U. S. LOWERS BARS AGAINST MEXICAN REBS

Government Decides to End Anti-Smuggling Treaty; Blow to the Calles Re- gime.

Washington, March 22.—The American government has decided to terminate the anti-smuggling treaty with Mexico, which has been one of the principal barriers to the revolutionists in Mexico securing arms.

Formal notice to this effect has been served on the Mexican government, it was announced at the State Department today.

Although this step on the part of the United States has no relation to the existing embargo on arms and ammunition to Mexico, it will in all probability open the door to considerable smuggling of rifles and war materials across the border.

Recent press dispatches from Mexico have emphasized the growth and scope of revolutionary activities against the Calles government, and the abrogation of the treaty at this time is distinctly a blow to the Calles regime.

The State Department's announcement follows: "The convention between the United States and Mexico to prevent smuggling and for certain other objects was signed December 23, 1925, ratified March 11, 1926, and proclaimed March 15, 1926. It went into effect so far as the United States was concerned upon March 28, 1926. By its terms the convention was to remain in force for one year, upon the expiration of which period, if no notice of a desire to terminate it had been given by either party it was to continue in force until thirty days after each party should give notice of termination.

"Upon due consideration the government has concluded to terminate the treaty at the expiration of the year, and has accordingly given the appropriate notice to the government of Mexico.

"The State Department officials declined to go behind the formal announcement, or to comment for publication upon the probable effect of the step on the stability of the present Mexican government. There was, however, a concurrent statement of the fact that it opens the door to widespread smuggling along the thousand-mile border.

TRY POLICE CHIEF ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Accused of Giving Vermont Banker Quart of Real Scotch Whiskey.

White River Junction, Vt., March 22.—The local opera house, not far distant from Plymouth Notch, the birthplace of President Coolidge, stages an unusual "show" today. The trial of Police Chief Charles W. Smith, accused of giving a quart of good Scotch whiskey to Charles L. Lebourveau, local banker.

A policeman from Elizabeth, N. J., a deputy sheriff from New Jersey and a local clergyman were said to be involved. The New Jerseyites were summer visitors here. They were among those said by the prosecution to have been summoned as witnesses.

The trial justice was Judge Arthur P. Carpenter, of Brattleboro, sitting because Judge A. G. Whitman, of the Hartford Municipal Court had declared himself disqualified. Raymond Trainor was defense counsel and State's Attorney Twitchell, the prosecutor.

All the settings of a court room were set up in the playhouse for the siring of charges that the police chief had peddled liquor charges brought by a clergyman.

The first "act" of the White River Junction "show" was the drawing of a jury.

GERMANY DEMANDS ACTUAL ARMS CUT

States Disarmed by Treaty Were Disarmed, Count Bern- storff Declares.

Geneva, March 22.—Germany insists upon immediate and actual disarmament in Europe. Count Bernstorff declared before the League of Nations preparatory disarmament conference today in setting forth the German thesis on disarmament.

"The states disarmed by the peace treaties were disarmed as a result of general disarmament," said Count Bernstorff.

"Germany awaits impatiently the disappearance of the present inequality of European armaments. This is the league's chief task.

"Germany won't approve fictitious solutions."

HITS SEA BOTTOM 240 FEET DOWN, LIVES

Digby, N. C., March 22.—Roland Haines, a young fisherman, today was recovering in the hospital from a sudden and unexpected trip to the bottom of the sea. Haines became entangled in the network of some steel scallop drags, was yanked from the deck of the schooner on which he was working, and carried down forty fathoms to the bottom. The lifting machine was started immediately and brought him to the top after about four minutes' immersion, unconscious and bleeding from the nose as a result of the heavy pressure on the bottom.

FIGHT AHEAD FOR MINERS, OWNERS SAY

Soft Coal Companies Declare They Will Spend Millions To Keep Open Shop Pol- icy.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 22.—A strongly financed fight on the United Mine Workers of America will begin April first in western Pennsylvania, according to statements made today both by union officials and mine operators. The outcome of the struggle will have tremendous effect on the soft coal industry.

Because of its magnitude, John L. Lewis, president of the miners' union, has selected Philip S. Murray, international vice president, as commander in chief of the union forces in this field. Murray is on the ground laying plans to pull out the workers after April first.

Until 1925 western Pennsylvania, known as District No. 5, was preponderantly union. In August of that year, the Pittsburgh Coal Co., rated as the world's largest soft coal producer, broke with the union, lowered wages, and since has maintained a non-union policy. Several smaller companies followed the Pittsburgh Coal Co.'s example.

J. D. Morrow, president of the company, has issued a statement to the miners, which says, in part: "We will never sign a scale with any union again. We will always have open shop mines, we will never run any mine any way but open shop."

Replying to this challenge, Murray said today: "We are going to lick the Pittsburgh Coal Company." "Already it has been a costly fight for the Pittsburgh Coal Co., which last year reported a loss of $2,114,676. Despite this, the company, in which the Mellon and other great financial interests have heavy holdings, is prepared to pour in millions more to operate non-union."

"We are ready to spend large sums of money to continue our open shop policy," said C. E. Leshor, executive vice president.

Union officials charge openly that the Mellon and Rockefeller interests and the Pennsylvania railroad are behind the plan to crush the union. In support of this statement Murray said the Pennsylvania railroad was the greatest single factor in destroying the Jacksonville agreement. He pointed out that the railroad is hauling coal 700 miles from Kentucky non-union fields, paying heavy freight to other railroads, to avoid buying union mined coal.

Pittsburgh Coal Company officials declare the open shop policy is a success, and that after April 1st they will be joined by several large companies now operating with the union, including the Pittsburgh Terminal Corporation. They further report that labor is efficient and plentiful and that while production per man has been cut down about fourteen per cent this has been more than offset by a 25 per cent saving in wages. They look for conditions to improve steadily and hope to be making money in another year or two.

CARROLL, OF NORWICH, WINS HIS FIRST SUIT

Judged Competent to Manage Own Property—Three Other Suits Pending.

Reno, Nev., March 22.—George W. Carroll, member of famous New England family and former Norwich, Conn., broker, was judged to be competent to manage his own property in the district court in the incompetent suit brought by George Carroll Jr., who petitioned for guardianship.

Three other actions are pending in court. The first is the suit of Carroll's wife, Emma Carroll, for separate maintenance of $500 a month, the second is the alienation of affection suit for $50,000 brought by Mrs. Carroll against Mrs. Margaret Gaines, and the third is Carroll's suit for divorce.

LOWER HOUSE REJECTS BILL TO AID WOMEN

Measure For 48 Hour Week Thrown Out By State Leg- islature—Other Matters Discussed.

Hartford, Conn., March 22.—A bill establishing a forty-eight hour week for women in industry was rejected by the Lower House of the Legislature here today. Mrs. Edith V. Cook, of New Haven, in her maiden speech before the House, opposed an unfavorable report on the bill from the labor committee, saying the House should realize that women need protection in factories fully as much as they need protection from jury service. Her stand was supported by only a few votes.

Sunday Bowling
In the Senate a bill which would allow bowling on Sunday was rejected without comment. Two acts which would allow communities to secede from the town of Stamford and set up independent governments also were rejected in the Senate. The two were Shippan Point and North Stamford.

George M. Finklestone, representative from Bridgeport, was defeated by Albert Lavery, of Fairfield, in a controversy over a Bridgeport bond issue of $500,000 intended for sewer construction. The Bridgeporter sought to amend the bill so that the project might be open to competitive bids. Mr. Lavery thought the amendment wasn't needed as the city ordinance now provide for this very thing.

Personalities Used
Accusations were made by both speakers that the other had changed his position on the matter of Bridgeport home rule in the last two years. A long debate took place and personalities were injected. A partnership recently formed between the two, regarding favorable action on Bridgeport matters was dissolved. Mr. Lavery declared "all the dividends would go to Mr. Finklestone." During his argument the Fairfield man declared the matter was purely one of local politics.

CHURCHILL DENIES MELLON'S STATEMENT

Great Britain Will Not Get Enough From Germany to Pay the U. S.

London, March 22.—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, declared in the House of Commons this afternoon that Great Britain will not receive more in German reparations this year than she will be required to pay the United States on the war debt. The statement was made in denial of an assertion by Secretary Mellon in a letter to President Hibben of Princeton university.

Great Britain will receive 12,750,000 pounds during 1927 from German reparations and $5,500,000 pounds from allied war debts, Churchill said. During the same period Great Britain will have to pay the United States 33,000,000 pounds.

In 1928 Great Britain will receive 16,750,000 pounds from reparations and 11,500,000 pounds from war debts and will have to pay the United States 33,000,000 pounds.

Churchill told the House of Commons that Great Britain will make a refund to her debtors when the amount of reparations and receipts from debtors exceeds the amount of the payments Great Britain makes to the United States.

TRUCKLOAD OF ZEBRAS HELD UP BY POLICE

Driver Kept Overnight at Greenwich For Driving With Improper Lights.

Greenwich, Conn., March 22.—A truckload of zebras stood outside the police station here most of the night. They had reached Greenwich with Jack Anderson of Long Branch, N. J., as their chauffeur when a local policeman arrested Anderson on the ground that he was driving with improper lights.

Anderson was taking the zebras to Bridgeport for circus use. While his animals waited Anderson sat in a station house cell until court opened and departed eastward with the zebras after he paid a fine of ten dollars and costs imposed by Judge James R. Mead.

Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin, personally directing the hunt for the slayer, leaves the Snyder home in Queens Village.

Salesman Confesses He Murdered Snyder

Henry Judd Gray, In Love With Art Editor's Wife Tells How Couple Planned Brutal Slaying.

DENY CONFESSIONS
New York, March 22.—Henry Judd Gray and Mrs. Ruth Snyder, arraigned today in Jamaica police court charged with the brutal murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, art editor of "Motor Boating," flatly repudiated their "confessions" of the crime, made to police after their arrest, and stated that all their admissions had been made under duress.

Standing side by side before the magistrate, the blonde and pretty housewife and the dapper, corset salesman who she has admitted was her lover for the past two years, repudiated in every point the detailed stories they had given police of just how the killing of the editor occurred.

The prisoners were remanded to jail without bail for hearing on March 24. As they turned, to be led back to their cells, their hands touched for a moment, and clasped tightly as they looked into each other's eyes.

New York, March 22.—Edward Browning, millionaire real estate man is "through" with "Peaches" Heenan Browning and has decided that she will never "squeeze another cent out of him."

Debonair and evidently in the best of spirits, Browning made this announcement to reporters today.

He was carrying a huge bouquet of flowers which he said was a present to himself from himself. He placed them on his desk at a spot formerly occupied by a picture of "Peaches."

"She will never squeeze another cent out of me," Browning said. "I gave her all the chances in the world."

Peaches Not Happy
"Peaches" was not so cheerful. She was enroute this morning to confer with Henry Epstein, her attorney. "Peaches" would not say whether she contemplated following the advice of Justice Seeger in his decision that she seek an annulment.

She declined to comment on the text of Justice Seeger's decision which declared her charges false, many of them vitious.

An appeal from the decision of Justice Seeger which exonerated "Daddy" and granted him a decree of separation is not considered likely. "Peaches" is broke, according to Epstein. Her alimony she has been receiving from Browning ceases automatically.

"Peaches" has announced that she will go to work—if she has to.

Report That Durant Will Quit Wall St. Excites Financiers

New York, March 22.—A report, apparently based on authentic information, that William C. Durant is to quit Wall street and return to the automotive industry, electrified the financial district today.

Durant has been a spectacular leader of the bullish forces in Wall street since 1922.

Durant is reported to have lost approximately $10,000,000 in connection with his relinquishing control of General Motors Corporation in 1921, but it is estimated that he has won $25,000,000 in the stock market since then.

Durant's operations are believed to have been on the long side of the market. American Safety Razor, United States Steel, General Motors and other stocks which have risen sensationally in the meantime.

PHYSICIAN REFUSES TO EXAMINE BODY

Fears Law If He Sees Lucas Corpse Without State Per- mit.

Because Dr. George Schadt of Springfield feared that he might run afoul of the laws of this state the scheduled examination which was to have been made on the body of Mathew Lucas this morning was postponed. The body had been brought to Quish's undertaking rooms from the vault at St. James' cemetery.

Dr. Schadt came to Manchester today in the company of Attorneys Gronkowski and Buzsett, both of Springfield, who have been retained by the Lucas family in the investigation. Lucas died at the insane asylum in Middletown from septic poisoning.

The Springfield doctor would not perform the autopsy this morning without written permission from State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn of Hartford, even though he had been assured by Governor Calhoun that no permission is necessary. Attorney Alcorn had given the Springfield men no permission to examine the Lucas body and Dr. Schadt balked.

William P. Quish obtained permission for the removal of the body from St. James' vault to his undertaking rooms. Dr. A. B. Moran, who has also been investigating the case on behalf of the Lucas family, was present this morning when the examination was scheduled.

Both of the Springfield lawyers left early this afternoon for Hartford where they made efforts to have the autopsy performed by Dr. Henry Costello, co-owner of the hospital. They had also arranged for an appointment with Attorney Alcorn for 5 o'clock and it was considered doubtful that the examination would be started before that time.

The Lucas family claims that the young man was given brutal treatment at the insane asylum and declares that his death was due to injuries inflicted on him during his fight with the keeper. They were not satisfied with the findings of Coroner Smith of Middlesex county and have engaged the two Springfield attorneys to conduct another examination.

Dr. Schadt, who refused to perform the autopsy is one of the most prominent pathologists in Springfield. He is head of the New England laboratories in that city.

MANCHESTER FAMILY BRINGS $16,000 SUIT

Five Members of Stanfield Family Hurt in Auto Accident at Bolton Notch.

Hartford, Conn., March 22.—A suit for damages of $6,000 against Louis Raphael of Grove Hill, New Britain, has been instituted here by Dockwell & Holiday, of Hartford, for additional compensation by reason of marble work on the professional building in New Britain, constructed in 1926. The case is now being heard before a Superior Court jury.

The court is scheduled to hear a case including five complaints brought by members of the family of Mrs. Margaret Stanfield, of South Manchester, aggregating $16,000 against M. J. Darcey, of Waterbury. The complaint contends that five members of the family were hurt when their car hit a truck owned by Darcey at Bolton Notch in August, 1925.

"MAN OF MYSTERY" DIES AT HOSPITAL

Harry Behring Passes Away After His Leg Had Been Amputated.

Harry Behring, known as the "man of mystery" at the time of his automobile accident which resulted in the development of gas gangrene making it necessary to amputate his left leg, died today at Memorial hospital.

Behring, who at first said his name was Briggs and that he came from New York, was struck by an auto operated by George Greenway, of the Hotel Sheridan on March 5 near Laurel Park. Behring, who was said at the time, staggered down the embankment at the side of the road directly into the path of Greenway's car which was passing a large truck.

Doctors held a consultation and it was decided that the only course was to amputate the leg above the knee in effort to stop the spread of the disease. This was done but Behring did not improve satisfactorily and last week he was given a blood transfusion. Heine Pearson, a nurse, reported to the World that he had died.

FIGHTING ON OUTSKIRTS.
Shanghai, March 22.—Bitter fighting is reported in progress in the Markham road district of the western outskirts of Shanghai, between Cantonese troops and surrounding northern soldiers.

The streets are reported to be thickly strewn with the dead bodies of civilians and soldiers.

300 Wounded
The Central News correspondent says that of the three hundred northern troops who attempted to penetrate the defense of the Durhams not one remained unwounded when firing ceased.

Riotous scenes are reported to have occurred in Nanjing road in the heart of the international settlement, and the police were compelled to make repeated baton charges.

The fire in the Chapel district is still raging furiously.

FOREIGNERS IN DANGER.
London, March 22.—Dispatches received here this afternoon declared that hundreds of northern troops have broken through the barriers of the international settlement in Shanghai.

If confirmed these dispatches may be the forerunner of grave news for the fleeing northern troops have been engaging in looting in the native city and are expected to come into early conflict with the foreign forces within the international settlement. A conflict between the foreign troops and the Chinese holds grave possibilities.

Foreign office advices received during the afternoon stated that the situation in Shanghai is well in hand and the foreign settlements are safe. This was accepted here as indicating that the Chinese troops which were reported to have broken through the barriers had been driven out without serious conflict.

NATIONALS IN CONTROL.
Shanghai, March 22.—The Nationalist forces today assumed complete control over the entire Chinese area of Shanghai, except the Chapel district, where three thousand Shanghai troops are still holding out.

The first division of the Nationalist army today is patrolling numerous areas in the native city, restoring some semblance of order there, following the wildest sort of disorders which lasted throughout the night and part of the morning. The city is now beginning to quiet down.

Disorders in Chapel, meanwhile the most intractable chaos is reigning in Chapel. The Shanghaiites there who are so desperately defending themselves apparently are unaware that their field commander, General Pi Shou-wei, has been captured.

But this is really unexpected since at the end of the eighteenth century Americans had already shown their preference for the Paris District. It was there that Benjamin Franklin maintained his home when he was first American France."

Kiwanians Present Minstrel Tomorrow

Local Clubmen In Benefit For Kiddies Camp Fund; Ticket Sale Assures Crowd.

Kiwanians, their wives, sweethearts, friends, relatives, neighbors, and all the kids in Manchester are boosters today of the big benefit minstrel show the Manchester club will present in the State theater tomorrow afternoon and evening. The minstrel will be one big round of pleasure, not only for those in the audience, but also for the Kiwanians taking part. The kids will get their pleasure as a result of the show during the coming summer at the Kiwanis camp in Hebron.

The Kiwanis club is composed of most of Manchester's busiest men yet they have found time nearly every day to rehearse their specialty and chorus bits in preparation for the show tomorrow. And, added to that, each member has 25 tickets to dispose of and most of them report that they have sold their whole allotment.

The show, though termed a benefit, will be well worth seeing. Much of the talent has been uncovered right within the club's membership. Outside talent has also been engaged and a fine entertainment will be the result. Among the soloists of Rockville, who has been heard from station WTIC several times, Miss Margaret Coughlan, an entertainer in Hartford night clubs, will also sing popular songs. Billy Sweet will yodel and little Dorothy Wirtalla will dance. Special scenery sets have been secured from a theatrical supply house in New York City. The Manchester Male Quartet will take part in one scene and a little plot runs through the entire production. Jack Sanson of the State theater has given the club members excellent support in helping to round out the production.

der). I returned to Syracuse on the 8:45 train Sunday morning. I immediately prepared an alibi by having letters sent to my wife in East Orange, N. J., and to Mrs. Snyder, so that it would appear I was in Syracuse at the time the crime was committed. I fought very deliberately to have a complete alibi. "The crime was arranged by correspondence, which I believe has been destroyed. (Here, Gray was mistaken, as the authorities found two letters he had written to the slain man's wife.)

"Mrs. Snyder and I have been in love for the past two years. We met frequently. I don't think, however, that her desire to go with me was the sole motive behind the crime. I was forced to agree.

"I was forced to take a hand in it. "She wanted to get his life insurance, amounting to $25,000. She recently increased it to that figure from $10,000. She threatened to tell my wife unless I helped her murder her husband. She said she would tell my wife about our intimacies. I became 'righted.' "

"I bought the picture wire in Syracuse and brought it down in my pocket. I bought the sash weight three weeks before the murder. I also carried with me the chloroform. I arrived here on the 10:10 train on Saturday night. Arrives at midnight. "I arrived in Queens about twelve o'clock. I entered the house and hid in Mrs. Brown's bedroom. (Mrs. Brown is the mother of Mrs. Snyder. She was away attending her duties as a trained nurse.) About two o'clock Snyder, his wife and their daughter, Lorraine arrived. After Snyder and Lorraine went to bed, Mrs. Snyder and I met. She knew I was in the house.

"Soon after three o'clock we (Gray and Mrs. Snyder) tiptoed into Snyder's room. We (he didn't say which one) carried the sash weight which was wrapped in paper. We came close to the bed. Snyder was asleep.

Strikes Sleeper "I raised the sash weight and hit the sleeping man a glancing blow on the head. Then the sash weight fell to the floor.

"Mrs. Snyder reached up, picked up and struck her husband another blow.

"Then I took out the chloroform put a little on some of the sash weight and applied it to Snyder's nose. I tried to tie Snyder's hands with his own necktie that his wife had passed over to me from a rack. My hands shook and I was unable to do so. Mrs. Snyder then tied the hands herself. (Gray insisted he did not tie the picture wire around Snyder's neck.)

"I then tied up her husband's feet. I noticed some blood on my vest and shirt. There was some blood on Mrs. Snyder's nightgown and kimono.

"Mrs. Snyder burned them in the furnace. Then she gave me one of her husband's shirts, a blue one. I left the house about 5:30. I went back to Syracuse on the 8:45 Sunday morning.

"While I was gone I arranged to have a call made to the desk clerk at the Onondaga, where I stayed, requesting that I be not disturbed. I also arranged to have the bed in my room muffled up so it looked as though I had slept in it. I also had a "Please Don't Disturb" sign hung on my door.

PARALLEL

If Italy and Juglo-Slavia should come to grips—and then France and Italy and no knowing who else—we should have not only a new European war but a clean cut example of the results of adjusting government consciences to business requirements.

It is "economic necessity"—in other words the seizing of business opportunity—that demands that the Adriatic sea shall be Italian. It is the need to make the Adriatic Italian which has occasioned the machinations whereby Mussolini set up a puppet ruler in Albania and had him sign a treaty that substantially makes Albania a Roman province. It is fear—fear that Italy plans to stage a fake attempt in Albania by Albanians to upset the puppet's rule and then walk in and take possession of Albania, by virtue of the treaty—which is prompting Juglo-Slavia to prepare to meet this active threat against herself; she knows that with Italy on her border there would be no safety.

It may not be possible for Americans to either estimate accurately or to judge fairly the policy of Fascist Italy with relation to her neighbors. But it is very certain that her policy toward them is too perilous to peace to make it a good example for us to follow.

Yet there is a very striking similarity between Italy's protecting watchfulness over Albania, and her method of safeguarding Italian interests there, and our own interests in Nicaragua and our methods there. Ahmed Bey Zogu is Mussolini's edition of President Diaz. Juglo-Slavia is Italy's Mexico. The principal difference in the situation is that in the Balkan row there is a France to match an Italy, whereas in the Western Hemisphere there is no backer of Nicaragua and Mexico to match the United States.

In the Balkans these things are likely to lead to a world war. In North America they are likely to lead only to the damage that injustice works upon the doers.

FINANCE CZAR

One of the features of the McFadden banking law which was passed during the recent session of Congress legalizes the already common practice of national banks in buying and selling investment securities. Such dealings in securities by national banks were not illegal under the old banking laws but neither were they definitely regulated nor specifically authorized.

The spirit of the law being to prevent the freezing of banks' resources in slow assets, the comptroller of the currency is given the power to define investment securities by regulation. Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania, author of the law, in an analysis of the banking measure, points out that "the framers of the act anticipate that such regulations prescribed by the comptroller of the currency will act as a safeguard not only to the national banks but will also be a guide to investors in this class of securities throughout the country."

It would seem that one important effect of the bank law, then, would be to endow the comptroller of the currency with new and very great responsibility—and just possibly a power that Congress might have hesitated to repose in any one individual if it had stopped to realize the possible effect.

The position of comptroller of the currency would appear to take on, under this act, an importance of the very first class—so great an importance that every banker and financier in the country will be intensely interested in the personality of whatever individual shall hereafter occupy that post. If the bill does not create a czar of American finance it came pretty close to it—and quite obviously it would be a calamitous thing if at any time the comptroller did not prove to be a very good czar indeed, in relation both to his capacity and his character.

NO REIGN OF TERROR

As was forecaſt by earlier decisions in the trial, Henry Ford's possible anti-Semitism is not to be made the real nub of the Sapiro-Ford trial. When Editor Campbell was asked by Sapiro lawyers yesterday, "whether your original plans were for a series of articles against the Jews and not against Aaron Sapiro," the court, after an all-day argument, ruled that objection to the question was sustained. That would seem to definitely settle the question, so far as this trial is concerned, whether it is possible to penalize a publisher for expressing his opinions concerning a racial or national group.

It is the first time in the history of the United States, if we mistake not, that a serious attempt has been made to invoke the law to silence comment on the character and quality of any particular division of the population. Apparently the Sapiro suit was brought for the purpose of suppressing the expression of adverse opinion on the Jews. If successful in that respect no periodical, newspaper or book could be published safely if it contained anything that could be construed as libel on the Germans, the Italians, the Irish, the English or any other national group. The Baptist church could put Sinclair Lewis in jail for the rest of his life for "Elmer Gantry." The Manchester Herald would be indictable for voicing the idea that prohibitionists were on the wrong track.

Obviously the laws of libel were never intended to be applied as it is sought to apply them in this Ford case. If they were they would bring on a reign of terror over those whose business is the expression of opinion.

"PEACHES"

Mighty few folks would have been distressed, as far as the man himself was concerned, if that fat girl "Peaches" Heenan Browning had won her suit for separation from the more or less notorious "Daddy," but there is ironic justice, nevertheless, in the decision of the court which upsets the Heenan appeal, gives the sap-headed but over-maligned husband the decree of separation and, to all intents and purposes, puts it up to "Peaches" to get a job in a night club or a laundry, as the case may be, if she wishes to continue to eat.

The court decision at least serves notice on lazy girls and their hard-bolled mothers that there is no certainty to the game of catching an elderly rich man, haling him into court on trumped-up charges and walking victoriously off with a juicy chunk of his possessions. That game will continue to be worked, no doubt, but those who may contemplate venturing into this particular field of enterprise will realize that there is at least a chance of failure—the scheme no longer looks like the cinch that it unquestionably did to the Heenan family.

Possibly "Peaches" may wear other yet sable coats and run yet other unlimited charge accounts. But from present indications the odds are apparently rather more in favor of her going to work. And work for that recent front-pager is not likely to be either in vaudeville, the movies or a literary shop. She isn't good enough looking and she's too stupid.

SAVED

It would have been pleasant for many an investor in Florida boom lands if every one of the numerous flotation companies that adventured on that sunny speculative sea had numbered among its sponsors such financially responsible and conscientious persons as did the Florando scheme. Mrs. Hugh Dillman of Detroit, formerly Mrs. Horace Dodge, and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, smiled so warmly upon the Florando enterprise for the formation of a super-plus-ultra exclusive colony, and their smiles were followed by such a headlong scampering by their yes-folks to get in on the Florando exclusiveness, that when the bubble blew up with a reverberating bang those good ladies found themselves in a highly embarrassing position. Half a million dollars had been paid in on a million and a half dollars worth of princely exclusive lots by their social followers—and it looked like all-gone money.

Nobly did the good ladies stand by their guns, however. Noblesse oblige, you know. And Mrs. Dillman and Mrs. Stotesbury "went south"—not geographically this time, but peculiarly. They dove down into their check books and they gave back all those distressed losers their lost dough. In no wise were they legally responsible for the losses, but they settled just the same.

Would that there had been a Mrs. Dillman and a Mrs. Stotesbury in every single one of the busted Florida schemes.

BOBBERY

While the heathen rage in China and the Balkans balk over being a punching bag for the Fascist big fist, we have a fine little old war of our own not only in the making but so far developed as the skirmishing of mobilized forces. The barbers and hair dressers, terrible with banners, are out to trim each other.

The barbers started the war by presenting bills in Legislatures all over the country aimed to require beauty-parlor operators to pass examinations and have licenses, as the barbers already have to do in a number of states.

The hair dressers come back with a proclamation of purpose to get laws passed making it illegal for barber shop folk to touch the heads of women at all.

"Let them do their worst," shout the barbers. "And their worst is had enough."

The beauty shop hair dressers assert that the barbers are traditional-bound dolts who can't save their souls sense the artistry in a boyish bob. The barbers want to know what barber ever learned his trade in a correspondence school and which hairdresser didn't.

And between them they're proving themselves a pretty snippy lot.

WASHINGTON LETTER

This is the second of four articles revealing an amazing situation in the State Department.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 22.—There are about 100 diplomatic officers and about 600 consular officers in the professional foreign service of the United States. That does not include our ministers and ambassadors.

The present internal dissension in the State Department is due to the contention of the consular officers that although they are all classed equally in the various grades by act of Congress, promotions and plum jobs are being dealt out to diplomatic officers on the basis of social position and wealth, whereas consular officers are neglected and robbed of decent prospects for retirement in spite of an average greater maturity, ability and experience.

Nine Classes

The 700 foreign service officers are divided into nine classes and those of Class I, including consuls general and counselors of embassy, draw $8,000 a year. Class II includes consuls general and counselors of legation at $6,000. Class III at $7,000 includes consuls general, consuls and first secretaries. Class IV includes consuls and first secretaries at $5,000 and so on down the line through the sixth, second secretaries, third secretaries and vice consuls to the unclassified officers who are paid from $2,500 to $3,000.

In two years, the consular insurgents say, 70 per cent of the diplomatic branch was promoted as compared with 40 per cent of the consular branch. Thirty diplomatic men remain to be promoted as compared with 360 consular men.

Further, they point out, about 95 per cent of the consular officers dependent on their salaries, while 90 per cent of the diplomatic officers are independent of what they earn.

The math square is that the personnel board is packing the upper reaches with young and inexperienced men. There is one diplomat for every two consular officers in the $9,000 class; one for every two in the $8,000 class, one for every three in the $7,000 class and so on, down to the last class at $3,500, where the ratio is one to eight.

Berths Are Limited

There are just so many berths in higher grades. If a man 35 years assistant secretary of state, he pre-old hits the top and becomes an sumably will stay upstairs until the retirement age of 65. Meanwhile, a 55-year-old consul, with infinitely more service and experience, is blocked from promotion and the job he may have been working toward for 30 years. He must go on retirement pay at a subordinate stage and at a low figure because his friends say, a young man with pull and "social background" has been given the post which he had every right to expect.

Imagine the holler if the army and navy began to make 35-year-old generals and admirals! The chairman of the personnel board is Joseph C. Grew, under-secretary of state. The other members are J. Butler Wright and Wilbur J. Carr, assistant secretaries of state. Carr is director of the consular service and supposedly in sympathy with the men under him, but Grew and Wright are accused of being the heads of the inner circle of social diplomats which has set the well-to-do diplomat over the hard-working consul.

The board's control of division of the funds enables it to provide for ample promotions for its favorites, it is charged, so that whereas the diplomatic branch is able to turn back money each year the consular branch hasn't enough to pay its own men promoted into higher classes.

The board chooses its own successors and so is self-perpetuating. Butler Wright himself has recently been named as minister to Hungary. During the series of recent shifts, of which Wright is one, the consular service claims to have been passed by despite its fine materials for legation posts.

Mrs. Helped Service

There is no question but that the Rogers act, effective for the last two years, has been greatly beneficial to the service. Time was when the diplomatic service was a perfect paradise for politicians, game ducks and wealthy men with ambitious wives who contributed heavily to the party. We now have "career men" as heads of missions in Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Persia, Canada, Ireland, Brazil, Argentina, Nicaragua, Honduras,

The prize-plums—such as London, Paris and Berlin—still go to political appointees.

But the men who are so sore at the "system" in the department contend that the spirit of the Rogers act is being violated and perverted to the extent that the thousands of the service are getting all the breaks.

Tomorrow we will consider some of the complaints of social favoritism as they effect some of the alleged favorites of the "system."

NEW YORK

New York, March 22.—Remember the "getaway night" of the old-fashioned circus?

And how the seats began to come down almost out from under you even before the "concert and big after show?"

Well, that's a pretty good picture of what happens to the poor egg caught at 9:15 or thereabouts in a Broadway supper club, where the covert charge goes into effect at 10 o'clock.

"Long about 9 o'clock the orchestra disappears in the general direction of the hors d'oeuvres. This, if you are initiate, is the signal for diners to start making their exit.

The place has been crowded with the $2.50 dinner guests. And those who are late have heard a couple of entertainers thump a piano and, perhaps, have squeezed in one dance.

Suddenly in the back corners of the cafe tables are yanked about and chairs hauled forward. As fast as diners leave their tables the changing about of chairs and tables goes on. It's all very simple: they want the cafe cleared out, if possible, well before the evening's concert charge hour strikes; they want to clean up and rearrange. The average visitor grows self-conscious, timid and worried and, of course, flees.

BRITISH CABINET WORRYING OVER RUMORS OF WAR

Anxious Hours Are Spent By Government As New Trouble Is Feared.

London—Sinister rumors of another Continental war—possibly this year—are causing the British cabinet anxious nights. Apprehensions regarding this new war menace arise from the fact that, regardless of the work of the League of Nations—four great European countries are forging formidable instruments of war. In France, Italy, Jugo-Slavia and Hungary a policy termed "military modernism" has been officially adopted in order to organize the whole wealth, man-power and even woman-power, the industrial resources of the nation, so that they may be instantly ready for war under new conditions. "Conscription of the nation" is the only term that can be applied to this new method of warfare. M. Painleve, the French Minister of War, has recently declared that the "national army" is out of date and useless for future warfare; in its place, he said would have to be taken by the "army of the nation."

Program of France
The French Chamber, practically without opposition has just passed a Bill which provides, in the words of Paul Boncour, a socialist that:—"All civil life will cease in the event of war; it assures for the mobilization of the entire population—men up to 40 years of age for the front line and all other people, men and women, for "the military needs of the nation."

In Italy's fascism's "First Hundred Thousand"—young men from 16 to 20 years of age, are now undergoing their first "winter military course." After four years of this they will be handed on for service in the army. The idea is that all Italian citizens, will be ready for military duty before serving in the regular army.

Jugo-Slavia has been watching Italy like a hawk. So strong is the military feeling in this country that the new Cabinet is practically a military dictatorship.

Military effort is being speeded up in all directions. The country is now turning out nearly 300 aeroplanes yearly; new arsenals are either at work or soon will be. Military roads and strategic railroads are being rapidly pushed forward to facilitate the rapid movement of troops and transport.

Hungary Organizes
In Hungary, although the Trianon Treaty only allows a standing army of 35,000 men, the Government has made "Physical Drill Companies" compulsory throughout the country. Every able-bodied young man between the ages of 18 and 21 are compelled to join these thinly disguised military organizations. Under strict penalties they have to perform three drills weekly with rifles.

But if this military infectiousness is bad enough in itself, it is the actual situation in the Mediterranean that affects the British Government most deeply.

Here, no menace exists that makes any special call for Italian resistance. To all outward appearance, there is not any symptom among the Mediterranean nations that should cause the slightest apprehension to the mind of anybody. Despite this, Italy, at the present time, is building the fastest warships in the Mediterranean. By coincidence or intent, France is simultaneously intensifying strengthening her defenses on her south-east frontier and in the Mediterranean.

From Malta, the British Government has received complaints of Italian propaganda in the island, and the inhabitants state that with practically all the British Mediterranean fleet away in China, Italy could seize the island any time she wished.

Old Master's

On a starred night Prince Lucifer arose.
Tired of his dark dominion swung the pend.
Above the rolling ball in cloud part screened,
Where sinners hugged their spectre of repose.
Poor prey to his hot fit of pride were those.
And now upon his western wing he leaned,
Now his huge bulk o'er Africa's sands careened,
Now the black planet shadowed Arctic zones.
Scouring through wider zones that pricked his scars
With memory of the old revolt from awe,
He reached a middle height, and at the stars,
Which are the brain of Heaven, he looked and sank.
Around the ancient track marched, rank on rank,
The army of unalterable law.

The pupils of the Old Hop River school held a St. Patrick's day party at the school house Thursday afternoon. The program was in charge of Anna Chowenac, Frederick Macht, and Raymond Radcot. Sandwiches, cake, salted nuts, apples and chocolates were served.

The Quen Sabe Club held an open meeting at the hall Friday evening. Rev. Duane Wain gave an illustrated lecture on the World War, and a short play "Educating Mary" was given by several members of the club. Those taking part were Frederick Hunt, Gladys Rice, Gladys Lowman, Adella Badge, Martha Chowenac, Harry Chowenac, William Macht and Clayton Hunt, Jr. Music was furnished by William Macht and Frederick Hunt, saxophone; Gladys Lowman, violin, and Arlene Badge, piano.

STATE THEATER BILL IS THE FINEST EVER

"Flesh and Devil" Tonight, Kiwanis Minstrels Tomorrow, 8 Vaudeville Acts Thursday.

The State theater program for the rest of the week is as versatile as one could wish for. Tonight is the final showing of John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in "Flesh and the Devil" and tomorrow evening comes the big Kiwanis club minstrel which is being given for the benefit of the children's camp at Hebron.

The minstrel will feature many well known members of the Kiwanis club and it will be a big surprise to see just how much real good talent there is in the organization. There will be fun from the time Prof. Quimby, interlocutor, says the first word, until the final chorus.

"Flesh and the Devil," the tremendous spectacle in which John Gilbert and Greta Garbo appear for the last time this evening, is a love story which involves the eternal triangle in several ways. Gilbert and Miss Garbo, it may be gathered, are two of the angles of the triangle while Lars Hanson as the bosom friend of the former, is the third.

Laid in Germany, the scene of this picture is brought realistically to the screen, although the whole production was made in this country. Atmosphere true to the setting is there in great abundance and one could almost hear the German language spoken in the army school scene.

Eight acts are on the program again on Thursday afternoon and evening with the big feature, "The Midnight Sun." For the final two days of the week the management will present five acts in conjunction with this picture.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Jesus Pays His Taxes

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILBOY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESER

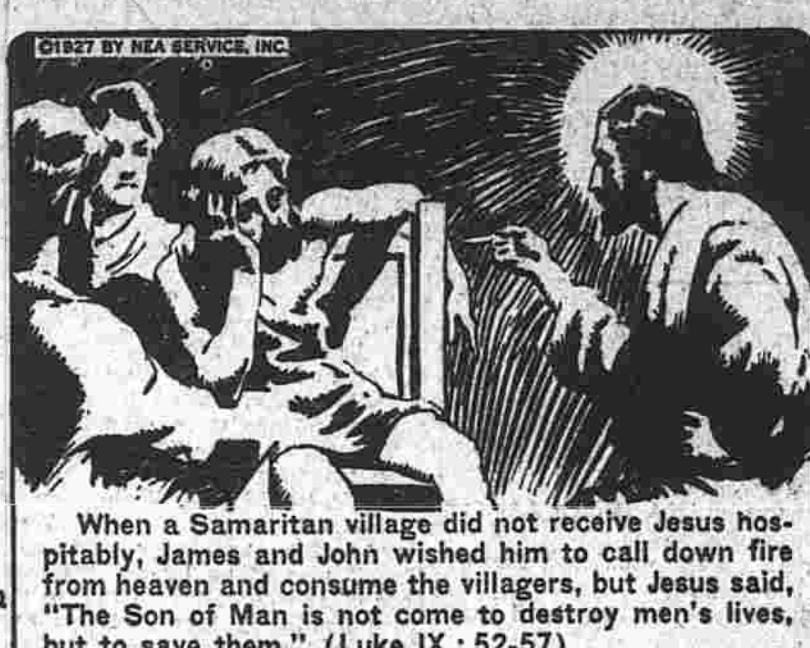

Jesus, asked for his tribute money, or taxes, has Peter catch a fish in the mouth of which he finds money to pay. (Matthew XVII: 24-27)

The disciples dispute among themselves as to who shall be the greatest. (Matthew XVIII: 1-3; Mark IX: 33-50)

But Jesus took a little child and setting him in the midst said: "Except ye become as little children ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." (Matthew XVIII: 3)

When a Samaritan village did not receive Jesus hospitably, James and John wished him to call down fire from heaven and consume the villagers, but Jesus said, "The Son of Man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them." (Luke IX: 52-57)

MUST BOLSTER CASE OR LOSE HIS SUIT

Judge at Ford Hearing Tells Sapiro Lawyers They Must Change Tactics.

Federal Building, Detroit, Mich., March 22.—Aaron Sapiro, so-called wheat king, must bolster his charges of libel against Henry Ford or his million-dollar libel suit will not be submitted to the jury, Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond announced today at the trial here in Federal Court.

The jurist declared that the Sapiro declaration of libel was "insufficient" and indicated he would throw the case out of court if amendments were not made. Counsel for the wheat king immediately agreed to make the necessary changes.

Legal Triumph

Attorneys for Ford hailed the announcement as a distinct legal triumph. They had argued several times that the Sapiro charges were not technically sufficient to justify a verdict against the auto king.

The development came as one in a long series of technicalities which the Ford attorneys invoked to aid America's first billionaire. They contested every step with legal objections and with William J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, who stood virtually kept the Sapiro counsel from getting any information from the witness.

Court's Announcement

It was on an objection raised by Stewart Stanley, of Ford's counsel, that the court declared Sapiro would have to amend his complaint—a technical process.

"It does seem to the court that before this case can be submitted to the jury there will have to be very substantial amendments proposed to the declaration and then it will be the discretion of the court whether the amendments shall be granted," said Judge Raymond. "It is the duty of the court, it seems, to take testimony now and then possibly to permit amendments at a later step of the proceedings."

The whole Sapiro case was based on the declaration. Under the libel laws, Sapiro can only collect damages for libels set forth in the declaration.

CAPE BRETON MINERS RETURN TO THEIR JOBS

500 Strikers Go Back to Work; Were Out Only For a Few Days.

Cape Breton, N. S., March 22.—A strike of the miners employed at the collieries of the Inverness Railway & Coal Co., in effect for several days was practically at an end today with nearly all of the striking men back to work.

The strike started when members of the United Mine Workers of America announced that they would not work under a new wage agreement unless the company closed to the collieries to all workmen not members of their union. Coincidentally with the miner's announcement was the closing of the mines by the company because of lack of orders.

Upwards of five hundred men are employed to work the mines at full strength. These are divided about equally between members of the United Mine Workers union and the One Big Union. An order opening the mine for work brought all the members of the One Big Union back to their places.

LOWER HOUSE REJECTS BILL TO AID WOMEN

The finance committee, he said, did not feel that it was its job to create political heroes in the Park City. Ernest L. ELINOR GLYN STORY
AT RIALTO THEATER

Elinor Glyn demonstrates by the picture "Love's Blindness" which heads a double feature program at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow, that she knows well the public's taste in pictures as well as in fiction. The film has been popularized from the widely read serial which was published in newspapers all over the country. Most pictures end up with a marriage or with a gesture that would indicate impending marriage but "Love's Blindness" opens with one. Pauline Starke as Vanessa Levy, the London money lender's daughter and Antonio Moreno as Hubert Culverdale, an English noble who enters the match to save himself from bankruptcy are the principals and the elaborate wedding scene might well be considered one of the highlights of the picture were it not for the dramatic scenes which follow. For all who love a romance get apart from the workaday world this picture cannot be too strongly recommended.

The second attraction is a brilliant comedy "Atta Boy" which lives up to its peppy title. Monty Banks who established quite a reputation as a mirth-dispenser some months ago when he appeared in a series of humorous pictures which scored a sensation, has the leading role to portray and he adds another outstanding triumph to his list of successes in this photoplay, which fairly bubbles over with hilarious scenes. A selected program of shorter subjects will also be shown.

Better Mornings via Breakfasts That "Stand By" You

Quaker Oats Urged Widely by Authorities

FOREMOST educators, editors as well as leading business institutions like General Electric Company, now are widely urging breakfasts that "stand by" as an important aid to success.

That's because it is now known that over 70% of the day's important work, in offices, stores, etc., falls into the four morning hours—the hours from 8:30 to 12:30.

In most American schools, including Princeton, Yale, most State Universities and some 2,000 grade schools throughout the country, 80% of the important classes are held before luncheon.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions now start days with Quaker Oats—food that "stands by" one through the morning.

Excellent balanced in protein, carbohydrates, minerals and the important Vitamin B, this delicious food is ideal for banishing listless mornings.

Today get Quick Quaker that cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes or regular Quaker Oats at grocer's.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE ONLY AMERICAN MARSUPIAL

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

Probably you know that outside of Australia there is only one group of marsupials—the opossums.

The word marsupial is from the Latin word for pouch and refers to those mammals whose young are born in an immature state and protected by being tucked away in the pouch with which Nature has equipped the mother marsupial, and there it remains for a long time. A baby opossum is naked, blind and so helpless that it cannot nurse like the babies of other mammals.

Instinct teaches it where to grab hold and the mother at proper intervals pumps into these midguts the necessary amount of milk. These are from five to 14 of these half-inch long infants born at a time and the mother pockets them from six to eight weeks. Even after they leave the pouch they cling to her fur and she carries them with her wherever she goes.

When they grow to be as big as mother 'possum they will be perhaps 30 inches long and weigh about 12 pounds.

Mother 'possum is a believer in big and frequent families and sometimes has three litters a year.

ALBANIA MAY GET MOSLEM AS KING

Present President Likely to Place Himself on Throne As War Threatens.

By MILTON BRONNER

London, March 22.—Again the cry of "Fire" is raised over the ceaselessly smouldering Balkans. Italy anxiously informs England that Yugoslavia backed by the French, contemplates invading Albania to overthrow the Tirana government, with which Mussolini recently consummated an at least defensive alliance. And Great Britain, apparently, accords Italy tacit support of its determination to preserve the Albanian status quo. Thus the eyes of Europe are turned with intense interest upon a unique character—Ahmed Zogu Bey—president of the Albanian Republic. Don't be surprised if your newspaper informs you one of these mornings that Zogu Bey has proclaimed himself king of Albania, thus becoming the first Moslem ruler of a European nation. It will be one more advance in the Mussolini policy of dominance in the Balkans. It will be one more Italian thrust to Yugoslavia and Greece, both of which are not exactly on good terms with the Fascist dictator. Zogu Bey's career is part and parcel of the story of Albania which has been independent only since 1912. By consent of the powers, Prince William of Wied, a German, was made ruler of Albania in 1914. When the war broke out he fled. Then the Austrian army swept in to be driven out later by the Italians. Notwithstanding the Italian soldiers' withdrawal after the war, Italian influences have been felt ever since. Although the bulk of the million Albanians is Moslem, there has always been a considerable degree of religious tolerance. This is demonstrated by the fact that a couple of years ago the head of the government was Monsignor Fan Noli, an Orthodox catholic priest, who for a time resided in the United States. He fell because it was believed he

Ahmed Zogu Bey

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In almost every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

was too much under Italy's thumb. As he left the country for exile in Belgrade, Ahmed, also an exile there, returned to Albania and made himself President. Supposedly of pro-Yugoslav sympathies, Zogu began to make a noise like progress. He built 125 miles of roads and the first railway, a stretch of 25 miles between the seaport Durazzo and Tirana. Then one day he signed with Italy a treaty making Albania a virtual military protectorate of Italy. Nominally, it safeguards the political and territorial status quo of Albania. The two countries agreed to conclude no political or military pacts prejudicial to each other. In reality, the treaty means that Albania can't deal with Yugoslavia or Greece without Italy's consent; that Italy will send troops to defend Albania against Yugoslavia in case of need; that Italy is pursuing her policy of making the Adriatic an Italian lake. The treaty created a crisis in Yugoslavia and brought about the fall of the cabinet. Freed from the fear of Yugoslavia, Zogu has been putting on airs. He adopted a rigid royal etiquette in the presidential palace and surrounded himself with a bodyguard of courtiers and soldiers, most of whom are Russian "White" refugees, who are gorgeously uniformed. And when the proper time arrives, it is now believed he will proclaim himself King Ahmed the First. And Mussolini will smile his approval.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions. A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night—adv.

CIRCLE FEATURE IS PRETTY LOVE STORY

"Love's Greatest Mistake" Here Today and Tomorrow; Evelyn Brent in Lead.

What is Love's greatest mistake? Is it too much love-making, too much of the night life, wine, women and song, or is it something else? For those who do not know and would like to be enlightened the opportunity has been presented in the Circle theater picture, "Love's Greatest Mistake," which is showing at the Oak street playhouse today and tomorrow. For the past few weeks the Liberty magazine has been carrying a powerful story in serial form. It has become one of the most looked for things in the life of the average reader of Liberty and it was so popular that it was made over into a screen play with its character unchanged. "Love's Greatest Mistake" tells a story in a new way. True, it has its gold diggers, confidence and blackmail men, an innocent girl from the city and a snarling villain. It is a melodrama that is full of action and acting. The capable cast, which has been assigned the work of giving this story to the public through the medium of the movies, has done wonders with it. But it must be seen to be appreciated. Josephine Dunn as Honey McNeil, the girl in the case, is here cast in her first feature role and carries it off with remarkable ease for such a newcomer on the screen, more than vindicating her training in the Paramount school. William Powell, as Don Kendall, the blackmailing sigolo, furnishes another of his priceless bad man characterizations. Evelyn Brent is perfect as Honey's elder sister, Jane, married but with a flair for youthful and peppy masculinity.

PENSIONERS MUST WAIT Washington, March 22.—Spanish and Civil War pensioners probably will have to wait until July before receiving their monthly allotments for May and June, it was indicated today at the White House. Money for these pensions was incorporated in the second deficiency bill which failed in the closing hours of Congress, and President Coolidge and his advisers see no way of getting the necessary funds until after the start of the next fiscal year.

SAVE IT AT PHILLIPS

Only once in a lifetime, they say, do some things come to us poor mortals, but here is once that the well known "they" are wrong.

ONE-A-DAY this time, instead of once in a lifetime, one big saving a day for seven days is the offering PHILLIPS has for you now.

Phillips' ONE-A-DAY SALE means that for seven days—March 23, 24, 25, 26, 28, 29 and 30 at each Phillips' stores will be sold one item at a great reduction—such a drastic reduction that you'll hardly believe it possible. For just one day will that item be on sale. The next day it will be a new item, at as great a cut in price. And so on for seven items for your shelves at lower-than-cost prices.

Watch the papers, watch the stores, read Phillips' News, and you and your purse will be amply repaid.

But remember this—each item will be on sale for one day only, and if you forget or neglect to purchase your supply that day, you'll have to get a substitute the next day—and perhaps it won't be a substitute or even a supplement.

DON'T forget the dates—March 23, 24, 25, 26, 28, 29 and 30—PHILLIPS' ONE-A-DAY SALE.

PHILLIPS' usual prices are lower, and especially low when considered in connection with the splendid values—real quality—offered. For this reason, when we say that the ONE-A-DAY SALE means that the price on each of the seven items offered the week of March 23rd will be lower, we mean LOWER.

This issue of the newspaper carries the seven items to be offered for the week of March 23rd.

The managers of PHILLIPS' stores are preparing special displays of showings for you, to get ready for this sale. With their usual helpfulness and courtesy they will enable you to make the most of the opportunity offered by the ONE-A-DAY SALE, a unique sale in grocery history.

THIS HAS HAPPENED CLAY CURTIS, returning to COLFAX from a flying trip to New York, stuns his father, THOMAS QUINN CURTIS, known to every employee of his mammoth department store as "Old T. Q." by announcing he will no longer remain under the same roof as he.

A girl stood staring at him, her violin cradled in her arm.

Old T. Q. then offers him the assistant manager's job of the store. Clay refuses, as he receives the offer to be just another soft berth prepared for him by his father when the time comes. He declares he must make his own way and give the lie to Clay's jeer that he couldn't support himself.

When Clay Curtis left his father to brood alone in the library, he went to his own rooms on the second floor—an apartment that had seen little of him since his college days, but which was always kept in readiness against his return.

denly he wondered why he was going, where he was going. Wasn't he just a melodramatic, sentimental kid, making a fool of himself? He had known soft carpets and wide, soft, deep beds, and the luxuries of a perfect bathroom, all of his life.

owner of the Curtis Store, I'll be mighty glad to see you. But—until then—well, I guess we'd better not see each other. Goodby, son. Take care of yourself.

"Goodby, Dad. I want to say again that I'm kidding myself out because I want a chance to make myself, as you made yourself. And I meant it when I said I admire you more than any person in the world. And take care of yourself."

Twenty-one dollars and thirteen cents! Thirteen cents! What did people do with thirteen cents? Where had the extra three cents come from anyway? Change from paper boys, probably. But he usually let them keep the change.

It was odd, Clay Curtis thought, as he walked briskly through the bitter cold of the early January night, that he should be thinking about dollars and cents, instead of about his father, and his father's loneliness and his own future.

Twenty-one dollars and thirteen cents! Why, that wouldn't get him a day at a hotel, the kind of hotel he'd been used to. Was that why his father had grinned when he looked at the money? Thought he'd be sneaking home again in twenty-four hours, broke and willing to be a good boy and mind his Dad.

Well, he couldn't walk the streets all night. He hardly knew where he was; had not been paying much attention. But he had turned instinctively toward the poorer part of the town, the section where poor people lived in small cottages. He must have walked fifteen or twenty blocks, he thought, as he looked about him. He was cold and tired.

He was looking for a street sign when he became conscious of music. Violin music. He stopped, without realizing that he was doing so, leaned against a low picket fence and listened. It was odd that such music should come from a funny little house like that. There were lights in the front room, showing along the edge of a cracked green shade.

"That's real playing," he told himself incredulously, forgetting the cold and the future. "Who would have dreamed of hearing Chopin played by a genius on the violin in a funny little dump like this!"

Then he became aware of a white cardboard, lettered in black, tacked upon the corner of the house nearest the little scrap of front porch. He could not read the lettering, but he had an instinctive knowledge of what it said. Lifting his suitcase, he pushed through the little gate, stopped at the steps and lighted a match to read the card. He had guessed correctly. The lettering was: "Furnished Room for Rent."

Clay Curtis has found a home—and a girl who is to change his life. Meet Billy Wells in the next chapter.

This And That In Feminine Lore

This is the season of the year when the thoughts of many people turn to home building, and while plans are always interesting to prospective home builders, they have a particular appeal just at this time as most people think of the building in the early spring.

In taking advantage of the spring sale of utensils, be sure that the article will fit the oven; the cupboard or perhaps kitchen cabinet. I once bought a large aluminum cookie sheet, thinking it would undoubtedly fit the gas oven. It didn't.

The compose idea has invaded the hosiery item. The finest chiffon silk in the new spring colors have the heel a shade darker giving the effect of a still sheerer appearance to the stocking.

At the North Methodist church supper the other evening, a salad was served both attractive in appearance and pleasing to the taste. Hearing it commented on so favorably I asked the lady who made it for the formula. She replied that for the basis was a simple tomato jelly, using about two cups tomato juice, 1 1/2 cups boiling water and two envelopes of Minute gelatine.

Bows are perching themselves all over gowns as well as hats. One is quite apt to be applied to a brim or crown just as if it had fluttered there and could take wing at any moment.

Moire comes to the foreground of fashion both for day and evening wear. Rose colored moire with bands of either darker or lighter colored silk is lovely for the evening, or the all-black moire frock with a handsome flower on the shoulder and little else in the way of trimming, gains attention on its merits.

The sugar maples began very early this year to drip juice on the sidewalks, and I have already noticed the blossoms under foot of some of those same trees. People have begun to inquire if it is time to plant gladioli. I wouldn't care to risk it if I cared anything about the blossoms.

Everything points to a navy blue spring season—blue tailored suits, navy blue hats of plume straw and blue pumps to match. The boutonniere, gloves or scarf might introduce the color contrast.

Firm mint jelly may be cut into squares and two or three used to garnish the fruit salad very prettily.

From Paris where most of mid-lady's styles are set come perfumed flowers—artificial violets that fairly glisten with dew, fragrant carnations, huge full blown roses or clusters of buds in different colors. They are equally appropriate for the evening gown or the coat or suit.

When the stock of preserves and relishes is getting low, as it is apt to do at this time of year, try spiced figs with hot or cold meat or chicken. The recipe follows:

Two pounds figs, 1 orange, 1 lemon, 3 cups granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cups vinegar, 1 ounce stick cinnamon, 1-2 ounce whole cloves. Wash figs through several waters.

ters. Cover with cold water and let stand over night. Make a syrup of sugar and vinegar. Add spices tied in a small cheesecloth bag. Wash orange and lemon well and cut both in thin slices. Remove seeds and add to syrup. Bring to the boiling point and add figs. Simmer for two hours. Remove spices. Put into sterilized jars and seal.

Many of the new felts or bangs are up in the front and trimmed across the back with a flat bow or some flat arrangement of velvet. Still many are up in back and down in front and folded at either side of the brim to accent the side slightly. Hats are ever so versatile and interesting for this new season.

Those who are in a position to know say you cannot force women any more about clothes styles. Just because it is new or old is no reason for favor or prejudice. What will determine the spring and summer mode is what smart women choose for themselves. So designers will re-establish the normal waistline or lower skirts when women insist upon it but not before. Style arbiters are playing for time as it were.

DO THE CHARLESTON FOR EXERCISE

"Exercises are so dull," writes the flapper. "Can't you suggest some more interesting ways to keep curves at bay?"

Certainly. A young girl should be so active, so keenly interested in sports, and so full of life that she hales, plays tennis and golf, swims and dances and gets her exercise in these pleasant ways. Exercises are merely a substitute for competitive athletics and dancing.

And here let me say that nothing gives you better exercise than the Charleston. Many society matrons and even business women, who do not feel sufficiently gay and youthful to perform this dance in public, practice it regularly at home as a matter of exercise.

The steps are too intricate to describe here, but in a few lessons, or sometimes merely by watching others, you can pick it up for yourself. Once you get the rhythm, the steps come naturally.

And by all means, I should advise you to study aesthetic dancing, and to work out new steps and forms for yourself. Exercise with music and develop your sense of rhythm as well as your muscles.

Finally, I advise you to walk every day, and be out in the air at least one hour each day. And swim the year around, if possible.

I agree with you—a flapper does not need stereotyped exercises nearly so much as she needs to enjoy all the forms of motion and grace which are a part of her girlhood as well as her beauty.

An itching palm signifies that you are about to receive something. An itching head shows that you already have something.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

"Pardon me, but your petticoat shows!" Isn't it funny how the very same words mean so much sometimes, and so absolutely nothing at other times. Like that little line above. One need not be so very old to remember when strong men blanching to find that the petticoat of the lady whom they were gallantly escorting showed, and as for the ladies, so intense was their shame that some of them vowed never to leave their own thresholds again!

Not Pretty, But! Now I am no advocate of the petticoat exhibition. But for the same reasons that I dislike a run in the stocking or a hat that needs pressing or a hat that has the wet weather lops the petticoat that "shows" is unattractive, but as for being consumed with shame and embarrassment, well, the modern woman no more gets that way than because she has a "run" in the stocking. A member of the old school, product of a day when to have a petticoat that "showed" was as shameful as falling down and exposing one's limbs, well, it is to laugh!

One wonders why the chame of the showing petticoat in the years ago. Let's dissect. Well, the "showing" petticoat signified that there was anatomy beneath the outer skirt that must be covered. And women so much as hinted that she had legs—did not strive to their best to conceal that terrible fact!

A Salad Matter The "girl friends' matter has an unholy passion for salads! What that woman can do with a bottle of vinegar, a lemon and all the fruits and mixing bowl, and all the fruits and vegetables and shrubs and "yarb" that blow and grow and are holed! Last night it was water-thin sliced komquats on hearts of lettuce with French dressing, lemon juice, plenty of paprika and served on rough sage green pottery salad plates. The "girl friends' matter uses the same flair for color schemes in her salad that she does in her cushions and draperies. Her pet salad passion is a constant effect of water press and French advice—"almost too gushy to bear" opined the "gusher friend" who raved about it!

Bunk, More Bunk! What loads of bunk are dumped about the land! Which sage utterance is inspired by an ad have just gazed upon in a current magazine. It is a florist's association ad. The idea is to send flowers to mother or anywhere at any time. The ad flaunts the picture of a beautifully-cultured, beautifully-talented, most sophisticated mother, sitting alone in the afterglow brooding over little old battered trunk full of worn-out toes and shoes.

The implication is that now that the children are grown and away from the home nest, mother has nothing to do and cares to do nothing but sit alone and brood over the days that were. Facts are that a mother that looks as modern as this pictured parent, would be out lobbying, serving on a jury, addressing a club, or probably holding down a rather important job. More power to the modern mother who can live as fully after the kids are gone as before—and how such mothers do simplify life for the kids!

Fannie Says Fannie Hurst, saying her tuppence worth on the holy estate of matrimony, comments that biologists seem agreed that the average length of the love life is only 5 years. I can't imagine in many of the most-happily married will disagree with Fannie. But they will remind her that after the 5 years there comes a not unpleasant substitute!

Good Nature and Good Health

DON'T LET QUICK DOCTORS TRY TO RE-MOVE YOUR WRINKLES

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editorial Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. Freckles are deposits of pigment in the skin.

Some persons seem to be more sensitive to light than do others and respond by the deposit of more pigment. Most of the pigment is in the outer layers of the skin, but some of it may be in the deeper parts.

Experts have been unable to find any method for peeling off layers of the skin sufficiently deep to remove freckles without at the same time removing a good deal of the patient's outer covering. The methods of skin peeling that involve the use of caustic solutions are unsafe for the patient to use himself and few physicians care to try them.

Furthermore, the breaking out of any sort of eruption is just as likely to be an indication of general disturbance of the body as it is of an irritation of the skin alone. The appearance of any kind of eruption should be an indication for consultation with expert advice as to its cause.

Moles, warts or growths on the skin are easily controlled, but are best let alone, unless the removal is to be done by someone especially competent. Repeated irritations may bring about serious secondary growths.

All sorts of methods have been tried by a few doctors to remedy the appearance of wrinkles. Strips of skin are cut at some distance from the wrinkles so that when the edges are brought together and stitched the skin is stretched. The wrinkles may thus be smoothed out temporarily, but if the skin has not elasticity the wrinkles will return. Sometimes serious scars result which are worse than the wrinkles.

Reputable surgeons are not inclined to advise this operation. There is nothing to smear on the face or to apply to the wrinkles that will cause their disappearance. Young persons may help to fill the wrinkles out by putting on flesh, but when the flesh disappears the wrinkles return.

Symptoms of Disease The person who breaks out with a rash on the face or on the skin elsewhere or who suffers with unusual itching of the skin or irritation should not attempt to treat such conditions with remedies of unknown composition. The remedy may be more dangerous than the symptoms.

love it. You said over the phone that you were not feeling well and that you were going to the doctor. I'm going too."

"You? You look like the top of a wedding cake!" "And feel it. I'm only going with you. What's wrong?" "I can't eat and I don't sleep well, and I have a sort of headache. I'm all tired out. There! That's the boys. Come on and sit down."

A little later. "There, Diana! That's the doctor's office over there. What are you doing? Where are you going? I really must stop or his office hours will be over."

The tiny car only gained momentum. "What have you spent on doctors and specialists this year?" asked Diana. "I don't know. Why?" "Why don't you spend it on yourself and buy some nerves. That's all you need. Get the habit of health. It's a case of all work and no play with you, dear. No wonder you're a dull boy. The first thing we do this afternoon is to buy you a new dress and a pair of honest-to-goodness shoes. And you're going to get some pretty undies—and, my dear, you're going to get a bob. If only for the shock that it's going to be to yourself."

And it came to pass that these things actually happened. And it came to pass that the postman no longer brought bills with John Smith, M. D. in the corner. I am not saying that a bob and high heels and pink undies will cure real disease, but they have been known to cure a lot of things (nerves for instance). A little frivolity now and then is relished by the best of women.

"REDS IN THE RUNNING THIS YEAR"—WALSH

Sports Expert Looks Over Cincinnati Team In Camp and Gives His Opinion.

Editor's Note: This is the tenth of a series of articles, by Davis J. Walsh on major league clubs in training.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 22.—The Hendricks deftly joined today the list of managers who haven't been able to resist the impulse to make something else out of the greatest first baseman in America. George Kelly was scheduled to play center field when he joined the Cincinnati Reds this spring but today Hendricks informed the writer that Kelly would be placed on second and Wally Pipp designated to guard the gateway of the infield.

Of course, Hendricks may really be talking just to hear his teeth rattle. Eusebio Cruz, one of the best second basemen in the racket, has been a most persistent holdout and the good word about Kelly won't do him any harm, from Hendricks' standpoint.

Great Baseman
"Kelly is a great second baseman," Mr. Hendricks told with the air of Peary discovering the Pole.

"When Cruz comes back, he will have to fight for the place, just like any rookie."

The Reds probably will get around to placing their strongest lineup on the field some time in May by placing Kelly on first base, Cruz on second and Pipp on the bench. Charley Dressen will replace Babe Pivelli at third when his sore arm rounds into shape.

The line-up referred to will make a pennant contender of the Reds automatically, for their only weakness is shortstop and it is presumed that Horace Ford will click well enough there to get by.

Old Pitchers
It is still a fine pitching club, although darling they are growing old. Pete Donohue is the headliner, followed by Jake May, Arthur Nehf, Fred Lucas, Carl Mays, Ray Kolp and Eppa Rixey. Nehf appears to be on his way back.

Some of the young men in camp look the part of real pitchers. Among them being Pete Jablonowski, up from Waterbury, Conn.

The catching also is good, with Clyde Sukeforth from Manchester, N. H., available to help out Bubbles Hargrave and Val Picinich.

Rube Bressler will play left field, Walter Christensen will be in center, and right is likely to be a two-man proposition, involving Curtis Walker and Ethan Nathan Allen.

The latter, with Lucas, and Pitterenger are the best looking young men in camp, according to Hendricks. He also has Bill Zitzmann as utility outfielder.

A good hustling ball club, the Reds, with good pitching, a fair defense but a bit lacking in real punch.

WEAVING NO. 1 WINS FROM WEAVING NO. 3

Weaving Mill No. 1 won a special bowling match from Weaving No. 3 Saturday at Murphy's alleys, winning two out of three games and coming out of the battle 139 pins ahead. These two teams are members of the Girls' A. A. league which has closed its season. It seems that there was some dispute as to which was the better team and so the matter was settled once and for all Saturday.

STATE VOLLEY BALL CHAMPS HERE TONIGHT

The Hartford Y. M. C. A. volleyball team, holder of the state championship for the past four years, will come to town early this evening to meet the Recreation Center team. The match, which will be waged in the Rec gym, will start at 8:30.

Manchester recently gave the Hartford champs one of the closest matches it has had all season in Hartford and the local players are confident of repeating this stunt tonight and of going a step farther and grabbing the laurels.

Team That Trims Giants Will Cop Title—Hornsby

By BILLY EVANS

Sarasota, Fla., March 22.—"The ball club that beats the Giants will win the National League pennant." That was the reply of Rogers Hornsby to my query as to how he liked his new berth and what he thought of the team.

He answered the fog end of my question first and then finished thusly: "Best break I ever had in getting with the Giants. I have always wanted to play for McGraw. I'm playing for a wonder manager on a great club."

"You can't make it too strong about what I think of our chances, I repeat, the club that beats the Giants will win the National League pennant."

"That goes for Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Cincinnati and all the other clubs that think they have a chance. After watching the Giants perform for four days in practice, also real competition against the Philadelphia Athletics, I am inclined to agree with Captain Rogers Hornsby. That's his title with the Giants."

As usual, New York looks like a three ball club. McGraw's clubs are always impressive, particularly in the spring, for no manager drives them harder for condition. They are up at seven bells in the morning and darkness is coming over the field when they quit.

No team can be considered a strong pennant contender without a good infield. McGraw has the happy faculty of welding together an air-tight inner defense. That is one thing his club of this year will have.

Jackson, at short, looks great. His knee isn't troubling him in the least. If his legs hold up, one of McGraw's biggest worries will have been eliminated.

I have been seen Hornsby look in better shape so early in the spring. Although they have played together only a few weeks, he and Jackson work together like a veteran combination.

Freddie Lindstrom at third has definitely arrived. Always a great prospect, he has rounded into a brilliant performer, both in the field and at the bat.

Bill Terry at first is not the fielder George Kelly is, but he is a most capable performer and a constant threat with that big black bat of his.

New York's inner wall is a regular big league affair in every respect, comparing very favorably with any other quartet of infielders in the majors.

McGraw is very frank to admit that in all probability he will miss the versatility of George Kelly. But he knew he must strengthen his outfield and felt he could best part with Kelly.

Eddie Roush is pulling his annual holdout act. Perhaps he likes to miss the rigors of spring training. The Giants need him badly in center field and there is no doubt but that he will be there when the season opens.

It is rather peculiar coincidence that two of Roush's running mates are former members of tall-and-philly combinations, George Harper and DeWitt LaBourveau, called "Bevo" for short. Heinie Mueller is also a strong contender for an outfield berth.

Al Tyson, who cost the Giants a lot of money one year ago, has disappointed and at this time is playing the part of utility man. Poor health, as well as several serious injuries, have handicapped Tyson ever since he joined the Giants.

It struck me that pitching was McGraw's biggest problem. If the Giants get it, then Rogers Hornsby isn't going to be far from right in his belief that the team that beats the Giants will win the pennant.

VACCA BEATS CHAMPION

Boston, Mass., March 22.—John Vacca, Boston's latest athletic sensation, today tossed $4,000 into his mother's lap. It was his share of the purse for defeating Fidel La Barba, world's flyweight champion, for the second time here. They fought at catchweights and La Barba's title was not at stake.

It was the first time Vacca received more than $500 for a ring contest. When he conquered La Barba for the first time he did not receive a penny.

Vacca won six of the ten rounds.

Villa-Hall Battle Should Be a Pippin

Since the announcement in The Herald last night that Eusebio Villa and Ray Hall are the only two entries listed in the 140-pound class on the amateur boxing tournament card arranged by Cheney Brothers A. A. for its show tomorrow evening at Cheney hall, there has been much talk about the outcome of this battle.

Villa is without a doubt one of the most aggressive boxers in the amateur ranks and although exceedingly unpopular in own hometown, Hartford, can nevertheless furnish real fireworks while in the squared arena. Hall, Hartford's knockout king, will have the benefit of height and reach but there are many who doubt he will be able to get his haymaker home.

Villa is expected to make Hall miss often.

Promoter John L. Jenney said today he expected to make a few changes on his card. Ben Morgan of Rockville, is out with an injured nose and Al Dowd is also off the card, having trained too fine. Art Pillard will not be on the card either, having suffered an injured knee in a fall from his motorcycle.

Promoter Jenney will secure worthy substitutes to replace them, he said.

Walter Vennart will referee the bouts and Ed McCarthy will do the announcing. The judges will be occasionally, Mrs. Schoemmel is helping the Cubs get in condition by showing them how to swim. And, as Grimm says, by making 'em take 'em on the jaw. Yet, they call it fun.

Two Manchester mermen, Art McKay and Eric Crawshaw, are planning to attempt to swim the Connecticut river from Hartford to Middletown this summer. It was learned today.

Both youths are now keeping in fine condition by training regularly and hope to complete the 32-mile grind which has never been accomplished, although many have tried.

McKay, former captain of the South Manchester High school swimming team, and present holder of the state Y. M. C. A. all-around swimming championship, has never attempted the swim before. Crawshaw tried the feat once before and was forced to give up after remaining in the water six hours during which time he swam nine miles, most of which was against the tide.

The youthful Manchester nations plan to try the swim some Sunday late in June or July.

Tony Korman, Springfield 118 pound entry, is the boxer who whipped Ray Strong, state amateur bantamweight champ here some time ago. He will probably meet Johnny Mastro, energetic Hartford boxer, Nuff said.

Jean De Marlo beat Vic Morley of Hartford here a few weeks ago. The Springfield entries are all good boxers and are expected to give good accounts of themselves.

The full card will be announced tomorrow.

Local Swimmers Will Swim Connecticut River In June

Notes Of The Training Camps

San Francisco, March 22.—Glenn Wright, regular Pirate shortstop, returned to the lineup today after a long rest on the crutches bench.

Fort Meyers, Fla., March 22.—The Athletics meet the Braves again this afternoon in an effort to make it two straight. The Mackmen took yesterday's contest by the score of nine to three.

WEAVERS LOSE FIRST TWO GAMES IN LEAGUE PLAY-OFF

Old Mill Wins 539-512 and 514-472; Wilkie Topples Most Pins; Weavers Away Off Form; Big Crowd Sees Match.

The Weaving Mill bowling team, winner of the senior league championship at Cheney Brothers for three years, was defeated in its play-off for the 1927 pennant last night at Murphy's alleys by the Old Mill team, thus bringing to an end the long reign of the Weavers.

The Old Mill, as a matter of fact, experienced little difficulty in disposing of the Weavers, whipping them two straight games by comfortable margins. This made a third game unnecessary. The Old Mill won 539 to 512 and 514 to 472, a total margin of 69 pins. The steady and accurate bowling of Ernie Wilkie, Joe Canade and T. Anderson was responsible for the cherished victory which was the chief topic of conversation at the mills today.

After losing the first game by 27 pins, the Weavers began to slip again in the second game and in the last few boxes, the Old Mill had increased its lead to such a safe margin that the Weavers lost hope entirely. "Bennie" Schubert's inability to make one-pin spare breaks in the first game hurt the Weavers' chances considerably.

The statistics reveal that the Old Mill made four strikes and twenty-two spares against one strike and eighteen spares for the Weavers. The Old Mill filled in its 36 marks with 164 pins while the Weavers topped 107 pins in their 19 marks.

A large crowd of fans watched the match at Murphy's alleys. The alleys were lined almost to the pin-pits. Both teams were subjected to severe rainings but the Weavers had to take the most of it, the majority favoring the Old Mill. Wilkie was termed Conran's meal ticket but he did not unnerve him. Herby Benson of the Weavers was repeatedly informed that Archie Haugh was waiting to take his place and there were numerous other remarks which added to the merriment. Captain Andy Anderson put Ray Bidwell in his place in the Old Mill line-up and he and Charlie Stave rooted their heads off for the Old, Old Mill.

The scores of the first two games and the two-string totals follows:
Old Mill (1058)
T. Anderson 108 110—218
B. Benson 98 93—191
R. Bidwell 100 92—192
E. Wilkie 113 117—230
J. Canade 114 102—216
Totals 539 514 1053

Weaving (984)
B. Schubert 103 105—208
H. Benson 104 73—177
S. Taggart 113 88—201
F. Cervini 99 118—217

NOW YOU ASK ONE

'Now You Ask One' for today was designed especially for children. That isn't saying, however, that there isn't a question or two in it likely to stump the grown folks. The answers are on another page: 1-What's wrong with this picture? 2-Through what Central American country is the United States considering digging a new Atlantic-to-Pacific canal? 3-Who was the last president to wear a mustache? 4-Where did Andrew Jackson win a great victory in the War of 1812? 5-On what river is the city of St. Louis located? 6-What was the original name of New York City? 7-Of what European nation was New York a colony before it passed to the British? 8-Who founded and named the city of Providence, R. I.? 9-Who was Pontiac? 10-What state existed as an independent nation before its admission to the union?

SENSE and NONSENSE

Motorist: "I'm sorry I ran-over your hen. Would a dollar make it right?" "Well, better make it two. I have a rooster that was mighty fond of that hen and the shock might kill him too." A young married man looked covetously at a handsome new car and murmured "I can't get one as long as women's dresses are as high as they are." Yes, one of the poorest ways to get out of an automobile is through the windshield. Autolist: "Where do you get auto parts around here?" Nat: "At the railroad crossing." Keystone: "I hear the chief is going to turn in his Star." Kop: "Yeah. How come?" Keystone: "He's going to get a Durant."

For Motorists— 6—Watch out for children and pedestrians. 7—Watch speedometer; keep it in good order and refrain from speeding. 8—Keep brakes in good order. 9—Obey all traffic and safety rules. 10—Drive carefully always. A NEW VERSION

Many are the jars that are opened tonight. Covered with evening dew; Many are the kids that are howling tonight. Many are the black flies, too. For we're Tenting tonight, tenting tonight, Tenting on the old camp ground! There's a pup in the midst of the apple. And grandmother's knickers are torn. Oh, the back tire's flat and the gas tank's dry. An we wish that we'd never been born! Tenting tonight, tenting tonight, Tenting on the old camp ground! Oh, the girl in the car from Calumet. Is flirting with poor Uncle Will. Oh, the canned heat's gone and the beds are wet. But we're saving a hotel bill! For we're Tenting tonight, tenting tonight, Tenting on the old camp ground! "I hear you own a motor car now." "Well, I'm in partnership with the motor car company."

THE TINYMITES

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture) The Tynymites looked until they found the mittens. They were on the ground, behind a little clump of grass and hidden out of sight. "Oh, thank you," said the kittens three. "You make us happy as can be. We all were feeling very sad, but now we feel all right." "But look," said Cloway, "they're all smeared with dirt." And then the kittens feared that surely they would get a spanking when they got back home. So one wee kitten jumped to shout, "Why they were clean when we came out, and mother said, 'Now be real careful where you kittens roam.'" Then Cobby said, "Oh, let's not fret. Some water and some soap we'll get and then we'll wash your mittens so they'll look as good as new." One kitten ran and got some soap, and all of them were filled with hope, "cause they agreed what Cobby said was just the thing to do. away, and then they heard one kitten say, "As soon as you have cleaned them nice, we'll hang them in the sun." So, afterwards the task was o'er, and every kitten smiled once more and thanked the Tynies very much for everything they'd done. Said Scouty, "You had best run home, 'cause we are just about to roam on down the road a little ways to see what we can see." So off the little kittens ran, with mittens looking epic and span, and smiles upon their faces. They were happy as could be. The Tynies then went on their way. They'd walk and run, and stop and play. Then suddenly, we Cloway said, "Well, lookit! Bless my soul!" The rest of them all stopped to stare. A palace rose up in the air, a little way ahead of them—the palace of King Cole. (The Tynymites meet King Cole in the next story.)
