Fifteen Hundred Devil Dogs On the Job to Protect American Lives and Prop- erty—Chaos Prevails as Victorious Cantonese Oc- cupy Shanghai.

Shanghai, March 21.—Serious fires, started by shells have broken out in Shanghai tonight.

Two city blocks in the native quarter, immediately adjoining the boundaries of the international settlement, are burning.

The area is thickly populated and covers a district half a mile square. Chinese firemen have been driven away from the fire by shells which continue, and the fire is unchecked.

Six hundred teachers and pupils, including some Americans, may be imperiled. If the fire continues to spread towards the Holy Family girls' school.

Washington, March 21.—Fifteen hundred United States marines have been landed in Shanghai, Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, reported to the Navy Department this morning.

The municipal council of Shanghai has declared a state of emergency and the marines were landed at the request of the American consul general, for protection of American lives and property, the dispatch added.

WORK IN SOFT COAL MINES TO CEASE APRIL 1

Over 300,000 Men Affected; Tie-Up to Last Four Months—Leaders Gather For Parley.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 21.—Pennsylvania soft coal miners and mine owners are gathering here today to prepare for a bitter struggle.

All mining operations in the Unionized soft coal fields of the country will cease April 1. Indications are the tie-up will last at least four months. There are strong reasons for believing it may last much longer.

300,000 To Strike

On April 1st 300,000 miners will cease work. If four months, their loss in wages will be $150,000,000. The loss to business will be greater than this.

It is more than a wage dispute. It is a fight on the part of powerful operators to smash on at least one of the United Mine Workers of America. On the other hand, the union hopes to regain its complete domination of the coal industry, weakened in recent years.

Theoretically, the general business welfare of the country should suffer until early winter. The stocks of coal above ground are by far the largest in history, and will last through the autumn. If history repeats itself, however, greedy speculators will start prices skyrocketing within a few weeks and industries, either caught unprepared, or panicky, will pay through the roof.

No Definite Plans

Neither side has any definite plan to avert the shutdown. On the contrary, each is making preparations for long, enforced idleness.

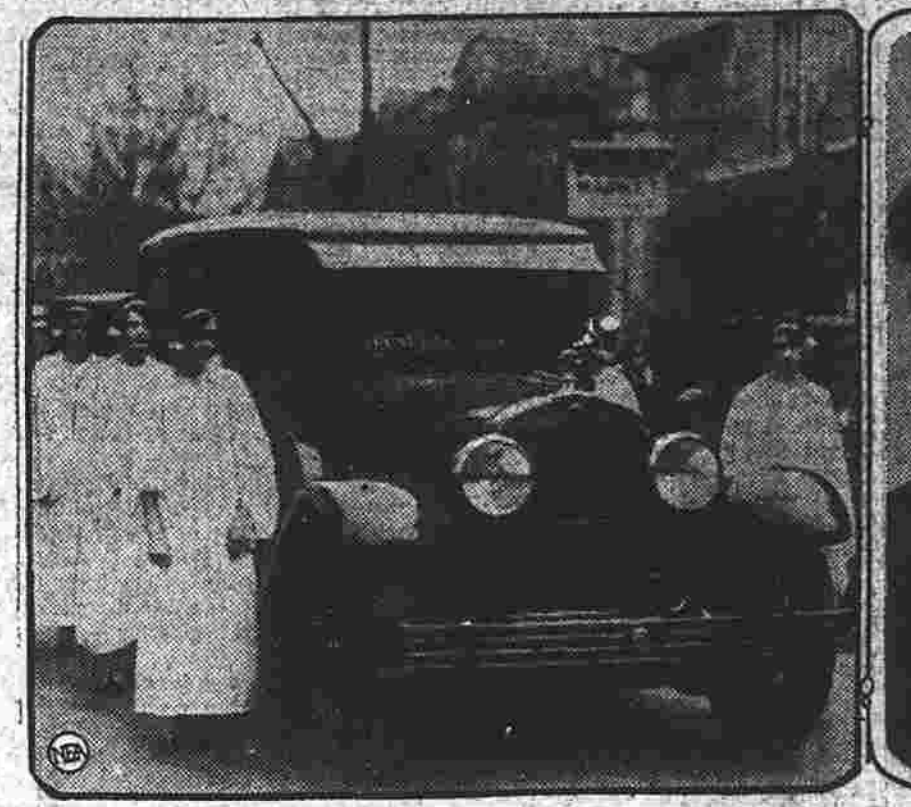

The present wage contract, negotiated at Jacksonville in 1924, expires at midnight March 31st. In the absence of a new working agreement the union miners must automatically cease work. Neither side believes that between now and April 1st a new contract can be made for the central competitive field.

The central field, composed of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, is the heart of the bituminous industry. It determines the wages for all other fields and produces more than forty-five per cent of the nation's soft coal.

This controversy does not affect the anthracite industry, as it is working under a five year contract made in 1924. Anthracite is a domestic fuel and is not suitable for industrial use. American industry, the railroads, public utilities and manufacturing establishments depend almost entirely upon bituminous coal. Of all the coal produced in America, ninety-five per cent is bituminous.

There will be ninety million tons of soft coal above ground on April 1. This great reserve, plus the tonnage to be produced in the anthracite and outlying fields, will amply for the public's needs for several months.

Paths of Youthful Tragedy

As six of her schoolgirl chums trod in silent whiteness beside the hearse bearing 16-year-old Anna Harris to the grave, Walter Goldberg, 17 (right), her alleged slayer, held in jail by a Brooklyn court, is locked up on a charge of homicide. One of the conflicting stories Goldberg told, according to detectives, was that the girl accidentally shot herself while toying with a revolver in her home. An expert testified that Anna's wound could not have been self-inflicted.

SAPIRO DRAWS FIRST BLOOD IN FORD SUIT

Wheat King Scores When He Introduces Documents to Show Malice in Articles in the Independent.

Federal Building, Detroit, Mich., March 21.—Aaron Sapiro, the so-called "wheat king," drew blood today in his million-dollar libel suit against Henry Ford.

The wheat king scored impressively when he placed in evidence documentary evidence showing that the Ford crusade against the Sapiro cooperative originated as a campaign against the Jews. This was the chief contention of Sapiro in his libel suit.

The evidence consisted of a letter written by H. W. Roland, executive on Ford's Dearborn Independent, to Harry H. Dunn, who investigated the cooperative movement for the auto king and later wrote most of the articles attacking Sapiro. The letter showed that Dunn was originally ordered to investigate "the Jewish boys who are putting the works on the farmers."

It showed that the activities of Bernard M. Baruch, New York capitalist among the farmers had actually brought about the investigation which led to the articles.

Ford's attorneys sought to block all testimony on the letter which came into the trial while William J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, was on the witness stand.

A copy of every issue of the Dearborn Independent was subpoenaed by Sapiro to prove that Ford's attacks on him were due to the auto king's hatred for Jews. The issues subpoenaed included copies of all Ford attacks on the Jewish race.

Gallagher's Views

William H. Gallagher, chief of Sapiro's counsel, declared he would prove that the attacks were due to "malice in the heart of Henry Ford." He urged the court to admit all the files as evidence.

Stewart Hanley, of Ford's counsel, entered the objection when court convened this morning.

"That would mean the interests of one defendant would be prejudiced by the malice of the other," he said.

Cites Decisions

Hanley cited a number of Federal Court decisions upholding his contention.

"The courts have held that the verdict in a libel case must be based upon the guilt of the defendant with the least guilt," Hanley added. "You cannot apportion the damages among the defendants and the verdict must be commensurate to the guilt of the defendant with the least guilt."

To prove malice against Ford, Hanley said, would prevent the Dearborn Independent getting a fair trial.

Gallagher followed Hanley.

"I will prove that these articles were inspired by malice in the heart of Henry Ford against Aaron Sapiro," said Gallagher. "I will fix responsibility on him in that way. I will prove malice against William J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, by the very articles themselves."

"I will show there was a conspiracy between Ford and his publisher, and when there is a conspiracy, each defendant is liable for all damage done by the conspiracy."

Must Prove Malice

Hanley contended that to obtain

TWO SEALS SHOT NEAR GUILFORD

One Weighs 200 Pounds and The Other 100—First Seen in Years.

Guilford, Conn., March 21.—Two seals were brought to a wharf here today after having been shot off Goose Island, one mile west of this town, by Harry Potter, a local resident.

One weighed one hundred pounds and the other two hundred pounds, the lighter one being a smooth-haired animal. Old-timers say that as many as thirty seals gathered at a time off Goose Island, and Faulkner's Island but of late years none had been seen until Potter's bag appeared.

CARROLL LOSES APPEAL, FACES JAIL SENTENCE

Theatrical Man Who Put Over Famous "Bath Tub" Party Has His Petition De- nied.

Washington, March 21.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, today lost his fight in the Supreme Court to escape a prison sentence resulting from the famous "Bath Tub" party given on the stage of his theater.

The high court denied Carroll's petition for a writ of review of his conviction on a perjury charge.

No statement accompanied the brief announcement of the court.

Faces Jail Sentence

Carroll faces a sentence of a year and a day in federal prison at Atlanta and a fine of $2,000.

The only avenue of escape from prison now open to Carroll is a petition in the Supreme Court for reconsideration of its action of today, together with a stay of sentence, an almost hopeless prospect.

Carroll was indicted for perjury after he had testified before a Grand Jury in New York that Joyce Hawley, a chorus girl, did not bathe in a tub of champagne at eye water at the party, on February 22, 1926.

DOPE RAIDS NET TRIO OF CHINESE

Bridgeport, Conn., March 21.—Judge E. C. Dickenson, of the Superior Court, today issued an injunction restraining Lih, S. Lake, of Stamford, from maintaining a house boat on a Shippaugus Point beach in front of property of Frank W. Hall, and restraining the Harris Construction Company, of Stamford, from transferring to Lih, S. Lake, a piece of property adjoining that owned by Hall.

The decision ends a four-year court action. Hall contended he bought a piece of property from the construction company with the understanding that nothing less than a $3,000 structure could be built in the district. Soon afterward the houseboat appeared on the lake property, and Hall started action.

PARAPHRASIA TAKEN IN TWO SURPRISE VISITS—ALL PRISON- ERS BAILED.

Springfield, Mass., March 21.—The serene smoke of the poppy was rudely blown away in two alleged Liberty Street hop joints yesterday when Federal narcotics agents and the police vice squad sprang two surprise raids which resulted in the arrest of three Chinese for violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act. The largest supply of opium seized in this section in some time, unofficially estimated worth $5000, was found in the raids, made simultaneously at 22 and 24 Liberty street.

The trio held as Federal prisoners included Chin Sen, 50; Chin Len, 46, and Lee Quong, 31, all Springfield laundrymen, who were booked at police headquarters for arraignment as Federal prisoners before United States Commissioner Gordon W. Gordon today. All three were bailed out by countrymen during the day.

FIND CHARRED BODY OF MISSING SAILOR

Jumped Overboard When Barge Burns—Three Others Badly Injured.

Boston, Mass., March 21.—The charred body of Arthur Greenleaf, 21, of Maine, was found in the harbor today by harbor police after a fire which swept the barges Maxwell and Eureka had been subdued.

Greenleaf had been missing in a check-up of the crew and firemen which revealed that two of the crew had been badly burned and a fireman severely injured.

Greenleaf died from drowning although physicians declared that he would probably have succumbed to his burns if he had not leaped into the water.

ILLEGAL OPERATION

Bridgeport, Conn., March 21.—Coroner John A. Phelan today started investigation into another alleged case of illegal operation.

He held a private inquest into the death of Dorothy May Reynolds, of 215 North Avenue, who died on March 18, last, of what the medical examiner declared to be general peritonitis. Two local physicians were summoned as witnesses.

COUNT DROPS SUIT; HIS LAWYER SILENT

New York, March 21.—The action brought by Count Ludwig Salm against the former Millicent Rogers was officially dropped today by the court's counsel.

Attorney James Donnelly, representing the count, filed a stipulation to discontinue the action without costs before Justice Aaron J. Levy in Special Terms Court of the Supreme Court.

The stipulation is scheduled to be signed later in the day by Justice Levy.

Donnelly refused to discuss the case other than to await that a settlement had been effected out of court. It is understood, however, that Count Salm has accepted a lump sum of $300,000 to renounce all claim to their two-year-old son, Peter.

BALKAN WAR CLOUDS OVERSHADOW LEAGUE

Henry Ford In New England Not Worried Over Law Suit

South Sudbury, Mass., March 21.—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile magnate, today roamed the fields near Wayside Inn in a New England spring rain shower. The $11,000,000 trial instituted in Detroit by Aaron Sapiro, and now pending in the legal world apparently held little, if any, interest for the auto king.

Typically New England like in his morning stroll, Ford visited the Peppers to read the "funny papers" today, and he found the living room in flames and awoke her father, William M. Pepper, vice president of the Munroe Coal Co. The family made good their escape just in time through upper windows.

The hundreds of visitors to the inn yesterday when the "Little Red Schoolhouse" was thrown open for public inspection brought happiness to Mr. Ford. While visitors, some significant of great riches and others of humble circumstances, trod in and out of the schoolhouse, Mr. Ford looked on, quietly enjoying it all. The schoolhouse has apparently been a major coup in his collection of New England antiques.

General Excitement at Opening Session of Disarmament Conference Over Re- ports of Threatening Trouble Between Italy and Jugo-Slavia—Delicate Sit- uation.

Geneva, March 21.—Balkan war clouds overshadowed the opening session of the preparatory disarmament conference, which opens this afternoon.

There was general excitement as reports were received of the threatening trouble between Italy and Jugo-Slavia over alleged war-like preparations by Jugo-Slavia.

There were no indications that the League Council would be called in special session to deal with the matter. M. Yovanovitch, Jugo-Slavian minister at Bern, denied that Jugo-Slavia would ask a League Council session but declared, "We are perfectly willing to have an international commission of inquiry investigate and they will find that Jugo-Slavia is making no preparations for war or invasion of Albania."

COMIC SHEET SAVES LIFE OF FAMILY

Montreal, March 21.—The desire of four-year-old Pauline Pepper to read the "funny papers" today saved her father and her five brothers and sisters from almost certain death in a fire which destroyed their home in West Mount. Pauline awoke early and went downstairs to search for comic supplement of the Sunday paper. She found the living room in flames and awoke her father, William M. Pepper, vice president of the Munroe Coal Co. The family made good their escape just in time through upper windows.

ART EDITOR'S WIFE ADMITS DEATH PLOT

Salesman Lover Did Actual Slaying, Mrs. Ruth Snyder Tells the Police.

New York, March 21.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder confessed today, according to Police Inspector Coughlin, that she and Henry Judd Gray, a salesman, plotted to kill her husband, Albert Snyder, art editor of "Motor Boatings," and that Gray did the actual slaying.

Inspector Coughlin quoted the pretty widow as saying the murder was committed because she had been "madly in love" with the salesman for two and a half years.

Arrested in Syracuse

Gray who is thirty-one and married, has been arrested in Syracuse, N. Y., his home is in East Orange, N. J. He denies all knowledge of the crime.

Mrs. Snyder, who is also thirty-one is not under arrest as yet, but will be charged with some degree of homicide, according to District Attorney Newcombe of Queens. She collapsed in the district attorney's office after being questioned for over twenty-four hours and was put under the care of a physician.

Mrs. Snyder, nineteen years his wife's senior, was murdered as he lay in bed in his home in Queens Village, Long Island. Death was caused by blows on the head with a blunt instrument.

Picture cord then was put around his throat, and his hands and feet were bound.

Her Confession

Mrs. Snyder's alleged confession, according to Inspector Coughlin, told the following story of the slaying:

"At the party, given at the home of friends, Mrs. Snyder said to her host and hostess:

"Give my husband plenty of liquor and make him feel good."

Snyder did drink heavily, and the alleged confession says, was "as drunk" when he returned home with his wife and daughter.

He went to bed immediately. Mrs. Snyder also retired in her own room. Gray, the confession says, had gained entrance to the house while the Snyders were at the party, and was hidden in some room when they returned.

"No Time Like Present"

After Snyder had fallen asleep, Mrs. Snyder got up and joined Gray. The salesman said, according to Coughlin, "There is no time like the present."

Mrs. Snyder's story continues that Gray then went upstairs and struck her husband over the head with a blunt instrument. Gray also bound him with picture cord.

"Tie Up Wife"

Mrs. Snyder then permitted her hands and feet to be tied and Gray carried her to her room and placed her on her bed, where she remained for five hours. It was about eight o'clock Sunday morning when she finally gave the alarm, first calling her daughter, Lorraine, nine, who discovered her father slain.

After Mrs. Snyder had told her story, detectives were dispatched to East Orange to question Gray's wife, who told reporters that she saw her husband has been brought into the case "through mistaken identity."

How Mrs. Snyder met Gray has not been determined, although police say they understood the meeting took place at Fort Jefferson, Long Island, where the Snyders spent their summers.

Another Angle

Another angle being investigated by police is the report that Snyder recently increased his insurance on his life from $10,000 to $25,000.

Despite Inspector Coughlin's statement, District Attorney Newcombe said:

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER IN COURT

One Accuses Other of Theft; Liquor Seller Gets Jail Sentence.

In the case of Ernest Powers of Church street, charged with the theft of $8 from Jake Kravonky, it was brother against brother in the police court this morning.

Kravonky came to Ernest Powers' house and he was then, according to evidence, under the influence of liquor. He had $8 in bills in his pocket. From there they went to the home of David Powers and when he entered the house Kravonky lay down on the bed and was about to go to sleep. In the house were several other men, and Ernest Powers slipped his hand into the man's pockets and withdrew the bills, at the same time telling him what he had done. It appeared that there was method in Powers' action for in court this morning he testified he knew if he did not take the money somebody else would and it would never be returned.

David Powers, at once called Sergeant Crockett and told him his brother had taken $8 out of Kravonky's pocket and had gone home. Later Sergeant Crockett went to Ernest Powers' home and placed him under arrest, charging him with the theft. He admitted taking the money and told the sergeant if he hadn't done so it would have been stolen without any question by somebody else. Judge Johnston could see no proof of theft and found him not guilty. Attorney Eric defended Ernest Powers.

SITUATION DELICATE

Paris, March 21.—While the French foreign office deprecates talk of war in the Balkans, the press generally declares that the situation is delicate, over the Italian Charges.

Considerable prominence is given to reports that Great Britain has sent a note, which is a virtual ultimatum, to Jugo-Slavia demanding that she cease war-like activities.

Italian Charges

An Italian memorandum sent to England, France and Germany last night, it is understood, made the following charges for special training:

1. The Jugo-Slavs are calling up reserve officers for special training.
2. Single-tracked railways from the interior to the frontier are being double-tracked by the Jugo-Slavs.
3. Special roads to facilitate military movements are being built in Jugo-Slavia.
4. Surplus credits of the different departments of the Jugo-Slavian government are being transferred to the War Department for military expenditures.

M. Briand, French foreign minister, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, held a lengthy conference over the telephone today, relative to the necessity for calling a special session of the League of Nations Council to consider the matter of Italy, Jugo-Slavia and Albania. No decision was made.

MACKINAC OFFICERS ARE AGAIN ON TRIAL

Providence, R. I., March 21.—The stage was all set today for the trial of Captain George W. McVay, Chief Engineer John A. Grant and Manager George J. Kelley, indicted in connection with the steamboat Mackinac disaster in which fifty lives were lost in a boiler explosion aboard the craft off Newport in August 1925. Three times the trio have come to trial. The first trial ended abruptly when a plea of not guilty was entered but was subsequently withdrawn. The second time the jury was drawn but sudden illness of counsel caused a halt.

Selection of a jury occupied the attention of counsel and the court today. Of the first five jurors selected all were subject to challenge.

Providing a jury was selected today it was expected that the jurors would be taken to Pawtucket tomorrow to view the place where the ship's boiler was repaired before the fatal trip.

Rockville DAUGHTER SAVES LIFE OF MOTHER Mrs. Wilhelmina Berger Seriously Burned When Oil Lamp Upsets.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, March 21. Prompt work on the part of her daughter probably saved the life of Mrs. Wilhelmina Berger last night when an oil lamp upset, setting the clothing of the blind affire. Mrs. Berger, who is fifty-three years old, was badly burned about the upper part of the body but her physician said she would recover.

The daughter, on discovering the blaze, seized a small mattress and smothered the flames before they had gained much headway. The house caught fire, but firemen extinguished the blaze before serious damage had been done.

Improves Center More than $30,000 is being expended in this city this spring in the improvement of public utilities. The Southern New England Telephone company has expended $12,000 in the installation of cable lines. The greater part of this money has been expended in the center of the city. As a result, a marked improvement will be noticeable on Market and High streets. All poles on the west side of the street are being removed and a new line constructed on the east side which will be used jointly for telephone, electric light and trolley wires. For the past few weeks the Connecticut company has been making improvements which will improve the looks in the center. Iron poles have been placed above the wires, the power cables being transferred to the new poles on Market street. The company plans to rebuild the switch opposite Central Park in the center. The track department has replaced the rails on Market street which connects the Hartford and Stafford Springs trolley line with the New Haven railroad. A resurfacing of Union and Main streets will be necessary this spring. This change in the center of the city and the main thoroughfare much more attractive.

ANDOVER 4 HUNDRED HEAR RUSSIAN PROGRAM

South M. E. Choir's Monthly Concert Arouses Interest Of Local Musicians.

The South Methodist church choir, augmented to 29 voices, pleased an audience of more than 400 last night in a program of Russian and Polish church music under the direction of Archibald Sessions.

The occasion was the monthly concert, which had been an institution in the church for some time. Included in the program were compositions of Rachmaninoff, Tchaikowsky and other famous Slav composers. The familiar organ composition by Tchaikowsky impressed by its melodic sweetness, while the prelude in C sharp minor by Rachmaninoff always thrills by its grandeur.

None of the anthems were familiar and the majority were sung unaccompanied, "a capella." Some of them, like many of Browning's poems, are beyond the average comprehension, while others, like the ethereal "Cherubim Song," gives joy as is the case with "Abt Vogler" and "Saul." Some of the strains of Russian music seem weird, others are grand and jubilant or solemn and majestic. The difficulty of all the compositions made last evening's ministry of music one of real achievement for both Mr. Sessions and the choir.

The choir did exceptionally good work with the more difficult passages of music and caught in remarkable degree the peculiarly characteristic spirit of compositions based on primitive folk songs but developed by technical masters. It was the first time a program of this character was ever sung in Manchester and the concert aroused unusual interest among appreciators of music.

Questioned about the pinch bar and rubber gloves found in his room by detectives Gray said: "I bought the pinch bar at a five and ten cent store in Buffalo. I always had one and I lost the last one. You can see it is brand new and never been used." Chief Cadin said there was not a mark on the bar. He said no explanation was made about the rubber gloves. "I used the bar to change tires on an automobile," declared Gray. "I can't see why Mrs. Snyder ever connected me with this crime." Gray told the chief when he confronted him with the alleged confession of the woman that Gray killed her husband. He admitted that he had known her for some time and had been intimate with her.

60 MILE STUFF.

Yesterday afternoon, at a time when the Wapping road was carrying an amount of traffic to which that moderately used thoroughfare is unaccustomed on week days a big touring car tore along its highly crowned and not too even surface at a rate declared by expert drivers to be above sixty miles an hour.

Under the existing law the driver of that car, had he been apprehended, could be punished—his license suspended. Under the law which has just received the favorable consideration of the Legislature, it is extremely unlikely that anything at all could be done about such a flagrant transgression of the rules of sanity and decency.

The defense of the driver would be: "I did not endanger anybody's life. I was simply driving fast. There is no legal limit to speed. What are you going to do about it?"

As a matter of fact, what is anybody going to do about it? So long as the lunatic driver has the fool luck not to go into the ditch or to smash some other car into splinters he can maintain that his car was under perfect control. It is our belief that the new law will rob the state police and all other authorities of every vestige of power in the control of reckless driving—unless the courts interpret it much more strictly than is their usual practice.

SHANGHAI CRISIS.

The wisdom or unwisdom of the British-allied policy of forcible defense of the international area of Shanghai seems likely to be tested at any moment now. With the native city reported already in the hands of the Cantonese, and with a ragged, starving and utterly demoralized rabble of defeated soldiery swarming over the whole invaded territory, every element for serious complications is at hand.

It is to be gathered from the meagre and contradictory news dispatches that the British policy of defense of the international area has included the advance of the defense lines far beyond the actual limits of the foreign quarters of Shanghai—which, if true, means that the military authorities there have calmly scrapped the treaty arrangements under which they have a right to demand protection for the international city at the hands of whatever Chinese group may be in the ascendant.

There are probably very few Americans who do not sincerely wish, at this juncture, that the United States had long ago proceeded to evacuate all its nationals out of Shanghai, and so kept its skirts clear of what may at any instant develop into a real war, the outcome of which nobody on earth can forecast.

FORD'S "REDISM."

There is no especial reason for being too profoundly shocked at the circumstance that Henry Ford "looked with lenient eyes" upon the Russian Soviet, as related on the witness stand last week by W. J. Cameron, the editor of Mr. Ford's Dearborn Independent.

that need not at all and probably does not at all prevent him from kidding himself a bit with the notion that he is more nearly a communist than other capitalists. Mr. Ford is one of the most intensely practical individuals alive. And like many other intensely practical persons he permits himself flights of visionary theorizing—always on matters that do not get in the way of practical concrete affairs—by way of unconscious preservation of a mental balance.

No one has forgotten or is likely to forget the business of "getting the boys out of the trenches by Christmas." Ford took that looney flight of fancy at a time when he was thinking so hard and working so tremendously at the desperately practical business of motorizing the war that his mind just simply had to take momentary vacations into crazyland in order to keep going at all.

In a sense his sympathy with sovietism in every probability belongs in the same class of mental vacationing. It doesn't, we feel sure, mean anything at all. It is doubtful if Henry really knows the first thing about sovietism, either as to its soul or its body—save the mere theory of everybody working and everybody having what they need; which is a theory that might, of course, be a lot worse.

The trouble with the position of a man like Ford is that folks take him far, far too seriously. It should be remembered that he is a genius—and nobody ever ought to take seriously any genius whatever except in the single department of thought in which his talents express themselves.

Henry Ford is a necromancer of industry and finance. Other than that he is an imaginative child. But the keen man of great industrial affairs is not in the slightest danger of being converted to fanatic idealism by the little boy who lives inside his coat.

thet amendment to the Constitution, it could be a worse one than a provision forbidding Congress to appropriate money for the payment of its own salaries until all other appropriation measures had been adopted.

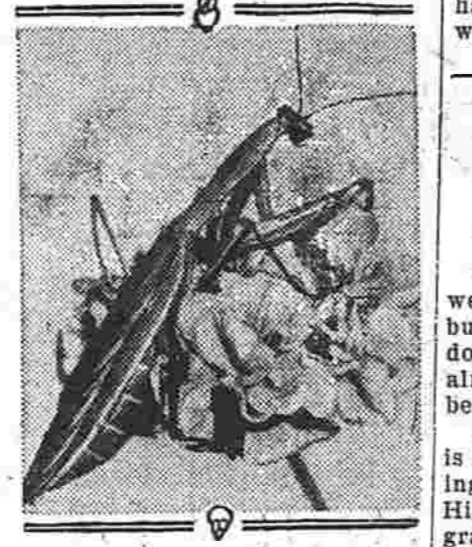

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

TIGER OF THE INSECT WORLD

By ARTHUR N. PACK, President, American Nature Ass'n. No, it is not an idol worshipper or a revival of the whirling dervishes, but a little insect found in many parts of our country and in various other parts of the world. More legends and superstitions are attached to the praying mantis than to any other insect, and all have to do with the devotional attitude which he assumes.

Despite this appearance the mantis is not the saint but the tiger of the insect world, ferociously destroying flies, caterpillars and grasshoppers. After he has captured his victim he does not kill it before-eating, but rather holds the agonized captive between those terrible forearms and mechanically feasts upon the least vital portions first.

The female mantis turns on the male at times and devours him, or else, having appeased her appetite, leaves him in a half-eaten condition. The female mantis lays her egg cluster in mid-afternoon, and in the spring thousands of young make their bow to the joyous farmer, who realizes that they will help rid his garden of harmful insects.

The Chinese make use of the pugnacious qualities of the mantis, and stage combats between them, just as dog and cock fights are held in other countries.

BINGHAM, BRAVEST OF SENATORS, IS OFF FOR THE DANGEROUS EAST

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 19.—Into the jaws of death sails Senator Hiram K. Bingham, the bravest man in the Senate.

Blithely he left us and, assuming that he escapes alive, he will return with the same unruffled mien which he has somehow always managed to retain in those more or less august precincts of the upper house.

Even as the cables provided the final figures on the death toll of the latest Japanese earthquake, Senator Bingham was headed for the land of Nippon.

As the Chinese war grows hotter Senator Bingham is also on his way toward Shanghai by way of Peking. And if the earthquakes or the coolies don't get him, the Morb head hunters will have their chance, for the senator subsequently plans to spend three weeks in the Philippines.

We who have been privileged to observe Senator Bingham in action—his calm, measured movements and utterances may be called action—can easily visualize the scene in case he meets grave menace from any of the sources of peril which lie along his path.

Should an earthquake begin to spew him up in the terrestrial bowels, it is doubtful whether even a scowl of displeasure would be permitted to darken his shining countenance. If he made any effort to escape, there certainly would be nothing undignified about it. He might, indeed, speak. Judging from past performances under fire, he probably would address himself to Jehovah—or perhaps the native deity, Buddha, for Senator Bingham was never impolite—something as follows:

"My Dear Sir, the sovereign state of Connecticut seems about to be deprived of an able and conscientious representative. A fairly good constitutional lawyer, an authority on the Spanish language and the Latin-American countries, the Monroe doctrine and commercial aviation, seems to be slipping into goodness knows what. If allowed to proceed on his contemplated journey, he would return to his country an expert on the Chinese situation, the Japanese situation and upon the military and territorial affairs of the Philippines and Hawaii and earthquakes. My Dear Sir, in the light of these facts, I suggest that you think it over."

Even if he knew things were happening so rapidly that he couldn't finish a third of this speech, Senator Bingham would not speed up nor would he slur his words. This would be no excited prayer for success.

And in the face of a Chinese firing squad or a murderous tribesman, Senator Bingham would say virtually the same thing in exactly the same manner. That's Bingham. Talk spare, white-haired and possessed of the most scholarly appearance in Congress, he goes through life with the attitude of a pedagogue who knows that no smart student is ever going to trip him up.

It is thus that he speaks to the Senate in a colorless monotone which never deviates in pitch. It is said that he can empty the galleries more rapidly than almost anyone else—he never plays in them. Generally, too, he arises in the wake of a powerful speech by someone like Borah or Reed and the contrast is too much for the sensation-seeking crowds.

He is brave because he has stood up against all kinds of verbal abuse from his more oratorical opponents. Under blasts that would make some senators turn tall and run, he waits patiently and then replies—patiently—for the world like a prep school instructor conscientiously explaining a simple problem to the worst dumbbell in the class. Nobody can ever arouse him to hot retort.

His somewhat unfortunate appointment of himself to act as administration spokesman when the administration needed one very badly—during the first debate on the Nicaraguan situation—was an excellent sample of how well Bingham stands the strain. And as for nerve, no one could have matched him when he had to explain, patiently, that he had been mistaken when he wrote a book called "The Monroe Doctrine, an Obsolete Shibboleth."

It is the conscientious, scholarly determination that Bingham sails out into the Pacific. As a senator, he wants to know more about the Chinese situation and about Japan. As a scholar, he wants to consider the various treaties, the Chinese wall and what-not. As a member of both the Senate's military affairs committee and territorial and insular affairs committee, he desires to study the aviation fields, military posts and territorial governments of Hawaii and the Philippines.

In these two possessions he will spend most of his stationary time—from 12 to June 3 in the Philippines and from June 24 to July 8 in Hawaii. He will be back in San Francisco on July 14 and information on the fruits of his tour will be available during the Seventieth Congress.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 21.—The wild west may have its tough riding buckaroos, but when it comes right down to judges of horse-flesh this almost horseless town is hard to beat.

Some of the world's finest stock is collected for the riding and racing stables of the rich New Yorker. High paid experts who once graced the wide open spaces content themselves with two rooms and a bath, operating riding schools for society debutantes.

From Fifth Avenue and Madison Avenue mansions are operated some of the coldest stock farms of the nation. The annual horse show brings out the best of the rooms and salons of the social set produce women riders whose daring would surprise the crack riders of the wild west shows.

Their spirit and daring frequently lead to mishaps quite as serious as the nation's riding accidents. Death and injury have come to scores of beautiful young women whose great wealth and prominence, one would think, would incline them against risk.

For some 40 years one old fellow held forth as a riding academy, retiring only when his eightieth birthday had been passed. A lover of horseflesh, he resented the gradual intrusion of the automobile. He made a fortune teaching the society folk to ride.

One day he discovered that his son had become an automobile salesman. This ironic jab was a bit too much. He quit and took an apartment on Fifth Avenue overlooking a spot in Central Park frequented by riders.

Central Park, by the way, has a shepherd. Perhaps there is no more incongruous job in this vast city of 6,000,000 people than a shepherd.

Old Master's

Bowed by the weight of centuries he leans Upon his hoe and gazes on the ground, The emptiness of ages in his face, And on his back the burden of the world.

Who made him dead to rapture and despair, A thing that grieves not and never hopes, Stolid and stunned, a brother to the ox?

Who loosened and let down this brutal jaw? Whose was the hand that slanted back his brow? Whose breath blew out the light within his brain?

Is this the Thing the Lord God made and gave? To have dominion over sea and land; To trace the stars and search the heavens for power?

To feel the passion of Eternity? Is this the Dream He dreamed who shaped the suns? And marked their ways upon the ancient deep?

Down all the stretch of Hell to its last Gulf There is no shape more terrible than this! More tongued with curse of the world's blind greed— More filled with signs and portents for the soul— More fraught with menace to the universe.—Edwin Markham: From "The Man With the Hoe."

The anticipated large coffee crop in Brazil, the world's leading coffee-raising center, is making possible a return to prices that are within a few cents of the prices in effect in the good old days before the war. One of the leading chain store grocers has already put into effect the lowest prices on coffee in many years.

Prior to the war, in 1913-14 and 1915, the average price of a pound of coffee according to figures of the U. S. Department of Commerce, was 29.9 cents. With the entry of America into the war prices for coffee went soaring. After the war they dropped slightly, but reached their peak in 1925 and 1926, when the average price of a pound was 51.5 cents. It is believed that the anticipated large crops will permit a continuance of low coffee prices during 1927.

The per capita consumption of coffee has grown greatly during the past few years, until now the average American drinks 405 cups of coffee a year, where his English cousin drinks only 45! Only the people of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands drink more coffee now than we do.

This increase in coffee drinking is due primarily to the fact that America is now getting finer coffee than ever before as a result of the activities of the chain stores. Their buying powers and facilities have made it possible for them to put on the market, at prices that greatly increased consumption, finer coffees than were usually sold.

Coffee is now decidedly cheaper than other food commodities. There is no monopoly on coffee and although Brazil controls 80 per cent of the world's production, in coffee as in other products, large crops always mean low prices.

The high prices of the last two years are gone, apparently never to return again as the acreage of coffee planting is being steadily increased and the industry, generally, is prosperous.

'STELLA DALLAS' COMING TO THE RIALTO THEATER

An old saying "You never know women" has been taken for the theme of Florence Vidor's latest starring vehicle which carries for its title the same. It is an entertaining story of modern life and has many unique twists in the plot that can best be described as totally different inasmuch as the jazz element has been left out. Those seeking real pleasurable entertainment should make it a point to see this attraction—they will be well repaid for the time spent at the Rialto theater in viewing it.

The second picture which appears on the same program today and this evening is "Shoulder Arms," the humorous war classic with the king of comedians, Charlie Chaplin in the leading role. This is the same photoplay which convulsed the world at its initial showing years ago and the fact that it has been brought back for another showing should prove to be pleasant news to his legion of admirers. Selected shorter subjects will also be shown.

"Stella Dallas" called the great American story of mother love heads the program for tomorrow and Wednesday. Alice Joyce and Belle Bennett have the leads. "Lightning Flashes," a thrilling dog picture starring Lightning, the wonder dog, also will be shown as well as a comedy and current news events.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Jesus Transfigured

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESSEN

A. Gentle woman besought Jesus to heal her daughter. To test her faith, Jesus said he was "sent unto the Jews" and that it was not "meet to take the children's bread and cast it to dogs." But the woman said, "Truth, Lord, yet the dogs eat of the crumbs that fall from their masters' table." (Matthew XV : 22-27)

Jesus commended her faith and her daughter was made whole from that very hour. (Matthew XV : 28)

Jesus foretells to the disciples his sufferings, death and his resurrection at Jerusalem. (Matthew XVI : 21)

The Saviour, taking Peter, James and John into a mountain with him, is transfigured in glory before them, and their faith was strengthened by the vision. (Matthew XVII : 1-9)

'Genius Child' Speaks For Young Generation

Elizabeth Benson

Editor's Note:—The younger generation and the older clashed tragically in the shooting at Red Bank, N.J., the other day of Rosa Stoble by her mother, just after the unmarried girl had become a mother. The younger generation here represented defiance—and immorality. The other represented outraged respectability, but also cruel intolerance.

By ELIZABETH BENSON. "GIRL 16, UNWED MOTHER, KILLED BY OWN MOTHER."

That was the awful message the headlines blared forth. I sat back in my chair with the same gasp of horror that was being echoed all over the United States.

Water town, N. Y.—State and Federal men on Ontario Water Front Being Increased.

When not engaged in enforcing the liquor law, the troopers will do the work formerly done by the members of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau.

Working in co-operation with the troopers along the border in an effort to cut down the rum running will be the frontiersmen of the Federal patrol force, the Federal prohibition enforcement unit of Malone, customs men and members of the immigration department.

To Search Vessels. With the establishment of the border patrol unit at Oswego, the government pluggers up a big hole in its liquor defense along the lake.

The new unit at Oswego has been given authority to search all vessels and vehicles without a search warrant.

Do you wonder that she was sul- len and defiant? Do you wonder that she dared not tell you? She faced her great peril alone and with shame.

Do you wonder that she was sul- len and ashamed, instead of com- forting her, instead of winning her confidence when you guessed her plight, you showed plainly that if it were true she could not rely on you.

I am not defending Rosa Stoble. I do not think that having an illegitimate child is anything on which to congratulate her.

AUTO BANDITS ROB BOSTON CHAIN STORE

Bold Daylight Hold Up In Scollay Square — Thieves Get $278.

Boston, Mass., March 21.—Two automobile bandits with drawn pistols today rolled up to a chain cigar store at 65 Court street, off busy Scollay Square, in the rain.

Walking briskly inside, they ordered Manager Benjamin H. White to step aside while they rifled the cash register.

Two customers appeared in the doorway, and the gunmen nodded to White to wait on them.

Unaware of the tense situation into which they had stepped, the two customers selected cigars, lighted them and departed.

Then the gunmen went to work on the safe, securing $278 before they walked out to their automobile and calmly drove away.

Three weeks ago the same store was held up and between $100 and $200 stolen.

A handsome millionaire's son and a young writer vie with each other for the favor of the young girl. Both are from her home town, but the most sophisticated boy has the edge for a while.

HEBRON

Word has been received of the death in Larchmont, New York, of Mrs. Clemence Croll at one time a resident of Hebron, and mother of Mrs. V. W. Storing of this place. Mrs. Croll had been in precarious health for several years and some months ago suffered a stroke of paralysis. Her death occurred on the 15th of March at her home. Funeral services and burial were held from her late residence.

A large three house in Amston, the property of Charles M. Ams, burned to the ground Friday afternoon. The fire started, report says, from burning grass which had caught from a rubbish fire set by a caretaker who was engaged in raking and cleaning the grounds. The house was unoccupied and was uninsured. Fire fighters nearly extinguished the fire but were called to a nearby house which was also threatened and in the meantime it again gained headway, creeping between the partitions of the house and defying all efforts. The house had at one time been used as a boarding house in the days of the silk mill operated by P. W. Turner. It was located on the road leading to North Pond at the left leading up the hill.

Essays to be submitted by school children of the town on the liquor question are to be handed in by the first part of the first week in April. They will be judged by a committee of three and the best one in the opinion of the judges will be sent to a representative of the W. C. T. U. to be considered among all others sent in from towns of the state.

Saints Close With a 39 to 27 Victory

The St. Mary's basketball team closed its season with a victory Saturday evening over the Trinity church five in New Haven. The score was 39 to 27.

The game was played at 6 o'clock by mutual agreement of the two teams in order that the Manchester players might view the Yale interscholastic tournament games.

The Saints started strong and grabbed an 18 to 7 advantage at halftime. In the second half, Manchester was content to keep on about even terms with the Elm City team and Roy Norris tossed in six baskets in the period that kept the Saints on top of a comfortable margin. Williams played best for the church team which is coached by Samuel Massey, Manchester athlete who is in charge of the Trinity church parish house.

HOLLAND AND DOWD ON HERALD'S TEAM

Hugret and Comerford, Bristol and Pitch, Hillhouse, Get Other First Team Calls On State Team Five.

First Team	Second Team
Holland	Zetarski
Pitch	Riordan
Comerford	Farr
Dowd	Flora
Hugret	Daly

The Herald's All-Star schoolboy basketball team contains two Manchester High, two Bristol High and one N. H. Hillhouse High player on its first team with one Hillhouse High, two Bristol, one Manchester and one Naugatuck on its second.

Eddie Nichols, Windham's crack forward, not placed on either team even though he tallied seven points in one game. The reason is because both Naugatuck and Windham played an offensive game against each other with little tight guarding. The score, which was 40 to 31 for Naugatuck, tends to emphasize that point. Stokes, Naugatuck's center, was not considered because he faltered the minute he got warm opposition.

Holland and Pitch, the latter of New Haven Hillhouse, are placed on the Herald's first team with Comerford of Bristol at center and Dowd, Manchester and Hugret, Bristol at guards. The second team has the two Bristol forwards, Zetarski and Riordan, Farr, of Manchester at center with Flora of New Haven Hillhouse and Daly of Naugatuck in the back court.

Eddie Hurwitz, of New Haven Hillhouse looked like the best utility man on any of the teams. He is either a forward or a guard.

Old Mill And Weavers Clash Tonight In Final

Great interest centers about the big bowling match this evening at Murphy's alleys between the Weavers and Old Mill teams of Cheney Brothers' senior league. These two teams are tied for first place in the league, the regular schedule of which has been concluded. The Old Mill went into the last night of play with a comfortable two game lead and looked like a sure winner of the pennant. However, upset the dope and won the first two games from the Old Mill. In the meanwhile the Weavers were registering two victories over the Spinners. This tied the league standing, and then because of the keen rivalry between the Old Mill and the Weavers and the desire of all concerned to see them bow out of the tie the final two games were "thrown" by the Ribbon and Spinner thus assuring a tie.

ACES TO ORGANIZE FOR SEVENTH TIME

The Ace A. C. basketball team will organize for the seventh time this year, it was stated today. The Aces were first organized in 1920 and at that time played under the name of the Victors, the name later being changed to its present one. Practices will start next week and all members of last year's team are requested to inform Manager Lester Bronkie whether or not they intend to play this season.

The Aces won the junior championship of Manchester last season and they desire to arrange games with any team of their class in the college.

The Ace's lineup will not include Wiley until after the end of the High school season as he is the ace of the S. M. H. S. pitching staff. Games may be arranged with the Aces by communicating with Manager Lester Bronkie, 457 Center street, town.

Billy Evans Says

Injury to Star Big Handicap

An early season injury to some big league star very often upsets the program of his manager, who is, perhaps, strongly banking on that particular player.

I have in mind the accident that recently befell Walter Johnson and Eddie Collins, also the unfortunate plight of Johnny Mostil.

I was standing on the sidelines talking to Owner Clark Griffith and Manager Stanley Harris when Walter Johnson was seriously hurt by falling to get out of the way of a line drive from Joe Judge's bat.

Johnson had been pitching to batters for about five minutes when the accident occurred. I had just mentioned that Walter seemed in great shape and very fast for so early in the season.

Both Harris and Griffith agreed with me, expressing the belief that the "Old Master" was in for a big year.

Players Have Habit of Jostling. Ball players have a lot of fun kidding each other when some player gets in the way of a line drive provided, of course, no serious consequences result.

When Johnson was struck just above the left ankle by Judge's line drive and immediately dropped to the ground in pain, Nick Altrock, Al Schacht and a number of other players did a "London Bridge is Falling Down" as Walter rolled around on the ground.

A general laugh was indulged in by everybody, even Walter joined in, although it was evident he was suffering considerable pain.

It seems that a golf foursome was on that afternoon between Altrock and Schacht versus Johnson and Rice. The two comedians rejoiced that Walter wouldn't be at his best.

At this stage of the affair Trainer Mike Martin came on the scene and took Johnson to the clubhouse for treatment.

Injury Frowned Upon. Walter Johnson never makes a fuss about anything. If there isn't a reason for it and I was rather satisfied in my own mind that he was rather badly hurt. I watched the Washington trainer remove the stocking, revealing a colored lump, almost the size of a baseball.

Respect the swelling and pain he was suffering, Johnson insisted in hobbling around for a day, before admitting that it might be wise to make an X-ray picture of the injury.

This showed a break of one of the small bones in the ankle. The leg is in a cast and it is said Johnson won't pitch until May 1.

MANCHESTER DESERVED VICTORY OVER BRISTOL BUT LOST 14 TO 13

Seven Shots Roll Off Hoop In Closing Minutes But Manchester Takes Defeat Without Whimper and Then "Roots" For Bristol In Final; Manchester's Defense Best In Tournament; Man y Say Silk Town Should Have Won.

BY THE SPORTS EDITOR

Our schoolboy basketball team should be sitting where Bristol is today—on the top rung of the state championship ladder—and it would be if Fate had been a trifle more favorable in shuffling and dealing out the cards at the Yale interscholastic tournament in New Haven. For in brief Manchester deserved to defeat its ancient rival, Bristol, in the semi-finals, and these two teams were beyond doubt the best two in the tournament. However, Manchester lost 14 to 13, never being headed until the last seven minutes of play and then missing five difficult angle shots, one sooner and two foul tries during the closing three minutes. All were missed by a hair's breadth and any one of them might easily have put Manchester where Bristol is today for the Bell City five had no difficulty in trouncing New Haven Hillhouse in the finals, 27 to 13.

Credit to Manchester. The showing of the local High school team was a credit not only to Coach W. J. Clarke and the South Manchester High school but also to the town at large. Manchester played the cleanest ball of any of the teams, committing but three personal fouls in each game. All the other teams suffered far worse. And it was just this factor that defeated Central High, 19-18 in the first round and almost beat Bristol, Manchester's opponent in the only team in the state that has defeated Bristol this season.

Manchester gave its best in the tournament and this was a credit to every player. No one should take it to the Referee Jimmy Young and Umpire Milton Souder, both from Massachusetts, that Manchester and Bristol were the cream of the tournament. And most of them said Manchester should have won. That it didn't, however, was no one's fault but Manchester's. The S. M. H. S. team displayed the best defense of any team in the tournament and its offense was sufficient to penetrate Bristol's stubborn zone defense but when a Manchester foul was so vitally needed in the closing minutes of the game the silk town players had no luck at all. Their long shot flings were futile although the ball went in and out of the basket two or three times. It was easily the best game of the tournament, and the hardest one to lose. But Manchester took its medicine without a whimper and later showed real sportsmanship by rooting for Bristol against New Haven in the delegation to "pull" for the Bell Town five.

Brilliant Passwork. While Manchester's man-to-man defense was the most stubborn and effective shown at the tournament, so was Bristol's passwork nonpareil. The Monahan-coached Bristol boys did not display the least bit of individual work and kept plugging every minute. If anything, Bristol passed too much. In the Manchester game, Bristol had possession of the ball more of the time than Manchester simply because it kept raising its vain attempt to pierce the Manchester defense, while Manchester, once it gained possession of the ball, worked it down the floor as far as it could and then shot. Manchester had many more shots than Bristol because of this difference in style of play and had it not for luck this would have been a far different story to relate today.

S. M. H. S. Gets 5-2 Lead. Bristol took the lead in the first quarter of the game started, Comerford ceding Farr for a field goal. Jimmy Gorman tied the score a few minutes later and then Tuteb Kittel, substitute for Boggnli, who was not feeling well, added a foul. Holland's basket gave Manchester a 3 to 2 lead at the end of the first quarter. During this period both teams seemed nervous and missed several easy shots.

In the second period, Bristol began to take up some of the long passes which the Manchester players were attempting. Field goals by Riordan and Gorman still left Manchester three points ahead and Dowd's foul increased it one. Riordan, Bristol captain, eased a foul, and a foul and Alliano's foul knotted the count at 8 all at halftime.

Six Minutes Before Score. For six minutes, in the third quarter, neither team could score because of the great defense both teams displayed. The spell was broken by Gorman's success shot. Bristol took time out and then shortly afterward, Zetarski caged the score in the fourth quarter. Holland made a beautiful long shot putting Manchester ahead 13 to 10 as the period ended.

In the final stanza, both teams fought under a terrible strain both mentally and physically while the fans went into a frenzy of excitement as first one team threatened to score and then the other. Zetarski dropped in a pretty field goal from the foul line tying the score. A few moments later he was backed by Dowd and when he missed his foul try, Hugret, alert Bristol guard, made what proved to be the turning point of the crucial struggle by following up the play and pushing the ball back into Manchester's hoop.

It was the first time Bristol had been in the lead. There remained seven minutes to play and Bristol began to kill time in the middle of the floor and then a minute or two later, in the backcourt, Manchester's system of defense—man-to-man, however, made it possible to offset this somewhat and as a result the S. M. H. S. boys took the ball away from Bristol several times. Here is what happened in the closing two or three minutes of play, during which time Bristol did not get a shot at the Manchester hoop. Boggnli, who had gone in for Kittel, was fouled while shooting and made one try good. Score 14 to 13.

Boggnli was fouled again but missed the try. Holland missed long shot from center of the floor, followed it up and recovered the ball inside the foul line. He got "sec" and shot before Bristol could block him but the ball floated with the rim a moment or two and then dropped off.

Holland missed a difficult shot from side of court and Dowd and Boggnli did the same a moment or two later. Then with three seconds to play, Holland got the ball and again shot from the side court but the ball returned to go in after balancing on the rim momentarily.
