Abandons All Hope of Escaping Electric Chair. He Tells Intimate Friends.

New York, April 15.—Henry Judd Snyder has abandoned all hope of escaping the electric chair and is anxious to get the ordeal of his trial and sentence over with as quickly as possible, it was reported from a highly reliable source today.

In fact the confessed slayer of Albert Snyder, magazine art editor, has intimated very strongly to those who have been in contact with him in the last few days that he actually desires death as the only prospective end to the misery that has come upon him as a result of his brutal crime.

Harvard Students Go to South Braintree to Study Aspects Of the Case.

Boston, April 15.—Today was the seventh anniversary of the slaying of Paymaster Frederick Parmenter and his guard, Alessandro Barabardella, in South Braintree, and a group of Harvard men assembled to reenact the crime, for which Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

The purpose of the test was to determine whether witness could have observed the shooting from the shoe factory windows. A majority of the students were members of the Harvard Liberal Club. The test was said to have the approval of Professor Felix Frankfurter and his assistants of the Harvard Law school.

Stamford, Conn., April 15.—The Davis-Scotfield company's grain warehouse on Crescent street, Glenville, was destroyed by fire during the night with a loss of about $20,000.

The Glenville Boy Scout patrol reported for duty at the fire and saved the Glenville freight station from being burned. Sparks from the warehouse set fire to the station and the boys manned hose lines and put the new blaze out with slight loss.

FIGHT CHAMPIONS LACKING IN CLASS

Few Divisions Have Titleholder Who Is Above Mediocrity In Ability.

Tex Rickard, premier promoter of fights, and his arch rival, Humphrey Pugely, will head plenty of ballyhoo to make the fans wax enthusiastic over the proposed open air shows now being planned. The reason—mediocre talent!

The only impressive champion in the lot is Jack Delaney, who presides over the light heavyweights. Even his possibilities are limited as proved by the sorry showing he made when he stepped out of his class and took on Jim Maloney, now recognized as a Tunney contender.

New York, April 15.—Mechanics at Roosevelt Field today began grooming the Bellanca monoplane in which aviators Bert Acosta and Clarence D. Chamberlin hung up a new world's duration record, for non-stop trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris. The work of putting in a new motor is already under way.

A Cook Honored

Prior to the Graham fight, the Chicago Boxing Commission named Bud Taylor as bantam champ when Rosenberg, for various reasons, failed to go through with the fight between the two. Taylor is the wrong choice for the crown while experts like Tony Canzone recently the two fought a draw. The question of superiority is therefore as undecided as ever.

SELL TOWN'S BONDS TO BOSTON CONCERN

Manchester's bonds issued in the amount of $80,000 and covering the cost of the water supply improvements were sold yesterday afternoon by the Board of Selectmen to Harris & Son, Boston brokers. Bids were opened yesterday at the Municipal building and the Boston concern's offer of 100.31 was the best. The bonds bear 4 per cent and are to run 10 years.

The bid of 100.31 gives the town a premium on the bonds, but the understanding is that this premium will be applied toward the first payment.

DR. C. E. HESSELGRAVE DIES IN SEATTLE, WASH.

Former Center Church Pastor Passes Away—High Blood Pressure Causes Death.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holman of Summit street have received a letter from Mrs. C. E. Hesselgrave and her daughter Ruth who are living in Bridgeport, containing news of the death which occurred in Seattle, Washington, Monday of Rev. C. E. Hesselgrave. The immediate cause of death was high blood pressure with which Mr. Hesselgrave has been afflicted for some years.

Rev. Charles E. Hesselgrave was for several years pastor of the Center Congregational church, before and at the time of the World War. Though a man of middle age then, he felt the call to service so strongly that he secured a leave of absence from his duties as pastor and performed notable work among the soldiers of the American Expeditionary forces in France, as a Y. M. C. A. secretary. Since his return to this country his health has not been good and he sought the milder climate of the Pacific coast in preference to New England.

FORMER HERALD MAN HONORED IN PROVIDENCE

The Herald has received a letter from William W. Lyon, a former Manchester man who is at present a manufacturing jeweler in Providence. It contains a clipping from the Providence Journal, to the effect that Mr. Lyon on his recent 70th birthday was honored by the Rhode Island Press club, of which he is president, by the gift of a gold fountain pen and pencil and a box of flowers for Mrs. Lyon. The presentation was made at a dinner and session of the club at the Ochse Spring House at Johnston. In the early days of the Herald Mr. Lyon was a clerk in the old Union store, then located in the stone building on Union street. Elwood S. Ela, editor and publisher of the Herald at that time, recognizing Mr. Lyon's ability as a writer, offered him a position on the staff, which to use Mr. Lyon's own words was the start on a "voyage that has led to a comfortable harbor." "At that, I think I prefer Manchester as a place to live in," adds the writer.

ing the dinner Behrend's orchestra played.

Manager Jack Sanson of the theater came through with his list of the entertainment program producing three fine vaudeville acts. Pat Barrett and his wife, the Little Brothers and a singer were the attractions. They did their stuff cleverly and won a big hand from the diners.

Knight Clever
 Cliff Knight, Herald cartoonist, was one of the features of the program and his clever sketches made a hit. He drew many local celebrities, as well as the lieutenant-governor and the members of his staff. He told a lot of stories about them all and in addition to displaying his remarkable ability to portray, he proved himself a high class entertainer.

Meredith Stevenson favored with his famous recitation "The Ship That Brought Me Over." The speaker interfered with Mr. Stevenson's delicate tenor voice somewhat, but the poem was a new one to the governor and "Mert" got a big hand. George Graziadio and Billy Reeves sang "Where Do You Work, John" and Billy himself, waded with about a dozen of his "Canuck" stories.
 Speakers were Dr. T. H. Weldon, George Johnson, State Agent Gates (frequently called Station Agent, mistake, of course) Senator Brown referred to as the Governor from the Huckleberry tobes). Representative and House Leader Averill (sometimes mistaken for the Chaplain of the Senate) and Lieutenant Governor Winard.

Two of Them Serious
 Mr. Averill and the lieutenant-governor were the only speakers who launched into serious subjects, the others congratulating the club on its good time and suggesting a renewal of acquaintances as soon as possible. Mr. Averill spoke on the layman's ideas on government. He believed that government should be kept as far away from everybody's business as possible. He thought that rascals faced the nation that allowed itself to meddle in the individual's affairs. His ideas on the subject were clearly expressed and the club members were thoroughly impressed by Mr. Averill's talk.

Lieutenant-Governor Brainard took as his subject "Selling New England." He said that he himself was thoroughly "sold" and since Willard B. Rogers is so closely connected with the "Boost New England" campaign the subject was appropriate.

Skilled Workmen
 One of the dominant features of the "Sell New England" idea is the fact that Connecticut is the home of the skilled workman. There are more skilled workmen in Connecticut than in any other spot in the world. These workmen have been brought up here. Their homes are here and their families are firmly established. They refuse to leave Connecticut. For that reason fact said the lieutenant-governor.

He quoted a friend of his who was connected with a manufacturing plant which had moved South. The plant has lost money by the move, and if it could do so without entirely crippling itself it would move back. The reason for the fall-

 The lieutenant-governor made a bit with the club members as a "real fellow." His ever present smile, which Cliff Knight caught in his cartooning, proved to be a winning one. It was the governor's third visit to Manchester, and he expressed the wish to come again.

 The souvenir gifts, a departure from usual custom at the club's banquet, proved a big hit. At each plate were handsome Cheney silk gravats of the very latest designs. The club purchased the ties through Cheney Brothers' and presented them to those present. A package containing a novel leather-protected key-ring was also placed at each plate. These were also gifts from the club to the guests and members and were appropriately stamped in gold.

HOLY WEEK MEDITATIONS "The Great Paradox"

"He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."—Matthew X:39.

By CHARLES HAVEN MEYERS, D. D.
Plymouth Church of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, Ohio.

How often Jesus starts us by reversing the logic by which we have been directing our lives. "The first shall be last and the last shall be first." To him that hath shall be given, and he shall have an abundance; but from him that hath not shall be taken even that which he hath.

The mathematics of the Kingdom of God confound the measurements of materialism. Give unto others and more is added. Divide with your neighbor and your store is multiplied. All of which of course is applicable only to spiritual things.

Study for the moment this great paradox. He that finds his life in temporal things and physical satisfactions loses his greater life. There is something about mere things that seem to stultify the soul and rob character of its best powers.

We become like that which we love most. It is not money but the "love of money" that is "the root of all evil." An old lesson, this—but one that needs constant repetition in an age of money-grubbing and dollar chasing. The pathetic thing about materialistic aims is that they exclude the opportunities and inclinations for higher culture.

Now Jesus had another saying that was quite as pointed—"Seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things will be added unto you." There is a quality of daring in Christian living that commands the respect of even the avowed materialist.

To stand clear and uncompromising for that which is highest and best may lose us many a contract, it may prevent us from gaining a fortune—but we shall find our life. Translate this lesson into terms of the market place, the factory, the shop and the bank and it has in it all the mighty power of the soul-searching gospel of Olivet. It calls for a stand in the open. It cleaves to the very marrow.

Either we are dedicated to a life of selfishness or one of unselfishness. To be a Christian may cost us everything in social position and power. In turn we gain that spiritual power that so reinforces and undergirds our personality that we become invincible.

AMERICAN DOESN'T KNOW DECALOGUE

Chicago.—Americans don't know the Ten Commandments. That is the indisputable conclusion reached by a religious paper here after a two month's survey.

"There shall be no false faces before me" was written as one of the commandments. Others were "Keep away from your neighbor's wife," "You should not take thy neighbor's cow," "The Ten Commandments is a swell picture." Thou shalt not murder," was the contribution of a police magistrate. Boys and girls of Sunday School age knew the Decalogue much better than adults.

OUR BOOK-OF-THE-WEEK

We nominate as the best book of the week Sylvia Townsend Warner's amusing and fantastic "Mr. Fortune's Maggot" (Viking Press).

As the second volume to be broadcast to its widely scattered list of subscribers the recently born Literary Guild of America has chosen, most happily, Sylvia Warner's "Mr. Fortune's Maggot."

The prospect of so slyly satiric and civilized a tale getting an audience it perhaps could not otherwise hope for, makes one a bit grateful to these newly arrived mediums for the distribution of literature. It seems to us the imperative duty of these various book clubs to make their selections, not from the beaten path, but from those rare and sparkling efforts that might otherwise get lost in the shuffle and which deserve a wide audience and a wide appreciation. Selecting some obviously sure-fire product as "Elmer Gantry," for instance, seems almost a waste of time. The Lewis agency needs no distribution agency outside its own publishers; it is certain to be read by almost everybody.

But about a season ago there crept quietly from England a few thousand hold-overs from an English publishing house under the title of "Lolly Willows," a bit so charmin' that blase critics gripped their delight and wondered who the dickens this Warner woman might be.

About a Missionary Since this seems to be an open season for missionaries, evangelists and such, let us hasten to announce that Mrs. Warner's second book is about a missionary, but he is no Gantry. He is a kindly, timid soul, who has been worked almost to exhaustion in a South Sea mission, until he gets his precious assignment to the tranquil, soporific Island of Panua. He is warned in advance that the brown-skinned natives of Panua are not easy to deal with; they are a people who have in their language no such words as chastity and gratitude. They are veritable children, living an idyllic life, completely unused to any of the complexities of the white man and with a religion so simple and a viewpoint so simple that they are bound to prove disarming to any but the most hardened religious tyrant, which Mr. Fortune is not.

Wooded From Purpose So we have presented here the amusing story of how the good missionary is wooed from the purpose with which he set out and, quite unaware of what is happening to him, is slowly converted by the natives. It all comes about through the influence of the affection and child-like Luell, a native boy from Mr. Fortune has come to think about as his first—not only—convert. That Luell is not converted to anything except a strong attachment to the white man is shown in many amusing ways, and the fact that the good missionary has come to see religion in a new light is developed in a faintly mocking manner up to the time of the earthquake which rocks the little island, whereafter he comes to a realization of his dereliction and speeds himself away convinced that he has cast aside God.

Whether or not he is a better Christian for his experiences will be left to the reader. Our own reaction was one of frequent delight at the author's abilities, to say nothing of the shrewd delicacy of her sermon.

HE SAVED HIS CIGAR

Greenville, O.—Fifty-two years ago, a store keeper gave T. J. Burns a 10-cent cigar. Burns decided to "keep it until after supper" and after supper decided to keep it until he was older. On his seventy-seventh birthday recently he smoked the cigar that he had kept moist and wrapped in cotton so many years.

Old Masters

A fire-mist and a planet—
A crystal and a cell—
A jellyfish and a surlin,
And caves where the cave men dwell;
Then a sense of law and beauty,
And a face turned from the clod—
Some call it Evolution,
And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon,
The infinite, tender sky,
The ripe, rich tint of the corn-fields,
And the wild geese sailing high—
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod—
Some of us call it Autumn,
And others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty—
A mother starved for her brood—
Socrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the rood;
And millions who, humble and nameless,
The straight, hard pathway plod—
Some call it Consolation,
And others call it God.

WOMEN FIGHT FIRES

Oberloch, Germany.—Winter and summer, storm and fair, women in this mountain village roll their hose. At least, they do when fires are put out and the women's fire department is ready to go home and finish cooking dinner for the family. The fire brigade originally was composed of men, but they were so slow in responding to alarms that their wives usurped them.

During 1926 the state of Pennsylvania planted 10,000 shade trees along its main highways.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

The Resurrection

Joseph of Arimathea, a rich man, secretly a disciple of Jesus, obtained permission from Pilate to take the body from the cross and place it in a new sepulchre, hewn out of rock. (Matthew XXVII : 57-60)

A great stone was rolled to the door of the tomb and it was sealed. A guard of soldiers was placed over it. (Matthew XXVII : 60-66)

Early on the third day, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome, came to the sepulchre. (Mark XVI : 1-3)

They found the huge stone had been rolled away, and on entering an angel said, "Ye seek Jesus... He is risen; He is not here; behold the place where they laid Him." (Mark XVI : 4-6)

FOREST FIRES.

It used to be the fashion to blame every forest fire to anglers in the spring and to hunters in the fall. Those that happened between fishing and hunting seasons were attributed to Divine Providence.

All this despite the fact that very few fishermen or hunters set the woods afire—and no true sportsman ever does. But so exactly has the increase in forest fires of late years tallied with the increase in automobile traffic that the conclusion has been forced that it is the motorist and not the sportsman who sets fire to the grass or the dead leaves that set fire to the brush that sets fire to the forests—and destroys in the woodlands, every year, values comparable to the manufacturers' profits on all the automobiles manufactured in the country.

He does it by throwing burning cigarette butts from his car as he rolls along. And if there is any conceivable way of making him stop it nobody has even thought it up, as yet, let alone demonstrating that it can be enforced. A tobacco-hating policeman on every automobile in America might possibly be able to prevent butt-throwing—hardly anything short of that.

But there would seem, nevertheless, to be a way of getting at this peril which hasn't been tried and which it seems next to impossible to get anybody in authority to consider. It lies at the back of these two facts: A "normal" cigarette—if it might be called that—when thrown from the hand, unless it alights in some extraordinarily inflammable substance, like gunpowder, will very seldom indeed set fire to anything. It will simply go out, within a few moments. But the average cigarette of commerce is another affair. It is not "normal." It is artificially treated to increase combustion—to make it "free burning." And so effective is this treatment that many cigarettes will, even without the aid of the slightest draft, burn until entirely consumed.

Stubs of this nature, cast out amidst the dried grass, leaves and litter at the side of the road, constitute live fuses in direct contact with inflammable fuels, slowly cooking the surrounding kindlings and only needing an opportune breeze to fan the smolder into flame. Straightaway the forest fire is born.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are being lost in forest destruction in this country every year. Reams of warnings are issued—hopelessly and uselessly. Many other millions are spent on forest guardianship and fire fighting. But never once has there been the first whisper of a plan to de-legalize the circulation of cigarettes sold in interstate commerce.

No smoker wants the artificial irritation. It adds nothing to the desirability of the wares to the consumer. All it does is to hasten the burning of each little cigarette and so, no doubt, increase by a perceptible percentage the total output of the cigarette industry.

If this isn't a matter to interest the insurance companies, whom should it interest? And yet, so far as we have ever heard, there is no insurance company in the country that has even given a single thought to the millionaire menace of the combustion-doctored cigarette.

"ILLITERACY."

"If we are not to trust to luck for immunity from the variegated evils which mounting illiteracy spawns, evidently we shall soon be obliged to acknowledge the necessity of spending more than ever for extension classes and night schools," says the Waterbury American, referring to that city's distinction as the second most illiterate community in Connecticut.

We have no quarrel with the American's conclusion: Nevertheless we are sometimes a little at a loss to know what, specifically, are referred to as the variegated evils spawned by illiteracy, either in the instance of the Waterbury newspaper or any of the others which so frequently use substantially the same figure of speech. We should like to have somebody tell us, some time, wherein the more ability to read and write, after a fashion and sufficiently to pass the ordinary literacy test, is any guarantee at all either of higher morality or better citizenship.

If illiteracy and ignorance were synonymous terms it would all be much clearer. But as a matter of fact there are many thousands of densely ignorant persons who are not rated as illiterates, and there are thousands of illiterates who are by no means completely ignorant, being endowed with reason and balance by nature though deprived by circumstances of any formal education.

Teaching a child to read, or teaching a foreign-born adult to read English, is largely a matter of mechanics—a technical proceeding which can be applied to any but an idiot. But after the subject has been successfully operated on—has been equipped with the first elementary tool for the prosecution of the business of self culture—is he of any more account as a citizen or as a human entity if he does not employ that tool to good purpose? If he has not the native intelligence to put his literacy to some better use than the scanning of the subtleties of suggestive pictures in dirty tabloids or the perusal of sensational crime stories in yellow newspapers, what on earth has been gained to society by turning him from an illiterate into a literate?

There is probably no happier or better disposed race of people in the world than the Eskimos, who haven't even a picture language of their own. There is probably no unhappier, more morose or sourer set of people anywhere than the so-called intelligentsias of the various cultural capitals of the earth. On the one hand we have a Nanook; on the other a Leopold and a Loeb.

Very, very far are we from arguing against the extension schools, or from depreciating their potential value. But we do believe that it is a serious blunder to regard the teaching of people to read as an end in itself. If we are to go no further than that—if there is no practicable way of following up that effort in the direction of an actually useful culture, it is a grave question whether anything worth while has been accomplished. Nothing could be idler or more futile than to spend oceans of public money teaching foreigners to read rubbish printed in English.

HOORAY!

Perhaps the flying feat of Acosta and Chamberlain in keeping to the air for almost fifty-one and a half hours was a lesser achievement than that of Byrd in flying over the North pole, that of the World Flyers in their circumnavigation of the earth or that of Plinedo in crossing the Atlantic more recently, but there was more real thrill to it for a greater number of persons, just the same. It had the quality of intimacy. They were under—or over—the eyes of hundreds of thousands of persons during the whole stupendous test. They were, in a sense, at once the possession and the champions of every individual within the area of their careering.

Byrd, reaching for the phantom pole, the World Flyers, dimly remote in Kamshatka or Bombay, were almost legendary. But these boys roaring and soaring over Long Island—they were something that the ordinary human being could realize. So it is little exaggeration to say that they carried the heart of the nation in their fuselage.

A splendid, heroic achievement—and right out in the street, so to speak. Everybody is glad that they smashed all endurance records to smithereens—not half so much for the glory of America as for the sake of these hardboiled fliers themselves.

VIEWPOINT.

The Harwinton Congregational church, which pays its pastor a thousand dollars a year plus the use of the parsonage (something less than thirty dollars a week, all told), has notified the Rev. George J. Kelly that he must give up some outside newspaper work of his or give up the church job. Reporting for a newspaper, in Harwinton opinion, is not dignified enough business for a minister.

Much depends on the point of view. And yet we cannot, actually, recall a single instance of a newspaper firing a reporter because he acted as a lay reader or even preached a sermon or took part in an "experience meeting." On the whole newspaper folk are a fairly tolerant lot.

STILL UNINVOLVED.

There is little satisfaction in the progress of the situation in China. The Nationalists, if they have not already done so, are expected to return an unsatisfactory if not defiant answer to the identic note of the five powers. There is talk of British airplanes to be sent up the Yangtze valley in such event. This would be called a "punitive" expedition, but that is phrase making—it would be war. The Germans used to prate of "strafing." It is sincerely to be hoped that Britain will not undertake any such measure, even if the Cantonese do prove recalcitrant. But if they do it that does not by any means involve the United States. This country is not—despite frequent garbling of the facts—a signatory to any "joint" note of demand on the Nationalists. Sending a separate, if identic, note preserves to us our freedom of action. And we are not yet with the Chinese Nationalists. Of that we can still be confident.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 15.—When "Uncle George" Norris of Nebraska finally leaves the Senate, as he is again threatening to do, there will be a certain regret in this prosaic town such as would attend the passage of few other human cogs in the federal government.

Norris has his enemies, for he's a fighter. But there is less peanut politics and more genuine sincerity and honesty of purpose in this 63-year-old war horse than in almost any other member of Congress. It's hard to find anyone who won't admit as much, whether they like Norris or not.

Norris is a simple, unaffected, old-fashioned old cuss, with an odd-fashioned, floppy, square-cut bow tie, wrinkled, old-fashioned high shoes and plain, ordinary clothes. His lack of satorial, pretensions goes along with a predilection to old-fashioned horse sense. His speech is no more pompous than his manner. He doesn't talk about "Congress, in its wisdom," doing this and that and he doesn't play to the galleries.

The old fellow's head pokes itself up above the clouds sometimes, but his feet are generally on the ground. One of the most justified criticisms of even the best of senators is that very few of them have the intestinal stamina to wage a single-handed, long and bitter fight for a principle in the face of huge odds. That sort of thing, which incidentally gave Hiram Johnson's prestige a tremendous boost in the last Congress, is the best sort of thing "Uncle George" does.

He came to the house a partisan Republican. Soon he began to observe the indecencies and the futilities of peanut politics. He became more and more independent and Nebraska sent him to the Senate. In 1924, after "Uncle George" had again and again emphatically refused to run for re-election and after he had been made a candidate forcibly, by trickery and against his will, Nebraska elected him by a 110,000 majority.

Reverses Old Rule Sometimes it may seem that "Uncle George" is getting a little moony in his old age. The trouble is that he's a complete reversal of the rule that men come to Congress progressives and slowly turn into moss-backed conservatives. Norris gets more progressive all the time. Corruption arouses his dander, but injustice and oppression make his blood boil. Cause after cause he has taken it upon himself to defend because it appeared no one else would do it.

But if old "Uncle George" seems moony now and then the results of his mooniness speak for him. He himself keeps ahead of the times, but it is an old axiom that today's radicals are tomorrow's conservatives. Space allows mention of but an instance of two, but—

Many years ago Norris introduced his constitutional amendment abolishing lame duck sessions. Time and filibusters are proving him so indubitably right that this amendment will soon take its place alongside the women's suffrage and prohibition amendments—the Senate has passed it three times almost unanimously. The Senate will also bid Yeats from its ranks—the man whom Norris fought to defeat. And it is Norris who has saved Muscle Shoals from selfish exploitation and who is gradually making the country realize that hydroelectric power is one of its paramount issues.

New Government

His hopes for a business-like government of Nebraska, with 25 $5,000-a-year legislators to sit as a board of directors, abolition of cheap and expensive partisan politics and other obvious improvements in the present political structure of state governments, are only a practical modification of the old idealist dream of a government operated by experts for the benefit of everybody instead of for the benefit of politicians.

Norris doesn't want to be governor, but his friends convinced him that there was no other way for him to put over his idea.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

New York, April 15.—Manhattan snapshots: A colorful German rathskeller in the Forties where you can still see the stout old Mein Herrs with napkins tucked under their collars and flowing down their vests. . . . And this just a hop-skip-and-a-jump from the peak of Broadway.

Chorus girls gathered in "Shubert alley," between two theaters, talking over job prospects. . . . Crowds wandering through the Hall of Fame trying to identify the enshrined. . . . Five hundred people gathered around a fainting woman and five hundred more watching a recruiting officer sign up a prospect. . . . Wall Street millionaires eating in a basement cafe. . . . They say Thomas W. Lamont drops in now and then.

Katherine Cornell, free at last from "The Green Hat," playacting about Broadway. . . . Anyway, blue hats are in the majority around town now. . . . Walter Damrosch making his farewell appearance as director of the New York Symphony, which his father, Leopold, founded back in the eighties.

Which reminds me. . . . The annual influx of music students is on. . . . The National Music League informs me that at this season 250,000 sets of parents are deciding where to send Imogene for spring piano practice. . . . Boston will get a share, and Europe quite a number, but Manhattan, as usual, will be besieged by young talents. . . . It is not recorded that many of these rise to great fame, or even to fame. . . . New York has too many distractions. . . . With the best intentions in the world they come to work and stay to take advantage of the freedom from paternal discipline. . . . If you were to ask me why the impression goes out that youngsters in Manhattan seem particularly gay and giddy, I would give this as the answer. . . . Thousands upon thousands come from the little towns scattered over the land, some to study art and some for music. . . . Most of them have been sheltered all of their lives and strained under the paternal leash. . . . Suddenly they found themselves in this great city with no one to keep an eye upon them. . . . Some buckle down for serious work, but the temptation is to take advantage of this leave of absence and let the youthful spirits run free. . . . On the other hand there are any number who struggle for every yard of gain. Within a few months, when the hot days melt into smoky nights they will get their chance at the auditions given with the Stadium concerts. Soon the halls of Aeolian, Carnegie and Town Hall will be going at top speed as the youngsters from everywhere get their trials. . . . Next winter, back home in the small towns, prideful parents will sit Imogene at the piano and order her to "play for the company," pointing proudly that Imogene studied with Prof. So-and-so in New York.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

ODD ANIMAL FRIENDSHIPS BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

Jazz is a small, white fuzzy dog of the terrier type. Archibald is a young orphan woodchuck.

Between Archibald and Jazz there exists a most unusual friendly feeling, in view of the fact that Jazz is responsible for Archibald being an orphan. . . . Jazz and his owner accompanied a farmer friend one May Sunday morning to dig out a den of woodchucks on a sidehill near the farmer's house. The chucks had been visiting the garden, and the farmer feared for the future safety of his young lettuce and cabbage plants. They dug down, following the winding tunnel that a woodchuck can excavate at such a rapid rate, and finally they came near to the big nest of dry grass. Then Archibald's mother rushed out, a snarling fury, to defend her family at any cost, and Jazz, true to his terrier blood, went to meet her. It was an epic, that battle, for Jazz is a small dog, and the woodchuck was big and savage. When it was over the men pulled Jazz away and took the two baby woodchucks from the nest. Archibald's sister, Gertrude, died within a few weeks, but Archibald thrived and he and Jazz came to have the warmest feeling for each other. Jazz registers no objection to the chuck sitting on his back, and Archibald is glad to sit, as long as the supply of clover leaves that holds his attention is not allowed to run out.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS NEA Service

Typical Views in Paris

This is the sixth chapter in the story of a former war veteran who is going back to Paris as a forerunner of the Second A. E. F.

Paris—the capital of the world—the city on the Seine. Men from every nation know its streets. Known to the tribes of ancient Gaul—known to the Caesars, to Charlemagne, to Frothing, to Wilson and to multitudinous AEFers. "Alois."

Gendarmes with their caps and striking blue capes—a blue uniform and a cap with wide gold braid—a sign in a store window, "Man Spricht Deutsch" (the war ended in 1918)—a woman sitting on a box in front of a jewelry store in the Boulevard des Italiens calmly polishing some brass letters, an all-day job that would be done in the States in five minutes—the myriad taxicabs coursing along with their horns sounding off—

There's an epicure; there a character—a horse with a bell on his collar clatters by hauling a high-wheeled cart—a baker's boy riding a bicycle cart loaded with long loaves of French bread (it is amazing that he threads the traffic and doesn't lose his cargo in one wild jump)—another sign: "Defense d'Archer"—"Post No Bills"

Nattily-dressed women and girls stroll along—there's an American—and all is so leisurely—so soothing—"Peep-Peep."

Another taxicab chugs around the corner of the Rue Scribe and veers on to the Place de l'Opera. A merchant goes by pushing a low three-wheeled cart filled with bottles. A sign: "American Bar"—another sign: "Robes et Manteaux"—electric advertisements flash—and one very hand are familiar American trade names.

It is never late in Paris, but when it is time to retire there is a brass bed—with three huge pillows—a silk coverlet—and an excellent mattress—and very soothing to a worn frame, be it native French or visiting American. "Restez ici! Restez ici! Couchez! Pas re mauvais reve!" Which is: "Sleep and don't have any unpleasant dreams."

TOMORROW: Leave Your Cigarettes.

CIRCLE THEATER HAS DOUBLE FEATURE BILL

Monte Blue, Patsy Ruth Miller and Tom Tyler Divide Honors Tomorrow.

Monte Blue and Patsy Ruth Miller are the leading lights in the whimsical comedy-drama, "So This is Paris," which is to be seen at the Circle theater tomorrow with the other feature, "The Sonora Kid," with Tom Tyler in the leading role.

"So This is Paris" features Monte Blue and Patsy Ruth Miller as the fond and fibulous newly-weds, with Andre Beranger and Lilyan Tashman in the cast.

"So This is Paris" whirls away like a stampede of wild horses—into unbelievably ludicrous mazes of complication and misunderstanding. All the jazz-mad, Charlestoning world of Paris passes in glittering splendor across the screen. Boulevards, gay crowds, blazing cafes, laughter, young love, and in the end, the love-nest, the newly-weds billing and cooing as before.

"So This is Paris" is a jazz symphony of sophistication, through which runs a melody as wistful as first love, as moving as the fragrances of lilacs after rain. Those who enjoy seeing real riding and real fighting, will want to see "The Sonora Kid." The script called for such daring horseman-ship, that Robert De Lacy, the director, felt the star was taking his life in his hands by performing these feats. Tyler, however, was eager to try them and aboard his faithful Flash, went through the breath-taking sequences without a mishap, much to the relief of the entire company who watched him with quickened pulses.

Leon Errol and Dorothy Mackall bid farewell to the Circle tonight in their comedy, "The Lunatic at Large," which held a big audience enthralled yesterday and last night.

The picture is an adaptation of J. Storer Clouston's three famous lunatic books. Full away is given Errol's legs and First National officials are convinced that audiences will soon be awaiting a new Errol film as anxiously as they await a Chaplin or Langdon picture—and principally because of those inimitable, collapsible legs. Fred Newmeyer, one of Harold Lloyd's most noted directors, directed this picture. Kenneth MacKenna has a featured role.

NOT FOR UNCLE SAM

London.—The Marine Society of England, which through lack of funds has decided to sell the Gainsborough picture of Thomas Thorn-ton, is determined that the picture shall not go to America. "For that reason we shall not put it up for auction, but hope some gallery will make an offer," says officials. The work is worth about $55,000.

SMALLEST PLAYER LED TRADE SCHOOL GROUP IN SCORING

Danny Renn, Manchester boy and the smallest player on the Trade School basketball squad, led that team in individual scoring.

Danny Renn Captures High Honors; Beers Second; Team Closed Successful Season After Poor Start.

Kenneth Beers, who played but part of the season with the mechanics, was second and probably would have passed Renn if he had played as many games, for as it was, he sunk as many double-counters.

Following are the individual averages and the team record for the season:

Individual Averages: Renn 38.3, Beers 38.3, Kinne 30.6, Maloney 24.5, Hulbert 20.12, Lewis 11.4, Ramsey 8.7, Angeli 7.4, Connelly 7.2, Thurz 2.2, Schiebenpflug 2.2, Adams 1.0.

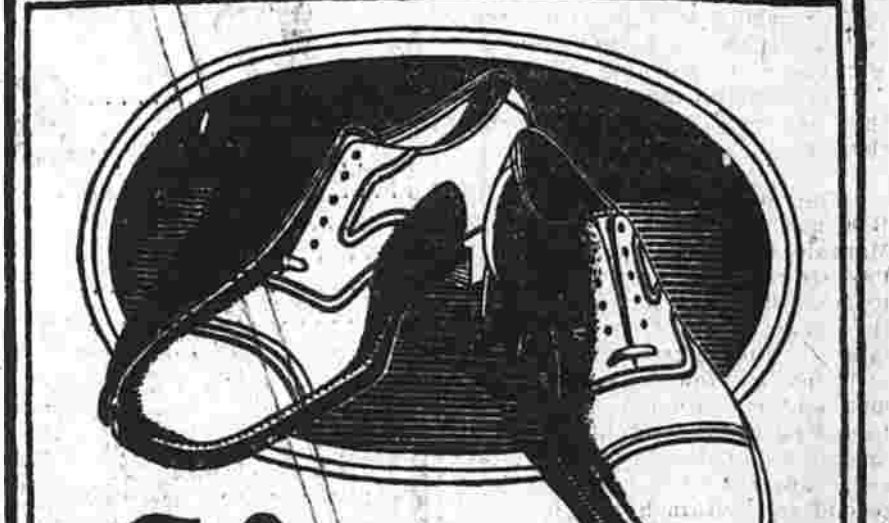

Season's Record: S. T. S. 22—Wethersfield High 15; S. T. S. 25—Stafford High 17; S. T. S. 22—S. T. S. Alumni 17; S. T. S. 20—Springfield V. 46; S. T. S. 11—Kingwood 24; S. T. Freshman swimmers won all their games, while the freshmen basketball team won ten out of twelve games, beating both Harvard and Princeton. So it went with water polo, pony polo, and wrestling. The only uncertain thing was fencing, of which the coaches said "Little can be prophesied for the freshmen in this sport."

Indoor track work saw a bright star. Sabin Carr made a new indoor high jump record of 13 feet 1-4 inches.

Stage

BY JAMES POWERS

New York, April 15.—"Saturday's Children," that gentle, quietly luminous comedy by Maxwell Anderson is slated for the Pulitzer drama prize of 1927.

That is the growing belief as the season draws to a close and discussion opens as to the probable recipient of the award that signifies the highest dramatic achievement of the year.

"Broadway" and "Chicago" also are mentioned, along with "White Wings," "God Loves Us," and "The Barker."

A Late Entrant
This week "The Second Man" opened at the Theater Guild and set critics by the ears. Buzzing about its certain inclusion among the Pulitzer blue-blooded candidates.

But "Saturday's Children" seems to have an edge on all rivals when the point of its idealization of the American home and its typical U. A. atmosphere is raised.

Maxwell Anderson put the war on a paying basis with his co-authorship of "What Price Glory." Then he turned to this neat little comedy of an ordinary $40-a-week boy and a baby-doll girl and showed us them in a typical Bronx apartment with the elevated trains rumbling by the windows at regular intervals.

It was such a bravely truthful and fetching skirmish with the heart of puzzled youth that when it opened at the actors' theater late in January it brought a touch of early spring to New York.

Playgoers ever since have found an evening of warming satisfaction in its truth, its wisdom and its deep, tender charm.

Anderson has dealt very sympathetically with a study of juvenilia. "Saturday's Children" is a shy little comedy up to the point where the harassed young couple begin to discuss the appropriateness of having a baby. Then the boyish husband, gazing at his wife like a startled fawn, gasps questioning. But the wife murmurs, "No."

It is at wifish moments like these that one feels the humanness of the piece.

"The Second Man," by S. N. Behrman, includes the beautiful Margalo Gilmore in its cast. It is "Saturday's Children" may be termed the most naive comedy of the season. "The Second Man" certainly is the smartest.

There are four characters—two men and two women. It is Alfred Lunt's performance that stands out in bold relief. He has the role of a short story writer harassed by a second self within him.

The short yarn writer, manufacturer of "scented dishwater," accepts pin money from women friends to avoid working for currency. He toys with the hearts of women and disillusiones the one who loves him, bruises the hardened arteries of a wealthy widow, is almost shot dead by his best friend, who is in love with the girl flitted by him. He manages to marry off the love sick maid to her "avenue," and goes on holidaying along the Riviera.

It is a frothy piece, but with the favor of genuineness.

"YOU'D BE SURPRISED" COMING TO THE RIALTO

Revealing the secret of woman's age old influence over men "Womanpower" a picture with a tremendous dramatic punch will close its engagement at the Rialto theater this evening. The picture is one that hits home for it shows to what tremendous extent the fairer sex can influence the lives of men. It is an exceptionally well played photodrama that not only instills a lesson by which everyone can profit, but it is also very fine entertainment.

The characterizations are very strongly contrasted as they include such varied types as the wealthy man-about-town, gold digger, prize fighter and the kindly folk of every-day life. In the cast are such well known players as Ralph Graves, Kathryn Perry and Lou Tellegen.

The second feature appearing on today's program is "Forest Havoc" a stirring drama of love in a lumber camp. The tale is an absorbing one and its highlights are extremely exciting. Forrest Stanley and Peggy Montgomery are costarred. Other shorter subjects will also be offered.

mond Griffith the silk hat comedian. It is his latest success, "You'd be Surprised" and he proves that even a coroner's inquest can be funny at times. Griffith is cast in the role of a coroner who receives an urgent call on a murder case when he least expects it. Having purchased a couple of theater tickets he attempts to rush things through and the results are hilariously funny. Of course he meets a girl at the scene of the murder and is dumbfounded when he finds that all the evidence points to her as the culprit. From then on thrills follow laughs in rapid sequence.

The second feature is "Martin of the Mounted" a virile drama of the great outdoors starring Fred Gilman. Another chapter of the current serial as well as a comedy and news reel will also be shown.

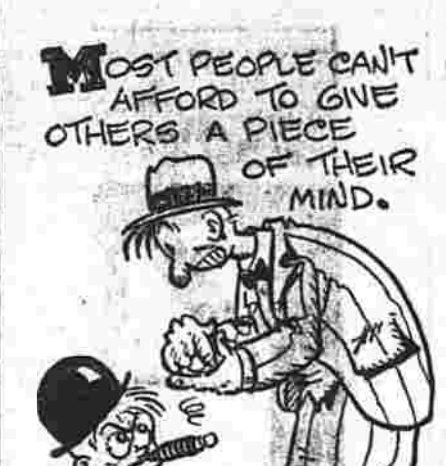

REVOKE BOY BABY BONUS
Geneva.—The Swiss government, to encourage larger families, for several years has offered a subsidy of 100 gold francs to the parents of ten children when the tenth is a boy. Pro-feminist groups said the discrimination was an insult to their sex. That, coupled with the fact that 2,800 families are potential recipients of the reward, has led to a decision to abandon the system.

A GOLFER'S SKILL WINS HIM A WIFE
Hutchinson, Kan.—George Hipple, merchant, courted Margaret Waddles, woman golf champion of Kansas. Margaret was fond of George, approved of him in every way—but one. The trouble was that every time they went out on the links together, his score looked like the national debt beside her own. She absolutely refused to marry a man who couldn't trim her at the game. So Hipple practiced. Finally he challenged her to another game—and won by one stroke. Mr. and Mrs. George Hipple are touring the south now.

STARTING RIGHT
Fort Morgan, Col.—When a young couple had been married by A. V. Saunders, justice of the peace, the groom asked the charges. "The law allows me $2.59 for a wedding ceremony," said the judge. "Here's four bits," said the groom, slipping over a half dollar. "That'll make you $3." The astonished judge accepted the coin and the couple walked out.

FEATURE ARTICLES ABOUT INTERESTING WOMEN

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED T. Q. CURTIS, millionaire owner of the Curtis Department Store, selects three girls from his establishment to come into his home as his wards for one year...

Reporters bore down on Billy with a barrage of questions.

PROFESSOR VACLAV NAVRATIL was a short, round, beaming little man, whose near-sighted blue eyes peered through thick-lensed, rimless glasses upon an embarrassed but staunch little girl who believed that she could become a great violinist...

"Oh!" Her cry was sharp agony. "I have only a year. I have studied violin all my life. Oh, I realize my teachers were poor, but I did have one season in a conservatory in Chicago, before my mother's health became bad..."

Before the photographers had folded up their tripods and their cameras, Dal Romaine appeared, unannounced, as if he were expected by his aunt...

"This is my nephew, young man, Mr. Dalhart Romaine, of New York and Paris." Mrs. Meadows laid a hand proudly, possessively upon the slim shoulder in a perfectly tailored morning coat...

The Woman's Day

The same little wifely who jump upon my alabaster neck every once in a while for what they call in the vernacular my "dirty cracks" at them, may excuse me this morning and pounce upon a certain Mrs. Elanora R. Green...

If I get pounced upon for my mild utterances on this subject, in all justice this "highest paid lady" should be pounced upon more fiercely. All that have ever in my timid mild way assayed to say was that women who enjoyed and were more capable at some job other than housework would certainly be more sensible to continue in that work than to spend their time at the lowest-paid job in the world...

When I am pounced upon, I am instructed in the great distinction between "housekeeping" and "home-making." I am told that dish-washing, floor-scrubbing, potato-boiling, which, true enough, are jobs that "just anybody can do," and the most underpaid jobs in the world, are but a very small fraction of the "real work a real woman does in her home..."

Gum-Chewing My town has a new negro theater of which we are very proud. An old negro church has been converted into the theater, with African painted designs everywhere. The very pretty negro girl ushers wear native African costume of bright head-dresses, mantles and thatched sandals...

Split It Out! Doesn't it make you think of people with life-long grudges, the flavor of which departed long ago, but who "keep right on chewing" it? Of people who keep in the same old rut of working and thinking and playing just because they once got started chewing the original stick and never thought to roll it up into a nice little wad and do some graceful equivalent of "spitting it out..."

There are times when I wish America wasn't so rich; that its soil didn't cost quite so much to the half square inch. Especially do I wish it now that April's here, with buttercup-yellow forsythia frothing over the yards and the bluebirds glittering about as they look for pink apple blossoms. The reason I wish for a less expensive America right now is because over in Europe where space isn't at a premium, they litter their sidewalks all over with little tables, and no one thinks of eating under a roof. Why so foolish as to let the fragrances and soft breezes of spring go to waste?

Ideal leg measurements for a girl 5 feet 6 inches tall are: thigh, 20 inches; knee, 14 inches; calf, 13 1-2 inches; ankle, 8 inches.

A CHILD'S PLACE IN THE HOME

Mrs. Lillian Gilbreth, her husband and their eleven children.

ORGANIZING HOMES FOR EFFICIENCY

By LILLIAN GILBRETH

The mother who is planning to reorganize her household more efficiently will wish to know exactly what duties her eleven children perform.

They set the table, help sort the laundry, do the dishes, and take care of the garden. If your child is sullen about chores you may find it hard to believe that there are boys and girls, who go about such work with enthusiasm and laughter.

Mr. Gilbreth was the greatest help in teaching the children the use of tools and showed them how to win good muscular habits. When he played marbles with them he would say: "You see, if you hold your agat exactly this way, you're absolutely bound to shoot straight into the ring!"

We live in the country with plenty of grounds so that the children can have a healthful out-of-door life. There are a number of family rules that have been established for everybody's convenience. They save time. On the commutators' train, everybody takes the second car from the end. Thus we never have to wait for one another.

At Nantucket, it is agreed that none of the younger children can set foot in any boat until he learns to swim. No child can board a sailboat until he is read; to acknowledge the authority of the person who acts as captain and to work his passage.

I had to learn to forget my writing and my housework when I played with the children. For if one never relaxes, one becomes obsessed with an idea. The answer is to learn to make the most of the moment, whether it is work or play. That will mean that we shall never be tied up in knots. And as I have said before, any mother can rear even the largest family scientifically and efficiently and still have time for a life outside her home.

Miss Talley's Dishwashing

By Olive Roberts Burton

Marion Talley, the eighteen-year-old prima donna of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, who startled the world a year ago by her voice, has written an article about her life struggle for success, and, finally, her debut in New York.

It is full of sermons, her simply related story. It tells of a little girl's love of music, the modest way the family accepted the praise of great divas who heard her sing, their strict economy in order to give her lessons, the frugal manner of spending the sum raised by friends to educate her properly, and the present simple, almost austere, manner of living of her mother, her sister and herself in a New York apartment. They have lived there since the night of her great success.

of the world's greatest singers, she still helps to make the dishes, make beds, and do other things in the way of light housework.

That part of it is as pathetic as it is amusing. I think that the veriest crank on girl training will agree with me that Miss Talley's rather nice little apology for being so great is not necessary. And we do not wish her or expect her to wipe dishes—unless she prefers that pastime to other forms of indoor sports. It is enough that she can give the world something beautiful that it wants and needs.

She has worked slavishly for years to make the best of her God-given voice. Surely that is enough! And if the world wishes to pay her homage and make obeisance, she should give it that privilege. We need things to look up to and people to look up to. And we like to clothe them with all the glamour we can hang on them. It hurts no one I am sure.

GENIUS KILLED HIM Omaha, Neb.—The "human adding machine," George H. Wood, who died recently, was a victim of general exhaustion from the strain of working on his system, physicians believe. Wood, through intense concentration could beat operators of adding machines in totalling long lists of figures.

NORTH CAROLINA BLUE LAW FIGHT WILL OPEN SOON

Sunday Observance Laws as Now Enforced Opposed
By Liberal Element.

Raleigh, N. C.—North Carolina, like its little sister state, South Carolina, probably will hear some more about Sunday "blue laws" before so very long.

Anti-blue law forces are planning to make a concentrated fight against the present Sunday observance laws in North Carolina this summer, and to stage the Sunday baseball test case at Asheville, which was promised last year, but never came off.

The fight against the so-called blue laws in North Carolina will be made by the Association Opposed to the Blue Laws, a national organization, according to Linn A. E. Gale, of Washington, D. C., secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Start Test Case
The test case as Asheville, Gale said, would be started by the staging of a Sunday baseball game or movie there. Should the spectators or participants be arrested he said, they would appeal to the higher courts.

The delay in bringing about the long-promised Asheville test case, Gale explained, had in no way changed the association's policy. North Carolina, however, appears satisfied with its present Sunday observance laws of the 1927 General Assembly having refused to change them one way or the other, except to please one county.

Rep. Oscar Haywood, former New York pastor and now an evangelist of Montgomery County, N. C., made a very hard effort during the session to put his blue law bill through.

Bill Is Defeated
The bill would have placed the Old North State in about the same plight as South Carolina, prohibiting the sale of gasoline, smokes and soft drinks on Sunday.

The Legislature overwhelmingly defeated the minister's bill in its far as it applied to the state as a whole, and the bill finally went through amended so as to apply to Montgomery County only.

The campaign of the anti-blue law association, however, is to further modify the North Carolina statutes, in order to permit Sunday movies and baseball games.

AIRSHIP ON TRIP
Lakehurst, N. J., April 15.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles took off from the naval air station here today for a training flight. Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl was in command. He headed the dirigible due south from the station. His plans were not announced in advance, but radio messages are expected to be received here during the flight. Commander Maurice R.

Piers, executive officer at the station, and five naval officers being trained in the handling of dirigibles, were passengers.

FOREST FIRE
New Haven, Conn., April 15.—A forest fire raging through the Rocky Top district, north-west of the city, is threatening many widely scattered farm houses and giving three Hamden fire companies a hard fight. The district is reached by a rough road and is without water. The fire had extended over some fifty acres before firemen reached the place.

Traffic congestion on highway and streets of the United States is responsible for an annual loss of four billion dollars in time and wasted fuel.

Flapper--Reporter Is Now A Real, Real Gold Digger

Above, two veteran prospectors in the Weepah field with characteristic gold field equipment of '49 days. Below, at the right, the first grocery store in Weepah. The inset at the (right), millionaire mining operator, who is investigating the Weepah field. He is talking to Frank Horton, Sr., whose son made the first strike.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth of a series of stories detailing the experiences of Betty Briggs, flapper reporter, who joined the Nevada gold rush.

By BETTY BRIGGS
Weepah, Nev.—Roses have thorns, and you can't have gold nuggets without being crawled all over by lizards!

This observation on the bitter-sweet of life comes from one who knows. I have found gold. And the lizards found me.

But let's begin at the beginning. Just being in a gold camp town was all I asked of life the first day. But after I had seen the cock-fighting and heard all the nickledeons and seen all the "types," it seemed silly to be so near gold and not grabbing of a few souvenirs.

Off Over the Trail
I found a little "school-marm" from Iowa who had the same idea. We hired a fly together—I won't tell you what it cost—and set forth for the great open spaces.

The fly bumped and jerked over miles and miles of drab sage brush, through the glassy alkali lake, through narrow passes of the mountains, around huge boulders. Then we stopped.

We had started before the sun was up. The cold bit us to the marrow. But as we hiked over rocks and crumbly slag, picks slung over our backs, perspiration trickled down our faces.

Then we came to a spot where "a hunch" told us there was gold. We dug and dug.

We could feel the wind sap our skins of oil until our faces felt like hunks of dried herring. Our lips were cracked and peeling. Our mar- cels were blown straight, and were gritty with sand.

But what is a mere skin you love to touch? We were after gold— independence, no more city editors, no more darned sox, no more two-year suits!

Then the Gold-Flecked Rocks
Gold! There it was, rock-flecked with gold, a tiny vein of glistening yellow. We had been taught in camp what to do when we found gold. We had to stake our claim by "stoning" it.

Back and forth we trudged, arms full of all the loose stones we could carry. We piled them into a mound with one thin rock sticking out at the top. In an old tin can which we had brought along for that very purpose we wrote our names and left the can on the rock pile.

About 600 feet from that stake we built another rock pile, sort of a decoy pile. It was when we tugged at these rocks that the lizards came out, and we screamed in fright.

I think we would have built rock piles and staked our claims on all the miles of Nevada which are not already plotted like a Los Angeles sub-division, but the sun was almost hidden behind the gray mountains, and the long road back to Tonopah, had its perils.

We bumped back to town and the office of the assayer. That day he had ground and smelted from 50 to 80 samples of "gold mines." We had to wait our turn to know whether our samples of ore indicated we had made a real strike.

We don't know, but we refuse to believe we won't be rich some day. Didn't want to Do Any Shooting
Then we had to rush over to the city hall to record our find. That is not really necessary until 20 days after the find, but it is safest to do it right away, and may save us the trouble of using our cute pearl-handler revolvers on claim jumpers.

Within 90 days it must be recorded that at least 243 cubic feet of earth has been dug from the claim, and then we're all fixed up for a year.

All this funny business of claim recording cost us one good simoleon.

Then back to the hotel to brag about our find. But we were met with only scorn and derision. "Pool's sold," they called it. "But they can't tell me! Hope springs eternal in the human breast! If I strike it rich, I'll send you all an autographed picture.

But anyway, this flapper is now an experienced gold digger. Above, two veteran prospectors in 1710 by Bartholomew di Francesco.

CANADA BORDER NO LONGER BAR TO U. S. INDIAN

100,000 Members of Six Nations Are Affected By New Ruling.

Watertown, N. Y.—With the grand opening less than a month away, breweries and distilleries in Ontario are already hard at work striving to get up a surplus stock that will take care of the expected rush of thirsty Americans across the line this summer.

"Ferguson's Foam," the loudly touted 4.4 beer provided by the Premier's bill two years ago, proved such a flat failure in Ontario that the "real stuff" legal after May 15, according to new legislation at Toronto, expected to go like wildfire, for a short time at least.

To cope with the "home consumption," every little hamlet will have its government store, while the larger communities will be well supplied with stores.

Boom Is Coming.
"But it isn't the home boys who will fill our strong boxes," a prominent Canadian distiller said.

His idea of the coming "boom" was obtained as he showed an interested reporter about his big establishment.

"Figures compiled by the province of Quebec vouch for the fact that Americans buy a good share of all liquors produced in that province," the distiller declared.

"We therefore take it for granted and the first two months' business will doubtless reveal the fact that American dollars will pour into our tills, just as they have in the Quebec dealers."

"Were you anywhere near the Canadian border when 'Ferguson's Foam' became legal two years ago?" the distiller asked the reporter.

When the newspaper man replied he was the distiller offered him a sample of the product he will soon put on the market.

"Taste that," he said, "and see if that isn't the kind of ale that once made a Western city famous. We are going after this thing right."

"We know that Canadians will buy their share of the product but it's the Americans, dry-throated from drinking everything from colored water to varnish and hair tonic, that will keep the brewers busy."

"So we have decided to get away from this 'heavy' stuff that has sometimes brought waves of protest from visitors to Montreal and Hull."

To Tickle Palates.
"Heavy beer makes a person feel loggy. We are trying to put out a product that will tickle the palate of the boys below the border, who like their ale with plenty of kick, but are not exactly looking for sleeping potions. Then, too, you know, they can drink more light beer, and that's what we want to sell.

That the distiller knew his liquors appeared evident, for he conducted the reporter on a tour of his laboratories, where chemically tested and retested liquids, aged in the wood for months, years and in some cases days.

That the return of pre-war days in Ontario, resulting in increased industrial activity, is evident on all sides. New houses, restaurants, boarding establishments and breweries are noted everywhere.

Get Together Members Getting Interested in Next Week's Meeting.

Henry Morgan, first president of Cheney Brothers Get-Together club, has notified all 1912 members of the club of the 15th anniversary of the club.

The regular meeting on April 28. This meeting should bring back memories of the first meeting of the club held in Farmington. From all reports, the coming meeting on April 28, promises to have a record attendance.

Rev. David Kelly will be the speaker of the evening. He is a "regular fellow" and an accomplished speaker.

The entertainment will be furnished by the "Belmont Cadets" who make their first appearance in Manchester. While the Cadets have been under heavy expense in starting their tour, special rates have been given to the Get-Together club. This will allow the members of the club an opportunity to enjoy their unique program.

A hundred seems to be something suspicious about this appearance of the "Belmont Cadets". Manchester seems to be the only "bookings" on the "Cadets' tour."

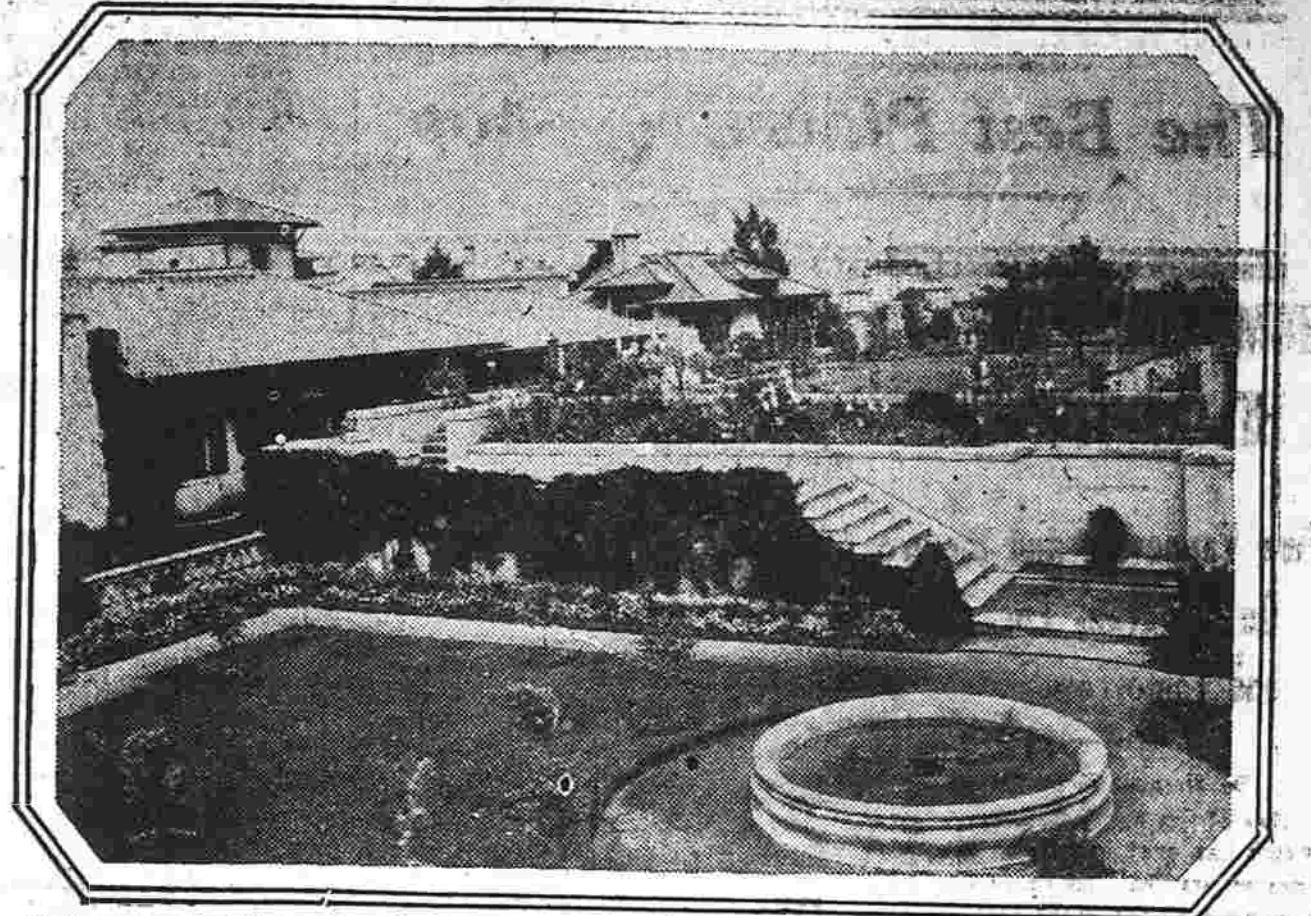

PLANT BURNS UP

Weymouth, Mass., April 15.—Two powder houses at the plant of the Hunt Fireworks company blew up with a roar that shook the vicinity today.

A hundred employees, men and women, fled from the buildings. Robert Quinn, 40, was seriously burned. Several others were slightly hurt.

Flames followed the explosion but were quickly extinguished by firemen.

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

15 extra hours on the NASH motor to be certain it is right

The illustration shows two Nash Advanced Six engines hooked together in the great Nash testing room.

One of these motors is driving the other, to limber it up. After a few hours of this, the motor now being driven will limber up another.

Then, after 8 to 10 hours on its own power, it will be taken apart. Bearings, connecting rods and pistons carefully inspected. Valves ground and resealed.

Next, the trained ear of an engine expert will listen to the operation of this motor. When he is sure it is absolutely right, it will be mounted on its chassis. Then another rigid examination, in the car, out on the road. 15 extra hours in all are consumed before the motors shown above are ready for their owners.

How easily Nash could save this time and expense. You would never be able to see the difference.

But every Nash owner knows there is a difference!

There are extra hours of extra care in every Nash, to lift it above the level of the average car—to be certain Nash performance leads the world!

Maltop Malts

Highest Quality

"MALTOP MALTS" are worth going a long, long way for.

For seven years "MALTOP MALTS" have been steadily increasing their circle of malt boosters. Other brands have come and gone—new names, new labels, new claims.

"MALTOP MALTS" have nothing new to offer. The same original high grade malt made from the best matured winter barley, concentrated to a rich, creamy pure malt.

Made in five varieties, "MALTOP" offers a brand for every taste—light, dark, porter style, hop-flavored and medium.

Why experiment with new, unknown brands that have just "dropped in." Better to tie up with a malt that has been giving complete beverage satisfaction for seven years. A tried and proven malt—"MALTOP."

And if you are fussy about getting a fresh, mellow "ace-high" hop, with the genuine tang, you will naturally want the famous "MALTOP HOPS."

HUMOROUS SKIT HIT AT THE STATE

Fine Vaudeville and Picture
On Program For Today and Tomorrow.

By Member Herald Staff

One of the best vaudeville shows which has ever been seen in Manchester started its three day engagement at the State theater last night. Heading the bill is the famous skit, "The Broadway Limited," a humorous one-act affair which combines good acting with a song or two.

There are four people in the cast and the action takes place on the rear platform of the train which to all appearances, is moving on through the night. A wonderful scenic effect shows the clouds and the landscape go by as the train continues its journey.

Second in importance are Frank and Ann, a man and a woman who go through a bit of lively patter interspersed with popular songs of the day. The Cirillo brothers are tap dancers of unusual merit and one of the boys does the Charleston with wooden tap shoes.

The team of Barrett and Cuneen brings out something unusual. Barrett—or Cuneen, is an old man about 80 years old and his partner is a modern up to date gold digger. Their act is funny in the extreme and is one of the best on the bill. The two Herberts do more tricks on the bouncing net and the horizontal bar than any troupe that has ever been seen here.

The feature picture is Milton Sills in "The Sea Tiger," a drama of the Canary Islands and its seafaring folk.

ROWSSELL PAIR IS IN NEW DIFFICULTY

This Time It Takes Form of a Cloudburst of Lawsuits in Willimantic.

The Rowsell, Clarence and Mrs. Clarence, who have given the police of several towns plenty of work to do in the past few years, are in hot water again. This time it is a civil action which is being brought against Mrs. Rowsell, who now lives in Willimantic, by six persons who claim that she owes them money. Both of the Rowsells were placed on probate to keep the peace some time ago after their most recent fight.

It all happened when Mrs. Rowsell advertised her property at 185 Walnut street, Willimantic, for public auction. The notice brought upon her head a deluge of attachments, most of them for obligations amounting to less than $100. Five lawyers, one deputy sheriff and a constable figure in the attachments.

The matrimonial craft of the Rowsells has been sailing on rough seas for several years and the appearances of the pair in police court were numerous. When they lived in Manchester they were frequent visitors to the courts and they continued their contentions when they moved to Willimantic. Usually Mr. Rowsell was the aggressor and the arrests were made on complaint of his wife. Then, when the defendant would be fined in police court, his wife would pay the fine.

Attachments on the property to date amount to about $650.

Three Manchester men are included in the panel of 100 talemens from which will be selected the jury who will try Ching Lung and Loo Hoo Wing, who will face trial on a charge of first degree murder in the killing of a Manchester Chinese in an Oak street laundry, March 24.

The Manchester men called for jury service when the trial starts in the Hartford County Superior Court Tuesday morning, April 26, are Irving P. Campbell, grocer, 77 Henry street; George W. Kuhney, retired, 14 Hudson street and Joseph W. Conroy, assistant manager at Watkins Brothers, 382 Main street.

RANDALL BOUND OVER

Hartford, Conn., April 15.—Herbert E. Randall, 36, of New Britain, accused of embezzling $1,750 from Miss Martha Barrett, a Hartford stenographer, was held under bonds of $2,000 after his case was continued to April 21 in Police Court here today. Randall, who was manager for the Colonial Finance & Mortgage Co., is alleged to have taken the money and failed to supply promised collateral. He was formerly connected with a New Britain brokerage concern, commencing operations here last November.

NEW BRITAIN MAN KILLED

Yonkers, N. Y., April 15.—Police of this city today were seeking relatives of Francis Mel Rosso, 22, of New Britain, Conn., who fell or leaped from a depot platform here while waiting for a train to Manhattan to take a steamer for Italy. Mel Rosso was instantly killed when struck by the electric engine of a New York Central flier. The man, judging from documents found on his person, lived at 450 Myrtle avenue, New Britain.

BOLTON FOREST FIRE TOOK FRESH START

Flig Blaze Thought Beaten In Afternoon Gave 300 Men An All-Day Battle.

The fire in the woods at Bolton Notch yesterday gave Fire Warden Charles Griffith and his corps of 300 men an all-day fight. Apparently subdued at 2 in the afternoon, the blaze started up again unexpectedly and kept the firefighters busy until early in the evening. Men were drafted from Manchester and Bolton. Under Warden Griffith they stretched out along the line of the blaze and struggled to keep it back of the old woods road that runs from Bolton Notch to Bolton Center. In this they were successful.

The blaze started in the woods at the side of the road just east of the Pinney dance hall. People of the Pinney farm tried to check the spread but it got away from them and it was found necessary to call the warden.

Armed with chemical tanks, spades and shovels, the firefighters started work and about 2 o'clock had the blaze well under control. Beginning about 11 o'clock in the morning, more than 100 acres were swept by the fire. State forestry apparatus was sent out from Hartford but was not used.

This was the second serious forest fire in this section since the first of the week. More than 200 acres were burned in the Birch Mountain district on Monday and Fire Warden Griffith has been kept busy ever since attending to small blazes throughout the outlying sections.

Originally every man carried his valuables in a bag tied to his waist. This offered an opportunity for thieves to cut the string and flee, so some seventeenth century genius thought of sewing the bag to the clothing, making a pocket.

SALVATIONISTS TO GIVE SERIES OF TABLEAUX

Tableaux 7: The Tomb Sealed; The Tomb Opened; The Tomb Empty.

TELEGRAPH POLES ADD FUEL TO GRASS FIRE

A pile of burning telegraph poles kept the north end fire department busy for about an hour this morning. The poles, which were piled near the tracks of the South Manchester railroad on Middle Turnpike, evidently caught fire from burning grass in the meadow nearby. A still alarm was turned in and one of the Manchester department trucks responded.

Experiments with fish show that unlike humans, the warmer the temperature the greater their food consumption.

Temptingly tender!

FIRST you say, "How tender!" and then you say, "What flavor!" And then you ask for more. Morris' Supreme Ham is as good as its label says it is. That's because it is selected more carefully, cured more slowly, smoked more thoroughly than is the ordinary kind. Yet it costs no more. Say "Supreme" and get more than merely ham.

ANOTHER "NIGHT" FOR N. E. CHURCH

Fifth One Held Last Evening Is Final of Present Season.

It is estimated that nearly three hundred Second Congregational folks were in attendance at the fifth and final monthly "church night" supper and entertainment last evening. The series began in December when the parish was divided into five neighborhood groups under different chairmen and sub-chairmen and each successive event has been bigger and better than the one preceding it. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Shearer were joint chairmen for the April church night.

The evidence of the untiring work and enthusiasm of the fitting group put into the project was on every side last night as the diners assembled. A color scheme of lavender and yellow was carried out in the decoration of the ceiling lights and tables. Lavender paper streamers, yellow candles, baskets of tulips, daffodils and other spring flowers adorned the tables. Yellow menu cards with a fluffy yellow chicken neck for decoration disclosed that the meal would consist of Chinese Chow Mein, baked beans and brown bread with catsup, Easter Egg salad, rolls, coffee and homemade cake. It was a hearty supper, prepared in generous supply, and everybody enjoyed it immensely.

During the supper hour violin and piano music was furnished by the Misses Hazel and Frances Waters, attendants of the church school. The entertainment committee was headed by Mrs. J. M. Shearer and Superintendent of Schools A. F. Howes, also a member of the program committee, acted as master of ceremonies. Last night and announced the numbers.

George Martin of Hartford, a tenor who had pleased with his singing at the December church night, had been invited to return, and he sang several numbers, including "The Resurrection" by Harry Rowe Shelley, "My Task" by Ashford, "Love Eternal" by Adams and "Beyond the Dawn" by Sanderson. Mrs. R. K. Anderson, the church organist, played the accompaniments to Mr. Martin's selections.

Miss Lillian Grant, talented Manchester elocutionist and pupil of Mrs. Clara Coe Byrne of Hartford, appeared twice on the program and responded to enthusiastic recalls. Miss Grant's first reading was a humorous Irish monologue entitled "Maggie McCarthy and the Servant Girl Problem." As an encore she gave one of the ever popular Jimmie Brown experiences, entitled "Sue's Wedding." Her second number, "In a Mysterious Way," was lengthy and called for much gesture and display of emotion. The theme of the story was the radio and the brightness it brings to the shut-in. In response to the hearty applause which greeted this selection she gave the amusing little poem "Specially Jim." Miss Grant's four readings were varied in character and were all well handled.

Rev. Frederick C. Allen, the pastor, then said a few words, complimenting the April committee for the fine supper and entertainment they had provided, and all the other committees who had worked so faithfully and joyfully to make the series of church nights all that they had been to the church family.

Mr. Allen also took opportunity to outline to the meeting the plans and scope of work for the church vacation school, in July, which is to be held in unison with the North Methodist church under the direction of committees from each church. He estimated that the instruction received by the children during those three weeks in July would be held in unison with the North Methodist church under the direction of committees from each church. He estimated that the instruction received by the children during those three weeks in July would be held in unison with the North Methodist church under the direction of committees from each church.

Following Mr. Allen's talk there was spirited singing of popular songs and Mr. Howes called for the speaker of the evening, Principal C. P. Quimby of the High school. Mr. Quimby said he felt right at home as he knew so many of the parents of the boys and girls who come every day to school. He jokingly referred to the topic he was advertised to speak on, which reminded him of several good stories. These he related off in his mirth-provoking style. Becoming serious, he said Mr. Allen's plan of a church vacation school was real constructive work; that our Protestant churches must wake up to a realization of their responsibility and devote more time to the religious education of the children.

Mr. Quimby then launched forth on a humorous speech dealing with the little trifles, chiefly in men's attire, inherited through the ages, as for instance, the two small buttons on the sleeve of every man's coat, the reason for the coat collar and revers, and the notch cut in the latter, as well as the two small buttons at the back of the frock coat, a custom handed down from the fourteenth or fifteenth centuries when swords were buckled on the manly form, and the little buttons in back helped to support the belt.

The two little buttons and the other details are a part of our social inheritance of the customs of those early days, while the weapons and the jabots have long since disappeared. The point Mr. Quimby sought to bring out was that every one of these inheritances had its origin at a time when men selfishly sought to acquire everything they could get hold of and keep it. We have a trace of that selfishness left and the only way to overcome it is by service to others and not leave it all to "George" to do.

The April committee remembered the shut-ins among the congregation and under the direction of Miss Emma Hutchinson about a dozen boxes of food were sent to the sick or infirm after the supper last night.

SUSPECT GRILLED.

Boston, Mass., April 15.—Edgar Gallant, 27, was questioned by police today in connection with the investigation of the slaying of 19-year-old Maybelle Matheson, who was clubbed to death in a West Roxbury field last January.

Gallant was taken while in an alleged stolen auto. In the car was an iron bar, threatened on both ends, the kind of a weapon police believe was used in the Matheson girl killing.

The home of the man, held as a suspect, is in Nova Scotia, near that of Maybelle.

15 FIREMEN OVERCOME.

Providence, R. I., April 15.—Fifteen firemen were in Rhode Island hospital today recovering from being overcome in a fire that destroyed the business building at Westminster and Clemence streets. Rooms of the Town Crier were burned out. The big store of Tilden-Thurber Co., jewelers, was damaged by smoke and water.

MANY FOREST FIRES.

Boston, Mass., April 15.—Hundreds of men, women and children in Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts today were engaged in fighting forest fires. The Weather Bureau gave no promise of immediate rain, the woods were as dry as tinder and were closed to all persons in Massachusetts except owners, tenants and employees. Numerous fires about the Greater City during the night kept firemen on the jump. One death resulted, that of Acting Chief Fred W. Battis, who collapsed after battling a brush fire in West Roxbury.

INDIANA DEMS ASK CONVENTION AND CANDIDATE

Fear National Conclave at Capital Next Year Might Hurt Woolleen.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Democrats of Indiana, the politically doubtful state, are in a doubtful state themselves these days. For they are embarrassed by two national ambitions that threaten to cross each other.

These aspirations are to hold the 1928 national convention in Indianapolis and to induce that gathering to nominate Evans Woolleen, president of the largest bank in the Hoosier Capital, for the presidency.

Backers of Woolleen are fearful about pushing the boom nationally because, since the tumultuous demonstrations for Al Smith at the 1924 convention in New York, party leaders are shying away from the national gathering in the home city of a candidate.

Taggart Interested.

Former United States Senator Thomas Taggart, wily member of the "big three" that rules the party, is behind both the Woolleen and the convention movements and is having his hands full. Taggart first must stage a come-back in politics in his own state, for he has suffered a few organization reverses during recent years.

Woolleen, a Harvard graduate, has a national reputation as an economist, but has had little political experience other than an unsuccessful race against Senator Arthur R. Robinson last November.

Opponents of Woolleen in Indiana say that Taggart is only playing the old favorite-son brand of politics with the hope of trading during the convention for political prestige.

However, friends of the former senator point out that he could have obtained the presidential nomination for the late Senator Samuel M. Ralston at the 1924 convention, had Senator Ralston not declined to accept the honor because of ill health.

Party Conferences.

Charles A. Grathouse, member of the national committee from Indiana, has predicted that the national gathering will be held in a city of the Middle West. He said he believed that the only cities that will have a chance will be Indianapolis, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis or Denver.

Hoosier political observers predict a series of vital conferences of national chieftains will be entertained at French Lick by Taggart during the next few months.

Legs of Lamb

Pinehurst Market News

Mr. Nelson is going to have the vegetable department just overflowing with the best the vegetable market affords.

Asparagus,	Tomatoes,	Celery,	Lettuce,
Spinach,	New Carrots,	Cucumbers,	Cabbage
Ripe Bananas	Strawberries,	Oranges	Grapefruit

Ed Laking is going to help us tomorrow. The day before Easter Sunday is always very busy, and we will appreciate it if you phone your order early.

Mr. Avery is going to make up another lot of that good home made sausage meat and he says to sell it at 31c, 2 lbs. for 59c.

And Fresh Ground Hamburg will be 25c apound. If you want fresh pork ground with it, please tell us.

Mrs. Phelps was just in and she said she would send down a couple of the extra cases of eggs tomorrow. You know you can always depend on the fresh eggs you get at Pinehurst. We sell a great many and only buy them from dependable poultry farms. Try a dozen or two of Phelps' large eggs.

Almost forgot to mention Scotch Ham. We just started on a new kind—and what I tested out yesterday was the best Scotch Ham ever.

The repeat business on St. Martin's Imported Jams is very gratifying. Order a few bottles of Scotch Star Pale Dry Ginger Ale.

A FRIEND OF MINE
Down the road that came from nowhere,
Came a chap who wore a smile,
Broad of shoulder, full of hustle,
Striding onward mile by mile.

No one gave him friendly greeting,
No one smoothed the rocky road,
But on he strode with footsteps steady,
Bearing well a heavy load.

Always busy, always friendly,
Never passing up a chance
To help along a weaker brother
Who had fallen by the way per-chance.

Willing ever to be helpful,
Taking what his labor brought,
Never minding what the price was
For the progress that he bought.

Onward, onward, and then upward,
Passing many on his way,
Ever mindful of tomorrow,
Taking toll from each today.

Down the road he came from nowhere,
Purpose steadfast, courage true,
Never losing faith in others,
Giving every man his due.

The road he came down does not matter,
He's a student in life's finest school,
He knows his way and keeps on going,
His measure is the Golden Rule.

The Tynmites helped tired Peter pick and on the job they planned to stick until the papers all were picked and nicely stored away. They worked out in the blazing sun and tried to make believe 'twas fun, but soon they found that working hard was not so much like play. They filled the baskets to the top. Toward evening Peter shouted, "Stop! We've surely picked enough. I think for market in the morn'g." He looked around and then he said, "These must be carried to the shed." The thought of lifting baskets made the Tynmites look forlorn. "Oh, don't you worry," Peter cried. "We'll give the baskets a ride. I have a dandy little cart. I use it every day." The baskets then were piled up high. They worked and worked, and by and by the little cart was loaded, and they started on their way. Then when they reached the little shed, old Peter thanked them all and said, "I have a dandy happy here, where you can sleep 'til late." "Hurrah!" Then scrambled in the fluffy hay. And, as he snuggled down to sleep, wee Clowny said, "It's great." When morning came they all arose and Scouty said, "There Peter goes. He's heading for his garden. Shall we run and help some more?" And Clowny wailed, "Oh, my! Oh, gee! You go ahead, but not for me. I worked so much the first time that I'm really very sore." Just then down where the roadway runs, they heard a voice shout, "Hot Cross buns." "Hurrah," said Copy, "there's some food. We have no time to kill. Let's all run down and buy a bun. 'Twill taste real good and be much fun." The Tynmites did, and ate until they all had their fill. (The Tynmites are caught in a rain storm in the next story.)
