

NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDING GIVEN OVER TO BOARD

Selectmen Formally Accept Structure For Town; Sidewalks, Sewers and Lights Make Problem.

The Board of Selectmen, acting as town agents, last night formally accepted the new Municipal building from the building committee. Col. William C. Cheney, chairman of the building committee, told the members of the Board of Selectmen that the building was complete, had been inspected by the public and all payments had been made.

Frank Farley, architect of the building, was present and approved of what Mr. Cheney said. He also commended the building committee, the Selectmen, Building Inspector Elliott and the general contractors, Peck McWilliams company, for their spirit of cooperation.

Col. Cheney believed that thanks were due the architect, Mr. Farley for his good work, and he also complimented George H. Waddell for his work in shaping up the original plans so that the town would have a building sufficiently large to care for its needs for many years.

Pay Elliott for Work
Upon the suggestion of Mr. Farley the selectmen voted to pay Building Inspector Edward C. Elliott Jr., the sum of $875 as his salary as Inspector of Work. Mr. Elliott was appointed inspector and agreed to work for whatever sum the selectmen felt the job was worth. He devoted considerable time to it, and according to Mr. Farley, was admirably suited to the job. Mr. Farley said that if another man had been hired to do the inspection work it would have cost the town three times the amount being paid Mr. Elliott.

With the payment of the salary of $875 to Mr. Elliott the building stands completed at a total cost slightly over the amount appropriated by the town for this work. The voters appropriated $190,000 for the construction of the new Municipal building and it was done for just a slight sum more than that.

Treat Absent
Last night's public meeting of the Selectmen was called to order by Secretary John H. Hyde. Chairman of the Board Robert V. Treat is ill at his home on East Center street and in his place Senator Robert J. Smith acted as chairman. The town's bills were read and accepted. Copies of these will be found elsewhere in today's Herald.

A public hearing on the construction of five-foot sidewalks and granite curbing on the south side of Eldridge street from Spruce street to Clinton street was called at eight o'clock. Eleven of the twenty owners in this section were present and all favored the construction of walks, with the exception of Luigi Felice. Mr. Felice said that he could not afford to have the walks constructed this year since he had a sidewalk bill to pay on his property fronting on Norman street.

Those Present
Other property owners who were present and favored the construction and officers of the board were Victor and Ornosio Monti, Joseph Soave, Giuseppe Felice, James Smith, Robert Muldoon, Jules Pillere, Samuel Amadeo, Michael Steiner, Samuel Haberern, Robert W. McComb.

In executive session the Selectmen voted to install the sidewalks. Several property owners on Elro street which parallels Main running between Flower street and Middle Turnpike have presented a petition asking for relief from their sewage disposal problem. The petition was signed

PASTOR WOULD RAP PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Says Methodists Censured Gov. Smith on Dry Question; Should Not Forget Cal.

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—A motion to censure President Coolidge as "a political dry lacking either conviction or courage in his stand toward prohibition enforcement," was defeated by a narrow majority today at the closing session of the Troy conference of the Methodist church.

The Rev. Charles O. Jenkins, of Christ Church, Glens Falls, N. Y., was the chairman of the committee, which presented the report criticizing the President.

"We have criticized Gov. Smith," declared the Rev. Jenkins during a heated debate. "We have put the prohibition question on his doorstep. Smith deserves it all but when this cultured Christian gentleman, President Coolidge, hasn't the courage to lead, I think we should censure him."

N. Y. To Paris Flight Easy, Bennett Asserts

"After Flying Over North Pole, This Trip Will Not Be So Awfully Hazardous," He Says.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1927, by I. N. S.)

New York, April 12.—"I flew over the North Pole with Commander Byrd and, after that experience, I'm not fearing our New York-to-Paris nonstop flight will be so awfully hazardous. It will not be an easy undertaking, to be sure, but I am confident it will be accomplished—and within a comparatively short time."

In a quiet and modest manner, Floyd Bennett, probably the most resourceful air pilot in the world, made these statements today in an exclusive interview with International News Service in which he discussed plans for a non-stop transatlantic flight to take place next month in the monoplane "America," navigated by Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., leader of last year's North Pole expedition, with Bennett again as his pilot.

Better Chances
"I'd rather fly over the ocean anytime than over the Pole," said Bennett, smiling. "If you come down your chances are better." Bennett, a slender, athletic man with steely blue eyes, predicted that the "America" or some other

COOLIDGE TOSSES OUT THE FIRST BASEBALL
Washington, April 12.—President Coolidge leads the hosts of fandom into action today. The first ball of the 1927 season will be chucked out of the Presidential box to open the series between the Senators and Red Sox.

Mrs. Coolidge will accompany the President and there will be many high government officials scattered through the boxes.

LEAGUE DISAGREES ON DISARMAMENT

To Adjourn on Thursday Without Coming to an Agreement, General Says.

Geneva, April 12.—The League of Nations preparatory disarmament conference probably will adjourn on Thursday, it was stated today as the deadlock between the leading delegates grew tighter as discussion proceeded. Upon adjournment a committee will be appointed to draw up a report on the minor points upon which agreement has been reached and the major points upon which no agreement has been possible. The conference will reconvene briefly on April 24 to consider this report.

The complicated situation today was further confused when M. Boncour, French delegate, announced that unless the conference accepted the limitation of air and naval personnel with a distinction between officers and men, France would decline to accept separate limitation of officers and men in the land forces.

Merchant Ships
The conference did agree today on the principle, adopted at the Washington conference, of prohibiting the arming of merchant ships during peace times.

Viscount Cecil announced that Great Britain is willing to agree to the limitation of naval personnel, but Hugh Gibson, American delegate, accepted only with reservations. Admiral Viscount Sato for Japan rejected such limitation of personnel, whereupon M. Boncour announced that it seemed that an agreement on the point was impossible.

FALL KILLS MAN

Stamford, Conn., April 12.—Walter Colson, said to be a Vermonting, died in Stamford hospital during the night from injuries he received Saturday night when he fell down stairs at 66 Canal street, presumably while intoxicated. Alcoholism was a contributing factor in his death, hospital authorities say. Police are trying to locate the man's relatives. He was almost a recluse during a long stay here.

JUDGE BOWERS'S CONDITION

The report from the Manchester Memorial hospital today in regard to Judge Bowers's condition was that no change was noticeable from that of yesterday. He was very comfortable today.

The Rainbow

airplane will fly to Paris this year and that, in about ten years, people will be riding back and forth across the ocean with as little compunction as they do today from London to Paris.

The distance from New York to Paris is 3,600 miles. Right now there is sort of a "race" between the commanders of several specially built planes to see who will be the first to negotiate the flight.

Hop Off Next Month
Commander Byrd and Bennett probably will hop off next month.

Find Man Dead In Globe Hollow

Earl Bellucci, 27 years old, was found dead in the pond at Globe Hollow shortly after noon today. Police believe that the young man committed suicide.

Bellucci had been engaged to a girl in New Jersey. He went there to visit last week and the engagement was broken, the girl returning a diamond ring to the young man. He has been despondent since that time, friends say.

The last seen of Bellucci was when he left his home yesterday noon, evidently intending to return to his work in the warehouse of the Cooper Brothers. At 12:30 today a young man found the clothes of the young man on the shore of the pond. The police were notified and after grappling some time the body was brought to the surface. Medical Examiner Tinker was called and ordered the body removed.

Bellucci is the only son of Mrs. Paulina Bellucci, local midwife of 12 Cottage street. The body is now at Holloran Brothers undertaking rooms.

KILLS HER HUSBAND BUT IS EXONERATED

Coroner Phelan Holds That East Norwalk Woman Fired In Self Defense.

Bridgeport, Conn., 12.—A Norwalk woman who shot and killed her husband recently was exonerated by Coroner John J. Phelan today. The coroner's decision came in the case of Sadie Ruscello who on April 3rd shot and killed her husband Nicola in their home at 215 Liberty Square, East Norwalk, during a quarrel. "The husband showed a violent disposition in his general bad and vicious treatment of his wife and child for a long time prior to his death," the coroner says.

Tried To Kill Her
"During a wordy quarrel with his wife and prior to the shooting and in the presence of his daughter, Rosie, Nicola drew a revolver from his trousers pocket and aimed it at his wife who was then standing at the kitchen sink, with intent to bodily injure her. Mrs. Ruscello, aware of her husband's violent disposition and her fear that she was about to be shot cried out to him to stop. At the same time she closed in on him and after a struggle succeeded in gaining possession of the pistol.

Husband Slain
"Instantly thereafter, in the excitement of the moment and fearing she was about to be killed, Mrs. Ruscello fired two bullets into her husband's head and three into his body."

After reciting this story of the slaying, the coroner declares the woman's action is justified as a matter of self-defense.

U. S. CABINET PUZZLED YET OVER CHINA

If Nationalists' Answer Is Unsatisfactory What Shall We Do? Is the Question to Be Settled Today.

Washington, April 12.—The perplexing question of what "measures" will be taken by the United States and other foreign powers in China to enforce the demands made upon the Nationalists—in the event the Nationalists' response to the powers' note is unsatisfactory—occupied the attention of administration officials today.

China was again the most important subject before the cabinet at its regular Tuesday meeting. Although the powers' note concluded with a warning that "unless the Nationalist authorities demonstrate to the satisfaction of the interested governments their intention to comply promptly with these terms, the said governments will find themselves compelled to take such measures as they consider appropriate." There exist no agreements between the powers upon a course of action, it was stated authoritatively here.

Up to Individuals
In the absence of a joint agreement of policy, the belief prevailed in Washington that the powers will be left free to take such "measures" as they individually deem appropriate.

In the case of the British government, such measures would be considerably more drastic than the American government would care to follow. Britain has hinted at a naval blockade of the treaty ports, and reprisals in the way of gunfire upon Chinese cities. It is doubtful in any event whether the United States or the other powers would care to go as far as that.

Administration officials are exceedingly hopeful that no "measures" will be necessary. The anti-Chinese general complaints by the Nationalists with the foreign demands—an apology, punishment of those responsible for the murders of foreigners, indemnity for damage caused, and a pledge against repetition of the Nanking incident.

The American government considers the demands "studiously moderate" under the circumstances.

BURGLARS SURPRISED AT WAREHOUSE DOOR

Two Arrested But Three Escape in Taxicab—Auto Truck Left Behind.

Waterbury, Conn., April 12.—Pasquale Frank, 22, of 83 Minor street, New Haven, and Richard Marchand, 22, of 332 Bloom street, West Haven, are being held in default of $5,000 bail each by police here to answer a charge of breaking and entering.

Frank and Marchand, police say, were arrested at the door of a warehouse, where they were today while a truck was parked nearby. Meanwhile a New Haven taxicab, parked within a block, sped away with three alleged accomplices.

Patman Patrick Murphy came across the taxi while patrolling his beat and asked the three men what they were doing. "Just waiting for a couple of fellows," was the reply. Then the policeman spied a pair at the warehouse door and arrested them at the point of his revolver.

The truck, which is in possession of the police, belongs to Pat's Long Distance Trucking Company of New Haven. On the driver's seat was found fully-loaded .38 caliber revolver.

1 DEAD, 30 HOMELESS IN BIG MAINE BLAZE

Estimate Damage at $200,000; Dozen Buildings Afire; Brave Phone Girl.

South Paris, Me., April 12.—An aged man in ill health was burned to death, thirty persons driven from their homes in their night clothes were made homeless, five buildings housing stores and living apartments were destroyed, a dwelling house was ruined and a business block, an engine house, a gasoline filling station and half a dozen other buildings were slightly damaged by $200,000 fire that raged in the Main and Pine street triangle in the heart of the business district here today.

The man burned to death was Marshall Turner, 79, of Bolter hills, who was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harry Lowell, in the first building destroyed.

Miss Celia Webber, telephone operator in the Norway district exchange, probably saved the whole town from South Paris from destruction. Alone at her switchboard she called on the Mason Manufacturing company for the sounding of the fire alarm and then aroused volunteer firemen in both Norway and South Paris and summoned help from the Lewiston fire department.

HAS THE LAST WORD

Liberals Set July 10 as Day of Mourning for Whole Nation

New York, April 12.—Officials of the American Civil Liberties Union were engaged today in working out a plan for a nation-wide appeal by "Liberals" to Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, for commutation of the death sentences against Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who held up and killed a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree, Mass., seven years ago.

The New York City committee of the Socialist Party will hold a mass meeting of protest against the two men in Cooper Union on Friday evening, it was announced by August Classens, executive secretary of the Socialist Party. The speakers will include Morris Hillquit, Judge Jacob Panken, Norman Thomas and James O'Neal. It will be the first organized demonstration on behalf of the condemned men to be held in New York following their sentence.

Classens, in his announcement, called upon all Socialists and labor forces throughout the country to observe July 10, the day set for the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, "as a day of national mourning for the death of American justice."

EARL CARROLL BIDS ADIEU TO FRIENDS

Broadway Producer Starts For Atlanta to Serve a Year and a Day.

New York, April 12.—Resigned to the inevitable, Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, surrendered to United States Marshal William Hecht at the Federal building today to serve a term of a year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary for perjury.

Carroll smiled when he came to the marshal's office and told reporters he was "a good loser." He departed from the Pennsylvania station at 3:40 o'clock this afternoon with twenty other prisoners who are to "do a stretch."

Carroll was accompanied by his two brothers, James and Norman Carroll, and Thomas Rooney, confidential adviser, as he surrendered.

He shook hands cordially with Marshal Hecht. Then they chatted in low tones.

Says Goodbye
All Carroll would say to newspapers was: "Goodbye, boys, I'm a good loser."

Ever since he was convicted, on May 27, 1926, of perjury in connection with the wine "bath-tub" party at his theater, Carroll has been called at the prospect of "doing time." He tried to obtain executive clemency at Washington recently but failed.

NATIONALISTS SPLIT; BATTLE EXTREMISTS ALL THROUGH NIGHT

MEETS COMRADES BEHEADS 5,000

Chinese General Punishes Soldiers Who Deserted to the Cantonese.

London, April 12.—General Sun Chuan Fang, who fled to the North of Nanking, is now returning as a victor, and has met with 5,000 of his former troops who deserted to the Cantonese. Sun Chuan Fang, according to a report received here, had these former adherents assembled and addressed them, stating he was glad to "meet old comrades" and then ordered them all beheaded.

Another report received here states that Sun Chuan Fang has granted his troops right to three days' looting in Yangchow in lieu of pay, telling Yangchow citizens that they failed to give him a reception when he passed through their town in flight although they welcomed the Nationalists with open arms and now they must pay for their "lack of courtesy."

CUT 4 ROADS FROM TRUNK LINE SYSTEM

State Legislature Also Cuts Other Appropriations at Session—Other Matters Discussed.

Hartford, Conn., April 12.—Four home town road projects were defeated in the Lower House of the State Legislature today when the roads, rivers and bridges commission reported unfavorably on proposals to include certain stretches of road in the trunk line system. The roads are: Marbledale to Kent, Redding to Norwalk, the Old Turnpike from Monroe to Westport and the road from West Cornwall to Sharon.

The appropriations committee also blasted the hopes of several groups. The largest appropriation rejected was included in a proposal to increase the minimum retirement allowance of teachers from $350 to $400. Other appropriation measures killed were: state aid for education of dependent children; $1,500 for the purchase of a dynamometer; increasing funds for the Connecticut library commission; and increasing the number of schools which shall receive funds for school libraries.

Judiciary Committee
The judiciary committee reported favorably to the Senate, on a proposal to establish a judicial council for continuous study of the organization, rules and methods of procedure in the judicial system of the State. The council will be appointed by the chief justice of the Supreme Court of Errors.

The general act revising and codifying the state's fish and game laws was passed by the Senate. This bill contains a provision which will make it necessary for boys and girls under sixteen to secure a license before they may fish through the ice. Such a provision was strongly contested last week, but objections were withdrawn today.

Bills Favored
The following bills were favorably reported in the House and ordered tabled for calendar and printing: authorizing the town of Wallingford to issue refunding bonds; establishing a Town Court

DIVORCE EXPENSES

GO UP IN STAMFORD

Can't Get One There For Less Than $150, Lawyers Decide At Meeting.

Stamford, April 12.—Stamford divorcees rose in price today. Local lawyers reached an agreement to raise the cost of securing separation from $100 and expenses to $150 and expenses. Likewise they increased the price for incorporating new businesses from $100 and costs to $150 and costs, and boosted the price of all other civil law work in proportion. Criminal case costs were not mentioned.

The raises were the result of a meeting of the Stamford Bar Association. The lawyers voted that any member who should violate the agreement and cut prices would be called before the association for "severe censure."

Over 200 Arrested in Shanghai and 3,000 Rifles of Reds Captured—Guerrilla Warfare Rages in City; Nanking and Pukow Bombed By Planes.

Shanghai, April 12.—Nationalist controlled China is in a state of ferment today, according to reports reaching here.

With serious fighting in Shanghai during the night between the Nationalist troops and guerrilla gunmen of the Extremist factions, word came today that there is internal dissension between the Nationalist left and right wings elsewhere.

Martial Law
Martial law is reported to have been declared in Amoy by Nationalist troops under right wing leaders making many arrests among the Extremists.

Nanking reports state that Nationalists there are engaging in looting and the city is in a high state of excitement due to the possibility of a northern attack. Northern planes continue to bomb Nanking and Pukow intermittently.

Raid made by the Nationalist troops against Extremists in Shanghai last night resulted in the arrest of 200 prominent Communists and the capture of 3,000 rifles and two machine-guns.

MAY LOSE NANKING.
Shanghai, April 12.—Chinese Nationalists today were making frantic efforts to strengthen their position, with every indication that they are fearful of losing Nanking and with the loss of Shanghai to the northerners even within the realm of possibilities.

While the northern troops are pounding the Nationalists on the northern bank of the Yangtze, the Nationalists have had difficulties with Shanghai and have engaged in sharp fighting with guerrillas in their attempts to disarm them. Thirteen Chinese are reported dead and probably 100 wounded as the result of the fight between the Nationalists and the guerrillas, who have had the support of the general labor unions, which the Nationalists now appear to be opposing.

The Nationalists announce that hereafter mass meetings can be held only by permission and military punishment is threatened for offenses.

More Reinforcements
Nationalist reinforcements are still streaming northward and there is a general concentration at Quinsan.

The Nanking-Shanghai train was turned back at Soochow today, passengers reporting the Nationalists there being in a state of nerves fearful of an impending attack from Sun Chuan Fang in the Pan Yang sector.

Chiang Kai Shek remains at Nanking where troops and warships are concentrated, apparently with the idea of making a desperate stand to prevent the recapture of this city by the northerners.

The Nationalists have suppressed the labor union, arresting all the officers.

Arrest Guerrillas
About 1,100 "guerrillas" have been imprisoned. Nationalist headquarters pending trial.

The worst clash took place at the Commercial Press plant where Nationalists, after nine hours of fighting with machine guns, rifles and pistols, succeeded in surrounding thirty-five "guerrillas."

The armed laborers answered the fire, but were overpowered and captured.

A bulletin from Nationalist headquarters this afternoon stated that the Chapel, Pootung, Jessfield and Nantao districts of the native city, had all been cleared of armed forces.

The fighting cleared grave apprehension among the residents, as many believed that the northern army had arrived and was driving the Cantonese from Shanghai.

GET ROCKVILLE JURY ON PUBLIC STREETS

Rockville, Conn., April 12.—Judge E. M. Yeomans today was forced to send into the streets of Rockville to find three men to complete a jury that is trying the $25,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Ermine H. Nichols, formerly of Stamford, against the Central Vermont railroad. So many men were excused from a panel of eighteen that only nine jurors had been selected when the panel was exhausted.

Mrs. Nichols, whose husband was ticket agent and baggage master at the Stamford station, fell down a flight of stairs at the station on November 24, 1924, and is suing for injuries alleged to have been sustained then.

at New Canaan; giving the board of the commission over of Milford supervision over electric wiring and the storing of inflammable materials; amending the New Britain city charter concerning appeals from city court judgments on matters involving less than $100; amending the Naugatuck borough charter providing for the manner of electing town officers; authorizing a $1,500 salary for the superintendent of charity in Ansonia; incorporating the Bradford Manor Civic Association of East Haven; amending New Haven, now Haddam to contract for use of a sewer system.

Bills Rejected Bills rejected by the House after unfavorable report were: establishing a state reserve fund; extending the terms of town officers; Westport amending the Bridgeport zoning laws; reimbursing Meyer Sherman for damage done by Highway drain water at his store. A bill was passed under suspension of the rules reimbursing the Lewis A. Miller Co., of Meriden, in the amount of $2,000 for connection work at the School for Boys at Meriden.

Among unfavorable reports received in the Senate were: appropriating $10,000 for the operation of a state fish hatchery at Naugatuck; authorizing the widening of a driveway on the State grounds; establishing a custodian and engineer fund in Bridgeport; authorizing the Cromwell Water Company to increase its capital to $200,000.

The House passed the following bills for the Senate calendar: authorizing the Union Electric Light & Power Co. to increase its capital to $2,000,000 and merge with the New Hartford Electric Co.; authorizing the New Hartford Electric company to operate in Barkhamsted; providing for biennial instead of annual elections in Sprague; giving the right of appeal to the Superior Court on assessments for road charges affecting residents at the boundaries of two or more towns; authorizing the town of West Haven to abbreviate its advertising concerning zoning regulations; eliminating a second town meeting for laying of a tax in East Haven on off-years; clarifying the laws regarding the rights of way for electric transmission lines; giving jurisdiction over offenses committed in New Haven harbor to the city of New Haven and the Fire department Courts of East Haven and West Haven, and other offenses in the harbor of Stamford to the Stamford City Court; releasing the interest of the state in the estate of Joseph D. Joubert, of Quebec, Canada, on land in Torrington.

Senate Bills Passed. Bills passed from the Senate calendar were: Providing for filing notice with the secretary of state on proposed mergers of electric and gas companies; authorizing the Stamford Gas and Electric company to increase its capital to $5,000,000; authorizing of $200,000 in the capital stock of the Guilford-Charter Water company; authorizing the City of Bridgeport to provide text books in its schools; amending the New Haven teachers' retirement fund charter; giving the rights of eminent domain to the Connecticut Power Company; authorizing sewer construction assessments in Bridgeport; providing for the manner of disbursements of appropriations to agricultural societies.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN A DOZEN PLACES

Fires Burning All Over New England States—All Fire Permits Cancelled.

Boston, Mass., April 12.—Blue columns of smoke rising heavenward in many country towns of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island today warned of the spring forest fire menace. Three miles of timberland were burned over at Gardner. Two and one-half square miles were a blackened waste near Stafford Pond, Tiverton, R. I. One thousand acres of woodland were ruined in Hopkinton. Two buildings were burned by a forest fire at Westerly, R. I. More than 100 acres of woodland in Brimfield were destroyed. A fire was blazing atop Watastiquet mountain in southern New Hampshire.

A hundred cottages were saved after one had been destroyed by a brush fire near Wells Beach, Me. Firemen and volunteers had a busy time fighting fires in Portsmouth and Smithfield, R. I. Monson, Wales, Wilbraham, Charlton, Holden, Montpelier, Webster, Wakefield, Saugus, Lynnfield, Wakefield and Shelburne mountain, in this state. Open air fire permits were cancelled because of the dryness of the woods and warnings were sent out to motorists.

Papers were filed at the Municipal building with Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington today regarding the transfer of property at East Center and Foster streets by Elman and Rolston to Earl Campbell, proprietor of two local filling stations. James R. Campbell and Earl Campbell transferred property on Main street, opposite the State Armory back to Elman and Rolston from whom the property was originally purchased.

Hose Company No. 3, of the Sixth Manchester Fire department was called out at 11:45 this morning to a grass fire at the corner of Bissell and Harrison streets. No damage was done and the blaze was extinguished by means of chemicals.

HE FIGHTS FOREST FIRES WITH BACK TO FENCE

Although no one was overcome from smoke in the dense forest fire on Birch Mountain yesterday, there was one near tragedy which carried with it a touch of humor. Frank Matusek, of Gardner street, one of the volunteer firemen, was working earnestly in an effort to combat the flames at a certain section of the range. The flames were getting the best of him, however, and he was forced to retreat steadily. Suddenly, to his complete surprise, Frank backed into a barbed wire fence. He was unable to release himself, so firmly was the seat of his pants caught. Other men heard his cries for help and rescued Frank from his precarious position before the flames reached him.

Mr. Montgomery was born here, attended the grammar schools in the Ninth district and went to East Greenwich academy. From there he went to Wesleyan and graduated. The Fairmount school will be the finest private educational enterprise in Washington when it is opened in the fall. Mr. Montgomery also conducts a large summer camp in Maine. A brother, Harry Montgomery, is well known as a barrister and solicitor in Grace church, New York City. He is a graduate of the high school here and sang at the Centennial reunion of high school graduates. Mrs. Lina Montgomery, mother of the two boys, is now a resident of Willimantic. She is visiting with friends in Manchester at the present time.

FATE OF ACCIDENT VICTIM IS UNKNOWN

Boston Man Injured at Bolton But Disappears Soon After Crash; Auto Badly Wrecked.

At least one person was injured in an automobile accident on the concrete bridge over the railroad tracks in Bolton early last night. The identity of the persons in the car, a Hupmobile touring, is unknown as is the fate of the injured man who was thrown head-first through the windshield.

It appears that soon after the accident the four men in the car which bore a Massachusetts license, No. 548-804, left the scene of the accident to take the injured man some where for medical treatment. He was not taken to the Memorial hospital.

The car was proceeding toward Manchester and the driver is said to have erred at the sharp turn at the edge of the bridge with the result that the touring car crashed into the concrete wall. The car was badly damaged and was towed to Gibson's garage at the north end. The owner, a Boston man, was expected to come to the garage late today.

TALCOTTVILLE

Miss Amy A. Welcher of Hartford, a member of the deputation of the American Board of Foreign Missions who spent three months in India visiting the Congregational mission stations in that country, was the speaker and guest of honor at the April meeting of the Foreign Missionary society. Miss Welcher's charming personality and inspiring message delighted her hearers. During the visit of the deputation they came in contact with all classes of religions, and everywhere they were received with the greatest courtesy and hospitality. Miss Welcher estimated that it would be impossible to give a report of the work of missions in cold figures as the Christian influence is spreading like a leaf throughout the whole country bringing out all that is best in the various other religions of the land. Many although ostensibly of other religions are earnest followers of Christ. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. C. O. Britton, and Mrs. F. P. Bacheiler offered a prayer for the missionaries in China. The members of the Union church missionary society were guests of the local society. Tea was served and a social hour followed.

by twelve property owners and William B. McKinley acted as spokesman. The section of Elro street on which these property owners live is too low to get into the sewer system on Flower street and it cannot get into the Middle Turnpike system. The only way out is through a proposed street which enters Main street, facing the State Armory. Cesspools built in this section have failed to take care of the sewage, it was stated.

The Selectmen have no rights as a governing body over sewage disposal. The highway committee will investigate and it is probable that the sewer district will lay the new system and assess benefits and damages to the property owners involved.

Birch Mt. Road John Tedford and Joseph Zeppa of Birch Mt. road approached and complained about the condition of the highway. Mr. Tedford maintained that nothing was ever done for the road and it is in terrible condition. Town Engineer Bowen said that it was a mean road to repair and keep in condition, but the matter was referred to the highway committee and it is probable that something will be done to improve the road.

Emil Jarvis appeared before the Selectmen with a petition asking for street lights on Parker street between the Parkerville railroad crossing and Tolland Turnpike. There are six houses in this section and the stretch is about a mile long. The lighting committee has previously investigated the situation and reported that it would be impossible to put lights through there. Twenty or twenty-five lights would be needed and the cost would be too great. Mr. Jarvis was told to apply for electric service for his home and that would perhaps facilitate getting street lights.

HOLMES JURY DISAGREES.

Boston, Mass., April 12.—The jury in the case of Guy Willis Holmes, untried Methodist minister of New Bedford, reported a disagreement in Superior Court today. The jury was discharged as the district attorney's office was undecided whether a new trial would be asked. The ex-pastor was charged with violating the true name law and other serious offenses involving Miss Antonette Fortin, New Bedford tea room waitress.

CAMPBELL BUILDING 'GAS' STORAGE TANK

Earl Campbell, local gasoline filling station proprietor, is building a gasoline storage tank at Middle Turnpike just east of the South Manchester Railroad tracks. The railroad is installing a spur at the site today.

Mr. Campbell will erect a 13,000-gallon gasoline storage tank which can be filled by gravity from railroad tank cars. His own gasoline tank truck can in turn be filled by gravity from the storage tank because of his large business in gasoline. Mr. Campbell intends to purchase the gas in car lots and deliver it to his filling stations with his own truck.

FIREMEN BUSY IN ROCKVILLE

Nine Alarms in Week—Easter Cantata—Personal Items.

(Special to The Herald) Rockville, April 12. The local fire departments have been having a busy session since April 4, having answered nine alarms. Sunday there were three still alarms during the day, all caused by carelessness in attending to grass and brush fires. Monday morning it was necessary for the chemical to make another trip to Fox Hill to extinguish a grass fire, this being the second time this year that there has been a fire on the hill. In the afternoon the department was called out to fight a fire on the roof of the old Hockanum mill, the origin of this fire being unknown, but serious damage was averted by the firemen's quick response to the alarm.

Easter Cantata. An Easter cantata by H. Brooks Day will be given Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at the Union Congregational church by an augmented choir under the direction of Mrs. May Chapman Holt, organist. The rehearsals have been going on for several weeks. The choir will be assisted by the following quartet: Miss Edith Ransom, soprano; Mrs. Dorothea Abbey Waite, contralto; Luther White, tenor; Percy Cooley, bass.

Make Banquet Plans. The Past Chiefs' club of Poca-hontas will hold a special meeting on Thursday evening in Red Men's hall to make the final plans for the banquet which will be held April 21. This promises to be a big event. William Newport, who is Great Sachem of the Independent Order of Red Men, accompanied by Mrs. Newport, will be the speaker of the evening.

African Baptist Church Notes. The services for Sunday morning were largely attended. There were several out to the E. Y. P. U. meeting which was held at 8 o'clock. Sunday evening at 7:30 Miss Katherine Day of Hartford, niece of Harriet Beecher Stowe, addressed the members. Miss Day is very much interested in the affairs of the Rockville church and her name has been included on the advisory committee of the campaign to raise money for a new church.

Monday evening the Men's Progressive club met at the parsonage. The willing workers served a member's supper Monday evening which was largely attended.

Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock there will be a teachers' meeting and at 7:30 a short prayer service will be held. It is hoped that all the members will make an effort to be present at this service. After the meeting there will be a rehearsal for the Easter pageant.

Thursday at 4 p. m. there is to be a Junior choir rehearsal. At 7:30 the Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Stevens on Franklin street.

Friday evening at 7 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Usher Board. At 7:30 the Senior choir will hold a rehearsal for the Easter pageant.

Saturday afternoon the ladies and friends of the church are invited to the parsonage to assist in making old fashioned doughnuts which are to be served Sunday morning.

Sunday at 5 a. m. there will be a sunrise service at the church. At 8 a. m. the ladies of the church will serve doughnuts and coffee. Sunday evening there will be an Easter pageant which has been carefully prepared by the members of the choir. It is hoped that all the members and friends who are interested will come out to this service.

Personals. Mrs. Sarah Wilson has returned from two weeks spent with her niece, Mrs. Benjamin Kloter of South Manchester.

John Francis has returned to the Swindell estate in Nova Scotia. The young son of William Hickson of Lawrence street is seriously ill with bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Noack and family of Thomaston were the guests of Mrs. John Francis of Prospect street and Mrs. Noack of Longview on Sunday.

Henry Kloter and family of Florence street were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kloter of South Manchester on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Rose King, who underwent a serious operation recently at the Rockville City hospital, has returned to her home on East Main street.

Miss Minnie Mololey of Springfield, Mass., spent the week-end as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elmsted of East Main street.

Mrs. Marshall Malory of Hartford and Miss Ella Curtin of East Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. William Mulcahy of Hartford were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heitz of Union street on Sunday.

Councilman and Mrs. John Herzog of Grand street were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Koehler of Hartford on Sunday.

The following Yale students are spending the Easter holidays with their parents: William Bridgewater, Mass., is spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Max Wetstein of Talcott avenue.

The Rockville Visiting Nurse association will hold its April meeting this evening at 7:30. The reports of the nurses will be read at this meeting.

An adventurer named Frakeberg, who was engaged 120 times, has died in Bavaria.

Miss Lillian Tracy of Hartford spent the week-end with Mrs. Gertrude Angell of Orchard street. Mr. and Mrs. John Grote of Hartford were visitors in town on Sunday. Paul Haun of Hartford spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wilde of Yale.

Hand Pumps Lick Birch Mt. Blaze

Forestry Device Turns Tide When 100 Men Battle Big Woods Fire.

Fanned by a strong northwest wind, a raging forest fire ate its way through approximately two hundred acres of woodland in Birch Mountain at Highland Park yesterday afternoon. Close to a hundred men fought it in a thrilling four hour battle. So dangerous did the fire become that Case Brothers Paper Manufacturing Company closed down in order that its employees might help in the battle with the flames.

The fire fighters labored magnificently but it is doubtful if they could have stopped the hard driven blaze before a great deal more damage had been done had it not been for the calling into action of two forestry pumps which, at a critical point, made it possible to wet down areas which the men could not approach closely enough to attack with their more primitive weapons.

Cord Wood Burned. The majority of the woodland burned over is owned by Case Brothers but a small portion of land owned by Cheney Brothers was scorched. Many cords of wood were destroyed. A man was engaged in drawing some of the wood at the time of the fire but was not in the vicinity where it started.

The fire was first discovered about 2 o'clock and farmers in the neighborhood rushed to the scene. The fire had gained too great a headway to be stopped without a strenuous fight. So Case Brothers dispatched most of their employees to the scene. Armed with every kind of fire-fighting apparatus imaginable, including, brooms, axes, shovels, hoes, rakes, bags and pails, they tried to back-fire the flames, which by this time had eaten their way for nearly a half a mile. They were beaten back several times, but finally the fire was checked at Coop sawmill road with the aid of the two forestry pumps from Cheney Brothers under the direction of Deputy Fire Warden Charles Griffiths.

"Artillery" These pumps, which it takes two men to operate, were carried along the "skirmish" line and proved much more effective than the hand-fighting because they throw water for several rods. Each pump holds ten gallons and men follow in the rear of each pump carrying additional five-gallon cans. They are the "artillery" of forest fire fighting.

The origin of the fire is unknown. According to G. S. Buck, Highland Park farmer who spread the news of the fire after being told of it by a neighbor, Thomas Humphrey, the fire was first discovered about twenty rods back from the highway. This and the fact that there were no trout brooks in the near vicinity, lead to the belief that the fire did not start from a cigar or cigarette stub. A possible solution is reported by a man who heard one youngster remark to another during the height of the fire: "Aw, why go way up there to see a fire when we can light one ourselves."

Other Fires. The Birch Mountain fire came almost simultaneously with four small fires in Manchester, proper. They were all still alarms. One was for a grass fire on Foley street and another for a brush fire on Adams street, both being extinguished by Hest Company No. 1, S. M. F. D. Hose Company No. 4 also reported to a still alarm resulting from a fire in the rear of Charles Stenberg's livery on Eldridge street.

This makes a total of more than ten fires in Manchester during the last three days and Fire Chief Albert C. Fox, and Fire Warden Griffiths issued further warnings today against building outdoor fires of any nature at this time because of the extremely dry condition of the leaves and brush.

AN HOUR LONGER FOR LONDON TALK

Effective today, the period during which service is available for telephone calls to London and other points in England, Scotland and Wales will be extended one hour, according to an announcement issued today by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Beginning today service will open at 7:30 a. m., New York time, instead of 8:30 a. m., as heretofore. There is no change in the closing hour, which is 1 p. m.

It is also announced that this time for opening of service will prevail after daylight saving time becomes effective in New York, on April 24, service being available after that date from 7:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., New York daylight saving time.

An adventurer named Frakeberg, who was engaged 120 times, has died in Bavaria.

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS LEARN FROM EXPERT

Ernest Dodds of Cedar Hill Greenhouses Gives Practical Talk on Gardening.

Replete with valuable hints for floriculturists was the practical garden talk given by Ernest Dodds of Hartford before the Manchester Garden club at its April meeting last night at the White house. Mr. Dodds is an English gardener of long and varied experience. He has been in this country for perhaps a dozen years and is at present with the Cedar Hill greenhouses. He covered the whole subject of gardening from the preparation of the seed beds and cold frames, to lawn-making and the selection of the proper evergreens for foundation planting and the adornment of the home grounds. At the close of his address he was pitted with questions on various subjects by the amateur gardeners and after the meeting adjourned many remained to consult him on their individual problems. His world-wide travels while in the employ of the English government as a gardener enabled him to give a talk of extraordinary interest, and one to which a brief report cannot do justice.

Planning the Garden. Mr. Dodds stressed the advisability of planning the garden and planting much rather than the spring. Sweet peas are much more satisfactory if planted in the fall, but they must be planted deep. Gypsophila elegans, or "Baby's Breath" which is so fine for bouquets of sweet peas or other flowers and especially useful in the border, does well if the seed is sown in September and the young plants lightly covered with salt hay. The Wallflower, an English favorite, with its velvety brown fragrant blossoms is difficult to grow in this country as the climate is against it, but it is worth while experimenting with. In England this biennial is sown in July. Delphinium, or larkspur, the speaker said should be in every border, with its tall blue flower spikes. Plant roots may be divided or sown from June to July. Delphinium and other perennials should be lightly covered after the ground freezes up. If they are too heavily mulched the roots will decay.

Rock garden formation was another subject discussed. The speaker urged the importance of deep pockets that will hold water, and mentioned a number of plants especially fitted for rock gardens and to produce desired color effects.

Full Planting Necessary. Iris, another perennial that succeeds best with early fall planting, came in for considerable attention; the various branches of the family their location and easy culture were set forth. A bed of Spanish Iris in the different colors makes a very fine showing. Roses for beds and climbing varieties for arbors, was a subject Mr. Dodds gave much time to. He advised planting roses in the spring and cautioned against cutting them after August. Roses in combination with native lilacs were beautiful, or baby Dorothy Perkins bushes with a few lilium candidum. Fine single ramblers were the American Pillar and Hiawatha. Peonies in front of rose arbors were recommended.

Garden boxes were referred to and one filling suggested was of vincas, sweet-scented stocks, mignonette and a little sweet alyssum. Ivy leaved geraniums are wonderful for window boxes, where there is not too much hot sun, said Mr. Dodds.

He gave much valuable advice in regard to preparing the soil for the making of a lawn which should also be done in the autumn.

Gardens in Calcutta. In response to a request of the speaker gave a brief description of the government gardens in Calcutta, India and the Royal Botanic gardens at Kew, England, which was very interesting. The latter are maintained by the English government and the pleasure grounds and gardens proper cover nearly 200 acres. There are numerous great conservatories and greenhouses, a ten-storied Chinese pagoda, a temperate house in the shape of a cross occupying three quarters of an acre; a palm house 362 feet by 100 and 66 feet high. He described the old New Zealand tree ferns, whose stems are a mass of roots which must be covered with straw and frequently wet down. Marvelous filmy ferns, palms and other plants, fruits and flowers from all over the world are growing in these houses and gardens requiring an army of gardeners for their special care. Lily ponds with waterlilies of all colors and descriptions are other attractions at the Kew gardens. In Coventry in August the entrance of which stands the old palace of George III. Mr. Dodds was given a rising vote of thanks for his instructive talk.

The suggestion was made by C. W. Blankenburg that the Garden club enter an exhibit of gladioli at the show in Hartford in August. Charles M. Murphy, who was instrumental in organizing the Manchester Garden club and has taken deep interest in its affairs, invited the club to visit his gladiolus gardens in Coventry in August. An invitation was also received from Lafayette Robertson for the Club to inspect his iris garden in June.

The May meeting of the Garden club will be held with the president, Miss Mary Chapman of Forest street.

The attendance prizes last night, donated by Miss Chapman were won as follows: Mrs. Harry Meiklejohn, basket of delphinium plants and Mrs. W. R. Tinker, Sr., Chinese forget-me-not seedlings.

NOT SO BAD. The kind old gentleman, seeing a boy carrying a great pile of newspapers, asked, "Don't all those papers make you tired?" "Now, I don't read them." Ideas.

IT'S AN ILL WIND THAT MAKES 'EM AGREE

"Any way the wind blows" seems to be most applicable at the Center "may day the wind blows". A beautifully gilded weather vane rests at the tip of the spire of the Center Congregational church at the top of Manchester's new Municipal building. But, to tell from which direction the wind is coming one must not look at both vases. They agree like a Maine Republican and a Texas Democrat. When one says "South-by-south-east" the other is bound to say "East-by-south-east." Town "sharps" today explained that one vane is guided by "true north" while the other is influenced by "magnetic north."

SPORTSMANSHIP TALK DISPLACES FIREARMS

U. J. Lupien Addresses M. E. Club in Place of Expert Who Couldn't Come.

Substituting at short notice for Fred Moore, firearms expert of Colts' in Hartford, U. J. Lupien of Cheney Brothers gave the Men's Friendship club of the South Methodist church an enjoyable talk on sportsmanship at the monthly meeting of that organization last night.

Mr. Lupien outlined the qualities of a good sport and said that athletics in early life were conducive to good sportsmanship, a quality that lasted, enabling the man who had been in competition to take his knocks and rebuffs philosophically like a good loser and his successes like a good winner.

The talk was followed by a discussion in which members of the club joined. Preceding Mr. Lupien's talk a supper of "hot dogs," coffee and cake was served by a committee consisting of Elijah Crossen, Thomas Curran and Sidney Carter.

Quick Quaker

THE price you pay for substitutes is the same as for the genuine Quaker Oats. The difference is in the flavor. And flavor, above all things, is important in oats.

That rich and tasty Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years' milling experience. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

That is why millions demand the Quaker brand—why you should accept no other.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently "balanced" food.

NOT FIRST TIME HE CAME NEAR DEATH

According to information at police headquarters today, Joseph Kazlusk, of 34 Union street, who was seriously injured when he dropped twenty-five feet from the Union street bridge into a rocky ravine yesterday, is the same man who had a narrow escape from being killed by an express train at the north end a few years ago, being saved only by the timely action of Sergeant William Barron, who saw him staggering along the railroad track and pushed him off just in time. Kazlusk is now in Memorial hospital and is suffering from severe scalp and face wounds. Two ribs were fractured, the X-ray revealed, but there was no fracture of the skull. Kazlusk was reported today as resting fairly comfortably. Kazlusk is married and has one child.

REC SHADE MAKERS HAVE SOCIAL TIME

The lamp shade class at the West Side Rec held a social following its regular meeting last night. The first part of the evening was given over to class work. This was followed by games which preceded the refreshments. As this class has reached its capacity number, it is suggested that any other women who wish to take up the work, should join the East Side class which meets every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the West Side building on School street. The regular Friday afternoon whist at the West Side Rec will not be held this week. The Wednesday evening setback party and the Saturday evening whist will be held as usual.

CONNECTICUT ARTISTS.

Manchester people, as a whole, may not pretend to any great degree of sophistication in art matters and they may talk less of the pater of such things than the folk of some communities that know no more about pictures, really, than we folk do, but there are plenty of us, beyond a doubt, who will nevertheless be very glad of the opportunity offered by the coming exhibition of works of Connecticut painters at the Athenaeum at Hartford under the auspices of the Connecticut Academy of Fine Arts.

Aside from the annual showing by the artist colony at Lyme, the exhibits of the Connecticut Academy present about the only opportunity on any considerable scale that the people of this state have to view the productions of artists who live and work in Connecticut, at least for a large part of the year, and whose achievements are so near the top of the heap in America.

While the Connecticut Academy is not, technically, restricted to the encouragement of Connecticut artists alone—for this showing at least is open to the works of living American—the list of exhibitors is largely made up of men and women who do their work in this state; and some of them are widely celebrated.

As the exhibition will be open all next week it goes without saying that it will number among its visitors many of the people of this community.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM.

According to Thomas F. Millard, for twenty years a journalist in China and student of Chinese affairs, strong influences are at work to bring about one of two alternative plans of foreign intervention in China, aside from merely punitive measures outgrowing from the loss of life and property suffered by nations of western powers.

One of these plans, according to Millard, consists of occupation of the entire Yangtze valley as far as Hankow and of several coastal points, to be held until all indemnities are paid and assurances given of the safety of foreign life and property. The other is more ambitious and would involve complete occupation of the country, dispersing and disarming all Chinese troops, suppressing banditry and restoring nation-wide order.

In the latter of these plans it is estimated, among its promoters, that a force of between 500,000 and 1,000,000 men would be required and from ten to fifteen years of time.

In such an operation it is figured that Great Britain, Italy, Japan, France and the United States would co-operate in manpower and in the cost—though, of course, it would be expected that the Chinese would be made to pay all the expense of being subjugated, in the long run.

With Great Britain at present groaning under the heaviest load of taxation, per capita, of any people in the world, with France and Italy deeply interested in maintaining at home the greatest possible military strength, and with Japan far better prepared in soldiers than in money for the immediate financing of such an undertaking, one need hardly ask where the cash would be expected to flow from in order to pay the bills until such time as John Chinaman could be made to settle. The financial angel of this ambitious program would have to be the treasury of the United States. Also, it is a reasonably safe prediction that, once we got into the thing, American soldiers would be relied on to do most of the fighting—or at least American and Japanese soldiers. Because while the British government may see economic necessity for western control of the trade of the Far East, the British people are in no mood whatever to embark on another war when they are working one day out of every five gratis for the government to pay for the dead horse of the last one.

And this is all without taking into consideration the enormous complication to follow if Russia should seize on the opportunity to throw in her lot with the Chinese. Not too much is known about the state of affairs in Russia but most visitors to that country in the last two or three years are agreed that the Red army is no insignificant thing—the best organizing ability in the country has functioned in the direction of military preparedness.

There would appear to be, in this Chinese situation, at least potentialities of a great and bloody war. Is there any justification for the impatience of a few Americans in Asia, because the government at Washington is moving cautiously?

SELF DEFENSE.

"If the United States is to collect the ten billion dollars owing from Europe it must buy ten billion dollars worth more from Europe than it sells to Europe."

This is the way Lewis Webster Jones, an economist of Washington, sums up the situation for the Foreign Policy Association.

If he is right there is profound reason for suspecting that it may, in the long run, cost a deal more to collect our foreign debts than it would to cancel them.

There would seem to be just three ways in which the billions owed to us by Europe could conceivably be paid. They could be paid in gold. But it happens that there is not, outside of the United States, ten billion dollars worth of gold in existence—nor anywhere near ten billion dollars worth. And, if we got all the gold the European nations possess, prices would inevitably rise so high in this country and fall so low in Europe, as measured by our money, that our manufacturers and even our farmers could not compete with the products of foreign countries that would pour in. And still there would not be nearly enough gold to pay us off.

They can be paid in commodities. And if we import every year for fifty years two hundred million dollars worth of goods over and above the value of the goods we sell to Europe, and these goods are marketed here, what is to become of the manufacturers whose product is displaced?

If we cannot get the gold—which is simply impossible and which would be disastrous if we could get it—and if we cannot without ruining our own industries submit to an adverse trade balance of two hundred millions a year, what is the third alternative?

We could accept the securities of European business corporations without, for the moment, so completely upsetting things as either of the other devices would. But that would mean something very much like the enslavement of the British, French, Belgian and Italian industrialists who would be insupportable to us if the conditions were reversed and which would be equally insupportable to them. We should be the hated task masters of Europe.

Of all the three imaginable ways of getting our foreign debts paid the most feasible one—the only one which in fact is not wholly fantastic—seems to be to buy in Europe ten billion dollars worth of commodities more than we sell to Europe, just as Mr. Jones declares.

It may be that this eventual debt settlement question will be found to have nothing to do with either justice or sentiment but a great deal to do with simple self-defense. Sooner or later we may have to cancel in order to keep ourselves from suffocating under the torrent of payments.

DRAMA.

Very few of the highly dramatic moments of history were realized at the instant of their passing. Lincoln thought his hastily prepared Gettysburg speech had been a conspicuous failure. Nathan Hale's historic regret was surely a half unconscious exclamation forgotten by its author within minutes.

Tito Zaniboni, facing the charge of plotting the assassination of Premier Mussolini and not denying his intent to kill the Duce but declaring in court, "I hate Fascism and always shall hate it," is as heroic a picture as can well be conjured up.

Physically enmeshed by the forces of complete autocratic power, absolutely at the merciless mercy of the Great Man of Italy, this zealot stood forth in the midst of that scene as a completely free man whose spirit could no more be controlled than the winds that blow.

In this country one does not stand with political assassination as a path to liberty. But then this country has never had the experience of a dictatorship. And in any event the right or wrong of the thing has nothing whatever to do with the idea that yesterday, in the court room at Rome, former Deputy Zaniboni took his place among the cast of the age-old drama which is the unending human struggle for freedom.

BASEBALL.

Now may the captains and the kings depart. Now may Chiang and Chang retire to the wings, right and left. Now may murder trials and triangle scandals and the Reed slush committee go way back and sit down. Now may the floods come and the rains descend and the winds of revolt beat upon the world—and be hanged to the lot of them! For Baseball today returns to its normal post as the primal urge of the American mind.

What matters this or that or the other thing—if the installment be or be not paid; if the landlord puts us out in the street; if there be births and deaths and marrying and giving in marriage—or not; so long as Babe socks it and Ty proves that Connie Mack picked wisely? Hall, the King!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April, 12—Filibustering in the Senate dates back at least 70 years and probably further.

Here is a diverting account of an incident in a filibuster taken from a Washington newspaper in 1858: "During the protracted session of the Senate last week Senator Clark having the floor said 'if it be the pleasure of the Senate to adjourn now it would be very agreeable to me. I have had nothing to eat since 8 o'clock, neither bread nor anything else.'"

"But," the Senate wouldn't adjourn and he proceeded till 8 3/4 o'clock when during an explanation by Mr. Green, having spoken more than 3 hours and a half, he availed himself of the opportunity to indulge in that beverage which 'cheers but not inebriates' with accompanying muffins and sandwiches, which gave his desk the social aspect of a cosy tea-table.

"The honorable senator retained his right to the floor, with a cup of tea in one hand and a huge sandwich in the other. The scene was novel, but a 12 hours' fast had created an insupportable stomach. By the call of the yeas and nays he was afforded ample time to finish his repast."

The month's prize for diplomacy seems to go to M. Paul Claudel the new French ambassador, if the facts are as stated.

The story is that Ambassador Claudel, who did not present his credentials to President Coolidge until the unusually long period of two weeks had elapsed, was delayed by the State Department, which having looked over the little speech which the ambassador had prepared, asked him to put something in about the French debt.

Hence the delay. The speech as finally made didn't ignore the debt, but if anyone could have been more diplomatic than was M. Claudel when he first drafted the speech without any reference to the debt, that person has not been suggested for the month's prize.

Nothing can save this country—or Nicaragua—from a large crop of experts on the Nicaraguan situation in the next Congress. Heretofore Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut has been the leading expert who based his knowledge on contact with Latin-American countries. Now Bingham will have plenty of rivals.

But there are hordes of our national legislators who have gone down into the Caribbean. Some time ago it was reported that a congressional party of 83 had entered Haiti, Cuba, Panama, Costa Rica, Porto Rico and other little countries have all been invaded.

Mexico shared the immunity of Nicaragua from such visits. And the Mexican and Nicaraguan situations are the most important in our foreign relations with the rest of this hemisphere. But the fact that the congressmen didn't get to either of these countries won't deter them from posing as experts.

New York, April 12—Scattered notes from an afternoon's ramble about Manhattan:

Those outfits for European travel in the Fifth Avenue shop windows. . . . A couple of trunks and a handbag with a price mark of $1,000. . . . Any one of us could make a three-month trip for that. . . . And those accessories for travel. . . . Few of them priced under $100. . . . Fifth Avenue must be an answer to the prayers of the extravagant. . . . I remember just before school opened seeing an outfit for boys which, if purchased in toto, would have set papa back some $500.

Which reminds me: Whatever became of the little wooden pencil boxes and those straps we used to swipe from the suitcase to pack our books in? . . . Kids today must have brief cases of the best leather. . . . I often watch them marching to school with these important looking leather bags, like lawyers going to court. . . . I must be getting old. . . .

The snide coming to life of the piers now that European travel grows heavier. . . . Excited taxis all but jabbing the leisurely trucks. . . . The taxis want to get there and the trucks don't care. . . . Hundreds of people with the high flush of anticipation painting their cheeks. . . . And hundreds more looking around as if for a lost child. . . . Nearly everyone seems to have left their wits at home. . . .

Except the bored looking fat man who, they tell me, "goes over" every season for his form. . . . It's just like going to Chicago or Cleveland with him. . . .

And, just alongside the big liner, stands the same little barge. I saw a year ago. . . . It is sandwiched in between the sea giant and the next pier. . . . And on its deck is the same neat little house, though the fresh paint of last summer has been sea-swept into the mud-green of a brackish swamp. . . .

The skipper's wife still comes popping out of her cabin and putting about the tiny yard space that the barge cabin affords. There is still a sting in the wind and she wears one of those slate gray grandma's time. . . . I mean your old grandma's time. . . . Not today's. . . .

Grandma today, like as not, is down having her hair bobbed or her face lifted. . . . And she's turned her old world toward over to some antique store where, in time, it will be purchased for a high price by her grand-daughter. . . .

There's something cynically amusing about this revolving of the cycle. . . . Wandering along Madison Avenue and peering since I can't see into the window since Grandmother's house. . . . Grandmother's house has been stripped from cellar to garret and all through Connecticut, Massachusetts and the other New England states agents have been manhandling the old homesteads taking ship furniture and old furniture and kach-luacks. . . .

Here they all are on display in a Madison Avenue shop, to be bartered all over again to the sons and daughters of the oldsters and to be pointed to proudly in studios, mansions and apartments. . . . It's a funny old world. . . . GILBERT SWAN.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

A GOD OF THE FOREST

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

In the mythology of the ancients the oak tree was known as the Hercules of the forest, for its majestic size and rugged strength. It is commonly considered the most sturdy of all trees, reaching a huge size and living more than 1000 years. There are said to be oaks alive today in Great Britain under which Robin Hood gathered with his merry men.

There are in all more than 50 species of this family growing in the United States. In addition to many other species found in Europe and Alaska. These hardy trees are native only to the northern hemisphere. There are no oaks found in Australia, save in the extreme northern sections.

The age and size attained by the oak tree are all the more remarkable when one considers that it has nearly 500 insect enemies that prey on it in various parts of the world, attacking the roots, wood, bark, twigs, buds and leaves.

Besides this the acorns of these trees are a prized food for squirrels, deer, bear and even for pheasants and other birds. The extinct passenger pigeon once fed in vast bands on the small acorns of certain oaks. Despite the army they must feed however, the oaks have stood their ground and are still common trees throughout this country.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

This is the third chapter of the story of a former war veteran who is going back to France as a forerunner of the Second A. E. F.

CHAPTER III.

It's not so perplexing when an experienced soldier gets over into the sacred territory of the gobs if he'll just figure it out.

To change the hours into bells on shipboard all he need do is multiply the number of revolutions of the ship's screw per minute with the number of his cabin, added to his street address at home. This result, divided by the specific gravity of brown gravy and a couple of subtrahends, gives the bells desired. The player is also entitled to three times the value of the trick.

In the matter of port and starboard!

Port is the right side of the ship when one stands facing the prow and starboard is left, or vice versa. In case one is facing aft port is left and starboard is right, or vice versa. If it can be remembered that port is just opposite from starboard in every case, the same as aft is opposite from forward, no possible confusion can arise.

O! the Cavalry, the Cavalry, With dirt behind their ears, They couldn't lick the Infantry, In a hundred thousand years.

At least, that was the doughboy's allegation, made in a tinny manner, as he lay below-decks on one of the ship of a convoy ploughing up the foamy lather on the blue of the Atlantic in the neighborhood of the Gulf Stream back in 1918. He eased out of his hammock—one of those canvas hammocks that were the hips down badly—and went up on deck for a breath of air. He slouched and shouldered his way through the gang. Being quartered forward he ascended the stairs and tried to argue with the guard about going aft.

The "Dog Robbers"

This particular soldier was a man of observation and initiative. He had noted that the "dog-robbers"—the orderlies of the officer's mess—waited on table for the officer's mess and their only distinguishing mark was a napkin carried over the left arm. He slid into line, borrowed one of these white bandages, and presented himself for a tray of food at the kitchen. He ordered a regular dinner, not having seen the menu, and the steaming viands were placed on a tray. He took it, returned the napkin to his buddy, and went out on deck. Then and there he had the only meal of that trip over—he ate with his fingers and the relish of a starved personality. . . . Wiped his mouth on the sleeves of his blouse and tossed the tray over into the bounding main.

Every day for ten days, until that ship docked at Liverpool, this soldier worked this stunt. He was good for one meal a day—dinner at night—and no one ever was wiser. He kept his cleverness secret, in fact he never bragged about it until he was in an English rest camp. He was a soldier of parts—and doubtless the only one of the private variety who fed well on shipboard.

How Different Now

The surprising and the unusual feature of a trip over eight years afterwards is the chow. It seems so unreal to sit down and order the best of everything the ship's larder offers. The promenades about the decks with new-found friends are wonderfully interesting—the springy bunks are comforting—the entertainments are interesting—the deck games are exciting—the ship's pool is very enjoyable, if you win—the spray is refreshing—the sunlight on the waves is dazzling. All the points of appeal have their merit—but the eating predominates all.

That's why this infantryman's cleverness and technique is introduced here—for he sure was a lucky doughboy. . . . Just about the only one in the Second A. E. F. But he's to be just one of the 300,000 lucky stiffs in the second pilgrimage.

At the monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held at the home of Mrs. E. G. Lord, Miss Clarissa Lord gave an interesting report of the lecture recently attended by her in Rockville by Dr. Grenfell. Plans were discussed for the W. C. T. U. institute which will take place at the Congregational church at Hebron Center, Thursday, April 28. There will be several good speakers from out of town. It was voted to extend the time limit for essays on the liquor question to May 15, giving pupils of the schools a chance to compete for the $5 prize offered. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

The dental clinic was opened in the schools here last week and went off with flying colors. Dr. A. E. Parent of Putnam, the same dentist who has the Columbia work in charge has the work here also. All the pupils were given a tooth cleaning. A number of extractions were made and other necessary work done. Miss Margaret Danahy, school nurse was present and assisted. Other schools of the town will be visited later.

"RED MILL" AT CIRCLE HAS AN ALL STAR CAST

Marion Davies and Owen Moore
Head Galaxy of Actors in Comedy Feature.

Marion Davies has been seen in one kind of film after another but rarely has she appeared to better advantage than in "The Red Mill," which is the feature attraction at the Circle theater tonight and tomorrow. The hilarious comedy relief gives Miss Davies an opportunity to display her ability as a comedienne and she makes use of it to the best advantage. She is ably abetted by Owen Moore, that boy who makes his facial expression work wonders.

"The Red Mill" is pictured from the famous light opera by the noted composer Victor Herbert. Into this opera the late composer put his whole heart and soul and the effort was acclaimed by many as the best of his works. It is a comedy that has for its ingredients pathos and humor, most of the latter, and as an attraction it was a headliner on the American and European stage for many years.

The picture sacrifices none of the vivacity and buoyant humor which characterized the opera. The only thing that is missing is the singing, and the combination of Davies and Moore makes up for that. Excellent organ accompaniment has considerable to do with the interpretation of the vehicle. Surrounded by a famous cast, Marion Davies plays the Holland heroine in the new adaptation of the famous stage hit of the same name, one of Victor Herbert's dramatic triumphs. Attired in blue petticoats, wooden shoes and the cap and pigtail of the Land of Dykes, she is a demure little heroine, strikingly different from her recent characterization of royalty in "Beverly of Graustark."

Owen Moore plays the leading male role in the new picture, and the cast includes such celebrities as George Siegman, Snitz Edwards, Louise Fazenda, William Orlmond, Russell Powell, Karl Dane, Fred Gambold and others of note.

Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning perfectly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

"WHILE WE WERE MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA"

A proud, suave fellow walked into a barber shop the other day—looked around as though everything pained him—sat down to await his turn.

Now, it just chanced that the barber who took him into his chair is a linguist. He'll talk about anything. He's a very unusual barber.

"Well," said Pat Dougherty (it was Pat Dougherty) "where do you come from?"

The answer Pat got was very High Hat. It said "Atlanta, Georgia. Were you ever there?" (The last remark came with a sneer.)

"Hell, yes," said Pat. "I was there with Sherman."

Pat may have lost a customer, but he retained his crown as King Come-back.

INSIST THAT CIRCLE THEATRE WAS ENTERED

Officials Sure Doors Were Locked and Police Report Backs Them.

Despite yesterday's report to the contrary, theater officials here are confident that another attempt was made to rob the Circle theater during the small hours of morning yesterday. They insist that all doors were locked when they left the building at the close of the show the night before.

Police Captain Herman Schendel said last night that Patrolman Joe Prentice found the doors of the theater locked when he made his round of the beat midnight and that Patrolman David Galligan discovered the front door unlocked about two hours later. The latter summoned one of the theater employees, who came to the theater immediately.

Manager Jack Sanson reported that nothing of any account was missing. He said that a small amount of change in a lady's pocketbook that had been found in the theater after the show was gone but that was all.

If someone did attempt to rob the theater, it was the second time, for recently attempts were made at both the Circle and Kialto. At that time the safe in the former was moved from the theater office to the orchestra pit. In both instances, the thieves drew blanks.

Umbrellas now are being made with life-sized parrot heads or large colored fruits as handles.

INGROWN NAIL Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chemists only. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—adv.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Peter's Denial of Christ

Illustrated story of Peter's denial of Christ, featuring four panels with accompanying text: 'At the Last Supper, Jesus warned Peter he would deny His Master thrice, before the cock crowed twice. After Christ was seized by His enemies in the garden, Peter followed to the high priest's house and sat and warmed himself by a fire. (Mark XIV : 54)', 'A maid of the high priest accused Peter of being a disciple. He denied it. Peter went out on a porch and the cock crew. (Mark XIV : 67-68)', 'Again a maid said, pointing to Peter, "This is one of them." For the second time Peter denied Christ. (Mark XIV : 69-70)', 'For the third time, Peter was accused of being a disciple. Cursing and swearing he denied Christ again. The cock crowed for the second time, and Peter, recalling the prophecy of Jesus, went out and wept bitterly. (Mark XIV : 70-72)'

HOLY WEEK MEDITATIONS "Patience"

By CHARLES HAVEN MYERS,
D. D.
Plymouth Church of Shaker
Heights, Cleveland, Ohio

"Let patience have its perfect work."—James 1:4.
If there is any grace that is really beautiful it is patience. And its cultivation is productive of contentment and peace.
Jesus of Nazareth of all men had a right to be impatient. Surrounded by ignorant, stupid listeners who "having ears heard not," he was questioned by scribes, intruded by questioning politicians—no wonder he has been justified, according to our standards, in breaking forth into indignation. But he is gentle with the hungry-minded people, knowing that they were sheep without a shepherd, and even in the face of open condemnation he maintains his spiritual poise.
Someone has said that "discouragement is disenchanting egoism." How true it is that we may so set our hearts upon certain objects that seem eminently desirable as to become impatient when these coveted things exceed our grasp. We make our plans and lay out our work not considering whether it is the wisest or not and grow quite irascible if our plans are interfered with. Sometimes it is our best friend that feels the sting of our hasty and ill-chosen word.

The Garden of Gethsemane

God has been infinitely patient in bringing this world into form and beauty. He is patient with us when we have proven to be dull students in the school of life. He has given us new chances. Surely we can take time to build this element of patience plodding and careful planning. "They also serve who only stand and wait."

super-production.
Gary Cooper, soon to be starred by Famous Players-Lasky in a series of western pictures, is new to the ranks of motion pictures. He has been called one of the year's most fortunate "finds."
Norman Trevor recently appeared in "Beau Geste," hailed by critics and public alike as one of film-dom's finest achievements. Einar Hanson is the young Swedish actor best known to America for his work in Corinne Griffith's "Into Her Kingdom."

HULTMAN'S DEPARTMENT FOR BOYS ATTRACTIVE

The views of Arthur L. Hultman's boys' department in his advertisement in yesterday's Herald were the cause of some surprise and considerable favorable comment. Although this downstairs department has been in operation for several months many South Manchester people had yet to learn of its existence.
The idea of gathering into one department everything pertaining to boys' equipment has proven a distinct success, for parents find here everything in boys wearables from underwear to overcoat and from cap to shoes. The department is attractively finished, well lighted and completely stocked with goods nicely displayed for easy selection.

COLUMBIA

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Davenport and family returned to their home in Shelbourne Falls, Mass. Saturday morning, after spending several weeks at the home of Mrs. Davenport's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter.
Miss Esther Granston and Miss Marion Holmes spent the week-end with Mrs. Phillip Isham on West street.
Postmaster H. W. Porter is able to be back in the store again, following an operation at St. Joseph's hospital.
The Quien Sabe club had a competitive program Friday evening at the Town hall. The contest was between the young folks of the Green and those in the Old Hop River district. The judges were Mrs. Helen Clarke, Mrs. Elsie Collins, Miss Anne Dix, Miss Harriet Fuller and Miss Dorothy Wright. The decision was in favor of the Green young folks.
At the morning service of the Columbia church, Mrs. Phillip Isham sang "The Palms." There will be special Easter music next Sunday morning and a special musical service in the evening. Anyone having flowers and potted plants are requested to loan them for next Sunday.
Mrs. Della Porter, who has been spending the winter at the home of H. W. Porter, has gone to Hebron to stay for awhile.

"CHILDREN OF DIVORCE" ONE OF YEAR'S BIGGEST

Clara Bow Spectacle Comes to State Next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

"Children of Divorce," arriving at the State Theater on Sunday, one of the biggest stories of the year, is from the pen of Owen Johnson. It was serialized in Red Book before being published as a book. Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton made the adaptation.
It tells the tale of youth without the fostering hands of parents; parents more interested in their own lives than in the welfare and happiness of their offspring. The action is localized among the younger set of the idle rich class and Paramount has been more than lavish in providing sets and wardrobe. Director Lloyd Bacon's "Children of Divorce" one of the most intriguing films he has ever handled.
Clara Bow comes to the east from triumphs in "It," "Kid Boots," "Mantrap" and "Wings." Miss Ralston's name is even now flashing across the country because of her wonderful work in "Old Ironsides," James Cruze's latest

Old Man Baseball Sits On Throne Again Today!

S. M. H. S. TRACK PROSPECTS GOOD

Coach Wigren Has Forty Candidates; Five or Six Meets on Schedule; Eight Veterans Left From Last Year; Inter-class Meet Showing Ability of Athletes; Seniors Leading.

Coach Charles L. "Pete" Wigren is optimistic regarding the prospects of the S. M. H. S. track team for the coming season even though he has lost the services of such stars as Bray, Mantelli, Madden, Allen, Krause and Boggin for, in addition to the eight veterans, Hall, Sheridan, Chambers, La Coss, Kittel, Cheney, McCluskey and Harburda, he will have the pick of a group of over thirty new candidates. The squad has been training for the past two weeks but cold weather has proven a handicap making the athletes prone to injuries. At present, every man on Coach Wigren's lustrous squad is engaged in the inter-class track and field meet which is arranged primarily to give the coach a line on the true ability of the candidates.

The first meet on the schedule arranged by Manager Vendrillo and Faculty Manager Edson M. Bailey will be on May 7 with New Britain High here. On May 14, Manchester goes to Meriden. The following week, Bulkeley High of New London will be met there. May 28 is open and will probably find Manchester pitted against Springfield Commercial, Bulkeley High of Hartford or Norwich Free Academy. The Central Connecticut Inter-scholastic meet will be held under the auspices of Meriden High at Andrus Field in Meriden on June 4 if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the Wesleyan authorities. The following week will close the season. Chapman Tech of New London is the tentative opponent.

Last season Coach Wigren's charges had a very successful season, winning four meets and losing but one, that to New Britain High in that city. He said today that the prospects for another successful season were fairly good but that he would be better able to tell after the inter-class meet, which started yesterday, is concluded. He will retain every year and 25 of the forty candidates now seeking a berth on the squad.

The inter-class meet has been divided into three parts by Coach Wigren. The first series of events was held yesterday afternoon at the West Side playgrounds. The second will be tomorrow afternoon at the same place and the final group will take place on Thursday. The seniors took the lead yesterday and have a mighty fine chance of carrying the title. There is much rivalry between the four classes. Incidentally, it might be added that the seniors have won second place in the inter-class meets every year and have entered high school. Last week they captured the class basketball championship and are now hot after further laurels.

The standing after the first day's events is as follows: senior 19, juniors 10, sophomores 7, freshmen 0. Five points are awarded for first place, three for second and one for third. The seniors won three firsts, a second and a third yesterday.

Following are the results of the four events staged in the first leg of the meet:

100 yard dash: First, "Red" Sheridan, seniors; second, Louis Cheney, sophomores; third, Austin Chambers, juniors. Sheridan won by about two yards and the same distance separated Cheney and Chambers. Billy Hall, senior captain, was barely nosed out of third place.

One-half mile run: First, Chambers, seniors; time 2:25; second, Merle Tomlinson, juniors; third, Cheney, sophomores. Chambers won by four or five yards and Tomlinson was about fifteen yards ahead of Cheney who barely beat Cliff Hayes, sophomore, whose legs gave way in the final thirty yards after putting up a great race only to lose by inches in a dramatic finish.

Shot-put: First, "Butch" Kittel, juniors, distance 34.4; second, "Bab" La Coss, seniors; John Cervini, juniors. Each winner beat his nearest opponent by about a yard. Several promising new men took part in this event and are due for more limelight later if their work yesterday may be taken as a criterion.

High jump: First, Welles, senior, 5.1; second, Johnson, sophomore, 5.0; third, Hall, senior, 4.11.

Twenty-five athletes competed yesterday in the four events. A tentative list of the entries expected to be made tomorrow and Thursday are as follows but they are subject to change:

Wednesday—220 yard dash: Seniors: Sheridan; juniors, Glennie, Carlson, Chambers; sophomores, Cheney, Driggs, Sturgeon, Greenway; freshmen, McComb, McKeever.

We've been glum throughout the winter; cost of living's mounted, too; Through the chilly blasts we've shivered, always feeling kinda blue! But at last we've vanquished our sorrow and right now we're feeling gay, For the headlines sing of baseball and today is opening day!

Expect 275,000 Customers Today As Two Big Leagues Open Season

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, April 12.—If he has a smart lawyer, the prisoner at the bar usually comes in looking like something the well dressed man doesn't dare to be and so major league baseball, declared by the alarmists to be on trial for its life, will re-appear in public today as an old friend in new garments.

New managers abound; old faces have been lifted and dropped elsewhere; the deck has been shuffled with the hand of a faro dealer and everyone sitting is satisfied that he has been dealt a winner.

If anything can be calculated to dissipate the effect of baseball's recent series of scandals, it is this most amazing of all upheavals: that finds Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Zach Wheat in Philadelphia; Tris Speaker in Washington; Rogers Hornsby and Eddie Rouse in New York; Frank Frisch in St. Louis and George Kelly in Cincinnati. Yes, baseball has changed its garments many times since Alexander stopped the Yanks in the world's series finale like the dead man stopped breathing and where is the man with soul so dead who never to himself has said, I want to see the new guy in the old uniform?

The Opening Schedule
Granted seemly weather today, the animal blow-off is expected to produce some 275,000 customers at the turnstiles. The opening day schedule will be as follows:

American League
Detroit at St. Louis.
Chicago at Cleveland.
Athletics at New York.
Boston at Washington.

National League
St. Louis at Chicago.
Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.
Brooklyn at Boston.
New York at Philadelphia.

Fair weather or foul, that first meeting between the old Yanks, featuring George H. Ruth and the new Athletics, featuring Cobb, Collins, Wheat, Joe Boley, Bob Grover and others, probably will leave them bleeding in the aisles. The Yankee Stadium will hold 65,000 and may be forced to prove it. No team in baseball ever has had quite the appeal of the 1927 Athletics.

The Phillies may not be a riot with the folks at home but Hornsby, Roush and the new Giants will make them rally around. Chicago also will go for the Cubs, starting their second term under Joe McCarthy, and the world champion Cardinals. Even the Red Sox can't kill the Washington opening, with Speaker in centerfield for the Senators and large gobs of hope riding high over the Potomac.

Plenty of optimism also is being exuded along the banks of the American Rhine and Cincinnati will wipe off its chin to go to Redland Field, en masse or even more so, to see the Reds and 1925 champion Pirates have at it. Brooklyn and the Braves are not so hot but they die hard. If at all, in Boston and the boys will be there, hoping for the best even though they know better.

The Cleveland Indians, runner-up in the American League last year, have drawn the Chicago White Sox for their 1927 premiere and, since Cleveland fans have no reason to suspect that the Indians won't be up in the race all the way, a goodly crowd will be there.

As for the Browns, they may be going nowhere with great rapidity but they could have looked further

What The Rival Managers Think

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates:—"The Pirates are a good strong ball club with no vital weaknesses. It's a young club and it has a lot of spirit. I can't point in any club that will beat us. I know it's going to be a hard race but we're ready for it."

Jaek Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds:—"The Reds have abundant pitching, hitting, power and defensive strength and if they aren't the essentials of a winning team I don't know baseball. I think our club is stronger than it was last year. Pittsburgh is the club I think we will have to beat."

Bob O'Farrell, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals:—"The Cardinals won the pennant last year against opposition just as strong as we will have to face this year and I think we are just as well prepared for it. I realize what a ball player and a manager Hornsby was but I think with Frisch on second base and with the natural improvement that can be expected in Thevenow and Bell the infield will be just as strong."

John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants:—"The Giants will start the season under a handicap with Jackson on the bench but the season should not be far advanced when we have our full strength on the field. I think we have a much better ball club than we had last year and while we are not claiming the pennant we certainly are not conceding it to any other club."

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs:—"The Cubs were a first division club last year and naturally I am not figuring on finishing under fourth place. The Giants may be stronger than they were last year but I think we will be an improved club after having had the benefit of working through one season together. I am satisfied with the club."

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins:—"The Brooklyn club will start with practically a new club that has not been tested. But from the development shown in the late stages of training I am greatly encouraged. We will miss Butler but there is nothing to be done about it. I don't know where we'll finish but we're looking up."

Stuffy McInnis, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies:—"It may be said that we haven't a chance for the championship but it can't be said that we will not be hustling and will not be in there fighting. There's a lot of strength in five clubs of the league and we're not as strong as they are but there are places above the hole."

Dave Bancroft, manager of the Boston Braves:—"The Braves are stronger than they were last year but that doesn't mean that we have a pennant club. There are four or five very strong clubs in the league. I'm not saying where we'll finish but I dispute the predictions that we can't finish higher than seventh or eighth."

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees:—"The Yankees will make the pennant race with practically the same team that won last year but we are stronger in reserve power and that means everything when the bad breaks come. While I feel that we are much stronger I realize that at least two other clubs also are stronger. I don't care to make any predictions."

Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington Senators:—"The American League race this year will offer the stiffest kind of opposition and we will be one of the clubs in there trying. We will be handicapped greatly until Walter Johnson returns but we are not discouraged. I can't be blamed for hoping that we will win the pennant and I think we will."

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics:—"There isn't a stronger club in the league than the Athletics and I don't believe there is one as strong. We have everything a championship club needs and haven't one weakness that I can see. We are better prepared for a hard battle and bad breaks than any club in the league."

Jack McAllister, manager of the Cleveland Indians:—"I am satisfied with our club and I feel sure that we will do as well as we did last year although I realize that other clubs have been strengthened. I place great faith in our pitching staff and the spirit of the club is perfect."

George Moriarty, manager of the Detroit Tigers:—"I have not been wounded by predictions that we might be the dark horse in the American League but we think we are more than that. We have a good ball club. I think it is stronger than last year's team. We have harmony and spirit and we'll play a different kind of baseball."

Ray Schalk, manager of the Chicago White Sox:—"The club looks stronger than it was last year. The infield will miss Collins but we improved some weaknesses and I think the defense will be adequate. I don't believe, however, that it is becoming in a manager starting his first season as such to make predictions."

By Dan Howly, manager of the St. Louis Browns:—"I can't tell nor can anyone else where the Browns will finish but the club will fight. I expect Sisler to have his greatest season and am looking to Shulte, our new outfielder, to become a great star. As long as a team fights anything can happen."

By Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox:—"I have been in baseball and out of it too many years to dare the uncertainties of the game by making predictions. It takes time to build up ball clubs and no one can tell how much time."

MANCHESTER HIGH PLAYING EAST HARTFORD HIGH TODAY IN EXHIBITION BASEBALL TILT

Twenty-one candidates remain from the lustrous squad seeking berths on the high school baseball team which is holding daily practice sessions and which meets East Hartford High here today in an exhibition game. Coach Tom Kelley says he will probably carry but fifteen players on the squad this season so that means all of the candidates will have to do some tall stepping. The season will open, shortly.

This year's team will find new talent in the following positions: catcher, pitcher, first-base, third-base and in one outfield position. There may also be further changes because some of the newcomers are doing excellent work. Coach Kelley reports. Today's exhibition game, however, will give him his first slant on the true ability of many of his squad.

Catcher: N. Boggino and Bychowski.

Pitch: Wiley, Peterson, Holmes, Gorman and Dowd.

First base: Dowd, Hills, A. Boggino.

Second: Foley and Shea.

Third: Winsler and C. Treat.

Short: D. Farr and L. Farr.

Outfield: A. Lupien, Holland, E. Dowd, Bulla and T. Lupien.

THEN CAME THE STORM

Grace (dreamily): Oh, George, remember it was on just such a night as this that we met.

George (married to her): Yes, rotten night, isn't it?—Answers, London.

Much Interest Crops Up Over Jr. Baseball Loop

Another entry in the Community Junior Baseball League—the Arrows—was received yesterday by Director G. H. Washburn. Manager Charles Kebert of the Arrows will call a meeting of his team at the Community Club tomorrow evening at 7:30 to discuss plans for immediate organization. The Arrows is a familiar name to those in the North End and should add considerable interest to the anticipated league, which will be composed of four divisions, as follows:

Major division, boys 20 years and under; Minor division, boys 17 years and under; Midget division,

NOW YOU ASK ONE THE CIVIL WAR

Sixty-six years ago today southern soldiers fired on Fort Sumter, and the Civil War began.

- 1-Where did John Brown make his famous arsenal raid? 2-With what rank did U. S. Grant first serve in the army during the Civil War? 3-What Confederate general maneuvered his infantry so speedily that his troops were known as the "foot cavalry"? 4-What famous Confederate commerce destroyer raided northern shipping with great daring and success until finally defeated by a U. S. warship? 5-Who commanded the Union army at the battle of Chancellorsville? 6-Why was this battle, although a Confederate victory, very costly to the southern cause? 7-What other great northern success took place on the same day that Meade defeated Lee at Gettysburg? 8-Between what armies, and with what result, was the battle of Cold Harbor fought? 9-At what stage in the Civil War was trench warfare, almost identical with that practiced during the World War, brought into prominence? 10-What Confederate cavalry general gained fame by leading raids clear around the entire Union army?

Johnson and his young wife were having their first quarrel: "I wish I was dead," she sobbed. "I wish I was, too!" he exclaimed. "Then I don't wish I was!"-and the war continued.

One of the best things to have in your sleeve is a funny-bone.

If you believe in such things, what's the use of knocking on wood when your head is handy?

Jones was talking to some friends of a fishing trip he was contemplating on his holiday. "Are there any trout up there?" questioned one of his friends. "Trout? Thousands of 'em," replied the other enthusiastically. "Will they bite easily?" "Will they?" reiterated Jones. "Why, they're absolutely vicious! A man has to hide behind a tree to bait his hook."

He who refuses to meet an emergency may be overtaken by it.

Good Friend "There's a deep sort of joy that we all understand: In the ring of a voice and the clasp of a hand; In the warmth of a smile that is friendly and true; And the comforting charm of a good friend like you."

One reason there is so much humor in the world is because there are so many persons who take themselves seriously.

Where there's a wife, there's no hope.

The good bird dogs die young; the sorry ones have as many lives as a cat.

The person who reads most discovers the most plagiarizers.

"A burglar broke into my place last night." "Did he get anything?" "Rather! You see, my wife thought it was me!"

Smith, the druggist, has lost his wife-she ran away with another man so he inserted the following in the newspapers: "This is to notify the man who so kindly relieved me of my wife, that I can supply him liniment, arnica, salve, bandages, absorbent cotton, iodine, sleeping powder and crutches at very low prices."

Our pen is dipped to the stork because he kids the world and gets away with it.

THE TINYMITES

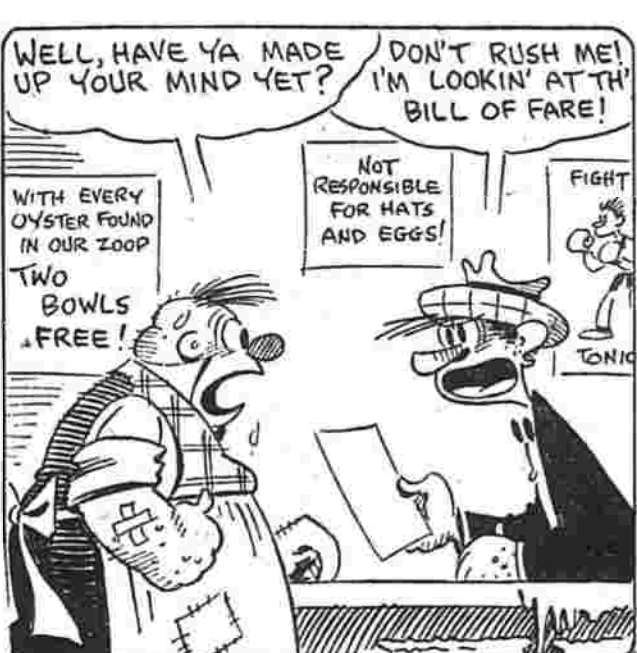

The baker man had been so kind, wee Copy said. "Say, would you mind if we would lend a willing hand, and help you bake a while?" The baker gazed upon the crowd. To think they'd help make him feel proud. "I guess they're rather fond of me," he thought, "mid pleasant smile. "Why sure, I'll let you help me out. I'll tell you what it's all about, and then we'll make some dandy cakes and put them in to cook." The Tinies all jumped up to start, and here and there they'd quickly dart. They found the pots and pans, and then a dandy cooking book. They worked about a half an hour, just mixing butter, eggs and flour, and when they had the batter made, 'twas poured into a pan. The cake cooked brown, quite fit to munch. The baker gave it to the bunch. "If you can't eat it now," said he, "just save it 'til you can." "And now I'm finished for the day. You Tinies run along and wee Copy said. "Say, would you mind if we would lend a willing hand, and help you bake a while?"

JACK LOCKWILL'S POLO PONY

by Gilbert Patten

Flying through the air in that hair-raising leap, the pony, with Jack still in the saddle, landed on the gravel on the last flat-car. Hurrying to leap off and seize Snucks Cowl, Jack turned his ankle and went down. Snucks sprang upon his back. The pony set his teeth into Snucks' collar and lifted him bodily, giving Jack a chance to jump up and get at the young ruffian.

The fellow fought until Jack slugged him on the jaw and knocked him out. The struggle had been witnessed from the locomotive, and the engineer stopped the train immediately.

With his hands tightly tied behind his back, and one end of the long rope running back to Lockwill, who rode behind him, the downcast Snucks plodded back into Rocklake village. 4-2.

Jack turned his captive over to Sheriff Butler, and Snucks was locked up. The apple, which Jack still had in his shirt-front, was given to a chemist, who found that it had been poisoned, and would have killed Dynamite if he had eaten it. Betty Darling and Della Wayne, in the midst of cheering students, met Jack and told him Rocklake had won the polo match. Willie was with them, the monkey in his arms. ©1927 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. LOCAL ELK OFFICIALS TO BE SEATED THURSDAY

Three Manchester men will be inducted into office in the Rockville lodge of Elks on Thursday evening by East Exalted Ruler Bert Thompson of Middletown, the installing officer. George H. Williams of this town, who has served one term as exalted ruler of the Rockville lodge, will be installed for his second term in that office. The other local men who were elected to office are Claud Truax, who is trustee, and Henry Gottschalk, loyal knight. A banquet will be given in the Rockville House at 8 o'clock for the installing officer and his staff. Following the installation and meeting, a roast beef supper will be served to the members and visiting Elks.

PLAN TO JACK UP SEWER CONTRACTOR

Eighth District Directors to Urge Hartford Man to Finish His Job.
Directors of the Eighth School and Utilities district, at their meeting last night, decided to make strenuous efforts to have Nicholas Casiano, Hartford man who has the contract for the North End sewer system, push his work through to completion as soon as possible. The work has lagged considerably and a member of the board said today that he saw no reason why work should not have been resumed with the weather as favorable as it is.
