"BELFAST CADETS"

IN CONCERT HERE

Lose Half Their Uniforms at Ellis Island—Hear Rev. Kelly Talk.

The famous "Belfast Cadets" appeared in their first concert in this country at Cheney hall last night.

A crowd of 260 Manchester people, 80 per cent of them related in some way or another to some member of the band, was present.

Unfortunately the baggage master on the Berengaria got things badly messed up and when looking over their goods at Ellis Island the band found most of their uniforms were missing.

The rest of the field strung along as follows: Allen Logan, Emory University, 1,933.762; Vernon Kennedy, Missouri State Teachers, 1,962.839; Vincent Moroney, Georgetown, 1,952.238; Stratton, Pennsylvania, 1,941.377; George Wilczowski, Boston College, 1,893.033; and Fred Westler, Georgetown, 1,569.465.

Doherty maintained the fine winning average of each event to date by taking the high jump at 5 feet 11 inches.

He took the errand boy's job in order to learn English.

When he offered a reward in a local newspaper for the return of Japanese bonds and preliminary recommendations of the League of Nations his identity was revealed.

The crowd adjourned to the main hall to hear the "Belfast Cadets" play.

Following the concert Rev. Kelly of Donegal, Ireland, and temporarily acting as curate at St. Mary's Episcopal church here spoke to the gathering on "Boundaries."

Mr. Kelly had found that there was considerable romance connected with the establishing of boundaries throughout the world.

The establishment of proper lines between the states of the United States was not without bloodshed.

Mr. Kelly told his audience and he cited numerous interesting incidents in the history of this country which occurred in the laying out of certain sections of land.

Mr. Kelly drew from his subject the thought that there should be no hatreds. All should be members of God's family and live and prosper under one great kingdom.

His talk was interesting and showed that, though only a visitor here, Mr. Kelly has made a thorough study of the United States.

EMPEROR AS FARMER.

Tokio, April 29.—Celebrating his twenty-sixth birthday today, Emperor Hirohito of Japan announced that he will work like a common farmer in order to understand the problems of the Japanese peasant class.

The emperor has ordered a rice paddy to be laid out in the grounds of the imperial palace.

STATE TAXES ON GASOLINE NOT FAVORED

Other bills passed from the House calendar were: Authorizing the state park and forest commission to investigate concerning a scenic survey of the state; conferring the powers of juvenile courts upon justices of the peace and probate judges; authorizing the highway commissioner to purchase small plots of land when needed for highway purposes; incorporating the Stamford-Oyster Bay Ferries Corporation; providing that automobile drivers under 21 must prove financial responsibility of at least $1,000 before they may be granted licenses, and further providing that automobiles shall not be registered when owned by persons under sixteen; authorizing the board of control to determine salaries of assistant superintendents at the capitol; authorizing the North Canaan Water company to increase capital to $200,000; appropriating $300,000 for the Newington home for crippled children; appropriating $118,000 for Meriden State school for boys; authorizing New Haven to establish a city airport and issue bonds therefor.

Senate Bills passed from the Senate calendar today were: Incorporating the Industrial Mutual Insurance Company of Connecticut with headquarters at Hartford; authorizing the Litchfield Electric Light & Power company to operate in adjoining towns; establishing a boundary line between Bridgeport and Fairfield; establishing a bag limit for pheasants, woodcock, and ruffed grouse; amending the Norwich city charter concerning the number of councilmen from each ward.

Other grand officers who spoke included Sisters Clara Wheaton of New Haven, grand senior; Sister Williams of New London, grand order guard; and past grand chiefs, Leonora Atwood of Wetherfield, Sally Snyder of Hartford, Sadie Nutland of Rockville, Elizabeth Fairman of Thompsonville, who organized Memorial Temple, and Eva Adams of Willimantic, who is a director of the Pythian fraternal home.

Past Grand Chancellor and supreme representative, Manitus Norton of New Britain gave a very interesting account of Connecticut's fraternal home near the "Devil's Hoopyard" at Haddam with its wonderful recreation grounds, not only for Pythians exclusively but others as well.

After the business and speech-making a social time was enjoyed and a refreshment committee served ice cream.

Another Sweetheart "But the deceased, before the defendant had had another sweetheart, whom he had courted for several years, died and then the defendant Snyder came into his life."

"He did not forget the other woman however. His picture album and other parts of the Snyder home were replete with pictures of the woman—Sister Gerhart and then Three months after Mrs. Snyder was married she attempted to "bestow love and affection upon her husband," Hazleton said, but he "repulsed" her.

"Why," declared Hazleton, "the deceased even went as far as to name his boat after his former sweetheart."

Nods Her Head Mrs. Snyder, sitting alertly at counsel's table, as Hazleton flayed the dead man nodded her blonde head approvingly.

"The deceased," continued Hazleton, "wished his wife had never come into his life and was constantly wishing his sweetheart had lived. He would have been happy with his old sweetheart."

"But," Snyder, in the face of such an attitude on the part of her husband, remained faithful to him. "She bore him a child—a child that to bear she had to undergo torture. She had that child to see if it could bring love into her home."

New Haven Woman Welcomed By Memorial Temple—Class Is Initiated.

Pythian Sisters of Memorial Temple and their guests to the number of one hundred gathered in Orange hall last night on the occasion of the visit of the grand chief and her staff, Mrs. William Chamberlain of West Haven.

Madeline Spies, most excellent chief of Memorial Temple, with Mrs. Chamberlain led the march to the dining hall, with the distinguished officers and guests following.

The tables were most attractive in a color scheme of lavender and yellow, nutbasket favors in the form of tulips in these colors were at each place and yellow candles crepe paper streamers decorated the table centers.

Members of the local temple contributed the generous meal, and the supper committee headed by Mrs. Walter DeVarney, together with the decoration committee under Mrs. Mark Holmes, were complimented for their efficient work.

Past chiefs of the temple received the guests. At 8:15 the meeting was called to order. The initiation ceremony was completed in full form on a class of candidates, the officers and degree team doing excellent work.

Presiding Officer Spies introduced the grand chief and other guests who spoke chiefly on the progress and altruistic work of the order. Mrs. Chamberlain told of the work her home temple was at present doing, giving a play for the benefit of a girl orphan of nine who is tubercular. She said they hoped to raise at least $300 by the effort.

Past Chief, Mrs. Elizabeth Caverly of Memorial Temple and in its behalf, presented to Mrs. Chamberlain a handsome boudoir lamp and the grand chief responded in appropriate words of thanks.

Other grand officers who spoke included Sisters Clara Wheaton of New Haven, grand senior; Sister Williams of New London, grand order guard; and past grand chiefs, Leonora Atwood of Wetherfield, Sally Snyder of Hartford, Sadie Nutland of Rockville, Elizabeth Fairman of Thompsonville, who organized Memorial Temple, and Eva Adams of Willimantic, who is a director of the Pythian fraternal home.

Driver Released
 Coroner John E. Fahay held an inquest in the Probate Court Thursday morning and heard testimony regarding the accident that occurred on Monday evening when Francis J. Janton, age 34, was killed by an auto truck driven by Jacob Trueb and owned by the Swiss Laundry. After the hearing Judge Fahay said that he could find no probable cause for holding the driver as the death was purely accidental and was caused by the negligence of the boy.

Funeral of Francis J. Janton
 Francis J. Janton of 113 Brooklyn street, son of Joseph J. and Victoria Janton, was buried this morning from the St. Joseph's Polish Catholic church at 8:30 following services conducted by the pastor, Rev. Stephen Barkowski. Burial was in St. Bernard's cemetery. The boy was fourteen years old and was fatally injured Monday evening at 5:45 near the corner of Vernon avenue and West Main street by a Ford delivery truck owned by Henry Kloter, Jr., of the Swiss Laundry, Orchard street and driven by Jacob Trueb of 14 West street.

Trueb was driving north on Vernon avenue, and was going at a moderate rate of speed, while a dump cart, driven by Ignatz Polonary, was approaching from the opposite direction. Just as the auto approached the cart, Janton, riding a bicycle, drove out from behind the cart and ran head on into the Ford truck. The boy was struck on the head and knocked down and run over while the bicycle was dragged considerable distance. He was picked up and speedily taken to the Rockville hospital where he passed away while being placed on a bed. Dr. Thomas F. Rockwell, medical examiner, pronounced death due to a fracture at the base of the skull. The boy's jaw was also broken and he had received other injuries.

He was a favorite in the neighborhood and was well liked as he showed many good qualities. He is survived by his father and mother, three sisters and a brother.

The family stated that just twenty years ago previously, to the very day, Mary Janton, sister of the deceased, met death by a fall from the porch of the Janton house.

DON'T COPY VENUS, GIRLS; BE DIANAS.

Seattle, Wash.—A new goal of beauty toward which American femininity should strive has been set by Miss Mary E. Goss, head of the department of physical education of the University of Washington. No longer, she says, should Venus be held up as an example of perfect womanhood. The new type of girl is being developed after Diana. Venus had lots of lines and curves, but was a bit too near the piano-mover type, she says. Diana, on the other hand, combines grace and speed with beauty. She is full of pep, and—what is particularly apropos—was goddess of the hunt. Says Miss Goss: "Try to imagine Venus dancing the Charleston."

WHAT'S IN A NAME? NOT MUCH DIGNITY

Seattle, Wash.—The feminine influence threatens to pervade the vernacular of the logging camps. No one knows how much longer the chokermen, fallers, hookers, tapers, punks, buckers, king riders and other well-hated titles can call themselves by their right names. It started when Mayor Bertha K. Landes was called upon to sign an ordinance creating the job of "bull cook" for a hydro-electric development project. It seems "reproachful" to the council should have adopted a title suggesting some degree of dignity, if not culture. The council cowed, promised to see what could be done.

CROSSED LEGS A MENACE

Chicago.—Crossing the legs puts a kink in the spine that leads to many ills, says Dr. H. H. Fyette, college professor. The woman who crosses her legs, exposing a generous expanse of hosiery, is flirting with all sorts of nervous ailments, he says. This twists the spine so the vertebrae hammer the functions of the nerves in that section. Men also get curvature of the spine when women cross their legs, the doctor indicated.

USES LOUD SPEAKER

Marion, O.—Tired of running from room to room whenever he had something to say to teachers or pupils in the high school, W. E. Ocutt, principal, has had the entire building equipped with loud speakers. Now he presses a button on his desk and makes a single speech for the entire student body.

SHOT BY A MOWER

Berkeley, Cal.—John Haggerty, a school factor, shot himself with a mowing machine. The mower picked up a .32-caliber cartridge that had been dropped in the grass, squeezed it until it exploded, and the bullet struck Haggerty in the forehead. He was only slightly wounded.

ALTITUDE AIDS HEARING.

Hackensack, N. J.—Diving 7,000 feet in an airplane improved the hearing of Miss Lucy Crill 25 per cent, according to her physician, Dr. Paul Winslow, who recommended the flight. While the rapid change in air pressure improved her, it slightly deafened the pilot of the airplane.

CARE FOR CRIPPLES

New York.—New York has organized a crippled children's bureau in its state department of education. The bureau maintains a register of all physically handicapped children and supervises their care and education. The counties and state divide the expense of this care.

NO SPECIAL SESSION

Washington, April 29.—Despite the gravity of the situation President Coolidge does not plan to call a special session of Congress to provide funds for the rehabilitation of agriculture in the flooded Mississippi valley. It was said at the White House today.

The custom of having distinguished men as pall-bearers comes from the Romans. The pallium was a piece of cloth used to cover the shoulders. This was laid over the body and held off the ground by his friends.

Death Tools in Snyder Killing

The sash weight and picture wire with which Albert Snyder was slain. Ruth Snyder, his wife, declares that Henry Judd Gray, her co-defendant in the Long Island City trial, first stunned her sleeping husband with the weight, then chloroformed and finally garrotted him with the wire, tightening it with the pencil on which part of it is bound. See Gray's identifying signature on the tag attached to the weight! Inset is Nathaniel Willis, who testified that he was a fellow passenger with Gray on the bus Gray boarded in fleeing from the Snyder home.

MUSTER SERVICE FOR WAR VETERANS

Joint Meeting Held at State Armory Last Night.

Ward Cheney camp, United Spanish War Veterans and Mary Bushnell Cheney auxiliary, held a joint meeting last night in the state armory with a special muster service. In the absence of the president of the auxiliary, Mrs. J. H. McVeigh, due to illness, Mrs. Thomas Peckham, Senior Vice president, and Commander Arthur Keating for the comrades of Ward Cheney Camp, Mrs. Ethel Davis acted as pianist and Howard Curtis also accompanied for many of the numbers on the program.

The muster service was very impressive and at the roll-call many of the charter members responded, including past commanders E. Martin Ogden, who was the second commander of Ward Cheney Camp, Charles Warren, Arthur Keating, George Johnson, William Drysdale, Joseph Behrend and Nelson L'Heureux.

Appropriate remarks were made by Commander Arthur Keating and Past Commanders Ogden and Behrend, also by past presidents of the auxiliary, Mrs. Charles Warren, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Behrend.

Arthur Keating and Howard Curtis sang and alternated in playing each other's accompaniments. A double quartette consisting of comrades and auxiliary members sang a number of the old war songs. There was chorus singing of "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner", general dancing and a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Isabelle, Of The Bowery

Angel of "Bums" Is Shy, Smiling "Army" Lass.

New York, April 29.—You would expect to meet her going along the pathway of a lush green countryside, a milk pail in each hand. And, were you an artist, you would put her down on canvass as an eternal symbol of freshness and unspoiled simplicity.

No doubt it was the projection of this personality that stirred numbed memories when Isabelle Austin, "Angel of the Bowery," came along in her trim blue Salvation Army uniform, with golden curls peeping out from under her bonnet; with shy eyes and even a shy smile that droops from the tip of a sympathetic mouth.

Isabelle

Such is the magic of tenderness and pity that even the gutter found its voice. When it was raised in tribute to Lieutenant Isabelle it was heard many miles from the Bowery, and the pump little lassie of 21 found herself overnight the most romantic "Army" figure since Reba Crawford flared into notice as "The Angel of Broadway."

Briefly, this is what happened: It is the custom of the Salvation Army that officers be kept moving from one place to another. Recently it became known that Lieutenant Isabelle was to be sent to New Jersey. Then it was that 200 of the Bowery's nondescript army, ranging from congenial derelicts to men fallen upon evil days, paid the highest tribute they can bestow.

A Petition
Scores of men, who were presumed to have lost long since all capacity for caring about anything, went about with petitions arguing that the "Angel of the Bowery" be kept there. Two hundred signatures—perhaps the least celebrated list of names ever to grace a sheet of paper—quickly were gathered.

"I really don't know why they have singled me out," said the petulant lassie. "But were she to scratch her memory a bit, perhaps she would find out. For Isabelle was born to the ideal of unselfish service. Her lullaby was the banging of a Salvation Army drum and the off-key note of an Army cornet. Her parents' last words were Army folk. Both died before Isabelle reached the age of eight. When barely able to toddle, she stood in the circles that gather after night-fall at street corners. The street meetings over, she would fall asleep in the corner of a mission hall.

Pity's Viewpoint
This has been her life. Reared thus in Manhattan, she never has seen the city as others see it. Her eyes have been blind to rising skyscrapers and the giddy whirl of the city. She saw it only as a place cluttered with suffering and out-cast humans.

As the years went on, her face began to mirror maternalistic pity. This must have been what the men of the gutter saw. It stirred them. Isabelle would be the last person to know this. She is completely unconscious of herself and knows nothing of psychology. Though she has combed the gutters and reason-ed for hours with thousands of tums and down-and-outs, she has remained as naive as any country girl.

"I have found," said Isabelle, "that in a room of men far too gone for reason, just to say 'Home Sweet Home' or to talk about writing home to mother will bring many to tears. I have seen many of the hardest customers break down. That's one thing they don't seem entirely to forget—home and mother."

But Isabelle is far too ingenious to realize that her appearance calls up all such memories—home, mother and the sweethearts of youth! That is why, of all the hundreds of evangels of Manhattan's tawdry places, she awakened the voice of the gutter.

MANY FAIL TO PASS INSURANCE EXAMS

The case of the Massachusetts' lawyer, who has taken nine examinations and yet has failed to pass the Connecticut bar has its counterpart in the efforts of a Connecticut real estate man who took six examinations before he was able to pass the test for an insurance agent's license, according to the Connecticut Insurance Department.

But unlike the man who took the bar examination, the applicant for an agent's license made his numerous attempts in the space of several weeks. It was the most unusual instance in the examinations conducted for the coming year. The department reports the issuance of licenses to 5,300 agents for the license year April 1, 1927 to April 1, 1928.

Between 350 and 400 failed to pass the examinations. Among them were many men who had been licensed agents for many years and who after a lapse of several years decided to resume the selling of insurance and applied for licenses. One such instance involved a man who had sold insurance for nine years and then after a fairly long period of inactivity could not answer the department's questions when he came up for examination the other day. The questions asked are simply on the fundamentals of insurance. The examinations are to ascertain whether or not a prospective agent knows something about the policies he is selling. The plan is intended to protect the public against ignorant misrepresentation by unqualified agents upon a subject as to which the public is easily deceived.

Not all who pass the examination do so on the first attempt. An amusing feature of the tests was the number of instances of applicants caught in the act of cribbing. The Wapping boys won, 1 to 14. They will play another game on the Wapping grounds on Friday afternoon. One company located in another state failed to make application for its agents who under the law could not legally sell insurance. The license year ends on March 31st and the applications for licenses of this company did not come into the department until April 13th, revealing the negligence of the company in not supplying its agents with proper licenses. There were such instances last year which made complications for the agents concerned.

CROW DRIVES HERE START CONTROVERSY

Connecticut and New Jersey Shooting, However, Didn't Cause Shortage of Birds.

Drives against crows which have recently been organized in New Jersey and Connecticut although resulting in limited reduction of the crow population, again stirred up the old controversy between sportsmen and naturalists as to the moral character of "corvus brachyrhynchos" and his many relatives.

To the sportsmen the crow has few redeeming traits, and he is equally persona non grata to the farmer. To them his bug-eating characteristics do not offset his fondness for the eggs and fledglings of game and song birds, eggs and young of domestic poultry and the sprouting corn and other grain. Classed as an outlaw, the crow appears to maintain his numerical status in spite of all attempts to put him out of existence. Apparently he is even increasing in numbers, and consequently there would seem to be no occasion for any alarm on the part of bird lovers that he is in immediate danger of extermination.

The much heralded crow campaigns are usually attended with much beating of tomtoms, hulla-laloo, excitement and high expectations but usually result in much disappointment and slight crow mortality. The participants were compelled to "eat crow" literally they would fare slimly. The reason for this is the inexperience and poor marksmanship of many of the crow hunters and the uncanny wariness of the birds. Old crow is well able to take care of himself. Most sound observers agree that the crow population ought to be reduced. If the much discussed crow hunts accomplish this in any small degree they will have served a good purpose.

CHIANG IS REAL POWER IN CHINA AT PRESENT

His Troops Defeating Extremists On All of the Battle Fronts.

Shanghai, April 29.—Chiang Kai Shek and his moderate followers are beginning to loom as the real power in Nationalist China.

Reports from Hankow indicate that Chiang has administered heavy defeats to the Extremist armies in the vicinity of Kiukiang and appears likely to make good his threat to take over Hankow. There are reports that the Extremist armies are not offering much resistance. At the same time Chang Tso Lin's armies are marching against Hankow and observers here anticipate an agreement between Chiang and Chang Tso Lin.

From Canton come reports that the Moderates there are in control and while there have been some clashes it is believed here that Canton will affirm its adherence to the cause of Chiang.

In the vicinity of Nanking, Chiang's forces seem to have been able to check the northern advances.

Residences of American missionaries at Kiukiang were looted and later were occupied by Chinese troops. Foreign and Chinese residences also were looted.

CHICAGO POLICE GET ORDERS TO CLEAN UP CITY

Mayor Thompson Directs New Chief to Chase All Crooks in 90 Days.

Chicago.—Michael Hughes, newly appointed chief of police, has begun a drastic shakeup, which already has created considerable of a commotion.

Mayor William Hale Thompson told Hughes to drive the crooks out of Chicago in 90 days. Hughes started to carry out his orders by putting hundreds of coppers back on their beats and telling precinct captains that they must clean up their districts or resign.

Hughes has one of the most difficult assignments in America, it is generally conceded, and whether he will be able to carry out his instructions is a widely discussed question.

One important result of the new administration's policies, it is believed, will be a relative indifference to minor dry law violations so that police may devote all their attention to crimes of violence.

Forget Home Brew Thompson promised the city in his campaign speeches he would order the police to forget the average citizen's pint of home brew or case of beer so they could have more time to prevent holdups and robberies.

Chicago's geographical location is responsible for a large percentage of its crime.

Virtually every important railroad in the country has a terminus in Chicago and highways radiate from it in every direction. In addition, Lake Michigan, with its many steamship lines, offers quick transportation from neighboring states.

The average American can watch a few roads and the railroad station and be reasonably sure that criminals have not escaped after a crime. Chicago police find it virtually impossible to either cut off the escape or prevent the entry of notorious criminals.

Crime Popularized The growth of the notorious beer running gangs has done much to popularize crime as a profession in the poorer sections of the city.

During recent months the beer runners have been killing of themselves in private feuds. The "beer racket" is not as prosperous as formerly because of stricter federal supervision and many of the smaller gangs have broken up, their members turning to other means of getting easy money.

Morgan A. Collins, chief of police under Mayor William E. Dever, cited many of these facts in defending his conduct in office.

All classes in Chicago were agreed that if Hughes can actually clean up the city he will make a name for himself as a police official.

SEXES WAR IN DISPUTE ON COOKING

Oslo, Norway.—Can a family of four be fed on $25 a month?

Mrs. Ester Meidell, frugal housewife, believed it could, and said it with cook books. But in doing so she stirred up more trouble than this nation has seen in a decade.

Mrs. Meidell is—or was—in moderate circumstances, forced to feed "three squares" to four hungry mouths, and do it cheaply. She found it so easy that she wrote a cook book telling how to do it on $25 a month.

The housewives of Norway, infuriated, challenged Mrs. Meidell to prove her contentions. She did. She came to Oslo and gave public demonstrations that won her the verdict of four expert dieticians. Mounted police had to clear the streets when she passed. She is deluged with letters of accusation from women, and praise from thousands of husbands. Socialist leaders have found their arguments on the cost of living turned wrong side out.

But Mrs. Meidell doesn't care about the cost of living now. She has written a best-seller.

WORK TO START THIS MONTH ON SCANDAGA DAM

Lake With 127 Miles of Shore Line Created By Big Improvement.

Gloversville, N. Y.—Next month will see the beginning of work on the great dam to be built by the state of New York across the Scandaga river at Conklingville, which is expected to help prevent the overflow of the Hudson River and its consequent damage to property in the future.

The great dam, which will affect hundreds of thousands of persons and millions of dollars worth of property, will be completed by 1930 it is planned. The foundation for the dam will be laid by September.

A lake larger than Lake George will arise as result of the impounding of the Scandaga river. It will have a shore line of 127 miles, and a capacity of 22.4 billion more gallons than the combined capacities of the Glibou and Ashokan dams in the Catskills.

Recently the state sold bonds, in the names of the Hudson River Regulating Board, which will provide initial funds for the $9,000,000 project.

Three towns will be wiped out by the dam. They are Osborn Bridge, Day and West Day, part of Conklingville, Bacheliersville, Northville, Northampton, Benedict, Edinburg, Munsonville, Mayfield, Scandaga Park and Hope Valley, will also be affected.

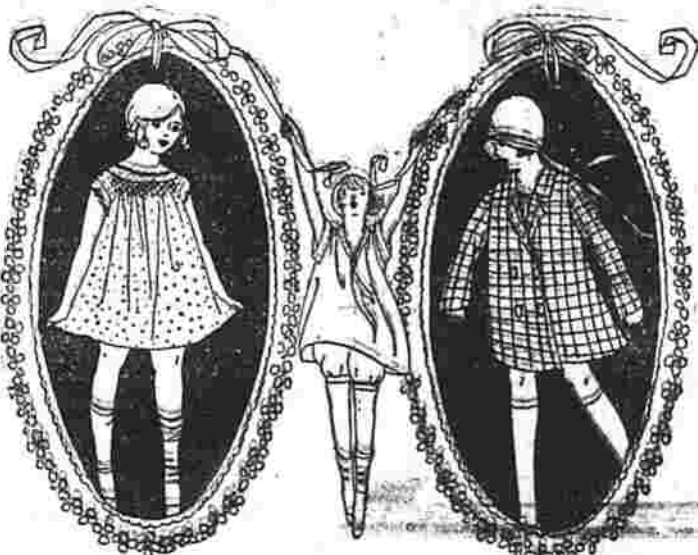

Moving Cemeteries. One of the difficult tasks is the removal of 3,875 bodies from the more than a dozen cemeteries in the area to be inundated. A careful check-up was made of the 29,000 acres to find isolated graves.

In all 68 miles of highway, and eight miles of the Ponda, Johnson and Gloversville railroad will be relocated and the highways built around the dam.

Highest of all the tasks has been the acquiring of title to the 1,170 parcels of land needed for the dam bed, and today the board has title to only half of the farm land needed.

In order to speed up the work, a special law was passed permitting the regulating board to file a bond in Supreme Court to indemnify persons whose property is taken. Cost of the land to be taken is expected to total $2,500,000.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Andrew Jackson (11)

Jackson added fuel to the fire of Washington gossip when he defended Peggy O'Neal, a tavernkeeper's daughter who had become the wife of General Eaton, Jackson's secretary of war. Society snubbed her, but Jackson, believing her innocent, and influenced by his love for the dead Rachel, defended the secretary and his wife in the fiery Jacksonian way.

One of the high lights in Jackson's presidency was the crushing of the nullification movement in South Carolina.

The nullificationists opposed high tariff and threatened armed secession. Jackson, too, was against high tariff, but defended the law.

"The Federal Union! It must and shall be preserved!" was his reply to the threats of Calhoun and his party. Henry Clay hurled his influence into the breach and bloodshed was averted. Then Jackson turned his guns upon the United States bank as a monopoly that gave privilege to the few and robbed the many. It was a daring overture. (To Be Continued)

LOLLY POP DAY HERE AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

Boys and Girls to Get Prizes in Show on Saturday—Two Features Scheduled.

Two features, each one a starring vehicle in its own right, come to the Circle theater tomorrow for the day only. The first, a rollicking comedy drama starring George O'Hara, is named "Yours to Command" while the second, a drama of immense possibilities, is "The Outlaw Dog," one of those good Western pictures.

"Yours to Command" is woven about the love of Robert Duane, a millionaire, for Colleen O'Brien, a poor school-teacher. Luck steps in and makes this girl rich through a gusher of oil discovered on her father's land. Duane is posing as a chauffeur and the girl hires him to drive her car. In this way they go through some very exciting and hair-raising moments, before a very pleasant climax is reached in which Duane's real identity is told.

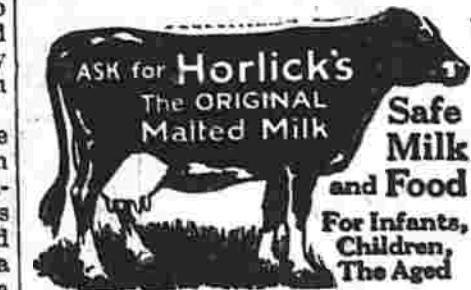

Tonight the Circle shows for the last time that story of a woman who dared, "Women Love Diamonds." Tomorrow at the Circle is "Lolly Pop Day" and every child who attends the show will receive a coupon entitling him or her to a five-cent lolly pop.

Every girl will want to see "Women Love Diamonds"—and she'll always remember it. And—perhaps it'll be good for her that she does remember it. Because—

You can't look at a tire and tell how far it will run

YOU CAN'T SEE a tire carcass because it is covered by the tread. Yet the way this carcass is built tells how far the tire will run.

Dunlop has had 39 years to learn all the hidden points where tires wear. Dunlop carcasses are built from the best long fibre cotton, spun in Dunlop's own mills into the famous Dunlop cable-twist cord.

These cords are elastic, so they give and take as your tire runs; strong, so they resist constant load and pounding. They build the best possible foundation for the Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known.

Thus Dunlop's extra years of experience build added value into every vital tire-part. That is why, not one Dunlop—but every Dunlop—gives you more service than you can reasonably expect.

THE JURY FOLLY.

It is to be regretted that Connecticut seems to be falling in line with the judicial fad for being amazingly silly over jurors.

There will be prompt sympathy throughout the state with the legislative measure repealing the provision which makes unavailable as a juror any person who has served on a superior court jury within five years.

The jury system in this country is falling into discredit, not at all because of any fundamental error in the idea of jury trials.

Connecticut people would be glad to see their state take the lead in establishing a new standard in jury selection.

STATE TIMBER GROWING

Twenty-two states have established state forests; 14 of the states have also state parks; 10 have state parks but no state forests; and 36 states own forest lands which are not under either form of administration.

It might seem from these figures that timber growing has been rather widely undertaken by the states. In reality few states have definitely gone into it.

Pennsylvania furnishes the outstanding example of timber growing. The purchase of forest lands was authorized in 1897 and has gone on until the state forests now contain 1,130,000 acres.

Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Ohio are other states in the East that are consistently building up state forests for timber growing through land purchase.

The De Valera's measure of freedom is that of the Wild Man of Borneo. Unfortunately, perhaps, it belongs to an epoch predating international intercourse, ships and the beginnings of a fellowship of mankind.

Mr. Spellacy's money is his own and if he chooses to invest part of it in fomenting political revolution in Ireland instead of sending it to the Mississippi flood sufferers, that is largely his business.

have received blocks of forest land of equal value. State timber growing is getting its start in the West in this way.

A state policy of using tax-delinquent lands as a basis for similarly blocking out areas suitable for administration is one of the means by which in some states timber growing can be extended.

As the desirability of state forests, from the standpoint of public recreation as well as for growing timber, becomes better understood their number and size will undoubtedly increase materially.

Both for the inauguration and for the successful conduct of state timber growing a competent state forestry department and a strong public interest are essential.

DWINDLING MINISTRY.

Publicly matter sent out by the campaign committee which is seeking a million dollar endowment fund for the Newton (Mass.) Theological Institution contains some interesting matter—in which respect it is well nigh unique among the efforts of such committees.

"Death is draining the Protestant pulpit faster than ordination is filling it," declares the committee's leaflet. And the prediction is made that within ten years, at the present rate, there will be nowhere nearly enough clergymen to minister to the congregations.

There is a real news element in these statements. Not many people realize that the country's religious teachers are dying or retiring much faster than they are being created.

The leaflet quotes Rev. John Richelson, a Buffalo pastor, as follows: "We venture to suggest that the prevailing sentiment of Protestant clergymen is one of rebellion against the economic dependence of the clergy under the working conditions existing in the Protestant church."

Perhaps they will do it, eventually, by some wholesale reorganization under which ministers will be assigned to parishes and kept in them by a central authority; or perhaps they will do it by a reform in the practice, common enough throughout Protestantism, of insisting that the minister shall do his thinking not with his own brains but with the brains of the heaviest contributors to the church's funds.

Or perhaps they may ingeniously find yet some other way.

DE VALERA, SPELLACY.

Eamonn De Valera told an audience at Hartford last night that Ireland is not free. He defined, by inference, his idea of a really free country. The deduction is that, according to this Irish politician's theory, there is no such thing as a free country anywhere.

The De Valera's measure of freedom is that of the Wild Man of Borneo. Unfortunately, perhaps, it belongs to an epoch predating international intercourse, ships and the beginnings of a fellowship of mankind.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that a prominent Connecticut Democrat, Thomas J. Spellacy, is accredited with handing in a check for $500 as a contribution to the political revolutionary cause that Mr. De Valera represents.

Mr. Spellacy's money is his own and if he chooses to invest part of it in fomenting political revolution in Ireland instead of sending it to the Mississippi flood sufferers, that is largely his business.

tent, however, for citizens to wonder what would be the opinion of Mr. Spellacy, as a public man, of a Russian or a Mexican politician who gave $500 to help promote a political revolution in the United States.

THOMPSON'S HISTORY.

Mayor Bill Thompson of Chicago proposes to fire the superintendent of schools in the Windy City because the latter introduced into the schools history text books which omitted the story of George Washington and the cherry tree and similar fables.

On the theory that you can't spoil a rotten egg it probably doesn't greatly matter what Thompson does to Chicago by way of the schools, but it may be somewhat interesting to observe what his next school boss, chosen by himself, does to American history with especial relation to the World war.

We may expect Chicago children to learn that the Great Conflict was started by a British naval attack on Heligoland simultaneously with an invasion of Alsace-Lorraine by the French and an attack on East Prussia by the Czar, all for nothing.

At that time, presumably, the Chinese had little hopes that a strong National army might come up from the south to promise them freedom from banditry and military pillage.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 29.—It is still true that a great many Chinese regard the United States as a true friend.

Only a couple of years ago the head Chinese officials of about 20 villages around Tientsin erected a monument and an inscribed tablet in honor of the American forces and in appreciation of their protection of the area from the disorganized troops of General Wu Pei-Fu.

Under the treaty, armed Chinese troops are prohibited from coming within two miles of the foreign concessions of Tientsin.

The Fifteenth Infantry, the principal component unit of our soldiers in China, stepped out in 1924 and took the field to prevent Wu's remnants from violating the protocol, and its lines spread over the 20 villages mentioned at a time when villages outside the lines are said to have been looted.

One of the Chinese speakers expressed himself as follows: "May it be the pleasure of your great and glorious nation always to leave these troops in Tientsin, a necessary protection for the Chinese from themselves."

At that time, presumably, the Chinese had little hopes that a strong National army might come up from the south to promise them freedom from banditry and military pillage.

Somebody—just who is not certain—translated the Chinese inscription on the monument into English and decided to make it rhyme in most frightful doggerel.

lonely maiden in the guise of a star, who came to dwell upon the waters in search of her earthly lover.

The chaste beauty of this water lily has long made it a favorite with wild flower lovers. Like all its relatives it has been made the subject of numerous pretty legends, and is often confused with the American lotus, a water plant closely related to the sacred lotus of the Nile.

It is not the same flower, however, as the water lily belongs to the group known as the water nymphs rather than the true lotus clan.

Yellow, rose, rose-carmine, scarlet, pale blue, bright blue and purple are some of the tints which this lovely flower has been made to take. But at that, for most of us, the loveliest of all water lilies are those of purest white, with golden centers, that we gathered from mud-bottomed ponds in days of childhood.

Hollywood, Calif.—They call Marion Davies the girl who won't say "can't." Prop boy and executive agree—no matter what the script calls for, she will attempt to "come through."
The release of her current picture, "Tillie, the Toiler" will find Miss Davies a modern girl for the first time in five years. Her last modern film was "Adam and Eva," in 1921. Since then she has been playing in costume pictures.
"Tillie, the Toiler" brings to the screen a new Marion Davies—a short-skirted Marion of everyday life.
"I love this role," exclaims Miss Davies. "Tillie is supposed to be just a dumb stenographer who thinks of nothing but good times and clothes. No, I won't say I can't portray such a character.

75 PER CENT OF NEW ENG. LANDERS USE GAS

Cambridge, Mass.—New England was one of the first sections of the country to take up manufactured gas for illumination more than 100 years ago, when the first company was formed in Boston for street and house lighting. Today there are 115 companies engaged in the manufacture and sale of manufactured gas in New England.
These companies serve a population of over 8,000,000 out of a total of 8,192,000 people. In 1925 they sold 33,000,000,000 cu. ft. of gas to 1,360,066 customers.
In Massachusetts 55 companies sold nearly 24,000,000,000 cu. ft. of gas, representing about 53 per cent of the total for New England. The total mileage of gas mains in New England is 19,248.
These 115 companies in 1925 had a total capitalization in bonds and stocks of $252,715,360 par value.

GAS

An Ally of Health

Gas is a remarkable product from every standpoint of health, economy, convenience, flexibility and adequacy of supply. Even when we scan the whole horizon of future probabilities, it seems that not only science, but all the forces of nature are serving the cause of gas expansion. It is a matter of looking ahead to air conditioning in conjunction with the heating of inside atmospheres, we find at once that the perfect agent to use is gaseous fuel. If we look forward to a new day in cooking when the public will insist on using methods that cause a minimum of destruction to food values, especially the vitamins, it appears again that gas is the only agent that will provide the rapidity of action essential to securing the desired end. In other words, we are coming to a time when fast cooking will be the common practice.

Nash 7-bearing crankshaft takes longer to build—costs more

It takes longer to build a 7-bearing motor than it does to build one with only 3 or 4 main bearings.

There are at least 3 more bearings to hone and polish. (Nash has considerably more bearing surface than other six-cylinder motors in the Nash price field with 4-bearing crankshafts.)

There are at least 3 more bearings to align. And there are at least 3 more bearings to check for proper clearances.

But the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft eliminates the "whip" which loosens bearings and piles up expensive shopwork on motors with fewer crankshaft bearings.

Obviously, it costs more in time and money to build the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft.

Why then does Nash build it, when other manufacturers still use engines with fewer bearings?

The answer is that Nash owners have come to expect Nash to be definitely better than any other car they could buy at the Nash price.

And 7 bearings alone produce superlative power-smoothness and power-quietness.

Before you select your new motor car, drive a Nash and see how smooth it is at high speeds, how powerful and effortless its pick-up at every speed.

smoothing her starched white apron. "See, sir? Would the little lady like cinnamon toast or French toast? And I've just been whipping some cream. Hot chocolate with whipped cream would be nice, sir."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV BILLY stood on tiptoe and spoke into Ralph's ear...

"You look so ill, dear, so torn with the noise."

dear, and see if you hear what I heard—" "Infernal noise, trying to tear every nerve out of my body!"

Clay turned back to his task. His job was to feed strips of this steel into the teeth of a machine which bit out pieces of it, and spat them into an endless, running carrier.

"I came to see you," she told him. "You look so ill, dear, so—so torn with the noise."

She saw that he was listening, intently at first, then with dawning wonder. His eyes grew soft and wide with an almost childish delight, the muscles of his thin, grease-marked face gradually stopped twitching, his hand lost its fearfulness; almost mechanically, as if he had lost his horror of the thing, he guided the strip of steel into the jaws that opened and closed rhythmically to receive it.

"It's driving me crazy," he told her, drawing a deep, shuddering breath. "Noise, noise, clamor, clamor, eight hours a day, I hear the damned machines in my sleep. Can't hear anything else. I'm losing my music—can't write or play—but—"

Ralph Truman joined them then, and Billy left Clay to his work, smiling upon him with such lingering tenderness that Truman could not help noticing it. He was less eager, more silent, as he conducted her through the numerous other buildings of the factory.

"My, how polite we are!" she laughed at him, with a trace of her old impudence. "Don't I look happy?"

"Tired now, Billy?" he asked so innocently, after she had looked on in naive wonder at the assembling of an automobile engine in the great assembling plant of the factory.

"No," he told her bluntly. "Lord, what a wreck I must be!" she challenged him, but there was a break in her determinedly gay voice.

"Frightfully," she smiled at him. "In such a model factory I'm sure you have afternoon tea. And I'm starved."

"Look at them!" she commanded him, pointing again to the nearest man who waited for their tasks to begin again. "Watch them when they begin work again. Every movement they make is in rhythm—"

"That shall be the next revolutionary innovation in the Truman automobile works," Ralph assured her gaily. "As a reward for the bright idea, you shall have your tea now, if I have to make it myself. This is the cafeteria, where employees are served at actual cost. Oh, Annie!" he raised his voice and shouted as he led Billy into a great, pleasant room, comfortably filled with small white-topped tables.

"No," he told her bluntly. "Lord, what a wreck I must be!" she challenged him, but there was a break in her determinedly gay voice.

MOUTH MUTELY VOICES BEAUTY, SAYS COFFIN

By HASKELL COFFIN. Mouths, of course, are important in more ways than one. Mouths tell character, passion, fullness or thinness of lips give a clue to strength or weakness.

Nowadays lip-sticks make many lips look alike. Unfortunately, too, for there are as many different mouths as there are individuals.

The perfect mouth is of medium size, with the upper lip not too long. Lips should be moderately full and curve gently. The prettiest mouths are those with upturned corners. So if you are inclined that way—laugh and conquer it. And Teeth and Lips. Of course, the perfect mouth closes over even, white teeth. Teeth have a great deal to do with beauty. But the shape of the lips is all-important.

Some mouths pout, some sneer, some coquette and coax. In many faces the mouth is the most distinctive characteristic. Recently a famous cartoonist drew Mary Pickford. The only line in the face fashioned the mouth. Instantly, she was recognized her because of the individual charm of her mouth.

Mouth Character. The thin mouth with turned down corners has a hard, dragging down expression. Too full lips, on the other hand, create the impression of voluptuousness. The full, red lips of the dancing girls Mae Murray plays on the screen, carry most of the appeal these characters have.

The lines of the mouth change with years and experience, just as the lines in one's hands do. A person developing patience or restraint will show it in the mouth. Often, therefore, it is more interesting to draw a mouth that shows character than one that has perfection of line but nothing else. Here, as everywhere, expression is half of beauty.

Ears? Bah! Ears need little said about them. I have never liked ears. Fortunately in the past decade I have been able to neglect them because they never show. I have almost forgotten what ears look like on women and have an unpleasant reaction when one of the new bobs reveals them. The short bob, which takes almost all the hair off, are unpleasant to me. I am not against bobbed hair if attractive, for that is a personal choice for each woman.

And I wonder if I would care to see all women with long hair again. That is a question—custom is so strange.

In his next and final article Haskell Coffin describes ideal grade of carriage.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE Strawberry shortcake "like mother used to make" is made by using regulation biscuit dough to which a little more shortening has been added. Bake in cake tin, split in two, butter and add crushed strawberries.

BIRD HOUSES Placing a bird-house outside your kitchen window will more than repay your expenditure in time and money for the interest the little home will hold for the children of the family. Experts should be consulted as to type of birdhouse and location.

ETHEL

WHEN YOU COME TO THE PARTING OF THE WAVE

THE WOMAN'S DAY BY ALLENE SUMNER

Houses should be built with their backs to the street, and their fronts facing a grassy, flowery shabby, quiet court, according to a prominent architect of Paris, who would revive the middle-age way of building homes so that privacy and quiet could be had by the house-dwellers. A charming idea, only he overlooks one point—If you then, could a housewife show off her new curtains?

When is an Antique? Pauline beautifully showed me her "new Colonial lamp" the other day for her Colonial bedroom. The chimney was even realistically smoked. I looked at Pauline in amazement, thinking how funny it was I remembered Pauline's rage only a handful of years ago because "they didn't have electric lights like other folks," and because she had to clean the smoky chimneys of the oil lamps in the old rambling Colonial, unimproved house that had been her grandfathers'. Pauline finally nagged the family into selling and taking "a modern house" like other people. That was perhaps 15 years ago. Now Pauline, married, "very modern," has gone in for the early American and hangs second-hand shops for the very things she despised and mocked not so many years ago. I have heard that she is fighting like mad to buy back the home of her ancestors, since so scorned a thing. Life is perplexing!

Age and Youth Because his daughter returned from a dance later than he thought she should, an Ohio father shot and killed the 19-year-old girl. This case is but an exaggerated result of horde of parents who fly into rages because things are different today than they were when they were young. It seems queer to hear uncontrolled age lecture youth. It should first learn to govern itself.

Trudy's Pop Trudy Ederle, first woman to swim the English channel, pays her father, the much-advertised "Pop Ederle," $1000 a week from her vaudeville earnings which, though she is supposed to be paid $6000 a week, have dwindled down to a few hundred when all expenses are paid. "Pop" gets the thousand it seems because she puts up $1500 for Trudy's expenses. That $1000 of it was Trudy's own, given to "Pop" for safe-keeping, was never emphasized. So, in return for the $1500, "Pop" got a summer abroad, a trip home to Germany, much glory, thousands of dollars from bets, he placed on Trudy, increased business in his meat-shops, and now the $1000 from Trudy.

Lucky Yank Kids American children, born of parents whose ancestors have been American-born for generations back, are not properly appreciative of the economic differences in which they are regarded by their parents as contrasted with the way foreign-born parents regard their children. Large families mean to European parents a large income as soon as the children can evade the school laws. Each child is insured as a wage-earner, should be, and whether parents need it or not it is assumed that each child, whether he or she lives at home, shall turn in all of his or her wages until marriage. I'll admit that a happy medium betwixt the continental and American idea wouldn't be a bad thing. American kids rarely think of contributing a penny at home until the law makes them.

Good Nature and Good Health

AVOIDING DISEASE By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The hair, the hides, the flesh and the excretions of animals infected may transmit the infection to other animals or to human beings.

The human being is usually inoculated with the germ by an accidental wound or scratch which comes into contact with the infected material.

Infected hair and the hides of infected animals may be a source of the disease for many months after the animal has been killed, unless the hide, the fur, or the hair has been thoroughly disinfected by a suitable process. Thus cases of anthrax have occurred from shaving brushes made from hair of infected animals, even though they had passed through several manufacturing processes.

Public health authorities suggest that all animals ill with a disease resembling anthrax should be placed immediately in the care of a veterinary surgeon. If the disease is established, the animal must be killed promptly, and the carcass destroyed, preferably by fire.

Since the disease is spread primarily by hides and hair, persons handling such material, who develop abrasions of the skin, should immediately consult competent medi-

There is a woman in "Who's Who" with a ready story for those who ask how she got there.

"Once upon a time," she will tell you, as she told me, with a soft burr in her voice, "I was a very belligerent sort of a person. I believe it or not, but I heard the janitor and his wife in the apartment where I lived dub me 'The Cactus' one time. I got that one morning up the dumb waiter. And I think other people dubbed me that too, in their minds at least."

She laughed a merry little laugh that was so contagious I laughed, too! No one could associate this amiable, white-haired person with anything more prickly than lilacs.

"At thirty-two I found myself alone. I was earning my own living teaching school and had very few friends. I tried to persuade myself that I didn't want any. Friends expected things of you and I was fearful of what I did for others. I must have been a pleasant person," she added with a little grimace. "Even when I heard the janitor's remark I think I was secretly delighted."

"It's a far cry from the picture you draw of yourself to the philanthropic work you are doing now," I had to remark. She nodded and opened a drawer. She took out of it the photograph of a little girl, in a leather

"BEST SHOW YET"
SAY STATE CROWDS

This Week's Bill Unusual;
Doug MacLean Plays In
"Let It Rain."

(By Member Herald Staff.)
"Absolutely and without question the best vaudeville bill that has ever been presented to Manchester."

That is the consensus of the State's audience last night on the wonderful show presented for the first of the three days on which the bill will occupy the State stage. And the picture is one of the funniest and most dramatic ever seen here. It is "Let It Rain," a sentimental affair starring Douglas MacLean and others.

Second only to the Mazda Revue, an exotic, colorful combination of dancing, wonderful music and lighting effects, is the team of Wheeler and Wood, two of the best comedy stars ever seen in Manchester. The male member of the troupe is dressed in a funny looking outfit consisting of a pseudo dress suit and a straw hat. His appearance is only secondary to the stuff he pulls for his patter is as fresh as new mown hay and as funny as Josh Billings. His female co-partner feeds him perfectly and the two make a wonderful job of their act. As a matter of fact, their time on the stage is twice that of the ordinary vaudeville duo but there is not a dull moment in the whole skit.

The Mazda Revue brings to State patrons one of the combinations that is seldom found in vaudeville, namely, good music and dancing of character. A mandolin orchestra comprising a mandolin, second mandolin, mandola and violin, furnish the music for two of the best aesthetic dancers ever seen in Manchester. The violinist himself is an artist for his playing is as smooth as silk.

The trio of mandolin players show that they can sing as well as play when they do "La Paloma" with all the verve, tunefulness and harmony of a real Spanish quartet. This act alone is worth the price of admission.

Of course, there must be fillers.

DO THIS JURY THING DIFFERENTLY OVER THERE

While the State of Connecticut is picking a jury for the trial of the two Chinamen who are alleged to have murdered a Manchester laundryman, it is interesting to note the difference between American law and English law as explained by a Manchester man.

In England, he says, a juror who expresses a conscientious objection to capital punishment is held throughout the period of the court and is compelled to answer the roll call every day that the court is in session. Here the juror is excused from further duty.

They are good in this instance, for Manager Sanson has booked this week the best that could be procured. The first act shows Harry Stephens, a banjoist who eclipses anybody ever heard or seen here. He plays a tenor banjo and makes that instrument do tricks that its inventor never dreamed of. He is good.

Second on the program are Pilot and Schofield, a pair of comedy, singing and dancing artists who make plenty of prestige in their acts. The final act is the combination of Davis and Darnell, who use a real automobile on the stage.

BRITISHERS HAVE SPLENDID CHANCE IN TODAY'S RACES

Lord Burghley Has Only Fordham Runner to Defeat But Can He Do It?

By DAVIS J. WALSH I. N. S. Sports Editor

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29.—They say the sun never sets on England's possessions and it may be that today will furnish either denial or affirmation of the notion, for five scions of Cambridge university's wealth and distinction will take issue with the best in American colleges at the Pennsylvania relay carnival and, by nightfall tomorrow, crown champions of the title is the least they expect to possess. They, as a matter of fundamental fact, are counting on two.

Royal Kanner Lord David Burghley, the only runner in the world who has a crest on his cigarette case, won the 400-metre hurdles two years ago in his first fling at the event and they naturally think the second time will prove it. That is one victory they are counting before it is cashed. The other is the shuttle relay over hurdles tomorrow and, in addition they are not betting any "alt" crowns that Lord Dave won't win the 120-yard hurdle today.

All five of the invading British—Lord Burghley, F. C. Weightman, T. Livingston-Learmouth, H. P. Bowler and J. O. Richardson—the "Gehers" as they say in County Mayo. They will be the cynosure of all eyes, speaking in a strictly original vein, but only when they are on the track. There will be entirely too much action among entirely too many good athletes from the east, middle west, north and south for the British to give the crowd a permanent thrill.

Many Thrills The games, in fact, figure to be a procession of thrills from the moment the deatation starts at ten o'clock this morning until the four mile relay championship comes down to a decision late tomorrow.

In the meantime, Roland Locke, world's record holder at 220 yards; Hank Russell, intercollegiate sprint champion, and Jackson Scholz, Olympic title holder, will have settled their differences at 100 and 220 yards, probably the outstanding feature of the two-day program.

Lord Burghley has only one man to beat in the 400 metre hurdle, but he is a good one, to wit Johnny Gibson, of Fordham. John won last year while David was elsewhere.

In the 440-yard championship the Notre Dame four that knocked off the entire west last year in the record time of 41.6-10 will be tossed in with Pennsylvania which last year stepped the distance in 42 flat. Boston college, Syracuse and several others promise to be there or thereabouts at the finish of this one, too.

DRAKE CARNIVAL GETS UNDER WAY

Three Thousand College and High School Athletes Convene For Noted Event.

Des Moines, Ia., April 29 (United Press).—Three thousand of the nation's star university, college and high school athletes, assembled here today for the 13th annual Drake University relay carnival today and tomorrow.

Ossie Solem, director of the relays, announced the complete program of events, which, for the purpose of competition, are divided into university, college and high school sections.

The special events, open only to athletes competing in the university section include the 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, two-mile run, high jump, hop-step-and-jump, pole vault, shot put, discus throw, javelin throw and hammer throw.

The two-mile run and the hammer throw, always thrilling tests of prowess, have been added to the program of special events at the great western classic for the first time this year.

In the university section, six relay races are entered, these being the quarter-mile, half-mile, mile, two mile, four mile and medley events.

Athletes competing in the college section will run in half-mile, mile, two mile and medley relay races. In the high school section, quarter-mile, half-mile, mile and two mile relay races are scheduled.

Clinch to Appear Wednesday Again

Johnny Clinch, popular New Britain boxer, and two-time conqueror of Ancho Villa, has sent in his entry for the next amateur boxing tournament which will be held at Cheney hall Wednesday night of next week.

Manchester boxing enthusiasts will no doubt welcome this news for Clinch is probably the most finished and hardest hitting boxer ever to grace a C. B. A. card. What's more, his style of fighting is such that he always "carries down the house."

Jack Shanley, the popular promoter of the tournaments, is going to feature New Britain, Springfield and Waterbury boxers on the next program.

Among the entries already secured are: New Britain—Johnny Clinch, Joe Zetter, Joe Kody, Waterbury—Leo Lariviere (he is in Clinch's class); Joe Harmon, Eugene Gregory, Lucien Lariviere, Rollo Roland, Jack Harmon and these from Springfield: Art Chappell, Charley Peppy, Dan Borcelli, Charley Peppy, Angelo Morace.

QUAKE SHARPS TO MEET

Cambridge, Mass., April 29.—The nation's leading authorities on earthquakes will attend the annual meeting of the eastern section of the Seismological Society of America at Massachusetts Institute of Technology next week. Cause and effect of earthquakes, from slight vibrations that only the sensitive ear of the seismograph hears, to the violent readjustments of the earth's crust, will be under discussion.

I had a very interesting chat with Joe Carr, president of the professional basketball league, prior to the opening game of the basketball world series. He admitted the foul bugaboo was causing his league no end of worry.

In the course of our conversation Carr expressed the belief that a rule similar to the one in vogue in hockey, penalizing the player who offends by a one or two-minute removal from the game, might make for less fouling and more action.

MURPHY'S GIRLS ARE UNABLE TO CLIMB FROM RUT

Once More They Drop Two Games; Meriden Also Rolls Poorly and Barely Wins.

Murphy's Girls took their usual two-out-three dip in the state bowling league last night at the satisfaction of the Meriden Starlights. Meriden hit 1300 against 1287 for Manchester. Only three local scores were above 87 in the fifteen games while the Starlights fared but little better. The match was rolled at Murphy's alleys last night and the return go will be in the Silver City Sunday afternoon.

The first game last night ended a tie 404 to 404 but Meriden won on team two-box roll-off. Meriden copied the second game, Manchester prevented being ducked in halsoaming by winning the final game 451 to 432. Jennie Lucas was the only girl on either who hit good scores.

WANT C. B. A. IN STATE BALL LEAGUE

Cheney Brothers' A. A. has been approached on the proposition of a state baseball league which would include the International Silver Company of Meriden, Southington, Fertex, New Haven Hudsons, Wallingford, All-Kenston and the New Britain Falcons. The league was suggested by Robert Cousins, director of athletics at the International Silver Company.

Manager Jack Jenney of the local team said today it was undecided what action his club would take on the matter. A meeting is to be held in Meriden Monday night and it will be attended by an official of the local club with a view of seeing just how matters shape up.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS

Cesar Moncourtois, farmer, exhibits an airplane bomb his plow has turned up on his field near the Chemin des Dames.

This is the 18th chapter in the story of a former doughboy who, going back to France as an advance guard of the "Second A. E. F.," is revisiting all the scenes he and his buddies saw during the war.

CHAPTER XVIII

Up along the Chemin des Dames! Louis the Fifteenth built this road as a drive for ladies of his court—it was used by Germans and French as the scene of some of the most sanguine fighting of the war—and Americans knew it from Fort Malmouison to Craonne and Craonnelle.

All along the traces of war exist. There's a sign: "Defense de Toucher. Aux Munitions. Danger de Mort."

Many Explosives Handgrenades are piled high; huge shells are rusting. The Second A. E. F.'ers will see more war than the papers would lead you to believe. The road has been perfectly reconstructed. And peasants are working in the fields. A ploughman, four horses in line, strikes a snag.

"Arrete," he yells. His heavy sleds pause. He leans over. He tugs and grunts at an object at his plough point. With a mighty heave he loosens it—

A bomb from a German aeroplane. It might have exploded. But it didn't. It is dead! The ploughman carries the rust-encrusted piece over and adds it to a huge pile. Tomorrow, or maybe next week sometime, a junk dealer will come along in a high cart. And he'll buy the piece for a few sous.

The trees on all sides are blasted. Everywhere the returning veteran will find evidence of the desolation that followed the four years of constant shelling. It is a weird scene. But the heart of the observer is touched. The peasants have been working five years to correct the damage. And they will be working for ten years more.

Caronne— Many New Houses The old estate is ruined. But many new houses with bright red roofs are there. The city hall is of modern construction. There don't seem to be many people in town. Up a side street—a clutter of shoes—on children—all born since the war—ruddy-cheeked and healthy—the only soldiers Americans these kids will know will be the Legion's "Second A. E. F."

They surge up to the door of an old barracks. A cross is at the gable. An aged padre comes. He unlocks the door. The children follow him in.

Above the rim of the high hill, far up and away from the valley and the padre's class, the trees show gaunt in the gray light of late afternoon.

The sun is going to sleep behind the Chemin des Dames.

Tomorrow: War's Scars.

GERMANY SEEKS WAY TO PLEASE U. S. TOURISTS

Sends Delegation of 30 Officials to Study Likes of American Travelers.

Berlin.—American tourists may be unpopular in the rest of Europe, but Germany announces that she likes them, and to prove it, the government is sending to the United States a delegation of thirty officials to study the needs of the American traveller at home.

By observing the native American traveller at home.

By observing the native American in his original habitat, the investigators hope to discover how best to please him when he visits

Germany, and incidentally, how best to deflect from France and Italy that stream of American tourist money which now contributes materially to bolster up the business of the Latin countries.

The commission will do its best to watch American "in the raw." Believing that the natives of the United States behave differently before strangers, the investigators intend to conduct themselves as circumspectly as though they were photographing wild birds.

To Visit Restaurants Certain members will cautiously visit American restaurants and observe what Americans eat and how they eat. Menu will be copied, and it may be expected that this summer the bills of fare in Berlin will undergo radical changes.

Other members will be detailed to explore American soda fountains and make special research into the uses of ice water. It is understood that there were no volunteers for this job, the majority of Germans believing that ice water is poisonous.

Sleeping habits of Americans will be closely noted, and it is even possible that German hotels in future will offer beds unburdened with the massive feather mattresses which serve here for blankets winter and summer alike.

Now Merely Commercial All the provincial governments of Germany as well as the Federal government are represented in the delegation to America. The Federal Railroad Administration is sending Privy Counsellors Brunow and Doehring, and the Foreign Office is sending Dr. Davidson and Dr. Thomsen. Their mission is regarded as not merely commercial, but diplomatic, for tourists are beginning to be recognized as important agents for the bettering of international relationships.

Meanwhile definite steps already have been taken to make Germany a more desirable playground for Americans. Having already a large advantage in the fact that anti-American feeling is virtually nonexistent here, the hotel-keepers and railroad administration are now beginning to appeal to the pocket-book as well as to pride.

For a time, when the French franc was trembling on the edge of the toboggan, German tourist reports could not compete, but today they announce a schedule of prices which make this country as cheap for the traveller as any in Europe. The Federal Railroad Administration is particularly anxious to attract American tourists, and for their sake advertises that fares in Germany are cheaper than in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, England, Switzerland or Holland.

WRONG ADVICE

It was in one of the less sedate night clubs that a member slipped into a state of intoxication and, in bewilderment, sought one of his fellows.

"Charles," he said, "it's four o'clock and I'm tight. What shall I do?"

"If I were you, old man, I'd go home."

The unsteady one gathered his dignity. "Sir," he said, "when I want your advice, I'll ask for it." —New Yorker.

MOVIES LEARNING TO TALK, TAKE COURSE IN VOICE CULTURE

By GENE COHN

New York.—The films, having learned to talk, are preparing to use this newfound voice in many ways.

From the east coast office of Fox films I have it that the first feature film combining sound and sight will be under way in March. The splash of water will be heard as a boat steams away, the mob may be heard to growl, and the footfalls of the villain will be heard upon the stairway.

This injection of sound into the film, while it will be approached gingerly at first and used only on highspots, nevertheless presents a challenge to all cinema departments.

New Demands on Actors
The director, for instance, will be expected to have his trigger finger handy to shoot at any sound device that might add to the building of his picture. And, who knows, the Douglas Fairbanks of the future may be asked to pick a mandolin as agilely as they climb ropes or leap fences. While a good speaking voice, heretofore unconsidered in the silent drama may be a requirement in reaching stardom. All of which is a sequel to the opening in Manhattan of the first film studio dedicated to sound. Vitaphone, which is under the Warner Brothers' banner, has been shooting in a Manhattan theater with special equipment.

But the new Movietone which, thus far, has been given only press presentation, is being developed on a special set at the Fox studio in New York. The For-Cass method, which is being used, differs from the Vitaphone in that the "sound" actually photographed upon the film and is unreeled with the projection of the picture.

It is similar to a process recently announced from General Electric, differing in that it uses a special tube for transferring light waves into sound waves—which is the basis of all talking and singing films. This tube, I am told, can be fitted into other equipments.

The world premiere of his device, with Raquel Meller, the Spanish artist, as star, was given for the press after months of laboratorial secrecy, demonstrating in particular how the approach of footsteps, the jangle of bells or the slamming of chairs could be used effectively to increase tension in the world.

A Sound-Proof Studio
The studio in which the Movietone films are made is sound-proof, air being changed every three minutes. The device itself is best described as a combination of telephone, radio and phonograph. The performer sings or speaks into a microphone, which magnifies the sound, sending it along a telegraph wire to the camera, where it is immediately converted into light and photographed along the rim of the film.

In projecting it the light waves shoot into a wire, being again transformed and sent out as sound on a loud speaker concealed behind the screen. A narrow slit in the "light box" brings about the variations in intensity which the film records.

With actual program production daily under way, it is only a matter of months before the thickest hamlet can hear and see the greatest performers. And tomorrow! Well the silent actors may have to learn to speak.

SHOW PRODUCTS OF NEW ENGLAND TO HOME FOLKS

State Publicity Bureaus Hold Many Exhibitions In Show Windows.

Boston.—The movement to show New Englanders the products of New England industries is developing rapidly. This movement is taking form in exhibitions, window displays, style shows, custom balls and many other different forms of advertising.

In Concord, N. H., the state publicity bureau is using a show window in the business section for the purpose of familiarizing the citizens of Concord, as well as visitors, with the products of the state. New Hampshire manufacturers are taking turns in using the window for display of their products.

Products of "the world's largest cotton mill" in Manchester, N. H., will soon be shown in the window of a department store there to residents of the city for the first time.

Style Show
A "travelling style show" organized by New England textile mills are shown on living models. This show was sponsored by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Another feature promoted by the textile industry is the cotton costume ball which will be held in Boston, May 13. All costumes worn at the ball will be of material produced in New England.

Running parallel with the textile industry in the display of products is the shoe industry. Exhibits have been shown at various theaters in Boston and now plans are under way for the seventh annual shoe and leather fair to be held in Boston during the month of July.

Advertising exhibits have not been confined to the so-called "style products." Manufacturers of machinery are conducting exhibits. Probably the outstanding of these is the show of New England-made textile machinery which is exhibited yearly at Northbridge, Mass. To this show textile manufacturers from all sections of the country come.

The "Home Beautiful Exposition" held yearly in Boston is also an important means of advertising New England products. At the recent show of the 168 exhibitors, but twelve were from outside of this section.

THEY CAN'T ROB HIM

Square-Jawed Grocer Argues—Eight Yeggs Fail to Hold Him Up.

San Diego, Calif.—A fighting jaw does mean something. F. E. Davies, San Diego grocery store proprietor, proves that, with a record of eight holdups and not a nickle lost.

F. E. Davies

Davies never has put his hands in the air or surrendered. He believes in outwitting the holdup man by reason. Probably someone else would call it sheer nerve.

"If you reason with holdup men you can repulse them without fear of physical violence or financial loss," is his advice. "Simply tell them that you haven't a thing for them. Explain that nothing will be gained by shooting, perhaps not their sole object—loot—and they will always go away. It really isn't dangerous. All you have to do is to remain perfectly quiet, and don't make any moves that may indicate you are reaching for a gun or other instrument to combat them with."

A few days ago, a tall, masked bandit sauntered into Davies' store, prodded a gun into his stomach, and demanded money.

"I tried several times to pull the mask from his face, but each time he pushed the muzzle of his weapon a little deeper into my solar plexus," Davies told police. "I told him to go ahead and kill me, and, since my wife didn't know where the money was, he wouldn't get anything, anyway. He listened to real reason and left without disturbing a thing."

HOBO DIGS UP FARE.

Denver, Col.—The hobo has become a source of considerable revenue to at least one railroad in the United States. The Denver and Rio Grande Western collects about $20,000 from them every year for rides they try to steal. Special agents inspect each passenger and freight train and herd their captives to the ticket window. It means either jail or a ticket—so they usually pay.

IRON AND STEEL BOOM IS ON IN GREAT BRITAIN

Industry Forging Ahead With Big Strides With Production High.

Sheffield.—A big boom is impending in the great iron and steel industries of Britain.

Ever since Christmas the industry has gone rapidly ahead. In March it obtained an input production of steel which was at a higher daily rate than at any time since 1920. The improvement in the first three months of the year can be seen from the figures:

Iron (1,000 tons) . . . Jan. Feb. Mar.
Steel (1,000 tons) . . . 435 563 630
The March production of steel was 116,000 tons greater than in March, 1926.

Orders In Hand
Sufficient orders are in hand to maintain production on a large scale over the summer months and with the stabilization of the French franc there is little cause to fear outside competition in the iron and steel industry.

The only doubtful question now is that of a revival in shipbuilding. Before the war it was reckoned that shipbuilding took not less than 30 per cent of the output of the British steel industry. Ever since 1920 ship construction in Britain has steadily decreased and at the end of 1926 the British figures were actually 3,000,000 tons below the peak figures of March 1921. But it is now thought that the tide has turned at last.

Increase Shown
Estimates for March 1927 show an increase of 100,000 tons for December 1926.

Apart from this, it is obvious that the world's merchant fleets are badly in need of renewal. Lloyd's Registry shows that at the end of 1926 nearly 9 per cent of the world's total tonnage was represented by ships of 25 years old or over. Over a million tons should be scrapped every year to keep the world's merchant fleets in a state of efficiency, but nothing like that amount was scrapped last year. But the replacements are bound to come and, taking all things together, the British steel and iron industry reckons it is in for a time of renewed prosperity.

PHONE AIDS RAIDERS.

Boston.—The liquor squad of the Boston police force has utilized the telephone in its drive against speakeasies and gambling dens. The "buyer" for the liquor squad enters a suspected building carrying a tiny transmitter with wires attached. With this he can signal to the raiders when the time is right for their entrance.

NATION'S RICHES GROW.

New York.—The national wealth of the United States amounted to $355,030,000,000 in 1925, according to an estimate of the National Industrial Conference Board, an organization representing the major industries of the country. This was an increase of approximately $5 billions over 1922, when the last estimate was made.

WEST SIDE SCOUTS GETTING UNDER WAY

The eight charter members of the newly organized Boy Scout troop at the West Side are Joseph Brown, Stuart Vennard, Herman Smith, Arthur Graff, John Leidholt, Robert Thayer, Jack Brown and Irwin Quinn.

As soon as these eight scouts are able to pass the tenderfoot examinations, the troop will officially be given a name and a charter. It is expected that the group will be able to get their tenderfoot badges at the meeting next Monday night at the West Side Rec at 7:30 at which time Hartford scout officials will be present. Parents and prospective scouts are welcome.

After these eight become full fledged scouts, eight more will be allowed to enroll. Thirty-two scouts compose the normal roster of a troop and Scoutmaster Robert Schubert reports that there are easily that many at the West Side who are only too anxious to join.

STRIKING EVENTS

"My wife had a strange accident the other day. As she was walking along, a man's hat blew off and struck her eye. It cost me five bucks for the doctor's bill."
"That's nothing. My wife was on the street the other day and a hat in a window struck her eye and it cost me fifteen dollars.— Ideas.

A questionnaire was sent out in the center district to determine the sentiment of the parents as to the advisability of observing daylight saving time in the schools. The matter was settled in the affirmative and the school beginning with Tuesday morning went on daylight time. The outlying districts have not been heard from yet. St. Peter's church will hold its services a half hour earlier on Sundays, beginning at 10 a. m. with church school at 11:15. The change went into effect last Sunday.

A speaking and spelling contest will take place at the town hall Tuesday evening, May 3, at 7:30 standard time, when the schools of the town will each send a representative to compete for honors. Contests will take place in each of the schools prior to this to decide on which pupil shall represent his school. This contest or tryout will be held on Friday of this week in the Center grammar school, with local judges to decide.

Mrs. Roger W. Porter was obliged to get a substitute to take her place in the primary room at Hebron Center school on Wednesday as she was suffering from throat trouble.

Cummings, teacher at the Pine street school, presented the play, "Mrs. Briggs and the Poultry Yard," at Columbia Wednesday evening. This play was given at the Grange in Gilead several weeks ago with much success.

The working of the steam shovel on the Marlborough road for the last few days made it impossible for the school children to get through from points near the Marlborough line to attend the school at Hebron center. A school wagon runs from that point to the center carrying from ten to twelve pupils daily, transportation being furnished by the town. It is said that the road will be free for the children to get through in a few days.

One day I read about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, went to the store and bought me a package. It did me good and I am using it regularly. I had tried all kinds of medicine but they failed. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN surely saved me."

BOYS' FIRE BRIGADE

GETS ITS BADGES

Chief Coleman Gives Youthful Fire Fighters B. V. F. D. Emblems and Advice.

Every community during the past few months has been asked, not only by State Forest Associations but by the governors of a number of the New England states, to help combat and bring down to a minimum the destruction of woodlands and forests, by fire. The devastation by fire in this direction has been the greatest ever known to many of the states.

Chief Edward Coleman of the Manchester fire department and Director Washburn of the Community club, in co-operation with the state's request, have organized a boy's volunteer fire brigade which has been functioning some three weeks. The other day Chief Coleman asked the members to report to the north end fire house and after a short talk on fire prevention, the methods of fighting brush, grass and forest fires planned on each member the badge of their organization, a red ribbon on the right arm with the initials "B. V. F. B." Boys Volunteer Fire Brigade.

The red, he said, stood for the danger of fire, the black letters stood for the black embers after the fire was out and also for the sorrow and destruction left in the path of the fire. The badge on the right arm means that they will use their strength as protectors of the community from the hazard of fire. These boys have already each one of them fought fires beside one own fire fighters who know their real worth. The chief further stated that he hoped the community would co-operate with the department during these dry months in burning rubbish, dry grass, etc. Permits must be obtained always.

Maltop Malts

Highest Quality

"MALTOP MALTS" are worth going a long, long way for.

For seven years "MALTOP MALTS" have been steadily increasing their circle of malt boosters. Other brands have come and gone—new names, new labels, new claims.

"MALTOP MALTS" have nothing new to offer. The same original high grade malt made from the best matured winter barley, concentrated to a rich, creamy pure malt. Made in five varieties, "MALTOP" offers a brand for every taste—light, dark, porter style, hop-flavored and medium.

Why experiment with new, unknown brands that have just "dropped in." Better to tie up with a malt that has been giving complete beverage satisfaction for seven years. A tried and proven malt—"MALTOP."

And if you are fussy about getting a fresh, mellow "ace-high" hop, with the genuine tang, you will naturally want the famous "MALTOP HOPS."

10 to 1 your grocer sells "MALTOP MALTS" and "MALTOP HOPS"—if he belongs to the Better Grocer class.

We were fortunate this week in getting all GENUINE SPRING LAMBS. They cost a little more but these Genuine Springers are certainly worth the difference. These shoulders are just right to roll and served with baked brown potatoes and brown gravy they will be more than satisfactory.

You can have anything you want in lean corned beef tomorrow. The rib pieces at 12c are lean, or we can give you Rumps, Thick Ribs or tender Briskets.

Have you tried our Scotch Ham yet? We started with two Scotch Hams each week and the demand has reached a point where we now handle eight.

We were caught napping last week—ran out of Sausage Meat at noon Saturday and simply could not find time to make up another supply. Tomorrow we will have an extra large quantity ready. It's cool enough yet for Sausage and Pancakes.

PLANE SAVES MAROONED MEN ON PIKE'S PEAK

These two pictures tell the story of how two lives were saved when aviators, flying over the summit of Pike's Peak, Colorado, dropped a food supply to two men cut off from the outside world by snowstorms. Above the aviators are shown with the package of food they dropped. Below is a picture of the lofty peak, which is 14,109 feet in elevation. It was the first time in history a plane had passed through the treacherous air over the peak in the early spring.

INDIANA TO TRY NEW TAX SCHEME IN REAL ESTATE

Downward Revision For Land Values New Order By State Board.

Indianapolis.—Indiana will try a new scheme in tax methods this year. All equalization orders from the state tax board will call for a downward revision of real estate.

The new method is the result of a law passed by the last session of the legislature providing for a downward revision of real estate this year.

The law was passed to relieve farmers throughout the state of excessive burdens as the result of decreased values in farm property. The complaint was made that many farmers were being taxed on farm lands assessed higher than the actual cash value.

Passage of the law created consternation among the members of the tax board. They charged it violated every principle of equity, but were relieved to learn its provisions were effective for one year only.

Reducing Valuations

Under the provisions of the new law, the tax board was expressly forbidden to increase the assessed valuation of any taxing unit to equalize it with the valuations of surrounding units. It declared the board would have to reduce the valuation of the surrounding units to the level of the first.

Although they declare the provisions of the law a "surd" and state that the bill never should have been passed, the board nevertheless, is going to follow the edict, John J. Brown, chairman, asserted. Brown refused to conjecture on the probable result.

Farm Bloc Panicky

The farm bloc became panicky. An increase in the state tax was inevitable and they passed the new tax law.

Friends of the bill said it would hurt no one, but help the farmers who were staggering under a top heavy tax burden. Opponents announced it would ruin the state financially. But the measure was passed and the governor signed it.

Enemies of the bill still predict all sorts of dire results.

They charge the total assessed valuation of the state will be reduced materially. This will mean an increased tax rate to cover the shortage it is pointed out, and the farmer will be where he was in the beginning.

The increased tax rate, it is said will drive businesses out of the state. Some express grave fear over this consequence.

None of the charges or counter charges worry the farmers, however. They are satisfied. A downward revision of real estate valuations, they say, will bring their lands at least within the present market prices. That is all they want, they say.

"SHOW-OFF" DRAWING WELL AT THE RIALTO

Last Showing of Paramount Comedy Tonight—Meighan Coming Tomorrow.

When is a show-off not a show-off? Answer—When he makes good. This, apparently, is the humorous moral to be drawn from "The Show-Off," Paramount's rollicking comedy which was shown to large and enthusiastic audiences at The Rialto yesterday and will be shown for the last time this evening, at 7 and 9 o'clock, in conjunction with program of added features, including "Buddy" Roosevelt in "The Rambler Galoot," the News weekly and a two reel comedy. Tonight's prices are 10 and 20 cents.

The plot of "The Show-Off" is a simple, straightforward affair, dealing with an average American family and developing that sort of comic, pathetic and dramatic incidents that people experience in real life. The picture is replete with good, clean humor and affords a splendid evening of genuine entertainment.

Thomas Meighan is featured in the special attraction on tomorrow's big continuous bill in "The Canadian," a stirring love story of Canada. It is a Paramount play and the star is supported by a typical Paramount cast. Other attractions on the same program include a western play, "Double Trouble," the last chapter of "Scotty of the Scots," a two reel comedy and Kinograms. At the matinee performance roller skates will be given away to the children.

The attraction Sunday evening is "Casey at the Bat," starring Wallace Beery.

HIGHWAY DEPT AIMS TO SPEED ROAD BUILDING

Experimenting With Quick Hardening Concrete; May Open New Pavements to Traffic In 12 Days.

Announcement was made today by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald that extensive experiments are now being made by the Connecticut Highway Department with a view to decreasing the time necessary for hardening new concrete, which would enable the department to open roads in the process of reconstruction to traffic several days sooner than formerly.

For a number of years, it has been necessary to "cure" new concrete for 20 days before it attained sufficient strength to support traffic without seriously injuring the road. During this 20-day period, it has been necessary to make use of detours or one way traffic systems, both of which cause great inconvenience and incur considerable expense of maintenance. Last year, the maintenance of detours cost the highway department $125,000.

The rapid increase in motor traffic in Connecticut and the consequent increased inconvenience resulting from detours and one way traffic have caused the highway department to undertake these experiments in the more rapid hardening of concrete. Through one experiment the department has discovered that the addition of a chemical compound to the original concrete mixture will increase the strength of concrete sufficiently to reduce the curing time from 20 to 14 days, thus enabling a saving of six days in the use of detours and the one-way system.

Another experiment which will be conducted by the highway department this summer centers about the relative proportions of the essential elements of concrete: namely, cement, sand, and crushed stone. It is believed that by increasing the proportion of cement in the concrete mixture, an even further reduction in the curing period may be attained which will allow new concrete to be opened for traffic 12 days after it is laid, thus saving eight days in the hardening process and approximately 40 per cent of the detour maintenance cost. While the 12-day opening time will not be in use this season, it is nevertheless probable that experimentation with new concrete formulae will result in a considerable saving of time and money next year.

STATE HARSH WITH ROAD LAW BREAKERS

One Man Convicted For Six Different Violations In Year, Statistics Show.

One man was convicted of six different motor vehicle law violations in one court action in the past year, it is revealed by court reports submitted to the state motor vehicle department. Two men were convicted of five offenses, thirty-one of four offenses, 234 of three violations and 1,641 of two offenses each. This applies to conviction on one or more counts at one trial, and does not take "repeaters" into account.

There were 12,958 persons, or nearly 4 per cent. of all licensed operators in Connecticut, convicted of one offense.

An offense against the motor vehicle laws occurred for every seventeen drivers in the state and one in every nineteen, approximately, was convicted of such a violation.

Every one of these offenses is recorded on the driver's record kept in the department, and convictions showing on a person's record have an important bearing on any decision which the department is called upon to make with respect to his right to drive motor vehicles on the highways of the state.

A great many of those convicted in the courts were suspended by the department, for varying periods, for the same offense. Reckless driving, for instance, will not be tolerated and the department's practice is to suspend an operator for 15 days when convicted once for that violation and for a period of not less than 30 days nor more than 90 days when convicted a second time for the same offense. Fatal accidents invariably result in at least a year's suspension of operator causing fatality and convictions for driving while drunk brings a year's suspension, unless period is shortened after hearing and presentation of further evidence.

There are some people who are under indefinite suspension, having by repeated demonstrations of habitual disregard for the rights and safety of others, virtually forfeited their right to drive motor vehicles in Connecticut.

MAIL DELAYED

Passengers Sent by Auto to Waterbury and Torrington

Winsted, Conn., April 29.—Railroad section hands worked all night to repair damage done last evening when the trucks of the mail car on a Bridgeport-bound train were derailed at the "sink hole" south of Burrville. While no one was injured in the accident the damage was so severe that the New Haven railroad had to annul the train and send passengers and mail by automobile to Waterbury and Torrington.

The train was stopped only when 150 ties had been ripped out of the road bed and the rails for that distance had been twisted out of shape. A wrecking crew from Waterbury was called into service by ten p. m., and it was some time after daylight before the road was ready for use by trains.

utes of the most delightful music, dancing, melody and continuous story action. All the drag parts have been omitted, all the intermissions have been omitted, and the result is ninety minutes of delightful entertainment. The management caters to the most critical tastes and assures everyone that the premier production "The Gingham Girl," will exceed all audience expectations. In addition to this there is the picture presentation of "Ankles Preferred." As it has already been stated, "Ankles Preferred" has established new house records at its premier showing in New York. It presents charming Midge Bellamy at her very best with an excellent cast that also includes J. Farrell MacDonald, Lawrence Gray, Allan Forrest, Barry Worton. It is one of the prettiest romances that has ever been screened and will meet with the widest approval. Besides there will be the usual comedy, news and music numbers.

SENSE and NONSENSE

We learn that a university man has worked his way through college by caring for a baby. Great numbers of them have flunked their examinations for the same reason.

Reporter: To what do you attribute your failure to be elected? Illinois Politician: Hard work and clean living.

"Nude and crazy," says a headline. Can you imagine a man in a worse fix? "Yes—nude and sane."

If anybody thinks life insurance is no good, just let him die without it once. That will convince him.

A little petting Now and then Don't play Heck If you know when.

There's no such thing as knowing when. You do your petting When you kin.

Brown: Say, old man, it's strange to see you going around in that light topcoat this chilly weather while your wife is wearing swell new furs.

Black: My dear chap, all I have to do is to think of those furs and immediately I start perspiring.

The modern girl's hair looks like a mop," says a critic. But that doesn't worry her. She doesn't know what a mop looks like.

A GOOD TURN

How sweet to waken in the morn. When daylight first begins to creep Across the world, and then to turn Right back again—and go to sleep!

One of the things a romantic middle-aged man would like to see once in a while is a regular apron bustling around the kitchen on a suitable foundation.

Our idea of a living wage is enough to keep ahead of the neighbors.

"A gentleman called me handsome yesterday," said a rather elderly lady to her minister. "Do you think it is sinful of me to feel a little proud of the compliment?" "Not at all, ma'am," replied the minister. "It's the gentleman who is the sinner, not you."

Life, Business and Hash is what you make it.

Many a home-town boy who boasts of his city position fails to describe it accurately. The janitor of the First National Bank, for instance, did not explain that his draft work consisted in opening and closing windows.

OUR FUNNY ANCESTORS

A gentleman opened doors for ladies. And at dances wore gloves lest he soil his partner's gown.

And in drawing rooms, juggled top hat, cane, gloves, bread and butter, cup of tea and conversation. And in the evenings asked her father's permission to sit in the parlor with daughter.

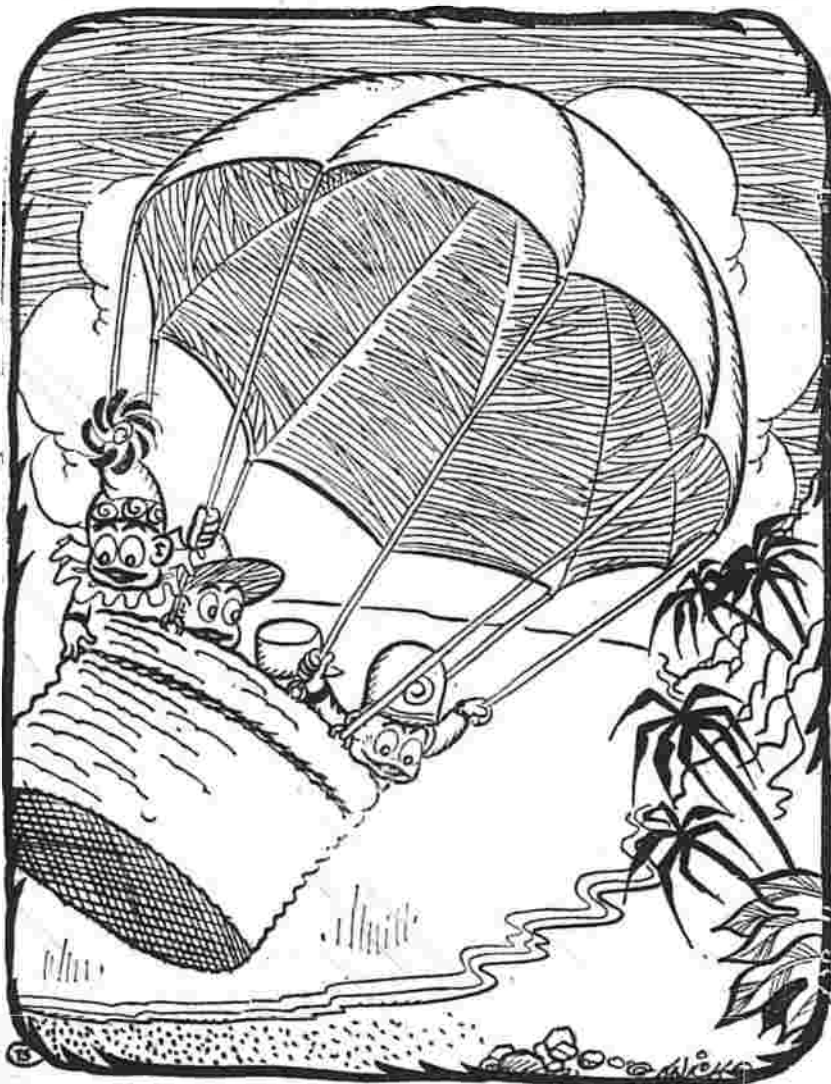

And at dinner parties abstained from smoking until the ladies had left the table.

That was back in the age when, in dancing, the feet were employed.

An educated person is one who knows what he wants; knows where to get it and how to use it.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KNICK

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture)

The big goose took the Tinymites out on a trip to see real sights. They soared on o'er the tree tops, with the land, far, far below. Said Clowzy, "Gee, I wish I knew just where he's going to take us to."

"Look above! I think the goose is leaving us. The ropes are getting loose. What can we do? This frightens me. We'll soon be falling in the sea." And Scouty said, "Don't worry, 'cause there isn't any sea."

(The Tinies are caught in a rain storm in the next story.)

JACK LOCKWILL'S HIDDEN ENEMY

Abel Cowl lay writhing on the ground, holding one hand to his side, and gasping for breath. Presently he lifted himself a little, though the effort filled him with twinges of pain like the stabbing of a knife. Dynamite was galloping away into the distance along the road to Rooklake village. "Damn the ugly critter!" groaned the farmer. "I guess it's killed me this time!"

The riderless pony tore through the main street of the village and onward toward the academy grounds. "He must have thrown that boy off somewhere," said a man.

Meanwhile Dynamite's owner, recovering in the old barn, found that he was bound with a rope, and that his eyes were covered by a heavy blindfold.

In the shadow of a horse-stall, not far away, stood Lockwill's assailant and captor, smoking an old pipe. He chuckled hoarsely when Jack lifted his chin from his breast. "Think you're a pretty smart young feller, don't ye?" he said. "Well, you've met somebody that's a darn sight smarter'n you be." "Who are you?" asked Jack. "Don't you wish you knew?" was the answer.
