

STATE'S SOLONS GET READY FOR NEXT CAMPAIGN

With Close of 1927 Session Two Weeks Ago, They Start Building Political Fences.

By HERBERT L. CRAPO.
I. N. S. Correspondent.
Hartford, April 16.—Political fence building for favorites in the next state campaign is occupying spare time of many members of the State Legislature. With the close of the 1927 session barely two weeks away, they are beginning to build their political fences in a state of mind favorable to the aspirations of "provisional" candidates for a number of positions.

The "pay-as-you-go" policy and "long-time bonds" are the clearest issues just now, whatever may replace them by the time the 1928 campaign gets under way. Advocates of the "pay-as-you-go" plan seem to be making the decision so far as the action by the present Legislature is concerned. The state appears to be committed to the cash payment plan for another two years at least.

Can't Rush Bills.
Political maneuvering is not distracting the attention of members of the Legislature from the building in the way of hasty legislation shall be put across under pressure of a last-minute rush. Men and women stand ready in either House of the Legislature to vote on the down-and-drag-out sort of Mr. Averill is out to establish a record for efficient handling of a mass of legislation in a short time, and bids fair to realize his ambition.

Machine Slowed Up.
The legislative machinery slowed up this week because Governor Trumbull "didn't deliver" a message to the joint bodies. Despite this, however, calendar matters went through practically as scheduled, and committees turned in a total of 25 reports on bills. Of these 57 were favorable and 38 were unfavorable and resulted in rejection.

Important actions during the week included introduction of a bill proposing consolidation of the control and management of the building program, and final adoption of the thirty-three million dollar maintenance budget. Supreme and superior court nominations came from the committee, and he gave his approval to a score of bills passed in recent weeks.

Increased Pay.
Among rejected bills were proposed constitutional amendments that once seemed of major importance. One was to increase the pay of the members of future legislatures from the present $300 to $500 per session another looked to annual sessions of the Legislature instead of biennial.

More than one million dollars in so-called "small appropriations" have been discarded by the Legislature as unnecessary or not justifiable because of the present condition of state finances. These rejected miscellaneous requests are in addition to thousands lopped off departmental requests and proposals for new construction. A check-up with the appropriations committee shows that the following small appropriations requests were refused:

Bills Lost
Additions to school libraries, $2,500; state public library committee, $1,000; purchase of a dynamometer, $1,500; aggregate increases in teachers' pensions $140,000; special educational aid $50,000; Shelton state park, $4,000; protection from weather for state buildings, $20,000; highway projects $150,000; increases for public libraries, $9,000; state forestry nursery, $5,000; libraries in penal institutions, $2,500; care of monuments, $500; Danbury normal school, $10,000; state armories, $35,000; Poultrymen's Association, $1,000; Mt. Carmel state park, $50,000; renovation of Senate chamber, $3,000; capital driveway, $10,000; state hatchery at Noank, $5,000; State Farm for Women, $47,000; state attorneys' salaries, $2,000; revision of the state topographical map, $150,000; construction of Bridgeport's Yellow Mill bridge, $250,000.

There are in addition to reductions on hospital and other special appropriations included in the budget and also in addition to a large number of requests that were rejected by other committees with-

RETURN FROM FIRE, OWN HOUSE ABLAZE.

Rochester, N. Y., April 16.—Fire truck No. 7 returning from a successful fight, found much of the remaining city apparatus trying to save the truck's quarters. A passing motorist found the deserted firehouse in flames.

TO GIVE OUT RADIO LICENSES JUNE 1

Federal Board Expects to Have Better Service Before Beginning of Fall.

Washington, April 16.—Issuance of permanent federal radio broadcasting licenses probably will be started about June 1, it was learned today.

Within the next two weeks the radio commission will have issued temporary licenses for most of the broadcasters who will be eligible for permanent permits.

Iron Out Wrinkles
Commissioners declared that the government through the temporary arrangement is endeavoring partially to iron out congested conditions, force American broadcasters off the Canadian wave channels and to eliminate "odd frequency" waves adopted by many stations during the period that radio was out of federal control.

Several rearrangements of the temporary set-up of wave length allocation and station distribution are anticipated before permanent licenses are issued.

Improve Service
When all temporary permits are issued radio will be substantially on the same basis as maintained last July. While interference at that time was serious it was at least fifty per cent better than at the present time.

After the temporary licenses are issued the commission will have a good grasp on the situation and will be ready to start in earnest the task of eliminating chaotic conditions, one member said.

"By the opening up of good radio weather in the fall undoubtedly 75 per cent of the inter-station interference will have been eliminated."

300 MEN ARE FIGHTING WINSTED FOREST FIRES

Eight Now Raging in District; Help Sent From as Far as Hartford.

Winsted, Conn., April 16.—Eight severe forest fires are raging in this district today after having been started by lightning on Friday night. Seven of the fires, according to Elliott Bronson, forest fire warden here, were caused by careless smokers. "Never in my long career have I seen conditions so serious as they are today," declared Mr. Elliott. Nearly 300 men and boys are fighting the fires; and aid has been sent into the district from Hartford.

Two distinct fires have done heavy damage at the south end of Highland lake, one destroying a barn on the Bristol place. Boys from Gilbert school were pressed into service during the evening and night to battle a fire on Smith hill. An unusually bad fire is spreading over Red Mountain, near Torrington. Damage from the fires will run into many thousands of dollars.

COOLIDGE HOME TOWN INTERESTED IN SACCO

Educators to Hold Mass Meeting on Tuesday to Discuss Celebrated Case.

Boston, April 16.—While mass meetings of protest against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti were being staged in New York today letters and telegrams continued to arrive at the office of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller. Some ask clemency or the appointment of a commission while others ask that the law be allowed to take its course.

FOREST FIRES RAGING OVER NEW ENGLAND

Two Deaths Reported—Hun- dreds of Thousands of Dollars Damage—Hun- dreds of Fires.

Boston, Mass., April 16.—The scourge of forest fire destruction continued to sweep across New England today, threatening homes and factories as it left damage in its wake that will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

While well-nigh exhausted firemen continued to battle with the flames, the greatest campaign against the forest fire menace ever conducted in New England was getting under way. Every known method of communication was being employed in the campaign.

By radio, mail, graphic posters, sportsmen's clubs, public schools, Chambers of Commerce, state police and Boy Scouts were some of the mediums used in the campaign to quickly inform the populace of the dangers and instill thoughts of precaution.

Two Deaths.
Already two deaths have occurred as a result of the forest fires. In Boston a district chief succumbed after a strenuous period of fire fighting and in Methuen an eight-year-old girl was struck by a trolley car as she gazed upon a fire.

Many Fires.
From Ware, North Adams, Concord, Salem, Enfield, Freeport, Me., North Smithfield, R. I., Keene, N. H., and many points on Cape Cod today came reports of forest fires which have in several instances caused much damage in the destruction of homes and property.

On the Cape the chief loss has been to cranberry bogs and thousands of acres are constantly in danger of being swept by the fires.

The Weather Bureau offers no hope for rain over the week-end. Until rain falls, the edict of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller barring the public from the forests will remain in effect. In this city and many other municipalities, all permits to build fires have been revoked. The ban on fishing issued by the governor remained in effect today.

FRENCH FLIER STARTS ON SOUTH AMERICAN JAUNT

Marseille, April 16.—Captain de Saint-Roman, of the French navy, hopped off at Berre, sixteen miles northwest of Marseille, at 5:35 this morning in an attempt to fly across the South Atlantic to South America. He plans to make the inter-continent flight in four laps.

FORDHAM FEELS QUAKE.

New York, April 16.—The seismograph at Fordham University registered an earthquake of two hours' duration early today. The quake occurred about 4,000 miles away, in an undetermined direction.

Here Y'are Girls For Easter Styles

Latest Whisper From Fifth Avenue Stores Says Skirts No Shorter—Black-Bot- tom Hosiery.

New York, April 16.—Easter styles, as viewed along fashionable Fifth avenue today, disclosed that skirt continue to reveal the knee cap, that bobbed heads are adorned with helmet hats and that reptile shoes and "Black Bottom" stockings are all the rage.

Not in years have the Fifth avenue shops done such a heavy Easter business. The weather man has more than done his part. Nothing Freakish.

The gowns are colorful but not friskish, snappy yet tasty—and all of them express the spirit of youth.

Inquiry in the shops revealed that girls are spending less money for their Easter layouts than they used to. They "change" oftener. Instead of one or two Sunday gowns they now have quite a wardrobe.

Cost $25 to $200
Miss Gertrude Andrus, assistant manager of a Fifth avenue shop, told International News Service that girls and women are going in for more but less expensive clothes. She estimated that the average Easter outfit the girls will parade to church in tomorrow will cost $125 and $200. Taking pencil in hand, she outlined a "typical outfit" the cost amounting to $160. Here it is:

Shoes, $10; stockings, $4; dress, $25; hat, $10; gloves, $8; underwear, $10; either a fur piece (Continued on Page 2)

CARROLL IMPROVES HELD AS PRISONER

Comes Out of Haze But Thinks He's In Jail—His Wife Better.

Greenville, S. C., April 16.—Emerging periodically from the haze of "psychic coma" which has enveloped him for 73 hours, Earl Carroll was on the road to recovery today, his physicians said.

The New York theatrical producer who collapsed here enroute to the federal prison in Atlanta to serve a year and a day for perjury, growing out of his famous "Bath Tub Party", thinks he is in the Atlanta prison.

Thinks He's In Jail.
This was revealed by Carroll's mumbly words while he was in a semi-conscious state, according to his relatives at his bedside in the city hospital here.

Carroll is being held as a federal prisoner in the hospital until his physical condition permits his removal to the Atlanta prison, according to Deputy Marshal John Pinkley, who is remaining near the patient. He can not be removed in less than a week or ten days, according to his physicians.

Wife Better.
Mrs. Marcelle Carroll, the producer's wife, who came to his bedside from New York when she learned of his collapse, today was almost recovered from the severe cold which forced her to bed upon her arrival here. She was up and about this morning and went to her husband's bedside.

U. S. GUNBOAT SHELLS FORTS NEAR NANKING

ENTIRE TOWN CARRIED AWAY BY BIG FLOOD

Residents Warned, Flee to Hills and Are Saved—500 Cottages Under Water; Other Flood Disasters.

Springfield, Mo., April 16.—The town of Forsyth, below the Lake Taneycomo dam on the White river, has been virtually washed away by water flowing over the structure, it was reported today.

Warned when water first overflowed the dam, all residents fled to higher ground. No lives were reported lost. The dam itself was said to be intact.

All wires and bridges throughout the area were reported down. Damage to 500 summer cottages near the lake, all reported under water, was estimated at $100,000.

RELIEF TRAIN
St. Louis, Mo., April 16.—Carrying a large force of men, a special relief train was to leave here today for Charleston, Mo., where the levee protecting that territory from the rampaging Black river gave way this morning. The river at that point was at its highest point in several years and further damage is feared.

Farms Under Water
Thousands of acres of rich farm lands in Missouri and Illinois and many state highways are under water as the Mississippi and smaller streams in the two states reached record stages.

The Mississippi had about reached its crest today and will go to 34 feet here, the highest mark since 1909. Hundreds of acres of land near East St. Louis were inundated when a dike gave way and some families were forced to flee from their homes.

Reports received here stated that the situation below Cairo continued menacing and much land was under water.

The Weather Bureau forecasts a lull in the rains which will end the rise of the streams within a day or two.

Fresh Rise in River.
New Orleans, La., April 16.—The lower Mississippi valley today prepared for the greatest flood in its history.

More levees were expected to give way today owing to the fresh rise in the Mississippi river, although hundreds of men were at the destruction.

Americans Arrive
Four hundred Americans have reached Tsingtau from the interior. They are preparing to leave for Japan or the United States as quickly as possible.

A sailor was wounded when Chinese fired upon the United States gunboat Preble opposite Kiangnan. The Preble returned the fire.

The general strike in Shanghai is breaking down owing to the strict enforcement of martial law and the vigorous anti-communist measures. There have been wholesale arrests of radicals who tried to hold mass meetings.

About 35,000 strikers returned to work this morning reducing the number of idle men to about 70,000.

FACTIONS FIGHT
Shanghai, April 16.—Open warfare between the factions of the Chinese Nationalists continued today, with clashes of a serious nature reported from Canton where approximately 100 Chinese are reported as killed and wounded, while efforts of the Centrists and Extremists to enter into parleys were delayed.

The exact status of the relations between Chiang Kai Shek, leader of the Nationalist Centrists, and the Hankow Communists remains more or less obscure today.

Cincinnati Returns Fire With Broadside—Second Attack On U. S. Boats Since Yesterday—Fight Among Factions Continues—Reports That Chiang Kai Shek, Leader Has Been Dismissed—More Chinese Killed in Internal Strife—Situation Tense at Wuhu.

Shanghai, April 16.—Once again American shells rained on Nanking today.

The U. S. S. Cincinnati was fired upon by forts in the vicinity of Nanking at 8:45 this morning as the vessel proceeded up the Yangtze to Hankow, where a naval concentration has been ordered due to the tense situation which exists.

The Cincinnati returned the fire of the Chinese forts with a broadside and silenced the Chinese guns. As far as reports indicate there were no casualties on the American boat.

Second Attack.
The attack today on the Cincinnati, following an attack yesterday which caused the United States destroyer Ford to open fire on Nanking, has led to the opinion here that Nanking may be in a state of disorder.

The attack on the Ford yesterday was attributed to northern troops, but the forts in the vicinity of Nanking are still understood to be held by Nationalists and it is believed they are responsible for today's attack.

Chiang Kai Shek is in command at Nanking and it is not believed that he would countenance orders for firing on foreign vessels, and this leads to the belief that the troops may be out of control.

Reports from Tunchi state that a northern cruiser has engaged southern forts at Chinkiang, but was forced to withdraw after the arrival of the Nationalist cruiser Huiyang.

Trouble in Canton
Disorders in Canton began Friday when the conservative soldiery raided 200 labor union offices, dispersed the unions and arrested several hundred and placed several hundred under arrest.

There are nineteen thousand troops stationed at Wuhu now and they claim to have captured three thousand white Russians at Fukow.

The situation at Wuhu is again tense. Nationalist soldiers there have captured the American hospital, the plant of the Tobacco Products corporation and other foreign properties despite protests from the consuls.

The United States consul at Tsingtau has asked that a destroyer be sent there. Agitators are active and the consul fears outbreaks.

Five hundred Chinese, described as "Nationalist gunmen," have arrived at Tsingtau to take the way for occupation by Nationalist troops.

It is now expected that Great Britain will renew her insistence upon a strong hand in China, and pressure will be renewed upon Washington to go along.

RAMSAY MACDONALD NOW IN NEW ENGLAND

Former Prime Minister of Great Britain on Trip to Visit Old Friend.

New York, April 16.—Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister of Great Britain and leader of the British Labor party, with his pretty young daughter, Isabel, today was motoring to "somewhere" in New England to pay a debt of gratitude to an elderly woman in ill health who sheltered his wife and him thirty years ago when they were on their honeymoon.

There were sad memories for the former premier in this excursion of appreciation, for his wife is dead. MacDonald will be in New York next Tuesday where he will be a guest at several dinners and then journey to Washington to be received by President and Mrs. Coolidge. He will return to England the following Tuesday.

DESPERATE OVER LOST JOB, TURNS ON GAS
Rahway, N. J., April 16.—Turning on the gas in desperation over the loss of his job recently, according to the police, Frank P. Molson, 45, of 39 Lewis street, is dead today. William Coffey, proprietor of the house where Molson lived, told the police that the dead man had a wife and three children living at 7 Nicholas street, Norwood, Mass., and that he told him a few days ago he intended to jump from a boat en route to Boston, but Coffey paid little attention to him at the time.

work with sandbags strengthening break spots at Burnside. College Point, Gelsmar and other towns in this vicinity.

The Weather Bureau announced the flood probably would reach a level at least two feet higher than the 1922 flood.

While New Orleans was practically safe, army engineers were seriously concerned about the fate of scores of towns along the course of the Mississippi and its tributaries which would be inundated if the levees protecting them broke under the strain of the high waters.

Three men were drowned in Arkansas as a result of the flood. It became known today, bringing the total loss of life in southern cities to ten.

Highways in Arkansas, western Tennessee, portions of Mississippi, Missouri and Kentucky are under water and impassable. In Memphis, the river reached a stage of 43 feet and warning was issued that it will reach the 1913 flood stage of 46.6 feet.

On Wall of Jerusalem At Easter

Writer Muses Upon Sacred Sites

Last Easter I was in Jerusalem, and from a housetop on the old wall I saw the day dawn over the Mount of Olives. The city was full of pilgrims, from every branch of the world-wide Christian Church. The Holy City is a crowded, cosmopolitan center on the days of the Resurrection rendezvous. All colors and classes and creeds are represented; mellowed and merged by the common quest for a new experience of the Risen Christ. To be in Jerusalem for Holy Week—what a dream come true is this for myriads of devout disciples!

In fullest fellowship with this multitude of pilgrims we too, my wife and I, yet kept Easter apart from the throng. We had gone with a multitude to the Garden of Gethsemane on the anniversary of our Lord's agony; and we had visited the sombre-draped Church of the Holy Sepulchre on Good Friday but for the dawn of Easter we arranged to have all to ourselves the highest housetop on the northern wall of Jerusalem, near the Damascus Gate.

This spot which we had chosen overlooked the city and the highway outside of the wall, and Gordon's Calvary and the Garden Tomb. Whichever way we turned, some spot associated with the death and burial and resurrection of Jesus fell under our eyes. South was the Temple Area and the Tower of Antonia; and running westward to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre was the Via Dolorosa. Eastward, still wrapped in shadows of night, lay the Mount of Olives with Bethlehem around its skirts.

All of the events of the last week of our Lord's life were enacted within a small area, at the center of which we stood. We could easily imagine the huzzahs of the Triumphal Entry multitudes; the hot, hate-filled cries, "Crucify Him!" the tumult of the Crucifixion; perhaps on that very hill to the North, a stone's throw away, called "Gordon's Calvary," where is now a Moslem cemetery; the slow, heart-breaking wail of the women bearing spices to the neighboring graves under the tower of Peter and John, after they had heard Mary's incredible news. As near as mortal could get to the theater of the greatest events in the history of eternity were we two, alone on that housetop on the wall of Jerusalem, at break of day on Easter, 1926.

Watching Jerusalem Awaken Amidst the soft stillness of dawn, we stood watching the scene, with its overtone of gray. The roof on which we were standing was gray, the wall was gray the dominant color of the old city was gray, and the shadowed face of the Mount of Olives was gray. Although we were on the highest spot in the city, yet we could perceive now entirely, on every side, Jerusalem is surrounded by greater heights; truly, "the mountains are round about Jerusalem."

Out of the Arabian desert the sun had pointed his spears westward, and these soon shone above the crest of Olivet, striking first the towers of Government House and of the Church of the Ascension, on the top of the hill. Swiftly the King of Day marched onward, and points of light touched the tops of the Mosque of Omar, of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, and of the two German church towers in the City of Jerusalem. The face of the Mount of Olives, where stately cypresses lifted their spires like ascending flames of prayer, began to lighten. Even as we watched the day dawn, so the earliest friends of Jesus, whose heart-broken love had outran the morning, had looked for the coming of the first Easter.

The city began to wake up. Smoke ascended from a group of black tents outside of the wall. Some traffic appeared on the streets. The bells of the churches began to toll—one insistently affirming its faith in the Trinity by striking in solemn groups of three. Greek churches jangled their bells out of tune, in their customary jumble of sound. Here and there, on the tortuous streets Christians hurrying to worship. This was a day of days in the city of memories.

Dawn on the Housetop
It seems almost a violation of the sanctities to relate the Easter service which we two held on that Jerusalem housetop, as dawn merged into full day. We read together all the Gospel narratives of the Resurrection, and Paul's majestic presentation of immortality. Insistently, there crowded upon us the placelessness of all the events of which the Scripture tells. We could lift up our eyes and behold the very scenes of the Story. The time, the place and the incidents all illuminated the theme. Across the road a little company of American and British Christians gathered for a sunrise service in the Garden Tomb, sang familiar Easter hymns, the great churches which abound in Jerusalem repeated the same jubilation by their bells. Easter-faced pedestrians gave testi-

"It singeth low in every heart, We hear it each and all;
A song of those who answer not, However we may call.
They through the silence of the breast We see them as of yore—
The kind, the true, the brave, the sweet— Who walk with us no more."

"'Tis hard to take the burden up When these have laid it down;
They brightened all the joys of life, They softened every frown.
But oh! 'tis good to think of them When we are troubled sore;
Thanks be to God that such have been, Although they are no more!"

"More homelike seems the vast unknown Since they have entered there; To follow them were not so hard Wherever they may fare. They cannot be where God is not, On any sea or shore. What's'er beides, Thy love abides, Our God, forevermore!"

SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1927.

GREAT WORK.

A definite and quite obviously authorized statement has come from Washington declaring that the United States is not only planning reprisals against the Chinese Nationalists but that if Great Britain or any other power should embark on a policy of military sanctions it will be without the assistance of the United States and with the disapproval of the Coolidge administration.

This unequivocal declaration ought to end, once and for all, the pressure and the propaganda from interested sources that have sought to involve us in a military adventure with the control of China as its real objective.

How tremendous that pressure has been will one day be realized. Far from its least effective form has been, very evidently, the coloring of the news from China, all along discernible by a comparison of one week's cables by special correspondents with the next week's dispatches from the same correspondents; and now pretty well proven by the statement of Rear Admiral Bullard, retired, just returned from China, Admiral Bullard told the President yesterday that most of the news dispatches from China are being censored by British sources—a condition scarcely avoidable when it is remembered that there is practically no independent American news organization in that country and that the news agencies here have to depend on European services.

There is nothing weak or paltering about President Coolidge's attitude toward the Chinese crisis. He makes it clear that America will not tolerate outrages on American citizens or property entitled to protection under our treaties with China, but is courageous and wise enough to make it equally clear that any steps in retaliation will not go so far as an appeal to arms.

At once this eliminates the question of war from the situation and brings the discussion sharply within the pale of civilization. The Chinese know full well that America, by the simple act of withdrawing her friendship, her trade and, presently, her financial assistance to the "new China," could punish them with tremendous severity, without firing a shot or making a military gesture. At the same time this assurance that we shall refuse to take part in any raids on Chinese rights and liberties ought to, and almost certainly will, cause a quick reaction in that country in favor of the United States and bring about, almost in a day, greater security for American lives and American property and trade interests in China than could ever be obtained by the employment of violence.

There is absolutely nothing in the Nationalists' reply to the identical note of the five powers to prevent a perfectly amicable settlement of the troubles between the Cantonese government and that at Washington. Such a settlement, in view of the unexpected temper of the Nationalists and of President Coolidge, is in fact practically assured at the outset.

It may not be generally realized at the moment, but in his handling of this extremely dangerous situation, in the last analysis, President Coolidge has displayed the qualities of true greatness. He is entitled to the support of every genuine patriot in the country.

DISGRACEFUL.

Very important testimony against Harry F. Sinclair and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in the Teapot Dome conspiracy case are H. M. Blackmer and James F. O'Neil, both big oil men. Blackmer and O'Neil fled to Europe two years ago when the government wanted their testimony in the civil suits in Wyoming. They were safe from subpoena until Congress passed a law which provided for the summoning of American citizens from abroad by insular subpoenas, with a heavy property confiscation penalty for defying the summonses. Since then Blackmer and O'Neil have been hiding and many American consuls report their inability to find them for the purposes of subpoena.

Meantime the trial of Sinclair and Fall was set for the 26th of this month. The government's counsel asked for a postponement till the missing witnesses could be found and dragged home to testify. The defense clamored for speedy trial, believing that no conviction could be brought without the presence of the fugitives. Now the judge in the case has deferred the trial for a month. It remains to be seen whether two rich Americans, hunted throughout Europe by their home government, can "beat the game" by dodging the subpoenas for another month or whether, in the event of being served, they will even then come to America or will prefer to stand the fine of $100,000 that can be imposed under the new law.

The curious thing about this affair is that, after it is all over, Mr. Blackmer and Mr. O'Neil will most undoubtedly find their former friends just as ready to shake hands with them and continue as their associates as if they had never engaged in what is, from any decent viewpoint, an utterly disgraceful performance. They are no better than any other fugitives from justice.

ONLY ONE FRIEND.

As might have been expected, the only Boston newspaper to take a definitely courageous and intelligent stand on the Sacco-Vanzetti case is the Herald. Most widely read of all the papers of the New England metropolis by business people and the propertied class, the Herald is nevertheless the only one with backbone enough to assert itself without any straddling or feigning as favoring a square deal for these communists and suspected murderers. The yellows, which would be screaming at the top of their voices in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti if their names indicated an origin in the northwest instead of the south of Europe, see no gray for them in championing a cause which interests only the North End. The gentlemen of the Transcript, of course, cannot be expected to concern themselves about such horrid persons.

Just the same, so far as the influence of the press goes, we should say that Sacco and Vanzetti are better off with the Herald's support and without that of the rest than they would be if Globe, Post, American and Transcript were howling for an investigating commission and the Herald were opposing it.

WATCHING THE BERGS.

Two little ships of the Coast Guard service, the Tampa and the Modoc, are up in the ice belt, watching out for icebergs—the brave, protective kind of work in which the service built these splendid traditions that sudden expansion and rum hunting have done so much to injure.

Almost impossible, now, would be another Titanic horror—soon to be forever commemorated through a permanent memorial. In 1912 the berg menace was a constant, lurking, unwarned peril, for "wireless" was in its infancy and the possibility of the iceberg service of the present was then unrealized. But in this day, with the scouts of the Coast Guard watching the lanes of the berg drift, blowing up the little ones with mines and broadcasting to all ships on all the seas the peril of a big one, slim is the chance for a ship encountering that most dreadful danger of the deep unless through the sheer perversity of its master.

It is only the little Coast Guard cutters that, hunting the berg in its lair, need to risk collision with an ice mountain in the dark. And to the old Coast Guard all perils are but part of the day's work.

DYING BY THE SWORD.

"Those who live by the sword shall perish by the sword" is as applicable to the warrior of finance as the soldier of the battlefield. In neither case does it hold true in more than a minority of instances. But once in a while the appalling smash of some predatory money getter brings the warning to mind. Nobody knows how many millions J. Ogden Armour inherited from his father, but they were plenty. For years J. Ogden has been a militant in financial affairs. He has dealt many a wallop that hurt. He helped his dad to trap the Letters in the famous grain corner that almost exterminated that family as financial captains. Now J. Ogden has gone so far down the line that he has had to sell his five million dollar home. Everything he has undertaken, for years, has gone bloomy. Every time his luck changed it got worse. And he is sixty-three. The chances are that J. Ogden in his old age will have to get along on some mere pittance of ten or twenty or fifty or a hundred thousand dollars a year. It is all very sad.

TOLERANCE.

There has been organized in New York a Permanent Commission of Better Understanding. Its members are nine eminent men representing Protestants, Catholics and Jews, among them Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, its name indicates its purpose, which is the fostering of religious tolerance.

We will say that religious tolerance is something that this country needs about a million times more than it needed the eighteenth amendment. But since you can't create it by law, any more than you can create temperance by prohibition, advocates of tolerance do not propose to put it in the constitution any more definitely than it now is. They propose to fight intolerance and bigotry by force of example and the development of public opinion. Probably they don't expect to win in a day, nor in their lifetimes. But they are going the right way to work. Followed up for a couple of hundred years, this kind of activity may lead to something. And any time you reconstruct the entire mass of public opinion from foolishness to wisdom in 200 years you are working fast.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

WHEN ELK ROAMED EASTERN FORESTS

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. This set of elk antlers is at least a century old. They may be ten centuries old or they may have adorned the head of a forest monarch even 2000 years ago. Now they hang on the walls of a sportsman's den all the intervening years. Instead they have been buried away deep in the mud of a swamp, hidden from the men that cleared the neighboring forests and plowed the fields.

We commonly think of the elk as an animal of the western mountains. Few of us know that these splendid animals once ranged in great herds over much of what is now the northeastern part of this country, that they were abundant in the Allegheny mountains and on the plains of the middle west.

Occasionally a set of antlers like these is found to tell the story of the days when the elk herds extended far beyond their present range.

This pair was dug from a small bog about the coast shore of Lake Michigan, in a country from which it is known the last elk disappeared at least 100 years ago. How long they have been buried there, there is no way to guess.

AT 13 SHE'S FAMOUS Paris.—Although barely 13 years old, Mlle. Claudie Korthals, Dutch girl, is exhibiting at the Salon of Independent Artists here. Her work, chiefly animal studies taken from life, has won high praise from critics, particularly when they learned that she had just entered her teens. She is the daughter of a widely known Dutch caricaturist.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Subways always capture the imagination of visitors. Those throbbing arteries of pulsating life, screaming noises, dank smells, and surging humanity are sure-fire attractions to the newcomer.

At rush hour they are, literally, a riot. Men and women are jammed like the proverbial sardines in the roaring expresses and jerky locals as husky guards place shoulders against the spines of those who fringe the packed doorways and ram with all the gusto of Jim Thorpe hitting the Harvard line for old Carlisle.

Tragedy, humor and romance breed in the subways. A young office clerk and a bright-eyed stenographer often find themselves wedged together face to face for a ride of 40 minutes or more. The physical contact is not unpleasant, the face opposite is found appealing, soon a conversation starts as the train lurches its way to the city's edge. A telephone number is whispered with a gay smile. Cupid does not always haunt Central Park.

And the tragedy of the underground tubes.

There is a sharp drop of four feet from the station platforms to the shining rails of the track below. A swaying express lurches into the tiled station. There is a subdued scream lost in the thunder of the approaching cars. A figure clad in a bright frock, a flesh-colored hose and a saucy hat, dives down to the bed of wooden ties.

Women, and even men, faint at the sight. Brakes are jammed on suddenly. But it is impossible to stop in time. Traffic is tied up for hours as wheel trucks are jacked up and fragments of a body salvaged for the morgue.

"Awful!" came the hoarse whisper of the emergency squad repair foreman as he directed the feverish work of his overworked crew on slippery, crimson-stained ties in the Christopher street station. "There isn't anything meaner than a subway suicide. No regard for other people's feelings. Ain't we got rivers and docks all over Manhattan? Yet they have to go and pick a crowded station just to be dramatic."

I would advise young men who want to brush up on their technique and older men who want a lot of laughs to stop by at the Pennsylvania station some night when the sleepers are pulling out. Passengers line up at the top of the stairs leading to their particular Pullman. Some stand in groups eyeing those who came to bid them farewell, with mingled looks of adoration, anxiety, happiness or boredom. Suddenly a warning bell rings. Then everybody goes into a clinch. It is a sight for the eyes of the romanticist. Young wives are bidding their husbands and daughters; mothers are sending away daughters with voluble words of caution and instruction; prim aunts are bestowing dutiful kisses on the brows of patently embarrassed nephews.

There is a world of pathos and humor here. Bridal parties are sent scurrying down the black steel steps in a shower of rice followed by a red cap with a rill as wide as his face. And I saw one of the most beautiful women that it has ever been my good fortune to gaze upon hungrily devour a thin, bespectacled, runt of a fellow who had protruding horse teeth and a laugh that was close to a giggle, with kisses that were poignantly sweet. He bore up bravely under her tide of emotion and languidly waved her a farewell after cautioning her not to get lipstick on his cheek. I wanted to drop-kick him over the steep railing down into the tunnels.

Politicians Are Worried How real this religious issue is can hardly be determined, but it is very, very real in the minds of the politicians. The attitude of some influential southern Democrats—and it must be remembered that the south is still predominantly dry, Protestant and anti-Smith—is that Smith had his big moment at Madison Square Garden in 1924 on the home grounds and that the golden moment will never return. On the other hand, of course, it is also held that McCado's big moment also slipped away at the same time.

Washington, April 16.—Senator Borah's prediction that Governor Al Smith of New York would turn prohibitionist if he were nominated for the presidency serves to emphasize all over again the confusion that continues to reign in the Democratic party.

It must have been noted ere this that three men conceded good chances for the Democratic nomination—Smith, Senator Jim Reed and Governor Ritchie of Maryland—are all wets and that the only outstanding dry candidate, W. G. McCado, is generally conceded to have lost strength.

Yet it will be admitted that the backbone of the Democratic party, the south and west, is dry.

And considering that fact, it does seem a little early to blot the crusading Mr. McCado from the picture without offering someone else at least equally as strong to stand as the hope of the Democratic drys.

The confusion within the party ranks is only matched by the confusion of the innocent bystander who observes that there are some forty-odd credits in the party when 1928 is discussed and that each faction insists that its own method is the only way to save the party.

Straddle Is Predicted The one thing that seems most unlikely at this time is that the party will nominate a wet candidate and run him on a wet platform. Some of the most astute politicians declare that the party would promptly split into two factions if any such course were adopted.

Most political experts seem to think that there will be a wet candidate on a straddling platform and that the issue will be soft-pedaled as effectively as possible. Hardly anyone but Borah has gone so far as to suggest that Smith will pose as a dry, but Borah is no wind-bag given to talking through his hat.

There are numerous substantial Democrats who will tell you that the party is nearly all set to sidetrack both Smith and McCado and agree on a strong candidate. But there are a surprising number of others who insist that the Smith-McCado fight is the big thing before the party, that it must be fought out if the party is to live and that either Smith or McCado could run from three to five million votes ahead of the next best Democrat who could be named. Still others either can't see any possibility but McCado or any satisfactory outcome but Smith.

The tremendous undercurrent caused by the religious issue cannot be ignored, although one seldom hears of it in public. Great numbers of Catholics will never believe that anything but his religion could keep Smith from the nomination and some anti-Smith politicians declare privately that if Smith is not nominated, the party candidate will obtain hardly a Catholic vote. This latter type insists that a mere handful of Democratic Catholics voted for Davis in 1924.

There is a world of pathos and humor here. Bridal parties are sent scurrying down the black steel steps in a shower of rice followed by a red cap with a rill as wide as his face. And I saw one of the most beautiful women that it has ever been my good fortune to gaze upon hungrily devour a thin, bespectacled, runt of a fellow who had protruding horse teeth and a laugh that was close to a giggle, with kisses that were poignantly sweet. He bore up bravely under her tide of emotion and languidly waved her a farewell after cautioning her not to get lipstick on his cheek. I wanted to drop-kick him over the steep railing down into the tunnels.

This Complicates Things Considerable

This is the Range That Cooks With the Gas Turned Off

The Chambers cooks a 10 lb. ham with 45 minutes of gas instead of the customary four hours! After 45 minutes you turn the gas OFF and the retained heat does the cooking. Best of all—you don't have to watch it. Instead you enjoy the afternoon driving or at the theater.

This is the range that every new housekeeper wants and the one that every experienced one deserves. It quickly pays for itself in gas and food bill savings.

Leading Opinions on Prohibition

BY NON-ASPIRANTS FOR OFFICE.

While every effort is made to make it appear that the prohibition law is unpopular, a careful probing of the opinions of prominent men and women in every walk of life will show conclusively that prohibition has the support of the solid elements of American society.

"Anything that has been said in favor of prohibition in days gone by has been fully confirmed by the experience through which we are now passing."—John M. Young, President, Sweet's Steel Company, Williamsport, Pa.

"In Detroit the favorable effects of prohibition are apparent to even a blind man, and this is despite the fact that we are but across the river from wet Canada and have a large population accustomed to drinking liquor."—Henry M. Leland, former President, Lincoln Motor Company.

"The majority of drinking men have simply stopped drinking, found other pleasures, and are heartily glad of the change."—Wm. Goodell Frost, President, Berea College, Berea, Kentucky.

"Nothing since the application of modern bacteriology to the control of communicable diseases will have so powerful an effect in reducing the incidence of disease and the general death-rate as prohibition."—Haven Emerson, A. M., M. D., Lecturer on Preventable Disease and Public Health Administration at Columbia University and Cornell University Medical Schools.

"Our opinion of the Eighteenth Amendment has changed materially. When the law went into effect we had some doubts as to the possibility of the practical enforcement of the law. Now we have none. . . . Again, at that time we thought the benefit of the amendment would be incalculable—now we know it. Prohibition was, in a sense, our principal gain from the great war; and it is worth our present national debt twice over!"—R. M. Downie, Secretary and Manager, The Keystone Driller Co., Beaver Falls, Pa.

Price alone should never govern either the selection of the fixtures or the plumber to do the work. Assurance of good material and workmanship is certain only when there is no false economy in buying plumbing and when good judgment selects the men to install it.

I will arise and go now, and go to Innistree. And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattles made; Nine bean rows will I have there, and a hive for the honey bee, And live alone in the bee-loud glade.

And I shall have some peace there, for peace comes dropping slow; Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings; There midnight's all a glimmer, and noon a purple glow, And evening full of the linnet's wings.

I will arise and go now, for always, right and day, I hear lake-water lapping with low sounds by the shore; While I stand on the roadway, or on the pavements gray, I hear it in the deep heart's core. —William Butler Yeats: "The Lake Isle of Innistree."

In America But Two Years- English Essay Prize Winner

German Born Local Youth Makes Astonishing Progress in Adopted Land; Contrasts "Verboten-Nation" With the "Land of the Free"—How Germans Felt the Effects of the World War.

Less than two years ago an immigrant boy, 17 years old, stepped off the S. S. Bremen of the North German Lloyd line at Ellis Island, the "Gateway of Opportunity," in New York. America had called to him and in far off Prussia he had heard the call.

Last week this same boy, now 19 years old, read a prize winning essay at the graduation exercises of the Foreign-born English pupils of the local Evening Schools. His was not the halting diction of a foreigner, but the phrases flowed from his lips fluently and without the slightest hesitation.

Only Slight Accent His own father and mother would not have known him if it had been possible for them to hear him read his essay. He did not act like a foreigner and only a slight accent marked him as one who had not been born in this country.

His cheeks flushed with pride, the boy read his stirring essay on national goods. The text of the paper showed that while the boy had given much of his time to learning the language, he had kept up with national and international politics to a greater extent than that usually noticed in boys and girls of his age who were fortunate enough to be born in this country.

That boy is Alfred Olson and his occupation by day is that of a painter in the employ of John Olson, his uncle, German by birth, of Swedish and German parent, who spent all his life before coming to this country in the thriving city of Erfurt in the kingdom of Prussia. The World War hit this section of the German Empire and Alfred Olson's people were affected by conditions there.

That was the principal reason for Olson's coming to America. He decided to emigrate but it was quite some time before he finally boarded the ship which was to bring him to the land of freedom. There were quota regulations to be observed and meanwhile he had to support himself by working at whatever he could find while waiting for his assignment.

Much Red Tape Twice he applied for a visa but on both occasions the quota had been filled just before he reached the offices. On the third try he was more fortunate and it was but a short time after that when he sailed.

Although He Was Born in Germany Olson Not a Citizen for 10 Years.

Although Alfred Olson was born in Germany he did not become a subject of the Kaiser until he was 10 years old.

The German law states that a boy one or both of whose parents are foreigners, cannot become a subject until his parent or parents are naturalized.

Alfred Olson's father is Swedish, a brother of John Olson and Walter Olson of this town. His mother is German. His parents were married in Germany and Alfred was born there but it was not until the boy was 10 years old that his father became naturalized.

True, he says, the country is approaching stability under the effects of the Dawes plan and the German mark has come up in value until it is as near par as it has been since 1914.

He has several humorous incidents to describe concerning the German mark and its fluctuations in the days just after the war.

Trucks for Money In one factory he was employed in the office and had charge of the payroll of 100 men. They needed trucks to bring the money from the bank and they didn't consider it necessary to employ guards with rifles and riot guns to protect it.

Money to Burn Theoretically, everybody in Germany was a millionaire. There was money to burn and a lot of it was burned, for it wasn't good for anything else. Billions and billions of dollars were printed on paper but there was no gold in the Imperial treasury to back them up so they were almost worthless.

A Month's Pay He says that his month's pay at one time was a million billions of marks, a sum the significance of which nobody can grasp. This represented about $10 and the paper was printed on was worth more than the face value of the money.

Hard Work It was in one of the Erfurt foundries and the boy was a welder. His job was to lift coils of welding metal weighing from 100 to 200 lbs., and moving it from the stockrooms to the welding department.

Bright Youth

Alfred Olson

America was forced into the conflict.

They feel, he says, that America's entry into the war was an unfortunate circumstance for Germany, something unpleasant that had to be put up with.

Olson is of the timber that makes a good American citizen. He is a lover of freedom, a boy who chafes under unwarranted restraint and he believes that in this country he has found the nearest approach to ideal living conditions.

Compares Countries. So many years of residence of Germany have given him an opportunity to compare that country with this. There is no comparison, he says, for the United States completely overshadows every country in Europe as far as liberty is concerned.

Night school to him is a godsend. He has work for his support but at night he puts his paint brushes away, dons his Sunday best clothes and goes to night school, there to learn more of America's language and its history.

A Big Boy. Young Olson is a tall boy, more than six feet in height and well built. He has become Americanized rapidly and now it would be hard to tell that he is a foreigner from his appearance.

"CHILDREN OF DIVORCE" AT THE STATE SUNDAY Powerful Morality Play Opens 3-Day Run Here—Five Acts Of Vaudeville Today.

Tomorrow brings to the State theater one of the greatest problems ever witnessed in Manchester, "Children of Divorce," a picture which has a myriad of stars for its interpretation and a moral for everybody who sees it.

BUCK JONES IS STAR AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

Appear in "The War Horse" For Two Days at Oak Street Playhouse.

Buck Jones, the man equally at home in a full dress suit or in a boy outfit, is the star of the big feature, "The War Horse," which will begin a two-day engagement at the Circle theater tomorrow evening.

The story was written by Buck Jones, and if this is an example of what the great western horseman can do with the typewriter, then our advice is for him to write all the stories in which he is featured.

"The Sonora Kid" is one of those pictures that just seem to hit the spot. All Tyler's are novel and they have pep and speed, but this one is the fastest and peppiest, also the snappiest that he has ever made.

RAYMOND GRIFFITH IS STAR AT RIALTO

"You'd Be Surprised," an hilarious comedy starring Raymond Griffith, king of stork comedians heads the Rialto theater program today and this evening.

Women in these age classes appear to be acquiring operators' licenses at a rate slightly in excess of young men of corresponding ages, but this may be due in large part to the fact that the young men were first in the field and occupied it for many years before girls began to enter it in large numbers.

There were 46,434 applicants for operators' licenses passed by state police examiners in the past year and approximately eight thousand of them were women.

LENTEN CANTATA HIGHLY PRAISED

South Methodists Present Beautiful Dubois Work; 500 Present.

An audience of over 500 was present last night at the South Methodist Episcopal church, when the Lenten cantata, "Seven Last Words of Christ," by Dubois was given by the church choir of 40 voices.

The director, Archibald Sessions and his singers were highly complimented on the excellence of the production.

The chorus numbers were excellent, one of which in particular is worthy of special mention. "He is Death Guilty," in which fine dramatics were shown but not overdone. The concluding chorus, "Christ we do all adore Thee" was touching.

ANGLERS HERE MUM ON STATE-LEASE LUCK

John Bausola, Who Caught Six Good Trout, Mourns His Shortage of Bait.

Few anglers who yesterday took advantage of the first day of legal fishing on state leased streams reported catches here this morning. No reports had been received at the F. T. Blish Hardware company or the Manchester Plumbing & Supply Company, both centers of anglers' information, today.

John Bausola, who is connected with Barrett & Robbins, another source of sportsmen's news, reports that he caught six fine trout measuring from 10 to 12 inches in length yesterday. He declares he would surely have got the full number allowed by law had his supply of worms held out.

Bausola started to fish a small stream, taking only a few worms for his bait box and leaving his main supply in the car. He got no strikes on the brook but on the lower stream of which the brook was a tributary he caught his six fish, the sixth one only last worm. He is reticent about the locale.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS
NEA Service

This is the seventh chapter in the story of a former war veteran who is going back to France as an advance guard of the Second A. E. F.

To every traveler who expects to visit France there are a few words of advice and warning which, if adopted, should prove to be immensely profitable.

Don't try to smuggle in cigars or cigarettes. The government is... There are many small hotels, where prices are reasonable, and countless cafes where it is possible to get an excellent meal at reasonable prices. And, in hunting for these places, there's always a chance for adventure and education. The French, especially the Parisians, are courteous. And don't forget that they are born dickerers and they respect anyone who will dicker with every transaction.

Procedures are simple. No extravagant vocabulary is required to negotiate a room or a meal. The signs that were effective during the war are just as effective now. Besides, English is spoken at every turn. If you want mail to the States to go quickly ascertain the name of an express boat, mark it on and pay a few centimes more for the privilege. If you sit at a table along the sidewalk in front of a cafe you may sip for hours without a thought of overdoing your welcome. Courteous Police. At first Paris is a maze of little streets—but it soon becomes familiar—gendarmes will tip their hats and give out any information—and don't forget that you can go anywhere in France and get back to Paris within 18 hours. That's how big France is. Buy guidebooks, of course. They contain a wealth of information. But don't stick to the tourist routes.

WHERE YOU BEEN THE LAST COUPLE DAYS? NICE, LANGRES, ST. AIGNAN, METZ—AND LET'S SEE

Get into the byways—see the strange, unusual places. Be different and you'll be a traveler and not a tourist. And leave your soap, cigarettes and matches at home. A 1300-franc fine is a lot of junk, even in France.

TOMORROW: Chateau Thierry. NEW DESIGNS: Snake designs, printed on soft crepes and chiffons, are chosen by Lelong to fashion several coat frocks that are stunning as well as novel.

A Metropolitan Newspaper in a NEW ENGLAND SETTING!

THAT IS A REMARK so often expressed by visiting New York newspapermen who come to Manchester that there must be something about THE EVENING HERALD that gives strangers that impression. And there is. In every department, special efforts are made to keep up to the Metropolitan standard. Here are some simple statements of fact:

- World News
The world news streaming in from the four quarters of the earth on a special I. N. S. wire, six hours and sometimes days ahead of other newspapers circulating here. Compare them daily to verify this.
- Local News
Local news is covered daily by eight writers and the suburban news is covered by a dozen correspondents. All of these work exclusively for THE EVENING HERALD. There is more Manchester news in one issue of THE EVENING HERALD than in a week's issue of other papers circulating here and TODAY'S NEWS IS PUBLISHED TODAY.
- Editorials
HERALD editorials are written in THE HERALD OFFICE within the day of publication. They deal with the topics of the moment in a spirit of justice and humanity and express at all times the convictions of the editors. It is their purpose to be intelligent, to be fair, to be unafraid.
- Sports
Local sport news is always given preference on THE HERALD'S Sport Page. All sports pertaining to Manchester organizations and individuals are covered regardless of where the games are played. Sports of state, national and international importance are covered by three news services, the I. N. S., NEA and United Press. There is no better quartet of reliable sport writers than Davis J. Walsh, Henry L. Farrell, Joe Williams and Billy Evans.

- Cartoons
Besides political cartoons supplied daily by NEA your local paper has employed at considerable expense a Metropolitan cartoonist to draw pictures of local interest. There is not another paper in the east in a town the size of Manchester which hires a cartoonist of this caliber to draw exclusive sketches of purely local events.
- Women's Page
For women and the home THE EVENING HERALD devotes an entire page. It is under the direction of a woman who knows what interests local women. The latest in modes and timely topics concerning the house and home are daily published with the end in view of always applying them to local conditions.
- Features
As to features, a perusal of THE EVENING HERALD is all that is necessary. Comic strips, serial stories, strips for children, columns dealing with the light side of life, pictures of news events as soon as they occur, photographs of celebrities in all walks of life. In short the features constitute a daily tabloid magazine.
- Advertisements
There is just as much news of interest in EVENING HERALD advertisements as there is in the news sections. Daily products of the marts of the world are spread before HERALD readers by advertisers. Whatever is your question of need, it advertisements have ready answer. To advertisers THE EVENING HERALD is the perfect medium to reach prospective buyers. Its circulation takes it into nearly every house in town and the surrounding territory. Its classified department will find a lost stickpin as easily as rent the largest store.

A speaker at a recent banquet of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce said: "I understand you have a newspaper here that refused to publish the salacious details of a New York court trial. Did you write to the editor telling him you approved? I'll wager you did not." THE EVENING HERALD has an OPEN FORUM column for its readers to express opinions on local or other questions of the day. Patronize it. It is for your special benefit. Send your name and address, not for publication but as a token of good faith. Your confidence will be held.

HOLY WEEK MEDITATIONS

"The Folly Of Retrospection"

"Remember Lot's wife."—Luke XVII:32.
By CHARLES HAVEN MYERS, D. D.
Plymouth Church of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, Ohio

Jesus here employs a story out of Jewish folk-lore to impress a spiritual meaning. And it has meaning for us.

In our Lenten meditations it is easy to become reflective. Before we are aware of it we are picturing the days and events that are past. Follows, quite naturally, that we should conclude that "the former days were better than these."

It is one of the tricks of the memory that it recalls for us only that which our natures crave—the pleasant and the lovely—and omits much that is ugly and mean. Thus we are easily deluded into a disparaging of motives and intentions of our contemporaries.

"This is the day that God made; let us be glad and rejoice in it." We are commissioned, each one of us, to help bring this world into the sunlight of Truth. It is like a garden and each of us to till the soil and plant and water it. It grows lovelier with every passing generation.

To be sure, there are noxious weeds and poisonous plants that infest the ground; there are tares among the wheat. But it is a part of religion that lives only in the past.

Now while memory is imitative, imagination, which is a part of faith, is creative. It looks to the future. God's own children are always looking forward toward better things, better society, better standards of living. What could the Christ have meant when He said—

This ruined house in Bethany is said by tradition to be the home of Mary and Martha, where Jesus was often a guest.

"And greater works than these shall ye do"—unless it was a sense of confidence in the sons of men to continue the work of the Kingdom of God.

Lent should mean for us a strengthening of feeble faith, a re-lighting of lamps, a re-girding of the loins. There is so much work of a high order to be done, that we should have little time for idle reflections and empty musings about the days gone by. Jesus said—"God is not the God of the dead but the God of the living." "Truly the harvest is white."

The Super-Six Principle freed to the limit

and performance so smooth that only a stop watch shows how swift

The smoothness with which the Super-Six glides from standing start to high speed is totally different from the violent lunge with which high powered cars usually get under way.

And so in all it does there is such effortless ease that driver and passengers hardly realize how great is their performance supremacy.

The smooth, silent and elastic flow of power from the released Super-Six principle has set a new standard of unusual performance. At any speed and for any distance you demand you will never feel the slightest effort is exerted by motor or chassis.

You may never require such speed or power. But it is important that this ability results from absolute smoothness and freedom from vibration. The over-capacity means reserve ability for any task. It means minimum wear and repair need. It means easy riding without fatigue.

Until you ride in the Hudson Super-Six there is a motoring thrill you never can know.

Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. All Chrysler cars are protected against theft under the Fedco System.

Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers, in designing and developing the six cylinder Chrysler "60", strove for a quality of road-ease and road-readiness and supreme comfort which would at once set it apart as a car among cars, unprecedented at its price and its class.

The extent to which the Chrysler "60" is dominating its own field, is thus a dream gloriously realized and an ambition splendidly fulfilled.

Mechanically, the "60" has many of the very same features to be found in the higher-priced Chrysler "70" and Chrysler Imperial "80" which include seven-bearing crankshaft, invar-strut pistons, impulse neutralizer, manifold heat control, air cleaner, oil filter, full pressure lubrication, hydraulic four-wheel brakes and shock absorbers.

Come, see the Chrysler "60"—and note the essential fineness of its Standardized Quality manufacture.

You'll recognize it, especially after driving it, as a value utterly unapproached by any other six of medium price.

Mr. Meadows said, as Romaine held her chair for her. 'But I knew you were eager to get back to business, Mr. Curtis.'

CHAPTER XXIV 'WELL, little Spitfire, what did Navratil tell you?' T. Q. took Billy's arm and led her into the dining room.

'Well, we aren't engaged, and I think you'd better mind your own business!' Mrs. Meadows protested, in her cool, modulated voice.

'Oh, yes,' Nyda gave him a long, deep, glowing look. 'Mr. Meadows and I are planning a big surprise for you, my dear. No, don't tense! But I'll guarantee it's something you'll like.'

THE ILLUMINATING FACT

BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE
International Sunday-School Lesson Text, April 17.
Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.--Matt. 16-16.
What's the difference if one believes the Christ to be the Son of God, or the son of Joseph? The Old Testament and every book of the New, excepting James, call Christ the Son of God, and to deny it discredits the whole Word, one replies. Jesus said that upon this confession, He would build His church, and the gates of hell should not prevail against it.

GAS BUGGIES--More Mystery

DEAR HEM, ALL THE WISEACRES IN THIS BURG SNICKERED UP THEIR SLEEVES AT ME AND MY COMPRESSED AIR CAR. YOU WERE THE ONLY GUY WHO DIDN'T THINK I WAS GOODY, SO I'M LEAVING YOU MY INVENTION. NOW THEY'LL ALL GIVE YOU THE HA HA, BUT IF YOU FOLLOW THE INSTRUCTIONS OF THE ENCLOSED MAP, YOU'LL HAVE THE LAUGH ON THEM FOR THE REST OF YOUR LIFE. HERMAN SHNOPS.

HERE'S THE MAP. IT'S A SKETCH OF THE YARD BEHIND THIS GARAGE. STEP OFF TWENTY PACES FROM THE TREE IN A BEE-LINE TOWARDS THE BIG ROCK. THEN TURN LEFT RIGHT-ANGLE AND TAKE FIFTEEN PACES. THAT IS THE SPOT WHERE THE SECRET IS BURIED. DIG DOWN FIVE FEET AND YOU'LL FIND A FORTUNE. AWAITING YOU.

THAT NO ONE SEES YOU. THE PLACE IS BEING WATCHED. OTHERS SUSPECT MY SECRET, AND WILL HESITATE AT NOTHING TO STEAL IT. SO I WARN YOU TO BE ON YOUR GUARD. PHEW! I WONDER WHAT IT IS! WELL HAVE TO KEEP OUR EYES OPEN. LOOK! THERE'S A MAN WATCHING US NOW! I TELL YOU I WASN'T SEING THINGS--HE GOOD RIGHT AT THE WINDOW OF HERMAN'S GARAGE... WHEN HE SEEN ME LOOKING AT HIM HE DUCKED OUT OF SIGHT. IT WASN'T HERMAN'S GHOST EITHER. GHOSTS DON'T CUSS WHEN THEY BUMP THEIR BEANS. WE'RE GOING TO MOVE! I NEVER DID LIKE LIVING ALONGSIDE A GARAGE ANYWAY. LOOK AT THEM EGGS. IF YOU LET ALONE YOU WOULDN'T BE SUCH A WEAKLING THAT YOU DROP EVERYTHING THE MINUTE ANYBODY LOOKS AT YOU.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Bridle paths usually lead to bridal paths.

NOW YOU Ask One A BIBLE TEST

Today's list of questions deals with Biblical events. If you need to look at the answers, you'll find them on another page:

- 1-What scene in Old Testament history does this sketch portray?
2-Who was Bidad the Shuhites?
3-After Rehobam succeeded Solomon as King of Israel, what foreign monarch invaded the country at the head of a powerful army?
4-Give chapter and verse for this quotation: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help."
5-Who was Isaiah's father?
6-How did Peter escape from prison after his arrest by Herod?
7-Who was Tertullus?
8-Where did Paul and his comrades land when they were shipwrecked en route to Rome?
9-Give chapter and verse for this quotation: "And now abideth faith, hope and charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."
10-Where was John when he saw the vision which he described in the Book of Revelation?

A middle-aged man is one who has quit growing on either end, but continues to grow in the middle.

"Are you bothered much with things dancing in front of your eyes?" inquired the oculist. "Yes," admitted the grocer, "and those new garters bother me a lot, too."

Swearing is unknown in the Sioux Indian language. A flick of the finger, denoting scorn, is the most condemnatory of gestures.

SENSE and NONSENSE

There is a law against driving under 16, and there should be one against driving over that many.

"What shall we do with our pedestrians?" "That question will settle itself. Before long everybody will own a car."

Wayne B. Wheeler—Our national back-seat driver.

"Your car is not properly equipped with number plates," said the traffic cop to the tourist. "Where are you headed for?" "The police court, I reckon!"

Wonder what goes with all the second hand cars that won't go.

Motorgrams. Never put off till tomorrow the joyride you can have today. The man who hesitates is run over.

In the pursuit of happiness we are all likely to exceed the speed limit.

There is no use locking the garage door after the car has been taken out for a joyride.

The fellow with the old car is lucky if he runs into nothing but debt.

It is considered all right to blow your own horn, provided it is attached to a high-speed car.

Don't count your chickens if you live near a high road!

Knew His Stuff. The Jones family bought the auto they did because the earnest young salesman—

Laughed at all Mr. Jones' jokes. Told Mrs. Jones she couldn't have a daughter that old.

Told Susie she looked like Mary Pickford, and dated her for a dance. Told Willie Jones he had a build like Dempsey.

Said the Jones baby took after both parents. And only smiled when the Jones Alredale nipped him.

A sign over a garage in a small town reads: "Use genuine parts. No substitutes are as good. Ask the man with a wooden leg. He KNOWS."

Ben—"Where's the boy who used to wave a red flag in front of a bull?" Eben—"Oh, he's running a red roadster in front of express trains now."

"Officer, I left my car here a few minutes ago and now it's gone." "It must have been stolen, then." "No, it couldn't be that. It was insured against theft."

Traffic Cop—Did you ever ride a jackass? Driver—No. Traffic Cop—Well, you ought to get on to yourself.

"I think automobiles have done more to demoralize the country than any other one thing." "I can't afford one, either."

Evolution. Ambition of 1870—a gig and a gal. Ambition of 1920—a flapper and a flapper. Ambition of 1950—a plane and a Jane.

Briggs—Why have you got the end wall of your garage on hinges? Griegs—My wife can't always stop the car.

Rub—I have a new attachment for my car. Dub—What is it? "Sheriff's."

One great trouble with all the auto shows was that none of them exhibited a satisfactory parking space.

They say there is much gambling in eggs now, but nobody does more of it than the man who eats them.

Strange that the rising generation is never up till noon.

The Stars and stripes were first carried by an American army in the Battle of Brandywine, September 11, 1777.

D. J. HAYES, FORMERLY OF MANCHESTER, DEAD

Calls Doctor to New Britain Home But Expires Before Physician Arrives.

Daniel J. Hayes of 1395 Stanley street, New Britain, a former Manchester resident, telephoned to a doctor yesterday that he was ill. When the doctor arrived a few minutes later Mr. Hayes was dead. He had apparently died of heart failure.

Mr. Hayes, who was 56 years old, was born in Syracuse, N. Y., later came to Manchester and in 1888 went to the Klondike in the gold rush. He returned to Manchester and later went to Bridgeport, where he was employed in a phonograph factory. After spending some time in Bridgeport he moved to New Britain where he was employed in the foundry of the Russell & Erwin company. He bought out a blacksmithing business in that city and was active in this line of work until his death.

Mr. Hayes returned to his home yesterday after taking his wife on a short trip. He went upstairs and felt the attack coming on. A telephone call brought the doctor to the home right away but it was too late.

He is survived by his wife, four sisters, Mrs. M. J. Dunn, Mrs. M. J. Griffin, and Mrs. Charles E. Taylor of Hartford, and Mrs. Daniel P. Aitken of this town; and three brothers, Dr. P. G. Hayes of Hartford, James P. Hayes of Waterbury and A. H. Hayes, who is a coal dealer and literaryman here.

The funeral, it is expected, will be held on Monday morning in New Britain.

COLORED SHOES

To grace milady's pace this spring come dozens of colored shoe models. Beige, rose and gray form the vanguard of color. But for afternoon and evening each gown can be matched in slippers in satins, kid and even linen.

In 2000 B. C. gold was not the most precious of metals. Gold objects were inlaid with silver, which was more valuable.

Higher Quality at Lower Prices because of increasing Volume Production!

January, 1925—There was introduced a new Chevrolet which scored a tremendous success. Among its many new features were a new and rugged rear axle, an improved unit power plant, a new single-plate disc-clutch, a much stronger frame, semi-elliptic chrome vanadium steel springs, cow and dash-lamps, and new Fisher bodies finished in Duco... $735 f.o.b. Flat, Mich. Coach was $735 f.o.b. Flat, Mich.

August, 1925—Chevrolet announced a new measure of value based on many new quality features—such as motor-driven Klaxon horn, improved sheet metal construction in the bodies, corrugated steering wheel with walnut finish, new headlamp rim construction and a more convenient gear-shift lever. Yet, despite all the additions... the $695 f.o.b. Flat, Mich. Coach was reduced to $645 f.o.b. Flat, Mich.

January, 1926—Another spectacular increase in Chevrolet value—a model offering many mechanical improvements, such as a smoother, quieter motor with three-point suspension, a silent V-belt generator drive, new oil pump, more efficient cooling, an air cleaner, larger brakes, etc. Notwithstanding these improvements... the $645 f.o.b. Flat, Mich. Coach was reduced to $595 f.o.b. Flat, Mich.

and now—

The Most Beautiful Coach In Chevrolet History!

Climaxed all of Chevrolet's previous value triumphs, the Chevrolet Coach of today is acclaimed as the outstanding closed car value of all time. Beautiful new Fisher bodies—paneled and beaded, rakishly low and finished in new colors of genuine Duco... full-cover, one-piece fenders... bullet-type headlamps... AC oil filter and AC air cleaner... finer performance, greater riding comfort and remarkable steering ease! A car so marvelously beautiful that you must see it to appreciate it—Yet the price has been reduced to $595 f.o.b. Flat, Mich.
