

COOLIDGE CANDIDATE NEXT YEAR

President Silent But Friends Base Their Conclusions On Appointments He Has Made

Washington, March 29.—Congressional politicians lingering on here in the capital in hopes of ascertaining something of President Coolidge's political intentions toward 1928 are slowly coming to the conclusion, some reluctantly, some otherwise—that he intends to be a candidate.

They base it not upon anything Mr. Coolidge himself has said, for he has said nothing, but rather upon what his friends say, and upon his own actions—straws which may show the direction of the political wind.

His Appointments

The latest of these, to the politically minded, is the appointment of Royne Haynes, the Anti-Saloon League's pet candidate, as prohibition commissioner. Haynes' appointment is credited to Mr. Coolidge personally, for it is widely known in Washington that neither Secretary Mellon nor General Lincoln C. Andrews wanted the Ohio prohibitionist named. They had another candidate, J. D. Pennington, an ex-naval officer, who has never been in politics.

President Coolidge has seldom disappointed his secretary of the treasury in the matter of appointments. Yet in this instance he listened to Senator Frank B. Willis, the Anti-Saloon League's spokesman in the Senate, to Wayne B. Wheeler, the league's generalissimo in the capital, and elected to accept their advice rather than that of Mellon and Andrews, the two directly responsible for prohibition enforcement.

Wants Dry Support

To the politicians, this betokens a willingness on the part of Mr. Coolidge to accept the dry support for 1928. It is a sign, they say, that he is leaning toward the prohibitionists.

NEWCOMBE SEEKS DEATH FOR BOTH

District Attorney Says Gray and Mrs. Ruth Snyder Are Equally Guilty.

New York, March 29.—District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe, of Queens county, will demand the death penalty upon Henry Judd Gray, middle-aged corset salesman, and his mistress, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, for the brutal murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, at editor of "Motor Boating," on Sunday morning, March 20, he intimated today.

"Both Gray and Mrs. Snyder are equally guilty," said Newcombe. "We can trace Gray's movements perfectly both before and after the crime. We have evidence that both Gray and Mrs. Snyder entered into the crime after premeditation. There is evidence that satisfies me that Mrs. Snyder was a direct party to the murder. Furthermore, we are fully prepared to combat any insanity plea."

Victim Intoxicated.

Chemical analysis of the brain, blood and stomach of the slain art editor, by Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, city toxicologist at Bellevue hospital, reveals that Snyder was intoxicated when he was killed. Dr. Gettler said that the analysis revealed that Snyder had consumed a large quantity of liquor. The alcoholic content of his brain was designated as three plus, with the meaning the saturation point. The large amount of alcohol, Dr. Gettler said, indicated clearly that Snyder had been intoxicated.

This disclosure corroborates the first statement of the young, blonde widow that she urged Mr. and Mrs. William Fildeson, at whose home the Snyders attended a card party on the night before the murder, "to give her husband all the liquor he could drink to make him feel good."

Wanted Him Drunk.

The prosecution will contend that Mrs. Snyder wanted her husband to return home drunk so that she could not resist when the murderers began their bloody work.

Samuel L. Miller, attorney for Gray, indicated in an interview, that Mrs. Snyder will be pictured by the Gray defense forces as a vampire. Gray's counsel will contend that he was in an abnormal state as the result of his relations with Mrs. Snyder and was completely under her domination. Letters that passed

ONCE RICH SINGER DIES IN POVERTY.

Montreal, Que., March 29.—Joseph Bain, well-known as a singer, died in Montreal this morning a decade ago, today was identified at the morgue by her father, Joseph Bloomfield. The soprano had died in poverty at the St. Denis hospital and her body was unidentified.

The woman was picked up unconscious on McGill College avenue. Death was due to heart affliction and chronic ailments brought on by her poverty.

ASSESSOR JOB GIVES BOARD A HARD PROBLEM

Selectmen Believe Full Time Clerk Necessary—Who It Will Be Stirs Feeling Among Assessors.

The three members of Manchester's Board of Assessors have exposed themselves so long to the objections, criticisms and general fault finding of disgruntled taxpayers that the fever has attacked them. S. Emil Johnson, John Jensen and Samuel Nelson, Jr., who comprise the board appeared before the Selectmen last night in an executive session, to do a little fault-finding of their own. The meeting was called by the Selectmen and followed their special meeting on sidewalk hearings.

Full Time Clerk Needed

The new Linder system of property assessments requires constant attention. A full time clerk is necessary, but whether that full time clerk should be a member of the assessors or not is a moot question. Samuel Nelson, Jr., was hired as a full time clerk for a short period last summer and when he was shifted back to his regular assessor's salary of $500 a year he resigned.

Mr. Nelson was before the Board of Selectmen at a recent meeting to explain his reason for resigning. He was frank in saying that he had the bulk of the clerical work of the Board of Assessors to do simply because S. Emil Johnson and John Jensen were not clerks, and could not carry on the books the Linder system requires. Mr. Nelson said he did not feel that he should do 90 per cent of the work and receive the same compensation as the other assessors. He was willing to accept the position of full time clerk of the Board of Assessors and continue, he made it known.

Other Opinions

The other assessors, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Jensen, did not look kindly upon a full time clerk, and they believe that they are underpaid for the work the new system requires them to do. Last year they asked the Board of Selectmen to recommend an increase in salary but this was not acted upon. Neither Mr. Johnson nor Mr. Jensen favor any one member of their board being paid more than another. That would be the case if Mr. Nelson were named a full time clerk and still remained as a member of the board.

The Board of Selectmen realize

U. S. TRIES TO BREAK DEADLOCK IN LEAGUE

Great Britain and France Cannot Come to Agreement on Land Disarmament.

Geneva, March 29.—The United States delegation to the League of Nations preparatory disarmament conference, headed by Hugh Gibson, minister to Switzerland, intervened today in an effort to break the deadlock between Great Britain and France on the matter of land disarmament.

Viscount Cecil, for Great Britain, has insisted that land disarmament proposals shall include reserves as well as active soldiers.

M. Boncour, for France, has demanded that land disarmament shall include only peace time soldiers under arms.

FIRST PICTURE OF LOOTING IN CHINA.

Typical of the chaos and pillage which is China today is this extraordinary photo of an actual riot in Tientsin, reported visited by the latest dispatch. In lawlessness and riot here as un molested coolies hurry along the spoils of their plundering on heavily laden carts. Crowds of Chinese aimlessly through the sidewalks, gazing with oriental indifference, if not envy, upon the rioters' booty.

Expect 10,000 Anglers To Fish State Streams

Hartford, Conn., March 29.—Nine months of gloom for Connecticut trout fishermen will end Friday. Given clement weather from Friday morning until Sunday night between 5,000 and 10,000 anglers expect to whip the open waters of the state to usher in the three months' season, April 1 to July 1. Tackle and gear are now being prepared, dealers are doing a brisk demand for licenses is steady. Already many sportsmen have visited streams to survey old favorite pools and try to stare the secrets from deceptive ripples. Unless heavy rains come before the week-end

OUR LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN MAY 4

Major Part of Important Business Already Transacted—Other Matters.

Hartford, Conn., March 29.—Adjournment of the Legislature on May 4th was voted by the Lower House here today in a resolution introduced by Ernest L. Averill, of Branford, House leader. Mr. Averill said that the major part of the business of all important committees was nearly completed, and that nothing was anticipated which could interfere with adjournment the first week in May. The resolution was passed unanimously.

A futile attempt was made by women in the House to bring about favorable action on a bill allowing women to serve on juries. The position prevailed, however, and the bill was rejected by a standing vote of 174 to 41. The bill was rejected by the Senate last week.

Johnson Against

Speakers against the bill were: Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester; R. B. Delacour, of Stratford; Ernest L. Averill, of Branford. Those speaking for the bill were: Helen B. Lewis, of Stratford; Miss Mary B. Weaver, of New Milford; Mrs. Julia M. Emery, of Stamford; Miss Sarah B. Crawford, of Westport; Mrs. Otto C. Weidman, of Hartford; Mrs. Edith W. Cook, of New Haven; and Miss Marjorie Cheney, of Manchester. Miss Cheney asked for the rising vote.

The following favorable reports were received in the House:

- Providing for interest on unpaid taxes made by municipal appropriations; authorizing school superintendents to employ teachers or to nominate for appointment by school committees; authorizing the state park commission to assume care of public monuments; providing for supervision of tree wardens by the state park commission; increasing the minimum pension under the teachers retirement act from $350, to $400; authorizing zoning districts in Norwich; providing payment of pension to Frank L. Ferris, city hall janitor at Stamford; $10,000 appropriation for Danbury Normal school; equipment; a $500 appropriation for care of public monuments; providing for uniform recording of real estate deeds and certificates; appropriating $1,400 for libraries.

JUDGE BOWERS'S CONDITION

At the Manchester Memorial hospital this afternoon at three o'clock it was reported that Judge Bowers had a good night and his condition today showed improvement. Dr. N. A. Burr, the attending physician was somewhat encouraged this forenoon.

WORLD WAR SCENES AS MARINES LEAVE

Fifteen Hundred Devil Dogs Start For San Diego—To Sail Monday.

Washington, March 29.—The throbbing of farewells, the rumble of troop trains and the cheers for departing men brought back a touch of the stirring times of the World War today as the marines started for China. The 1,500 "Leathernecks" ordered to Shanghai were leaving from Philadelphia, Quantico, Va., and Paris Island, S. C. in seven troop trains.

Setting out in fan like order over a half dozen railroads, the troop trains will pass through nearly every section of the country in their long rail trip to San Diego. With the transport Henderson steaming at full speed from Coos Bay, it is probable that the whole marine contingent will be off for the Orient next Monday.

Have Machine Guns

Carrying full equipment and the latest death dealing rifles, the marines said their good-byes prepared for a long stay in home shores. Despite the sated tension in the International settlement in Shanghai, the word spread through the service that the American forces in China had a stiff job and a long one ahead of them.

With the marine force of less than 20,000 already depleted by forces in China, Nicaragua and on ships, the navy's bluejackets were speculating upon the time of a call for more ships and the army's doughboys began to gossip about the prospects for some action.

Details of Movements

Details of the overland troop movements were announced today as follows:

- From Quantico, Va., one train, leaving today, via Southern railroad to Richmond and New Orleans, thence through Houston, Texas, to San Diego. Another train leaving tomorrow, via Atlanta, Montgomery, New Orleans, El Paso and Los Angeles.
- From Philadelphia—Four trains leaving tomorrow (1) via Pennsylvania railroad to St. Louis, and thence via Fort Worth and El Paso, (2) via Baltimore & Ohio railroad to St. Louis, thence via Kansas City, Pueblo and Salt Lake City, (3) via Reading railroad to Bethlehem, Buffalo, thence Nickel Plate to St. Louis and thence via Wichita, Kansas, to Los Angeles, (4) via Reading railroad, Buffalo, thence Nickel Plate to St. Louis, thence via San Antonio.
- From Paris Island, S. C.—One train tomorrow, via Augusta, Atlanta, Memphis, Marietta, Texas, to destination.

MRS. ROWSELL STABS SPOUSE IN QUARREL

Former Resident in Trouble in Whitmanic—Husband's Injury Not Serious.

Williamatic, March 29.—Mrs. Hester Rowsell was arraigned in police court this morning charged with assault upon her husband, Clarence, with a dangerous weapon. Yesterday morning Rowsell left their home with $15 to pay some bills. He did not return until early today and without the money. When his wife discovered the bills were unpaid an argument started. It is alleged that Mrs. Rowsell left their home with $15 to pay some bills. Rowsell was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where it was found the wound was not serious. Mrs. Rowsell's case was continued until tomorrow.

N. Y. THIEVES GET $60,000 IN JEWELS

Loot Dresser at Ritz Carlton Hotel—Gems Owned by Chicago Woman.

New York, March 29.—The hunt for the thief or thieves who entered the Ritz Carlton suite of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Dahlberg, of Chicago, and looted a dresser drawer of $60,000 in gems, drew itself today into a search for members of a ring of jewel crooks held to be responsible for the Donahue robbery of nearly two years ago, and for several more recent cases. Police believe that a "highly professional burglar" stole Mrs. Dahlberg's gems, which included a brooch given her last summer by Princess Marie of Bourbon, cousin to King Alfonso of Spain.

U. S. SHIPS UNDER FIRE AS REFUGEES EMBARK

BOTH TONGMEN INDICTED FOR LOCAL MURDER

True Bills Found By Grand Jury—Against Men Who Killed Oak Street Lau- dryman.

(Special to The Herald)

Hartford, Conn., March 29.—Ching Lung, 33, and Loo Hoo Wing, 22, alleged members of the Chinese One Leong Tong in Hartford, were indicted by the Grand Jury here today on a charge of first degree murder for the slaying of Ong King, 26, Manchester laundryman in that town, March 24. No definite date for the trial has been set. Judge Newell Jennings, State's Attorney, Hugh M. Alcorn and Francis P. Robinson, of Hartford, attorneys for the accused, will meet Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to decide upon a date for the trial. It required two hours and 17 minutes to complete the testimony. The jury retired at 10:42 and returned at 1:14. Of the witnesses called six were from Manchester. They were in the order of their appearance, Patrolman John McEllin, Sam Ong, who was the only witness of the crime; John Vignone, Nicolas Dellaferia, Sergeant William Barron and Chief Samuel G. Gordon, Basile Sandovino, Henry M. Costello, Captain of Detectives James J. Deegan of New Haven and County Detective Edward J. Hickey of Hartford.

Sam Ong was cloistered with the grand jury the longest of any of the witnesses, 33 minutes, and in his testimony made a favorable impression on the jury. He told the police at the time of the murder. When Sam went into the chambers he appeared nervous and tired but when he came out he was much more composed and that same familiar smile came over his face.

The testimony was concluded at 1:07 and it took the grand jury exactly seven minutes to make its decision.

When the accused slayers were led from the grand jury room they appeared tired and shaky and were led back to their cells.

The two Manchester witnesses who were not called upon to testify were Fritz Dielenschneider and Walter Crockett. The courtroom was crowded and a number of Manchester people were present also Charles York, prominent Tong official of Hartford.

Hartford, Conn., March 29.—Judge Newell Jennings summoned the grand jury this morning at the petition of State's Attorney Hugh Alcorn who requested a first degree murder indictment be returned against the two Chinese arrested for the murder of a Manchester Chinaman last Thursday. The accused, Ching Lung, 33, and Loo Hoo Wing, 22, were permitted to the state's attorney to be present at the deliberations. The accused men were dressed exactly as when arrested in New Haven Thursday, charged with the killing of Ong King, 26, in the laundry of his uncle, Ong Jing.

A score of witnesses, most of them from Manchester, were waiting at the entrance of the grand jury room as the jurors at 10:45 went into session.

Elect Foreman
James Cannon, a Windsor Locks lawyer, was elected foreman of the jury.

Patrolman John McEllin of Manchester, was the first witness called. He is said to have seen the two Chinamen the day before the murder, looking over the ground. Other Manchester witnesses were called.

AMERICANS ARRIVE FROM DANGER ZONE

Twenty-Six Still at Hankow, a Danger Point—All Foreign Banks Closed There—Anti-Foreign Feeling Grows as Work of Evacuation Continues—U. S. Cabinet Thinks Situation Is Still Serious.

(Special to The Herald)

Shanghai, March 29.—American warships are currying up and down the Yangtze river, often under fire from shore, in a hurried effort to clear the Yangtze valley of Americans before the gathering storm of anti-foreignism breaks into fury.

Efforts are being made to complete the evacuation of Hankow, which is reported to be one of the danger points, and according to official reports today there were twenty-six American men, women and children, non-missionaries, at Hankow on Sunday. It is believed that many of these may have been evacuated now. During the last three days of last week 324 Americans were evacuated from Hankow, where the seriousness of the situation is indicated by the fact that all foreign banks have closed indefinitely.

The U. S. S. Pillsbury left today for Nanking Chow to pick up eight American missionaries and then it will proceed to Jukow to evacuate two American missionaries.

The U. S. S. Paul Jones is escorting two refugee ships down the Yangtze to Shanghai.

Funeral of Victims

Numerous Americans and other foreigners today attended funeral ceremonies for the British victims of the Nanking affair.

All Americans have fled from Swatow except a few priests who are leaving to depart and leave the church property at the mercy of the Chinese.

All Americans are now out of Wushu and Changchow and the Americans and British in Chungking are leaving as rapidly as they can.

At Chinkiang, which was occupied by the Cantonese the same time they seized Nanking, there are a few Americans watching the properties of an American industrial corporation.

Mission Wrecked

The Baptist mission at Yangchow has been wrecked by a Chinese mob. It is not known if any Americans remain there, but it is believed that all have departed upon an American destroyer.

The situation at Canton, seat of the Liberal government, has begun to cause alarm. American Consul General Jennings at Canton reports that agitators are becoming more and more active without interference from the Cantonese military authorities.

American residents of the Canton district have been warned to concentrate in the city for eventual evacuation.

An American religious mission at Fuchow was entered by a Chinese mob and pillaged, but the attacks were not attacked.

Situation Tense

While the situation in Shanghai is quiet it is still tense. Menacing situations prevail in many places throughout the south, where mobs of guerrillas and lawless gunmen, taking advantage of the confusion created by the civil war, and inflamed by Chinese and foreign agitators, are threatening additional attacks against foreign residents and are destroying foreign owned properties.

Refugees, who are arriving here in an endless stream from coastal points and interior towns, all tell stories of terrorism, cruelty and growing anti-foreign antagonism.

Attacks against merchant ships bringing refugees to Shanghai and their escorts of small warcraft are on the increase. Fresh reports of such attacks along the Yangtze river were received during the day.

The British consulate was advised that particularly heavy gunfire was directed by the Chinese against a British convoy near Hankow.

CABINET MEETS

Washington, March 29.—American forces in China will be maintained under complete American control and direction, and will not be "pooled" with the forces of other powers, or subjected to any international control. It was announced at the White House today following the Cabinet meeting.

A certain amount of co-operation between the various powers is recognized as necessary. In the disturbed situation at Shanghai, it was emphasized that the United States marines and bluejackets will retain their identities, and there will be no unified control.

Conditions in China are considered by President Coolidge and his advisers as "extremely grave."

While the Cabinet was in session, dispatches reached the State Department on the effect that a general exodus of Americans from interior points in China, north as well as south, is in progress under the direction of consular and diplomatic authorities.

Minister MacMurray, from the legation at Peking, has ordered the evacuation of all Americans from Honan province, and Consul General Swaney at Tats-An-Pu has taken similar action with regard to Americans in southern Shantung, south of the Yellow river.

READY FOR FIGHT

London, March 29.—While the Chinese are reported to be mounting heavy guns along the Yangtze river and to have actually trained their guns on British and American warships, Nanking reports come in that indicate continued attacks with small arms against foreign shipping passing up and down the Yangtze.

Reports received here state that there have been renewed attacks against Americans and British at Wuhu.

The evacuation of foreigners appears to be proceeding rapidly. Only five male foreigners are now left in Kiangsi and other ports are said to have been deserted.

All British women and children have been safely taken aboard the cruiser Car Doo off Wuhu.

American Staff

One party of six Americans arrived at Shanghai from Hsing Fung, after having spent six days making their way down the river in a small Chinese junk without food. When they attempted to go ashore for food they were driven back by the menacing attitude of the Nationalists.

Advices to the admiralty later today stated that the evacuation of foreigners from the Yangtze valley is being made easier by a general rise in the river.

The situation at Nanking is reported improved although there is occasional firing by the Cantonese. The British Cabinet has not decided to send additional troops to China as yet, inasmuch as the French are sending reinforcements there and the situation now seems to be quieting.

LEADERS CONFER

Shanghai, March 29.—General Chang Kai Shek, commander-in-chief of the Chinese army, visited Admiral William S. Moffett, commander of the United States warcraft in Chinese waters, today on board the admiral's flagship, the armored cruiser Pittsburgh.

The admiral met today and precautionary measures were relaxed somewhat but the air is still surcharged with suspense.

General Smedley Butler, commander of the American marines, inspected the bullets in the Golden Road district.

Led by Women.

Consul General Morlock, who has just arrived from Nanking, declared that armed women led the Nationalists in what were evidently premeditated outrages. Morlock scolded the Nationalist leaders for their attempt to shift responsibility for the anti-foreign outrages at Nanking upon the women army troops.

Consul General Morlock said his wife had been saved by her wife who threw herself in front of his bed, in which he was lying ill, when Nationalist soldiers broke in and looted their room at him.

More Refugees.

The steamship Sulwo has arrived bringing 285 American and other refugees from Hankow. Nanking and other Yangtze ports. The steamers Wahngpoo and Tantung are expected this afternoon with other refugees.

Cantonese soldiers are planning a great mass meeting tomorrow when the general labor union will launch a drive for funds with which to pay off the union's guerrillas.

Heads of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce are in a quandary due to the failure of efforts to raise funds to pay the wages of the Cantonese as demanded by the leading officers of the army. It is claimed that similar tactics had been employed by the northern leaders.

Nationalist leaders announce that martial law will be enforced with the utmost strictness in the Chinese areas owing to "the presence of dangerous and lawless armed elements."

WOMEN SAFE

Hong Kong, March 29.—All the foreign women and children have been evacuated from Hong Kong.

evacuated Wuhu. The male foreign residents have been concentrated on shipboard. The situation at Wuhu is uncertain owing to anti-foreign agitations. Food is scarce and the refugees are suffering hardships.

MORE BRITISH TROOPS Hong Kong, March 29.—Additional British troops embarked today for Shanghai with other units ready for immediate sailing. Two brigades of artillery left today for Shanghai aboard the Bellerophon, the Yama and Green Howards will also act as transports.

RED ADVISER LEAVES Hong Kong, March 29.—The flight from Hankow of Commissar Borodin, the Soviet political adviser to the Cantonese government, and of Hsu-Hsien, his Chinese lieutenant, was prominently played in Canton vernacular papers today.

DEATH OF MRS. HATTIE SKINNER HALL Just before going to press The Herald received news of the death in Sturgis, Mich., last Saturday of Mrs. Hattie Skinner Hale, daughter of the late Sylvester Skinner, at one time a well known builder in Manchester, and wife of Frank Hale, formerly a photographer here.

C. E. HOUSE AND SON OFFER LEGION TRIP

Legionnaires Accept Herbert House's Plan For Free Tour.

"So This Is Paris" will be the watchword of some Manchester Legionaire if the attitude of Dilworth-Cornell Post No. 102 means anything. Last night in special meeting the post voted to accept the offer made by Herbert House that the firm of C. E. House and Sons would sponsor a trip to the American Legion Convention to be held in Paris in the fall of this year.

The rules of the offer are very simple. Each twenty-five cent purchase entitles the purchaser to cast one vote for his favorite in the race. Just suppose that you needed a new hat and that the top-piece set you back $4.00. You then would be entitled to cast 16 votes for the Legionaire you want to make the trip. The contest will start at once and will carry on until the first of the middle of August. A list showing the names of the men who have received votes will be posted in the store and the weekly result of the race will be published.

In accepting the offer made by Mr. House the post felt that it would serve to arouse keen interest in the convention, perhaps result in more Manchester people attending and last but not least afford some worthy ex-service men a chance to make a trip that perhaps never dreamed of in his balmy moments. Already the memory of over-seas veterans are turning to the last trip they made when once was shot at sunrise for smoking on deck while cruising through sub-tropical waters. They can now picture the same trip sitting on the deck of a fast liner while some steward carefully wraps a steamer rug about their limbs to keep off the sea breezes.

This is the picture that will come true if the legion has its say. Every member present at the meeting pledged themselves to work for the good cause. Hundreds of names will appear the first month. Then the race will begin to settle down to a contest between the leaders. Then along about the middle of the summer some contestant will set a good stiff pace and from then on it will be "anybody's" race.

The trip will include every expense connected with the trip except the incidentals that always attend such a voyage. According to figures given out by National Headquarters the trip can be made for about $300.

AMERICAN LEGION IN MEMBERS DRIVE

Five Teams Named to Conduct Campaign During Next Month.

Five teams were appointed last night at the special meeting of Dilworth-Cornell Post of the American Legion for the purpose of making a membership drive during the month of April. It is the aim of the local post to bring the membership to over 200 members.

The following captains and teams were selected. John Pentland, captain; Donald Hemingway and John Bausola, Frank (Chick) Zimmerman, captain; James Harrison and Charles Millikoff; Carroll Charter, captain; Dave Heatley and Anthony Tournau; Fred Lorch, captain; Harold Olds and Glenn Lewis.

There will be a whist and set-back party at St. James's parochial hall on Park street tomorrow evening. It will be in charge of Mrs. Anna Johnston and Mrs. Joseph Leary. There will be refreshments.

HOLD BOTH TONGMEN FOR LOCAL MURDER

nesses were Nicholas Dellaferia, a tailor, James Vignone, Patrolman Albert Roberts, Sergeant William Barron, Chief Samuel Gordon, Walter Crockett and Fritz Dielen-schneider.

Call Witnesses. At 12:30 p. m., the Grand Jury had called eight witnesses. Beside Patrolman McGilgin the witnesses called were Basilio S. Sandovin, Hartford taxi driver, who drove the two Chinese to Meriden; William H. Fobran, Meriden taxi driver, who drove the Chinese to New Haven; Policeman Frank Kelly, of New Haven, who arrested the Chinese, Ong Jing, uncle of the murdered man whose previous story to the police stood up before the Grand Jury.

Jing Nervous. Ong Jing identified Ching Lung as the murderer. One apparently very nervous going into the jury room but appearing relieved when he came out.

Joseph Vignone was the next witness. He is the cobbler whose shop was near the scene of the murder and who halted a passing truck in an effort to chase the Chinese. The next was Nicholas Dellaferia, who saw Loo Hoo Wing, one of the two in a doorway near the scene of the murder.

HARTFORD GETS CREDIT; BELONGS IN MANCHESTER

Hartford's town clerk, John A. Gleason, is credited rightfully by The Hartford Times with being "onto his job." But editorially last night the Hartford paper gave its town clerk all the credit for arousing the town clerks throughout the state to protest against the passage by the Legislature of an act that would reduce certain fees from one dollar to ten cents.

What Mr. Coolidge said, if anything, has not been divulged.

SPEDDY MURDER TRIAL

There will be a whist and set-back party at St. James's parochial hall on Park street tomorrow evening. It will be in charge of Mrs. Anna Johnston and Mrs. Joseph Leary. There will be refreshments.

COOLIDGE CANDIDATE IN '28 REPORTS SAY politicians are significantly linking it up with Senator William E. Borah's bid for this same support, and with the apparent headway which Governor Al Smith is making toward the Democratic nomination next year.

There are other who still cling to the belief that Mr. Coolidge will not be a candidate, but their numbers are diminishing. Those who hold this belief, and these include some of the shrewdest politicians around Capitol Hill, believe that Mr. Coolidge is only going to "pretend" to be a candidate right up to the last, simply to prevent anyone else organizing a real national campaign that might be successful.

When this story reached Mr. Coolidge's ears, according to the story, he called his top Washington aide and asked him to undertake the western trip, one object being, of course, to assure western doubters that New York was still behind Coolidge, despite Colonel Roosevelt's activities.

Hillies swung around the circle as scheduled. Upon his return he reported to Mr. Coolidge that there undeniably had been a considerable amount of defection from the Coolidge stand in the grain belt because of the McNary-Haugen veto. He also reported Lowden lieutenants working industriously. What Mr. Coolidge said, if anything, has not been divulged.

Several property owners on Flower street were present for a hearing on sidewalks, which had been reported in the columns of The Herald. However, notices had not been sent out on this hearing although it was the intention of the board to call one for last night.

The building committee met with the Board of Selectmen last night and approved of a public inspection of the new Municipal building on Saturday afternoon, April 2 and Sunday, April 3, few details which are to be completed before that time were left in the hands of Town Treasurer Waddell. The matter of screens for the windows was also left to Mr. Waddell.

G. Burton Carpenter was re-named a special constable. He is employed by Cheney Brothers but sets his appointment from the town.

ASSESSOR JOB GIVES BOARD HARD PROBLEM

that any dissension among the members of the assessors' board will result disastrously for Manchester's elaborate valuation system. The work must be kept up and it must be done accurately to make the system worth while to Manchester. The Selectmen decided to go to the root of the question and called all the members of the Board of Assessors into a conference last night. The question was put squarely before the three members and they were urged to settle any difference among themselves and then make recommendations to the board.

Sidewalks Hearing

Previous to the conference with the assessors the Selectmen held public hearings on the construction of sidewalks on the south side of School street from Spruce to Glenwood streets. Nine properties were represented and there was but one objection and that from Nell Wind of East Hartford. Mr. Wind maintained that his property was at the other end of the street, near the town dump, and no sidewalks were needed. In executive session the board voted to construct the walks, and it is possible that the stretch in front of Mr. Wind's property will not be done this year. The rest of the walk will be built this summer. Other property owners present were: Sarah J. Shields, Archibald Dougan, Moses Powers, Thomas Fantaleo, Theodore Marks, Samuel Fischer, Fred Sobolew and J. A. Loomis.

Two informal hearings were called on street grading. The first was for Academy street, between Parker and Clinton streets. Property owners on this street were asked their opinions of grading the street with the expense to be divided among the owners themselves. This is not an accepted highway and the town cannot accept it until it is at a proper grade. Carl W. Olson and Herbert Hale are the only owners opposed to the grading. Mr. Olson was present last night and said that his property would be damaged to a considerable extent and he would not accept it until it is at a proper grade. Mr. Hale was not present but he had told Mr. Olson he was opposed.

The other property owners present expressed themselves as favorable to the grading of the street and said they were willing to pay the expense. Those present and in favor were Lucius Foster, Hugo Kohls, H. Russell Tryon, Joseph Tedford, Walter Cowles and Robert J. Smith. The Selectmen advised the property owners to try to conciliate with Mr. Olson and Mr. Hale so that the street can be graded.

Property owners on Franklin street which runs from Parker to Walker street were told that the total cost of grading the street would be $500 or about 48.2 cents per square foot. All favored the grading with the exception of Nicholas Holm. Lura E. Allen's property was represented by Walter A. Allen who could not see why the job should cost so much. Those present and favoring the grading were John Adams, Edward Quish, Mr. Allen, William England, William G. Crawford, P. J. O'Leary, Ernest Wilson and Edward Waterman. A formal hearing will be called so that the town can go ahead with the work.

William C. Cheney who was present for a Municipal building committee meeting said that he thought the time was ripe for constructing sidewalks on the north side of St. James street. He told the board he would discuss the matter with the St. James church authorities and then ask for a hearing. Mr. Cheney also reported that Cheney Brothers would be willing to continue the maintenance of Hartford road from Main to Pine street if the town would scarify that highway this summer. Mr. Cheney was assured that the Selectmen would approve.

Several property owners on Flower street were present for a hearing on sidewalks, which had been reported in the columns of The Herald. However, notices had not been sent out on this hearing although it was the intention of the board to call one for last night.

The building committee met with the Board of Selectmen last night and approved of a public inspection of the new Municipal building on Saturday afternoon, April 2 and Sunday, April 3, few details which are to be completed before that time were left in the hands of Town Treasurer Waddell. The matter of screens for the windows was also left to Mr. Waddell.

Rockville LEGION TO HEAR ABOUT THE FIDAC Meeting to Be Held in Memorial Building Next Tuesday Evening—Notes.

(Special to The Herald)
Rockville, March 29. Past Commander Edward L. White of the American Legion and New Haven delegates to the Fidac conclave held at Warsaw, Poland will be present at the meeting and smoker to be held by St. Andrew's hall, 200 Main street, at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening, April 5. The American Legion Post members from Ellington and Stafford have been invited to be present for the occasion. Past Commander White will tell those present of the efforts of the Fidac, an organization of international veterans of the World War.

Red Men Entertain
The Rockville Lodge of Red Men will have a stag party tonight in their rooms. Guests from Manchester, Bristol, Stafford, Putnam and this city will be present at the Dutch supper that the committee in charge will serve. An entertainment has been prepared consisting of Francis Kuhny and his magic act; Bentley and Pfeiffer, banjo selections; George Gaekler, comedy sketch. There will also be speeches from the visitors.

Mr. Bob Repeated in Wapping
The play, "Mr. Bob," given by the Young People's Fellowship of the Rockville Episcopal church will be given tonight in the school hall in Wapping. This will be the third presentation of the play, having been put on in Staffordville a week after it was presented in Rockville. Many friends of the cast, as well as local people who could not see it here, are planning on going to Wapping tonight. The cast is composed of talented young people all of whom have starred in various plays given at their church. The play is sure to be a big success and Wapping is going to enjoy "Mr. Bob."

Mrs. Ruby Florence
Mrs. Ruby Usher Florence, aged 34 years, died this morning at 9:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Usher of Mile Hill, Tolland. She had been ill since November.

Funeral
She was born in Spencer, Mass., May 21, 1893, coming to Tolland with her parents when an infant. She was the widow of Charles Florence.

When health permitted, Mrs. Florence attended the Union Congregational church. She was a member of Alden Skinner Auxiliary, Sons of Veterans. Previous to her illness she was employed in the machine room of the United States Envelope Co.

She is survived by one daughter Phyllis May and her father, George H. Usher of Tolland. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Usher, George St., Brookfield. Burial will be in the South cemetery in Tolland.

Mrs. Ida M. Reinhold
Mrs. Ida M. Reinhold, 68, widow of Robert Reinhold, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Fay of Hartford, last evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Reinhold has been ill for several months. She was born in Germany January 1, 1859, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bucholtz. Mrs. Reinhold leaves five sisters, Mrs. Paul Schubach, Mrs. Max Bieber, Mrs. M. Bessahan and Mrs. L. Redfern of Holyoke and Mrs. Emma Obermayer of East Hampton; ten children, Mrs. Margaret Schilling, Mrs. Hattie Fay of Hartford, Mrs. Walter R. of Rockville, Edward of California, William of Westfield and Richard Reinhold; also eleven grandchildren.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her son, Walter Reinhold of 17 Oak street. Rev. John F. Baumann, pastor of the West Main street German Lutheran church officiated.

Funerals
Rev. John F. Baumann, pastor of the West Main street German Lutheran church, entertained his brother and sister of Meriden over the week-end.
Mrs. John F. Baumann is visiting in Philadelphia for a month.
Miss Mary Egan of Union street spent the week-end in Providence.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phelps and daughter, Mildred and Dorothy left Rockville Monday for New York where they will sail for Spain, returning in the fall.
Miss Eliza Joyce who has been ill at the St. Francis hospital has returned to her position at the Postal Telegraph.
John Francis, gardener for Fred Swindells, has returned from several months spent in Nova Scotia.

Twin daughters were born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Melville Chapman, at their home on Pleasant street. The mother and two daughters are doing nicely.
Mrs. Max Fuhr of Village street entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of her son's, Morris, eighth birthday. There were seventeen guests from Ellington and this city present. A dainty luncheon was served.

"KOSHER KITTY KELLY" AT CIRCLE FOR 2 DAYS

Irish-Jewish Love Story Starts Engagement Here Today.

The most laughable farce ever written around the loves of the Irish and the Jews is "Kosher Kitty Kelly," which is at the Circle theater on Oak street tonight and tomorrow. Founded on the same theme which made "Able's Irish Rose" so popular as a stage play in New York, this production goes the former just one better for it is more finished and its plot is more complicated.

St. Patrick's Day and Yom Kippur hold prominent places in the picture. The Shamrock of Ireland and the three balls, the emblems of the two races, are woven into a drama that almost defies unraveling. Yet, the climax is there, with an Irish cop and a Jewish doctor in the background to end the story as all good stories should end.

Hundreds will enjoy the production tonight and hundreds more will see it tomorrow. It is a tale of laughter from start to finish and the best part of it is that it hurts nobody's feelings. It is good clean comedy with a little pathos thrown in here and there to afford the contrast. The Irish housewife, the original prototype of the Irish Waterwoman, comes into her own and so does the Uncle, universal friend of all who have articles which can be used as security.

A cross-section of life, buoyant, bubbling, triumphant over the petty handicaps and irritations of momentary existence—a glorious, vibrant picture, alive with the loves and hates of Killarney and Jerusalem—a gripping, vital drama, true to its player and its locale—that's "Kosher Kitty Kelly." The spectacle goes in to see "a picture"; he comes out having seen a gem. With the silver screen of spontaneous comedy, thrilling in its graphic fire climax, running with the never ending stream of action and story progress that creates and holds interest, "Kosher Kitty Kelly" represents the best of the highest in entertainment. It is a picture that every lover of romance, every devotee of action, every student of human nature, everyone who loves fun and comedy will enjoy to the utmost.

FAMOUS STAGE ACTORS STARRING IN "CONVOY"

Lowell Sherman Prominent in Picture Coming to State Next Sunday.

A famous stage actor and former Follies girl are co-starring in "Convoy," Robert Kane's great epic of the Navy, coming next Sunday to the State Theater.
Lowell Sherman, called by many the successor to the mantle of Richard Mansfield in the legitimate stage, will be seen as Ernest Drake, the head of the German Secret Service in America at the outbreak of the war. And Dorothy Mackall, pretty little English girl who rose to screen prominence from the chorus of the Follies, acts the role of the heroine who sacrifices her reputation to safeguard the sailing of a Convoy on which her brother's sweetheart are leaving for France.

Famous on Stage
Sherman is one of the best known of that small class of actors and actresses who alternate their talents between the stage and screen.
Indeed Sherman was being starred in a Broadway hit "The Woman Disputed," during most of the period in which he was playing in "Convoy."

Among the best known of his screen portrayals were in "New York," "The Reckless Lady" and "The Wildness Woman," with Alleen Pringle.
"Convoy," boasting a five star cast including Buster Collier, Lawrence Gray and Ian Keith, is filled with remarkable episodes of the Navy at War, including actual pictures of the famous Battle of the North Sea, in which the combined British and American fleets defeated the German fleet outside Kell Harbor.

A large crowd attended the play entitled "Adventures of Grandpa" which was given by the young people of Wethersfield Friday evening in the vestry of the Congregational church.
Miss Bobbie Pasani who has been spending the winter on the west coast spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Lord. Miss Pasani is making her home in New York City for the present.
Benjamin Horowitz has returned from the Mt. Sinai hospital, Hartford where he recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.
Mrs. E. B. Hall was a caller in Hartford recently.

BROKEN KNEE CAP FROM MOVING DAY

Frank Hillery Hospital Patient After Fall of Chair on a Stairway.

Moving day for Frank Hillery of Chestnut street had disastrous results yesterday. Mr. Hillery was taken to the Memorial hospital this morning in Holloran Brothers' ambulance, with a broken kneecap.

The accident happened in a peculiar way. At 11 o'clock last night Mr. Hillery was going downstairs carrying a heavy chair which he was going to put on the moving van. The chair slipped out of his hands and, falling, struck his knee, breaking the kneecap.

He was given medical attention but did not go to the hospital until today. Dr. Swett of Hartford, bone specialist, is to attend him.
Mr. and Mrs. Hillery are moving from the apartments to 57 Summer street.

EXPECT 10,000 ANGLERS TO FISH STATE STREAMS

40,000 legal length trout have been distributed in the 106 miles of water comprising the state leased streams. In addition thousands of fish put in these streams before and during the last season have had a year or more to grow and develop warden.

Same Regulations
John W. Tilcomb, superintendent of fisheries and game, says that regulations on the state streams will be practically the same as a year ago. Anglers must keep within ten feet of banks of streams; use step-overs at the fences; keep off the cultivated lands; build no fires without consent of the owner and fire warden, and in general observe the rules of good sportsmanship. Women as well as men must have licenses to fish the leased waters, and children must have permits issued without cost by the State Board of Fisheries and Game and patrolling wardens.

State Leased Streams
The name, location and the number of fish distributed in each of the state leased streams since last June follow: Fenton river, Gurlingville to Willimantic, and two miles of Mt. Hope river, a tributary, 4,000; Snake Meadow brook, Danvers to Moomsup, 7,842; Blackberry and Whiting rivers, East Canaan and Norfolk, 11,000; West Branch of Salmon brook, West Granby to Tariffville, 1,200; North Branch Salmon brook, state line to Tariffville, 4,980; West Branch of Farmington river, state line to Riverton, 3,600; Saugatuck brook, Redding, 5,600; Sheepaug river, Bantam to Housatonic river, 8,149.

The six-inch trout law and the bag limit of twenty is in force on these state leased streams, the same as on other trout waters. Approximately 7,000 persons were interviewed by wardens on the leased streams last year, the first of their operation, and about 25,000 trout were taken in the two months and a half the streams were open.

BRITISH RACER DRIVES 207,015 MILES AN HOUR

Hangs Up New World Auto Record on Sand Track in Florida.

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 29.—Hurling over the hard sand speedway at the terrific pace of 207,015 miles per hour for one mile, Major H. O. D. Seagrave, intrepid 29-year-old British race driver, hung up a new world speed record on the beach here today in his freak four-ton 1,000 horsepower "Mystery S."

The computed record on the southbound trip for one mile was 207,015 miles an hour, and five kilometers, 207,07 miles an hour. These figures will be analyzed as soon as possible by officials of the American Automobile Association here to record officially the new speed attempts.

SAPIRO EXPLAINS COOPERATIVE PLAN

Tells of His Sensational Rise From Wait to Head of Farmers.

Federal Building, Detroit, Mich., March 29.—Aaron Sapiro, the "cooperative king" of American agriculture, today bared the secret of his sensational rise in the farm world to the jury in the million-dollar Ford-Sapiro libel suit.

Sapiro did not hide his hand in cooperative marketing, learned why some succeeded but many failed and finally drafted a new system of organization. In the end 60,000 farmers grouped themselves in cooperatives based on his plan.

Sapiro took the stand to defend himself against the charges of Henry Ford's Dearborn Independent that he had exploited the farmers.

Like Alger Tale
The story Sapiro told, sounded like a Horatio Alger tale, and Sapiro seemed like a character out of the same book, of slight build, his youthful appearance belied his 43 years. He resumed his direct testimony by saying he "did some work" in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Illinois and Indiana in addition to the two dozen states named yesterday. Touching on the history of cooperative marketing, Sapiro said a majority of the first cooperatives organized before 1915 had failed. He told of studying both the failures and successes among the early associations, hunting the secret of successful cooperative marketing.

"What did you find?" asked William H. Gallagher, his chief counsel.
"I found the chief characteristic of cooperatives which failed," said Sapiro, "were that they were organized on the locality basis, in small communities, those that succeeded were organized on a commodity basis, among the first cooperatives, nearly all were organized locally and nearly all failed."

Took Long Study
As Sapiro said it, the answer to cooperative marketing seemed a very simple thing. It took him three years study, however, before he got the answer for which he had the contracts between the cooperatives and the growers. Then he drafted a new type of contract which was used in Sapiro cooperatives.

"I took ideas wherever I could find them and when new cooperatives were formed, I combined the ideas of the successful cooperatives in the new contracts," said Sapiro.
Under the "sale and resale" system, said Sapiro, the growers would turn a commodity over to the cooperative, which would grade it. When the crop was sold by the cooperative, Sapiro added, the growers were paid accordingly to their proportionate share on each grade of the pooled crop.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday afternoon the Boys Glee club held its weekly rehearsal. The glee clubs are preparing for the Central Connecticut glee club contest to be held the third week in May. The Boys club is to duplicate its success of last year when it won the championship and a silver loving cup. This year's contest is to be held in West Hartford.

The Girls Glee club held its rehearsal this afternoon. The girls are anxious to show the school that they can win cups as well as the boys. The Girls club was second in its class last year.
The orchestra will hold its rehearsal tomorrow, the seventh period. The orchestra together with the glee clubs will broadcast from Station WTIC the latter part of April.

On Friday evening the band will hold a rehearsal at 7:00 o'clock. Bandmaster Harold Turkington requests that all members be present so that work may be done in preparing the concert program which the band expects to put on in May.

What will doubtless be the biggest social event of the spring season will come on Saturday evening of this week when both last year's and this year's dancing classes will hold a masquerade ball in the assembly hall. The event is being eagerly anticipated.

The first track practice of the year was held yesterday afternoon at the West Side oval. Coach "Pete" Wigren was much gratified with the large number which turned out.
All material for the April issue of "Somanian Events" is due on Thursday of this week. Students are asked to contribute. Although this is the Alumni Issue, some student material will be acceptable. It is expected that at least one new feature will be inaugurated in the forthcoming issue.

If you have had the grippe or a hard cold recently Peptona will put you on your feet again, give you renewed energy. The ideal Spring tonic.—Quinn's.—Adv.

PIEYING THE FARMER.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine thinks a lot of things should be done to make the farmer better contented with his lot by making the farmer's lot better. And he believes that this can be helped by manufacturer's manufacturing, for farmers, less expensive heating plants, less expensive lighting plants, improved kitchen facilities that will work just as well but won't cost as much as the kind they sell to city people; even good radio sets running into far less money. Also he would have architects trained to specialize in building farm houses beautiful yet not costly.

Secretary Jardine is put down in the books as an agronomist—which means a person who specializes in the science of crop production. Also he is only about 48 years old, much younger than we hope he will some time be—with a considerable number of years ahead of him for still further acquaintance with the farmer as well as with the farmer's crops.

It will occur to a good many folks that there are actually some people in the cities who would like to be able to install an independent lighting system in their homes for $75, or buy an iceless refrigerator for $12 or a garbage incinerator for a dollar twenty-five, but that the proportion of farmers who would be content with "farm brand" varieties of these things might be something less than 100 per cent.

Brother Ford conceived the idea of a "farmer's automobile." A great many farmers bought them. But according to a last year's report from one of the biggest of the agricultural states not more than one out of five or six motor cars sold to farmers was a Ford. The agriculturalists were going in for bigger and costlier vehicles. It was the town man who was keeping Henry's business going.

And we are especially intrigued by the idea of a class of architects that must get its living by serving the American farmer. Imagine the fate of the sanguine young artist who sought his commissions in the agricultural districts of Pennsylvania or among the ruralists of Kansas. There would be a bird indeed who would be a candidate for a seventy-five cent lighting system for his own use, or a five-and-ten cent store refrigerator.

The farmer, like the rest of us, is going to work out his own problems, so far as his home life is concerned. He has certain advantages over the city dweller which compensate for all his disadvantages. He has fresh air and good food and he is his own boss. Few city workers ever have the first of these things, a good many never have the second and only about one in a couple of hundred in the third. The farmer should do his own worrying, if any.

THE COAL STRIKE.

The soft coal strike scheduled to go into effect on Friday of this week will bring no message of fear to American industry, let alone the people at large. It is the belief of the United States Department of Labor that not more than 35 per cent of the production in the bituminous fields will be affected and that even that relatively small curtailment will be in large part, very temporary.

It is to be the strangest of coal strikes. The United Mine Workers profess, even while bringing it about, to be unable to finance the walkout. The striking miners will be expected to look after themselves. This would seem almost certain to doom the undertaking to failure at the outset. But President Lewis, head of the big union, is figuring on a new kind of strategy. Instead of attempting to stop soft coal production altogether, he is depending on a sort of sniping campaign, where the attack will be on a small number of operators at a time—the object being to render these operators' mines idle while their competitors are doing business. He figures that by this system he can force the operators under immediate attack to come to terms with the United Mine Workers—after which he will, presumably, attack some other group in like fashion. In other words he hopes to beat the enemy in detail instead of by a general attack all along the line.

This may be good strategy, but even good strategy is unlikely to win a campaign for an army that has no war chest. It would appear from the street that the 1927 coal strike were bound to be the worst failure of any in a long period of years.

A DEVILISH PLOT.

Photographic copies of letters and telegrams—purporting to have passed between the American State Department at Washington and Ambassador Sheffield at Mexico City and dealing apparently with a plot to bring about an insurrection in the Mexican republic which would give the Washington government opportunity to back a new president of Mexico, as it has backed President Diaz in Nicaragua—fell into the hands of President Calles.

Calles' natural reaction to this information was the conviction that the United States was planning either a direct war upon him or underground support of a movement to replace him with a puppet of its own.

It was at this stage of the proceedings that a former newspaperman from New York, George Barr Baker, now occupied with other affairs and temporarily in Mexico investigating business prospects, engaged the interest of President Calles to such an extent that the Mexican President showed him the photographs.

Baker's training told him that it was impossible for such correspondence to have passed between Secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Sheffield. He induced Calles to take the matter up with President Coolidge direct.

The letter that Calles thereupon dispatched to this government was the first of two "mystery" notes—and no hint of it ever reached the press in this country. The reply sent by the Washington government, repudiating the alleged correspondence, constitutes the second and now famous "mystery" note whose contents newspapermen and press agencies have sought fruitlessly to learn.

It is now reported that President Calles has been convinced that the American government had nothing to do with the photographed letters and telegrams—that those papers were actually manufactured by somebody who sought to bring about a crisis in the relations of Mexico and the United States. Who those persons were cannot be learned either from the American State Department or from President Calles. In all probability the State Department does not yet know, though it is certain to find out in the course of time, Calles may know who originated the plot or he may not. If he does he will probably place his information at the disposal of the Washington government. If he does not he in turn can be depended on to find out.

It is by such slight accidents as the almost casual visit to Mexico of this ex-journalist that wars are sometimes prevented. It was a devilish conspiracy that was unmasked, almost certain to have led to conflict between the two nations.

THAT TONG MURDER.

How much doubt exists in anybody's mind that in the two Chinese arrested for the recent Tong murder in Manchester the authorities have in jail the man who fired the fatal shots and the companion who equally shared his guilt by standing watch? Yet it is a long way from this sort of moral conviction to a conviction in law. It would not do to be too certain that the crime will be legally fastened on these prisoners.

Suppose that the one eye-witness to the murder recants on his identification. Suppose that skillful defense laws show that the contributing witnesses might easily become confused in the business of telling one Mongolian from another of the same age and general physical proportions. Suppose that a competent army of alibi witnesses swear consistently that the accused men were somewhere else at the time of the commission of the crime.

It must be remembered that our laws and the practice of our courts runs at all times more to the favor of the accused than to the favor of the state.

It would, at a glance, seem almost impossible that these men should escape conviction. Yet a most unreasonable doubt is not infrequently made to appear as a reasonable one. You can never be sure, till the verdict is in.

"BARBARA WORTH" ENDS RUN AT STATE TONIGHT

Special For Tomorrow at State;
Two Features; Eight Acts
Thursday.

A smashing climax showing the mighty Colorado river with the power of a thousand miles behind it wiping out towns and villages is one of the highlights in "The Winning of Barbara Worth" which is showing at the State theater tonight for the last time. Two of the most popular actors of the day have been given the leading roles in it and critics agree that no better pair could have been selected for the parts than Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky.

Harold Bell Wright wrote a best seller when he turned out "Barbara Worth." And Samuel Goldwin turned out a big production he adapted it to the movies. "Barbara Worth" is one of the really great productions in the history of the movies and rightly so. Its photoplay is the acme of the art; its cast is well fitted to the parts each is assigned and the plot of the story is one with which moving picture directors can do wonders. There were hundreds standing at the performances Sunday and last night so it must be good. On Wednesday, tomorrow, the State presents a special two feature bill.

"The First Night," a Tiffany production at the State theater tomorrow can unqualifiedly be called one of the best laugh-provoking pictures that has been seen here in some time.

Here is a farce comedy that runs the gamut of laughter—from silent chuckles to loud guffaws, and from the way the audience reacted to the extremely humorous situations, there is no doubt that they all were unanimous in voting it a real blues chaser.

For the companion feature "The Winning Gallop" was directed by Charles Hutchison and known as "Hurricane Hutch," himself a former "stunt" star and between the director and the star they have succeeded in putting over a picture that is as full of thrills as an electric dynamo.

TOLLAND

The missionary program given at the opening of Sunday School on Sunday was arranged by Miss Ruth Ayers. Miss Bernice Hall took the part of "Rural Life," Helen Meacham, the part signifying the "Sunday School;" and the minor parts were taken by other young people of Mrs. West's class.

The supper given at the church last week in charge of the teachers of the town for the benefit of the dental clinic was well patronized and over fifty dollars was netted.

Miss Grace Keirstead and Miss Marjorie Williams of Storrs College spent the week-end with their classmate, Miss Alice E. Hall.

The schools of the town closed Friday and the teachers have gone to their respective homes for the spring vacation.

Edwin Crandall is ill at his home at Grant's Hill with the mumps.

George Luce, a gypsy moth scout working in Terryville, was at Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Charter's for the week-end. His troop will be transferred to West Hartford very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gardner visited their mother, Mrs. Hannah Gardner, last week.

The Lenten service was held at the parsonage Thursday evening and after the devotional meeting plans were discussed in regard to holding a vacation school at the church for three or four weeks next summer. A committee was authorized to make further arrangements.

A postponed meeting of the Fourth Quarterly Conference will be held at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon. Dist. Supt. Myron Genter will be present and preside.

The all-day sewing meeting will be held with Mrs. L. E. Hall on Thursday.

The Lenten service next Thursday evening will be held with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hall.

The Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Rhodes.

Miss Edna Crandall visited Miss Olga Toblassen in Windsor recently.

Mr. Howard Lewis and Mrs. Ann Graham, of Hartford, were at their summer home "The Lilacs" on Sunday.

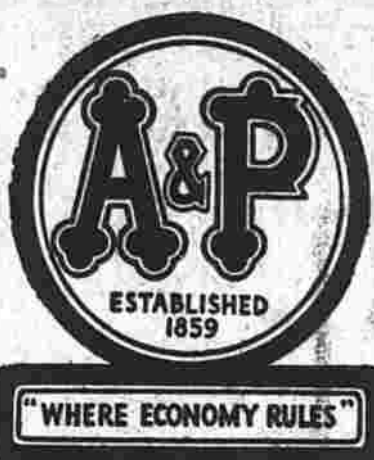

A meeting of the young men, who belong to the Tolland Fire Department, was held Friday evening at the home of William Ayers, Jr.

AT RIALTO THEATER

"Exclusive Rights," a production starring Lillian Rich and Gaston Glass heads the double feature program being offered at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow. It is a social drama with a decided romantic turn that should meet with instant favor in this city.

The second attraction is "Lure of the Yukon," a real bonafide melodrama of Alaska filmed on the exact locale for which the story calls. A gigantic herd of 10,000 reindeer appear in the picture and they present a marvelous sight as they dash madly toward the camera. Then there are dog sleds, also, by the score and some of the most exciting moments in this thrill filled picture occur when the pack of Alaska's husky's stage a thrilling race. The scenery is nothing short of magnificent and the fact coupled with the truly memorable acting of the cast headed by Eva Novak and Spottiswood Aitken completes the photoplay in as perfect a manner as one could wish for.

A comedy guaranteed to tickle the risibilities of everyone with a grain of humor, as well as a news reel will also be shown.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Little children were brought to Jesus that he might put his hands on them and pray, but the disciples rebuked those that brought them, not understanding the spirit of Jesus. (Matthew XIX :13)

But Jesus said, Suffer little children and forbid them, not to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew XIX :14)

A rich young man of fine moral character inquired of Jesus the way to eternal life, ask- g. "What lack I yet?" (Matthew XIX :16-20)

But he went away sorrowful, when Jesus, loving him, said, "Go and sell all thou hast and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me." (Matthew XIX :21-22)

SAMPLES ON DISPLAY AT THE MANCHESTER EVENING HERALD

NEW YORK

New York, March 29.—In a place where "front" has so high a batting average, young men of the collar ad variety pay handsome income taxes on salaries by showing what the well-dressed man should wear.

It is their business literally to force a certain cut or pattern down the throats of those who play follow the leader where styles are concerned.

One of the outstanding men's clothes models in Manhattan makes upward of $20,000 a year. He is married and, I believe, has a family. His strutting is done entirely for business purposes and, unlike so many fops who leap at the latest style and go dandying around, he projects an air of unpretentiousness. It's all in a day's work with him and with a great many of his fellows who pose for the clothing ads or display new models at public affairs.

Few persons of prominence follow the mob-made modes. On Broadway the "prominent names"—particularly among actors—demand individual and, exclusive styles, dismissing tailors who dare make other suits of the same material and expressing great annoyance if a copy is seen.

Among the old timers, the dignity of the past still rules. John Drew is seldom, if ever, seen about town minus his severe frock coat. Otto Kahn generally affects a frock coat also, sometimes appearing in a dark business suit of severe lines. Lew Fields, of the old Weber and Fields, E. H. Sothorn, George Arliss and other great ones of yesteryear are famed for their sartorial dignity.

Lowell Sherman and Signor de Sigurolo, the ex-opera singer, invariably wear monocles, while Morris Gest is known from coast to coast by the eccentric hats of ancient vintage he wears.

The same changes one finds in the oldsters can be found in the traditions.

For instance—the Waldorf celebrated its 34th birthday the other day. Anyone harking back would recall that it was an opening dignified by such attractions as a symphony orchestra opening, and other ceremonies were in keeping.

Today a new model opens its doors to the jazz-strains of the syncopationists and guests arrive with well-filled hip pockets and even the seagate old Waldorf has had to surrender to a roof garden plus saxophones.

The story goes about Broadway of a ham actor who, in years ago, had played the ghost in "Hamlet." He had picked up a job playing spook for a bunch of fake spiritualists. Just before a seance he got a bit tight.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, March 29.—The tender heart of President Calvin Coolidge feels for dumb beasts as well as the people of the nation.

All was well when Becky, gift of an admirer, first came to the White House. She was one of the most popular and most present-minded Coolidge pets in a long time.

Then came spring and a great restlessness stirred in Becky's soul. In the world outside the pervasive influence of spring was everywhere exerting itself. All the other girls had their courting callers. Spring got under way with a boy friend for everyone but poor Becky.

Becky was all alone, cooped up in painful exclusiveness. She alternately moped and paced the ground in nervous fretfulness.

At this point in stepped the Great White Father, himself.

"I am responsible for this child's welfare!" the White House spokesman is said to have exclaimed. It was a question of whether

Becky

Becky's playmates should be invited to the White House or whether Becky should be sent where she could meet boys of her own age.

And the president took the noble self-sacrificing course, so that now Becky is out at the National Zoo, where are found most of the other furry coons of Washington. She lives in the cutest little coon house you ever saw, and she is very democratic about it all.

Though Becky has gained much, she also lost something by the change. A brief time back she was the White House coon, which means a great deal in coondom. Where she was once the most distinguished coon in America, she now is merely the belle of the coons at the National Zoo which doesn't mean much to the outside world.

Becky once was treated with respect and admiration. Now she must take life as it comes. The problem of housing Becky was very simple compared to that of choosing the summer White House.

Mr. Coolidge has had a perfectly heart-breaking time of it. Scores of offers came, but nearly everyone presented the vista of a millionaire's summer home on a palatial estate with hundreds of thousands of valuable acres. Luxury, comfort, exclusiveness, swank—all these were the lures held out to the president.

But it seems very likely—doesn't it?—that what would really please President Coolidge more than anything else would be the chance to get away into some quaint little cottage in a quiet little hamlet, with rural surroundings in which he could feel at home.

There he could do his work in most conducive environment and perhaps with a minimum of the distasteful publicity that always goes with a president's summer vacation.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

HE LEFT HOME EARLY

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

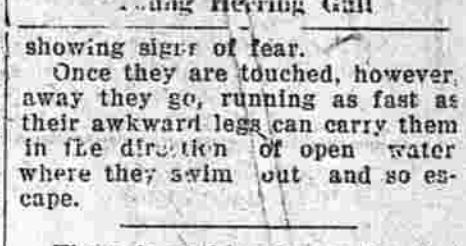

When young herring gulls are hatched they leave the nest almost immediately, wandering off into the grass or weeds near the nest to find a hiding place and shelter from the sun that beats down on their seashore home.

The gulls nest in great colonies and there are hundreds, sometimes thousands, of the young birds striking out for themselves at the same time. It is the task of each mother gull to locate the hiding place of her own fledglings, unless she is at home when they leave, to see where they go.

Not only must she know where they go, but she must catch small fish for them and distribute them among her family.

The young gulls depend upon their soft gray plumage to hide them among the grasses. They will allow an intruder to approach close enough to touch them without

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

TALCOTTVILLE

A remarkable memory feat was accomplished at the Sunday school session on Sunday when the following named four boys, Marcus Cleveland, Clinton Webb, Paul Wilson and Fred Wood, all of Miss Frances Bachelors' class, recited in sequence without error, all the Golden texts for the past quarter. Miss Alice Talcott of New York City spent the week-end at her home here. Master Wallace Thrall underwent an operation for a mastoid at the Hartford hospital on Friday afternoon. The Christian Endeavor society met on Sunday evening at 8:45 o'clock. The subject of the meeting was "Practicing World Brotherhood" and the leader, Dudley Douglas. Forty-three members were present which is a new record, for attendance. Special attention is called to the next meeting of the Ladies' Home Missionary society. It seems best to hold this meeting Thursday, March 31, at 2:30 p. m. instead of waiting until the first Thursday in April as it is desirable to complete the sewing for the Girl's Industrial school at Moorhead, Mississippi. In response to an earnest appeal from Miss Whitmore, the principal, you are asked to contribute "Used Clothing" articles of clothing you are willing to give may be brought to the church Thursday afternoon or they may be left at the store at any time during the week. Miss Whitmore writes that this is their greatest need as these people are so poor, especially this year, that they can buy scarcely anything at the stores. The sale of this "used clothing" will not only help poverty-stricken people but will also be a source of income to the school. J. Seymour Brown was given a letter on Sunday from the local church to the Center Congregation at church at Manchester. Mrs. C. O. Britton has been spending the week in New York City. John G. Talcott and John G. Talcott, Jr., spent Friday and Saturday in New York City. While there they attended the International Flower Show and also had the pleasure of hearing Sousa and his band. The Golden Rule club will hold a surprise social in the church parlors on Friday evening, April 1 at 7:45 o'clock. Some interesting contests entitled "Who, When, Where and What," will be open to all. Ice cream and home-made candy will be served. A cordial invitation is extended to all those attending are requested to save ten cents for the evening's greatest surprise. Miss Alice Doggart will leave early Saturday morning for an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Isabel Williams, of Clyde, Alberta, Canada. Miss Doggart has been the guest of honor at several pleasant social affairs preceding her departure. Miss Sarah Monaghan entertained on Thursday evening and on Friday evening she was the guest of Hartford friends at a supper and theater party. Mrs. Arthur Doggart and Robert Doggart of Manchester will accompany her as far as Montreal. Mrs. John Prentice and her daughter, Edith May have returned from the Manchester Memorial hospital.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ketchen and daughter, Dorothy, from Miami, Florida, were the guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sheldick, at their home in Pleasant Valley last week. Rev. G. Garfield Sallis, pastor of the Rockville Methodist Episcopal church, preached an excellent sermon here last Sunday evening by way of exchange with Rev. Truman H. Woodward. Mr. Sallis spoke on the text, "Ye are not your own, but are bought with a price." Mr. and Mrs. Water S. Billings went to West Haven to spend the week-end with Mrs. Billings' parents, last Sunday evening. Mrs. Billings will remain there for a few days' visit. Charles A. Zingsor is to sell all his farming implements at a public auction on Friday afternoon, April first at one o'clock. This farm is more commonly known as the Joseph Barber Place at Barber Hill. "Mr. Bob," a two-act comedy, will be given by seven young people from St. John's church, Rockville, at Wapping Center School hall, this Tuesday evening, March 29, under the auspices of the Federated Workers. The characters are as follows: Phillip Royson, Francis Little; Robert Brown, clerk of "Benson and Benson," Lewis Reynolds; Jenkins, Miss Rebecca's Boster; Joseph Keeping; Rebecca Lake, (maiden lady); Eva Little; Katherine Rogers (her niece), Dorothy Robinson; Marion Bryant, Bertha Davis; Patty, (Miss Rebecca's maid), Lois Randall. Act I, scene, breakfast room at Tresham, morning, Act II, scene, same as Act I, afternoon. ANOTHER GUNMAN DIES. Detroit, Mich., March 29.—Detroit's machine gun war claimed its third victim today. Frank Wright, alias Burke, alleged Chicago jewel thief and gangster, died of bullet wounds suffered yesterday when a machine gun was turned on him and his companions Sam Cohen and Joe Bloom. Cohen and Bloom were killed instantly when the three called at an apartment in response to a message that their friend, Meyer "Fish" Blumfield, employee of Dock Brady, proprietor of a gambling establishment, had been kidnaped.

Old Master's

God, we don't like to complain. We know that the mine is no lark— But—there's the pools from the rain; But—there's the cold and the dark. God, you don't know what it is— You, in your well-lighted sky, Watching the meteors whiz; Warm, with the sun always by. God, if you had but the moon Stuck in your cap for a lamp, Even you'd tire of it soon, Down in the dark and the damp. Nothing but blackness above, And nothing that moves but the cars— God, if you wish for our love, Fling us a handful of stars!— Louis Untermyer: "Caliban in the Coal Mines."

Keep Eliminative System Active

Good Health Requires Good Elimination. ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. Ask your neighbor!

LAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

THIS HAS HAPPENED BILLY WELLS, pretty head of the glove department of the T. Q. Curtis Store, pines over a questionaire which "the old man" has given his women employees to answer.

more than she would admit to herself. Stanley Powers, assistant credit manager, had dated Billy more than a month before for the party, and he was hospitably invited for supper, since both he and Billy, as entertainers for the evening, had to be at the store early.

CHAPTER VIII BILLY did not destroy the questionnaire. Some dim premonition, possibly born of her feeling that Clay knew more, or suspected more, of what old T. Q. was "up to," stayed her fingers as they were about to tear the sheets to fragments.

The next morning, before she could give herself time to reconsider, she burned her bridges behind her, by dropping the questionnaire, with its queer mixture of impudence and common sense, into the padlocked box provided for that purpose.

Nyda Lomax and Winnie Shelton, who enjoyed being seen together for the sake of the contrast between Nyda's sultry brunette beauty and Winnie's flowerlike blondness, were comparing questionnaires when Billy entered the room.

"Eddie gave me a swell tip," Nyda Lomax was saying. "He was reading that Sunday article on the kids' nursery on the roof, and he said that was a dead giveaway that old T. Q. was batty about kids. So he told me to put down that my life's ambition was to be a kindergarten teacher. Isn't that a scream? You know me, Win. I can't bear a kid in my sight. What did you say?"

"I bet papa's black-haired boy was able to give you some good tips."

"He did, as a matter of fact," Billy told them coolly. "There's the bell. We'll have to hurry." Within a few days the little flurry of excitement over the questionnaires had died completely away, lost in the larger excitement of the approaching party to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Curtis Store.

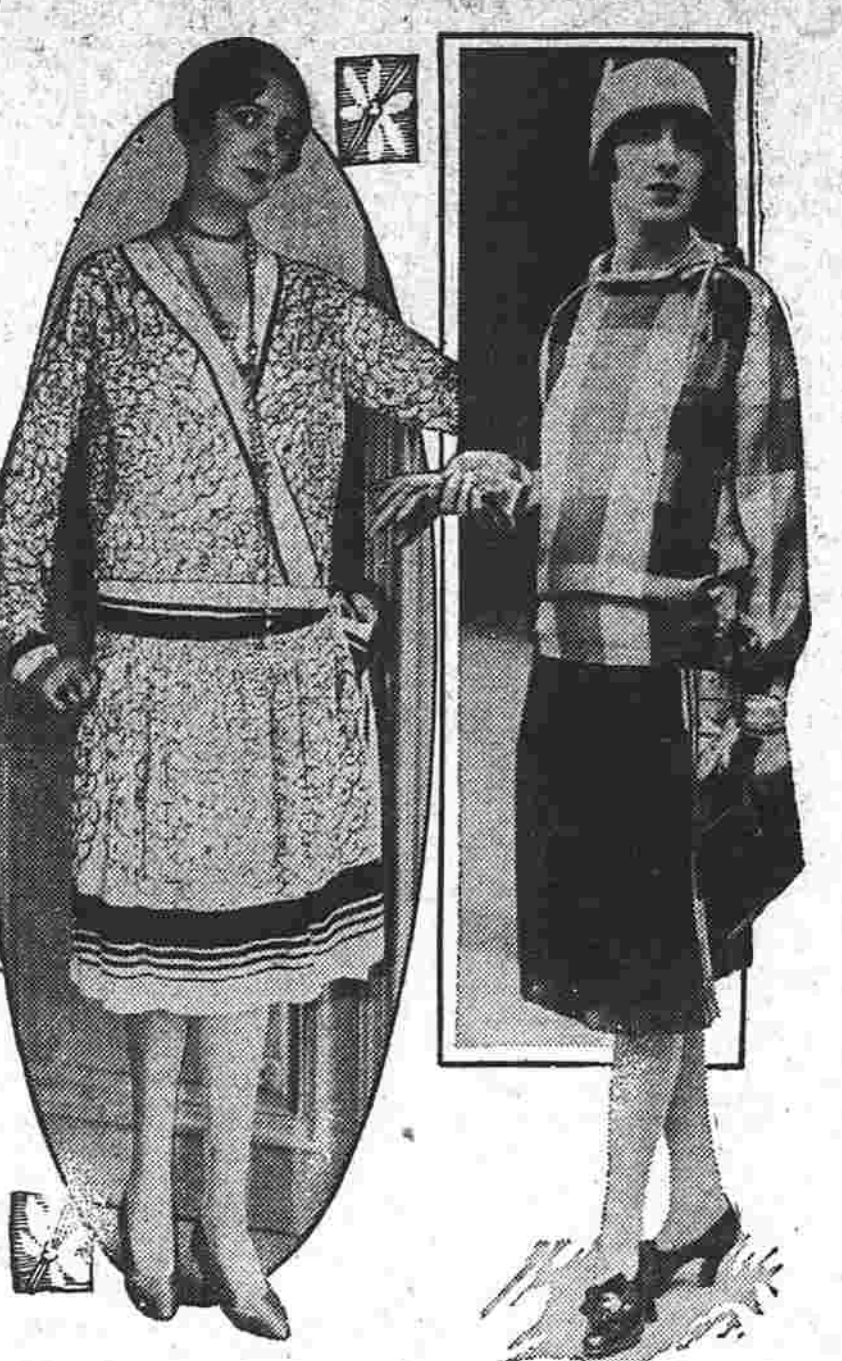

The Curtis Store band had practiced almost every evening; Miss Simmons, head of the personnel department and teacher of the classes in salesmanship, buzzed about frantically, immensely concerned with plans for "The Pageant of Progress," in which the store's prettiest girls were to take part; the Curtis Store Dramatic Society daily rehearsed a one-act play, written by that jaunty, go-getting advertising manager, Mr. Brenner; old T. Q. himself seemed to be so infected with the excitement of anticipation that he could not confine himself to his office, but prowled from floor to floor, smelling his way grin at customers and appearing at embarrassing moments, at the elbow of a girl who was losing a sale because she was too sleepy from late rehearsals the night before to care whether she sold anything or not.

"I've told you no less than nine hundred and ninety-nine times, Julie, that you can be pleasant to a customer without calling her pet names. That girl's name is Miss Dennan, not 'dearie' or 'honey'."

He remained near her counter, watching her make the sale that, familiar, very smile tugging at the corners of his stern mouth. Then, while she was making out her sales slip, he moved away, and when she looked about her in a momentary lull, she saw him standing near the perfume and cosmetics department, his bushy brows drawn down over eyes that were fixed on Nyda Lomax.

"There's the doorbell, honey," her mother called from the kitchen. "You run and answer it. I'm sure the white sauce for the asparagus tips."

THE WOMAN'S DAY OF ALLENE SUMNER

Years and years ago Mrs. Somewhere or Other needed a stamp in a hurry. She didn't have two cents, so she rummaged among her old letters, found an old stamp, licked it and sent it off. The other day the woman sent a brand-new stamp with a letter of remorse to the U. S. Treasury. Told Uncle Sam she had suffered from the ravages of conscience of these many years.

H. C. O. Beauty Ione Wallace, a model of Cleveland, O., asked for income tax exemption to the tune of $334.50. She based her exemption on what she called "professional necessities."

This And That In Feminine Lore

Even the envelope purse takes on the mode of femininity. It is small, made of black satin, usually but has the usual compartments for coins and trifles and is a purse that may be carried with any daytime costume.

The return to the natural waistline means a return to corsets that will indicate it. We have become so accustomed to the comfortable corsetettes without a waistline that it will be difficult to adapt ourselves to the changed conditions without a protest.

Sometimes sponge cake seems doomed to "go begging." The rule for the luncheon pudding uses this bit of cake to advantage and is well worth keeping in mind when the family refuse the second day of the cake.

Sponge Cake and Orange Pudding Three cups stale sponge cake crumbs, 2 cups hot milk, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 1 cup sugar, 4 eggs, 1 1/2 cups orange juice.

Heat milk to the boiling point and pour over crumbs. Mix grated rind with sugar and add to first mixture. Beat eggs well and add to mixture. Add orange juice, beat to have a local firmness. Pour mixture into a well buttered dish in a moderate oven. When firm to the touch, the pudding is done. Serve warm with the following sauce:

One cup whipping cream, 1-2 cup steamed figs, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar. Put figs through a pure strainer. Whip cream until stiff, add vanilla and sugar and beat enough to mix thoroughly. Add sifted fig pulp and serve.

My wall the other day about buying an aluminum cookie sheet that failed to fit two ovens, brought forth a good suggestion from a local housekeeper, which was to have a local tinmith make one up specially to fit the oven for convenience in cookie baking.

Another suggestion I received for use in this column has to do with laundry work. If the table cloth is stained with fruit or anything else as frequently happens, before removing it from the table, have a safety pin in at the stain, then it is quickly found when the time comes for washing and may be treated with boiling water or whatever else is a solvent for the stain to be removed.

Another new feature for the home page, which I feel sure you will like, will begin tomorrow, when we will introduce "Life's Necessities" a sort of daily catechism of questions and answers throwing light on things that are sometimes a source of doubt if not embarrassment. These little matters of personal conduct—hints on etiquette will run daily with about three questions and answers each day.

Chopped pimientos, chopped olives, cream cheese, salt and pepper blended into a paste make a nice filling with which to stuff stalks of celery.

Many milliners believe the crown of hats has reached the peak of its extension and will gradually be lowered. In fact, how the crown that fits the head is never than the one extended in the back.

Manufacturers of hosiery are at last beginning to give a little more attention to the wearing qualities of women's silk stockings. The lock-chain runner stop and three stockings alike are comparatively new. Many make a practice of buying two pairs alike; three stockings will answer the same purpose and when one goes to the discard the other two will still have some wear and tear left. A reinforced garter band, heel and toe, making for greater durability are other good features on some of the best makes, which will prevent darning seam-taking and other schemes to make the hosiery presentable for a little longer time. The item of silk stockings is a big one nowadays in a woman's clothing budget. For the women will crowd around a bargain table of stockings and buy up worthless stock, at a low price to be sure, when reliable brand would give satisfaction far beyond the difference in price. Low shoes which have been worn for years by women everywhere are undeniably hard on the heel portions.

Baked Spaghetti, Eggs and Cheese Four hard cooked eggs, one cup broken spaghetti, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 3-4 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon each pepper and mustard parsley.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Mix salt, pepper and mustard and stir into sauce. Bring sauce to the boiling point. Put a layer of spaghetti into a well buttered baking dish, add a layer of sauce and cover with a layer of eggs. Continue layer for layer of spaghetti, sauce and eggs until all are used, making the last layer of spaghetti. Cover with grated cheese and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and serve from baking dish.

What has become of the old-fashioned mother who used to dress her children as regularly as spring came around with molasses and sulphur? She is a grandmother now, but it is a safe bet that her daughter doesn't give this dosage to her youngsters. Our food habits are so much better that we as a spring tonic. The old-fashioned diet, however, did not include so many greens with iron content. We hadn't the same transportation and fresh from other parts of the country, nor did we in the old days have canning factories where spinach, beet-tops and other iron-giving vegetables could be canned in the height of the season for winter consumption. Science hadn't then discovered that liver, heart and kidneys of meat animals contained more iron than any other food except spinach, and iron is a mineral necessary for blood building.

Bias bands of the material applied in interlacing patterns are much used as a trimming on the new coats. A pretty gray ensemble had a coat of this style for wear over its gray pleated skirt and tucked blouse. Gray by the way is almost as popular as beige this spring, or black and white.

When cooking eggs hard for salads or scalloped dishes, put them into about a quart of cold water. Bring to the boiling point, reduce the heat and simmer without bubbling for 15 minutes. Plunge at once in cold water and let stand five minutes. Remove shells and cut in thin slices crosswise. One of those little aluminum egg-slices will be found most convenient for cutting the whole egg evenly at one operation. Some of them cut lengthwise and others crosswise.

Good Nature and Good Health

STYLES IN CLOTHES HAVE LITTLE RELATION TO HEALTH NEEDS.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 19th of a series of articles by Dr. Morris Fishbein, one of America's foremost medical authorities, on personal hygiene.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEGIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Few people care enough about their health to select clothing with health problems in view primarily. Unquestionably style plays as great a part as any other factor in the selection of wearing apparel. Indeed, it has been asserted that styles extremely detrimental to health are frequently selected, even with the detriment in mind. It has been asserted that the craze for reduction in weight and slenderization is a response to a change in feminine fashions.

It seems doubtful if human nature will ever be modified sufficiently or intelligence at such a high level that clothing will invariably be selected for its hygienic qualities rather than for the other considerations that may be concerned.

From the hygienic aspects clothing should protect against cold and permit diffusion of heat

Home Page Editorials Want Is Good By Olive Roberts Burton

She had always been poor. Life had spelled failure. No matter what work she took up she failed. All around her, people were living in luxury. They had limousines with liveried chauffeurs, took annual trips to the Mediterranean or Bermuda or Hawaii, had homes in Florida, and lodges in Canada.

But she was an onlooker and a struggler with an obsession for luxury of which she could not even touch the ragged edge. Then a relative left her money. She ceased her work and devoted her time to spending. She had her car and trips and fine clothes. The money lasted a few years. When it was gone she walked into a rising tide and lay down.

Her story has been interpreted in every theme of human emotion. But most of us will pity her because most of us know what it is too long for those very things—and do without! Most people are longing for something they can never have, perhaps not Mediterranean trips, but something equally beyond their reach.

ing things enough to work for them. If there is repeated failure, two things may be wrong. Either our minds are so focused on the things we are going to have as a result of work that we are incapacitated for that work, or we have ambitions out of all reason, considering our physical, mental and educational make-up.

One sees glittering, almost immoral luxury everywhere. Up springs his inferiority complex, sticks his tongue out at him, and calls him a failure.

One sees an entire section of the paper given to advertising trips to every conceivable corner of the globe. We think the whole world is traveling, but ourselves. But turn a page! Read the classified ads—not people wanting luxury, but work—old people, sick people, men with families, it tells another story. If our wasters have been working overtime—enough to sew us so we can't see a spring robin—shouldn't we give ourselves a good moral kick and blurt a little while we're doing it?

Quaker Oats has the flavor

THE difference in breakfast oats is in their flavor. The price is mostly the same. Millions demand the Quaker brand because of its toasty, wonderful flavor. For flavor is the important point in food.

Some 50 years were spent perfecting that famous Quaker flavor. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

"CAP" STAYE'S WITTICISMS MAKE BOWLING FEED SNAPPY

Over Forty Attend Celebration at Hotel Sheridan; Much Merriment; Prizes Presented.

Forty-three members of the Cheney Brothers' bowling leagues and invited guests gathered at the Hotel Sheridan last night to celebrate the successful season which has just been brought to a close with a pennant for the Old Mill. A roast chicken supper was served, after which Toastmaster Charley Staye, of the Old Mill, kept the gathering in an uproar with his witticisms. He was augmented by a able cast of speakers which included John Bissell, Andy Anderson, Earl Ballsleper, Jack Reggetts, Bill Dillon, Hammie Metcalf, Jack Jenney and others. Much merriment resulted as the "knocks" were freely distributed to the Old Mill and the Weaving. John Bissell was referred to as a "marble image" by "Cap" Staye during the course of his verbal assault on the ability of the Weaving Mill.

Prize Distribution

After Hammie Metcalf, president of the bowling league, had conducted the regular business session, and the usual wisecracks had been delivered, the prizes, team and individual, were awarded. The five highest bowlers in the senior league received orders for merchandise at the George H. Williams clothing store. They were Ernie Wilkie, Joe Canade, Alex Wilson, Frank Cervini and Benny Schubert in the order mentioned.

The members of the weaving mill received cravats for making the high team three string, while the Old Mill was similarly awarded for high team single honors. Joe Canade had the high three string record but owing to the fact that he had already won one prize, that prize went to Dick Shea, second highest. It was an order for merchandise. The high single case was similarly disposed of. Ernie Wilkie's prize going to Mike Suble.

The teams split the "kitty" in accordance with the order in which they finished the race. "Hammie" Metcalf was presented with a Milano pipe. Those present received cleaders and pencils from Robert J. Smith; shaving set samples from J. B. Williams Company in Glastonbury and autograph razors from The Manchester Evening Herald.

BASEBALL ANNUAL CROP OF HOLDOUTS AIRS GRIEVANCES

Eddie Roush and Oscar Siemer Only Two Who Walsh Says Have Not a Justifiable Kick.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—A few of the Spring holdouts have a justifiable grievance and, with two outstanding exceptions, this has been the case with the 1927 crop. The exceptions are Ed Roush, who says he won't accept a $10,000 contract, and Oscar Siemer, who told the Boston Braves that he must have more money for being a more or less indifferent warm up catcher.

The case of Urban Shocker with the Yankees, however, seemed to be one in which most of the equity rested on the player's side. He had come to the Yankees from St. Louis in 1925, accepted terms without damper and enjoyed what he considered a poor year. Actually, he won and lost thirteen games with a seventh place club, being the only pitcher in the outfit to turn in a 5.00 average.

However, he signed for the same salary in 1926, although he knew that several members of the staff had received increases. He had a real good year with a championship club behind him and figured he was about due for a reward. The Yanks offered him the same salary, he declared. Justice would seem to have been blind, indeed, in this case.

As for the plaint of Tommy Thevenow, everyone is agreed that he has been made the victim of skull-duggery at the cross roads. One of the best shortstops in baseball last year, he received $4,200 from the Cardinals on a trial contract. However, the champions sent him the same contract this year and later raised the bid to $5,000 but only with the proviso that he must sign for three years. Thevenow has been holding out for one year at $6,000. If he wanted $9,000, and was offered $6,000, the situation might be more understandable.

Herb Pennock's demand for $20,000 is less worthy, for instance, than Thevenow's—not to mention that of Flint Rhem, who won twenty games for the Cards last year and was offered the same contract for 1927.

As for Siemer, his effort went from the absurd to the semi-tragic. Noting that the Braves were contriving to bear up bravely without him, he accepted terms and started for the camp here. However, another young catcher had caught Dave Bancroft's eye and a message intercepted the repentant Siemer on his way to the camp. It informed him that he had been sold to a minor league club.

In effect, this young man was holding out for a higher bid with nary a bidder in sight.

RUBE MARQUARD

Rube Marquard, famous south-paw of National League fame, is to perform in the American League. At least, Rube has high hopes of doing so.

I bumped into Marquard at Tampa, Fla., recently. He had just finished pitching to the Washington batters for about 20 minutes. Some of the very good left-handed batters on the club were having trouble solving Rube's assortment.

The matter of fact, he looked so good to Clark Griffith and Manager Stanley Harris that it was definitely decided to add him to the staff of twirlers, provided he continued his fine showing over the training season.

The day I saw Marquard in action Walter Johnson suffered a broken bone in his left ankle. No doubt that helped win him extra consideration.

High-Priced Beauty

Marquard has been pitching big league baseball almost as long as Walter Johnson. He came to the National League about the same time Johnson made his debut in the American.

For a couple of years Marquard has been toiling in the minors. Last season he managed and pitched for Providence in the Eastern League. It will be recalled that he was one of the original high-priced minor league stars. The New York club paid something like $11,000 to the Indianapolis club for Marquard, tossing in a few extra players for good measure.

There was a lot of money in those days and "Rube" was much pressed. He made a bad start and some of the critics were inclined to refer to him as the $11,000 lemon instead of beauty.

In 1916 he was the big sensation of the National League, winning 19 straight games. Under McGraw he became one of the best southpaws in the game.

He Can Deliver

Marquard feels that he has enough stuff to win for the Washington club. Possibly he has. However, it is a habit of veteran pitchers to still believe in themselves, remembering only the days of their glory.

I umpired back of Marquard around Cleveland before he went to the minors and later to the majors. Naturally I was surprised when he dropped in at the Washington camp and saw "Rube" curving them over. "I've been around to several of the camps," explained Marquard, "and, after watching a number of the young southpaws in action, concluded I still have enough stuff to win."

"Why, I have as much speed left as some of these husky youngsters; a better curve ball right now and I always could get 'em over."

Marquard will come in mighty handy for the rather uncertain staff of the Nationals, if he is as good as he believes he is.

Baker Uses Strategy

Back in 1911 Christy Mathewson and Rube Marquard figured in an unusual episode that for a time nearly caused a ban on player-writing.

At that time the two were outstanding stars on the New York Giants' pitching staff. A big newspaper syndicate had signed them to write about the games.

In one game Marquard threw a fast one in Frank Baker's "groove," which he hit for a home run, deciding the ball game. The next day Mathewson, under his name, told why Marquard had pitched wrong to Baker.

That same day pitching against the Athletics, Mathewson, with two out, was leading, 1-0. Then he somehow got one in Baker's "groove." There was another home run and the game was tied up. Later New York was beaten in extra innings.

That incident caused much comment, nearly disrupted the morale of the Giants, and for a time almost caused a ban to be put on player-writing.

He Is Writing A Special Series For Our Readers

Grover Cleveland Alexander has been grinning for 40 years, and now he says the National League will know him for at least five years more. Baseball experts see another big season in store for the hero of the 1926 world series. Alex has written a series of 12 articles for The Herald fans. They will reveal the secrets of his success and tell of the interesting experiences in his long diamond career. The first installment appears tomorrow on the sports page.

BUSH IS SATISFIED WITH HIS PIRATES

New Pittsburgh Pilot Will Present Few New Faces When Season Starts.

By BILLY EVANS.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 29.—Pittsburgh hopes are high among the Pirates this spring.

With peace and harmony restored by Donie Bush, the lads from the smoky city hope to romp home with the bunting that might have been theirs last year had it not been for internal dissension.

In these spring days when every baseball writer turns prophet—most of them bad—the Pirates aren't talking for publication. But they display a local ball park. All workouts at the pitcher's box in the bunting that might have been theirs last year had it not been for internal dissension.

In these spring days when every baseball writer turns prophet—most of them bad—the Pirates aren't talking for publication. But they display a local ball park. All workouts at the pitcher's box in the bunting that might have been theirs last year had it not been for internal dissension.

Pittsburgh's success depends almost entirely upon the moundmen. The rest of the squad looks great. If the pitchers deliver, Donie Bush should make some big league owners wish they had hung on to him.

The infield will line up practically the same as in 1926 with George Grantham on first, Hal Rhyne on second, Glenn Wright at short and "Pie" Traynor holding down third.

Waner, Cuyler and Barnhart will start the season as the regular fly chasers. The first one to be replaced will be the one who shows any signs of slackening his pace will be Adam Comorosky, young Pole who was picked up around the Pennsylvania coal mines.

"Johnny Gooch and Smith are my backstops but I also have an ace up my sleeve," Bush said. "We have a young fellow, Clyde Linton, who is one of the heaviest sluggers of the squad. He isn't quite ready for big league catching yet but will be by the time the season is half over."

On paper, the Pirates' hurling staff looks as strong as any in the National League. Heading the list of mound workers is Ray Kreamer, ex-San Francisco boy, who is perhaps the best pitcher in the league. Then there are Meadows, Vic Aldridge, Mathison and Yde besides a host of youngsters, some of whom look mighty good.

Joe Conroy spent four years aboard a U. S. battleship but that didn't prevent him from developing a good pitching arm. He has been forced to take light workouts most of the time because of two injuries sustained in practice. Another hurler, who might almost be termed a regular, is Carmen Hill, 1926 pitching ace at Indianapolis. Hill joined the squad late last season.

Several familiar faces have vanished since the close of last season—and so has a lot of trouble. McKee, Clarke, Adams, Bigbee and Carey no longer have their names on the roster.

Nobody here seems the least bit disheartened because they finished down in third place a year ago. That has been forgotten and they are working like bears for the coming season.

Chapter One
Grover Alexander pitched to Babe Ruth nine times in the 1926 world series, and the home-run king did not drive a single ball out of the infield. Alexander explains Ruth's batting weakness.

Chapter Two
Grover Alexander is 40 years old and the oldest player in point of service in the National League. This year he starts his seventeenth consecutive season as a major league pitcher. This article gives his training secrets and his advice to the young player.

Chapter Three
With sixteen full seasons in the National League, Grover Alexander has been in the pitcher's box in nearly 600 games. He describes the most brilliant game he ever pitched, and other interesting ones.

Chapter Four
Grover Alexander is one of the most successful pitchers the game ever has produced, but without the assistance of other players, Alex says, a pitcher would be lost. He tells how infielders and outfielders assist a moundman.

Chapter Five
In all his long career as a National League pitcher Grover Alexander has faced a lot of clever batters. There are others who worry pitchers just as pitchers worry batters. He tells about the most clever sluggers he has met.

Chapter Six
Alexander furnished one of the most thrilling scenes ever enacted on a baseball field in the final game of the 1926 world series when he fanned Tony Lazzeri, fence buster of the Yankees. He describes each ball he sent to the plate.

Chapter Seven
Some pitchers say they have to ease up to have some reserve power left. Grover Alexander doesn't pitch that way. He says the pitcher who loaf is the pitcher who loses.

Chapter Eight
The pitcher and catcher must work together in trying to break up the hit-and-run and prevent a runner from gaining a big lead and Alexander tells how he keeps runners on their bases.

Chapter Nine
Alexander has a big assortment of pitching stuff. He throws a fast ball, slow one, curve, screw ball and knuckle ball. But the vitally important thing for a major league pitcher is control, he says.

Chapter Ten
Starting his seventeenth season as a pitcher, Alexander is called "the iron man of the hill." How much longer does he expect to last? At least five years, he says in Chapter Ten.

Chapter Eleven
The best ball players come from the small towns, Alexander says. He points out that they have to work hard when they are young and appreciate the chance to be a big league star more than does the city boy.

Chapter Twelve
In all his sixteen years of pitching Grover Alexander played with and against scores of major league stars. In this chapter he selects and explains his choice of an all-star National League team.

McGraw NEEDS EDDIE ROUSH; GOES TO NEW YORK TO SEE HIM

No Secret That Giants Need Star Outfielder—Eddie Is Not Very Much Worried But McGraw Is.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, March 29.—John J. McGraw has turned up in New York after making a noise like a rubber heel and disappearing from the Giants' training camp in Florida. He is here to confer with Charles A. Stoneham, the club's president, concerning Eddie Roush who is alleged to have told intimates that he wouldn't play under McGraw for less than $30,000 a season.

McGraw's Offer
McGraw has offered the former Red outfielder a three-year contract at $20,000 a season, which was more than he demanded in Cincinnati. With a great plenty of real good minor league outfielders on the outfit, it is no star chamber secret that McGraw must have Roush. With the peerless Eddie absent, McGraw's proposed reversible outfield has turned into a collapsible one.

Must Play
Stoneham insisted today that Roush would have to play at the club's price this season or not at all. He intimated that if $20,000 per annum does not satisfy Eddie, he is perfectly at liberty to remain on his farm and fish and fowl.

What effect, if any, this ultimatum will have on Roush remains to be seen. The chances are that it will have none at all. McGraw's action in leaving his ball club to its own devices at this stage of the year would seem to indicate that he did not come to New York to dispatch an idle ultimatum and let it go at that. In fact, it looks as if the mountain is actually coming to Mahomet and that McGraw will invade Roush's rural stronghold for a heart-to-heart talk with the world's greatest holdout.

Shreveport, La., March 29.—The presence of Johnny Mostil on the players' bench was an inspiration to the White Sox today. Johnny is convalescing from his attempt at suicide. His physician says he may be back in the game by May or June. Johnny cheered the boys yesterday as they beat Shreveport, two to one, in thirteen innings.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Before you tell anyone that the radio has come to stay, be sure and have all the payments made on it.

Gracia Sake has gave out that she's a-going to marry Izzy Close an' of course everybody were a-talking about it down at the Ladies' Aid a-Thursday afternoon an' some thought Gracia were very foolish to have took up with Izzy. Finely Mis. Coty spoke up an' says, "Well," says she, "I wouldn't wonder but what they'll get along all right together," she says. "Gracia has a saving sense o' humor," she says, "an' Izzy has a humorous sense o' saving," she says.

Street-car Passenger: "Do you charge for children?"
Conductor: "Under six, we do not."
"Well, I have only five."

Now that Peggy Joyce is going to promise to love, honor and obey for the fifth time, she ought to know whether four out of every five have it.

High and Low Tarriff up, up, up,
Its tendency is 'Tis plain as A B C;
And that's the reason, doncher know,
It won't go down with me.

We used to say we won the war For Europe—that now seems to be exactly the case but we no longer brag about it.

Doctoring has advanced to where you can now pick up your daily paper and read what to do for what ails you.

"Mother, may I go in swimmin'?"
"Yes, but return at tea;
Be sure to hang around the women,
And never hang around the men."

Wringing your hands on the Sahara Desert won't get you any water.

The height of blissing is the individual who refused to wear a stiff collar because it had too much starch in it.

"It's no good minding matters," said the doctor. "You are very bad. Is there anybody you would like to see?"
"Yes," replied the patient, faintly.
"Who is it?"
"Another doctor."

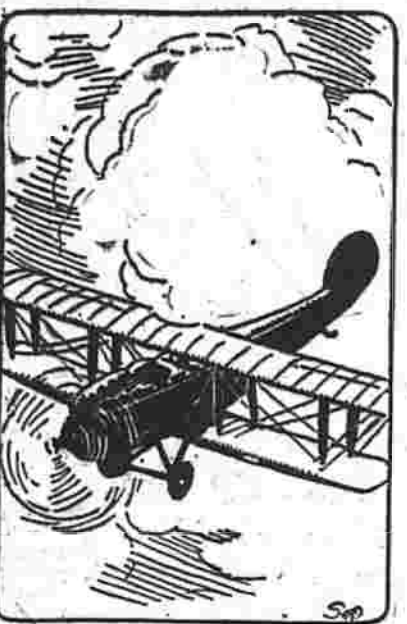

With mounding food costs the way to a man's heart has become a high way.

Bobbed hair is one of those things that grow on you.

A Bad Defect
"Revolving doors I hate,"
Said Ladd;
"You cannot slam 'em
When you're mad."

We believe we'd rather have a person raise hell with us than be coldly polite to us.

NOW YOU Ask One FOR THE YOUNGESTER

Just because today's "Now You Ask One" was designed primarily for children, you needn't think that there may not be a question or two that will puzzle the grown ups. You'll find the answers on another page:

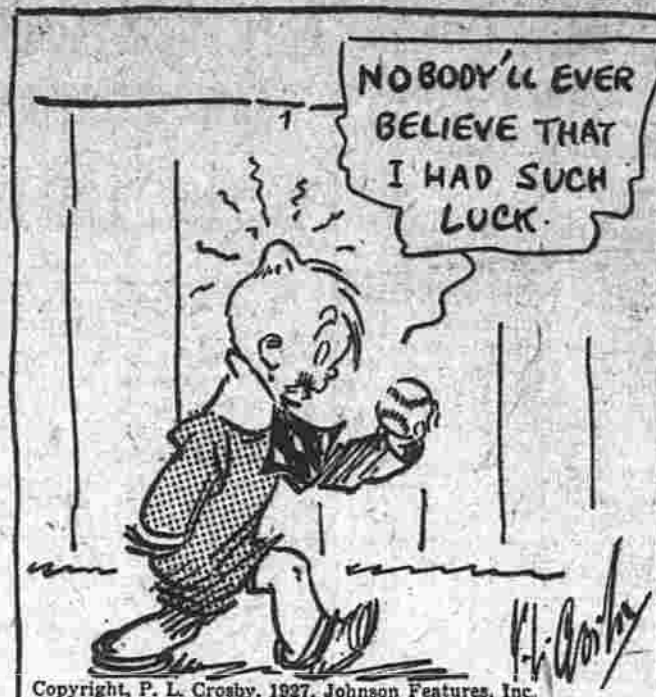

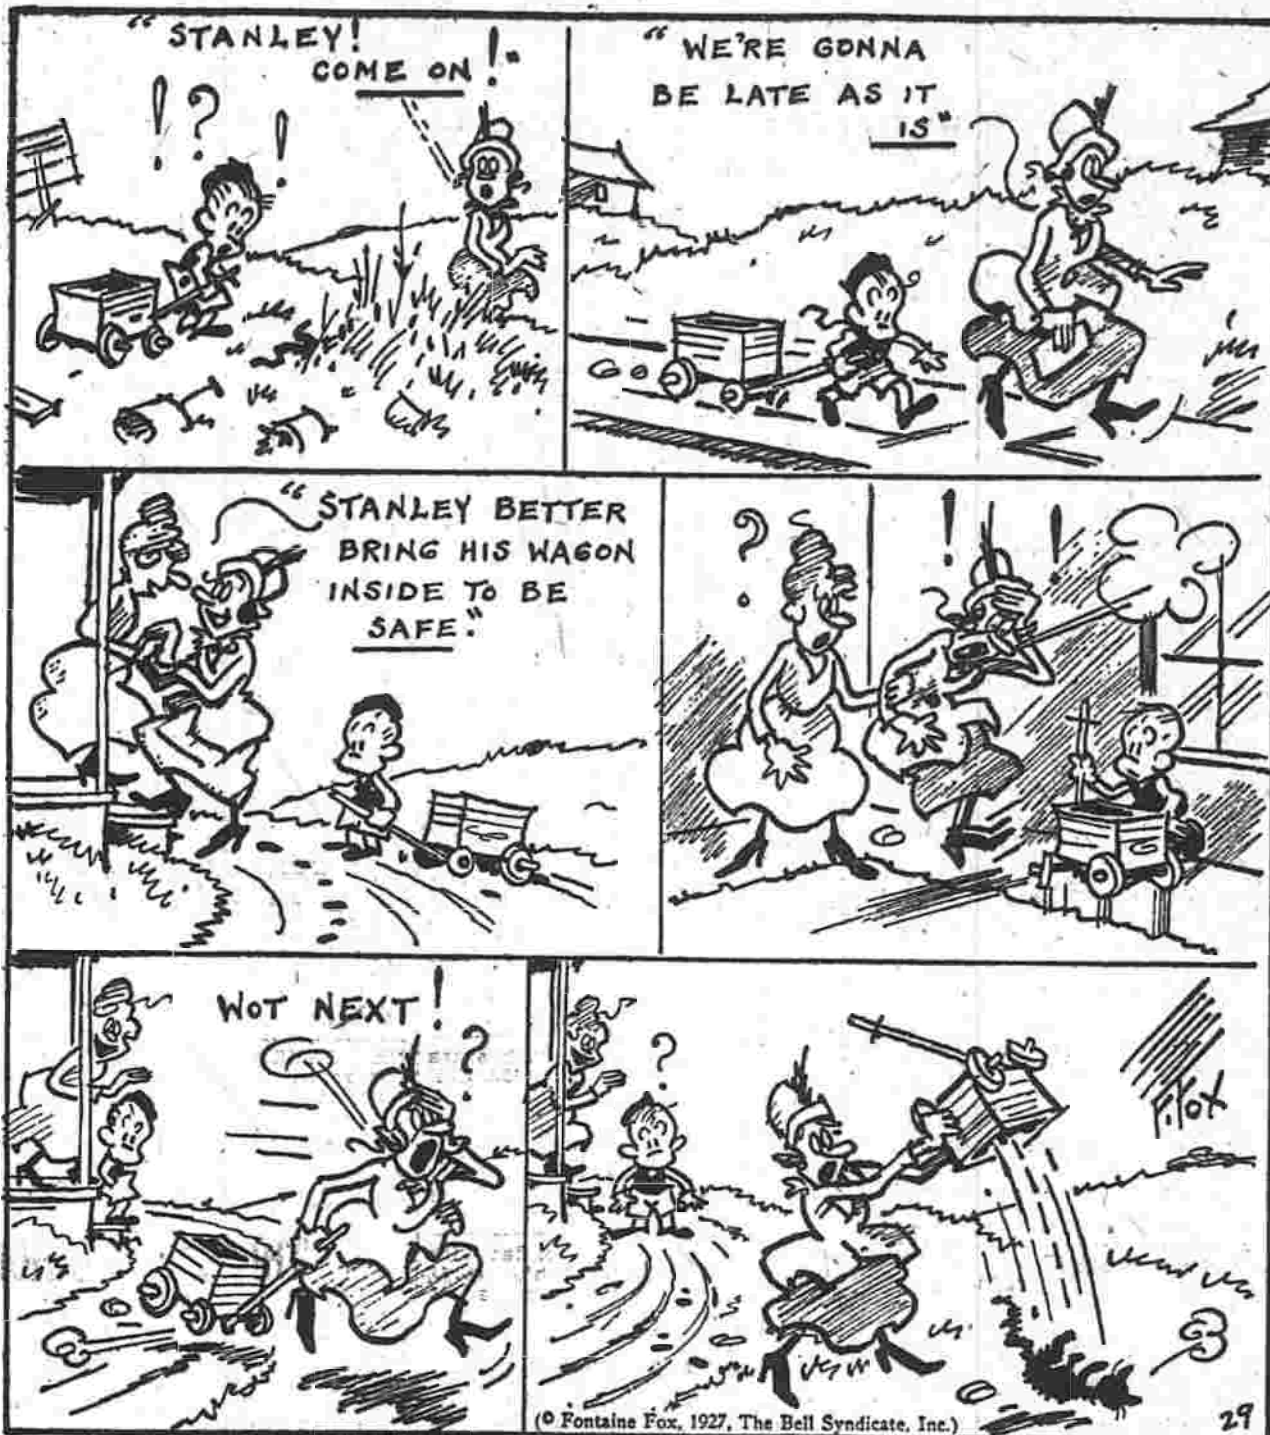

- 1—What is wrong with the airplane shown in this picture?
- 2—What two brothers, who lived in Dayton, O., were prominent in the early development of the airplane?
- 3—What is Ty Cobb's full name?
- 4—From what country did the United States get the Virgin Islands?
- 5—In what state is the source of the Mississippi river?
- 6—Who wrote "The Yellow Wallpaper"?
- 7—In what state is Lake Ponchartraine?
- 8—What Biblical character is famous because of his friendship for David?
- 9—Who assassinated President Lincoln?
- 10—Where did the assassination take place?

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture)

Poor mother Hubbard's hungry hound was shortly looking all around. He hadn't had a single bite since very early morn. The cupboard, 'course, was very bare, because there was no food in there. The Tinies didn't blame the dog for looking quite forlorn.
Old Mother said, "I can't arrange to buy him bones, I have no change. I wonder if you Tinies know the best thing to be done." The Tinies thought, and thought, and thought. Said Scouty, "Well, we can't be caught by such a simple question." Then he soon was on the run.
"Where are you going?" Copy cried. "I'll be right back when I have tried a dandy plan," yelled Scouty, as he disappeared from sight. The others wondered where he went, and when an hour of time was spent, he came a-rushing in the house. He'd met success all right. Said he, "I've brought meat for the pup." The dog, right quickly ate it up. Then Mother Hubbard smiled and asked, "Where did you get the meat?" "Oh, that was easy," Scouty said. "I knew the poor dog must be fed, and so I bought it at a store, a short ways down the street."

Then Mother Hubbard told them all to run out in her long front hall. "You'll see a sign to make you laugh. Go right ahead," said she. The Tinies did as they were told. They knew that no one there would scold. And, in the hall they found a clock as big as it could be.
Just as they reached the queer old clock, they heard it going ticky tock. Then, as it struck the hour of one, a mouse ran down its side. Old Mother Hubbard laughed aloud to watch the frightened little crowd. The mouse had scared the 'nymites. "Oh, save us," Cloway cried.
(The Tinymites find Ba, Ba, Black Sheep in the next story.)

Manchester Woman Expects to Statement About Evangelist Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bell of Russell street have returned from St. Petersburg, Fla., where they have spent three months.

Mrs. Bell, who has been reading The Herald while in Florida, takes exception to a statement made in an open forum letter by Mrs. Minnie Hutton of Edgerton street which was to the effect that Billy Sunday, evangelist, had retired on his money and was now doing nothing.

Billy Sunday, she says, is conducting services to thousands of people weekly in a Tampa tabernacle, and she describes one service she attended where thousands were turned away from the doors.

Living conditions in Florida, she says, are fair but there is little employment.

MISS ESTHER THURSTON IS GIVEN A RECEPTION

Is to Leave Soon For London, England, Where She Will Marry Rev. G. J. Slosser.

Miss Esther V. Thurston, who is spending a brief time with friends in Manchester was given a reception last evening by the Epworth League and friends at the South Methodist Church.

Miss Thurston will leave town Wednesday morning for her home in Brockton and will sail Saturday, April 2, for London, England, where on Thursday, April 14, she will be married to the Rev. G. J. Slosser.

Miss Thurston will be remembered as niece of the late Rev. Sherman E. Ellis, former pastor of the S. M. E. Church, with whom she made her home, attending and graduating from the South Manchester High School in the class of 1913.

From Sept. 1920 until August 1925, Miss Thurston was in Japan as a missionary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Mr. Slosser is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, and also of the School of Theology, Boston University from which he received the degrees of S. T. B. and S. T. M.

After a world tour extending from Dec. 1, 1926 to June 1926, Mr. Slosser again went to England where he matriculated for his Ph. D. degree at Kings College, London University.
