

SAVE FUTURE OF INDUSTRY, HADLEY WARNS

President Emeritus of Yale Blames Politicians For Conditions Now Facing Electric Light Companies.

New Haven, Conn., March 9.—A warning that the vast electric industries of the United States will "repeat on a broader scale our disastrous experience with railroad control from 1910 to 1920" was sounded today by Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, emeritus president of Yale, and an expert on railroad finances.

Dr. Hadley also declared that while affairs with the railroads are better than they were in 1917, "the railroad situation as a whole is far from being sound or satisfactory."

Dr. Hadley's statements were issued by Yale University as abstracts of an article to be published in Yale Review. He blames politicians for the situation faced by electric companies. "A large part of the voters still think that the way to get low rates is to limit the program of successful enterprises. Politicians find it easier to concur in a widespread popular error than to decide for themselves what will prove best in the long run."

"It takes a sense of firmness and a good deal of economic and historical knowledge on the part of the interested of the future against the loud-voiced demands of the present. In order that the control of rates may be effective and not a disastrous experience with railroad control from 1910 to 1920."

Dr. Hadley's statements concerning the railroad situation closely precede the annual meeting of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, of which he is a director, and come at a time when rumors are current that the railroad may say a dividend this spring. He said: "Some railroads are showing a good net income, and a few are showing a large one. But the average return on capital invested in railroads is not nearly so great as most people assume, and the danger from adverse legislation is very much greater."

START A NEW PROBE OF LEBLANC DEATH

Father Appeals to Governor of Bay State to Reopen Case; Sluths on Job.

Leominster, Mass., March 9.—Investigation by state police into the death of Lena Leblanc, whose body was found in Leominster park in December, 1925, was reopened today upon the orders of Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

Unconvinced that his daughter's death was other than at the hand of a murderer, John H. Leblanc appealed to the governor for a further investigation, to clear, if possible, the girl's name of the stigma of suicide. A petition signed by 1,500 residents of this city accompanied the father's appeal.

USES COPPER STILL AS RADIO AERIAL

New York, March 9.—The recent opening of the new radio broadcasting station, WWNC, at Asheville, N. C., brought a flood of congratulatory telegrams and telephone calls from the surrounding district. One of the latter came from a Blue Ridge mountaineer, who telephoned in on the opening night "The program's coming in fine! I'm using my copper still as an aerial."

GOVERNMENT RESTS IN SINCLAIR CASE

Only Admitted Facts Allowed In Trial For Contempt of the Senate.

Washington, March 9.—The government rested its case today in the trial of Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, for contempt of the Senate.

Sinclair is on trial for refusal to answer seven questions propounded by the Senate oil investigating committee in March 1924, relating to the leasing negotiations with former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in 1922.

Blocked Again
In concluding the prosecution's case, District Attorney Peyton Gordon was blocked in his fourth attempt to place before the jury the story behind the questions of the Senate investigators.

No Authority
He then presented the defense contention that the Senate committee had no authority to demand answers to the questions after the Senate had confirmed special oil prosecutors appointed by President Coolidge to present legal aspects of the oil cases in the federal courts.

NAME WAPPING BOY IN SUSPENDED LIST

Judson Files Suspended From College For Year on Charge Of Chaperone.

Orono, Me., March 9.—University of Maine was stirred today by the suspension of five undergraduates for one year because they were charged by the chaperone of a college dance with drinking and creating a disturbance.

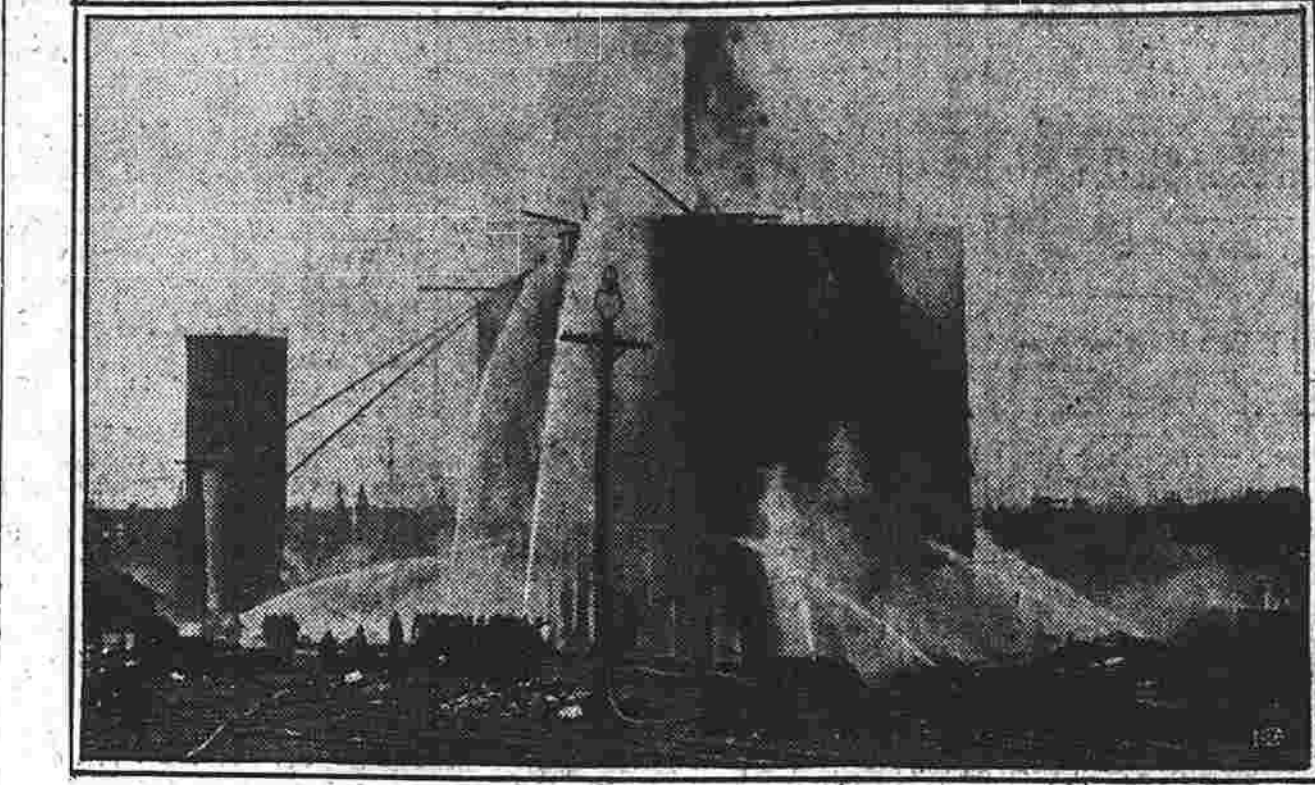

HIGHER COURT UPSETS WILLET CASE VERDICT

Justice Carroll Says There Was No Fraud in Transferring of Properties.

Boston, Mass., March 9.—The full bench of the Supreme Court today overturned the $10,534,109 verdict granted George F. Willett, in the famous Willett-Sears trial that occupied 184 days in Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham.

The decision written by Justice Carroll, upheld exceptions taken by Robert F. Hewitt and a group of bankers associated as defendants. Justice Carroll held that there was no fraud proven in connection with the transfer of Willett's properties, and that he signed a release. It was alleged by Willett in Superior Court that the defendants entered into a conspiracy to obtain control of two felt companies owned by Willett.

TIME FOR HIGH PRESSURE

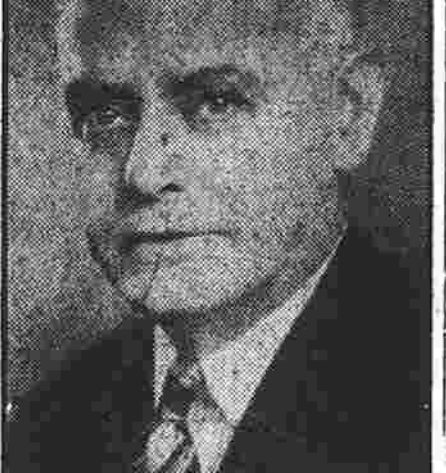

One of Philadelphia's most spectacular fires of recent years was the burning of this grain elevator. Neighboring residents were driven from their homes by the menace of the blaze, railroad traffic was disrupted by hose across the tracks, $200,000 damage was done, and the flames, at times rising hundreds of feet, could be seen from many sections of the city.

LT. GOV. BRAINARD CITY CLUB GUEST

Popular President of Senate Principal Speaker at Annual Banquet.

Lieutenant-Governor J. Edwin Brainard has been secured by the Manchester City club as its principal speaker and guest of honor at the annual banquet to be held Thursday, April 14. The lieutenant governor consented to come here for the annual dinner yesterday afternoon.

The committee in charge of the banquet has already made extensive plans and it is expected that about 100 of the club members will be present.

Lt. Gov. J. Edwin Brainard

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN TROLLEY WRECK

Truck and Two Trolleys Figure In Accident in Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 9.—Five persons were injured here today when a produce truck collided with two trolley cars at State and Cortland streets. Samuel Sowanoro, driver for Bernstein & Sons, is in St. Vincent's hospital in critical condition as a result of the accident. Harry Bliss, a Connecticut Company motorman, Mrs. Catherine Quinn, and Misses Betty Bray and Martha Smith, trolley passengers, are under treatment in their homes for shock and lacerations.

Sowanoro, attempting to cross State street between two approaching cars, ran into the vestibule of an east-bound Norwalk trolley car operated by Ralph Baker, who thought the vestibule was demolished. Almost immediately a west-bound one-man trolley car operated by Bliss, smashed into the rear of the truck.

NEW HOTEL OPENS

Buffalo, N. Y., March 9.—Mayor Francis X. Schwab and a party of 75 Buffalonians planned to leave tonight in three special cars for Boston, where they will attend the opening of the new 1,300 Staircase hotel.

35 MEN WORK TO SAVE LIFE

Keeping Up Respiration of Youth Afflicted With a Peculiar Disease.

Evanson, Ill., March 9.—Alfred Frick, 22, stricken with paralysis of diaphragm, was being kept alive today by a volunteer corps of 35 men, working in relays of two each, who stroked his side, bellows fashion, to keep up respiration.

Should the men cease for one minute young Frick would die. The patient has been kept alive for the past 65 hours. The volunteers, who work in fifteen minute relays, are friends of the stricken youth who worked with him in the office of the public service company.

Frick is propped up at a 45 degree angle in a bed at St. Francis hospital. His illness has been diagnosed as "Landry's paralysis." The disease affects the spinal cord and lower center of the brain, cutting off the nerve supply to the diaphragm and paralyzing the chest and muscles.

LOWER HOUSE O. K.'s SUNDAY MOVIE BILL

Shows May Be Held at 2 P. M. Now In This State—Governor to Sign.

Hartford, Conn., March 9.—Motion picture shows may be held in Connecticut on Sundays starting at two p. m., instead of 7 p. m., as the case now is, when Governor Trumbull's signature is affixed to a measure that went through the Lower House of the Legislature this afternoon.

SCENT BOOTLEG PLOT IN HAMMER ASSAULT

Springfield Man Dying in Hospital—Refuses to Give Information.

Springfield, Mass., March 9.—Jacob Adler, 40, who was in a serious condition with two fractures in the skull today as the result of being assaulted with a hammer last night in his tailor shop on Dwight street. The case was similar to that of Julius Alpert, who was attacked in his hardware store on February 23. The Alpert shop is across the street from the Adler shop. In both cases no attempt was made to rob the victims or their establishments. Both men have refused to give any information but in Alpert's case police discovered as a possible motive a dispute over the price paid by bootleggers for moonshine from a still.

YOUTH BOUND OVER

Greenwich, Conn., March 9.—Walter Dombrowski, well-known local youth, was bound over for trial in the Superior Court on a charge of forgery and released in bail of $1,000 after a hearing he today. He is on probation for having taken an automobile without the owner's permission. Samuel Borken, treasurer of a local building concern, testified that the youth had signed Borken's name to a $50 check, cashed it and spent the proceeds.

LITTLE BOY'S BODY FOUND IN PALMER

Thought at First It Was Billy Gaffney—Identified as John Kelly.

Palmer, Mass., March 9.—One more "lead" in the nation-wide search for little "Billy" Gaffney, four-year-old kidnaped Brooklyn, N. Y., boy came to a dead end today when the child's father, Edmund Gaffney, rushing here from New York, found that the body of a lad stowed in a wine cask on a burning dump was not his lost son.

Body Identified
The murdered three-and-a-half-year-old boy, thought at first to be "Billy" was identified as John H. Kelly.

Police arrested Mrs. Ida Kelly, the mother, and Albert Doe, unmarried, by whom she was employed as a housekeeper.

While the couple were being grilled at police station by Chief of Police Timothy J. Crimmins, who had hoped to obtain a "confession," Mr. Gaffney, two Brooklyn detectives and a party of New York newspapermen arrived. They had stopped off at Springfield en route from New York, and at Springfield police headquarters, Mr. Gaffney learned that the child had been slain here by being beaten to death with bare fists or an instrument, was not his son. "I have come this far and will not be satisfied until I see the body and make sure it is not my boy," said Mr. Gaffney. So the party came along to Palmer.

BOMBS AND GUNS IN MINERS' BATTLE

Two Families Have Narrow Escape When Houses are Dynamited.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 9.—The Moon Run mining community near here early today was the scene of an outbreak marked by gunfire and dynamiting.

Two families living in an eight-room double frame house on property of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., miraculously escaped injury when two successive dynamite charges exploded under the house shortly after midnight.

GOV. TO MEET BOXERS

Hartford, Conn., March 9.—Governor Trumbull today announced that he would receive at the capitol tomorrow afternoon a group of fighters and wrestlers who are to appear tomorrow night in a boys-and-girls' benefit exhibition.

JAPS FACING FAMINE IN QUAKE AFTERMATH

SOLONS USE "AXE" ON APPROPRIATIONS

Committee Rejects Requests For About One Million Dollars—Other Business.

Hartford, March 9.—The legislative appropriations committee today "used the ax" for the first time this session when it returned unfavorable reports on requests amounting to $1,000,000. Both the House and Senate accepted the reports and rejected the bills.

Three "pet" highway projects for small towns also met defeat in the House after unfavorable reports from the roads, rivers and bridges committee.

Bill Tabled
Representative Peasley of Cheshire, succeeded in having tabled a bill which would shorten the trout fishing season by fourteen days at its beginning. He said it would be unfair to those in the southern part of the state, where fishing is good early in the year, to cut off this number of days. He thought some suitable agreement could be reached which would be fair to all fishermen. The House agreed with him and voted to table the bill.

Bills Rejected
The bills rejected on report from the appropriations committee were those calling for an appropriation of $176,000 for the development of state parks; $805,000 for maintenance of the State Agricultural college; $20,000 for the Israel Putnam memorial camp ground; $75,000 for the state water commission; $81,000 for the New Haven County Anti-Tuberculosis Association, and increases in the appropriations for the Connecticut vegetable growers, poultrymen's association, and poultrymen's society.

Salary Increases
Salary increase bills of the attorney-general and Common Pleas Court judges went to the appropriations committee today on favorable report of the judiciary committee. The bill, amending the New Britain City charter providing for two City Court judges, changed in court procedure, changing the names of several bureaus and making other minor changes was taken from the table and passed by the House.

BOY TRAPPER MEETS DEATH IN RESEVOIR

Falls Through Ice and Drowns; Companion Runs For Help In Vain.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 9.—Edwin Johnson, seventeen, was drowned in the lower reservoir of the Bridgeport Hydraulic Company, on Black Rock turnpike, Fairfield, today while crossing the ice to follow a muskrat trap line. Arthur Rotunda, fourteen, unable to assist his companion, fled to the Post road and stopped a telephone company truck. A few minutes later Edwin Johnson's body was found and pulled Johnson's body out, only to find life was extinct.

The linsmen were Joseph Brookier, Charles V. Hardy, Joseph Rucker, John Callahan and Andrew Seuch, all of Norwalk.

Rotunda, going the trap rounds with Johnson, was crossing the reservoir in advance. He heard a scream and turning around, saw the hole in the ice. Unable to swim, he ran for aid.

STOECKEL REQUESTS BROADER AUTHORITY

Head of Motor Vehicle Dept. Complains About Autoists With Poor Cars.

Hartford, Conn., March 9.—Broader disciplinary powers for the motor vehicle department are necessary if the highways are to be cleared of cars operated by defective equipment, Robbins B. Stoekel, commissioner of motor vehicles told the Farmers Association of the legislature here today.

ONCE A SLAVE AIDS HOSPITAL

Middletown, March 9.—Because the nurses were good to her when she was a patient at the Middlesex hospital, Miss Emma Smith, an employee in the home of Stephen S. Hall in Portland for the last twenty-six years and in her younger days a slave, has left all her savings to the institution to buy a violet ray machine for the X-ray department. Her estate amounted to $469.

VERPLANCK NAMES TRUSTEES OF FUND

Board of Five Men Placed In Charge of Disposition of Scholarships.

Superintendent Fred A. Verplanck of the Ninth School district today named the five trustees of the Verplanck Scholarship Foundation which was organized at a South Manchester High school alumni reunion last Saturday night. They are as follows: 5 years, Howell Cheney; for 4 years, Frank H. Anderson; for 3 years, C. Elmore Watkins; for 2 years, W. W. Robertson; for 1 year, Robert Hathaway.

Control Income
One trustee must be elected each year. The duties of this board will be to supervise the disposition of the income from the fund. They will act on all requests for aid. Already the principal of $5,000 has been underwritten and it is hoped to increase the fund so that its income each year can be of material aid to some worthy student.

Mr. Verplanck was accorded the privilege of selecting the first board of trustees for the foundation since it was named in his honor.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by Frank H. Anderson, C. Elmore Watkins, Herbert B. House and Philip Cheney.

The fund, according to the papers of incorporation, is "to assist and promote the further education of pupils in, or graduates of the South Manchester High school, or its successor or successor: in the town of Manchester; for the above purpose to take, hold, manage, convey, invest and reinvest any property which it may receive by gift, purchase, or otherwise."

TRAIN DERAILED

Franklin, Pa., March 9.—The locomotive and six tank cars of a fast freight on the New York Central railroad, west bound, were derailed near here today when the engine struck a landslide. The locomotive plunged over a 25 foot embankment, followed by one of the tank cars, and the other five were strewn along the muddy slope.

The train crew miraculously escaped injury in the plunge, but railroad officials said it would take twelve hours to clear the track of the wreckage.

Gale Sweeping Stricken Districts—Dead Bodies Pile In Streets and Burned, Number of Injured Overwhelming.

Tokio, March 9.—Hundreds of refugees in the earthquake districts were facing starvation today, according to advices received here. Handicapped by a partly demolished railroad system, the task of getting supplies and food to the affected areas is extremely difficult. Motor transportation to the stricken areas is impossible.

Gale Sweeps District
A gale, accompanied by a drenching rain, was sweeping over the Sanin district today, bringing added suffering.

Many of the make-shift shelters have been blown down.

Conditions are said to be indescribable in the affected provinces. Rescue parties are digging into the smashed houses to get the bodies of the dead. The bodies are then piled in the street and burned.

Thousands Injured
The number of injured is overwhelming. Doctors and nurses are being rushed in from Kobe and Osaka and other centers, but they are not able to cope with the situation.

Relief and supplies are being sent from all parts of Japan, but transportation is wholly inadequate. Coolies are being rushed to pack in food over the devastated highways. They are packing supplies as far as ten miles in this manner.

Soldiers are in charge of distributing food and supplies in the area. Soldiers are also erecting barracks and other temporary shelters for the refugees.

The emperor today donated 50,000 yen to the relief fund which is being contributed to by all classes.

4,774 Dead, Hurt
Tokio, March 9.—Undaunted Japan today was taking steps to rebuild the towns and villages which were reduced to shambles by earthquake and fire.

Latest available figures issued by the home office disclosed that 4,774 were killed and injured in the terrific temblor which rumbled over western Japan.

More than 7,000 houses were destroyed in the four provinces which suffered the heaviest damage. About half of them were shaken to the earth by the force of the shock. The rest were destroyed by fire which raged subsequent to the quake.

1,000 Dead in Town
The province of Yoshu was particularly hard hit. At least 1,843 persons were killed in this territory, including the town of Minayama where 1,000 were killed.

Thirty-five persons were killed in the province of Naka. A close check of the injured in this province has not yet been made.

Approximately 2,000 were killed and injured in the province of Takeda. Most of the casualties in this province, reports said, came under the heading of "injured."

Six persons were killed in the province of Kumano; few were injured.

Property Damage
Property damage will reach a staggering total. No official estimate is available, but it will reach into the millions.

Meanwhile all of Japan is concentrating on aiding refugees, many of whom are in a sorry plight.

Railroads are carrying refugees free of charge. Every means of transportation is being utilized to bring relief to the affected areas. Destroyers are speeding to the ports of Osaka and Kobe with food and medical supplies.

Emergency shelters have been erected and soldiers are assisting municipal authorities in caring for survivors.

Although train service between Tokio and the quake areas has not been restored, trains from other points have been routed into the Sanin district, bringing clothes and food.

Cold weather is adding to the suffering of the homeless thousands.

NEWSPAPER CHAIN

Lynn, Mass., March 9.—Frederick W. Enwright, publisher of the Lynn-Telegram News, announced today that he was starting a chain of papers in Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Hartford, Conn., and New York City. All will be afternoon publications. The Boston paper will be started first, within six weeks, Mr. Enwright stated.

FOREIGNERS READY TO QUIT SHANGHAI

Long Expected Battle Imminent—Chinese Mob Loots Customs Club.

Shanghai, March 9.—A dangerous situation developed at Wuhu today when a Chinese mob broke open and looted the native Customs House Club. Foreign women and children are being sent from Wuhu to Shanghai and the foreign men are standing by ready to withdraw from the city if the necessity arises.

The maneuvering of troops for the opening of the long expected battle for the possession of Shanghai continues.

General Chang Tsung-Chang, northern commander, has ordered heavy reinforcements to the north as a result of the revelation that the Nationalists plan to launch a triple attack on three fronts. Their object is to cut the Tsingpu-Shanghai and Nanking-Lunghai railroads, thus cutting off the northern forces from their bases.

Details of the plan, as revealed by General Chang, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese forces, will lead the attack on the center of the northern line making a drive toward Pengpu, via Anking. His object will be the Tsingpu railroad. General Ho Ying-Ching will lead the east wing of the Cantonese from Hupoh toward Soochow, via Hangchow, Changchow and Yishing, and his objective will be the Shanghai-Nanking railroad. General Yang Sun-Tai will lead the west wing of the Cantonese from Hupoh toward Ankwai, and his objective will be the Lunghai railroad.

Rushing Reinforcements. General An Kuo-Chun, field commander of the northern forces, is rushing reinforcements to all positions by the three railroads.

Chinese soldiers boarded and commandeered the British steamer Wusung near Hankow, but a British destroyer intercepted the vessel. Bluejackets boarded it and took it to Hankow.

Chinese police last night raided the Commercial Press, China's most important printing plant in the Chapel district, in an attempt to obtain corroborative evidence of a plot which was understood to have provided for 10,000 pro-Cantonese civilians to attack all police stations in the Chapel and international settlements. The police failed to obtain the desired evidence.

lacerated. The body was naked. There had been a fire on the dump. Flames had burned away pieces of burlap, into which the child's body was wrapped. A little foot was protruding from the wire cask and this attracted Chester Kolbusz, a high school boy.

Other Children. Three years old, Mrs. Kelly is 25. She is the mother of three other children. A year ago her husband deserted her. She sent one child to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rock, of Brimfield, a John, the slain boy, and Leo, a younger brother she kept with her when she entered the home of Doe as housekeeper.

Doe had been suspected, police said, of bootlegging activities but has never been convicted. On November 30, last, he was brought in to local district court charged with mistreating Little Leo. Mrs. Kelly testified in defense of her employer.

"Inhumane Mother." Judge E. E. Hobson, presiding over District Court at the time, said there was not enough evidence to hold Doe. Turning to Mrs. Kelly, the judge said: "I cannot believe your story. You are an inhumane mother."

Complaints that Doe was abusing the Kelly children was brought to the attention of the police on several occasions.

Last night when police at first thought the body of the brown-haired, blue-eyed boy found on the dump answered the description of the lost "Billy" Gaffney, Chief Cummins did not forget Doe. A detective was investigating in the neighborhood of the Doe house when a neighbor offered to bet another $100 that the little murder victim was one of the Kelly boys. The detective immediately went to the Doe place and found John missing.

Identifies Son. The mother viewed the body from the wire cask, admitted it was her son. Doe likewise said it was John.

Medical Examiner Schneider said the condition of the body showed plainly that the child had been murdered Saturday was believed to have been set to hide the crime. It was the opinion of Dr. Schneider that the boy was killed elsewhere and then brought to the dump in the wire cask.

The motive for the slaying was given by police as the desire of Doe to be rid of the Kelly children. Police learned this afternoon that Little John had been missing since Christmas, although his disappearance had not been reported to police.

BRIGHT HOSE. The tendency in tan hose is toward the brighter rust and sunset shades.

HARIMAN NEW HEAD OF SCHOOL LEAGUE

West Hartford Man Succeeds C. P. Quimby as President Of Interscholastic.

Ray W. Hariman, principal of West Hartford High school, was elected president of the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League at the meeting of that organization held last evening at West Hartford. Mr. Hariman succeeds Principal Clarence P. Quimby, of the South Manchester High school, Henry E. Cottle, principal of Bristol High school, was elected vice-president and John E. McGrath, athletic director at East Hartford High school, was named secretary.

A special committee composed of H. W. French, of Meriden High; Paul Monahan, Bristol High; and W. J. Clarke, South Manchester High, was chosen to select the basketball officials for the 1927-28 season, the schedule of which will be drafted March 31 at Willimantic when the principal of the six high schools in the league meet at Windham High for that purpose.

Forfeit Meriden Games. It was also voted at last night's meeting to declare forfeited all games played by Meriden High during the period which its basketball team used ineligible players.

This action does not materially affect the local high school, as Manchester defeated Meriden in both games. However, the official scores will be 2-0 instead of the scores attained in the game.

In addition to Principal Quimby and Coach Clarke, Faculty Manager Edson M. Bailey attended the meeting from Manchester.

REACHING OUT FOR 8TH GRADE PUPILS

State Trade School Exhibit Shows Parents Benefits Of Co-operative Courses.

For the first time in the history of the Manchester Trade school, a special initiation has been extended to the parents of all eighth grade children to attend Parents' Night at the Trade school tomorrow evening. The reason for doing this, as explained by Director A. A. Warren today, is to acquaint the parents of prospective high school students with the benefits to be derived from co-operative courses.

First-Hand Impressions. This is the time of the year when elective cards are being sent to parents of all children who will graduate from the eighth grade in June and enter high school in the fall. And it is with this in mind that Director Warren has issued invitations to the parents to come to the Trade school and get a first-hand impression of the work done by the students and the advantages to be gained.

The Trade school will be in session from 7 until 9 o'clock and the day instructors will be in charge. Regular classes will be conducted.

Not only are the parents of the Trade school pupils invited, but the public as well. Products of all departments will be on exhibition.

At 8:30 the parents will gather in the assembly hall to listen to an address by Director Warren. He will explain the advantages of the courses which are contained in the Trade school curriculum and tell of the co-operative arrangement between the High school and the Trade school in connection with the various courses.

Representatives from several manufacturing concerns, including Cheney Brothers, will be present.

Town employees today repaired Purnell Place, otherwise known as Keeney Court, which branches off Oak street. The deep ruts, which have made traveling conditions poor, were filled with gravel.

A concert and dance will be given by the Manchester Pipe band in the Orange hall on Friday evening, March 25. Old fashioned and modern dancing will be enjoyed. Entertainment will be furnished by members of the Clements Bureau.

The following bands have been invited to take part in the street parade preceding the dance: Rockville drum corps, Talcottville drum corps, Center flute band, St. Patrick's pipe band and the Silk City flute band.

A truck-load of basketball fans will leave the Army and Navy club at 6 o'clock tonight for Windsor Locks where the annual Pogonock-Broad Brook game will be played. A side bet of $100 is at stake. Francis McColium and Herby Kerr, Manchester boys, will be in Pogonock's lineup.

Manchester Grange P. of H. will have its regular meeting in Tinker hall this evening at eight o'clock. It will be "Neighbors' Night," four other granges having been invited, Coventry, Good Will of Glastonbury, East Windsor and New Britain. The visiting Grangers will put on the program and refreshments will be served after the lecturer's hour. Manchester Grange visited West Hartford Grange last evening and furnished part of the program.

KIWANIAN REHEARSE FOR MINSTREL SHOW

F. H. Anderson Defers His Talk to Give Chorus Chance To Try New Steps.

The Kiwanians today spent the entire time after their luncheon at the Hotel Sheridan in rehearsing for the minstrel which they are to give at the State theater, Wednesday evening, March 23. The chorus is being trained by C. Elmer Watkins and he has called another rehearsal for Friday noon at Watkins Brothers' music room. Frank Anderson of the J. W. Hale company has promised to furnish light refreshments for all those who attend.

Mr. Anderson was scheduled to give a talk today but he gave way to the chorus and will be heard a few weeks later.

George H. Washburn, director of the Manchester Community club, who is coach for the minstrel, gave an outline of what the program will be. He proposed that a matinee be given at four o'clock on the day of the performance for the benefit of school children.

In the attendance contest, Arthur Knofka's "Real Estate Barons" were again successful with 27 out of a possible 30. Charlie Pickett's "Whippets had 27 out of 31. Arthur Knofka won the attendance prize donated by Lawrence Case.

SENATOR DILL TO WED MISS ROSALIE JONES

Washington, March 8.—The "Bachelors Bloc" in the Senate is soon to lose a member.

Senator C. C. Dill, Democrat of Washington, co-author of the new radio bill, will be married to Miss Rosalie ("General") Jones, well-known suffragist, within the next few days. Senator Dill confirmed the engagement here just before leaving for New York to meet his fiancée. The date and place of the ceremony was not announced.

Senator Dill is 42 years old, his fiancée a few years younger. She gained the title of "General" some years ago by leading suffrage rallies from New York to Washington and Albany. She is a member of the bar in both Washington and New York.

WAPPING TROLLEY POLE FALLS BUT NOBODY'S HURT

Then Cross-town Liner Limp Along Till Relief Car Comes Nine Miles.

The one-man cross-town trolley car in charge of Motorman Gus Waltz met with a slight accident late yesterday afternoon near Hollister street while on its way to the Center. The front trolley pole broke away from the iron hook which holds it, snapped up, caught on one of the cross-wires and was torn from its base.

There were but four passengers on the car, none of whom was injured, although the pole broke a window and showered the interior with glass. Motorman Waltz climbed up on top the car and tied the broken pole. He ran under "jury rig" until another car could be brought from the car barns in Hartford.

ELKS TO ELECT TOMORROW NIGHT

Williams Again Candidate For Past Exalted Ruler; Other Items.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, March 8. Rockville Lodge of Elks will hold their annual election of officers Thursday evening at the Elks Home and it is expected that a large number of Elks from Manchester will attend the session as Past Exalted Ruler George H. Williams of South Manchester is again a candidate for the office. It is believed that a large percentage of the hundred Manchester members will be on hand to lend Mr. Williams their support.

Rebekahs meet. A large number of members of Mayflower Rebekah Lodge were out last night to greet Mrs. Elizabeth Watrous, assembly president; Miss Mabel Johnson, vice president of Torrington and District Deputy President Miss Mary Smith of Stafford Springs. A bountiful supper was served by the committee in charge of Mrs. Edna Thompson at which time Mrs. Gisela Read, past noble grand presented, in behalf of the lodge, a farewell gift of silver to Mrs. Hattie Ransom, who is also one of the past noble grands and has officiated in all the chairs. Mrs. Ransom presented the latter part of March for Philadelphia where she will make her home. The usual business meeting followed the supper during which the lodge presented Mrs. Watrous with a beautiful gift in behalf of Mayflower Rebekah Lodge upon her retiring from office. Miss Johnson and Miss Smith were presented with a bouquet of flowers. The business meeting closed at 9 o'clock when a whist was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening. Prizes were awarded to Miss Lillian Randall, Mrs. Edward Schaeffer and Miss Laura Neumann.

Eastern Star Whist. The final whist of the winter series of the Hope Chapter Eastern Star Sewing Circle was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Zeharich on Grove street. There were two tables and prizes were awarded as follows: first prize Mrs. Elmer Osborne; second, Mrs. Earl Anear and consolation, Mrs. Charles Leonard. After the whist a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess. The first whist of the Spring series will be held at the home of Mrs. Maude Leonard on Elm street on March 22.

Rockville Notes. The Union Church cantata will commence rehearsals for an Easter cantata next Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The cantata by H. Brooks Day will be given by a large selected chorus from the church.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Sullivan have moved from 40 Ward street to their new home on Earl street. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koelsch who have been spending the winter at their St. Petersburg, Florida home are expected to return the latter part of the month when Mr. Koelsch will formulate plans for the opening at Crystal Lake. The local chapter of D. A. R. met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Smith of Grove street and were entertained with a musical program of unusual excellence presented by the following trio: Ralph Neff, violinist; Jack Koeney and Francis Little, saxophonist.

Miss Lella Church left Monday for Boston where she is to make arrangements for a pageant. Miss Lena Hoffman of Orchard street who fractured her ankle in December from a fall on an icy walk, has resumed her duties with Mrs. Mary Eason of Union street. Harold Ransom, baritone soloist of the Methodist church will be heard from Station WTIC on Friday evening. The program will start at 9:30 p. m.

The Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church held their annual meeting Monday afternoon. After the usual routine of business the election of officers followed, at the close of which a member's supper was served. The Tolland County Dairy club will meet in Elliptical on Friday. Young men from Rockville, Vernon, Talcottville and Tolland will take part in the program. The annual prize masquerade ball under the auspices of Damon Temple, Pythian Sisters, will be given in Princess hall Saturday evening. Stanley Dobosz Post, No. 14, American Legion Auxiliary, will hold a very important meeting tonight in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Robert Liebe is confined to the house by illness. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Teabo of Grand street entertained Sunday afternoon in honor of Mr. Teabo's birthday. At 6 o'clock a salad supper was served.

A surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Julius Dey of Lyness street last night in honor of her birthday. About twenty-five of her friends were present. Lunch was served and many gifts were received.

MANCHESTER MAN ALL FOR IL DUCE

Angelo Bosco, Back After Several Years In Italy, Hot In Mussolini's Praise.

A glowing picture of Fascist Italy under Benito Mussolini was painted today by Angelo Bosco, formerly with the Manchester Trust Co., who has returned to this town for an indefinite stay. Mr. Bosco paid a high tribute to Il Duce, giving him credit for the salvation of Italy and the start of that country to economic independence and a place in the sun with the other powers of Europe.

Too many of the biased accounts of the Fascist regime have been allowed to appear in the press of the world, Mr. Bosco said, and from these reports people have gathered a wrong impression of Mussolini's methods. The Manchester man has been in Italy for several years and points out that he is in a position to give first-hand information concerning conditions there.

Italy, he says, is fast moving toward temperance and prohibition, especially among the younger Italians who followed Mussolini in his march on Rome with the Fascists. There is practically no drinking now among the younger people. Their beverage is mostly water.

"Italians United" "The Italian people are all united in the movement which Mussolini is fostering," said Mr. Bosco, "and they look upon him and love him almost as though he were a god. He has the affection and the good will of the best and the honest Italian, especially the younger men who have not been corrupted by bad politics. These men are really the backbone of the movement—the men who fought for Italy during the great war, those who rescued Italy from the grip of the Russian Bolsheviks."

"Italy, you may remember, was on the verge of destruction and the next country to have been operated by the Bolsheviks. International of Moscow when Mussolini started his work. More than 75 per cent of the people had been poisoned by Bolshevism. "Mussolini had been a soldier in the Italian army during the war and raised to the rank of corporal. He had been wounded by an Austrian bomb and had spent many months recovering from his injuries. The young men of the country flocked around him and gave him their sincere support in the fight against the internal enemies of the country. In a short time they had Italy free from the grip of Bolshevism and now the country is really saved."

No More Labor Trouble "Labor troubles in Italy are no more. All questions between labor and management go through a tribunal, so that there is no strike, no wage cuts nor increases of hours. That is only one of the reforms Mussolini has brought into being. "Italy's progress under Mussolini has been marvelous, economically and in a disciplinary way. Everybody is working and all are full of hope and faith because they are absolutely sure that if God keeps Mussolini in power in a few years Italy will be one of the most prosperous and up-to-date nations in the world. "Progress in agriculture and manufacturing has gone ahead with great strides. In the ship building plants the year 1926 was the greatest in the country's history and an even more ambitious program has been mapped out for 1927. If the program is carried through Italy will build more merchant ships than any country in the world this year."

Grateful to America "America commands the greatest respect of the Italian people. Italy is grateful to America and also to the Italians in this country for the support they have given in Italy's hour of trouble. "Mr. Bosco while in Manchester will stay with his sister, Mrs. Angelo Gatt of Birch street.

MISS REYNOLDS AIDS 28 CASES IN MONTH Miss Jessie M. Reynolds reports for the month of February 28 cases acted upon for the Red Cross. This means that 28 families of ex-servicemen or civilians have been aided in some manner. Seven suits of pajamas were sent to a Veterans' hospital at Castle Point, N. Y. These were made by the Missionary Societies of the South Methodist church during the winter. One thousand letter heads have been donated to the chapter by a local printing concern.

ADVOCATES ARGUE FOR INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

Think Dayton Experience Should Be Guide to Manchester; Chamber to Discuss It.

The plan of the Chamber of Commerce committee on program and attendance to dispense with a speaker and an entertainment at the Chamber meeting, Thursday evening in Tinker hall, is meeting with quick approval. A number of the members have already called up to say that they were glad the Chamber was going to hold one genuine business meeting, where matters of interest should be discussed at length.

In addition to the reports of several committees, the directors have two important recommendations to present to the membership. First, shall the Chamber petition the Board of Selectmen for a special town meeting, to discuss and debate the appointment of a town plan committee, and second, the presentation and discussion of a proposed industrial survey of Manchester.

An industrial survey, it is maintained by some, has the same relation to the industrial growth of a community that a town plan has to its physical growth. Dayton, O., was one of the early advocates of an industrial survey and its industrial growth is cited by survey advocates as evidence of the soundness of this belief. The secretary of Dayton's Industrial Association says: "An industrial survey gives to a community the facts, figures, conclusions and recommendations concerning its industrial life. In much the same form that a plant survey gives similar information to an individual plant. It is a stock-taking of the industrial assets and liabilities of the community. It brings together, in one place, all pertinent factors having a bearing on the industrial life of the community, and if the survey is properly made this information is in such form that it can readily be kept up to date and is always available for convenient reference whenever a particular industrial problem is up for consideration."

Manchester may not be a second Dayton, either in location or natural advantages, the survey enthusiasts declare, but any community can improve its general condition by proper preparedness followed by organized effort.

Very truly yours, JACK SANSON.

FINISH PLASTERING IN MASONIC TEMPLE

Beauty of Interior Can Now Be Seen—Ready By May 15.

Workers in the employ of the Manchester Construction Company and under the direction of Arvid Seaburg, mason superintendent, are rapidly completing the finish plastering in the Masonic Temple. All of the ornamental plastering in the large lodge room with the exception of plaster bases has been completed. The plank-staging has been taken down revealing the splendor of cornice moldings, enriched with dmit blocks. The plan of the ceiling consists of one large center panel, flanked on each side with smaller panels of the same ornamental design.

The sidewalls are treated with arched effect with keystone center, with fluted pilasters and ornamental caps and bases. The organ loft on the west side of the building has a similar treatment and the master's station in the lodge has a recessed setting, richly decorated with moldings. This type of work is usually subcontracted to specialists in this line, but the local concern has again proved its merit in accomplishing this work which has received the commendation of the architect and members of the building committee.

In the banquet hall a wainscot 5 feet high will be formed with Portland cement and marked off in 6x12 tile blocks. The balance of the wall will be finished with white coat consisting of lime and plaster paris. Heat has been maintained in the building during the plastering so that there is very little moisture in the building. It is the opinion of the superintendent, Ernest Wadell, that work on the interior trim can be started within a week or two.

Work will be started on the fireplace in the social room, which has the John Mather Stone for a hearth, very shortly, and the building should be ready for occupancy May 15.

"TIN HATS" THE BEST WAR COMEDY, SAYS JACK

Manager Jack Sanson of the State theater addresses the following letter to his patrons through the columns of The Herald:

Dear Public: The war is over—but three of the funniest rookies that ever joined the American Army will live it all over again for three hilarious days at the State theater, beginning tomorrow. You'll laugh until you cry at the appearance and adventures of the most ill-assorted trio that has ever flashed across the screen—Conrad Nagel, George Cooper and Bert Roach in the greatest of war comedies, "Tin Hats."

Reaching the front just in time for the Armistice, they become separated from their company and set out to join the Army of Occupation. Accused of theft, wanted for desertion, scared senseless by a haunted German castle, fearing the wrath of a hard-boiled, blasphemous top-sergeant, fed up with Rhine wine and sauerkraut, tired of posing as high-ranking officers, falling in love with German maidens, fighting and laughing their way through every kind of an escapade—this new great comedy team have made the greatest war comedy in "Tin Hats."

Tom O'Brien, one of the three unforgettable buddies in "The Big Parade," plays the top-sergeant and Claire Windsor is delightful as the rich and haughty German Princess. Don't let any previous engagement prevent you seeing this picture. It's by far one of the best comedies we've shown in a long time.

Very truly yours, JACK SANSON.

'CHEER-UP' MAN SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

Ray Edward Bells of Vernon Center, called the "Cheer Up Man" in six states wherever he has spoken, will give his justly popular address, "Cheer Up! A Call to the Life Worth While" in Second Congregational Church next Sunday evening at 7:30. It will be in order for everyone to come smiling and prepared even to laugh without reproach. One heard, the "Cheer Up Man" will not soon be forgotten. He has spoken six times in the North M. E. church, twice in the South Methodist, twice in the big white Congregational church on the corner in East Hartford and four times in the Federated church at Wapping.

Pastor J. Burford Parry of Hope Congregational church, Springfield, himself a well-known lecturer, says of this "Cheer Up" talk: "It was apparent from the start that each person present was gripped by the subject. Immediately upon being introduced, Mr. Bells plunged into his lecture and from that moment held the attention of his audience." Pastor John Logan Findlay, formerly of Old South Church, Worcester, comments, "A great company of people listened with rapt attention to the address. All went away determined to live the cheerful life hereafter." Pastor Henry J. Johnson of the M. E. Church of East Orange, N. J., writes, "Whether Mr. Bells be a Doctor of Divinity we know not, but a 'doctor' of the mind he most certainly is," and Pastor C. F. Luther in Amherst, Mass., comments briefly, "Cheer Up! You Won't go to sleep."

The talk and the talker are equally praised by newspapers from Vermont to Pennsylvania. Presidents of men's clubs, community clubs and Kiwanis clubs and well known men like Doctor Rockwell Harmon, Potter of Hartford, and Dr. Neil MacPherson of the First Church of Christ in Springfield, Henry G. Ives, Unitarian pastor in Amherst, Mass., says as "it is hard to say which to admire most in the speaker, his endless flow of apt and unexpected quotations, his swift and varied action of each part he assumed, the upelling good nature he showed, or the deep and real religious feeling throughout."

Mary Bushnell Cheney auxiliary No. 13, U. S. W. V. will hold a special meeting in the state memory tomorrow night at 7 o'clock sharp. Action will be taken on several applications for membership.

SAVE THE ROADS.

The Connecticut Legislature is finding the "dirt roads" problem more complex than it realized.

The proposition to set off a sort of grand division of the highway appropriation—two million dollars—is the sum now contained in an amended bill—for use on the gravel roads under the supervision of the Highway Department seems to have struck a snag in the Senate, that body having discovered that you cannot eat your cake and have it too.

The Senate is, naturally, rather more of a "main highway" than a "dirt roads" body, as it largely represents communities more interested in inter-city communication than in providing transportation for the back town farmer. And it has come to a sudden realization that if you take two million dollars away from the main highway program to spend it on the back country roads you make the appropriation for the trunk line routes just two million dollars smaller—unless you tax some more or start borrowing.

It would be interesting, in this connection to know two things. One of them is how much money is being stolen out of the pockets of the people of the state by owners of trucks who, by sending out tremendously overweight loads, tear up the highways illegally and illegally impose on the state the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars for needless wear and tear. The other is how far the amount of money thus stolen would go toward maintaining the dirt roads for which there is just now a crying demand for cash.

It would seem as if a highly important part of financing Connecticut roads lay in preventing them from being ripped to pieces as soon as laid by enforcing the limitation on truck loads. Sporadic attempts at such enforcement in spots about the state recently have disclosed that the violations of the law are as common as traffic signs.

SHOULD HELP GREATLY.

It is to be anticipated that President Coolidge's latest movement in the direction of ending competitive naval construction among the three major sea powers will be successful, at least to the extent of bringing the United States, Great Britain and Japan into conference. A proposal to limit future construction in cruisers, destroyers and submarines—being perfectly definite, containing no suggestion of the scrapping of existing ships and being confined to a trio of nations all of which have sound reason to want to quit costly ship building and all of which have put themselves on record as favoring limitations—ought to carry with it almost a guarantee of success.

In two of the three countries at least, however, there is an influential if small group among whom the policy of naval limitation will find scant favor. Both Britain and this country have developed a class of "big navy" cultists to whom ships, guns and the glamor of sea power are an obsession. These people, like the followers of certain games and sports, frequently lose all sense of proportion. Economics, human rights, international policies mean nothing to them. They are very much in the absorbing and enormously extravagant chess of naval construction. If there were no other potential contestant in sight they would, conceivably, set about thinking some way of sailing a fleet of twenty thousand ton battleships to Mars.

These people have friends in the newspaper and magazine offices. They get the ear of the public to a surprising extent. They are the ablest and busiest propagandists we have. They are positively not for Mr. Coolidge's plan of arms limitation or anything else calculated to leave room on the oceans for merchant ships or a nickel in the treasury for any but naval purposes.

Aside from them, however, there are in this country and probably in Britain very few citizens indeed who will not hail the proposed conference as a positive if limited blessing, inasmuch as there is no reason to believe that the parley will fall to attain its object.

Of course anything that is done at Geneva will have to be more or less conditional, for it is not at all certain where the aspirations of Italy may lead her in naval construction or how far France would be compelled to follow the Mussolini lead.

But in any event there is every ground for hope that the upcome of the new limitations proposal will be relief, to all the countries concerned, from hundreds of millions of dollars wastage in the next decade from the building of ships for which there is no need and no valid excuse.

EXAGGERATION.

Types of news stories run in fashion waves to some extent. Just lately there has been developed a propensity to turn every college student celebration into a bloody riot if the police interfere at all and if somebody so much as sprouts a gory nose.

Yesterday a tale came from Amherst which, if taken literally, would mean that every student in Amherst college, including of course the son of the President of the United States, had been given a police court record by being placed "on probation" after a desperate outbreak.

No such thing happened, even according to the details of the news story itself. Two boys were fined for snowballing electric light bulbs in the course of an ordinary student jubilation. The fines were suspended by the judge on condition that the student body behaved itself for a year. If that constitutes putting the college personnel on probation we don't know the meaning of the term.

College student jamborees are not in any degree more lawless or desperate now than they have been at any time during the last hundred and fifty years. But there is more of a newspaper vogue for pretending that they are wild and wicked and woolly than there ever was.

LET 'EM ALONE.

Really, it would seem that in a country with as much room in it as the United States an almost unnecessary amount of mental anguish is aroused by such circumstances as the prohibition of the teaching of evolution in Tennessee and other benighted states, the arrest of Sunday golf players in South Carolina, etc.

It is not at all as if one had to go to Tennessee from some other state in order to continue to sustain life. It is not as if one could play golf at Aiken and nowhere else.

There is plenty of space in America, and railways and good highways lead to most of it. If one, in order to live in Tennessee, must submit to having his children taught in schools governed by ignoramus, why on earth should he elect to live in Tennessee? For that matter what is there about Tennessee to make anybody want to live in it anyhow?

And if one must sit in his hotel room on a Sunday, sucking his thumbs, as the price of enjoying the undeniably equable climate of Aiken, why should he not spend his winter vacation somewhere else? Surely South Carolina has no monopoly on balmy airs and golf courses.

There are hedgehog communities whose bristles rise in the presence of either new people, new ideas or new facts—communities which want no contact with the outer world. Tennessee is such a one. It should be left to the Tennesseans. There are other communities which seek contact with the outside world for the sake of the outside world's dollar. When such a one seeks to impose on its paying guests its own narrow concepts of virtue and righteousness its hotels should be left empty, its golf links unpatronized, its itchy palm unsatisfied.

But nobody should be distressed. There is so much room elsewhere.

SLOW WORK.

It has taken the New Haven police commissioners ever since before Christmas to make up its mind to discharge from the force a patrolman who was caught coming out of a burglarized store with his pockets full of change from the cash register and who admitted to two of his superiors that, while he didn't make the break, he did rob the till when he found the place open. Also his superiors had long been suspicious of the unusual number of such breaks on his beat, and it transpired that the man had a more or less variegated police record before going on the force. The criminal charge against the policeman was noted.

Temporizing like this is about as bad business as responsible authorities can well be guilty of.

It may be impossible for police boards at all times to be absolutely right in their selection of men for the three qualities of intelligence, courage and honesty, but when they

and they have made a mistake the punishment should be not as light as possible but as heavy, and not as tardy as possible but as quick. One crooked policeman, and the public knowledge of his crookedness, can do more harm to the morale of a town than a whole force can do good. It is a case that calls for emergent administration of justice.

BLAME THE SENATE.

The Senate's habit of rejecting nominations made by President Coolidge is likely to result in Connecticut doing without its additional federal judge authorized by the recent session of Congress. The President evidently does not relish experiences like that which he has undergone in the recess appointment of Judge Tilson to the Georgia district, which appointment the Senate has twice refused to confirm, and so it is announced that there is little likelihood of the selection of an incumbent for the Connecticut Judgeship until the Senate is again in session. President Coolidge does not propose, in this instance, to put a judge on the bench only to have him summarily bounced by the Senate.

Wherefore the congestion in the federal court in this business is no likely to be relieved for the better part of a year. It would take a person of considerable nerve, however, to blame Mr. Coolidge for the conditions.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE.

A little while ago we were all listening to the marvelous things that were happening over in Luxor at the opening of the several castles of King "Tut." Evidently you remember that among the descriptions of the dazzling decorations and ornamentations, frequent mention was made of jeweled scarabs, idealized representations of the sacred beetle of the Egyptians.

Will you be surprised when I tell you that these beetles belong to the same family as our humble, well-known tumble-bug, which in some ways is about the most unattractive, I might say unrefined, bug that it would be possible to find.

There are a good many varieties of this tumble-bug which are all alike in their method of depositing their eggs in balls of cow manure, the outside covered with earth, sand or dust. This ball is then morily rolled and tumbled along until a suitable place is found, where it is buried. Some of these several inches beneath the surface of the ground.

In these very unpleasant surroundings the eggs hatch and the roundings of the grub develops into the tumblebug. Send a stamped, addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine, of Washington, D. C. through arrangements made by this paper.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 9.—The Hon. Earle B. Mayfield, senator from the great state of Texas, who amused the Senate with his coin tricks during the all-night Boulder dam session, is a parlor magician of parts.

He does all sorts of parlor tricks in addition to the coin tricks; this sort of thing, along with the penchant for story-telling, is the senator's hobby.

Other senators were not exactly astonished when they observed the Hon. Mr. Mayfield put a half dollar in the palm of his hand and make it come out of his left ear.

Non did they gasp as he put a quarter in his shoe and then produced a quarter from each ear, as if they were the same quarter that went into the shoe.

For the Hon. Mr. Mayfield had long since achieved certain distinction for his ability in causing coins to disappear and then reappear again in the most unexpected places.

The Hon. Mr. Mayfield can do tricks with paper wads, too.

The other day he inscribed on a Senate memorandum pad the mystic symbols:

F U N E M

S I F M

F U N E X

S I F X

N I L F M N X

Other senators puzzled—maybe it was a message from the imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan or something.

"Able in a restaurant," Mayfield explained, "if you enny 'em' 'Es. I. 'ef em.' 'Ef you enny eggs' 'Es. I. 'ef eggs.' 'En I'll 'ef 'em an' eggs.' Simple, isn't it?"

The Hon. Mr. Mayfield knows the one about A B C D goldfish, too.

One busy day he dashed into his office and called his three girl secretaries to attention. "A farmer left 17 mules to his three sons," said he, as soon as the girls had pencils and pads, "bequeathing half of them to one son, a third to another and a ninth to the other. How could they divide 'em up?"

The girls gave up and Mayfield had to explain that the judge threw in his own mule to make 18 and after dividing them properly took back his own mule and left everybody happy.

A drunken person was driving down the street and picked up a minister to give him a ride, according to Mr. Mayfield. The driver didn't know his passenger was a minister, but the minister soon knew the driver was pie-eyed. Becoming nervous, the minister asked leave to get out as he must meet friends.

"Allright," said the driver, "but whass your name?" "Paul," said the pastor, not anxious to reveal his identity. "Well, well," said the drunk, "just tell me one thing—did you ever get an answer to those letters you wrote to the Ephesians?"

"You've heard that one, you say? Well, it's a fact that jokes are often dead and buried two or three years through the rest of the country before they get to Washington.

NEW YORK

New York, Mar. 9.—Fame, as so many have discovered, is likely to be achieved through some trifling incident.

A film actor going about unrecognized for years, suddenly dons a pair of tortoise shell glasses and, to his fame and fortune are at hand.

A musical comedy performer, barnstorming about the country in small parts, gets the bright idea of talking to the orchestra leader, and, four months later he is hailed by Broadway as a master of originality.

It is so even in the world of musicians, painters and such. Invariably the question is asked why one artist becomes a celebrity and another of even greater ability goes through a terrific struggle, attracting only slight attention.

Everyone admits that the "break" figure to a large extent. Arthur Judson, the concert manager, told me the other day of an American singer who had been appearing at the Metropolitan for a number of years, and getting only the most casual sort of public notice.

Then one day there came a squabble over curtain calls. It was during a very important revival and, on the face of the circumstances, it looked as though the American had been slighted by a veteran in a curtain call. As a matter of fact the circumstance arose purely accidentally.

But the audience resented the situation and expressed itself in clamorous shouting. A leading critic was present and turned the episode into a rather sensational story which appeared on his newspaper's front page.

Overnight the struggling artist became a personage of great importance. He was not one bit a better artist than he had been, but he happened to get a "break."

Ordinarily critics might have been smoking in the foyer, or the audience would not have taken the matter to heart, or the curtain call confusion would never have occurred.

The singer was, of course, a real artist and given an opportunity had no difficulty living up to his publicity.

The "breaks" work both ways. Thus there was a case of another singer who got away to extremely bad luck.

He was scheduled to make a debut in an opera he had never before sung. The premier was at a matinee. It so happened that the night performance was one of great importance. So the critics left early that they might write their articles, have their dinners and be back at curtain time.

The singer, nervous over his debut, did not get his stride until after most of the critics had left. Thus he received but half-hearted approval. Thereafter he struggled along in the background until cast in a performance attended by all the prominent critics, whereupon he was enthusiastically received and today is a leading star. The Prince Of Wales

A Series of Seven Articles by
MINOTT SAUNDERS
Special Writer of the UNITED PRESS, on the World's Most Popular Man.

THE SPORTING PRINCE

London (United Press).—The Prince of Wales is greater as a sportsman than he is great in sport. He plays games and hunts with intense enthusiasm, often with disquieting recklessness, but he is not an expert at any game.

More important than his skill, however, is his splendid spirit in athletic competitions. He always tries to do well, but he places sportsmanship above individual triumph, and he is a good loser. He is loved as the sporting prince because he so admirably typifies the English code of sport for sport's sake.

H. R. H. is chiefly celebrated abroad for his "falling to the ground," but this impression of his riding is unfair because it does not do him credit. Riding is his favorite sport and this season he has been hunting on an average of twice a week. His record at Melton, Mowbray, where he usually hunts, is better than that of many recognized fine horsemen, but his trouble is that every time he takes a toss the spill goes reverberating around the world. What often escapes his critics is his pluck in leaping to his feet and chasing his mount across the field in order to continue the hunt. He may go down—that being part of the game—but he never goes out.

The Prince has taken an interest in sport from childhood. He kicked a football about the royal gardens with his brothers, and later at Sandringham played matches with children of the neighborhood, but often became irritated because they respected his princely person to the detriment of their attack. He was a keen bicycle rider and showed an early hankering for speed.

At Oxford young Edward first came in contact with his fellows in sport on an equal footing. He liked rugby, but was not sturdy enough to take part in actual matches. His best game at that time was soccer football. He was fast on his feet and shifty with the ball. He didn't mind in the least that a shoulder or being spilled in the mud. He became a familiar figure on the field with the Magdalen second eleven.

Unlike most aristocratic Englishmen, the Prince never cared much for cricket, and rarely attempted to play it. His friends also believed the game was too slow for him, which was probably true. He has always shown a preference for keen excitement in sports. Cricketers enough, tennis never interested him much. He never learned to play well, and he is too self-conscious to appear as a dub in a game. His brother Albert, the Duke of York, is the star tennis player of the family, and has played at Wimbledon a doubles.

Edward has spent much time at golf, particularly during the past two or three years. He is credited with a handicap of fourteen, but only on his best days can he justify his rating. He is very human at golf and makes many mistakes. His chief difficulty in perfecting his game is the curiosity of crowds. Before he gets over a hole or two on any course he has attracted a big gallery, and this makes him nervous and puts him off his game. On one occasion he topped an easy approach and then pulled off his cap and gave it a disgusted fling. Immediately, however, he recovered himself, and with a sheepish smile went and got his cap and resumed play. His feeling about the game is reflected in a remark he once made to some fellow players: "It is easier to make an ass of yourself at golf than in any other game in the world."

Unlike his father, the Prince is not very keen on shooting. He has done a fair amount of bird shooting on the moors, and he handles a gun well, but he prefers to hunt or play polo.

"When I get older and cannot hunt as I do now, I shall probably take up shooting seriously," he once explained. If he does he will have to improve to equal his father. The King is one of the best guns in the country.

Edward's best game is squash rackets. When he is in town he plays almost daily, usually in the morning to set him up for the day. Also he greatly delights in running. He is an early riser and often, clad in a sweater and running shorts, he will be in the palace gardens by seven o'clock, running around briskly and humming up.

But Edward is happiest where horses are concerned. He first took up riding seriously at Oxford, and since then it has been a craze with him. Hunting is his chief joy in life. He loves polo, and sometimes plays a very creditable game, but he lacks the weight and strength to be expert. He does not get much time to play, but he is ambitious of improving his form.

"I shall go to India one day again when I can," he remarked to a friend. "It is just one vast polo ground, and I want to play well." The Prince is a very fine rider on the flat, but he is an indifferent steeplechaser. Critics who study his riding from the horseman's point of view say that he does not possess the horseman's hands. His grip is also faulty, and he is frequently riding the fences too far out of the saddle. But he is a dead game. He rides the most spirited hunters and has no fear of them. He tackles all obstacles and takes great chances. If he comes a cropper he offers no excuses, but is keener than ever for the hunt. Many attempts have been made to restrain him, but in riding his will is firm. In 1924 the question of his riding was taken up in Commons and it was there stated that "the nation views with apprehension the manner in which he exposes himself to danger, and trusts that his Royal father will exercise upon him an appropriate measure of restraints."

For a time Edward curtailed his riding, but refused to be persuaded to abandon the sport. The Prince keeps seventeen hunters at Melton Mowbray, but in buying horses he always asks the advice of experts. In tumbling at various times he has broken both shoulder blades, sprained a wrist and an ankle and has been kicked in the face, but his morale is higher than ever. His riding is no joke to him and he feels that the popular reaction to his tosses is not sporting.

The Prince has played the games of many peoples in many lands. He was very keen on pig-sticking in India, but he did not like tiger hunting as it was introduced to him in India because he was taken on a State Hunt, with a ring of elephants protecting him, and this was not what he regarded as sport. He likes lots of action, and wants to take chances. He shares with many young men of his age the restlessness that is a heritage of the war, and he finds an outlet in exciting sport.

HUPP'S FEBRUARY IS RECORD MONTH

Shipments Jump 49 Per Cent Above January; Building of Three Custom Models Started.

Indicative of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation's plans to make 1927 the most successful year in its history is its statement that shipments of Huppobiles during February were 4106 cars. This is the greatest February shipment in its history, and is a 49 per cent increase over January.

Its March production and shipping schedules have been set at the highest figure the company ever attained, says R. S. Cole, general sales manager.

"We are continuing to increase our capacity, both in our eight and six cylinder divisions," he said. "The demand for each of those cars this year will be the largest we have ever enjoyed. Additional plant capacity will become available the latter part of this month and in April. This will permit of material gains over our record sales of 1926."

Addition of three custom models to the Huppobile Eight line gives the buyer a choice of 14 body styles from which to select, together with a wide range of color and upholstery options. Three Huppobile closed models will be exhibited at the Manchester Auto Show by A. F. Gustafson, local representative.

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards' 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with liver, giving them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Gangrene Victim's Three Sisters Found by Police—Patient's State Still Critical.

The condition of Harry Behring, 54, an employe of the C. R. Burr nursery company, who was recently severely injured in an automobile accident resulting in an amputation of the left leg, was reported today as still critical, although Memorial hospital officials said he appeared a little brighter.

Manchester police have learned that Behring, who at first said his name was Briggs, has three sisters, living in Greater New York. One of them, Mrs. Michael B. Eithor, of Richmond Hill, Long Island, came here yesterday with her daughter. They visited Behring at the hospital and then returned home. The sisters were located by the Manchester police through the assistance of Inspector Leahy of New York. The others are Mrs. William Koehlig, of Manhattan City and Mrs. Robert Knower, of Long Island City.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The First Disciples

John the Baptist, seeing Jesus, said, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." Again, with two of his disciples, as they looked upon Jesus, he said, "Behold the Lamb of God!" (John 1:29-36)

"The two disciples heard John speak, and they followed Jesus." One of them was Andrew. (John 1:37-40)

Andrew found his brother Peter, and he brought him to Jesus. (John 1:41-42)

Philip, who was probably the other of the two disciples to whom John spoke, found Nathanael, who said of Jesus, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" However, he responded to Philip's invitation, "Come and see," and became a disciple. (John 1:43-51)

NEW SERIAL TO OPEN AT CIRCLE THURSDAY

"Bill Grimm's Progress." Wither Story, Has All Star Cast; Two Features.

Not the least part of the program for Thursday and Friday at the Circle is the beginning of a new serial based on H. C. Wither's "Bill Grimm's Progress." This feature, by the same competent cast as the "Telephone Girl" and others with Wither, stars Kit Guard and Al Cooke, the two Big Berthas of the two-reel comedy field.

It is a boxing serial full of comedy and action. Kit Guard is a boxer-fighter under the management of Cooke. John Gough is a scream as the rival fight manager and Margaret Morrison makes a charming heroine.

Two big features in addition to the drama of the serial are "Seven Chances," starring Dorothy Revier. The three-reel comedy "Seven Chances" will be given this evening by the Town Players of Manchester under the auspices of the local Girl Scout council.

"Seven Chances," which is being given under the direction of Miss Ruth Calhoun and Louis R. Smith, has been in rehearsal for the past six weeks and was polished off at the final rehearsal held on Monday evening.

Members of the cast include some who have been in other Town Players' productions during the past two years. There is also considerable new talent which is appearing in their debut in this play.

The leading roles of the play are being taken by Louis R. Smith as Jimmy Shannon, and Miss Beatrice Johnson, well known local reader, as Anne Windsor, the heroine. Mr. Smith is an actor of considerable experience on the professional stage but has become connected with the Town Players while in Manchester. Miss Johnson has been heard in readings for some time now and makes her debut as a member of the organization in this play.

Costumes have been loaned by the Little Fashion Shop and by George H. Williams. Watkins Brothers have set the stage with furniture and decorations.

JACK LOCKWILL'S SPEEDBOAT

by Gilbert Patten

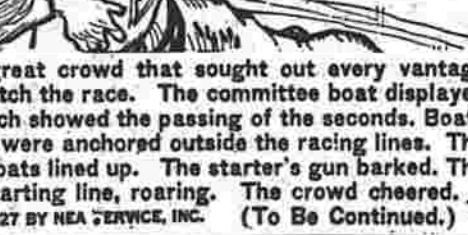

"The dirty little sneak's been watching us!" cried McNally wrathfully. "You're a fine one to call anybody a sneak!" was Darling's contemptuous retort. "We caught you fellows spying on Jack!" That enraged the Bad Egg so much that Magovern had to hold him to prevent him from assaulting Darling. "Don't forget that he saved you from drowning, Tom!" cried Slants. "Come away and let him alone."

Willie watched them depart. "If I could get at Lockwill's boat," McNally told Slants, "it never would win that race." "Be careful," warned Magovern. "It'd go hard with you if you were caught."

Willie met Jack after he returned to the club house "You better engage that mechanical who was with you today for the race," said Willie. "I'd be no good. I'm too nervous."

The event drew a great crowd that sought out every vantage point from which to watch the race. The committee boat displayed a huge white clock which showed the passing of the seconds. Boats loaded with spectators were anchored outside the racing lines. The five contesting speed boats lined up. The starter's gun barked. The racers shot over the starting line, roaring. The crowd cheered.

"FIG LEAVES" COMING TO RIALTO THEATER

Opie Read's literary classic "The Wives of the Prophets" heads the double feature program which choice of marrying five attractive women in the evening. The millions who have read the novel unite in acclaiming the motion picture version even better than the book itself. The theme of the story deals with a strange cult making its headquarters in a wild and inaccessible spot in the Tennessee mountains. Their religion promises the return of a prophet and when Howard Bryce, a young lawyer meets with an accident while training among the hills he is mistaken for this all important personage. Bryce is given his closest engagement at the Rialto maidens or suffering death and his amazing adventures in solving the predicament furnishes some real entertainment. Alice Lane and Orville Caldwell have the leads in "The Wives of the Prophets."

The second attraction being offered on the same bill is "Mistake in Orders," a thrilling railroad melodrama starring Helen Holmes well known exponent of daring feats. Selected shorter subjects stores as well as modern beauty, say nothing of some marvelous technical sequences are the high lights of this picture in which Olive Bordon and George O'Brien are starred. The story is an interesting one and its main characters are a wife who demands pretentious clothing and a husband who feels he cannot afford them. Their troubles furnish a few more laughs than is ordinarily found in one motion picture and the film fairly teems with drama of the most enjoyable sort. The co-feature "Cyclone Bob" is a strikingly realistic tale of the modern west which stars Bob Reeves. Other attractions appear on the same bill.

COVENTRY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner announce the marriage of their daughter, Olive to Earl Mitchell of Manchester. The couple were married Monday in New York city.

A very interesting program was given Thursday evening at Coventry Grange. The meeting was in charge of sister Edith P. Haven, the topic being Rural Life. Remarks were given by Brother R. L. Reed and Sister C. Hall, comparing their boyhood days with the present time. A very interesting paper written by Sister Mabel Whitebridge was read by Sister Grace Reed on the same theme. "Sister Havens recited a poem "She Wouldn't Join." A very interesting series of songs were sung by the entire grange. At the next meeting, March 17, Bolton Grange will furnish the program and present this grange with the traveling gavel which will in turn be presented by Coventry Grange to Vernon Grange under the same conditions. The committee chosen for refreshments for March 17 were Sisters Lillian Pomeroy and May Kingsbury and Brother Frank Reed. There was a tie in the attendance contest Thursday night, there being 12 sisters and 12 brothers.

Miss Gertrude Anderson spent the week-end with her parents. Vincent and Mrs. Fred Anderson's.

Mrs. Clayton Carver of Rockville spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Noble Loomis.

Mrs. Rose Johnson and son Roy and wife spent Sunday with former's daughter, Mrs. C. Irving Loomis.

Miss Ruth Taylor spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Arthur B. Porter.

Lawrence Hill and two sisters of Rockville spent the week-end at home.

Wilfred Hill of Hartford was home for the week-end.

Ernest Eloy Richard has returned to Autumn View farm after completing an eight week poultry course at Farmingdale, Long Island.

The body of Mrs. Samuel Green was brought from Hartford Sunday afternoon for burial. Mrs. Green lived for a number of years on the place now owned by Max Geisler.

Wednesday evening the 4-H Tolland County Dairy club will present their achievement program at Ellington Grange. On April 5 they will present it again at Tolland. The program has been given three times already, being presented in town last Friday evening at an open Grange meeting. About seventy people were present and pronounced it a good program.

A collection was taken, the same to be used to send a member of the club to Junior Short Course at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

Word has been received that Mrs. Wallace McKnight is at the Robert Packard hospital, Sayre, Pa. The doctors are trying to re-

STATE GOLD RUSH IS HERE TONIGHT

$50 Given Away; 8 Acts of Vaudeville Tomorrow Matinee and Evening.

Due to an error made by the State theater's press agent it was stated that gold would be given away on Tuesday evening. The Gold Night is tonight and with the presentation of $50 will be shown two big features, chief among which will be Dorothy Gish in "London." The second of the big features is "The Overland Stage," a western feature.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening the State will present eight big acts of vaudeville, headed by the foremost troupe of Japanese acrobats and tumblers now in America, and the side-splitting post-war comedy, "Tin Hats," starring Conrad Nagel and Claire Windsor.

Tonight's program is one of the best of the present season for the two pictures on the bill are of unusual merit. "London" is a tale of the great city at night, acted in the usual realistic Gish style. It is the story of a young girl who is left to face the terrors of the big city. How she makes good in spite of the pitfalls that yawn before her make one of the most interesting spectacles ever screened.

"The Overland Stage" is without a doubt one of the best stories on a Western theme seen here this year. Mysteries surrounding the continued robbing of the Wells Fargo express afford the scenarist ample material with which to build up an exciting mystery story with a western atmosphere.

MOSTIL, STAR OF WHITE SOX, TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Notes Of The Training Camps

Sarasota, Fla., March 9.—Having defeated the Athletics 7 to 6 in a slam-bang contest here, the New York Giants today journeyed to Fort Myers for a return game with the Mackmen. For the second time in as many days Bo Lebourveau smacked a homer in his first appearance at bat, and Lindstrom and Terry also hit for the circuit.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 9.—Blis Funk, speedy outfielder from Oklahoma City, is making a strong bid for a job with the Yankees. His hitting enabled the second team to defeat the regulars seven to two yesterday. Pitcher Urban Shooker is still a holdout.

Clearwater, Fla., March 9.—Manager Wilbert Robinson today is continued experimenting with the Brooklyn outfield candidates. Meusel, Hendrick, Nietzke, Statz, Carey, Felix and Jacobson are waging a free-for-all battle for the positions.

Shreveport, La., March 9.—Training activities at the White Sox camp were practically suspended today as a result of the tragic plight of Johnny Mostil, star centerfielder. Mostil slashed his throat and arm with a razor yesterday in an attempt at suicide. His chances for recovery are very slight, physicians announced. The affair has cast a heavy pall of gloom over the erstwhile happy camp. Manager Ray Schalk and Bill Barrett, Johnny's roommate, are in constant attendance at the bedside.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., March 9.—There was much rejoicing here today over the result of yesterday's ball game in which the "Goats" beat the Cubs regulars, three to two. Hostilities were renewed today.

Orlando, Fla., March 9.—Smarting under their five to one defeat at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, the Cleveland Indians will try to get even today in a return engagement.

Tampa, Fla., March 9.—Well satisfied with the eight to four trouncing administered to Boston's Braves, the Senators returned to Tampa today for practice before taking on the Giants and Phillies here later in the week. Tris Speaker got away to a good 1927 start by batting .500 in the Braves' game.

Avon Park, Fla., March 9.—The Braves meet the St. Louis Cardinals today. Despite the fact that they took an eight to four licking from the Senators in yesterday's practice game, the Braves looked good, and if it was not for their tough breaks they might have piled up a big score. Greenwicz and Benton did the pitching.

New Orleans, March 9.—The threatening weather of the past few days has caused Manager Bill Carrigan some disappointment. Yesterday's practice had to be postponed. "Bill" figures the more games that are played the sooner he will be able to see "who's who."

THISTLES MEET

LOCALS SUNDAY

Soccer Season to Start at Mt. Nebo With Hartford Club As Opposing Team.

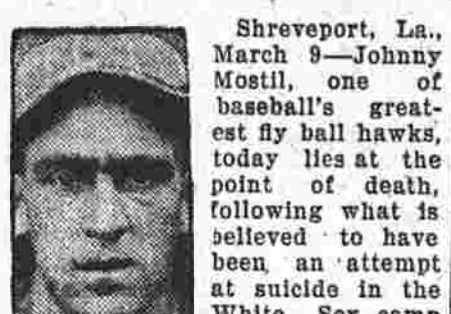

Manager Jimmy McCollough announced this morning that the Hartford Thistles will meet the Manchester Club in the first spring soccer game Sunday at the historic Mt. Nebo battle grounds. The match will start at 2:45 with Andy York officiating.

The Hartford Thistles and Manchester are real rival aggregations and the fur flies when these two teams lock horns. Sunday's game will be a state league affair so both clubs are more than anxious to cop the verdict.

The Referee

Tell me the exact number of games won and lost by Grover Alexander in the big leagues?—F. E. B. Alexander has won 327 games and lost 178 games in 16 campaigns. Was Jack Bentley ever in the big leagues before he was sold to the New York Giants?—N. C. Yes. He was with Washington in 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916. Are any boxers rated as millionaires?—R. E. W. Jack Dempsey and Lew Tendler may fall in that class. Each owns considerable property in California.

Is Dying In Southern Hospital With 5 Knife Wounds On Neck and Body; Found By Roommate.

Shreveport, La., March 9.—Johnny Mostil, one of baseball's greatest by ball hawks, today lies at the point of death, following what is believed to have been an attempt at suicide in the White Sox camp at the Youres hotel here.

There were five knife wounds in his left breast in the heart region, a razor slice in his neck, razor cuts in both legs, and his left arm nearly severed when he was found in the apartment of Pat Prunty late yesterday.

There seems to be no argument but that Johnny tried to destroy himself. He arrived Monday morning from Chicago in company with Bill Barrett and his perpetual rooster, Patrick Prunty. In good spirits to exert himself in the initial workout and confined his training to a few jogs about the outfield. Yesterday it rained and there was no practice session. At 3:45 p. m., Johnny chatted gaily with the writer in the hotel lobby. He then retired to the room reserved for Prunty who had gone to play cards with friends in a nearby apartment. Prunty later said:

"When I left room 382 Johnny was lying asleep in my bed. I was awakened two hours. About 5:30 I returned. The door had been locked inside. "I was compelled to summon a bell boy with a master key to open the door.

Thrusting open the bath room door I was obliged to find Mostil lying on the floor, gasping from a number of wounds. I ran screaming into the hall and finally attracted the attention of Manager Ray Schalk, Bill Barrett and Willie Kauffman.

A pearl handled knife which was found on the plate glass rest in the bath room was bloodstained to the hilt. This instrument had been driven five times in the heart region. A safety razor blade had been used for the purpose of slicing his neck on the right side, under the ear, also both his left and right legs, while his left hand had almost been severed.

Little time was lost in removing Johnny, who then seemed half dead, to the Schumpernt sanitarium where he was attended by the best surgical expert and four nurses.

Practically all hope for his recovery has been abandoned, although physicians say he had a fighting chance to live. Mostil's desire along this line may have much to do with the verdict, it was said. Early today he experienced lucid intervals during which he recognized those around him. Once to Manager Ray Schalk he said: "Oh, Ray this is terrible."

For twenty-six days prior to his arrival in Shreveport Mostil had been an inmate of Mercy hospital, Chicago, undergoing treatment for an infected arm. When he reported he was feeling none too strong and his early preliminary work here was of a mild character.

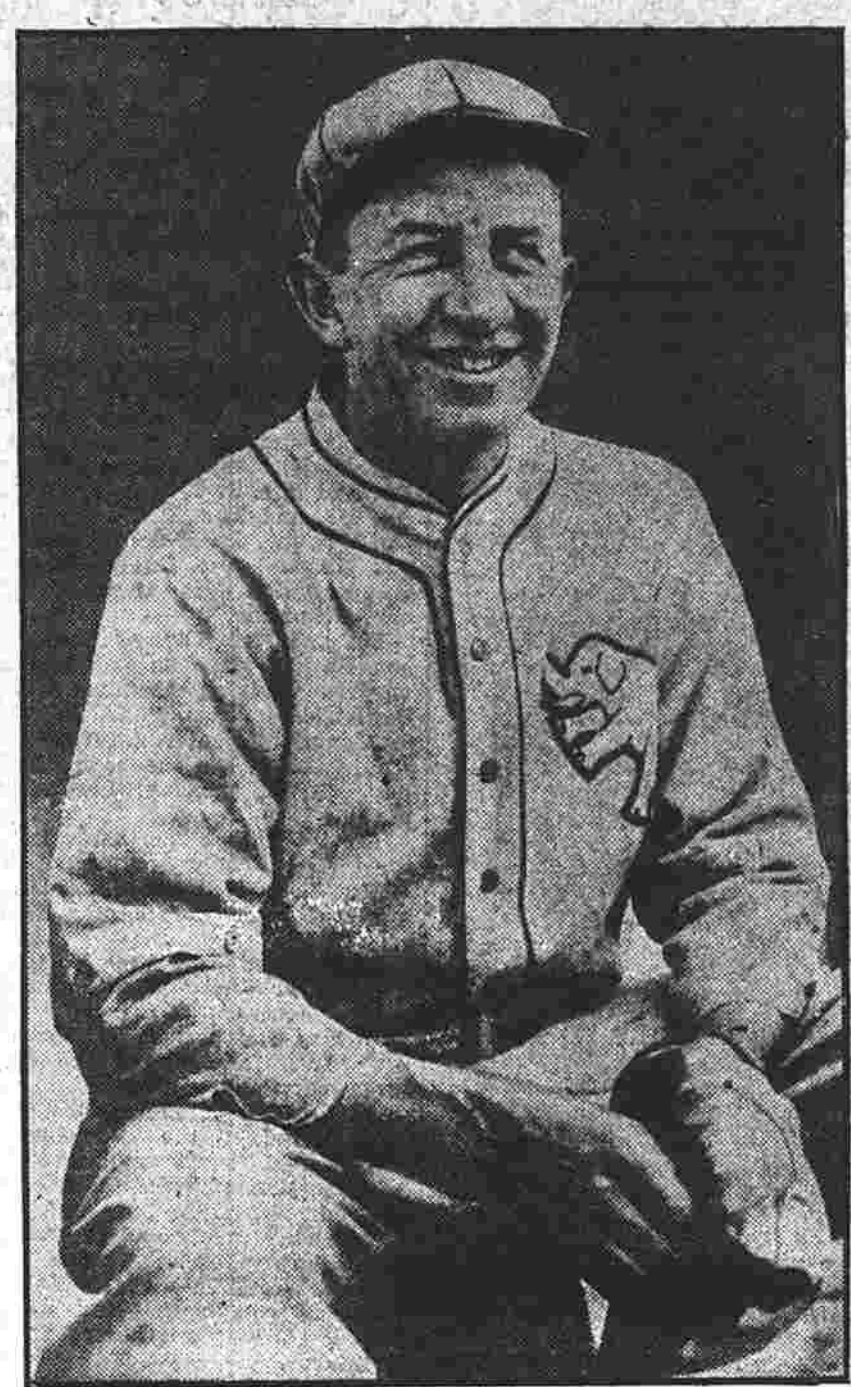

MANCHESTER GIRLS BEAT BRISTOL TWICE

Manchester girls won two out of three games in the first state league matches with the Center Rec girls of Bristol last night at Murphy's alleys before a large crowd. The return match will be rolled in Bristol tomorrow night. Manchester won the first game by two pins, lost the second and won the third and deciding game by seven pins in the last two boxes by getting four successive spares.

Back To First Love

Off with the new love, on with the old, the saying might be reversed for Eddie Collins. Collins, manager of the Chicago White Sox last year, is again back with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, the team for which Collins starred years ago as a member of that famous "million dollar infield." The picture was taken in the A's training camp at Fort Meyers, Fla.

BRAVES WILL BE SATISFIED IF THEY WIN FOURTH PLACE

Dave Bancroft Banks On Several Cast-Offs to Make Boston Stronger, Evans Finds.

BY BILLY EVANS

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 9.—You hear no pennant talk in the camp of the Boston Braves. The members of the team which finished seventh in the National League race seem to realize that from seventh to first is quite a hurdle. However, don't get the impression the members of the Boston Braves don't think they form a pretty good ball club. Led by the remarkable Dave Bancroft, who seems to lose none of the uncanny ability that has characterized his play since he broke into the big show, the Braves are set to show the world that Boston has a better club than the near tail-enders of last season.

The Braves are shooting at fourth place, the first division. That would be a rare achievement. Incidentally, any club able to keep acquainted with the first division is always a pennant possibility.

Manager Bancroft is hopeful of better things when he looks over the showing made by the Braves during the last 50 games played last season. During that time, in one of the most hectic races ever staged in the National League, the Braves played better than 500 ball.

It was during the last few weeks of having during the last few weeks of play by consistently trimming the two leaders, St. Louis and Cincinnati. As a matter of fact, the late season success of Boston against Cincinnati just about put the Reds out of the running.

As the Braves will present much the same front as last year. Two changes are possible, only one of them of a drastic nature. The one experiment Bancroft is now working on is the use of Eddie Moore at third base. Moore, it will be recalled, is a second sacker. He played that position for Pittsburgh in 1925, helping it to a pennant and world series.

Bancroft believes Moore can be converted into a capable third sacker. He has a remarkable throwing arm and is able to get the ball away quickly from any position. That is a most necessary asset.

Standing in the vicinity of third, coaching Moore, is Arthur Devlin, one of the three greatest players to ever fill that role in the majors. Ability, plus the best of coaching, may solve the third base problem for the Braves. Bancroft—there is no one better—will be at short, Gautreaux second and either Fournier or Burris at first.

The other contemplated change from the 1926 lineup is the use of the Braves' park and Richmond's expected to prove capable of taking care of a troublesome spot. Eddie Brown and Jimmy Welsh will probably complete the outfield trio. With a young ball club that has profited by last year's experience, the improvement of an added pitching, make Manager Bancroft hope for better things than seventh place this season.

Of one thing I am sure: regardless of where they finish, the Braves will be a troublesome ball club to a lot of pennant contenders.

KISS AND DIE

San Francisco.—Members of the medical profession here have issued a warning that there are just so many kisses in every human heart and it's up to the individual to spend them as he chooses. The average heart, they say, beats 1,548,264,000 times in a lifetime. Excitement, such as kissing, increases the rate from normal 70 to about 90. Thus, a single kiss would shorten life by nearly three minutes.

PROMOTER JENNEY HAS SEVERAL GOOD BOUTS LINED UP FOR FANS

Bill Taylor Expected to Furnish Some of Most Spectacular Fireworks of the Evening's Entertainment; the Entry List.

HOWARD, STRONG, HALL LOSE HARTFORD BOUTS

By Staff Correspondent

The amateur boxing bouts at Cheney hall will be the only sport attraction in Manchester tonight and judging from the advance sale of tickets, another capacity audience will watch the scheduled twenty-one rounds of milling. Promoter John L. Jenney has arranged seven bouts. The doors will open at 7:15 and the first bout will begin at 8:15 with "The Nut Cracker" Vennart ordering the breaks and calling the fouls. The judges will be H. H. Bissell, Walter Moske and Jack Copeland. Harry White will time.

The program arranged by Cheney Brothers Athletic Association promises to be replete with action. The fans should get their money's worth in the bout which involves Bill Taylor without considering the others. Taylor made a most impressive showing here two weeks ago and is expected to continue tonight in the same direction although Ed Squires, Waterbury boy, may block his path. Squires is said to be a nifty performer.

Johnny Angelo, Hartford entry, won his bout last night from Barney Youseman, and may be pitted against Frank Moore of Hartford this evening. Following is the complete list of entries and efforts will be made to bracket them in the order in which they appear:

- 118 Pounds: Bobby Morrison, Waterbury; Ray Strong, Hartford; Billy La, Manchester.
- 112 Pounds: Eddie Reed, Hartford; Joe Lenx, Hartford.
- 128 Pounds: Al Dowd, Manchester; Joe Kallik, Rockville; Harold Monahan, Rockville; George Davis, Hartford; Joe Bovins, Hartford.
- 130 Pounds: Joe Chant, Hartford; Billy Patrick, Hartford; Johnny Angelo, Hartford; Frank Moore, Waterbury; Barney Youseman, Hartford.
- 147 Pounds: Bill Hooper, East Hartford; Joe Kwock, Hartford; Ed. Squires, Waterbury; Vic Morley, Hartford.
- 160 Pounds: Larry Valro, Hartford; Jack Kelley, Waterbury.

UNDERSTOOD BOOS

The New York Giants have a Cuban catcher trying out with them this spring who does not understand English but admits he knows when he is being booed by the fans. He is Antonio Castro.

PIRATE FISHERMEN

Mexico City.—Small boat shipping in the Gulf of California is demoralized by the activities of four pirate bands. Rum-runners, filibusters and outlaws compose the crews who dodge about the obscure anchorages and prey on commercial vessels.

Three highly touted Hartford multi-lingers more than met their match last night at the Massachusetts Club card in Foot Guard Hall, Hartford. They were Joe Howard, Ray Strong and Ray Hall. The first two were trimmed by members of the New York team which split even in its four bouts. Hall was soundly trounced by Jean Martin, of Terryville. A capacity crowd saw the ten bouts but was not at all pleased when it was announced that "Bat" Battalina's opponent "falled to catch the train from New York."

Short and Sweet
New York was annihilated in the first two inter-state bouts. Pinky Kaufman, of Hartford knocked out Frank Irwin in less than three-quarters of a round. A right to the button ended the fray but the blow was delivered so quickly that many d'not see it land. Al Schooner, towering East Hampton farmer, who a week ago won his bout on a knockout in ten seconds, was forced to battle twenty-five seconds last night before he could send Bob Frank Carrano's victory over Ray Strong was not gained until after an extra round had been battled. But he earned the shade over his opponent by clever ring generalship. Strong was unable to get inside Carrano's guard effectively and Carrano was better at long range boxing.

Real Solid Punches
In the final bout, the fans saw more clean, hard punching than in all the other bouts put together. George Hoffman, the New York boxer, had only a left jab and a right cross but that was entirely enough to score a clean cut victory. Howard was in danger of taking the count on several occasions but managed to weather the storm.

Other bouts resulted as follows: Vincent La Bella, of Middletown, outpointed Johnny Mastro, of Hartford at 150 pounds. Johnny Angelo, who fights here tonight, won from Barney Youseman. Both are from Hartford and weigh 132 pounds. Louis Ganner, Hartford, was awarded a close decision over Louis Valro, Hartford, who is on the Manchester card tonight, at 145 pounds.

Vic Morley, Hartford scored a technical knockout over Art Palowitzer of East Hartford in the third round. Pancho Ville, Hartford, outpointed Danny Doran, of Hartford at 140 pounds.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE GARRETT FOLSON is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

"Don't you dare meddle with it!" cried Miss Anastasia.

The whole party arrived back at the hotel about the same time, and though the gay scene in the lounge and dancing rooms was attractive, Stone declared his readiness to meet Miss Folsom and her nephew and have a conference on the business that had brought him down.

of his death. Or better still, all the papers of his you have taken here, for it's easy to be mistaken as to the bearing of a document.

"All right, Mr. Stone," was the reply, but the observant eye of the detective noted a distinction to comply with the request.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

ALLENE SUMNER

There's entirely too much silly dish-washing," says Reza Lewis, greatest cook of Great Britain, they say—the lady who has found the way to such famous stomachs as those belonging to King Edward, King George, the Prince of Wales, the Kaiser, et al. Rosa, story has it, ordered a half chicken, an artichoke, toast and coffee in a New York hotel—yes, we have her with us today—and the waiter brought her what she ordered along with a ladle, seven dishes and a saucer, and 17 pieces of silver.

Rosa sent back four dishes, the saucer, two forks, two spoons, two knives and the ladle. The saucer especially peeved Rosa. Of course if you folks drink from a saucer. "I'm for Rosa. I fed shrimp wiggle from a chaffing dish, hot rolls, olives, sherbet and cake and coffee to 6 people last night, and we had 33 different objects to wash!"

Can you get along with a 16-inch seat? If you can't you'd best look out upon the tuff-frutti ice cream when it is tuffy, for they do say that pretty soon there'll be a law permitting us to sit on only 14 inches' worth of space in public—that means in street cars, theaters, churches, movies, mebbe even in taxi cabs.

It began in London. The Ministry of Transport decreed that 16 inches was enough for anybody, and if not, why not? The Minister, recalled that when King Edward VII, 16 inches was all the seat space the onlookers drew. If then, why not now? The answer might be "But they did not eat whipped cream and all dressings in those days!" One reason why there are civil wars!

Sheep and Goats

Men must sit on one side of the church, women on the other, according to a rule of the new First Methodist Church of Revere, near Boston. No doubt the brethren fear the distractions of sex appeal if the frails and stalwarts sit together. But there's warring that self-consciousness induced by the separation will cause many more minds to leave the sermon than if the congregation sat according to the usual practice.

Mugs and Ankles

Millions for faces but not one cent for ankles are spent yearly by American women, say "fingers." And someone remarks, "What folly! when men look at an ankle before a face." We will have a revival of that old question—do women dress to please men or men? Only the question now goes—do women "pretty up" their faces to please women or men?

My Beauty Aids for You

By Edna Wallace Hopper I offer you my premier beauty aids. They have cost me 40 years of searching, 35 trips to France, and at least $100,000. Today I have brought me a glorious career as a beauty on the stage, and that career continues. Women who see me daily envy my beautiful bloom.

My major help is my White Youth Clay. Not an ordinary clay, but the final product of scientific study. It is white, refined and dainty. It combines with two clays some of the other best helps known for beauty and youth and complexion. Older women seem to drop ten years. No lover of youth and beauty, when she learns the results, can neglect it.

My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads or blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. It combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. I never know a product which did so much so quickly.

Any girl or woman can gain new beauty or new youth from the application of my White Youth Clay. Often the results will seem unbelievable. My example shows how those results continue and increase.

Please try it. Any toilet counter supplies Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay at 50c and $1. Or the coupon will bring you a trial free, also my Beauty Book. You will always thank me for this offer.

Quick Relief

from pain, chest colds and congestion. Genotherm is a porous, sanitary cotton fleece of airy lightness, medicated with a purely vegetable active principle that is harmless but very effective. Wear it under your clothing, without inconvenience, needs no attention or renewing. No friction or discomfort; no grease or odor; does not clog the pores of the skin. Its gentle warmth soothes and heals. More effective if first sprinkled with Rubbing Alcohol.

Busy Women Beautify Hands by 2 Minute Test

No doubt you are a busy woman. Perhaps your work—at home or at business—is making your hands rough and coarse. Yet if you will spend but two minutes you can repair the damage that work has done and make your hands again naturally soft, white and charming. The secret is Thurston's Hand Cream—a brand new kind of cream, unlike anything you have ever tried before. It is not a cold cream, lotion or "vanishing cream," but something much more effective. Just a two minute test will gain you surprising results. You can see it work as you rub it into the skin. It disappears quickly—no gloves necessary. Your money gladly refunded if not entirely satisfied. Full-sized jar $1.00. For sale at J. H. Quinlan & Co., Main street, South Manchester.—adv.

Vamp Your Child!

By Olive Roberts Barton

It was about half past three in the afternoon of a dark, rainy day. I had dropped in unexpectedly to visit a friend, and found her in an old dress and gingham apron, polishing furniture.

"I'm so very, very glad to see you!" she cried. "It's a wonderful day to sit by the fire and chat. Sit down, won't you, and look over a magazine while I run up and dress. I'll only be a few minutes."

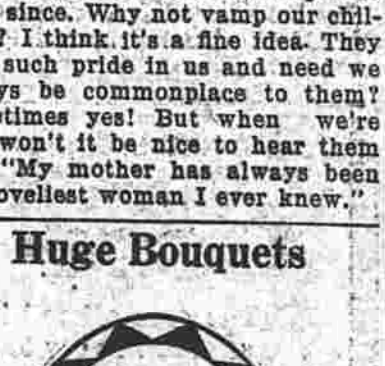

"Oh, don't dress!" I begged. "You are all right. No one will see you but me and I've seen you muscled up before. Wash your hands and take off your apron and come and sit down. I'm dying for a good gossip."

"I must dress," she said firmly, looking at the clock. "It's almost time for the children to be home from school."

"The children!" "Yes! I always dress for them. I want to look as pretty as I can when they come. You see—I'm a sort of vamp them," she said, with a conscious flush. "I don't want my girl and boy to learn to think of me as just Mother, a useful, piece of furniture that makes life comfortable and helps them with their lessons. I want them to think me the most—or almost—the most beautiful thing in the world. It's a little conceit of mine, perhaps a little cowardice. Call it what you like, but I can't help thinking that when women lose their children's interest and love, it is often their own fault."

BEAUTY here, in overflowing measure—in the latest models of the Hupmobile Six, the closest-priced six in America.

Clear-vision bodies in the latest design, staunch and solid; with color options for your choice.

Rich mohair upholstery; walnut steering wheel and walnut-finished interior trim; instruments grouped under glass, indirectly lighted; tilt-beam headlights controlled from the steering wheel; manifold heat control and thermostatic heat control; four wheel brakes and balloon tires, of course.

And that is barely more than a beginning. What makes Hupmobile the closest-priced six in America is its 10 per cent higher quality.

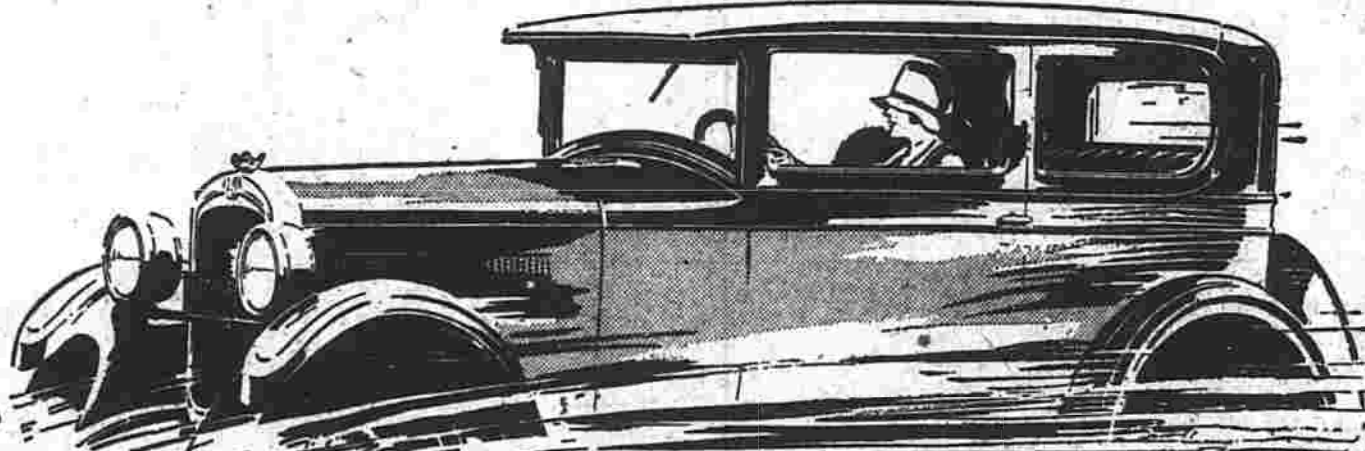

Costly Grade A materials instead of cheaper Grade B or C; Hupmobile's own laboratory tests of materials and processes; Hupmobile's own powerful long-lived engine and vital parts built in Hupmobile's own exacting way. Ten per cent higher quality all through, at a first cost that makes you doubt the real value of a higher-priced six; and an after-cost that opens your eyes to what economy means.

Power as smooth as electricity; pick-up and speed that leave ordinary sixes far behind; all the time, the kind of snap and get-away you want a six to have.

You can comb the entire six market with a fine tooth comb trying to find anything to match the Hupmobile. See it just once, ride in it just once—and you'll have no other six at any price.

Latest Models of the Hupmobile Six—Brougham, (Illustrated) $1385; Sedan, $1385; Coupe, $1385; Roadster, $1385; Touring, $1325. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, plus Revenue tax.
