

SINGLE BOARD PLEA MADE BY TRUMBULL

Wants Three Departments
Under Single Control;
Urges Better Accounting
In His Message.

Gov. John H. Trumbull

Hartford, Conn., April 13.—Governor John H. Trumbull today appeared before a joint session of the State Legislature here to voice a plea for consolidation of the state board of control, state board of finance, and the state commission on state institutions into a single department, headed by a commissioner of finance and control.

Governor Trumbull also urged that action be taken toward giving the state an up-to-date method of governmental accounting, covering all its departments.

The complete message follows: "Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly:

"When I last had the privilege of addressing your honorable body, the work of the present General Assembly had only commenced. Your session is now drawing to a close and your labors are all but completed. I cannot forbear taking the opportunity of congratulating you, not only upon the notable results of the session, but upon the manner in which they have been accomplished. The people of Connecticut cannot but review the final product of your deliberations with feelings of entire satisfaction. It reflects a thoughtful and comprehensive study of the vital needs of the state and an intelligent response to them. The session has shown a policy of real progressiveness and at the same time been true to our traditional distaste for fads and untried experiments. But it is even with more pride that the state will view the spirit in which all this has been done. A feeling of harmony in thought and action has been not the least of the noteworthy characteristics of this session and it has not been the concord born of subservience to any particular individual, or to any pre-arranged program but rather a fine cooperation of men of similar ways of thought, united in common cause for the good of all the people.

Unity of Purpose.
"It is this unity of purpose, this purity of honest and intelligent approach to the problems of legislation which has secured the accomplishment of the business of the session with a minimum of friction and maximum of dignity and dispatch.

"A word of personal appreciation will not be out of order. The effectiveness of the work of the governor and of the General Assembly depends in no small measure upon a mutual sense of confidence. We of the executive and you of the legislative branch of the government will perform your respective duties and personal responsibilities which cannot and should not be avoided. But these duties and responsibilities are met most effectively and performed with the minimum waste of effort, when each branch of the government may depend upon a cordial reciprocity and cooperation from the other. The certainty of this mutual understanding during the present session has been a source of the greatest personal satisfaction. It has rendered most pleasant my own opportunities to be of service to you; it has been the means of causing substantially no burdens if not the responsibilities of my own part in the government of the state.

Followed Suggestions
"I wish also to express by sincere appreciation of the thoughtful consideration of the suggestions contained in my message to you last January. Many of these you have translated into sound legislation, others your committees are still investigating. All of them you have given an intelligent and independent study which I deeply appreciate.

"One of the topics of that message is the particular occasion of my addressing you today. I then suggested to you that with certain limitations necessarily inherent in a corporation charged with governmental functions, there seems no reason why a state may not to its advantage avail itself of many of the modern methods of finance, which are approved by the best business practice and experience. I discussed the problem of our budget to which you have been recently giving your careful attention, and the precautions that we should take in connection with capital expenditures, the need for a balance sheet to show completely the actual financial condition of the entire state government, and a number of other pertinent questions involved in the problem of financial control for which we are all responsible.

Pleased With Officials.
"I yield to no one in my admiration for the several institutions which the state maintains for the general welfare of its citizens. I have many times expressed my pride and satisfaction in their performance of their most valuable functions. I have many times said that Connecticut is not only in the management of her institutions, but in the conduct of governmental affairs through her various departments and agencies, stands second to none in the United States. When a governmental agency proves successful in the conduct of affairs, the reason is not wholly to be found in the scope of powers conferred upon it by law, or even in the capacity or honesty of the men who formulate its policies, but rather in the efficiency of its internal organization, in the skill with which department heads adjust the various parts of the business machine, and in the ability they show in putting the right employees in the right place. And therefore irrespective of any construction or interpretation that may have been placed on any report of this department, I am proud that Connecticut has at the head of her departments, institutions, and agencies, men and women who have been loyal to the trust imposed upon them, conscientious in the discharge of their duties, and ever zealous of the state's welfare; the high standards to which we have attained can be in a large measure attributed to them.

"It is not inconsistent with this feeling that I should wish to keep pace with the most modern methods of operation and finance. To bring every department of the state up to the best standards of modern business has not been the least important of the policies which I have endeavored to further. Methods of business administration are constantly changing and improving, and it is no reflection on any state or department or institution which provides it by appropriate legislation and adequate financing, with the means of keeping abreast of the most efficient methods of conducting its affairs. Legislation of this character does not condemn its subject to maintain its high standards.

Must Be Progressive
"You will agree with me, I am sure when I say that despite the continuous thought that we in Connecticut have given to the organizations of the various activities of our government and to the safekeeping of the public money, and despite the enviable success that we have attained in keeping our public affairs and our departments and institutions free from any hint of extravagance, looseness or mismanagement, we should not rest upon our laurels, as it were, but should continue to devote ourselves to the discovery of additional ways and means of continuing the progress that has resulted from our efforts heretofore. It is probably safe to say that any human institution that ceases to progress is bound to go backward. There is no standing still. This also applies with peculiar force to governmental bodies where the multiplicity of activities and many agencies that must co-operate provide an administrative task of great complexity, and the solution of the problem of the state, which calls for as much pertinent, dependable, and helpful information as can be secured.

Better Facilities
"Since I last addressed you I have been giving serious consideration to this latter requirement. We should have even better facilities for the securing, concentrating, analyzing, and interpreting of the facts as to our financial condition and financial needs, as to the opportunities that may exist for improvement of our work and the organization of our departments, and as to the results and costs of the work that we are doing and the services that we are rendering to the people.

"Your guidance and information, as well as for the guidance of those of us who are responsible for carrying on between the sessions of the legislature, such facts should be available in usable form.

"In view of these considerations it seems to me that you would co-ordinate the functions of two of our statutory boards, the state board of finance and the state board of control, and provide the facilities whereby certain data that we do not now have in usable form regarding our needs with respect

PICKWICK ARMS SOLD TO STAMFORD COMPANY

Noted Greenwich Hotel Changes Hands—Worth Over Million Dollars.

Stamford, Conn., April 13.—Rumors of the sale of Pickwick Arms, the noted Greenwich hotel, were confirmed today with the announcement that a group of Fairfield county men headed by Homer S. Cummings, of Stamford, have taken ownership of the property.

Mr. Cummings' associates are C. D. Lockwood, his law partner; Judge James F. Walsh of Greenwich; Thomas N. Cooke, Greenwich real estate dealer, and John Maher, Greenwich merchant.

While the money involved in the deal was not stated, the new owners said they had paid all cash above a first mortgage of $323,000. The hotel is operated under a lease which has twenty-one years to run and for which the sum of $1,260,000 will be paid. The hotel was built about five years ago at a cost of $1,300,000 and was taken over by a syndicate called the Pickwick Holding company from R. H. Cowles. The hotel has 110 rooms.

AVIATORS STILL UP END OF 27 HOURS

Trying to Break World's Record For Sustained

New York, April 13.—Despite murky skies which carried a threat of rain, aviators Bert Acosta and Clarence D. Chamberlain, who are attempting to break the world's record for sustained flight, were still up in their Bellanca monoplane at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, twenty-seven hours after they took to the air from Roosevelt field.

The aviators hope to stay up for fifty hours. The world record for sustained flight, established by Droughin and Landry at Etampes, France, is 45 hours, 11 minutes and 59 seconds.

Drop Message
A message dropped at 8 a. m. read: "Everything running fine. We'll string it out for a new record. Glad the long night is over—daylight was very welcome. Stole occasionally eat naps last night. Just finished light breakfast of soup and water. Our present revolution is 1,225 per minute, and we estimate we have 170 gallons of gasoline left."

It was pointed out that the amount of gasoline consumed was slightly more than half the amount originally on board, but that the load on the plane was made much lighter by use of the gasoline, and that less gasoline would be required during the remainder of the flight.

At times Acosta and Chamberlain flew at from 600 to 800 feet to avoid low clouds.

If their test is successful, as seemed probable today, they plan to start preparations for the New York-to-Paris flight immediately, using the same plane.

PEACHES NOW DANCING IN CHICAGO CABARET

Leads Parade of Chorus Girls Before Big Crowd—To Sing Soon.

Chicago, April 13.—"Peaches" Browning today is a wage earner. Dancing two numbers, and leading a parade of colorfully dressed chorus girls, the young wife of Edward Browning last night began her career as an entertainer at a Chicago cabaret.

One thousand five hundred persons paid the extra cover charge to get a glimpse of the most talked of girl in America.

"Peaches" did a waltz, bowed and disappeared. Later she stepped a fox trot, although she appeared nervous in this number.

"I'll be singing before long," she said as she made her final exit for the evening. She got a big hand.

JUDGE BOWERS'S CONDITION.
Dr. N. A. Burr, who has been attending his three weeks of critical illness, said today that there is very little change in the judge's condition. He recognizes people but is unconscious of his extreme weakness. One of his greatest troubles is insomnia. If he were able to sleep better, convalescence would be more speedy. The doctor believes it will be a long time before Judge Bowers will be able to get around, but unless something unforeseen sets in, Doctor Burr is optimistic as to his ultimate recovery.

TOLL OF TORNADO 125; TOWN IS WIPED OUT

PROOF HE DIED
OF LOVE WRECK

Young Bellucci Wrote Note to Former Fiancee and to His Parents; Had Brooded
as He Worked.

That Italo Bellucci, 25, of 12 Cottage street, committed suicide sometime last Monday by drowning himself at the Globe Hollow reservoir because of a shattered love-affair with a girl in New Jersey to whom he had been engaged for several months, was proved beyond any doubt yesterday with the finding by police of a brief farewell message to his former sweetheart scribbled in pencil and left in the pocket of his outer coat which was found hanging on a tree near the lake.

The message, the contents of which were not revealed by the police, told Elvira Berta, who lives at 332 Fourth Street, Union City, New Jersey, that he still loved her despite the quarrel they had had but that she would be sorry they had parted.

Was Very Popular
Young Bellucci, who was exceedingly popular among the Italian people here, also left two other notes, one of them to his parents. The other was: "Whoever finds this, please notify Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Bellucci"—his father and step-mother.

Last night and all day today, the Bellucci home was crowded with friends who came to offer their condolence and to sympathize with the grief-stricken parents, for as one of them said: "Italo was a good boy. He had no bad habits. Everybody liked him."

Had Been Brooding
Bellucci was employed in the dressing mill at Cheney Brothers, where he operated a picking machine under foreman James Egan. He had been employed by Cheney Brothers since March, 1926. According to Superintendent Otto Muller, Bellucci was a faithful and steady worker. He said the young man worked Monday morning but did not return in the afternoon. Fellow-employees say Bellucci acted queerly and was evidently brooding over something.

Earl Gambel, of Cottage street, an uncle of Bellucci had been in the habit of taking him to and from work in his automobile. But when he waited as usual for him Monday noon, he did not appear and Gambel finally went home thinking Bellucci might have hidden home with someone else. The young man did not appear at his home, however, nor did he return at 5 o'clock. Then the family began to worry.

A telegram was sent to his former sweetheart, Elvira Berta, in Few of 800 Residents of Texas Community Escape Injury—Twister Came Without Warning—Only Three Out of 400 Buildings Left Standing — Relief Trains Speeding to Rescue—Eyewitness's Story.

Rock Springs, Texas, April 13.—The number of dead left in the wake of the tornado that last night virtually wiped out this little town of 800 souls, was estimated roughly at 125 today. Few residents of the town escaped uninjured.

Rescue workers, who struggled valiantly through the night, have recovered 61 bodies and administered first aid to more than 150 seriously injured who were dragged from their beds. Their only light was improvised flares of oil-soaked rags.

With the coming of dawn rescue work was speeded up. Of 400 buildings that were standing last night at eight o'clock when the twister came, all but three were razed.

No Warning
The storm struck without warning. Relief parties from the little town of Hackberry and nearby ranches were the first to reach the destroyed village. They worked throughout the night, hampered by the inky darkness.

The injured were treated by surgeons from the United States Veterans' hospital at Kerrville who worked by the light of improvised torches.

The death-dealing twister swept in from the south. According to reports, it left a number of dead and heavy property damage at Del Rio, south of here.

Amid the crashing and ripping of buildings as they fell before the twister, citizens darted for storm cellars. Many of them lost their race as about twenty bodies were found pinned beneath doorway timbers.

Few In Streets
Only a few people were on Main street when the tornado struck. They sought safety in store buildings and it is from these buildings that most of the bodies are being recovered.

Continuing down Main street, the tornado played no favorites. Everything that protruded above the ground was a target for the funnel shaped black monster.

A large cottonwood tree was uprooted and sent crashing through a small cottage. The huge battering ram went through three wooden houses before caving in the walls of a brick building housing a combination general store and undertaking establishment.

When the twister had spent its fury, only three buildings were left standing and they were badly damaged.

Only a handful of men escaped unhurt and when the storm passed over, they began the work of rescue.

The telephone building was demolished and the switchboard was left standing. Mrs. Lorrie, the operator, was seated at the switchboard when the storm broke. The building was plucked from its foundations and hauled several hundred feet. She was knocked from her chair but the small lights were still burning on the switchboard.

She called Kerrville about thirty miles distant and then asked the United States Veterans hospital to send aid. She also got connected with the Southern Pacific dispatcher at San Antonio and asked him to rush doctors and nurses. Throughout the night she sat at her post, while the rescue work went on about her.

Several entire families were wiped out.

Eyewitness's Story.
W. L. Owens, Rock Springs telephone manager, tells the following story of the tornado:

"The tornado that demolished Rock Springs last night struck without warning. It caught us unprepared. No one had a chance to seek shelter in the hurricane cellars, and burned brightly throughout the night.

More than half a million people, at one time or another, witnessed the blaze. It was estimated.

Nearly hotels, clubs, the homes of the wealthy and the cottages Savoy and Plaza hotels were jeopardized by sparks from the unquenchable fire. Hundreds of huge brands crashed down upon structures for half a block around like rockets from the sky.

Every unit of the city's fire department was called out but their efforts to fight the blaze was ineffectual for hours, as the flames were far above the reach of hose lines.

Two Firemen Hurt.
No one was killed and but two firemen were injured. The hotel was in the course of construction and had been practically completed.

The extent of the property loss could not be closely estimated early today, but it will run into thousands of dollars.

RED CROSS TO RESCUE
St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—A relief train in charge of S. A. Shaw, Red Cross disaster worker at San Antonio, Texas, was speeding on its way today to the Tornado-swept area of Rock Springs to bring out the more seriously injured, according to word received here. The train left from San Antonio.

In advance of this train, fifteen doctors and thirty nurses had been dispatched to administer first-aid to the injured.

Reports received by William Baxter, Jr., assistant to the vice chairman of the national organization here, varied as to the number dead, ranging from 125 to 125.

TOWN ISOLATED
Camp Wood, Texas, April 13.—Rock Springs, little farming and sheep raising community center thirty miles west of here, was completely isolated from the outside world today following the disastrous tornado that struck there last night.

A single wire running into the town failed this morning.

The town is a mass of debris and rescue work was being conducted with this place as a base of operation.

Motor transports with scores of doctors, nurses and volunteers were hurrying over torn roads leading to the stricken city.

While 125 persons are believed to have lost their lives, reports here vary. It is definitely known fifty were killed outright.

Some advised that sixty-one bodies had been recovered.

MORE VICTIMS
Fort Smith, Ark., April 13.—Two women were known to be dead and twelve other persons hurt as the result of a tornado which struck this place late yesterday. A score of houses were damaged, many of them unroofed.

Four other persons were reported killed in Eastern Oklahoma.

FIREMEN HELPLESS AT FIRE IN TOWER

Blaze in 38th Story Too High
To Reach—Watched By Thousands.

New York, April 13.—A spectacular fire, thirty-eight stories in the air—the most fascinating and inaccessible blaze in the city's history—burned itself out early today. It had started in the scaffolding near the top of the thirty-eight story of the $10,000,000 Sherry-Netherlands apartment hotel, at Fifth Avenue and 69th street, about eight o'clock last evening, and burned brightly throughout the night.

More than half a million people, at one time or another, witnessed the blaze. It was estimated.

Nearly hotels, clubs, the homes of the wealthy and the cottages Savoy and Plaza hotels were jeopardized by sparks from the unquenchable fire. Hundreds of huge brands crashed down upon structures for half a block around like rockets from the sky.

Every unit of the city's fire department was called out but their efforts to fight the blaze was ineffectual for hours, as the flames were far above the reach of hose lines.

100 CHINAMEN ARE KILLED IN SHANGHAI RIOT

Frequent Clashes Between
Soldiers and Guerillas;
Over 100,000 Are Now
On Strike.

Shanghai, April 13.—Nationalist machine-gun squads opened fire on a mob of 12,000 in the Commercial Press libraries compound this afternoon and it is reported that 230 Chinese were killed and more than 400 wounded.

The Nationalists are reported to have made two attacks upon the mob, spraying them with machine-gun bullets.

Many women and children were in the crowd and it is feared they were numbered among the dead and wounded.

The Commercial Press compound is not far from the borders of the French concession.

100,000 on Strike
Approximately 100,000 industrial workers were on strike, crippling cotton mills and affecting street car lines and shipping.

The strike is quietly spreading as a result of intimidation tactics by the leaders. Fifty Chinese pickets attacked 1,500 non-strikers at the Sungsing cotton mills and killed two of them.

Civilians believed to be strikers' pickets, looted a Russian church, the door of Hope orphanage and the Mary Fitch orphanage in the Chapel (ative) district.

Chinese began sniping Tuesday night against the Chau Foang road barricades, which are under guard of British troops and Italian bluejackets. The Italians returned the fire.

General Chiang Kai Shek, commander of the eastern army of the Cantonese, who has gone to Nanking, today ordered a resumption of ordinary passenger service on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad.

This action was accepted in some quarters as a gesture to quell rumors of southern military reverses.

Northern troops have occupied the important railway town of Pukow without opposition.

Nationalists are evacuating the city of Chingkiang under the cover of warship fire.

The British gunboat Woodcock, while enroute down the Yangtze river from Hankow, was fired upon. The gunboat shelled the bank whence the fire had come.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN WESTERN CONN.

Hundreds of Men Fighting
Flames at Jewett City and Plainville.

Norwich Conn., April 13.—A pall of smoke hangs over western Connecticut as a result of a series of forest fires that have been under way since Sunday. A fire north of Jewett City, supposed to have been quenched, broke out again today, and a fire in Plainfield has swept for more than 1,000 acres.

A fire in the Beach Pond district on the boundary has swept over hundreds of acres of heavy timberland and is still burning, while over the border in Rhode Island more than ten miles of land has been burned despite efforts of hundreds of men.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED IN PHILLY GANG WAR

Body of One Man Propped Up
In Front of Door of Hospital.

Philadelphia, April 13.—Two men were killed here early today in what police believe was an outburst of gang warfare.

Standing on the running board of a speeding auto, Edward Callahan, 34, exchanged shots with occupants of a pursuing machine until bullets from saved-off motorists riddled his body, killing him.

An hour later an unidentified well-dressed man was found dead on the steps of Lanekau hospital. His body was propped against the door, the skull battered badly.

SEEK CONSTITUTION OAK IN MANCHESTER

No Trace Here of Tree Planted in 1902—Of Historical Interest.

Where is Manchester's "Constitution" oak tree?

Miss Lillian Grant of Cambridge street, secretary to State Librarian George S. Godard, would like to have some one answer this question. The State Librarian recently went out on a broadcast asking for information regarding the oak tree, presented to each delegate attending the Constitutional Convention of Connecticut in 1902, by the late Senator Joseph R. Hawley.

With the trees went the request that the delegates take them home to their respective towns, to be set out and cared for as a reminder of the purpose of the convention and a token of the friendships made during the time it was in session.

Manchester's delegate to that convention was the late Colonel Frank W. Cheney. Miss Grant, the solicitation of Mr. Godard, has made inquiry of several members of the Cheney family, but up to date no trace of the small oak has been found.

She is busy compiling a list of the towns that have responded with a history or photograph of their particular "Constitutional" oak and very much hopes that Manchester may be included before the manuscript is given to the publishers.

Hartford's tree now adorns the state library grounds near the flagpole. It was planted by the late Charles Hopkins Clarke, delegate to the 1902 convention, on his home grounds on Garden street, Hartford, and at his request later transferred to the library grounds near the State Capitol. This was at the time of the World War and Mr. Clarke, like many other people at that time, ploughed up his grounds in order to raise potatoes.

He was of the opinion that it might sometime be of interest to find out what had become of the trees presented to delegates of the other towns throughout the state, whether they had lived and where in the towns they were located.

Returns from the towns so far indicate that the "Constitutional" oaks were planted in small parks or on the grounds of schools and other public buildings, and most of them have attained a height of about thirty feet.

The tree at East Windsor stands at the four corners, directly in front of the First Congregational church and is a very sturdy oak. Columbia's constitutional oak is planted between Yeomans hall and the church chapel on the east side of the Common and has a lower limb spread of twenty-five feet.

The tree at Greenwich is a beautiful specimen and is about to be transplanted to the grounds of the new boys' high school. The trees were not as many believed sons of the Charter Oak.

WORKLESS WAUSUKA IN TOILS IN BOLTON

Former Manchester Responsibility Gets 30 Days, Suspended, For Neglect of Family.

Arrested on a charge of non-support in connection with the indescribable conditions under which his wife and four children have lived for nearly two years in an untidy and poverty-stricken home on Birch Mountain, Joseph Wausuka, of Bolton, was found guilty and given a thirty-days' suspended jail sentence by Justice of the Peace John Boland at a trial held in the Rainbow Inn, Bolton, last night.

Testimony of First Selectman M. W. Halling, Humane Society officials and others was introduced by Prosecutor Nathan C. Maine, showing that the "head" of the family had not worked since the family went to Bolton from Manchester, where they lived for about two years in Homestead Park. At that time Manchester officials had similar trouble with him and he was arrested twice. Since they have been at Bolton, neighbors have contributed the main part of the family's support. Previous to their stay in Manchester, the Wausuka family lived in New Britain where officials also had trouble with them.

Humane authorities plan to take further action in connection with the case, it is understood, and with the idea of committing the four children, who range in age from two years to four, to the county home for children. Wausuka already has three children by a former marriage in an institution.

COMMUNITY SINGERS CAUSE MUCH MIRTH

Club's First Minstrel Effort Pleases Audience at Harding School Hall.

The Community Club staged their first minstrel show and dance last evening at Harding school to a small but appreciative audience.

The presentation was novel in that the scene represented a broadcasting room of a radio station. Each number was announced by Earl Borst over the microphone in a witty and most experienced manner of one who has had much previous experience. Mrs. Clifford Keif assisted capably as staff pianist. Ralph Richmonds performance on the mandolin necessitated many announcements, using the theatrical term it was a "stop the show" act. Other numbers were a comedy sketch by Laureine Strickland and Sylvia Hagerdorn, "Two Patients Missing" the team provoked much laughter in their cross fire of humor of the ludicrous variety. The end men, Clemson and Washburn, kept the audience in good humor by their antics and jokes. Mary Obrenski and Margaret Burke also gave a novel sketch dubbed "The Rehearsal," or the experience of staged acts behind the scenes. An original dance by this team was the cause of much applause. Borst and Richmond gave the patrons a surprise in an original song number of their own composition, the music being written by Mr. Richmond and the words by Mrs. Borst. Mrs. McCormack and Agnes Jordt were greeted with much appreciation in their offering "The Flirt." Faith Fallows and Flora Thrall offered a duet number "Honolulu Moon" in very pleasing melody of their voices. Dancing followed the show.

Mrs. Lottie M. Ogden of Hartford, formerly of Manchester, has been made defendant in a two damage suit totaling $28,000 growing out of an automobile accident year ago in which her son, Murie F. Mrs. Black alleges she was crossing Asylum street at Trumbull at about 12:20 p. m. April 24, 1926 and was within a foot of the south side sidewalk when Ogden drove an automobile in front of her, knocked her down and seriously injured her. She says the automobile was owned by Mrs. Ogden. The plaintiff says she received injuries to her hips and severe internal injuries, with the result that she has since been, and will continue to be, permanently disfigured and disabled.

STICK GEMMED STICKPIN ONTO H. A. NETTLETON

Old Associates Honor Former Superintendent of Trolley Lines Here.

Leonard Leeberg, in behalf of the former associates of Supt. Henry A. Nettleton, until last year superintendent of the Manchester lines of the Connecticut Company, presented Mr. Nettleton with a diamond stickpin yesterday afternoon at the Hartford office of the company.

Henry A. Nettleton

Supt. Nettleton left here last year when the local headquarters of the Connecticut Company at the Center was abandoned. He had been superintendent for 23 years and was one of the first employees of the lines when they were in Hartford, Manchester and Rockville Tramway company. He stayed in the employ of this organization and was with each succeeding purchaser until the lines were taken over by the Connecticut Company some years ago.

He went to Hartford at the time of the removal of headquarters and is now assistant to Superintendent N. J. Scott and has charge of the East Side lines, which include all tracks east of Hartford. He has just completed a series of schedules for the entire Hartford division and it is possible that his system of routing will be placed in operation all over the Connecticut company system.

Mr. Irvine will also continue to carry on his former work. He is already taking over his new duties. Horace B. Cheney, member of the firm, said that the employment department is more directly assuming educational and service department functions.

FIRE TALLY A TIE WITH A YEAR AGO

Twelve in Twelve Days at Beginning of Each April, Is Dual Record.

On April 12 of last year the South Manchester Fire department had answered 12 alarms, one for every day of the month that far. Yesterday, on the 12th of April this year, the local department answered its 12th call, bringing the average exactly up to last year. In April last year the department had more than 30 calls.

Most of the alarms had been stilled and one company has usually been sufficient to attend to the brush and grass fires which have been put out. This unusually dry spring has made the ground as dry as tinder and fires are easily started.

Easily Preventable. Some of them could have been prevented easily, it was said this morning by Chief Albert Foy of the local department. He mentioned the fire at West street, which was started by a burning cigarette or cigar stub, and the one at the corner of Harrison and Blisell streets yesterday morning. The latter fire, he said, evidently started with a spark that flew from a bonfire which a boy had lighted across the street.

HEALY AS TONG COUNSEL GETS A POSTPONEMENT

Former Atty-General to Aid in Murder Defense; Trial Now Set For April 26.

Because of a threat by the defense counsel to withdraw from the case entirely unless given more time to prepare the case of Loo Hoo Wing and Chung Lung, who were to face trial for murdering a Manchester Chinese in the superior court in Hartford next Tuesday, Judge Newell Jennings yesterday granted a postponement of the murder trial for a week, until April 26.

Former Attorney-General Frank E. Healy was instrumental in obtaining the postponement. He has been retained as associate defense counsel with Francis D. Rohrmaier. A spirited clash took place in the superior court yesterday when defense counsel sought the continuance of the case.

With the definite date of the trial set, plans went forward today for the drawing of a panel of 100 names of jurors from which the twelve will be selected.

South End Also to Have More Hydrants in the Near Future.

The locations of six new fire alarm boxes which will be installed within the South Manchester Fire district have been decided on and the boxes will be placed in position in a short time, it was said today.

The plans of the department call also for the installation of a number of new hydrants in the near future but their locations have not as yet been decided on.

The new boxes will be installed in the following locations: Birch and Cottage streets, Pearl and Foster streets, Garden and Chestnut streets, West and Fairfield streets, East Middle Turnpike and Bradford street, Main and Park street. A box was located formerly at the corner of Garden and Chestnut streets but was later moved to the corner of Winter and Center. The new boxes have not yet been given numbers.

Work on the new water main which will run down Autumn street and connect with the main on Charter Oak street will be resumed in a short while. This work was begun last year but was suspended when cold weather set in.

Carroll, who achieved national-wide notoriety a little more than a year ago when he staged a bathtub affair at an after dinner party, is scheduled to arrive with 15 other federal prisoners in a special prison car from New York at 6 p. m. today.

GARDEN CLUB.

Perhaps the Manchester Garden club doesn't regard itself as a spiritual or religious force. Perhaps it doesn't consider that its mission is either sociological, psychological or ethical. It may realize, and probably does, that it exerts some degree of cultural and artistic influence but we doubt whether it would lay claim to being a positive agency for the stabilization of community mentality or morality and for the promotion in a large way of community happiness.

Yet it is probably entitled to more credit for performance in just these directions than many an organization which takes itself ten times as seriously and conceives the salvation of man to hang on the enforcement of its edicts or the adoption of its credo.

Who ever heard of a fond deliver among flowers being guilty of a murder? Who can recall any single instance of a confirmed garden lover committing suicide? When did hatred and bad passions and meanness ever thrive in the atmosphere of a rose bower or of an old fashioned posy bed?

No living being ever gets nearer to the divine spirit than the man or woman who lives among flowers. There is serenity and content and a fine symmetrical sanity in the pursuit of the seasonal cycle, the birth, the life, the death and the resurrection of the little children of the garden.

Show us a community of Garden-clubbers and we will show you a community as close to perfection in spirit and in mind and in morality as it is given to this old world to know.

RECOGNIZING CANTON.

Whether they would admit it or not, five great powers have recognized the Nationalist government of Southern China—and have recognized its authority as extending as far north as Nanking. Otherwise what sort of diplomatic procedure is it for those five powers to demand that the Nationalist government satisfaction for the recent outrages against foreigners at Nanking? Furthermore, it is perfectly obvious that the five governments concerned know that the numerous stories recently peddled by European and American correspondents announcing the deposition of Chiang Kai Shek to be untrue; else why should their demands be made upon him as commander of the Nationalist armies and so locally responsible representative of that government?

It is to be closely noted that the United States has not collaborated in the sending of a joint note to the Chinese. That would be a very different thing from the sending of an identic note, which latter is the case. We have made the same demands upon Chiang that have been made by the European powers. But we have made them absolutely on our own hook. We have made no demand that is unreasonable, because it is reasonable and unavoidable for us to accept our consular reports to be accurate as to the blameworthiness of the Cantonese army for the Nanking outrages—the worse for those consular officers later if they prove to have certified to exaggerations; and it is right and proper to assert our determination to protect our citizens.

But we have committed ourselves to no policy of reprisal whatever. We have not, so far, tied ourselves up to anybody's leading strings. As matters stand America's grievance against the Chinese Nationalists is a private matter between the two parties themselves.

The situation has not yet gotten out of hand. We do not believe President Coolidge will let it get out of hand.

A DOUGHTY CHAMPION.

An interesting figure is the Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, representative in the Massachusetts Legislature, and a figure rapidly becoming more than locally influential. He is a wet. He is a militant advocate of human rights and of justice. He has a way of getting on the broader side of many subjects and of always doing or saying for them something important and striking. He is not a pulpit sensationalist but as a citizen he is a wow. And he is building up a large following all over the state—maybe Massachusetts will send him to the Senate some day.

At all events it is this Rev. Rep. Ware who has taken the Sacco-Vanzetti bull by the horns and introduced into the Legislature a measure providing for a commission of five, consisting of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, two lawyers and two other members of any calling to be selected by the governor, the duty of which would be to study the facts and evidence in this now notorious case and report in full to the governor, with a view to making sure that in carrying out Judge Thayer's death sentence the state of Massachusetts was not committing a terrible injustice.

Particularly poignant are these words of the Ware minister in commenting on the case: "To allow Sacco and Vanzetti to go to the chair (without any real investigation of the trial) in face of the present protest would be a pig-headed act on the part of the state. It might expose us in the future to the same regrets that we have that witches were hanged in the state." That is precisely the point. This affair has stirred the world not because so many people are firmly convinced that Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent of murder, but because so many are convinced that the men are being railroaded to the chair without fair trial through the same spirit of panicky intolerance that brought the conviction of the Salem witches.

SKETCHY.

An interesting and stimulating announcement appears in the United States Daily concerning a tour of Europe to be made by Norman F. Titus, chief of the Transportation Division of the Department of Commerce for the primary purpose of investigating the inland waterways systems of that continent and with several secondary objectives. We need to know a great deal, authoritatively, in this country concerning Europe's internal waterborne traffic. One finds it encouraging that the Department of Commerce is thinking about supplying the information, which is nothing less than stupendous in its mass and endless in its detail. Then there are the other things that Mr. Titus is going to find out about—European systems of warehousing, European port development and its effects, and the recent and present development of merchant mariners over there. All matters on which our national legislatures and our economic authorities disagree and are more or less at sea.

We get up a deal of enthusiasm over the Titus trip, which is to take in fifteen great centers of European trade activity. And then, as we strike the very last sentence in the article we learn, to our utter confusion, that Mr. Titus is to sail from the United States May 27 and get back here early in August. Perhaps nine weeks for the job!

If a dozen Mr. Tituses could get all the facts that need getting, in a year, we should call it pretty good reporting. What price thoroughness!

HARTFORD JAYWALKERS.

Seven wise men of Hartford have been picked to form a commission for a survey of the traffic situation in the Capitol city with view, of course, to a solution of the problem. They will need all their wisdom if they are to bring about a condition anywhere near approaching perfection. They will not need so very much if their only objective is to make partial improvement in the jummox into which the traffic of the neighbor city falls on the slightest excuse.

But on one point the new commission might, in any event, score an easy tally. It might take steps to restore to Hartford its one-time reputation as a bad place for jaywalkers. Almost the leader among American cities is undertaking to restrain the suicidal use of traffic-filled roadways by pedestrians, Hartford has so let down in the enforcement of jay-walking regulations that probably nowhere else in New England, outside of Boston, do persons afoot so tempt fate amidst the traffic as in the Connecticut capital.

If the commission did nothing else but effectually restrict street crossing to the crosswalks it would have accomplished something toward the lessening of traffic congestion.

CONSISTENCY.

The operation of a certain type of editorial mind with relation to making war on China is perhaps best illustrated by two editorials printed in the same issue of the Meriden Journal and only fifteen lines of type apart. One is a pious exclamation of horror at the thought of war in the abstract, induced by somebody's statement that the infantry will continue to be the key of the next conflict. The other, lauding the bearing of two young

American naval officers who took part in the shelling at Nanking, says: "We all like heroics and Roy Smith and Benny Staud were fortunate to be actors in an incident that will make them long remembered."

WOUND UP.

Young women whose opinion of their own pulchritude justifies their ambition to display it upon the carpet stage for an emolument are reminded that the address of Earl Carroll, purveyor of legs and kiddie-of-grand juries, is at present "Federal Penitentiary, Atlanta, Ga." The same address is available to anyone who wishes to send him a copy of the Decalogue pencil-modified to read, "Thou shalt not bear false witness—under oath." Thus, probably, ends the notion of using the United States courts as publicity elephants.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 13.—Before selling the family car and acquiring an airplane, which is slowly becoming the fashion, it would be well to learn whether or not you are qualified to fly.

No sense having a plane in the back yard if you can't operate it. The Aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce is now engaged in testing qualifications of hundreds of applicants for pilot licenses, weeding out those incompetents whose presence in the air is dangerous to themselves and others.

The aerial death toll does not yet threaten to approach the automobile slaughter figures but the government is making the air as safe as possible through enforcement of air traffic regulations and the licensing of all fliers engaged in interstate commerce as well as others who want licenses.

Apparently the qualifications are not unduly stiff, for only one out of the first hundred applicants failed to pass. This flier was practically blind in one eye and had no judgment of distance.

As this is written, some 1443 personal applications for license have been received, according to William P. MacCracken, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics. Nearly half of these are mechanics, who must also have licenses. Five hundred and sixteen planes have also been presented for approval, as planes must also be licensed.

Physical examinations are given by Dr. L. H. Bauer, former army flight surgeon and commander of the army school of aviation medicine.

"Thus far," says Dr. Bauer, "we have rejected one man because of virtual blindness, another whose nerves were all shot and who was ready to go to pieces at any moment and one or two for organic heart diseases. Such waivers as we have granted were for defective vision in cases where pilots already had established good flying records."

"The prospective flier should keep himself fit, should train himself if he is not in good shape and should see an oculist if he has any eye defects."

Assistant Secretary MacCracken says the question of pilot qualifications is still in a formative stage. "Like everything else in aviation . . . At first virtually the only physical test was that of balance, based on the formation of the inner ear. Prospective pilots were put in revolving chairs and given similar tests."

"Today more stress is being laid on vision and depth perception," explains MacCracken. "For instance, to judge depth perception, we use a test called 'driving the horses.' The applicant is given two uprights with a pair of reins and stands some 25 feet away, holding the reins and with the uprights at unequal distances from him. He must then pull one until it is the same distance from him as the other."

"The nervous reaction of a pilot is as important as any factor. The air pilot is subject to both strain and fatigue and emergency. Much depends on how he will react and we can generally judge this through conversation with the pilot and some insight into his course in previous emergencies. "Over and above all this, pilots must be sound physically. They must have good hearts and lungs and should be fairly limber and supple."

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. Although in 1752 Benjamin Franklin proved, by his famous kite experiment, that lightning is an electrical spark it has only been within the past century that much scientific knowledge of this phenomenon has been required.

Up to the middle of the nineteenth century people believed that lightning looked like zig-zag streaks with sharp angles and that this was its only form. When it became possible to photograph the lightning the pictures showed that it was more or less sinuous, and often had small branches.

Photography has also revealed the fact that many flashes are multiple, consisting of several successive charges in the same path. This explains the apparent flickering of some lightning.

"Ball lightning," so familiar in the summer, is that reflected from a thunderstorm so far away that it cannot be heard. The exact process of "sheet lightning" has not yet been definitely established. "Beaded lightning," resembling a chain of brilliant beads, and "rocket lightning," which shoots into the air like a rocket, are extremely rare.

"Ball lightning" is perhaps the most baffling of all: it occurs in the form of a small glowing ball moving either freely in the air or attached to some object. It is accompanied by a hissing sound and penetrates even through small cracks into a house. The unattached balls are harmless, but the others travel on dangerous chains and can inflict serious burns if they touch the human body.

"Ball lightning" as an enemy of mankind is being pursued by scientific research, attempting to prevent the fires and injury to telegraph and power lines caused by it. Lightning rods are proved effective, but unfortunately it is not practicable to equip forests with them.

I think that I shall never see A poem lovely as a tree.

A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;

A tree that looks at God all day And lifts her leafy arms to pray;

Upon whose bosom snow has lain; Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me, But only God can make a tree.

The Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

This is the fourth story of a series telling the experiences of a former buck private going back to France, as a forerunner of the "Second A. E. F."

CHAPTER IV

How the galloping dominos led by Little Joe from Kokomo would roll on that smooth linoleum on the floor of the smoking room on a liner such as those that will carry "The Second A. E. F." back to France! And wouldn't that round, polished oak table with its complement of soft, leather-backed chairs be a sweet place to stage a game of Black Jack!

The accommodations are perfect. There are several nooks where it would be easy to gather around close on the Second A. E. F. To do some blue harmony on something like "Lulu" or that old favorite "You're in the Army Now." A well-inspired quartet could then swing into the various "Hinky Dinky Parley Voo's" or that one about Mary Ann McCarthy, the little miss who went out and dug up all the mud there was in San Francisco Bay and didn't get a single clam—not a single clam.

And there might be a sentimental number, too, like the one about the boy who wanted a girl like the girl that married dear old Dad, or, if there's an artilleryman present, this one:

"Oh, it's his, oh, hee,
The field artiller-ee,
Shout out your numbers loud and strong.
Wher'er we go,
You will always know,
That the caissons are rolling along!"

And, of course, if a Gyrene steps into the concert the end will come with a rendition of:

"If the army or the navy
Ever gaze on Heaven's scenes,
They will find the streets are Guarded
By the United States Marines."
And no one will dare order:
"Pipe Down."

Once upon a time there was a private soldier named Bill O. Black, who hailed from Birmingham, Ala. He was on his way back to the States as an assistant to one of the best "belly-robbers" in the A. E. F. On board His Majesty's majestick scow, The Tolosa, he became infected with mal de mer. For five long days he lay down under a pile of packs to keep away from the ever-pagings sergeants. When he emerged he was wan, pale and shaky.

"Smatter, Bill," demanded a friendly soldier, "Sick?"

"Sick!" groaned Bill. "Why, boy,

The pupils of Buff Cap and Snipac schools have been given prizes for collecting egg masses by

I'm so sick I'd have to get better to sea-sick!"

As for this matter of seasickness, a new system has minimized its terrors to the vanishing point. This system is known as the "Tretfolia" and should be followed by everyone who journeys eastward over the Atlantic, whether a returning A. E. F. soldier or not.

It is necessary only to secure a dozen or more heavy wire coat-hangers. One of these should be sewed securely in the shoulders of a coat. Running fore and aft on every ship is a round pipe, attached to the ceiling of each deck.

Just as soon as the first faint indication of an approaching seismic, stomachic disturbance is felt, don the coat and blow a whistle. The deck steward will come a-running, indicate by signs and he will immediately hook the hanger over the pipe. There the patient may hang indefinitely, entirely free from the movements of the vessel, and in perfect peace. As soon as the sickness has passed the whistle can be blown again and the deck steward will do the unhooking, after which any occupation may be taken up exactly where it was abandoned.

But, seasick or not, everyone is glad to see land whether it is over there or over here.

And there it is! Land!
Over the port bow!
Every passenger on the ship rill as the intelligence flashed. A dim, faint line, stretching away. It is uneven in the morning haze. An hour passes and it begins to take on definite shapes. It sort of looms, finally. It's the shoreline of France. Somewhere behind it there's St. Michel and the Argonne. Buddies, too, some of whom fought at Montfaucon and Ste. Meenould or Sotarges. For a moment the joy of going back is dimmed... dimmed in reverence for those up where the crosses glisten, row on row.

Cliffs are jutting up out of the water now. The sea is smooth and calm. A giant rock hill with its fortifications looms up—fortifications known in Caesar's day. There's Napoleon's breakwater, one of the wonders of the world. It's Cherbourg, the anchor of the liner splashes. Hurried packing is done. Shouts go up. Lighters and tenders draw alongside. The first lap of the journey is over. Then, with bounding heart and intoxicating anticipation, you go on to other scenes.

France, with all its glamour, its romance, paucity of memories, is ahead.

Then the magnesia in it kills all acids instantly. It penetrates between the teeth where those acids form. Acids formed by starch and sugar are the greatest foes of teeth and gums. There can be no acid where magnesia goes.

Go now and try Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth paste. See how it whitens the teeth, how it purifies the breath. Note the fine taste that it brings in the mouth. Learn why its effect on acids is so important to you. Do this at once, for your own sake. After that you will never depend on a lesser tooth paste.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM OFFERED AT RIALTO

"Burnt Fingers" a Pathe feature picture in which Eileen Percy, who plays the most important role is co-edited with George O'Hara and Edna Murphy depicts the startling adventures that took place in the life of a girl who, contrary to her parents' wishes, sought a career. "Burnt Fingers" is crammed with big dramatic moments that the average fan should thoroughly enjoy. It heads the double feature program being shown for the last time today and this evening. The co-features appearing on the same program is "High Hand" a thrilling picture which takes for its locale the wild and woolly West. Leo Maloney is starred. Other shorter subjects round out the offerings.

A refreshingly different drama, "Womanpower" heads the Rialto theater schedule tomorrow and Friday.

Lou Tellegen has one of the leads in this gripping photoplay in which he plays the sinister role of a man-about-town who helps a struggling actor after receiving a thorough drubbing from his fists. The settings are extremely lavish and the plot is one calculated to hold one's interest right up to the smothering climax. Ralph Graves, popular juvenile, and Kathryn Percy, one of screen's beauties have important characters to portray. Some of the scenes occurring in the prologue are said to be gorgeous.

The second attraction on these two days will be "Forest Haven," a stirring drama of love and lumber set amidst the natural beauty of the big woods. Thrills and romance galore are provided in this film and the acting is above reproach. Forest Stanley and Peggy Montgomery being starred. Other subjects to be shown include an hilarious comedy and current news events.

CHILDREN OF DIVORCE

HAS THREE LEADING MEN

Handsome Heroes Play Second To Clara Bow, Esther Ralston in State's Sunday Feature.

"Children of Divorce" reaching the big theater on Sunday brings Clara Bow and Esther Ralston together for the first time. These two stars, both comparative newcomers on the screen, have in the past few years proved their ability and talent in a number of productions. Miss Bow won fame in "Dancing Mothers" and "Man-trap" while Miss Ralston for her work in "The Blind Goddess" and "The Quarterback" attained equal acclaim.

Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are the three leading men who head the stars' supporting cast. Cooper, new to Paramount pictures, first flashed skyward in "The Winning of Barbara Worth." After seeing his remarkable work in "Children of Divorce," he was scheduled for the leading role in a series of Westerns. Hanson came all the way from Scandinavia to show the world that Latin lovers weren't so much. He demonstrated his versatility in two of Corinne Griffith's films. As for Trevor, those who saw "Beau Geste" need no reminder of his acting ability.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The Trial of Jesus

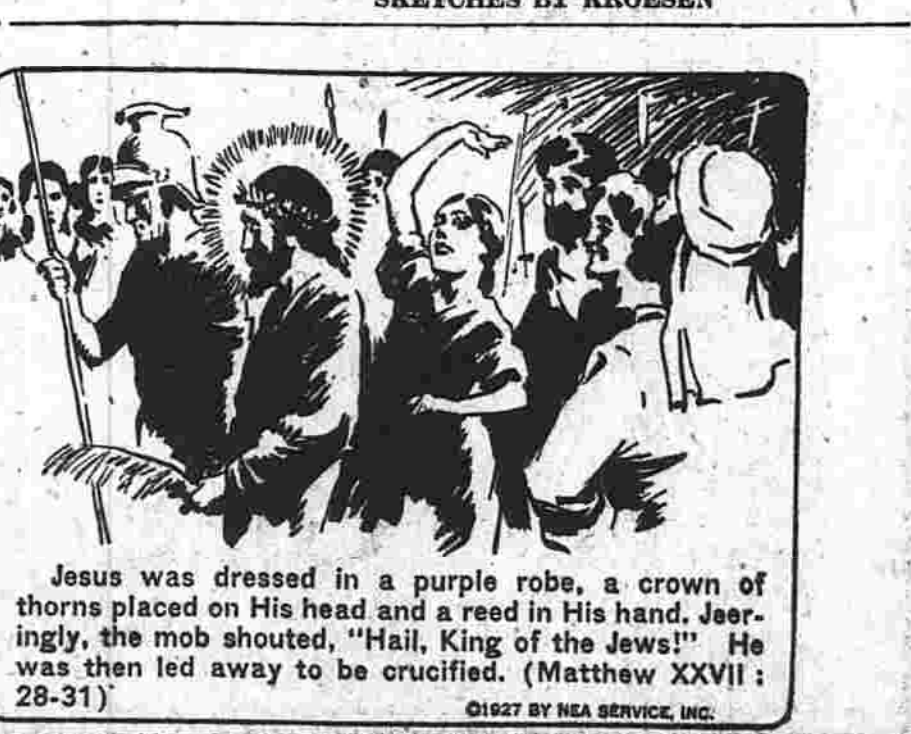

Caiphas sends Jesus to Pilate, the Roman governor, who, after a questioning, says he can find no fault in Christ and suggests to the chief priests and elders that He be punished and released. But the enemies of Jesus cried, "Crucify Him!" (Luke XXIII: 1-21)

"Pilate took water and washed his hands... saying, I am innocent of the blood of this person; see ye to it." (Matthew XXVII: 24)

Still the cry of "Crucify Him" came from the mob. Pilate then scourges Jesus and orders His crucifixion. (Matthew XXVII: 26)

Jesus was dressed in a purple robe, a crown of thorns placed on His head and a reed in His hand. Jeeringly, the mob shouted, "Hail, King of the Jews!" He was then led away to be crucified. (Matthew XXVII: 28-31)

HOLY WEEK MEDITATIONS "Standing The Test"

"And they all left him, and fled."
—Mark XIV:50.

By CHARLES HAVEN MYERS,
D. D.
Plymouth Church of Shaker
Heights, Cleveland, Ohio

In the crises they all failed. When Jesus stood most in need of their help and friendship they deserted and fled like frightened sheep from the garden.

Mark says that there was a young man who also followed, who fled with the rest. Since this record is not found elsewhere many think it must have been Mark himself. It is the story of desertion—drab, pitiless, cowardly desertion.

Lent is the period when we try to make an inventory of our stock of spiritual resources. May it not be well to see how much courage we have?

Courage is often confused with physical bravery. But the latter is a gift and is something less than courage. Many a man has displayed a low order of poltroonery in his home town.

Here were twelve disciples who had followed Jesus and had been specially chosen for instruction. They had sworn allegiance and had openly espoused his principles. But when the test came they failed, failed miserably.

One cannot but recall those Christians in the Boxer Rebellion kneeling before their executioners. One word of abjuration and they could have walked forth safe. But they were witnesses to the truth; they had taught, knowing that the blood of the Christians is the seed of Truth.

The town of Nazareth, where Jesus spent his boyhood

Probably none of us will ever face the issue of life and death for our profession. But the methods of execution today are social ostracism, public ridicule and vituperation. And there are many causes that await the courageous words of those who have found the spirit of Jesus of Nazareth.

We are making our prayers today asking God for grace and strength. For many of us we may well ask for a renewed loyalty to Truth. Once we have gained this all the lesser loyalties of life fall into line and come marching after. Once we have enthroned Truth in our hearts—it is easy to live for it, speak for it, die for it. Courage becomes then not an effort or an achievement—it is the instinct of the truth-loving soul.

God give us moral courage!

LEON ERROL STARRING AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

Popular Broadway Comedian
In "Lunatics at Large" Here
For Two Day Run.

Broadway's most famous fun-maker, Leon Errol, and Broadway's favorite beauty, Dorothy Mackall, have made "Lunatics at Large," which comes to the Circle tomorrow for two days, one of the funniest pictures ever screened. Errol's reputation is well known and he has held the center of Broadway stages for so many years that his hair has thinned out in the glare of the footlights in New York.

A wedding in a dirigible starts off the thrills in "The Lunatic at Large."

Kenneth MacKenna's twin brother in the picture has Kenneth placed in an asylum while he rushes away with Ken's girl (Dorothy Mackall), whom he is going to wed in a dirigible.

Leon Errol gets hold of a rope ladder and makes his way into the dirigible while it is rising, and as a result there is no wedding, but one of the biggest thrills in pictures when Leon grabs Dorothy round the waist and leaps from the dirigible in a parachute and descends several thousand feet to the ground.

"That delightful comedy, 'The Red Mill,' starring Marion Davies and Owen Moore, ends its run at the Circle theater this evening after a successful engagement.

Miss Davies plays a colorful Dutch heroine, in pigtail and wooden shoes in the new picture, an elaborate filmization of the famous stage hit of the same name by Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert, one of the dramatic sensations of a few seasons ago. A notable cast is seen in the production, including George Siegman as the villain, Louise Fazenda, Snitz Edwards, Karl Dane, William Ormond, Russell Powell, Fred Gambl and others of note.

East Hartford Makes But 1 Hit But Ties Manchester High 2-2

Forty Players Used In Exhibition Baseball Game; Manchester Makes Six Bingles; First Game May 4.

Manchester and East Hartford high schools battled to a 2-2 deadlock in an exhibition baseball game at the McKee stadium yesterday afternoon. Both teams used substitutes freely. Fully forty young athletes participated, each team using more than two full teams.

Manchester earned one of its two runs while East Hartford earned none. Manchester made six hits, one a double, in comparison to one lonely single for Coach McGrath's charges.

There should be plenty of harmony among the players on the high school baseball team this season for they seem to take a great liking to their popular coach, Tommy Kelley, an instructor at the school. Kelley mingles with the boys freely and has the knack of criticizing their bad points in baseball in such a manner that as a result he gets more work out of his candidates.

THE ANYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture) Fair Bobby Shattoe felt real proud that he could show the Tinties crowd the way his little sailboat sailed across the deep blue sea. He'd pushed it out a ways, and then, 'twould float right back to shore again. Then Clowny sat down on the sand and said, "Say, just watch me." He tossed his shoes up in the air, and shortly both his feet were bare. He scampered to the water's edge and shouted, "Gee, it's cold." "Oh go on in," wee Scouty cried, "it's warmer when you're once inside." So Clowny shouted, "Sure I will, I'll show you I am bold." We waded in up to his knees and, my, at first, he thought he'd freeze. But then, when he got used to it, it wasn't bad at all. "Watch out," cried Coppy, "there are stones. Don't stumble now, and break your bones." And Clowny walked quite cautiously just so he wouldn't fall. The boat was then pushed out to him and very soon he made it skim across the glassy water just as slick as slick can be. The others then went wading too. It was a lot of fun to do. But Bobby Shattoe stayed on shore, 'cause quite afraid was he. A ways from shore a boat went by and made some little waves roll high. They tipped the sailboat over and this quickly stopped their fun. A lump rose in poor Bobby's throat, "Oh, my," said he, "don't spoil my boat." But Coppy quickly told him it would dry out in the sun. Then all the Tinties left the lad and thanked him for the fun they'd had. And then they heard a country maiden sing a milking song. They rushed right up, quite unafraid and glad, "Where are you going, Maid?" And she replied, "A-milkin'! Won't you come and go alongs?" (The Tinties meet old Peter Piper in the next story.)

PARK HEAD PRAISES SCOUTS WORM WORK

Says Tent Caterpillar Campaign Was of Great Usefulness to the Community.

Park Superintendent John V. Keur today paid a warm tribute to the Boy Scouts here for the fine work they did here in connection with the tent caterpillar drive.

"There was a big help to the community. I don't think everybody realizes the immense amount of good they have done here. Farmers probably realize the benefit of that kind of work more than anyone else. For many of their small apple trees have been saved. The boys cannot be too highly praised, in my estimation."

Superintendent Keur explained that the tent caterpillars are found mostly in only two varieties of trees, the wild cherry and the apple.
