking, China.—Boys and girls are being kept on the auction block in China by fathers and kidnappers. Though chattel slavery supposedly no longer exists, there is a heavy traffic in human beings since no Chinese will, if he can help it, let his line die out. If he has no children, or if he has only daughters he will buy a boy, legally adopt him, and so provide someone to worship at the family altar. There is the same sort of traffic in marriageable girls.

The Phone a Pie Shop will take orders until 9 o'clock tonight. Phone 349.—Adv.

Cork coffins are used by the Turks to bury their dead.

NOT THAT CRAZY

"Why are you not working with the rest?" asked the lady visitor to the asylum.
"I'm crazy," was the candid reply.
"But surely crazy people can work," argued the lady.
"Yes," retorted the inmate, "but I'm not so crazy as that."—Ideas, London.

RESOURCEFUL

"Brown's nerve is the limit."
"What's he done now?"
"He called yesterday morning to borrow a gun, saying he wanted to shoot a dog that kept him awake nights."
"Well?"
"My dog's been shot."—Ideas, London.

CAT CALM IN FIRE

Boston.—Fire drove scores of employees from an office building the other day, forced a dozen or more patrons of a restaurant on the first floor to flee, but failed to frighten "Pete," a nondescript, white-haired cat. Pete sat unconcerned on the counter in the lunch room, oblivious to the flames roaring overhead. Water fell through to the restaurant until there was a foot of it on the floor, but Pete stayed. When the "all-out" sounded and the owner of the building had figured up his loss of $5,000, Pete strolled calmly out, unscathed.

To rent: McFadden's Flats. Inquire State theater, telephone 1777.—Adv.

DRY YEAR FOR FRENCH

Paris.—The wine crop is so short in France this year that there will be only 100 bottles for every man, woman and child in the country. Production is off more than one-third and the government is worrying about where the rest is to come from, unless it is imported at greatly increased prices.

BIRD IDENTIFIES OWNER

Scranton, Pa.—Mrs. Mayme Smith had a parrot of which she was very fond. The bird was stolen and she made the rounds of the pet stores in search of it. As she entered one establishment a parrot cried "Hello Mama! Police traced the thief and made an arrest."

2 TRIBES DWELL IN LAND OF FIRE

New York.—Two tribes dwell in the "land of fire," (Terre del Fuoco) on the Onas and the Yagans in the chase. The Yagans, who inhabit the southern part of the island, have been called the most miserable species of humanity in the Western Hemisphere. A charge of cannibalism made against them, however, has been found untrue.

GANGS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill.—There are 1,312 gangs in Chicago, according to a report just completed by Dr. Frederick M. Thrasher, who offers it as a text-book in sociology. "The Gang" represents a seven-year serious study of gangdom and is hailed as the first authentic survey of Chicago's underworld.

NEW MOTOR OIL

Paris.—Chemists, seeking a substitute for castor oil, which has to be imported, have found a way to secure the oil from grape seeds. This is said to be of very high quality and suitable for airplane engines. Seven or eight gallons of oil are taken from the seeds in a ton of grapes.

ORIENTALS HARD LOSERS

Tokio.—It is very difficult for an Asiatic to grasp the idea of "losing with honor" or being "defeated but not disgraced," according to Prof. B. J. Wilden-Hart, of the Imperial University. The old attitude of the fatalistic and fatalistic east, he says, was "win or die."

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Lewis and Clark (11)

Lewis and his party determined to parley with the Blackfeet, as that seemed their only hope. The explorers and Indians debated during a whole day and most of a night. It was a test of endurance, but Lewis and his men were on the alert, and when the Indians reached for their rifles, there was sudden battle.

Lewis shot one Indian. Reuben Fields stabbed another. With the Indians temporarily routed, the white men took to their horses.

Knowing the Blackfeet would pursue, with reinforcements from their tribe, Lewis and his men rode at their utmost for twenty-four hours.

In that day they covered 112 miles and rejoined the rest of Lewis' division on the Missouri river. Continuing their flight, they soon reached the Yellowstone, where they were to wait for Clark. Meantime one of the men in the party had mistaken Lewis for a deer and shot him in the hip. (Continued)

YALE DAILY NEWS

PRINTS NEWS ONLY

Adopts New Policy—College Men Want Prom on Different Day.

New Haven, Feb. 13.—For the first time in fifty years Yale Daily News has decided to operate on a basis of "news only" and will try a year in which it has no axe to grind. Such is the startling—to Yale men—policy of the new News board of editors appointed just as the oldest college Daily rounded out its first half-century of existence.

Yale Daily News has been campaigning ever since its first issue in 1877. Its greatest victory was abolishing compulsory chapel, graduates say, though the News also claims having secured for students somewhat of a say as to how they were to govern.

Yale under graduates now suggest that the Prom be held on a Friday night instead of a Tuesday as of old, arguing that fraternity houses would have a chance to entertain during the week-end and at the same time the students who desired would get an opportunity to rest after the strenuous event. The 1927 Prom was to be in the nature of a test. On its success the faculty would judge the problem of whether to end the historic event or let it live. The 1927 Prom was the largest ever in the history of the college and some students with the dance had been more girls. All students are awaiting the financial report. The junior class must make up the deficit at once if there is a shortage and it is likely that the same shortage may mean the end of the Prom as a Yale institution.

The whole trouble with the drama, nowadays, is the average audience needs to be educated, in the opinion of various "little theater" men who have been attending a drama conference here. "A part of a University's business is to create an audience. Please instruct where to go." It was signed, "James Hope, Commodore of Rocklake Boat Club."

That proposition more than the examination-question is putting those who today run Yale. If Yale had the facilities it is presumable that fifty thousand would be enrolled for its courses. But as matters now stand Yale is fighting to keep students away.

REC BASKETBALL FIVE
TRIMS ST. JAMES 35-25

After a nip and tuck battle for thirty minutes last night at the Rec, Coach E. H. Chaney's Rec Five rallied sufficiently in the final quarter to cop the verdict from the St. James Five of Hartford. The score was 35 to 25 but the teams were often separated by but three points. Quish and Boyce featured for Manchester. The summary:

VETERANS DAUGHTERS OBSERVE BIRTHDAYS

Mary C. Keeney Tent, Daughters of Veterans, at their meeting in the State armory last evening observed the birthdays of both Washington and Lincoln by appropriate readings and music. Mrs. Etta Loveland read a paper on Washington's birthday and Miss Beatrice Dart a story about Lincoln.

Miss Edith Maxwell, president for the year 1926 was presented with a handsome bar pin set with amethysts and chip diamonds. Mrs. Ethel Carter, the president, made the presentation in behalf of Mary C. Keeney Tent. Miss Maxwell gracefully responded, expressing her thanks and appreciation for the gift.

A social time followed, during which sandwiches, cakes, punch and candies in the shape of George Washington hatchets were enjoyed.

JACK LOCKWILL'S SPEEDBOAT

by Gilbert Patten

The two boys turned their backs on the man in black. "I don't want to pitch for your bum ball team anyhow," McGovern told the Bad Egg. "My father has bought me a corking speed boat and shipped it to me. It's a whizzer. I'm going to enter it for the Cold Cup in the coming Rocklake Regatta. Come on over to the boat house, Tom, and take a look at it."

Jack and his roommate, Willie Darling, thought it was a practical joke. But they went over to the boat house, taking Willie's sister, Betty, with them. "There's your boat, Lockwill," said Commodore McGovern, pointing out a motor sixteen-footer with the name "Mystery" lettered in white on its prow. "All I can tell you is that the manufacturers notified us to accept it and turn it over to you." Jack was overcome by amazement. (To Be Continued.) > 14

TWO FILMS SHOWING AT CIRCLE THEATER

Thrilling Picture and West Hold Center of Stage—Double Bill Saturday.

A thrilling picture and a Western starring Tom Tyler are the Circle double feature bill for tomorrow only. In the first picture Cullen Landis appears in "Heroes of the Night," while the second is "Lightning Lariats," a fast moving story of the wide open spaces.

Tonight will see the last showing of Alberta Vaughn in "College Law" and Bert Lytell in "Obey the Law." Both have been going over big in Manchester during their stay here and comments have been highly favorable.

A college story with a real college background and genuinely "collegiate" characters, has at last found its way to the screen. It was written by Jean Dupont, a college graduate, directed by Del Andrews who claims the University of Chicago as his Alma Mater and the cast includes a number of men and women who have graduated from some of the leading colleges in the country.

"College Law" is typical of the spirit of Young America at college today.

"Heroes of the Night" the first feature offers the film fan an assortment of romance and thrills in abundance.

Cullen Landis as the fire fighter and Rex Lease as his brother the policeman will make many a feminine heart beat faster as this talented and handsome pair enact heroic deeds and for the male contingent Marion Nixon will with many a heart as the winsome miss who was the innocent cause of the fraternal conflict.

A Western picture made for the delight of those who favor a virile type of story line in a rugged country, is the description which may be applied to "Lightning Lariats," the companion feature.

The highlights of excitement are focused on Tom's riding—and how he does ride! The story offers plenty of opportunity for thrills in this line, as Tom is kept busy guarding a little Prince and his governess who have escaped from the throes of a revolution in their country and are seeking safety in the west.

The London Metropolitan water board supplies water to a population larger than that of Canada, and the mains placed end to end would cover the distance from London to New York and back.

A superstition once existed in East Anglia that the path a funeral cortege had taken remained unlucky. This was founded on a belief that the devil always followed funerals in the hope of adding to the population of the infernal regions.

CRANE KIDS HEAD STATE PROGRAM

Youngsters Appeared in Police Benefit Here—Rin Tin Tin in Feature.

By Member Herald Staff
 A well balanced bill of vaudeville was presented by the State theater last night and will be continued tonight and tomorrow. Heading the bill are the Crane Kids, who appeared in the recent police benefit show.

The Crane Kids are children under 10 years old who have a pleasing repertoire of songs and dances which they put over in fine style. Both have good voices and a good idea of harmony.

Second in importance is the snappy repartee sketch of Summers and Hunt, the highest paid pair of performers ever brought to the State. This team consists of a man and a woman who do practically everything. Their act is one long scream from start to finish.

The LeReyes are two aerial artists of ability whose bid for fame is the unusual feat of hanging by one heel on the trapeze. The men and woman are equally good and make a good appearance.

"June Days" is a miniature musical comedy with a pleasing plot and three clever singers and musicians who get the idea across in the appropriate manner. Two men and a woman make up this troupe, the girl being a dancer while one of the boys sings to the other boy's accompaniment.

On the headline position are the Lubbards, six people in a pretentious dance and musical revue. The picture accompanying the vaudeville bill features Rin Tin Tin in "White London Sleeps."

LITTLE JOE

PEARLS COME FROM OYSTERS AND DIAMONDS FROM POOR FISH.

They sit at home and they dream and daily
 Making the embers of long-dead years—
 But ye go down to the haunted Valley,
 Eight-hearted pioneers.
 They have forgotten they ever were young,
 They hear your songs as an unknown tongue—
 But the flame of God through your spirit stirs,
 Adventurers—O, Adventurers!

They tithe their herbs and they count their tally,
 Choosing their words that a phrase may live—
 But ye cast down in the hungry valley
 All that a man can give.
 They prophesy smoothly, with weary smile,
 Fulfilling their feeble appointed while
 But death himself to your pride defers,
 Adventurers—O, Adventurers!
 —May Byron; "Adventurers."

MILK FOR CHRISTENING
 Manitowac, Wis.—Milk from Wisconsin cows supplanted the traditional bottle of champagne when Miss Marion Dixon, daughter of a Grand Trunk Railroad System director, christened a large car ferry at the shipyards here. She used milk, she said, as an appropriate gesture to Wisconsin, a dairy state.

A perfectly preserved wooden bridge found at Kaerde (near Dortmund) is estimated to be 5000 years old and to date back to the Ice Age.

Civilization Fast Killing Happy Sandwich Islanders

A few of the present Hawaiian Island "types." The girl, at the right has Chinese, Hawaiian and Russian blood in her veins. At the left are a pure-blooded Hawaiian girl and a Hawaiian fisherman, also of the pure native stock.

Hilo, Hawaii.—The heavy hand of civilization rapidly is wiping out one of the sunniest, kindest races of people that the blue Pacific ever knew.

Hawaii, "Pearl of the Pacific", is fast losing its original inhabitants. When the Hawaiian Islands were first visited by white men they had a native population estimated at over 400,000—magnificent specimens of humanity, strong and beautiful.

Today there are just 21,145 pure-blooded Hawaiians left, and perhaps that many more half breeds.

Only a Memory
The last few decades have brought material prosperity and trade to Hawaii, but her own people are dying. Already the native civilization is little more than a memory; soon the last of the native islanders will have disappeared.

A number of reasons are given for the dying out of the Sandwich Islanders—as they used to be known. The white man brought diseases, formerly unknown here, that found the islanders peculiarly susceptible. Inter-marriage took its toll. Most important, perhaps, was the inability of the natives to survive under radically changed conditions.

Hawaii is losing something that can never be replaced.

The original islanders were a picturesque race. Its members did not have the savage cannibalism and fierce war-like proclivities some other South Sea Islander had. They were happy, generous to a fault, strong and joyful.

Hawaii was an uncultivated Paradise, in the eyes of the early traders, who visited it. It was seldom touched by war; the traveler was invariably made welcome, and the writings of men like Richard Henry Dana testify to the likable ways of the islanders.

Now that is all changed. Only on remote sections of Hawaii itself, largest island of the group can any of them be found in conditions, even approaching their original state. These settlements are fast shrinking.

A Few Remains
There are a few natives in these places who still cannot speak English, who live in grass huts that are always open to visitors, who play in the surf and fish and grow taro without a care for the morrow. But they are hard to find, and they are rapidly diminishing.
The day of the famed "hulu" is about ended. White men almost never see this ancient religious dance. In a few years it will be only a memory.

The islands are now populated by some 325,000 people of other races including many thousands of Chinese, Japanese and Portuguese. The Japanese do not intermarry much, but the white men have intermarried rather freely with the Hawaiians, so that there are many strange racial mixtures here. There have been many Hawaiian-Chinese mixtures, and some of the islands' leading citizens have in their veins the blood of Chinese, Hawaiians and white men.

"ALOMA OF SOUTH SEAS" COMING TO THE RIALTO

"The Campus Flirt" heads a double feature program which will bring to a close its successful run at the Rialto theater this evening. Babe Daniels is starred in this entertaining comedy romance of modern college life and Charlie Padgett, world famous sprinter has an important role to portray in the support. The second feature is "The Barrier" a thrilling drama that has proved to be immensely pleasing. Selected shorter subjects balance the program.

The two features being shown tomorrow only are "Aloma of the South Seas" a charming story starring Gilda Gray and "Saddle Trap" a fast action western with Edmund Cobb. The first mentioned tells the tale of a young American on a South Sea Island drinking himself right down to the gutter. There's a brown skin dancer who adores him because he once defended her. There are tropical nights with the surf pounding away in the distance and of course eventually there is real trouble with a revengeful native causing most of it. Warner Baxter and Percy Marmot have leading roles in "Aloma of the South Seas." Among the shorter subjects being shown are a comedy, a news reel and another chapter of the current serial.

TOBACCO CO-OPERATION.

The Springfield Union rushes in capably. It must be admitted—where many fear to tread in the matter of the difficulties of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association. It tackles the psychology of the agriculturist. Says the Union:

"In agriculture generally and wherever pursued there is an individualism difficult to adapt to co-operative efforts, however sponsored. Nowhere, perhaps, is the spirit of self-reliance more essential to success than on the farm and nowhere has it been more strongly developed. The moment this spirit is subjected to the qualified dependence of co-operation, it tends to arouse individualism among the members and in the absence of expected advantages to develop dissatisfaction and revolt. It is pretty hard for a good farmer to smother the feeling that he is competing with his neighbors and it is especially galling when co-operation reduces him to a lower level than he has attained by his own efforts and in his own way. In this sense co-operation may prove to be a wet blanket on that spirit of individual enterprise and reliance that has been the making of America agriculturally and industrially.

"Those who cannot look out for themselves are likely to fare even worse if they employ somebody else to look out for them and the truth of this may prove to be even more disastrous if and when the Federal government is put into the business of looking out for them. It is a serious thing to interfere with or to defy the spirit and power of individualism. The troubles of the tobacco association indicate that this is true even when farmers cooperate in their own right, establish their own organization and finance their efforts without government aid. When co-operation fails to rise above the achievements of average individualism, it is of course a futility and when it falls far short it may be a disastrous failure."

All this is true enough, but it is, after all, only another way of saying that the agricultural mind is undisciplined. And a little wonder is aroused whether this lack of discipline is, really, characteristic of all agricultural peoples or only of peoples in sections.

It is not in the books that the great co-operative marketing associations of the Pacific coast truck and fruit growers have bickered and quarreled and made failures of their co-operative enterprises. In fact there is every evidence, even in our own food stores here in New England, of an exactly contrary state of affairs.

Perhaps one contributing cause in the difficulty in getting the tobacco men into complete accord is that they had never taken a real, honest-to-goodness drubbing as the result of competitive operation, as so many of the western homesteaders took. Not having experienced actual starvation, foreclosure and all around misery over a long period, they have not had exercised on them the same driving force toward co-operation which has made those mutual associations what they are on the Pacific coast.

The tobacco growers went into co-operation to improve a condition already far above that of the average farmer, even if facing relative depression. They did not go in to it to save their very necks.

Perhaps it will never be possible to get the proper unity of spirit working among farmers of Connecticut and Massachusetts. But it will probably come a good deal nearer to being possible if they ever reach the stage—which we sincerely hope they never will—where they have taken the devil of a licking every season for twenty consecutive years.

NAVY WASTE.

The most recent development of the naval disarmament proposition—that notwithstanding the disaffection of the smaller maritime nations the United States, Great Britain and Japan might well get together on a cruiser reduction agreement, certainly possesses at least the merit of simplicity. It is infinitely easier to get three persons to agree on any subject than it is to get five. It is also true, no doubt, that all three of these naval leaders among nations could cut their cruisers, auxiliary ships and submarines to a considerable extent without sacrificing a sufficient superiority to any of the minor naval powers. And yet it takes a good deal of optimism to see even a three-party disarmament conference as being worth the pennies it would cost. Because as sure as we are human beings it would be entered into by each of the three nations, if at all, with a positive determination to lose not one particle of its relative strength—and in this we can fairly make no exception of the United States.

So long as that spirit rules, so long as suspicion and self-interest animate each of the parties to a disarmament conference, so long will such enterprises amount to little of importance.

The Washington conference has often been hailed as a miracle of achievement. As a matter of fact every power concerned, except the United States, has spent all it could raise on naval construction and maintenance ever since; it could have done no more in any event.

About the best sort of naval disarmament conference that could be called, it seems to us, would be one between Americans alone, with a final resolution to scrap most of the present Navy, build no more cruisers and let the other fellows go as far as they like in spending money on feet for aircraft to sink in the next war.

TURTLE.

The New York Herald Tribune and the New Bedford Mercury are having a row over turtles. The Herald Tribune, which affects to know much about these reptiles and talks about them suspiciously like an encyclopedia, is trying to make out that certain little "tortoleses" being imported into England from the Mediterranean are no better to eat than our American mud turtles, which it calls "stinkpot terrapins." The Mercury editor is out to champion all turtles.

One of the kinds of turtle which the Herald Tribune concedes to be good, as against the majority of carterous varieties, is the fish eating snapper of American waters.

We want to butt into this controversy with the remark that it may be just possible that some individual turtles, even of a recognized edible variety, may be better than other individuals. There is such a thing as deliciously good beef and there is such a thing as simply horrid beef, as everybody who has sojourned in Florida and tackled the native meat well knows.

We have a hideous recollection of a perfectly wonderful looking snapper with the classic diamond markings on his back, whose head not only gave battle to the decapitating hatchet after it had been cut off, but which withstood eight solid hours of earnest boiling, at the end of which time one could stick a fork in the broth but not in the meat. Yet on form he should have been a most delicious morsel.

Secretly we don't believe there is an editor in New York, New Bedford or the United States who has ever had money enough to become well enough acquainted with turtle as a food to be sure whether it was that or something else if you gave him tripe and told him it was it.

ONE WAY OF FIGURING.

New York has an assemblyman named Louis A. Cuvillier, a Manhattan Democrat, who always has a thick finger in every legislative proceeding, has just made the most remarkable argument against drastic criminal laws we have ever heard. The subject of appropriating $50,000 for a site for a new prison was up for debate and Cuvillier, who obviously has constituents who do not like the Baumes laws, said:

"I must admit the Baumes laws have had considerable effect in reducing crime, but if we are going to continue to keep these straggle, healthy men in prisons for the long terms provided, and support them at the expense of the tax payers, instead of $50,000 you will be asked for four hundred or five hundred millions for prisons."

In other words, Mr. Cuvillier evidently figures that it is better economics to let the thieves remain at liberty and help themselves to whatever they want than it is to restrict them to prison fare and prison sleeping quarters.

Cuvillier seems to be entitled to the derby.

HAND WASHING.

The withdrawal of "The Captive" from the theatre in which it has been presented and the announcement that in spite of the legal proceedings against it the play will be put on by another producer in another theatre with the same cast, is explained by one New York newspaper as a move to keep the curse of smut away from the movies. The Froham company, which originally produced "The Captive" is said to be owned by the Famous Players-Lasky outfit. And in order to keep its much greater "movie" interests out of all connection with the New York "nith" muddle, it was decided that the big motion picture organization must forego making any more money with "The Captive."

The net gain for the cause of play reform isn't observable, of course, but the movie folks have ducked well and wisely.

STERN BUT JUST.

It was a rather delicate position for Governor Trumbull to be put in—to rule on the half-masting of the Capitol flag on the death of Harold Gilpatrick, but there will be very few right-minded persons who will take issue with his decision that the circumstances did not justify doing such an honor to a convicted and unpardoned felon, even though he once was treasurer of the state of Connecticut.

It would be scant honor to pay to the memory of such men as Simeon E. Baldwin and other great citizens for whom the Capitol flag has flown midway of its staff, if the same ceremony were to mark the passing of men who die in jail because they betrayed their trusts.

ANTIQUÉ VALUES.

An editorialist of the New London Day believes that a campaign should be started to educate the people of that section of the state, particularly in the rural towns, to a just appreciation of the money value of the many examples of early American furniture possessed by the folks in those parts. He would gild the lily and adorn the rose. If he thinks there is anybody in New London county who owns anything from a Boston rocker to a Hepplewhite sideboard and isn't ready to stick to the death for nine times its worth let him try and get it.

NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 18.—One of the prettiest maids of the dancing maids, young and old, who last night paraded Broadway is that which leads them to believe they can enjoy the personal company of pretty chorines while sipping highballs in the cabaret.

This is an illusion born of the movies and cheap magazines, which show the pretty damsels sitting in the laps of heavy spenders. And there is some hard tradition in the smaller towns that one has merely to flash a bankroll and all the pretty maids of the program will come flitting to the tables.

As a matter of fact, the practices of chorus girls joining guests went out of style a couple of years ago. In all but the hottest of totes it is just isn't done. Time was when it was part of the entertainer's job to sit about with the male guests, but it has been found better to keep the girls in the roles in which the program casts them.

In the old days it was not uncommon to use the girl entertainers as "come-ons" to make the old boys spend their money, and many was the near-drink that the poor chorine had to pretend to down to make her extra percentage.

Today the idea is to maintain the same illusion that exists on the stage. If a heavy-pursed papa can arrange a date after working hours all day well. But in places where some of the city's best people are to be found tipping, the ladies of the ensemble are not allowed to be seen smoking—let alone drinking. They must be most decorous and proper, at least while the guests are looking on.

The only personal contacts achieved are those between the cigarette girls and the guests. The unattached daddies do try to strike up flirtations with the pretty girls who go about selling smokes and fat tips result from some flatterer and tactful remark.

There was one particularly famous case of a cigarette girl who arrived from Chicago with a couple of dollars and went home with ten thousand. A considerable of this was made shaking dice with the bosses, the understanding being that the loser paid double. As if the fair maid won well, they showed her away.

Those sidewalk ticket speculators who may be found in front of successful Broadway productions offering seats for sale where they will take issue with a "sold out" sign have many tricks worthy the side show slickers of the carnival outfits.

Old-time Broadwayites are "next" and generally give these scalpers no attention, but visitors and intruquent theatergoers learn only from experience.

One of the rackets is to thrust a pair of tickets before the nose of a prospective buyer and reveal the fact that they are "fifth row center." The elated purchaser pats himself on the back and goes in only to find that they are fifth row sidewalk "wise-guy" has carefully held his finger over the words "second balcony."

Another racket, not so much in general usage just now, is to cover with a finger that portion of the ticket naming the theater. A sale is made to persons arriving late and seeming in a hurry. They rush to the doorway only to find the ticket is for another theater and, hence, another show. Meanwhile the scalper has "moved on."

WASHINGTON LETTER

This is the second of three articles by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for NEA Service and The Herald, about Theodore F. Shuey, who has heard every speech delivered in the Senate for 39 years. Shuey's reminiscences are a mine of interesting information about America's political leaders of the last half-century.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Feb. 18.—Theodore F. Shuey, official reporter in the Senate, who has been reporting senatorial speeches for 39 years, sometimes has his troubles in taking down the utterances of statesmen word for word.

When Shuey has nightmares, he dreams of the late Senator James A. Clarke of Arkansas. "He was a terror," Shuey says. "He made fine speeches, but he went so fast that they lost their effect. It was mighty hard to take him down. He went over 200 words a minute and his diction wasn't clear enough to permit it."

The present champion oratorical sprinter of the Senate, Shuey says, is Peter Norbeck of South Dakota. The official reporters thank heaven that Norbeck speaks on few occasions, for he talks about 225 words a minute and is the hardest man to "get" of the current senatorial crop.

Clarke, however, remains most vividly in Shuey's long memory. "Mr. Moses of New Hampshire has the clearest diction of them all," chuckles Shuey. "He's just delightful. He goes up to 150 words a minute, but he has that wonderful fluency that we used to hear from John T. Morgan of Alabama."

"Mr. Robinson of Arkansas is almost as clear as Mr. Moses and Mr. Borah is almost as clear as Mr. Robinson," Mr. Robinson talks about 165 words a minute and Mr. Borah goes about 150.

Yet Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is the favorite orator of this 52-year-old man who has heard the clearest diction of them all, chuckles Shuey. "He's just delightful. He goes up to 150 words a minute, but he has that wonderful fluency that we used to hear from John T. Morgan of Alabama."

"He's very clear, and really the most delightful man in the Senate to listen to," declares Shuey. They all talk faster—and make it harder for the reporters—when they snap at each other. "Our hardest job," one is assured.

Shuey has observed that nobody can hold the galleries like Tom Heflin of Alabama, who orates at about 150 words a minute. "Carter Glass has very clear diction and speaks at about Borah's speed, Swanson, whether he has the gifts of oratory or not, has an effective earnestness which Shuey believes counts a great deal. Swanson hits 130 words a minute.

"The hardest senators to take down are those who fill, back and hesitate," Shuey continued. "The Senate is great training for them, though. I watch them improve from session to session. They read the Congressional Record where we put what they say; they read their own words and the words of other senators and gradually correct their mistakes."

The official reporters have been able to "get" nearly everyone since first they began to move out onto the floor and sit in the seat of any absent senator that might be convenient to the speaker.

"We took over that privilege 35 or more years ago when William M. Everts, who had been secretary of state in the Hayes administration, was in the Senate," Shuey recalled. "He was very old and feeble and couldn't speak much above a whisper, so the men simply had to move out onto the floor to take him down."

At the present time, folks in the gallery are always likely to mistake the official reporters for senators unless they observe the vigor with which they are taking notes. There are always plenty of empty seats for the reporters.

HOW SHOCKING!

Paris—A party of foreigners entered a box in one of the big music halls. The women were elaborately gowned, the men in evening clothes. The theater was hot. Suddenly one of the men arose, removed his coat and hung it over the back of his chair. The audience showed no surprise, but the line of almost nude young women on the stage ran a distinct murmur of indignation.

'Town Crab' Now Jaunty As He Awaits The Chair

McAlester, Okla.—Half a century too late, C. E. Marble is learning that people are ready to give him their friendship. Had he known as much 50 or 60 years ago he might not be where he is now—in a death cell of the Oklahoma penitentiary, waiting for March 15, when he will be electrocuted.

Marble lived in a shack on a vacant lot in the town of Ingersoll, where he was known as the "town crab." Boys made his life miserable by pestering him and killing his pets. Finally he killed one of two brothers and wounded the other and his father. He begged Judge Charles Swindall to sentence him to death, and his request was granted.

Now, with death in the offing, Marble is finding friends everywhere. From San Francisco to Boston, people who never heard of him prior to his strange plea for electrocution are writing to him. Many have offered to care for him the rest of his days if the governor of Oklahoma sets him free.

Marble, a "crab" no longer, but rather jaunty and jolly through some weird mental reaction to death's close approach, is appreciative of the interest the public is taking in him. He still wants to go to the chair at the appointed time, however. "Everybody's Good."

"It's awfully good of everybody," Marble remarked, with a smile. "I never dreamed I would stir up so much dust. Imagine anyone wanting to make an old worthless criminal like me happy. But I'm happy already—happier than ever before."

"I ask just one favor of society. Kill me. I'm ready this minute to go. "If this proves a lesson to boys in general, I'll feel I haven't lived and died in vain."

It's just like the old man to philosophize. Marble is a thinker. He likes to puff away at his pipe and analyze weighty questions. "Nearly everyone who writes me reads into some experience with bad boys," he went on. "I like that. It shows the dude I stirred up has set people to studying."

house. I knew I would not be welcome there. That is all he will say about himself. To Die March 15. In the gray dawn of March 15, Marble will be electrocuted—unless something intervenes. It is possible he will be given a reprieve, but nothing has been said of any kind at the state capital yet.

"I will appreciate anything the public can do to prevent commutation of my sentence or any delay in the execution of it," Marble said.

TOLLAND

The Tolland Grange members attending the East Central Pomona at Glastonbury last Wednesday were: Mrs. Jennie Bennett and son, Mrs. Walter Pearson of Hartford and Mrs. C. Hubbard West, Lathrop West and Mrs. L. E. Hall of Tolland.

The body of Mrs. Alma (Benton) Beyer was brought to Tolland Tuesday afternoon and buried in the South cemetery. She formerly lived in Tolland.

Mr. Myron Sparrow has purchased a small farm in North Woodstock, Conn. and expects to move his family there next week. Miss Hazel West is able to return to her work in Hartford.

C. Hubbard West gave an interesting paper at the Study club. In it he related a few of his experiences in farming, covering over a period of about forty years. His son, Lathrop West, gave the Curran Evans.

Miss Lena Lengel has returned from a four weeks' stay with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Royce in Wales, Mass. Raymond Ladd who was a clerk in the local store for L. E. Hall and lately with William Bank and son, has severed his connections here and accepted a position with the Phillips grocery in Rockville.

Miss Alice E. Hall is home from the Connecticut State college at Storrs for the week-end. WIDE TO RUN IN N. E. Boston, Feb. 13.—Edvin Wide, Swedish distance runner, begins his New England engagements tonight at Portland, Me., where he will be the center of attraction at the American Legion meet. Wide had no threatening competitor listed against him. On Washington's birthday here Wide will race Jimmy Henigan, Billy Cooley of Harvard and Paul Kenally in a handicap 3,000 meter race.

Flowers vs. Bogash Boston, Feb. 13.—Tiger Flowers, former middleweight champion, and Lou Bogash, conqueror of five champions, were in fighting trim today for their bout tonight at Mechanics building. HEBRON

Word has been received from Mrs. Walter C. Hewitt that she has left New Haven hospital much improved by her recent operation. She will remain as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Manville in New Haven until strong enough to return home. Mr. Hewitt is with her and will stay until her return.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Worcester of South Manchester, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Raymond. A well child conference will be held at the Christian Endeavor room Feb. 22, from 2 to 4 p. m. Mrs. T. D. Martin and Mrs. Edmund Horton will assist the nurse and doctor from the State Department of Health.

Mrs. A. L. Stebbins of Colchester is acting as substitute at the Center Primary room this week, as the regular teacher, Mrs. Roger W. Porter, is ill with grip. The Rev. T. D. Martin was present at a meeting of the clergy of the vicinity at Willimantic Congregational church on Monday. At this "Pastors' Union" sixteen clergymen were present.

Mrs. T. D. Martin through the winter has fed and tamed a lively flock of birds of several different kinds. Tamest of all are the chickadees which will come and eat crumbs, sunflower seeds, and other enticing bits from her hand. They will come to an open window, lighting on the sill and eating without fear. Other birds which enjoy the feeding but are a little shy are the nuthatches, blue jays, downy and hairy woodpeckers and others. A food container of Mrs. Martin's own contriving helps in the feeding. This is attached to a tree and holds the seed, crumbs, etc., by means of a piece of wire mesh which lets the birds peck without carrying away too much at a time.

Miss Daisy White entertained her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Brewer of East Hartford at her home on Sunday. Word has been received from Miss Caroline E. Kellogg of her arrival in Los Angeles, California. She expects to spend two months at the West.

Mrs. Helen White and her brother Alphonso A. Hills are recovering from attacks of grip. Mrs. Walter C. Hewitt arrived home from New Haven on Wednesday. She is completely restored to health. For the last few days she and Mr. Hewitt were guests of Mrs. Charles Manville in New Haven.

Mrs. William Seyma went with J. Banks Jones on Wednesday evening to represent the Christian Endeavor societies of Hebron and Gilead at a meeting in Marlborough of committees from the Endeavor societies of Hebron, Gilead, Colchester, Westchester, Marlborough and Salem. A plan for holding union meetings was discussed.

PILL-TAKER FREED FROM HIS HABIT

ALL-BRAN brought natural relief from chronic constipation

Constipation is almost a universal curse—father of more than forty diseases. Yet there is real assurance in Mr. Ladue's letter: "After sixteen years of taking pills, I cured me. If the millions of people that suffer from constipation only knew what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN would do, some of the pill-pushers would go out of business. My doctor should recommend it. I tell all that I know so that they can get the joy out of life I am getting since I started on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN 3 months ago."

KEUR HOPEFUL OF MORE PARK MONEY

Park Superintendent John Y. Keur said today that it was vitally important that the voters grant a $5,000 increase in the park appropriation at the adjourned town meeting Monday evening, March 7, at the High school assembly hall. The park appropriation, it will be recalled, was originally set $18,000 but one-third of this amount was sliced off by the voters at the last town meeting. This, according to Mr. Keur, has been a serious blow to that department, as it blocks everything but the most urgent work. Since the last town meeting, the departments side of the case has been made more generally known and Superintendent Keur expresses hope that the $5,000 increase will be granted after all.

DIES FROM FALL
Stamford, Feb. 18.—Olaf Sackerson, who fell downstairs at his home, 74 West Broad street, yesterday, died in Stamford hospital today from the effects of the fall. Sackerson, who was 74, was crippled by rheumatism and his fall is believed to have resulted from this condition.

FINAL SCOUT CONTEST IN H. S. HALL TONIGHT

Tonight at 7:30 in the High school hall the Manchester public will have an opportunity to witness some real scouting when the eight Boy Scout Troops of Manchester will meet for the final contest. These troops have clashed during the last two months in inter-troop contests but never before was so much interest shown as in the meet tonight.

- Commissioner Irvine will be assisted in judging the events by Mr. Moore, assistant executive of Hartford.
- The events are as follows:
1. Scout craft.
  2. Rescue Race.
  3. First-aid.
  4. Group knot-tying.
  5. Morse signalling.
  6. Staff relay.
  7. Stretcher race.
  8. Semaphore Signalling.
  9. Human obstacle race.
  10. Friction fire.
  11. Pacing.
  12. Potatoe race.
- The eight troops representing 150 scouts in Manchester are: Troop I, Second Congregational Church; Troop II, St. James's Church; Troop III, Center Congregational Church; Troop IV, St. Mary's Episcopal Church; Troop V, Swedish Lutheran Church; Troop VI, South Methodist Church; Troop VII, Am. Legion Troop; Troop VIII, German Lutheran Church.
- Parents and friends of the Scouts are cordially invited to attend. Three cups will be awarded the three best troops in competition.

Dogs have a wholesome fear of fire. A delivery man recently saved himself from attack by two vicious dogs by tossing lighted matches at them when they lunged at him.

In the early days when flocks and herds were man's only possessions, they also constituted his money and when metal coins were introduced many had cattle stamped on them.

S. W. V. WHIST PARTY LARGELY ATTENDED

More than 75 persons attended the whist given last evening at the home of Mrs. Louise Frawley on Cedar street for the benefit of Mary Bushnell Cheney auxiliary, No. 13, United Spanish War Veterans. The players occupied 17 tables and the holder of the highest score was Mrs. Martha Drysdale, who was the winner of the bridge lamp. Mrs. Lottie Behrend and Louis Chagnot were awarded first prizes; second, Mrs. Theresa Mikowski and Charles Warren, and consolation awards, Mrs. Earl Miner and Fred T. Hanson.

Appropriate observance of the twenty-ninth anniversary of the sinking of the "Maine" was made by the display of a flag-draped photograph of this historic warship. Chicken à la king in party cases, biscuits, assorted cakes, doughnuts, coffee and candy were served by the hostess.

SLAYER BREAKS DOWN.

Mineola, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Harold F. Webster, 24, charged with the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Galloway, broke down and sobbed on the witness stand in his own defense today. He swore that his mother-in-law urged him to commit suicide, telling him he was "not man enough to do it." Then, he declared, she cured him and threatened to shoot him.

BRITISH OPINION

ON CHINA POLICY

ALARMS CABINET

Inquiry Shows People Do Not Approve Policy That Might Bring War.

London, Feb. 18.—An inquiry, ordered by the British government, and carried out in the big industrial districts by special agents, has produced disconcerting results for the British Cabinet.

The main idea of the inquiry was to discover what the general feeling was towards Government policy following the General Strike and the great coal strike and also regarding British policy in China.

On the latter subject the replies of the secret agents were absolutely definite and unanimous. Inquiries were made in all centers where men congregate, and particularly in clubs belonging to the British Legion of ex-service men, the members of which number over one and a half million.

Reporters agree the reports state that the masses are perfectly indifferent and uninterested in British policy in China except on one important point—that the matter is not worth fighting a war about, and the general individual opinion voiced was no Government could get sufficient popular support, to carry on such a war.

As regards the industrial situation from the political viewpoint, the majority opinion of the agents was that the government had suffered a severe setback, first in allowing the General Strike to occur, and secondly in not taking effective steps to settle the coal strike, instead of following a policy of drift.

The reports received by the Cabinet show that in a General Election now, the Government would almost certainly lose its majority, big as it is—212 over all parties combined.

No Labor Landslide

On the other hand, the trained investigator employed state that there is no sign of any landslide towards the Labor party—the fear of a capital levy still seems to be in the forefront of men's minds. But there is strong evidence, the reports state, of a reversion to Liberalism by a great number of electors who have voted for the Government in the past three elections. The general view is that any election now would result almost in an equality between the three parties.

In the face of this document the Cabinet is unlikely to embark on drastic legislation of any kind, and it will certainly not imperil its existence by dissolving before it is actually bound to do so at the expiration of its five year term.

THE REASON

"Such cheek! Yesterday I swore eternal friendship with the fellow and today he is trying to borrow money from me."

"Why did you swear friendship with him?"

"Because I wanted to borrow from him!"—Megendorfer Blaetter, Munich.

FIND THE MAN

"Fighting is all right, provided you do it intelligently."

"Yes, but you can't always find a man smaller than yourself."—Answers, London.

Harvard Captain

Geoffrey Platt

Harvard is out to regain her athletic prestige, somewhat dimmed of late. Harvard feels that Geoffrey Platt, captain of the varsity crew, is the man to do it. Platt and his rowing cohorts already have started training for the numerous contests they will engage in this season. Naturally they intend all to be victorious for the Cambridge school.

BARN? WHERE'S CAT?

Allan Dwan, Director of 300 Pictures, Knows Now That Detail Is the Thing in Films.

New York, Sept. 22.—Perhaps the film antiquity of Allan Dwan may best be appreciated when it is announced the first picture he directed was "Branding a Bad Man." Which, as any fan might guess, belonged to the days when the west was wild and untamed in 90 per cent of movies. He has seen the one-reeler elastically stretched into an entire evening's "super-production."

He has seen a dozen theories of film art rise and wane. Yes—Dwan it was who put Marguerite Clark—remember her?—through the toddling steps of "Wildflower"; Lillian Gish through the faltering pantomime of "An Innocent Magdalene"; who directed early pictures for Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and a raft of others. He has seen them come and go and witnessed the parade of pictures into a leading industry. He has had all the illusion and disillusion. Belief in Their Future.

Yet he believes in their future today, quite as sincerely as he did when he wielded a megaphone on a one-reel product.

A man with more than 300 pictures to his credit must have learned a thing or two about actors. Today Dwan's tendency is toward fitting a type into a role on the basis of personal resemblance and personality.

Yesterday he was exponent of more and more beautiful women to pictures. He became an outstanding expert in beauty selecting. Flo Ziegfeld not excepted. He still wants beauty, but he seeks something else—that illusive charm and talent that isn't so easy to find. No

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Stamford, Feb. 18.—Adam L. Smith, chauffeur of Bridgeport, was arrested here today on a bench warrant issued by the prosecuting attorney of Bridgeport charging perjury. Smith is alleged to have sued his wife for divorce in Bridgeport on the ground of desertion. It is claimed that Smith was aware of the whereabouts of his wife during the divorce trial.

GENTLEMAN BANDIT.

Boston, Feb. 18.—Confronted by two of the persons he had robbed, Herman D. Weltz, 23, of Cambridge admitted today, according to police, that he was the "gentleman bandit" of the Back Bay. A widespread search for the youthful holdup man resulted in his capture. He answered all police questions with "yes sir" or "no sir."

THIS TOWN KEEPS BAN ON MOVIES

Brookline, Mass.—For five years this town of 47,000 has been without movies. As a matter of fact, it never has had a cinema house, although prior to 1921, a few pictures were shown in the halls. Brookline has agreed that movies are all right in their place, but that place is not Brookline. Parents, teachers and clergy believe that children are better off without movies, not as regards morality, especially, but pictures are supposed to interfere with the studies and daily routine of the youngsters.

Five years ago, persons who wanted a picture house called for a referendum, which was taken. So emphatic was the vote against movies that no one has requested another. Meanwhile Brookline people go to adjoining towns or into Boston for their entertainment.

CONSIDERATE

HIS LIFE HUNG ON PUNCTUATION

Newark, N. J.—A tiny punctuation mark in a transcript of a jury's verdict was the deciding factor between life and death for Salvatore Merri, convicted of murder. His counsel contended in an appeal to the Supreme Court that a punctuation mark in the verdict was a comma instead of a semi-colon. A comma would have made the verdict call for life imprisonment. The judge announced, however, that the transcript made by the court stenographer was neither a comma nor a semi-colon, but a period, showing that the jury meant for Merri to die.

WINE 300 YEARS OLD

Bremen, Germany—Wine 300 years old is being sold here at the equivalent of 25 cents a glass. It comes from a 300-gallon cask found in a cellar built in 1412. The wine was prime about the time of the American Revolution but now is said to have a slightly woody taste.

In Great Britain the largest railway station is Waterloo, where, in 24 hours, 1400 trains are dealt with at 23 platforms. The busiest junction is Clapham, through which more than 2000 trains pass every 24 hours.

Sun and Weather Found Kin Static Disturbers

Back of the static and poor reception we have been getting for the last year or more may be our fickle sun.

But the cause on which we can lay our hands most definitely is the weather.

According to Dr. Greenleaf W.

Dr. Greenleaf W. Kincaid, who is shown in inset

Pickard, noted radio engineer and inventor, it's the sun that may be solely to blame for all the crashing and fading we experience when listening to a distant concert. He isn't sure of that yet, although more than a year's collection of daily measurements lead him to believe this.

But measurements made over a period of more than two and a half years by Lieut. Earl H. Kincaid of the United States navy, while navigator on the U. S. S. Kittery, plying between Hampton Roads and the West Indies, show definitely that the weather is most certainly to blame.

That doesn't controvert Dr. Pickard's belief. In fact, says Pickard, it strengthens his attitude.

Traced Back to Sun

"Apparently days with great fluctuations of air pressure tend also to be days of low reception," Pickard reports to members of the Institute of Radio Engineers. But he adds:

"The relations here is probably indirect—that is, barometric activity may be linked with solar disturbances, which are in turn associated with reception."

Scientists have discovered that the sun spots now so much in evidence are causes of such magnetic storms as recently brought havoc to Florida. Lieut. Kincaid found that these storms shut out reception almost entirely.

In all the frequent trips the Kittery made between Hampton Roads and the West Indies, it was found that static occurred when there was a low pressure area or a falling barometer between the ship and Arlington, to which the receiver was tuned. Static also was felt when the ship was close to some of the islands where local static was intense.

Electric Barrage

This, indirectly, bears out the ideas of Pickard, when he assigns poor reception to a heavy barrage of electrified particles from the spots on the sun.

"There is some basis for the assumption that reception is principally affected by corpuscular radiation from the sun, perhaps in the form of alpha particles," Pickard says.

"I find that, in general, reception is most affected when a spot or group of spots is near the center of the solar disc—that is, when they most nearly face the earth, although there are exceptions."

Both Lieut. Kincaid and Dr. Pickard are continuing their experiments to gather statistics for more definite conclusions. In fact, Pickard says this work should go on for 11 years at least, the duration of a sun spot cycle, to get complete data of the effect of the sun on radio reception.

If that is done, we may not expect any definite report before 1935 at the earliest.

If Hermine Goes To Berlin Can "Bill" Be Far Behind?

Princess Hermine with three of her children—and the ex-Kaiser.

London.—Princess Hermine—third boss of the exiled ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany—is moving shortly, for part of the year, from Doorn, in Holland, to Berlin, to ram the title of kaiserin down the throats of her step-sons and their wives. And she'll maneuver for the return of the ex-kaiser to German soil and afterwards, if possible, to the throne from which he ran away.

Fat, dark and forty, with an iron will and boundless ambitions, this daughter of one insignificant German prince; house and widow of another, is determined to take a greater place in the world. So she nags husband Bill and prods the monarchists, who would like to drop him and center all their hopes on his grandson, Frederick William. And Wilhelm knows she is boss.

The Kaiser's Would-be Bosses
Others tried it. Some failed. Some succeeded. His father, the Emperor Frederick III, tried. Wilhelm hated him and defied him. Bismarck, founder of the German empire, and his early mentor, tried. The then kaiser fired him. His first wife tried. He treated her with boorish rudeness, reminding her of the three K's for women, which translated into English become three C's—children, cooking and church.

But when, in the heyday of his glory, Wilhelm went swanking his crown and clanking his spurs on Europe's stage, he had his first boss. It was the little, weazened, mole-like Baron Holstein, who buried himself in a chamber in the foreign office and made the kaiser adopt his foreign policies.

During the war, when the military took the upper hand and completely set aside the civil authority, he had his second boss, Luden-dorf. The pompous general drafted orders and Wilhelm signed on the dotted line. Now it's Hermine who pipes and the exile who dances.

She's been chafing for some time. The monarchists and her step-daughters-in-law insist on calling her "princess." She equally insists upon being called "kaiserin" and "majesty." She wants to forget her small beginnings and be a big figure.

Hermine's Origin
Hermine started life as the younger daughter of the late reigning Prince Henry XXII, of the house of Reuss. The princely post was not much bigger than the postage stamp it issued. And all its rulers were named Henry. Her mother was a daughter of the reigning house of Schaumburg-Lippe, another postage stamp state. Her uncle married the ex-kaiser's sister. She herself married a German princeling, John of Carolath-Beuthen, who died in 1920, leaving her three sons and two daughters.

As a result of Prussia's recent settlement with the ex-kaiser, he has obtained a large sum of money, much land, and a block of titles. One of these is the old Kaiser Wilhelm, the first palace in Unterden-Linden, Berlin's show street. The palace is dull and gloomy outside. Inside it has few modern comforts. The old grandfather of Wilhelm the Second was so simple in his manner and so stingy that he never had electric lights installed, nor steam heating, nor even a bath room. Legend has it that when he wanted a real scrub, a bath tub was sent over from a near-by hotel.

Hermine is changing all this. No grate fires for her. The palace is to be steam-heated and have real bath rooms and other comforts. Then she will move in and direct the kaiser propaganda. She thinks it's the chosen hour. An old monarchist, Hindenburg, is president. A new German cabinet has been constituted in which the monarchists have the lion's share of the jobs—four cabinet posts. And those posts all happen to be the most important in the control of Germany.

Just at present, the monarchists do not love the imperial runaway. But Cecilie, wife of ex-Crown Prince Willy, thinks her son ought to be the rose and hope of the royalists. But Hermine expects to teach her a thing or two.

Wherefore a tip: Keep your eye on Hermine! She may make German history. And German history may mean world history.

WOOD LEG NO HANDICAP

Sydney, New South Wales.—When a cow on the farm of Miss Anna Penrose broke its leg, her owner put the leg in splints. But the cow just wouldn't be careful of the frail limb, and the leg was broken again. So Miss Penrose herself amputated the leg and devised an ingenious artificial one to replace it. That was six years ago.

The cow now is in perfect health, has had three calves and is one of the best milkers in the herd.

U. S. BUILDS TORTURE CHAMBER

Friends, Not Enemies, Go In It, However—And It's All Part Of Mines Bureau's Experiments

Washington.—In the olden days no government capital was complete without an elaborate set of torture chambers, where foes of the state might be given suitable treatment before being led forth to the chopping block.

Those days are gone forever. But the United States government, for a slightly different purpose, has just set up a torture chamber through which more than 800 people have passed—and these people are willing to testify that, as torture chambers go, this one is a wow.

Weather to Order
The "torture chamber" is a series of rooms in the new Pittsburgh experiment station of the Bureau of Mines. In these rooms temperatures varying from zero to 200 degrees can be produced at will, rain and fog can be simulated, and anything in the way of wind from a zephyr to a hurricane can be made to order.

In the last room of the series is a new scale, one of the most delicate ever made. It will record a man's weight to within one thousandth of 1 per cent. After being subjected to all kinds of climatic conditions in the other rooms, the subject is weighed on this scale and his loss of weight is recorded.

The name "torture chamber" has been given the series of rooms by the investigators. The real purpose of the experiments, however, is not to produce discomfort, but to determine just what effects heat, cold, moisture, wind, dust and so on have on blood pressure, respiration, weight and the like.

The results are giving valuable information regarding the physiological effects produced on workers undergoing severe climatic changes in the mining, steel-making, glass-working and similar industries. The U. S. Public Health Service and the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers are co-operating with the Bureau of Mines in these experiments.

Weighted After Exercise
Men exercise violently in one of the chambers under extreme heat and then are weighed. Others exercise in the cold before stepping on the scales. The tests show just what these experiments cost in the way of burnt-out tissue.

In addition to providing useful data for the study of working conditions, the experiments will give valuable information relative to the amount of heat and moisture thrown off by the average person in a large audience occupying a theater, church or other public building, and thus will be of great aid in planning air and ventilation conditions for such buildings.

ENGLAND SELLS WAR SUPPLIES FOR 3 BILLIONS

Biggest Sale In World's History Closed As Old Stores Are Disposed Of.

London.—The greatest "sale" in the world's history has just been completed and wound-up. It was the sale of $2,400,000,000 of War Stores belonging to the British Government.

Only five officials now remain of a staff of 47,000 persons, who, eight years ago, set out to dispose of war material which cost the British Empire untold millions of dollars. Its actual cost will probably never be known. But, out of the debris $2,400,000,000 has been recovered and gone to the relief of the Chancellor of the Exchequer for War Debts and other payments.

The difficulties encountered in this wind-up can be judged by the fact that there were more than 50,000 distinct varieties of stores, scattered in dumps in various parts of a world, which had to be dealt with by the Liquidation and Disposal Commission.

Main Depots
It was necessary therefore, to place 500 depots in various countries and to send out expert valuers and salesmen.

The stocks to be disposed of varied from ordinary office pens and pencils to steam-going steamers, complete railroads, factories, roads, and even vast tracts of desert land. They included animals, explosives, food-stuffs, mechanical and horse transport, barges, medical stores and furniture. Hundreds of miles of roads, constructed in such countries as Macedonia, Iraq and Austria, together with locomotives and tractors, had to be sold at whatever price they would fetch.

One of the greatest difficulties with which the Commission was faced was to find and identify their stock before it could be valued and catalogued. For instance, hundreds of boats and barges had to be located on the canals of France and Belgium, and brought together for sale.

Sold to Contractors
As much of the property as was suitable, was sold to contractors in Britain and other countries to be utilized to the public, but this was only part of many deals running into millions of pounds sterling with foreign Governments. British buyers took, in all, about one-third of the total stock—about $1,200,000,000.

The Governments of France and Belgium took goods for which they paid in cash about $215,000,000. Iraq paid $45,000,000. Egypt and Palestine about $49,000,000. India, $59,000,000. The United States and Canada about $15,000,000, and Ireland nearly $5,000,000.

During past years these sales have been windfalls to successive Chancellors of the Exchequer, but, after a small contribution this year, they will now cease.

Your Income Tax

Several silent facts are to be remembered by taxpayers in claiming deductions for taxes. Taxes on personal property and real estate, whether business or residential, are deductible. So-called taxes assessed against local benefits, such as street paving or drainage, which tend to increase the value of the property assessed are not deductible since they are considered as constituting the cost of a permanent improvement.

The Federal income tax may not be deducted. However, income taxes imposed upon the income of individuals on his Federal income tax return.

The Federal estate tax is deductible from the gross income of the estate of a decedent in process of administration in ascertaining net income of the estate subject to the tax.

Taxes are deductible as such only by the persons upon whom they are imposed. Thus, the excise taxes imposed upon the sales by manufacturer of automobile chassis and bodies and motor cycles are not deductible by the purchaser, even though such taxes are billed to him as separate items.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Import or tariff duties paid in the operation of a business are deductible as taxes, provided they are not added to or made a part of the expenses of the business or the cost of the merchandise with respect to which they are paid.

Admission taxes are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid during the year. Guesswork will not be accepted. Under the revenue act of 1926 the admission tax applies only to admissions in excess of 75 cents while under the 1924 act it applied to admissions in excess of 50 cents.

HIRES TRIAL AUDIENCE

Berlin, Germany.—Walter Schoening, real estate broker, had to stand trial for fraud in the administration of estates. Walter didn't want any of his friends or business competitors to hear the details of the trial. So he hired, at $1 a head, a sufficient number of unemployed to wait in line and fill the court room in hope of excluding all others. His plans were discovered and the court stationed guards to allow the entrance of everyone.

EXPLOSIVE ORE FOUND IN MEXICO

Washington.—An expedition just returned from the mining regions of northern Mexico reports the discovery of a mineral that exploded violently when first discovered.

Dr. W. F. Foshag, Smithsonian geologist in charge of the party, said that the mineral has been named Hillenbrandite and is found in no other place in the world. Its discovery was marked by a series of explosions in a mine from which silver ore was being extracted. They were believed to be due to high pressure, the mineral being so condensed that it burst when the mine tunnel gave it an outlet.

Two other rare minerals, Velandite and Spurrite, were discovered in the same mine; they were the largest known gypsum crystals in the world. The crystals measure up to 5 feet in length and are 3 or 10 inches thick.

The mine was discovered many years ago by a band of smugglers who were fleeing through the hills.

"DOGGY" SPECTATOR

Leicester, England.—There is a dog here who regularly visits a motion picture show. He goes to the front of the theater, selects a vacant seat and watches the performance until the close. At times he registers excitement, but never barks nor makes any trouble for proprietor or visitors. When the show is over, he jumps down and trots quietly out, to return the next day whether there is a change of program or not.

SPECIAL FEBRUARY SALE OF FOUR-ROOM HOME OUTFITS

The Living Room—A Bright, Cherry Room You'll Love

The furnishings for this important room consist of a three-piece, full over-stuffed suite. Each piece is thoroughly well made, perfect in construction and covered with a superior grade velour in pretty colorings. A large davenport table in mahogany finish; a floor lamp that will harmonize and a bridge lamp, the whole making a group that is desirable from every viewpoint.

The Dining Room—One that Reflects Hospitality and Charm

The Italian Renaissance is reproduced in the massive, yet cultured lines of the suite shown above. It consists of eight pieces. An extra large buffet with lots of deep, roomy drawers and cupboard storage space. The table is oblong and just as pictured. There are five side chairs and a host chair, all with leather covered anti-sag seats. A polychrome mirror for over the buffet and a compote set completes the room.

The Bedroom—Restful, Worthy a Place in Any Home

The walnut-finished four-piece suite shown above consists of full size bow-end bed, the dresser, fitted with a large plate mirror and four deep drawers, is tastefully decorated to match the other pieces. A French vanity case and a desirable chest of drawers, perfect this very much wanted suite. Along with the four pieces we include a chair, a bench and a bed lamp. Everything placed just where and as you want it.

The Kitchen—A Place Where Cooking Becomes a Pleasure

In these days of crowded apartments and small homes, kitchen space is reduced to a minimum—only the absolutely necessary pieces of equipment can be used. The pieces shown above are what we include. A genuine white enamel table with a white porcelain top, two white enamel finished chairs and a Plaut three-burner gas cooker with a large baking and roasting oven.

Five Piece Breakfast Set

Five extra well made pieces, all ready for decorating in your favorite colors. The best value of the year. $14.95

Aha, discovery. All these years we have struggled along somehow not knowing the depth of our ignorance. I refer to the quaint old custom of sending flowers, if any. Most of us just drop into a florist shop and order roses or carnations or primroses or cyclamens according to our own taste and that of the recipient. But it's all wrong, girls, terribly wrong!

Now they grant injunctions to prevent marriages. Simon Steilman, a planing proprietor, who found his wife's love cooled as well as his cold storage poultry, asked an injunction to prevent his divorced wife from marrying one Jacob Schaeffer. And we wager that instead of getting all riled up, the lady in question was secretly tickled that he cared enough to stop her!

Good Nature and Good Health DANGEROUS TO ADD WEIGHT AFTER MIDDLE AGE BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. For such increase in weight, and practically all scientific writers today agree that after the age of 60 it is well for a person to diminish in weight. If he fails to do this, it is regarded as a dangerous sign.

er ones. One of the early symptoms of high blood pressure is the sudden onset of slight hemorrhages, such as bleeding from the nose, from the gums, from the throat, or from the kidneys. A Danger Sign The occurrence of a hemorrhage, no matter how slight or from what portion of the body, should always be taken as a warning sign of disturbance and demands immediate consultation with a physician.

How She Hints

By ISRAEL KLEIN, Science Editor, NEA Service.

The American Gas Association is looking for a chemical that, introduced into gasoline as well as other gases, will give quick warning of the presence of deadly fumes. In gasoline it's the carbon monoxide exhaust gas that has been causing so many sudden deaths of motorists, especially during cold weather. The gas is all the more dangerous in that it is colorless, odorless and tasteless, leaving its victim no opportunity to discover it or even to call for help when he is under its influence.

A chemical that could warn him of its presence, through making him sneeze or cry or cough, for example, would be a wonderful boon. Of course, it would have to be of a kind that would not impair the efficiency of the fuel of the motor.

Carbon monoxide combines with the hemoglobin, or red coloring matter of the blood, 300 times more easily than oxygen. Hemoglobin normally absorbs the oxygen of the air and carries it to the lungs and tissues for body development.

Oxygen, however, has little chance of entering the body, with the least amount of carbon monoxide around.

By choking off the much-needed oxygen, this gas causes quick asphyxiation.

In a test at the Pittsburgh station of the U. S. bureau of mines, a dog was put in a closed garage where an automobile engine was kept idling. In 12 minutes the dog was unconscious and in 25 minutes it was dead.

This shows the importance of keeping the garage open when starting the car in any weather, and of keeping the car outside, even in extreme cold, if some work has to be done on it with the engine running.

Even warming up the engine before starting out in the morning is a dangerous job, unless the door is wide open. At this operation, usually, the engine is speeded up a bit, the choke is used often and the amount of carbon monoxide in the exhaust is so much heavier that its poisonous effect might be noticed in half the time it is ordinarily effective.

When this gas is noticed, it may be too late. The fumes are so insidious that the victim will suddenly collapse and become entirely helpless. He may be conscious of his condition for a time, yet he may be entirely unable to escape or call for help.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning usually come in the following order:

Yawning, sleepiness, weariness. Then a strained feeling across the forehead. Then a frontal headache, at first dull and intermittent, later more severe and continuous. Next a headache at the base and back of the skull. At the same time there's dizziness, nausea and lassitude or physical and mental debility.

By that time the victim is fairly well gone toward actual poisoning.

AND STILL ANOTHER

Elmira, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Authorities at Elmira college today were investigating the suicide of Edith M. Stewart of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., a 23-year-old student who took her life yesterday by swallowing poison.

It was said by classmates that the girl had been brooding over a reprimand received as a result of an unauthorized visit to Cornell university, in Ithaca.

FARM BLOC WINS.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The farm bloc won a test victory in the House today when a motion to substitute the Aswell agricultural bill for the McNary-Haugen measure was defeated, 144 to 160. This was regarded as the biggest hurdle the McNary-Haugen bill has to take in its road to enactment, and indicates the final passage of the measure.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

A LIVE WIRE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. With eight eyes and eight legs he ought to be a hustler and accomplish big things. He makes the most of his equipment, as this picture shows.

Here is a crab spider carrying home his dinner. He will not, however, sumptuously dine on these dainty wings, for his mouth and stomach are only adapted for liquid food, and so he sucks his victim dry.

The crab spider does not enmesh his victim in a web like so many other spiders, but lies in wait upon plant or flower and makes a sudden assault. This photograph from life shows how successful he is. He is master of the art of camouflage: when upon a yellow blossom he borrows the flower's golden tint, while he assumes a snowy hue while resting upon a pure white petal.

Most people regard the spider as an insect, when in truth he is nearer to a lobster, crab or shrimp. Insects have fewer eyes and legs than spiders and spiders do not pass through the various stages of insect life, but emerge from the eggs perfectly.

Whatever his attitude toward the insect world, in his relation to man he shows his best side. He never attacks a person. He is not uncleanly and though he seeks the hospitality of your home, he does not create much nuisance—just a gossamer web that a whisk of the broom will brush into nothingness. He never injures vegetation in the garden or in the forest.

But these are all negative virtues. His real value to man is the enormous number of flies and other harmful insects which he destroys. In the picture he has just captured the butterfly of the green caterpillar which works such havoc in the cabbage patch.

HE'S INSURED

NIGHT CLUBS DYING

New York—On the heels of the night club curfew law, speakeases have become the popular places of after-theater entertainment in New York. Licensed night clubs are being deserted by patrons who now seek diversion in rum dives. Much of the night club business also has been diverted to hotels.

A togged out girl looks "sweet enough to eat"—and she usually will.

SENSE and NONSENSE

We heard of a man who couldn't come to work one morning. He had eaten an extra piece of toast and couldn't get out of the breakfast nook.

Young bride to husband: "Wake up, dear, it's time to take your insomnia medicine."

Science has found something smaller than the atom, but mentions no names.

RR. 117 MILES LONG TO HAUL BIG SHIPS

Plans For Great Scientific Engineering Feat Revealed by Scientists Who Contend That $175,000,000 Route Will Successfully Compete With Panama Canal.

New York.—A "ship railway" across the entire span of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, in the southernmost part of Mexico, with sufficient capacity for hauling the largest of the world's present-day seagoing vessels, now is the dream of European capitalists, according to plans revealed here today in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

The program calling for the construction of this latest and most novel feat of engineering on Western Hemisphere, which for the past three years has occupied the attention of some of the Old World's most brilliant civil and mechanical engineering minds, hinges solely upon the final granting of a concession now under consideration by the Mexican Government to bring about its realization.

According to Messrs. Rudolf Wassermann and Heinrich Fastisch, eminent German scientific engineers, at one time associated with the late Hugo Siemens of Germany, and who now are in New York en route to Mexico City, the contemplated "ship railway" venture, when completed, will prove a keen competitor to the Panama Canal because its toll charges will be less in proportion to those now being charged for passage through the Panama waterway.

Cost $175,000,000. "It is the contention of the scientific world," said Herr Wassermann, "that wherever a canal can be built to float a ship, a railroad can be constructed to carry one, and the present estimated cost to build the 'ship canal' across the Isthmus will be between 150 and 175 million dollars.

The plans as finally agreed upon by the European capitalists and which will be submitted to the Mexican government for its approval, call for an almost straight-away and level route lying between the town of Coahuila, at the mouth of the river by the same name, on the Bay of Campeche, State of Veracruz, across the Isthmus a distance of about 117 miles, to the town of Huixtlan, State of Oaxaca, on the Pacific coast.

Herr Wassermann said that the route of the proposed "ship railway" calls for but one bend across the entire stretch of the Isthmus and this at a point known as Chilveta, in the State of Oaxaca, where a mammoth turn-table will be built to make the necessary bend in the direction of Huixtlan in order to take advantage of a broad and level canyon through the Sierra Madres.

Thirty Rails Wide. Describing in detail the construction of the proposed "ship railway" Herr Wassermann said the right-of-way will be built up on 30 rails, spaced according to standard gauge, while the specifications call for a grade of not more than 50 feet to the mile at each terminal. The trackage will submerge or descend into the water at these points thus enabling the ships to be lodged into a floating drydock or cradle for transportation across the Isthmus.

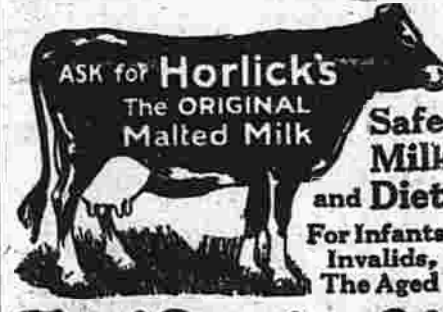

"The wheel cradle carriage or drydock," explained Herr Wassermann, "will be built in sections or units, thus permitting easy adjustment of the keel blocks which can readily be arranged to accommodate the largest ships afloat.

PLOT AGAINST "EXAM" HOODOO
Columbia, Mo.—Final examinations at the University of Missouri have brought to light a number of superstitions among students. One man always carries eight acorns in his pocket to ward off bad luck in quizzes. Some carry horseshoes and others rabbits' feet. The members of one fraternity took their finals dressed in black. One student for weeks refused to shave until his grade in a certain subject had been reported as passing. Many students have certain articles of clothing which are supposed to be lucky when worn in the examination rooms.

"ISLAND UNIVERSES"
Mt. Wilson, Cal.—With cameras of the giant reflecting telescopes of the observatory here, Dr. Edwin Hubble has been studying the nebular universes outside our own solar system. These "extra-galactic" objects, he says, are not actually gaseous nebulae, but are spiral groupings of stars. Dr. Hubble finds that within a distance of 500,000,000,000,000,000 miles, these groups are evenly distributed with one spiral for a cubic space represented by the figure 7 and 56 ciphers.

WINTER FLYING EASIER
Dallas, Tex.—Flying is easier in winter than in summer, according to reports of aviators on the Chicago-Dallas air mail route. The air, they say, is "thicker" in winter and is more calm and clear.

CARNIVAL AT H. S. MONDAY EVENING

Preparations are being made for the big High school carnival which is to be held in the High school on next Monday evening. The affair will be a most elaborate one, and will include almost every form of entertainment.

Tickets for this carnival have been placed on sale. Each ticket is numbered, and entitles the holder to a chance on one of the door prizes. Tickets may be had from any member of the local High school.

In the auditorium there will be a continuous program of entertainment offered from the stage. Two one act plays, "When Two's Not Company" and "Sardines" will be presented by the Soc and Buskin club. There will also be vaudeville and a minstrel act.

Besides the entertainment features from the stage there are to be booths of various kinds placed along the sides of the auditorium. There will be candy and refreshment stalls, and booths featuring various kinds of diversion.

In addition to all the attractions in the auditorium, there are to be other features. A French cafe, which will be the biggest novelty of the evening, is to be run by the French and German clubs. This cafe will be complete in every detail. It will be an exact replica of the world famous French cafes of Paris. There will be a continuous program of entertainment. Of course there will be waiters and waitresses the same as in the most fashionable cafes. A seven piece dance orchestra will furnish music. The cafe alone should be an attraction big enough to draw a large crowd.

There will also be other side shows, such as a shooting gallery, a "hit the clown on the head" gallery, and a "chamber of horrors." After the completion of the first part of the evening and the entertainment programs, there will be dancing until 12:30 p. m.

If you want a new living room or dining room set, and want to furnish in your used set, call Benson's Furniture Exchange, 170, 649 Main street, Farr Block—Adv.
