

NEW CHARTER WOULD SOLVE 'CITY' PUZZLE

Selectmen to Ask Town Meeting to Name Revision Committee; Present Document Is Confusing.

A complete revision of the charter of the Town of Manchester may result from the action of the Board of Selectmen in voting to recommend to a town meeting that a committee of 15 members be named to study and draw up necessary changes in the present document. Exactly 20 years ago the charter under which the town is now operating was drafted by a committee of 15 of which Horace B. Cheney was chairman.

The Selectmen's action comes after a thorough discussion of town planning, town zoning and city classification. The board has decided that either planning or zoning should be adopted by Manchester, and the members are also inclined to favor city classification, if it can be done legally and in a way that will not cause confusion in the future.

No Complete Document

When the present charter was granted by the General Assembly 20 years ago certain sections were rejected. Since that time nearly every Assembly has passed an act in some way affecting the charter. Considerable confusion is the result. Many of Manchester's rights under the charter are merely "amendments" to amendments. There is no complete document that can be called the town's charter. It is the original document plus all these amendments that have been approved by the Legislature.

A new charter would allow an opportunity to gather all the rights together in one document. The obsolete sections could be dropped and proposed changes such as town planning, zoning and city classification could be embodied in it. The General Assembly two years hence would be asked to grant a charter to the City of Manchester, Connecticut. As a matter of fact the present form of government would not be greatly changed.

A City in Fact

It is the general opinion here that the present form of government is satisfactory and economical. Highest authorities here and throughout the state agree that Manchester's form is a good one and as efficient as most city governments. The town's size and form of government are such that it is called a city and a city it would be, in every sense of the word, if the General Assembly would grant it a revised charter as a city.

A future town meeting will be asked to name a charter revision committee of 15 members, of which Manchester men who have had experience in the local government, the Selectmen plan. The committee would hold hearings on the changes it would propose and the voters would have an opportunity to act on the matter either before the charter was presented to the Legislature or in a referendum vote.

POLICEMAN ARRESTED

Providence, R. I., Feb. 25.—Patrolman Robert F. Lyon and his companion, Edward Johnson, were under arrest today and four women and three men were suffering painful wounds as the result of the policeman driving Johnson's car into a crowd who had just left a Swedish American dance in Rhodes Casino and were waiting for trolley cars.

The patrolman and Johnson were charged with intoxication by Cranston police and Lyon with driving while under the influence of liquor.

Versatility Personified in Local Man

The Herald tomorrow will describe in a story some of the many sides of one of the most interesting characters the nation has ever seen.

He was versatile. Whatever he put his hand to he accomplished. Some of his projects were nearing completion when he died.

His work is not widely known by the younger generation of Manchester residents but those who lived here 30 and 40 years ago will recall him as an old friend.

He was of the earth and it was from the earth that he extracted his enjoyment and his employment. An authority on the soil, he was also one of the first newspaper columnists in the United States, the forerunner of that great army of men who contribute daily to the nation's entertainment.

To tell his life history would take volumes but a little of his work and something of the man himself will be printed tomorrow in

PATRIOTIC NAMES FOR SET OF TWINS.

Willimantic, Feb. 25.—Twin children, a boy and a girl, born on Washington's birthday to Mr. and Mrs. John Czalanuski, Anthony street, will be baptized on Sunday at St. Joseph's church, the parents announced today. The boy is to be named George Washington Czalanuski and the girl is to be named Martha Washington Czalanuski. They were the first pair of twins born here this year.

HOSPITAL BEQUEST AIDS MANCHESTER

Former Resident Gives Free Bed Fund to Hartford and St. Francis Hospitals.

A will filed in the Hartford district probate court today bequeaths funds to hospitals in Hartford with free bed preference to the people of Manchester. It is the will of Mrs. Anna B. Fischer, wife of the late Otto Fischer of New York City and formerly superintendent of the Cheney Farm here. A fund of $5,000 is entrusted to the Hartford hospital and another of $5,000 to St. Francis hospital. In each case bona fide residents of this town will be given preference as beneficiaries.

Died Just Recently

Mrs. Fischer died in New York City on Saturday and was buried there on Monday. Her will is being executed by the Hartford Connecticut Trust company. The estate totals about $10,000.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fischer will be remembered by the other residents of Manchester. Mr. Fischer was superintendent of the Cheney Farm for several years and they lived in the farm house just off Prospect street. They removed to Hartford from here and later to New York City.

BOMB JUDGE'S HOME IN NEW YORK CITY

Family Has Narrow Escape as House Is Wrecked by Explosion—Police Active.

New York, Feb. 25.—Former City Court Justice John Palmieri, 56, his wife and their four children narrowly escaped death early today when a time bomb wrecked the front of their home in Brooklyn. The force of the infernal machine hurled all six from their beds.

Two men in a sedan were seen to drive up to the house about fifteen minutes before the explosion; one walked up to the porch, dropped "something," and hurried back to the machine, which sped off.

Every window in the house was shattered. The front of the house was a total wreck.

DAVE BAIRD DEAD; WAS U. S. SENATOR

Known as the "Sage of New Jersey Politics" — Was in 88th Year.

Camden, N. J., Feb. 25.—David Baird, former United States Senator from New Jersey, familiarly termed the "Sage of New Jersey Politics," died at his home early today, following a protracted illness. He was in his eighty-eighth year.

Our Dirty Faces Impress London's Messenger Boy

Seventeen Year Old Lad Here With Phonograph Records, Gives His Impressions.

Editor's Note: Daniel Rudge, 17-year-old London messenger boy, who was never before outside of his home city limits, was given two minutes' notice to catch the boat for New York and deliver $25,000 in phonograph records. He tells here his impressions of America, a fresh and unusual slant differing from the older stories of ourselves as other Europeans see us, exclusively to The Evening Herald.

By DANIEL EDWARD RUDGE
New York, Feb. 25.—I have been asked what I think of America, I like it, but I would never make them slow up and we don't have to worry about getting hit by the traffic. The traffic here is on the wrong side of the street; they should be over on the left side. I don't see how they avoid smashups—but then I see in the papers they are always having them.

No Smiles
And nobody smiles much on America's streets. In London the bobbies and the messenger boys are pale and always give a cheer to each other and the green grocers and always keep always have a pleasant word for you. Here in America the merchants have cross faces and gruff voices.

When I was sitting quietly in our office in London a man walked in and gave me $25,000 worth of phonograph records, and said, "Here, lad, take these to America on the next boat." He did not seem excited and he acted as if he were sending me around the corner for a pack of cigarettes.

When I landed in America there was a big brass band of messenger boys waiting to greet me and a long row of newspaper camera shooting at me.

Babe Ruth?
That is the difference between the two countries, I guess.

Had I ever heard of Babe Ruth? That was the question asked me by Luke Muldoon, my pal now. He is one of New York's messenger boys.

No, I told him, I never heard of Babe Ruth in all my life. Who is the bally old dear, I asked him, and he looked like I was a bit off my nut.

And do you know he never had heard of our Jack Hobbs? Why Jack Hobbs of Surrey, is the greatest cricket player in the world.

And the slang—the "cinemas" here are "movies" but the stars are just the same. I got all mixed up; they call "stalls" here "box seats" and the "pits" is downstairs. Instead of "sundays" we eat "ice-cream" and they call our "lifts" just "elevators."

In London we get a little more than a pound a week which is about $5 over here. American boys get three times that much, and tips too.

Englishmen don't tip as handsomely as Americans. Why sometimes we go weeks at a time without a single tip. And a shilling tip is a good thing here, "box seats" and "pits" is downstairs. Instead of "sundays" we eat "ice-cream" and they call our "lifts" just "elevators."

But just the same, while I am glad to see America, I like England better.

DEMANDS A PROBE OF MOVIE INDUSTRY

Indiana Man Says Hays Controls 95 Per Cent of Business Which Is Trust.

Washington, Feb. 25.—A complaint charging the existence of a gigantic moving picture trust, comprising all the corporations governed by Will H. Hays, movie "czar," has been filed with the Department of Justice with demand for an investigation. It was learned today. Aside from admitting that a complaint against the alleged "Hays Trust" had been received from Frank J. Rembusch, head of the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association of Indiana and that an inquiry would be made, Justice Department officials declined to comment.

Not Enough Evidence

So far, insufficient evidence to justify an anti-trust prosecution has been presented. It was understood, however, that Rembusch would be requested to furnish additional facts and that the department might launch a study of the make-up of the entire motion picture industry to determine whether the Shorman and Clayton laws have been violated.

Rembusch, in his letter, alleged that all companies operating under Hays compromise a trust and that independents are unable to break into the movie business without his sanction.

Control Industry

The Hays organization and its members control the production and distribution field and dominate the entire industry, he said. The Hays association is said to control about 95 per cent of the moving picture industry.

If a theater owner complains, his character and business are subject to assassination," Rembusch wrote. "Often if a theater owner refuses to buy a picture they will send agents into his city to destroy the good will he has with patrons and threaten to build a theater in competition."

LAST OUTPOST AT SHANGHAI IS CAPTURED

Foreigners Guarding City as Defenders Fight Cantonese Hordes; Fengtien Troops Are Arriving Fast.

LOOTING BEGINS

Shanghai, Feb. 25.—Soldiers of the Sun Chuan Fang armies in full retreat are reported to be looting in the suburbs of Shanghai.

Foreign troops have been placed at strategic points and may come in contact with these troops outside the limits of the international settlement.

Light guns are placed in commanding positions in the international settlement and Italian and Japanese troops are giving support to the British.

London, Feb. 25.—The Cantonese have captured Sunkiang, the last stronghold outside of Shanghai, according to a Shanghai dispatch to the Central News, as yet unconfirmed from other sources.

FOREIGNERS ON GUARD

Shanghai, Feb. 25.—A thin line of foreign allied troops took to the field today to protect Shanghai and its large foreign population while the warring Chinese military chiefs were preparing to fight it out among themselves to determine whether the northern or the southern faction shall control the city and its million dollars a month customs collection.

Take Up Position

The British troops took up positions in the Jess field district far beyond the south-west boundary of the international concession. Japanese military occupied similar positions in the northern Kiangwan district. The American marines are remaining aboard the United States war craft in the Yangtze river but are prepared to land on a moment's notice.

Many Warships

As this dispatch is filed, Shanghai is protected on the south and west by British ships, on the east by Japanese, and on the east by Italian troops. Numerous foreign warships in the Yangtze guard the river front.

These precautions, a spokesman for the municipal government said, were a direct outgrowth of the arrival of Chang Tso-Lin's Fengtien troops, whom the spokesman characterized as the worst troops in all China.

Fengtien Troops

The Fengtien troops, apparently are wintering at Shanghai. Five thousand additional Fengtien troops arrived this morning, bringing their total to 8,000.

General Pi Shou-Chen, governor of Tsingtau and commander of a division of the Fengtien, in an interview today declared that at least 40,000 Fengtien troops will take the field against the Cantonese. He said a steady stream of these most efficient fighting men were pouring toward Shanghai.

EMPLOYEES TO HELP MILL TO KEEP OPEN

To Loan Money to Firm to Enable It to Pay Its Taxes To the Government.

Hudson, Mass., Feb. 25.—Reason for the complete shut-down of the big plant of the Thomas H. Loyal Shoe Co., employing 400 hands, was a payroll of $25,000 a week, was the inability to liquidate the government tax, it was disclosed today.

A mass meeting of employees was called for Tuesday evening to discuss and act on a plan for each worker to loan a portion of his wages to pay the tax bill, the money to be returned as soon as the plant is again on a stable basis.

FORTY PERSONS DEAD IN RAILROAD WRECK

Over 100 Injured When Axle Breaks Near Tampico, in Mexico; Mostly Workmen.

Mexico City, Feb. 25.—Bodies of the victims of the disastrous train-wreck near Tampico were being removed from the wreckage today, and physicians and nurses were giving aid to the injured.

The death list is now fixed at forty while it is believed that close to one hundred suffered injuries.

A broken axle on one car of the train, which was bound from Tampico to Monterrey, caused a derailment and wooden cars telescoped and smashed into bits.

Toronto, Ontario, Feb. 25.—Alleged to have conspired with three men to disfigure his wife, Fred Scott, of Woodbridge, was adjudged insane today.

PRESIDENT VETOES BILL FRAMED BY FARM BLOC

NO!

President Coolidge vetoing Farm Bloc's pet measure. The veto throws down the gauntlet to middle-western politicians. "The bill," he said, "would impose the burden of its support to a large degree upon farmers who would not benefit by it."

McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Measure Is Unworkable, Unconstitutional, Will Not Help Farmers and Is a Price Fixer, He Says.

Washington, Feb. 25.—President Coolidge vetoed the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill today and in a vigorous message to Congress explaining his action declared that the bill was unconstitutional, that it would not benefit the farmer, and that it was unworkable.

The President's veto throws down the gauntlet to his middle-western political opponents, who wrote and campaigned ceaselessly for the bill. It also kills any chance for farm relief legislation until next December, as there is no chance of enactment of the measure over the veto, nor is there time to put through any other program in the week remaining of the present session.

Hacks Bill to Pieces

While the principal ground for the veto was its stated unconstitutionality, supported by a lengthy opinion from the attorney general, Mr. Coolidge literally hacked the bill to pieces with his criticisms of it.

The unconstitutionality was based upon that section which would limit the President in his choice of board which administer the act, of men to comprise the federal This was interpreted by the attorney general to violate the constitutional appointive power of the President.

Some of His Remarks

But, aside from that, Mr. Coolidge said:

"The chief objection to the bill is that it would not benefit the farmer....

"It would not succeed in providing a practical method of controlling the agricultural surplus, which is the heart of the whole problem....

"The administrative difficulties involved are sufficient to wreck the plan....

"The bill would subject the whole agricultural industry to the tyranny of bureaucratic regulation and control....

"The bill would impose the burden of its support to a large degree upon farmers who would not benefit by it....

"The whole effect of the plan will be to continuously stimulate American production and to pile up increasing surpluses beyond the world demand....

"The bill is essentially a price-fixing bill....

These were but a few of the barbed shafts shot at the Farm Bloc's pet measure by Mr. Coolidge in the course of a message that ran nearly 3,000 words.

Does Not Aid Farmers

"The difficulty with this particular measure," the President said, "is that it is not framed to aid farmers as a whole and it is, furthermore, calculated to injure rather than promote the public welfare....

"It is axiomatic that progress is made through building on good foundations that already exist. For many years balanced and diversified farming has been regarded by thoughtful farmers and scientists as the safeguarding of our agriculture. The bill under consideration throws this aside as of no consequence....

"The measure discriminates against products which make up what has universally been considered a program of safe farming. The bill upholds as ideals of American farming the men who grow cotton, wheat, rice, swine, tobacco and nothing else. These are to be given special favors at the expense of the farmer who toiled for years to build up a constructive farming enterprise to include a variety of crops and livestock....

Few Products

"The bill singles out a few products, chiefly sectional, and proposes to raise the prices of these regardless of the fact that thousands of other farmers would be directly penalized....

Why, he asked, if this is a true relief measure, were all other products left out except those mentioned today....

Going into the operation of the measure, the President declared it would aid chiefly the millers, exporters, packers, spinners—everybody but the farmer....

A HARD BLOW

Chicago, Feb. 25.—"The President's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill is a repudiation of the platform upon which he was elected," Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, declared today.

"We expected it, of course," he said, "but it is a hard blow."

MISSING MAHONEY GIRL DISCOVERED

Daughter of Supreme Court Justice Found in Cohoes, N. Y.—To Be Sent Home.

Cohoes, N. Y., Feb. 25—"I guess it was wonderful."

This was the explanation given today by Kasia Mahoney, 15-year-old daughter of Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, of New York City, found here today after being mysteriously missing from her home since Monday morning.

"I have seen some of the world, and I will be glad to return home and start in school again," said Miss Mahoney.

The girl was interviewed in the office of Police Chief Louis King of this city.

Walks Into Station

Miss Mahoney walked into police headquarters last night and asked for a night's lodging. Chief King thought he recognized the girl as Miss Mahoney and he started to question her. Not until today did she finally admit her identity.

"I knew I would have to give up my little trip through the state in the end because my money was gone," said Miss Mahoney. "I have enjoyed every minute of the time that I have been away from home, but I am sorry if I caused my parents any worry."

Police Chief King communicated with the New York city police department as soon as the girl admitted her identity.

"I just received a telephone message from Commissioner McLaughlin of the New York police department that a man had left New York on his way to Cohoes and would take the girl back with him late today," said Chief King.

DEFICIENCY BILL PASSED BY HOUSES

Both Branches Vote $28,895 to Pay Bills—Other Business of Legislature.

Hartford, Feb. 25.—Both Houses of the Legislature today passed a second deficiency bill under suspension of the rules. The bill calls for the expenditure of $28,895 for deficiencies which have occurred or will occur before June 30 in the military department, shell fish commission, tax commissioner's office and the motor vehicle department branch office at New Haven. The New Haven item calls for $15,000 and is the largest item in the bill.

The House received a favorable report on a marriage license bill that provides that residents of the state must give five days notice of intention to marry, as now is the case with non-residents.

Rejects Bill

The House rejected a bill which provides a penalty for holding membership in an organization that is controlled by foreign interests or whose head lives in another country. In reporting on this bill Representative William L. Larash, of Orange, characterized it as "one of those bills, backed by a certain organization and aimed against another certain organization but both the backing and aims denied by both organizations."

Favorable reports received in the House today were: reimbursing $20 for the cost of physical examination of school children, the bill being passed under suspension of rules; reimbursing East Granby in the amount of $150.

TO SEARCH ALL AUTOS AT CANADIAN BORDERS

American Tourists Are Warned to be Careful During Coming Summer Season.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Tourists who contemplate visiting Canada during the coming summer season were warned today by the treasury that all automobiles will be searched carefully for liquor.

Customs authorities were notified to give returning tourists a chance to "declare their liquor." If a tourist admits he has liquor he loses it; if he denies carrying concealed liquor, an inspection discloses the wet goods he must pay five dollars a bottle. He will not be prosecuted, however.

Tourists or others caught with more than twelve quarts of liquor will be deemed bootleggers and will face confiscation, not only of the liquor and their automobile but

About 2,500,000 American automobiles are expected to visit Canada this year.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—"The President's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill is a repudiation of the platform upon which he was elected," Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, declared today.

"We expected it, of course," he said, "but it is a hard blow."

PRISONERS IN CAGE AS THE TRIAL OPENS

Boston, Mass., Feb. 25.—As eye-witnesses to the daring $65,000 mall robbery from a Salisbury train testified to a jury in Federal Court today the three defendants, John Boyd, also wanted in Philadelphia for alleged wife-murder, John and Michael Andrews, father and son of Nashua, N. H., were locked up in a cage in the courtroom. It was the first time the steel cage had been used in years at the federal building. Special guards stood near the caged defendants. All were armed. The chief government witness today was William H. Jordan, of Beverly, baggagemaster, who testified to being held up on the train by Boyd and a companion, who shouted: "Hold your hands up; get the money!" The postal funds were thrown from the train to a waiting automobile and the two train robbers leaped to the waiting car and escaped.

ABOUT TOWN

Manchester Grange members at their meeting in Tinker hall Wednesday evening enjoyed a debate as to who was the greater man—Washington or Lincoln. On the side of the Father of his Country were Miss Helen Chedell and William H. Cowles. Those who debated for the great Emancipator were Mrs. Laura Loomis and Dan Miller, and they won, the decision was in favor of President Lincoln. Illustrated songs, story-telling, stunts and refreshments followed. The Men's Choral club will have its usual weekly rehearsal at 7:30 this evening, at the South Methodist church. India's death toll from snake bites last year was 18,000. The drone bee has 13,800 eyes, the workers 6400 and the queen 4900. The heat conductivity of water is 21 times as great as that of air.

"BATTLING" NELSON IS THOUGHT CRAZY

Once Champion Pugilist Sent To Hospital In Chicago For Mental Examination.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Oscar "Batling" Nelson, who twenty years ago was lightweight champion of the world, today was ordered sent to the psychopathic hospital for examination. Nelson was brought into court in an effort to secure extradition papers for his return to Montana where he is accused of having stolen motion pictures of his championship fight with Ad Wolgast, which Nelson lost. The case was held over until March 3 pending a report on Nelson's sanity.

BUCKNER TO RESIGN WITHIN 2 MONTHS

New York, Feb. 25.—United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner today opened his summation to the jury at the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial with a defense of his administration and a declaration that he would quit office in about two months, because he could not support his family on his present salary. Buckner said he took the office with the understanding that he would remain two years. "Never until yesterday had I ever been accused of any irregularity in office," he said, with tears visible in his eyes. "I would rather be accused of murder than of perverting my oath of office." His declaration was a reply to the charge of Aaron Sapiro, counsel for Miller, that the United States attorney had committed a misdemeanor by permitting a man not admitted to the New York bar to assist him in the present prosecution. He denied the charge.

VETERAN'S SAD STORY "QUEERED" BY POLICE

Greenwich, Feb. 25.—Clarence Thomas, 26, of Atlanta, Georgia, was sent to jail by Judge James R. Mead today for thirty days on a charge of vagrancy. Thomas was arrested yesterday by two police officers on duty after he had approached one of them twice. Thomas told Judge Mead he was a war veteran of Battery F, Fifth division, and had spent months in Walter Reed Memorial hospital, Washington. Thomas told of starting from Atlanta seven months ago for Boston, working his passage from Norfolk to Boston on a boat. He said he had been in Boston without work for four months except during a period when he shoveled snow. He told of being sent to jail at Worcester for two months for vagrancy and then told of trying to get enough money to pay his fare back to Atlanta. Then the police showed the judge a fair-sized bankroll that they had taken from Thomas.

HOLD TWO BOYS.

Stamford, Feb. 25.—Two youths giving their names and addresses as August Catalano, of 45 Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park, Mass., and George Brooks, of Arsenal street, both seventeen years of age, are being held by Stamford police, pending an investigation, following their arrest last night while driving an automobile without a license. The police of the Massachusetts town have been notified to determine whether the boys are the rightful owners of the machine. The heat conductivity of water is 21 times as great as that of air.

LOCAL LEGIONNAIRES DINE AT RAINBOW

Big Speaking and Entertainment Program Follows Fine Dinner.

More than 100 Legionnaires attended the annual banquet of Dillingworth-Cornell Post, American Legion, at the Rainbow Inn at Bolton last night. An excellent dinner was served by Frank Pinney, proprietor of the tavern, and the evening was given over to entertainment and speaking. Principal among the visitors were State Commander Kramer, of New Britain, State Sergeant at Arms Frank Anderson, and County President Ogren. These men, with Commander Victor Bronk of the local post, were among the speakers. Willard B. Rogers of this town, delivered a talk. Entertainment was provided by actors who were on the State theater program and one part of the program was furnished by Edgar Anderson, Manchester's "human pincushion," who performed feats such as burning his wrist, sticking tacks into his flesh and lying on board studded with nails. Music was furnished by Behrend's orchestra. The affair was such a success that it is expected it will become an annual event in the Legion's program.

ARREST SIX YOUTHS FOR ROBBING STORES

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 25.—The arrests of Nelson Martin and William Robinson, local youths, in Westport on Wednesday afternoon were followed today by the arrests of four local youths who, police say, admit a series of store burglaries here and in Oakville and Waterbury. They were arrested when state police of the Westport barracks came here with information they said they obtained from Martin and Robinson. Three of the youths under arrest will be tried in the Waterbury town court this evening. They are Edward Burns, 17, of 7 Fleet street; John Comerford, 17, of 37 Barnes street; and John Stack, 17, of 481 North Main street. The fourth, who is 16, has been placed in custody of his parents pending a juvenile court hearing later.

SECURING TALESMEN

Bridgport, Conn., Feb. 25.—Thirty talesmen are to be secured from Fairfield county outside the Bridgport, Fairfield and Trumbull areas for service here next week during the trial of George F. Eckert and others on various charges including manufacture and sale of liquor. When the case was opened before Judge Isaac Wolfe in Superior Court today, seven men jurors were called. Then Judge Wolfe ordered new talesmen secured and put the trial over until Tuesday. Meanwhile Benjamin Slade of New Haven and Jacob D. Klein, of Bridgeport, counsel for the defendants, sought separate trials. Judge Wolfe denied the motions to this effect.

EX-EMPRESS AND PRINCE NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH

San Sebastian, Feb. 25.—The ex-empress Zita of Austria and Prince Otto, claimant to the Austrian throne, had a marvelous escape from death when an automobile in which they were riding overturned near the international bridge at Irun. Neither the ex-empress or the prince were injured, although members of their party suffered fractured bones and were forced to go to the hospital.

SENATE FILIBUSTER
JAMS LEGISLATURE

Washington, Feb. 25.—Although assured of a vote tomorrow on the Johnson petition involving cloture, the Boulder Dam bill was threatened in the Senate today on every side by drives to displace it in favor of other legislation.

A Frenchman in Rouen is said to follow the hobby of embroidering eggshells. From 600 to 2000 tiny shells are made in each shell. One eggshell will take sometimes as long as two years to complete and costs $1000.

ate will vote for cloture on it in order to end the filibuster. Unless cloture is adopted, it was said, the bill is doomed to defeat along with numerous other bills.

The immediate conflict facing the Senate as it met today was a race between sponsors of the new public buildings and the alien property bills for the opportunity to displace the Boulder Dam measure.

One of the worst legislative jams in memory developed in the Senate as a result of the filibuster against the Boulder Dam measure and the efforts of its advocates to force it to a final vote.

The fighting chance for Senator Johnson, Republican of California, to win his remarkable fight for enactment of the bill, lay in the possibility that two-thirds of the Sen-

EXPECT A THOUSAND
AT ST. MARY'S MASQUE

Historic Annual Costume Ball Will Have Entrants From Neighboring Cities.

Cheney Hall will be the gathering place for nearly a thousand people tonight on the occasion of the 31st annual masquerade ball which is being given by St. Mary's Young Men's club of this town.

Usually the ball is attended by people from all over this section of the state. Rockville, Willimantic and Hartford send large delegations for the prizes which are offered are usually attractive.

The girl with the most beautiful costume will receive a diamond-encrusted ring and second prize is to be a desirable white-gold bracelet.

For the past five years the men's prizes have been won by members of the Clemons family of the north end. They have shown originality in their costumes and usually create a small riot when they enter the hall.

The grand march tonight will begin promptly at 9 o'clock and all those in costume are asked to be there at that time to enter. The judges will decide on the merits of the costumes during the march.

Members of St. Mary's club will appear in costume but will not be eligible to compete for prizes. About 50 costumes have been made up especially for the members of the club.

Dancing to the music of Bill Waddell's eight-piece orchestra, will begin immediately after the finish of the grand march and will continue until one in the morning.

Richard McLagan is chairman of the general committee for the affair.

Rockville, Conn., Feb. 25.—Coroner Clover Howe today issued a finding of death by suicide in the case of Mrs. Emma Chanin, of Windemere, Ellington, who yesterday drank sulphuric acid at her home. Taken to Hartford hospital in the Rockville City ambulance Mrs. Chanin died there during the night. Coroner Howe could learn no motive for the suicide.

LOCAL FIRM LOW
BIDDER ON SCHOOL

Construction Co. May Get Farmington Job; To Build Big North End Wall.

The Manchester Construction Company has been awarded the contract for erecting a very large concrete retaining wall for the Orford Soap Company. It was learned today. The wall will be located on the Orford Company premises adjoining the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Company's property at a point where the Willis Coal Company formerly had its coal pocket. The wall is to be 209 feet long and 14 feet high. It will vary in width from four to six feet.

The new wall will replace an old-fashioned timber and dirt embankment which has been decaying for several years. The plans and specifications were prepared by L. H. Geer, architect. The building permit to be issued for the work places the cost at $7,000. Work on the job will start within two weeks.

William A. Knoft, president of the Construction Company, states that the concern has several large jobs, most of them out of town, and that the company is calling back its former employees as fast as practicable, though this does not mean that the company is seeking new help.

Mr. Knoft also said that his company has submitted the lowest bid $195,074, for the erection of a high school in Farmington. The contract has not yet been awarded, however, before the town in making an appropriation.

The company has the contract for a reinforced concrete bridge for the town of Glastonbury at the Hopewell mills and for a factory on Lodge Farm street. J. John Moser, work at the homes, J. John Moser, Rheel street, Rockville; Miss Minnie Smith, Hollywood tract and C. N. Loomis, Bolton.

The company is also to build a 60 by 70 foot auto showrooom for John Daly, Jr., at Rockville. In the city it will be of brick, steel and concrete construction and one story high, with a basement.

There will be a meeting of Clan McLean, Order of Scottish Clans tonight at 7:30 at Tinker hall.

A son was born last night at the Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. William Adams, of 22 Charter Oak street.

The Beethoven Glee club of this town will give a concert in the Center Congregational church on March 7 at 8 o'clock in the evening for the benefit of the Young People's society of the Swedish Congregational church. Tickets will be placed on sale in a day or two.

Clan McLean, No. 252 O. S. C. will have its regular meeting in Tinker hall this evening.

Cleon Chapman entertained his associates in the meter department of Cheney Brothers' electrical shop at his home on Strickland street last evening. There were nine of the men present and they played cards and ate a general good time. Mrs. Chapman served refreshments.

The Oakland club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Shipman of Oakland. The ladies busied themselves in making supplies for the visiting nurse. Mrs. Lucy Ringrose. A session of games and a luncheon followed.

The committee in charge of the Men's club supper and meeting at the Second Congregational church this evening, includes Frank V. Williams, chairman; Rev. Frederick C. Allen, Frank Ingraham and Walter Henry. The supper which will be served at 6:30 will feature chicken pie. Other good things on the menu are banana salad, celery, relishes, apples, cheese, rolls and coffee. There will be chorusing of popular songs and a talk on shrubbery and plants by C. E. Wilson, the nurseryman. The primary room has been appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Since preparations are made for a certain number of tables for the bridge party March 1st at the "White house" it is necessary that anyone wishing to play must call Mrs. J. Tuttle not later than this Friday evening.

Thirty-five Salvation Army friends of Mrs. George Proctor, 55 Winter street, gave her a shower evening. Mrs. Proctor, who was married about six weeks ago, received many presents of beautiful and useful things. Games were played and a buffet lunch served.

Mrs. Robert Butler, of 84 Wells street, was taken to the Memorial hospital yesterday.

STUART DESCRIBES ANOTHER MARRIAGE
Meets Boston Miss in Hotel, Marries Her, 'Borrows' $3,000 and Skips.

Robert MacLaren Stuart was to leave Grand Haven, Mich., today for Jackson prison where he is to serve from five to ten years for passing worthless checks. Stuart pleaded guilty to the charge yesterday. The following is the fourth of a series of six articles written by Stuart, former Presbyterian preacher, who admits marrying six women.

By Robert MacLaren Stuart
Grand Haven, Mich., Feb. 25.—After deserting Marie Barbara James in Detroit I journeyed eastward. It was in the summer time and I had spent what money I had on a tailored wardrobe. With only a few dollars in my pocket I registered at an eastern resort hotel and posed as a man of leisure.

I had the polish to go with the clothes and soon found myself mingling in a social way with some of the elite guests of the place. One of them was Miss Elizabeth, daughter of a prominent Boston family. She was summing up the report with her mother.

So stunned was the family because of my behavior that they started an investigation of my career and learned that I had been married before and had never been divorced. A bigamy indictment was rendered by the Grand Jury and a reward was offered for my arrest. For two years private detectives dogged my trail and many a sleepless night I spent trying to evade them. Finally the reward was withdrawn and the detectives ceased to bother me. However, the bigamy warrant is still pending in Boston. My only fear is that I may yet be prosecuted on that charge.

MANCHESTER CASES IN SUPERIOR COURT
Six Local Men Will Face Judge Jennings Next Tuesday in Hartford.

When the March term of the Superior Court, criminal side, opens next Tuesday, six Manchester men will face Judge Newell Jennings who will preside. They are: Louis Ulrich and Charles Fogarty for assault on Henry J. McConville. In the lower court they were each given a three months' jail sentence from which they appealed.

Irving Quinn for driving while under the influence of liquor was given a jail sentence of five days and a fine of $100, appealed from the decision of the lower court. It is understood that the state will prosecute Quinn for a second offense.

Silvestine Gardner who appealed through his attorney, John Foley, from the sentence of the lower court, was charged with intoxication, breach of the peace, injury to public property and resisting an officer. He pleaded guilty on all four counts before Judge Johnson and was fined $10 for intoxication, $25 for breach of the peace, $25 for injury to public property and a jail sentence of ten days was imposed for resisting an officer.

Norman Braze, bound over on a serious charge, was unable to furnish a bond and has been in jail awaiting his trial. Allen McDonald was also bound over from the lower court on the charge of breaking into the filling station of Carl Landis. He was unable to furnish bond and has been in jail since the early part of the month.

ST. JAMES' ORGAN
READY FOR EASTER
New Austin Instrument Now Being Installed In Catholic Church.

Work is progressing on the installation of the new Austin pipe organ which is being set up in St. James' church by the Austin Organ Co. of Hartford. The organ will be a two manual instrument with all the features for which the Austin organ is known. It will probably be several weeks before the work is completed. But when it is finished St. James' church will be equipped with an uncommonly fine instrument. The new wood casing of the organ is of walnut, to match the woodwork on the old one which will be left standing. When the new organ is completed it will extend the entire width of the choir loft.

It is anticipated that the instrument will be ready by Easter time. Its volume of tone will be considerably greater than that of the old one, and will be adjusted to the acoustics of the church building. The organ will be equipped with the Austin electro-pneumatic action, which is quick and easy, enabling the organist to produce many beautiful effects which are impossible to render on the old "tracker" action of the present organ.

IGNATZ THE MOUSE BLOCKS BUSINESS

Draws Circus Day Crowd As He Defies Traffic at Busi- est Hour.

Seemingly guided by some special protecting power beyond the understanding of the human mind, a tiny field mouse, no bigger than the bowl of a teaspoon, late yesterday afternoon held up business and the customary movements of traffic on Main street, at least to the extent that a circus parade might have done. It was just at the time the mill workers were returning to their homes for supper, but a large crowd stood breathless and spell-bound as it watched the perilous course of the tiny creature.

As it traveled from school street to Oak, a journey which it required well over a half an hour to complete, the mouse's audience increased rapidly. Fully two score of automobiles passed over the animal, but Fate dealt it a charmed life. Two trolley cars and numerous automobiles came within inches of bringing a sudden end to Ignatz, but they passed on and the way thing, "advancing by rushes" and strategically halting, continued its progress. And a steadily growing crowd kept pace.

Many Rooters.

A constant murmur of sympathy arose from the onlookers. Many experienced one close call after another. But the climax came when the little fellow got into the rut between the trolley rail and the cement roadway, for it was a hard climb to get out, much as it a man had to climb out of a porcelain-lined well.

The trolley cars had left the Center enroute for the terminus and were close upon him. "The poor little thing! someone ought to save him," cried one woman. A cryer remarked, "It won't be long now."

Rattle! Bang! Clang! The trolley bore down. They tore past—over Ignatz. The crowd groaned. But, behold! when they had sped past, there was Ignatz sitting close to the edge of the rail nibbling some minute dainty. He had made the climb.

Thereupon, one of the onlookers dashed into the thick of traffic and after a few very busy minutes captured the nonchalant creature and bore him away to safety in a nearby open lot.

Otherwise, Ignatz, guided by the invisible power, would probably still be on his way to Hartford.

TOLLAND

Loula Tawky has taken possession of his property here recently purchased from Myron Sparrow.

Miss Ruth Green, a teacher in the West Hartford junior high school, is enjoying a week's vacation spent with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Green.

The fifth meeting of the Study Club will be held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Simpson. Mrs. Usher and Miss Olson are Mrs. Simpson's assistants.

The regular Grange meeting will be held Tuesday evening in the Federated church Sunday school room.

The teachers of the town had a visiting day Thursday, going in James Rhodes' and A. L. Young's cars to Providence to visit a normal school there.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Green, Sr., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Storer Green, to Howard Drayton Clark, of Webster street, Hartford.

The missionary program at the Federated Sunday school on Sunday will be the reading of letters from some Chinese children and their missionary, Miss Clara Pearl Dyer, from Ch'angli, China. The Chinese letters from the children have been translated into English by young people at the Kennedy School of Mission in Hartford. The Federated Sunday school sent a box of gifts for the Chinese children for Christmas.

GILEAD

Miss Marcia Zabriskie, teacher at the White school, is ill at the home of her parents in Preston City and J. Banks Jones has been secured as substitute.

The dance at the hall Saturday evening was quite well patronized even if the blizzard was raging.

Miss Lovina A. Foor is enjoying this week's vacation from the South Manchester High school at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Foor.

Miss Lena M. Ellis of South Manchester, spent the week-end at Monday and Tuesday at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Asa W. Ellis.

The "Jolly Doers" entertained about twenty young folks at the hall Monday evening. Mrs. C. Daniel Way and Mrs. Arthur M. Keeffe chaperoned the party.

The members of the Board of Relief completed their work Thursday.

In the matter of the appointment of a trustee for the custody of funds for the perpetual care of the burial lots in the local cemetery as by application, it is ordered that said application be heard and determined at the Probate office in Hebron on the 5th day of March, 1927, at 3 o'clock, p. m.

Mrs. C. Daniel Way and Mrs. Edward E. Foor attended the meeting of the local branch of the Connecticut Women's Christian Temperance Union at Miss Clara Pendleton's in Hebron, Thursday afternoon.

The regular church service took place Sunday but on account of the cold storm and small attendance the Sunday school and evening service was omitted.

OPEN FORUM

"BLIND TIE SALESMAN" QUESTIONABLE SCHEMER

Editor, The Herald:

I understand that a great many neckties have been sent to Manchester by blind tie salesmen in St. Louis. We have several clippings in the office showing that this method of doing business is one that is conducted by business firms who make a financial agreement with a blind person whereby they capitalize his blindness in a manner that hardly seems justified. One of the members of the legislature from Bantam, told us that the postmaster at Torrington told him that twenty-five hundred packages of ties had been sent to that town, and that the Bantam postmaster told him that one hundred and fifty had been sent there.

We understand that many have been sent to Manchester, Middletown and other places. We should feel that if money is to be spent in this way the public should know the facts. Perhaps you would like to print the enclosed copy of a clipping.

Sincerely yours,
STETSON K. RYAN,
Secretary.

"Paunce Bill"

For the information of all who are receiving goods from "Necktie Tyler—the Blind Tie Salesman," we print the statement from the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis as follows: Ernest Howell, who styles himself "Necktie Tyler, the Blind Tie Salesman," is connected with the Mississippi Valley Knitting Mills, now located at 1713 Washington Avenue.

The Mississippi Valley Knitting Mills is owned by one Jacob Karchmer, who is mentioned in the enclosed letter referring to "Paunce Bill," another blind tie salesman.

Mr. Karchmer is well known in St. Louis, where he has an unenviable record as a promoter of questionable schemes. He has been arrested and his place raided in the past. He was born in Vilna, Russia, and is said to hold some radical views. He served in the marine corps during the World War; but has been expelled from the American Legion because of conduct unbecoming to a gentleman. Mr. Karchmer's past activities have shown a preference for blind "decoys." Mr. Karchmer was formerly vice-president of the St. Louis Knitting Mills, which firm is mentioned in the letter referring to "Paunce Bill."

The Better Business Bureau has just received unconfirmed information that other well known St. Louis blind men in addition to "Paunce Bill" and "Necktie Tyler" have just signed a contract with still another promoter, who entitles them to 20 per cent of his profits. Because of "Paunce Bill's" success in securing blind sales through an indirect blind plea, the "tie fever" seems to be inoculating the blind and disabled of St. Louis. No doubt, the spread of the disease is being aided, with "injections" by shrewd promoters.

The Better Business Bureau believes that most people will instantly recognize the risk taken in heading a plea to purchase unordered merchandise sent by mail. At best it is an annoying and unethical method of merchandising. When it is used by promoters, coupled with a disguised plea for charity, or sympathy, it is unusually vicious.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Aida Rettjean has just returned from a several weeks' visit in Canada.

Mrs. Harry Kuster of Elro street street entertained on Washington's birthday for her baby's birthday who was just one year old on that day. Little ones with their mothers and the relatives who helped Barbara Elizabeth celebrate the first anniversary of her birth remembered her with dainty gifts. A birthday cake with one candle was a feature of the luncheon.

Rubinow's announce that Mrs. Mary Lord of Stephen street was awarded the silk dress offered by the store to the lady making the largest individual purchase there on "Dollar Day." The dress, which was exhibited in their show windows, was a new spring model of blue taffeta, circular skirt, wide flowing cuffs and collar in oriental effect.

Mary Gustafson of Oak street was before the Manchester police court this morning on the charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. Prosecuting Attorney Hathaway asked for a continuance of the case until tomorrow morning as he was not prepared to go ahead with it.

Rev. Richard Elliott, pastor of the Congregational church in Rocky Hill and one of the leaders last summer at the Storrs conference, will be the speaker at a City club meeting at the Center Congregational church Sunday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to young people whether members of the club or not.

LARGE TICKET SALE FOR SEVEN CHANCES

Tickets are selling rapidly for the three-act comedy "Seven Chances," which the Town Players are to present Wednesday evening March 3, at the Circle Theater for the benefit of the Girl Scouts. Reserved seats may be obtained at Dewey-Richman's store.

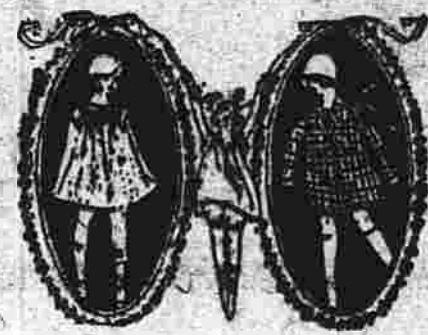

In Manchester there are one hundred and forty-five scouts who are being actively trained in the different troops in the regular course in scouting, which includes care of the health, home-making, home nursing, first aid, swimming, cooking, sewing, animal lore, wood-craft and all kinds of nature study. Efficient instructors give the examinations in these and many other valuable courses, which the scouts take up. These troops are under a commissioner, assisted by a council of women who have the interest of the girls at heart.

Other exclusive Grebe developments, which make possible the unusually superior reception of the Synchronphase are:

Binocular Coils, which bring in any desired station and prevent the interference of others;

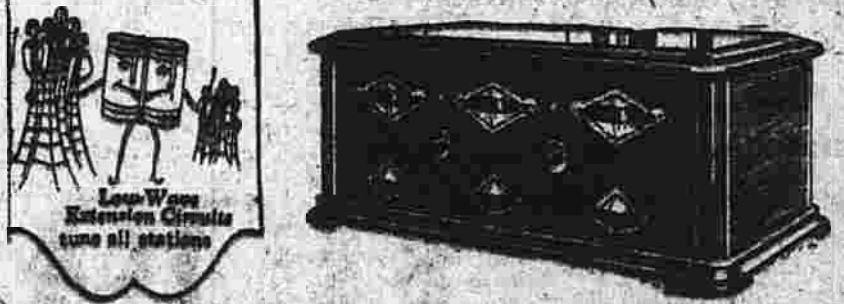

S-L-F Condensers, which make tuning, especially of low-wave stations, very simple and easy because there is no crowding, as stations are given equal spacing on the dials;

Low-Wave Extension Circuits, which make it possible to tune over one hundred stations not reached by other sets;

Flexible Unit Control, which gives a receiver of one, two or three-dial control, at your option.

Ask any Grebe dealer to demonstrate these Grebe developments, then compare the reception they give with that of other sets.

SPAIN'S BIG MUSEUM GETS NEW PAINTING

Madrid.—The Prado, Spain's National Museum, considered by many artists as the most perfectly arranged and the most pleasant gallery in the world to visit, is soon to become one of the most complete as well, with an excellent and comprehensive classification of all its works.

Fifteen thousand pictures have been voted by the municipal government to serve to purchase paintings of periods or masters insufficiently represented in the Prado. The first work thus bought is by Mateo Cordero of the 17th Century, representing St. Augustine praying when the Virgin carrying Jesus in her arms appears to him.

On each side of the Velasquez room, two supplementary wings have been built which means doubling the present size of the center part. This is known as the "Big Gallery" and includes numerous works of the Rubens and Venetian schools.

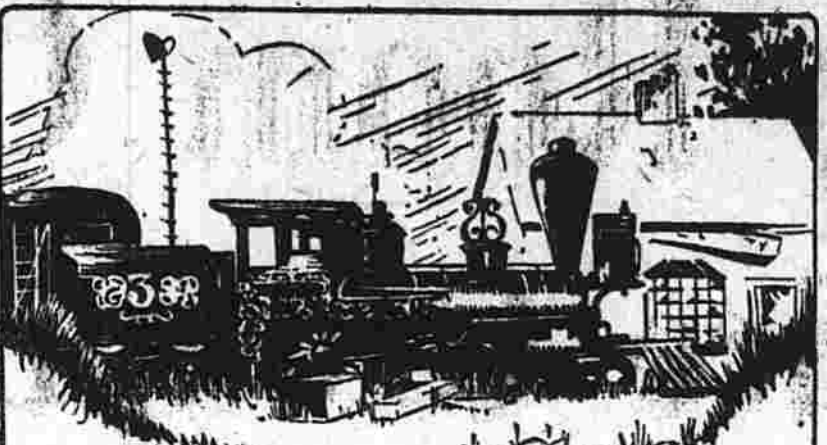

This will be just one more good reason for tourists to go to Spain, according to Ambassador Hammond, who feels that many of them find a great deal by leaving out this romantic old country.

It is alluring, romantic, with an old-world charm, with sweetness and gentility of atmosphere, a wealth of romance, tradition and history, said Mr. Hammond in a recent address before the American Club in Madrid. "It is the old and the new, an amazing country of contrast."

DIES FROM INJURIES

Torrington, Conn., Feb. 25.—William Kearney, 31, unmarried, died in Charlotte Hungerford hospital this morning from injuries received when his car skidded on the West. Richard road in Torrington and crashed into a fence. R. C. Mitchell, of Waterbury, was riding with Kearney, escaped injury. When the machine left the road it careened into a fence and a piece of railing struck Kearney in the side. The fatal accident occurred about three o'clock this morning when the men were returning from Waterbury.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: James J. Hill (3)

The St. Paul & Pacific Railroad had been built by people eager for the government land grants. The panic of 1873 and the competition of the Northern Pacific ruined the system and left it a streak of rust with millions in debts hanging over it. Into this breach James J. Hill stepped boldly.

There was vast work. Bonds held in Holland must be bought, the courts must be reckoned with, capital must be won.

Hill and three friends, Donald A. Smith, George Stephen and Norman W. Kittson, tackled the task. Hill staked every penny he had.

Construction had to proceed rapidly in order to keep the land grants. The year 1876, marking the conclusion of the deal with the Amsterdam bondholders and feverish building to keep up with legislative demands, brought breathless days and sleepless nights to the "empire builder."

AMERICAN NAVY NOW GREATEST MOVIE PATRON

Sailors See First Run Films In All Parts of World On Land and Sea.

Washington.—Patrons of the first run movie houses in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and elsewhere have nothing on the American navy, either afloat or ashore, when it comes to seeing feature films that are hot from Hollywood.

The Navy, having become the largest motion picture distributor in the world is now able to start two sets of prints of the latest features on voyages to every American warship and land station simultaneously with their release to the larger theaters.

This service has now been extended so that movies have become part of the daily routine aboard ships at sea, no matter how far from port they are, abroad both Navy and Army transports, and at naval stations and other shore establishments. In order that the sailors may be kept well supplied with films, the Navy Motion Picture Service has acquired or collected 1,200 complete eight-reel programs in duplicate and 150 triplicate, and in addition almost 4,800 reels of short stories, comedies and animated cartoons.

“YALE-IN-CHINA” FACULTY IS SAFE

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 25.—Palmer Bevis, executive secretary of Yale-in-China, today received a telegram from Seattle, Washington, announcing the safe arrival in that city aboard the "President Jackson" of members of the Yale-in-China faculty. They are Mrs. D. H. Leavens of Norwich, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gilbert, and children, of New Haven, Conn.; Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Rollins, of Granby, Conn.; Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Foster, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Harvey, of New Haven, Conn.

The telegram also stated that the following people sailed from Shanghai on the S. S. Sphinx, of the Messageries maritime line, due in Marseilles, France on March 15: Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Bender, and sons, of Latrobe, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Powell, of Ionia, Mich.; Miss Jennie Norrell, of Kiron, Mich.; Miss Nellie Van Beby, of Oak Park, Ill.; Miss Jane Lewis, of Pittsfield, Mass.; Dr. Ota Waters, of Clarkburg, W. Va. It was stated that Dr. and Mrs. Phillips S. Greene and family of Montclair, N. J., had arrived in San Francisco on the President Pierce on February 23.

WELL-TRAINED HUSBY

Pana, Ill.—Rising from his bed in the middle of the night, Frank Umpleby, local business man, went to his garage in pajamas, drove his automobile, France on March 15, home of a friend. Entering without warning, he announced to John Atkinson, "I've got to fix that furnace." Atkinson, amazed, discovered Umpleby was asleep and awakened him.

PRINCESS IS NURSE

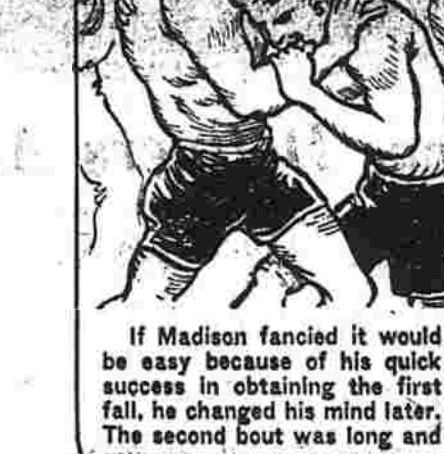

Manilla.—Princess Phoa Diskul, daughter of an uncle of the King of Siam, has come to Manilla to study nursing. This is the first time that any woman member of the royal family has been permitted to leave the country to study. Her work in the Red Cross convinced her parents that she will be useful in helping to educate her people. She will finish her studies in the United States.

JACK LOCKWILL'S SPEEDBOAT

by Gilbert Patten

Stripped to wrestling trunks, Lockwill and Madison faced each other. Though beautifully built, Madison didn't look like a match for the huge, hard-muscled opponent. "Bull's a brute when he wrestles," whispered the Bad Egg in Magovern's ear. "Let him once get the stranglehold on Lockwill and he'll make him squeal or break his neck." "We should worry about his neck!" muttered Slants.

Finally Jack flung Bull over and pinned his shoulders down. The third fall would settle it. Madison, savage over having been thrown once, looked like an infuriated gorilla. Again and again he sought for the stranglehold on Lockwill and he'll make him squeal or break his neck. "He'll kill Lockwill now or make him beg," exclaimed Magovern in sudden alarm. (To Be Continued.)

The Grand Vizier acted as the referee. The wrestler crouched and watched for an opening. Suddenly they grasped each other, they swung, they dropped to their knees, rose, and went down again. Jack breathed.

Donald's parents don't like peaches' publicity. Boston, Mass., Feb. 25.—"Peaches' Browning may be an 'inspiration' to Donald Brett, 25-year-old Brookline golf pro, as per despatch from New York, but not to Donald's parents, who said today they did not like the publicity showered upon the family.

CIRCLE THEATER SHOWS 2 EXCELLENT FEATURES

George Walsh and Jack Hoxie Divide Honors; Two Films Today.

Two more big features are offered by the Circle theater for its end of the week program. George Walsh kicks in with "The Kickoff," while the second offering is "Western Whirlwind," starring Jack Hoxie.

CANADA MAKES PLANS TO STOP BOOTLEGGING

Ottawa, Canada, Feb. 25.—Canada may soon become closed as a source of supply to American bootleggers. It is estimated that beer and spirits valued at between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000 have been shipped from Canada to the United States each year, since the enactment of the American prohibition laws.

FENCING IS BEST SPORT IN FRANCE

Paris.—After many years of comparative obscurity, fencing has regained its popularity in France and is expected to become the leading sport.

SOUND ADVICE

Helsinki, Oh, George, can't you wait until I work for my living? Voice from the Gods? Don't you do it, George. The play won't run that long.—Galley.

OPEN FORUM

Editor Evening Herald, Dear Sir:

I was very much interested in the piece printed in your paper tonight entitled, "Town May Show Householders Pay." But I did not see anything about householders shoveling and the town paying. I live at 91 St. John street, and have two cars in the family and have to go to Hartford to work six days a week, because Manchester will give us work, and I have had to shovel out the road every storm this winter in order to get out from my house to Stone street, about 150 feet. The town will plow down St. John street to Stone but have not plowed this end this winter, and we expect to pay our taxes on our two cars the same. I hope they don't forget to send us a bill for the same, as we just moved here last time and will move out this spring, hoping to get a piece which won't have to shovel out this winter.

EMPTY PEWS.

Editor, The Herald: These times of investigations and deep thinking of matters religious, may I, through your Open Forum, point to facts which seem difficult to comprehend? Why is it that a Billy Sunday or an Aimee McPherson can draw such large audiences while our clergy prefer to so many empty pews? When Mrs. McPherson asked her audience in New York, whether she should speak on "The Second Coming of Christ," she said the story of her life had convinced her that it was another case of "Give us Barnabas and crucify Christ."

Final Living Room Clearance in 3 Price Groupings

WHEN we say this is the Greatest Sale of Living Room Suites ever held by Shoor Bros., it is only another way of announcing the Greatest Living Room Event ever held in Hartford. They are all high-grade former Floor Samples, moved up to our 5th floor to make room for the Spring arrivals. Some may be a trifle shopworn perhaps, but not in any way to mar their appearance or wearing qualities.

Frankly, we expect to move all these suites in one or two days at the most. There is only one suite of each pattern. This is really an opportunity you ought not to miss if you are wanting a Living Room Suite of high quality at an unusually low price.

FRIDAY, FEB. 25, 1927.

A CONNECTICUT VIEW.

One of the best speeches in the McNary-Haugen bill debate—and one of the shortest—was delivered by Senator George P. McLean of this state.

It is gratifying to find that Senator McLean takes precisely the view of this measure that was taken by the Herald—that, instead of being foredoomed to fail as an immediate benefit to the Western farmer, it is well calculated to fatten that individual grossly for a few years, terrifically at the expense of the rest of the country through soaring prices for food staples.

But what strikes us as the most important thing in the whole speech lies in three short sentences: "The farmer's real problem lies in his getting a larger share of the spread between the wholesale and retail prices of his product. Any legitimate assistance that the government can render in this regard should be forthcoming. This will require organization and co-operation and some money."

This hits the problem of all farmers square in the middle—not the grain and corn and cotton raisers alone but the great bulk of agriculturalists throughout the whole country; the man who gets three dollars a hundred for cauliflowerers that sell to the housewife for a quarter apiece as well as the man who would like to sell his wheat for two dollars a bushel and buy the cauliflowerers for a nickel each.

When the United States government goes into the business of price-fixing on foods it is to be hoped that it will be along the lines that Senator McLean suggests. That would be to the benefit of all of us save the speculative middlemen—whom the gods confound!

WOMAN PRESIDENT.

Because Ida Clyde Clarke has discussed, in the Century magazine, the possibility of a woman candidate for President, and has expressed the belief that the "woman vote" in such circumstance would go to Mary Pickford or some other movie queen or else to a Helen Wills, ten thousand women raise their voices in protest throughout the country.

"Why should women vote for Mary Pickford for President any more than men would vote for Gene Tunney or Harold Lloyd?" asks one through the Springfield Union.

Well, for that matter, if Gene Tunney or Harold Lloyd should be nominated by a political party strong enough to be a contending force he probably would stand about as good a chance of polling the full party vote as anybody else. And perhaps he would make as good a President, if he happened to get one more electoral vote than the other fellow.

But this idea of a woman President doesn't appear to us in the least impossible—merely premature. Also a bit premature is the grumbling of a good many women because there are not more of their sex in Congress.

We don't believe that women are inherently one particle less capable politically than men. But despite the fact that there are a comparative few who are already upon a plane of political thought and experiences which may be described as non-sexual, it is lamentably true that women have been for so many centuries restricted to certain limitations of mental as well as physical and social activity that it will probably take a considerable time for them, as a whole, to get rid of the marks of their shackles.

The male sex in this country—as a whole—has the advantage of a hundred and fifty years at least of political experience of a sort. The feminine sex's experience—as a whole—is a decade or so old. It is a matter of adjustment. Adjustment usually takes time. For the life of us we cannot see why the possibility of a woman President should appear ridiculous or undesirable. But it is difficult to imagine any such contingency arising until women have had more years, and a good many more years, in which to find their place in the political life of the nation.

BAD REPUTATION.

Another African explorer has found the New Guinea pygmies and has exonerated them of the charge of cannibalism. For fifty years, every once in a while, somebody discovers the New Guinea pygmies and goes to some indignant length to deny that they eat human flesh. This time it is Professor Matthew W. Stirling of Berkeley, Cal., who has just returned from an expedition into Pymyland under the dual auspices of the Smithsonian Institution and the Dutch government.

Prof. Stirling says he found the little four-foot people very friendly, peaceful and easy to get along with, although a bit timid of big folks. He says they have reddish, kinky hair, and "milk chocolate" complexions. They would not think, he says, of eating either friend or enemy.

A long time ago we heard that queer little Frenchman, Paul Du Chailan, since gone to his fathers, tell about the New Guinea pygmies. He told precisely the same story of them that Prof. Stirling brings back, thirty-five years later. And Du Chailan was probably the first European of modern times to run across the pygmy people.

Now the interesting thing is, who started these yarns that explorers are forever exploding about the dwarfs being cannibals? Nobody identifiable. Nobody who has been in the New Guinea interior? Perhaps the yarns are accountable for in this way: Paul Du Chailan was a scientist of parts and a truthful person—no subsequent research has disclosed, but he had, on the lecture platform, the air, the manner and the appearance of a most amazing liar. Nobody believed anything he said. So that when he told about the little people of New Guinea who were friendly, kindly and peaceable, nineteen out of twenty of his hearers probably jumped at the conclusion either that they were really extremely large folks or, if dwarfs, then vicious little devils who would as soon eat a man as a yam.

Really, the only cause to which can be traced the evil reputation given the Pymyland folks is the praise of them uttered by their discoverer, who happened to be a gentleman and a scholar with the outward semblance of a charlatan.

BOW-WOW!

Downing Street has thundered at the Soviets. "Stop your everlasting efforts to bring about bolshevism in Great Britain and your devilish intrigue against us in China or suffer the consequences of a suspension of the trade agreement!" roars Sir Austen Chamberlain.

And one wonders whether Sir Austen would be able to put his threat into effect, against the interest of the British traders who are operating under that agreement, even if the Soviets should utterly defy him.

But the Soviets will not defy. They will express a rather outraged surprise. "It is not the Soviet Union that you must blame, if there is Communist educational matter being distributed in England and Scotland, or if Communist gold was sent to the striking British coal miners, or if somebody has told the Chinese that you are the worst of their oppressors. If anybody, it is the Third International which is responsible and the Third International is not a part of the Russian Soviet government; it is a world movement."

And what will Sir Austen do about that? He will probably do just what he expected to do when he unleashed his thunderbolt—nothing. But he will have mollified those sturdy Britons who, if Chamberlain had made no noise at all would have taken steps themselves—would have written to the Times, "fore gad!"

CRABBED.

Because scientists announce that next June this earth of ours is likely to have a mixup with the tail of the latest "doomsday" comet, and because a Chicago University professor has declared that the tail contains carbon monoxide, the New York Herald Tribune hastens to reassure its readers that they are not likely to be poisoned to death thereby.

So tenuous is a comet's tail, says the Tribune's savant, that the earth's outer blanket of air will surely suffice to absorb all the poison gas to be expected to emanate from the celestial visitor, if any. This is humanitarian stuff—but is it good for business? Look at the opportunity presented for a boom in the manufacture of gas masks, especially designed for protection against carbon monoxide. If the way were only prepared by a few gloomy newspaper and magazine articles forecasting the end of civilization via the carbon monoxide route.

It is easy to visualize half a million go-getters storming through the country, selling twenty-cent gas masks at eight dollars apiece to more than half the population of the United States, if the fright were properly fostered. And now a good friend of the business interests like the Herald Tribune goes and crabs the game!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Feb. 25.—The hide of the Republican elephant is tough.

It will have to be parboiled into comparative tenderness, before the efforts of Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Borah to turn the next G. O. P. national convention into a wet and dry bedlam can have more effect upon it than the assault of a gentle sphygmograph on a granite cliff.

It may be that these two figures in the party—ones cannot call them leaders—will fulfill their threats and flood the convention hall with their bursts of oratory.

But if the Republican convention does anything more or less than to toss in a satisfactory plank for "law enforcement" some very significant development will have introduced itself into the situation in the meantime. And there need be no astonishment should Senator Borah subsequently announce himself "as thoroughly satisfied with just such a plank and perhaps even a veto to it as a 'ringing declaration of principle' or something of the sort."

Butler and Borah are individuals within the party. Their following, to all political purposes, is now insignificant. Their individualism is only more emphatically stressed by the fact that Butler, in howling at the party's indifference to prohibition and insisting that Calvin Coolidge wants but two more years in office, is unique among the brethren and that Borah, as he roars for the bone dry cause as a party policy, is equally singular.

The Republicans know just what a good internal wet-dry fight is like. They saw the Democrats sweat with it in New York in 1924 after they had finished their own sweat-soaked convention with dry collars. They see it every other day in Congress, as dry senators and wet senators wrag out the party's dirty linen and wave it desperately. They see it raging on its own way, month by month, as the 1928 Democratic convention draws nearer.

And if there is anything that makes the stand-patters laugh more hilariously than this spectacle within the ranks of the minority party, it is the thought of a couple of party irresponsibilities like Butler and Borah pushing them into the very same sort of a free-for-all.

Their tactful unanimity which the Republican party has handed this prohibition question has been a revelation. There are wet Republicans just as there are wet Democrats—and they're politically wet, too. They make no bones whatever about making their wetness known. But just as soon as the interests of the party become involved, they automatically lam down the soft pedal and become as one with the other lambs within the fold.

There's been no Smith-McAdoo fight in the Republican ranks, and any political prophet who can discern one in the future is gazing through stone walls.

Officially, and by common consent, the Republican party is dry. Whether the Democratic party is wet or dry may be revealed some time in 1928 and then again it may not.

The Republicans find this situation works out splendidly. They need only nominate a candidate and the man wins. At this time they look for as large a presidential plurality in 1928 as Harding rolled up against Cox or Coolidge against Davis.

As for the presidential booms Butler and Borah are said to have started for themselves, the party's prohibition policy is almost certain automatically to displease both.

A great many other people have been nominated since Butler was first suggested for the distinction. Borah, too, has been with us for a long time. Nothing has happened since 1924 to enhance either's prestige.

There is no discernible call for Butler and there is none for Borah, either from the party's rank and file or from its politicians. Butler is the less likely candidate and a presidential race between Borah and Al Smith or Jim Reed would be a gorgeous spectacle, but there is no indication whatever that either of these Republican individualists will be totting the party's standard a year from next fall.

Whether or not Coolidge will lead the ticket is another story.

NEW YORK

This is the third of a series of articles by Gilbert Swan, special New York correspondent for The Herald and NEA Service, analyzing the much-discussed "rickedness" of the New York stage. A fourth will follow tomorrow.

New York, Feb. 25.—"It is drawn from real life!"

This has been a chief defense of those accused of smut mongering in connection with the present theatrical housecleaning.

And true enough it is that the dramatic versions of strange twists taken by present day life have not told half the story. Whether these phases of life should be told is subject for argument. But, granted that they should, it is generally agreed that the manner of telling is vitally involved.

If they are used for the best social criticism or presented with any degree of taste there would be less shouting of censorship at this moment. What is creating so much stir is that the subjects have been used in much the same manner as boys use dirty French postcards.

Let's take a little slant into the dramas and the realities. Here is one play revealing fat-pursed old dowagers buying the company of young men—generally referred to as gigolos.

Now there is a certain hotel lobby within a stone's throw of the heart of Broadway where, as a matter of fact, these grotesquely varnished, beauty paroled, overdressed women of late years wait for their "boy friends."

At tea-dance time in come the shagging young men, hair plastered down, clothes crumpled, and escorted the "mamma" to a car which her money has provided. Some of the women are old enough to be grandmothers of their escorts and few who could not easily be the mothers.

Their "boy friends" are frequently rufly, curt and contemptuous, complaining that their last month's allotment was insufficient to keep up the necessary appearances. Just as frequently the boy friend is vainglorious and bootlicking in demeanor, making ready, no doubt, to put additional strain on the purse strings.

And frequently, too, there appears in the newspapers a story of the wealthy old widow who was found beaten and robbed "under mysterious circumstances."

Oh, yes, the background of the play is quite true—terribly, grotesquely true.

Or wander into any tea dance, any night club and watch the parade of doddling daddies on the arm of some flapperian youngster still in her teens.

She caters to his every whim. She drags his tottering feet across the dance floor. From her neck bob a glittering pendant and upon her arms are sparkling circlets. She stirs his drink and takes the first six. His wrinkled hand rests upon her slim, carefully mannequined fingers. She has the sparkle of youth and is not without actual beauty. In fact, the old daddies demand a degree of beauty.

It isn't just an unusual or segregated case. It's everywhere you turn.

And there are many variations on the last chapter of this scene.

Perhaps either one of these stories properly presented upon the stage would make a good play—even a great play—of social satire and criticism.

Anyone who cares to cast a critical eye can observe to his heart's content.

The stage may have presented much glorified smut—but it hasn't told half the story.

GILBERT SWAN.

COLLEGE TRAINED

Ithaca, N. Y.—During the past eight years, students of the New York College of Home Economics have cared for 11 babies and had only one day of sickness among them in all that time. The children are temporarily adopted by classes studying baby care. The one day of sickness that spoils an otherwise perfect record was the investigation of a begonia plant by a boy who ate most of the leaves.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BIG BUTTWOOD By ARTHUR N. PACK President, American Nature Assn. About four miles west of Lancaster, Pa., on a little farm, stands a massive buttwood, or sycamore tree, generally conceded to be the largest tree native to Pennsylvania.

At 18 inches above the ground the tree has a circumference of 27 feet and 6 inches and at 3 feet above the ground its circumference is over 22 feet. The tree is 102 feet high and has an east to west branch spread of 112 feet, and a north to south spread of 138 feet.

long, respectively. Go out and measure a seemingly large tree near your home and compare the measurements with these statistics to gain some idea of the size of Pennsylvania's largest tree!

Aside from this mammoth specimen the buttwood (also called buttonball, sycamore, and plane tree) is an interesting study in its more usual form. It stands out conspicuously among its associates because of its variously colored bark. Its leaves are simple, broadly ovate, about 4 to 10 inches across, and with 3 to 5 lobes; they are bright green, above, but are pale green and waxy below.

The bark on the old trunks is rather thick, dark brown, and peels off in broad scales. On young stems and the upper part of larger trunks it peels off in thin scales, exposing the white, greenish, and yellowish inner bark.

The buttwood is found in wet and fertile soil particularly, and is common along streams and ponds, where its vari-colored bark mirrored in calm waters, makes an unusually beautiful picture.

Send a stamped, addressed envelope and questions of fact have to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

The half-a-day man

For months he had hated to face it... He was slipping. Losing out. He once had shown such shining promise. His old-time vigor had gone. Ambition, itself! What had happened? He seemed to grow weary before the day was half-way through!

Constipation blights many a bright career. It destroys initiative. It weakens the body and leads to disease after disease. Yet, constipation can be relieved—safely, permanently. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to give relief!

Why par-bran products are ineffective

Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran. They know that 100% bran means 100% results! Here's why:

ALL-BRAN carries through the system moisture which its "bulk" absorbs. And it gently distends the intestines—cleaning, removing wastes. ALL-BRAN contains sufficient "bulk" to perform this work—because it is 100% bran. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is too small to be entirely effective.

Don't risk dangerous drugs

ALL-BRAN works as nature does. How different from pills and drugs whose dose must be constantly increased.

Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Eat it soak a few moments to bring out its nut-like flavor. Mix it with other cereals. Use it in soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the original 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Comes ready to eat. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants. On diners.

Fitchburg Is Only Eastern School to Win National Title

Massachusetts Team, Which Plays Here Next Friday, Gained Signal Honor.

The Fitchburg High school basketball team which plays in Manchester a week from tonight, has been selected to win the national title in the eight years tournaments have been conducted.

(Special to The Herald) Chicago, Feb. 25.—Applications for entrance to the University of Chicago's National Intercollegiate basketball tournament are already swamping officials entrusted with the selection of representative champions for the ninth annual renewal of this now famous meeting.

The best prep talent in the nation will be asked to contend in the weeks' play, March 29 to April 2, for the gold basketball, the symbol of supremacy awarded each year.

The meeting was renewed in 1920 and the championship awarded to the University of Chicago, which defeated Fargo, N. D., in the final.

Ervanston Won Title In the first tournament held in 1917, the contestants were largely Illinois High schools, Evanston Academy, led by "Chuck" Carney, led all-time all-conference center and an all-American football at Illinois, defeated Fresno, Ill., high school and was awarded the first national title.

The meeting was renewed in 1920 and the championship awarded to the University of Chicago, which defeated Fargo, N. D., in the final.

Lexington, Ky., was the winner in 1922, defeating Mt. Vernon, O., which entered its attack around "Cookie" Cunningham, recently an all-star football and basketball man at Ohio State University.

The following year Windsor, Colo., was representative by a championship five which defeated Yankton, S. D., for the title. Wichita, Kan., claimed the title from Reno, Okla., in 1925, winning the second national trophy for the state of Kansas.

The east achieved its only victory at the meet last year when Fitchburg upset the powerful Fargo five in the concluding game. Fitchburg is not expected to defend its title this year, the faculty of the eastern school, according to information here, having decided against entering its team.

Zanesville, O., won the consolation tournament from the Latter Day Saints High school, Salt Lake City, last year, in the second meet of its kind in the history of the national event.

The year before St. George, Utah won the initial minor meet from Southwestern High of Detroit.

When and where did Tom Eck, former trainer and coach of Chicago track teams, die, and how old was he when he died?—W. C. M. He died June 4, 1926, at Chicago. He was 73 years old.

Suzanne's Great Success Due To System Of Shots

Perfection of Technique, Superior Co-ordination of Mind and Muscle, and Tremendous Natural Intuition, Make Lenglen Best in World—Browne.

Mary K. Browne, American tennis star, tells in this article the secret of the racquet wizardry of Suzanne Lenglen, the French champion of the courts. A third article of this series, to be printed tomorrow, will discuss the future of women in professional sports. A fourth will deal with the question whether golf-playing improves tennis ability, and vice versa. Miss Browne has just completed a tour of the country with Suzanne.

Notes Of The Training Camps

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 25.—John Hawkins, former football star at the University of Southern California, is the latest member of the Giants' home run club. Hawkins, a first baseman, parked the ball in the left field woods in his first appearance in batting practice.

John McGraw expects Burtleigh Grimes, former Brooklyn pitcher, to be one of his hurling aces this season. The spitballer is in camp after a month's preliminary work-out at Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Feb. 25.—Manager Jack McCallister, of the Indians is well pleased with the early showing of his hurling staff. Veterans and rookies were out for a 45-minute practice yesterday and all showed plenty of "stuff."

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 25.—Everything was in readiness today to receive the first contingent of "Tigers" due to leave Detroit tonight. Included in the party will be Manager Moriarty, Trainer Jimmy Duggan, Edwin Wells, pitcher; Bob Fothergill, outfielder; catcher Clyde Manion; Coach Liefeld and Marty McManus. Training will start Monday.

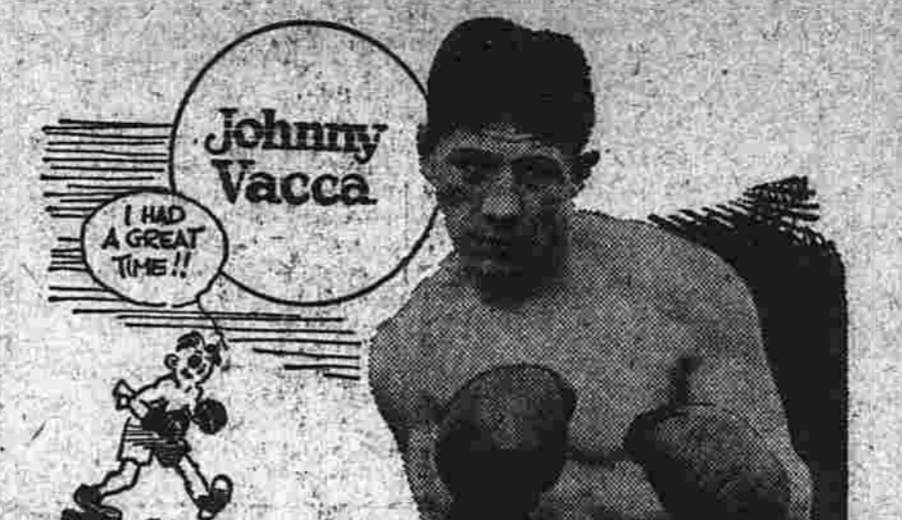

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 25.—Three holdouts are causing the Nationals some worry. "Muddy" Ruel, the Senator's veteran catcher, has yet to sign, and so have Nick Cullip and Bern Newell.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 25.—Today was the last day of practice for the Braves' pitchers and catchers. Infielders and outfielders go to work tomorrow. A majority of the Boston Braves outfit have arrived here.

Johnny Vacca May Be Next Champ; Wins Fame Beating Fidel for Fun

He soundly whipped a champion for the thrill of it.

Boston, Feb. 25.—From an unknown fighter to a logical contender for the championship of his class—that is the story of Johnny Vacca, Boston's newest sensation.

To gain that distinction, Vacca gave Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion, the worst beating that had ever received.

As pay for it, he got nothing! Not a dime. All because he possessed ample confidence in his fighting ability and courageously agreed to take "Thanks" as his end of the gate when the crowd fell far below the number needed to cover the cost of the show.

Vacca fought La Barba and floored him four times just because he got a kick out of being in the ring with the champion! And they call this the age of frenzied fanatics!

He is ready to do business now. He has a schedule of fights, any big amount of dough to get him in the ring. Name your date and his opponent and he'll be there. It snowed, as it often does in Boston, the day the two were scheduled to swap punches.

He showed enough to knock the props out of whatever profit promoters expected from the bout. So few fans turned up that night that Vacca, the lad doped to stand most of the punishment, had not a remote chance of drawing a dime for his performance.

The bout might have been called off had Vacca not been a very obliging young man. He was willing to fight for the fun of it. "What difference does the money make?" he queried. "I'll fight La Barba for the thrill. That will be reward enough—just to meet him."

He did and what a fight it was. He plastered the title-wearer with everything but the ropes and had the posts around the ring, and had La Barba down on the floor four times. "But I'm not a flyweight—I'm a bantam," cries the lad who won fame overnight by being accommodated in a "cut" to win that title and don't intend to be changed.

North Carolina Favored To Win Basketball Tourney

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 25.—North Carolina's cage aggregation is again doped a possible winner of the Southern Conference basketball tournament, to be staged in Atlanta within the next two weeks.

The Carolinians, having won four of the last five tournaments, are again reckoned contenders because of their sensational play this season with an inexperienced team. Only one member of last year's regular five is playing this season. All other members are either newcomers from last year or sophomores.

The one regular is Bunn Hackney. Naturally, he is captain of the team. His sensational and inspirational play this year is regarded as the chief factor in the success attained by the Tarheels. Other teams whose chances of winning is good are Vanderbilt, Alabama, Poly, University of Mississippi and Georgia. Georgia Tech also rates well. A bama football champion, has little chance to go far in the tournament.

Alabama loses eight players. Tuscaloosa, Ala., Feb. 25.—Alabama lost eight football stars this past season, but is planning to have the Crimson 'life at the top again next fall.

They lost almost that many from the team that defeated Washington two years ago at Pasadena, but won a third successive title with a flock of sophomores, whom he honored by slumberland in fire rounds, Franz Diener of Berlin, whom he out-pointed in Berlin in ten; Frank Goddard, English champion at the time, whom he rapped unconscious.

He was beaten only once. That was in 1924 when the American, Georges Cook, took a decision away from him in a London ring. Paulino insulate on the justness, which is remarkable, for most of the foreign boxers have woeful lapses of memory when it comes to enumerating their win, lose or draw totals.

He plainly has plenty of color. A few days ago, I learned from an authoritative source, he had a little controversy with Ferraris, an Argentine heavy, who had some success here. Paulino was all steamed up and very earnestly sought to fight the South American, bare fists in private for a side bet of $2,000.

He has the natural stamina to take it and stand up under more punishment than any other challenger. He carries a more dangerous punch than any big man in the ring today.

That is his only shot for the title. The best series of three stories will deal with Jack Sharkey, conqueror of Harry Wills.

BETTING IS LIGHT ON TONIGHT'S BOUT

Fans Expect More Thrills Than at Delaney-Maloney Fight; Result a Toss-up.

New York, Feb. 25.—No betting coups or ticket scandals are attached to the fistie offering tonight at the Garden and yet there is an unrecurrent of opinion that the encounter between Paolino and Jimmy Maloney collided last week.

Light Betting The light betting is explained by the fact that there is no line on Paolino's rating in American heavy-weight society. The boys know, however, that he is rugged, can take a punching and is always charging his man. He is a short, squat individual whose back muscles developed by wood chopping, give him tremendous hitting power in his short arms. The basque is no boxer but when he gets in close he is said to be a wicked body punisher.

Has Great Heart The Spaniard is credited with the possession of a great fighting heart. In many of his fights he has had to endure a cruel shelling before his endurance and stamina carried him through to victory. Hansen is taller than Paolino and has a longer reach. He also can hit but his gameness is questioned. If Knute gets away to a good start he may win easily. If he permits Paolino to take the play away from him, he may look as bad as he did against Franz Diener.

Front Runner Hansen is classified as a "front runner." He ran a poor second to Diener but looked great against Monte Munz. Tonight he may be clever enough to spot Paolino as the Basque rushes but if he doesn't follow up early advantages and try for a knockout he may blow up in a few rounds.

EXPECT THE STORK New York, Feb. 25.—A gathering of the women-folk of the Vanderbilt clan in New York was interpreted today by society as "fore-shadowing the visit of the stork to the home of Mrs. Earl T. Smith, the former Consuela Vanderbilt, which is expected shortly. Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt is enroute from Palm Beach aboard her private car, Mrs. Frederick Cameron Church, Jr. is also due in New York, supposedly to be near her sister, Consuela, on the occasion.

Hutchinson, Kansas, Feb. 25.—The Cubs today are enroute to Galena Illinois to begin spring training. Percy Jones, the Bruins' outstanding left-hander and a holdout, was absent.

Chick Young, pitcher Jack Welsh and First Baseman Charles Grimm were picked up at Kansas City.

PRO BASKETBALL CAN'T INJURE AMATEUR GAME

So Says University of Kansas Authority and Gives His Reasons. Lawrence, Kan., Feb. 25 (United Press).—Professional basketball will never threaten the amateur game as long as the two organizations continue to use different styles of play, Dr. James A. Nasmith, professor of physical education at the University of Kansas and "father" of the game of basketball, declared in an interview with the United Press today.

Back in 1891 in Springfield, Mass., Dr. Nasmith using two peach baskets and a soccer ball, originated the game from which has evolved the modern court contest.

"The professional game is in many ways different from the college game and for that reason I have no fear that it will ever encroach on the domain of the amateur sport," Dr. Nasmith said.

The inventor of the game pointed out that inasmuch as professional basketball is played in a wire cage erected for the conservation of seating space and to prevent out of bounds plays that the physical dribble is in the amateur hand and that rules differ from college rules in a number of ways, the program will never draw the crowds or enjoy the success of the amateur contest.

"We are as well off if not better off without professional basketball," Dr. Nasmith said when asked the opinion of the paid sport. "Professional basketball is merely a spectacle and lacks the qualities of development and participation that make the amateur game interesting. Personally I would like to see the game strictly amateur throughout the country."

The Referee

When and where did Tom Eck, former trainer and coach of Chicago track teams, die, and how old was he when he died?—W. C. M. He died June 4, 1926, at Chicago. He was 73 years old.

BLODGET ADVOCATES UNIFORM BOND PLAN

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 25.—Uniform bonds for all municipal officials handling public funds were advocated by W. H. Blodgett, state tax commissioner, in an address to the Farmers' Club yesterday. Such a system, he said, would prevent such a situation as now exists in Norwalk, where three bonding companies have been able "to avoid responsibility to the city by technical clauses in the contracts."

Mr. Blodgett then declared that only one of the "four companies assumed partial responsibility and will make good on the contract. Emulating Patrick Henry, the tax commissioner on the question of federal inheritance taxes, declared: "I shall never advocate raising taxes in Connecticut either through inheritance levies or otherwise at the dictation of outside authorities, unless I am compelled to do so by an invading army."

Blodgett was answering a question put by George B. Gilbert, of Middletown, as to why the commissioner had changed his views on using the inheritance tax as a means of raising additional revenue. The commissioner explained that if such taxes were increased now it would be because of federal dictation and not because the state wanted it.

"The difficulty of securing competent tax collectors in small towns where the residents are not prosperous," was also a subject of the commissioner. "When a town cannot find persons who are willing to serve as town officials, it is not an indication the town government is breaking down," he said. "Such cases are few and the situation is not alarming, but at some future time the Legislature must consider remedies for such small town problems."

BOY KILLS HIMSELF ON BROTHER'S GRAVE

Garfield, N. J., Feb. 25.—Another youthful suicide was reported to the police here today. Theodore Tatarski, nineteen, of Paterson, shot and killed himself at the grave of his brother, near here. His body was found by an undertaker who arrived at the cemetery to conduct a funeral.

Two notes were found on the body. One asked forgiveness of his parents, expressed a hopelessness toward the future and said he wanted to join his dead brother. It was signed: "Your naughty son, Teddy, who never could understand you and you could never understand." He added a postscript, saying: "I was never any good anyway—wasn't smart or ambitious or a genius."

A second note, apparently intended for whoever found the body said: "Please don't think I'm insane, because I'm as sane as anybody, but it takes a lot of nerve when you are planning your own death, like an architect his building. That is why 99 per cent live on after they come out of the dilemma. They say differently than they thought."

Old Master's

I cannot see what flowers are at my feet,
Nor what soft incense hangs upon the boughs,
But, in embalmed darkness, guess each sweet
Wherewith the seasonable month endows

The grass: the thicket and the fruit-tree wild;
White Hawthorn, and the pale eglantine;

Fast-fading violets covered up in leaves;
And mid-May's eldest child,
The coming musk-rose, full of dewy wine,
The murmurous haunt of flies on summer eves.

Darling! I wish, and for many a time
I have been half in love with envious Death,
Called him soft names in many a mused rhyme,
To take into the air my quiet breath;

Now more than ever seems it rich to die,
To cease upon the midnight with no pain,
While thou art pouring forth thy soul abroad
In such a ecstasy!

Still wouldst thou sing, and I have ears—
To thy high requiem become a sod.

—John Keats: From "Ode to a Nightingale."

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

The New Special Sedan Special Six Chassis $1485 f.o.b. factory

A New Body Style Reigns in America

Created by Nash

Revealing an alluring French-type rear contour, this ultra-new and arresting original body design has now entirely changed American ideas of motor car style.

First exemplified by the new Ambassador and Cavalier models this unique body conception was immediately hailed as the most important creative achievement in the history of American enclosed car craftsmanship.

Today this inimitably distinguished body mode is available in the new Special Sedans just introduced on both the Special Six and Advanced Six chassis at prices of wider popular appeal.

The Special Sedan on the Special Six chassis, colorfully finished in an exquisite new blue tone is pictured above.

The extreme luxury of its interior is emphasized by the gray tufted genuine Chase Velmo Mohair Velvet upholstery, real walnut steering wheel, and select hardware in chaste pattern.

All inside window moldings and door panels are of walnut finish, as is the instrument board and the crowned panel above the instrument board.

The same fittings and appointments grace the larger Advanced Six model and both are powered with the big Nash 7-bearing motor—the world's smoothest type. 4-wheel brakes and 5 disc wheels are standard equipment.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while swimming at Ocean Tower, N. J. It is thought at first that he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death under the water.

"Yes, it just suits her," and Madeline Barron looked affectionately after her friend. "They couldn't help the 'Fair', of course, and it was clever to add the other. Though, as she was christened Angelica—

UNOSTENTATIOUSLY, Riggs steered their steps to the shop where the antique auctions were held.

"Come on," Robin Sears said, drawing away. "Wait a minute, can't you? I want to see what they've on today."

"Oh, all right," and Robin lit a cigaret and showed no interest in the window exhibit.

"I say, Robs, there's hijacks—I mean phisags, like the man was killed with."

"I don't want to look at it; come along, Tite."

"No, I want to look at it, if you don't. Humor me."

"I can't think what you see to look at in a mess of old junk."

The two went off toward the dancing room. "em do. Only it's nice to dance with her than the others!"

"What time did you turn to?" "My word! Is this an inquiry meeting? Long about one, I guess. Not much later anyway. We're not the real thing in night club work, you see. Madeline wouldn't stand for it. She's conservative and correct, first, last and all the time."

"Mighty fine woman. Well, you're not much good, Robbie, as a helper on the great problem."

"No, I say, Tite, why don't you chuck it? You'll never get at the truth, and why do you want to?" "Why do I want to?" Tite Riggs stared.

"You heard me. Well, I sure did. Well, I want to, ostensibly for the sake of justice. And that's a big part of my reason. But also because I love the game."

"Hounding down a man?" "Yes, if he's a murderer." "It," said Robin Sears.

Threatening clouds had sent many scurrying indoors, and the lounge of the Hotel Majusaca was like a great cauldron of color, sound and fragrance.

Under the tall palms sat groups of laughing, chattering young people; among the massed flowers stood smiling, happy pleasure-seekers; here and there sat those who quietly listened to the music drifting in from the next room.

There tables were all about, and though a few bored, weary faces might be seen, for the most part all was life, light and laughter. Tite Riggs and young Sears made their way to a table where Robin's searching eye had at once spied Angelica Fair.

"Blessed boy," she called out, "we have missed you at home, we have missed you. Where you been?"

"What a speech! When you fired me yourself. Said you had to stay with Maddy."

This was an unfortunate remark, and Robin should have known better than to make it. Madeline Barron turned on him with quick resentment.

GIRL SCOUT 'LITTLE HOMES' ALL OVER U. S.

Girls Develop Home Making Program Through Practical Application in These Little Houses. "Little Homes" used by Girl Scouts for their proficiency work and meetings are existing in thirty-five cities and towns in the United States and territorial islands.

Do Own Work. The Girl Scouts have all built their Girl Scout "Little Homes." They have shingled roofs, nailed beaver board walls and partitions, put in window panes, painted the house outside and inside, stained floors, decorated walls, refinished furniture, made and hung draperies and curtains, and hooked rugs.

Where the house has had sufficient ground they have plowed and planted and tended a garden, canned and sold the produce. Home Arts and Crafts. In these "Little Homes" the Girl Scouts have a place where the home arts and crafts can be practiced and cultivated and where hospitality can be shown.

At the Washington Girl Scout "Little Home" which is the duplicate of the old homestead of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," Mrs. Coolidge, who is the honorary president of the organization, has been a visitor many times, and President Coolidge has presided over a Thanksgiving dinner cooked there by the Girl Scouts in his honor.

The Better Homes Movement erected a model house for the Philadelphia Sesqui-centennial which will remain as the permanent home for the Girl Scouts of Philadelphia. During the exposition, Girl Scouts acted as hostesses to the many distinguished guests who visited them.

Bride's Course Given. A "Bride's Course" winning fame at the Old Farm on the 55-acre estate at Waltham, Mass., belonging to the Girl Scouts of Massachusetts and called Cedar Hill. These courses are given under expert direction of an instructor and practice in everything a bride could possibly wish to know about housekeeping management and home-making.

Among the larger cities where Girl Scout Houses are listed are: Brooklyn, N. Y.; Providence, R. I.; Washington, D. C.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Houston, Texas; Los Angeles, California; and Honolulu and Hilo, Hawaii.

Rhinestone Embroidery. The most formal evening gowns are of velvet, richly embroidered in rhinestones.

Short Coats. Short coats of velvet in rich colors are being worn with the dressier types of georgette and crepe de chine sport dresses.

New Shades. The best spring shades are rose pink, pale blue, beige, pale green and banana yellow.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Well, they made sure that she was dead this time! I don't want to start your day all wrong but I think you'll enjoy the ghouliah tale of Mrs. Alice Shrive, 55, whom relatives tried to bury three times.

Enemies of all and any birth control theories may be able to use this story to advantage in their propaganda. A certain lady was kidnapped by bold bad bandits. They robbed her and opened her vanity case. There was a baby's picture inside. "Young!" they asked, and when she claimed maternity, they gave her carfare home.

Nothing Funny About Em! Are weddings occasions of amusement? Brides and grooms of Berlin, say not so, protesting the heavy tax they must pay for wedding feasts with the music and dancing. Weddings should not bear an amusement tax, they protest. They are occasions of gravity, even if music and dancing do feature them.

Mrs. McHallet English of Arkansas planned a quadruple wedding at her home. She and her three daughters were all to be united in the holy bonds. The daughters were married, but not she, for her bridegroom didn't show up. He did the next day, however, and they were married then. There is no report even if the ceremony did take place. She won't forget that in a hurry, and neither will he.

Brooms For Beauty. If you hold any broom stock, watch for a rise on the market. More brooms are being sold, say dealers, than ever before. They explain that modern get-thin propaganda which stresses the reducing value of housework explains the broom sale. And the thing that puzzles me is that with all this hue and cry about the beautifying effects of housework, no women have such unattractive figures as wash women, char women, and all those who drudge with scrub, brush, broom, and dish pan.

Silk Braids. Fine silk braids is used in very rich patterns, to decorate sport and daytime gowns of crepe silk.

After that bad cold, influenza or grip, take Peptonas, the ideal food and general tonic. Quin's—adv.

Bending and stretching are twin aids to beauty. That is why dancing, swimming and tennis are the ideal exercises for the development of bodily symmetry.

Illustrated today is the bending exercise that is so very strengthening and reducing to the legs and so beneficial to the contour of the hips.

So lie down on the floor, stretch out to make the distance between your head and toes as long as possible, then bend one knee then the other with flexed ankle until your knee touches your chest.

After every exercise, relax completely so you droop as lazily as a flower. Exercise can really be harmful if you are too tense about it.

Good Nature and Good Health

DIET MAY BRING CURE TO EPILEPSY SUFFERERS. By DR. MORRIS FISHEEN. Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. Since the ancient first described with fear and horror the symptoms of the falling sickness, as the disease was commonly known, a specific cause for epilepsy has been sought without avail by scientists throughout the world.

Home Page Editorials Feet Of Clay

Imperious Caesar dead and turned to clay might stop a hole to keep the wind away! said Shakespeare. But the great need not die to be of the earth earthy. One of the world's greatest singers while enroute was invited to be the guest of a family of comfortable means but who lived unpretentiously. The hotels in the town were poor, so the lady accepted the invitation with alacrity. Ensnosed in her room she sent her maid to announce that she preferred to have her meals alone, and would they kindly send up her tray at ten, two and seven, and by the way would they please have English hot-house grapes for her breakfast as it was the only fruit she enjoyed.

Your Income Tax

When by reason of illness or absence from home additional time is required for filing an income tax return, application should be made to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer files his return, to obtain a full recital for the causes for the delay. Except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad, no extension may be granted for more than six months. The request must be made before the return is due—March 15, 1927, if the return is made on the calendar year basis.

An extension of time for filing the return does not extend the time for payment of the tax, or any installment thereof, unless so specified in the extension. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue may extend the time of payment of the amount determined as the tax by the taxpayer, or any installment thereof, for a period not to exceed six months from the prescribed date.

Application for such an extension should be made to the commissioner through the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is filed, who will make proper record thereof, and forward it immediately to the commissioner. The application should be set forth under oath the specific reason for desiring an extension, and should clearly indicate what hardship, if any, would result if the extension were not granted. The commissioner will not consider an application for an extension unless made on or before the due date of the tax or installment thereof for which the extension is desired. A request for an extension 7 times for payment of one installment does not operate to procure an extension for payment of subsequent installments.

If the extension is granted, interest at the rate of 6 per cent a year is added from the date the payment should have been made if the extension had not been granted until the expiration of the period of the extension.

VENEZUELAN PASTOR SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Missionary Is Brother of Holger Bach, Local Builder; Will Show Pictures.

Rev. T. C. Bach of Maracaibo, the principal city in Venezuela, South America, will give a stereopticon lecture at the Center Congregational church Sunday evening, March 6. He is a brother of Holger Bach, the local building contractor, and has been a missionary in the South American field for twenty-two years, having been one of the first missionaries sent by the Scandinavian Alliance, while in that area they now have 24.

Mr. Bach with his wife and children is spending the year at Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago, and while in this country is doing public work for his missionary society in its effort to establish a home for retired missionaries and those on furlough in the United States. He is preaching in towns and cities all over the country in the effort to help raise funds for this home.

"FASCINATING YOUTH" COMING TO RIALTO

"Fascinating Youth" a rollicking story of the life led by the younger generation heads the bill at the Rialto to-morrow. Most of the names appearing in this charming tale of modern life are unfamiliar to motion picture audiences as the cast is wholly made up of future screen stars who make their debut in this film. The players appearing in "Fascinating Youth" are attending Paramount's school for moving picture actors and after graduating are allowed to produce a picture. In this case they have been furnished with an exceptional vehicle and appear to have made the most of their chances. The picture has attracted a nation wide interest and furnishes the audience with real entertainment.

The second feature scheduled is "The Pinnacle Rider" a fast action western drama starring Jack Mower. Another chapter of the serial as well as an hilarious comedy and news reel will also be shown. Speaking of the serial it might be well to say that today marks the opening of a new one, "Scouty of the Scouts" which should meet with instant favor here, as it has everywhere else.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

ROMANCE OF THE WEST

The conquering and settling of America's western empire is one of the most romantic stories our country affords. How well do you know it? This intelligence test will try your knowledge of western history. You'll find the answers on another page.

- 1—War with what country was precipitated by America's acquisition of Texas?
- 2—When the United States got California, the land was sparsely inhabited and poor. In what year, and why, did a tremendous influx of settlers from the east occur?
- 3—What famous western scout and Indian fighter later organized a show which toured America under his nickname?
- 4—On the banks of what river did Custer and his men meet their death?
- 5—Who led settlers into Utah and made a garden spot of the Salt Lake basin?
- 6—What famous author and humorist prospected for silver in Nevada during and after the Civil War?
- 7—Name a man who was influential in the development of railroads from the middle west to the northwest.
- 8—What is the "Golden Gate"?
- 9—What man, who led in the securing of California for the United States, was the Republican party's first candidate for president?
- 10—What was the name of the pioneer system whereby messages were sent across the plains with great speed?

Vaudeville In Provinces Sets Pace For Broadway

Pat Rooney Finds Variety Theater on Its 100th Birthday Nearer to America Than Stars of Pretentious Plays.

Pat Rooney in a Variety Setting

By JAMES POWERS

New York, Feb. 25.—Vaudeville this month celebrates its birthday. It is 100 years old. Banners will snap in the breeze in theater fronts throughout America. Hoofers, black-face comics, song-and-dance men, jugglers, prima donna headliners, animal acts, acrobats, jazz orchestras, cross-fire and hoke gaggers, aerial novelties, girly-girly revues and all that colorful colony of players whose names are so familiar to the great American public will shoot an extra shot of zip into their numbers. Why should vaudeville feel like celebrating? Pat Rooney has the floor. Old Pat with his rollicking good humor and nimble feet has been amusing audiences with his jokes and dances from Hoboken to San Francisco for more than a quarter of a century. His father, the gay and hearty Pat Rooney, was the idol of Mineer's "Bowery" in the early '70's when pink tights and ta-ra-ra-boom-dee-a spiced the popular variety bills. The current Pat was born and bred of the stage and while he is approaching 50 he is still as peppy as ever. He has Pat III, a smart lad in his teens, off to an auspicious start to keep the Rooney name shining as brightly as ever in the incandescents. "The future?—I think vaudeville will come to the road show as a great bill traveling intact—just as in the old days of variety," chirps Pat. "It is the same cycle coming around again, dressed up to knock 'em stiffer with better talent, woe 'em with gorgeous settings, panic 'em with flashier costumes. That's a hill of a dream! But just the same that's what it will be. "People come to go goo-goo at the sight acts and snicker themselves silly at the laughing acts. Programs of the future will have more of them both. "Expensive show houses are a frost. People can go to the museum of art or a tall forehead furniture shop for nothing. If a bill is terrible the people stay away, no matter how much dough it took for the drapes in the lobby or the oils on the stairway. "The traditional sucker birthrate is too low. Think of it, $27.50 a piece for seats at big Broadway openings! New Yorkers say to me 'Oh, but we see the best shows—think of the poor hicks out in the bullrushes.' Huh! "Those hicks in the bullrushes aren't so poor and are not unpeppy. They pay $1.55 to see just what the New Yorkers pay $5.50 for, plus more costumes and more legs. "The poor hicks in the bullrushes were laughing first at Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor, Fred Stone, George Cohan, Clark and McCullough, George White, Fannie Brice, Ethel Barrymore and others in vaudeville. Now I wonder who laughs when a price of $7.50 is hung on 'em. "Sex fights? They're off a payoff. Think of the thousands of vaudeville houses, of the millions of vaudeville fans. Do they ever see anything dirty? You bet they don't! Vaudeville is a reflection of the audience, typically clean and snappy down to the wise cracks. "Critics high-hat vaudeville. But it has a widespread influence on

'COLORESQUE' ACT THRILLS AT STATE

Marvelous Things Done By New Science—Bill Is Good One.

Imagine yourself gazing upon the portrait of a beautiful young woman, when suddenly the young woman disappears and you find yourself looking upon the picture of a soldier sitting under a shady tree with his horse grazing nearby! Such, in brief, is only one of the wonderful achievements of the Chamberlain Company of New York through its new science of color and pictorial effects which have been developed by it in France and this country. How is all this accomplished? Of course, the Chameleon process is patented, but it can be said that it combines the use of special pigments so treated as to control their reaction to certain light waves with the use of specially prepared color filters. Materials and other objects upon which the color filter is to react are especially painted and designed. For example, one filter will make a dress appear entirely black while a second filter will bring out colorful designs in the same gown, and a third filter might bring out an entirely different design and color combination. To date it has been used chiefly in the theatrical field in such productions as Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue", Ziegfeld's "Comic Supplement", "The Niteties", etc. where the Chameleon effects were singled out for unqualified praise from both press and public. Chameleon effects are shown for the first time in vaudeville, in "Coloresque"—a lovely act with talented people, now showing at the State theater. Boardman and Boyer and company, singly bouncers and casters, bounce all over the stage for several minutes. This troupe is composed of two men and a girl and the stunts the three perform are sensational in the extreme. The second act is a one-man affair, Frank Whitman, who makes a violin do everything, even to talking. He imitates a man sawing wood and a Scotch bagpipe on his fiddle. He plays the instrument with the regulation bow, with a matchstick and with a palpat playing cards. Henry Lyons and company put on a skit, "The Honeymoon," a humorous sketch of a man who starts out the first day of his married life to become a henpeck. He has an awakening soon and makes himself the master of the household to the end of the act. Carlo and Knoll, old favorites at the State, are back with their familiar smiles, new songs and new comedy. They are two of the best operatic singers on the vaudeville stage and their act received vociferous applause. Last year when this pair came here they the people. I step out of a stage door and hear the rida bandying about the nifties and imitating the mannerism we brought to their towns. "Vaudeville is not something to be under-rated," and Pat's face turned serious for a moment. "It plays a big part in the shaping of American life. "I hope to live to see the day when the old cycle, the old variety of my father, comes back embellished with all the modern dress. It is surely coming to that with full strides. Why, right now," and his eyes lit with pride, "vaudeville is the national American entertainment. I'll say it ought to enjoy a happy birthday."

THE NEW PLAYS "A Lady in Love," by Dorrance Davis has just opened this week at the Lyceum with Peggy Wood's name in the lights. It is a comedy in the Restoration manner, written by clumsy, contemporary hands. It was evidently written as an ornery little 1921 bedroom farce and then thrust back through the centuries in an unsuccessful effort to reach distinction. "What Ann Brought Home," by Larry T. Johnson, opened at Walcott's. The plot revolves around a lack's. The plot revolves around a young boob who marries into a small town family and lives under a crowded parental roof. Underneath his boobery it seems he's all the Mervell brothers put together. The play is entertaining enough for those who like their drama rehearsed. "Window Panes," by Olga Printzlau, opened at the Mansfield. It is laid in a peasant village near the Black Sea. Husband buys a new window pane and forbids his wife to clean it. His enervated grim throws all sorts of Dostoevsky shadows into the hut. Enter a stranger who polishes the glass and the resultant sunlight cures a mute child, restores the sanity and forbids his wife to give peace to the harassed wife. The hubby commits suicide. Eileen Huban gives a touching performance as the wife. "Set a Thief," by E. E. Paramore, Jr., opened at the Empire. It is a fast, plausible, elegant and hair lifting melodrama that set about exercising the ghost of "The Captive." Here are murders well done, in corking entertainment.

HOAX SUCCEEDS AS THOUSANDS CHEER Glasgow.—Thirty thousand people gathered at the wharves here as the result of an announcement in a college paper that Miss Anne Dapenny had left New York a week before to swim across the Atlantic and was due that day at noon. The throng grew until it blocked all traffic when a small boat containing a bag-piper and a crew of three appeared. Behind it swam "Miss Dapenny, who was one of the men students at the school. "The swim was easy as soon as I got through the rum fleet off the American coast," he said.

TWO-HEARTED HOG Berkeley Springs, W. Va.—Winter Unger, farmer, butchered a large, apparently normal, hog recently and discovered that the animal had two hearts. One was of ordinary size; the other was about as large as a chicken's heart.

amount of $985 for loss of taxes of state-owned land at the proposed state prison site, this also being passed under suspension of ruling. The House received favorable reports and then passed under suspension of rules the following judgeship resolution: Arthur F. Libbey, judge at Norwich; Frank P. Fox, judge at Norwich; Edwin Andrews, deputy judge at Norwich; Police Court; Henry A. Adams, judge, and John W. Cross, deputy judge of the Town Court of Sprague. Judgeship resolutions rejected by the House today were: Henry H. Pettis, judge at Norwich; Edwin W. Higgins, judge of Norwich; Russell A. Andrews, judge of Wilhamantic Police Court. Favorable Reports Other favorable reports received in the House were: authorizing the motor vehicle commissioner to regulate the criminal terms of the district court of Waterbury shall begin the first Tuesdays of January, April, and September; providing for the continuance of trials begun before a judge at the expiration of the term of court; incorporating the Guaranty Title & Mortgage Co. of Hartford; authorizing Norwich to issue $400,000 refunding bonds to pay off bonds of the Norwich Gas and Electric Co.; authorizing $100,000 improvement bonds for unimproved territory; Walcott Hill Fire District; Waverfield, to issue $50,000 bonds for constructing water mains. Unfavorable reports received in the House included the following: Eliminating the practice of clairvoyancy and spiritualism from practices banned by state law; incorporating the Torrington Community house, the bill having been withdrawn; including a piece of Lyme road in the highway system; the bill having been withdrawn; providing for a simplification of procedure in collection of small claims; providing home rule in towns, cities and boroughs in collection of small claims; establishing small claims courts. The House concurred with Senate in the following: authorizing the establishment of the Stamford Title & Mortgage Co., making the word "mortgage" a part of the title in place of the word "finance." The House also concurred in establishing a penalty of not more than $25 for failure to register still-born children. The House passed from its calendar the following: Authorizing Wetherfield to license vendors; authorizing New Canaan's board of finance to transfer surplus funds from one year to another in making up its budget; authorizing establishment of three-year terms for members of boards and commissions in West Hartford; incorporating the Hopkins grammar school of New Haven. The Senate The Senate today approved the appointment of Henry H. Pettis as deputy judge of the City Court of Norwich. One favorable report was received in the Senate, being a bill placing control of work in eliminating plant pests under direction of the State Agricultural Station. Unfavorable reports in the Senate were: providing that epileptics who have been sterilized may marry; increasing the penalty for arson or attempted arson; increasing the penalty for criminals convicted of highway robbery; providing for registration of public service motor vehicles eliminating vehicles for carrying mail from those for which registration is demanded; appropriating $15,000 to buy lobster eggs. The Senate passed from its calendar some twenty minor House bills without discussion.

YOUTH SENTENCED Stamford, Conn., Feb. 25.—Ercole Tamburri, a local youth, was sent to jail for three months today after he was found guilty of robbing the home of Mrs. Charles Tamburri, a relative, a week ago. The youth had been in a sanitarium since his arrest and was reported as normal. In court today Tamburri first pleaded not guilty and then went on the stand and described how he had robbed his relative's home.

SOLD LOTTERY TICKETS Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 25.—A new crusade against selling lottery tickets was under way today with the arrest of Dominic Spinelli, barber, of 240 East Main street. Spinelli was held in ball of $1,000 on two counts of selling lottery tickets. The warrant was issued from the state's attorney's office.

EPICUREAN CLUB

HAS FINE SUPPER

Oh Joy! Strawberry Shortcake In February—Served at Community Club.

Although a newly-formed club, the Epicurean Club is fast establishing a reputation for providing exceedingly good things to eat. Its second club supper in the series of five was held last evening at the Manchester Community club. The menu contained a most delightful surprise for the diners, and the members are apparently doing full justice to the teachings of the school of Epicurus from which the club takes its name.

East performances had proven that the personnel of the committee in charge on this occasion guaranteed something out of the ordinary, and that is just about what happened last evening. The committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Strickland, the Misses Helen and Gertrude Carver, Frits Schonhaar, Lloyd Schonhaar, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Loomis.

Florida's Best The diners were seated promptly at 8:30 and an excellent roast beef supper was served, prepared personally by the committee. The climax was the arrival of the corps of volunteer waiters with trays laden with luscious strawberry shortcake, unlimited as to quantity and Florida's best as to quality. A chorus of "O-o-h-h's" from the diners welcomed the berries.

Looking back to the days of the famous Buckingham strawberry festivals it was recalled that for several years the chairman of those historic events was W. A. Strickland. This fact may in a measure account for the serving of all the strawberry shortcake one could eat during the month of February at the Community club.

Musical Numbers During the progress of the supper a wide variety of musical selections from all corners of the country were brought in by a powerful eight-tube set. Following these numbers, the best that WIZ or WEAF could offer was discounted by an impromptu minstrel performance staged by Director, G. H. Washburn and Scott H. Simon, with Carl Borst at the piano.

Bridge Session Also After the musical numbers those present enjoyed a session at bridge. First prize for ladies was taken by Miss Marion Robertson, and first prize for gentlemen by Julius Strong.

The Community club dining rooms were pleasingly decorated in harmony with the principal holiday of the week, Washington's birthday, each room being ornamented with large American flags and tasteful arrangement of colored streamers.

Next Club Supper The third supper of the Epicurean club will be given at the Community club under the direction of the following committee: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Keif, Miss Ruth Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Holmes.

MOVIE DIRECTOR KILLS HIMSELF IN HIS HOME

Director of Renee Adoree Goes Into Sun Parlor to Fire Shot Into His Head. Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 25.—Lynn Reynolds, 39, widely-known Hollywood motion picture director, husband of Kathleen Connor Reynolds, beautiful screen actress, died in a Los Angeles emergency hospital from a wound in his head, said by police to have been caused by a bullet fired by Reynolds with suicidal intent.

The director's act, according to his wife, was committed in a fit of despondency immediately after his return last night from the high Sierra Nevada mountains. He had been on location directing Renee Adoree.

Reynolds suddenly left his dinner table, went to the sun room of his home and shot himself with a .38 calibre pistol.

FORGOTTEN DEBT FOUND BY FRANCE Paris.—Digging back into its dusty archives, France has found a war debt owed by the English. The bill is more than a century old and, although the original amount was only $3,534,374 francs, compound interest by now would have run the figure up to an enormous sum.

GIRL RESERVES' PLAY

PLEASES LARGE CROWD

"Packing the Missionary Barrel" the one-act play which the Girl Reserves presented at the Center Congregational church last night, pleased a large gathering of the parents and friends. All the girls who had a part were garbed in clothes that were out of style and some of the rigs worn were very funny.

They kept up a running fire of gossip and comments on the various articles that went into the barrel, spending most of the time examining the contributions. Their sarcastic remarks about the donation of a pair of mittens by the wealthiest woman of the village were soon silenced when they discovered in each a five dollar bill. They went together over the donation of a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles whose owner had passed on, and kept everybody laughing during the duration of the play.

Owing to illness the Troubadours were unable to play, but Miss Emma Strickland, their pianist, favored with a piano solo and accompanied Frederick Edwards on the violin. Helen Newman recited "How Gentlemen are Made."

The Girl Reserves sang some of their songs and gave a demonstration of first aid work—bandaging a dislocated shoulder, a fractured ankle and a head injury.

A game of volley ball between the Peps and the Eagles resulted in a tie. The ladies of the Benevolent and Missionary societies under whose auspices the entertainment was given, served home-made and assorted cookies, tea and cocoa.

GAME CLUB ANNUAL MEETING IS TONIGHT

Anglers and Hunters to Name Year's Officers—Error In Announcement Yesterday. The annual meeting and election of officers of the Manchester Fish and Game club will be held this evening at Tinker hall at 8 o'clock.

It was erroneously announced yesterday that the session was to be held last night, but it is hoped this will not interfere with the expected large attendance tonight.

The present officers are: Andrew Ferguson, president; August Senfeli, vice-president; Walter Lutgens, secretary; Sherwood Martin, assistant secretary; Allan Dexter, financial secretary and Samuel J. Turkington, treasurer.

'CHARMING'S' HUNT

CINDERELLA FEET

Some of 'em Play Foxy at It, Too, In Weavers' Novelty Dance.

Any young man in the weaving department of Cheney Brothers today who doesn't know as much as a shoe-seller about feminine feet can only thank himself, for he got every opportunity to learn it all last night in that much-ballyhooed Cinderella dance at the Weaving Mill party in Cheney Hall.

About fifty couples took part. The girls formed a circle around the hall and each tossed a slipper into the ring. These were piled in a heap and then at command, out dashed the gallant corps of Prince Charmings, each of whom grabbed a slipper and sought to find its mate. The incidents which occurred were many and varied.

proper foot and was dizzy before he proved her up. Some of the men were complaining today against tactics used by John Bissell and John Tournard. They assert that this pair took an armful of slippers apiece and worked a selective process. Two other young men tossed their dancing pumps into the pile but fooled nobody.

The party was attended by 165 employees and thirty guests from the Wallace-Barnes Company of Bristol. After the roast turkey dinner had been served and Johnny Hughes had finished surprising the gathering with his singing the entertainment began. It this evening rough on Johnny, blame the press agent.

Irene and Emily Pillard sang songs entitled, "I want to Call You My Sweetheart" and "There's Potatoes in the Oven, and They're Cooking Good and Brown." The two Howard girls from East Hartford gave a duet dancing exhibition and then Nan Taggart, Emily Kisman and Clara Jackmore gave their own interpretation of Barney Google and Spark Plug.

Nan was Barney Google and the other two joined to represent Spark Plug. Harry White sang, "I'm telling the Birds, Telling the Bees, etc." and another number.

REPORTING ACCIDENTS RAISES STATE'S RATE

Bulletin Discloses Animals
Causing Fewer Crashes Than Previously.

Because of the lack of uniformity in different states, requirements for reporting accidents, and the stricter requirements of Connecticut, which call for a report of every accident resulting in personal injury or fatality or property damage estimated at more than $10, this state appears to have a higher accident rate in comparison with most other states.

"Animals are becoming more and more proficient" in modern traffic, "causing less accidents each year," says the current issue of the state motor vehicle department bulletin. The statement is based on a disclosure by statistics for the year 1926 that 360 motor vehicle accidents were charged up to the conduct of animals. In the previous year animals were held to have been responsible for 402 accidents. The much maligned "back-seat driver," the bulletin points out, "is responsible for fewer accidents than jokes." Eleven of last year's accidents are charged up to "interference with operation," compared with seventeen a year ago.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of hit-and-run drivers reported to the department. In the past year, according to the records, the identity of 582 operators who contributed to the causes of motor vehicle accidents was not ascertained. There were 527 such operators reported in the year 1925.

The number of bicyclists hit by motor vehicles in Connecticut last year dropped to 251 from a total of 319 reported in the previous year, and only thirteen railroad fatalities, or flames, against twenty-eight in 1925, were adjudged to have been partly to blame, at least, for motor vehicle mishaps. Under the heading "Recklessness of Operator," improvement has been maintained for two years in only three forms, driving on the wrong side of the road, cutting in and passing on the wrong side of vehicles.

ABOUT TOWN

The degree team from Wolcott Council No. 1, R. & S. M., of Hartford, will work the Council degrees on several Manchester candidates for Adoniram Council No. 14 of Rockville at Odd Fellows hall tomorrow evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all Council members to be present.

Center Hose Co. No. 2 will hold a special meeting in their quarters Monday evening, February 28, at 8 o'clock.

Friends surprised Mrs. Elizabeth Pallier, at her home, 14 Middle Turnpike (West) last evening. It was her birthday anniversary. Those who came brought gifts. A luncheon was served and a radio concert enjoyed after the playing of various games.

Ever Ready Circle Kings Daughters will have a food sale at the store of the J. W. Hale company tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, the proceeds to be used in community charitable work. Mrs. Joseph Wright heads the committee of ladies in charge.

Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus will hold its regular meeting in K. of C. hall tonight.

After that bad cold, influenza or grip, take Pepton, the ideal blood and general tonic. Quinn's.—adv.

CLIFFORD KNIGHT
DRAWS FOR HERALD

Noted Cartoonist, Now Living in Vernon, to Sketch For Your Newspaper.

That well known signature "By Cliff Knight" seen on cartoons on some of the best papers in the east and middle west, will make its bow to Manchester tomorrow through The Evening Herald. Knight, who has a summer home in Vernon Center will draw local cartoons for The Herald for the next twelve months, at least.

Although Cliff Knight was born in Vernon and has attended the Rockville high school he has not lived there until recently when he came back to the old homestead to live. His habitat since his high school days was first the middle west where he became a newspaper reporter on the Cleveland and Plain Dealer. While there he was attracted to the art department. His crude drawings attracted the attention of the great Dorney, at that time the big cartoonist of the middle west. In fact outside of Chicago where McCutcheon held sway, Dorney had no peer west of New York. Dorney advised the cub reporter to take up art. He did so and from then on turned his attention to drawing although at times he went back to writing which he still follows on the side.

Five years in the west on papers as far as Kansas City, Knight decided to come back east and landed in New York where he worked as a cartoonist on several New York dailies. His specialty while in the big city was theatrical work. He still does work for the New York Mail.

Later he came to Hartford and for years was the cartoonist on the old Hartford Post. His work has also been seen in the Hartford Courant.

Since the demise of the Hartford Post, Knight has been making animated cartoons for the movies. He is known as "Uncle George" to radio fans as he gives a weekly radio talk on cartooning for a Bridgeport newspaper.

Cliff Knight knows Manchester. He knows many of its prominent residents and the town itself. His weekly pen pictures in The Evening Herald will not be wooden figures. They will be real portraits of local folks, their characteristics and foibles. There is no poison in Cliff Knight's ink. Good nature drips from his pen.

Manchester folks may anticipate a real treat in art from a professional cartoonist who is a Manchester suburbanite and who knows Manchester.
