

MILLER GETS 18 MOS. ALSO IS FINED $5,000

Pathetic Scene in Courtroom As Alien Property Custodian Is Sentenced—Judge Shows Emotion.

New York, March 8.—Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian during the Harding administration, today was sentenced to eighteen months in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and fined five thousand dollars.

Miller was convicted last Friday by a jury of conspiracy to deprive the government of his honest services through the approval of a $7,000,000 claim for war-seized German property. He was a co-defendant with Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general. The jury disagreed regarding Daugherty but found Miller guilty. The case against Daugherty was dismissed. The two former government officials were accused of having shared in a $391,000 "fee" paid by the foreign interests to obtain approval of the claim.

Pathetic Scene
A pathetic scene was enacted in the courtroom as Miller was being sentenced. A motion for a new trial and a motion for deferred judgment were both denied by Federal Judge John C. Knox after an emotional appeal by Aaron Shapiro, an attorney of Chicago and San Francisco.

Shapiro, who fought in the army with Miller, begged, with tears in his eyes, that mercy be shown "my buddy, Tom Miller."

Emory R. Buckner, the prosecutor, arose and in a choked voice said:

Prosecutor Moved
"I am not fighting Mr. Miller, your honor. I am fighting for the government, as a matter of principle. By the underdog I mean the poorly paid man in the government employ. If he were to be found guilty of a crime against the government, he would not be shown mercy."

Miller, who has been free on $5,000 bail, was allowed to remain at liberty under bond, until appeal papers in his case are ready.

Judge Knox, in sentencing Miller, said:

"You should like to be spared the responsibility of this task. I should have been glad if the evidence had showed that you were not guilty. I regret that you did not take the witness stand."

The judge wiped his eyes, remarking: "the tug and strain of nations comes not in the days of war but in the days of peace."

"You Have Suffered"
"I agree with your counsel," he continued, "that the imposition of a prison sentence may add nothing to your punishment, for you have suffered. But at the same time we must remember that other government officials have been charged with crimes and have received prison sentences."

"If there is any legal reason why the verdict should be set aside I should indeed be glad to see it."

"I sentence you to eighteen months in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and fine you $5,000."

Miller, unmoved, turned and without saying a word walked from the courtroom accompanied by his wife and Attorney Shapiro.

SHERIFF IS ARRESTED FOR FLOGGING EDITOR
Held in $3,000 Bonds For Trial; Victim Is in Serious Condition From Beating.
Soperton, Ga., March 8.—Charged with participating in the flogging of H. M. Flanders, editor of the Soperton News, Sheriff W. L. Thigpen of Treuten county was held in $3,000 bond today.

The arrests of Sheriff Thigpen and three other men was made by Sheriff G. F. Flanders of Emmanuel county, a cousin of the editor. They were taken to the Emmanuel county jail where Sheriff Thigpen arranged for his bond and was released.

Sheriff Flanders has been investigating the whipping of his cousin since February 25, when the editor was taken from his automobile and severely flogged.

Editor Flanders had been waging a vigorous editorial attack on bootleggers and whiskey runners. He was proceeding to his home when he was stopped on a lonely road by three hooded men who became unconscious and left him on the road.

The editor has been in a serious condition since the attack.

MR. BOWERS' CONDITION
The report from the Manchester Memorial hospital this afternoon at three o'clock was that Judge H. O. Bowers was slightly weaker. He has lost ground during the past three days.

DISSOLUTION OF SEMINOLE CO. IS VOTED

Stockholders Instruct Trustees to Liquidate Florida Corporation as Best They Can—Meeting at Rec.

Any hope of retrieving losses suffered by the Seminole Estates Development Company was lost last night when the stockholders in an adjourned annual meeting held in the School Street Recreation Center here voted to instruct the trustees to liquidate the corporation. It was reported that the company's equity in the Florida property it was promoting is less than 25 per cent of its liabilities.

Between 20 and 25 stockholders were present last night and they represented a majority of the stock in the company. Frank H. Anderson, secretary of the corporation, opened the meeting and Judge William S. Hyde was named chairman. This meeting was an adjournment of a meeting some months ago in St. Petersburg at which there was not a majority of stockholders.

Financial Condition
Statements of the financial condition of the company were in the hands of each stockholder and Mr. Anderson gave a clear, straightforward description of the position of the corporation. His remarks were supplemented by those of Judge Hyde. In addition to the fact that the company holds such title property in the Seminole Estates project it was reported that several heavy obligations will mature shortly. The question the stockholders had to act on was whether or not they would invest more to solve what they have in the property or liquidate the company.

The trustees were instructed to liquidate in the way that seemed wisest for the company.

TOWN MEETING IN 120 SECONDS LAYS 13-2 RATE

Only 68 Voters Attend Meetings—All Business Transacted Without Dissenting Vote; Economy Favorable.

Sixty-eight voters in town meeting last night approved the Board of Selectmen's recommendation that a 13-2 mill tax rate be assessed against last year's property lists. It took just two minutes to make the rate lawful. Thirteen minutes after the adjourned annual meeting had been called to order by Chairman William S. Hyde, the rate had been laid, an $80,000 bond issue had been approved, a bridge commission had been elected and five new streets had been accepted by the town.

All votes were "ayes."

Chairman Robert V. Treat of the Board of Selectmen made the motion proposing the 13-2 mill rate and explained that this mill rate raised just $8,000 of the appropriations made last fall. He felt that by economizing in various departments the income would suffice for this year. The motion was immediately passed.

The Bond Issue
The special town meeting was called to order and Judge Hyde named its chairman. The Selectmen's proposal on an $80,000 bond issue was passed. The motion on this bond issue read as follows:

"Voted—That for the purpose of raising the amount of eighty thousand ($80,000.00) dollars appropriated to inspect the death certificate. It is understood that they will seek the sanction of authorities for exhumation of the Lucas body which is now in the receiving vault in the St. James' cemetery."

Seek Order To Exhume Lucas' Body

That further investigation in the death of Matthew Lucas, Manchester young man who died at Middletown State hospital recently, is likely to be made with a possible exhumation of the body, was apparent today when two Springfield attorneys were in town in connection with the case.

The mother of the Lucas youth admitted this afternoon that she had retained the services of the Springfield attorneys. It has been alleged that Lucas died as a result of ill-treatment by hospital attendants. The authorities at the hospital were vindicated, however, by Coroner L. A. Smith of Middlesex County, following an inquest held at the hospital a week ago Saturday.

The Springfield lawyers were in consultation with Mrs. Lucas and also went to the Municipal building to inspect the death certificate. It is understood that they will seek the sanction of authorities for exhumation of the Lucas body which is now in the receiving vault in the St. James' cemetery.

"DIRT ROADS" BILL Tabled; LACK FUNDS

State Senate Refuses to Send Measure to Committee; Other Legislative Matters Discussed Today.

Hartford, Conn., March 8.—Because there are no means proposed for raising two million dollars, to pay for the cost of administering the "Dirt Roads" bill passed by the House last week, the Senate today refused to send the bill to the appropriations committee. The whole matter was tabled when the Senate finished with it.

A long discussion of the "Dirt Roads" bill took place as it did in the House last week. There was a preponderance of opinion, however, that the bill be tabled until some method of securing funds to meet the appropriation is devised.

Other Matters
Senators Pierson and Duckworth were first to withdraw objections. Those speaking in favor of tabling the bill were Edward Hall, chairman of the appropriations committee; Wheeler, Merritt, Walcott, Shaw and Kenealy, chairman of the roads, rivers and bridges committee.

Over in the House today the action of Harry Durant, representative from Gutford, in making a statement of apology to the roads, rivers and bridges committee, received great applause. He referred to his speech made during the "Dirt Roads" debate last week, in which he took the committee to task for not devising some means of assisting the rural sections. There was nothing personal in his talk he said today, his criticism being directed at a system rather than at individuals.

Reconsiders Action
The House was forced to reconsider today its action of Friday in passing a bill which granted the claim of G. Eugene Hubbard, member of the Fairfield County Superior Court, for back pay. An error of $100 in the amount was discovered, and an amendment was passed allowing $400 instead of $300.

The House tabled two bills started for action on today's calendar because of proposed amendments which were not ready. These bills would change the season for trout fishing; and provide new regulations concerning exhibition of motion pictures.

Favorable reports received in the House included the following: Authorizing New Haven Gas Light Co. to increase its directors from nine to eleven in number; amending the Lakeville Cemetery Association charter; defining the powers and duties of the dairy and food commission; validating transfer of land from the American Tube and Stamp Co., Bridgeport, to the Stanley Works of New Britain, authorizing Hamden's Town Court to change its procedure method; authorizing changes in procedure in making assessments for street paving in Bristol, establishing a department in Dept. River, going away with the ten-year limit on pensions for widows of members of the Waterbury fire department; providing a minimum of $500 pension, after 25 years of service in Waterbury's department of education.

A bill granting a refund of $1,400 to Florence Elwick of Bridgeport, was passed by the House under suspension of the rules. The money covers a bond forfeited by Joseph Slocak.

Unfavorable reports in the House were: four bills which would provide for levying taxes on oyster lands and mussel beds; two bills concerning validation of fiduciary money orders.

The House passed from its calendar.

TWO THOUSAND KILLED BY JAPANESE QUAKE

Michigan Police Use Tear Bombs In Battle With College Students

Ann Arbor, Mich., Mar. 8.—Three persons injured was the toll today of a free-for-all battle between police and five hundred University students.

Police quelled the riot with tear gas after four drives had been made on the doors of the Majestic and Arcade theaters.

The injured:—
John Blakely, Rockford, Ill., a senior.
Marvin Slater, Ann Arbor, a graduate of the university.
Victor Westerman, a resident of Ann Arbor.

The outbreak followed the Michigan-Iowa basketball game which Michigan won, thereby giving it undisputed claim to the Big Ten conference championship.

Cops Use Bombs
The students first surged up the street to the Arcade theater. Singing, yelling, hooting, they rushed toward the entrance but were turned back as the management had a cordon of police waiting for the attack. The Majestic theater then was selected as the next objective. There the students were met by a force of policemen armed with tear gas.

The students hurled bricks, eggs sticks and all available objects but the tear bombs proved too effective and another retreat took place.

The injured persons were struck either by the tear bombs or other flying missiles. Their injuries are not serious. No arrests were made. Police said they intended to drop the matter.

Thousands of Others Injured—Entire Towns Destroyed—Streets Strewn With Dead—Cold Killing Many Survivors—One American Woman Dead; Warships Rushing Supplies.

Tokio, Mar. 8.—The death toll of the earthquake which rocked western Japan yesterday continued to mount today.

At least two thousand people have perished, according to the Vernacular press.

Thousands of others have been injured.

Property Damage
Property damage is enormous. Entire villages and towns have been destroyed. Virtually every population center in the province of Tango has been wrecked.

One American woman was killed when she was pushed into the bay at Kobe and drowned. This occurred when tourists of the steamer California attempted to get on the boat at Kobe.

Five of the crew of the California were also injured.

The town of Miyazawa appeared to be the greatest sufferer. There, it was reported, one thousand persons were killed when the quake struck. Several thousand were injured also.

Streets Filled With Dead
Streets of the town are reported strewn with the dead, while refugees fled the city for Miyazawa.

Kyoto prefecture also suffered heavily both in lives lost and property damage. The town of Ishikawa suffered the greatest loss. Ichiba and Yamada were also badly shaken. Many casualties occurred in the cities of Kyoto, but an accurate check of the dead and injured has not yet been made.

Thousands Homeless
Suffering is rampant in the stricken areas.

Their homes destroyed, thousands of survivors are suffering from the frigid blasts of winter winds.

Aid is being rushed to them from all points in Japan, but it is feared that many may die of exposure before help reaches them.

Destroyers carrying supplies and workers have been sent to points along the coast. Other supplies are being rushed in over overland routes. Two brigades of soldiers also have been rushed to the stricken area.

THEATRICAL FOLKS SEEKING FREEDOM

Winthrop Ames to Marry Winifred Lenihan After He Gets His Divorce.

Paris, March 8.—Two American theatrical divorces are imminent in the Paris courts, according to reports here today.

Crosby Gaige has gone to London after establishing a Paris residence and it is reported that he and Mrs. Gaige have reached a friendly agreement for a divorce. Gaige is prominent as a producer in New York.

Winthrop Ames, another well-known New York producer, left Paris for Italy ten days ago after establishing a residence here. Mrs. Ames is expected to arrive in Paris shortly. It is reported they have agreed upon a friendly divorce.

Some Rumors
In theatrical circles here it is reported that Ames plans to marry Winifred Lenihan, who starred in Shaw's "Joan of Arc" in New York. There is a report here that some weeks ago there was a three-sided friendly conference in New York between Ames, Mrs. Ames and Miss Lenihan when it was agreed that Mrs. Ames should get a Paris divorce and that Ames and Miss Lenihan should marry.

'BRIGGS' MAY DIE OF GAS GANGRENE

Auto Accident Victim Develops War Time Complication; Leg Amputated.

Amputation of the leg was reported yesterday in attempt to save the life of Harry "Briggs," 54, who was recently injured in an automobile accident near Laurel Park. "Briggs," whose real name is said to be Behring, is critically ill in Memorial hospital.

Briggs was injured when he staggered down a bank directly in the path of a car operated by George Greenwood of the Hotel Sheridan as the latter was passing a truck. The motorist stopped, picked up the injured man, and removed him to the hospital.

X-Ray pictures revealed a compound fracture of the left leg just above the ankle. The injury was not regarded as especially dangerous but gas gangrene developed and was spreading so fast that it became necessary to remove the leg above the knee. The operation was performed at noon yesterday and Briggs was reported today as resting fairly comfortably.

Rare Complication
According to the attending physician, gas gangrene is rare among civilians but was a frequent result of wounds in the World war.

About seventy per cent of the patients who become infected with gas gangrene do not recover, doctors say. Briggs is said to be the first Manchester patient to develop this complication in several years.

At the time of his accident, the injured man said his name was Harry Briggs but it was later ascertained by acquaintances that his name is Behring. He has been employed at the C. R. Burr Nursery Company for three months. Superintendent Carl Herrick said, Mr. Herrick said he had been unable to learn anything regarding any relatives of Briggs or where he came from. Briggs has said he is a native of New York.

WATERBURY ARCHITECT DROPS DEAD IN STREET

Theodore Barnard Peck Stricken Suddenly—Was in Business For 46 Years.
Waterbury, Mar. 8.—Theodore Barnard Peck, Waterbury's leading architect, dropped dead on an Exchange Place sidewalk today under a sudden heart attack. He was seventy-one years old, a native of Bristol, to which city his body was taken this afternoon for burial.

After going through the public schools in Bristol he continued his education in Hartford Public High school and Cornell university graduating from Cornell in 1877. He had been engaged in his profession since for 46 years. Mr. Peck was unmarried.

Reconsiders Action
The House was forced to reconsider today its action of Friday in passing a bill which granted the claim of G. Eugene Hubbard, member of the Fairfield County Superior Court, for back pay. An error of $100 in the amount was discovered, and an amendment was passed allowing $400 instead of $300.

CHINESE MOB RAIDS A BRITISH HOSPITAL

Shanghai, March 8.—A frenzied Chinese mob, assisted by Cantonese soldiers, today invaded the British church hospital at Ningpo and attempted to carry off the missionaries and nurses, among whom were several Americans.

The nurses and missionaries eventually reached the waterfront and escaped, but only after they had been subjected to the most vile insults.

Severe anti-British agitation continues at Ningpo and in all the towns along the upper Yangtze river.

All the battle fronts were quiet today. It is reported from Anhui that Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, war lord of the north, has made overtures to the Cantonese looking to a suspension of hostilities.

LOSSES FIRST BATTLE IN SINCLAIR TRIAL

Washington, Mar. 8.—The government lost the first skirmish in the trial of Harry F. Sinclair in contempt of the Senate today when Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court sustained defense objections to an attempt to go beyond the Senate oil committee's record for evidence relative to the circumstances under which the multi-millionaire oil magnate refused in 1924 to answer certain questions of the Senate investigators.

Former Senator Adams, Democrat of Colorado, a member of the oil committee, and a government witness in the present trial, was questioned as to what he had in mind when he asked Sinclair whether he had "given or loaned anything to Secretary Fall" during the Teapot Dome negotiations.

Defense objection to that line of examination was sustained after a fiery clash between counsel.

The defense held the language of the committee's question was the only proper evidence of what the senator had in mind to go beyond that which was improper.

URUGUAYAN FLIERS HELD FOR RANSOM

Madrid, March 8.—Arrangements are being made today by Spanish Moroccan officials for the ransom of Major Larre-Borges and his three Uruguayan comrades who are held by Moorish tribesmen outside of Cape Jubi for ransom, having been rescued by the tribesmen after their airplane in which they were planning a trans-Atlantic flight was forced down some sixty miles inland.

Major Larre-Borges and his comrades have reported they are in good health and are being treated well. The tribesmen who hold them are regarded as friendly, but they demand a reward for their services in the shape of a ransom.

The Uruguayan government has ordered that no efforts shall be spared, or any money withheld, to secure the immediate release of the fliers.

BESSARABIA IS GIVEN TO RUMANIA BY LEAGUE

Geneva, March 8.—M. Scialoja, Italian delegate on the council of the League of Nations, announced at today's sitting of the League, that the Italian council of ministers yesterday decided to ratify the Bessarabian convention of October 23, 1920, which definitely grants Bessarabia to Rumania.

Heretofore only England and France had ratified the convention Italy and Japan holding aloof. Italy's ratification makes the convention operative.

M. Scialoja hastened to add that Italy's decision "should not be considered a hostile act against Russia."

Italy's ratification is considered here as a diplomatic victory for Britain.

The council today decided to convene the international press conference at Geneva on August 24 next. The council approved an additional $60,000,000 gold crown reconstruction loan for Hungary.

FLORIDA BANK CLOSES.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 8.—The First American bank here closed its doors today, an announcement by the directors stating the institution was solvent but that it was closed for the protection of depositors.

Reports from Palm Beach, where the exclusive winter colony has been agog with rumors of a Peggy-Stan marital alliance, stated that Miss Joyce, when told by a West Palm Beach minister that she ought to "get Aimee to marry you," replied that "it's a good idea, I believe I will."

PRESIDENT SEEKING A THREE POWER PACT

Washington, March 8.—The American government had been conducting "informal inquiries" with Great Britain and Japan relative to the possibility of a three-power agreement limiting certain classes of naval ships, it was announced at the White House today.

The tentative responses to these inquiries have been such, President Coolidge informed his inquirers today, as to lead to some hope of success at Geneva next June.

Last week President Coolidge was represented as being greatly disappointed at the failure of France and Italy to respond favorably to his "informal invitation" for a three-power conference, and it was announced on his behalf that he saw "little hope" for any three-power arrangement.

The President is still disappointed over the rejection of his proposal by France and Italy, but today it was stated that in light of the failure of the five-power proposals, he is now more convinced of the practicability of the three-power agreement.

"Seven Chances" is the title of the three-act comedy which the Town Players of Manchester will present at the Circle theater tomorrow evening under the auspices of the local Girl Scout council.

Gutowsky Gets $5 For Dollar Pint But Draws $159.92 Penalty In Court.

For selling liquor Kostanty Gutowsky of the North End was fined $150 and costs by Judge Johnson in the Manchester police court this morning and, as he was unable to pay, he was taken to jail to work out his fine and costs.

Gutowsky was caught red-handed when he sold James Copeland a dollar pint of hooch for which Copeland got no change out of a $5 bill owing to the circumstances.

Gutowsky lives in one of the tenements in the Beehive. He has done very little work, wandering about the street most of the time.

"Seven Chances," the Town Players' production, is a comedy which will be given with the same verve and elan that characterized the "Dulcy" presentation of the company, of Hartford, providing a $50 fine for the soliciting of contributions and sale of tickets of admission upon public highways.

USE DYNAMITE TO GET A KICK

High School Students Go the Limit to Get a Thrill Out of Life.

Teachers at Central High school were wondering today, somewhat apprehensively, just how far the younger generation's desire for "a kick in life" is going to express itself.

The dynamite isn't any new thing to the students of a class either, it is real.

Parents, teachers and the police were flabbergasted today over the discovery that five freshmen students at Central have for several days been carrying around sticks of dynamite in their pockets as casually as they might carry lead pencils.

NO CRADLE PHONES YEARNED FOR HERE

Manchester One Conn. Town Satisfied With American Type of Instrument.

If somebody in this town doesn't hurry up and order a cradle type, two-in-one telephone set pretty soon this progressive town of Manchester is going to have the distinction of being the only Connecticut municipality of major importance which remains 100 per cent true to the principle that everything American is better than anything European.

The cradle telephone is the goose-necked jigger that you see used in the movies when the scene is supposed to be laid in Europe or in the apartment of some highly Europeanized American—and which mightily few stay-at-homes in this country have ever seen in actuality.

Acid Stomach "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda Here after, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly. "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all acids. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty-cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

FAR AFIELD. Dr. Walter Tyrell Brooks of Oxford University, when he attributes the mysterious epidemic of student suicides in this country to a fault in the athletic system of our colleges, is somewhat in the position of a good many American editors who try to write learnedly about the Chinese situation—his is talking without knowledge and through his hat.

Dr. Brooks has somehow or other conceived the notion that we have what he calls a "star" system of athletics in the schools over here—that each college and university develops a small handful of athletes while the rest of the student body takes no part in the athletics except in the cheering section. Presumably, according to the Brooks theory, what all the student suicides is merely liver sluggishness brought on by sitting on fences and watching two or three champions do stunts.

Everybody knows, of course, that there is no such system in any worthwhile American school—that it is the exceptional student who doesn't get all the athletics he needs. And even if there were, it would be nonsense to attribute the suicides to the fact that somehow or other our college athletics are not conducted precisely as they are in England.

If Dr. Brooks were over here and could see the swarms of intellectual and temperamental misfits who jam into our colleges he probably wouldn't have to go so far afield in seeking a reason for disillusionment, discouragement and the yellow streak.

INCONSISTENT. Some of those Texas Democrats whose adoration of the United States Constitution has become almost saintly beautiful since the eighteenth amendment was adopted will now have opportunity to express their opinion of that part of the Constitution, older by considerable than the prohibitory part, which provides for equal rights for Negroes.

Much to the astonishment of these gentlemen, no doubt, the United States Supreme court rendered the decision yesterday that when the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments said that political rights of citizens must not be made conditional on race, color or previous servitude it was really meant.

The Democratic party in Texas has been in the habit of refusing to allow Negroes to vote in its primaries, without taking the trouble to hide behind "grandfather" laws or any of the other circumlocutions whereby the colored man is denied the ballot in the South. The Democrats just ruled the Negro out on the claim that a primary wasn't an election anyhow and so didn't come under the meaning of the civil rights amendments.

Now they will have to frame up some new way of keeping the Negro from participating in the business of government. It is easy to imagine them as being quite out of patience with the Constitution as well as the Supreme court. A most inconsistent document, surely. While it enables the white man to keep liquor away from the Negro it forbids him to keep the same Negro away from the polls. What good is a Constitution like that to a Texan—or any other Southerner?

THE PENSIONER PAYS. One of the results accomplished by the Senate filibusters is the deprivation of thousands of veterans of the nation's wars of their customary pensions checks for two months of this year. The failure of the second deficiency bill to pass takes $37,000,000 away from the Pension Bureau, and it was this sum that was necessary to meet the payments for May and June.

At the beginning of the next fiscal year funds will be available from the appropriation already made for that period so that it is expected the pension bureau will be able to pay three months pensions at one time, of course depending on the next session of Congress to make good the impairment of that appropriation occasioned by the present default.

What this will mean in inconvenience if not suffering to hundreds and thousands of persons depending at least in large measure upon their pensions for subsistence, may be imagined. It probably will not cause many sleepless nights, however, to Senator Ashurst, who saved his waterpower friends from coming into competition with the United States government at Boulder Dam, nor to Senator Jim Reed, who covered himself with a certain type of muddy glory in his determination to get Senate sanction for more Democratic muck raking.

ENGLAND NEEDN'T SNEER. The barbers, it is announced, will seek hereafter to be known as "chirotonors" instead of as barbers. The new name lends class, it seems, and elevates the profession no end.

We're willing, if the rest are. And somehow we don't quite care for the supercilious sneers that certain English writers have made at the American habit of adopting high-sounding titles for very common trades.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, March 8.—Ten million dollars—pooh, pooh! There are men who could say that, but there is probably only one who would say it and mean it.

The exception is the Hon. James Couzens, senator from Michigan, and he said it in the face of a government tax suit which is actually likely to take more than ten millions away from him.

When the government's $40,000,000 suit against former minority Ford stockholders began in Detroit, the defendant Couzens was conspicuously absent. Each day he was to be seen on the floor of the Senate and his genial grin was as frequent as ever.

"That's what I hire lawyers for," he replied when someone asked him why he didn't go out to his home town and take more interest in the attempt to take this big slice out of his fortune.

After weary weeks in Detroit, the trial before the tax board of appeals came here. Surely, his colleagues thought, the senator would spend some time now that the proceedings were brought to his very feet.

They didn't know Couzens. He stopped in twice on his way to the Senate, but only to greet friends of the old days when the Ford Motor Company, of which he was then manager, was just an industrial infant. He never bothered once to sit in on the testimony or to hear his lawyers do their stuff in behalf of those ten millions—plus heavy interest.

The Couzens wealth is estimated all the way from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

When the huge tax suit was brought against him and his co-defendants—not on the grounds that they had cheated the government but on the allegation that the government had bungled its valuations—he said the amount of money didn't interest him at all. He had undertaken to expose crookedness in the Internal Revenue Bureau, however, and he did admit considerable interest in the principle of the thing.

He allowed his friends to make the charge that this was Secretary Mellon's way of hitting back at him. But he himself has refused to comment for purposes of publication. His attitude is that the government has grabbed a wild bear by the tail and—

He was a hard-boiled executive as Detroit's millionaire police commissioner. The beauty of his position has been that with all his money, he has never had to truckle to anybody. He made numerous enemies in Detroit when he insisted on enforcing the law regardless of whom it hit.

Couzens achieved national prominence as mayor of Detroit when he bought the street railway there for a street car. The street cars had always been an issue and when Couzens ran for the mayoralty he promised to clean up the situation. The traction owners offered to sell at a stiff price and Couzens laughed at them. They laughed at him, too, but when their franchise was up, the city's workers began at midnight to tear up the tracks preparatory to laying down tracks for the city.

The owners, bluff called, hastened to Couzens and fixed on what Couzens regarded as fair price. The street railway is now clearing up all its indebtedness and operating at a low fare. Its admitted success is largely due to the saying Couzens made for the city with his hard-boiled tactics.

NEW YORK. New York, March 8.—See-sawing up and down Broadway, I note the latest European visitor is none other than Jacob Wasserman, perhaps Germany's outstanding novelist and one of the world's leading realists. Sad-faced is the author of "The World Illusion" with a black bristly beard and a world of tragedy in his eyes.

Saw H. L. Mencken in a little Greenwich Village eating emporium, and under the arm of the great "yokel thumper" was a sheet of piano music, for, it seems, when resting between rounds with the puritans and babbies he runs to one of the three B's—Bach, Brahms or Beethoven. There used to be a fourth B—lo wit: beer. But that isn't so good just now, even in New Jersey. Saw James Dean, who once upon a time composed this column, and having been away from this suburb of the United States for some months commented, as might any yokel, upon the ever-changing sky line. Yet to those who dwell upon the late steel giants rise with a memento that dulls our perspective on the wonder thereof.

Saw Samuel Shipman, the author of many a Broadway show. And a slave of the metropolitan gestures is he. The midnight pavement is ever his turf and, when seeking ideas for another drama, you'll generally find him in

The Prince Of Wales

A Series of Seven Articles by MINOTT SAUNDERS Special Writer of the UNITED PRESS, on the World's Most Popular Man.

TRAINING FOR KINGSHIP

London (United Press)—In these days heroes are made, not born. This is largely true in the case of the Prince of Wales. Although he was born in direct succession to the throne of England, and has always been surrounded by the fame and friends by his charming personality. The natural impulses and human qualities of the man himself have transcended the inexorable restrictions of his station in life and are responsible for much of his popularity.

Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David was born in the White Lodge, Richmond, June 23, 1894, the eldest son of the then Duke and Duchess of York. The first three names were, respectively, the names of the reigning king, the late Prince Consort and Queen Alexandra's father. He was given the last four names in honor of the patron saints of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. Within the intimate circle of his family he was called David. Physically and by instinct, he was just an ordinary boy, subject to the usual aches and pains and the infantile penchant for putting everything into his mouth. In childhood his rank was a great handicap to him because he couldn't do many of the little things that a child likes to do.

"As a kid, it was the very devil," he once remarked. King Edward, who was very devoted to his little grandson, used to tell a tale to show that David in his early years had no conception of his high estate. He was asked who Perkin Warbeck was, and David replied, "He said he was the son of respectable parents."

David's first great ambition was to be locomotive driver. The prospect of being Prince of Wales didn't particularly appeal to him. On one occasion, at the age of ten, when told by his tutor not to do a certain thing, he replied petulantly: "It's no use being Prince of Wales some day unless I can do what I like."

David saw his parents and grandparents as quite ordinary men and women, and therefore he couldn't see how he was any different from ordinary boys. Nor did he wish to be. This happy trait has never left him.

His training was carefully planned by his father and grandfather. He enjoyed tender mother love, and delighted in playing with his brothers and sister. He was taught to swim and to play games, and the spirit of sportsmanship was instilled in him at an early age. At thirteen, David was sent to Osborne College as a naval cadet and here he first came in contact with other boys of his own age. By command of his father, he was given no special privilege, and had to live as one of the gang. At first he was confused, bashful and retiring. He was also extremely nervous, but quickly learned to love the life. It was here that his small stature and self-effacing demeanor earned him the nickname of "The Sardine." Yet he had pluck and tried to do everything the other boys did. He played games with them and worked beside them in the machine shop, getting just as dirty as they did, and enjoying it. He took his lessons seriously and passed his examinations. He had been trained to be courteous at all times, and the restraint gave him a gravity of manner which he has never lost.

From Osborne he went to Dartmouth and in all spent five years in his naval training. As a "snooty" we hear of him smoking cigarettes. He was always in the thick of a "rag," and took as much as he gave in a roughhouse. His speech was often picturesque.

David's investiture as the Prince of Wales took place at Carnarvon, Wales, July 13, 1911. This ceremonial impressed him with his high station and the serious requirements of his office, and his natural reserve increased.

His naval training ended with a three months' cruise on the Hibernian and then he went to France to broaden his education and perfect his French. He liked the emotional characteristics of the French people, and his love for France remains unchanged today. At Oxford the young prince lived like an ordinary student, but certain restrictions were imposed. He was not allowed to enter into debates, with the result that for years he was not an easy talker. He did not attempt to conduct himself with royal dignity, or to put on airs. He dropped around to the "digging" of other fellows for a chat and a smoke, and welcomed others informally, usually with some biscuits and a drink. When the racket in a neighbor's room bothered him he would not file a complaint, but usually got out of his Scotch pipe and drowned out the opposition. He always tried to slude crowds, and if a long time could not get used to being stared at by the curious.

The Prince's character and feeling of fellowship developed to a marked degree at Oxford, but it was during the war, which interrupted his schooling, that he really found himself. He went through the rigorous training necessary to fit a man to be an officer, and learned how to obey as well as to command. There his social position did not count. He liked the life and became a good mixer, a quality for which he is perhaps most admired today. As a junior subaltern in the Grenadier Guards, he was always ready to do "fatigue" though he might have got out of it. "If I don't do it," he once told an adjutant, "somebody else will have to do it for me, and I'm not having any of that."

Young Edward at this time was 5 feet, six inches tall and weighed only about 115 pounds. When the recruits fell in he knew his place under the army practice of lining up from the right according to height. H. R. H. always good-naturedly went to the end of the line. He had acquired the common touch. The war record of the Prince of Wales is well known. He got to France only after the greatest difficulty, and exercising pressure on his father and ministers who could help him. When it was pointed out to him that he might be killed, he answered, "I have brothers and a sister who can take over my job; let Mary do it, she's got brains." He was never allowed to realize his ambition to "go over the top," but he visited front line trenches and he became a tremendous inspiration to the troops. They saw he was playing the game, too, and his popularity grew.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. C. A. Holmes spent a few days recently in Providence as the guest of Mrs. Anna Dart.

Mrs. Clayton Hunt returned home Thursday after spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Chester P. Winsor, of Johnston, R. I.

The last of the dressmaking lessons under the direction of Miss Van Cleef of Storrs was held at the Town Hall Tuesday. Lunch was served in a noon.

At the Grange meeting held Wednesday evening, the third and fourth degrees were given to Mrs. Elsie Dubois. The next meeting will be March 10, which will be Neighbors Night, Andover and Bolton Granges being invited to attend. The recent cold snap has made it possible to resume cutting ice at the lake, and those who hadn't previously harvested their crop have been very busy during the past few days. The ice runs from 14 to 10 inches.

The Young People's club met Thursday evening at the Town hall. Seven of the young folks gave a short play, "Educating Mary."

A town meeting to lay the tax was held at the Town Hall Saturday afternoon. It was finally voted after much discussion to lay a tax of 13 mills on the grand list of $312,348. It was also voted to add $150 to the budget adopted last meeting, the new metal ceiling recently installed in the hall costing that much more than was estimated. It was also voted to close the road leading from the Wells Wood schoolhouse to the Columbia and Leonard Bridge roads. At the request of the School Board, the following committee was appointed to look into the matter of consolidation, to report at some future town meeting as to the advantages and disadvantages of same. It is felt by many that this matter is bound to come sometime and it is felt that this matter can be much more intelligently approached if some data can be secured. The committee is composed of Mrs. Henry Hutchins, Mrs. Clare Robinson, Mrs. Nellie Macht, H. W. Porter, Tom Coburn, Joseph Clarke and Hubert Collins.

L. Sinder of the lower Pine street section met with a considerable loss Thursday morning when a brooder house containing 4000 chickens was burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchins and family were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George Stanley of Andover.

Mrs. Oscar Ericson and two daughters of New Britain spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Mary Hutchins at Chestnut Hill.

Rev. Duane Wain preached Sunday morning from the text "I Am the Bread of Life." Mrs. Edith Isham sang "Lead Me Gently Home." At the close of the service, five new members were taken into the membership of the church. ### "qualities of endurance once undreamed-of in a car of the thousand dollar class"

In completing its famous 100,000-mile treadmill run in less than six months without the failure of any vital part, the Greater Oakland Six displayed qualities of endurance once undreamed-of in a car of the thousand dollar class. Yet, dramatic as was this publicly conducted test, it only re-proved what thousands upon thousands of owners already know: that the Greater Oakland Six is winning and holding its own.

not so much by the superlative beauty of its Fisher Bodies, nor by the marked advantages of Oakland's advanced engineering, but by long life and dependability that have been demonstrated under every conceivable condition of use.

And as a result, all over America the Greater Oakland Six is establishing levels of owner satisfaction that have never been reached by any other car of comparable price!

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. The New and Finer Pontiac Six—at New Low Prices—$775 to $975. Bodies by Fisher. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The Temptations

To Jesus, hungered in the wilderness after forty days' fasting, the tempter said, "If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But Jesus answered, Man shall not live by bread alone." (Matt. IV: 1-4)

On the pinnacle of the temple: "If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down." (Matt. IV: 5-7)

Viewing the kingdoms from the high mountain: "All these things will I give thee if thou wilt fall down and worship me." (Matt. IV: 8-9)

Then said Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan. . . . Then the devil leaveth him, and behold, angels came and ministered unto him. (Matt. IV: 8-11)

STATE GIVING GOLD AWAY THIS EVENING

$50 To Be Distributed—Two Features on Bill.

Fifty dollars and two features. That is the program lined up for State theater patrons this evening. Sounds good, doesn't it. And it will be just as good as it sounds, for one of the features is to feature Dorothy Gish in "London." The other is a western drama containing plenty of thrills and is titled "The Overland Stage."

"London" tells its own story. It is the great metropolis seen without its gilt and tinsel. A peep behind the scenes is afforded and the sordid side of life in the biggest city of Europe gives its audience as a London fog.

Dorothy Gish is immense in the title role. She gives a finished performance that is one of the best of her career and at all times she is the heroine of the picture, without looking like an actress.

"The Overland Stage" is a tale of the days when the Wells-Fargo was being held up with regularity in the mountain districts of the west. Fast riding, clever driving on a swaying coach high above sea level, and straight shooting by desperadoes all combine to give the picture a bunch of thrills not usually grouped in one picture.

Tonight for the last time, Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky will be seen in that thrilling tale of Medieval Spain, "The Night of Love."

"The Night of Love," which features Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, is real romance in an historical setting, and throughout the picture it is the ebb and flow of tense and throbbing love which the spectator follows with suspense-filled interest.

Feudal Spain is there, before your eyes, with its courtly grandees, beautiful women, adventurous vagabonds and soldiers, each character drawn and etched by the master hand of Pitoumaurie.

The innovation which the State introduced last week—eight acts of vaudeville on Thursday afternoon and evening, will be seen again this Thursday with the picture, "Tin Hats," a rollicking comedy showing the funny side of the war. The leading vaudeville act for the remainder of the week will be the Uyenos Japs, the greatest Japanese troupe of acrobats, tumblers and bouncers in the world. The act comprises seven people.

A CORRECTION

The item in George W. Smith's advertisement in yesterday's Herald referring to women's rubbers at 39 and 59 cents was an error insofar as the 39 cent price is concerned. The 39 cent price should have applied only to children's rubbers. The error was ours in copying the ad, and in justice to Mr. Smith we make this statement.

JACK LOCKWILL'S SPEEDBOAT

by Gilbert Patten

"I want to tell you, Betty," said McNally, ignoring Jack, "that your brother saved me from drowning today when I was taken with a cramp. I won't forget it. Sometime I may be able to do something for him." As the Bad Egg walked away Betty said to Jack: "Why, I didn't suppose he was a fellow to show gratitude for anything!" Jack smiled. "He may be pretty decent at heart," he allowed.

Later Betty told her brother about it, adding that Jack thought there was a decent streak in Tom. "Perhaps so," Willie admitted, "but he'll never show it toward anybody he hates as much as Jack."

The "Mystery" having been regularly entered in the Cup Race, Jack and an expert mechanic joined her a speed test. Using binoculars, Magovern and the Bad Egg watched from a thicket.

"That's the only boat I'm afraid of," said Magovern, who had been timing the "Mystery" with a watch. "I'm sure my 'Spitfire' can beat any of the others." "I'm going to bet my last frogskin on you," said McNally, "and you've got to beat Lockwill by fair means or foul." Willie Darling stepped out from behind a tree. "You'd better beat him fairly if you do it at all," said Willie boldly.

 10:40 a. m.—Piano Solos—Laura C. Gaudet

10:45—Fourteenth of a Series of Music Appreciation Progress for Public Schools
 Special Demonstration Program

Subject—
 The general subject for this program is Rhythm. Definition: Rhythm may be defined as that element in music which produces characteristic movements, for example, march, waltz, minuet, gavotte, mazurka, the general sway of lullaby music, etc. Rhythm in music should not be confused with time. Time in music is the regular orderly succession of beats or pulsations at a given speed. Time is not rhythm, but nevertheless an important element of rhythm. Rhythm is produced by the systematic accent of certain prescribed beats, into metrical units or measures. There may be time without rhythm, but not rhythm without time.

The foregoing definition is furnished, not with the idea of teaching it to children but for the use of teachers in helping them to understand the subject.

Preparation—
 Children should be prepared on the following general points:

1—Beats or pulsations

2—Accent: Show the necessity of pronounced accents if definite rhythms are to be recognized

3—Number of beats and location of accents for the more common rhythms—for example: March, waltz, minuet, gavotte, mazurka

4—Previous to the broadcast the children should be allowed to hear and recognize as many selections as possible, illustrating the rhythms to be heard in the program. They should not, however, hear (having been told the title) any of the selections which are a part of the program. In other words, they should know

Do not tell the children in advance the name of the selections to be given nor to what rhythmic type the selections belong. Titles will not be given by the announcer before recitation.

Oral and written recitations should be undertaken during the broadcast. Grades 1 and 2 will probably recite orally. Grade 3 and up, if possible, should list the numbers on paper in the order presented, showing first the rhythmic type which they think they hear and second the name of the composition, if recognized. At the end of each part of the program answers will be given by a class present in the studios but not until opportunity has been given for the children listening in schools to recite orally or read their answers, if desired.

The Connecticut State Board of Education on Station WTIC would be very glad to see any such papers as are worked out by the children that morning.

The annual meeting of the Wapping Cemetery association will be held at the public library on March 14 at 8 p. m. for the purpose of choosing the directors for the ensuing year.

Miss Alice Nevers of Hartford spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Nevers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hart, of Warehouse Point expect to move their family to Hartford about April first, so as to be nearer Mr. Hart's work. Mrs. Hart was before her marriage, Miss Ida M. Skinner of this place.

Mr. Winig, secretary of the Connecticut Temperance Union of Hartford, gave a very interesting address at the Sunday evening service at the Federated church.

The Wapping senior Y. M. C. A. basketball team scored a 34 to 32 win over the Warriors of Manchester last Saturday night. The game was fast in every quarter and as clearly played as it was speedy. Captain Rose of the winners, who has averaged better than 16 points a game, put in seven field goals, and four fouls during the evening. Mrs. Harry P. Files is confined to her home with an attack of the grip.

THE kidneys are the blood filters. If they fail to function properly there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches, headaches, and dizziness are symptoms of this condition. Further evidence of improper kidney function is often found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. Each year more and more people are learning the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, in this condition. Scarcely a nook or hamlet anywhere but has many enthusiastic users. Ask your neighbor!

The Secret of Keeping a

Do you know why thousands of people who never have to take a laxative, do eat a candy cascaret now and then?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarate the system and cause bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants—quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they need.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drugstore has for 10c and 25c.

TALK OF DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BOUT BREAKS OUT ANEW IN NEW YORK

Gossip Says Tex Rickard Plans to Have the Other Fighters Eliminate Themselves Before Big Bout.

New York, March 8.—Back stairs gossip, persisting these many months, broke out afresh today concerning an alleged plan by Tex Rickard to repeat with Tunney and Dempsey for the heavyweight championship in September, regarding what may transpire in anything, during the course of the promoter's heavyweight tournament. The story first saw the light of day when Rickard began matching Maloney with the De Kubs, Bleniers, Perssons and what not, it being the contention then that Dempsey would step in when all other contenders had thoroughly eliminated themselves.

Situation Changes.
The situation has altered in the meantime but the contention hasn't. Jack Sharkey and Jimmy Maloney alone remain as plausible candidates and now they say that this pair will manage to get rid of each other when they meet some time the latter part of May.

The big idea is that Maloney and Sharkey, lacking a real punch, naturally will founder through fifteen rounds, causing the populace to become very distrustful. In consequence, it will go away from there, thinking of Dempsey as the man he once was and everything will be all to the altar of romance.

Plan.
Offhand, I would say that, if Rickard ever entertained any plan of this kind, he was taking plenty for granted and that sort of thing is not the old boy's motif. Suppose, for example, Sharkey knocked Maloney over in the first minute of play, or vice versa, Rickard then would have a first-class challenger on his hand and all his alleged plans for Dempsey couldn't get rid of the gent.

Rickard today was in receipt of a telegram from Dempsey in which the ex-champ stated that he no longer was troubled by blood poisoning in his arm and that he would "get to work right away." He informed the promoter that he would reveal his plans in greater detail within a few days.

It is evident that Jack and the promoter have some sort of an understanding. It remains to be seen whether Dempsey will make a belated entry into Rickard's elimination tournament, or hold off for a match with Tunney.

Notes Of The Training Camps

ALL-STAR PROGRAM TO ATTRACT MANY MANCHESTER FANS

The "big-timers" among the boxers who will appear at the State Boys' and Girls' Building Fund Benefit at the State Armory, in Hartford Thursday night, will parade their stuff merely in exhibition bouts, but there will be a few regular bouts between the lesser lights. Many Manchester fight fans are planning to attend.

So while Jim Maloney, Jack Sharkey, Mike McTigue, Paulino, Jack Delaney, Kid Kaplan and the other notable, whose names are set in large letters against the fltic horizon, put themselves on display for the edification of the gallery, half a dozen boys, whose names are not star-drawers will go through the real struggle to give vim and variety to the program.

Among them is Steve Smith, who is well known in the lightweight class in local rings. Smith's opponent has not been selected yet, but he will be a boy capable of making things interesting for Steve in the three rounds for which the bout will be held.

Both the exhibitions and the real spars are on the program for but three rounds, as there is a big array of boxers and wrestlers to be shown to an admiring and curious public.

"Frisco" Grande is another of the boys down on Donohue's slate for real warfare. He was to have taken on Jim Bones, but one of Jim's hands has gone back on him and another boy will be secured to test "Frisco's" mettle.

Joey Eulo is still another flinger of punches who will be used in a three-round go.

None of these youngsters is famous in local rings, but all of them are boxers known in their limited field as boys who can be counted on for plenty of action and movement will be the keynote of the big carnival in the State Armory.

Terry Parker may be secured for the three-round tilt with Steve Smith. Terry is a flashy boxer capable of giving Smith a lively skirmish.

Jack Delaney, Jim Maloney, Jack Sharkey, Mike McTigue, Kid Kaplan, Johnny Vacca, Tony Canzoneri, Johnny Breslin are but a few of the more than a score of well-known knights of the squared circle who will be present Thursday night.

The Berlin Construction company may be called in for advice on the bed in which Stan Snyazko and Hans Steinke will repose after the carnival. Combined they weigh a few pounds more than the Yale football squad.

Commissioner Jim Farley of New York, who, by the way, is one of Al Smith's intimate circle, will be the guest while here of Dr. Ed Dolan of Manchester. They are warm friends.

Referees Bill Conway of Hartford and Jigger McCarthy of New Haven will referee most of the bouts; Jack Delaney and his manager, Pete Rully, will handle one bout apiece.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONS ON HARTFORD CARD

Massasoit Club Has Secured Crack New York Team As Main Attraction.

Joe Howard, Bat Battalino, Al Schooner, Ray Strong and Pinky Kaufman outstanding amateurs of this section, will be put to a real test tonight at Foot Guard hall in Hartford when they encounter a picked five-man boxing team from New York City at the Massasoit A. C. show.

The invading New York team is made up of the best boxers in two of the leading clubs in the Metropolis—Ascension Parish House and the Holy Name—which means that it includes some of the best amateur talent in Gotham.

Entered in the same class with Howard is Eddie Herbst, junior national middleweight champion, who won that title at Baltimore last April.

Battalino's probable opponent is Ray Bates or Ed Kennedy, two of the leading featherweights of the Metropolis. These two boys are named on the team and the one considered in best shape to meet Battalino will be sent against the Connecticut champion.

Ray Strong is entered in the same class with Frankie Carrero, member of the Holy Name club and well-known university boxer.

Mike Collins, the Fighting Irishman of New York amateur circles and one of the leaders of the Ascension Parish House group, has filed in the same class with Kaufman, leading Hartford welterweight.

BEST BOUTS ARE HARD TO SELECT

Evenly Matched Program Promised to Cram C. B. A. A. Tourney With Action Tomorrow Night at Cheney Hall.

Sarasota, Fla., March 8.—Having slaughtered the St. Louis Browns thirteen to one, the Glants today plan an exhibition game with the Athletics. Hornby led the hitters with two doubles and a single while "Bevo" Lebourveau poked a homer and a single in his debut with the Glants.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8.—The Yankees were to play their first practice game of the season today. Herman Ruth, the noted financier, got into a uniform yesterday and immediately lifted three new baseballs into the right field swamp. Three regulars—Meusel, Combs and Penneck—have not yet reported.

Clearwater, Fla., March 8.—Old Bill Doak, the bald-headed spitball pitcher who is essaying a comeback with the Brooklyn Robins, is providing the ball far and wide. Holtman, Manush, Fothergill and Wingo are giving fine exhibitions of batting.

San Antonio, Texas, March 8.—The Detroit Tigers are hitting the ball far and wide. Holtman, Manush, Fothergill and Wingo are giving fine exhibitions of batting.

Lakeland, Fla., March 8.—South-paw Sherrod Smith is expected to sign with Cleveland today. He has been holding out for higher salary but has decided to join the team making the trip to Orlando today where two games are scheduled with the Cincinnati Reds—one today and one tomorrow.

Orlando, Fla., March 8.—Heart-grieved by news that Bubbles Harragev had signed, and the arrival in camp of Wally Pipp, the Red regulars trounced the Yannisians ten to three, and were all set for the first real practice clash this afternoon with the Cleveland Indians.

Shreveport, La., March 8.—Roger Peckinpaugh and Aaron Ward, infielders, joined the White Sox today. Manager Ray Schalk now has his regular infield intact.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., March 8.—Elwood English, high priced shortstop purchased from Toledo, is attracting attention in the Cubs' camp today. Manager Joe McCarthy is pleased with English who covers a lot of territory, has a fine throwing arm, and is a clean fielder.

Dradenton, Fla., March 8.—The Yannisians defeated the Philly regulars eight to six in the first practice game this season. Barney Fryberg's homer and his playing at third base were features.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 8.—The Pirates turned to sliding practice today. Paul Waner, outfielder, is on the crippled list after an injury to his knee.

Avon Park, Fla., March 8.—The University of Florida nine invaded the Cardinal camp today to play the regulars. The same line-up, with the exception of the battery, that downed the recruits yesterday, ten to one, will face the collegian.

New Orleans, La., March 8.—The Red Sox squad was divided today for a five inning practice match. The Red Sox will play their first game Saturday against Larry Gilbert's New Orleans team.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8.—The Washington Senators were here today to open the Braves' home spring season at Warrenton park. Genewich and Benton were scheduled to go three innings in the pitcher's box with Edwards filling in the rest of the time.

PITTSFIELD TO TRAIN IN STAMFORD'S PARK

Stamford, Conn., March 8.—That there is a possibility that the Pittsfield Club Players of the Eastern baseball league will train in Stamford, was revealed here today when it was announced that the Stamford board of park commissioners has received a communication from the local Chamber of Commerce in response to an inquiry from the Pittsfield Chamber of Commerce asking if the park commissioners would permit the club to train in one of Stamford's parks. The inquiry was particularly directed to the use of either Halloween or Woodsie parks. The request was referred to a member of the park commission to make arrangements for the use of one of these parks providing this would not interfere with local teams which are using the same grounds. Indications point to the possibility that the Massachusetts players will do their spring training in this city.

It was also learned that a campaign has been under way in Pittsfield to raise a fund of $10,000 to build the team up and that half of this amount has already been subscribed.

Rockville on H. S. Baseball Schedule

Faculty Manager Edson M. Bally today announced the official schedule for the South Manchester High school baseball nine this season. It includes fifteen games, eight of which will be played at home.

The most important changes on the schedule over that of last year are that Buckley High of New London is back again and Rockville High is included for the first time in many years. The reason for putting Rockville High on the schedule is to attempt to stir up more rivalry between the two towns and create more interest in baseball than hitherto has been the rule.

Manchester and Rockville have been arch rivals for years and schoolboy baseball should be no exception although in this case the rivalry would be more or less of a friendly nature.

The prospects of Manchester High having a strong baseball team this season appear bright with Wiley and Kauditis, first string moundsmen, both back, but that they will be discussed in The Herald later.

Following is the schedule:
May 4, West Hartford, there.
May 7, Bristol, here.
May 11, Rockville, there.
May 12, New London (Bulkeley) here.
May 14, Windham, here.
May 17, East Hartford, here.
May 21, Meriden, there.
May 28, Bristol, there.
June 2, Meriden, here.
June 4, Windham, there.
June 9, East Hartford, here.
June 11, Middletown, here.
June 16, Middletown, here.
June 17, Rockville, here.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Henry Lamar of Washington, D. C., won decision over Bob Mills of Hill, N. H. (8).
At Philadelphia—Sandy Seife, of Pittsburgh knocked out Tiny (Jim) Herman of Portland, Ore., in eighth round.

At Perth Amboy, N. J.—Artie De Champlatt of Wallingford, Conn., won decision over Mickey Bennett, of Newark, N. J. (8).
At Newark, N. J.—Eddie Roberts of Tacoma, Wash., won newspaper decision over Danny (Irish) Fagan, of Newark (10).

SPORT CHATTER

Principal C. P. Quimby and Coach W. J. Clarke will attend a meeting of the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League tonight at the West Hartford High school. The chief business to be transacted will be the drafting of a basketball schedule for the next season.

Unless West Hartford High springs the unexpected and topples the S. M. H. S. quintet here tomorrow afternoon, Manchester is assured of a tie for first place with Bristol in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League. In all probability, there will be no play-off but if both schools are selected, they may clash at the Yale tournament.

It is understood "Whitty" Allen will not box anymore until school is over. He is a high school student and has been making room as an amateur boxer, having boxed several times at the C. B. A. A. programs.

"Lefty" St. John says he may play baseball with some team "down the river" next season. He did not say what team he would play with but it is a member of the Middlesex County loop.

The Wapping basketball team will play the Center Church Fire of Hartford tonight at the parish hall in Wapping. The visiting team is composed of a pick of the insurance league, it is said. Miretetta, Mantell and Boyle will probably not be in the Wapping lineup and a player or two from the second team may be used.

Poquonock and Broad Brook, ancient rivals, will clash at basketball tomorrow night in Windsor Locks for a side bet of $100. Poquonock, which has several Manchester boys in its lineup, is favored to win.

There is much speculation these days at the North End as to the fate of the Cloverleaf football team next season. It will be remembered that George Moonan, the popular coach of the team, has removed to a town near the Rhode Island border. George was the whole works as far as the success of the Cloverleaf team was concerned and if he is unable to come here once or twice a week to drill the team in addition to Sundays, there are many who predict the town champions, a team that has never tasted defeat in three years of organization, will break up. Moonan, however, is confident he will be able to keep the team together.

S. M. H. S. Will Probably Go To Yale Tournament

Official Decision Expected Soon and Manchester Has Excellent Chance to Be Honored. 13 Victories, 2 Defeats.

(By the Sports Editor)
While the chances of South Manchester High being selected as one of the eight Connecticut high schools to send basketball teams to the Yale Tournament next week seem mighty good, it will not be known until the latter part of the week whether or not our school-boys will receive that honor.

The various schools about the state that hope to be represented today mailed their season's results to State Supervisor of Physical Education, Allen G. Ireland, who is secretary of the Connecticut Interscholastic Conference. Manchester's record is 13 victories and two defeats. S. M. H. S. has but two more games to play, one with West Hartford and one with Windham High, but the results of these will not count in the selections, although both will be played this week.

A new system is being inaugurated this season in selecting the eight schools to compete. It is known as a point system and schools which have won eight or more games will be given first consideration. According to the new system, the first eight results recorded in the win column will be considered.

Six points will be awarded to teams winning away from home in the same class and five for similar home-court victories. For games with teams in a lower class, one point less will be awarded in each case. In case of a tie, the conference officials will either consider the fifth victory or the caliber of the first eight opponents.

Five Records
For the past few years, S. M. H.

hand tournament but Tufts College has discarded these games, consequently there will be no such tournament this season at least. Manchester High has met defeat twice, once by Bristol there and once by Windham High at Willimantic. It holds victories over Bristol, Fitchburg, Mass., Middle-town, West Hartford, East Hartford, Hartford and others.

Here's Hoping
However with eight teams being selected from the state, the chances of Manchester being included appear bright. In some quarters, it is pointed out that the four strongest teams in Connecticut in the school-boy ranks today are Naugatuck, Wilby, of Waterbury, Bristol and Manchester. However, be that as it may, the only teams left to consider of state-wide importance are Warren Harding High and Central High, both of Bridgeport, New Haven Commercial and Hillhouse and possibly Willimantic.

It is understood that the selections will be announced either Friday or Monday. Here's hoping.

and a pipe
—that's my dish!

I COULDN'T ask for more. Prince Albert gives me everything I want in a smoke. It is fragrant, delightfully fragrant . . . both in the tidy red tin, and as I smoke it in my old jimmy-pipe. It is cool and sweet as an orange just off the ice. Refreshing!

If there's one thing more than any other which I like about this grand old tobacco, it is its mildness . . . mildness that is balanced, however, by a full, rich body that satisfies my smoke-taste all the way down. It was this rare combination of mildness and tobacco-body that won me to P. A. right off the bat.

I can't give you the complete picture, for taste is a thing that must be experienced. But I feel so sure that you will enjoy P. A. as you never enjoyed any other tobacco, that I am telling you, here and now, to buy a tidy red tin and get started. You can't lose, Men.

Thousands of pipe-smokers who thought they were all set have taken similar advice. They've agreed that it was worth the experiment. Today they are among the millions of P. A. regulars . . . the most contented bunch of pipe-smokers in the world. Come on in—the smoking's fine.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-pound tin tins, and round crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
GARRETT FOLSOM is shipped to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

Folsom's brilliant companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA YALDON.

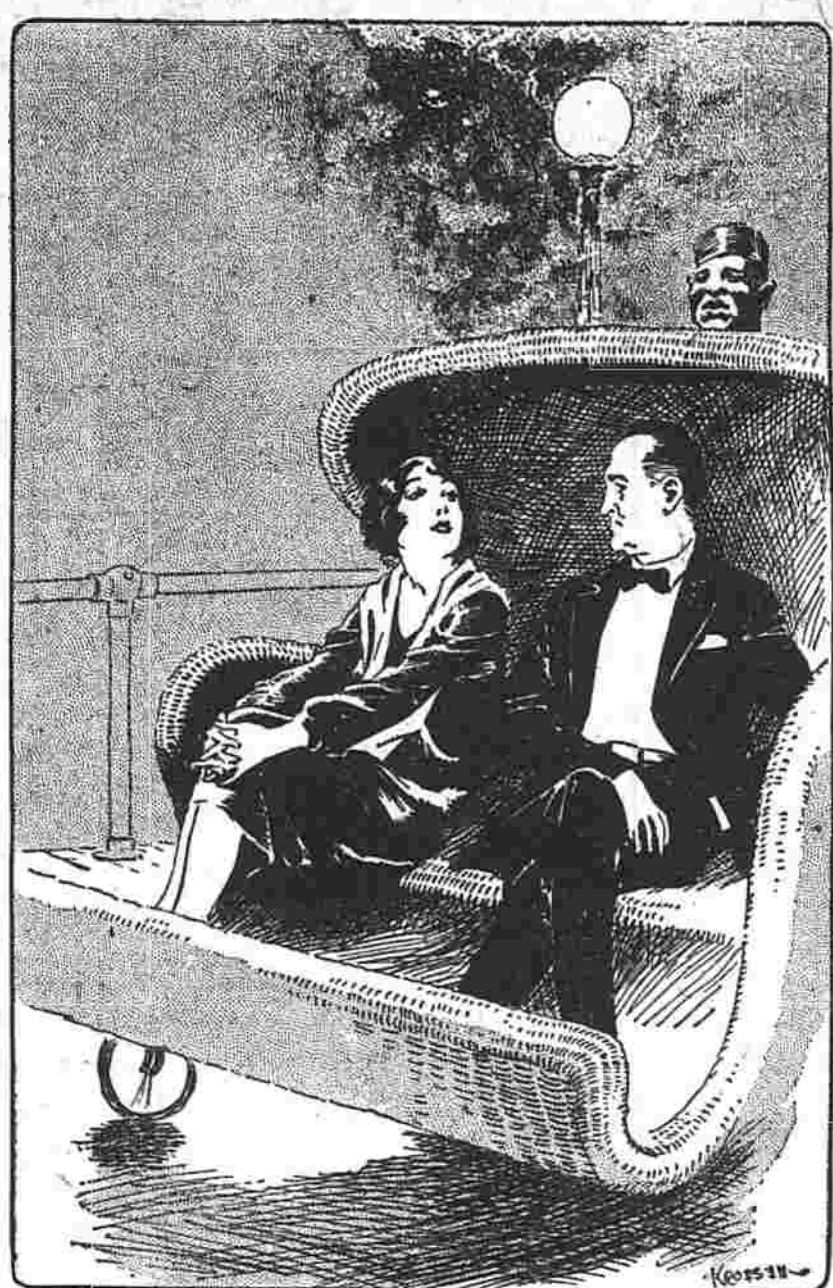

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a plectrum, an ornamental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the plectrum.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is puzzled by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. He tells him Folsom had been blackmailing him and he had lied at the inquest but was innocent.

Stone meets others of the circle, including NED BARRON and his wife, MADELINE, and begins quietly to work.

The night was pleasantly cool, and the gay boardwalk seemed to be the edge of the world against the black abyss of sea beyond.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVIII

NED BARRON was a simple-minded, single-hearted man, whose only interest, outside his business life, was his devotion to his wife and child. Several years older than Madeline, he worshipped her as if she sometimes sacrificed her wishes or preferences to his, it was not with his knowledge or consent. In the present instance, though she would have gladly gone away from the scene of this tragedy that had so disturbed her peace of mind, she knew of his liking for the place and took care not to let him know she would rather be elsewhere.

Fleming Stone, his dark eyes alight with enjoyment of the whole scene, missed no point or detail of the conversation, and realized that, though the matter of Garrett Folsom's death was not entirely taboo, yet it was not openly discussed.

This might have been merely because it was no fit subject for table talk, but to Stone that did not seem the truth. He sensed a deeper reason, a subtler cause for the avoidance of the matter, or for a quick, decided change of subject if it chanced to be touched upon.

This impressed him, and he set to work to find out who were the ones most disinclined to refer to the business which had brought him down there.

And a few moments' consideration proved it to be Madeline Barron and her friend, Miss Fair.

This surprised Stone, until he realized that they were the only women present, and naturally the feminine nature revolts from thoughts of gruesomeness or crime.

Yet it was impossible to keep away from the subject entirely.

On the entrance of Miss Anastasia and her nephew, they were, of course, pointed out to Stone as the relatives of Garrett Folsom.

When Roger Neville and two women appeared, they, too, were remarked as being of the party to which Folsom had belonged.

"What do you mean, a party?" Stone asked. "The ladies are not here with Neville?"

"No," Barron told him. "They are by themselves, the older one as a sort of duenna for the beautiful Carmelita. But Folsom and Neville were here together and they rather attached themselves, so that the quartet was a congenial one. Then after the tragedy Neville still remained attached, at least to the extent of sharing their table in the dining room, and acting as general cavalier."

"He was Folsom's partner?" Stone asked, watching Madeline from the corner of his eye and noting her restlessness.

"In some things. But Garrett Folsom had lots of interests and I doubt if Neville had anything to do with most of them."

Titus Riggs always sat alone at his table in the dining room. Often, however, his dinner over, he would saunter to the table of some friends and have his coffee with them.

He came now to the Barrons' table and was welcomed there.

"I bring a message," he said, as he accepted a cup of coffee, "from Miss Folsom. She has learned who our visitor is, and she demands an interview at the earliest possible moment."

"Demands?" and Stone raised his eyebrows a trifle.

"Yes, but Miss Folsom always demands. It's one of her little ways. What shall I tell her?"

"Tell her," Fleming Stone said, "that I will grant her demand, that is dreadful, to be sure, but is of no personal grief to you? Or is it?"

"Oh, no, no! I had no personal interest in Mr. Folsom; I didn't know him, you see. But now I have come to know his sister and his nephew—"

"That isn't it. Pardon me, Mrs. Barron, but truly it will be better for you to tell me just why you are so deeply concerned in the affair."

Madeline Barron turned slightly until she faced her companion. Her eyes looked big and dark, for her face was white and her cheeks pale beneath her light touch of rouge.

"For a moment she hesitated, then said:

"I will tell you. I am worried, because I fear there is suspicion being cast on Mr. Sears. His son, you know, is engaged to Miss Fair, who is my dearest friend. Should any trouble come to Croydon Sears, it will, of course, reflect on Robin."

"You mean," Stone said, gravely, "that you fear Croydon Sears is the murderer of Garrett Folsom?"

"Oh, don't put it like that!" and Madeline gasped. "But I—yes, I am afraid he will be suspected of that."

"I see," Stone said, speaking slowly. "And I understand. Now, Mrs. Barron, he is already suspected. Is there anything, anything at all, that you can tell me that has any bearing on the question of his guilt or innocence?"

"He is suspected?" Madeline spoke in a whisper, but her lips quivered and she showed a face of utter distress.

"Perhaps you are too strong a word at present, but the police are narrowing things down, and they have what they consider pretty direct evidence against him."

"And the motive?"

"It has come to my ears somehow that Mr. Folsom had a hold of some sort over Croydon Sears, and that he was about to use it."

"What nonsense! As if a man like Croydon Sears could be afraid of anybody!"

"A man may be fearless on his own account, and yet be disturbed on the account of others who are dear to him."

"Yes, that is true. You mean Robin, of course. Well, Mr. Stone, I wish I could help you. If I knew anything I would most certainly tell you. But I can only assert my faith in Croydon Sears and his innocence, by reason of my respect and admiration for the man and my knowledge of his general fitness of character and integrity."

"And your knowledge of Garrett Folsom?"

"Is only what I have heard of him since his death. And that runs the entire gamut, from the excellent opinions of his sister to the far less eulogistic expressions of his nephew."

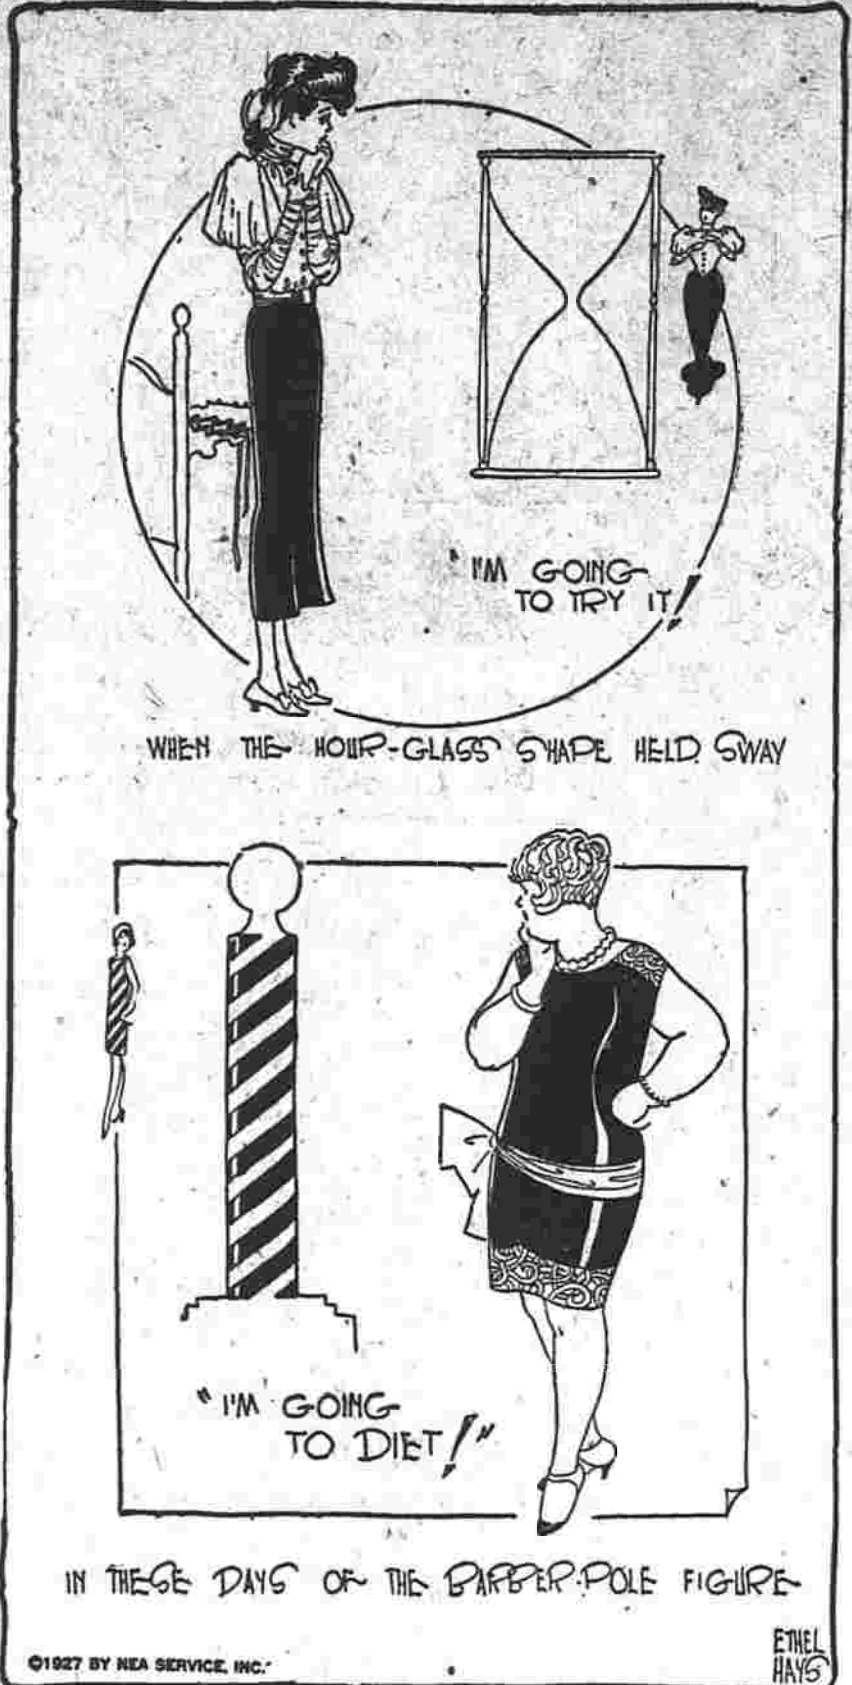

"Young Pelton had small love for his uncle?"

"It would seem so. Though I know little of these things save as I have heard them discussed by others. Why do you select me for your questioning, Mr. Stone?"

A sudden touch of resentment gave a sharp tone to Madeline's voice, and she looked steadily at Stone as if demanding an answer.

"Then why are you so troubled about it all? Why are you so nervously sensitive to a tragedy

Why Children Need Breakfasts that "Stand By"

80% of the Day's Important School Work Falls in 4 Morning Hours, Noted Educator Reveals

ARE you letting listless mornings, brought on largely by wrong breakfasts, handicap your child's school work?

Recent investigations, conducted in over 2,000 American schools and colleges, reveal 80% of the so-called "hard" studies as falling in the morning. This percentage is confirmed by Prof. Willard, of Northwestern University, and other leading educators.

Thus Quaker Oats breakfasts, providing the excellent food balance of protein, carbohydrates, vitamins and the "bulk" to make laxatives seldom needed are being urged as a duty of parents in protecting their children's most important working hours. No other cereal grown compares in food balance.

Serve every morning. Their rich Quaker flavor makes them savory and enticing... delicious breakfasts that yet "stand by" one. Get either Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats today at your grocer's.

THE WOMAN'S DAY BY ALLENE SUMNER

If the law hadn't interfered, the two women who lived together fairly amiably with one husband, more or less, bore him children, and shared the home duties, would have gotten along very well, thank you. So say Mrs. Charles Foreman, of Denver, and his 17-year-old sweetheart, Mary Lexa, both mothers of babies born on almost the same day to the same father. But the law couldn't see the community plan. It's solution is a divorce for Mrs. Foreman so that husband Charlie can marry Mary. And both women and Charlie protest that they want nothing of the sort—they are so happy as is!

Strange women these!

Rich, But—!

The highest salaried women in our business world, they say is Blanche R. Green, who earned $100,000 last year. But to Mrs. Green, her business experience has been just a necessity. She says she never wanted to work and never would if a sick husband and little children hadn't made it necessary. She says that she would have been a much happier woman if fate had permitted her to carry on as wife and mother in an ordinary little home. This outbreak from one who knows both sides of the "marriage or career" question should cheer our many depressed housewives who envy their business sisters.

Old Maid Taffy

Here's a gum-drop to help the spinster's day. Some female savant proclaims that unmarried women write the best literature. And widows write the second best. She explains that women with husbands are afraid to write what they really think about love, marriage, and life! I've a sneaking suspicion there may be something in it. Let's see, how many of the following are spinsters or widowed? Willa Cather, Edith Wharton, Rebecca West, Sheila Kaye-Smith, Edith Whitt, Anne Parrish, Ruth Suckow? More than 75 per cent of 'em!

Two Ladies Speak

Two luscious looking young women speak their tuppence worth about the do-to do recently censured plays of Broadway. Mae West, author and leading lady of the raucous play "See", remarks that "whatever is, is fit meat for the theater." Dorothy Hall, leading lady of "The Virgin Man", thinks this way—"many things are true

A Beauty That earned me a fortune

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Some 50 years ago I started to cultivate beauty. I searched the world for the best beauty helps. As a result, I made my fame and fortune on the stage. And I've kept that beauty to a grand old age. I am today among the highest-salaried stars. And I still look a girl of 19.

I now go to France every year to keep in intimate touch with the latest beauty discoveries, and I have gained what I believe the greatest beauty help in existence. Every toilet counter now supplies Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps—exactly as I use them.

One is my Youth Cream. It combines a dozen of my greatest helps in one. These include products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster, feed and preserve the skin.

My Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I apply one at night, the other in the morning. Never is my skin without these helps.

I am one example of results. But thousands of women are sharing them today. I hope the time will come when millions gain the benefits Youth Cream has brought to me.

The coupon will bring you a sample. Also my latest Beauty Book. Let me tell you of my search for beauty, and give you one of the best results.

YOU CAN'T KEEP WELL IF YOU DON'T SLEEP.

This is the second in a series of articles on how to keep your health by Dr. Morris Fishbein, one of the country's foremost medical authorities. Succeeding articles in the series will appear daily.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEGIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

When a person is fatigued he rests, and by the material processes of the body calls tend to recover from fatigue during the resting period. The earliest books of hygiene known to mankind recognized this factor and took it into account.

The amount of sleep necessary at various periods in life varies. Whereas the child of from 4 to 6 years of age should sleep from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. and take a one-hour nap in the afternoon, the child from 12 to 14 may sleep from 8:30 p. m. until 7 a. m. without taking a nap.

The growing boy or girl between the ages of 14 and 18 should sleep nine or ten hours, preferably between 9 p. m. and 7 a. m., rather than between 1 a. m. and 11 a. m. of the following day. The person of 18 years of age should try to sleep eight hours each night, although it is recognized that some persons are able to do with less.

Inability to sleep, or insomnia, is sometimes due to physical conditions, but is also due largely to the establishment of habits. It is one has established the habit of going to sleep easily and at a regular hour and of relaxing the body systematically at the time of going to sleep, he will probably have much less trouble with insomnia than if he attempts to sleep at varying periods and indulges in constant variations of the sleeping performance.

A mind that is disturbed is not easily lulled to rest. Certain drugs such as caffeine, have the power of lowering the threshold for stimulation of the thinking portion of the brain, and persons who are sensitive to caffeine should avoid the use of tea and coffee, particularly before going to sleep.

It is generally well recognized that a walk in the open air or a drive with plenty of fresh air induces to sleepiness and that a warm bath or a warm drink has a sedative quality.

A person who is unable to sleep because of constant worry should seek expert advice, since he is falling into mental habits that may lead to serious final effects.

lows on a card for the bodies of the little mice, drawing in the tail, ears, whiskers and head with varying degrees of craftsmanship.

Mice to the children were of the genus fairy, at least until a respectable and deserving of attention as Robin Redbreast and Grand-daddy Frog.

One daymire appeared in reality. They ate brown sugar and cornmeal brazenly out of our kitchen cupboard and there was nothing to do but to set traps. We caught several mice, but I shall never forget how the littlest girl screamed and tried when she saw one of the little gray creatures helpless and dead on its bit of board and the satisfied remarks of the family over its demise. She should not have seen it, of course.

We had idealized it, then we had killed it, you see! I never could explain it away.

She lost faith in me. Big issues have come and gone. But one of the biggest things that ever happened in our house was the murder of the mouse. It was as though I had strangled our canary.

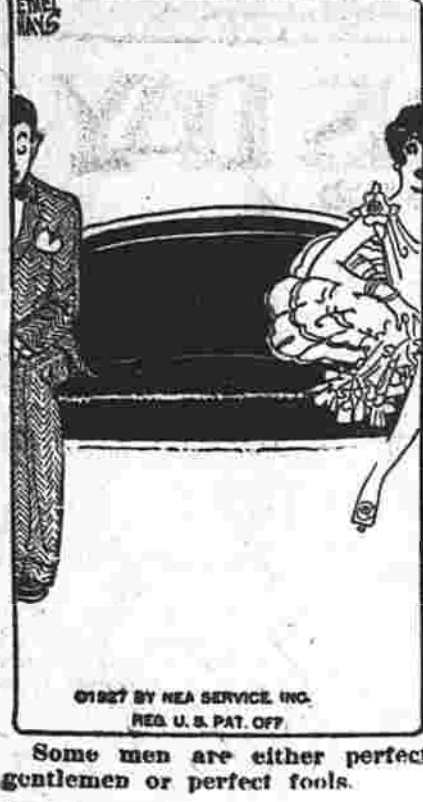

There happened a thing in our own house one time that resulted in utter mental confusion for the children. We had read to them constantly stories of cute little mice, making Gray Tail a sort of hero deserving of sympathy because his arch-enemy, the cat, was always trying to kill him. Mrs. Mouse had tea parties and kept house and lectured her children and was quite a person. We even had a little nursery pastime of pasting pussy-wil-

NOW YOU ASK ONE

A TEST ON LITERATURE

Today's "Now You Ask One" deals with literature. If you patronize the public library and the corner bookstore regularly it should be easy for you. The answers are on another page:

1-Who wrote "The Scarlet Letter?"

2-What English poet, living about a century ago, gave his life for the cause of Greek independence?

3-What man who died a few years ago began his career as a sailor, became a ship captain, retired from the sea because of ill health and wrote some of the finest sea stories in the English language?

4-Who wrote "Captains Courageous"?

5-In what recent American drama do the characters "Captain Flagg" and "Sergeant Quirt" appear?

6-What American writer in the last few years has written novels satirizing small-town life and the modern business man?

7-What novel, printed shortly before the Civil War, had much to do with arousing a hatred of Negro slavery in the nation?

8-What famous English novel deals, among other things, with the adventures of a man who went to a country whose inhabitants were about six inches tall?

9-Who wrote "The Tattered Countess"?

10-In which of Shakespeare's tragedies does the character Iago appear?

"You say you come from Detroit," said the doctor to a fellow passenger, "That's where they make automobiles, isn't it?"

"Sure," replied the American with some resentment, "we make other things in Detroit, too."

"Yes, I know," retorted the doctor, "I've ridden in 'em."
