Move Circle Strong Box Into Auditorium, Open One In Rialto, But Find No Money In Either.

Burglars who entered two theaters here Saturday night got nothing but hard work for their pains. The safe at the Circle theater which they moved 100 feet from the office to the orchestra pit, contained nothing of value and it was reported at the Rialto that no valuables were taken by the cracksmen.

Entrance to the Circle theater was gained through a skylight which gives on the gridwork backstage. It is thought no windows or doors in the Rialto were opened and it is believed that the burglars in the latter theater hid in the building until the show was over and then started to work.

The safe at the Circle theater was moved from the office to the orchestra pit and was broken open. The combination was smashed apparently with a sledge. The safe contained nothing but some theater statements.

Sawed Cash Box

At the Rialto the cashbox was opened by means of a saw. The burglars evidently tried to break the lock and, failing to do this, sawed the wood around it and opened the box. Some tickets were all the box contained and the burglars left these. The motion picture booth was broken into but nothing in the room was disturbed.

When the theaters were opened yesterday morning their managers found the evidences of the burglars. The Circle safe was standing near the orchestra pit, its door open and the contents scattered about. All doors and windows in the theater were locked with the exception of the gridwork from which the burglars made their way.

Manager Jack Sanson of the State and Circle believes that the burglars knew the gridwork well. The gridwork at the theater is at least 30 feet from the level of the stage and is reached from the stage by an iron ladder.

Police notified of the breaks as soon as the theaters had been opened. Chief Gordon started an investigation of the Circle robbery and detailed sergeant William Barron and Patron John McGinn to the Rialto.

FERDINAND WORSE BUCHAREST SAYS But Prince Carol, in Paris, Says Father Is Greatly Improved.

Vienna, April 4.—King Ferdinand's condition has taken a turn for the worse, according to Bucharest dispatches received this afternoon. These reports state that the king's fever has risen, that his heart is showing signs of overstrain and that his intestinal trouble is becoming acute, making it difficult for him to take nourishment.

Fears of trouble if the king should die are increased by resentment to Premier Averescu's alleged statement that he would establish a dictatorship, it is reported.

PRINCE IN PARIS
Paris, April 4.—Prince Carol has not fled Paris in an aeroplane as reported in the United States.

"I almost regret that I don't equal the heroic and spectacular personality given me by those who say I am flying to Rumania," Prince Carol said today, when he received the International News Service correspondent at his Neuilly residence.

"If I didn't put so much faith and reliance in advice I receive directly from Rumania, I would seem an utterly heartless and indifferent son," said the prince.

"However, I have had direct word that my father is greatly improved and out of danger. Stories published the last few days, as to my father's health have been greatly exaggerated as I told you on Saturday. I am in close touch with Bucharest."

Papers Preparing For Snyder Trial

New York, April 4.—Another murder trial—the Snyder case is about to make its bid for front page space in the newspapers of the nation.

It opens next Monday in Long Island City and is replete with the elements that make a great news story—the bored young wife, the prosaic middle aged husband, suburban town cocktail parties, the "man in the case," illicit love, deception, plotting, murder and now the impending threat of the electric chair for the defendants. They are Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, accused of beating the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, an art editor, to death with an iron window weight in the dead of the night.

Steps were being taken today by the authorities to draw a blue ribbon panel from which might be selected "a burning jury"—a jury of high intelligence free from sentimentality and with no scruples against capital punishment and the electric chair for the woman as well as the man.

The trial promises to be one of the most sensational in recent years.

2,000 INSPECT NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDING

Nearly two thousand local people visited Manchester's new Municipal building Saturday and Sunday afternoon when the town officials held "open house."

The largest crowd was in attendance yesterday afternoon when it is estimated that 1,500 people passed through the building.

Practically all the local officials were at their desks to welcome the townspeople. Beautiful baskets and vases of flowers were sent to the building by prominent local citizens and the building, brightly cleaned and polished, made an unusually attractive scene.

Music was furnished during the reception by an automatic orthophonic Victrola furnished by Watkins Brothers. This machine played a long concert program without being touched by the attendants. The records were placed and removed automatically.

Mayor Robert V. Treat headed the reception committee at the Municipal building and Chairman of Police Commissioners Albert T. Dewey welcomed the visitors to the new police headquarters, formerly the Hall of Records. A box of floral pieces was sent to Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington by former Town Clerk Sanford M. Benton.

Mr. Benton's portrait hangs in the town clerk's office beside that of his predecessor, Daniel M. Wadsworth. Mr. Wadsworth's daughter sent a basket of flowers to be placed near her father's picture.

Flowers
Other floral pieces were contributed by Holloran Brothers, J. W. Hale company, W. R. Palmer, Samuel Moore, plumbing contractor; South Manchester Water company, Manchester Electric company, R. P. Taber company, Hartford, F. T. Bilsh Hardware company, Art Metal Construction Co., Hartford; John I. Olson, painter and decorator; Manchester Evening Herald, Ginney's Club, Park Hill Flower Shop, Manchester Plumbing and Supply company, Archie Hayes, Manchester Gas company, Elman & Rolston, Little & McKinney, Smith Brothers Grain company, Robert J. Smith, Watkins Brothers, Miner's Pharmacy, W. S.

SEC. KELLOGG DENIES MEX. DEBT REPUDIATION

Report Says Southern Republic Has Quit Paying Interest to Bankers.

Washington, April 4.—Denial was made by the State Department today that it had any knowledge of a move on the part of the Mexican government to repudiate the Lagmont-Paul agreement, under which the Calles government has been paying interest to a group of New York banks on Mexico's bonded indebtedness.

A story was published to the effect that the agreement was to be abrogated and that Dwight Morrow, partner of J. P. Morgan, had protested to the State Department. Secretary Kellogg said today, however, Morrow had made no protest and he knew nothing about it.

JUDGE BOWERS'S CONDITION
Judge H. O. Bowers's condition was unchanged it was announced at the Memorial hospital at three o'clock this afternoon. If anything he was slightly improved. Mr. Bowers was not as restless this afternoon as he was yesterday. He is still conscious and his temperature is normal.

Devil Dogs Ashore, March Through Shanghai

ONLY "EXERCISE"—That was the government's explanation when our Devil Dogs came ashore from the watchful American warships and transports, and marched through the streets of the international concession to the race course. Here they are tramping along a Shanghai street.

WARE THE BATHTUB IS VERY DANGEROUS

Hartford, Conn., April 4.—Beware the bathtub as the most hazardous article of furniture.

Of the accident claims paid during the year, 98 went to persons injured in bathtubs, according to the annual analysis of accidents for 1926 revealed today by the Travelers Insurance Company.

There was a sharp and abnormal increase in the number of accidents in 1926, according to the analysis. The automobile death rate increased 18.3 per cent over 1925 against an increase of 12.7 per cent in 1925 over 1924.

AMERICANS PROTEST TO RUMANIAN QUEEN

Washington, April 4.—A petition signed by 30,000 persons in all parts of the United States, asking Queen Marie's influence to act in behalf of the religious minorities in Rumania who are suffering from alleged brutal treatment, was presented to M. George Cretziano, the Rumanian minister today.

The petition protested specifically against the Rumanian government's treatment of Hungarians, Saxons and Jews living in territory which became a part of Rumania after the World War. Individuals belonging to the Baptist, Jewish, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic and Unitarian churches are particularly affected, it is alleged.

FORD, IN BANDAGES, KEEPS ON WORKING

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—Although tightly bound in a lacework of surgical bandages, Henry Ford went to work today in the bedroom of his million dollar home at Dearborn. The motor genius called for a bundle of blue-prints, a half dozen pencils and whittled away the hours of his temporary imprisonment working upon designs of the new Ford car which will go upon the market soon.

The auto king told his physicians that he would not accept the invalid's role which they sought to impose upon him for the next two weeks while he convalesces from injuries sustained a week ago last night when his car was knocked off the boulevard near his estate by a careless and plotting motorist. The billionaire told his medical advisers he intended being back at his factory within a week.

CHARGE RICH COUPLE WITH TORTURING GIRL

New York, April 4.—An indictment charging the wealthy and socially prominent Mr. and Mrs. Everett S. Pratt of Des Moines, with cruelty to their adopted six-year-old daughter Roberta Jane Pratt, will be sought immediately, Ernest K. Coulter, general manager of the Children's Society, announced in Children's court today.

Later the little girl was to tell District Attorney Banton in her own words of how her foster mother is alleged to have burned her with a curling iron and otherwise tortured her.

Upon this development, Justice Young of the Children's court adjourned the scheduled hearing on the child's case until April 12.

Neither of the Pratts were in court.

WILD CHICAGO TO BE WILDER AT ELECTIONS

Chicago, April 4.—The last minute scramble for votes in Chicago's "powder-barrel" majority campaign is expected to determine today whether or not the city will be controlled by National Guardsmen tomorrow morning when upwards of one million citizens begin to break to the polls.

The closing day of the campaign the bitterest in the history of Chicago, finds the city divided against itself on a hair-trigger edge.

Officials, cognizant of the dangerous situation, have ordered the troops held ready. The temper of the crowds, as gauged by today's smashing windup, will decide whether the election will be held under a specially revised police patrol or under the menacing rifles of the militia.

Adjutant General Carlos Black and Major General Roy D. Keehn, commander of the Thirty-third Division, are in the city ready to assume command. They held long conferences with Sheriff C. E. Graydon, who requested General Graydon to have the troops available if needed.

A race riot of the greatest fear. The "Black Belt" with a population estimated at 150,000, is lined up solidly behind William Hale Thompson, Republican, who is opposed by Mayor William E. Dever, Democrat. The police are loyal to Mayor Dever. The National Guard is controlled by officers said to favor the Republican cause.

Possibility of a clash between police and guardsmen is not being overlooked, it was said.

Small's Stand
Governor Small, a Republican, but at loggerheads with the Thompson faction of the party, came out in a last minute statement for the former mayor.

More than a hundred negroes, arrested in the "Black Belt" and held incommunicado by the police, were ordered booked or "released" immediately by Judge Oscar Heibel. Harry A. Boisast, who filed a writ of release for the negroes, said they had been arrested "without cause," and charged police, under control of the Democrats with instigating a "campaign of terrorism."

Chief of Police Morgan Collins said 105 squads of five men each, will cruise about the danger zones in automobiles, with machine guns, rifles and tear gas bombs. His machine gunners, many of them army veterans, drilled for several hours yesterday on the lake front, firing their volleys at targets in the water.

BLOOD STAINED AUTO DESERTED IN ORANGE

Police Trace Movements of Occupants and Expect to Make Arrest Today.

Orange, Conn., April 4.—A car wrecked and abandoned on the Turnpike here early today, blood-stained and its markers gone, furnished a period of mystery for officials but was traced to a Devon ownership. An arrest is expected to follow. A man driving the car had with him two women residents of Ansonia according to the officers, who investigated and sent the car to a Westville garage for storage.

The machine left the highway and knocked down some small trees before stopping. The occupants, badly cut, stanchioned their own wounds and disappeared.

HOLMES HEARING BEGINS IN "HUB"

Boston, Mass., April 4.—Guy Willis Holmes, former Methodist pastor of New Bedford who was unfrocked by the Southern New England Methodist Episcopal conference last year at South Manchester, Conn., appeared for trial in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today on indictments based on charges preferred by Miss Annetta Fortin, former New Bedford tearoom waitress.

Another case was on the list and the ex-pastor was forced to wait for his trial to begin.

Miss Fortin, a pretty girl of nineteen, was expected to be the star witness against the former preacher.

Was Indicted.
Holmes was indicted for a serious offense and violation of the "true name" law. In connection with the latter charge he was accused of having registered under a false name with Miss Fortin in a South End hotel.

The former pastor has defended himself with statements that he was "framed" because of his activities for the Ku Klux Klan in the pulpit.

Wife Backs Him.
His wife, mother of four children, has consistently stood by him and was with him today.

Holmes has applied for reinstatement in the Methodist ministry and his case will be reviewed by the presiding bishop of his district.

Assistant District Attorney William A. McDonald appeared as prosecutor and Attorney Henry E. Woodward, of New Bedford, for the defendant.

JUST LIVE SIMPLY TO REACH THE 100

That Is the Advice of Hartford Woman Who Reached That Age Today.

Hartford, Conn., April 4.—"Just live simply and keep busy." Such is the rule for longevity laid down by Mrs. Sylvania Thayer Davidson, of 59 Forest street, who today celebrated her one hundredth birthday.

Mrs. Davidson does not give full approval to the modern woman. She dislikes to see them smoke cigarettes. She has never voted.

U. S. BLUEJACKETS REPELLING ATTACK FIRE ON CHINAMEN

Day's Developments In China's Situation

AMERICAN SAILORS are reported to have fired on Chinese mobs at Chunksing and reports received in Shanghai state that the Japanese have been forced to drop shells upon Hankow after serious disorders there, during which there was open fighting between the Japanese and the Chinese. The latest unofficial dispatches to Shanghai state that the Hankow disorders were renewed, necessitating shelling, which there were reported to have clashed with British forces at Shaoh.

UNITED STATES CONSUL LOCKHART at Hankow has reported to the legation at Peking that all Americans at Hankow have sought safety aboard American warships there following the clash between the Japanese and the Chinese. Peking reports state that ten Japanese were killed. THE NATIONALIST ARMIES are now reported to be moving northward making steady advances. Three columns are advancing with Peking as their eventual goal.

MARSHAL CHANG TSO LIN in Peking is reported to have received advice that his troops have administered a defeat to the Nationalists and have captured Yen Cheng.

SHANGHAI DISPATCHES state that the dismissal of Chiang Kai Shek is again reported from Hankow, but there are no indications of a strong military leader ready to accept his dismissal and there is every indication of a split within the Nationalist party.

Miss Fortin, a pretty girl of nineteen, was expected to be the star witness against the former preacher.

U. S. WILL PROTEST NANKING OUTRAGE

Attitude Toward China Changed After Davis Report Was Received.

Washington, April 4.—Negotiations between the powers over the critical state of affairs in China were reached a point where it is likely a strong and concerted protest will be made to the Chinese government this week over the Nanking outrage and other anti-foreign outbreaks.

The action of the powers probably will embrace a demand for reparations, and a sharp warning against further outrages upon foreign lives and property, but according to all indications here, will fall short of the ultimatum which the British government has been insisting be served upon the Nationalists. An ultimatum carries with it inherently the threat of sanctions and reprisals and on that point the British and American viewpoints diverged.

Davis Report
The attitude of the Washington government has been stiffened considerably since Friday by the Davis report. This document, only part of which has been made public, contains the conclusions of the American consul at Nanking for the loss of seven foreign lives and the looting of foreign property upon the Nationalist commanders, and is so bitterly anti Chinese that the State Department cannot fail to take cognizance of it.

SAY AGGIE STUDENTS SPOILED GRAVE STONE

Threw Rocks at It as They Waited For an Auto Ride to Hartford.

Willimantic, Conn., April 4.—Two strange young men used a headstone in Windham cemetery as a target for stones, and spoiled the stone utterly. As a result, Ernest W. Chesbro, First Selectman of the town, today consulted Charles L. Beach, president of the State Agricultural College at Storrs, for the selectman believes the vandals were Storrs students.

Largely because of the stoning affair, officials are taking steps to end the practice of outsiders begging auto rides. The two believed to have done the stoning were waiting for a passing auto to carry them toward Hartford last Saturday afternoon, according to witnesses who saw the stone throwing but did not identify the throwers.

Three Wounded, One Fatal—Reds Lead Attackers; Sailors Use Riot Guns; Several More British Gunboats Arrive on Scene; Japanese Soldiers Fight Chinese Mob.

Washington, April 4.—American bluejackets clashed with Chinese attackers at Chunksing, opening fire with riot guns, which resulted in the wounding of three Chinese. Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding the Asiatic fleet, advised the Navy Department today.

The Americans were part of an armed force from the U. S. gunboat Monocacy, which had been placed aboard the American steamer Chinan to protect it. The vessel was attacked by Chinese Sampans, loaded with local agitators.

The Report.
Admiral Williams report stated: "At Chunksing, on April 2, it became necessary for an armed guard from the American river gunboat Monocacy, which was on board the American steamer Chinan, to use riot guns to keep off Chinese Sampans who were determined upon revenge because of unauthorized cargo being removed, due to the fact that it was endangering the ship. Three Chinese were wounded, one probably fatally. A demonstration has been planned for today by agitators in protest against the force used by authorities on March 31. The American consul is on board the Monocacy and is still awaiting a reply from missionaries in the interior."

Gunboats Arrive.
"British gunboats Mananias, Widgeon, and Teal arrived at Ichang on April 1 from Chunksing. Communistic posters have been placed upon a residence and business places of wealthy Chinese at Ichang. After the arrival of the Monocacy the El Cano, which has been stationed at Ichang during the winter, will withdraw with the Monocacy to Hankow."

"All British, including the consul, the mother superior, and a gunboat have left Chang-Sha. Labor unions have threatened the American consul. About fifteen American Catholic missionaries who will not evacuate through Chang-Sha remain in western Honan. The American consul contemplates closing the consulate on April 17."

JAPS FLEEING
Shanghai, April 4.—Japanese residents of Hankow have fled from the city, following mob attacks upon Japanese concession, according to information received here today.

Evacuation was virtually completed at 8 o'clock Sunday night when the steamers left for Shanghai carrying 1,500 refugees.

The flight was the result of attacks against Japanese bluejackets and civilians in the Japanese concession and an assault by Nationalist soldiers with rifles against Japanese troops from the Eighth Army who had been sent to protect the concession borders.

10 Missing
The fate of five Japanese bluejackets and five civilians who were carried off when a landing party from a Japanese warship drove out menacing mobs from the Japanese concession at Hankow is not yet known.

One bluejacket is reported to have been drowned following his capture.

How Trouble Began
The trouble arose from an attack against a Japanese bluejacket when the sailor demonstrated with a Chinese boy who had been induced by bystanders to play a prank upon him; a crowd assaulted the sailor, later attacking all the bluejackets in sight.

Thereupon Japanese Consul General Takai ordered the cruiser Ataka to land 200 bluejackets who drove off the mob and aided the Japanese outside the concession to return to it. Then the sailors escorted Japanese residents to ships anchored off the city.

Several Japanese citizens at Hankow were severely beaten and houses owned by Japanese were destroyed, according to news from official sources.

"Most Critical"
The Hankow situation was described in late advices as "most critical," and Japanese warships have been ordered to proceed from Shanghai to evacuate the Japanese residing in the Chinese area of the Hankow district.

PROTEST PARLEY
London, April 4.—Negotiations with regard to the powers protest to the Chinese Nationalists regarding the Nanking incident are proceeding.

BOSTON SYMPHONY'S ENSEMBLE PROGRAM

Famous Group to Play at Next Men's Choral Club Concert April 21.

The Boston Symphony Ensemble which will assist at the next concert of the Manchester Men's Choral Club, April 21, consists of twelve artists picked from the Boston Symphony orchestra under the leadership of Julius Theodorowicz, assistant concertmaster of the orchestra. This group of soloists has been together through several seasons under the direction of such a man as Theodorowicz, has become one of the most famous of the small orchestras in America, and the club is to be congratulated on the engagement.

The personnel of the ensemble is as follows: Julius Theodorowicz, 1st violin and leader, Vincent Marliotti, 2nd violin; Clarence Knudsen, 2nd violin; Harry Grover; Hazel Theodorowicz, cello; Henri Girard, double bass; Gaston Bladet, flute; Louis Speyer, oboe; Emilio Arleri, clarinet; William Valkenier, French horn; Simeon Sternberg, timpani, and Leon Vartanian, piano.

As solo numbers they will play the Peer Gynt Suite of Grieg, consisting of four movements—"Morning Mood," "Anitra's Dance," "The Death of Asa," and "In the Hall of the Mountain Kings"; Barcarolle, Godard; Invitation to the Dance, Weber-Berlioz; and "The Wheel of Omphale" by Saint-Saens. In addition they will accompany the club in "Dante a Cachuca" from Sullivan's "Gondoliers," and in the men's chorus from Verdi's "Aida."

How She Hints on Car Care

By ISRAEL KLEIN, Science Editor, NEA Service.

One of the most elusive and costly knocks in the engine is that caused by loose pistons. It is what is called a piston slap, but is hard almost as a knock, especially while the engine is still cold. As the engine warms up, the knock disappears.

However, even after its disappearance, its effects are felt in lower power and less mileage from the fuel.

What happens is this: A loose piston generally means too much clearance between cylinder wall and piston. The result is that part of the fuel that should burn up completely in the chamber above the piston head, seeps down through the space and into the cylinder walls. There it dilutes the oil, diminishing its lubricating efficiency, and playing havoc with the cylinder walls and bearings.

At the same time, the oil from the crankcase is pumped up through the space between piston and cylinder wall and into the combustion chamber. There the heat of combustion burns it enough to cause a heavy layer of carbon to result.

The diluted oil scores the cylinders. And the widening space offers room for the flames of combustion to get in and further injure the cylinder walls.

The walls get out of round, under this scoring and burning process, and compression is greatly diminished.

You may become suspicious of piston slap when the engine knocks only when cold, when it loses compression, and fuel is being wasted in less mileage.

While the engine is hot, however, you feel less compression and your fuel consumption is almost complete.

Put the two and two together, then make certain by the following test: Remove the spark plug from the first cylinder, pour in about an eighth of a pint of heavy oil, then crank the engine by hand slowly until the oil works in.

Replace the spark plug and start the engine. If the same knock occurs, it isn't a piston knock, at least in that cylinder. If it doesn't occur for a short while and then begins after a few revolutions of the engine, you may be sure the trouble is in that cylinder, and the piston is the cause.

This may be repeated with the other cylinders.

The remedy for this trouble is re-boring of the cylinder, if it happens to be over-bored or out of round, and fitting of oversize pistons and rings.

If the piston slap is caught at its first stage, the same piston may be used, except that it be "lapped in" or "port in," so to polish down the cylinder wall to smoothness, and new piston rings be applied.

At times, the connecting rods may be out of alignment, causing the pistons to strike the cylinder walls unevenly.

If clearance is correct, and the cylinder walls look smooth, the connecting rods should be checked up for alignment. That requires operation by a high grade mechanic.

COUNTRESS EXAMINED TO SERVE ROAST BEEF

Paris, April 4.—The Countess De Janso, formerly Alice Silverthorn of Chicago, was today formally charged with "attempted voluntary homicide," by Examining Magistrate Raquet.

The magistrate visited the countess at La Riboussiere hospital and questioned her briefly.

The countess is alleged to have shot Raymond De Trafford, son of an English baronet a week ago and to have then attempted suicide, after her romance with De Trafford appeared to have been broken.

EXTENT OF STRIKE TO BE SHOWN TODAY

Chicago, April 4.—The full extent of the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field was expected to be revealed today.

Since midnight, March 31 a succession of holidays and half holidays has prevented both United Mine Workers officials and the operators from determining the scope of the tie-up.

Miners were counting heavily upon the offer of John N. Lewis, their president, to permit the operation of all mines which would pay the Jacksonville wage scale pending the drafting of a new contract, to drive a wedge between operators organizations in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The operators claim acceptance of Lewis' offer have been few and far between. They say that today will reveal only a scattering of the smaller mines in operation under the Jacksonville scale.

Approximately 150,000 union miners were affected by the suspension in the central field and an estimated 50,000 in adjacent states were said to have also walked out.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN IN MEETING TONIGHT

GLOBE MILL REOPENS AFTER MONTH'S STRIKE

Woonsocket, R. I., April 4.—The doors of the Globe Mill of the Manville-Jencks Company opened today for the first time in a month.

It is nearly all of the 450 employees were back at their duties. The employees have been out on strike in sympathy with the workers of the Social mill, who struck because of differences with the company over production methods.

Several hundred pickets from the Social mill went to the Globe mill when the exception of that department was made. They would return to work. Police prevented any interference or demonstration.

All departments of the Globe mill were working to capacity today with the exception of the cloth room. The employees of that department will have to wait until tomorrow for material to work on which will be supplied by other departments today.

MEXICANS ACT QUICKLY.

Mexico City, April 4.—Ambassador Sheffield today expressed satisfaction at the rapid action taken by the Mexican government in the pursuit and capture of three of the members of the bandit gang which last week murdered Edgar Wilkins, American citizen of Savannah, Ga., in Guadalupe.

Mariando Calzada, alleged leader of the gang, was identified by the son of Wilkins by a conspicuous sweater which he wore. The police state that Calzada has confessed and named two accomplices. It is expected that the men will be executed.

BOSCH MAGNETO SALE UPHELD BY U. S. COURT

New York, April 4.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a decision here today upheld the sale of the assets of the Bosch Magneto Company for five million dollars made by the government under the Alien Property Act during the administration of Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer.

The suit in the lower courts was brought by Otto Helms and Albert R. Klein against Palmer, Francis P. Garvin and Martin E. Kern. Kern bought in the stock and changed the name of the business to the American Bosch Magneto Company. The latter company now has its main office in Springfield, Mass., with banking connections in Boston.

Helms charged that Garvin acted under orders from Palmer and threatened to indict him on criminal charges and interned him as an alien enemy if he did not sign a statement indicating that enemy aliens and not himself owned the stock of the old company.

MANY CARD PLAYERS AT O. E. S. BENEFIT

There was a good turnout of card players at the bridge and whist social given Saturday evening in Odd Fellows hall by Temple Chapter, O. E. S. and Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth. The affair was given for the benefit of the Masonic Home at Wallingford and a good sum was realized for the work there.

In progressive bridge, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson won first prizes, while the consolation awards went to Mrs. Joseph Wright and Nelson Smith. Mrs. Wilbur Hills and S. A. Robinson captured first trophies in whist, while the consolation winners were Mrs. James Smith and Samuel Richmond. At pivot bridge Mrs. Franklin Dexter won first prize, consolation, Miss Beatrice Armstrong. First men's prize went to Philip Linnell and the consolation to Edgar Morgan.

Rockville FIND ENOCH AUSTIN DEAD OF EXPOSURE Body Discovered Near Snipsic Lake—Tobin's Auto Is Wrecked.

(Special to The Herald)
Rockville, April 4. Frank Pliesk, accompanied by two of his small children, discovered the body of Enoch Austin, 36, at 10 Saturday afternoon. The man has been missing since Thursday afternoon. Mr. Pliesk had started out to cut wood on the shore of his farm which is known as the "Batz farm" and is located off Mountain street and extends back to the Snipsic lake, being in the town of Ellington and nearby what was once Snipsic grove. This is located at of three miles from the Austin home on Prospect street.
The discovery was reported by Mr. Pliesk to his neighbor, Henry Felber, who identified the body and notified police authorities. Dr. Thomas F. Rockwell, medical examiner for the town of Vernon, was called in the absence of Dr. Edward A. Brace, medical examiner for Ellington. Dr. Rockwell viewed the body and gave permission for its removal to the undertaking parlors of Luther White on Elm street. He said that death was due to exhaustion and exposure and that the man had been dead, in his opinion, since Thursday evening.
Mr. Pliesk found the body lying face downward, near a barbed wire fence. The left side of the face showed a mark indicating a fall. A slight gash was also in evidence over the left eye. The back of his left hand was marked, indicating that he had made every effort to get up. His knees were also marked and bruised.
Mr. Austin, who had lived in this city more than fifty years, lived at 92 Prospect street with his daughter, Miss Laura Austin, who left him sitting on the veranda Thursday afternoon while she went to a nearby store. Half an hour later he was missing. Thursday night the state and local police were notified.
His Family
Mr. Austin leaves four daughters, Miss Laura Austin, of this city; Mrs. George Ashton, of New Haven, but at the present time in Florida; Mrs. Florence Monette of Springfield, and Mrs. Minnie Friebane, of Mystic; two sons, Frank Austin, of Springfield, and Arthur Austin, of New York; also two nephews, William J. Austin of this city and Frank W. Austin of Hartford and two granddaughters, the Misses Irene and Mabel Ashton of New Haven.
Tobin's Auto Wrecked
An automobile driven by Joseph Tobin of 93 Union street, this city, was wrecked at 10 o'clock Saturday morning when it skidded and turned turtle on the Scitico road when Mr. Tobin, accompanied by Mrs. Tobin and Mrs. Charles Shepard, were enroute to Springfield. Dr. Roy C. Ferguson of Rockville was called and the three were taken to the Rockville city hospital. Mr. Tobin and Mrs. Shepard were taken home from the hospital Saturday evening but Mrs. Tobin who did not regain consciousness until Saturday afternoon is still in the hospital here it was necessary for an X-ray to be taken to determine the extent of her injuries.
Thomas Lutton Dies
Thomas Lutton, aged 67, proprietor of a soda manufacturing plant in this city for a number of years and well known in Manchester, died Saturday night at his home, 61 Windermere avenue after a short illness. He was born in Ireland, June 23, 1859, a son of Joseph and Matilda Lutton and had been a resident of this city for forty-five years.
He was a member of Rockville Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, No. 1359, for many years. He leaves two daughters, Miss Sarah M. Lutton and Miss Annie E. Lutton; also two sons, Thomas J. Lutton and William J. Lutton, all of Rockville, and four sisters, Mrs. Frank Bamforth, Mrs. Lizzie Harding, Mrs. Rachael Grynge of this city and Mrs. Elizabeth E. Usher of Hartford; three brothers, Samuel and James Lutton of this city and Arthur L. Lutton of New York City.

MADDEN SLAYER SEEKS A PARDON Fred Klein, Driver of Silk Marauders Car, Petitions Board For First Time.

With interest still alive over the Chinese murder here two weeks ago, Manchester's attention today was momentarily diverted to his just preceding murder case here several years ago—the Madden killing.
Fred Klein, driver of the automobile carrying the five New Jersey gunmen who were convicted of the murder of William F. Madden, special policeman at Cheney Brothers' mills, on the night of January 3, 1919, has just filed his first petition to the Board of Pardons for release. He has served eight years of a life sentence.
All five gunmen were captured, although not together, and were found guilty of murder. The state was unable to prove who fired the bullet into Madden's body as he rode on the running board of the car after directing the gunmen, whom he had apprehended as they were about to steal valuable silk material at the mills, to drive to the fire house at the intersection of Fine street and Hartford road.
Protests Innocence.
It was partly due to Klein's arrest that the other four members of the party were later arrested. Patrolman Madden had secured the license name and registration number of the Oldsmobile touring car from Klein before he was shot. Klein was also the first of the gunmen to be caught. He was arrested in Hartford by Patrolman Dan O'Neil. The others left the machine one by one by rolling off. They were later caught elsewhere. Klein was taken to the police station in Hartford where he underwent a severe grilling. Klein contends that he had no part in the murder.
Since their confinement in the state's prison at Wethersfield one of the group has escaped—"Lefty" McDonald—and police have so far been unable to locate him. William Bossler, another of the gunmen, had petitioned several times for pardon but without avail.
Klein is one of sixty-nine prisoners to file petitions for pardon, a list of which is made public by Vine R. Parmelee, clerk of the board.
Among this number is one other Manchester case, that of Marshall S. Thompson, negro, convicted of murdering his wife. He is also serving a life sentence.

DOG'S DEVOTION NEARLY FATAL Harold Clemson Suffers When Pet Keeps Rescuers from Runaway Auto.

A faithful bulldog almost caused the death of Harold Clemson of North Elm street yesterday afternoon in one of the oddest occurrences reported in town in months. Clemson drove up to the North End filling station, Main and Hilliard streets in his car to get gas. His self-starter failed as he was about to leave the filling station. Then Clemson did a foolish thing. Instead of getting on the ground to crank the car he cranked it while he had one leg over the bumper. The car was in gear and started with him toward the rear of the Willis garage, a brick building in the rear of the filling station. Before the car struck the wall it broke through a heavy chain connecting two stands which carry electric lights.
Clemson yelled for help because he was in such a position on the car that he could not get off the bumper.
Howard Carter, who was at the station jumped for the running board to turn off the switch. But on the front seat was Clemson's big bulldog trained to keep everyone away when the owner was absent. He snapped at Carter who jumped from the running board.
About the same time, James Gilligan, employed at the filling station, jumped on the running board from the opposite side and as the dog snapped at Carter, Gilligan succeeded in turning off the switch. The car was within an inch of the brick wall when it stopped. Had it struck the wall Clemson would probably have been crushed to death. As it was he was "out" for a half hour from the strain to his back caused when the auto broke the heavy chain.

PLAYERS TO PERFORM FOR THEIR ASSOCIATES Local Actors and Actresses Will Present Two Plays Before Membership.

The regular monthly meeting of the Town Players in April will have the presentation of two one-act plays which will be given for the active and associate membership of the club. Both plays are in rehearsal now and are going along smoothly.
The players feel that as their associate membership has been so liberal with its support, they are entitled to some entertainment on the part of the casts of "Dulcy" and "Seven Chances," which were given as public performances during the past season here.
Both plays will be given at the monthly meeting, which will be held at a date to be given out later. The plays are "The Shoes that Danced," a fantasy and "Punk," a farce comedy. Casts are composed largely of those players who appeared in "Dulcy" and "Seven Chances."
A new director, Mrs. S. C. Hale, will make her debut with the production of "The Shoes that Danced." Mrs. Hale has been connected with the Springfield, Mass., dramatic club for some years and has had considerable experience in amateur theatricals.
"Punk" is an amateur rehearsal and has a cast of seven characters. It will afford the comedy relief on the night of its presentation as it is in marked contrast to the fantasy which will be on the same program. The play will be coached by Albert Addy.

Armstrong's LINOLEUM WEEK

Floor Designs Well Worth A Trip To See

There are patterns suitable for every floor in the house. We are prepared to give you service in laying. Experienced men, using the latest methods and guaranteeing satisfaction in every detail.

Special this week—see the Town Crier Lantern display in our window.

Linoleum Is Only As Good As It Is Laid

Laid properly by an experienced man it will last for years. Laid improperly by an inexperienced man and in a very short time you will have to replace it. Our method of cementing it down solidly over a layer of heavy deadening felt makes the linoleum a part of the floor—no more bulging, no more stretching, no more breaking. Your linoleum will not be a mere floor covering, it will become a permanent floor at once. After linoleum is laid by our improved method you are not bothered by having workmen return to trim it. Bring in your floor measurements and let us give you a price on the complete job. New lines now on display. Jaspes, embossed (shown at left) arabesque, etc. New rugs in the beautiful rose effect with colors through to the back. The prices? They're really quite low.

Sale of Remnants $1.00 sq. yd.

Remnants will accumulate and we have to push them out from time to time and take a loss. We have taken all Inlaid Remnants and priced them at $1.00 square yard. (Value up to $3.50.) There are many large pieces suitable for bath room, pantry, halls, etc. All remnants sold by piece only at this low price.

We have a number of attractive specialties. Drop patterns, most of them, that we have marked very low to move them quickly. All perfect goods with pattern clear through to the back.

- $3.50 Inlaid Goods at $2.49 (5 patterns)
- $2.95 Inlaid Goods at $2.19 (2 patterns)
- $2.50 Inlaid Goods at $1.79 (1 pattern)
- $1.50 Printed Linoleum at 98c (1 pattern)

Herbert Schilberg, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Gustave Nelson of West Road, has returned to his studies at the Dudley Bible Institute.
Earl Mathewson of Dudley Bible Institute was pleasantly surprised by a number of his friends at the meeting of that contest on Friday evening, witnessing the degree work which was exemplified.
Billie Herzog, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Herzog of Brooklyn street, presided at the Junior League meeting at the Union Congregational church on Sunday afternoon, his subject being "Speaking Truth With Our Lives."
Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacDonald of South Manchester were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald of Union street on Saturday.
Mrs. Fred Selgried, Deputy Great Picochontas for Calawanna Council of Hartford and Mrs. Margaret Pfeiffer and Miss Augusta Schultz of Rockville, attended the meeting of that contest on Friday evening, witnessing the degree work which was exemplified.

She is the "Lady MacBeth" of the case, it is charged. Gray claims she dominated him, actually hypnotized him. She chose the gay albeit gaudy Gray in preference to a domesticated and adoring husband and then plotted with Gray, it is charged, her husband's death. She prevailed upon her husband to attend a Saturday night party and take plenty of drinks. When he came home she helped him to bed. He lay in a semi stupor he was beaten to death, strangled with pure wire and chloroformed. Gray had come to the Snyder house in the dead of the night and he and Mrs. Gray, it is alleged, calmly discussed the doing away of Snyder over a bottle of whiskey.

Members of Delta Chapter, R. A. M., are reminded of the annual convocation and election of officers which will take place Wednesday evening. A large attendance is requested.
There will be a special meeting for all local members of Voture No. 370, 40 and 8, at the American Legion rooms in the State Armory building this evening at eight o'clock. The meeting is called to discuss a proposition presented by the Grand Voture.
Mystic Review, Woman's Benefit Association will meet in Tinker hall this evening.
The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet in the parlors of the South Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The subject will be "Temperance and Missions" and members of the missionary societies will be special guests.
The Junior choir and probationers' class of the North Methodist church will come together this evening at the church at seven o'clock.
The Epworth League members and young folks over 12 from the South Methodist Sunday school, will have a get-together and stunt program at the church this evening at eight o'clock.

Students Here Will Take Part In Tests For Champions to Talk in Europe.
On Friday of this week the annual Constitutional Oratorical Essay contest will be conducted in the South Manchester High School to decide who will represent this town in the Hartford County competitions. This contest is annually held in high schools all over the country. The ultimate national champion goes to Europe to enter an international oratorical contest.
The Constitutional Oratorical contest is conducted in different sections of the country. In each participating high school a contest is held to determine the representative from that school to the county contest. The winner of the county contest is eligible to the state finals. The state finalists then meet for the zonal semi-finals. The national semi-final winners then meet in finals to be held this year in New York. All of the finalists make the trip to Europe, which is the grand prize.
The award to the winner of the local contest is a bronze medal. Winners of all the other contests receive cash awards.
Two years ago when Manchester High first entered the contests, Sherwood Mercer was the local school's representative. He received honorable mention in the Hartford county contest. Last year the local school was represented by Paul Packard.
A. N. Potter is in charge of candidates who are preparing speeches for the local try outs. He expects to have several competing for the honor of representing the local school.

ATTACKS DAUGHTER; MOTHER KILLS HIM

Police Believe Wife's Story That She Shot Husband In Self Defense.
Norwalk, April 4.—Mrs. Sadie Ruscello, 36, of 215 Liberty Square, East Norwalk, is locked up here without bail on a charge of murder. Police found Ruscello's body in a sitting posture on a chair drawn up to a table. He had been shot twice through the left side, just behind the arm.
County Detective W. S. Kearns, of Bridgeport, is investigating the affair today for State's Attorney William H. Comley. In reporting the case to him, local police declared they were convinced the woman's story is true pointing out Ruscello was fined some time ago for assaulting his daughter.
Hartford, Conn., April 4.—Governor Trumbull today issued a requisition on the governor of Pennsylvania for the extradition of Arthur Byrgson, of Hartford, who is wanted here for non-support. Charles F. Deley, a Hartford policeman, has been appointed to go for the man.

STAMFORD'S NEW WAR OVER SEWER CONTRACT

Mixup Among Officials While the Work Is Being Held Up.
Stamford, April 4.—A new war is brewing as the result of a contract to build a sewage pumping station here. Poccia Brothers, Inc., of New York, N. Y., and Gabriel M. Case of West Harrison, N. Y., wou the contract jointly, on December 27 last, and were to start within ten days and finish in six months. Counsel for the two firms announced today they had received orders not to go ahead with the work while Mayor A. N. Phillips, Jr., and City Engineer John C. Williams both announced they had asked at least four times that the work be started. The contractors refuse to say who ordered them to stay off the job.
Max Spelke, until today city proctor, recently declared that the contractors' bond is missing. Spelke, according to announcement today, went to the home of Engineer Williams on Saturday and interviewed him in spite of a doctor's certificate setting forth he had just been operated on for removal of tonsils. Raymond E. Hackett, counsel for Mr. Williams, today issued a protest against the Spelke proceeding.

USE OLD BATH HOUSE AS MILL DEPARTMENT

Stationery Printing Room to be Moved to Pleasant Street Soon.
The public bath house on Pleasant street, which has been conducted by Cheney Brothers for a number of years, has been discontinued and will hereafter be the stationery and printing department of the firm when alterations are completed. The printing department is now located in the building just east of the Main Office on Hartford road.
Residents of the West Side may use the shower baths in the Recreation Center on Cedar street, it was announced today by a member of the Recreation Committee. This arrangement has been in force for some time whereby non-members of the Rec can use the shower baths on payment of a small charge.
The same arrangement is now holding forth at the School street building.
Hartford Women Gives Party for Pythian Sisters.
Pythian Sisters and other local people who were entertained at the home of Mrs. Carrie Samlow, Windsor avenue, Hartford, had a thoroughly enjoyable time Saturday evening. The social pastimes included vocal and instrumental music, whist and other games. First prize winners at whist were Mrs. Ada Peckham and Clarence Wilson; second prizes, Mrs. Frances Chambers and Don Hatlin, and consolation, Mrs. Dickinson and Leo Schendel. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess at what was a very merry night before the fun ended.
Two automobile parties, members of Memorial Temple went to William Temple Friday evening for the meeting of Purinton Temple, when the grand chief and her staff paid their official visit.

HENRY FORD.

The Ford "murder plot" mystery bids fair to remain a mystery, if not for all time at least for the present.

The motor magnate's own investigators assert that they know who the two men are who forced Ford's little car off the road.

Henry Ford probably does not realize that he is putting into effect in Detroit all the machinery of socialism without the principle of socialism.

There has always been a singular childlike simplicity about the Henry Ford mind, perhaps an unavoidable compensation for the remarkable development of that mind in certain directions.

HO-HO! Three, four, five weeks ago Buonfiglio Carini was all smashed up in an automobile crash on the Springfield road.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUCHER

Washington, April 4.—The 12,000 or more American citizens resident in China are divided about as follows in respect to sex and interests, according to consular registration figures:

Table with columns: Sex, Interest, Count. Rows include Missionaries, Business, Professional, U. S. Government, Chinese government, American born, Chinese.

Unregistered at consulates, probably about 1000. The largest American population, of course, is at Shanghai, with 4,000. More than half the Americans engaged in mercantile pursuit in China are located there and the next largest quota of them is found in the Peking-Tientsin district.

Many Women. There are 4,000 women, some 1600 of whom are unmarried. There are 617 American firms in China, according to Julian Arnold, Department of Commerce attaché at Shanghai, who has compiled the figures, and 302 are in Shanghai.

Several violet-ray practitioners have found it profitable to help certain four-flushers, of whom there are many in the theater game, make good their stories of going to Florida or Atlantic City. Such posey ones feel that they gain swank by talking of making trips to such resorts whereas they have little more than the price of an Alpine-ray treatment.

Work Through Consuls. American claims against Chinese are taken up through the American consulates, whose officials communicate with the Chinese authorities and often settle the cases without trial.

New York, April 4.—Medical magicians were presumed to have some out of style back in the days of Pythagoras.

Nevertheless the Broadway ball calls upon its practitioners to perform feats that flavor of magic. Thus, I am told by Dr. Phil Kohnstamm, that a couple of days before the opening of a big musical revue a palpitant young leading woman came rushing in, announcing that her complexion had to be changed before the premiere.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BIRDS WITH HUMAN TRAITS

By ARTHUR N. PACK

The more one studies wild birds and animals, the more he is impressed with the fact that they are in many ways like humans. They seem possessed of the same elemental needs, are governed by the same emotions of love, anger, jealousy, greed or faithfulness, and often they display a craftiness that rivals ours.

A Thoughtful Gull

When the mere mention of a snowstorm is abhorrent, so there are gulls that cannot bear the thought of winter. When the first cold gusts of late autumn sweep the bleak beaches, these birds depart for southern waters.

Several violet-ray practitioners have found it profitable to help certain four-flushers, of whom there are many in the theater game, make good their stories of going to Florida or Atlantic City. Such posey ones feel that they gain swank by talking of making trips to such resorts whereas they have little more than the price of an Alpine-ray treatment.

Burn Oil in a Burnham Boiler

A Burnham Boiler with its long back and forth fire travel and corrugated crown sheet is particularly well adapted to oil burning. In the first place, this long fire travel absorbs every possible heat unit. In the second place, this same long fire travel muffles the vibration and noises of combustion, before they leave the boiler and enter the chimney.

ANDERSON OPENS PLUMBING SHOP

Local Man Announces New Quarters at 57 Bissell St. Invites Patrons.

Carl W. Anderson whose full page advertisement appears elsewhere in The Herald today, announces the opening of his new place of business at 57 Bissell street. Mr. Anderson purchased the block which consists of a large store and six room apartment upstairs, from Ellen Bockus on the first of February. He has remodeled the store into an attractive showroom for the display of plumbing fixtures and steam and hot water boilers so as to enable people to select their requirements from those on display.

Mr. Anderson started out as an apprentice plumber at the age of 16 and has since then worked at this trade. He began his trade working for Jones Bros. in 1913 when they had their shop in the Trotter building on Main street just beyond the Center, which the Trade school has remodeled into two attractive stores. At that time a helper received $5 a week.

Tools and material were moved by horse and wagon but helpers' wages so low it was about as cheap to have the helper carry the stock to the job. It wasn't so bad with light fittings but to make a few trips with lengths of 3-inch soil pipe weighing 65 pounds it seemed that the load doubled in weight on a trip for instance from the shop on Center street to a job on Stone street. It was in those days when horses were used and telephones were few and far between that the public heard so much about "the plumber going back after tools or losing time waiting for material."

Now that there is a phone in almost every home so that the plumber can get in touch with the shop immediately, no time is lost. Even when the plumber arrives and finds greater repairs are necessary than the customer believed when he phoned, a call at the shop brings the truck in a few minutes with the necessary requirements.

Mr. Anderson served his time with E. T. Ferris who at that time did practically all the plumbing in the town. He went to work for a large concern in Bridgeport for three years. Repair work was plentiful in that city. Due to the fact that the water in that city corroded the galvanized pipe it was necessary to use brass and lead pipe only. However, most of the pipe was of lead and on the hot water lines where there is so much expansion and contraction on the lead pipe, it would weaken and blow out. A call for the plumber resulted so often that there was a chance to become well acquainted with the firm's customers. For a few years he worked in Hartford and since that time has worked for various firms in this town.

He started in for himself as a plumbing and heating contractor about two years ago and conducted his business from his home on Eldridge street with a small shop at the corner of Maple and Spruce streets. After the first year his business increased so that he could not take care of his bookkeeping and the outside work also, so his sister, Miss Esther Anderson, who is a high school graduate and has had four years experience as private secretary in a local office has taken care of this end of the business. Mr. Anderson invites local people to inspect his new quarters at 57 Bissell street.

NORTH END CHURCH PLANS FINE CONCERT

Tickets for the high class musical program to be given at the Second Congregational church auditorium Wednesday evening at 8:15 may be obtained at Watkins Brothers store or Magall's pharmacy on Depot Square. Young people of the church are also engaged in the advance sale.

The artists who will be heard at the coming concert, Edith Marshall Clarke and Maud Turner, soprano soloist, have been accorded an enthusiastic reception wherever they have appeared, and music lovers are assured of a delightful evening's entertainment. Mrs. Clarke's first appearance was at the Boston Opera house when a child of five, and since she was 14 she has been touring the country under the auspices of various entertainment bureaus and Chautauqua and Keith circuits. She is the only woman artist playing a complete set of 36 Swiss hand bells alone.

Another of the instruments on which she plays, the French musical lyre, the only one of its kind in this country, is electrically illuminated and the auditorium left in darkness while the artist is performing on the lyre. Other instruments which Mrs. Clarke plays with equal skill include the piano, cello and xylophone.

The concert is under the auspices of the Men's club of the church and it will take the place of their monthly supper for April. The profits will be expended in the purchase of new chairs to replace the benches in the church school room.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Tickets for the senior class movie benefit to be held on Wednesday evening of this week are being sold by all the members of the senior class. The picture to be exhibited is "La Boheme," starring John Gilbert and Lillian Gish. This feature is being shown all week in the Strand theater in Hartford. The seniors hope to be able to raise enough money from the benefit to bring down the expenses for the Washington trip to what they were last year.

Boys' Glee Club rehearsal was held this afternoon. Musical supervision, Miss E. Marion Doward is much gratified with the progress being made by the club in preparation for the interschool glee club contest to be made next month. Le Cercle Francaise will hold a meeting on Friday afternoon of this week. It is understood that an unusually fine entertainment program is being prepared for this meeting.

Track practice is now being held regularly three times a week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. Coach "Pete" Wigren has a large squad at work in preparation for the track season which will open in three weeks.

All material for the April issue of "Gomahis Events" should be passed in at once. Copy must be sent to the printer this week, so it is necessary that all material which has not been handed in as yet should be in the hands of the editor by tomorrow morning at the very latest.

Girls' Glee Club rehearsal tomorrow afternoon and orchestra rehearsal on Wednesday afternoon will be held as usual.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The Triumphal Entry

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESEN

Nearing Jerusalem, Jesus sent two of His disciples into a village, bidding them bring an ass that they would find tied there, with a colt. (Matthew XXI : 1-3)

As they cast their garments upon the colt, Jesus sat upon him and began His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. (Mark XI : 7)

The people spread their garments and palm branches before Jesus. (Mark XI : 8)

And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, "Hosanna; Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord... Hosanna in the highest." (Mark XI : 9-10)

HEBRON

The body of the late Charles Watrous, a former resident of this town, was brought here for burial on Friday, interment being in St. Peter's cemetery. The deceased was a former resident of Meriden, and died at the home of his brother, Herbert Watrous, in Lebanon. He was 72 years of age, and death was caused by diabetes. He was a native of Andover. The funeral was held at the undertaker's rooms in Willimantic.
Clifford S. Wightman of Hartford was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Etta Rathbone the last of the week.
The Glead creamery was closed on Friday. The milk furnished by the farmers of Glead and Hebron will be gathered by carriers who will call at the farms. Both the Providence and Eastern Dairies Companies will provide for milk gathering.
Dorothy Gray, who is recovering from mumps celebrated her seventh birthday by giving a party to which were invited her school teacher, Mrs. Roger W. Porter, the former teacher in the grammar room, Mrs. Charles M. Larcomb, and Mrs. Mary E. Cummings teacher in Pine Street, Columbia. Owing to the little girl's condition she was unable to invite her young friends of her age so she asked that the teachers might be invited. She received as a birthday present a handsome blackboard from Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Larcomb.
The selectmen held a meeting at the town clerk's office on Friday. Tax Collector J. Banks Jones was at his office in Glead Friday, April 1, to collect from the people of that section the property taxes due the town. He will meet the Jones street tax payers at the residence of Paul Jones, April 28. He will be at Amston station, Friday, April 29, and at the town records building April 30, for the same purpose. He will hold session on each day from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m.
Mrs. Mary E. Cummings, who teaches at the Pine Street school in Columbia, is spending her spring vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Porter. Mrs. Cummings recently took two of the children from her school who had the best record as pupils for the month of March, for a treat at the movies in Willimantic. The pupils were Ethel Faulkner and Hyman Berman.
Mrs. Lulu Lord, her daughter Esther and son Morgan of South Manchester were recent guests for the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett G. Lord.
BANDIT KILLED
New York, April 4.—A $70 robbery of a United Cigar Store on upper Broadway resulted early today in the death of Joseph Masterson, 27, the alleged bandit. He was mortally wounded during an exchange of shots with John Hudson, a rookie patrolman.
Singapore, located as it is in the center of a region which is producing half the world's tin and 70 per cent of the crude rubber, is fast becoming one of the greatest cities of the far east.

SONORA DIVORCE IN FEW WEEKS LURES MISMATES

Prominent Americans In Rush Across Border to Win Quick Freedom.

Nogales, Ariz., April 4.—With divorce laws of the state of Sonora Mexico, upheld by several high courts of the United States and the legality of decrees sustained in recent actions contesting their validity, the American freedom seekers are flocking to this border point in ever increasing numbers.
The divorce mill of Nogales, Sonora, is steadily grinding away on is grist of matrimonial misadventures. Unlike the mills of the gods it grinds fast. There are some instances where, all papers, previously prepared and preliminary steps taken have resulted in freedom fully secured eight days from the time that first appearance of the plaintiff was made in the court room of the "Juez de Primera Instancia."
Names are Guarded
These instances are cited by court attaches with pride for they have in two instances sustained barrage of American courts and shed the stream of legal verbiage without straining or showing loopholes of valid doubt.
Nogales, Sonora, has had over two hundred divorce cases the past year. Of these forty-nine were for prominent Eastern people. Inasmuch as one of the prime factors in the Sonora divorce question is its lack of publicity the names of these parties were not given out by court officials. It was only possible to get bare details. Sonora guards its applicants for divorce with the utmost of secrecy. According to Mexican court officials the majority of the cases were sent here by Senor Arturo del Toro, father of the amended Sonora divorce laws who maintains international divorce headquarters in New York.
Saves Much Time
There the prospective Sonora divorce seekers are interviewed; their papers arranged, forwarded to representative attorneys in Nogales, Sonora and mutual consent cases instituted. Sr. del Toro beats the time clause several days by having everything arranged for the clients thus saving two weeks to thirty days. From a clientele of but a few this "daddy of Sonora divorces" has reached the mark of several hundred.
Many other attorneys are likewise devoting considerable time to practice in the divorce phrase of the Sonora laws. It has been harvest time for the honeymoon breakers.
Hotels of the city are showing marked increases in registrations.
Cruises-Summer boats, across the line in Old Mexico are expanding as demands or entertainment continually grow.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was held last Friday evening at the parsonage with Rev. Truman H. Woodward, Rev. Myron E. Center being present.
The three-act comedy play entitled "The Adventures of Grandpa," which was presented by the Young People of Ellington at the Wapping school hall last Friday evening, was certainly a fine entertainment, every one of the nine characters did their parts perfectly and every one who attended were well pleased. This play was given under the auspices of the Wapping Grange, before a good audience.
Mr. and Mrs. George A. Collins and son, Ralph M. Collins left by automobile last Saturday to visit their daughter Mrs. Amy Collins Coze of 25 Churchhill street, Little Falls, N. Y. They expect to return on Monday, April 4.
A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Guddunoz on last week Wednesday.
The regular meeting of the Federated Workers was held at the home of Mrs. Asher A. Collins on Friday afternoon, fifteen ladies being present. Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson assisted Mrs. Collins as hostess.
Harry P. Files Jr., a student at the Sufield school spent the week end at the home of his parents here.

George Drake has sold his home here to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers who will take possession and move in there the first of next week. George Drake and sister, Miss Eva Drake, have moved into the Felt tenement more commonly known as the Sheldon Grant Place, last Saturday.

WAPPING

The four quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was held last Friday evening at the parsonage with Rev. Truman H. Woodward, Rev. Myron E. Center being present.

The three-act comedy play entitled "The Adventures of Grandpa," which was presented by the Young People of Ellington at the Wapping school hall last Friday evening, was certainly a fine entertainment, every one of the nine characters did their parts perfectly and every one who attended were well pleased. This play was given under the auspices of the Wapping Grange, before a good audience.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Collins and son, Ralph M. Collins left by automobile last Saturday to visit their daughter Mrs. Amy Collins Coze of 25 Churchhill street, Little Falls, N. Y. They expect to return on Monday, April 4.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Guddunoz on last week Wednesday.
The regular meeting of the Federated Workers was held at the home of Mrs. Asher A. Collins on Friday afternoon, fifteen ladies being present. Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson assisted Mrs. Collins as hostess.

Harry P. Files Jr., a student at the Sufield school spent the week end at the home of his parents here.

George Drake has sold his home here to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers who will take possession and move in there the first of next week. George Drake and sister, Miss Eva Drake, have moved into the Felt tenement more commonly known as the Sheldon Grant Place, last Saturday.

TO RECUPERATE FOR A NEW OPERATION
Earl Judatz of 156 Birch street, who has been in the Hartford hospital for four weeks suffering from the effects of a ruptured appendix, is expected home today or tomorrow. He will return to the hospital as soon as he has recuperated a sufficiently to undergo an operation for removal of the organ.
Young Judatz, who is the son of Mrs. Martha Behrendt, was taken to the hospital four weeks ago suffering with acute appendicitis. On the way to Hartford the appendix burst and the boy's system was filled with pus. He was operated on for elimination of the pus.
His condition, though serious, improved steadily and the pus drained out after a week or two. During his stay in the hospital young Judatz has had a constant stream of visitors.

SPRING BRINGS OUT SAME OLD FRAUDS

"Free" House Lots and Magazine Solicitors Bob Up Again.

Prepared by Manchester Chamber of Commerce

The flowers that bloom in the Spring are not the only crop that the warm sunshine of April days bring forth. The past week has brought calls from such old friends as the college boys, soliciting magazine subscriptions, two "free" house lot advertisements, and solicitors for the American Rescue Workers. All of these have been fully explained in previous articles in this series.

The college students do not satisfactorily explain how they happen to be soliciting for a scholarship at this season of the year, when they are supposed to be in school. The natural inference is that they are not college students at all, but are simply professional solicitors.

"Free" House Lots

The Ideal Homes, with their real estate development at Rogers Lake, Old Lyme, and the Hub Realty Company, which has a development called "General Ward Manor in Shrewsbury, Mass., just outside of Worcester, are working the usual "free" house lot line.

The Chamber is going to make one definite suggestion to all who may read these "free" lot advertisements. Try to remember always that what the advertisements should say is this, "Come to the country and buy undeveloped, unimproved, real estate at high city prices." The "free" lot is a snare and a delusion.

American Rescue Workers

For the past fifteen years, a group of men have been operating under various names, the most recent of which is the American Rescue Workers. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been contributed to various organizations which these men have promoted. Ohio has issued a permanent injunction against their operation in that state. Pennsylvania and Massachusetts have been on their trail and have had them before the courts at different times for years, on charges of petty larceny, obtaining money under false pretenses, misappropriation of funds, and the individual officers on the more serious charges of misdemeanors with young girls and boys who have been taken into the rescue homes.

The American Rescue League does some charitable work, but it is the universal opinion of those who have come in contact with them that those who are at the head of the organization are not fit to be in charge of funds or to administer charities.

International Publishing Company

The International Publishing Company of Chicago, Illinois, has been ordered by the Federal Trade Commission to cease and desist from advertising, selling, offering for sale, sets or books under the title of International Reference Works.

The agent for this alleged publication was active in Manchester last fall, and following their established practice, they succeeded in securing the signature of a prominent town official, which signature was used to influence others to subscribe for the work. From the reading of the order of the Federal Trade Commission, it would appear that the International Publishing Company had been guilty of about every misrepresentation on the list in connection with the sale of this work.

Anyone having knowledge of their operations or being approached by them in the future will learn something to their advantage by consulting the Chamber of Commerce before signing a contract with them.

Boston Curb Exchange

Many small investors are unduly influenced by the representations of some stock salesmen to the effect that the stock which he is selling is quoted on the Boston Curb, the inference being that it must, therefore be of some established value.

This institution, the Boston Curb Exchange, has been the subject of frequent criticism within the past months. Even the governor of Massachusetts himself, in his inaugural address of January 8, 1927, had the following to say:

"At present the law provides that any security listed on either of our two stock exchanges is exempt from registration under the law. The evidence convinces me that this provision is being abused by the exchange known as the Boston Curb. I recommend that the provision be amended or taken out of the law bodily."

The National Better Business Bureau says:

"In this country a stock exchange or organization securities market is traditionally a place where buyers and sellers may meet and transact their business readily. The common assumption is that the laws of supply and demand play an important part in it. Indeed they do not govern, the prevailing price at which securities are bought and sold. Do these conditions obtain on the Boston Curb Exchange? Apparently a large number of investors, speculators and traders believe that they do, and are thus led to attach a value and significance to Boston Curb quotations, which the underlying facts do not always warrant.

"The Boston Curb Exchange, which has long afforded a market for low-priced stocks, is housed over a shoe repair shop on the third story of an old brick building on a side street. According to a recently published directory, it has thirty members, five of whom constitute a Governing Committee.

"According to available information, there are upwards of one hundred stocks listed on the Boston Curb Exchange, few of which pay a dividend. Of the stocks listed, three quarters are mining shares; oil stocks comprise the greatest percentage of the balance. (Secretary Hoover reports that but one out of 100 oil and mining stock corporations organized, ever return the cost of the original investment.)

"Recently the Boston Curb Exchange has been invaded by promoters whose operations have had full play without effectual interference from this exchange.

"The use of the machinery of an exchange by promoters to market a stock purchased cheaply and controlled practically as to its entire issue is not in the public interest. Publicity campaigns, which usually consist of a pseudo-newspaper masquerading as a bona fide, disinterested financial publication, "market letters" and barrages of correspondence, telegrams and telephone calls are too often the complement of such market operations.

One Promoter's Record

"One of the outstanding operators whose securities are largely dealt in or listed on the Boston Curb, a recognized master of the art of such securities promotion, is George Graham Rice, formerly known as Jacob Simon Herzog. During Rice's career he has been convicted in various courts at least four times, as a result of which he has received prison sentences aggregating about ten years.

Eternal vigilance is necessary to avoid the pitfalls and traps which are constantly placed before the feet of the unwary. More money is actually taken away from the American public by fraudulent financial transactions every year than would pay the entire national budget.

The Chamber of Commerce does not wish to interfere with your right to spend your money where and as you wish, but it is ready at any time to give you the facts in regard to the purchase of any security or merchandise in regard to which you may be in doubt.

CIRCLE IS SHOWING A LON CHANEY FILM

"Flesh and Blood" One of Chaney's Best—Here Tomorrow and Wednesday.

Lon Chaney is the convict who submerged his real self in order to gain his ends in "Flesh and Blood," which starts a two-day run at the Circle theater tomorrow and Wednesday. Vengeance is the theme of the film, but love enters and vengeance is but a secondary issue to the convict when he finds that he loves the daughter of the man he is out to seek revenge on.

It is a typical Lon Chaney film from beginning to end and it shows how the great character actor can be two persons at one and the same time. As the convict he is the vicious reprobate, out for revenge on society. As the lovable cripple he worms his way into the heart of the heroine and in the end his evil complex is washed away as his better nature comes to the fore.

"Flesh and Blood" tells the story of an escaped convict who successfully eluded the law. Follow him in search for revenge—in his search for freedom—in his search for expression and love's fulfillment. It is a stirring, vital, vivid, human story which contains realistic moments. It also contains the finest sentiment in a picture with a soul. And heading the artist cast is the incomparable Lon Chaney, who gives one of the most graphic portrayals in the history of the photoplay.

Tonight will see the last showing of "Morie Rice in 'Wolf's Clothing,'" a thrilling story of New York and its Great White Way.

In "Wolf's Clothing," the Circle theater has one of the most diverting pictures of the season. Founded upon Arthur Somers Roch's story, it tells a tale that recalls the spirit of O. Henry. For here New York is once more transformed into Bagdad-on-the-Subway, and once more adventure comes to commonplace people and turns them into types of true romance.

Like a character in the Arabian Nights, Barry Balline, a subway guard, is transported into scenes of great pomp and circumstance, and whirled through a night of mad excitement. The night is New Year's Eve and the place is New York. A gang of crooks are out to get $50,000 in loot and Barry Balline finds himself out to get the crooks.

"CONVOY" PACKS HOUSE AT THE STATE THEATER

Great Navy Picture Thrills Thousand People; "La Boheme" Here on Wednesday.

The Spirit of the United States Navy visualized and thrown on the silver sheet thrilled more than a thousand people when "Convoy" had its first showing at the State theater last night. "Convoy" lived up to its advance notices and is undoubtedly the biggest thing that Manchester has witnessed this day and tomorrow.

A powerful picture of the modern navy in blue, "Convoy" is the epic of the navy in the World War. Daring rescues, naval battles at Heligoland Bight and Jutland furnish thrills that see almost impossible of recording. Skulking submarines loom up like sinister octopi as transports laden with thousands of khaki-clad warriors sail for France. Still the periscope is sighted, a depth bomb released in a flash, and a tell-tale blob of oil on the calm surface of the water shows where another of the Kaiser's undersea warriors has gone to Davy Jones' locker.

Those are a few of the things that "Convoy" contains. It has been called "The Big Parade" of the navy and it has been endorsed by naval officers all over the United States. The navy department cooperated with the film company in the production and every detail is true to life.

Among the officers who personally assisted the picture producer in gathering information about the activities of the fleet, and facilitating the photographing of naval stations were Captain A. J. Heburn, Commander F. V. Stapler, Commander J. L. Goss, Commander George Lowry and Lt. L. Gary, all of Washington.

General Summerall, chief of staff, Col. S. O. Fugay, General Seltman and Lt. A. W. Johnson, of the army also lent their aid in obtaining pictures of the troops shipped conveyed to France, during the war.

Army and navy officials who have seen the completed picture have been unanimous in endorsing it as the film history of the Navy during the war.

ALL STAR CAST SEEN IN "LA BOHEME" HERE

John Gilbert, Lillian Gish, In High School Benefit At State Wednesday.

The beautiful, idyllic romance of Mimi, the wistful child of the Latin Quarter, and Rodolphe make "La Boheme," which is being shown at the State theater on Wednesday for the benefit of the high school for the Washington trip, one of the greatest love stories ever to appear on the operatic stage. With a cast of all-star characters, the picturization of the opera is carried out in a manner of which the publisher would have approved.

A glance over the cast shows that this picture is better supplied with stars than most productions, no matter how ambitious. Lillian Gish, John Gilbert, star of "Flesh and the Devil," Renee Adoree, Roy D'Arcy, George Hassell and Edward Everett Horton are given more or less important parts in the film.

Miss Gish must portray the frail girl, in love with the dashing lover but afflicted with an incurable illness. Rather than encounter Rodolphe, she disappears, leaving a note that she has gone. But her lover does not forget her and although he searches all over Paris he is unable to find her.

The most dramatic part of the story is seen in the last part when Rodolphe, almost giving up hope of finding his beloved, at last comes across her, the breath of life almost gone, in a little attic. Mimi is dying of her malady. Rodolphe is heartbroken but as they swear eternal love to each other, the little girl passes into the Great Beyond. One of the most dramatic climaxes in motion picture history, that of "La Boheme" is a masterpiece and a credit to the industry.

Light Is Radio!

It's the Same Wave, but With a Great Difference in Size, Says Scientist.

Schenectady, N. Y.—Light is merely radio of extremely short wavelength, declares Dr. Willis R. Whitney, director of the General Electric research laboratories.

"The radio waves which you receive in your set at home are exactly the same character as light waves," Dr. Whitney writes in the American Magazine. "The only difference is one of wave length. You know that one radio station broadcasts on a wave of 400 meters, another on a wave of 800 meters, and so on. But if a broadcasting station were able to send out waves short enough, you would see them in the form of light coming from your antenna, instead of hearing them.

"As every radio fan knows, the length of the wave sent out by a broadcasting station is governed to a certain extent by the length of the antenna; the shorter the antenna, the shorter the wave.

Finest Broadcaster.
"The shortest antenna ever used to propagate radio waves was composed of two pieces of platinum wire sealed in opposite sides of a glass tube less than a millimeter—about 1-400th of an inch—apart. You can compare this with the wavelength of light, which is 1-39,000th of an inch for the red waves, which are the longest, and 1-62,000th of an inch for the violet, which are the shortest in the spectrum.

"The radio station in the atom, which sends out light waves, is indescribably small. Suppose we take a cubic inch of air and enlarge it until the molecules of which it is composed are the size of grains of sand.

"How big a beach would these sand-sized molecules make? We would have one 1,000 miles long, a mile wide and three feet deep!

Outcast Electrons Do It.
"To sum it all up, light is produced by a radio wave almost infinitely short, propagated from an electron which has been electrically kicked away from the nucleus of the atom, and which sets up the electro-magnetic waves by its return to its place, just as the much larger group of electrons forced into a wireless antenna produce the much longer wireless electro-magnetic wave."

Light, therefore, being a radio wave, travels at the same speed as a wave from a broadcasting station, of 186,000 miles a second. Dr. Whitney adds, "A radio or light wave could circle the globe seven and one-half times in a second. But a radio or light wave would take three minutes to reach Mars, and about one and one-third seconds to reach the moon."

Broadcasting to some of the stars of the Milky Way would require as much as 100,000 years to reach its destination.

"HOGGING THE ROAD" SENDS 8 TO JAIL

State Statistics Show There Is Feeling Against Cumber-some Vehicles.

In the homely language of some of the smaller courts in Connecticut, eight motor vehicle operators, at least, went to jail last year for "hogging the road."

The Connecticut statute books do not contain an "anti-hogging-the-road" law, as such. Most of the arrests made and convictions secured for that offense, are listed under the general charge "reckless driving," which covers a multitude of offenses that have been deemed hazardous in modern traffic. What is commonly known as "hogging the road" is not the least of them and the reports submitted by minor courts to the state motor vehicle department show considerable activity by authorities in efforts to curb this dangerous practice.

Some of the courts' reports to the department listed fifteen arrests for "hogging the road," eight of which resulted not only in conviction but jail sentences. There were doubtless many other convictions for the same offense which were reported with reckless driving cases.

The motor vehicle department's experience has been that most complaints about "hoggingness" are brought against operators of cumbersome motor vehicles. The big truck is bound to take more room than the ordinary passenger car, but manufacturers and shippers who use these big trucks are gradually impressing upon their drivers the necessity of keeping a reasonable watch to the rear and affording a fair opportunity to pass. On the wider and flat roads, good operators of trucks maintain their course regularly along the right-hand side of the highway.

"The average 'road hog' is a person who is that because he wants to be, according to a bulletin issued by the motor vehicle department some time ago. There is no longer any excuse for being so classed through inadvertence. So the man who has that reputation is unquestionably a willful offender and must be severely punished through the medium of the first officer who catches him."

AUTOMATIC VICTROLA EXHIBITION PLEASURES

The new Automatic Orthophonic Victrola that Watkins Brothers introduced to Manchester last Wednesday evening at a private demonstration is proving a big attraction. Since being displayed at their store Wednesday evening it has been attracting large audiences daily. Friday evening it was moved to the South Methodist church where the Choral Club was rehearsing and the playing of Robert Gordon's test record, made recently at the Victor Talking Machine Company's studio at New Jersey, proved of unusual interest.

Saturday and yesterday the new automatic Victrola was used at the new Municipal Building to furnish music for the formal opening. Here the real advantage of this wonderful instrument was demonstrated when it played for an hour without attention of any kind, after a program of ten or twelve inch records had been selected by the demonstrator in charge. This new Victrola automatically takes a record off a specially designed rack, places it on the turntable and lowers the reproducer onto the first playing groove. After finishing the selection the record just played is taken off the turntable and dropped into a special cabinet and another record is taken from the rack. One record after another is played in this fashion until the whole concert is played and then the machine automatically shuts itself off.

The new Automatic Victrola will continue to be demonstrated this week at Watkins Brothers.

SPORTS NOVELTY

Crocheted sleeveless sweaters, gaily embroidered in many colors, and worn over two-piece white costumes, are something new in sports wear.

SNAPPY JACKETS

The little jacket plays a large part in smart modes for spring. Not only sports but two-toned afternoon silk costumes feature it.

The first dramatic performances in England were given in inn-yards. When the yards were roofed over the places became, to all intents and purposes, modern theaters.

HILARIOUS COMEDY COMING TO RIALTO

Have you ever visited a Night-Court in a large city? If not, you probably have no idea of what you have missed, for in this drab, dismal setting there is constantly enacted an ever-changing drama and one may view all sorts of strange human misdeeds and mistakes by watching those brought in and listening to their stories. How these courts are conducted is graphically pictured in "The Princess on Broadway" one of the feature attractions being shown for the last time this evening at the Rialto theater. It is a fast moving drama in which lovely Pauline Gagon is starred and it takes a Night Court as a setting for its stirring climax.

The second feature makes a splendid balancing attraction. It is a thrilling melodrama called "Wild Justice" and stars Peter the Great a gigantic specimen of the German police dog. Other attractions are slated for a showing on the same program. The double feature bill which opens a two days engagement at this theater tomorrow is headed by "Play Safe" a half-hour comedy that combines laughs and thrill in a charming manner. Monte Banks has the stellar role. The second feature will be "With Buffalo Bill on the U. P. Trail" and epic of the old west starring Roy Stewart, Cullen Landis and Kathryn McGuire.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BILLY WELLS, head of the glove department of the big Curtis Store, was a prize for her answers to a questionnaire prepared by T. Q. CURTIS himself. Billy is suspicious of Old T. Q.'s motives, when she observes that NYDA LOMAX, WINNIE SHELTON and the other twenty-two winners of prizes are the very prettiest girls in the store.

When the old man announces a second and amazing contest, Billy feels her suspicions are substantiated, and she resolves to uncover his plans. When she tells CLAY CURTIS, son of the millionaire owner, about the second contest Clay is instantly suspicious and warns Billy, to let the contest alone. Clay has distinguished himself and is now living in the home of the wealthy family in a poorer part of the town, working in a factory and writing music at night.

He has been thrown down by an actress who refused him when she learned their marriage meant his disinheritance. He determines to make his own way through the life of a working man grates harshly on his sensitive soul, and he has turned to writing music above all else. Billy's ambition to be a great concert violinist is the strongest bond between the two friends.

"What is Old T. Q. up to?" Billy asks herself the day after the big celebration while she pores over the rules for the second contest. When she sits down to write her essay on what she would do should she inherit a hundred thousand dollars, she discovers only enough money for a fine violin and lessons from a good teacher. After her whimsical little confession is written, she tells her mother that she believes she can prophesy who eight of the ten winners of the contest will be. She writes down on a slip of paper the names of the eight prettiest girls in the store.

words of his, he had walled the two of them off from the rest of the store, that they were alone in a charmed, tiny, and precious intimacy. Her pulses were leaping, and she feared that her voice had trembled.

"I believe the young lady's hands are almost as small as yours," he smiled. She was passionately grateful that he need feel no shame for her hands.

"I wear a five and a half," she answered in a low voice, to match the low, almost caressing intimacy of his own tones.

He bought three pairs of the most expensive French gloves in the Curtis Store, and ordered them sent to Miss Annette Truman, one of the "society girls" of Colfax, but he did not give her his card to enclose in the package.

When he was gone, with another of his continental bows, and another of his flashing, intimate smiles, Billy stood for a long minute, unthinking, wrapped in a dreamy haze.

"Have you forgotten your note from T. Q.?" Julie Barker, who had been an interested observer of the sale, inquired caustically. "Wonder who the sheik is? Gee, Billy, you fell for him like a ton of bricks."

She did not answer, but took up T. Q. Curtis' note and ripped open the envelope. Then, with her eyes on the sheet of paper, the spell was broken:

"Mr. Curtis requests your presence in his private office this afternoon at five-forty-five. He is pleased to inform you that you are one of the ten prize winners in the contest. If I had a hundred thousand dollars! Mr. Curtis also requests that you refrain from conversation on the subject of the contest until after he has made the awards."

Billy flushed and trembled with an excitement that could not be wholly explained on the grounds of elation over winning an unnamed prize. For insupportable reasons, she felt that she was on the verge of something tremendous, vitally important to herself.

Lella Sampson came to Billy's department after the store had closed.

"Oh, Billy, I won a prize! I'm so excited I can hardly stand it. Did you—but of course you did!"

"Yes," Billy answered briefly, then her own forebodings were swept away at sight of Lella's shining eyes. "I'm awfully glad you are one of the winners, Lella."

"It was awful in the dressing rooms, Billy," Lella confessed. "Some of the girls wouldn't even speak to me, because they'd heard I'd won a prize. And they're saying the most dreadful things about T. Q. 'Lella go up.' Billy, I've never brushed powder from the front of my little brown velvet dress. I'm not so stuck on this contest business myself. I hope this is the last of T. Q.'s bright ideas."

They went to the only passenger lift in the ascending elevator when they arrived at the open door of T. Q.'s private office, they found that the other eight prize winners were already there, clustered self-consciously about the department store overcoat department.

They were all smiling, but regarding one another with suspicious, speculative eyes.

Billy let Lella Sampson slip in ahead of her, then paused in the doorway, telling the names of the girls on her fingers—two, three, four, five, six, seven—No, she hadn't won her wager—quite.

Billy paused, telling the names of the girls off on her fingers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

THE barometer of the Curtis Store morale that first week of February registered a drop of at least ten degrees.

Billy had rather dreaded to go to work on Monday morning, for fear she would find herself besieged with pleas for help by girls who had no gift for composition. But she found that nearly all of the twenty-five winners of the first contest were strangely reticent as to their hopes and only plans for winning the second. Only Lella Sampson, her devoted chum, asked diffidently and humbly for her help.

"Only twenty of the twenty-five winners will compete," Lella told Billy as they sat over their lunch in the cafeteria. "You know Susie Howard's leaving the store Saturday night, and Callie Bostwick, who won the twenty-fifth prize, says she wouldn't waste ink and paper on the silly contest. So does that Meyers girl who won the next to the last prize. Mrs. Allison in the Stylish Stouts says she hasn't time, because two of her children are sick, and Mrs. Kinley in the French lingerie says the whole thing's too silly for words. So that leaves only twenty and there are ten prizes. Maybe I'll get one if you'll help me."

"All right, but don't talk so loud," Billy cautioned. "Nyda and Winnie are listening. I'll be glad when my lunch hour's changed tomorrow as I won't be running into them. Now, Lella, what would you do if you had a hundred thousand dollars?"

"I couldn't put down on paper what I'd really do," Lella whispered, her plain, freckled face and staining a dull red. "I'd go to Paris and have all those beauty treatments they write about. I'd get reduced and have my face peeled, and my nose made smaller and straighter, and get my hair dyed and permanent-waved, and hire the best modistes I could find. Oh, I sound crazy, I know."

"No, you don't," Billy took her friend's hand and squeezed it under cover of the table. "Go on. After you were turned into an irresistible beauty, what would you do?"

"I'd come back here and build a nice little home for Dad and me, and—and try to make Stanley Powers realize I'm alive. You honestly aren't—arent in love with Stanley, are you? You always said you weren't!" she pleaded.

"Of course I'm not in love with Stanley. I just go with him so you'll have a chance to see him at my house," Billy assured her. "You're a goose if you don't write all that down—except the name of the man," she amended.

"Oh, I couldn't!" Lella flushed more darkly. "I'd just die if anybody but you knew what I really want to do. And what's the use?" she asked drearily. "It's all just make-believe. I'll never have a hundred thousand dollars, or Stanley Powers, or—or anything." A tear rolled down her too plump, freckled cheeks.

By Thursday, the last day on which essays could be submitted, Nyda Lomax and Winnie Shelton, who had been fast friends, were hardly speaking to each other, and Pearl Hadley was in a state of almost constant tearfulness because of the snubs and cutting remarks that she so undeservedly met on every hand.

No one knew just how T. Q. planned to award the prizes, whatever they might be, and when Tuesday of the next week arrived, the entire organization was seething with conjecture, resentment and open suspicion of T. Q.'s motives.

At four o'clock, when the store was at its highest peak of nervous tension, augmented by the fatigue of an unusually heavy day's business, old T. Q.'s personal office boy, Gus, darted like a grinning Mercury from department to department, carrying sealed envelopes which he delivered with his choicest wisecracks, to the twenty girls and women who had answered the question, "If I had a hundred thousand dollars."

Billy was about to open the envelope when a man paused at her counter. Before she looked up into his face, she was conscious only of annoyance that she would have to defer reading her fate as to the contest, but in another moment she had forgotten everything but the man's eyes, which were smiling broadly down upon her. They were strange eyes—a veiled, somber black, but oddly compelling. The lid of one drooped slightly, the long, straight fringe of black lashes almost lying against the smooth, swarthy skin of his lean cheeks.

She had a foolish, feeble thrill of fear that the man's eyes were hypnotizing her, and she was curiously relieved when he smiled. Her eyes, released from the spell he had momentarily laid upon her, traveled swiftly over his face and figure. He was very slim and extremely well groomed. His straight, dark brown hair lay flat and polished against his narrow, aristocratic head, and the sprinkling of gray above the temples added distinction to his Oriental good looks. The thought flashed through her mind that he was a Hindu, for he somehow suggested India, but when he spoke it was with a voice that she had learned to associate with Boston and Harvard.

"Good afternoon," with a slight, foreign bending of the body at his hips, and that smile on his lips and in his eyes which changed his face so miraculously. "Some gloves, please, for a young lady. French gray short gloves, with stitched cuffs."

"The size, please?" Billy felt that, with those few commonplace

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

One Conrad Glasser stabbed his wife to death because he blamed her for the death of their infant son. He complained that she "gadded about" too much and that the baby had died as a result of neglect. Two mouthfuls for thought lurk in this news-item. One is the rather unusualness of such paternal fanaticism. One hears of grief-crazed mothers but rarely of grief-crazed fathers. Perhaps the intensity of the paternal emotion has been much under-estimated. The little tale forces one to realize again, too the double-double responsibility of mothers. Fathers can go to work, leaving the kid job up to the mother. If anything goes wrong, how much better they could have done it!

She didn't do much rocking on the porch! This is the tribute paid a woman who heroines in a certain review of the book. Somehow the eulogy leaves me cold. No type of woman annoys me more than the one who works from dawn to sun, and at campus and college skates. The game, of course, is to make the faculty appear ridiculous. In some lights, it and all other campus uses which have banned autos, are ridiculous. But here's waging that the parents of college skaters and maidens are for the edict. The exalted American standard of living is nowhere so inflated as on campuses. Parents live in poverty in order to give college progeny all the "advantages" the progeny insist they must have. The "advantages" generally mean such things as frat dances, with solid gold vanity cases for the girl guests, autos, college sweaters, pine, satiny, and such "necessities" of life. I'm for any rules that will make the world a safe place for parents! Progeny take altogether too much these days—and give too little.

"A different mode of hairdressing for every hour of the day." "Every bob suited to its wearer." These may be the main slogans of Monsieur Antoine, Paris sculptor-artist-barber, who has come to America to glorify "refine and educate" the American bob.

"Would any woman of taste wear her tennis costume to the opera?" Antoine asked me rhetorically. "Of course not. And yet thousands of women wear their hair the same way for every hour of the day. They could so easily change it."

"The hair is worn smoothly for the street, let us say. When Madame comes in she could fluff it up, put a curl here where there was none before, part it differently. So little trouble and such a difference! For evening a bandeau, or perhaps a hair for formal wear. Or an elaborate headdress that would lend beauty and dignity."

The costume and the occasion determine the type of headdress, Antoine explained. And, of course, the type of individual whose hair is under advisement. For upon this one point Antoine is insistent. The American bob should have greater variety. Standardization may be all right for business, he said, but individually more needed.

About seven years ago Antoine contrived the shingle bob, which eliminates the ugly, harsh back line and enhances the beauty of many a woman. He also has ideas about feminine beauty in general. He has evolved certain rules for make-up which he believes will bring dazzling beauty to women who follow them. Some of them he confided to me:

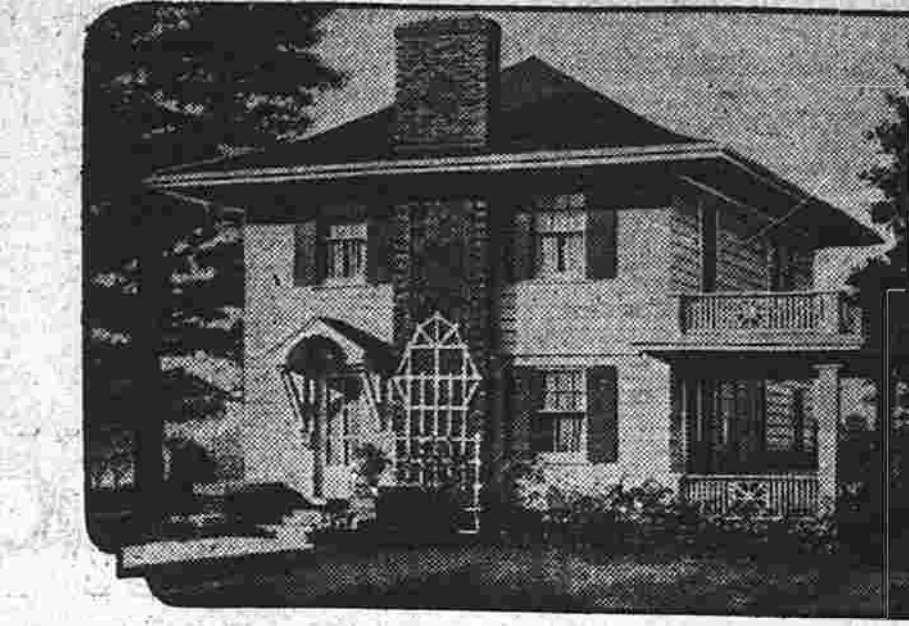

"Shade the eyes from above, darken them from below. Point the eyebrows. Rouge the cheeks only, carefully graduating the tint towards the ears. Choose your powder to match your natural tint. Dark powders give sophisticated expression and emphasize the eyes. "In rouging the lips, exaggerate the more perfect one, diminish the other. Wear much make-up for evening. Next to none for sports. Outdoors, hardly touch the lips but brush the eyebrows well."

But of course the hair is his specialty. He sees women as so many pieces of architecture and says harmony of the bob with the face, the character and build of its wearer is imperative.

"The very idea of the same cut for everyone is preposterous," he exclaimed. "How could old, young, slender, stout, all have the same bob suit them? Hair must be modeled to the head. I do not cut or dress hair. I sculpture it. Only by suiting the style of dress to the occasion and the type of cut to the wearer can real beauty be attained."

A HOME FOR LOVERS OF STRAIGHT LINES

Straight lines in houses appeal to many people and it is for those of that taste that this home, "The Morgan," was designed. It is a model which has been built in great numbers throughout the central states although its popularity is by no means confined to that section. Cost: about $6,500, including hardwood floors, steam heat and full basement. For details, write the Standard Homes Company, Colorado Building, Washington, D. C.

YOUR BODY CAN'T WORK ON SCANTY WATER RATION.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Besides the water used for the surface of the body, sufficient amounts must be taken to keep the kidneys flushed and to prevent the irritation that results when the excretions are too concentrated.

Authorities differ as to the amount necessary for the body. Sixty-five percent of the human body is composed of this fluid. The suggestions seem to average a total of six to ten glasses a day, presumably taken at least one glass between each meal, one with each meal, one before going to sleep, and one on getting up in the morning.

Opinions also differ as to whether or not water should be taken at meals. It serves the purpose of diluting the mixture of food in the stomach, making the absorption easier and facilitating the movement of the residue through the intestines. Water should not, however, be used to wash down lumps of unchewed food that they may remain in the mouth while eating.

Ice water is a common American habit, little used in foreign countries. It chills the stomach, but so far as known is not harmful, unless taken in excessive quantities or at times when the person may be overheated.

Carbonated water, soda water, ginger ale and similar modifications of ordinary water are pleasant to take if one has a taste for them. They sometimes serve the purpose of adding alkali, which is of benefit in persons who have unusual acidity. Flavored waters are ordinarily harmless if properly prepared and if they do not contain so much sugar that they interfere with the appetite and digestion.

It should be remembered that tea, coffee, milk and soup are largely water and that most foods contain a considerable amount of fluid as well. In persons with disease conditions that tend to accumulate water in the body, the amount of fluid intake is ordinarily restricted by the physician.

From the hygienic point of view the amount and nature of bacteria contained in the water are of great importance. Formerly typhoid fever was transmitted primarily by bad water supplies. Nowadays any civilized community controls the bacterial content of its water supply by the use of filtration and chlorination.

Among the faddists there are also water fanatics that flood the body with fluids and in their places of employment wear a path from the desk to the drinking fountain. Over-concentration on water is just as bad a habit as over-concentration on anything else.

Shalt Nots

By Olive Roberts Burton

An official nurse in the New York Police Department speaks with conviction when she says that girls get tired of home because they are bored with too much managing.

"They get tired of being told exactly what they must do and what they must not do, and in order to escape it and think for themselves, they run away," she says.

I suppose we call that girl delinquent or incorrigible or something like that. Usually we refer to her as ungrateful, I believe.

It isn't always girls. It's boys, too! Something has gone wrong! For some reason they have lost all respect for parental authority, and when that happens the father usually in the fire, and son John is off.

Booth Tarkington is talking a good deal of freedom in marriage. His theory was something like this:

A husband or wife, chafing under strict discipline of marriage laws, breaks away altogether and gets a divorce. If there were fewer shalt and shalt nots to abide by, and each of the contracting persons were willing to tie an extra piece of string to the tie that binds, no one would want a divorce.

Rally In Final Five Minutes Helps Manchester Tie

DEXTER SUGGESTED AS NEW PRESIDENT OF THE C. B. A. A.

Nominating Committee Slate Ready For Approval at Annual Meeting Tonight.

Franklin C. Dexter, 65 Durkin street, will probably be elected president of Cheney Brothers Athletic association tonight to succeed Thomas Weir when that organization holds its annual meeting at Cheney hall.

Dexter, who is a superintendent in the Yarn Dye and Finishing department, has been selected by the nominating committee as the next president and this is usually tantamount to election. The remainder of the slate which will be presented to the 700 odd members for approval is as follows:

Secretary and treasurer: John L. Jenny, holder of that office now.

Bowling president: Joe Canade to succeed "Hammy" Metcalf.

Baseball president: George Hunt renominated.

Volley ball president: George Gibbons renominated.

Track president: Robert Schubert to succeed William Schields.

Tennis president: Matthew Macdonald to succeed Walter Scott.

Soccer president: James Finlay renominated.

This slate, if approved, will bring four new persons into office. The nominating committee, named by President Weir, includes in addition to himself: Frank Cervini, J. L. Jenney, George Rowell and Andy Anderson.

The meeting at Cheney hall will start with the business session at 8 and will be followed by four three-round exhibitions of boxing. Admission will be by membership card only but those who have not secured them may do so at the box office. Refreshments will be served after the boxing entertainment.

SETBACK TOURNEYS END AT THE MILLS

Successful Sport Comes to a Conclusion; Average Attendance 56 For 24 Sitings.

With the completion of the fourth setback tournament conducted by Cheney Brothers Athletic association last week, this popular sport came to a close. Twenty-four nights of play have been held during the four tournaments and there has been an average attendance of 56 players. The popular sport will be resumed next fall.

The winners of the first tournament were R. Johnson and Custer while the runners-up were Mallon and Kerr. The second was won by Schubert and Chambers. O. Wiganowski and Loomis were second. Shorts and Muldoon won the third nosing out Minnich and J. Ritchie. The fourth tournament which ended last Thursday was won by Pontillo, Weiman and Breen finished second.

Following is the standing of the players in the final tournament:

SPORT CHATTER

Reports reaching here from the sunny south are that Springfield college is making a success of its spring baseball tour, winning four of its first five games. Captain Gil Wright, Manchester 'boy, is more than contributing his bit both in batting and fielding the hot drives that come sizzling down toward the daisy sack.

The national schoolboy basketball crown sought by Bristol, conqueror of Manchester, went to Morton High of Cicero, Illinois. Batesville, Arkansas was the runner-up. The next two were Florence, Mississippi and Huron, South Dakota. Bristol was eliminated by Florence.

The lineup of the Clecro quintet is interesting from a nationality standpoint. It follows: Kawalski, Rondineila, Nystrom, Rezabek and Fencel.

It is understood that members of the Manchester High basketball team who will be eligible to play next season, will not be included in the lineup of the Manchester Independents at Willmantic tonight against Heller Brothers' five. Captain Elmo Mantell expects to put a fast team on the floor, however. Holland, Gorman, Farr, Kittel, and Campbell will form the nucleus.

Murphy's Girls tackle the All-Hartford team in state league bowling matches this week. Tomorrow night, the teams bowl here and Thursday night in Hartford. The Hartford team is considered one of the best in the circuit.

The Manchester soccer team has but one more home game to play, that with the Clan Campbell team at Bridgeport, and it is possible the contest will take place next Sunday. Manager Jimmie McCollough states that there are also two more league games to be played out of town. One is with the Clan Campbell and the other with the Swedes, both of Bridgeport.

The Juniors and Seniors were scheduled to play this afternoon in the series to decide the inter-class basketball championship at the high school. The winner will meet the Sophomores, who drew a bye for the title Wednesday.

Notes Of The Training Camps

Atlanta, Ga., April 4.—As a result of their four to two victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Montgomery yesterday, the Yankees now have won two games to the Cardinals' three in the "Spring World's Series." Hoyt's pitching and two Ruthian doubles enabled the Yanks to win. The series will be resumed here today.

Mobile, Ala., April 4.—The pennant stock of the supposedly weak-hitting Brooklyn Robins was soaring today following their second victory over the Cleveland Indians, eight to seven.

Birmingham, Ala., April 4.—Having swamped Memphis 23 to 2, the Giants are here today to resume their series with Washington. Outfielder Andy Reese, made six hits, two of them coming in the first inning when the Giants scored ten runs.

Shreveport, La., April 3.—The rubber event of a seven-game series between the White Sox and Shreveport of the Texas League will be played today. Each team has won three games. The Sox lost thirteen to three yesterday.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 4.—The Cubs were here today for an exhibition game against the local Western League Team. They beat Dallas yesterday, eleven to six.

Secrets of 16 Years Successful Pitching

BY GROVER ALEXANDER, CHINA SERVICE VETERAN PITCHER OF WORLD'S CHAMPIONS

Or all the batters I have faced, and I can't remember offhand just how many players have been before me, Ed Rousch and Ross Young are the trickiest. I won't say they are the hardest hitters, but they are the trickiest, smartest.

Speaking for myself, I am the one who is fiddling around when Eddie and Ross come up to the plate. I say to myself—what the devil are they going to do now? Rousch and Young can bluff a batter; they can cleverly drag the ball down the first base line; they can shift their stance at the plate while the ball is sailing through the air and then can take a good, healthy sweat at the ball.

Such style batters will worry any pitcher.

The first thing I do when my batter is set is to watch his feet. When he starts digging that rear foot deep into the ground he is getting a toe-hold. He is ready to kick one for fair. He gets a slow curve, and the other with the Rousch and Young do not set themselves at any time. They scrape and jockey around, balance on their toes, shift the feet and keep the pitcher up in the air. The pitcher doesn't know whether it is a bunt or a full swing. What's the result? The pitcher is trying to do the guessing.

Take batters like Rog Hornsby, Heinie Zimmerman, Gavy Cravath, Emil Mussel, George Kelly, who have one spot at the plate and only one. They are waiting for one to come over, then put all of their power behind the swing. Such fellows will hit them far. When they do the pitcher isn't worried. But Rousch and Young are the ones who make a pitcher do a full day's work each time they strut to the plate.

The proper mental attitude is everything in pitching. I always carry the thought that it is more difficult for the batter to get the ball safe than to be retired. He is playing a lone hand against nine men. I face a majority of batters with that thought and have been very successful.

Batters of the Rousch and Young type—Ty Cobb of the American League, has a similar style—test the pitcher to the limit. I am frank to admit I always feel a bit more comfortable when either of the first two named are out of the way.

The batsman who mixes 'em up is a much tougher customer than the slugger type, best exemplified by Babe Ruth.

DEMPSEY MUST HAVE OPERATION BEFORE HE CAN FIGHT AGAIN

Doctors Say He Will Be No Good Otherwise—Is Suffering From Skin Eruptions Now.

By DAVIS J. WALSH, I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, April 4.—It developed today that Jack Dempsey, the man with bigger and better carbuncles, may have to undergo a more or less serious operation before he can return to boxing, if at all. His physicians have diagnosed his case as an imperfect recovery from an operation for fistula, performed shortly after the Firpo riot; his melancholy performance against Gene Tunney and the series of skin eruptions and poisonings that followed are traced to the same source.

Having done which, the men of medicine say it must be the old nose bag with ether or the nose dive with resin and razzerberries.

Dempsey's operation, they say, has revealed that although Dempsey is 32, he has the heart, lungs and tissues of a man of 24, and they feel that if the poisonous condition is removed he will be as sound physically as the night he knocked out Firpo.

An intelligent working man has a vocabulary of 5000 words, while an educated man should know 8000 to 10,000 words.

Now affecting his system and are urging an immediate operation to save them and give him a longer period of recuperation. Their story is that Dempsey would be champion today if he had submitted to the operation when he first tied up with Tunney early last summer.

Their examinations, they say, have revealed that although Dempsey is 32, he has the heart, lungs and tissues of a man of 24, and they feel that if the poisonous condition is removed he will be as sound physically as the night he knocked out Firpo.

It is this early training fails to produce the desired effect, Dempsey then will come east, enter some New York hospital and let the surgeons do their worst. The fact that Jack is prepared to go that far with the matter, even though he fears death, gives a pretty fair line on just how sincere the explanation is in his desire for another rally with Tunney.

Present Program

The program at the moment calls for Dempsey to start east early in May, either to begin intensive training or to submit to the operation in question. He expects to be ready for his first bout by July Fourth.

His physicians, it is said, are frankly skeptical of his plan to train himself out of the disorders

Coventry Child Challenges Our Young Acrobats

South Coventry has a five-year old acrobat whom it wishes to enter in competition with any Manchester child of similar age in a public exhibition at the State Theater. He is Leo J. Crowley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Crowley of R. F. D. No. 1, So. Coventry. Acceptance of this challenge should be sent to this address.

The little fellow, a truly remarkable performer, made his first public appearance in a Willmantic exhibition about two weeks ago and since then has also appeared before the footlights in East Hartford.

According to the elder Crowley, the development of Junior began when he was only six months of age, when the father inaugurated a series of exercises to develop the muscle of his son's back. This system was intensified as the lad became older. Nothing seems to phase the little fellow and one of the reasons for the success is his absolute fearlessness. He is also eager to learn new "stunts" and takes to them as a duck to water.

Some of his more notable feats are balancing on one foot while at arm's length above his father's head, doing the back bend or "bridge," holding himself rigid in a horizontal position with his father grasping his ankles and balancing himself horizontally by a hand stand above his father's head. Another stunt is coming to an upright hand stand above his father's head after the latter has swung him from a prone position on the floor between his legs.

The little lad now weighs thirty-seven pounds. His father is a fireman in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, while his mother was formerly Miss Caroline Eldea Ackerman of East Hartford. There are two other children in the family. Mr. and Mrs. Crowley formerly lived in East Hartford, where Junior was born, then removing to a small farm they purchased in South Coventry.

While Greater London's population goes on increasing steadily, the city itself now has a population of only 13,250, compared to 128,129 in 1901.

VILLA AND HALL MAY MEET AGAIN HERE WEDNESDAY

Rival Hartford Boxers File Entries For Cheney Hall Tournament; Other Entries.

While all the entries for the amateur boxing tournament at Cheney Hall Wednesday night have not been completed, expectations were today that the feature bout of the evening would be a return to between Pancho Villa and Ray Hall, both of Hartford. These two 140-pounders fought at the last C. B. A. A. show and gave the fans a real grudge battle furnishing colorful fireworks all the way.

Villa was given the verdict because he outpointed his rival landing many more blows. Hall waited patiently for an opportunity to put over the haymaker for which he is so noted but it was in vain. Villa was too cautious and danced quickly out of range everytime Hall wanted to uncork his famous right which has dropped no less than fifty opponents during his career. Hall landed the harder punches but not nearly so often as Villa. He even thought to deserved the decision and was plainly disturbed when the judges ruled for Villa. But he hopes to secure an obvious advantage this time.

Other entries announced today by Promoter Jenny bring together the following mit-fighters:

Louis Pellissier, Holyoke and Paul Tera, East Hartford, 147 pounds.

Gerald Board, Holyoke, and Al Dowd, Manchester, 126 pounds.

Paul Staffick, Holyoke, and Eddie Reed, Hartford, 112 pounds.

Al Larivee, Holyoke, and Eddie Camp, Hartford, 105 pounds.

Al Satory, Rockville, and Billy Nelson, Hartford, 135 pounds.

Vic Morley, Hartford, and Al Palowitz, Hartford, 150 pounds.

Joe Champ, Hartford, 135 pounds.

Mickey Roberts, Hartford, 118 pounds.

Promoter Jenny expects to have additional entries he said today.

HOCKEY MATCHES

New York, April 4.—With the New York Rangers meeting the Boston Bruins here and the Ottawa Senators clashing with the Montreal Canadiens, the semi-finals in the hockey championship will be played tonight. The Rangers and the Bruins played a scoreless tie on Saturday while Ottawa was swapped the Canadians four to nothing.

ROBERTS VS. MELLO

Boston, Mass., April 4.—Eddie Roberts, the K. O. man from Tacoma, Wash., was here today to battle Al Mello, of Lowell, New England welterweight, in a ten round bout at the arena tonight. Betting was even.

PARIS DIVORCES

Paris, April 4.—Mrs. Arthur Moulton Allen nee Margaret Jackson, has filed a petition for divorce here, charging desertion. The Allens were married in Providence, R. I., in June, 1904.

Mrs. Frederick John Barnbrook, the former Euphemia Louisa Tudor Dade, has also filed a petition for divorce on grounds of desertion. The Barnbrooks were married in Quebec, September 10, 1917. Barnbrook's address is given as 1003 East Ocean, Long Beach, Calif.

EGGARS LEADS BOWLERS

Peoria, Ill., April 4.—Bill Eggars, member of the J. H. Moynahan team, Chicago, today held the lead in the American bowling Congress tournament with a total of 109. Eggars' scores were 223, 247, 136.

THISTLES HAVE VICTORY WITHIN GRASP AS LOCALS TIE THE SCORE

Billy Evans Says

DON'T DIE ON THIRD! When George Moriarty, now manager of the Detroit Tigers, starred at third base in the American League, his favorite axiom was: "Don't Die On Third."

In other words, George Moriarty always believed that too many players on reaching third base, put the issue entirely up to the batsman to score them.

It has since been Moriarty's theory that a smart base runner is as capable of stealing home as easily as second or third. He insists he always found it a much softer proposition.

New Slogan of Detroit

However, in many other ways aside from stealing home, Moriarty believes a base runner can help himself across the plate. Worrying the pitcher by his antics getting a real break when trying to score on a tap to the infield, picking the proper spot on the double steal, breaking fast when trying to steal on a caught fly, are a few of them.

Don't die on third.

That will be the slogan of the Detroit Tigers this season. As a matter of fact, as long as George Moriarty manages the team that should be for some time, as he has been eminently successful as a player and manager, and should continue along those lines as manager.

All of which means Detroit will be a colorful as well as interesting team, because it is going to make by the most of its opportunities and by its willingness to dare will create many of them.

Stress Value of Speed

Every effort will be made to take advantage of the club's speed. Hours and hours have already been spent in perfecting this phase of play. It has equally shared the time with batting, fielding and pitching.

In many years, baserunning has been more or less overlooked as an important factor in pennant success. Get the runs in clusters through brute force has dominated the game.

In this respect the Detroit club is sure to be decidedly different this year. It is going to run bases. Don't get the impression the player are merely going to try to steal bases indiscriminately. For, after all, the theft of a base is but a single part of the base-running scheme.

Utilizing the speed of the team in every possible manner, taking a daring chance on the bases when the score makes such a thing smart baseball, trying to figure opposing pitchers and then properly utilizing the knowledge gained, are just a few of the features that make for a good base-running team.

Best Qualified to Instruct

Not a speed merchant, and yet far from slow, George Moriarty as a player was one of the best baserunners I have ever followed around the paths. He was smart, knew all the tricks of the trade and made use of them.

I know of no one better qualified to instruct in the art of baserunning than George Moriarty. While many of his players know of him as a player only by reputation, his fame as a baserunner has come down to them.

The Detroit team is known to have power at the bat. Moriarty's chief aim is to speed it up on the bases. It is my opinion that he is succeeding.

Hartford Leading 2-0 When Manchester Penetrates Its Defense For Two Goals Thus Staving Off Impending Defeat.

Three hundred persons witnessed one of the most spectacular and sensational soccer games ever seen in Manchester yesterday when they watched the Thistles and Manchester battled to a tie game at Mt. Nubo grounds. Each team tallied twice.

Outplayed in the first half, Manchester left the field trailing 2-0. But in the second half Manchester came back strong and played the Hartford team to a standstill while the large crowd of rooters went mad with joy. Every player on the local eleven did his share. The Thistles were lucky not to be sent home on the short end of the score for Manchester had a chance at a penalty goal but flipped.

The Thistles opened the score after 15 minutes of play, Lindsay taking the first goal. On a mis-kick by Poots, Kelly scored the second and last goal for Hartford a few minutes later.

The second half opened fast and furious. The Manchester players were full of vigor, pep and determination as they took the field. The local forwards with the assistance of a stonewall defense played brilliantly and the pressure was such that Gowan was forced to give a penalty kick but Nicholson missed the opportunity.

In the last five minutes, Hartford's defense was finally penetrated. McCann scored the first Manchester goal and Nicholson put the home team on equal terms when he tallied another beating three men to make the score.

The tie will be played off in Hartford at some future date. Yesterday's game was in the first round of the Protective Cup competition. The lineups:

Manchester	Thistles
Pratt	Watt
Poots	Gowan
Wilson	Ferguson
Hamilton	Bowes
Cunningham	Hanley
Dolan	Munson
McCann	Campbell
Nicholson	Kelly
Marshall	Lindsay
Pratt	Chips
Robinson	Keets

SARAZEN OFF PLAY

White Sulphur Springs, Va., April 4.—Gene Sarazen has not been going well this year, but he still is a jinx for Walter Hagen. Gene defeated Walter, 2 and 1, in their special 36-hole match here Sunday, making the fourth victory for the diminutive Sarazen in five starts against Hagen. Sarazen had a card of 72-70, against Hagen's 76 and 73.

SENSE and NONSENSE

You can't blame a truck for its manners. It contains more pig iron than an automobile.

The second-hand car passeth nothing but understanding.

How times have changed! A year ago dealers could sell automobiles twice as fast as they could get them; now they can get them four times faster than they can sell them.

Pedestrians are entitled to consideration and usually get it after they have been knocked down.

"Never heard of the car. Who makes it?"

"Jack fell out of his car the other day and broke his penisula." "His what?" "Peninsula! A long neck stretch- ing out to sea."

Lady (at street corner): "I certainly shall cross, officer; I've every bit as much right on this street as that truck has."

Officer: "Sure you have, lady—but leave me your name and address before you start!"

Traffic Cop—"Hey, you! Didn't you hear me yelling for you to stop?"

Auto Fiend—"Oh! What? Was that you yelling? I thought that it was somebody I had run over."

The modern version is he who hesitates in traffic is bumped.

"One gallon," snapped the man in the big car. "Smatter, your bus on a diet trying to reduce?"

"No, I want just enough gas to get me to a filling station that isn't in charge of a smart aleck," retorted the man in the big car.

AMERICAN HISTORY

Here are a few questions in American history. If any of them are too much for you, you'll find the answers on another page.

1—Who succeeded Washington as president?

2—What chief justice of the supreme court, early in the last century, gained fame for his interpretations of the Constitution?

3—The expression, "To the victor belong the spoils," was first applied to governmental appointments during the administration of what president?

4—During the two or three decades just preceding the Civil War, what was the "Underground Railway"?

5—Who was William Lloyd Garrison?

6—What famous New York editor, at the outbreak of the Civil War, urged that the southern states be allowed to secede?

7—What pioneer made the barren basin of Great Salt Lake one of the garden spots of the west and established prosperity and industry in Utah at a time when surrounding states were largely uncultivated waste lands?

8—Who became president on the death of President Garfield?

9—What secretary of state committed America to the "open door" policy in China?

10—Under what president did the United States navy make a round-the-world cruise?

Now, Margery Daw was very kind. The Tines knew she didn't mind if they rode on her see-saw board, and had a lot of fun. Said she, "I'll let the one end drop and then you little Tines hop right on, and then I'll pull you up." No sooner said than done.

The whole bunch clamored on one end. Said Scouty, "Oh, the board will bend," as Margery also climbed aboard, and started swinging, too. "Well, maybe so," wee Margery cried, "but we won't know until it's tried. However, I don't think that it will really break in two."

They found that Scouty was all wrong, and, though it bent a little, it didn't break in half. They'd bob right up, and quickly bound when'er the board would hit the ground. It really was a circus and they all began to laugh.

Just then they heard a distant bell, and Margery jumped and shouted, "Well, I'll have to run on homeward now. They're calling me to lunch. Just use my board, but don't get rough." Then Clowny said, "We've had enough." So off they traveled down the road, a very happy bunch.

Not far away they saw a lad, and Copy said, "My, he looks sad. Let's ask him what's the matter. Maybe we can help him out." They rushed right up and joined the boy. He seemed to greet them all with joy, and shortly he was telling what his trouble was about.

"Someone has thrown a cat I had down in this well. That's why I'm sad. I still can hear meowing. Oh, my, I wish I knew, if pussy still is safe and sound."

"Well, we'll look around, and you just stop your fussing. There is something we can do."

JACK LOCKWILL'S POLO PONY

Jack told Gideon Butler, the local sheriff, how Snucks Cowl had set his vicious dog on Della Wayne's pony. "Well, I guess old Cowl ain't ever took out no license for that critter," said Butler. "I'll find out about it, and if he ain't, he's goin' to lose an ugly cur that other folks has complained about." Having investigated and found that he was right about the license, the sheriff shot the dog.

"That Lockwill feller's to blame," said Snucks to his father, as they watched the sheriff departing after the dog had been disposed of. "You wait! I'll make him pay for it!"

The Grand Vizier came to Jack. "We're going to play polo with the Michigan Academy team next week," he said, "and we haven't a good substitute player. How about you?"

Jack laughed. "I didn't suppose you'd want me, even as a substitute, after the way you ordered me off the field a while ago," he replied. "It was what you did that day that made me come to you now," confessed Winthrop. So Jack consented and began to practice with the Rocklake players. Like a waiting vulture, Snucks Cowl watched the polo players day after day from behind a distant building.

NOT TOLD OF COTTAGE FIRE TILL NEXT DAY

The fire at the Donnelly cottage at Coventry lake early last Friday morning remains unexplained. Some doubt has since been cast on a statement current on Friday that a light had been seen in the cottage shortly before the fire was discovered, as the person who was reported as having seen it later admitted that it might have been the reflection of a blaze in the interior of the cottage.

Mrs. Robert Donnelly, of 60 Cooper street, declares that she was misunderstood in the matter of refusing to answer a telephone call in the small hours and asserts that no phone call notifying the family of the burning of the cottage came until 7 o'clock in the morning, though other cottage owners were called up and told of the fire while it was still in progress.

LAWYER FOR TONGMEN VISITS MURDER SCENE

Francis P. Rohrmayer, of Hartford, counsel for the defense in the Chinese murder trial in Hartford Superior court growing out of the slaying of Ong King in a laundry here two weeks ago, was in Manchester Friday afternoon for several hours. He visited the scene of the crime on Oak street.

He was accompanied by County Detective Edward J. Hickey. Recently States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn came to Manchester for the same purpose.

Mrs. Lottie Dehman of Teachers' hall is in Memorial hospital.

KIWANIANS TO LUNCH WITH HARTFORD CLUB

Wednesday's Meeting to be Held at Rainbow Inn—Dr. Johnstone, Speaker.

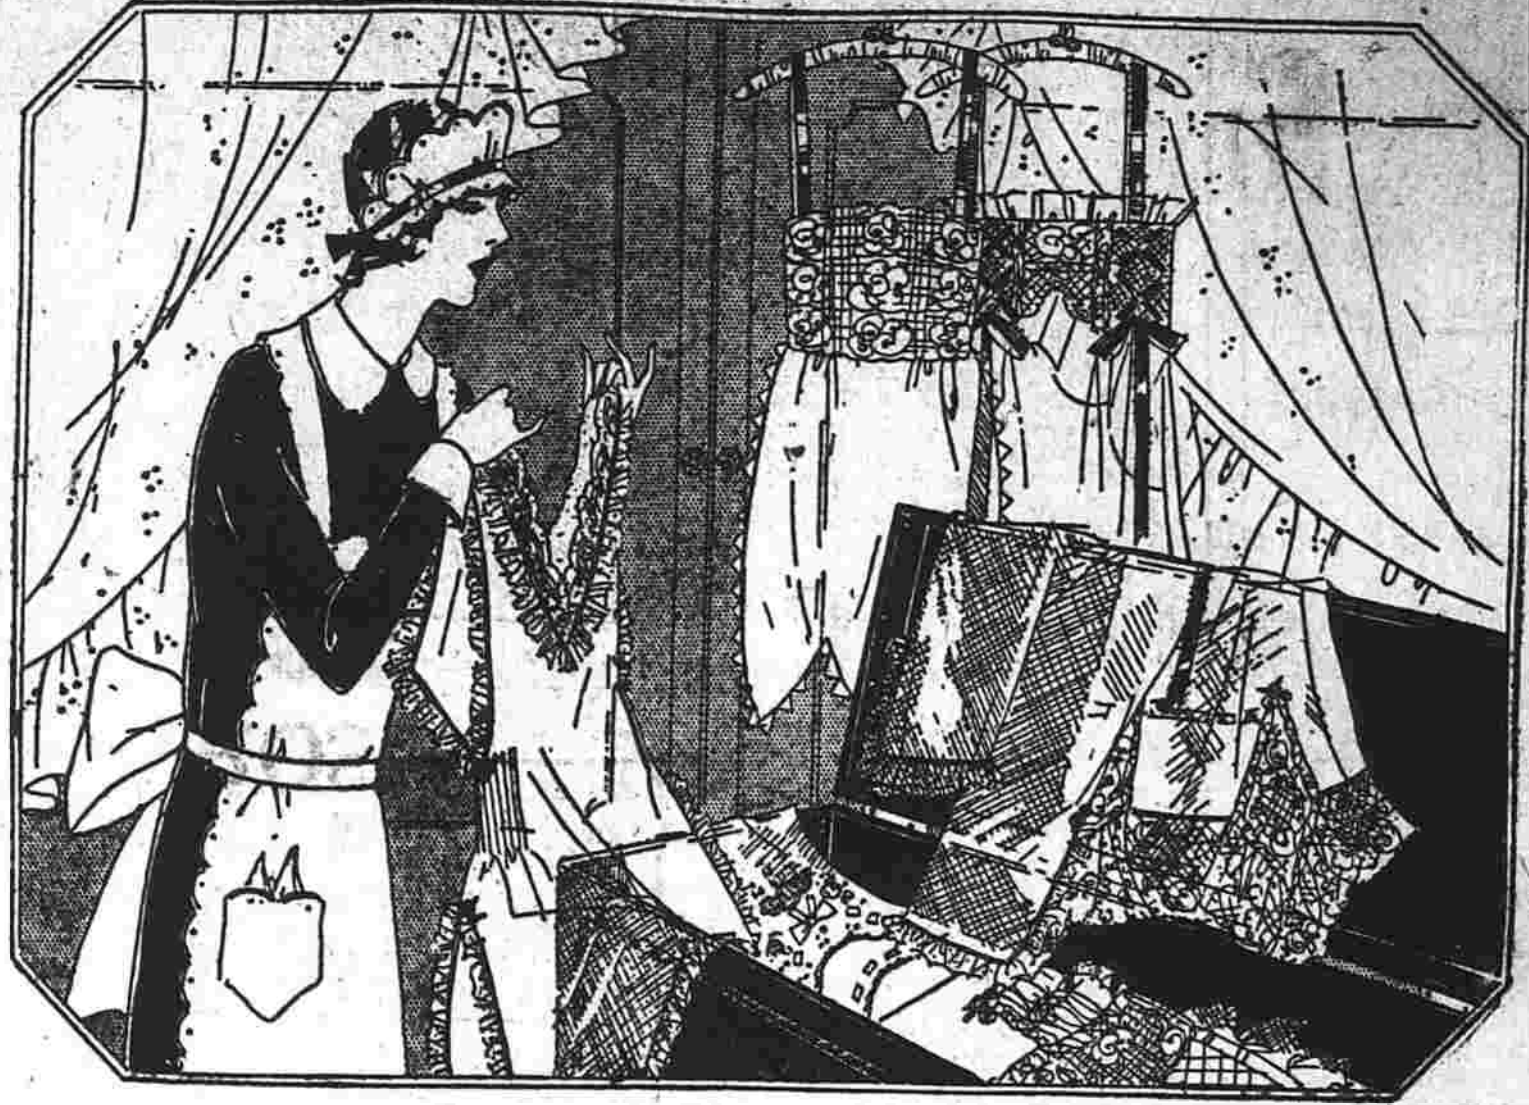

Hartford Kiwanians will be in charge of the regular Wednesday noonday session of the Manchester Kiwanis club this week. Since at least twenty-five of the members of the parent club are expected, it has been decided to hold the luncheon meeting at the Rainbow Inn in Bolton.

The visiting Kiwanians will furnish an able speaker in the Rev. Dr. John F. Johnstone, provide the music and stunts and conduct a real Kiwanis meeting. It therefore behooves every member of the local club to be on hand and see how "Daddy Hartford" does it. If there are any who desire transportation they should get in touch at once with Secretary George H. Wilcox.

Dr. Johnstone is no stranger to Manchester gatherings. Those who have heard him here or in Hartford, where he is pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will welcome the opportunity to hear what he has to say Wednesday on the topic, "That which Kiwanians most need and that which they can best offer this day and generation."

In the attendance contest Arthur Knoke's "Real Estate Barons" are a few points ahead of Charlie Dickett's "Whippets." The former's percentage for March was 90 to 87 for the Whippets.

Frank Cheney, Jr., will furnish the attendance prize Wednesday.
