

GAMMONS-HOLMAN BUYS BIGELOW MILL

Cheney Brothers Sell Main Street Structure to Growing Concern—Make Machine Tools.

Cheney Brothers today sold the Bigelow mill on Main street nearly opposite Bigelow street to W. B. Gammons, president of The Gammons-Holman Company, one of Manchester's newest industries now located in the old Peter Adams Paper Company plant on Adams street in Buckland. The Gammons-Holman Company will start moving into the Bigelow mill as soon as Cheney Brothers have removed their machinery.

The Gammons-Holman taper-pin reamer business is growing rapidly and the purchase of the Bigelow mill is the first move toward expansion. Cheney Brothers have used the Bigelow mill for emergency purposes only, but have found it too costly to maintain. Charles Cheney, president of the firm, said today that the mill was originally purchased to accommodate an sudden rush in silk weaving orders. The overhead cost in conducting the mill has been too great, however, because of the distance it is from the rest of the plant.

Business Growing

William B. Gammons, president and general manager of the Gammons-Holman Company, told The Herald today that their business has grown to such an extent that a larger, more substantial plant is necessary. The Bigelow mill was not considered for sale, but when Cheney Brothers were approached they were favorable.

The Bigelow mill is a wooden building of factory construction and is two stories high. The property on which it sits fronts on Main street for 120 feet. Its depth is a little over 300 feet. It was built nearly thirty years ago by James Trotter and was occupied by Matchett Brothers of Paterson, N. J., who started the manufacture of silk in the mill. The Matchett concern was a failure and a little over 20 years ago Cheney Brothers purchased the plant from Mr. Trotter. They equipped it with looms for weaving broad goods and it was only used when there was an excessive demand on the looms in the main Cheney plant.

Began in 1919

The Gammons-Holman Company was organized in 1919 for the manufacture of machine tools. In June 1919, William B. Gammons perfected a design of a taper-pin reamer, and immediately began manufacturing it. About a year later Charles W. Holman and Judge Herbert O. Bowers associated themselves with Mr. Gammons and formed the Gammons-Holman corporation. They took over the Adams paper mill which was one of the first paper mills in Manchester.

The taper-pin reamer has been adopted in nearly all the large machine shops in the United States because of the saving it effects in reaming. The company also has a great export trade. In addition to the taper-pin reamer the company manufactures Gammons Helical End Mills and Gammons Helical Chucking Reamers. It also makes special reamers as desired by customers. The last addition to the line is the Parob Expansion Hand reamer. This reamer was designed primarily for reaming holes for wrist pins in automobile engine pistons and has found a large market among automobile manufacturers.

The capital of The Gammons-Holman Company is $29,000. It now employs from twelve to fifteen persons and the value of its annual product is between $75,000 and $100,000.

MACDONALD CONCLUDES NEW ENGLAND VISIT

Meets Mayor Walker in New York Today—In Washington Tomorrow and Thursday.

Boston, Mass., April 19.—Concluding his "Pilgrimage of Sentiment," a trip to historic New England with his late wife thirty years ago, J. Ramsay MacDonald, first labor premier of Britain, and his daughter, Isabel, today journeyed to New York and thence to Washington. In New York the distinguished visitor will meet Mayor Walker. Wednesday and Thursday he will be in Washington for dinners given by the American Federation of Labor and the British embassy. He has an appointment with President Coolidge. Mr. MacDonald and his daughter will sail home a week from today.

EQUAL RIGHTS BILL REJECTED BY THE SENATE

Introduced By Senator Ford, Of New Haven—State Park Plan Also Thrown Out Today.

Hartford, Conn., April 19.—A bill calling for equal rights for all races in restaurants, theaters, and other public places, was rejected by the Senate here today. Senator Frederick L. Lord, of New Haven, protested the unfavorable committee report, saying that he would advise the negro constituents in his district to keep coming to the Legislature until they have secured equal privileges with other races.

Then the Senate rejected also a proposal to appropriate $300,000 for the purchase of a state park in New London county. Another rejection was that of the bill permitting the State Board of Education to confer degrees.

Judges Appointed

The appointment of Albert C. Snyder as justice and Charles G. Rathbone as deputy judge of the Town Court of Bloomfield, were approved by both Houses of the Legislature during the day's session. Governor Trumbull, about the same time, signed a bill creating the Bloomfield Town Court.

In the House the day was marked by the rejection of a proposed constitutional amendment aimed to give representation to both West Haven and Orange, which are now represented by two men, both from West Haven.

Passed from Calendar

The following bills were passed from the House calendar:

Authorizing foreign incorporations to act as executors under wills filed in Connecticut; giving the Milford fire commission jurisdiction over electric wiring and the storing of inflammable materials; authorizing burial payments for children of members of fraternal benefit societies; authorizing New Haven and Hamden to contract for dual use of a sewer system; clarifying a statute concerning the rights of stockholders to investigate stock lists and books of corporation.

Senate Bills

Bills passed from the Senate calendar today were:

Amending the Danielson Borough charter concerning the elections and concerning sidewalk and sewer assessments; amending the Torrington city charter concerning town levies; authorizing the Bloomfield

LEGION MAY TAKE OVER A. & N. CLUB

Local Post Said to Desire Quarters at Main and Forest Streets.

Dilworth-Cornell Post of the American Legion may take over the present Army and Navy club building at Main and Forest streets if present plans can be satisfactorily arranged, it was learned today. A meeting of the board of governors of the Army and Navy club was held last night, but it lacked authority to take any action on the matter.

Drive Now On

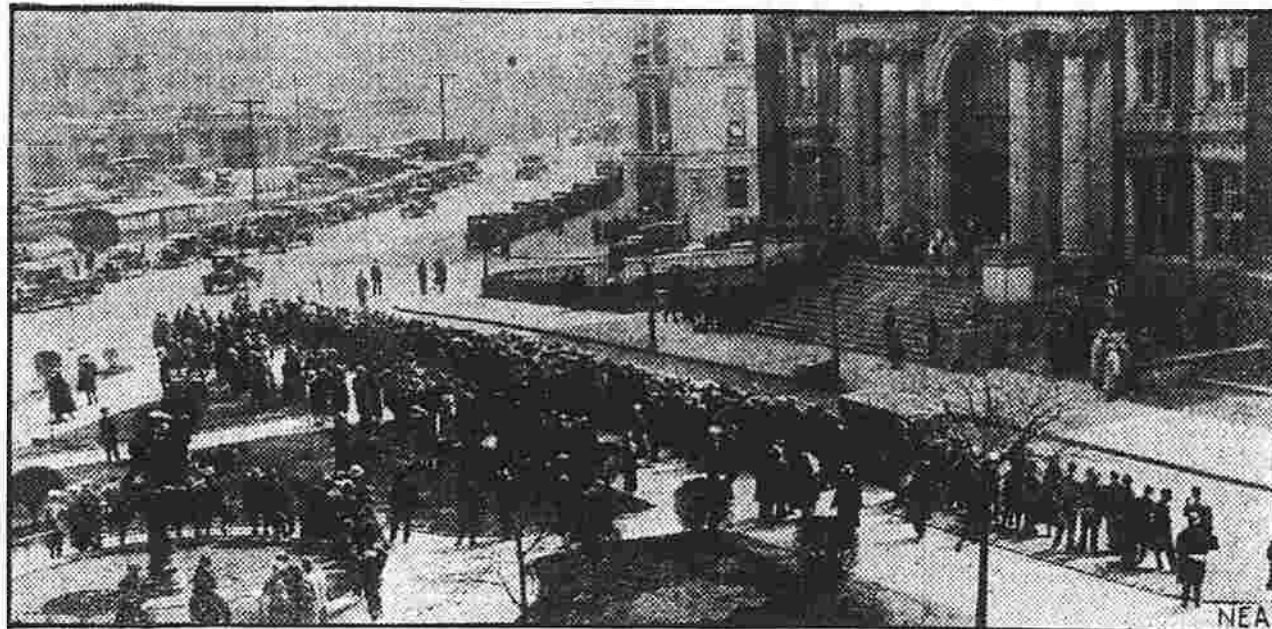

The local post of the American Legion is making a drive for members at the present time and before it is concluded nearly 400 World War veterans will be enrolled. The Army and Navy club has been losing rather than gaining in membership, it is said. The Legion members of the post have expressed themselves as desirous of obtaining the attractive quarters at Main and Forest streets.

Different Memberships

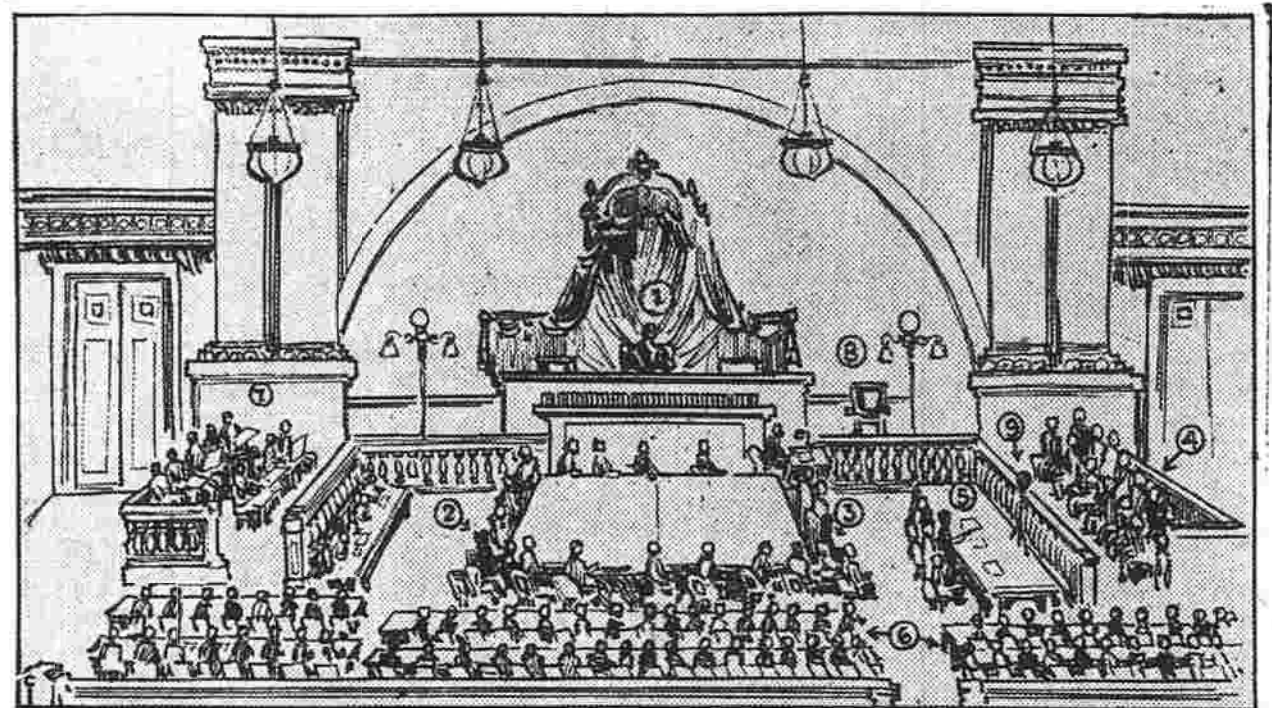

The Army and Navy club was organized upon the return of the bulk of Manchester's soldiery from overseas. Cheney Brothers allowed the present site for a club-house and the club building was quickly constructed. The membership is composed of Manchester men who have served in any war for the United States. The American Legion post here was organized after the Army and Navy club and its membership is confined to World War veterans.

Before any definite action can be taken a vote of approval must be passed by both the membership of the Legion and of the Army and Navy club.

PLAN TO WIPE OUT DANGEROUS CORNER

Henry Schaller Asks Selectmen to Surface Point at Center and Olcott Streets.

Henry A. Schaller, proprietor of Schaller's garage at Center and Olcott street, appeared before the Board of Selectmen last night offering to give the town enough land to erase the dangerous corner which the trolley crossing and bend in the highway forms at that point. Mr. Schaller says that he has seen several accidents at the corner and many more near crashes. He presented a map of the property showing how the town could construct roadway across the corner, his land and allow traffic going east to get out of the way of approaching trolley cars.

The Selectmen immediately referred the matter to the highway committee for investigation. The Connecticut company owns a right of way at only property owners concern will have to be consulted before any action can be taken.

Three Absent

Only four Selectmen were present at last night's session which was a special one. Mayor Robert V. Treat, Senator Robert J. Smith and Harry W. Keeney were absent. Thomas J. Rogers acted as chairman. John Hyde filled his usual capacity as secretary and the other selectmen present were Carl Johansson and Wells Strickland.

The first business last night was a hearing on the construction of sidewalks and curbing on the south side of Spring street from South Main street around to Comstock road. Miss Marion Richmond and Miss Ruth Chapman, George A. Cowles and F. Ernest Watkins were the only property owners present. Miss Richmond and Miss Chapman at first objected to the construction, but finally consented. A four foot walk with concrete curbing was ordered in by the Selectmen in executive session. The work, will, no doubt, be done immediately since the contractors are working in this section.

Routine Business

The contract with Ahern Brothers, sidewalk builders was brought before the board, approved and signed. Town Engineer Bowen brought up the question of straightening lines on Foster street so that sidewalks can be laid there without cutting the handsome trees. The matter will be investigated by the highway committee and it is possible that a hearing will be called.

The attention of the board was called to the condition of Cooper street. The highway committee has investigated and the town force will soon scarify and resurface that highway.

F. O. Goeben of the Pine Forest Realty Corporation was before the board and his map of the new development now on file will be changed to allow for another road connecting the roads in the development with Adams street.

PUT SCREEN STAR IN ROGERS' JAIL

John Gilbert Tells Crazy Story to Police and Draws 10 Day Sentence.

Beverly Hills, Calif., April 19.—John Gilbert, screen star, was cooling his heels in Mayor Will Rogers jail here today, and unless the intercession of friends prevail, he will remain there for the next nine days. Gilbert pleaded guilty late yesterday to a charge of disturbing the peace, and Police Judge Seth Strelinger sentenced him to ten days in jail. He was placed in a cell immediately.

According to police, Gilbert appeared at the police station on the night of April 11 in a highly-excited condition and demanded the arrest of "some friend." He was unable, however, to remember the friend's name. He became so insistent that police arrested him. He was released next day on $25 bail.

MRS. LYDIG DENIES SHE SOLD HER SON

Society Leader Said She Kept Silent For Years Because She Was Too Proud.

New York, April 19.—"The story that I sold my boy is a lie which I have been too proud to contradict." Breaking silence maintained for many years, Mrs. Philip Lydig, wealthy society leader, who recently went into bankruptcy, today denied the report that she had received $2,000,000 from her first husband, the late W. E. D. Stokes, only after she had surrendered their little son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., to his father following her divorce.

Her Statement

The denial was incorporated in a statement read at a meeting of Mrs. Lydig's creditors.

"You have been told by newspapers that I once received $2,000,000 from the late W. E. D. Stokes, after my divorce from him for giving him back his son and the implication is that I probably still have these millions hidden somewhere," the statement read. "I did not receive a penny from Mr. Stokes for surrendering his son to his father so that he might inherit his father's estate which he has inherited. The story that I sold the boy is a lie which I have been too proud to contradict in the past."

Mrs. Lydig said she had no hidden assets.

EARTHQUAKE IN SPAIN

Lisbon, April 19.—A short, but violent, earthquake shock was felt at Figueira Barros today. The population fled to the open fields in panic. No casualties are reported but there was some property damage.

JUDGE PROBES JUROR'S STORY AT FORD TRIAL

Made Remarks That He Showed He Was Prejudiced Against Detroit's Auto King.

Detroit, Mich., April 19.—A sensation marked the million dollar Ford-Sapiro suit today when it was learned that Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond is investigating serious charges against one of the jurors in the case.

The juror was said to have made remarks since the trial began five weeks ago, indicating a deep-rooted prejudice toward Henry Ford, the billionaire defendant. The charges, laid before the court by Ford's lawyers, were so serious that Judge Raymond ordered an immediate investigation and called in agents of the Department of Justice to aid him in the inquiry.

May Cause Mistrial

There was possibility that the investigation would result in a mistrial being declared. On the other hand, the juror in question might be dismissed and the trial continue with only eleven jurors. Aaron Sapiro, the so-called cooperative king, who sued Ford for $1,000,000 damage, was in no way connected with the incident, according to information reaching International News Service.

"I never heard of it," said William H. Gallagher, chief of Sapiro's counsel, when asked about the report. "I know nothing about such an investigation."

Provide Affidavits

The Ford attorneys were said to have given the judge a number of affidavits of statements made by the juror, which showed prejudice toward the auto king. One of the remarks was said to be, in effect, that the juror would render a verdict favorably to Sapiro although weeks of testimony remain unheard.

It was learned that the judge held an hour's conference with the juror last night in his chambers at the federal building here.

The juror was said to have denied the charges but the court ordered a further inquiry while the trial is continued.

Senator James A. Reed, chief of Ford counsel meanwhile was reported recovered from an attack of indigestion he suffered yesterday.

FRACTURES A LEG IN SKATE 'CRASH'

Billy Haberern, Eight, Is First Victim of Roller Craze In Manchester.

Manchester's first serious roller-skating accident occurred last night when eight-year-old William Haberern, of 3 Purnell Place, fell and broke his left leg. There have been numerous minor mishaps since the sport came into vogue here recently in emulation of college students, but this is the first time any skater has been badly hurt.

Billy denies he was "speeding" when he fell on Maple street near Cottage street early last evening but his father is convinced he must have been, for the leg is fractured in several places below the knee. At any rate, Billy's father said to another son:

"There will be no more roller skating in this family. If I catch any of you kids with a pair on again, I'll smash them."

Billy is in the fourth grade at the Nathan Hale school and will be absent for several weeks as a result of his experience. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Haberern, child's parents, have secured a bone specialist to set the fracture late this afternoon.

NEW HAVEN FLYER DERAILED IN R. I.

Passengers Hardly Jarred But New Engine Had to be Procured to Proceed.

New Haven, Conn., April 19.—The New Haven railroad's crack Everglades Limited was delayed an hour at Wood River Junction, Rhode Island, today when the tender of its engine was derailed. The train had slowed up at a switch when the derailment occurred and passengers were hardly jarred.

The derailment occurred at 6:02 a. m., according to the report submitted to railroad officials here following the incident, and a new engine was sent down from Providence to carry the train to Boston.

IODINE TREATMENT MAY SAVE BOWERS

Sleeping Sickness Cure, Just Announced, Used on Local Man Three Weeks.

Epidemic encephalitis, commonly known as the "African sleeping sickness" which has baffled physicians for centuries has been effectively treated and in several instances completely cured by the use of iodine according to an announcement today by Dr. F. J. Farnell of Providence, who has devoted many years to research work in that field.

Judge Herbert O. Bowers, of Manchester has been suffering from the disease for the past eight weeks, and is now well on the road to recovery. Dr. N. A. Burr, Judge Bowers' physician told The Herald today that the cases Dr. Farnell cures are very similar to the local one. For the past three weeks Dr. Burr has been following the treatment which Dr. Farnell outlines below.

The progress made by Dr. Farnell has been under discussion by the American college of physicians and other medical bodies for the past year and much interest has been shown in the method of treating the puzzling disease. According to the belief of physicians the successful use of iodine for the cure of sleeping sickness opens up an extensive field for research work to determine other uses of the solution in combating diseases now unsolved.

The theories of Dr. Farnell in the use of iodine for sleeping sickness, reduced to simple language appeared to be the use of a solution to withdraw water from the tissues of the brain which is a serious condition caused by the disease.

"Sleeping sickness," Dr. Farnell explained, "is I have found, really the direct result of inflammation of the brain, due probably to a filterable virus. The result of this condition has been small hemorrhages and water in the brain."

"Realizing that the solution of iodine required water, I put it in the blood in a concentrated state. Placed in the blood stream it took the necessary water from the tissue of the brain relieving the pressure there. The iodine also may have some effect upon the disease itself."

The method of applying iodine for the cure of the disease is by means of a hypertonic solution. Dr. Farnell declared. Much depends upon the method of preparation. The solution injected contained 150 to 300 grains of iodine without damage to the body. The use of iodine by injection into the body in large quantities has for years been beyond the scope of physicians because of the damage to the human body.

Publicity Man, of Elmhurst To Be Foreman; 63 Tales- men Examined—Judge Attempts to Speed Up Trial But Fails.

Courthouse, Long Island City, N. Y., April 19.—Only one juror, William E. Young, publicity man, of Elmhurst, had been obtained up to 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the trial of Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and her lover, Henry Judt Gray, accused of the murder of the woman's husband.

The jury box had been emptied five times of talemens. Sixty-three talemens in all had been questioned up to this hour, when the sixth group was sworn in for questioning. Eight hours and a half already had been occupied in the tedious task of choosing a jury.

Tries to Speed Up

Justice Townsend Scudder tried to expedite selection of the jury today, making a plea from the bench to the talemens and lawyers, asserting that never in the history of Queens county had a panel been exhausted without a jury being obtained.

At 12:30 the sixth group of talemens was summoned to the jury box and sworn in for questioning.

LONG DRAWN BATTLE

Courthouse, Long Island City, N. Y., April 19.—Faced with the prospect of a long drawn out battle to obtain a jury to try Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judt Gray on charges of murder of Albert Snyder, the woman's husband, Justice Townsend Scudder, presiding, today made a plea at the opening of court, that special efforts be made to obtain the jury before the panel is exhausted.

"Never in the history of Queens county," said Judge Scudder, "has it been necessary to swear in a special panel or seek a new jury list."

"Always a jury could be readily obtained. Let us see to it, gentlemen (he was addressing twelve new talemens who had been sworn in the jury box) that special efforts be made to obtain the jury before the panel is exhausted."

Defendants Arrive

The two defendants, Mrs. Snyder and Gray had just taken their seats when the judge made his appeal.

As yesterday, the blonde Mrs. Snyder was dressed entirely in black. For the first time she glanced around at the spectators. Examination of the talemens was then resumed. Fifty were questioned by lawyers for the state and defense yesterday and none accepted.

Share Table

The animosity of Mrs. Snyder and Gray was emphasized this morning by the way they shared the defense counsel table. A piece of white tape was nailed across the table. On one side of the tape was pasted a large "S" and on the other a "G." Mrs. Snyder's attorneys kept all their records on the "S" side and Gray's lawyers clustered around the "G" end.

In rapid succession four talemens were excused because of conscientious scruples against capital punishment.

William E. Young, publicity man, of Elmhurst, was accepted at 11:33 o'clock this morning as the first juror in the Snyder-Gray murder case. He will act as foreman of the jury. His acceptance followed a conference among Mrs. Snyder and her lawyers.

Young was the fifty-eighth talemens examined. He is 38 years old and of an intelligent appearance.

Mrs. Snyder studied him intently as he took seat No. 1 in the jury box. Gray showed little interest in him.

CHURCH-STATE DEBATE ENDED, SMITH ASSERTS

Governor Says He Believes He Made His Stand Clear In His Letter.

Abseccon, N. J., April 19.—Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, considers the church-state debate ended with his letter to Charles C. Marshall, in which he set forth his credo as an American Catholic, in reply to an article by Marshall in the Atlantic Monthly. Following the publishing of the governor's letter, Marshall wrote a second statement, seeking to strengthen his contention that Roman Catholicism and the American constitution conflict.

This the governor will leave unanswered, as he believes that his original reply, in which he said that there was no conflict between church and state as the two were entirely separated, fully answered the question and made clear his stand on the issue.

Half Hour of Oratory

An even half hour of oratory by Frank C. Quinlan, representative from Meriden, followed by a talk of equal length by Minority Leader Citron of Middletown, failed to convince the Lower House this afternoon that the time has come to compel all automobile owners to bond or insure themselves to the amount of $10,000 to meet damages arising from accidents.

Favored Amendment

Representatives Peasley of Cheshire, and Merrill of East Hartford, favored the Quinlan amendment, which was opposed by House Leader Averill and Representative Eddy, of North Canaan.

Rockville ELABORATE PLANS FOR CRYSTAL LAKE Proprietor Bokis Prepares For Next Month's Open- ing—Personal Notes.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockville, April 19.—George Bokis, proprietor of Sandy Beach Park, Crystal Lake, is making elaborate plans for the opening next month and has arranged for an excellent musical program by John Doherty's Happy Boys consisting of John Doherty, violin and leader; Omer Graupner, pianist and baritone soloist; Jack Keeney, saxophone and clarinet; John Yanton, trumpet; Henry Murphy, banjo and vocalist; Edward Doherty, trombone; Maurice Spurling, drums and xylophone. Leader Doherty is preparing a fine program for the opening Sunday, May 22, and will be in readiness to entertain every Sunday thereafter.

Mr. Bokis will provide a special musical program every Sunday commencing May 22 and will also offer during the season some of the highest and newest attractions ever presented at Crystal Lake or any other summer resort in Connecticut.

The first big attraction which has already been announced is a State Championship Orchestra contest open to any team in the state whose members are not more than 18 years of age. Three beautiful silver cups will be awarded for first, second and third prizes. Teams of not less than six or not more than eight pieces are eligible for the contest which will be held Saturday, June 18. Entries to the contest may be mailed with names and instruments to be played to George Bokis, Rockville, Conn. Bill Tasilo, leader of the Governor's Foot Guard Band and one of the best known band and orchestra directors in New England, generally recognized as the Paul Whiteman of Connecticut; Edward C. Elliott, Jr., trombone soloist of the Governor's Foot Guard Band and conceded to be the finest trombone player in the state and George H. Waddell, town treasurer of Manchester, will be asked to act as judges. Entries will be received by Mr. Bokis until Saturday, June 4. Klwanis, Rotary and Y. M. C. A.'s in several towns and cities are assisting the young musicians of their respective communities and will enter orchestras in the coming championship June 18 at Sandy Beach. With very little effort Rockville and Manchester can furnish at least six young orchestras for the contest. Three orchestras have already entered.

Pocahontas Anniversary.—Kiowa Council, No. 26, D. of P. will hold their 16th anniversary in Red Men's hall on Thursday evening, April 28 at 8 o'clock. The following program has been prepared by the committee in charge: Readings by Miss Anna Hall and Miss Redding of St. Bernard's school. Miss Redding is a very talented elocutionist. Singing and dancing act by Anna Catherine and Cecilia Trapp. Magic stunts by Francis Kuhnley.

Modern and old fashioned dancing will be furnished by Stein's orchestra. John Larry will prompt the old fashioned dances.

Newsy Notes.—Court Salsic, No. 32, Foresters of America, will hold a sitting of its pitch tournament Tuesday evening in K. of C. hall. A large attendance is expected as there is a close contest for honors in the series. Roger J. Murphy leading up to the present time.

The Past Chief's club will hold their annual banquet on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in Red Men's hall. A chicken dinner with all its fixings will be served. Husbands, wives and sweethearts of the members will be invited. A surprise entertainment is being planned by Mrs. George Herzog who is chairman of the entertainment. Mrs. Jennie Meyers has charge of the banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. John Corey and son, Jack, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sotetzer of Springfield, Mass., were the guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wenzke of Thompson street.

Andrew Fay of East street, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks is very much improved.

Mrs. Raymond Green and daughters, Shirley and Norma of Amsterdam, New York are spending several weeks with Mrs. Emmaline Ludwig of Orchard street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woods of Norwood, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fay of East street.

Mrs. Agnes Miller and children of Thomas street were the week-end guests of her parents in Stamford.

Miss Alma Liberty of the William Light Co. is substituting for Mrs. Michael Cosgrove in the local office.

Miss Alberta Smith of Amsterdam, New York, is the guest of Madeline Ludwig of Orchard street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Herzog and family, Councilman John and Mrs. Herzog, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hewitt, Mrs. Charles Benheimer, Mr. and Mrs. John Waltz, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Waltz, Miss Doris Waltz, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ludke and son, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Waltz, George Simpkins and son Percy, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Skinner attended the fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waltz of West Hartford at the home of Mrs. Waltz's sister, Mrs. Fred Bossing in Glastonbury, on Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Waltz were presented with a purse of $40.

The Fire department was called out at 2:30 Monday afternoon to a fire in a shed on South street.

Mrs. William Montgomery returned home Friday from the Hartford hospital.

Mrs. Bertha Ellis and sons, Palmer and Arnold, and Mrs. Fred Ellis of Hartford were the guests Sunday of Mrs. Catherine Waltz of Mountain street.

Mrs. O. Ziebarth and Joseph Swadek of Hartford were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ziebarth of Grove street on Sunday.

MISS POLLARD ENDS CHURCH WORK HERE Religious Director Leaves Town Today—To Marry Next June 1.

Miss Mabel M. Pollard, director of religious education at the South Methodist church for the past year, and who has just terminated her services with the church, was honored last evening by the young people of the Epworth League. After a short business meeting attended by sixty Leaguers and their friends, adjournment was made to the banquet hall for the farewell to the leader who has won the esteem and affection of the young people during her short stay with them.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with streamers of yellow and green paper. A season of jolly games was enjoyed after which a friendship circle was formed. A number of the young people home from college for the Easter vacation were present and made short speeches, humorous and serious. Among them were several formerly active in the work of the League, including Annie Strickland, Margaret Lewis, Laura Gates, Sherwood Mercer, Samuel Crockett and Myron Burr.

hall where they bade her farewell. This morning one of her young people had left an envelope for her with the following anonymous poem:

To Miss Mabel Pollard.
I'd like to tell you somehow
My dear, when you have gone
We're going to wish that somehow
You were with us right along.

From day to day we'll miss you
No foolin'—that's all true—
'Cause no one else could love you
As much as us kids do.
(Except Mr. Brennan).

And somewhere, somehow, sometime each day
We're going to miss your friendly way
And wish somehow you'd be here
Every day of every year.

Miss Pollard left today for the annual New England Southern conference which is being held in New Bedford, Mass., this week.

During her stay in Manchester she has been efficient in bringing up the attendance of the young people to a point never before reached at the South Methodist church. She has instituted various activities to hold the interest of the younger members of the congregation and was instrumental in organizing a branch of the Campfire Girls.

On occasions that demanded it she has substituted for the pastor in the pulpit. She has put on many biblical plays and pageants, and has assisted at many entertainments at the church since coming here.

On her return from the conference she will go to her home at Everett, Mass., to prepare for her marriage on June 1 to Rev. Harold Roy Brennan of Chelsea, Mass. The ceremony will take place in the Mount Bellingham Methodist church at Chelsea. Rev. Mr. Brennan was recently called to the pastorate of the Methodist church at Tilton, N. H., a place where Miss Pollard has many friends as both Mr. Brennan and his bride to be were graduated from Tilton Academy. Miss Pollard later training for Christian service at the School of Religious Education, Boston University.

Miss Mabel M. Pollard.

Robert Wilson, president of the League then addressed Miss Pollard who arose and was immediately greeted by a hearty round of applause. Mr. Wilson in a few well chosen words expressed the high regard in which they held her and their regret that she was leaving them and earnest wishes for her success and happiness in the future in perhaps a wider range of usefulness in the work of the church. He assured Miss Pollard that her kindness and geniality had endeared her to every one, and in behalf of her friends in the Epworth League he presented her with a purse of gold and a beautiful corsage of pink sweet peas.

Miss Pollard who was visibly touched by the feeling of affection displayed, thanked them for their generous gifts and assured them she would always have a warm place in her heart for the young people of the South Methodist church. She had come among them a stranger, she said, but they had received her with a cordial welcome and had worked with her and cooperated in every way possible for the good of the League and the church in general. She was leaving them with a feeling of deep regret that the kindly relations which existed between them were about to be severed, but their mutual interest in the Christian life and the fatherhood of God, as she had tried to explain it to them, would bind them in bonds that could never be severed.

Sandwiches, cake and cocoa were served by the committee in charge, the Misses Little, Crockett and Lewis. After the party the girls formed an escort of honor for Miss Pollard to her room at Teachers'

There will be a meeting of captains and managers in the Minor Division of the Junior League tonight at 8 p. m., to discuss rules and regulations of their division and to make out their schedules. The following teams will be represented: Warriors, Polish A. C. Oaks and Hillard street.

Manager Scheldge of Highland Park entered his team last night but has not yet been assigned a position in the league. Highland Park will no doubt give a good account of themselves judging from their tentative line up. This team will be assigned when their complete line-up is submitted. The Polish A. C., a new and recently organized club under the leadership of Manager Golas is another promising aggregation. Any other teams interested in playing are cordially invited to get in touch with the director of the Community Club. More interest in amateur baseball among the younger fellows has been manifest this season than ever before according to many of the old timers.

The Major Division of the Junior Baseball League received another entry of the Crescents under the leadership of Herbert Wright. The North Ends, Arrow, Crescents and it is hoped that a team representing Buckland will play for the honors in this 20 year old division.

The captains and managers of these teams are asked to complete their list of players as soon as possible regarding number and age. This will enable them to get their schedule outlined and start them playing that much earlier.

Lady Roberts Lodge, Daughter of St. George, will hold its regular meeting in Tinker hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A social hour and refreshments will follow the business.

FOREST FIRE DANGER IS ALMOST PASSED

Only One Serious Blaze in Maine Reported Today in New England.

Boston, Mass., April 19.—Reports from sections of New England that have been swept by forest fires during the past week today showed that on the whole the situation has become less grave.

The only fire remaining serious today was near Waterboro, Maine, over 1,000 acres of white pine timberland being swept over. A volunteer corps of several hundred men was mustered from Waterboro, Limerick, Hollis and several other towns to prevent the fire from invading the residential sections.

RED CROSS STARTS LIFE SAVING CORPS

Manchester Swimmers to Receive Standard Instruction at School Street Rec.

A branch of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps is being started in Manchester and classes will begin sessions at the School Street Recreation Center next week. Miss Ruth Calhoun, director of the Rec will begin classes for women on Thursday evening of next week and men's classes will be started on Wednesday.

Members of the Recreation Centers are privileged to join the classes but non-members will be obliged to pay a nominal charge as they have done in the regular swimming classes. It is the aim of Miss Calhoun to have a flourishing life saving corps in Manchester, something that is new in this town.

Receipts Certification

As soon as the pupils of the course are sufficiently advanced examinations will be given by Captain Miller of Boston, district supervisor for New England. Those who qualify will receive the full Red Cross certification. Miss Calhoun is a registered examiner and has been giving instruction in life saving since her graduation from the New Haven Normal School of gymnastics several years ago. She formed a successful corps in Whitinsville, Mass., where she was located before coming to Manchester.

Classes for women will be held on Thursday evening of the hours of 8:30 and 9:30 and the men's classes will be held at the same hour on Wednesday evening.

New swimming classes for women will begin next week and the old classes will meet for get-together parties on two evenings this week. Classes for beginners will be held on Tuesday from 7 o'clock to 7:45 and on Thursday at the same hour. Advanced pupils will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:45 and intermediates on Thursday at the same time.

DOUBLE BILL AT STATE WEDNESDAY NIGHT ONLY

"Ice Flood" and "Quarantined Rivals" on Tomorrow's Program.

Festival Week at the State theater ushers in two of the biggest features in the history of the local playhouse tomorrow when "The Ice Flood" and "Quarantined Rivals" will be shown. The former picture is starring Kenneth Harlan and Viola Dana while the latter has for its leading man Robert Agnew, the handsomest juvenile in the moving pictures today.

"The Ice Flood," based on a magazine story by Johnstone McCulley, "The Brute Breaker," is a lively, thrilling story, with its locale in the timber regions of northern America.

To make the snow and timber scenes as realistic as possible, the entire company, numbering some sixty persons, spent almost three months on location in northern Oregon, photographing the most important sequences of the picture in the actual locale described by the author.

The story revolves around a pair of lovelorn swains who are after the same girl. One of them has aroused the jealousy of a barber by a flirtation with his lady friend, the manufacturer. Through a chain of quite logical circumstances they all find themselves quarantined in the same house. To this situation is added the person of a real tough plumber who wants to be paid overtime for the period of his incarceration. The matter is further complicated by the fact that the young lady's mother favors one young man while the daughter likes the other. Love, of course finds a way but in this instance the way is a long path of funny things that should be seen to be appreciated.

"Children of Divorce," which is shown for the last time tonight, concerns itself with three young persons who reach maturity without the benefit of parental love or advice.

ABOUT TOWN

A warranty deed was filed at the town clerk's office today transferring a lot on Stephen street from Elman and Rolston, owners of the Marvin Green tract, to Robert J. Dewey. The sale was made in December of last year. The lot measures 160 by 60 feet and is restricted to a one-family dwelling.

The ornamental stone entrance to the Center Springs park on Main street, north of the Center, has been completed and the band on both sides has been graded by Park Department employees. Planting and repairs on the fence will be completed in a short time.

The smoker and dinner to have been held by Co. G, 169th Regiment, C. N. G., tomorrow night has been postponed until Wednesday night of next week.

Mrs. W. W. Robertson of Hillard street, was discharged from the Memorial hospital yesterday.

Theodore Robbins, of 331 Oak land street went home from the Memorial hospital yesterday.

THE CATHOLIC CONTROVERSY.

It was rather to have been expected that Governor Al Smith would decline to engage in further controversy with Lawyer Marshall concerning the attitude of the Roman Catholic church toward secular governments, after he had made clear his personal conviction that there was no power in any church superior to American constitutional law. Mr. Marshall's reply to Governor Smith's statement, maintaining that the Catholic church does teach, in its parochial schools, certain principles of paramountcy of the church over all governments, does not call for a rejoinder by Smith but is a matter to be taken up by Catholic church legalists if they so desire—which they probably will. The governor's interest in the subject would seem to be limited, by the circumstances, to his own individual responsibilities as between church and state, and it would be a captious critic who would hold that he has not set forth his convictions in that respect with the utmost clarity. Smith does not regard himself and by nobody is regarded as a professional exponent of Catholicism. A detailed defense of his church is not in his line.

There are cardinals and bishops of the Catholic church in America on whom would appear to devolve the business of further debate along the line marked out by Mr. Marshall, if the argument is to continue at all, as it undoubtedly will.

Congressman Schuyler Merritt of this state seems to us to have hit the main thought squarely in the center. It is his idea that Governor Smith has completely vindicated himself concerning any suspicion that he might owe a higher loyalty to the Roman church than to the American constitution. At the same time he is very far indeed from agreeing that the New York governor ought to be President of the United States—and for reasons having nothing whatever to do with his religious creed.

That is the exact situation. It is not because Al Smith is a Catholic that he is unavailable as a President, but because he is a member of a political party that has no economic policy whatever, no homogeneity, no program, no present capacity for conducting the affairs of the United States government—a party divided within itself, along sectional lines, on every conceivable question of public welfare.

MISCHIEF MAKER.

Thomas F. Millard, the China correspondent who for twenty years has been recognized as an authority on affairs in that country and who was recently fired by the New York Times because his dispatches did not conform to the policy favored by that newspaper—and promptly engaged by the World to write of the situation exactly as he found it—declares that the policy of all the foreign nations concerned is in danger of complete domination by the Municipal Council of the Shanghai International Settlement. This Council consists of five Britons, two Americans and two Japanese, and is the only foreign authority with which the Chinese people come into close contact.

The policy of the Council is determined by certain business interests and it differs radically, so the correspondent says, from the policies of the home governments. It was the Shanghai Council, and not the British government, for example, which influenced the military authorities there to extend the "defense lines" far beyond the limits of the International Settlement and into purely Chinese territory—where they still remain.

According to Millard, these nine individuals arrogate to themselves the direction of affairs, often with supreme disregard for the ideas of the national governments they in a sense represent but to whom they acknowledge next to no responsibility.

It is in the face of this kind of thing that President Coolidge is trying to keep control of the American end of the Chinese situation. It is this, no doubt, which explains much of the anti-foreignism that is rampant in China. The Shanghai Council would like nothing so much as the conquest and partition of China. It is probably the most mischievous body of nine men in existence in the world.

FLAPPERS AND FLOPPERS.

When sixteen—or was it seventeen—out of the eighteen pupils standing at the top of a high school class of girls, it would seem as though a situation existed that called for some thought. And the very first thought that suggests itself is that this may be an excellent time to quit worrying about the flappers and render our anxiety in the direction of the floppers.

Is it a fact that the feminine mind is, instead of being the inferior quantity, really more amenable to cultural development than that of the male? Very few will maintain that it is inherently so. Ourselves, we have always believed firmly in exact equality as between men and women and with relation to brain equipment—we do not believe that girls can learn more readily than boys, nor the other way round.

But when sixteen or seventeen places of honor out of eighteen in a school class go to girls, while there are plenty of boys in the class, it would certainly tend to show that it is the girls and not the boys who are taking advantage of their opportunities.

What is the idea? Are we playing up school sports—masculine sports—to such an extent that the attention of the young fellows is being diverted from the primary purpose of their school life? Or does the average boy of high school age just naturally have to spend those particular years in the business of going over Fool's Hill? We reject the alternative explanation that boys are lunkheads just because they are boys.

Just the same, it is a rather serious pass if the only well prepared students the schools are to turn out are to be girls. It means that the women will have to do the country's brain-work presently, while the men become the hewers of wood and drawers of water, the prizefighters, the football stars and the dishwashers for their feminine betters.

FISHIN'.

A Manchester sportsman was among those who tried the state-leased trout streams last Friday, the opening day of the season. He went to Penton river about noon. The first person he encountered was a game warden. This official informed him that there were 42 cars parked at one point, where the river crosses a road, as early as three o'clock in the morning. The warden had checked up on 200 anglers on that stream so far during the day. One man had seven trout. Not one of the rest could show a fin. The Manchester man didn't get a bite.

Those folks who have been smitten by a horrid fear that the overwhelming development of the trout fishing fad, by automobile-made sportsmen would result in complete destruction of the trout apparently can set their minds at rest. The protection of the fishing lies precisely in the swarms of tyro anglers who throng the streams. So long as they parade the banks in such numbers nobody is going to catch trout. Old Mr. Trout is going to lie all day snugly hidden away under the roots and the cut-in banks and nibble nary a once. He will do his feeding by night if necessary. And if nobody catches the trout the trout will still be in the streams. Which is good enough for any true altonian. He doesn't go fishing to catch fish. He goes fishing to go fishing. And all he asks is that he shall fish in a stream that has fish in it. Which seems to be likely to be true of the state leased streams so long as anglers advance on the enemy in serried ranks and with the thunderous tramp of a phalanx.

AIR FIRE FIGHTING.

Most interesting is the suggestion of a New Jersey man that it is going to be necessary to fight sky-scraper fires with airplanes. Gas which will effectually smother flames should not be in the least difficult for the chemists to devise, says this person, but it must be heavier than air and dropped from planes in some sort of container that will release it when it comes into contact with the heat of the fire.

This is all more or less intriguing, but if it is possible to successfully smother a great fire with a few bagfuls of gas why confine this sort of activity to sky-scraper fires—why not tie a can to the water throwing apparatus altogether and simply squelch with gas the little blaze as well as the tall one?

Probably the New Jersey man had in mind only outside fires like that in Manhattan a few days ago where the Sherry-Netherlands hotel burned like a torch for hours without doing itself the slightest harm. It might, in that case, be submitted that it would hardly be worth while establishing an airplane fire department to fight a type of blaze that is more than likely not to occur again in a hundred years—and that is hardly more than a good show when it does break.

PUZZLING.

An extraordinary thing has happened. Two alienists engaged by the defense have agreed with two other alienists engaged by the state that the defendant whom they examined is sane, and so the plea of insanity in a capital crime trial goes by the boards. This is probably the first time on record that an alienist has failed to bring in a finding, in a criminal case, in accordance with the fee.

This decision of the psychiatrists in the case of Henry Judd Gray, accused of the murder of Albert Snyder on Long Island, goes further, even, than being extraordinary. It agrees with the perfectly clear layman's conviction that, of course, Gray is a responsible type. Whatever of mystery there may have been in this case, there has never been any at all as to the mental alertness of the accused man. Insanity was so far from being indicated in his case that almost anybody would have made a bet that perfect swarms of alienists could be found to declare him insane. The safe rule was, the saner the accused the insaner the evidence sharks are sure to find him.

Now there is no longer a rule to go by. But we find ourselves a little shaken in that conviction of Gray's perfect sanity.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 19.—It is reported on good authority that the French government is suspected of being slightly lukewarm on the American plan to erect elaborate monuments to mark the scene of each major action of American troops in the World War.

This is said to be one explanation of why General John J. Pershing is now in France, taking charge of the matter of obtaining the necessary ground for the monuments. Pershing's vigor and prestige may be depended upon to make the necessary arrangements without undue delay.

Then, again, the general will be in a position to make any difficult decisions which might cause an officer of lower rank to pause and ponder.

Pershing, of course, is chairman of the Battle Monuments Commission. He is expected back about the first of June.

One of the most remarkable post-war developments has been the multiplication of Pershing aides, cooks, orderlies and chauffeurs. There are hundreds of them now for every one who actually served under the Old Man.

"It seems as if every chauffeur and cook who ever saw France and a few who didn't, are now claiming to have been Pershing's friends," remarks one of the general's friends.

Colored men who commit murder or crimes calling for as serious a penalty seem to have developed a penchant for posing as former "private orderlies" to the general.

One such was recently handed in Missouri and there was considerable in the newspapers about him. It was said that Pershing had intervened in his old servant's behalf. The negro's claim to service with Pershing apparently actually did get him a two-week reprieve while the governor investigated.

But it is declared here that Pershing had never heard of the man. His office, when appealed to on the completely erroneous ground that Pershing had intervened to save the life of another criminal in Georgia, forwarded the man's military record, but the record was poor and showed a dishonorable discharge. The Georgia negro, another "private orderly" was sentenced to life imprisonment as was the one who was "private orderly" in Mississippi.

Serjt. Frank Lanckton, Pershing's present white orderly, went with him to war. He was injured and temporarily succeeded by a couple of other fellows before he returned, but the number of genuine "Pershing private orderlies" is very limited.

Capt. George E. Adamson, Pershing's presser, side, was with him all through the war. There were three or four others, but two are dead.

The work of Pershing's Battle Monuments Commission calls for erection of eight chapels, several large monuments and 15 smaller monuments by Armistice Day, 1928. Congress authorized $3,000,000 for this purpose. The largest monument, at Montauk, will cost $400,000 and the two at St. Mihiel and Chateau-Thierry will cost $250,000 apiece, according to the commission's plans.

The chapels will be erected in cemeteries. It is planned, with the 30 projects, to mark the American battle line for 350 miles, from the North Sea to the Vosges mountain.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

New York, April 19.—Manhattan's latest fad is a ship club moored at a pier along the Hudson.

The membership is made up largely of "big names" from Broadway and others from the wealthy "who's who" who become bored with the commonplace in diversion. It is a three-masted old schooner and has been rigged up with a dance floor, club rooms and living compartments. When the warm weather comes it will cruise about the Hudson and around the sound.

Actors who have shows to reach will be taken ashore in special launches, while those who want to rest "at sea" over Sunday can pick up the ship by launch connection and spend a week-end on the water.

The dock where it is tied throngs with an army of curious ones trying to pier into its mysteries, if any. It is operated as any other club, with restricted membership list, dues and all such.

Another "new racket" of the big street, and one that is causing more than a little concern, is the bars, operating more or less openly with accommodations for women.

Variety, the theatrical newspaper, picturesquely refers to this modern variant on the old "dance hall girl" of the Barbary Coast in San Francisco as "Honor-line Lu-lus." The difference is that the old dance hall girls did not drink half as much as they appeared to. Furthermore their trade was definitely branched.

In the Broadway resorts appear flappers of suspicious years who actually pour down all the grog that comes their way and ask no questions concerning the purchaser. They never buy their own, accepting the gratuity of any stranger. Warning that such proceedings will end in one of the big scandals of Broadway have thus far gone unheeded and, I have it from good authority, the boldness of operations has been steadily increasing.

Most of these girls and women patrons are not of the Broadway neighborhood, but members of the new girl generation which has learned to do its heavy and violent drinking at the modern cocktail parties. The price they are asked to pay before the evening has passed is obvious, and there is no indication that they have been unwilling to do so.

Those old tipplers who prided themselves on their pre-war capacities report that these women are far heavier consumers than men. What is more, they have been bred on the fiery raw alcohol that is the basis of most liquor in these days and are content only with the most violent brews.

With the warmer days approaching, indications are that the night club girls will be as little inconvenienced as ever by clothes when summer actually arrives.

When the moral wave first hit Broadway there was a heavy rush for the wardrobe and most of them abandoned the so-called "nude shows."

Reports from the main stem, however, indicate that all this modesty did not help business any and by the time the summer buyers arrive from Ohio and way states the business man will have no excuse for remaining tired.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

EGGS THAT HIDE THEMSELVES

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

There are birds that build very elaborate nests, heaping up great solid structures of sticks and twigs in tree crotches, returning year after year to the same site. There are other birds that build dainty nests, of thistle-down and lichens. There are birds that build nests in the form of hanging rattles that swing to every passing breeze.

Then there are birds that build no nest at all, laying their eggs on the bare ground without even as much as a rim of bristles to keep them from rolling away. The killdeer is such a bird.

When you find a bird that builds no nest, do not decide that bird is lazy. There is some very good reason for the apparent lack of industry, if you will look for it. Most often the bird follows this strange habit because the eggs are protectively colored and an enemy will pass them by, lying out in the open.

That would spot a nest yards away. Sharp eyes are always on the lookout for nests.

So it is with the killdeer. She knows that her speckled eggs will hide themselves if she lays them on the bare ground.

If an enemy approaches the nest, the mother killdeer creeps away to a safe distance, and then sets up an outcry, imitating the actions of a wounded bird to draw the predator from the vicinity of her precious eggs.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging.

Be sides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

Making Up the Elephant's Mind for Him

TOT THOUGHT HER TOOTH MIGHT AID THE BUDGET

Although she was only four years old she wanted to help out the family and keep expenses down.

It happened in the office of Dr. Victor Gordon, dentist, yesterday afternoon. The little girl was having a tooth pulled and she shed many tears during the process. She said she was mad at the doctor and didn't want to have anything more to do with him.

"Don't you want to take this tooth home to show to your daddy?" the doctor asked.

The little girl looked around at her mother.

"Yes, I guess we better save that one, Mama," she said. "Daddy got to have two new ones put in and that one might help."

She: I'm not that kind of a girl.

Yes, I used to be in politics myself. I was dog-catcher in my town for two years, but finally lost my job.

"What was the matter—change of mayors?"
"Nope. I finally caught the dog."

"THREE HOURS" HEADS CIRCLE THEATER BILL

Corinne Griffith and Hobart Bosworth Divide Honors in New Film.

"Her best picture." That is the view of critics who have seen Corinne Griffith in her latest, "Three Hours," which is showing at the Circle theater tonight and tomorrow.

Of a decidedly melodramatic tinge, "Three Hours" goes to Miss Griffith, perhaps, one of the greatest opportunities that she has had in a long time for the portrayal of a tenderly dramatic role of fine emotional quality, and as usual, the star gives a most creditable performance.

Picturegoers who laughed and chuckled with Corinne at the showing of her brilliant comedies "Classified" and "Syncope Sue," will find an altogether different Corinne in "Three Hours." Her part in this picture is as tragic as the characterizations in the previously mentioned films were humorous.

The scene in which the mother goes to the home that was once hers, happy for the first time in years in her anticipation of a reunion with her child, to find the child lying dead in its coffin, is without doubt one of the most powerfully dramatic situations that has ever been screened.

By no means, however, is the picture without its lighter moments despite the tragic incident of the dead child. There is a finely woven romance running throughout the film and the repressed manner in which this has been handled is a commentary on the perfect direction of James Flood and the fine work of the various players.

Bosworth Is Fine

Hobart Bosworth gives an excellent performance in his role of the jealous husband. The elements of the drama in this part is reminiscent in many ways of his memorable work in "The Sea Wolf" and "Behind the Door." The romantic phases of the film are in the talented hands of John Bowers and Paul Ellis, while credit should also go to Ann Schaefer, and to Mary Louise Miller, who plays the part of the baby.

Prohibition may not succeed but it dries its best.

Watch Your Breakfast

Energetic Mornings Depend on Breakfast—Start Always with Quaker Oats

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on your breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is hurried, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder; 65% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Q. How does the car owner benefit by the United States Rubber Company's operation of its own Cotton Mills? A. Cotton Cord is the backbone of every tire. So no tire can be better than the cord used in it—and the quality of United States Tires benefits greatly by these cord mills.

They were established ten years ago solely for the purpose of producing an adequate supply of uniformly high grade tire cord, made strictly according to the specifications laid down for United States Tires.

The establishment and operation of these mills, like every other United States Rubber Company development, leads directly to longer tire life and greater value for the car owner's dollar.

Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS NEA Service

These monuments in the center of Chateau Thierry commemorate deeds there of the Third American Army in the World War. In the background is the American Methodist Memorial, a local service organization.

This is the ninth chapter in the story of a former veteran who is going back to France as an advance guard of the "Second A. E. F."

"Nul Ne s'y Frotte." The coat of arms of the ancient castle of Chateau Thierry supported this warning under a carving of a turreted tower and branches of holly. Freely translated, this means: "He who touches the holly should beware of its thorns."

Think of it! Atila, the Hun, sweeping petulantly over Europe, was stopped at Chateau Thierry and Chalons in the fifth century A. D. The village, then called Otmus, was destroyed. It was rebuilt. Since that time, through to the French Revolution and Napoleon, Chateau Thierry has been a battleground. It had been destroyed and rebuilt on so many anguine occasions that it was only fair to its reputation that it should suffer again during the World War in 1918.

Just as the old Roman bridge was demolished, yielding bronze medals bearing the heads of Augustus and Tiberius Caesar in 1787, so was the bridge destroyed in 1918 and rebuilt by the indomitable inhabitants. And as the Germans were stopped in 1918 by American machine gunners, so had the hordes of ancient days been defeated at this spot on the Marne.

There could be no improvement on the slogan of the ancient defenders of the castle at Chateau Thierry. But, for the sake of brevity, it could be changed to: "Hold That Line."

Olson Essay, Written By 2-Year American

Prize Evening School Composition on International Goodwill That Won Honors For New Resident of Manchester.

Believing that the prize-winning essay of the Manchester Evening Schools for the past term is not only unusually well written but of special interest to every foreigner in Manchester who seeks to increase his education, Principal A. N. Potter has submitted the essay for publication. Judged the best of a collection of thirty compositions, it was prepared by Alfred Olson, who came to Manchester from Germany about two years ago and concerning whom a special story appeared in The Herald Saturday.

Olson took for his topic, "How Can We Promote International Goodwill." The essay follows:
The Essay
The United States, being the most prosperous of all the nations, has all reasons to participate in promoting international goodwill. There will always be jealousy on the side of the less wealthy nations and this jealousy has been the cause of many wars in the past. I might recite a few wise words from Ellhu Root, one of our most distinguished of our elder statesmen:

"Nations always will differ. They differ in inherited characteristics and predilections and traditions and there never is a difference so great that it cannot be peaceably settled if approached in the right spirit. And there never can be a difference so trifling that it may not be made the occasion of war if it is approached in the wrong spirit."

We can become friends with the other nations by trading with them. Business relations assure a warm feeling toward the other country. To refuse trading with a certain country will cause misunderstanding and the next step to it is war.

The United States also should join the League of Nations and the World Court. This act would convince the rest of the world of our desire to cultivate international goodwill.
Another very good way to promote international goodwill is to get the sympathy of the immigrants and make them good American patriots. A good patriot stands up for his own country, but he also favors peace and justice in international relations. Patriotism does not express itself by nearsighted ignorance towards internationalism. Foreign people are not inferior or their countries less advanced; we will have to admit that it was foreigners who built up our very own country. We like to be respected in other countries. Therefore, we should try to give the foreigners a square deal, when they place themselves in the care of our country. A good patriot will do his best to help to promote international goodwill by recognizing the other fellow's country, too. Our nation is composed of the people of the older nations and all the good and noble qualities which they bring will enrich our national life. The immigrants represent an older civilization from which we have much to learn.

The most important factor in this question is the growing generation. To create an interest for the foreign lands and people in these young people is the duty of the teachers and parents. On the shoulders of this youth will be the responsibilities of our nation. They will reign the world later, after we are gone.
And if all the other nations would join us in this way of promoting International Goodwill then there will be no more wars and difficulties, but, "Peace on earth, and good will to men."

Around the World--to You

WHEN Ferdinand Magellan sailed from Seville four centuries ago, civilization had no word from him, no hint of his success or failure, until the few surviving members of his crew staggered into the court of Charles V of Spain three years later with the announcement that their mission had been accomplished.

They had crossed the Atlantic, coasted down along the shores of South America, fought their way through the tortuous southern straits and made their way to the Orient after 81 days on the Pacific. The dauntless leader and nearly all of his men met death, but the few who pushed on around Africa finally succeeded in adding an important chapter to the history of progress.

If Magellan sailed today, you could watch his journey, step by step, through pictures in The Herald. For NEA Service, largest newspaper and feature organization, encircles the world with a speed undreamed of by those adventurers who blazed the first ocean trails.

Not long ago, revolution seethed in Portugal, the native land of Magellan. First pictures of the fighting there were published in The Herald.

During the warfare in Nicaragua, The Herald has been first consistently with visual news of major developments.

When the two American "Good Will" fliers lost their lives near Buenos Aires, this newspaper printed the first views of the tragedy.

From war-torn China, NEA Service has been scoring picture beats regularly. The fastest steamships, airplanes and express trains are utilized by this far-reaching organization to gather the world's news and distribute it to The Herald and newspapers in other cities all over the country.

NEA Service has attained almost the ultimate in speed of sending pictures across our own continent. The Telephoto system of electric transmission sends photographs with the speed of light. The radio-photo spans the two oceans with the same celerity. Only a few hours after pictures were taken of the British strike they were published in newspapers on the western coast of the United States. Pictures of the eruption of Mauna Loa, in Hawaii, were sent by radio to San Francisco and thence by telephoto to distant receiving stations.

Magellan's expedition took three years to go around the world, but nothing can dim the glory of that accomplishment—because he was FIRST.

NEA Service was FIRST to blaze the trails of round-the-world picture gathering, and for 34 years has spared no effort, no expense, to maintain that record in every instance of big news events. No matter whether it is a hurricane in Cape Town or a revolution in Siberia, you may count on seeing the FIRST NEWS PICTURES in the

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Three girls are selected by T. Q. CURTIS from his department store to come into his home as his wards for one year, because he believes they have worthy ambitions. BILLY WELLS, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is serious. The other two girls, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON, have accepted old T. Q.'s generosity under false pretenses.

MRS. MEADOWS, a poor aristocrat, is hostess for the girls. Her nephew, DAL ROMAN, a fascinating, Oriental looking man, is cleverly "playing up" to all three of the wards, much to the disgust of Billy, who is infatuated with him.

Billy makes short flying trips to her mother's cottage, and shamelessly admits to herself that she finds her mother's and CLAY CURTIS' manners almost vulgar.

Clay, son of T. Q. Curtis, has disinterested himself and is living with the Wells family in the poor section of the town, making an automobile factory in the daytime and writing music at night.

Billy accidentally overhears a mysterious telephone conversation between Nyda Lomax and Eddie Manning, her beau of department store days. Billy's suspicions are aroused, and she begins to investigate on her own.

Billy falls asleep in a big chair in the music room. Awakened by the voices of Curtis and his lawyer, Billy learns that Curtis intends to adopt one of the three girls when the year is up.

They pass out of the room before Billy can make her presence known. She is confronted with a problem. If she tells T. Q. she has overheard, he may abandon his plan and all three girls will be cheated. She makes a decision and slips noiselessly out of the room and upstairs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII

BILLY, except into her mother's house unheeded, and stood, concealed behind the portieres between living and dining room, peeping at the picture her two beloveds made as they sat at the supper table.

The two she was watching had little to say to each other. Clay sat close to the table, his long, slim body, thicker now at the shoulders because of his factory labor, humped over his plate. He wore a faded khaki work shirt and cheap dark trousers.

"Why," she murmured to herself incredulously, "he looks just like any other factory hand, wolfing his supper and planning on 'turning in' early. Oh, Clay, poor Clay!"

She could not bear to spy on his downfall any longer.

"Spies!" she called out in a high voice which she tried to make gay.

Her mother dropped her cup. Clay looked up, his black eyes blank for a moment, then filling with a luminous, betraying joy. He rose, after a bit, as if he had just remembered his manners.

"My, child!" Mrs. Wells exclaimed. "How you startled me! Have you had your supper yet? Draw up a chair—"

Billy did, but she begged her mother not to bother about a plate and cup for her.

"Reckon it's not just the kind of meal you're used to now," Mrs. Wells flushed, as she looked over the disheveled table. "I went to the movies and just fixed a quick snack for me and Clay. He's so hungry these days, working so hard and all, that he don't seem to care much for fancy fixings, like you did, and you know me—any old thing—"

"I have to be back for dinner— guests tonight," Billy told her quickly, after she had kissed and patted her mother's plump, flushed cheeks. "When you're through with your supper, Clay, I want to go into your room with you for a conference. Secrets, Mums. Don't be jealous."

"Don't begin to lie to yourself, Billy."

scious of the dogged, absorbed way in which he ate, of his broken nails, of the dark circles under his great, soft black eyes.

"All right," Clay rose, swabbed his mouth with the napkin he had used at every meal since Sunday breakfast, and would use until then, with an apologetic laugh, picked it up and folded it carefully, tucking it in a corner to distinguish it from Mrs. Wells'. That hurt Billy, somehow, made her want to take him into her arms and croon over him.

"You're a darling, Clay, you know," she told him, with a catch in her voice.

He took her hand stretched out to him, and led her into his room, the tiny little cubby hole with its frayed matting, its spotted, faded wallpaper, and its chipped white enamel bed.

"Why don't you take my room, Clay? It's bigger and nicer."

"Because I think you'll be coming back," he said, looking at her, but his face, reddened from the glare of the store through the open door, was suddenly strong and beautiful to her—not sinister, or foreign, or queer, as—

She told, rapidly and without apparent excitement, what she had overheard, and did not pause to excuse her eavesdropping.

"Now," she concluded, "the problem is—what am I to do? If I go to him and confess that I overheard him vowing to adopt one of us three girls, he will undoubtedly call the whole scheme off, and get a daughter by some less sensational method. That being the case, we would all three find ourselves out of a very swell temporary home, done out of our chance at a career—though Nyda and Winnie would be tickled to death to be let off their careers," she laughed shortly, "and we'd find ourselves back where we started—no, not where we started, but spoiled for the old life and not prepared for a new. Do you follow my poor but honest reasoning, Clay?"

"The boy's face was very grave. 'And you would feel that the old life was spoiled for you?' he asked in a low voice."

"Well, to be honest, Clay, I would," Billy answered, with a defiant upturning of her bright head. "I have been taken to the mountain top and shown the promised land. It was not my fault that I overheard. And it would be a mean trick for me to spoil the other girls' lives by snatching their year from them. Besides, one of the three will be chosen for the big prize. I haven't the right to make it impossible for them to win, have I?"

"Do you want to win the big prize, Billy?" Clay looked at her for the first time, and his face was set and stern, strangely like old T. Q.'s.

Billy returned his stare with widening, unfinching blue eyes, but her chin quivered as if she were about to cry. "Did mother tell you what Navratil said?" she asked slowly, with apparent irrelevance.

"He's a fool," Clay stated without heat. "You've got genius. I ought to know. You can get booked for a concert tour when the year's up, if you work hard. I do want you to have the year. But—"

Heaven answered me. Do you want to be Dad's adopted daughter? Are you going to try to win this contest?"

"I—I don't know," she answered with painful honesty. "A week ago I would have been so sure that I wouldn't consider it for a moment. But Navratil—oh, Clay, think of my having those three to five years, in Europe, with the best masters—"

"Dad doesn't want a concert violinist for a daughter," Clay told her with brutal frankness. "If you take him on you'll have to make a career, a profession of being T. Q. Curtis' daughter. Europe, yes, when he wants to trot over to look at cathedrals because he thinks it's the thing to do—"

"You're being horrid, Clay. You must know that if I don't tell T. Q. and decide to stay on, I'll tell the other girls what his plans are, and that they'll have an equal chance. And I'll tell them I don't want to win. I don't! I know I don't!" she cried out passionately in face of the sad, ironic smile on his deep-cut lips.

"Don't begin to lie to yourself, Billy," he told her quietly. "By the time the year is up, you'll want to win, you'll fight tooth and toenail, to protect your chances against those young hellions he's picked out to run the race with you. You're going to have a sweet time of it, Billy. I don't envy you. By God, I don't!" He ripped out the oath like an old hand at swearing.

"Clay!" She slipped to the floor beside him and seized his hands. "You're breaking my heart, looking like this, going downhill, ruining your piano hands, breaking your health. Don't be a fool, Clay! Don't let T. Q. give his fortune away to one of us worthless girls. Come home! He'll let us all have our year out, as he agreed, but in the end there'll be no need to adopt a daughter. T. Q. wants you, not a scheming, ungrateful girl, like Nyda Lomax, or Winnie Shelton, or—"

She was pleading with him almost hysterically. "Won't you, Clay, for your father's sake as well as for mine? I'm afraid of myself, Clay, of what this year will do to me. Clay!"

(To Be Continued)
In the next chapter Billy tells Nyda and Winnie the secret of her own life as Nyda conceals!

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Well now, isn't that nice of them? You may remember that a day or so ago I told you that all the boys who make the ladies' clothes decided that there were none such 36's, 38's, et al, as they have been making clothes for. So far, so good! Now they've decided to make up their garments only part-way, leaving such critical points as shoulders, belts, hemlines, buttons, unfinished. When we want a new dress or suit or coat we go to the nearest "station" erected by the central manufacturing company which sells the dress or coat and suit, get fitted, and have it in a month or so, if all goes well.

I'm Peeved!
G-r-r-r! It's things like that which make "us girls" turn man-haters. Why should the "critical points" of our duds be so much more difficult than those of a man's? And many a man who doesn't wear custom-made clothes manage to get folks to speak to 'em, and they manage, too, to get pants in less than a month.

If the clothes-makers want a $10,000 a year arbiter of fashion to tell them how to handle the job and keep us satisfied, I'll take it!

Honeymooners
Mountain-climbing on a honeymoon sounds beautifully romantic, but when such a honeymoon is unduly ended by the bride's death from being struck by lightning attracted by her mountain ax, it is not so sweet. That's what happened recently when a bride and groom went mountain-climbing in Switzerland. When high up on a peak above Zermatt, thunder and lightning crashed and blazed. The bride would go no farther and begged to return to the valley. The Swiss guide urged the return also. The groom insisted on scaling to the peak's top in the rain and wind. He had climbed but a few feet more when he heard a crash, saw a blaze of fire and blue smoke, heard the guide scream, and returned to find his bride dead, electrocuted by lightning. Many wives may feel, if they do not say, "Serves him right—poor thing, maybe she's better off that way than tied to a man who starts right off having his way and not her way."

Women Must Work
"A career for women is a necessity and not a hobby," says Mrs. Elizabeth MacDonald, professor of home economics at Boston University of Practical Arts and Letters. And I can hear a chorus of wives working outside the home who are doing it from necessity rather than choice and who get fed-up on the reams of twaddle which praises and blames women for their stand on taking or not taking jobs—as though there were any choice when every family simply MUST have an auto, radio, overstuffed living room set, grand piano, phonograph and strawberry short cake out of season. As long as our average standard of living remains what it is, of course wives will have to work!

GRACE IS BALANCE

Both Are Essential Elements of Beauty.

Posed for NEA by Marie Otto, of the "Oh, Kay!" company.

By NINON.

Grace and balance really should rhyme. For they necessarily must go together. I have never seen a graceful woman yet who did not show perfect balance in her carriage, the way she stands, sits and walks.

The First Step.
The first step in achieving grace is to learn to balance the body first on one foot, then the other. I show an excellent exercise for teaching balance in today's illustration.

Stand erect, then slowly stretch one leg straight out in front, sinking down slowly on the other until you are squatting on one foot. Your arms will help you to balance. You will feel all the muscles through your waistline and in the calves and thigh tightening to help you. This exercise stretches them all.

Stretch It Straight.
Sink down on your left leg, with your right stretched out in front. Then raise up without losing balance and sink down again. Begin by doing this slowly, twice. Then change legs and repeat. By the end of a week you should be able to sink and raise yourself without having to grab hold of anything for at least eight times.

This may seem hard at first. But just remember what I have so often said, "Your muscles really like to work. Give them a chance."

FLOWERED SILKS
Floral silks with their air of gracious charm and sheer femininity are being used more for frocks as summer approaches.

AN EASY WAY TO LOSE FAT

The right way to lose fat is by combating the cause. By correcting a gland which largely controls nutrition. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. Simply take Marmola Prescription Tablets, four a day, until proper results are accomplished.

Marmola is the scientific method. It has been used for 19 years. The normal figures that it brings are seen in every circle now. And the use has grown, through those results, to very large proportions.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box contains a pamphlet which explains the results you see and feel. Go get it now. Learn what others know about it. You will be delighted.

Time-Saving Way of Tinting

(Copyright 1927)

For perfect tinting of dainty underwear, dresses, etc., the easiest way—and by far the best way—is the use of real dye. It tints in cold water, you know; just dip the garment and it takes whatever tinge you wish to give it. A matter of minutes.

Real dyes will get such smooth and even tones as shame the starchy, waxy, waxy work of synthetic preparations for the purpose! Diamond dye in original powder form is only fifteen cents at the drugstore. Do your own diluting. Then dip to tint—and you'll have an effect that's beautiful. And if you want the tint permanent, just use boiling water!

Diamond dyes do a perfect, "professional" job of dyeing, too; the druggist has sample shades and simple directions. For a book of endless suggestions, in full color, request a free copy of Color Craft of DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N32, Burlington, Vermont.

Salicon may be obtained from any druggist, or a retail size will be sent free of charge if you will send us your name and address.

PRESENCE OF VITAMIN E IN FOOD WILL PREVENT ANEMIA

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Only recently has it been definitely established that vitamin E, first described by Evans and Bishop of the University of California as a vitamin charged primarily with sterility and the failure of the young to develop in the mother's body, is probably also definitely associated with the manner in which iron is used by the body in the prevention of anemia.

This vitamin is present particularly in wheat germ, in liver and in kidney. When it is absent from the diet of a prospective mother, at least so far as has been shown by experiments on animals, the growing young fail to assimilate iron, develop what is known as an iron crisis and die before birth.

Fortunately this vitamin is present in considerable amounts in all ordinary human diets so that this condition is not likely to affect human beings.

Recently investigators in Boston showed that the disease, pernicious anemia, could be controlled to a large extent by the eating of liver and kidneys. It was thought that one of the reasons for large amounts of iron in these tissues.

Home Page Editorials Too Many Things In The World!

By Olive Roberts Burton

I am impressed more and more by the complexities of life. There are too many "things" in the world.

There are too many books, too many creeds, too many styles, too many things to do, and too many places to go.

When I say places I mean that Dobbin on a mud road was limited to a radius of fifteen or twenty miles. A trip to New York or Chicago was like unto a grand tour now. Few people got to Europe, and no one got around the world.

As to styles, people wore serge or alpaca, broadcloth or satin, and it was one color usually and one style. They wore tan or they wore gray, or perhaps it was a green season. Sleeves were leg of mutton or halloon or tight or puffed at the wrist. But it was decided for them. There was only one way and they did it.

As for books, they read "the latest." There was always one latest—not a hundred latest. They subscribed for one, two or perhaps three magazines, not ten or fifteen.

Creeds! Well, they believed what they were told. There was no such thing as fundamentalists and modernists, and if Freud and Schopenhauer were saying things, they were saying them to each other.

The world wouldn't have listened then.

Now we're trying to go everywhere, to read everything, to wear everything, to believe everything, to be up with the Joneses. It's a case of trying, to keep up with everybody, and one jump ahead of a keeper.

A famous criminologist writes in his book that crime and nervous breakdown are due in most cases to failure to adjust character with environment. It isn't hard to believe that.

In the old days we had little or no choosing to do. We had one way to go, one way to live and we were content. Now it is up to each of us to make a choice, not one choice but hundreds. We may be free, we may be doing our own thinking now, but it is hard on us.

We might try the creed of simplicity. If our tastes are simple and uncomplicated and we get away from the idea that we must keep up with everything and everybody we will be happier. I am sure. We can keep ourselves simple and that is all that matters.

Faulty Elimination

Should Be Corrected—Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

If you would be well, see to your elimination. Faulty kidney action permits toxic material to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. Then, one is apt to have a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, a toxic backache or headache, and often some irregularity of secretions, such as scanty or burning passages. More and more people are acclaiming the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, in this condition. For more than forty years, Doan's have been winning favor the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Salicon for COLDS

Keep well. You can stop a cold in 15 minutes if you take Salicon at the first sneeze. This is the preparation that is so amazing its users by the quick relief it gives.

Salicon may be obtained from any druggist, or a retail size will be sent free of charge if you will send us your name and address.

NAN TAGGART SHATTERS STATE HIGH SINGLE RECORD WITH 131

But—Murphy's Girls Drop Their Usual Quota of Two Games to New Britain Team; Seven Local Scores In Eighties.

Manchester kept its string of "two-out-of-three" defeats intact last night by accepting a defeat at the hands of the Rogers' Rec girls in New Britain. The two teams will roll a return match at Murphy's alleys here Thursday night.

With the exception of a few instances, Murphy's girls hit mediocre scores last night, but in those few instances they hit some mighty nifty ones. Nan Taggart, the State League high single record with 131 timbers to her credit in the first game. The record was formerly held by Mrs. May Williams of the Charter Oak team of Hartford who bowled 123.

Following is the league standing including games of April 7, and also the individual averages:

Table with columns for player name, games, and scores. Includes names like Sherman, Hewitt, McCourt, Taggart, Lucas, etc.

League Records High Three-strings—Miss Mackle, All-Hartford, 339. High Team—Three-strings—Charter Oak, 52.6.

NOW YOU ASK ONE

SOME MORE BASEBALL

The baseball season having got away to a healthy start, we'll try a few more questions for the fans today. The answers are on another page, in case you need 'em:

- 1—What well known first baseman is this, and with what club does he play?
- 2—Who won the National League pennant in 1914?
- 3—What men composed the famous infield of the Philadelphia Athletics in the days when the Athletics were winning pennants?
- 4—What men played in the old Red Sox outfield when it was generally considered the greatest outfield baseball ever had?
- 5—What major league player was killed in the season of 1920 by being hit on the head by a pitched ball?
- 6—What was the last year that Boston was represented by a team in the world series?
- 7—What American League umpire has become famous off the field for his newspaper sport stories?
- 8—When did Brooklyn last win the National League pennant?
- 9—On what team are what two brothers from the University of Alabama starring?
- 10—Who plays first base for the Chicago White Sox?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture)

The wind began to blow real wild and in a moment Scouty smiled. "This bumbershoot is not much good. I'm getting wet," said he. Wee Clowny watched the rain and frowned, and very shortly turned around and shouted, "If you think you're wet, my goodness, look at me."
And Clowny was a dripping sight, and rather chilly Tynmite. The thunder shower had splashed about and drenched him through and through. Just then the blazing sun came out and stopped the rain, and with a shout, the bunch heard someone loudly yell, "I'll tell you what we'll do."
"Let's all hide in that hay nearby, and hang our wet clothes out to dry. If we should run around this way we surely would catch cold." Not one of them had much to say, but scampered to the stack of hay. And soon their clothes were dry because they did as they were told.
They felt much better, goodness knows, and when the sun had dried their clothes, they all got dressed. Then Scouty said, "I see a farmer's rig. Let's go and hop right on behind and take a ride. The man won't mind." Guess what was in the wagon. "Was a funny little pig."

The farmer drove on down the road, much to the glee of all his load. Then Scouty shouted, "Look ahead! A pretty little home. Let's jump right off and make a call. 'Twill surely do no harm at all. I want to see all that we can, wherever we may roam."
Up in the home they met a lass who said, "Come right out on the grass and we will have a party. Just as nice as nice can be. Said Scouty, "This is fine, I think. If you don't mind I'd like a drink." So Polly put the kettle on and served them all some tea.

JACK LOCKWILL'S HIDDEN ENEMY

by Gilbert Patten

"Didn't I tell you to look out for that thug, Jack?" cried Willie. "You were too soft with him. He hasn't got a decent bone in his body." "Maybe you're right," allowed Lockwill, "but I don't like to think so." Then he told them he was going into the woods, alone, to look for McNally. After trying in vain to dissuade him, they watched him stride swiftly away.

Della gave Darling a reproachful look. "Well, if you're going to let him run the risk alone, I'm not!" she declared. "Hold on!" said Willie. "We'll go with you."

After entering the woods, Jack moved cautiously toward the place from which the shot had come. He could be as soft-footed as an Indian.

Peering into a glade near the lake shore, he saw something that startled him. A silent human figure was stretched on the ground beneath a tree with low and heavy overhanging branches. At first Jack fancied the fellow under the tree was asleep. Then, observing the awkward position of the body, he was startled by the thought that perhaps he was looking at a dead person.

ABOUT TOWN

The installation of newly elected officers of Delta Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, will be held tomorrow evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Anns E. Friend left for New York Sunday and will return on Thursday. They are staying at the home of Mrs. Friend's mother. During their stay Dr. Friend will attend special clinics at the New York eye and ear hospitals.

One week from today, the murder trial of Ching Lung and Loo Hoo Wing, accused of murdering Ong Jing, Manchester Chinaman in an Oak street laundry early on the morning of Thursday, March 24, will begin in the superior court in Hartford. About ten Manchester persons are expected to testify.

Members of the high school faculty and invited guests will gather at the Hotel Sheridan tonight for one of their series of suppers and entertainments. A roast chicken supper will be served at 8 o'clock. Later in the evening, the party which is expected to include about forty persons, will be the guests of Manager Jack Sanson at the State Theater.

The Missionary societies of the South Methodist church will hold an all day rummage sale Wednesday, April 27. Anyone having articles for the sale should call Mrs. J. Howard Keith or Mrs. Claude Truax.

The annual YD banquet will be held Saturday night in Glastonbury. The sale of tickets closes tonight.

Mrs. Charles Jones of Syracuse, N. Y., is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lipp of Keeney street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second Congregational church will omit its regular meeting tomorrow on account of the entertainment at the church tomorrow evening. The meeting will be held on Wednesday of next week.

Paul Packard, Manchester's entry in the National Oratorical Competition, will participate in the county contests in West Hartford Friday.

The executive committee of the Men's Choral club at the rehearsal last night decided to invite as their guests for the concert at High school hall Thursday evening the entire membership of the High school orchestra. The final rehearsal for the concert will be held Wednesday evening in the music room of the South Methodist church.

'WHITEY' ANDERSON LEADING THE LEGION

First to Hit Four-Figure Mark in "On to Paris" Popularity Contest.

On the second count of votes in the American Legion "On to Paris" popularity contest being conducted by C. E. House and Son, Inc., Clarence "Whitey" Anderson continues to lead the list with close to 250 votes over his nearest competitor, Jack Pentland. However, it is too early in the race to get any definite idea as to how the candidates are going to stack up in the final running.

It is rumored, and there is no doubt of it that all the leading contestants are holding back large numbers of votes in reserve, ready to throw them into the ballot box to bring them up and keep them in the running. This reserve ballot supply that each one has kept the others guessing and undoubtedly there is much speculation as to how many it will be policy to deposit for the week.

Some of those who started off with a good showing the first week have stood still during the second week. Harold Howe made a notable gain, coming up from comparatively few votes to the three figure class. Earl Ballslepper went up to third place this week.

Following is the standing of the twelve highest contestants. It will be noted that "Whitey" Anderson is the first to reach the four figure mark.

C. Anderson	1164
John Pentland	922
E. Ballslepper	580
John Olson	446
C. L. Hansen	232
Frank Cervini	228
David Heatley	203
Peter Frey	183
E. Swanson	160
J. Breen	150
A. E. McCann	120
Harold Howe	110

After the counting of ballots yesterday the judges decided that the first names of contestants must be written out in full to avoid confusion. There are many brothers, cousins and in some instances people in different families whose last names are the same and whose initials are the same but if the name was written out would not be alike. Another thing that voters should watch is that they write the name of the man whom they are voting for in the space provided for it on the front of the ballot and not on the back of it. Blank ballots are coming through, too. Undoubtedly the blanks were meant for some favorite in the race.

MANCHESTER WOMAN IS GIVEN DIVORCE DECREE

Jennie Mistretta Davidson of 110 School street was granted a divorce in the Superior Court in Hartford yesterday from Robert Davidson, of East Hartford, by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson. She was given custody of their only child. The couple was married here February 18, 1922 and the plaintiff declared her husband deserted her on May 30, 1923. Mrs. Davidson is the daughter of Mariano Mistretta, the well known School street barber.
