

BOARD ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF SAMUEL NELSON

Selectmen Take Only Way Left to Settle Assessors Trouble—Ahern to Lay Sidewalks Again.

The Board of Selectmen in a special meeting last night voted to accept the resignation of Samuel Nelson, Jr., as a member of the Board of Assessors. The resignation will take effect immediately. Mr. Nelson was elected to the board last fall for a three-year term. The Selectmen will not appoint a member to fill the unexpired term but will ask the town to elect another member next fall.

The acceptance of Mr. Nelson's resignation is somewhat unexpected. It does, however, bring to a head a troublesome condition which has existed in the Board of Assessors since the election of John Jensen to the board a year ago last fall. The Selectmen, although aware of the lack of harmony among the three assessors, tried their best to iron out the difficulties.

Best They Could Do
At a special meeting with the three assessors last month the trouble seemed to have been overcome, but when asked to bring in their own recommendations as to a solution last night the assessors had nothing to offer. The Selectmen decided, therefore, to take the best action they could under the circumstances and accepted the resignation of Mr. Nelson which was offered a little over a month ago.

The Selectmen feel that there has been no co-operation among the three members of the board. It is composed of S. Emil Johnson, chairman, Samuel Nelson, Jr., and John Jensen. There have been petty jealousies among the members, said the Selectmen, and most of it has appeared in the last year. Most of the members of the board feel that the naming of Samuel Nelson as a permanent clerk caused considerable feeling within the assessors' board.

"Dollars and Cents"
Mr. Nelson will not now consider the position of permanent clerk of the Board of Assessors, and both Mr. Johnson and Mr. Jensen look rather coolly on a permanent clerk. A member of the Selectmen said last night that the whole trouble was one of "dollars and cents." He blamed Mr. Jensen for the trouble saying that Mr. Jensen has wanted an increase in pay ever since being named a member of the assessors. The salary at present is $500 per year.

The Board of Selectmen feel that the assessors must co-operate in order to make the Linder system worth while. The present system, accepted Mr. Nelson's resignation and feel that another man should be elected in Mr. Jensen's place next fall. They feel that three assessors with an all time clerk should be able to take care of the job well. And they also feel that $500 is sufficient pay each year for each of the assessors.

Wait Until Fall
The work of the assessors is in such condition now that the matter can be left until the next town election. Then, the present Selectmen hope that a new Board of Assessors will work together better and that they will allow a permanent clerk to be hired to do the clerical work necessary to keep the Linder system up to date.

Sidewalk Contract
Ahern Brothers, sidewalk contractors, were again awarded the work to be done in Manchester this summer. The bid was entered by Henry Ahern and was one of three considered by the Selectmen. The estimated cost of the work is $46,295. Ahern Brothers' bid was the lowest of the three which the Selectmen opened and it is slightly lower than his bid for sidewalk construction last year.

The firm which is now practically a local one, since Henry Ahern lives at 14 Bond street here, has done the sidewalk work in Manchester for the past four years. The concern's work is very satisfactory and the board was pleased that the Ahern bid was the lowest so that the work could again be awarded to them.

Concerns Bidding
Three concerns entered bids after five o'clock. One of the three was entered but a few minutes after five, but since others came later, it was the opinion of the board that it was only fair to bar out all of those which came after the advertised hour of closing the bids. The three concerns whose bids were not considered were Economy Concrete Construction Co., Westfield, Conn.; Nathan Radish, Hartford, and Connecticut Concrete Co., Waterbury. The two firms which bid against Ahern Brothers were D. D. Lewis, Schenectady, N. Y., and R. E. Cronse, West Hartford, Conn.

There was only one hearing before the board.

Doctor in Fairbanks Tells Nurse at Seward What to Do for Patient.

Seward, Alaska, April 5.—Heavy storms and low temperature over the Bering Sea forced Joe Crosson, pilot with the Wilkins expedition, to give up his attempt to carry David Sepillu, wealthy Eskimo, reported dying on isolated St. Lawrence Island, to a Nome hospital by plane. It was reported here today, Sepillu was being treated today by radio instructions given by a doctor in Fairbanks to a nurse at the patient's bedside.

SEEK DAMAGES IN DEATH OF LUCAS

Family Enters Claim Against State; Asserts Ill Treatment Was Fatal.

Allegations that Matthew Lucas suffered a fractured jaw, five fractured ribs and numerous cuts and bruises were made yesterday in a formal claim filed with the attorney-general in Hartford against the state by John Lucas, father of the youth who died several weeks ago at the Connecticut State hospital in Middletown. It is further alleged that young Lucas, who was twenty years old, died as the result of neglect of proper care and medical attention, and that death was directly caused by "the acts and direct neglect of employees of said institution."

The affair of the Lucas boy began with a quarrel between Matthew and his sister Jennie in their home on Homestead street in Homestead Park. Police were called and Lucas was found to be mentally unbalanced. He was committed to the Middletown institution for an indefinite period. At the hospital a scuffle took place between Lucas and one of the attendants who was attempting to give him a bath. This was on February 2. It was during the struggle that Lucas sustained his injuries. He was ill-treated, nine days later, Lucas died. Septic blood poisoning was given as the cause.

Inquest Exonerated.
Because the demands of the Lucas family were so persistent, an inquest was ordered by Coroner Lowndes A. Smith of Middlesex county. The hospital officials were exonerated.
Later another autopsy was held, the family being dissatisfied with the coroner's finding. Two Springfield attorneys have been engaged and the body was removed from the receiving vault in St. James's cemetery and taken to the undertaking establishment of William P. Quish where a Hartford surgeon conducted a post-mortem. Although no definite statement was obtainable at the time as to what was revealed in the autopsy, one of the Springfield attorneys said enough evidence had been discovered to warrant going ahead with the case.

TAKING NO CHANCES IN MINE TERRITORY

Sheriff Forbids Assemblage of Three or More Persons in Districts Near Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 5.—Sheriff Robert H. Braun, of Allegheny county, where 18,000 union miners are idle as a result of the bituminous suspension, served notice on miners and operators alike today he would permit no "Bloody Williamson County" scenes to be enacted within his domain.

The Allegheny county sheriff made this announcement in explanation of his order forbidding the assemblage of three or more persons in the vicinity of mines operated with non-union miners. "The rule applies to both factions in the wage controversy," said the sheriff.

Union officials objected to the rule because it interfered with picketing. No more than two pickets may be stationed at any one mine at a time under the sheriff's order.
Constabularymen first enforced the order at the Gallatin mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., near Monongahela, dispersing 350 union miners and their sympathizers who sought to enlist the support of non-union miners.

BUCKLAND SUIT SHOWS REALTOR DIED WELL OFF

Estate of Local Man Who Was Deemed Broke at Death Is Sued By 14 Persons; Left $50,000 Equity.

That the late W. L. Buckland had an estate equity valued at more than $50,000 at the time of his suicide in Florida last Spring is disclosed in the suit being brought against his estate by 14 people to recover $32,000 which they claim to have invested with him in his Florida projects. The action is being brought by William S. Hyde of this town in behalf of the 14 plaintiffs and property of the Buckland estate, now administered by the Hartford Connecticut Trust Company, has been attached.

The original inventory of the Buckland estate totaled $30,343.05 but a blanket mortgage on the property of $30,000 brought this down to the figure at which it is now inventoried. It was the general impression in Manchester when the Buckland suicide occurred, that he was insolvent and heavily in debt.

The Buckland project, the development of a tract of land known as the Simmons property in Bradenton, Fla., was to have called for the payment of a purchase price of $25,000. The investors, who are suing for the return of their money, allege that Buckland had taken up in semi-annual payments secured by a mortgage.

Say Purchase Failed.
They say that Buckland told them he was in a position to get clear title to the Simmons property and that the only loss they would risk lay in the possibility that the land sold at a loss after its development. They affirm that Buckland failed to make the payments on the property after they had invested their money.

The suitors and the amount of their claims are the following: Isabelle Harrison, Windsor, Conn., $1,000; Mary Oliver, New Britain, $2,000; Robert H. Peck, Springfield, Mass., $4,000; Mrs. Wray, Wall, Greenfield, Mass., $1,000; Harold E. D'Amico, New York City, $4,000; J. Frank Hill, North Leominster, Mass., $10,000; and the following Fitchburg people: George A. Merrill, $5,000; Sidney Dempsey, $1,000; John E. Dempsey, $1,000; Joseph Siston, $3,000; Roy A. Bishop, $500; Roland and Cora Dempsey, $1,000.

CHENEYS WILLING TO HELP SURVEY Firm Passive, However, Chamber's Committee Is Told at Conference.

Charles Cheney, president of Cheney Brothers, yesterday afternoon told the Chamber of Commerce committee on industry survey that while his firm would maintain a passive attitude on the matter, the concern would doubtless be willing to pay its share of the cost if an industrial survey of Manchester were made.

The committee named by Austin Cheney, president of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce some months ago for the purpose of investigating the advisability of having such a survey made, includes F. T. Blish, Scott Simon and Thomas Ferguson. This committee met with Mr. Cheney in his office yesterday afternoon and, together with Austin Cheney and William C. Cheney, went over the proposition in some detail.

Purpose
The committee's purpose in meeting with members of the Cheney firm was, primarily, to find out if Cheney Brothers favored the proposition and, second, to see if the firm would lend its financial support. Manchester has never had an industrial survey or in other words an inventory of its resources, its manufacturers and educational facilities. The Chamber of Commerce believes that the town has many advantages to offer outside concerns to locate here, but in offering these inducements to such concerns a survey in black and white that could be given out would set forth in detail just what Manchester had to offer. In the opinion of some of the members of the Chamber, if we are to grow and make headway, we must not only encourage our own industries, but we must do everything possible to induce worthwhile concerns to come here.

Not Opposed
Mr. Cheney frankly stated that Cheney Brothers are absolutely not opposed to bringing new industries to Manchester. He would prefer, however, not to have another

BUDGET IS PASSED BY STATE'S SOLONS Bill Carries 33 Million Appropriation; Sunday Hockey Games Favored.

Hartford, Conn., April 5.—A budget appropriation bill of $32,625,602 was passed without debate by the Senate here today after an explanation by Senator Edward Hall, of New Britain, chairman of the appropriations committee. Appropriations in the budget will care for the expenses of the state for the fiscal period beginning July 1, 1927. The action today was the first on this particular matter by the Legislature.

The House today received a favorable report on a bill which would allow professional hockey playing after two p. m. on Sundays, under local option in the various towns. "Eminent Domain"
A bill which would give the right of eminent domain to the Connecticut Power company whose directorate interlocks with that of the Hartford Electric Light company, was reported favorably into the Senate by the appropriations committee. In addition to the rights the company now has under its charter the company is empowered to take land, real estate, and privileges. When a person or persons to whom damage may be done do not agree with the company in the matter of reimbursement, the company may apply to the Superior Court for the appointment of three disinterested citizens to assess the proper amount of damages. Legislators declared the bill gave "eminent domain" to the company.

Another favorable report in the Senate was on a bill appointing a state commissioner of aviation at a salary of $5,000 a year and creating a department of aviation. As the bill calls for an appropriation of $25,000 it was referred by the Senate to the Appropriations committee.

The Stamford Gas & Electric Company was authorized to increase its capital by $5,000,000, while the Guilford-Chester Water Company was authorized an increase of $200,000 in bills favorably reported to the Senate.

On the witness stand for his sixth day of cross-examination, Sapiro admitted receiving scores of fees and retainers for his work among farmers. His total fees surged above the $500,000 mark for the last ten years.
Sapiro told too of being paid $1,000 for attending a three-day conference of the American Farm Bureau at Chicago in July.

NAVAL DISARMAMENT LEAGUE DISCUSSION

France Wants Limit Placed on Men—Germany and Sweden Backs Her.

Geneva, April 5.—Discussion of naval disarmament opened in the League of Nations preparatory disarmament conference here today with the American, British and Japanese delegates immediately combining in opposition to the French thesis for the limitation of naval personnel.

The morning session adjourned after Viscount Cecil, British delegate, had outlined the Anglo-Saxon plan for limiting vessels by categories instead of limiting the total tonnage as France proposes.

JAPAN SENDS OUT MORE REINFORCEMENTS

Some criticism has been heard both from military and civilian sources over the failure of Washington to send reinforcements to Tientsin-Tsin owing to the possibility that the Cantonese may be able to make their way into the north.

United States Consul Adams at Chungking reports that the balance of the Americans there have been evacuated.

The Chinese incident, when United States bluejackets from the gunboat Monocacy fired upon Chinese, killing a Chinese sailor, has been closed through the payment of indemnity to the Chinese by the steamship company owning the Chinan.

All Americans at Ichang have taken refuge upon the United States ship Eleanora.

The American mission at Chungking, having suffered some reverses, has been occupied by Nationalist soldiers.

American Consul John K. Davis at Nanking sent word that Chinese soldiers are still looting American properties.

One hundred and seventy-one Americans have evacuated the Tientsin district, but 219 are remaining, according to information forwarded to the American legation by United States Consul Swain.

American armed forces now in China include more than 2,000 marines at Shanghai; 450 marines at Peking and 800 soldiers at Tientsin.

There are four American cruisers in Chinese waters, 13 destroyers and twelve gunboats.

Suffer Reverses. London, April 5.—The Cantonese, having suffered some reverses in their drive northward from Hankow, are now bringing up reinforcements and a test of the power of the northerners to turn back the Cantonese may be expected shortly, according to reports received here.

The Nationalists are driving for the Yellow river line and dispatches received here state that they have met defeats at Yen Cheng and also at Kuantien.

Severe fighting in these two sectors is reported to have cost the Nationalists heavy casualties.

Burn Clubhouse. London, April 5.—Chinese at Hankow have burned the clubhouse at the Japanese Country club and the plant of the Mitsui Bussan oil refinery following the outbreak of anti-Japanese rioting, according to a Hankow dispatch to the Evening News today.

For the time being quiet has been restored at Hankow, the dispatch added, but searchlights on the Japanese warcraft were kept playing over the Japanese concession all night.

The foreign residents have taken refuge on steamers in the Yangtze river.

The dispatch to the Evening News states that "the Japanese warships cleared for action and landed an armed force, who first fired in the air and then opened up with machine guns, killing thirteen Chinese."

BOARD ACCEPTS SAM NELSON RESIGNATION

fore the board last night. Property owners on Flower street were summoned to tell the board their opinions of sidewalk and curb construction there.

The board voted the construction in executive session, but left it to the discretion of the highway committee when the walks shall be laid.

Those Present. Of the fourteen property owners on the street nine favored the construction. Two of those opposed were in favor of deferring the work for a year.

Those who appeared last night and favored the construction were Walter Waddell, Florence K. Trask, Thomas W. Vennart, Jacob Turek, William Knofskie, Thomas J. Waddell, Adam Schaefer, and Arthur Gibson. Thomas Waddell, Sr., who is in Florida, was represented by George H. Waddell, and favors the construction.

Those opposed to the construction were John P. Shea, Gertrude G. Glennie, Frank B. Tryon, and John R. Dwyer. Charles J. Tuttle was represented by John R. Dwyer and was opposed. Mrs. Glennie and Mr. Dwyer said they would favor the construction if the work were deferred.

Storm Water Trouble. Joseph Leary, Edward Coleman, Harry Whittle, and William Humphries appeared before the Selectmen asking that a storm water condition on Florence street be remedied. The dry brook problem affects this neighborhood, and it is but one of the big tasks the town is facing in connection with surface water disposal. Harry Whittle, who was spokesman for the group said that the water flowed into the property owners' yards, leaving all kinds of rubbish. In the summer the bed of the brook smells badly and breeds mosquitoes he said. The Selectmen referred the matter to the highway committee and promised the property owners that an attempt would be made to remedy the trouble, at least, temporarily.

Joseph Tedford of Academy street reported to the board that the property owners on that street had held a meeting and all but one favored the grading of the street. The opposing owner is Carl Olson whose property would be thrown in a hole by the grading. The Selectmen voted to ask the Town Council's advice in the matter.

The board voted to reconstruct a poor piece of concrete sidewalk in front of the Farr property on Main street. The sidewalk in this section has become broken and is in a dangerous condition. It is unknown what caused the condition but the Selectmen feel that it will safeguard the town to rebuild the walk.

Damage was estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000. For a time the flames threatened the adjoining plant of the Jordan Motor Company and other manufacturing plants.

GANG WAR IN BOSTON STARTS WITH MURDER

Unidentified Man Blackjacked On Street—Police Take Precautions.

Boston, Mass., April 5.—What police believe was the first blow of the dormant gang war of the North End was struck early today when an unidentified man was led with a blackjack and fatally injured. He was found unconscious in the street and died after arriving at the Haymarket relief station of a fractured skull.

The blow which killed the unidentified man was struck while a doubled force of police patrolled the streets of the North End. Threats of an open war between rival gangs in that section have caused police officials to take extra precautions.

Upon the identity of the man depends the seriousness of the situation, police believe. Until it is known who he is the authorities cannot determine which gang he is a member of and what to expect as a consequence.

New York, April 5.—Charged with having killed his wife with a hammer because she had swindled him, Edward De Mars, 59, an iron worker, today was held without bail in Homicide Court for examination next Thursday. He is said to have confessed.

De Mars, who can neither read nor write, stood staring at the ceiling during the court proceedings.

He is alleged to have slain his wife because she had taken advantage of his illiteracy to get his property in her name and had tricked him out of $9,000.

Rockville KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS MEET IN ROCKVILLE

Rev. Brookes Addresses State Gathering—Interesting News Notes.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, April 5. Rev. George Savage Brookes, pastor of the Union Congregational church, is the speaker tonight at a big gathering of Knights of Pythias from all over this part of the state. The meeting will be held at Lincoln Castle hall, Hartford. His subject is "Pythianism—Its Principles and Power." Greenleaf Lecture The service held at the Union Congregational church on Sunday evening last will long be remembered. Over 1000 people availed themselves of the privilege of hearing a lecture on "Midst Snow and Ice in Labrador" by the famous medical missionary, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell. The young people's society of Christian Endeavor had charge of the service, and welcomed the crowd, ushered, sang, took up the offering. A sonnet, dedicated to Dr. Grenfell and written by Mr. Brookes, pastor of the church, was printed in the church calendar. Mrs. May Chapman Holt gave an organ recital for fifteen minutes. Percy Cooley sang "My God, My God, Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me." The sonnet follows: Good angel of the coast of Labrador, Greetings we bring thee and best wishes, too! Brave deeds of thirty years fill us with awe As we recall thy daring life anew; How kind thou art to those who need thee most! The sick, the poor, the cold, the comfortless Cry not in vain from frozen bay or coast. When thou, good friend, are near to heal and bless. O that we had the spirit that is thine—

The willing heart to answer heaven's call: To dare, to serve, to trust and not repine. Knowing our Father marks the sparrow's fall. We pray God's benediction rest on thee! And may He grant thy hopes fulfilled shall be! Funeral of Stephen Swider The funeral of Stephen Swider of Orchard street was held Monday morning from his home and at St. Bernard's church at 9 o'clock. The Rev. George Sinnott was celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass; Rev. James Smith, deacon, and Rev. Steven Bartkowski, pastor of St. Joseph's church, sub-deacon. As the body was borne into the church, Mrs. Punder sang "Ave Maria." At the close of the service she sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The bearers were William Sadiak, Edward Burns, John Alley, Edward Buchanan, Peter Dowgiewicz and Theodore Wagner. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Baptist Church Notes At the annual business meeting of the church, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: clerk, E. W. Robinson; treasurer, F. W. Bradley; collector, W. H. Dunn; deacons, Levi Chappel, E. W. Robinson, L. B. Denley, W. H. Dunn; trustees, Walter Edwards, Frank Busher, E. W. Robinson, F. W. Bradley; pulpit supply, E. W. Robinson; Louis Edwards; auditors, E. W. Robinson, Louis Edwards; Sunday school superintendent, Reginald Kent. Rev. Horace Sloat preached Sunday, his subject being "The Lord's Supper." Miss Martha Edwards was the leader of the Junior Christian Endeavor society Sunday afternoon. Monday night the Allen Bible class met at the home of Reginald Kent on Orchard street. Tuesday evening the Senior Christian Endeavor society will hold their regular monthly business meeting at the church. Wednesday evening the Senior Christian Endeavor society will attend the banquet and rally at the Central Baptist church in Hartford. Thursday, regular prayer and praise service. Rev. Blake Smith of Bridgeport will preach both morning and evening this coming Sunday. Personals Mr. and Mrs. John Blake of Providence, R. I. spent Sunday with Mrs. Frank Blake of Union street. Eight more acres are scattered about the town in 20 different plots consisting mostly of triangular spaces at street intersections. One of the largest of these outside plots is the strip adjoining the property of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad on Woodbridge street. street which was vacated by Mrs. C. E. Shepard. Rev. James Smith of Collinsville was a visitor in town Monday. Mrs. Catherine Walz of 68 Mountain street celebrated her 79th birthday Sunday afternoon at her home. Relatives and friends called during the day extending congratulations and wishing Mrs. Walz many more happy birthdays. Supper was served by the family to a party of friends and relatives in the evening. Mrs. Walz was the recipient of many remembrances. The Public Works department has started oiling the various streets of the city. Burpee Post W. R. C. will hold its regular meeting Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall. PENSIONERS HERE SURE OF MONEY Chamber of Commerce Gets Notice That Checks Will Be Forthcoming.

Pensioners who have been worrying over their May and June payments from the government because of the failure of the Second Congress during the recent filibuster may cease to do so, according to information received today by Secretary George E. Rix from the pension bureau. Payments will be made as usual on May 4 and June 4. Mr. Rix said. Pensioners are taken care of in this bill and because of a filibuster organized by Senate members to block other legislation, the measure was not passed. Therefore the pension department believed it would be unable to make the May and June payments, but through borrowing from next year's appropriations, might make these payments in July. Mr. Rix wrote to Congressman E. Hart Fenn and today received notice from E. E. Miller, disbursing clerk of the bureau of pensions through Mr. Fenn that arrangements have been made so that the payments will continue as usual. THUMP, GOES IRON ON 8-YEAR-OLD HEAD Manuel Ostrinsky Gets Wallop With Swing Bar But Escapes Bad Injury. Manuel Ostrinsky of 91 Clinton street, eight years old, met with an unusual accident yesterday afternoon while playing in a sandbank near his home. With several other school chums, Manuel was digging a hole in the sand. One of the boys found an iron rod and thought it would add to the fun. Manuel, however, got in the way of the swinging implement as one of the youngsters was wielding it and was struck on the head. His playmates were scared and some of them started to run for home. Manuel was probably the least frightened of the group. Although the wound on his forehead was bleeding freely, he scampered to his home as fast as his legs would carry him. His mother called a doctor but it was found the boy was not as seriously injured as at first was believed. And today he was able to be in school as usual.

CHENEYS WILLING TO HELP SURVEY (Continued from Page 1) silk industry come here and believed the chances of attracting any textile concern to locate here were poor. Our greatest hope would be in securing men interested in machine work that would employ skilled mechanics and thought every effort should be made to bring such concerns here. However, he was not one of those men who believed in numbers. Although he had no desire to oppose the effort to secure new industries for Manchester, he believed the town was today a good place in which to live. He realized that there were many available building sites and good facilities for manufacturing, especially at the north end of the town. Before having this survey taken, the Chamber of Commerce has had a technical advisor from the firm of Thompson & Lichtner, Boston, the cost of such a survey would probably be between $2,500 and $3,000. It would require at least two months to complete the work. A survey of Manchester would make a study of its topography, climate, government, water, gas, electricity and sewer systems, fire and police protection, educational and recreational facilities, hotels, stores, general housing conditions, as well as spiritual and social development. The committee was encouraged at the reception they were given by the head of the Cheney firm, and will now seek to secure backing of other manufacturers in town, as well as the business men in putting the project through. CONTEST OVER WILL. Cambridge, Mass., April 5.—Rumblings of a contest over the will of Miss Elizabeth Wentworth Roberts, internationally known Concord artist, who committed suicide, were heard today as the contents of the will bequeathing the bulk of the two million dollar estate to Miss Grace B. Keyes, a friend, who had lived with Miss Roberts for twenty years, were made public. The only living relatives, three cousins—Elizabeth S. Wyatt, of Philadelphia, Ellen C. Roberts, of Hopkinton, N. H., and Lorraine Mellon, of New York, were cut off without a cent. The State Cafe and Delicatessen shop at 13 1-2 Bissell street, managed by Charles Kahr, who lives at the same address, was attached yesterday by Constable James W. Kittel claims Kahr owes him for over a year's rent amounting to $1,500 a year; establishing a public park in the center of Westport; establishing a traffic commission in New Haven; allowing the Eastern Connecticut Power Company to acquire the properties of power companies in Lyme, Putnam, and other eastern Connecticut towns; authorizing the Union Electric Light & Power Company to increase its capital to $2,000,000, and authorizing merger with the New Hartford Electric Light Co.; authorizing the New Hartford Electric Company to extend lines into Barkhamstead; changing the name of the Hartford City Gas Light Company to the Hartford Gas Company. Bills rejected by the House after unfavorable reports today were: Providing for an increase in the weight of loads which may be carried on motor truck trailers; incorporating the White Sands Beach Association; changing the Derby Gas & Electric Company's charter, and the Wallingford Gaslight Company to allow non-residents to serve on the boards of directors. The House passed only one bill from its calendar before adjournment. That measure would create fire police, abolish the office of auditor, and make the city clerk the tax collector at Williamantic. SUPT. HOWES SPEAKER AT BUCKLAND MEETING More than 125 persons were present last evening for the monthly meeting of the Buckland Parent-Teacher association. Superintendent A. F. Howes gave a talk on "Character Education." A committee of nine ladies, headed by Mrs. Myrtle Armstrong was appointed to have charge of a supper for May 4. In the meantime every member of the association is expected to earn a quarter dollar and tell how it was accounted will receive a prize. An amusing farce entitled "The Buckland Tattlers" was put on under the direction of Miss Anna J. Sullivan. Both men and women took part and all the popular people in Buckland were "knocked," but apparently took it good-naturedly.

TUESDAY, APRIL 5, 1927.

TEN YEARS.

Ten years ago yesterday the United States Senate, by a practically unanimous vote, adopted that resolution, declaring war against Germany, for which President Wilson had asked.

Now the world is very far from being so sure that the ravishment and horrors of war are done with—but it hopes. It hopes because it knows that in the next great war, if there is one, death will swing a longer and keener and wider scythe than in the last one; that the horrors that were a slight thing compared to the horrors that may be.

It is because of a foreview into the possibilities—always the possibilities if not the probabilities—of a great war growing out of a little one, that so many Americans shrink from the thought of involvement in any sort of conflict abroad.

There are a good many who are still quick to assert, in any case where national honor may appear to be concerned, that "there are some things worse than war—among them national disgrace." Possibly there may be things worse than war—as war is to be next time—but the evil in them should be weighed with the profoundest care before it is decided that they are less to be borne than the unspeakable cataclysm of a new world conflict.

MAY BE VETOED.

There are reports about the state that Governor Trumbull is not at all unlikely to veto the bill extending the automobile license privilege to minors under eighteen and above sixteen years of age.

It is said, with how much warrant we do not know, that much of the opposition to this law comes from prosecuting officers who are beginning to find that automobile misdemeanors of various sorts are becoming so prevalent as to threaten to clog the municipal courts just as liquor cases are clogging the federal courts, and who are reported as being in a pessimistic frame of mind over the proposal to create a large number of new licenses, of problematical responsibility and judgment, in addition to the normal increase.

The subject is one offering many sides, because it is incontrovertible that there are plenty of bright and competent boys and girls of seventeen or even younger who are not only more dextrous manually but cooler headed and more intelligent than large numbers of present licensees; while on the other hand nobody can possibly know whether this sort of youth or the reckless and immaturely-minded is in the majority. The experiment may be a costly one and there are a great many persons who argue that it involves a risk for which there is no real necessity.

There is not the slightest doubt that if the governor should veto the bill he would have the support of a great many sober minded, not to say timid, folk who believe that the normal increase in motor licensees is already providing as many drivers as there are room for on the roads. Again on the other hand, if he refuses to approve the measure there are going to be a lot of indignant parents who will take his veto as a personal affront.

The safest way, of course, would be to sign the measure. But Governor Trumbull is not the kind who always seeks the easy way.

100 PER CENT WRONG.

The reader of news from China who finds himself bewildered at the contradictions which he encounters need not develop an inferiority complex. He is not necessarily either stupid, near-stupid nor, in short, anything but intelligent and clever.

There is one great New York newspaper, enjoying a tremendous reputation for the extent and reliability of its foreign news, which has been featuring China for weeks. Its leading Chinese news cables are signed by its star Asiatic reporter, and the tolls paid on them must make a dent even in the huge income of this big newspaper. And for two solid months, as fast as events have developed out of the clouds of uncertainty, this high priced, highly featured correspondent has been proven to be exactly one hundred per cent wrong. He has not sized up a single situation correctly; he has not made a prediction that has not gone just the other way round; he has not put forth a rumor as probably true which has not presently been disproven.

He started out by drawing an imaginary line across China across which there was no possibility of the Cantonese advancing—a line now far in the rear of their armies—and he has been mistaken in everything from that time up to his assertion that 120 Americans had been killed in Nanking, whereas there was just one.

Now this person insists that the military and naval forces at Shanghai are sufficient to protect all the foreigners there even against a real attack by the Cantonese. It is very much to be hoped that he is right for once.

IN CHICAGO.

There is being held in Chicago today an election prepared for like a war. As this is being written the day is not sufficiently far spent to learn whether yesterday's forecasts of battle and outrage have been justified or not. But all the elements are at hand for the making of something closely approaching to civil war.

It is not a contest between political parties, for party lines have been flung to the winds. The Chicago Tribune, biggest and most influential of the city's newspapers and a sturdy Republican organ, is opposing William Hale Thompson, Republican candidate for mayor, in favor of the Democratic nominee, Mayor William E. Dever. So is Vice-President Dawes, so is ex-Governor Lowden and so are the Progressive Republicans.

On the other hand "Big Bill" Thompson, war time mayor whose administration reeked of debauchery, and who relies for much of his support on the scores of thousands of Negro voters of the city, is backed by Governor Len Small, Senator Deneen, Senator-elect Frank Smith and District Attorney Crowe.

The Chicago police are trying to intimidate Thompson's gunmen and thugs and it is entirely possible that before the day is over the governor, in Thompson's interest, may throw National Guardsmen into the turbulent wards to intimidate the police.

Machine guns, tear gas, bombing squads are part of the paraphernalia of determining government in Chicago. And yet the Windy City is supposed to be a civilized community, infinitely superior to anything, say, in Mexico or China.

THEN THE DELUGE.

There is an aspect of the Chinese situation which is being very generally overlooked. While Americans and Europeans are permitting themselves to think of the situation at Shanghai and along the Yangtze Kiang as though the whole of the Cantonese military strength was represented by the small forces facing the foreigners there, the real Southern armies, as a matter of fact, are sweeping on north toward Peking, engaged in the extremely serious business of conquering all that part of their country which has been under Manchu domination. Their ultimate success seems practically certain.

The affair of Nanking, the present status at Shanghai, are matters of relative insignificance to them. They can be attended to later. All thoughts of employing force upon the Chinese should be tempered with the knowledge that eventually any present conquest of a small section of the country would be certain to have a sequel in dealing with a really great military power. After Peking, then the question of the foreign invasion. Time means nothing to the Chinese.

ENDLESS MYSTERY.

The urge to self-destruction is a never ending mystery. It overcomes not only the flabby weakling whose inborn propensity is to run away from dangers, discomforts or responsibilities, but now and then a sturdy soul, whose whole character and history would seem to mark him as invulnerable.

Take the case of John H. Brown.

He was a graduate of Aberdeen, a scholar, a poet, a lieutenant-colonel in the British army during the war, brother-in-law of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Archibald Murray, who was chief of the general staff of Great Britain during two years of the great conflict. He was only 60 years old, apparently in sound health. He was in New York, a stranger and broke. But that seemingly did not conquer him at all, because, without explanation or apology, he sought a job as night watchman and got it. One would think that an accomplished, cultured and brave man who had the moral courage, after his earlier career, to take a job as night watchman, would be able to laugh that experience off the white he planned to get a new start—for he was alone in the world, a widower with a grown son.

With the least luck in the world, with the merest trifle of self-assertion, there could have been years of happy life ahead of a man of his stamp. But he turned on the gas and stepped off the boards.

If they could come back and tell about it, some of these inexplicable suicides could shed illuminating light on human psychology. Somehow the letters they leave never do.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 5.—The farmer-labor party of Minnesota, which has sent Magnus Johnson and Henrik Shipstead to the Senate, may not be in such sore straits as alleged in various reports which have recently reached this city.

William A. Anderson, the eminent St. Paul lawyer who serves as state chairman of the party, probably would be the last man to admit such a state of affairs and he doesn't. He denies it. He predicts that his party which is now the smallest minority in the Senate, will elect not only a farmer-labor senator in the 1928 elections but a farmer-labor governor as well, if only under the inspiration of the republican administration's failure to supply farm relief legislation.

Anderson has no prediction to make as to who will be the farmer-labor candidates. Or even any suggestion. This may be significant, if you must have your significance. Magnus Johnson, who made such a splash during his brief term here has now been beaten in subsequent campaigns for the Senate and the governorship. Magnus, it would seem, is likely to bow gracefully in 1928 and allow the farmer-labor banner to be carried by stronger hands.

Then there is Senator Shipstead. There is some discussion as to whether he will be a candidate and if so, whose. There has been gossip in Minnesota that the state law might be changed to allow him to run as a Republican, which no doubt is appealing. Anderson, who has heard this gossip, but insists that Shipstead is still well thought of by the farmer-labor party's rank and file.

"There is no indication that our party is falling away," Anderson said during a visit here. "It is in better shape than it ever was before."

"We cast over 200,000 votes in the November gubernatorial election and that's a solid foundation for any party. Like every other movement, we have had those who jump on another bandwagon when the going looks good, but there's no falling off of progressiveness in Minnesota. We're merely got rid of some of the undesirable element."

"The party had its most harmonious conference in its history at St. Paul in January, when some 400 delegates met to perfect the organization and unite throughout the state. Another conference will be held in a few months."

Christiansen beat Johnson by 120,000 votes for governor in December, but majorities don't mean anything in Minnesota. Christiansen had served one term and there's sort of an unwritten law that a second governor is a second term. Christiansen had been popular as governor and in his inaugural speech, he nearly adopted the farmer-labor platform.

The farmer-laborites, however, advocate some sort of bank guarantee law and may wage their 1928 fight largely on this issue. According to Anderson's figures, 200 state banks in Minnesota are now in liquidation and 40 or 50 national banks are in the same fix, tying up a total of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000.

"The thing that will intensify feeling in our behalf is the government's failure to provide any farm relief," Anderson continued. "The eastern representatives in Washington don't seem to sense the need of doing anything. Minnesota farmers who can't even pay interest on their debts are at least desperate enough to vote against the Republican party. It's not a question of the McNary-Haugen bill especially, but a question of something or nothing. Business has generally been in a bad way in Minnesota and we have much unemployment."

Anderson pointed out that the farmer-labor party had been an effective vehicle of protest for dissatisfied voters. Shipstead's victory in 1922, he explained, as essentially a repudiation of Frank B. Krogg, who posed as the farmer's friend but couldn't get the farmers to believe it.

A clause in the Detroit laundryman's union contract gives permission to the employer to launder his own clothes, providing "he does not employ any other shirt ironer and is not assisted by any other persons."

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Jesus Draws Near to Jerusalem

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESEN

In Jerusalem, Jesus again cleanses the temple, overthrowing the tables of the money-changers and driving out those who bought and sold, saying, "My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves." (Matthew XXI : 12-13)

The chief priests and elders assailed Jesus as he taught in the temple, asking, "By what authority doest thou these things?" (Matthew XXI : 23-27)

To these hypocritical professors of religion Jesus said, "Verily, I say unto you, that the kingdoms and the harlots go into the Kingdom of God before you." (Matthew XXI : 31)

Likening the kingdom of heaven unto a marriage feast, Jesus compared those who failed to accept its privileges to the man discomfited and cast out because he had not on a wedding-garment. (Matthew XXII : 2-14)

It Is Well, Then, to Learn the Importance of Good Elimination.

FUNCTIONAL inactivity of the kidneys permits a retention of waste poisons in the blood. Symptoms of this toxic condition are a dull, languid feeling, drowsy headaches and, sometimes, toxic backache and dizziness. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many readers have learned the value of Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, in this condition. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Get more for your money! SPRAYED RUBBER WEB CORD FLAT BAND METHOD

Q. Why does Sprayed Rubber give so much more to the car owner? A. Sprayed Rubber gives more to the car owner because it gives him longer wearing tires. It is stronger, more uniform, purer. It is made from a specially fine rubber latex. It is produced by a new and exact mechanical method—and without the use of either smoke or acid. The United States Rubber Company invented this method specifically to make better tires. Just as they established the United States Rubber Plantations in 1909 to improve the quality of their rubber supply. By creating finer rubber, new methods of producing the rubber and of building it into tires, this Company is creating better tires all along the line.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" if water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly. For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentation in the bowels and gently erases the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BILLY WELLS, head of the glove department of the Curtis Store, NYDA LOMAX, of the cosmetic counter, WINNIE SHELTON, and a score of other girls, almost all pretty, win prizes in an intriguing contest staged by T. Q. CURTIS, the millionaire owner.

Billy participates in the contest in spite of the protests of CLAY CURTIS, son of old T. Q., who suspects his father of some scheme. Clay has voluntarily dis-inherited himself and is living in the Wells home in the poor section of the city, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Billy is suspicious of Clay's father, too, and her doubts are heightened when the old man announces a second contest. This time each girl is to write an essay telling what she would do if she had one hundred thousand dollars.

Jenoules and misunderstandings spring up among the girls who are participating in the second contest and the store morale slumps alarmingly. On Tuesday, the day of the awards, "old T. Q." sends each participant an envelope. Just as Billy is about to open hers, a knock is heard. Attention is directed to the door, and she meets the strange, dark eyes of the man before her. It is some time after his departure that she remembers to open the envelope. She is a winner. She has a premonition that she is on the verge of a tremendous crisis, involving herself, "old T. Q." her father—and this strange man. The letter asks her to be in Curtis private office at 5:45.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

A HAND laid on her shoulder startled Billy Wells into attention. It was T. Q. Curtis.

"How's the little spitfire?" he asked her in a low voice.

"Oh, Mr. Curtis!" Nyda Lomax's throaty, contralto voice called out excitedly. "We're simply dying with curiosity! And thrilled to the core!"

"All here?" T. Q. grinned his wry smile at them and strode past Billy to his desk. "I won't keep you long."

"Most of you know that my store family is all the family I have now."

From a sheet of paper lying on his desk he began to read, in his clipped, stern voice, which had effectually silenced the flutter of greetings and thanks:

"Miss Winnie Shelton, Mrs. Blanche Corwin, Miss Nyda Lomax, Miss Billy Wells, Miss Lella Sampson, Mrs. Carrie Worley, Mrs. Alice Paul, Miss Pearl Hadley, Miss Doris Brown, and Miss Lottie Shumate. All here?"

A chorus of "Yes, sir" answered him.

"Now, ladies, this has been a peculiar contest from first to last. There was no effort on my part to award first, second or third prizes. Miss Shelton, whose name I happened to read first, is not winner of the first prize, since there is no first prize." He glanced hesitatingly at the disappointed face of Winnie Shelton—"and Miss Shumate need not feel that all you others got ahead of her, for she did not win tenth place. All awards will be equal—or," he grinned at their astonished expressions, "as nearly equal as possible under the unusual circumstances. As I said, this is a peculiar contest. The ten of you submitted essays which have given me a lot of food for thought. All of those ten essays were good. And I hope you will not be disappointed with your results."

He paused again, and Billy, nails digging into her palms, felt that she would scream if he kept them in suspense much longer. Again she had that queer impression that all this was of vital importance to her, that she stood on the brink of some great and possibly terrifying adventure.

"I presume most of you know that my store family is all the family I have now," he went on in a quiet voice, faintly edged with bitterness. "I am a lonely man, not so young as I was, and my home is often dull and lonely for the lack of young life in it."

Billy raised a trembling hand to her lips, as if she were afraid to cry in her heart would force its way out, betraying, girls standing about her drew in their breath sharply, looked at each other in blank astonishment.

"For a long time I've wanted to be a closer friend to the young people in my store—our store," he amended, with grave courtesy. "But I may have been a foolish way, but I hit on these two contests as a way to find among you the girls and women whose ambitions and interests and ideas would most interest me. I thought to find among you those who could, in a real sense, be my friends. I trust that you will not leave this room with false impressions and carry them to the around fifty dollars. I've seen them, and I doubt if Colfax ever saw a handsomer lot of party dresses at the price. Brenner will say a lot of fancy things about them in his ads, but I think you'll find they're just the kind of dresses you'd like to own."

Pretty, drooping faces had lifted and revived like flowers in a June shower. Two or three girls cried out involuntarily with pleasure and excitement.

"Now, ladies, before those dresses are placed on sale, you can have your pick of them, as a present from old T. Q." He grinned at his use of their nickname for him. "I'm also instructing the shoe department and the hosiery department to let each one of you pick out a pair of evening slippers and a pair of silk stockings—your choice of quizzical, wry grin of his.

"I shall try to see that you have a very good time," he resumed, a little stiffly, and Billy sensed that their unspoken resentment pained him. "It will be a formal dinner party, and your ten dinner partners will of course wear correct evening clothes. I am inviting the men myself, from among my young business associates of Colfax. You will meet them at my house, of course. I shall provide suitable transportation for you to and from my home. Now, if I know anything about the female mind, every mother's daughter of you is saying to herself, 'I haven't got a thing to wear.' I've thought of that. I'm going to try, between now and Monday evening, to think of everything that will insure a good time for all. As you all know, Mrs. Lester, the buyer for misses' and ladies' dresses, is just back from New York. While she was there she bought in a fine stock of evening dresses, to retail at about fifty dollars. I've seen them, and I doubt if Colfax ever saw a handsomer lot of party dresses at the price. Brenner will say a lot of fancy things about them in his ads, but I think you'll find they're just the kind of dresses you'd like to own."

anything the store has to sell—and charge them to my account. Now I hope you ain't too much disappointed in your prizes," he added whimsically.

"I declare, I don't know what's got into old T. Q.," Mrs. Corwin, a stout, pleasant-faced widow, whispered to Billy.

"There's just one thing before I say good night," T. Q. stepped behind his desk, putting the clamoring girls at a discreet distance.

"I've arranged for Mrs. Lester herself to show you the dresses between now and six thirty, and tomorrow morning between half past eight and nine, before the store opens. There are a hundred dresses in the lot, of all sizes, and I'm sure you can all find something you like that will fit you. Any alterations will of course be charged to me. Now, ladies, Mrs. Lester is waiting for you in the French room on the third floor, and if any of you can't spare the time this evening, why, she'll be glad to see you in the morning."

The girls hardly paused to re-iterate their thanks, crowding in a laughing, excited group to the door.

"I'm just praying that there'll be a black lace over silver cloth, and if there is"—Nyda Lomax's throaty contralto turned menacing—"I'll have it or scratch out the eyes of any Jane that thinks she can take it away from me."

"I want white, or a silvery blue"—Winnie Shelton's high, metallic voice clamored for attention.

"A fifty dollar dress and a fifteen dollar pair of pumps—oh, boy!"

Mrs. Lester, imposing in black satin, received them in the French room on the third floor, and, with the airs of a duchess, waved them to the racks on which the dresses had hung.

"Please don't grab," she told them sarcastically, as the girls fell upon the dresses with a mad delight. "Here are the fourteens, here the sixteens, and here are the eighteens. You will kindly confine yourselves to the racks which hold your own sizes. Mrs. Worth, you like the forty, don't you? There are no forty's in this lot, but I know of several dresses for you to choose from. In the stock we already had," she added in a more kindly tone to the large, middle-aged widow who stood looking on, embarrassed and uncomfortable.

Billy scarcely heard the shrill, excited cries of the girls. She stood with small body tense, her fingers locked tightly before her, as frantic hands whirled the rack of size fourteen dresses before her enchanted eyes. "In all her life she had had only one dress that had cost as much as two or three dollars. These lovely, lovely things! Mists of rose and yellow and blue and jade and white! A pastel-tinted rainbow of chiffon, taffeta and satin.

Again she had that feeling that her next step was of vital importance to her. Billy to attach so much importance to the choosing of a dress, she told herself, but that feeling that fate was immensely concerned with her—with unimportant little Billy Wells—persisted. For some reason it mattered little to her that those lovely dresses were being sold for a rack spun before her. Loosely forward, she watched with frowning concentration, unheeding the clamor about her. And then she saw it—the dress that fate had chosen for her, for some obscure purpose of its own.

Clay, in fear for Billy's future, interviews with T. Q. Curtis. He makes a strange proposal of marriage. Read the next chapter.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Little white snowdrop! I pray you arise;
Bright yellow crocus! Come open your eyes;
Sweet little violets, hid from the cold,
Put on your mantles of purple and gold;
Daffodils! daffodils! Say, do you hear?
Summer is coming! And springtime is here!

—Emily Huntington Miller

High up in the list of the Easter wardrobe accessories should be shiny lingerie, and this year Dame Fashion has created an unusually wild choice of the loveliest garments to delight the hearts of women-kind. Never have ribbons played so important a part in the trimming, and mostly two-toned ribbons are used, for over the shoulders or run through heading with bows in front or at the side. A riot of color is the way one might express the displays in the shops for very few garments are plain white, flesh color too, giving way before the newer, more shades, each garment embodying at least two colors.

Only girls of Spanish antecedents may participate in the forthcoming Fete De Leon pageant at St. Augustine, Florida, oldest city in the United States. The pageant will be under the auspices of the St. Augustine Historical society, of which the octogenarian, Clauency M. De-pow was founder and president.

The small dish of jelly adds an attractive bit of color to the dinner table. Very often a tart jelly or spiced preserve vastly improves the meat dish or meat loaf. Mint jelly or orange marmalade are good with lamb, for instance, spiced grapes, red raspberries with veal or ham, cranberry jelly with turkey and so on.

The newest organdie flowers for decorating evening gowns, have long petals that hang from the shoulder almost to the waistline. Made in black or white, they are lovely for an all black or all white dress. On colored dresses field flowers are smart, red poppies, bachelor buttons, yellow buttercups and other yellow flowers. On brown and tan frocks, yellow is worn. It is often combined with green.

If you are planning to entertain this Easter, why not invest in a new table service of the lovely colored glassware, which is being used today by the smartest hostesses. It comes in the most entrancing shades of green, blue, amber, with everything to match, even to the low candlesticks, four of which placed around the centerpiece of flowers giving a beautiful effect.

The scalloped egg recipe asked for a week ago has come to light. It is simply to cook six eggs hard and slice them. Make a white sauce in the proportion of a quarter cup each flour and butter to a pint of milk. Cook until it is thick and smooth. Add one chopped green pepper and a little salt. Add the eggs and pour all into a baking dish, sprinkling thickly over all a mixture of cracker crumbs and grated cheese. Place in the oven until cheese is melted and browned.

If the waistline is going up and the silhouette changing, there is very little evidence of it in the fashion illustrations, or in the newest cut of corsets or corsetlets rather. The lines of most of the new foundation garments are not a whit different as far as I can see. It will take time to make such a radical change as that.

Education personified says: "You can not have even peace without me. I overshadow all things. It is through me that all other things are accomplished. Nothing desirable for the equipment of life can be obtained but through me. I bring character, culture, health, joy, charm, religion, spirituality, everything. I am in all of the arts and sciences. Nature cries out if you would know me you must have education. Through me all living things take on a new significance. It is through me that bridges span great chasms. It was through me that electricity was harnessed and made the servant of men, instead of working only destruction. It is through me that persons at the opposite ends of the earth can send messages one to the other. I am the mother of civilization; there is no civilization. I am an investment. I am an insurance, am the enemy of ignorance. I am the wise man's constant companion. And we unto the man who seeks not me, for I am the way."

Caroline cake is just another way of saying "old cake pudding." Pieces of stale cake are covered with hot lemon sauce and allowed to stand fifteen or twenty minutes. A spoonful of whipped cream may or may not be dropped on each piece when ready to serve. A pitcher of the sauce is served with the cake.

One of the male readers of this column asked me only yesterday if I couldn't get hold of a new soup recipe. Come to think of it, you hardly ever find anything different or novel in the way of soups from bouillon to the thick vegetable or cream soups. I think just about this time the appetite is fickle and what he really craves is something to tempt it. When the weather warms up the soup course is omitted for the fruit cocktail, which serves a two-fold purpose, it acts as an appetizer and adds color to an otherwise simple meal. It should be served like the salad, thoroughly chilled, and should not be too sweet. Then the flavor should not be repeated in the salad or dessert course. Four tablespoons is usually enough to serve in a cocktail for the average person and left-overs of fruit can be used in this way. Canned fruits may be improved by a little lemon juice. Fresh pineapple cocktail is good as a starter for a fish dinner. Mint and orange suggest roast lamb or veal, but any well chilled cocktail will prove acceptable preceding any meal. If the fresh fruit is used it should be cut up in small pieces, sprinkled with sugar and allowed to stand for several hours. Coconut or shredded almonds may be sprinkled over the fruit mixture. The recipe follows for:

Mint and Orange Cocktail

Two oranges, 1 large banana or 2 small ones, 1-2 cup grape juice, 1 bunch mint.

Cut oranges in halves and with a string spoon, cut each section, keeping it as whole as possible. Remove skin from banana and scrape off fuzzy surface with the dull edge of a silver knife. In each cocktail glass put a layer of banana cut in slices and cover with a layer of orange. Pour 2 tablespoonsful of grape juice over each and sprinkle with pined mint. Each ingredient and the glasses must be well chilled before combining, since this cocktail does not stand after mixing.

They Do Wear 'Em

Speaking of corsets and how "nobody wears 'em" one corset company alone announces that they did an $87,000,000 business last year. And we dare contradict either it or the gentleman of the press that reported the item. Maybe they did the business okay, but I wager my new rose hat that means corsets, recognized as one of England's great beauties, says, "I have known many beautiful women and not one of them, I think, is really happy." We've been told that again and again, but how many of us would refuse the chance to just try being beautiful?

Here's another cookie for thought to cheer at the breakfast table—are beautiful women happy women? The "Viscountess" does not, recognized as one of England's great beauties, says, "I have known many beautiful women and not one of them, I think, is really happy." We've been told that again and again, but how many of us would refuse the chance to just try being beautiful?

"Give real life rather than sham life a chance and let college go." So writes Kathleen Norris in an article addressed to parents, begging them to see that the workaday world with a job is worth infinitely more to their daughters than the college campus. "Self-education is the only sort worth having," continues she. "Her 'education' will only prove to be a demoralizing and disintegrating influence upon her character." In other words, Mrs. Norris's summary is that college is okay for rich men's daughters, but all wrong for poor ones. It is difficult to believe that anyone so well-known as Mrs. Norris could offer such poor advice. I wish she would stick to her sentimental, gushy novels!

WHEN children say they don't like oats, it's usually because rich Quaker flavor is missing. Children who ordinarily don't take to oats are often quickly won to this important food, simply by giving them "Quaker."

The flavor is uniquely different; tasty, rich and creamy, Quaker Oats alone has it. Some 50 years were spent in perfecting it.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Are women more honest than men? England had 6,595 bankruptcy cases last year. Four hundred and forty of them were filed by women. The majority were milliners and dressmakers. Then followed lodging house keepers, grocers, dry goods merchants, and women's clothes. Of course, the figures prove nothing for honesty or the reverse. It's a matter of proportion. One would need to know how many men and how many women were in business in England that year. But I am inclined to believe that women hesitate to cry that they're licked and howl for mercy in a bankrupt court quite so readily as men. To men it's "good business." To women, it's dishonesty with others.

Good Nature and Good Health

OVEREATING IS CAUSE OF MANY PHYSICAL ILLS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Modern medicine gives more attention to diet than to almost any other single factor in the control of the human body. The normal man or woman needs to give some concentrated attention to this topic.

The appetite is a fairly good guide to the time when eating should be indulged in and the quantity to be taken. It is a good rule to stop just short of satisfaction. An epicure or gourmand is hardly likely to stop at this point.

There are a few simple rules as applied with eating that might well be observed by everyone.

A good set of teeth permits complete chewing without "fletcherized" concentration on the number of bites or movements of the jaws, which is likely to interfere with digestion. Lumps of food should not be swallowed, and that means that food should not be taken in haste. The saliva should be thoroughly mixed with the food, since it contains valuable digestive ferments.

Overeating means that more food will be taken than can easily be digested, and that extra weight will be carried, and that the organs

Spring Wanderlust

By Olive Roberts Burton

The Travelers' Aid Society does not always report young wanderers on the list of missing persons to whom it has extended aid. Quite often it happens that Grandma, listening too long to the chirp of the first robins and the piercing trill of the song sparrow, develops an uncontrollable wanderlust at this time of year, packs her clothes in a neat little satchel and, shoes in hand, tiptoes down the back stairs, crosses the lot, and waits for the bus.

Various reasons are given by these elderly delinquents for leaving home, but almost invariably they are not leaving their own homes, but the homes of children or grandchildren.

One of the basic laws of child training is to keep him busy all the time. For entirely different reasons, but just as important ones, it is the kindest thing in the world to keep Grandma or Grandpa busy most of the time. Not doing our work, but their own, the things they loved to do when they were young and the things that linger most fondly in their memories.

Isn't the fancy of the young man alone that lightly turns to thoughts of love when the dandelions dot the grass in the park. Only the young look forward and the old look backward. It is the gentle urge of wanting something they cannot name that lies behind wanderlust.

When spring comes we gaze on the vagaries of the young and sigh with ecstatic patience. Why, can't we spare a sigh or two for the old, and help to bring back a bit of spring to them? A visit planned to a friend of the youth, or a friend brought to them. A garden planned with pinks and hollyhocks and marigolds and the flowers they love, that they may call their own. So many things appeal to the old that are purely sentimental, yet we think they crave only creature comforts.

If Grandma disappears mysteriously for an hour or so these balmy spring days, the wise person will not question too closely, but be very, very kind. There is a pretty good chance she cannot explain anyway.

The words, "In God We Trust," appeared first on United States coins in 1864, on bronze two-cent pieces.

BOXING IS NOT A GOLD MINE FOR C. B. A. A. REPORT SHOWS But It Is a Paying Proposition; Debt of $850 Reduced to $180.

Handicapped a year ago by a debt of more than $850, and with but two sports proving a paying investment, Cheney Brothers Athletic Association has reduced this debt to $180 during the past twelve months...

Another interesting fact revealed to the public is that amateur boxing is no gold mine. It is a paying proposition but that is about all. The reports show that during the eight amateur tournaments which have been held to date, the receipts were $2,408.55, the expenditures, $2,247.99 thus netting a profit of but $160.56 which amounts to an average of about twenty dollars per tournament...

Sports which were operated on a losing basis were as follows: Bowling, $30.36; baseball, $121.01; soccer, $4.10; volley-ball, $150; tennis, $17.50; track, $68.75 and track, $23.15; sport goods set the association back $124.01.

Four amateur boxing exhibitions were held as an entertainment for the members. They were all full of fireworks and real interesting. Harry McCannough beat Romeo Pagan, at 115 pounds. Both are Manchester boys. The bout went three rounds.

Not whether you win, but how you play, an old, old adage, was the subject of a recent talk to Ohio State students by Dr. John Wilce, football coach. Wilce said winning was not the all-important thing.

Secrets of 16 Years Successful Pitching

THE CRUCIAL TEST The first time I faced Tony Lazzari in the world series last fall, he whistled a line single to left field. It was as clean a hit as had ever been made off me. I don't mind giving Tony all the credit he is entitled to for that wallop, but I faced him seven times later and he didn't get another safe one.

Three-Part League of North End Ball Players Is Planned

G. H. Washburn, director of the Manchester Community Club, stated today that considerable interest is being manifested in the North End and the proposed formation of the Junior League baseball clubs.

When asked what particular plan of organization would be followed Mr. Washburn said that first of all he hoped that the idea might be grasped by all junior teams throughout the town, as well as outlying districts such as Highland Park, Manchester Green, Buckland and any other sections that were interested.

A meeting of all captains and managers will be held at the Community Club at an early date to fix the rules and regulations of the league, together with other important details that will come up.

Billy Evans Says

What does the future hold for Johnny Mostil? Will he ever resume his place in the White Sox outfield? The unsuccessful attempt of Mostil to take his life probably ended his career as a player.

I had a long talk with Manager Ray Schalk of the Chicago club on the subject. It was Schalk who first discovered Mostil's plight. Had it not been for the first aid he gave him, Johnny would have died, so the attending physicians said.

"I am not counting on Mostil being of any use to the White Sox this year," says Schalk. "Possibly he will never recover sufficiently to play big league ball again."

"To play safe, I have taken the pessimistic angle of the affair, that Mostil will never play baseball again. If he does, it will be a most agreeable surprise. I am hoping it works out that way, but doubt it."

Hornsby's Baseball Stock Is Worrying The Magnates

New York, April 5.—Rogers Hornsby is being affronted by the New York Giants with a salary of $30,000 a year, not the $40,000 that the Fourth Estate conceded him with magnificent abandon.

"It seems very simple to me. The stock has to go. The bidders won't meet the price set; then the price must meet the bidders."

"Hornsby was perfectly satisfied to go to the Giants and he proved that by signing for $20,000 less than the offer he had received from the Cardinals."

MANCHESTER TRIMS "WILLIE" IN BASKETBALL TILT, 26-25

Manchester and Willimantic locked horns in another athletic engagement last night, and once more the silk towns came out on top. This time it was the High School Independents who took the measure of Heller Brothers basketball family in the state armory at Willimantic. The score was 26 to 25 and just as the score indicated, it was a red hot tussle.

Manchester started strong and piled up an 18 to 13 lead at halftime. Every player on the local team tallied during this period, Farr leading the way with three field goals. In the closing half, Willimantic fought desperately to overcome the five-point lead, and almost did. Each team scored three field goals, but Manchester fouled out, Ray Campbell, guard for the winning team, played a fine game and his baskets saved the day in the final period.

SPANIARD VICTOR.

Washington, April 5.—William T. Tilden has stumbled again in his long fight to regain lost tennis laurels.

MAN OF 1,000 FACES

IN CIRCLE FEATURE

Lon Chaney Scores Hit in "Flesh and Blood" Which Starts Today.

Founded on the theory of regeneration and the belief that there is still some good in the worst of us, Lon Chaney's latest picture, "Flesh and Blood," which will be seen at the Circle theater tonight and tomorrow, is a convincing appeal for kindness to those who have strayed from the straight and narrow path.

The story of a criminal whose main object in life is to revenge himself of an enemy who unwittingly injured him, "Flesh and Blood" tells how love entered the heart of the young man after his first love had been killed by the hand of his enemy, everything was changed.

Life was no longer a fight to injure someone, but rather a fight against that very thing. The long road to regeneration stretched out in front of him and with the help of the beautiful girl he started out on this narrow road.

Lon Chaney, aptly described as the man "of a thousand faces," plays the leading role of an escaped convict, whose determination to have liberty so that he might look upon the faces of his loved ones, and to mete out vengeance upon the man who brought him such anguish of soul, in a manner which will earn him instant recognition as the screen's greatest character actor.

It is an inspired performance in a story throbbing with human emotions. The pathos of this buffeted creature—this pitiful figure who is hunted by the law for a crime of which he is innocent will be caught by every spectator—no matter whether he is endowed with sentiment or not. You see him break all and your sympathy is acute. Will he make a successful getaway? But the eager eye of the law is on his track. And to avoid detection, he is forced to play the part of a helpless cripple—a part which stamps Chaney as a superb artist.

The first wireless message from a ship at sea was sent on November 16, 1857. It was sent from the American steamer St. Paul, to the Needles, Isle of Wight, England.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture)

Said Scouty, "Who will try his luck? I wonder if we will get stuck, if one of us goes in the well to find the pussycat." Then Clowdy Tynmite replied, "We need a rope to drop inside. You must admit that I am smart to even think of that."

They found a rope not far away and shortly it was put in play. They tied one end tight to a tree, then dropped it down the well. Then Scouty gazed down far below and said, "I'll be the one to go. The rest of you stay close at hand. If I need help I'll yell."

So down he went hand over hand. He wondered just where he would land, and then he heard a low "Mew" and saw two shining eyes. "Ah, there you are," wee Scouty said. "I knew that you were far from dead. I've heard a cat has nine good lives and therefore never dies."

He took the kitten in his arms and clambered up away from harm. The other Tynites cheered him as he climbed out of the well. The lad who owned the kitty cat jumped up and down and waved his hat. Said he, "I thought my cat was gone; to see him sure is swell."

The Tynmites then left the lad quite satisfied they'd made him glad. They journeyed down the road a way and saw a skinny man. Said Scouty, "He's the one to meet. He's purchasing a bite to eat. What is the food he's trying to buy? It's in a tiny pan."

Then when they found the food was pie, they heard the skinny fellow sigh, "I haven't any money, so I just won't eat a bite." The Tynmites turned and walked away just as the bunch heard Coppy say, "That skinny man is Simple Simon; don't you think I'm right?"

(The Tynmites meet Simple Simon in the next story.)

JACK LOCKWILL'S POLO PONY

by Gilbert Patten

Polo was a new game at Rocklake Academy, and the Grand Vizier had encountered difficulties in securing good players for the team who could afford to furnish their own ponies. At the outset, Link Trueworthy, who had given up baseball, was the only freshman on the team. "Now," said Link, complainingly to Winthrop, "you take in Lockwill! I detest him! That's why I quit my class baseball team."

"We had to take him," replied Mark, confidentially. "There are only four of us now, and somebody may get hurt. Besides, he's got a fine pony that we need in the string."

But Trueworthy sulked and seldom spoke to Jack, on the field or off. His spleen caused him to become very bad in practice work. There was a report that the team would disband.

Willis Darling told his roommate of that report to the Grand Vizier. "They're saying that I'm broke," said Jack. "I know where the trouble lies, and I'm no trouble maker. What do you want me to do?" "Stick around, old boy," answered Mark, his hand on Lockwill's shoulder. "I know where the trouble lies, too, and if we have to lose a player it won't be you."

Answer This Question

If ten years ago you had started to put aside 10% of your income, how much would you have now?

A ROUGH estimate of the amount you have earned in the past ten years will probably show that one-tenth of it would amount to several thousand dollars, not counting the interest it would have earned if deposited with us.

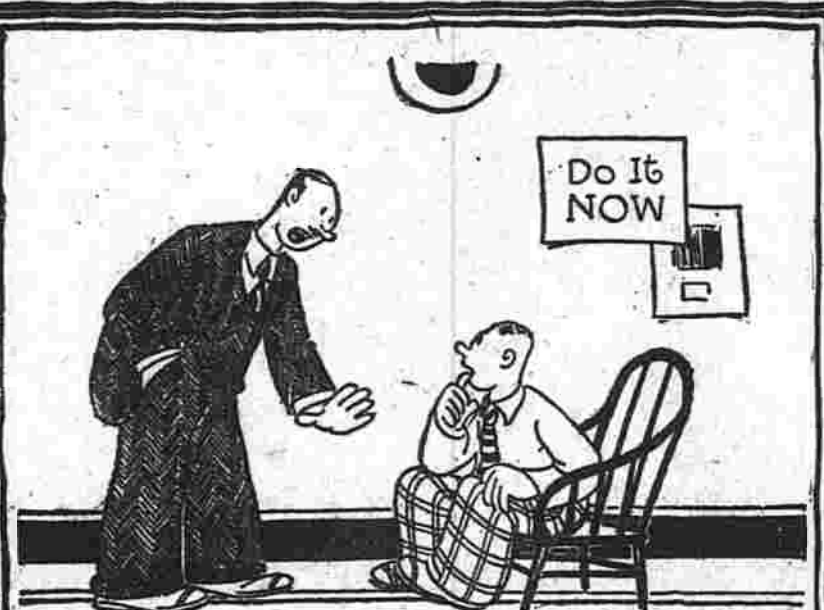

Will you allow the next ten years to pass by without a systematic plan for financial progress?

Thrift becomes a fact the day you open an account and start regular deposits.
