

RELIEF BOARD CUTS TAX LIST $76,758 TOTAL

House Lots Lead In Items of Reduction; Findings Re- duce Town Income By Sum of $1,084.

Total deductions of $76,758 from the grand list of the town were made by the Board of Relief, which has just completed its findings, it was learned from figures announced today. No additions in taxes were placed on property by the board this year.

Members of the board paid a warm tribute to the board of assessors for the condition in which the books were found after the grand list was announced in January. No trouble was experienced with the list books and the work of the Board of Relief was made considerably easier than in the past.

House Lots Top Item
House lots came in for the greatest amount of deduction, with a total of $24,390, while houses run second, with $14,465. Tools and machinery are reduced $9,850, while acreage is cut down $5,918. Horses and cattle, which are represented by a low figure on this year's list, are reduced in valuation by $50 on each list. Automobiles, of which there are nearly 4,000 have been cut $4,015 altogether. The deduction from the stock in trade item is $3,500. Musical instruments are reduced $250.

TRUMBULL IS OPPOSED TO BIG BOND ISSUE

But Will Not Interfere With Legislation In Attempt to Raise $50,000,000 for Roads.

Hartford, March 3.—Governor Trumbull is opposed to a fifty million dollar bond issue for road building, he declared this afternoon. The governor at the same time made it plain that he would not interfere other than to voice his objections because he thought the Legislature ought to present its own bill.

Rumors that the Legislature was discussing a great road building bond issue stirred individual members as well as the governor, and the matter was rapidly becoming the leading topic of the session today.

Samuel C. Shaw, of Redding, Senate leader, announced himself as opposed to the proposed bond issue, declaring it to be a departure from the state's accepted policy of "pay-as-you-go."

14 CONNECTICUT BOYS IN PHI BETA KAPPA

Part of Group of 46 Yale Students Awarded For High Marks In Their Studies.

New Haven, Conn., March 3.—Fourteen Connecticut boys have been elected to membership in Yale's Phi Beta Kappa chapter, as a reward for high scholarship. They are a part of a group of forty-six students elected from the entire university here.

SHIPS IN DISTRESS.

Norfolk, Va., March 3.—A raging March 3 off the Virginia Capes today jeopardized a number of lives as dozens of ships staggered through high seas for refuge.

Most concern was felt today for 54 passengers aboard the coastwise steamer City of St. Louis, drifting toward the treacherous shoals of Hatteras.

KING GEORGE AGAINST WOMEN RIDING ASTRIDE

London, Mar. 3.—King George does not like to see British women ride astride. He said so when viewing a hunter show here.

The king doesn't approve of bobbed hair either, but there has been no rush on the part of English women to return to long tresses.

FIERCE GALES ALONG COAST MENACE SHIPS

Radio Calls of Distress From Cape Hatteras Sent Out Guards to Rescue; Dozens Of Vessels Fighting Storm.

New York, Mar. 3.—Furious gales raging up the Atlantic coast, from Cape Hatteras northward, today wrought havoc among coastwise and foreign shipping. Radio calls of distress sent coastguard vessels hastily out to sea, bucking mountainous waves, to stand by and render aid to the stricken ships.

The storm's toll this morning was: two ships driven ashore, one of which was later refloated and put back to sea under its own power; three ships disabled and calling for aid; two United States lightships torn from their moorings and reported foundering helplessly, and two coal barges torn loose from their convoy and swept to sea. Each barge carried five men.

Most of the storm's casualties were in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras.

Freighter Ashore

The British freight ship King David, west of shore and the captain fearing his vessel would be pounded to pieces by the heavy seas, sent out SOS signals. Two coast guard cutters put out from Norfolk, Va., to the King David's assistance, but at 3:25 o'clock this morning, the steamer was reported to have been wrecked on the beach.

The coastwise passenger steamer City of St. Louis, bound from Savannah to New York with about thirty passengers, had her steering gear disabled by the storm. She was last reported drifting off Cape Hatteras shoals, with several vessels rushing to her aid.

Five thousand soldiers were dispatched to Sungkiang, yesterday afternoon, and larger forces are following immediately. Several trainloads of the troops arrived at Pukow from Shanghai and Chihli yesterday, followed by ten trainloads this morning.

HOLD HOTEL EMPLOYEE FOR ANOTHER DEATH

Body Found in Snowdrift in Middletown Thought to be That of D. C. Dudley.

New Haven, Mar. 3.—Coroner Eli Mix has started another investigation into the career of Fred Edgel, former Meriden hotel employee, who is awaiting trial here on a charge of first degree murder for the death of John Mastriano, also of Meriden.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE ON JERSEY CITY PIER

Dock "K" of the Pennsylvania R. R. Destroyed With Many Freight Cars.

Jersey City, N. J., March 3.—Damage estimated at $1,000,000 was caused today when fire destroyed Pier "K" of the Pennsylvania railroad, and seriously damaged an adjoining pier.

Five cars loaded with freight, fifteen empty freight cars, and thirty carloads of merchandise stored on the floor of the pier, were destroyed. One railroad barge also was gutted by the flames and a lumber warehouse was razed.

All available fire apparatus and fire boats from New York quelled the blaze after several hours. The precise origin has not been determined.

Quick work on the part of Pennsylvania railroad employees, who used switching engines to shunt many freight cars out of the path of the fire, spared a greater loss of property.

Now Campbell is pressing suit against his brother for assault.

Colonel names Campbell in his divorce suit.

No Jap-U.S. War Over Immigration

PREPARING ATTACK AGAINST CANTONESE

Trainloads of Soldiers Roll Through Shanghai on Way To Front.

Shanghai, Mar. 3.—Trainloads of Shantung soldiers rolled through Shanghai today on their way to the front at Sungkiang where the troops of General Chang Tsung-chang are rapidly and completely replacing the troops of General Sun Chuan-fang, Chekiang leader.

The Shanghai-ites are reported to be preparing to launch an attack against the Cantonese, probably tonight. The attack will be made from Shanghai, and according to General Chang Tsung-chang, the White Russian units in the Shanghai area will lead the fighting.

Five thousand soldiers were dispatched to Sungkiang, yesterday afternoon, and larger forces are following immediately. Several trainloads of the troops arrived at Pukow from Shanghai and Chihli yesterday, followed by ten trainloads this morning.

Viscount Ishii Says His Coun- try Is Working For World Peace—War Would Gain Them Little, He Declares.

Paris, Mar. 3.—Japan will never go to war with the United States over the question of immigration, declared Viscount Ishii, Japanese ambassador to France, in a farewell interview with the International News Service.

After fifty years in the diplomatic service, chiefly in Paris and Washington, Viscount Ishii will soon return to Japan to retire to the comparative quiet of a seat in the Senate.

Working for Peace

"Japan has no idea of attacking anyone in the world," said Viscount Ishii, "and we are working loyally and resolutely for world peace. We hope that in time we will be able to gain our personal desires peacefully."

"We hope some day the irritating question of immigration will be settled by a better comprehension of our needs. This question affects our relations with both America and Great Britain, since Britain has taken restrictive measures in her colonies and dominions, chiefly in Australia and Canada."

No Danger of War

"But there is no danger of conflict with either country over this question for the moral reason that we do not want war and for the practical reason that we would have little to gain."

New Mexican Reply RECEIVED AT CAPITAL

State Department Refuses to Disclose Its Contents; May Mean Lifting Arms Ban.

Washington, March 3.—A new note from Mexico replying to one dispatched from Washington twenty-two hours earlier, was received at the State Department today.

Department officials, however, declined to disclose the subject matter of the correspondence, or waver to admit that a reply had been received. Thus, the usual "mexican secret" that has shrouded the Mexican controversy for some days.

The American note is understood to have been written by Assistant Secretary of State Olds, who has been charged in the Senate with being "anti-Mexican."

Reports that the new note proposed a lifting of the embargo on arms to Mexico, thus affording Calles' enemies with the means to start a revolution, were met with silence at the department, as were various other reports concerning the subject matter of the correspondence.

ROSE AS MANAGER OF 'INTERNATIONAL' Managing Editor of Buffalo Evening News Chosen as New Service Director.

New York, March 3.—M. Koenigsberg, president and general manager of International News Service, announced today the appointment of Marc A. Rose as executive manager of the organization.

Mr. Rose resigned last week as managing editor of the Buffalo Evening News.

Except for the addition of Mr. Rose, the executive personnel at the New York office remains unchanged with a redistribution of duties.

M. Koenigsberg—President and general manager.
Marc A. Rose—Executive manager.
George G. Shor—Business manager.
Barry Paris—News manager.
W. B. Goode—Traffic manager.
Mr. Koenigsberg, in his statement, called attention to the fact:

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF URUGUAY FLIERS

Aviators Have Not Been Heard From Since They Left For Canary Islands.

Cadiz, Spain, March 3.—Official circles here were beginning to entertain grave fears today for the safety of the Uruguayan fliers, Major Larre-Borges and his colleagues, who have not been heard from since they hopped off from Casablanca, Morocco, at 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning for the Canary Islands. They were attempting a Spain-to-Uruguay flight.

At one o'clock this afternoon the Cadiz radio station announced that continued radio inquiries had failed to elicit any information regarding the fliers.

The Uruguayan aeroplane carrying a wireless set, but it is believed that if it came down on some lonely island or in some thickly wooded section it might have difficulty in cutting through the radio waves of other and more powerful sending apparatus.

ENGLAND NOT READY FOR WAR WITH REDS

Soviet Leader Says Enemy Fears War Because Workers In Europe Won't Fight Reds.

Moscow, March 3.—"There will be no war either this spring or this autumn, because our enemies are not ready," declared Joseph Stalin, Soviet leader, today when answering questions of workers regarding the possibility of a break with Great Britain with war as a result. "Our enemies fear the results of a war, because the workers of eastern Europe don't want to fight the Soviet Union," said Stalin. "I believe a break with England is hardly possible, because it would accomplish nothing."

SENATE DEADLOCKED ON REED RESOLUTION

Nurse Gives Acid to Babies; Five Die in a Few Minutes

Chicago, March 3.—The deaths of five girl babies, all less than fifteen days old, who died in convulsions at Columbus Memorial hospital here after being administered to by a nurse, was the subject of a searching investigation today.

The tragedy occurred early yesterday, it was learned, but was not reported until last night when Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen was notified. After a brief investigation Dr. Bundesen stated his belief that a nurse had mistaken boric acid for drinking

MANCHESTER BILLS KILLED IN HOUSE

City Classification Reported Unfavorable By Commit- tee; "Dirt Road" Up Again.

Hartford, Conn., March 3.—Two bills that would have changed Manchester's designation from town to city were killed in the house here today after unfavorable reports from the cities and boroughs committee.

The "dirt roads" fight of yesterday was re-echoed in the House today when efforts were made to lighten the parliamentary proceedings which were clouded by the debate yesterday. Action on the amended substitute bill was reconsidered and the bill itself re-committed to the appropriations committee. The Senate will follow the same action. The new bill provides for $2,000,000 to be expended on dirt roads under supervision of the highway department.

How to Raise It?
Dr. William L. Higgins, of Coventry, leader of the "back roads" forces, pointed out today that the measure does not carry any provision for raising the $2,000,000. He said it was up to the House to find some way of getting this revenue and he suggested the members in favor appear before the finance committee and urge the raising of this money through an additional cent on the gasoline tax or by some other method.

Unfavorable Reports
Unfavorable reports in the House included the following:
Providing for changed form of legal deeds, exempting land taken by municipalities for water sheds, reimbursing Charles P. Reynolds for injuries received while a student at Storrs when he was hazed by upper classmen; providing for amendments to New Haven's charter, the bill being withdrawn; providing selectmen may not be members of boards of finance; providing for the auditing of town auditors' accounts.

Favorable Reports
Favorable reports in the House included: Approving appointment of Nehemiah Candes and Freeman Light as judges of the Norwalk City Court; and validating election

LOSES BOTH HIS LEGS IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Ten Companions Answer Call For Blood Transfusion; Victim In Critical Condition.

Boston, Mass., March 3.—Charles W. Stevenson, 58, a railroad engineer, of Fitchburg, lost both legs when he fell from a moving train on the Boston & Maine railroad near the Charlestown engine house today.

Tourniquets applied hastily of rope and sticks found near the scene of the accident by J. W. Mackie, a railroad fireman accompanying Stevenson saved his life. He was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital where a call for volunteers for a blood transfusion was issued.

Ten railroad employees from the B. & M. yards were rushed to the hospital in taxicabs and prepared to give their blood in an effort to save Stevenson's life.

BAKER BETTER COOP KILLS BURGLAR

Brunswick, Ga., March 3.—George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank of New York, has entirely recovered from a stomach trouble which seized him Tuesday after eating some crab. A dose of castor oil cured him.

Officials of the Jegg Island Club, where Baker has been a winter guest for nearly twenty years, indignantly denied reports that the financier's illness was "critical."

Paralysed By Filibuster, It's Slowly Dying on Its Feet; Another All Night Session Of Senate—Battle May Last Until Noon Tomorrow.

Washington, March 3.—While the average American was tucked snugly in bed last night, the Senate straggled its stuff. Here's what the average Senator had to do on the ten-hour trick from ten p. m. last night until eight a. m. this morning:

10 p. m.—Vote on adjournment (defeated 24 to 87)
10:07—Hear Senator Cameron begin speech.
12:36—Hear Senator Cameron begin swan song.
1:05—Hear Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, make second speech.

1:08—Hear Reed object to agreement ending filibuster.
1:15—Answer quorum call.
1:26—Hear Senator Wadsworth begin speech.
2:18—Hear Blease object to agreement ending filibuster.
3:20—Answer quorum call.
4:12—Answer quorum call.
4:47—Vote on adjournment (defeated 18-44).
5:20—Answer quorum call.
5:21—Hear Senator Blease begin speech.
7:06—Hear Senator Edge begin speech.
8:00—Edge still talking.

And in between times, the Senator could sleep, play kiddie-winks or anything else, except go home to bed.

HOW U. S. SENATORS PASSED LAST NIGHT

Washington, March 3.—Paralyzed by one filibuster and threatened with another, the sixty-ninth Congress was slowly dying on its feet today with the Senate deadlocked over a resolution giving the Reed slush fund committee a new lease of life.

The filibuster strangled all legislative activities throughout an all-night session of the Senate and its leaders declared they would continue their battle up until the moment Congress finally adjourns at noon Friday.

A never ceasing flow of uninteresting oratory was staged by the filibustering bloc, led by Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, who declared they would talk the Reed resolution to death.

Motion Defeated.
At 9:30 the Democratic-insurgent coalition, fighting for adoption of the Reed resolution, rolled toward a motion to consider the $93,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill. The vote was 24 to 33.

This bill carried hundreds of important appropriation items, including $35,000,000 for the Veterans' Bureau hospitalization and rehabilitation programs, $11,500,000 for purchase of the Cape Cod ship canal, $8,600,000 for government loans to farmers to purchase seed, $115,000 for the newly created field commission, funds for the government's special oil counsel in the Doherty and Sinclair cases, more than $1,000,000 for naval construction work, including the three new cruisers, and money for the payment of federal judges, U. S. marshal, federal juries and witnesses in federal cases. Failure to enact the bill, while not sufficient to provoke a special session of Congress, would create untold confusion to the government.

CONGRESS HANDCUFFED.

Washington, March 3.—A handcuffed sixty-ninth Congress rolled wearily toward its death today with all its legislative functions paralyzed by a spectacular filibuster in the Senate.

An all-night session, the second within a week, failed to break the filibuster which was directed toward blocking adoption of the Reed resolution, authorizing new campaign investigations. The sun rose upon an exhausted Senate, which at 7 o'clock had been in session for twenty hours with all indications pointing to a continuous session until the final adjournment of Congress at noon tomorrow.

In the House.
While the filibuster existed in the Senate, all activity in the House was futile and leaders of the opposing factions admitted that the record of the sixty-ninth Congress already had been written into history. Unless the filibuster is smashed sometime today or tonight, no further legislation will be enacted before the Congress adjourns for good tomorrow noon.

The filibuster was directed by Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, and Blease, Democrat of South Carolina, aided by the morning. The northern troops are pouring unceasingly across the Yangtze Kiang toward Nanking, and from there are being sent to Soochow, Changchow, Shanghai and Chekiang.

All indications are that the Shanghai forces are completely replacing Sun Chuan-Fang's forces on all fronts.

Official Announcement
General Sun's official announcement declared his soldiers were fatigued, due to the prolonged campaign against the Cantonese, and were replaced temporarily. Thousands of his troops, however, are reported to be deserting to Cantonese, while other thousands of them are roaming over the countryside.

Five thousand of these arrived at the outskirts of Shanghai from Sunkekiang, including 1,000 who had been disbanded by the Shanghai forces. About a thousand of these attempted to enter the international settlement, but were prevented by police and soldiers.

The Shanghai steamers, Famous Lenhua which was seized by the Shanghai forces on the Yangtze river has been converted into a military transport and is being used to transport soldiers and supplies to Shanghai. Several Chinese owned vessels also have been commandeered.

The American marines from the U. S. S. Chaumont will parade through the international settlement on Saturday, it was reported today. This will be the first demonstration by the Americans, who have heretofore been maintained on the transport Chaumont and have been landed only occasionally on property of American firms for drilling and exercise.

ROSE AS MANAGER OF "INTERNATIONAL"

creasing expansion of International News Service at home and abroad. "The appointment of Mr. Rose as the specializing of executive work is the direct result of our tremendous growth. Less than six months ago we created three new executive positions as an aid to the domestic service. We divided the domestic service into three major zones, each zone under the direction of a regional director.

Regional Directors
"The regional directors and their fields are: Captain Frank E. Mason, director of the eastern division, with headquarters in New York; Henry H. Elwell, director of the central division, with headquarters in Chicago; and William Parker, director of the western division, with headquarters in Los Angeles.

"Mr. Rose is one of the best known newspaper executives in the country. His thorough editorial and executive ability was developed during the regime of the late E. P. Mitchell, the Sun's famous editor. Mr. Rose filled in succession a number of executive positions and also wrote editorials for Mr. Mitchell's famous page. Eventually he was designated to act as managing editor of the Evening Star, a post he filled for about a year, after the resignation of George Smith.

"E. H. Butler, seeking a managing editor for the Buffalo, (N. Y.) Evening News, elected Rose in June, 1920.

"Has Many Friends
"I am sure that the return of Mr. Rose to New York will be welcomed with enthusiasm by his many friends throughout the country. I myself have been struck by the fact that their admiration for his exceptional ability exceeds even their feeling of friendship and loyalty toward him.

"Mr. Rose has the news sense to a degree which invariably excites the admiration of every man who works with him. In the phrase of our craft, he can 'see tomorrow's paper' with a clarity which unceasingly claims the admiration of his fellow craftsmen. He has a special flair for seeing and getting all angles of the story.

"I am confident that in the appointment of Mr. Rose as executive manager of the news service, our clients will have as their representative in the news marts of the world a man, tried and proven in the ethics and practice of his profession."

First Mortgage Certificate Filed With Town Clerk; To Pay 7 Per Cent.

The Manchester Lumber company of this town is floating a $500,000 first mortgage bond issue, according to papers filed at the City Hall with the town clerk. The bonds are in denominations of $1,000 each and will bear interest at 7 per cent.

According to the mortgage which has been filed, payments of $6000 will be made on January 1 of each year from 1928 to 1937.

The Manchester Trust company of this town is trustee.

CONGRESS DEADLOCKED ON REED RESOLUTION

"I am duck" bloc. This little group looked like a convention hall after the boys had gone home. The floor was littered with paper and only a handful of Senators watched the proceedings. The cloakrooms, however, had the appearance of an im-provised hospital, with Senators sprawled out upon every available lounge and sofa.

The long session began at eleven o'clock yesterday morning. After a series of parliamentary delays, the Reed resolution was taken up. The filibuster began at once, but at one o'clock, the Senate resumed consideration of the Andrews dry bill which finally was passed shortly after six o'clock last night. The Reed resolution then was taken up again and the filibuster immediately began functioning anew.

Hold the Floor.
Throughout the long night, the Pennsylvania Reed, Moses, and the "I am duck" Senators, whose terms expire tomorrow noon, held the floor aided by the lone Democrat, Bleasie. Time after time, they refused to agree to compromises, which included final votes upon the bill and the new public buildings bill. Even when administration Senators pointed out the importance of the latter measure, the filibusters rejected the compromise.

A quorum of the Senate—forty-eight Senators—was in attendance throughout the night. In the wee hours of the morning, Senators sought sleep wherever they could lay their heads. Their presence was insisted upon by leaders of both sides in order to prevent a repetition of the Boulder Dam filibuster, when the sergeant-at-arms was ordered to arrest about sixty missing Senators.

Senators Cameron, Wadsworth, Republican of New York, and Stanford, of Oregon, all "I am ducks" delivered their swan songs.

Tremendous crowds attended the session up until midnight. A thousand persons were jammed into the galleries most of the night, with thousands more held in the corridors and still thousands more turned away for lack of even standing room. After midnight, the crowd dwindled rapidly and at dawn, only a handful of legislative fans remained.

Leaders of the filibuster announced at dawn that they would continue their fight until adjournment at noon tomorrow.

and acts of a board of finance at Sprague. Two were passed by the House under suspension of rules.

Other favorable reports included the following: Authorizing water bond issue in Danbury, authorizing Norwalk to issue $450,000 school bonds; authorizing Hamden to issue $700,000 school bonds; authorizing Putnam to issue bonds totaling $150,000; authorizing New Britain to issue sewer bonds; authorizing Stonington to issue refunding bonds; authorizing Stonington to issue a general bond issue of $100,000; authorizing Hartford to issue $500,000 in construction bonds; authorizing Middletown to issue refunding bonds; authorizing Willimantic to issue bonds; valuing the incorporation of the Connecticut College of Pharmacy at New Haven.

Passed from Calendar
Bills passed from the House calendar were: Authorizing Waterbury to issue $5,000 in fire department bonds; bridge bonds of $200,000; and sewer bonds of $1,000,000; authorizing the Washington school district to issue $200,000 in bonds; providing that foreign insurance companies must file annual returns; providing for continuance of trials after death of a juror; providing for continuance of a court's term in Waterbury District Court in same manner as in other courts; providing that lawyers may claim privileges for clients concerning the right of a witness to refuse to give incriminating evidence; authorizing the motor vehicle commissioner to refund registration fees.

The Senate was in session less than five minutes, receiving two favorable, two unfavorable reports on minor bills. The Senate passed one bill, that giving Charles Cole, of Bridgeport, a pension of $125 a month. This was the only bill on the Senate calendar.

LOCAL MOTION PICTURES PROMOTERS TO MEET

Session Tonight at Community Club—Will Discuss Film "Room Mates."

The Manchester Motion Picture Players will meet at the Manchester Community Club tonight at 8 p. m. The members will discuss "Room Mates," a Colgate College motion picture production. The picture was written and produced by an all college cast of the students who took the various parts in the cast.

Memberships both senior and junior will be taken up at the business session. The membership committee stated that a nominal fee will be charged for annual memberships to the organization. These annual dues will not only place the members on the active list but in all probability will entitle them to all showings of the picture without additional charge.

The committee further stated that anyone in or about the town is eligible to membership and may obtain further information from Karl Borst, temporary chairman of the membership committee.

The casting committee made an announcement last evening that a one reel rural comedy would be the first attempt of the players and those desiring parts should register at once with the membership committee for screen tests. The cast will range from eleven to 21 characters depending on the eligibility of the applicants. Trials will begin at once. Wherever possible applicants should submit recent photograph, either profile or full face views are acceptable.

H. S. ALUMNI BANQUET IS STRICTLY INFORMAL

The high school graduates who attend the dinner at Cheney hall Saturday night which will inaugurate the campaign to open a Verplanck endowment fund for local high school students, need not fret over dress requirements at the affair. It will be strictly informal, the committee said today in answer to an inquiry.

The committee hopes that every graduate who can possibly attend will go with the idea of having a lot of fun. There will be stunts galore by the different classes and no reason for anyone to feel stiff and formal. Two hundred graduates will sit down to dinner and it is expected that as many more will attend the dance which will follow.

Table reservations may be made tonight for the last time by calling Robert Hathaway.

MRS. EMMA KEENEY SUDDENLY DEAD

Well Known Rockville Woman Passes Away; Was Born in Manchester.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, Mar. 8. Mrs. Emma Bidwell Keeney died suddenly yesterday afternoon at her home on Talcott avenue.

She was born in Manchester, Conn., May 10, 1851, a daughter of Osmond and Mallean W. Bidwell. She was a member of the Union Congregational church of Rockville, Hope Chapter, No. 60, Eastern Star, and Daughters of the American Revolution. The Eastern Star services will be held at the grave.

Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters, Mrs. Maud Henderson of Hartford, Miss Gladys Keeney of Rockville and a son Ernest.

Services will be held at her home, 52 Talcott avenue, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. George Savage Brookes will officiate. Burial will be in Grove Hill cemetery.

Rockville Notes Miss Margaret Burke was pleasantly surprised Monday evening at her home on West street by a number of her friends. A musical program was enjoyed during the evening.

At 10:30 a buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. Burke. At this time Miss Burke was presented with a blue leather writing case, for which she responded in a very appreciative manner.

Miss Burke leaves next week for Hartford where she will enter the St. Francis Training School for Nurses.

Several from Rockville attended the meeting held in Ellington Tuesday evening in the Hall Memorial library. Prof. Allan B. Richards of the Connecticut Agricultural college gave an interesting address on "The Outlook of the 1927 Potato Crop."

Lenten Service Each Thursday evening during Lent special Lenten services will be held. The regular Thursday evening Bible Study hour will be omitted during Lent.

There will be special services each Tuesday and Thursday evening during Lent at the Methodist church. Rev. Salts will be assisted in these services by neighboring pastors.

The Rockville Athletic association will hold a meeting tonight at their headquarters on East Main street. Several applications are to be acted upon, showing a steady gain in membership.

All members are earnestly requested to attend the meeting of the Pythian Social club Thursday evening. The meeting will be held in their rooms in Pith block.

The Happiness Boys consisting of John Doherty, violin; John Yant, trumpet; Osmer Graupner, piano; Jack Keeney, saxophone; Henry Murphy, banjo; Edward Doherty, trombone; Maurice Spurling, drums, will furnish the music for the basketball game and dance to be given at the High school gymnasium Friday evening.

A meeting of the City League baseball men will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Friday at 5 o'clock. All who are interested in the league, are urged to be present.

The Young People's Fellowship class of St. John's Episcopal church held a play in the vestry Tuesday evening which was attended by over 250. The play, "Mr. Bob" had the following cast:

Philip Boyson, Francis Little Robert Brokm, clerk of Benson & Benson, Lewis Reynolds Jenkins, Miss Rebecca's butler, Joseph Keeping Rebecca Luke (Maiden lady), Eva Little Katherine Rogers, her niece, Dorothy Robinson Marion Boyant, Bertha Davis Patty, Miss Rebecca's maid, Lois Randall

Much credit is due the cast for their splendid acting. A large crowd attended the fair at the Wesleyan hall Tuesday evening given by the Standard Bearers. A play "Eight Women Wonderful" was given by the following girls: Harrie Plumer, Ellen Bilson, Ruth Litz, Doris Waltz, and Dorothy Marshmann. In addition to the entertainment, articles made by Chinese girls were on sale, also lace sent direct from China helped make the event a financial success.

Alfred Rosenberg of the Star Hardware Co., attended the Winchester club meeting and banquet held at the Highland hotel in Springfield Wednesday evening.

BLAZE IN MILFORD Milford, March 3.—During the height of the gale early today fire breaking out on the second floor completely destroyed the home of John Zatralka on Milford road, entailing a loss of over $1,000. The family consisting of the father, mother and three children were compelled to flee from the building with scarcely any clothing. When firemen arrived the house, a small one, was practically gutted because of the high wind.

BOUND FOR TRIAL. Stamford, March 3.—Ray Ulatoski, local taxi driver, was today bound over for trial in the Superior Court on a charge of manslaughter after a city court hearing, and placed in bonds of $2,000. Ulatoski is charged with recklessly driving his car on February 3, and thereby causing the death of William B. Kingsley, of Stamford.

MASONS TO HONOR THE PAST MASTERS

F. A. Verplanck to Tell About Masonic Memorial and Home.

Manchester Lodge of Masons will observe Past Masters' night on Saturday evening, March 12. The session will begin promptly at 7:30. The officers who will fill the chairs on that evening will be the following past masters: Raymond W. Goslee, worshipful master; Chas. R. Hathaway, senior warden; John H. Hyde, junior warden; R. L. Totte Russell, treasurer; Harry R. Trotter, secretary; James Richmond, senior deacon; Millard W. Park, junior deacon; Joseph Wright, senior steward; George O. WHAT'S A HUNDRED YEARS, AFTER ALL?

Berlin.—The oldest man and woman in the world are engaged to be married. Ivan Chatowsky, 145, is the man; Olga Mariewa, 131, is the prospective bride. A traveler met Mrs. Mariewa and shortly afterward told Chatowsky that the world's oldest woman was living nearby. Chatowsky wrote, proposing in his first letter. He was accepted. If there is no rift in the romance, the wedding will be this spring.

LET OFF WITH FINES IN BEATING-UP CASE

Urich and Fogerty, Assaultants of McConville, Get Out of Jail Terms.

Louis Urich and Charles Fogerty, Manchester young men who recently assaulted Henry McConville, of Keeney street, escaped with a fine of $50 each when their cases were heard before Judge Nevell Jennings in the superior court in Hartford yesterday.

Urich and Fogerty were sentenced to three months in jail by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the Manchester police court but through their attorney, John F. Foley, took an appeal.

It is possible that the reason why Urich and Fogerty escaped so lightly was because State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn believes that confinement in a reformatory often breeds crime rather than reforms those committed. At least he sharply criticized the institution in that respect during another case yesterday.

Allen McDonald, another Manchester man whose case was heard in the superior court yesterday, was sentenced to two months in jail when convicted on a charge of breaking and entering a filling station near the Center and stealing about $75 which was recovered.

Norman Brace who pleaded guilty in the local court to a serious crime, and was bound over, was given a year in jail by the court.

ANNUAL SHOW OF TRADE SCHOOL NEAR

Work of Institution to Be Demonstrated to Public On Evening of March 10.

The annual opportunity for public inspection of the work accomplished by students at the Manchester State Trade school will be afforded Thursday evening, March 10, according to announcement made today by Director A. A. Warren. Regular school sessions will be held from 7 until 9 o'clock, with the aid of instructors in charge. Parents of the students are especially invited.

"All departments will be in operation, so that parents and others will have the opportunity of witnessing our methods of instruction and the products designed and manufactured by Trade school Students," said Mr. Warren. "We will be glad to give a detailed explanation of the outlined work and study of each department to those who so desire. There will be an exhibition of the finished work in the assembly hall on the third floor, which will include products from every department. Last year, this exhibition attracted much attention and caused much favorable comment."

Parents' Meeting "Parents of eighth grade students who wish to know more about co-operative courses will have this opportunity on Parents' Night. A special meeting of the parents will be held at 8:30 and the various co-operative courses will be explained by the school director.

Cheney Brothers will also have a representative present to explain the benefits derived from graduating from the co-operative-textile course. Representatives of the Hartford Manufacturing and Public Utility companies will also be present for a similar purpose," concluded Mr. Warren.

PLAY FOR CONVICTS ON PRISON SUNDAY

Salvation Army Band to Go to Wethersfield, Capt. Shepard Speaks Here.

Next Sunday, March 6, will be known as Prison Sunday in Salvation Army circles. On that day almost every prison and penitentiary will be visited by officers and soldiers of the Army who will conduct services with the men and women behind the bars.

For quite a number of years now the local Army band has visited Wethersfield on that Sunday and the men who are long termers look forward to the visit. Some of them are quite well known to a number of the local handsmen.

This year the band will be accompanied by Captain Stanley Shepard of New York City, who will be the chief speaker at the service. Captain Shepard will visit Manchester after the meeting in the prison and speak in the Citadel at the morning service. In the afternoon, he will give a lecture on "What the Salvation Army is Doing Amongst the Prisoners."

Captain Shepard has been engaged in this work in connection with the Army for almost ten years. He has been the chief parole officer for the state of New York and has handled all the Army's work in connection with the state's prisons. He is also a member of the American Prison Association and assistant prison secretary for the eastern territory of the Army.

CROWDS TO SEE PRINCE. London, March 3.—Police reports were called out for a time were unable to control the great crowds which turned out today to see the Prince of Wales, when he went to Kennington to attend the wedding of Sir Walter Peasecock and Mrs. Irene Humphrey.

CUTS ARMY EXPENSES. London, March 3.—A decrease in the expenditures for the British Army was announced today by the chancellor of the exchequer. The army estimates for the year 1927-28 were announced as $61,585,000 (approximately $207,825,000), which is a decrease of $25,000,000 (approximately $84,875,000) from the 1926-27 estimates.

TO-DAY'S BIG OFFER IF YOU HAVE STOMACH DISTRESS

Read What Magnell Has to Say About Dare's Mentha Pepsin.

When you have any trouble with your digestion such as gas, heaviness and distention, why fool with things which at best can give only partial relief? Why not get a medicine that is made to strengthen and restore your upset, disordered stomach so that it will do its work without artificial help?

Such a medicine is Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a delightful elixir that is sold by Magnell Drug Co., and all live druggists with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't greatly help you your money will be gladly returned.

It has helped thousands—it will no doubt help you.—adv.

Fred Werner

Mr. Werner, is a Manchester boy, a graduate of the South Manchester High school, and was formerly organist at the Concordia Lutheran church on Winter street. He has been playing the piano and organ since he was a small boy and is one of the most accomplished performers on those instruments in Manchester. He has played the State theater organ in solo accompaniment and has also been the pianist with the orchestra.

FIRE IN WINSTED. Winsted, Conn., March 3.—Fire of unknown origin starting in the store of Joseph Tarallo, situated in the Italian section, early today destroyed four frame houses, driving five families to the street and did damage estimated at $12,000. The occupants of the buildings suffered severely from the cold weather, the mercury registering ten degrees above zero. The loss included the personal belongings of the tenants.

NEW CREDENTIALS. Washington, March 3.—In the midst of a filibuster Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, this morning presented to the Senate a new set of credentials for Senator-elect William S. Vare.

The credentials were drawn by Governor Fisher as a substitute for the irregular set given Vare following the election last November by former Governor Gifford Pinchot. The Pinchot credentials failed to declare Vare legally elected and were to have been the basis of the contest to deny Vare the right to take his seat in the Senate.

ANOTHER WARNING Washington, March 3.—The Weather Bureau today issued the following storm warning: "Storm warnings continued until late this afternoon from Block Island, Rhode Island, to Eastport, Maine. Storm apparently central about two hundred and fifty miles southeast Nantucket—moving north-eastward and gradually increasing intensity attended by strong shifting gales. Winds of whole gale force near and some distance north of center.

35 FLEE FLAMES Danvers, Mass., March 3.—Thirty-five persons, including many children, fled to safety in the cold gale in their night clothing, early today as fire swept a twelve-room dwelling house, destroying two large barns and damaged four other dwelling houses on the Danvers-Peabody line. The fire started in the barn of Emanuel Kapantzis and neighbors told police they were awakened by an explosion prior to the outbreak of the flames.

DIRT ROADS.

Whatever may be the solution of the "dirt roads" problem by the present Legislature, if any, it is pretty definitely demonstrated that it will not be the device of apportioning a percentage of the automobile license and gasoline tax income to the various towns to be expended by their selectmen.

The burden of the argument is against the town allocation plan. There can hardly be any question that the pit-pat methods of road building and repair certain to result from town control would be, in the end, far less efficient than the system established by the State Highway Department and which will eventually, of course, touch every road in the commonwealth.

There is no denying, however, that many of the town towns are facing a serious problem in the interim, and that it is a practical impossibility to wait for the gradual extension of the state road system to come their way.

It would seem as if the appropriations committee might do far worse than to favorably report the amended "dirt roads" bill and both bodies of the Legislature do worse than to pass it.

DAWES' CHANCE.

Tomorrow the Sixty-ninth Congress will come to an end. Then, in all likelihood, we shall hear some more from Vice-President Dawes.

The time could not be more propitious for that perspicacious statesman to renew his "appeal to the country" for reform in Senate rules and Senate practices.

With three or four of the most important measures confronting Congress at the beginning of the short session being deliberately strangled to death by Senate filibusters in its closing hours, a huge disgust for the pompous make-believe of "senatorial courtesy" is right now ripe to take possession of the people.

It is something of a question whether at this very moment Dawes hasn't, after all, the biggest issue of any of the leaders of political thought in the country.

If this Congress goes out of existence tomorrow under the circumstances which at this writing promise to obtain, Dawes will be a big man in the United States—conceivably almost as big as Babe Ruth or Gene Tunney.

SCALPING.

Very thoughtless are those persons who think they see, in the United States Supreme Court's decision on the New York theatre ticket scalping law, a cynical disregard of the rights of the people.

The state of New York, in a wholly amiable but quite mistaken attempt to prevent "oppressive" speculation in theatre tickets, enacted a law prohibiting the resale of theatre tickets at any advance exceeding fifty cents above the price printed on the tickets.

The opinion says: "Sales of theatre tickets bear no relation to the commerce of the country, and are not interdependent transactions but stand, both in form and effect, separate and apart from each other. And, certainly, a place of entertainment is in no legal sense a public utility; and, quite as certainly, its activities are not such that their enjoyment can be regarded under any conditions from the point of view of an emergency."

In other words it is impossible to set up an injurious monopoly by cornering the supply of admissions to a show and compelling the public to pay thereon profits for which the speculator has rendered no equivalent, as might well be and often has been the case in foods or other vital necessities; for the reason that there is no compulsion of any sort upon any person to attend a particular theatrical performance, or theatrical performances at all, for that matter.

In setting up this distinction—which happens in this case to operate in favor of the ticket scalper, who is regarded by thousands of persons as an unmitigated nuisance—the supreme court in a sense breaks new soil. There is not, in our system of law, as yet any proper differentiation between those business operations which can be carried on without restriction and yet without inflicting actual hardship on anybody, and those operations which cannot be carried on without making such hardships possible.

In this decision the supreme court has erected a definite dividing line between those kinds of business which are properly to be regulated and those which are not properly to be regulated. It may very well become the groundwork for subsequent decisions which will prove of a thousand times as much value to the people of the country as would be the guaranteed privilege of buying a theatre ticket at no more than fifty cents advance on the box office price.

And quite aside from the constitutional aspects of the case it is a piffing business for a state government to be engaged in—this effort to prevent theatre goers from permitting themselves to be gouged. There are better enterprises for any government to busy itself with than protecting the pocketbooks of people who haven't gumption enough to refuse to pay three or four times what it is worth to see a show.

Now it is submitted to the A. O. B. S. that this is no way to do. If its members simply must pick out victims of such wild excitability as Mr. Billera of Bleeker street, they owe it as a duty to civilization either to make extremely sure that nothing is left around that he can shoot or throw into the street after they are gone or else to bring the well known piano wire into play and tie the stuck-up individual securely enough so that he won't get loose until his Wild West complex has had time to die down.

It's positively unfair to the innocent bystander to take money from the Billera type of individual and then leave him free to go berserk among a lot of little boys and old women. Self-respecting A. O. B. S.'s ought to be above such things in these days when the choice of victim is substantially unlimited.

Arms grow again. "Rosie Sunshine" was seven years old when a runaway truck cut off both her arms, one below the elbow, the other above. They took her to Roosevelt hospital, in New York, a few blocks from the spot where she was maimed.

The doctor couldn't, to save him, say "No." So he said "Yes." That was four years ago. And they have grown again. Arms especially constructed with hands and flexible fingers so wonderful that Rosie has just won, for the third time in succession, a penmanship competition with a whole schoolful of children with flesh and blood fingers.

She can feed herself, dress herself and is thinking of taking up knitting. Sometimes one is tempted to wish that the age were a little less mechanical. But not when he thinks of cases like that of Rosie Sunshine.

No living mortal, he be ever so assiduous, could ever possibly hang on in this vale of tears long enough to read all the laws he's supposed to obey. The Sixty-ninth Congress, now expiring, did its bit with a vengeance. Each and every member, apparently, had heard his constituents crying "There ought to be a law—"

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 3.—In the midst of the orderly calm that envelops this law-abiding nation, there arises one disturbing fact to jolt the serenity of the peaceful citizens, to-wit:

No living mortal, he be ever so assiduous, could ever possibly hang on in this vale of tears long enough to read all the laws he's supposed to obey. The Sixty-ninth Congress, now expiring, did its bit with a vengeance.

Since the First Congress convened in 1789 rather more than 51,000 federal laws have been passed. And these, be it remembered, are only a fraction of the laws this country has on its statute books. There are 48 state legislatures working constantly on newer and better laws; there are city councils, county boards and boards of selectmen, taking themselves very seriously and piling up the total constantly.

One figuring brother has estimated that more than 10,000,000 laws have been passed in this country, counting in all these sources. Senator George H. Moses on occasion roars at the ever-rising wave of state and federal legislation.

He knows that more than 59,000 bills were introduced in Congress and the state legislatures during the two-year biennial period ending in the spring of 1925 and he is certain that the last two years have seen no decrease, so that it would appear that about 125,000 had been introduced since 1923. It is too early to say how many have passed over the country, but Moses thinks 6000 might be a fair estimate.

The ordinary Congress has about 20,000 bills introduced and passes something under a thousand. It will readily be seen that it might be worse, but some folks will insist that if none of them passed, it might be even better.

The famous Fifty-ninth Congress, with its 6940 laws, was not such a hopelessly idiotic group as it seems to have been on first glance. Only 692 of these were public laws and most of the rest were pension bills. President Roosevelt nearly broke his arm signing those 6248 private laws. Pension and public building bills are now handed in omnibus bills.

The war Congress of 1917-19 offers an example of commendable restraint. At this most critical period of history, only 508 laws were passed, the lowest number in any Congress for 39 years back. But the biennial figure has been jumping ever since.

Here are a few samples from the 2927 bills introduced in the House of Representatives on the first day of the present session of Congress: "To prevent the use of watches or similar devices in the postal services, and guaranteeing to postal employees their lawful rights."

"To regulate the interstate transportation of black bass and for other purposes." "To provide for the revenue of the government and to protect and maintain the cedar-shingle industry of the United States."

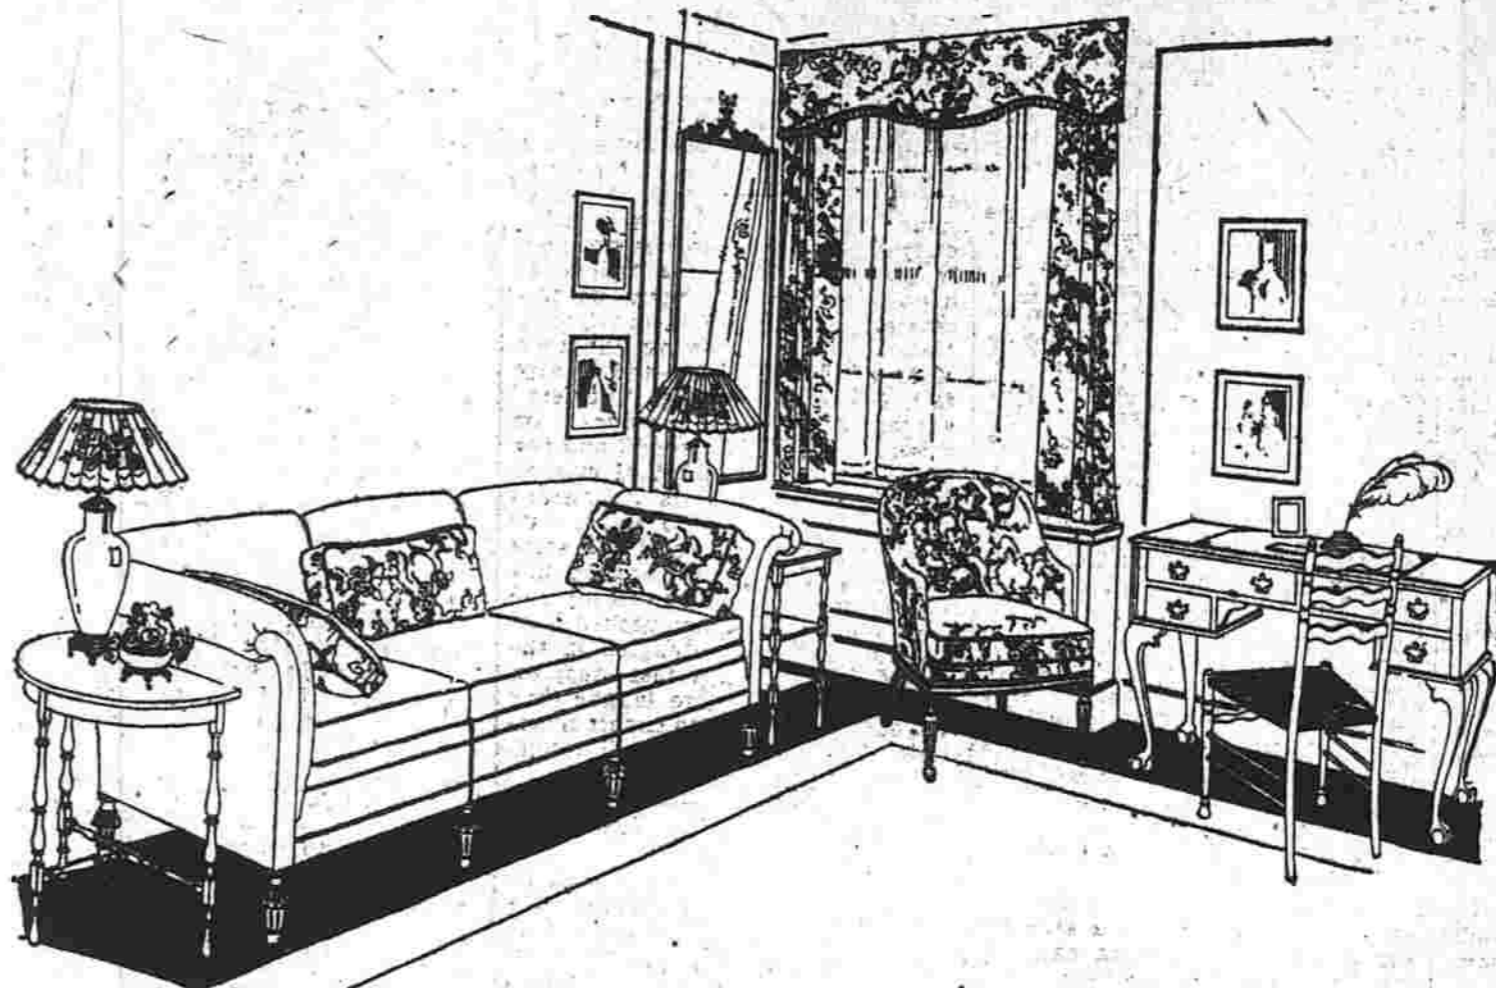

"To establish a national conservatory of music for the education of pupils in music in all its branches, vocal and instrumental, and for other purposes."

"To establish a gold currency and a silver currency on a basis of interchangeable value throughout the world." "A resolution to print 2500 copies of the soil survey of Winn Parish, La."

Those who haven't been able to sign Lady Luck up for a long-term engagement go the other way. The tougher the luck, the closer the river, until they are swallowed up in the water of derelicts, bums, and waterfront workers.

It's a little mission of 47th street and when Mrs. White started it, she had the vision of bringing the wild, roving sheep of the great street back to the fold. Broadway was wilder then, and souls were to be saved. That is should have turned out performer is another story.

The Grand Rapids Market Samples are here Distinctive New Patterns with No Duplicates

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

NEW YORK

New York, March 3.—It's just off the big street on your way over to the river. I don't know why rivers should become symbols for despair and failure. Some rivers escape the connotation.

In the Broadway belt those who walk hand in hand with prosperity don't go in that direction. They strike out for Fifth Avenue or continue up town. Those who haven't been able to sign Lady Luck up for a long-term engagement go the other way.

Springfield, Mo.—Shortly before his death, 15 years ago, Calhoun Miller, aged eccentric, put all his cash into $10 gold pieces and secreted them in secret compartments in a coffin which he made himself. Recently a heap of fresh earth was noticed near the grave and the coffin was dug up by authorities. It was found that ghouls had reached the casket and removed several thousands dollars worth of gold.

Seattle, Wash.—Steps are being taken by the board of health here to compel pulp and paper mills to purify their aciduous waste before dumping it into waters of the sound. It was found that the chemicals were rapidly destroying valuable oyster beds in the vicinity.

But the appearance of those who wander in is a fascinating study. There sits a young woman wearing the very dress in which she came from Kansas, Iowa, Michigan or wherever it was. It's a three-year-old dress and looks it. And there's a young man just a little too fashionably dressed. The suit reeks of the dollar-downplaces where the cuts are over-Broadwaywise. But the heels of his shoes tell their story. And he hasn't a shine. He's been doing a lot of walking.

There are, too, a scattering of professional missionaries: the sort one sees at revivals. Professional converts, someone called them.

And there are those stunted, young faces. They drop in every once in a while. It is not hard to guess that, after the meeting or perhaps the next day they will drop in for a heart-to-heart talk with Mrs. White. One knows, too, that there will be a few tears, a confession or two and in the course of days the train back to Hawk's Centers will have an extra passenger. There are no statistics on how many have been routed home through this one mission that flanks the "big street."

They are all there at some time or another—the products of Broadway and the by-products, gathered just around the corner from the "big street." Edging bit by bit toward the river. GILBERT SWAN.

REED MAY FACE BATTLE TO GET MO. DELEGATION

Hay, Dry Candidate For Governor Is Expected to Fight Senior Senator.

St. Louis.—As Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has made a formal bow to the solicitations of his fellow Democrats to permit his name to be entered in the presidential nomination race in 1928, the possibility of an unusual if not embarrassing situation arises in this state with the likely candidacy of Charles M. Hay for governor of Missouri.

Hay is a dry and although he has not made his formal announcement of candidacy his friends and political observers say he would need much urging to be induced to toss his hat into the gubernatorial ring.

If he does, the rub will come in a manner that will be hard to iron out. Hay was one of the original anti-Reed Democrats in Missouri and looked upon as one who may fight to prevent the senior senator from getting the state's delegation to the next national convention.

Democrats Embarrassed. That in itself would create some embarrassment to the Missouri Democrats who want to keep the ranks intact but when you look about for the attitude of some of the leading Missourians, your trepidity increases. You search immediately brings you to one Harry B. Hawes, junior senator from Missouri, who would have no easy row to hoe under such an arrangement.

During the last campaign when Hawes made his successful fight for the seat, Reed took the stump for him and actively worked for the St. Louisian at all times, winning up his oratorical support in this city where Hawes won a commanding lead in the election.

Hay, however, likewise took the stump for Hawes and being a dry went out in the rural sections where it was felt the Republicans would swamp Hawes because of his tendency to lean to the direction of the west.

Hay Also Helped. Hay did inestimable good for Hawes and it is said that when the campaign was closed there was an understanding between the two that Hawes would lend his support to the local attorney should the latter run for governor. Thus Hawes had two political debts growing out of his last campaign.

Reed and Hay have not been friends for the past four or five years and the time that has elapsed since they took different paths in the Democratic ranks, has not erased friction. Hay, it is said, likely would want to dictate the platform if he becomes the Democratic nominee for governor and only the abandonment by Reed of his ideas for dictating a party policy would mend the situation.

Those who know Reed knew full well that would be no soothing syrup to ask the fiery Missourian to swallow. He probably would fling such a political spoon high in the air and have a few words to say and they would be said in Reed fashion. Reed usually does not speak in whispers and if such an ultimatum were laid down to him, it would be hard to say just how far his voice would carry through the state and what the reaction of its reverberation would be.

OUT OF HIS LINE

Kansas City, Mo.—Playing Cupid is one job that a city manager doesn't have to perform, says H. F. McElroy. Nevertheless, he sent very polite regrets to the author of the following letter: "My dear Sir, I am very anxious to marry. Please send me a catalogue off your Lady's ho have advertise and a Blige."

RABBITS IN TREES

Outspanned, Ark.—Hundreds of rabbits in the flooded districts near here have been removed from trees where they found refuge as they were being swept along in the current. They even jumped into boats filled with people and many were killed to provide food for refugees. Two negroes sat out to rescue dogs which were stranded on house-tops and in trees. They found more than a dozen canine-stricken animals.

CLUBMAN STARTS CLUB IN REGULAR GUNMEN

New York.—"And den we says: 'If we do go ridin' on your yacht '00 miles to sea, how do we know we're comin' back?' You see, guy, we couldn't tell but dat was de way of gittin' rid of crime—and we wasn't fallin' for no plant."

"Billy" Lustig, gunman and ex-con, laughed—a laugh raucous because of the bullet scall lodged in his throat.

"But now we know 'Dad' Geer is 'let.' Dere'd been many a punk come round dis sector pratin' 'down wid crime.' Not one o' dem didn't have his mit' out one way or other, wasn't after somethin' he wasn't tellin' about. Dat's why we was leary at foist."

In the ordinary high-school English which "Billy" does not command, "bloo" means true blue, straight-shooting, on the level a "right guy." It is gangdom's highest encomium. And that's Alpheus Geer, of the "upper world," as New York's underworld sees him.

Once More Reclutted. Two decades ago, Geer, then member of a dozen stylish clubs and a high-salaried official of one of America's biggest silk houses, conceived the ambition of setting criminals straight by enlisting them in a crusade against crime—crime, not criminals.

For twelve years he achieved results sometimes encouraging, sometimes discouraging, but always sporadic. Finally, he quit his job to devote his undivided time to setting the "right guys" of the underworld to helping their pals do the same thing.

His Marshall Stillman Movement neither fights the wrong-doer nor helps him "beat the rap." Its favorite motto is "Mind your own business." Another is: "We stand with a man as long as he stands for the right, and we stick with him when he goes wrong to help him get right."

An 18-year-old gunman, visiting Geer at his office, once pulled a gat from his hip pocket and turned it over admiringly in his hand.

"How do you like dat, 'Dad?'" he asked with enthusiasm. Geer took it, examined it, handed it back.

"That's all right," he agreed. In the week following, "Dad" was shown the gun four more times, acquiescing on each that it was quite fine. Then, proudly, at a fifth time, while they walked along the street.

"Sammy!" Geer exploded. "I thought you were a clever guy, that you knew your stuff. Now I'm convinced you're a fool. Any man's a fool who packs a round a thing like that ready to use it against another and so against himself."

A gangster scorned by "Dad" Geer does some thinking. Taken aback, "Sammy" pocketed his gat. The light which Geer had made so many wrong-thinkers see came to him before their destination was reached. And also before then the gun was flung into an ash can and "Sammy" has never carried one since.

As a member of the New York Athletic Club, where he used to square off in an occasional friendly bout with the famous Mike Donovan, Geer became proficient with his fists. Despite his more than 60 years he still can "handle his dukes." The underworld knows it, too. A pickpocket, with whom Geer had dealt paternally, told with pride of seeing him knock flat a man he saw insult a woman on the street.

Helped by those he himself had helped, Geer began reaching groups instead of individuals in the underworld. Then recently, with the aid of Robert Law, Jr., millionaire oil man, an underworld club was opened in the very center of metropolitan gangland. From this congested East Side district, says the captain of the police precinct in which it lies, come 60 per cent of American criminals.

A Haven for "Ex-Cons." Here the latch string is always outside to the guy that finished his stretch in the stir. A flop, "coffee and," perhaps a way to honorable employment awaits him there. And it was there that "Big," the sergeant-at-arms, apprised "Dad" Geer in the jargon of his kind.

Beside him, nodding assent, sat "Red" Lewis, first president of the club, and Johnny Webber, first vice president, both with prison records behind them—forever, behind, as they say with determination.

"We was in our joint up de street one night," related "Billy,"

"when Charlie walks in with 'Dad.' He spilled his line but we ain't listenin' much. We'd heard de same stuff before. Three or four times a week he comes back. We started givin' him 'de ear."

"And we was just about sold when along he comes wid dis trouble for a ride on Bob Law's yacht. 'We're goin' to take 25 gang leaders from dis district de foist time, den 25 from dat,' he says. 'And push 'em out into de water when you git 'em out dere,' thinks us."

Found Intentions "K. O." "Nuttin' doin'! Johnny here, he goes up and asks Bob what de lay is. It wasn't long 'fore we believed 'em. Den we get dis club and sees better dan before how we can help de other guy. And dey've been flockin' in fast and plunkin' down deir five buck doos. 'Dad,' he's down here most every night—his wife she's going to divorce him!"

"A guy just out of up-de-river breezed in de other day and wanted to join. But he had only a buck. So we shoved him t'rough for dat. And we'll shove 'em t'rough for less dan dat if dey need it."

FUN AND THRILLS ON RIALTO PROGRAM

"Variety" a thrilling story of the circus and its performers is being shown as the leading attraction on a double feature program of motion pictures at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow. This is the film that was produced in Germany and scored quite a sensation upon its release in this country some time ago. It is mainly dramatic in theme and it is said to reach hitherto unscathed heights in the cinema-art. Emil Jennings and I. J. de Putti, two of Europe's foremost screen stars have the leads and although they came here unknown a few short months ago, at the present time they bid fair to outdo some of our native talent in point of popularity. The story is extremely graphically and thrillingly told as it does of a feud between two trapeze artists who try to forget their mutual hate while swinging hundreds of feet up in the air—and finally fall. For sheer drama, "Variety" surpasses anything produced on this side of "the big pond" and the acting is nothing short of marvelous. The co-feature is "Saturday Afternoon," a story in which fate takes a hand in providing some hilarious fun. Harry Langdon has the leading role in this comedy and his portrayal of a hen-pecked hubby, who becomes entangled in the meshes of a pair of fast-stepping, mamas provides more laughs than anyone has a right to expect nowadays. Shorter subjects will round out the program.

MEASURES CHEWING. Berlin.—Dr. Troska, Berlin investigator, has computed the amount of energy consumed in masticating an ordinary morsel of meat and declares it amounts to a pressure of 800 pounds. He also found that a dog biting a bone expended energy equal to 3200 pounds.

TEACH BLIND TO DANCE. New York.—Women's clubs and social agencies have been asked to supply volunteer dancing partners for blind men who have been learning dance steps at recreational centers here. Instructors say they have been able to master the "trickiest" steps.

RECOVERING AFTER YEARS IN FRANCE. Chilwell, Eng.—Mrs Doris Hinton, 24, was listening to a radio when she suddenly put down the headphones, lay back and went to sleep. That was four years ago. She remained unconscious for more than year. Under continuous treatment by specialists she is slowly recovering. Although still unable to speak, she has regained her sight and can write letters. Physicians, though puzzled by the malady, believe the girl will become entirely normal.

FISH-WIVES? OH, NO! London.—From time immemorial women who work with fish have been called fish-wives in England, a name reflecting their general unattractiveness and lack of refinement. But this year all the women appeared in modish short skirts, silk stockings and bobbed hair. Now they will be called "fish fairies."

Motor-driven roller skates are new fad in Germany.

Puny from Boyhood Now Rugged and Robust

Popular Meriden restaurant owner tells of fragile frame built into sturdy strength and virility. Gives complete credit to Tanlac and praises it highly

All over Connecticut are customers of Stephen Vitale, 243 1/2 West Main Street, Meriden. Those who know him in early youth are amazed at his present exuberant health and strength, for Stephen was a fragile boy. "Since my earliest recollection, I was thin, weak and puny," he says recently. "I grew to manhood in that condition. I always had headaches, and frequent nervous spells. I was so nervous my legs were wobbly, and I could not eat. Even after I entered business I used to come to work so ill that I feared I would be unable to remain in business. The only relief I could get from my headaches was to stay in a darkened room for several days at a time."

"I was urged to try Tanlac and agreed to give it a three-week test. The first thing I noticed was that my appetite and digestion improved and my nerves were steadier. The headaches were not so violent either, so I kept on with Tanlac. Even then I never dreamed it was possible for me to be the robust man I am today, but you see for yourself what Tanlac has done for me. I've put on 25 lbs., attend to my business regularly and have a jolly time of it now. When I think of my former sufferings, I cannot praise Tanlac enough, and gladly recommend it to all who suffer."

If your health is below par, profit by Mr. Vitale's experience. Tanlac is nature's own tonic made from herbs, roots and barks. Your druggist has it. Get your trial bottle today. Over 62 million bottles sold.

The advantages of buying fine furniture at Garber Brothers are even more decided in March than in February

If we had held a February furniture "sale" and offered so-called discounts of 20, 30, 40, and 50% . . . our prices would now have to go up 20, 30, 40, and 50%.

It would be unjust to the public to continue the discounts during March or have a "sale" in March under another name.

A February "sale", you know, is a pledge of discounts for February only.

But Garber Brothers did not have a February "sale" and happily therefore, it is not necessary for us to increase our prices in March to prove that the February "sale" was genuine.

Garber Brothers NEVER have "sales." Instead of selling at a high price one month and at a so-called reduction another month . . . the economic conditions under which we operate enable us to sell at the lowest possible prices EVERY DAY in the year.

And February was the greatest month in our history in spite of the "sales" held everywhere except at Garber Brothers. We asked the public to compare our EVERYDAY prices with so-called discount prices.

The public did compare and found that while discounts may sound good . . . Garber Brothers' EVERYDAY prices mean COMMON SENSE ECONOMY.

And in March, Garber Brothers' prices go right on as usual. So it is easy to see that in March, your money saving opportunities at Garber Brothers are greater than ever.

We NEVER have "sales"—We ALWAYS sell for less

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The Birth of Jesus

Six months after the angel appeared unto Zacharias, "the angel Gabriel was sent from God . . . unto Mary and said . . . blessed art thou among women . . . thou shalt bring forth a son and shalt call his name Jesus." (Luke 1:26, 28, 31)

"And it came to pass in those days that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be taxed." (Luke 1:1)

"And Joseph went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth . . . unto Bethlehem to be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife." (Luke 1:4-5)

"And Mary brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn." (Luke 1:7)

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESER

GRETA GARBO OPENS WAR ON THE MOVIES

Hollywood, Calif.—Hollywood, the battle ground of cinema gladiators, is again playing host to the "war gods."
For some unknown reason, battles are continually being waged between the big bosses and the glittering stars. The conflict between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Greta Garbo is just one of the many skirmishes that entertain movie folk during their dull hours.

She Wants to Work
"Thess ees too much for me," the blond star told me, as we talked in her hotel suite overlooking the Pacific. "All these stories about me. I do not understand them. It ees Greta Garbo does thees and Greta Garbo does that. They are all—what you call it—bunk."

Greta Garbo

"They say I do not want to play 'Anna Karenina.' That ees wrong. Whether we arrange my contract or not, I want very much to play 'Anna Karenina.' It ees a beautiful part and just what I want."

According to Miss Garbo, studio officials want her to sign a new five-year contract, despite the fact her present agreement does not expire for another year and a half.

"I want to complete my present contract. Then maybe I will sign a new one. But not for five years—it ees too long," she says.

"Greta's present salary is in the neighborhood of $50 a week. One more performance like she gave in 'Flesh and the Devil' and she will be worth six or eight times that much."

"We are perfectly willing to have Miss Garbo continue working under her present contract," an M-G-M official states. "But she does not want to do so. She demands a large increase in salary. Naturally if we raise her salary, we want her under a long-term contract."

A controversy also is being waged over the type of roles Miss Garbo is to play. She wants to be cast as a girl who will draw some sympathy from the audiences. Officials declare she is a perfect vampire and should be cast as such.

JACK LOCKWILL'S SPEEDBOAT

When Jack told Willie Darling that he might be barred from the race, Willie almost blew up. "It's more of McNally's work!" he cried. "Nonsense!" said Jack. "This couldn't be." "Well, I'll bet my life he put that bomb in Old Nemesis' desk," declared Jack's roommate, "and I saw him out prowling around the gym long after midnight the night somebody tampered with Winthrop's foils."

Willie watched the Big Egg swim more closely after that. He saw him go in bathing at the lake. Slants took a dip also. McNally, a poor swimmer, was seized with a cramp. Uttering a cry, he went down.

Slants became panic stricken. Instead of going to his companion's assistance, he swam for the shore, shouting for help. Willie tore off his coat and shoes and plunged in.

Swimming out to where McNally had sunk, he made a dive. Swimming was Darling's one athletic accomplishment. With his eyes open as he swam under water, he found Tom, seized him by the hair, and brought him to the surface. Then the frightened, half-drowned boy grappled Darling around the neck with both arms, plunging Willie under again.

CIRCLE THEATER SHOWS TWO FEATURES TONIGHT

Valentino's Wife Stars In One; Dorothy Phillips in "Remember."

There are two of them on the bill at the Circle theater today and tonight. "Remember," by Dorothy Phillips, and "Anna Karenina," by Greta Garbo.

"I want to complete my present contract. Then maybe I will sign a new one. But not for five years—it ees too long," she says.

"Greta's present salary is in the neighborhood of $50 a week. One more performance like she gave in 'Flesh and the Devil' and she will be worth six or eight times that much."

FISH AND GAME CLUB GAINING MEMBERS

Has Forty Applications Though Drive For Increase Has Barely Started.

Though the membership committee appointed at the last meeting of the Manchester Fish and Game club has only just completed its plan of campaign, nearly forty membership applications have already been received.

The club's drive is being conducted with a view to a very large increase in the enrollment in line with a state-wide movement to consolidate the influence of sportsmen in the interest of freer use of the fields, forests and waters of the state by the average man.

It is not generally understood that membership in the Fish and Game club is open to women as well as to men, but it is, and there have been several women members ever since the club was instituted.

Some of the similar organizations about the state number women among their most enthusiastic members.

YONKERS FERRY OPENS

It was announced today from the offices of the Alpine-Yonkers Ferry that the date for the resumption of ferry service has been definitely fixed for Saturday, March 6th and will render the utility schedule from 6 a. m. to midnight.

The boats have been overhauled, the automobile driveways have been re-constructed so that about forty cars can be carried on each boat.

A recent sure made discloses that the roads and approaches leading to these ferry terminals are in excellent condition.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICES FOR THE FITCHBURG GAME

Neither Will There Be Any Reserved Seats; To Stop Ticket Sale After 900 Admissions. Come Early.

There will be no advance in prices for admission to the South Manchester High-Fitchburg, Mass. high basketball game at the School Street Gymnasium tomorrow night.

Neither will there be any reserved seats on sale. The doors will open by six o'clock and it will be a case of first come, first served with the seats gone last. Only nine hundred persons are allowed in the hall, therefore the doors will probably be closed before the game starts as a record-breaking crowd is anticipated.

Manchester fans who went to Tuft's tournament at Medford, Mass. last year will remember the splendid exhibition of the Fitchburg team gave in forcing its way to the championship. The Bay State combination flashes brilliant passwork and an uncanny eye for the hoop.

With the exception of two games the team is intact this season. This year's record is fifteen victories and three defeats, which is added to thirty consecutive victories recorded last season.

Coach Clarke will probably start his regular team. He has been drilling the players all week in preparation to meet the national champions who play in Naugatuck this evening and Torrington Saturday night.

8 ACTS ON PROGRAM FOR STATE TONIGHT

Northwestern Picture, "The Flaming Forest" Shown on Big Bargain Bill.

Eight more acts are on the program of the State theater for this evening's entertainment and with the unusual vaudeville show the gripping thriller of the Northwest Mounted, "The Flaming Forest," by James Oliver Curwood, will be seen.

During the rest of the week this same picture will be shown with five acts of vaudeville. For the first time since the regular Bargain Night shows were inaugurated some months ago, matinee patrons saw the eight acts and the feature this afternoon.

Aside from the eight acts, "The Flaming Forest" is a wonderful picture. It thrills and grips its audience and the tensity is not allowed to slacken for one moment while the continuity runs on.

A masterful picture it is different from the usual Mounted Police stories in several respects. It has a different and unusual plot, something new in these stories, and the workmanship is superb. Directors, continuity men and camera shooters alike have received nothing but praise because of the excellency of the production.

One of the largest and most important all-star casts of the year is to be seen in Cosmopolitan's "The

LITTLE JOE

HERE'S PLENTY OF TROUBLE FOR ANYBODY WHO LOOKS FOR IT.

Flaming Forest", directed by Reginald Barker.

At least fifteen of these players have won their spurs on stage as well as screen and several have been featured or starred in their own right.

Antonio Moreno, at one time a Vitaphone star, has the role of Sergeant Carrigan, of the Northwest Mounted Police, while Renee Adoree, who played opposite John Gilbert in "The Big Parade," has the role of the lovely Jeanne Marie.

Moreno, one of the most popular male players of the screen, was born in Spain but it is his work in America that has made him a screen favorite the world over. During the last year he has forged rapidly to the front and has given interpretations in Elinor Glyn's "Love's Blindness" and Cosmopolitan's "The Temptress" that will equal almost anything the screen has offered this year.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE WHITE ASH

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

The white ash is the most beautiful and useful of our native trees, standing among the most important forest trees. But how many people can distinguish it from others of the same family? Very few, I believe.

Its leaves are composed of several leaflets along a single leaf stalk. These leaflets are in pairs, opposite to each other on the stem, together with a terminal leaflet. The number of leaflets on each ranges from five to nine, most frequently seven. The leaves are also arranged opposite one another on the twigs and branches.

There is a wide difference between the characteristics of the green ash and those of the white ash. The leaves of the white ash often with a few suggestions of coarse teeth; those of the green ash are green on both surfaces and have teeth like saws.

Though not so much used as some other trees, the white ash has fine possibilities as a street shade tree. Its comparatively light foliage makes it especially desirable for streets, as the open crown permits the passage of sunlight and free circulation of air. The tree develops a round, graceful top and it grows fairly rapidly.

Rich soil and moisture are required, but under favorable conditions it is thrifty and hardy. It is rather subject to attacks of oyster shell scale and leopard moth. The chief drawback is its short season of foliage, being similar to the American elm in this respect.

The wood is very heavy, hard, tough with light sapwood and brownish heartwood. It is used widely, particularly for athletic equipment, agricultural implements, tools, furniture and interior finishings. The white ash is found from Nova Scotia to Minnesota to Florida and Texas.

TALCOTTVILLE

The Golden Rule club will meet in the church assembly rooms on Friday evening, March 4, at 7:30 o'clock. Work will be started at this meeting. Members will please come equipped to make scrap books or toilet sets. The hostesses for the evening will be the Misses Esther Welles, Alma Rice and Gertrude Gibbs.

Alexander Davis has moved his family from their former home on Village street, in Rockville to the Talcott Bros. Co. house on the Rockville road, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Stiles, Jr.

Harry Shaw, New York representative of the Talcott Brothers Co., was a visitor in town on Tuesday.

PUTS AN END TO BUNION PAINS

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask Magnell Drug Co., So. Manchester, or any other first class drugist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.—adv.

MINISTER RETURNS

Cambridge, Mass., March 3.—Rev. Samuel H. Jobe, 62-year-old bachelor-rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, a widely known clergyman, returned to his home today, his mind a blank as to where he had been since he was last seen Tuesday afternoon in Central Square. Relatives, friends and police stated that they believed he was the victim of amnesia.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole. Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. Jars & Tubes

WAPPING
The County Y. W. C. A. Business Girls club was duly organized at the Wapping parsonage Tuesday evening. About a dozen were present. Miss Rogers, County Secretary, was present as director of the enterprise. Officers were elected as follows: president, Miss Josephine Congdon; secretary, Miss Eleanor Stoughton; treasurer, Mrs. Truman H. Woodward. Plans are under way for an indoor circus to be held in the parish house, on April 8. The proceeds will be used for some improvement in the parish house.

The Young Men's and Women's class of the Wapping Federated Sunday school were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Billings of Strickland street, Manchester, on Tuesday evening. Games and refreshments made a very delightful time for all.

Arthur Sweeney left Monday for New York and after a few days stay there, he plans to spend several weeks on a tour of indefinite destination.

THE PRINCE OF WALES

The Prince of Wales is now completing his long training for the Kingship. He has travelled to all parts of the Empire, has visited France, Germany, Russia, Japan, several countries in South America and the United States. He has been seen by more people than any other public figure in history.

his habits, customs, state duties, manner of living, etc.

Recently his repeated nocturnal visits to the slums of the East End of London have attracted comment. He has been engaged in investigating the living conditions of all classes of his own people—getting acquainted with his home town. This is his last step in preparing for the throne.

In the following series of seven articles Saunders will tell you everything about the Prince of Wales from the time when as an under sized school boy he was known as "The Sardine" to his present status as the best known man in the world and from what he eats for breakfast to his penchant for playing the drums in night clubs. Why his horses throw him—why he doesn't like golf—what he smokes—what he drinks—how many suits of clothes he has—what pictures are on the walls of his den—how well he dances—does he play the banjo—how many hours a day he works—his views on his marriage—what his valet thinks of him—why he is generally nervous in public—these and a thousand other interesting details are included in the intimate, close up picture of the Prince of Wales presented by this unusual series of articles.

In view of the world wide interest in this young man the United Press has assigned Minott Saunders, staff correspondent attached to the London bureau, to study the life of the Prince of Wales and to gather all information possible regarding

1927 Baseball Season May Show New Leader for Big Leaguers

So Analyses Walsh In Looking Over Problems of McGraw and Mack.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, Mar. 3.—John McGraw generally has been hailed as the greatest manager of the modern generation, if not of all baseball history. It may be that he will have to prove it this year.

I make this observation in full cognizance of the fact that the gentleman has connived his way into a legacy of great hitters. But it is a team of equal danger to the opposition and to itself. The answer is a superiority of temperament which in fifty cent language sometimes may be defined as sheer cussedness.

Connie Mack, another managerial genius who is alleged to have been detected in a lot of master minding this winter, may find that he has bought the wrong horse. Ty Cobb was the world's greatest ball player because he was and is an individualist first and last and probably will so remain until the end of his days. It is likely that he will be more amenable to suggestion this year in view of his rather painful experiences during the off season; still the real merit in Cobb's acquisition remains to be proved.

Cobb An Uncertainty

Offhand, I would regard Cobb as one of the uncertainties of the 1927 Athletics, rather than as a definite and assured factor in their possible success.

No two ways about it, he can make or break that club. One of his playmates will be Howard Ehmke, the young man with whom he was accustomed to exchange haymakers when he was Detroit manager and Ehmke was his pitcher. That situation is on that Connie can begin to view with alarm without further notice.

The fact that the latter has signed four ex-managers—Cobb, Collins, Wheat and Gleason—may prove less disturbing than Cobb's natural inclination to do things his own way. However, all old ball players are pretty much set in their habits and even as unyielding a hand as Mack's may find the wheel a bit unsteady.

Now, the stern disciplinarian, Mr. McGraw, is one of those absolute bosses who even goes so far as to forbid extraneous and random thinking on the part of the employees. One of the first things he did this winter was to take title to Rogers Hornsby, the man who had just managed to team into the world's championship. Next, our John correlated Eddie Roush, a non-conformist if there ever was one.

Hornsby's Position

As a player, Hornsby proved the managerial death of Branch Rickey. As a manager, he wasn't welcome to return the following season in spite of his great and almost instantaneous success. Now, he is again and it may be mentioned that John McGraw is understood to be slightly petulant on occasion. Hornsby's serenity bruises very easily, too.

It might also be mentioned that Roush is a man who can guarantee to become irritated at a moment's notice. His annoyance usually takes the form of glowering indifference to what may be going on about him.

All things considered, if this trio finishes the season without constraint, if not violence, it will be a far greater tribute to McGraw than would be the winning of the pennant; for, a victory within might very well predicate the lesser triumph outside the ranks.

GOOD FIGHTERS IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, Mar. 3.—(United Press)—Although the House of Commons cannot produce a Joe Beckett or Bombardier Wells among its members to square off with the House of Representatives' heavyweight professional boxer from Nebraska, it claims title to several amateurs who are handy with their fists.

The best known is Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, Labor Party M. P., who was officers' heavyweight champion of the Navy. Colonel Cuthbert James, P. P., former heavyweight champion of the army. It is said, still carries a sock with a sting in it. Ben Smith, one of the Labor Whips, is the only ex-cabdriver M. P. and has also had some experience in the ring.

At present there is no professional sportsman in the House of Commons. A suggestion was recently made to Jack Hobbs, Britain's King of Swat in cricketdom, that he run for election to the House, but he turned the proposal down. There is little doubt though that he would have been elected if he had run, as he is without question the most popular and best known professional sportsman in England today.

MCGRAW IN TROUBLE

Lansing, Mich., March 3.—Phil McGraw, Detroit, lightweight, considered by many the leading contender for Sammy Mandell's crown has been barred from fighting in Michigan for at least a year. He failed to appear here last night to meet Kewpie Trimble because of a weight argument.

Notes Of The Training Camps

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3.—Cheered by the news that Babe Ruth had signed, the Yankees went to work today with renewed vim. The Babe is expected to start clouting homers here on Monday.

Sarasota, Fla., March 3.—Cold weather has handicapped the training plans of the Giants. Sliding practice for the Rookies was ordered by Manager McGraw.

Clearwater, Fla., March 3.—Harvey Hendricks, former Yankee outfielder, who is being groomed to fill Zach Wheat's shoes, was the center of interest at the Brooklyn camp today. In his first day at camp Hendrick got three hits.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., March 3.—The first casualties in the Cub's family were causing Manager Joe McCarthy some concern today. Catcher Gabby Hartnett and three rookies suffered minor injuries in fielding practice.

New Orleans, La., March 3.—Manager Bill Carrigan, well satisfied with the layout of Heinemann Park, ordered the advance guard of the Red Sox to get practice under way tomorrow.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3.—Robert Smith, holdout of the Braves, has arrived in camp and has opened negotiations for a new contract. Oscar Selmer, sub catcher, is the only member of the tribe missing.

Lakeland, Fla., March 3.—With word from Joe and Luke Sewell, saying the brothers would report ready for training Monday March 7, the only Indian unaccounted for today is "Sherry" Smith, pitcher. He is reported holding out for a higher salary.

George Burns, first baseman, has been appointed field captain of the tribe.

Tampa, Fla., March 3.—"Muddy" Ruel, the Senators' veteran left fielder, has come to terms with Clark Griffith. He is the last of the regulars to sign up.

Port Myers, Fla., March 3.—Joe Pate, left-handed rescue hurler, in the Athletics' only holdout, was to confer with Connie Mack today. Pate's chief complaint is that he wants to work nine innings, not just five innings.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 3.—Donie Bush's squad of Pittsburgh Pirates, augmented by the arrival of fourteen infielders and outfielders at the spring training camp, today went through a light workout.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

BASEBALL

Throwing runners out at the plate has become more or less an art. This can be attributed largely to the lively ball that has been in use for several years. It forced the fielders to play deeper than usual, thereby minimizing the chances for plays at the plate.

Though throwing a runner out at the plate on a safe hit has been more or less exception, late in the 1925 race in a game at Detroit I saw two men tagged almost simultaneously at the home plate for a most unusual double play.

Catcher Johnny Bassler of the Tigers has never been noted for his great speed on the bases. He was on third base at the time Fred Haney, who can step pretty fast, was on second.

A ball was hit to the Boston outfield which it seemed would be caught. Bassler played it safe and held his bag. Haney didn't believe the ball would be caught and headed for the plate.

The ball fell safe. At that time, Haney was only a short distance back of Bassler, who immediately broke for the plate, closely pursued by Haney.

The throw to the plate was perfect. A recruit catcher by the name of Stokes was receiving for Boston, yet he made the play like a veteran star.

Bassler slid on the inside of the plate, but Stokes managed to get the ball on him before he reached the base. With the same sweeping motion he touched out Haney, who had slid on the outside of the plate. It's the only time in my long experience as an umpire that I have called two men out at the plate on the same play.

ENGLISH TO SIGN UP

Chicago, March 3.—Elwood English, shortstop, purchased by the Cubs from the Toronto club of the International League for $50,000, has forsaken the ranks of the holdouts and is ready to sign on the dotted line, President. William Vesbeck of the Cubs announced today.

DISCUSSING TUNNEY'S OPPONENTS

MIKE MCTIGUE

Fight Series No. 13

New York, Mar. 3.—Mike McGraw is the second light heavyweight to enroll as a Tunney Threat, Jack Delaney, as everyone knows, is the other. Neither Mike nor Jack should fight at a weight beyond 175 pounds. That is natural for them. Beyond that they are slow and sluggish.

It is practically impossible for Mike to weigh more than 175 pounds, and most of the time he weighs less. He is built along the racy proportions of a greyhound and even when idle accumulates little excess poundage.

Another curiosity about Mike is that he is the oldest of all the Tunney Threats. The record books show him to be 36 years old. He looks 43, and the boys who make their cakes throwing punches and toil at his side in the cauliflower gardens say he is all of that.

Mike is currently regarded as the mystery man of the ring by some and the miracle man by others. It is mystery how he waited all these years to start fighting. Mike has been a wind-up fighter for a dozen years; he has had his shots against little ones and big ones alike. But he was never pressed into service by popular clamor. Until recently Mike was always regarded as a necessary evil—a fighter to use when there was no better one available.

Mike won the light heavyweight title by beating Battling Siki, a French Negro, at Dublin, Ireland, on St. Patrick's Day. It is said the decision was very much Chicago.

Mike held the title for an extended period largely because he refused to give anybody a real shot at it; he took on Mickey Walker, a welterweight, and Walker gave him a pasting, completely justifying the claim that Mike was the world's worst fighter at any and all weights. Ultimately Mike was forced into a battle with Paul Berlenbach and deprived of his crown.

The dethronement of McGraw was the signal for great rejoicing throughout the nation. Troops paraded the streets. The peasantry indulged in mad revelry. Little children sang folk songs and tossed posies at the feet of onmarching Rotarians.

For the ring had seen the last of McGraw, the world's worst fighter. In a pig's eye it had!

Here is Mike, with his seamy face, head-like eyes and funny-looking little Irish snout, back in the ring, bigger and certainly better than ever, with four consecutive knockouts to his credit, including a two-round knockout at the expense of Berlenbach, the man who took his title.

That's why they are calling Mike a miracle man as well as a mystery man. The mystery about him is that he waited so long to show any real ability. The miracle is that he is showing it in the form of knockouts whereas in the past he was always a blazer, a clincher, a harmless tapper and altogether a most uninteresting character.

PREPARING FOR RELAYS

Marquette University has started preparations for their annual high school relay carnival to be staged May 7. Officials at the Wisconsin school hope to have a greater number of entries this year than they did last year when 500 athletes from 40 schools participated in their fourth annual carnival.

EAGER TO TRAIN

College athletes usually hate to practice much, but here's one that arrived at the Giants' training camp a full week ahead of time. He is Ned Porter, an ex-Florida hurdler. Porter realized he had a hard task ahead of him and wanted to show hustle from the start.

Soft Landing

It cost Adrian Maurer, former Oglethorpe football star, around $2,000 to play pro football the past fall. Maurer was reputed to have received a "high salary." He, with other southerners, was with Newark. The club hit the rocks. Then the players financed their own games, and Maurer's part of the loss was two grand.

When Bobby Walthour, New Jersey bike artist, fell while training at the Newark velodrome, for the forthcoming 6-day races in Madison Square Garden, New York, he picked a soft snow bank for a landing. Peddling past him is Reggie McNamara, veteran cyclist who won the last grand.

BABE TAKES $210,000

Babe Ruth appears little disappointed as he reaches his agreement in New York to play for the Yankees for the next three seasons at $70,000 a year. Watching him are Ed Barrow, secretary of the New York club, and (seated) Colonel Rupert, owner of the Yankees, who induced the Bambino to forget his previous demand for a two-year contract at $100,000 per. After all, although it'll take him a season longer, the Babe'll get $10,000 more than he asked.

BABE COULD HAVE RAISED ANTE IF HE HAD STALLED

SHARKEY FAVORITE IN TONIGHT'S BOUT

Walsh Thinks Ruth - Could Have Held Out For $40,000 More - Get More Money Now Than Landis.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, March 3.—Whether Mike McGraw's startling transformation from a fox to a lion is genuine or synthetic will be determined at Madison Square Garden tonight when the former light heavyweight champion clashes with Jack Sharkey of Boston in a fifteen round bout.

The winner will be matched with Jim Maloney early this summer, and the ultimate survivor will get a crack at Gene Tunney's title at the end of the summer.

Sharkey, who conquered Harry Willis, was favored to beat McGraw at odds ranging from two to one to eight to five. The aged but rejuvenated McGraw, however, did not lack supporters by reason of his sensational comeback, climaxed by a decisive victory over Paul Berlenbach.

McGraw, who weighs only 170 pounds, will be forced to give away twenty pounds. Sharkey, in fact, will have every advantage save reach.

PRO GRID COSTLY

It cost Adrian Maurer, former Oglethorpe football star, around $2,000 to play pro football the past fall. Maurer was reputed to have received a "high salary." He, with other southerners, was with Newark. The club hit the rocks. Then the players financed their own games, and Maurer's part of the loss was two grand.

Other Salaries

Cobb and Speaker had to go through the rough system to get baseball where they were today. Yet the former is understood to have signed with the Athletics for $50,000 with a $10,000 bonus and Speaker for $40,000 flat.

Hornsby was wanted out of St. Louis as the wing man of a ballhoop or his men have been overworked with. He will get $40,000 this season as balm for his great mental and moral distress.

McGraw Gets $35,000

McGraw has spent a life-time winning pennants but I understand the Giants value his services as manager at exactly $35,000 a year. This, of course, is exclusive of the rake-off that is his as vice president and one of the principal stockholders of the club. It is McGraw as a manager worth half as much as Ruth as a ball player? Just a civil question, you know; so offense intended.

NEW TRICKS PROMISED

Knute Rockne promises something new on the gridiron next fall. That's typically Rockne. Just what this new stuff will be he refuses to say, but there are just ever so many folks who are willing to wager right unseen that this new stuff works.

MR. WHAT'S-HIS-NAME

Atlanta has a Cuban pitcher but does not know his name. At least, Bert Niehoff can't make out whether it is Jones, Smith, Alvarez or Pinto. All the Cracker manager hopes is that this rookie can hurl 'em as hard as it is to recognize the letters the Cuban writes.

College Champ Dodges Wrestling Career; It's Not "Level"

Austin, Tex., March 3.—Wrestling, as done by professionals, is too crooked to offer any inducement to Ralph Hammond, National Interscholastic Champion, according to the youthful wrestler in an interview here today.

As a boy, Hammond was rather handicapped in his athletic endeavors, his mother considering he was "too delicate a lad to indulge in rough sports," he said.

When he got away from the maternal apron-strings on entering college, however, Hammond decided to forget a little about home advice and the result was gratifying.

Billy Evans Says

DESTROYS CONFIDENCE.

Is it a wise move to commercialize the fame of some highly touted recruit?

For years it has been customary for major league clubs to take advantage of the publicity given some promising recruit by starting him on some day when, as an added attraction, he is certain to sweet the gate.

It is all well and good if the youngster gets away to a good start. On the other hand a dismal failure in his debut may tend to destroy much of his confidence and, for a time, seriously handicap his chances to make the grade.

Recently several major league clubs have capitalized on the fame of some rookie star, pitchers particularly, and in each case there has been a reaction that has seriously retarded the progress of the rookie.

Carroll Over-Exploited.

There comes back to the majors this year a striking example of over-exploitation in Owen Carroll. Fans will readily recall Carroll as the star of Holy Cross, the pitcher who for a period of four years was the sensation of eastern college baseball.

In 50 games as a college pitcher he had suffered only two defeats prior to reporting to the Detroit club at the close of the rah-rah season.

A big favorite in Boston, he was started against the Red Sox a few days after reporting. The game was played on a Saturday, was widely advertised and drew a packed house.

Carroll pitched a mighty good ball game. I happened to be the umpire and know whereof I speak. As a matter of fact, he performed better than his colleagues. Several of the veterans, anxious to have the youngster set away to a good start, played poorly.

Ready to Star Now.

Carroll was removed late in the game for a pinch hitter. Detroit was beaten by a fairly close score. With good support Carroll might have won.

Perhaps a week later he was again tossed into the game against St. Louis at Detroit. It was a Sunday crowd of perhaps 35,000 that was out to see Carroll make his debut in Detroit.

In this game, which I also umpired, Carroll was wild and was hit rather hard. I have always thought that Carroll survived his Boston debut all right, but believe the second reverse at Detroit hurt his pitching temporarily.

During the rest of the season Carroll just couldn't win. Something always happened to keep him in the lost column. By the time the season was over, he himself had his doubts about his chances to make good.

However, a year of brilliant success as a minor league pitcher has put Carroll back on his feet, and he is confident he will be able to return to the big time.

It doesn't pay to press highly-touted rookies into service too quickly.

Most Baseball Fans and Players Believe Buck Weaver Is Innocent

18 WHITE SOX SIX FEET TALL

Chicago Club Has Giants In It's Personnel This Season Led By Diminutive Shalk.

BY COPELAND C. BURG
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Mar. 3.—Ray Shalk, one of the smallest men in big league baseball, is going to pilot a team of diamond giants this season.

Shalk, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, stands only a little better than five and one-half feet in height, while 18 members of the Sox squad doff their hats at six feet or better.

The tallest man on the Sox team this year is Earl Sheedy of Paso Robles, California. He is a first baseman.

Right behind this big Californian come Pitchers Ted and Homer Blankenship of Atoka, Okla.; Pitcher Urban Faber of Cascade, Iowa; Pitcher Bert Cole of San Francisco; Pitcher Rufus Water of McKinney, Texas and Outfielder Ike Boone of Cedartown, Georgia, all of whom bump their heads at six feet, one inch.

Ted Lyons, of Vinton, La.; George Connelly of McGregor, Texas; Leslie Cox of Stephenville, Texas; Elmer Jacobs of Salem, Mo., and Joseph H. Brown, of Little Rock, Ark., all pitchers, are other giant 1927 Sox. They measure six feet even.

John Glancey, Odell, Ills., and Harold Stricklin, Harrisburg, Pa., first basemen, also stand six feet and so do Moe Berg, shortstop, who lives in Newark, N. J., James Battle, a shortstop from Celeste, Texas, Outfielder Bib Falk of Austin, Texas and Randolph Moore, outfielder of Naples, Texas.

Roger Peckinpaugh of Cleveland, Willie Kamm of San Francisco, Robert Way of Franklin, Pa., infielders, are five feet ten inches tall. Pitcher Charles Barnabe, Los Angeles, Catcher Harry McCurdy, Houston, Texas, just lack one inch of measuring six feet.

Clyde Green, a catcher from Muncie, Ind., and William Barrow, an outfielder who calls Cambridge, Mass., home, scale off five feet ten inches.

William Hunnefeld, Sox second sacker, who lives in Clifton Heights, Pa., stands at five feet eight inches and is the smallest man on the team with the exception of Manager Shalk.

John Mostil of Whiting, Ind., an outfielder, is an inch taller than Hunnefeld.

Urban Faber, 38, is the oldest player with the Sox this season. Shalk is 35, Peckinpaugh 34 and Jacobs 33. The other players are all under 30.

Moore and Water, Texas boys of 20 summers, are the youngest men in the outfit.

ERNIE WILKIE WANTS TO BOWL TOM CONRAN

Willing to Meet Him in Home-Home Match; Conran Getting Two Man Team to Face South; Looks Like Fire At Last.

Through Howard Murphy, Ernie Wilkie, of the south end, today issued a bowling challenge to Tommy Conran, town champion, to be waged ten games at each end of the town.

Wilkie is leading the C. B. A. A. senior league averages with about 106. If Conran accepts this defi, it will be the first inter-town match this season.

Word coming simultaneously from Conran is to the effect that he will have a two-man team ready to face the pick of the south end.

Let's hope this smoke turns into real fire and doesn't smoulder anymore.

Recent Scandal Airings Cleared "Black Sox" Third Baseman Is General Belief.

Chicago, March 3. (United Press).—What, if any, chance has Buck Weaver, the brilliant White Sox third-baseman, who was banished from the game for complicity in the 1919 scandal, of being reinstated in organized baseball?

Since the airing of the recent "scandal" which was conducted by Commissioner Landis for the purpose of delving into charges made by Swede Risberg, Chick Gandil, and Dutch Leonard, that question has been one of those uppermost in the minds of baseball fans.

During Landis' recent investigation Weaver's name came to the fore again. And in Weaver's behalf it must be said that of all the names which were mentioned in the hearing, his was one that nobody had anything to say against.

Back in 1919 Buck was, without a doubt, the greatest of the third basemen. Some critics rank him with the greatest of them all. Certainly he was in class with Jimmie Collins, Bill Bradley, Derrin and Steinfield, all held up as the peers.

Started His Fight

And when came his banishment. Weaver fought for reinstatement. He was not ashamed to go into court openly and demand to know what was held up against him. He swore that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

But all his pleas fell on deaf ears and it was not until the recent "exposure" that Buck got into big-time print again. And he certainly made a creditable showing this time. Landis' investigation, if it proved nothing else, did, without a doubt, indicate that Buck Weaver was an honest man back in 1919.

The latest investigation centered around a pot which was collected by the Chicago White Sox in 1917 to be given to Detroit players. Risberg and Gandil, both members of the Chicago team at that time, contended it was given to Detroit for the Tigers having thrown the White Sox that the Chicago team might beat out Boston in a hot pennant race.

The players accused by Risberg and Gandil, which included such men as Eddie Collins, Howard Ehmke, Bill James and scores of others, said the money was given to Detroit pitchers for good work they had done against the Boston club.

Important Fact

Charges and counter charges were hurled and here's the significant factor of this story:

Buck Weaver refused to have absolutely anything to do with the pot. He refused to contribute and he refused to even listen to it—whatever it was to be used for.

Nobody had anything to say against Weaver, during all of the testimony.

Every call player present at the hearing shunned both Risberg and Gandil as though they were lepers. Buck Weaver, used with them, talked to them, laughed and joked with them.

The players certainly do not seem to hold Weaver in the same disregard that the powers do, and include the players' list the other so-called Black Sox.

Many fans have always been of the opinion that Weaver was innocent. Although players refuse to be quoted, many interviewed express unqualified faith in him. But it remains to be seen whether the recent developments have changed the mind of Landis.

Through Howard Murphy, Ernie Wilkie, of the south end, today issued a bowling challenge to Tommy Conran, town champion, to be waged ten games at each end of the town.

Wilkie is leading the C. B. A. A. senior league averages with about 106. If Conran accepts this defi, it will be the first inter-town match this season.

Word coming simultaneously from Conran is to the effect that he will have a two-man team ready to face the pick of the south end.

Let's hope this smoke turns into real fire and doesn't smoulder anymore.

CONRAN'S TEAM BOWLS TONIGHT

Tommy Conran's five-man bowling team will swing into action tonight at the north end against the East Hartford team. The Bon Ami five will also roll tonight at Conran's alleys against the Church League five.

PRINCETON THE WINNER

Princeton, N. J., March 3.—Princeton today had practically clinched the eastern intercollegiate basketball league title by defeating the Dartmouth five, 25 to 22. Dartmouth had been leading the league.

College Champ Dodges Wrestling Career; It's Not "Level"

Austin, Tex., March 3.—Wrestling, as done by professionals, is too crooked to offer any inducement to Ralph Hammond, National Interscholastic Champion, according to the youthful wrestler in an interview here today.

As a boy, Hammond was rather handicapped in his athletic endeavors, his mother considering he was "too delicate a lad to indulge in rough sports," he said.

When he got away from the maternal apron-strings on entering college, however, Hammond decided to forget a little about home advice and the result was gratifying.

FINNEGAN SIGNS

Chicago, March 3.—"Honeyboy" Finnegan, Boston featherweight, has been signed for a ten-round bout at the Coliseum on March 17, with Johnny Hill, the Filipino.

Crown to be Heavy But It Is His Duty

It was the Prince of Wales' purchase of Grove Farm at Lenton, Nottingham, here viewed from the opposite bank of the Trent, which recently contributed to revived speculation about his abdication. At the right the Prince is seen in his back-to-the-soil togs.

London.—Every time the Prince of Wales accepts an invitation or refuses one, wears ermine or wears tweeds, dances with an untitled beauty or buys a farm—every time he turns around, in fact—someone is ready to say that he loathes his inheritance and is about to abdicate.

But if you asked the question seriously of any canny, intelligent British bookmaker, the sporting answer probably would be something like:

"Thirty to one he doesn't!"

Explaining the Gossip

There are two principal factors back of the gossip that the prince would like to step down. One is his persistent bachelorhood. The other, the pushing forward of the Duke of York as exemplified in his present grand tour to Australia and New Zealand.

The bachelorhood of the prince long ago started the talk that he was not keen to mount the throne. Heirs-apparent usually marry comparatively young and start raising families to make the succession in the direct line secure.

For instance, King Edward VII as Prince of Wales was quite as much a man of the world as his famous grandson. But just the same, he married at 22 and by the time he was 28, all his children—three sons and three daughters, had been born.

Consider This, Too

King George did not expect to be king. His elder brother, the Duke of Clarence, was the heir to the throne. But his brother died in 1892, and promptly the next year the new heir married. By the time he was 33—the present age of the Prince of Wales—Prince George had three children.

People used to speculate as to whom the present Prince of Wales would marry. But nearly every girl with whom his name had been coupled, has since married somebody else. Now people have become used to a bachelor prince. If he should marry it would create a sensation of the first class.

And people's tongues have been set wagging again by the fact that the Duke and Duchess of York are on their way to the formal opening of Australia's new capital at Canberra.

The truth of the matter is that the Prince of Wales is a tired man. No heir-apparent in British history has done so much traveling as he, nor worked so hard at it. Since the war he has paid state visits to Australia, New Zealand, Canada, South Africa and India.

A Royal Democrat

He knows more at first hand about the empire than any British prince that ever lived. He had to make innumerable speeches and every speech had to be tactful and carefully framed. He had to make friends for England and the royal family. In all his journeying he never made a single mistake. He charmed by his unflinching courtesy, tact and goodfellowship. Ever and always he was the sportsman and royal democrat.

But now he has struck. He wants to stay home and lead the kind of life he likes. He dances little. He rides a great deal. He works hard to keep himself lean and physically fit. In between times, he gets away from the great and makes dashes over the wall, mingling with the poor. And he enjoys it, and makes more friends.

Genuine Filial Affection

People in the know do not believe the Prince of Wales ever contemplates dodging the throne. But he is not expectantly eyeing the great place that King George holds. There is too much filial affection in him for that.

The only reason for the apparent is that he is a tired man. No heir-apparent in British history has done so much traveling as he,

PILES

Go Quick With Harmless Internal Remedy, or Money Back.

Itching, bleeding or protruding Piles are enough to make anybody swear. Swearing, however, doesn't banish or even relieve Pile misery.

But here's comforting news for you. You can now quickly and safely get rid of Piles with a simple internal remedy that removes the cause—blood congestion in the lower bowel.

Forget about an operation and stop using messy ointments that cannot reach the cause. For real, honest, lasting Pile relief, just join the thousands that are now using Hem-Roid, a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonard, that you can get at Packard's or Murphy's Drug Store and all druggists with absolute guarantee that it will banish all Pile misery or money back.—adv.

Old Masters

For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see, Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;

Saw the heavens fill with commerce, Argosies of magic sails, Pilots of the purple twilight, Drooping down with costly bales;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rain'd a ghastly dew From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south wind rushing warm, With the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunder-storm;

Till the war drum throbbed no longer, and the battle flags were furled, In the Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe, And the kindly earth shall slumber, wrapped in universal law.—Tennyson: From "Locksley Hall."

Chemistry Modifies Humans

This does not mean, of course, that types of men can ever be grown now. But it is true, Dr. Lipman declares, that soil chemistry can greatly modify types of human beings and other animals, according to the design of the chemist.

"Everything goes back to chemistry," he says. "Plants depend upon the soil, and vary as the soil varies. Animals live upon the plants, or upon other animals that eat them, and therefore are also dependent on soil chemistry."

"Animal types in China and Japan, where rice is the main food, differ widely from the animals of South America, where beans and maize are the staples.

We Are Dust After All, and MAN'S JUST A FARM CROP

New Brunswick, N. J.—Though science has thus far failed to create a man in its laboratories, it may in the future be able to grow one exactly to specifications.

For soil chemistry, which has made great advances in determining what kind of plants shall inhabit the earth, is now hard at work on man.

Dr. Jacob Lipman, director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station announces this new idea.

Whereas we now fertilize for alfalfa, or cotton or wheat, we may in time be able to fertilize for man's physical health, temperament and artistic talents. We may discover the exact chemical which is needed to grow a race of musical geniuses, or of students or of farmers.

War statistics showed that the average American is much larger than the European. I attribute this partly to the intrinsic richness of American soil and partly to the complex diet achieved by means of American transportation systems.

A New Yorker sits down to breakfast at a table loaded with food from seven or eight parts of the country—grapefruit from Florida, cream from Long Island, sausage from Missouri, wheat rolls or griddle cakes from Minnesota or Kansas.

"Because of this mixed diet, we see distinctive regional types disappearing. The Uncle Sam type of New Englander, which was the product of the codfish and Indian corn diet, combined with the strenuous outdoor life of the early periods, is fast giving way to a type fattened by meat and vegetables from the south and middle west.

Future Americans Larger

The future American, as prophesied by the soil chemist, will be larger and more alert than preceding generations. His mixed diet will not only produce brawn, but also brain, and the increasing prosperity of the country, will develop culture.

Another factor in his favor is his mixed racial heritage, bringing the physical and mental strength of many peoples into the cauldron from which he is brewed, says Dr. Lipman.

The time may come when man will consciously rule his own development, when he will fertilize the land to improve his own descendants, and when every restaurant menu-card will carry, not only a caloric count, but a notation of the places from which the foods come, so that the wary diner may balance his rations by geography as well as by heat units.

immigrant Children Taller

"Of course the richer the soil, the bigger the plants, and consequently, the animals. The children of immigrants to the United States are taller, generally speaking, than their parents, because they are reared on soil that has not been exhausted by centuries of use.

"It is our problem to discover what fertilizers to use, in order to enrich the soil and keep our national health and stature up to standard."

War statistics showed that the average American is much larger than the European. I attribute this partly to the intrinsic richness of American soil and partly to the complex diet achieved by means of American transportation systems.

A New Yorker sits down to breakfast at a table loaded with food from seven or eight parts of the country—grapefruit from Florida, cream from Long Island, sausage from Missouri, wheat rolls or griddle cakes from Minnesota or Kansas.

"Because of this mixed diet, we see distinctive regional types disappearing. The Uncle Sam type of New Englander, which was the product of the codfish and Indian corn diet, combined with the strenuous outdoor life of the early periods, is fast giving way to a type fattened by meat and vegetables from the south and middle west.

Future Americans Larger

The future American, as prophesied by the soil chemist, will be larger and more alert than preceding generations. His mixed diet will not only produce brawn, but also brain, and the increasing prosperity of the country, will develop culture.

Another factor in his favor is his mixed racial heritage, bringing the physical and mental strength of many peoples into the cauldron from which he is brewed, says Dr. Lipman.

The time may come when man will consciously rule his own development, when he will fertilize the land to improve his own descendants, and when every restaurant menu-card will carry, not only a caloric count, but a notation of the places from which the foods come, so that the wary diner may balance his rations by geography as well as by heat units.

who chafed because his kingdom was so long coming to him was the ex-kaiser of Germany, William was ambitious and vain and thirsted for power. So far as the public can see, there is not a drop of that kind of "bounce" or vanity or ambition in the Prince of Wales.

Old Masters

For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see, Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;

Saw the heavens fill with commerce, Argosies of magic sails, Pilots of the purple twilight, Drooping down with costly bales;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rain'd a ghastly dew From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south wind rushing warm, With the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunder-storm;

Till the war drum throbbed no longer, and the battle flags were furled, In the Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe, And the kindly earth shall slumber, wrapped in universal law.—Tennyson: From "Locksley Hall."

Chemistry Modifies Humans

This does not mean, of course, that types of men can ever be grown now. But it is true, Dr. Lipman declares, that soil chemistry can greatly modify types of human beings and other animals, according to the design of the chemist.

"Everything goes back to chemistry," he says. "Plants depend upon the soil, and vary as

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE GARRETT FOLSOM is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Tower, N. J.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; HENRY BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a suitor of Folsom's widow. He admits buying two knives but not the pichag.

ANGELICA FAIR, Robie's fiancée, questions ROSS, the dead man's former valet, who tells her he thinks Sears had visited at Folsom's home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

"YOU think! Don't you know? Don't you know whether Croydon Sears was ever at Mr Folsom's home?" Angelica Fair insisted.

"He was once, to my knowledge," replied Ross.

"What was the occasion?"

"It was a sort of reception, Miss Fair. Mr. Folsom was having a small exhibition of his art treasures. You know, Mr. Folsom traveled a lot and collected many things such as interest Mr. Sears. I remember seeing him at that time, but I'm not sure of any other time, Miss."

"Oh, well, I don't suppose it matters. I don't believe I know much about detective work. And anyway, I don't believe Mr. Sears killed Mr. Folsom, do you?"

"I shouldn't think so, ma'am, and with that they were in sight of the Majusca and Angel scurried off to her bathroom.

As Robin Sears and Riggs entered the auction room, it was Robin who took the lead.

Demanding the proprietor, in a tone which brought him a warning nudge from Riggs, he asked for a private interview.

On learning who he was, this was readily granted, and Mr. Giddings, who represented the absent Mr. Barchester, took them into a private office.

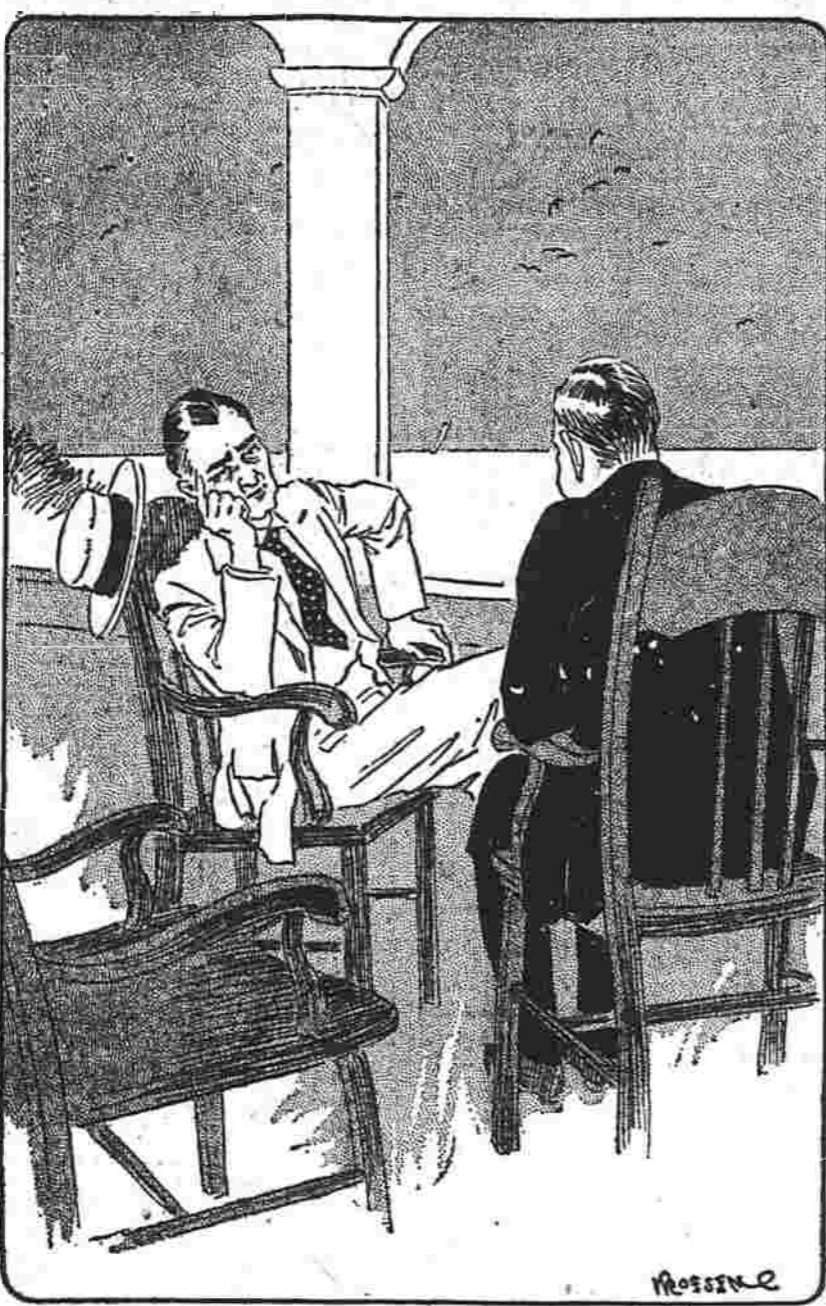

"I'd like to know," Robin began, "if you'd be good enough to tell me of all the knives or daggers my father has bought here."

"I can tell you of most of them," was the reply, "but some small items are sold in bundles, as we call them, and so are not recorded individually."

"I should think an antique dagger of sufficient importance to be recorded," Robin said, and, as the fire in his eye was growing brighter under the irritation of the other's suavity, Riggs took a hand.

"Never mind the value or importance of the sale," he suggested, "just tell us what your records charge to Mr. Croydon Sears."

The list was interesting, though

"No, Tite, I didn't murder Garrett Folsom, but there are reasons why I want the murderer found."

not long, and the net result of information was that Croydon Sears had bought, in all, six daggers of antique Oriental workmanship.

Robin was amazed, for he knew of only the two that were acknowledged at the Inquest.

But he preserved a quiet sternness now; indeed, the young face grew more composed as the situation seemed to acquire seriousness.

"The police have interviewed you as to all this?" he asked of Mr. Giddings.

"Many times, especially in the last twenty-four hours."

"Why so much questioning?" put in Riggs.

"Because they want to be sure that it was Mr. Sears who bought the dagger that killed Mr. Folsom," Giddings replied, straightforwardly.

"Of course, that needn't mean that Mr. Sears used it," he added quickly as he noted Robin's face.

"No, it needn't," said that young man with quiet simplicity.

"And have the police assured themselves?" asked Riggs.

"We can't be positive," Giddings returned. "When Mr. Sears came the second time that evening he was not so much interested, for the sales were of small lots or single pieces of small value. But he did pick up two or three numbers, one of which contained an old pichag."

"Then why isn't that positive?"

broke in Robin quickly. "Because there was another bundle or lot sold, which also contained an old pichag, and no one can say which was the weapon later exhibited at the Inquest."

"I see," said Robin, thoughtfully. "And who bought the other bundle?"

"That we can't say. It was a stranger, and his name, though given, has been found to be fictitious."

"Then he's your murderer?" cried Robin. "Of course, he'd give a fictitious name, and, on the other hand, do you suppose my father would be such a fool as to buy a dagger here where he is well known and then go out and kill somebody with it?"

Mr. Giddings only murmured polite words that sounded well but meant nothing, and the two went away and walked slowly toward home.

traced, could not put upon them the exorbitant prices which he no doubt plans to do. Next, granting your father bought that dagger, and subsequently chose to use it on somebody, that would not prove him a fool, because whoever did that killing depended on the sea to hide forever the weapon of his guilt, not realizing that it would almost inevitably be found."

"Then he WAS a fool."

"No, I should have thought myself that the heavy metal would have been ground into the sand forever."

"Next, Riggs, old man," Robin said, his jaws set like a fighter, "we go straight to Croydon Rochester Sears with this tale."

"We?"

"Yes, sir, we."

And so, on reaching the Hotel Majusca, two somewhat harassed looking sleuths demanded and obtained audience with C. R. S.

"Why the length of face?" Sears asked, looking at his son.

"Be seated, my friend, and I'll tell you," returned Robin, looking back at him affectionately.

They all sat down, and now and then prompted or corrected by Tite Riggs, Robin gave his father a strict and full account of the interview with the auctioneer.

As the tale finished, Croydon Sears sat a full five minutes thinking.

Then, reaching out his hand for a yellow pad of telegram forms which was in a pigeon hole of the desk, he wrote out a message.

"Take it down to the desk, Robin boy, and send it off. Leave Tite here. Read the thing as you go down."

Robin did as bidden, and was more than slightly mystified to find the message was to his father's private secretary, and said: "Rush Fleming Stone here as soon as possible."

Implicitly confident as Robin was of his father's innocence, it was a satisfaction to note how the older man had looked as he grasped the situation.

To be sure, he had waited a few moments to consider; to be sure, he had sent a hurry call for a great and famous detective, but his fine, clear eyes had shown no hint of fear or shame and his face, though grave, was calm and serene as he looked at his son.

"I've sent for Stone," Croydon Sears told Riggs.

"Fleming Stone?"

"Yes, not every one could command his services so quickly, but he and I are old friends, and I happen to know he is on vacation and I'm sure he will not only be glad to come to my assistance but he will enjoy a few days down here."

"Your assistance?" and Tite Riggs looked frankly curious.

"Yes, just that. No, Tite, I didn't murder Garrett Folsom, not that. But there are reasons, strong reasons, why I want the murderer found, the mystery solved."

(To Be Continued)

Would a guilty man send for a famous detective to try to solve the mystery? And will Fleming Stone solve it?

This And That In Feminine Lore

Favorites with everybody, especially the children, are rose red apples. Walter Foster of Wapping, is just now marketing his fine-flavored Baldwin's. He has excellent storage facilities—they are in prime condition and I advise you to order a basket or two as soon as you read this, at only 75 cents. Phone 38-6.

The new scarfs are coming in marvelous color combinations, soft rose and French blue, in quaint prints or shaded effects. Then there are large kerchiefs that may be knotted on the shoulder or in the front, cowboy fashion.

In many a Manchester household will be found really fine etchings in old, ponderous frames. Re-framed with the modern mouldings, their beauty and value will be immeasurably enhanced. Oil paintings may have become loose on the stretchers—water colors or other prints may need a new mat. This is an excellent time to have this work artistically done at The Old Wood Shop, Pitkin street at East Center.

We are glad to re-print for the benefit of an East Center street reader the recipe for "upside down" or Pineapple Skillet cake. This is the original formula given the writer by Miss Jeanette Kelley, the cooking expert, who has a host of friends here:

- 2 cups flour.
3 tps. baking powder.
1-4 tsp. salt.
1 cup sugar.
1-2 cup butter.
3 eggs.
1 tsp. vanilla.
1-3 cup milk.
Sift dry ingredients, cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and milk alternately with the flour that has been sifted with baking powder and salt. Butter cake tin with heavy coating of butter. Line with brown sugar. Place in pan slices of pineapple with maraschino cherry in center of each slice. Pour over the cake batter and bake 45 to 60 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Allow me to recommend an estimable lady to your mothers of children who occasionally desire to leave them for an afternoon or an evening in good care—one who is also competent to assist with dress-making or plain sewing by the day or her home, which is centrally located. Just phone 22-4 if you need her services.

I notice in some of the magazines which devote much space to embroidery designs, a departure from the usual method of decorating a cushion, which is to have a simple landscape effect along the sides of the quilt which drop down from the bed, rather than having the design on the top—I think you will get my meaning. The design is repeated the length of the pillow or bolster portion, or I presume might be placed along the head of the quilt proper.

Next week, March 7 to 12 is to be observed at National Health Food Week, so designated no doubt by some of the big cereal manufacturers.

"America has no youth problem but it has an adult problem," according to Dr. William Mather Lewis of George Washington university. He says all that youth needs today is leadership in the home, in education, citizenship, economics, courtesy, culture and religion. He holds that amateur athletics are the best thing we have to counteract the enervating and softening amusements.

"If you want to grow thinner, diminish your dinner, while you act. And follow the rules for a while. For to be over-weight, means to be out of date. So why not keep up with the style?"

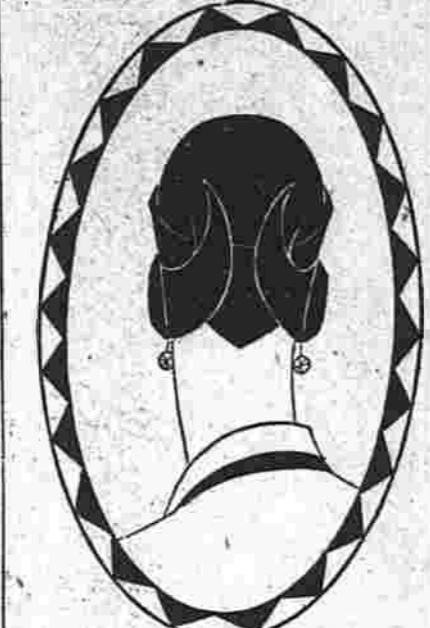

Again referring to health foods, Clifford Thorne, former athletic instructor at the University of Michigan, in an article entitled "The Feminine Athlete," has this to say: "The tremendous value of fruits, vegetables and natural foods eaten as nature intended, is becoming more and more clearly recognized each year. As a nation, the average stature has increased and health records show a steady climb. Many a masculine athletic record is now being threatened by the feminine athlete, and the masculine health records too are being rivaled by the so-called weaker sex who are leading the way in the good health menu."

HE SPOILED IT ALL

Dorchester, Mass.—"Now, please, everybody stand steady," urged Harry Brock, the photographer. He was about to take a picture of the Dorchester Board of Trade, assembled for their fifteenth annual banquet. He was high above them on a specially arranged scaffold. "Don't move," he warned, just as he crashed to the floor with his camera and the wreckage of the pedestal.

The maximum recorded temperature "in the shade" is 134 degrees Fahrenheit, observed at Greenland Beach, Cal.

TWO GIRL SCOUTS AWARDED CITATION FOR COURAGE

Awards of the Certificate of Honorable Mention were announced today by the National Standards Committee of the Girl Scouts at their headquarters in New York. The awards were made to two Girl Scouts who displayed outstanding presence of mind and courage in saving the lives of several persons. In addition to these awards, nine Golden Eaglets were adjudged by the Committee.

Two Certificates The Certificate of Honorable Mention was awarded to Audrey Repass of Troop 13, Hartford, Conn., for guiding a runaway automobile in which she and four little children had been left, when the emergency brake slipped and the car broke loose. Audrey steered it down a steep and winding hill, at the bottom of which was a short turn which she made on two wheels, bringing the car to a safe stop.

To 13 year old Esther Dascor of Troop 9, Detroit, Michigan, the certificate was awarded for diving into Silver Lake, Michigan, and rescuing a fatigued swimmer who had gone beyond her depth and was sinking for the third time when Esther got to her.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Ernestine Schumann-Heink has never puffed a cigar in all her life! So announces the 86-year-old diva in answer to thousands of protests that followed publication of a recent ad which printed the Heink's picture and her signed endorsement of a certain cigar. "I always smoke Blanks. They are kind to my throat," said she over her name. W. C. Ufers who have ever held up the Heink as a shining example of old-fashioned womanhood lifted their hands in holy horror. Younger women who did smoke, to the horror of their elders, gleefully exhibited the ad with a "there, you think such a paragon of all the womanly virtues! How do you like that?"

But the elders may settle down and the youngsters must get a new argument, for the Heink now says she wants the world to know that she does not smoke and that she just signed that endorsement for an old friend without reading it. And here's wagering that after this the lovely Mrs. Heink will read before she signs!

Funny, this world! Overnight the older generation which had been comforted and thrilled to the very marrow by her gorgeous voice was ready to egg her when it believed that she smoked! And, as is usual with the world, the lesser thing drowned out the greater, beautiful thing!

"Grow, Little Fat Girl!" No fat girls need apply for rooms in the new $50,000 home for young women to be built in Toledo, O., according to terms of a strange will left by a millionaire of that city. The home will be for "young women romping with flats and yerve and small stature" (no fat women need apply), bright, ambitious, stylish, and good to look at," according to the wording of the will.

No clue is given as to the reason. Did a fat girl once do him wrong? Does he fear the appetite of the feminine blemish may work hob with the income, or does he, male wise, wish to contemplate even in his grave the gladsome spectacle of a host of skinny fledglings romping with flats and yerve and elan and grace through the classic halls of his mansion?

"I Felt Queer" The jazz made me feel queer inside," said Floyd Hewitt, 16, who has confessed to beating to death a neighbor's young wife, then crawling in the skull of her baby boy. The woman's husband worked evenings. It was customary for the neighbor boy to go across the street each evening to listen to the radio. "Musie gets me all stirred up," he had said before the fatal evening when it stirred him to a double murder.

And how the reformers and the howlers against jazz will utilize this story to the last crumb! If the legislators would utilize it as well and provide more institutions for the morons that endanger every home, it would mean a little more!

MAN OFTEN INFECTED BY DISEASES OF ANIMALS

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Since human beings have come to avail themselves largely of the services of the lower animals, and indeed to live with them in close communion, physicians have been compelled to take into account not only the diseases of man but those of animals, because of the proof that the animals' diseases frequently affect the human.

Among the best-known diseases that attack both animals and man are tuberculosis, hydrophobia, glanders and anthrax. However, the number of diseases that may occasionally pass from some animal to man is far greater. Anthrax is a disease in which there are purulent boils. Some of the most serious cases that have occurred have resulted from the infection of human beings by using shaving brushes of which the hair was taken from infected hides. Nowadays these matters are carefully controlled by government inspection but it is still good advice to wash a new shaving brush thoroughly in boiling water before using. Glanders attacks horses, mules, goats, rabbits and dogs, and may be inoculated into any animal.

Toeing Mark Of Reputation

By Olive Roberts Barton

A preacher preached fifty-two wonderful and helpful sermons a year for several years. One day he was up against it for a sermon. His wife had been sick all week, he had been too worried to work, and he was tired from loss of sleep. He hadn't even had time to dig down into the barrel and brush up an old sermon.

He could not get a substitute and the pulpit faced him. Have you ever tried to say pleasant things when your brain was dumb for want of sleep?

Well, he didn't. He didn't even try! He raked his congregation over the coals for all their besetting sins and read the riot act. Right then and there the church split into two warring factions. The "pros" remembered the hundreds of inspirational sermons. The "cons" didn't and wouldn't.

The reverend gentleman in deep dismay settled the controversy by withdrawing his misunderstood and appreciated presence. Once there was a dressmaker. She had made one beautiful gown after another for a certain woman, and the woman, all smiles and gratitude (?) sent Madamoiselle Modiste flowers, candy and theater tickets as a mark of her appreciation. One day Madamoiselle swallowed or breathed a germ. The germ

NOW YOU Ask One

ARE YOU A SPORT FAN

If you are moderately interested in present day athletics this test should be simple. And even if you aren't, you can hardly have helped seeing the headlines about most of them. The answers are another page:

- 1-What man induced "Red" Grange, Suzanne Lenglen and Vincent Richards to turn professional?
2-In professional baseball, what does the term "Black Sox" mean?
3-What southern football team played Stanford University at Pasadena in the Tournament of Roses game on New Year's Day.
4-Who is president of the National League?
5-Who promoted the heavy-weight championship fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey?
6-What famous Atlanta golfer won the British and American open tournaments last summer?
7-What famous outfielder resigned as manager of an American League club this winter and signed with the Washington Senators?
8-What boxer was recently deprived of the bantamweight title by the New York boxing commission because he came in for a fight overweight?
9-Between what two teams was the last world series played?
10-What famous tennis player has gone on the stage during the past year?

Said Scouty, "My t'will be a treat when we can all sit down and eat. I can't imagine I'm awake. It all seems like a dream." The little children from the shoe did everything that they could do to make the band of Tines have a lot of real good fun. They'd play at leap-frog now and then, and then take up their run again. In fact, they thought of everything for pleasure 'neath the sun. The next thing that the Tines knew, they heard a long and scary "Moo-o-o." And Clowny stopped his running as he shouted, "What was that?" Then Scouty quickly looked ahead. He saw a big brown cow, and said, "We needn't fear she'll chase us, 'cause I think she's much too fat." They finally reached the old Shoe House, and sneaked up quiet as a mouse. The Tines noticed that it had big windows, doors and such. "That's where we live," one youngster said. "Just walk right in. Please go ahead. We all will have some lunch, although it may not be so much." The doorway let them all pass through. They met the Lady in the Shoe. She laughed at all the Tinymites, and said, "You're very small." "That's true, we are," one voice replied. And then the good old lady sighed, and bid them kindly wait a bit 'til she could feed them all. Ah, what a very happy bunch. They all ate up a dandy lunch, and then the Tines all explored the inside of the shoe. Wherever they would chance to roam, they found it fixed up like a home. They walked so much that they were glad to take a nap when through. (The Tines meet another queer character in the next story).

Howard J. Keith Escapes Serious Injury as Car Throws Him Clear.

Howard J. Keith, of 50 Holl street, had a narrow escape from serious injury early last evening when he was struck by a Manchester bound trolley car in command of Motorman Jack Robinson and Conductor Charley Howard on Center street near McKee. Mr. Keith, who was returning home from work in Hartford, and who had obtained a ride from a friend as far as McKee street, was running on the tracks toward the next trolley station when the car, approaching from behind, hit him and threw him clear of the track. He was removed to Memorial hospital in W. P. Quish's ambulance. Examination revealed that, with the exception of numerous cuts and bruises, he was not injured. Mr. Keith was discharged from the hospital shortly afterward. He will be confined to his home for a few days, however.
