

PICK STIMSON FOR A SURVEY OF NICARAGUA

Former Secretary of War to Get First Hand Informa- tion For President and Kellogg.

Washington, April 7.—President Coolidge today selected Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war in the Roosevelt Cabinet, to make a personal survey of conditions in Nicaragua.

Stimson's appointment was suggested by Secretary of State Kellogg. The announcement was made after Kellogg and Stimson had conferred with the President at the White House.

The idea back of Stimson's mission is to present to the Nicaraguan government certain views of the administration which cannot be handled through correspondence, and to obtain first hand information of Nicaraguan affairs for the President and secretary of state. Stimson also is expected to attempt to bring peace to the warring factions in Nicaragua.

The announcement was announced by Secretary Kellogg in the following statement: "The Honorable Henry L. Stimson, of New York, former secretary of war, has consented to make a trip to Nicaragua as a representative of the President at the suggestion of the secretary of state. In order to take to our minister, Mr. Eberhardt, and to Admiral Latimer, certain views of the administration which can not conveniently be taken up by correspondence, and in order to get information from them as to the entire situation in that country to bring back for the use of this country, which they can not very well give us through correspondence."

Admiral In Favor.
"This suggestion has been presented to both Mr. Eberhardt and Admiral Latimer, who concur in it as an effort that might be helpful in securing information on which this government can more intelligently base its future action."

The strife and bloodshed that is going on in that country is a matter of great regret, and the necessity for protecting the interests of our citizens and the large interests of the United States government is very great."

FRENCH AMBASSADOR MEETS HARVARD BOYS

Pays Visit to President Lowell. Of University—Boston Gives Him Big Ovation.

Boston, Mass., April 7.—Harvard University today received M. Paul Claudel, ambassador to this country from France, when the envoy, who is the guest of the city of Boston, crossed the Charles River to meet President A. Lawrence Lowell.

Earlier in the day the French ambassador had visited the Museum of Fine Arts to see the new Japanese collection, reputed to be the best in the world.

Tonight he will be the guest of honor at a dinner of the military order of the World War leaving shortly afterwards for Washington. Boston received the representative of France with an unusual welcome. As the guest of the American Legion State Departments at its annual banquet he brought cheers of "Viva La France" from over a thousand veterans as he declared, "I am proud to be the everlasting friendship and comradeship of the twin republics and of the everlasting friendship and comradeship of America and France."

PRESIDENT VEToes INDEPENDENCE BILL

Says Filipinos Are Not Yet Ready For Self-Government; Against Popular Vote.

Washington, April 7.—Philippine Independence, the goal toward which Filipino leaders have been struggling for years, is yet a long way off.

President Coolidge has vetoed the resolution of the Philippine Legislature, providing for a plebiscite on independence, and in so doing bluntly informed the island people they are not ready for self government.

A plebiscite on the subject, the president said, was a meaningless gesture that might "create friction, disturb business, and slow down progress." He characterized the move for a popular vote on the subject as "a part of the agitation in the islands which, by discouraging capital and labor, is delaying the arrival of the day when the Philippines will have overcome the most obvious present difficulty in the way of their maintenance of an unaided government."

Ask Public To Save Sacco And Vanzetti

Boston, Mass., April 7.—Members of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee today were engaged in organizing public meetings throughout the country in a nation-wide plea to save Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, convicted slayers, from the electric chair.

Although defense counsel William G. Thompson was delving into all points of law before the sentencing of Sacco and Vanzetti on Saturday, the defense committee in a published statement frankly announced that "our sole hope now is the public conscience." At the meetings throughout the nation speakers thoroughly familiar with the case will present it. The outcome of the various meetings, Sacco-Vanzetti supporters believe, will result in a huge petition to Governor Alvan T. Fuller for executive clemency.

Several members of the defense committee were subjected to a police search for weapons before they entered a committee meeting last evening. Those "frisked" were men of high repute and the matter was brought to the attention of Police Commissioner Wilson today.

Unless a legal move is made to interfere, death sentence will be given on Saturday at Dedham court-house. Sacco is in Dedham jail and Vanzetti will be removed from state's prison, where he is serving a term for another robbery, to Dedham.

Meanwhile, guards continue to be stationed about public buildings and the homes of judges and prosecutors.

W. K. Vanderbilt II In Paris Seeking Divorce, Society Says

Former Virginia Fair Wants Annulment Through Rota Tribunal—Both Independ- ently Wealthy.

Paris, April 7.—The matrimonial difficulties of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II, have reached the Paris divorce courts, it was learned today.

Action for a divorce or separation for the Vanderbilts has been filed with the Seine Tribunal.

The court has ordered the appearance of both parties or their lawyers before a conciliation tribunal. This formal effort to reconcile the two parties is set for next week, and is the usual French legal procedure prior to the actual granting of a decree. In the event of the conciliation tribunal failing in its efforts a decree may be expected within the course of two or three weeks.

Need Virginia Fair.
Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was formerly Virginia Fair, is reported to be en route to Paris and Vanderbilt has been cruising in the Mediterranean for several weeks and is frequently in French river ports. It is understood that both parties will be in Paris when their action comes before the court.

Vanderbilt on arriving in France several weeks ago denied that he contemplated any divorce action, although admitting that he and his wife had been separated for some time.

Society Rumors
In social circles it has long been understood that Vanderbilt desired a divorce in order that he might marry Mrs. Rosamond Lancaster Warburton, who was divorced some months ago in Paris from Barclay Warburton, Jr., of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Warburton is understood to have been guest recently in a yachting party given by Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is a Catholic and it has been said that she has opposed a divorce because of religious scruples. There have been reports that she would seek an annulment of her marriage by the Rota Tribunal.

It is understood that the divorce action was brought by Vanderbilt. Mrs. Vanderbilt's religious scruples are reported to be the reason for her opposition to the divorce.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, it is reported, will maintain the name of Virginia Fair Vanderbilt. Mrs. Vanderbilt was the daughter of one of the owners of the famous Comstock lode with John W. MacKay, father of Clarence H. MacKay.

Social gossip has it that Vanderbilt has already arranged a financial settlement with his wife, even though she is independently wealthy.

The exact scope of the action brought before the Seine Tribunal is not yet determined. It is not known whether it is a divorce action or merely a separation action, although it is generally believed to be a divorce action.

In accordance with the French laws the utmost secrecy is being maintained at the Palais De Justice regarding the case.

EARL CARROLL FAILS IN CLEMENCY QUEST

Broadway Producer Must Start Serving Year's Jail Sentence Next Tuesday.

Washington, April 7.—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, who came to Washington in quest of presidential clemency to escape serving a sentence of a year and a day for perjury growing out of the famous "Bathub Party," apparently has failed in his mission.

Department of Justice officials have informally advised Carroll that the rule that a prisoner must serve some of his term before receiving clemency will not be changed in his behalf. Carroll is due to start his sentence next Tuesday.

MILLIONAIRES IN U. S. TODAY ESTIMATED 250

207 In 1925—Nearly 9,000 Paid on Incomes Between $100,000 and $500,000 Treasury Reports.

Washington, April 7.—A bumper crop of millionaire incomes is being grown this year in the fertile soil of national prosperity, according to all advance indications marked down by the United States Treasury.

Unless the dollar seers of the treasury are far off in their predictions, the number of persons who have just paid taxes on incomes of more than a million dollars during 1926 will reach the astounding number of 250. The number of people paying taxes on incomes ranging downward from one million dollars a year to a quarter of a million is expected, to correspondingly increase.

Some Figures
The treasury reveals that 207 persons "confessed" to incomes of more than $1,000,000 in 1925, the last year for which complete figures are available; that 138 persons admitted and paid on incomes between $750,000 and $1,000,000 annually; that 340 others paid on incomes between $500,000 and $750,000, and that the astonishing number of 8,873 paid incomes between $100,000 and $500,000 annually.

The treasury prediction of an even greater crop of millionaire incomes for the year 1926 is based upon the proven fact that '26 was a better all around business year than '25, and advance indications for 1927 are that it will exceed 1926 in prosperity.

BANDITS LOOT TRAIN; TIE UP BAGGAGE CREW

Escape With Probably $20,000 In Bonds and Currency; Wore Masks.

Chicago, April 7.—The southwestern fringe of Chicago was being combed today for two bandits who last night held up the Lincoln Limited, a Chicago & Alton passenger train, and escaped with loot variously estimated at between $2,500 and $20,000. Only the baggage car was entered. None of the passengers nor the engine crew was aware of the robbery.

The bandits boarded the train as it moved out of Joliet at 9:30 last night. One wore an army overcoat. They donned black net masks, drew revolvers and pushed their way into the baggage car.

There they encountered two porters, Conductor James Conroy and A. A. Gotthoff, express messenger. Conroy and the porters were bound and gagged and rolled in a corner and Gotthoff was forced to open the safe. The bandits took the entire contents. Currency and negotiable papers were divided equally between them. All other papers, including non-negotiable bonds, were piled on the floor of the car and burned. After going through their victims' pockets, obtaining $150 more, the bandits left the train.

LACKAWANNA TO CUT A $92,000,000 MELON

Stockholders of Railroad to Get Big Dividends if Com- mission Grants Request.

Washington, April 7.—A melon amounting to $92,000,000 will be distributed to stockholders of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, if the Interstate Commerce Commission gives the necessary authorization.

The road made formal application to the commission today to make this distribution. Under the plan it is proposed to turn over to the Lackawanna Securities Corporation the following bonds: $18,000,000 of Glen Alden Coal Co. bonds; $10,000,000 of Morris & Essex 4 per cent construction mortgage gold bonds; $9,871,000 of Morris & Essex 1-2 per cent first refunding mortgage bonds; and $13,630,000 of New York, Lackawanna & Western 5 per cent first refunding mortgage bonds.

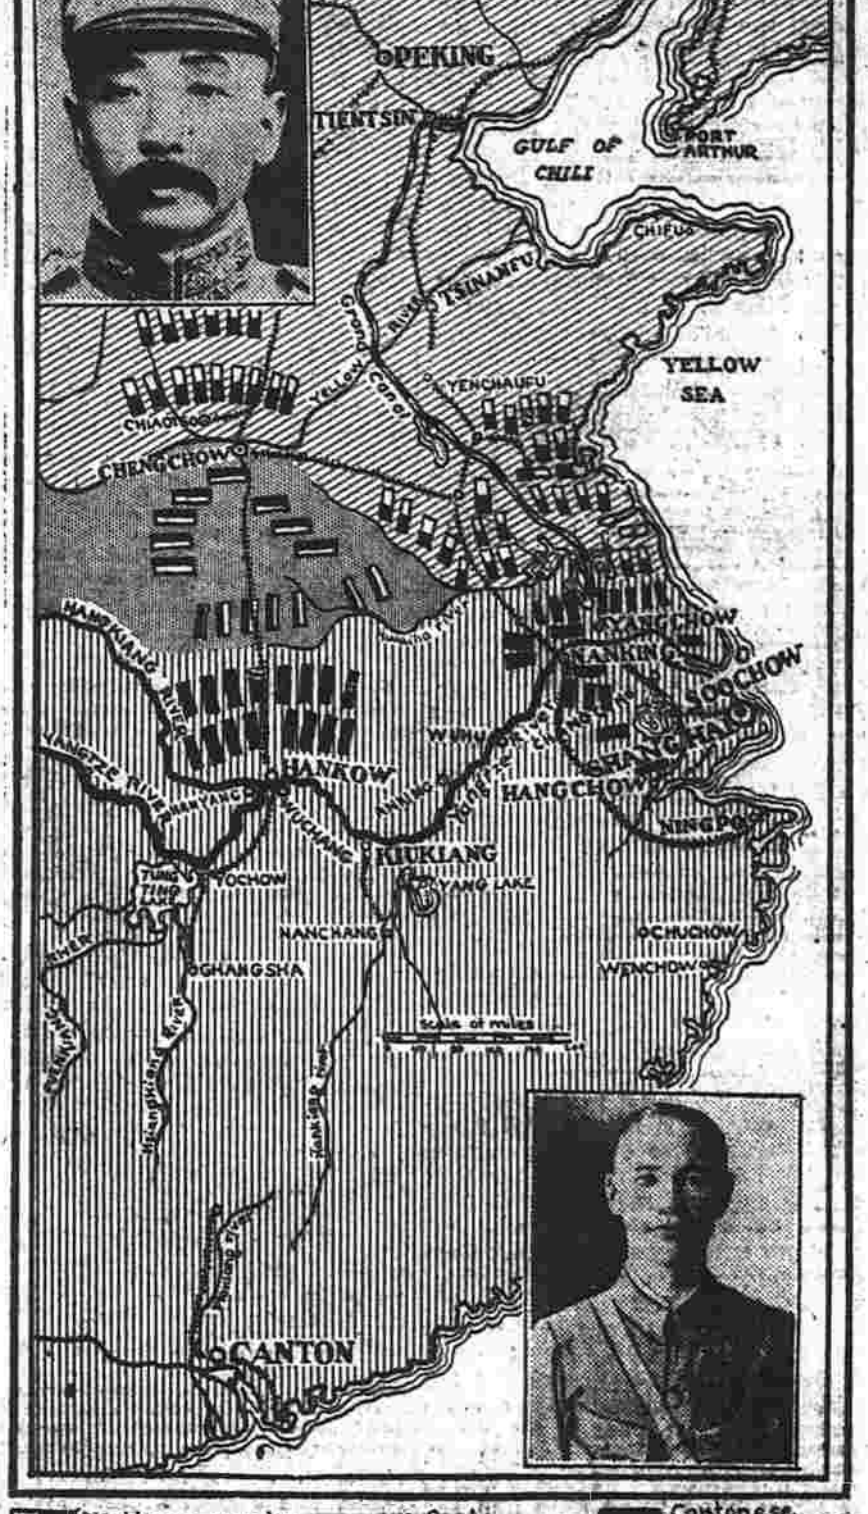

These bonds will be exchanged for the entire capital stock of the Lackawanna Securities Corporation, which will be distributed to Lackawanna stockholders.

ON TO PEKING

Map Shows Future War Area in China and How Victorious Nationalists Have Marched Northward from Canton.

Sweeping northward toward Peking, the Nationalist armies in China have met with little resistance thus far. Northern armies have retreated before the victorious march of Chang Kai-shek's Cantonese. The map shows the present positions of the fighting forces in China and gives a relative idea of how far the southern troops have progressed with Canton the general starting point.

Above is Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian lord, in command of the Pekingese troops that have been retreating. Below is Gen. Chang Kai-shek, marshal of the southern armies. The armies between the northern and southern forces are pro-Cantonese, and not expected to stand in the way of the Nationalist advance.

GOLF STOCKINGS FOR CITY'S NEEDY

Silk Hose and Negligee Shirts Also Provided; Hint At Scandal in Chicopee.

Chicopee, Mass., April 7.—Purchases of silk hose, golf stockings and negligee shirts by the city poor department ostensibly for distribution among the poor of the city as well as alleged irregularities in the conduct of the department's affairs may be subjected to the scrutiny of the Hampden county Grand Jury.

Mayor Michael I. Shea has called for a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen to consider the situation tomorrow night and today it was learned that District Attorney Charles R. Clason of Springfield was investigating.

Almoner Resigns
The alleged unsettled condition of affairs of the poor department came to light for the first time some eight months ago when Thomas J. Shea, city almoner, and Frank Kendra and Daniel M. Cullivan, overseers of the poor, resigned their positions at the request of Mayor Shea. A municipal battle has raged since to be brought to its peak when a report from the state auditor's department to the city contained charges of extravagance and misuse of public funds.

Poor Get Little
The report which came from Edward H. Fenton of the state division of accounts revealed it is alleged the articles of wearing apparel and food supplies were purchased in large quantities for distribution among the poor but in reality but a small percentage of the purchases were so distributed. Other purchases of a questionable nature were referred to in the report.

GOV. SMITH O. K.'S THEATRE PADLOCKS

Approves Bill Which Can Close Theatre a Year For Giving Obscene Plays.

Albany, N. Y., April 7.—The theater padlock bill was approved today by Governor Smith.

Under the new law, licensing authorities are empowered to padlock theaters for one year if the owner, manager, producer or actor is convicted of presenting an indecent or obscene play.

The padlock bill was introduced in the Legislature at the request of District Attorney Joseph H. Benton of New York City. Benton said more teeth should be put in the law to check the flood of sex plays, which have swept New York City in recent months.

Theatre owners and producers urged the governor to veto the bill, asserting it was unconstitutional and revolutionary.

ANOTHER JAP SHOT BY A CHINESE MOB; RIOTS IN HANKOW

Day's Highlights In China's Mixup

Wounded Japanese Taken on Board U. S. Gunboat; Ger- man Residents Charter Steamer to Escape—Raid In Peking May Mean Break Between China and Soviets.

NORTH CHINA assumed a major role in Chinese affairs today, with diplomatic difficulties confronting the enemies of the Nationalists on all sides.

CHANG TSO LIN's raid on the Soviet embassy yesterday has led to a serious diplomatic situation. The powers have lodged a protest on the ground that the Chinese exceeded their authority in the legation quarter.

Russia is preparing a protest and a break in diplomatic relations between Peking and Moscow is freely predicted. The diplomatic troubles of Chang Tso Lin may weaken his cause.

CONDITIONS IN HANKOW are reported to be critical. Chinese mobs are said to have made new attacks upon the Japanese there. United States Consul Lockhart, reporting increasing lawlessness in Hankow, states that he has advised all Americans to come aboard ships.

THE MILITARY SITUATION is reported as unchanged. Chang Tsung Chang is reported still to be offering resistance to the Nationalists to the north of Pechow.

Lockhart said all arrangements had been completed to evacuate remaining Americans at a moment's notice. A half day strike has been declared there in protest against the China-Japanese rioting.

The same message advised that Consul Walker A. Adams at Chungking, and Vice Consul P. W. Meyers, have left Chungking permanently.

Peking, April 7.—Another Japanese has been wounded by a Chinese mob at Hankow, it was reported today by American Consul Lockhart. After being shot in the head the Japanese was rescued and taken aboard the United States gunboat Pigeon.

Consul Lockhart sent word that General Lawlessness at Hankow is growing. All Americans remaining there are being urged to leave.

German residents have chartered an American ship for the evacuation of 100 German residents.

Jap Warcraft
The Japanese, evidently, intend to defend the Japanese concession at Hankow with their war craft—two cruisers, four destroyers and a gunboat.

The Chinese foreign office has lodged a protest with the Soviet embassy as the result of discoveries made in the police raid upon the embassy compound yesterday.

The specific protest is understood to be against the use of the embassy as a disseminating place for propaganda for the overthrow of the existing Chinese government.

Revised Figures show that 24 Russians and 76 Chinese were arrested during the raid.

The Dutch minister, in behalf of the diplomatic corps, handed a protest to the Chinese government, alleging that search of the Soviet embassy compound exceeded the warrant privileges of the Chinese government.

A note was handed to the foreign office by the Soviet minister charging the Chinese government with violation of the Soviet's extra-territoriality rights. It complains that, at the time the note was despatched, Soviet officials were still unable to enter their homes because they were still occupied by the Chinese police.

YESTERDAY'S RAIDS
London, April 7.—The raids on the Soviet embassy in Peking yesterday were occasioned by reports given to Chang Tso Lin that the Cantonese had completed plans for a revolution in Peking, according to a Central News dispatch from Tientsin today.

This dispatch states that it was planned for agitators to stir up large mobs and to arm them with bombs and rifles.

Northern leaders were to be assassinated and the Cantonese army was to move on Peking rapidly, according to the Central News.

SOVIET PROTESTS
Moscow, April 7.—The Soviet foreign office today received a full report on the raids on the Soviet embassy in Peking yesterday, and immediately work was started on a note of protest which will probably be despatched today.

A break in relations between Peking and Moscow is freely predicted here.

The foreign office would not confirm reports that a Red army is concentrating on the Manchurian borders.

BRING BACK AMERICANS
Washington, April 7.—Passenger lines will be utilized by the government to return those Americans from China who wish to come home, and also to transport the regiment of marines now mobilizing at San Diego to China.

Arrangements have been completed between the government and Pacific lines for "emergency" evacuations.

INDIAN HEIRESS TO $400,000 IS OBJECT OF HUNT

Muskogee, Okla.—Another missing Indian heiress has drawn Oklahoma into an anxious search. Millie Naharkey, 20-year-old Creek girl, who has an estate valued at $400,000 tied up in litigation, is the object of the latest heiress hunt.

20-Year-Old Creek Girl With Big Estate Being Settled, Is Missing.

Kidnaping is the theory given most credence. But government agents, who have been leading the search, admit they have only meager clues on which to place their hope of locating the girl. Past adventures of the heiress, however, strengthen the abduction theory.

MISS WIRTALLA DANCES

Miss Dorothy Wirtalla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wirtalla, appeared in the folk dance and assisted in several of the ensemble numbers. She did very graceful work in the polka, wearing a yellow petticoat, and in La Petite Demoiselle, she wore sea green silk gauze over yellow.

The dance of the Kuttie Kids by four tots of the baby class brought forth loud applause. The children, wearing lavender, blue, green and orange dresses boned to stand out stiffly, sang a little song and did their stunt remarkably well.

Jingle Bells, was a very pretty dance, performed by two of the senior girls attired in white costumes, trimmed with awansdown and muffs to match.

An outstanding number was the Glow Worm, danced by four of the senior girls, dressed in old fashioned gowns of lavender silk, berthas of gray lace and powdered wigs.

Nursery Rhymes The Naughty Girl polka, by two of the tots, and nursery rhymes in which the baby class next appeared was a most engaging scene, the little girls dressed in all hues of the rainbow and singing in lively tones the familiar nursery rhymes.

The baby class also gave a lullaby waltz, carrying their dollies and singing them to sleep.

Another feature of the entertainment was the musical comedy chorus by the entire advanced class, the girls wearing fancy costumes of yellow, trimmed with awansdown, the orange-lined coats opening at the front over orange knickers. Two of the pupils wearing these same costumes re-appeared and danced the "Black Bottom."

A Russian dance was admirably executed by Miss Ida, Wilhelm, wearing a rig of purple satin trimmed with swansdown and Russian boots.

The Gypsy festival was a colorful affair, the girls in regulation gypsy costume and carrying decorated tambourines. An Irish jig by six of the junior girls was a very pretty number. The costumes were green, green capes tied with ribbon, white aprons and blouses.

Hunter's Dance Master William Gess, the only boy who took part, appeared in a solo dance called the "Huntmaster." With red jockey cap, red jacket, white knickers, leather boots and whip he appeared to have stepped out of a picture of a hunt.

An especially fine number was the Daisy Chain, danced bravely by nine of the advanced girls. All garbed alike in petal frocks of yellow and carrying daisy chains, their graceful movements and poses was the occasion for much hand-clapping.

The formal program ended with "The Bugle Call" by the baby class, each tot armed with a bugle or similar instrument.

A ballroom program of eight dance numbers under the direction of Mr. Wirtalla followed. All the classes participated, the children wearing their reception dresses. Before they marched from the floor, led by Miss Dorothy Wirtalla and William Gess, their names were called and they received the baskets of flowers. Mrs. Wirtalla, their teacher was not forgotten, and was presented with two bouquets.

Miss Dorothy Gess is the winner of the Cinderella gold slippers with rhinestones for selling the greatest number of tickets. Miss Irma Wilhelm was a close second, and her award is to be free instruction at the Wirtalla school next season.

AFTER POTASH TRUST

Washington, April 7.—The federal government moved today to smash the so-called international potash trust.

Attorney-General Sargent announced the filing of an injunction suit in the New York Court of Appeals against a group of German and French producers of potash, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and anti-competition provisions of the Wilson tariff act.

The petition said that individual representative of the German and French producers are in New York arranging with American distributing agencies to project a monopoly of potash "bure up overseas," into the United States.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Bridgeport, Conn., April 7.—Miss Lenora Goldstein's $10,000 suit for slander against William Gess was settled out of court here today just as Judge Isaac Wolf and a jury were preparing to hear it.

Miss Goldstein had entered the courtroom and was revived twenty minutes later. Then she entered a conference with her own attorneys and those for Gess and by recess time announcement of the settlement was made, though the terms were not made public. The slander is alleged to have occurred in October, 1925.

SENIORS PRESENT PLAY TOMORROW

High School to Give "Daddy Long Legs"—K. of C. Rehearsals Good.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, April 7.

"Daddy Long Legs" by Jean Webster is the play that will be given by the senior class of the Rockville High school tomorrow evening at the Sykes auditorium.

The rehearsals, which have been under the direction of Principal Philip M. Howe and Misses Della Partridge and Helen Fellows of the high school faculty, indicate that a smooth and finished production will be given.

Tickets for the Senior Dramatics have been selling very well and the reserved seat sale began this afternoon and will be on sale Friday up to 5 o'clock.

The cast of characters for the play is as follows:

- Jervis Pendleton
Francis O'Loughlin
James McBride
Dudley Douglas
Cyrus Wykoff

The verdict of all who have dropped in on rehearsals for the K. of C. Revue which is to be held Thursday and Friday nights, April 21 and 22, is that it is great.

It is made up of a very pretty girls all of Rockville. Joe Crossen of Boston is directing the groups and has had wide experience in directing productions of all kinds. He is surrounded by talented assistants who give individual attention to the cast. The music is lively and catchy and the dance steps fascinating. The scenic effects, stage settings and costumes will be generally professional.

Among those taking part in the Revue are Henry Murphy, who will take the part of Bud, the leading male role; Caroline Milanesi is to take the part of the Dream Girl; Miss Agnes Menge has the lead in the Egyptian number assisted by eighteen girls. Francis Scanlon has the leading male role in this act. "Mossy" Burke has the comedy work of the Revue. Frank Cratty will have a leading part in the "Chinatown" act.

Sykes auditorium is sure to be filled both of these nights, April 21 and 22.

Chamber of Commerce Meeting The April meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday night. President Fred J. Cooley, presiding. The transportation committee reported that the "New Haven" road was to discontinue the train arriving at 11:50 a. m. from Hartford, stating that it was not paying expenses of operation. This committee, of which Harry C. Smith is chairman, sent a delegation to Hartford yesterday to confer with Superintendent Carl A. Mitchell of the Hartford division and Walter P. Read, of New Haven, superintendent of transportation. The delegation consisted of Lewis H. Chapman, Frank B. Condon and James Fishoney.

MILLIONAIRES IN U. S. TODAY NUMBER 250

fers an interesting study in national prosperity and in the relation of payments to tax rates.

Table with columns: Year, Maximum Surtax Rate, Number Returns. Rows from 1914 to 1926.

The number of millionaires has not actually fluctuated as much as the figures indicate, according to government experts. The fluctuations simply mean, they say, that under the abnormally high rates during and immediately after the war many found legal ways of evading the tax.

Dodged Taxes Hundreds of wealthy persons, for example, followed the example of Senator James Couzens of Detroit, one of the wealthiest men in the country, and placed their fortunes in tax-exempt securities. Others wrote off huge losses under the "capital loss" provision of the revenue act. Others engaged high-priced lawyers who saved them millions.

With the 2 per cent rate now effective, and the prospect that the next Congress is going to lower this, treasury experts anticipate a tremendous amount of wealth coming out of hiding and returning to activity.

Under the present rates the treasury experts contend that it is cheaper for the man of big income to pay the federal tax than it is to hire expensive legal talent to enable him to evade it.

For this and other reasons, it is anticipated that the present growing crop of millionaire and multimillionaire incomes will break all existing records, and that the 1926 figures will reveal at least 250 persons in that class, and if the present business prosperity keeps up, they anticipate the 1927 crop will be greater still.

BOYS OF CONNECTICUT MAY FISH THROUGH ICE

Need No License For Their Favorite Winter Sport. State Legislature Rules.

Hartford, April 7.—The boys of Connecticut, under sixteen years of age, won a battle in the state Senate today on their right to fish through the ice without a license. Senators Keeney, of Somers, Burroughs of Groton, and Pierson of Cromwell, succeeded in having the general fish and game law codification bill tabled because the boys were denied this privilege.

An amendment to aid the boys in a favorite winter sport is almost certain to be placed upon the bill before the Senate finally takes any definite action on the measure.

BIGAMIST HELD

Stamford, Conn., April 7.—Vincent Palmer, 36, was bound over for trial in Superior Court on a charge of bigamy after a city court hearing today, and placed under ball of $1,500. Palmer was extradited from New York earlier in the week. The state charges he was married in New York in 1920 and here in 1922.

PESSIMISTIC AUTHORITY CUTS OUR POPULATION

State Board of Health, Which Figures by Vital Statistics, Thinks We Have 21,992.

According to the monthly bulletin of the State Department of Health, which estimates population in a manner peculiar to that department, Manchester had a population of 21,992 during January.

How the department arrives at this conclusion is a matter that is not generally known on the outside, but it works through vital statistics.

There were nine deaths here during that month, balanced by 20 births, and a death rate of 4.9 per thousand. The death rate of Manchester was lower than that of any other town in the state with the exception of Glastonbury, which had a rate of 3.9. But Glastonbury's population is much smaller than that of Manchester and there were only two births there in January.

Three of the births in Manchester were still births.

BILLS CUT DOWN.

Hartford, April 7.—A reduction ranging from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000 in new construction recommendations made to the General Assembly is seen because of bills reported today from the appropriations committee which recommend $1,922,300 for new projects during the next biennial period.

Five institutions will benefit under the bills. The state farm for women at Niantic will get $118,000, the Norwich state hospital $449,000, the Mansfield state training school and hospital $190,000, the Connecticut state hospital at Middletown $206,000, Long Lane farm for girls at Middletown $118,300.

BUREAU SUPPORTS SELF.

Ottawa, Ont., April 7.—The motion picture bureau of the government will be self-supporting this year owing to the number of contracts obtained recently from Hollywood, Cal. Hon. James Malcom, minister of trade and commerce today told the House of Commons when the estimates of the department amounting to $3,800,000 were carried.

The United States armies have been decorated for their part in the war by the order of the French staff which has changed the name of Belleau Wood to Bois de la Brigade de Marines.

DODGE SEEKS WIFE

San Francisco, Calif., April 7.—Horace E. Dodge, Jr., son of the late Detroit Automobile manufacturer, was sailing toward Honolulu today and toward a possible reconciliation with his estranged wife, Mrs. Dodge and her two children are reported to be in Hawaii. She filed suit for divorce in Detroit last January.

Pending Dodge's arrival by plane from Los Angeles, the liner Wilhelmina lay in port two hours past her regular sailing time.

"GREENS" NEARLY SPOIL '4'S FEAST

Albiston's Phantom Brigade Stays Away From Annual; Loss Is Survived.

The annual banquet of the firefighters of Hose and Ladder Company, No. 4, S. M. F. D., was held last night at the engine house on School street and was a very lively and entertaining affair. The only disappointment of the evening was the failure of the "Manchester Green Fire Department" to have a representative present.

Joe Albiston, its chief, sent a letter of regret which stated it was against the rules of the department to go out after dark. However, without the "Greens" there were fifty-five men present.

Bursts of Oratory The chief feature of the evening, aside from the elaborate roast chicken dinner which Chef Osano served, was the brilliant oratorical efforts of half a dozen speakers who reviewed the town's business and everybody's else.

Foreman Harry McCormick spoke first and introduced Park Commissioner William C. Cheney as toastmaster, a job which Colonel Cheney performed enthusiastically. He called on these other speakers to "do their stuff": Mayor Robert Treat, Senator Robert J. Smith, Fire Commissioner William J. Crockett, Police Commissioner William B. Rogers, Postmaster Oliver F. Toop and Judge Raymond A. Johnson. They did it.

DEATH OF MRS. ELIZABETH DIMLOW

Mrs. Elizabeth Dimlow died suddenly yesterday at the Norwich state hospital from a complication of diseases at the age of 53. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. William Prentice of Copper street, two grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. William Irons, Mrs. Olive Carey, Mrs. Margaret Bolona, one brother, Richard Dorsey, all of Stafford Springs.

The funeral will be held from the home of her sister, Mrs. William Irons, and from St. Edward's church Friday morning. Burial will be in St. Edward's Cemetery, Stafford Springs.

TWO CHURCHES.

Assurance that the yarn about the impending destruction of the Center Congregational church building was born solely of somebody's frightened imagination is good to hear. It gained credence, probably, for the reason that it is very human to fear most for what we cherish most—and the lovely white church building that stands so modestly beautiful and so befittingly at the head of Manchester's principal business way is one of the town's dearest treasures—an architectural gem.

When you think of it, it is at once significant and unusual for the major business section of any town, particularly one of any size, to be flanked in either direction by two such poetically fascinating church structures as the Center, which looks down Main street, and the serenely majestic South Methodist at the lower end of the vista. Each in its way is a profound expression of the community, each in its way is an aesthetic vision made concrete, each is a source of pride to every resident of the town, quite regardless of doctrinal affiliations.

FORD'S BACKDOWN.

The decision of the Fords to terminate their "commissary" business so far as it related to the general public marks the end of an ill-considered adventure which, if persisted in, might easily have precipitated an economic crisis of paralyzing proportions. What Mr. Ford so bitterly undertook when he started in to supply the people of Detroit with commodities at close to their first cost was really like a surgical operation, for the cure of a bunion, that went so far as the amputation of the leg at the hip. In order to supply the people with cheap goods he instituted a scheme of trade which, if generally adopted, would have dislocated the only system of distribution that the world has known for hundreds of years—would have eliminated the retail storekeeper and most of the wholesalers and would have forced a complete readjustment of our whole social system.

Of course it is not likely that Mr. Ford, nor yet a hundred Mr. Fords, could have wholly succeeded in such an undertaking, if it had been an undertaking in fact; because it would have run against the rock of public opinion sooner or later and would have gone to smash. But if Ford had happened to be stubborn about the thing it might easily have been possible for the system to develop, say in Detroit, alone, to the point of widespread disaster. No one will question the moral right of Henry Ford to run "Company stores" and sell goods to his employees without substantial profit, if he cares to. It was his plan to extend that system to the public which occasioned all the Detroit furore. Now that he has abandoned that branch of his activities some at least of the retail merchants in the automobile town may stand a chance to remaining solvent and earning a living.

REAL CHINESE RED.

A somewhat bizarre situation has been created by the arrest of two American journalists, one of them a woman, among the "red" agitators raided at Peking by Chinese acting under orders of Marshal Chang-Tso-Lin, Manchuria war lord who is in control of Chih province and other parts of northern China. From their names these newspaper folk appear to be bona fide Americans, not Russian agitators operating under the camouflage of American citizenship. It is not likely that the United States state department will abandon these persons to their fate without investigating their status, since the protection of American citizens in China is the one purpose of the extensive naval and Marine corps activities in the Far East. It is to be expected that their home government will be quite as much interested in seeing that Mrs. Mildred Mitchell and Wilbur Burton, writers, in Peking, are guaranteed in their citizen rights as it was in seeing that the Nanking fugitives on Socony Hill were guaranteed in theirs. The announced "red" raid is a rather interesting thing by itself, since it was ordered by Marshal Chang. Because Chang is the same chap who is even now permitting the operation of his Manchurian railroad by the Russian Soviet Union's officials and over whose capital city of Harbin, Manchuria, flies a flag concocted by himself, which is half Chinese and half Soviet. In other words the only conspicuous Chinese figure actually known to have been working in accord with the Bolshevik Russian government is this Manchurian interloper himself, who for the benefit of the western nations is just at this moment rolling up his eyes in shocked horror over the idea of Soviet influence among the Cantonese.

OBJECT LESSON.

One newspaper within a day or two carried two news stories on adjoining columns, both under conspicuous headings, one of which told of the campaign of a New York woman in capturing and which has for its object the letting down of the immigration bars in behalf of female domestic servants, the other announcing that insanity would be the plea of the Brooklyn father who murdered a physician because his boy had died after having been given diphtheria anti-toxin by the doctor.

There is a good deal more close relationship between these two pieces of news than might be assumed. The death of the physician was the result of a depth of ignorance so profound as to be animal-like in its brutality. The killer was one of the beneficiaries of our so-long lax immigration laws—a creature utterly unfit for unsupervised existence in any enlightened country, a human poison germ introduced into American life through the operation of the "open door" to the offerings of creation. In his benightedness he is representative of millions of uneducated, superstitious, half-savage peasants of eastern Europe and western Asia against whom the United States Congress most belatedly has provided for protection.

And because there is a growing scarcity of kitchen labor at a cheap price, this group of women headed by the New York woman in question, is trying to move heaven and earth to once more open our ports to new importations of such people. Probably not all of them would murder American physicians for administering anti-toxin to desperately sick children, but each of them would add to the staggering problem presented by a nation so heavily impregnated with the fruits of overwhelming unrestricted immigration that even in Connecticut the percentage of illiteracy has grown to be little less than frightful.

The immigration laws right now are not illiberal. It will be time enough to further liberalize them when we have sufficiently assimilated our present foreign born population so that there will no longer be an appreciable part of it that belongs to the eleventh century instead of the twentieth.

WHIPS FOR FELONS.

The Michigan House of Representatives by an almost unanimous vote yesterday passed a bill which provides for the whipping of felons, with especial attention to bank robbers, in addition to their terms of imprisonment. It is expected that the Senate will concur and that the Wolverine state will assume the distinction of being the only American commonwealth to employ the lash in its system of criminal correction. The whippings provided for in the law will be no child's play. A bank robber will draw from ten to twenty strokes. "Well laid on," twice a year during his term of confinement the proviso being established that after he has undergone a total experience of 300 lashes he is to be whipped no more.

That immunity, however, he would not gain until he had been beaten every six months for nearly eight years—at the end of which time, it is to be presumed, he would have acquired the habit and rather miss than otherwise the break of prison monotony provided by the semi-annual flogging. We confess to a very tardy reaction to this Michigan experiment—difficulty in forming an opinion as to its usefulness or its justification. Indubitably it is a return to a system which after many hundreds of years of trial was definitely abandoned as no good. They used to whip insane people in England, but discovered that the lash did not restore sanity. They used to flog dissolute women but found that it did not make for chastity—and finally forbade the whipping of women altogether in 1791. They flogged sailors in the American navy until about half a century ago—and abandoned it. Yet it must be admitted that the abandonment of the whipping post has not cured crime any more than did the cat-o-nine-tails. And legislatures and courts are being driven to desperation. If the prospect of a dozen cuts with a whip twice a year for half a dozen years will actually deter criminals any more than the prospect of prison without the lash, who will say that the Michigan stunt isn't justifiable? But will it? We admit we are utterly in the dark on that point—and suspect that so, too, is the Michigan legislature.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 7.—What is likely to be asked during these days of activity on the part of the State Department, is diplomacy? Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, ambassador from Belgium, gave his conception of it in a talk at a recent luncheon of the Foreign Service club, an organization of State Department officers.

"Diplomacy," said the ambassador, "is the art of bringing home the bacon without spilling the beans. It appears that some of our diplomats abroad are diplomats, and that some are not, if you get the point. Just a little while ago, Mr. Lawrence Dennis, erstwhile legation secretary and charge d'affaires in Nicaragua, was not a good diplomat. He resigned and wired the department here certain loud squawks against its promotion policy and its Central American policy. It was a sizzling hot telegram and carried the implication that much more would be heard, and that publicly.

Now Mr. Dennis has become a good diplomat again. As he started for Washington and as Washington awaited his coming with some excitement and as reports spread that Senator Borah would center an investigation about his complaints, the department, in order to foil newspapermen who planned to meet him in New York, told him to go ashore down south and come here by train. For the first two days, the presence of Dennis here was kept very quiet and at the end of the two days Dennis refused to be interviewed and said it was all the bunk about that alleged secret document wherein Secretary Kellogg was supposed to have told him to help push Adolfo Diaz into the presidency. Proof that the department realizes that Mr. Dennis has again become a good diplomat may be expected to materialize with an early promotion for Mr. Dennis. Mr. Dennis has brought home the bacon in more ways than one—and, although he made threats, he hasn't spilled the beans.

After someone had made the Dennis telegram public, there was a great hoop-to-do about it in the department. Somehow the finger of suspicion was pointed at the consular officers. Some of them were brought before William R. Castle, Jr., newly appointed assistant secretary of state and something like the following conversation is said to have followed:

"How did you fellows happen to know anything about the Dennis telegram?" "Everyone in the department knows about it unless they're stupid." "Well, I don't know anything about it." "Well, we can't help that."

In these days of prohibition, the really diplomatic foreign diplomats seem to have recalled the old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. And it seems that some very rare vine-tages and liquid concoctions sometimes find their way into the tumblers of high government officials who are too courteous to allow the spirit of the Volstead act to follow them into social functions on those bits of foreign soil known as embassies and legations. A cocktail mixed by an ambassador's own hands has a certain prestige that appeals even to a cabinet member on occasions. And some of the ambassadors and ministers are experts. Under the effect of these concoctions, visiting officials are not always such good diplomats as they are the next day, but public business is not transacted at social functions, so it probably makes very little difference.

THE GREAT WAR TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

(By United Press) April 7, 1917. The Austrian government served notice that it would stand by Germany in the latter's clash with the United States and the Austrian ambassador at Washington asked for his passports. The administration prepared to ask Congress to authorize a bond issue of $5,000,000,000, of which $3,000,000,000 should be loaned to the Allies. The Navy Department commenced negotiations with Allied naval officials to arrange for joint naval action against Germany. Hornet's Nest. males die. A few of the younger females, however, find snug hibernation. In spring they come out, lay eggs that were fertilized the autumn before and so began a new colony. The old paper house is discarded and a new one built each summer.

New York, April 7.—Generally speaking, but one side of the Broadway picture is familiar to the average person in or out of Manhattan.

And this is the kaleidoscope of lights, theaters, night clubs, chorines, producers and such. Caught in this maze are scores who turn rural at the slightest opportunity, using fortunes made on the big streets to build up a quiet home life in the country.

There is, for instance, one Broadway figure whose ups and downs have become almost mythical. With the first breath of spring he is off to his farm at Ramsey, N. J., and on Sunday morning you will find him milking the cows and feeding the chickens. He prides himself on an army of hens and once brought 40 dozen eggs back stage of a theater to show the performers how well his hens were getting along. He gets more fun out of bringing eggs to market than signing a big contract.

Last winter he went up to his farm for a week-end and was snowed in. Unable to get out the following day, he got the thrill of his life being imprisoned and rendered completely helpless by the blizzard. Over week-ends he entertains black bottom dancers and night club entertainers who are grateful for this brief escape from their late shift in a world of tobacco smoke, jazz bands, fat buyers from out of town and clinking glasses.

NTG this fellow is known to radio fans, and Graniurd is the family moniker. For 14 years he has made and lost money on the "main racket," as Broadway is often dubbed. Before that he was a prize-fighter and a sporting editor. He has become celebrated for his "eagle eye for newcomers." Mary Miles Minter and Clara Bow were but two unknowns that he spotted.

His case is not at all unusual. Most Broadway folk, as soon as they get sufficient money together, buy places in the country and run to them as an escape from the hectic demands of the bright light belt.

Jeanne Eagles invested considerable of her profits from "Rain" in a place on the Hudson. The Rooneys, of vaudeville fame, live in a big "vaudeville" colony on Long Island. Tom Meighan raises his family at Great Neck and Gloria Swanson, when in New York, spends week-ends at her country place at Croton-on-Hudson. Blanche Ring, Ethel Barrymore and a score of others have country places "down the island."

As summer nears, the rush away from Broadway grows greater. Those who have been particularly prosperous keep places both in the country and at the seashore.

While the incomes of Broadway-ites sound large on paper, most of the "big names" spend accordingly and many find themselves in embarrassing economic circumstances when the wind changes. Keeping up city, country and seaside places, with servants at each, runs into terrific overhead; to say nothing of the town and country cars, the yachts and the entertainment. A salary of a thousand or more a week is necessary to keep up even a pretense at this life.

But for the investments of business managers many would be long since encountered the "rainy day."

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

A HOUSE OF PAPER

By ARTHUR N. PACK, President, American Nature Ass'n.

This is the home of a colony of white-faced hornets. They build it of paper which they make by chewing up shreds of wood, an art known to them long before man learned it.

Inside these paper walls are tiers of cells like the honeycomb constructed by bees, save that they are made of the gray paper rather than of wax. These cells shelter the young hornets.

A large colony may contain as many as 15,000 members when the summer's work is at its height. As in a bee swarm, there are females, males or drones, and workers in the group.

With the coming of cold weather, late on autumn, the paper house becomes a tomb. Most of the workers, all the drones and nearly all of the females die. A few of the younger females, however, find snug hibernation.

Hornet's Nest.

In spring they come out, lay eggs that were fertilized the autumn before and so began a new colony. The old paper house is discarded and a new one built each summer.

Secrets of 16 Years Successful Pitching

BY GROVER ALEXANDER
Veteran Pitcher of World's Champions
CO-ORDINATION NECESSARY

Complete co-ordination between the pitcher and catcher is necessary. Many young pitchers place the blame on a catcher when a base hit has been made in the pinch. I have heard young pitchers mumble: "Well, that's what he called for."

And that's what he did. But have confidence in your catcher. If you haven't, then pitch your own game. I want to say that confidence in my catcher—Bill Killefer with the Phillies, when I was starting out—helped make me.

When a catcher calls for a pitch-out in trying to catch the runner stealing don't put too much stuff on the ball. Give him a ball that will be easy to handle, so he can get his throw in a hurry.

On steals, the pitcher is the one who can help the catcher. Watch the runner. Don't let him get too big a lead at first base. Throw over to that base occasionally.

Bob Bescher was a base-running marvel. He was the hardest for me to keep close to first base. I don't understand why more base runners don't study this art like Bescher. I can never remember picking Bob off first base and his lead was more than twice as far as the runners of today, with the exception of Max Carey.

These runners made a study of all pitchers. The pitcher unconsciously gives them some sort of a signal whether they were throwing to first or the plate. I don't know what I did to tip off Bescher for he would never tell me. If pitchers have an idea a catcher won't help them, look what O'Farrell did for us in closing the world series last fall. Ruth was on first in the ninth inning with two out, the Yanks were behind 3-2. I had one strike on Bob Meusel and nobody in that vast throng was more startled than myself when I saw what followed.

I did not expect Ruth to start to steal. I did not even expect him to put on the hit-and-run with Meusel. I gave Meusel a fast low curve, the same as the first pitch, and he swung. The ball was very low and difficult for O'Farrell to squeeze. Why Bob was almost on his knees when he made the greatest throw I have ever seen.

About that play, Ruth stealing, I'm not criticizing anybody, but with a batter like Meusel up, one who usually hits a terrific wallop, I would not have tried the steal had I been Ruth. Of course, that may be the second guess as I am giving this opinion months after Ruth was tagged out to close the world series.

However, many of the experts feel that the daring chance Ruth took in trying to steal second was justified on the ground that he would have scored from that base a muffed fly ball or a wild throw. In baseball one is judged on results and since Ruth failed he draws censure, rather than the praise that would have gone with success.

Rehearsals are being held regularly here for Manchester's part in the show. Another rehearsal will be held Saturday night at the Center Congregational church at 8 o'clock. The pageant will be a very colorful affair. It is being promoted by William Hubbard, who is conducting similar pageants throughout the country. Mr. Hubbard has studied at length with the Sioux Indians in Nevada. At present, he is staging an Indian pageant in Bridgeport. The costumes in which he garbs the scouts for the various dances are said to be valued at $12,000.

Another activity in which Manchester has pushed Hartford into the background in Boy Scout work is the annual tree-planting expedition to the state forestry reservation at Litchfield. Last year twenty-two scouts went from the Hartford council and eight of this number were from Manchester. Twenty earned the forestry merit badge, all of the Manchester scouts passed.

Thirty thousand trees were planted last year and practically all of these have survived. The state forestry department was well pleased with the work and as a result has allotted three weeks to this work this summer so that more Scouts may go there for weekly stays. Free board is provided at the Mohawk Camp there.

At present there are twenty-two Manchester applications against five for Hartford. Only first-class Scouts are allowed to go on the expedition. The Manchester group will have its weekly stay from April 23 to 30, the third and final week.

MANCHESTER SCOUTS OUTDO HARTFORD BOYS

Will Have Three Times as Many as Capitol City in County Indian Pageant.

Plans are going forward rapidly for the big Indian pageant to be presented by Boy Scout troops of Hartford Council late in May at the state armory in Hartford. Eighty boys are expected to take part in the presentation and of this number, Manchester, with 175 scouts, is contributing 60, while Hartford, with 1,600 scouts will have but twenty performers. There are only eight troops in Manchester but they have been exceedingly active in comparison with those of the Capitol City.

REPORTERS GET GOVERNOR

Hartford, Conn., April 7.—Plainfield yielded to the Laurel Club in the matter of conflicting engagements for Governor Trumbull. The governor and Mrs. Trumbull were to lead the grand march at the firemen's ball in their home town on April 23 when the Laurel club decided to hold its biennial dinner the same night.

The Laurel club is an organization that includes every person now living who ever "covered the Legislature" for some newspaper or press service. Plainville firemen contacted the governor and pointed out how extremely important the Laurel club really is. Then the firemen postponed their ball one night.

Prettiest Legs in Paris.

Of all the shapely underplinnings in a city which has never suffered from a shortage of such beauty, Mademoiselle Damitto's have been acclaimed the most beautiful in Paris. An anticipated opinion on the matter from Mademoiselle Mistinguet, who had claimed Mlle. Damitto's distinction for herself, has not yet been broadcast. But wait!

MANGLED BY TRAIN

Stamford, Conn., April 7.—Simon Poore, a car knocker employed by the New Haven railroad, is in dying condition at Stamford hospital, having been found terribly mutilated beside the tracks in the local railroad yards today. Apparently struck by a west-bound train, Poore lost one arm and one leg and had his hips crushed.

Poore, who is married and lives at 49 Davenport street, seems to have been walking to the tool shed the railroad maintains opposite Pacific and State streets when he was struck. Fellow employes came upon his body lying close to the shed.

NEW PLANE FOR PINEDO

Rome, April 7.—A new military airplane was today started on its journey to the United States for use by Commander Francesco De Pinedo, Italian inter-continental flyer, whose plane was burned at Lake Roosevelt, Arizona, yesterday.

Premier Mussolini ordered the plane shipped immediately.

After you buy a washing machine you don't want to invest more money in tubs, pails or plumbing connections.

The difference between the Wringless SAVAGE

Spin-Rinse, Spin-Dry and wringer types is that the Savage comes complete for the complete wash day task—it washes, blues, rinses and dries in its own tub—it fills through its own hose, direct from the faucet—and empties by means of its own automatic pump ejector.

Your Savage does all the work for you—the Last Hard Half—rinsing and drying—as well as the easier half—washing and bluing.

Girl Scout News

Scout Council.

The annual meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday afternoon with Miss Marguerite Bengs of Park street. Chairmen of all committees will be expected to make reports at this time.

Officers Association.

The Officers association held its annual meeting at the Harriet Brown Tea Room on South Main street last evening. Miss Ruth Hedlund, regional director for New England, was the guest of honor. Fifteen enjoyed a delicious supper. The visiting officer gave some very helpful and interesting advice to the officers.

Miss Ruth Hedlund.

Miss Ruth Hedlund, who has been spending the past few days in town, addressed more than 500 girls of scout age in the Manchester public schools during her stay here.

Troop 3.

The members of this troop enjoyed a banquet given by Patrol 1 to Patrol 2, winners in the contest, at the home of Naomi Foster, Friday evening. Commissioner Mrs. Fred Norton and Mrs. Nelson Smith chairman of the awards committee, were guests. A most delicious meal was served by the members of Patrol 1.

Tenderfoot pins were presented by Mrs. Smith to Luella Larder and Gladys Abbott. A second class badge was presented by Mrs. Norton to Grace Giglio. Homemaker and home nurse badges won by Emily Smith were given to Mrs. Smith as Emily was ill and unable to attend the banquet.

A short business session followed the meal, at which Grace Giglio was elected leader of Patrol 1 and Genevieve Eddy, Patrol 2. They will appoint their corporals. All wishing to take the Red Cross first aid course are asked to report tonight at 7:30 at Room 5 of the School Street Recreation Center.

Following is the schedule of troop meetings until the summer vacation:

April 8, patrol contest; 15, no meeting; 22, patrol contest; 29, special meeting; May 6, patrol contest; 13, no meeting; 20, patrol contest; 27, outdoor supper to be given the winning patrol by the losers.

After the business meeting a hat-making contest was held.

Each person received two sheets of tissue paper and 10 pins with which to make her Easter hat. The prize, a chocolate bunny, was won by Gladys Abbott. Other games were played and the prize for throwing cards into a hat was won by Genevieve Eddy.

Patrol 1 deserves congratulations

for the excellent manner in which it planned and carried out the banquet and program which followed. The troop is looking forward to another good time at the close of the next contest.

There's only one advantage to putting off until tomorrow

what should be done today, and that is you may be fired tomorrow and won't have it to do.

MOOSE HERE PLANNING FIRST INFORMAL BALL

Manchester Lodge of Moose is planning its first informal ball to be held in Cheney hall on May 6. The Club Trabara orchestra of New York City has been engaged to play for the dancing and there will be professional entertainment.

The local lodge is going to considerable expense to make this first ball a successful affair. The orchestra expense will be large since the Club Trabara band is considered one of the best in the city, according to the committee in charge of the ball.

The ball is being conducted by the following committee: George L. Barzon, chairman; John A. Tappin, assistant chairman; William DeVarey, William Brunelle, John Chicoine and Walter Smith.

Sister: John, you're getting married again and your first wife dead only three months!

John: My dear, she's just as dead now as she'll ever be.

Time to Begin Laying More Golden Eggs

ONCE AGAIN— FROM "EXTRA" RANKS TO STARDOM—JUST LIKE THAT

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Calif.—Some years ago Al Rockett, motion picture producer, picked George Billings from a street mob and made him the cinema Abraham Lincoln—and Billings was a success.

Just a few weeks ago Rockett, still a film magnate, selected Molly O'Day from the hordes of movie actresses as Richard Barthelmess' leading lady. Molly, too, is justifying Rockett's judgment in Celluloid prospects.

From the "Extras" Rockett saw Miss O'Day playing an "extra" role in a mob scene one day. She struck him as being just the type for the feminine lead in Barthelmess' million dollar war picture, "The Patent Leather Kid." Rockett took the young girl into his office and told her the story they were about to film. Her reaction to the tale was just what he wanted and he signed her for the role.

The producer's associates tried in vain to persuade him to select some prominent actress.

"Either Molly O'Day plays the part or we don't make the picture," was his only retort.

Some might say that the risk of using a new girl in an important role is too great for a million dollar production. Rockett doesn't think so.

"Molly looks to me like she has the stuff and I would rather trust my own judgment than that of someone else," he told me. "I am taking one protective measure, though. I signed Al Santell to direct the film, and he is one of the most capable directors in the game."

Scarcely had the cameras started grinding than old man hard-luck overtook the company. Even Rockett, who is "sold" on Molly, hoped she would have a couple months in the picture before it was time for tears and heavy drama. But such was not to be.

Handsome Dick broke his ankle, forcing them into the dramatic scenes almost immediately. The first day there was a strained tension on the "set." Would Molly "come through?" She did—remarkably! I happened to be on the "set" the second day and she looked every bit a veteran.

She's a Nurse Molly portrays a sane hall girl who becomes a Red Cross nurse at the opening of the war. It is as the dancer that she falls in love with Barthelmess, then a prize-fighter. He also goes to war, as a member of the tank corps. Naturally, when he is wounded, Molly is the nurse who cares for him.

The opening reels of the picture are a bunch for the pretty young actress—being funny comes natural in her family. Molly really isn't Molly at all. She is Sue O'Neil, sister of the famous Sally. But she changed her name so as not to take any of Sally's reflected glory.

Old Master's

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky, And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by; And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking, And a gray mist on the sea's face, and a gray dawn breaking.

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied; And all I ask is a windy day with the white clouds flying, And the flung spray and the blown spume, and the seagulls crying.

I must go down to the seas again, to the vagrant gypsy life, To the gull's way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife; And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow-rover, And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESEN

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Parables of Warning

Jesus, warning his disciples, said "Watch therefore; for ye know not on what day your Lord cometh." (Matthew XXIV: 40-42)

Jesus likens the Kingdom of Heaven to ten virgins going to meet the bridegroom, five of whom were wise, and five foolish. (Matthew XXV: 1-2)

The wise took oil in their lamps, but the foolish were ill-provided, and their lamps went out as the bridegroom came. (Matthew XXV: 3-13)

Jesus in the parable of the talents commended those who made good use of what was entrusted to them, but condemned the man who hid his one talent in a napkin. (Matthew XXV: 14-29)

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD. IT PAYS.

A Flapper Joins The Gold Rush

Here is Betty Briggs, reporter for NEA Service and The Evening Herald in her most fashionable gold rush outfit. This picture was taken as she arrived at Weepah, in the heart of the new Nevada gold fields.

Editor's Note:—This is the first of a series of articles by Betty Briggs, reporter for The Evening Herald and NEA Service, Inc., who has gone into the new Nevada gold fields just like the hundreds of people who are seeking sudden wealth. In her first article, Miss Briggs tells the part women are playing in this spectacular gold rush.

By BETTY BRIGGS.

Weepah, Nev.—The well-dressed woman in the gold rush wears a pistol at her belt or stuck within her khaki shirt.

The pistol may be a cute little bridge-favor sort of thing with pearl handle, or it may be a woman's six-shooter.

Of course, the well-dressed woman may not wear khaki shirt. It may be blue overalls or plain male trousers.

On the other hand, it may be a $500 fur coat and peach silk lingerie.

The explanation is that the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are here, rubbing elbows together, frying flapjacks on the same kerosene stove, and jabbering about what they'll buy when their husbands bring home the bacon, which is gold.

Home Decorating, Too. I am in a position to send out authoritative style notes from the new Nevada gold rush region, because I am here. In person. A flapper, you might call me. I am here to get an eye-ful and ear-ful of why men and girls leave home when the cry "Gold!" is heard. A few weeks ago Weepah was unknown. Now it is the heart of a thriving gold rush with all the color of the old days of '49, tinged just a bit by modern life.

You might like a home-decorating note, also. The well-furnished boudoir of the gold rush metropolis is a flapping tent. Living-room, drawing-room, library, solarium, kitchen, bath and dining-room are thrown together ensemble style, according to the new note in decorating.

The Lounging Room. The woman who likes "something different" may have a lounging room which consists of a hole dug in the sand. Dainty bed clothing of old coats should be spread over the hole. If she is lucky enough to beg, borrow or steal the coats.

I'm not spoofing a bit, either. I saw women napping in their "homes" mere holes in the sand lined with old canvas or coats. A woman from Illinois, who has come out with her 15-year-old son, who hopes to strike it rich and keep "ma" in silks and satins for life, told me that she slept in a sand hole with only a coat over her until someone loaned her some bed clothing. She is making doughnuts, three with a cup of coffee for 30 cents. The boy, tickled pink at "playing hooky" from school, works like a gray-bearded old-timer.

As Popular as Mosquitoes. Women are thicker than men, if anything. And we are about as popular with the men as mosquitoes on a camping trip. I learned this when I entered the Hotel Misupah at Tonopah. I left Frisco in what I thought the proper prospecting outfit—terrible old duds of broad-brimmed sort hat, old corduroy jacket, much-worn knickers and scuffed high boots.

But even so, I didn't make the grade as an "old-timer." I heard a prospector growl "another of these darn women" as I tried to get through the crowded lobby. Unless things were different back in the '50s, I am inclined to doubt the tales of chivalrous prospectors who exchanged gold nuggets for a lady's smiles.

Women Everywhere. Women everywhere. At the "soft drink" bar in the hotel. Asleep in chairs. Squabbling for "just a cot somewhere."

There was the usual story book "little actress and her pal." From New York, she told me, as she launched into a rhapsody over Tex Guinan's night club, and talked disdainfully of "this dump." The pal, a telegraph operator, and she were on their way to Weepah to open a hot dog stand. "Make our pile and go back to God's country to spend it," I snickered as I thought of all the movies and stories that think "God's country" is only where she was right then.

Thought to Shoot. The woman in Weepah itself are as busy as their men out in the hills. The men taught their wives only one thing before they left—how to shoot and how to shoot straight.

Most of the women are coming more gold out of their smelly kerosene stoves and the ham and eggs and wieners they are cooking on them than their husbands will ever make with claims. A little bride from Oakland is selling ham and eggs in her tent at 50 cents a plate, which is low enough when you learn that bread is 25 cents a loaf; butter, 90 cents a pound; beans, 40 cents a can; salt, 30 cents a package; water, 5 cents a gallon, and that it costs $30 a ton to haul provisions into camp.

Like Florida. Women and men have walked hundreds of miles on foot. Others ride the bumpers. They come in with about $5 or less in their pockets, just like hundreds of men, business men are warlike people not to come, unless with enough money to live on. They say it will be weeks before there will be enough mining operations to give work to everybody, even if the field turns out to be a rich one.

The game right now is re-selling claims. It's the Florida business all over again. Instead of going out into the hills and calling their hands and really working for gold, men are selling and re-selling claims. Some have passed hands a half dozen times a day. I cannot get a claim now within a 12-mile radius of Weepah. And most of the people who come here can't afford to hire a river to take them that far out and they won't walk. It costs almost as much to hire a fly out here as to buy one at home.

MEET TOMORROW TO MAKE SOCCER PLANS

There will be a special meeting of representatives of the three teams in the Manchester District Soccer League tomorrow night at 7:30 at the School Street Rec. Plans will be made for completion of the league schedule. The Celtics and Cheney Brothers are tied for first place in the league and have to meet once before the end of the season. The Celtics also have to play New Britain once.

England is attempting to introduce the Douglas pine. It reaches a height of 250 feet in this country, more than twice the height of any tree in England's forests.

EIGHT VAUDEVILLE ACTS AT THE STATE TONIGHT

Bill Headed by Juvenile Frolic: Feature Is "Affair of the Follies."

Led by the Juvenile Frolic, a troupe of kids who do most anything and do it well, the eight acts at the State theater will be presented this evening for the regular Bargain day bill. On the program also will be the drama of the footlights, "An Affair of the Follies," starring Lewis Stone, Billie Dove and Lloyd Hughes.

The Juvenile Frolic kids dance, sing and play. They tell a good bunch of stories—nice stories, and have their own jazz band, claimed to be the youngest combination of musicians in the country. Advance reports put them on a level with the best acts seen on the State stage this year and if that is the case they will make many friends in Manchester.

Others on the bill include the Four Volunteers—why they are called that nobody knows—who sing and talk. Their singing is best, however, and every man of the quartet is a soloist of considerable merit. They appear mostly in vaudeville numbers and can sing a classical old song and an up-to-date one with equal effect.

Rule and Tenny, the third act on the bill, need no introduction. Their reputation is national and they have been on the big time for several years. Hence, the audience can expect entertainment in the song line, for the team knows more than 1,000 songs.

Lewis Stone, who with Billie Dove and Lloyd Hughes, is the leading light of "An Affair of the Follies," which is here for the remainder of the week, has become so prominent in the moving picture world that he is now considered one of the brightest stars in the constellation. Miss Dove, of course, is a star in her own right and there are few who have not seen Lloyd Hughes, picked by a noted French painter as the handsomest man in America.

Billie Dove is cast as a chorus dancer who marries a fifty-dollar-a-week clerk and relinquishes her career for life in a cottage—or a flat.

Lloyd Hughes is excellent as the husband. Lewis Stone is a wealthy broker who admires the heroine and tries to win her love.

POTASH, PERLMUTTER AT RIALTO THEATER

"Partners Again" another hilarious comedy with two of America's foremost comic characters in the stellar roles heads the double feature program being offered at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow. Potash and Perlmutter well-known in every family that peruses the comic section of the newspapers here leads in this brilliant comedy of which it has been said "all the laugh pauses have been left out." The plot starts off with a bang and never lags and then the situations are entirely logical, there being no slapstick humor, the type that becomes tiresome after a few scenes.

The picture can be heartily recommended to those who can still enjoy a laugh. The second feature being shown on these two days will be "The Warning Signals," a thrilling melodrama of railroad life. Tense scenes abound in this gripping story and the characters are portrayed by an exceptionally strong cast. Other subjects to be shown include a short comedy and current news events.

YOUNG INDUSTRY TAKES HUGE LEAD ON CANE PRODUCT

Denver, Colo.—American sugar now means beet sugar.

Today practically all sugar extracted from continental American crops is produced in 89 beet sugar factories. Less than 7 per cent comes from the old cane plantations of Louisiana, the last stronghold of the passing planter.

Recent estimates for the 1926-27 crop year show an output of 938,000 tons of refined sugar extracted from beets in the United States, as compared with a probable 67,850 tons from Louisiana cane, a loss of more than 51 per cent from Louisiana's production for the previous year of 139,330 tons.

In spite of beet crop difficulties, chiefly in California and Utah, the beet sugar estimate of 938,000 tons for this year represents an increase of 2.7 per cent over the 1925-26 sugar production of 915,000 tons.

Colorado, a faint dot on the beet map a quarter of a century ago, now leads the states of the union for the crop year 1926-27 with an estimated production of 350,000 tons of sugar, extracted from about 3,000,000 tons of sugar beets grown on 225,000 acres.

Michigan is second, according to estimates by the United States Department of Agriculture, with 175,000 tons of beet sugar, although Nebraska is forging toward second place with 160,000 tons of sugar. California and Utah, once vigorous contenders, have practically dropped out this crop year because of beet diseases.

Allocation of beet sugar factories is as follows: Colorado 16, Michigan, 16, Utah 15, Idaho 7, Nebraska 6, California 5, Ohio 5, Wyoming 4, Wisconsin 4, Montana 3, Iowa 2 and other states 6, making 89 in all. Three new factories are being built in South Dakota, Montana and Nebraska.

The sugar story is comparatively simple. The beet plant combines air and water, through the magic of its leaves, into sugar which is stored in the root. The factories wash and slice the beets, extract the juice by a diffusion process, then purify and refine the juice to such a point that it can be boiled in crystals and spun through centrifugal machines into the white granulated sugar of commerce.

How Sugar is Made There are three products of a beet sugar factory: first, sugar; second, molasses, the last discarded juice which has been worked over to such an extent that no further sugar can be extracted profitably; third, beet pulp, molasses and pulp are excellent stock feed. Dried pulp from the inter-mountain factories goes as far east as Boston and south to Atlanta.

Utilization of molasses for purposes more profitable than feeding and producing alcohol is now being accomplished by the new refinery erected at Johnstown, Colo. This factory, the only one of its kind in the world, recovers sugar profitably from molasses discarded from other plants. The opening of the Johnstown mill in 1926 was considered by sugar authorities one of the most significant steps of recent years in the industry. A similar plant is under construction at Lyman, Neb.

DRY FORCES TO MOP UP BORDER THIS SUMMER

Largest Staff Ever In Service Against Liquor to Fight Rum-Runners.

Syracuse, N. Y.—According to well-informed Federal circles, the United States government will place this summer the largest force of preventative forces along Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River in the history of Volsteadism. New section headquarters are to be established at Oswego, Watertown, Alexandria Bay, Ogdensburg and Massena upstate and in the Western section at Sodus, Niagara Falls and other points along Lake Erie to the West.

The Oswego division, it became known here, is to be one of the most vital spots in the Federal plans to stop the flow across the border. At this point, it is said, will be stationed fast patrol boats, whose duty will be to head off all big craft bound for quiet coves on the Southern shores of Lake Ontario. These cutters, it is said here, will mount a one-pound cannon and will be equipped as well with small arms and a machine gun or two to be used in cases of emergency.

"Wide Open" River
If the dry navy and officers on shore succeed in mopping up practically all liquor coming via the border, few bootleggers themselves believe themselves that the business will continue to any great degree. On the other hand, officers wise in the way of the underworld fear to give the rum-runners an upper hand for a moment, realizing that to do so means a "wide open" river and lake in the future.

All along the lake and river front at points of control will be stationed small units of two or three members of the border patrol. In each unit will be two customs agents and one immigration officer, it is said.

Behind this "second line of defense," for as usual the Marines receive the first call to duty, will come the "moppers up," the State police.

Raiding Stills
Working back among the cities and industrial centers where the smuggled liquor supplies ultimately find their way will be the prohibition enforcement agents, a distinct group of Federal agents whose chief duty is to raid stills, arrange prisoners, secure "buis" from "speak-easies" and make an occasional visit to breweries not officially marked "clean."

There then is still another force in the game, that of the United States and State officials lining up against the new "rum row." There are the men who perhaps are less known but whose activities always result in the "big boys" being brought to court. They are the "under cover" men, agents who work quietly in civilian clothes armed with blackjacks and high-powered revolvers and plenty of Uncle Sam's expense money. The daring young fellows silently slip through the enemy lines, mingle in Canada, wait for the brewers themselves and after everything is set they spring the trap that nab a whole shipload at once—thousands of dollars loss to someone "high" er up."

Like Mexican War
This game of battling the liquor toters this summer ought to be a lot like the Mexican "war," a veteran customs agent declared in discussing the coming campaign. "Here is the way I hope it out. The government, under direction of the President or Secretary of the Treasury or General Andrews, or someone, wants to make a real honest-to-goodness effort at stopping smuggling this summer. So they are ordering on all kinds of reinforcements."

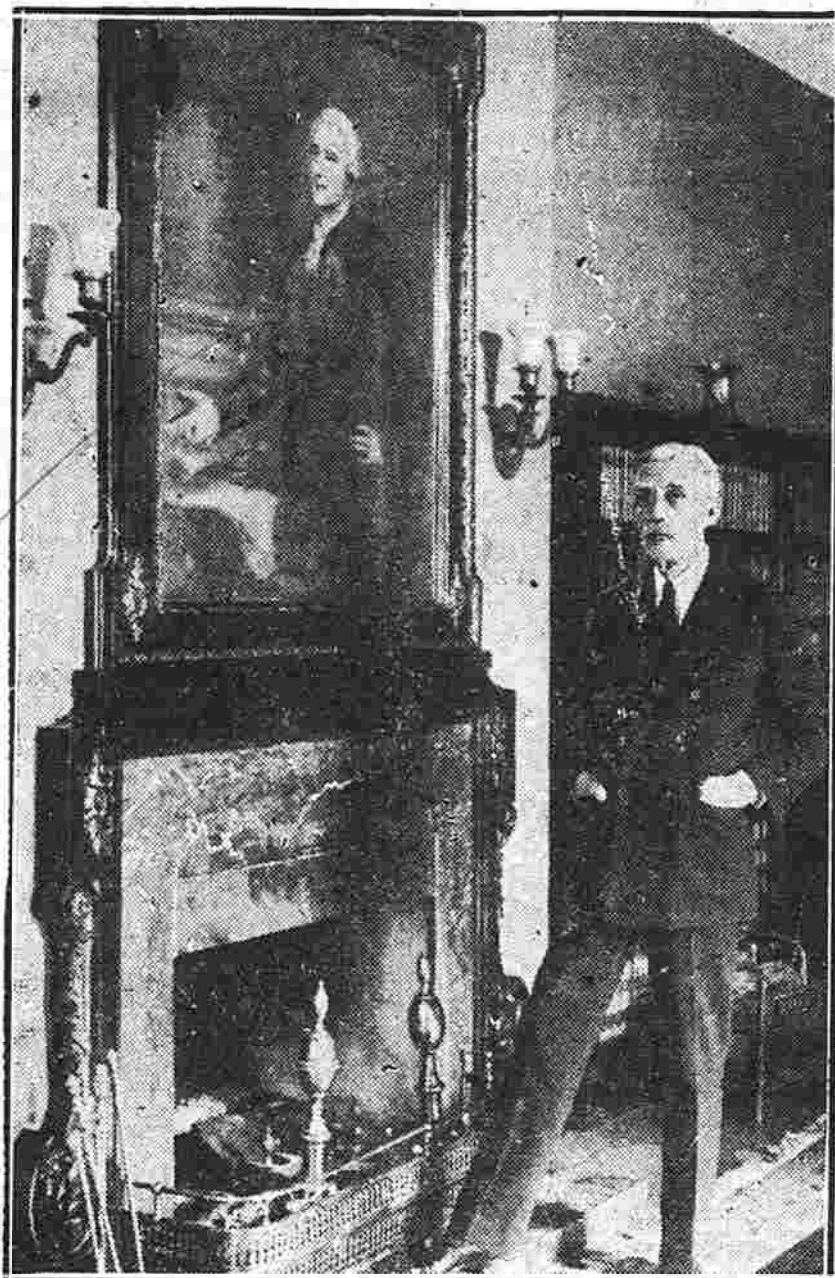

Officials and watchers agree on one thing—that the Canadian border will resemble an armed camp from May 1 until snow flies later in the winter.

WAPPING

The next meeting of East Central Wapping Grange, No. 3, will be held with East Hartford Grange, in Odd Fellows hall, Main street, East Hartford, on Wednesday, April 29. The morning session will be called to order at 10:30, during which the fifth degree will be conferred in full form. Dinner will be served by members of East Hartford Grange at half past twelve. The afternoon session will be opened at two o'clock. The subject for the program is "The Home." A roll call of Granges will be responded to. There will be a three minute talk on "My Ideal Home." The music for this program is to be furnished by members of East Windsor Grange.

The Federated Workers will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter N. Foster of Foster street, on Friday afternoon, April 15. Mrs. Frank W. Foster will be the assistant hostess.

The Evergreen Lodge of Masons, A. F. and M. S., No. 14, will hold a public work at their temple at East Windsor Hill this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hart moved their family from Warehouse Point to Hartford April 1. Mrs. Hart was formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Asher A. Collins and two sons motored to Colerain, Mass., on last Tuesday, where Mrs. Collins and the children will stay till next Sunday visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Barnes.

Walter S. Blinn was confined to his home with illness Wednesday. Circus days are so near at hand that the growling of the animals has already been reported by several sharp-eared youngsters. Bears, lions and monkeys of unusual ferocity and cunning are en route to Wapping. Not in the memory of the oldest inhabitants has the great Blue Triangle Circus, or any other circus, condensed to visit our humble precinct. Rumor has it that only such conveniences as are afforded by our new parish house could induce the world's greatest indoor circus to come here. Annette Kellerman in her prime could not offer a greater thrill than will Mademoiselle Elaine in her spectacular high dive. Everything that makes a circus from the monkeys to the people will be there. Both the former and the latter have as their object the raising of funds under the auspices of the local Y. W. C. A. Proceeds will go to improve the church parish house. By the way, the big time is on Friday evening, April 8, from 7:30 till the whippoorwill calls.

CITIES UNITING IN NEW ENGLAND TO FIGHT TAXES

Growing Cost of State and City Government Is Big Problem.

Boston.—A drive to curtail the growth of municipal taxation and municipal expenditures in the cities of southern New England is under way and is meeting with marked success. To accomplish the objective in mind those interested are nurturing an idea which had its inception on the Pacific coast—the organization of taxpayer's associations.

Fall River, with its stupendous question of taxation arising out of the textile depression situation has taken the lead in the formation of such organizations. In that city the Fall River Taxpayers' Association is functioning and doing much to assist in the pruning of the tax rate.

Cost Too High
It has been generally conceded that the taxation problem in New England is one arising chiefly from the increasing cost of state and municipal government. Such a conclusion has been arrived at by the Association of Western Massachusetts Chambers of Commerce. Furtherance of the Pacific states' idea of taxpayer's associations is indirectly sponsored by this group of Chambers of Commerce by their suggestion that bureaus of municipal research be formed to study, check and tabulate municipal expenditures be established.

The work of such public bureaus would be published from time to time to keep the communities informed of the manner in which their various governments are being administered.

After a wide and exhaustive study of the taxation problem in New England and other sections of the country, Philip Nichols, chairman of the Massachusetts Taxpayers' Conference recommends the formation of such organizations.

His analysis of the situation follows:

"It is believed that in New England the real hope of checking the growth of municipal taxation and municipal expenditures is not by enactment of laws controlling the discretion of municipal authorities; not by destructive, unintelligent criticism of municipal officers who perhaps are doing their unenlightened best; and not by political campaigns as a result of which one administration is succeeded by another whose inefficiency is more costly to the community than the tax principles of its predecessor."

"Real hope lies in the formation of non-partisan and non-political bodies whose object it is to see that information as to any municipal administration which desires to use it; that constructive suggestions can be made on any public problem that arises, and finally, that whenever and wherever it is proposed to spend the taxpayers' money, the taxpayers themselves shall have an opportunity to be heard."

"Chasing a chicken is dangerous unless you are fast on your feet." The modern youth uses an automobile.

"How can you afford to sell automobiles below cost?" "Oh, we make our money repairing them."

"TRUTHFUL SEX" HEADS CIRCLE FEATURE BILL

Second Feature Is "Wandering Girls"; Here Today and Tomorrow.

A drama of the follies of modern marriage in a world gone mad with jazz! On such a powerful situation is built the story of "The Truthful Sex," which is appearing with "Wandering Girls" at the Circle theater today and tomorrow. "The Truthful Sex" is truly a picture of the jazz age, with the rhythm of modern life is tuned in time with the booming tom-toms of the jazz orchestra.

This is an original story by Albert Shelby LeVine, telling the gripping story of a marriage, an estrangement and a reconciliation brought about unintentionally by a burglar and a child. The story is strikingly modern and is said to have been elaborately staged.

The supporting cast consists of Ian Keith, John Roche, Rosemary Theby, Joan Meredith, Richard Travis and Billy Kent, Schaefer. The stars are Mae Musch, Huntley Gordon and Ian Keith. Wealth, social position and sophistication are the ingredients of the story to begin with and they accumulate swift action, drama, love interest and comedy as the picture unfolds a narrative of modern life which will be quickly recognized.

"Wandering Girls" is a picture of reckless youth. In the days when the song "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" was in its heyday, those who wandered from the home circle were just that. The girls stayed tied to their mothers' apron strings and never a hint of forwardness was given. Today the situation is different. A new rebellion has sprung up in the ranks of the petticoats of yesterday and not only do daughters demur and pout, but they revolt openly and wander.

Dorothy Revier, as the wandering girl in point, is lovelier than ever and gives a fine performance of a headstrong girl with old-fashioned and strict parents the cause

Ceremonies of Organization Performed For Interested Crowd at S. M. E. "Indian Camp."

A large number of parents and friends of the Camp Fire Girls of the South Methodist church witnessed the first public ceremonial of the organization which was held there last night. The girls went through their complete ritual in the junior Sunday school room, which was laid out in the form of an Indian camp.

In the glow of dimmed lights, the ceremonies were exemplified by the 40 members of the organization. Each girl wore the ceremonial Indian gown and beaded headdress. Honors for work done by the girls were presented and the audience was invited to inspect examples of this work, which were on display. The ceremonial was in charge of Miss Mabel M. Pollard, organizer of the club here, and the guardians were Miss Helen Keith, Miss Florence Metcalf, Miss Gertrude Gordon and Miss Eva Metcalf.

6 GOOD REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY THE ERSKINE SIX CUSTOM FOUR-DOOR SEDAN

R.O.B. FACTORY

- All steel body, custom design, with deep drawn steel stampings forming beautiful curved lines at the back, and curved side members carried over the top, constituting the finest possible body construction. Body trimming of Bedford cord and broadcloth. Novel instrument board in duotone colors, with cigarette and glove boxes built in, gasoline gauge and customary instruments. Fine hardware and interior decoration. Entire body much superior to any competitive $1,000 job ever offered in America. Comparisons are urgedly invited and will prove convincing.
- Chassis of modern simplified design. Material and workmanship of Studebaker quality throughout, comparable to the finest obtainable. Self-energizing four-wheel brakes, nickel plated bumpers front and rear, motorometer, beautiful crown fenders, and numerous other quality features never before furnished in a $1,000 car.
- Beaut and smartness characterize the car. The body, fenders and general outlines were designed by R. H. Dietrich, one of the foremost custom body designers of the country. The car has irresistible style appeal. It created a sensation at all of the European automobile shows and the shows in this country, where it was viewed by over two million people.
- The performance of the car is remarkably efficient and much superior to most, if not all, cars in the $1,000 field. It will accelerate from 5 to 25 miles in 8 1/2 seconds, climb an 11% grade in high gear and develop 60 miles per hour. It is free from mechanical defects and will stay out of the repair shop.
- The car is well balanced, with scientific spring suspension and seat cushioning. The ride is the superior riding qualities of the big, high priced cars. In riding comfort, the car is equaled by few, if any, small cars on the market.
- The price of $995 f. o. b. Detroit is low compared with half a dozen other Sixes selling for more money. A comparison with such cars ranged alongside an Erskine, will demonstrate the truth of this assertion.

If you appreciate quality and value, examine and drive an ERSKINE SIX before you buy any car this Spring. Other models are the Tourer, seating five, $945; the Custom Coupe with dickey seat, seating four, $995; and the Business Coupe seating two, $945 f. o. b. factory, with excise tax and freight to be added.

Get the Cosmoline Off Your Larynx Buddy and Sing With "Second A. E. F."

Do you remember the Cafe National on the Rue de Toot Toot? Remember the mademoiselles you used to know—Celeste and Joan and Marie? Do you remember—"Ma-adelon, you are the only one; Ma-adelon, for you we'll carry on—"

Nine years have dimmed the echoes of the old songs, "Madelon" and "Beautiful K-K-Katee-e-e" and "Mademoiselle from Armentieres." But those and all the rest will ring again over France when the "Second A. E. F." goes across next September.

Thirty thousand Yanks will attend the American Legion convention in Paris. Whether or not you are one of the lucky ones to make the trip, you'll want to read every installment of "An ExBuck Private Goes Back to France" starting Saturday in The Herald.

It is a fascinating account of just such a trip as the Legionnaires will take, but Paul Adams, the author, is taking it now for the benefit of The Herald readers.

Billy Evans Says

VETERAN SURPRISES

Trying to explain the business of pitching is a difficult task. One of the veteran twirlers who looked very impressive in the south was Sam Jones of the St. Louis Browns.

Last season with the pennant winning New York Yankees, Jones won only nine games and lost eight. No doubt Miller Huggins figured Sam had seen his best days when he consented to a trade.

Manager Dan Howley of the Browns was willing to gamble with the veteran and it appears he is going to cash in on the transaction. Howley figured Jones is not a good relief pitcher. He did much of that work as a Yankee.

"Take your own time about getting into condition. Tell me when you are ready. During the season you will pitch only in your regular turn."

That is what I heard Howley tell Jones in the early days of the spring training at Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Howley's system relative to Jones is apparently the correct one for he has already turned in a number of brilliant performances. The records show that the best year that Sam Jones ever enjoyed in the majors was in 1921, when he won 23 and lost 16, with a club that finished fourth, the Boston Red Sox.

On the strength of that fine showing with just an ordinary ball club, he was purchased by the New York Yankees.

The following season with a club infinitely better, Jones could do no better than break even, winning and losing 13 games. The Yanks won the pennant that season.

Try to explain that one if you can.

More Puzzles
Along the same lines you have often seen a pitcher get knocked out of the box in the first inning, only to come back the next day and shut out the same team.

Often the exact reverse happens. I have seen pitchers perform so stylishly in the first game of a double-header, that the manager uses them in the second game with disastrous results. There really is no plausible way to explain these happenings. They are just the breaks of the game.

Big Year Ahead
I wouldn't be at all surprised if Sam Jones had a big year with the St. Louis Browns. I have definite reasons for thinking so.

Jones is one of those peculiar types who does his best work when he pitches free. In other words, when nonchalant he is more effective than when he tightens up.

On a team fighting for a pennant it is a habit for pitchers to tighten up. The Browns hardly loom as a pennant contender and Sam is certain to work more natural.

Ty Cobb once told me that he regarded Sam Jones as the greatest stylist among major league pitchers. Quite a compliment.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS HAVE ADVANTAGES

Within Short Shipping Distance of One Fifth of Total U. S. Population.

Boston, Mass., April 7.—New England farmers have within short shipping distance nearly one-fifth of the total population of the United States, or in other words, the best market for quality agricultural products in the world. W. M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture declared in an address today before the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

"There is every reason therefore," Secretary Jardine said, "for the people of the industrial and commercial centers of New England to be interested in the welfare of the producers of agricultural products."

CHARGED WITH ARSON
Stamford, Conn., April 7.—Anthony Millo, whose barber shop at 84 Elm street was gutted by fire yesterday, was today placed under ball of $1,500 to wait a police court hearing next Monday on a charge of statutory arson. Millo was examined by the police practically all day yesterday and a warrant was served on him at night.

GERMANY OPENS BIG BATTLE ON AMERICAN FILMS

War to Bitter End Is Decried By U. F. A. on Hollywood Control.

Paris—War on American films to the bitter end is declared by Fritz Lang, one of Germany's foremost producers. He is said to be the last of the great U. F. A. directors. His latest picture "Metropolis" is now being presented and enthusiastically acclaimed in London.

Returning to Berlin from the picture's English premiere, he lingered in Paris several days to confer with leaders of French film production. In Lang's present frame of mind he is intensely in favor of combating to the limit the Hollywood output insofar as European distribution and exhibiting are concerned.

His opinions of American films were unsparringly critical. Herr Lang's chief fear was that his indictment of American films would not be sufficiently complete. He described the motion picture industry in the United States as a "dreadful octopus" fabulously capitalized and controlling all exhibiting of its pictures through chain ownership of theaters. "It menaces and seeks to destroy European competition," he said.

Turn In Road
"But they have come to the turn of the road in Hollywood. They still have their dollars, but they have exhausted their artistic resources. With America's new culture and civilization, they cannot develop further their inadequate artistic background. They cannot create anything new that is satisfactory, so they must fall back on Europe.

"My motto is Europe for the Europeans. We should utilize what we have here in the old world for ourselves."
Mass production and standardization were other faults in American films indicated by Lang. "They make pictures like they make cigarettes and automobiles," he said.

"The sudden death of an American film star, with only a few exceptions, would make no difference. He or she could be replaced as easily as an automobile part is replaced. American films have not developed any great artists as has the stage. They have all standardized, pretty faces with no character."

Sameless in Films
"The plots of American films are all alike. The directors must see everything through rose-colored spectacles. Whenever an American director borrows background for a picture from European history, he frequently is so grossly inaccurate in estimating and Hollywood sets, and is so unfaithful to facts in other details that the results is a joke. But the film patrons of the European country thus burlesqued are right in resenting rather than laughing at these liberties taken with their national history."

Herr Lang sympathizes thoroughly, of course, with the proposal to finance a gigantic effort to make British films. He denied that he was in any way connected with any of these proposals, but insisted that the climate of British opinion in Africa is ideally suited to making pictures. He sees no reason why a new Hollywood in Africa could not be a worthy rival of the original in California.

for six years and I expect to continue there," he said.
"We should have a European alliance for film production to combat American pictures. My great dream is to see sincere exchange of ideas among European countries and complete abolition of postwar prejudices making that possible."

WILL REHEARSE FOR COMMUNITY MINSTRELS
Full Cast to Meet at 7:30 P. M. at "White House"—Performance April 12.

Director Washburn has called rehearsals for the cast of the Community Minstrel for Saturday night at the club rooms in the "White House" at 7:30 p. m. and again Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m.

Final touches are being added to the solo numbers and chorus work, specialty numbers by the chorus will add an unusual snap and humor to the show itself.

The show has an unusual twist in its presentation and will be a pleasant surprise to those attending in that unlike most amateur performances instead of being long and tiresome it will be short and snappy all the way through so that those who came to enjoy the dancing may have a full evening's pleasure as well.

The oldest members of Welsh Sunday schools include a woman 83 years old with a record of 85 years' attendance. Two other women, each 87 years old, have attended for more than 80 years.

WILL REPORT TONIGHT ON CATERPILLAR DRIVE

The tent caterpillar drive conducted by the eight Manchester Boy Scout troops comes to a close tonight with a meeting of the scoutmasters at the School Street Recreation Center at 7:30. At this time, the reports of the activity of the various troops in Manchester territory during the drive will be read. It is understood that the number of egg clusters collected by the eight troops will amount to approximately 100,000.

The scouts collected the clusters, which are a menace to the health of trees, after school hours and also on Saturdays and Sundays. Only Manchester territory was searched and the troops were assigned certain sections to prevent crossing each other's path.

Father of 5 Children Suffering From Indigestion, Nervousness, Run-Down Condition Regains Good Health, Takes Tanlac.

"Tanlac made me feel like my old self again," says Samuel Cooper, 1520 Lake Avenue, Rochester, N. Y., a blacksmith with New York Street Railway and father of a large family. "For years I suffered from indigestion. Food that I ate formed painful gas and swelled my stomach as tight as a drum. 'Dull headaches that hammered at my forehead hung on for days at a time. And often I would have dizzy spells when everything in front of me would blur. My nerves were in such shape I could not sleep. Let's not talk about it. For it is in the past. A bad memory. I now enjoy good health, eat everything without a sign of pain. My nerves are calm. I recommend Tanlac to anyone seeking good health."

DAUGHTERS of MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BILLY WELLS, head of the glove department of the big Curtis Store, NYDA LOMAX, WINNIE SHELTON, and seven other girls, almost every one pretty, contest in a second intriguing contest staged by T. Q. CURTIS, the millionaire store owner.

The prize in the second contest is an invitation to the Curtis mansion for a big formal dinner party on a near date and the gift of an evening dress and slippers for the occasion.

Billy's suspicions are aroused as to T. Q.'s ultimate intentions when the first contest is held. The fact that CLAY CURTIS, son of the owner, warns her not to participate substantiates her doubts. Clay, who has inherited himself and is living with the Wells family in a fine apartment in the city, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. The fact that he is Billy's chief ambition is to be a great concert violinist is a strong bond between her and the music-loving boy.

The day Billy hears she is a winner in the second contest, a customer comes to her counter who charms her with his personality. He is a tall, Oriental looking man. She is with the influence of his strange presence when she goes to select the dress which is her prize. That night when she dons it and shows it to her mother, she is told she will write a piece of music to her called "Dance of the Autumn Drums."

Clay proposes marriage to Billy, offering to give up his ambition to work his own way in order to give her an opportunity to prove she is a genius with the violin. She refuses. He is angry because she will accept things from his father but not from him. He warns her again that his father has some more in store for her actions. "He is planning to play you in your life," he tells Billy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

Her hand was tingling in the clasp of thin, satin-smooth fingers.

"The dress is charming, in excellent taste. You look like a lady in it."

"Oh!" Billy let the sharp exclamation escape her involuntarily, wishing that she dared look into Dal Romaine's eyes for a moment to see how he had been affected. She was going to hate Presley Warburton, who thought he was too good to be dining with shop girls—but she must be pleasant, no matter what he said, she told herself fiercely. "That's frightfully disappointing," she told Warburton, her blue eyes very wide and innocent. "I was told by a young man of discrimination—that I looked like an autumn daisy. It's dreadful, after that, to be told that one looks like a lady."

Dal Romaine's low chuckle rewarded her. "You are a daisy dancing in a drift of maple leaves," he whispered, his breath warm and sweet on her cheek.

Presley Warburton abandoned his soup entirely and concentrated his attention upon this astonishing young woman whom he had not suspected of having acute sensibilities.

"What do you think of Curtis' recent curious behavior?" he asked her in a confidential undertone. "For I take it that you do think?"

"I think it's a lovely party." She opened her innocent blue eyes still wider. "Such charming men!"—and she glanced up and down the long table—even if they do seem a little at a loss as to what to say to 'poor but honest working girls!'"

"These sociological experiments!" Presley Warburton growled under his elipid mustache, as if he sensed that the impudent young thing on his left had been rebuking him.

Billy grinned, and gave a sidelong look under her lashes at Romaine, who was watching her with narrowed eyes, a smile flickering over his lean, Hindu-dark face.

"You look very nice, Billy," he said. "You look when you grin like that," he told her. "Now what are you thinking?" he demanded, as if he had a right to know.

"I was just reminding myself that you can be an East Indian, with a nose like Dalhart Romaine, and with an aunt like Mrs. Meadows, and a voice straight from Boston, but every time I start to speak to you I have the curious feeling that I ought to speak some strange, foreign tongue to you."

"So you feel it, too," he said at last. "In an almost expressionless way, so low and quiet it was, 'I knew—that first day—that you did. Some day I will tell you why, for it was meant that you should know. As for the dark skin, the Oriental nose, the gypsy, on my father's side—and gypsy, on my mother's side—my father married Mrs. Meadows' sister, and I was brought up in London and Boston and New York. My aunt would like to wash the dark gypsy stain out of my blood, because, being a mixture of French, gypsy and Boston, I don't quite look like a respectable, you know. Tell me—'does the brown gypsy stain in my skin repel you?'"

"Oh, Mr. Romaine, listen!" Nyda Lomax called. "Impertinent!" "Can you tell fortunes—if we cross your palm with silver?"

A stab of pain so sharp that she felt mortally wounded shot through Billy's heart. So he had told Nyda, too. Cheap, theatrical! She hated him!

(To Be Continued)

A TALL, stately old woman, with proud, stiff face, whom every girl that worked for T. Q. Curtis knew as Mrs. Lucia Meadows, poor but aristocratic widow of a former governor of the state, received the girls as they arrived at the drawing room door. T. Q., a strange T. Q., the perfect host in well-tailored evening clothes, introduced the girls to Mrs. Meadows before she extended her hand.

"And this is little Miss Billy Wells, the musical genius of the Curtis family." T. Q. laid a hand feebly on Billy's head.

"I'm so glad to know you, Miss Wells. I've heard many delightful things of the little violinist with the big future. And there is someone else who has been wanting very much for you to arrive. My nephew—ah, here he comes. Miss Wells, allow me to present Mr. Dalhart Romaine, my nephew, who is visiting me from New York."

If she said more, Billy did not hear, for her hands were tingling in the clasp of thin, brown, satin-smooth fingers, and for the second time she felt her blue eyes being drowned in a pair of brooding, sooty-black ones that made her forget everything else in the world.

His voice played upon her quivering nerves. No, she had not forgotten a single tone of it—rich, caressing, low, almost unbearably intimate.

She drew a sharp breath, took back her hand, though every nerve in it cried to him in that tingling contact. He said something, and she said something, but the words didn't matter. She was dimly conscious that Nyda Lomax had arrived, looked regal and amazingly beautiful. And she was also dimly conscious that Winnie Shelton was holding court at another end of the room.

And she knew that so long as Dalhart Romaine—how fantastically right his name was!—walked at her side, she would see all other things dimly, hear only the high and pink-skinned, with nice, frank blue-gray eyes—eyes that twinkled when he looked up and caught her appraising him.

"I've been doing some sleuth work in connection with you," Ralph Truman said. "Miss Shelton tells me that you're the musical genius that my friend, Clay Curtis, has been lucky enough to discover."

"Clay boards at our house," Billy told him with uncompromising honesty, although she was aware that T. Q. Curtis had stiffened to rigid attention. "He's working in your father's factory now."

"Does he like it?" Truman asked, his smiling eyes grave for a moment.

"He hates it," Billy stated flatly. Oh, what was Dalhart Romaine talking about to Nyda Lomax—hounding toward her, almost whispering in her ear, around which a glittering strand of her marooned black hair curled so seductively. She bit at her lip, forced herself to smile at Truman across the table.

"The noise of the machinery is tearing his nerves to pieces. It's Clay who is the genius," she added, with a flick of the eye toward Clay's father.

"I must hear you play," Dalhart Romaine's voice, vibrating, low, reached out for her, drew her away from Truman, brought her back into that pulsing world which he had walled off for the two of them.

"I didn't bring my violin to-night," she answered, her eyes raising against her will to cling to his.

"I want to be a concert violinist, but—you know—I work for my living, and my mother's—"

"The gloves were too small," he confided, "but the young lady would not let me exchange them because I told her of a pair of Cinderella hands which I had used as a model. Your hands are like white butter-fies—"

"Miss Wells, you look like a sensible girl!" Presley Warburton shattered the moment, and she was almost glad.

"Oh, I hope not!" she cried, as if in mock horror. "Maybe it's the dress—" thin notes of sound, and find them meaningless. And if he went away, she would be straining toward him, for as surely as witches had ever been burned at the stake, he had cast a spell upon her. And she knew that he knew it—and exulted in that knowledge, looking down upon her with that whimsical smile upon his clear-cut, thin lips.

They went in to dinner at last, or it may have been soon, but she only knew that it was he who took her in, her small white hand resting quiveringly upon his black coat sleeve. There would be pain when she took it away, at the table—

If T. Q. Curtis had cast himself in the role of a god, insofar as the destinies of the seven prettiest girls in his department store were concerned, he looked a very genial, kindly god indeed as he sat at the head of the table and looked with proud eyes upon his nineteen guests.

Mrs. Blanche Corwin, who had learned the morning after the awards had been made, had begged off from the party and had been given in money the cost of the evening clothes which she had won as a successful contestant. An invalid daughter made money of far more importance to Mrs. Corwin than dinner parties and evening clothes.

Billy found herself only two places removed from the host, her dinner partner on her left being T. Q.'s friend and lawyer, Presley Warburton, a tight-lipped, silent man of middle-age. On her right, so near that it was a breath-taking adventure to reach for her crystal goblet of water, since her fingers might touch his as they selected a spoon, was Dalhart Romaine. Dalhart! Dalhart Romaine! Mrs. Meadows called him Dal.

Across from her, with Winnie Shelton almost cuddling against him, was Ralph Truman, son of the owner of the automobile factory in which Clay was now working. A nice man, she concluded, forcing herself to concentrate on him while Dalhart Romaine bent toward Nyda Lomax on his right. Cleanly blond and pink-skinned, with nice, frank blue-gray eyes—eyes that twinkled when he looked up and caught her appraising him.

"I've been doing some sleuth work in connection with you," Ralph Truman said. "Miss Shelton tells me that you're the musical genius that my friend, Clay Curtis, has been lucky enough to discover."

"Clay boards at our house," Billy told him with uncompromising honesty, although she was aware that T. Q. Curtis had stiffened to rigid attention. "He's working in your father's factory now."

ATTRACTIVE AND SELF-FINANCING

Not only is this house, "The Brunswick," exceptionally attractive in exterior appearance and interior arrangement, but because of its two-family design it will finance its own construction.

Most builders of this home live in the lower apartment, renting out the upper at a rental which in the ordinary locality should be between $50 and $75 a month. Out of this revenue the from $10,000 to $12,000 cost of construction can ultimately be paid.

Perusal of the floor plans of the two apartments, each with its private entrance and porches front and rear, reveals how admirably its designers have laid them out.

For further details about this house write the Standard Homes Company, Colorado Building, Washington, D. C.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Mrs. Homewood's Gift Shop

Easter gift novelties, marvelously beautiful are just now on display at Mrs. Adella Homewood's Shop, 122 Oakland street. Telephone 2305. Adjectives are inadequate to describe their crisp, fresh loveliness. Mrs. Homewood's handwork is known all over Hartford county as she specializes in bridge prizes and favors. Just now she has a rich assortment of silk and gold lace scarfs, telephone screens, artistic pin cushions on glass and mahogany stands with colorful bead fringe, lasting realistic flowers in variety; dainty trifles for the dressing table such as exquisitely dressed dolls concealing perfume or powder—all gifts that will delight the feminine heart and moderately priced. I advise you to see them at once before selecting Easter remembrances or favors.

Frozen Maple Custard

One quart milk, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 eggs, 1-2 cups maple syrup, 1-2 cups seeded raisins, 1-2 cup chopped English walnuts, few grains salt.

Heat milk and add cornstarch moistened with a little cold water. Stir until mixture boils and cook, stirring constantly about three minutes. Remove from fire and stir in 1 cup maple syrup. Turn into freezer and freeze until mushy. Cook raisins in remaining syrup until soft. Add nuts to syrup and raisins and add this mixture to half-frozen custard. Mix thoroughly and let stand until firm.

One hour must be allowed for freezing after raisins and nuts are added. The mixture can be packed in ice and salt and frozen without stirring for the entire period of freezing or it can be stirred for the first half and packed for the last half of the time.

Eggs Piquant

Four hard-cooked eggs, 1-2 onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup cream, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cup fine toasted bread crumbs, 1-2 lemon.

Melt butter, add onion peeled and cut in thin slices and cook until onion is yellow. Cut eggs in halves lengthwise and add with cream to onion. Beat eggs until very light and mix with crumbs, parsley, salt, pepper and juice of lemon. Pour this mixture over eggs in sauce pan, cover and cook over a low fire until eggs are set, about ten minutes. Turn into a hot serving dish, garnish with parsley and serve at once.

Price of eight cents made recently on a standard loaf of bread by Hale's Self Serve grocery and one of the big chain stores is the lowest figure bread has dropped to since the five cent loaf of pre-war days.

The latter, of course, was not of the regulation size, one pound, four ounce is it? But supposed to be half size if I remember rightly. So that the eight cent loaf of today is really cheaper than the standard loaf of bread before the war. This low figure it would seem, would materially affect the sales of bread by the other big bakeries, some of which are still held up to 14 cents.

THE WOMAN'S DAY BY ALLENE SUMNER

There is no new and bright and shiny thought in my remark that housework is the hardest job in the world and the most underpaid. I know, I consumed my last Sunday off in an orgy of house-cleaning. Yes, I know it isn't nice to work on Sunday, but what are poor working girls to do in a day when they simply cannot find any one who will stoop to sell her lily white hands with toil even for 60 cents an hour? So I, who make my living pounding a typewriter for eight hours, changed to such implements as vacuum cleaners, mops, scrubbing pads, dust rags and furniture polish for the same length of time.

I Worked For Once!

I sought my trundle bed with aching limbs that night and a wonder in my heart why women have stood it all these many centuries. But I think I know the reason. It's their own job that they work upon. There's as big a thrill in seeing the sun parlor windows emerge under your ministrations like squares of crystal as there is in turning out a written masterpiece. And the completed job of a fresh, bright, sweet-smelling, newly-painted, freshly scrubbed, more of it. The Woman Across the Street is an arch whiner and complainer. They "never have anything—never expect to have anything." "He" has no "push" to preach, but the four hats are merely a symbol of a woman who can't make decisions—can't make up her mind which hat is best, so she buys all four. And I am smothered with sympathy for "He."

Sorta Fun

There's a certain joy in sheer physical exhaustion, too, that we office workers get so little off. We get fagged in mind, yes; but we don't get our muscles into such a state of tiredness that they throb. And just because we don't, neither do we get the thrill of eating a dinner when we are so tired we almost go to sleep over the baked potatoes, nor the thrill of a warm bath with bath salts doing everything within their power to make us forget the dirt in which we have delved all day. Then the thrill, like no other, of an hour or so to read in bed, dead tired, utterly relaxed in cool sheets—well, that's the way one feels after just an occasional day of it. But here's announcing to one and sundry that if I did it six days a week I'd be paid more than my "keep" as so many women are, or know the reason why!

A Word to Lita

Lita Grey Chaplin, living in a mansion which, she says, cost $3000 monthly for upkeep, complains that because Charlie is using "starvation tactics" she must forsake her babies, leave them in the care of a heartless nurse, and go forth to labor for her hire in a

Good Nature and Good Health

BE SURE YOU EAT ENOUGH TO KEEP YOUR ENERGY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Enough food should be eaten to provide energy for the daily work. The desire to eat is fundamental. The antidote to the desire to eat is the development of a feeling of fullness or satisfaction.

Hunger manifests itself by contractions of the stomach with hunger pains. The sense of fullness, which is the opposite of the sense of hunger, is secured when food is in the stomach.

Some foods make greater demands than others on the digestive organs. Some remain for long periods and others only for a short time within the stomach. Some foods cause the stomach to secrete large amounts of digestive juices, whereas others require but little. A full stomach empties rather slowly, whereas emptiness of the stomach brings about stronger and more regular contractions.

It has been found that protein foods require more digestive juice than do those that are chiefly composed of carbohydrate or sugar. Bread will pass from the stomach within an hour and a half, whereas a combination of bread and meat will require two or three times as

Home Page Editorials "Pauperism"

By Olive Roberts Burton

The death notice of a well-known minister recalls an incident that happened some years ago in his city where I was teaching school. A little girl in my room had been absent for a number of days. The reports from the truant officer were vague and unsatisfactory, so I decided to visit the home myself and find out what was wrong.

I found the father, mother and two children living in a damp cold basement, the father and baby ill, no coal, no food—nothing!

They were Scotch people of refinement and education, in fact the father had been a teacher in a boys' school in Edinburgh. They had come to this country, had a long run of sickness and trouble, savings had gone, and here they were on the verge of starvation.

I had difficulty in getting them to acknowledge that they had used the last bit of tea and bread. But gray faces and the cry of a hungry baby told their own story.

I wasn't very old and I didn't know how to play Samaritan, but I remember stopping at the corner grocery and sending in some things, telephoning for coal and getting a doctor.

Some friends became interested and helped me out. One of them later on got the father a position as

LOSE FAT IN THIS PLEASANT WAY

Not by abnormal exercise or diet, but by correcting the cause of excess fat, as countless people now are doing. That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets, used for 19 years. Today you see the results in every circle, in figures made girlish and slender. The use of Marmola has grown to very large proportions because of these proved results. You owe yourself the test of a scientific help which has done so much for so many. The results will surprise and delight you.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. A booklet in each box tells why it acts. Go get it now and watch the results on fat.

THE DOUGAN DYE WORKS CLEANSERS AND DYERS

Can You Bear The Thought Of Spring Housecleaning?

It needn't be so bad... because we will come and get your curtains, draperies, rugs, carpets, blankets... the things that mean the hardest work... and we'll clean them so thoroughly and quickly that you'll hardly miss them before they are back, fresh, clean, spick and span. Think what a relief that will be!

Cleaning and dyeing... promptly and perfectly done. Your clothes called for and delivered. They are taken care of as your individual clothes... not gathered together in a "suburban bundle."

Ray Hall Puts Up Poor Fight Against Pancho Villa

REST OF AMATEUR BOUTS HERE, HOWEVER, GOOD

Hall Says He Was Sick; Morley Trims Terso; Holyoke Boxers Break Even.

Ray Hall, Hartford's knockout sensation, made an unimpressive, disappointing and disgusting showing against Pancho Villa of Hartford on the amateur boxing program held at Cheney hall last night by C. B. A. A. He was outclassed from start to finish. Hall did not make one honest attempt to fight throughout the three rounds and was content to let his opponent "naul him about the ring. The upset came as a big surprise to the fans, many of whom expected Hall to even up for the other defeat he suffered here in a whirlwind scrap a few weeks ago, and if the other bouts had not been of sufficient caliber to offset this, the card would have been a failure. As it was, however, the other bouts more than made up for the vital blow.

Holyoke Breaks Even.
Holyoke sent a stable of five boxers here and four of them were pressed into service. The Ray State boxers split even in their four bouts winning the first two and losing the last two. The Massachusetts boxers were capable performers and made a fine impression with the gathering.

The next boxing tournament will be staged on Wednesday evening, April 20. The feature will be the entries of a stable of Waterbury and New Britain boxers. Johnny Clinch, who made such an impressive showing here at a previous tournament, is due to appear with the Hardware City team.

There were no knockouts on the card last night. One bout went an extra round and the other a third round. It is thought it unnecessary. It was the Reed-Stanfick bout which Stanfick had sewed up in three rounds. All the bouts except the first one were crammed with plenty of activity and hard punching and met with popular approval.

Feeble Taps.
The only detriment to the otherwise splendid program was the Hall-Villa fizzle which cannot be explained. Recently these two men gave a hair-raising exhibition here and Villa was given a close decision. Last night's return was expected to be even more thrilling but it was not. Hall, alone, is to blame for this situation. Villa gave his best fight in his usual tiger-like style cutting Hall's face and body repeatedly with well-timed blows but Hall struck back less than a half a dozen times in the three rounds and these were feeble taps that would not have bowled over a three-year-old child.

Hall claims he was sick before he entered the bout and was unable to put up his usual fight. However, if Hall was sick, it was not evident when he appeared in the ring for he looked as fresh as a bunch of flowers just plucked but resembled the Statue of Liberty during the three listless rounds which were made lively only by the efforts of Villa to "put him away." The poor showing Hall made will in all probability prevent him from further bookings in Manchester for several weeks to say the least.

The Hall-Villa bout was staged third because Hall claimed he had to return to Hartford early but he remained until the end.

Reed Meets Match.
The fastest bout of the evening was the one between Eddie Reed, of Hartford, and Paul Stanfick, of Holyoke. These two bantamweights fought hard every minute they were in the ring and there was little clinching. The first round was fairly even but Stanfick had an apparent advantage in the next two frames but the judges saw fit to call it a draw. The Holyoke boy was stronger, faster on his feet, and he hit harder. In the third round a spirited tussle took place with the honors going to Stanfick. At one time in this round, it looked as if Reed would be dropped for the count but he pluckily managed to weather the storm. In the extra round, Stanfick gave Reed a sound trouncing and left no doubt in the minds of the fans that he deserved the decision in the first place.

The bout between Eddie Camp and Al Laravarie was also fast and furious but the Hartfordite was a trifle too strong for the Holyoke lad. The first two rounds were fairly even with Camp, if anyone, having a slight shade. The third was Camp's. The bout was crammed full of hard punching and crafty boxing. The fans enjoyed it immensely.

Technical Knockout.
Johnny Dwork, of Hartford, making his second ring appearance, showed that he is a real glutton for taking punishment by absorbing all Lew Pellesier, Holyoke, could give him during the first two rounds and part of the third before he wilted under a barrage of blows in the third round. Referee Yennart stopped the fight when Dwork was dropped for a long count in the final round. Pellesier looked good and many expressed the desire to see him matched up with Bill Taylor soon.

Morley Beats Terso.
Vic Morley, of Hartford, gave his best exhibition as far as Manchester is concerned when he battled his way to a well-earned victory over the rugged Paul Terso, also of Hartford in the final bout of the evening. Terso had a slight shade in the opening round, mainly because Morley was too cautious. In the second round, Morley cut loose, however, and from then on out-slugged his opponent, who, despite defeat, was game to the finish. At times it looked as though Terso would not

TUNNEY IN WALK, SAYS BOOKMAKER; MOLANEY SECOND

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, April 7.—It may be of fleeting interest to Gene Tunney to know that his ex-friend and now his severest critic, Tim Mara, regards the champion as a cake walk, a one to ten shot, against the field of heavyweight contenders as they stand today. Mara is a successful race track bookmaker and the odds maker with him is not idle converse; he is a professional football promoter. Hence to him money is no object provided it is someone else's; and he is one of the most select few whose dinero rode with Tunney against Dempsey, therefore his words are wisdom until such time as bigger and better ones turn up.

Dempsey's condition.
He, however, named Tunney as a stand-out today with at least one reservation to the effect that all bets were off if Dempsey succeeded in coming back to his 1923 form, it being his contention that Jack Kearns and not Gene Tunney beat the ex-champion. Lacking definite knowledge of Dempsey's condition, Mara intimated that he was forced to regard Jack Sharkey and Jimmy Maloney as the best of the contenders and here again another reservation was interpolated.

It was to the effect that Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia light heavyweight, must not be considered a member of the field. "I think Loughran can beat all of them except Tunney," Mara said. "He's too fast and too smart for the rest of these fellows."

If Jack Was Well
"However, if Dempsey could come back like the old Jack, he would beat them all. Tunney included. I figured Kearns would break him down with legal worries, beat heavily on the idea and at Philadelphia I saw Kearns win that fight, instead of Tunney. Still, you can consider Dempsey until he shows something besides a hospital bill and a lot of skin eruptions."

The Dempsey-Tunney fight was the first of Mara's two betting coups of the last twelve months. The other was the Maloney-Delaney match, where Mara took the short end of 2 1/2 to 1 on Maloney, cleaned up. Now he is inclined to like Maloney over Sharkey on May 19.

"If you'd be still," said mother. "It would give me quite a thrill." But baby keeps on making noise. Although it's crying still.

"They appeal to me as the stand-out pair in the field just now," he said, "and of the two, I like Maloney."

Manchester Soccer Eleven Tackles Bridgeport Sunday

The last home soccer game of the season will be played here Sunday afternoon at Mt. Nebo grounds when the Clan Campbell team of Bridgeport opposes the Manchester eleven. Jimmy Miller of New Haven will referee. Play will start at 2:45.

MANCHESTER AND WILLIMANTIC TO SETTLE FEUD HERE FRIDAY

High School Teams Under Different Name to Play Third and Deciding Game for Benefit of Washington Trip Fund.

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon for a third and deciding basketball game between the schoolboy teams of Manchester High and Windham High to be played here Friday night at the Rec Center gym. Both schools will present the regular lineup used during the past season but will play under the name of the Manchester and Willimantic Independents. Play will start at 8:15. A preliminary game will be played between the Seniors and the Sophomores for the inter-class basketball championship of the high school here.

Although the basketball season was supposed to have been concluded several weeks ago, the sport is dying a slow death. It refuses to give up its hold on the spotlight without a bitter struggle as was attested last in Plainfield when two teams battled to a triple-overtime game that ended in a tie.

Manchester High and Willimantic met twice during the regular season and each won once. This game, although unofficial, will be a sort of a "rubber" contest and both teams are more than anxious to win it.

The net proceeds will go toward defraying the expenses of the Senior Washington trip which takes place late this month. The Thread City team is coming to Manchester for just transportation expenses. Because of the great rivalry between the two schools and the worthy cause open for contribution, it is expected that a record post-season crowd will turn out. Arrangements for the game were officially closed yesterday by Principal C. P. Quimby and Principal E. A. Case by telephone.

Elmo Mantell is expected to be the only addition to the Manchester lineup. He is eligible to play because no such rules govern this game.

A Point Well Taken
"There is no pleasure without pain," observed the Monkey as he rode the Porcupine.

BATTLE TILL GROGGY, QUIT TIRED, IN THRILLING BOUT AT BASKETS

Notes Of The Training Camps

Nashville, Tenn., April 7.—With New York one up, the final game of the Yankee-Cardinal spring series will be played here today. The Yanks' five to four victory over Cards in ten innings at Chattanooga, yesterday was featured by Wilcy Moore's pitching and Dugan's homer with the bases loaded.

Atlanta, Ga., April 7.—The Brooklyn Dodgers play Atlanta here again today. The Crackers won yesterday's game three to one.

Washington, April 7.—The hospitalized Senators reached home today for another game with the Giants. The Nats were trounced by the New Yorkers again yesterday, six to five.

Memphis, Tenn., April 7.—Inspired by their eight to one victory over Memphis here yesterday, the White Sox took the field today determined to make it "two in a row."

Kansas City, Mo., April 7.—The Cubs were eager to redeem themselves today in the second game of the series with the Kansas City Blues. The Bruins lost yesterday, two to one.

Wichita Falls, Texas, April 7.—The Tigers today made their last stand but one before they tackle Dan Howley's Browns in the lid lifting act of the American League. Moriarty's men take on the local Texas League outfit.

Unusual Outcome Marks Basketball Game Between Plainfield and Boston Whirlwinds; Three Overtime Periods End In 38-38 Tie; Teams to Play Again Next Wednesday; One Thousand Fans Present.

(Special to The Herald)
Plainfield, Conn., April 7.—One thousand excited basketball fans saw the Boston Whirlwinds and the Plainfield Professionals battle to 38 to 38 tie in a sensational struggle here last night which was called by mutual agreement at the conclusion of three overtime periods. The players on both teams were at the point of exhaustion so fast was the pace set. The two teams will meet here again next Wednesday and it should be some battle!

The score at the end of regulation playing time was 24 all. The first overtime period increased the team totals to 29 tallies and the second to 32. The final session brought the score to 33 all and it was decided to call it quits for the time being.

During not only the hectic overtime periods but also throughout the entire game, the biggest crowd of the season was treated to extraordinary basketball. Plainfield got a nine point lead at the outset of the game but the Bostonites soon found themselves and from then on the going was nip and tuck. Advertised as the professional championship of New England, the game drew the largest crowd in several years. The fans jammed into every nook and corner of the spacious hall.

Each team tallied fifteen field goals and eight fouls. The score at halftime was 19 to 15 for Plainfield.

Normandin, Dessinger and Harry Benson bore the brunt of the offense for the Plainfield aggregation while Curtin and Morley were the highest scorers for Boston. Morris and Moriarty again had a merry battle, each tallying one field goal.

The summary:

Enjoy Home Ownership NOW

Most of us possess the ardent wish for home ownership "someday" in the future—but we continually postpone plans for one reason or another—and the years pass on without the wish being fulfilled.

Why wait?

Today and every day you can find greater "Home" values in the Manchester than were ordinarily available. Modern methods of finance has put "home ownership" within the means of every family. A small down payment—you move in immediately—and pay the balance in monthly payments like rent.

Daily in Herald Want Ad unusual values in "homes" are listed for sale.

DEATH OF MRS. ELLEN FALLON

Mrs. Ellen Fallon, aged 68, wife of James Fallon, of 73 Eldridge street, died at her home at 3:30 yesterday afternoon after a week's illness. Death was due to a complication of diseases. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at the home at 8:30 and at St. James' church at 9 o'clock where a solemn requiem mass will be celebrated.

In addition to her husband Mrs. Fallon is survived by four children and one sister, Mrs. Minnie McConville of 63 Wells street. Mrs. Fallon was born in Ireland and has lived here seven years. Though a resident here but a short time, Mrs. Fallon made a host of friends.

WASHINGTON FUND PROFITS FROM FILM

Because complete returns of all tickets placed on sale for the high school benefit show at the State theater yesterday has not been made, it is impossible at this time to estimate the amount of profit made from the four performances, Principal C. P. Quimby, stated today.

However, it can be taken for granted, he said, that a "tidy sum" was realized from the showings of the famous film "La Boheme" starring Lillian Gish. The total attendance, Mr. Quimby asserted, was close to 1,000. The afternoon showings were not largely attended.

A feature of the two evening performances was the comedy cartoon song-and-dance entitled "Swags River." The song was sung by the audience, led by a group of thirty members of the high school boys' glee club from the stage.

Charles Treat, president of the senior class, made a speech thanking the management of the theater and the patrons for their support. He also said that there would be room for a few more persons in the high school party which will go to Washington late this month but that applications must be made before Monday of next week, either to himself or Principal Quimby.

MRS. ELLEN COURTNEY'S FUNERAL HELD TODAY

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Courtney, who died at the Memorial hospital Tuesday, was held this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John McGinn, at 243 Center street at 8:30 and at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Burial was in St. James' cemetery. Mrs. John Sullivan sang "O Salutaris" at the offertory. "Ave Maria" at the elevation, and "Some Sweet Day" as the body was being borne out of the church. The bearers were Daniel T. Atkins, Harold Hanna, Daniel McCarthy, Michael Fitzgerald, John Connelly and Charles Donahue.

It was the third day of their honeymoon.

"Darling," she whispered, "isn't this heavenly?"

Her husband sighed.

"Do you know," he exclaimed, "life doesn't seem long enough for our happiness. Just think, even if we are fortunate, our married life can hardly last longer than fifty years."

"Is that all?" she queried, edging closer.

"Yes. Only fifty years in which to love each other."

"Then kiss me quickly, dear," she said, "we're wasting time!"

Why don't the ball player start a confessional magazine.

FUNERAL OF H. H. G. INGALLS.
The body of H. H. G. Ingalls who died Monday in Castleton, N. Y., was brought here for burial this afternoon in the Ingalls family plot in the East cemetery. The services in the cemetery were in charge of Rev. W. F. Davis.

Mr. Ingalls left here 33 years ago and had lived in Castleton until his death. He was prominent in the business and church life of that city. He was president of the National Exchange bank of Castleton, president of the A. G. Cheney Piano Action Company, president of Ingalls and Company, binders board manufacturers, a trustee of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, treasurer of the Castleton Library association, a trustee of Troy Conference academy, and a life member of the American Bible society.

His wife, formerly Miss Harriet Tracy, daughter of the late Calvin L. Tracy, his son, Edmund H. Ingalls, and four daughters, Mrs. Fred Vosburgh of Passaic, N. J., Mrs. Harold Dean of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Mrs. G. Everett Patrie and Miss Luella Ingalls of Castleton, N. Y., survive.

WILL TAKE OFFICES IN ROCKVILLE B. P. O. E.

Three Manchester men will be installed as officers of Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B. P. O. E., this evening. George H. Williams, who is a past exalted ruler of the lodge, will be installed for his second term in that office.

The other Manchester officers are Henry Gottschalk, esteemed loyal knight and Claude E. Truax, who will be named trustee.

Mr. Williams, who was prominent in conducting various campaigns for the Rockville lodge, enjoyed a prosperous term while in office as exalted ruler some years ago. The organization is planning several important projects and it was decided to place Mr. Williams at the head of the lodge while these projects were being carried out.

A testimonial dinner was given in honor of Mr. Williams at the Hotel Bond some time ago and was attended by prominent Manchester, Hartford and Rockville Elks.

Rockville lodge has a number of Manchester men on its roll, for there is no lodge of Elks in this town.
