

PAVE DANGER CORNER AS A TRAFFIC AID

Town Votes to Accept Schaller Offer—Johnson Resignation Deferred; Move to Buy Conn. Co. Land.

Selectmen's Meeting

The dangerous corner at Center and Olcott streets at which point the Connecticut Company trolley tracks cross the state highway will be made less hazardous as a result of the action taken by the Board of Selectmen in a special meeting last night. Henry A. Schaller's offer to lead land to the town so that a wider highway can be maintained at the point was accepted and the Selectmen voted to pave the tracks and point of the corner with asphalt.

Several near accidents have been noted near the trolley cross-over and after an investigation the highway committee decided that automobiles coming from the west could not remain on the state highway when trolley cars approached from the east. By paving the tracks and a part of the Schaller property it will be possible for motorists to drive further to the right and avoid the danger of meeting trolley cars head-on.

Start Immediately.
The work of paving this section will cost about $1,000. This sum will be taken from the appropriation for Center street widening and permission to start the work has already been secured from state authorities.

Two hearings were held before the Selectmen last night. The first was on the curbing and gutters on both sides of Hemlock street from Liberty street on the east to the South Manchester railroad property on the west. Seventeen of the thirty-three property owners were present and all favored the construction. In executive session the board voted to build the curbing and gutters. A four foot concrete sidewalk is already constructed on this street.

Hemlock street property owners who were present last night were Wallace Hutchinson, James Jassie, Sarah E. Bulla, Thomas W. Henderson, Irene Bulla, Archie Haugh, Albin Samuelson, Robert Guthrie, James H. Wright, George Smith, Robert Bulla, Ellen A. Bulla and Thomas H. Cunningham. All favored the installation of granite curb stones.

The second hearing was on the construction of five feet concrete walks on the south side of Porter street from Autumn street on the west to Grandview street on the east. The property owners present were Frederick W. Pitkin, Edith M. L. Cheney, Mrs. Mary Deer and Howard Cheney. No objections were offered. Mr. Pitkin has given the town a deed for property in this section so that the walks may be installed without harming the trees. In executive session the Selectmen voted to construct the walks.

Resignation Deferred.
The resignation of S. Emil Johnson as an assessor as reported exclusively in The Herald on Friday was read to the Selectmen. Mr. Johnson asked that the resignation take effect immediately. Action on it was tabled until the next meeting which will be held June 12. Both Robert V. Treat, chairman of the board and Robert J. Smith, a member, are out of town.

The new ruling by the Motor Vehicle department in connection with the last General Assembly's new statute regarding filling station permits was read to the board by Secretary John Hyde. Hereafter all applicants for permits to build filling stations must apply to the state in the usual manner, but hearings must be called of property owners in the immediate territory by the Selectmen. The matter then rests with the Selectmen. If they approve then the State can reject for reasons of its own. The new law really places the granting of permits in the hands of the Selectmen whereas the State has been doing it heretofore.

The Selectmen were invited to attend the Memorial Day exercises in Cheney hall and march in the parade next Monday by George E. Rix secretary of the Memorial Day committee. The invitation was accepted.

Another Error Reported.
William Rubinow complained to the Selectmen that his property valuation had been increased, but that he had never received notice of it from the assessors. The first information he had that an increase was made was when he received his tax bill. He claims he did not have an opportunity to seek a readjustment from the board of relief. The Selectmen notified Mr. Rubinow that they as a board were without power to adjust the error. The opinion of Acting Town Counsel W. S. Hyde is that the assessors and board of

GOES IRELAND ONE BETTER ON WEATHER

Irish residents in Manchester say that this weather is the closest approach to Irish weather that they have ever seen in this country. Continued rain, they say, is common in the Emerald Isle and it has made some of them a little bit homesick. In England it may be mentioned, it "rains every Monday without fail," and it also rains intermittently during the week. New England weather this week is going Ireland one better by keeping up on Tuesday as well.

BRITAIN CUTS OFF RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA

Premier Baldwin Tells House Of Commons That Raid On Soviet House Supplied The Reason.

London, May 24.—Great Britain has decided to sever diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and to terminate the Anglo-Russian trade agreement, it was officially announced by Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons this afternoon. The premier's announcement was made during a statement upon the recent police raids on the headquarters of the Soviet trade delegation and Arcos, Ltd., the private Russian trading organization in London.

These raids revealed that Arcos and the trade delegation have been habitually used as a clearing house for subversive correspondence, the premier stated.

Have Evidence.
"Evidence is in the hands of the authorities," said Baldwin, "which proves that both military espionage and subversive activities are being carried out from Soviet House."

The police and military, in collaboration, have been investigating for many months the activities of "armed agents," seeking to obtain confidential documents relating to the British armed forces, Baldwin stated. Inquiry showed that these agents were working in behalf of the Soviet government, the premier continued.

Evidence has been uncovered that one stolen document was reproduced by a photostatic process in the Soviet House, the premier said.

DEAN BROWN HERE FOR H. S. CEREMONY

Noted Yale Speaker to Make Address at Graduation Exercises Next Month.

Charles R. Brown, dean of School of Divinity of Yale University, will deliver an address at the high school graduating exercises here next month. School officials feel that they have been unusually fortunate in securing such an eloquent speaker for the occasion. Dean Brown has spoken at three or four public addresses annually and it is felt that Manchester has been highly honored by his acceptance of the invitation.

This will not be the first time that Dean Brown has spoken in Manchester for last year he delivered an address on Abraham Lincoln at the Center Congregational church before a capacity audience that paid a dollar apiece admission. His lecture created a profound impression.

His topic at the graduation exercises, which will be held in the high school assembly hall on Thursday evening, June 23, will be on "The Use of Knowledge" and will dwell on the central theme of graduation. Principal Clarence F. Quimby said today.

The valedictorian, Miss Gladys Rogers, and the salutarian, Miss Louise Phelps, are to speak along the same line stressing the importance of education as they see it.

Change in Program.
The program for graduation this year has been changed again in accordance with the idea of providing something new and interesting. For many years, it was the custom to have the seven students who had gained the highest scholastic averages deliver essays or orations on various subjects but last year a new idea was attempted in the form of a "departmental demonstration." While it proved a real success, it was, nevertheless, not the kind of a program which could well be repeated the following year. So that this year, through the courtesy of Howell Cheney, who is a member of the Board of Overseers at Yale University, Dean Brown was secured to augment the program which otherwise will contain two addresses, those of the valedictorian and the salutarian. Mr. Cheney will present the diplomas to the 115 seniors who are to graduate.

Everybody Wanted to Send One

Cablegrams for Captain Charles A. Lindbergh poured into New York cable offices by the thousands from all over the United States after Lindbergh finished his flight across the Atlantic. Here, Cable Operator J. J. Matthews of Western Union displays a few of the congratulatory messages he forwarded to Paris.

Our New England Life Founded On Education Self Establishment and Preservation of Culture by Pioneers Is Today Leading Influence Here.

"Our Family: The Story of New England" is the title of a series of three articles Ernest W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education for the State of New Hampshire, has written exclusively for International News Service. The language is beautiful, flowing clear and pure like the streams from his own granite hills, and the thought is of a united New England family.

Concord, N. H., May 24.—For countless ages the Great Husbandman was making ready New England to be a garden and an orchard for civilized men. Each year the grass decayed and the leaves fell to add their fertility to the soil. Every decade the frosts broke apart the rocks and the rains washing down the slopes built up our rich river terraces, our lake bottoms and our coastal plains to be the farms of a coming race.

God's Handiwork.
Each century the streams cut clearer their passage over the cliffs where mill sites were being prepared for those who would harness their will and once a great glacier swept from the Canadian highlands across New England to the open sea, clearing our hilltops of stones that they might make level smiling fields for orchards and small farms, and carving great hollows in the upland terraces for the lakes which guarantee to New

LYNN PLANS FETE FOR RUTH'S MENTOR

Brother Gilbert Discovered Bambino In School In Baltimore Years Ago.

Lynn, Mass., May 24.—All Lynn planned to turn out tonight to fete Brother Gilbert, principal of the Mission church high school, Roxbury, the man who "discovered" the baseball playing qualities of "Babe" Ruth.

It was after ten workouts in games as catcher for the baseball team of St. Joseph's College at Baltimore, Md., in 1914 that Brother Gilbert, now member of the Xavierian Brothers, saw the possibilities of George Herman Ruth as a big leaguer and gave his friend, Manager Jack Dunn, of the Baltimore Orioles, the opportunity to engage Ruth.

Only 16 American Women Presented At King's Court

London, May 24.—The first of this season's courts, to be held tonight by King George and Queen Mary, will be marked by the presentation of fewer American women than on any similar occasion for several years past.

Only sixteen American women will make their bows at the court tonight. Eight others are to be presented tonight at the First Court, and eight at the Second Court, tomorrow night. Those being presented tonight are: Mrs. Arthur Atkins, of Old Lyme, Conn.; Mrs. William Copper, of New York City; Mrs. James Gawne

CHINESE WAR CASUALTIES NOT HEAVY

More Civilians Killed and Wounded Than Soldiers; Little Actual Fighting Is Reported.

Peking, May 24.—A careful study of the casualty lists of the various Chinese armies fighting one another all over the Chinese map reveals how it is possible for China to be torn and wracked by successful civil wars year after year, and her population yet continue to increase.

In most military campaigns in China, the casualties are heavier among civilians and non-combatants than among the military-qualified Occidental military observers declare.

Queer Victories.
According to these foreign military observers, Chinese victories are seldom what they seem—that is, victory through clash of arms. For days and sometimes for weeks reports filter in of opposing armies facing each other on the battle front. Then, suddenly the objective falls and one is prepared to hear of the dead and wounded. The lists never come in, and it is learned that two days after the defenders evacuated the objective, the besiegers heard of it and marched in looking for the enemy who was already miles away.

State of Affairs.
This state of affairs has been typical of the advance of the southern armies from Canton to the Yangtze, beginning early in the summer of 1926.

American Military Observers.
American military observers assert that the only real fights occurred at Nanchang and Wu-chang. At the former place the losses on both sides probably did not exceed five thousand, while probably fewer than that number died at Wu-chang.

The tenth Fengtien army was decimated in Honan, recently, which report was subsequently confirmed by Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's headquarters here. As a Chinese foundation, the Creator left 10,000 men. The tenth's decimation was considered a serious affair. It now appears that what was meant by decimation was that about 1,000 were killed and that the other 9,000 threw away their arms and fled. The threat of an organized peasant force.

Civilians Suffer.

SOUTH TO START RECONSTRUCTION

Hoover Gets Reports From All Districts to Place Before Coolidge.

Memphis, Tenn., May 24.—The South's second great task of reconstruction was organized here today in conference between Secretary of Commerce Hoover, President Coolidge's food relief emissary, and rehabilitation directors for Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

"It is an obligation of citizenship to restore each individual food sufferer again upon the road to self-support," Secretary Hoover said in outlining the program he has been commissioned by President Coolidge to supervise in behalf of the federal government.

Approximately 65 per cent of the $40,000,000 in reconstruction machinery to be set up in the entire Mississippi valley is in the states represented at the conference.

Receives Reports.
After whipping the central organization of the reconstruction machinery into shape, Secretary Hoover received Red Cross reports from the southern portion of Louisiana, where the flood waters of the Atchafalaya still are rolling over thickly populated territory to the gulf. The southern edge of the flood had reached into St. Mary's parish this morning, according to reports to army engineers.

Leaving tonight for Little Rock, the Hoover party will make a final swing through the inundated regions of Arkansas and Louisiana stopping enroute to inspect the still growing refugee camps at Alexandria, Opelousas, Lafayette and New Iberia. Secretary Hoover will broadcast a final summary of the flood havoc from a nation-wide radio hookup from New Orleans Saturday night, leaving afterward for Washington to lay a detailed report before President Coolidge early next week.

HERMIT SLAIN.
Belair, Md., May 24.—The slaying of Dexter Wentworth, 66, hermit, puzzled authorities today. The aged recluse had been attacked, apparently with an axe in his lonely mountain home in Lincolnville. He was dead three days when found.

PARIS FETES FLIER; PINEDO PLANE DOWN

Steamer Reports Seeing Italian Aviator's Machine Towed By Schooner 240 Miles Off the Coast of Flores, the Azores.

PINEDO SAFE.
New York, May 24.—Commander Francesco De Pinedo, the "Flying Fascist" overdue on a hop from Newfoundland to the Azores, is safe, according to a message received today by the Radio Corporation of America.

The message came from a small sailing vessel, via the steamer Cortorosso, via the Leviathan to the Radio Corporation's shore station at Chatham, Mass., and thence to New York.

"Sailing vessel Infanta Vosages bound southeast towing Italian hydroplane Santa Maria Secunda Number 1016. All well. Position Latitude 41.23 N; Longitude 32.28 W., 12:50 Greenwich mean time. De Pinedo put off from Newfoundland Sunday and was due in the Azores Monday afternoon."

Montreal, May 24.—Commander De Pinedo had been forced down at sea and his seaplane is being towed by a schooner, according to a message received here today from the S. S. Providence.

The Providence reported that De Pinedo's seaplane in tow was sighted 240 miles from Flores, the Azores.

Lloyd's Register gives three steamers named Providence, one of these is an American coastal steamer. Another is of French registry and the third is of Norwegian registry.

Portuguese Disappointed.
Lisbon, Portugal, May 24.—National disappointment was felt throughout Portugal today over the apparent failure of Commander De Pinedo to hop over the Atlantic ocean in a non-stop flight to the Azores.

It had been reported that a schooner was towing an airplane believed to be De Pinedo's into port at Horta, Azores Islands, but no confirmation of this report had been received up to the time this dispatch was written.

Italian Legation at Horta.
The Italian legation at Horta sent word that a large crowd spent the entire night upon the harbor front waiting for De Pinedo, hoping that he might fly into the city. Flares were lighted upon the waterfront to guide the Italian aviator if he was still aloft.

De Pinedo left Trepassey Newfoundland early yesterday morning. Although Commander De Pinedo was due in the Azores at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, New York Standard time, it is believed that if he was forced down he is safe for his plane was such that it would be able to remain aloft for a very considerable time even in fairly heavy seas.

Wireless Reports.
Wireless reports had been received during the afternoon which indicated that De Pinedo had made great headway and was less than 300 miles off the Azores when last reported sighted in the air.

Commander De Pinedo's four continent flight started from Gagliari, Cardinia, on February 13. On February 22, he flew from the Cape Verde islands to Fernando De Noronha off the coast of Brazil. He then continued his flight through South America and arrived in New Orleans on March 29. Flying to the Pacific coast his plane was burned up while riding at anchor at Roosevelt Dam, Arizona. On April fifth a new plane was sent to him from Italy and he flew it from New York to Florida and thence to Chicago and Canada and New Foundland, hopping off for the Azores early yesterday morning.

SEARCH FOR FLIER.

Rome, May 24.—Premier Mussolini today ordered Italian cruisers out to search for Commander De Pinedo, "The Flying Fascist," who is overdue on a hop from Newfoundland to the Azores.

Instructions were also sent to Italian liners at sea to conduct a search along the route De Pinedo was to have taken.

At the Air Ministry the belief is held that Commander De Pinedo was unable to locate the Azores on account of mist or rain, and was forced down at sea.

FIRE IN STAMFORD

Stamford, Conn., May 24.—A spectacular fire swept the plant of the Cove Investment & Improvement Co., in the Cove district here today, but did damage amounting to but about $2,000. The plant had been abandoned and junkers were at work removing machinery. It is believed that a spark from a blow-torch landed in the rubbish and smoldered for hours before the fire broke through.

STILL POSTMAN FLYER TELLS THE WRITERS

"I Am In the Aerial Mail Service of the United States Yet," Declares Brave Aviator.

Paris, May 24.—Hero or no hero, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh still considers himself a flying postman.

Receiving correspondents today at the American embassy, Lindbergh was quick to stress the fact that he was still in the aerial mail service of the United States.

"Will you return to the mail service," Lindbergh was asked.

"Why," gasped the youth, "I have never left it."

It was a new Lindbergh that the correspondents met today, for new clothes had taken the place of the borrowed tuxedo he has worn since he arrived here. He stood in a case on the grand staircase of the embassy and submitted to interviewers and photographers, obviously somewhat embarrassed as comments were made on his "natty attire" for he was garbed in a double-breasted blue suit, tan shoes, a white shirt and collar and a blue necktie with diagonal yellow stripes.

Little Time to Read.
Asked what he thought of the newspaper comment on his performance, Lindbergh said that he wasn't able to comment because he hadn't time to read the columns that have been written in praise of his feat.

"The grin of joy came over his face which he announced that tomorrow morning early he will be at Le Bourget."

"I want to get to work on my machine," he said.

At this point Parnelle Herrick broke in to ask the correspondents not to accompany Lindbergh to Le Bourget. "He can't do any work if you don't lay off," said Herrick.

Mother Will Not Come Now.
"Mother will not come over now," said Lindbergh when asked if he expected his mother to join him in Paris. "It is unwise and it would take too long for her to arrive. Mother will get a chance to come to Europe later and I hope to be with her."

Parnelle Herrick again interjected and observed that the real reasons Mrs. Lindbergh is not coming to Europe at this time is that her son wishes to see Europe by air and has no room in his plane for his mother.

"I am not considering any of the commercial offers I have received here," Lindbergh continued, "and I probably won't consider anything until I return to the United States."

No Thought of Profit.
"My flight was organized originally without thought of profit, simply for the advancement of aviation."

Lindbergh's mail was being photographed by the camera men and the young flier admitted he hadn't had time to read any of it. He was asked if he thought there were any marriage proposals in the huge sack of mail, and with a snort of disgust he replied: "I don't know."

The youth has tentatively decided to fly to Brussels on Saturday and to London on Monday. Asked how he would stop in Brussels, he smiled and answered: "I don't know, perhaps I'll take a small tent along."

After receiving the correspondents Lindbergh received the official Paris-American welcoming committee which had been unable to welcome him on his arrival due to the great crowds.

DEDICATE MEMORIAL TO MORGAN BULKELEY

Late Senator Was Head of Hartford Bridge Commission—Medallion Unveiled.

Hartford, Conn., May 24.—The memory of the late Senator Morgan Gardner Bulkeley was honored today by the dedication of a bronze medallion on the north parapet of the Connecticut river bridge. The late Senator, as head of the Connecticut River Bridge Commission, did much to secure the actual construction of the bridge.

The exercises today were conducted in a heavy rain but the full program was carried out. Traffic across the bridge was halted for half an hour. Morgan F. Gardner Bulkeley, third grand son of the late Senator, unveiled the memorial.

Social Engagements Claim Capt. Lindbergh But He Says He Would Rather Tinker Around His Machine; To Fly to Brussels.

Paris, May 24.—Social engagements claimed Captain Charles A. Lindbergh today, when that youth gave unmistakable indications that he would have preferred to have gone to Le Bourget field to work on the airplane which brought him across the Atlantic ocean in a solo flight.

Lindbergh is going through with numerous social engagements because he realizes that it is incumbent upon him to accept the courtesies offered him, but he makes no pretense of hiding the fact that he is an airman and feels that he should be back at the field getting ready to take the air.

Minor Repairs.
Minor repairs needed on "The Spirit of St. Louis" are being made and Lindbergh has his own way he will probably be in the air again by Thursday or Friday, flying over Paris to "really see the town."

On Saturday he would like to fly to Brussels to accept an invitation from King Albert to be received at the Royal Palace there and from Brussels he would like to fly to England where a great reception is awaiting him, and where King George desires to greet him. Although he is reticent, it is plain that he is rather intrigued by these royal invitations and being rather curious to see just what a king is like.

Accepts No Offers.
Up to the present Lindbergh has paid little or no attention to the countless commercial offers which have flooded him, observing that he didn't fly across the ocean to make money but to "advance the cause of aviation," and he leaves the very definite impression that if he feels he has done something for aviation he is quite willing to help rather than worry about what he may get out of the venture personally.

Needs Manager.
The offers and invitations that have come to Lindbergh have been so numerous that proposals have been made that a board of managers be appointed for him to aid him in a business way. It has been suggested that three prominent and disinterested American residents of Paris be named to act as an advisory board to Lindbergh, and it may be that the young man will accept this proposal. He has learned heavily on Ambassador Herrick up to the present for advice, as he realizes that his position, is something of that of an ambassador and he wants to do those things that are expected of him and so he has very wisely chosen a trained ambassador to guide him.

Talks "Shop."
But Lindbergh gets his greatest enjoyment out of talking over his flight with those who know aviation, and he was probably at his best yesterday when Alan Cobham, the great English aviator, sat and chatted with him for an considerable time regarding things aerial and the possibilities of regular trans-Atlantic flights.

Lindbergh is staunch in his belief that trans-Atlantic aerial services can be maintained, but he frankly admits that as a commercial flyer he is not sure as he is not to be considered as yet. He feels that heavier planes, probably tri-motored planes, must be developed capable of making the flight, before it can be regarded as a commercial project.

Weather Reports.
He also has ideas about more certain weather reports. It will be something of a disappointment to Lindbergh if Commander Byrd does not attempt the New York-Paris flight, as he is rather anxious to watch the performance of this tri-motored heavy plane.

At noon today the American hero of the hour was the guest of the American Club at a luncheon at the Hotel Des Ambassadeurs and it hardly seems possible that he will be able to escape making a speech an ordeal which he frankly dreads, as he declares he is not a speech-maker by trade.

Late this afternoon the American is going to Le Bourget field to bid farewell to two French fliers who are hopping off in an attempt to make a two-jump flight from Paris to Tokyo.

Dinner Tonight.
Tonight, Ambassador Herrick is giving a dinner for the young flier, and Lindbergh is looking forward to tomorrow when he will have lunch with Blériot, the first man ever to fly across the English channel, a man whom Lindbergh regards as a great pioneer.

Tomorrow afternoon Lindbergh will be a guest of the Chamber of Deputies. On Thursday he will receive an official welcome from the City of Paris and will be entertained.

JUDGE TAKES SIDES WITH U. S. PRISONER

Says He Should Not Be Kept in Jail Because Government Lacks Funds.

Hartford, Conn., May 24.—"No man should be denied his right under the constitution because the government has not money enough to provide a jury for his trial," said Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of the United States District Court here today. The judge was speaking of the case of Herbert Sutherland, who has been in jail in New Haven for four months and who might stay there until next September because he could not raise bail of $15,000.

Judge Thomas lowered the bail demanded to $3,000 and instructed counsel for Sutherland to notify the court if the new amount could not be raised. George E. Cohen, assistant district attorney, had protested the lowering of the amount because Sutherland forfeited an original bond of $2,000.

Judge Thomas replied that since the government could not furnish the trial Sutherland asked it was unreasonable to hold the bail at the larger amount. "According to the law I have heard," the judge said, "it is presumed to be innocent and should not be denied his rights under the constitution."

Sutherland, whose home is in Monroe, is accused of conspiracy to interfere with the orderly working of the International Revenue Department at Washington while he was employed there.

THIEVES RETURN GEMS STOLEN IN NEW YORK

Jewelry Worth Between $65,000 and $100,000 Sent Back To Owner.

New York, May 24.—Search for the gang responsible for the theft of the Dahlberg jewels from the Ritz Carlton hotel and for the murder of Ted Werner, gangland innkeeper of New Orleans, has led to the return of the gems, worth between $65,000 and $100,000, it was estimated today.

The gems were stolen from the apartment of Mrs. B. C. Dahlberg in the hotel on March 23. "New York detectives joined with the New Orleans police in the effort to solve the dual mystery of the theft and murder. It was believed the gang responsible hoped to divert the police by the return of the jewels. It was not disclosed whether they were sent by mail or express, or brought to Mrs. Dahlberg by messenger.

Werner was killed Sunday in what police believe was a right over the spoils of the Dahlberg robbery.

A gang which has operated not only in New York but in Detroit and New Orleans as well, is believed responsible. Harold Morcrae and George Collins, both of New York, were among the suspects arrested in New Orleans.

Detective Charles Kaiser left Friday for New Orleans to quiz the two suspects held there in connection with the Werner killing. He has not yet made any report to his chief, Inspector John Stapleton.

BRITAIN TO BREAK PACT WITH SOVIET

A British subject employed in the air force has been convicted of stealing two military documents. Wrote About U. S.

The premier said the Soviets could not avoid responsibility for the documents which have been found. One letter, which was signed, the premier declared, contained instructions to American Communists for dissemination of Communist propaganda and discussed the industrial affairs of the United States.

A number of sealed envelopes, addressed to well-known Communists in Great Britain and America, were found by the police in the possession of an employe of the House, the premier disclosed. These contained information and directions from the International organizations, in Great Britain and America and were all of most recent dates.

The premier intimated that the government will give the House of Commons an opportunity to condemn its decision to break relations with Russia. A vote may be taken on Thursday. With the large conservative majority in the House there can be but little doubt but the government decision will have the support of the House.

RUSSIA PREPARED

London, May 24.—Russia has taken preparations for any eventualities which may follow a break with Great Britain and has issued a call for the Baltic Fleet to return to its base, after it had put to sea for a foreign cruise, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen, quoting the Stockholm Tidings' Moscow correspondent.

SUSPENDS SENTENCE.

Bridgeport, May 24.—Richard Maloney, 22, and John Adt, 17, both of Stamford, were today given suspended reformatory sentences and placed on probation by Judge Arthur Ellis in Superior Court here. The youths had pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's permission last February. The car belonged to Bruce B. Cooney, of Darien.

TORNADO IN WEST.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 24.—A tornado swept through the business district here today leaving a trail of devastation. No one was killed or injured, a check-up revealed. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Part of the roof of the Union station was lifted and several others nearby were damaged.

NOMINATES LINDBERGH FOR NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

Paris, May 24.—The Petit Parisien today nominates Captain Charles A. Lindbergh for the Nobel peace prize.

This newspaper declares that Lindbergh has "united France and America" and that his flight across the Atlantic has done as much for peace and understanding as the Locarno pact drawn up by M. Briand, Sir Austen Chamberlain and Herr Stresemann.

PARIS FETES FLYER; LINDBERGH MODEST

ed at luncheon by Foreign Minister Briand.

All these receptions and luncheons and dinners don't mean much to Lindbergh, who drinks not at all and eats sparingly, for he is anxious to get back to his own world of motors, planes, gasoline and oil.

TELLS OF FLIGHT.

Paris, May 24.—Flying France, after a flight across the Atlantic ocean guided only by an induction compass, was not much of a trick, according to the modest view of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, who has amazed the whole world by his feat in accomplishing the first New York to Paris flight.

Lindbergh described his experiences today at a luncheon given him by the American Club, but he described the venture in terms that indicated very plainly that he has not yet been convinced that he did anything very great.

Not a Speaker.

"I am not a public speaker," apologized the courageous flyer, when he was called upon to speak, and his confusion at finding himself on his feet addressing five hundred guests was evident.

Lindbergh told of the details of the start of the flight and explained his "luck" in being able to escape the dangers of a sleet storm through which he passed.

"Considering that the coastline of France is several hundred miles long we considered it pretty hard to miss it," he said, again using the pronoun "we" to designate himself and his plane and once more showing his scorn for the more personal pronoun "I."

"There is no country we would have rather landed in, than France," he said, with a grin.

Lindbergh explained that he traveled alone, not because he had any wish to shun company on the long voyage but because he wanted to make distance and speed.

"We didn't take a second man because it would have shortened our flying distance by 300 miles," he said.

At the conclusion of his very short speech, Lindbergh apologized by saying "I hope I haven't taken too much of your time."

A chorus of "Ohs" went up when the flyer concluded his all too brief words.

After a brief call at the Ministry of Marine this afternoon, Lindbergh hastened out to Le Bourget aerodrome, which is like a magnet to him. He was to be given a reception at Le Bourget by the Thirty-fourth Regiment, French Air Force.

NEW PHONE EXCHANGE MAY COME THIS YEAR

Desire to Move Smith House Immediately May Start New Building.

Although no information is available at the office of the Southern New England Telephone company in New Haven the first intimation of the new central office of the concern to be located here might be started soon was made at last night's Selectmen's meeting. A plan was adopted to move the Smith homestead on the S. N. E. T. company lot next to the Orange block to a vacant lot elsewhere in town. The name of the lot was mentioned but the deal had not been closed it was not thought advisable to make it public.

The telephone company's representative was anxious to get the permit as soon as possible and get the work of moving the house over with light away. This desire for quick action was taken by some members of the Selectmen to indicate that the company would try to get its new exchange building here started this summer.

ANOTHER SNYDER CASE IN FALL RIVER, MASS.

Battered Body of Husband Found in Well—Wife's Lover Arrested.

Fall River, Mass., May 24.—A parallel to the Snyder murder case was seen by police today in the slaying of Theodore R. Gibbons, whose battered body was found in a well on an East Swamp farm.

The man's wife and her alleged sweetheart, Antonio Da Silva were questioned throughout the night and today were placed under arrest charged with murder.

A piece of bloodstained iron pipe and a bloodstained wooden club were found near the well.

Da Silva was said by police to be the man who, under the name of Julio, was arraigned in local court with Mrs. Gibbons last November on a serious charge. Subsequently, Gibbons sued for heart balm, won a $1,000 verdict but only collected $100. Gibbons became separated from his wife.

A strange feature of the case, according to police, was the whereabouts of Gibbons for the last four weeks. His body had been in the well only ten days when discovered. He was last seen here four weeks ago.

PRINCESS DIVORCED

Paris, May 24.—The Princess Galitzine has been granted a divorce by the Seine Tribunal from Prince Galitzine, her fifth husband.

Galitzine was a force to be feared. "The injurious attitude of the husband" and secondly because of the alleged misconduct of the husband.

It was decreed that after today the princess may cease her monthly payments of $250 to the prince, as arranged in the marriage contract.

The Princess Galitzine was formerly Aimee Crocker Goutraud of California.

OFFERED WARSHIP

Washington, May 24.—Captain Charles Lindbergh was offered a warship today by a grateful government on which to return to the United States from his epochal trip to France.

President Coolidge instructed the Navy Department to offer the young aviator passage home for himself and for his plane "The Spirit of St. Louis" if he cares to accept it.

The Navy has several destroyers and a cruiser available for Lindbergh's use. These ships are scheduled to sail from Europe about June 15.

The president again showered praises on Lindbergh.

"The more we learn of Captain Lindbergh's accomplishment in his New York to Paris flight, the greater it seems to have been," the president said. "His achievement grows on us more as we contemplate it."

Mrs. Coolidge declared that Lindbergh's plan to fly to several European capitals would be helpful in bettering international relations.

HEWITT GETS STAY

Yonkers, Ohio, May 24.—Floyd Hewitt, sixteen year old farm youth, the youngest person ever to be sentenced to die in the electric chair in Ohio, won a stay of execution today when the Seventh Court of Appeals here agreed to review his case.

His execution was set for August 10. Hewitt's new lease on life probably will last several months. He confessed to murdering Mrs. Fred Brown and her five-year-old son.

CASE GOES TO JURY

Los Angeles, Calif., May 24.—A jury of eight women and four men today faced the task of deciding whether Paul Kelly is guilty of murder. The case of the strapping film hero, who is accused of having used his brawny knuckles to kill Ray Raymond, musical comedy star, will go to the jury about noon.

20 FAMILIES HOMELESS

Montreal, May 24.—Twenty families were homeless today following a fire which caused $75,000 damage to the Montclair apartments in Outremont. Firemen carried Rouel Starnand, an invalid and three women downstairs through the flames.

KILLED HIS MOTHER

Quebec, May 24.—The trial of Eugene Biagonette, charged with the murder of his mother, continued today. Fifteen witnesses called by the defense testified in defendant appeared to possess the mentality of a child. The defense is trying to show that the accused left his mother's apartment before she was killed.

The baseball game scheduled for tonight between Cheney Brothers A. A. and the Arnold's College team coached by Sammy Massey has been called off because of the rain.

WAPPING

Mr. and Mrs. David Burnham will give a Poverty dance for the benefit of the Pleasant Valley club at the Long Oak Casino at South Windsor, next Tuesday evening, May 24, at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be given for the most poverty stricken costumes.

The three-act play entitled "Bashful Mr. Bobbs," which was presented by the High school class of girls of the Federated Sunday school and the Y. M. C. A. boys last Friday evening, was a great success, the young people taking their parts exceptionally well. The audience was also well pleased with little Miss Roma Wilson, a niece of Mrs. Arthur Sharpe, who gave two very graceful dances between the acts.

The Misses Dorothy and Helen Frink also entertained

Stores Open Thursday Evening This Week Added Trading Period Decided On In View of the Closing On Memorial Day. At an informal meeting of 15 Manchester merchants this morning at the Chamber of Commerce rooms it was decided to keep the stores open three nights this week, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday, in view of the holiday on Monday. Another meeting will be held later to definitely decide what schedule will be established for the summer months. This depends to a large extent on a definite decision from Cheney Brothers as to what days they will pay their help.

SEASON FULL WEEK LATE, SAYS GROWER Fruit and Truck Crops Held Up, But It's Not As Bad As Last Year.

According to William H. Cowles, Manchester's biggest fruit grower, crops have been delayed at least a week or ten days by the inclement weather of the past few weeks. Excessive rain and cold weather have stunted crops already planted and delayed others. "The planting of tobacco, corn and late potato crops are behind schedule and we are about ten days behind on regular spring weather," Mr. Cowles said. He added, however, that even so we are a week ahead of the unusually late spring last year. "This is the time of the year when the most important of the three spraying applications is made on the fruit trees," said Mr. Cowles, "and this process is also being delayed. It is known as the Calyx spray and is applied at the time when the petals fall from the trees."

On the committee, which is headed by George H. Williams, are Willard J. Messier, James D. Burke, Michael Sheridan, Jeremiah Sweeney, John F. Tynan, Robert J. Gorman, P. J. Hutchinson, Jesse Williams, Cornelius Foley, Jr., Edward J. Foley and William P. Quish.

HOODLUMISM DRIVES CITIZEN TO THE POLICE Gang of Boys Raid Oakland Street Property, Chase Stock Tear Up Fence Poles. Ten or twelve boys, thought to be all under 15 years of age, are blamed by W. M. Beckwith of 149 Oakland street for removing pasture fence poles from his property between William and Henry streets last Saturday. Mr. Beckwith has reported the matter to the police.

The pasture is used by people of that section as a short cut and the fence, a rail arrangement, allows persons to go through, while keeping the cows within the field. Until now Mr. Beckwith says he has never had any trouble with the fence rals. Last Saturday neighbors told him that a crowd of young boys had been in the pasture, chasing cows and cutting up generally. They removed the fence posts and when they were told to replace them they paid no attention and went away. None of the boys was recognized and it is thought that they come from a different section of the north end.

ABOUT TOWN The Pythian Sisters from Memorial Temple who attended the celebration of Damon Temple in Rockville last evening, returned with a fine time. The entertainment was very much enjoyed, and a social hour with refreshments followed.

Isaac Cohen of Hartford has sold a six room cottage on Portland street to Earl E. Supplement of Chestnut street. The transfer was made through the Stuart J. Wasley agency.

Twin boys were born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Bunce, 886 Hartford. The newcomers and their mother are thriving.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Second Congregational church will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. G. F. Borst on Cambridge street. The committee will make their final reports about the Gypsy fete held last week.

Mrs. George S. Harris of Mill street and her mother who is visiting with her, were called to Nashville, Tenn., because of the death of Mrs. Harris' older brother, Oscar Carter of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Harris, who have lived on Mill street for a long period of years have rented the Walleth house at the corner of Cambridge and Oxford streets and are planning to move there next week. Fred Harris, a brother, will move into the place made vacant by Mr. and Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. W. O. Buckley of North Main street is moving to the John Stoughton place in Wapping. The Buckley place was recently sold at public auction to The Meech-Stoddard Grain company of Hartford. This concern is now offering the property for sale.

Chinese War CASUALTIES SMALL (Continued from Page 1) seriously the civilian population suffers is found in the campaign of the governor of Yunnan a few years ago when he marched an army of 25,000 across the province and shortly afterwards marched the back again. Living of the country as they went. It is estimated he lost under 1,000 soldiers from death and desertion, whereas 5,000 civilians died of starvation, due to the troops having cleaned the country of food.

Likewise, comparatively few wounded Chinese soldiers recover. The Chinese soldier gets no real medical treatment when wounded, and as a result wounds which in other countries would not be serious, are fatal to the Chinese. Probably the most sanguinary battle in modern Chinese history was fought between Feng Yu-siang, the Christian general, and General Li Ting-Lin, between Peking and Tientsin in December 1925. The losses in ten days fighting were estimated at 15,000 dead and thousands wounded.

OUR NEW ENGLAND LIFE

FOUNDED ON EDUCATION (Continued from Page 1) great estate was ready for its tenant. The rich soil lay fallow for the farmer's plow, the water power called to the manufacturer, the towering mountains and the crystal lakes stood in silent glory. So the great forests whispered together as they awaited the tenant's coming. At this time there was unrest in England. The island was too small for those who wanted liberty and for those who were satisfied to obey blindly an earthly king. So in the middle years of the 17th century, the Mayflower, the Hind and Panther, the Golden Swan, and such other good ships, were crowded with the most valuable cargoes that ever sailed from England's shores. They came to Plymouth and to Salem and to Wakefield. They brought with them the speech of Shakespeare, the religion of Milton, and the zeal of John Bunyan. They brought the principles of the Magna Charta and the Bill of Rights. They brought the English names of persons and dearly loved places, and before each cottage door bloomed a transplanted English rose and lilac bush to show that these were but English homes in a new land. From the southern and eastern parts of the mother country there came thousands of these men; farmers, mechanics, fishermen and ship builders, clergymen and scholars, men serious with their learning and men thoughtful with their lack of scholarship; men who sought liberty, men who were unafraid.

The Unafraid. Yes, this was the coming of the unafraid. They feared no crowned king. They feared not the conservatism of the written book nor the radicalism of the spoken word. They feared not themselves. They knew they were to govern and they came seeking liberty. In this confidence they never weakened. "Brave hearts and true, not one went back on the Mayflower." They were not afraid to live. In this softer age, we see many who with delicate steps, avoid the hard things of life. They shrink from the dangers of hard work, of hazardous occupations, of parenthood, of unpopular decisions, of disease and disaster. They were not so with the fathers. They fought the noise and the wilder men. They cleared the fields in the sweat of their brow. They worshipped with the musket across their knees. They endured, seeing that which was invisible. They were not afraid to die. In this softer age we face death with bravado but we so fear it is not good form to even mention the Great Adventure which lies before us all. It was not so with the fathers. They talked of freedom and thought and preached upon death and still were unafraid. We read their writings and think them a sad and sombre people. This is not the case. They believed in their faith; and birth, life and death were equally the common lot of all and subjects not of gloom but of courageous reality.

Three hundred years ago, these men, unafraid, were on our coasts from Maine to the Sound, and in two generations they had spread inland from the sea margin to control all of southern New England.

Preserved Faith They were sufficient unto themselves and did not need the help of thousands of miles and weary months of travel separated them from all centers of culture. Separated from schools and schoolmasters, did they then in despair shut their eyes and sink into a state of illiteracy? Did they send to the mother country petitions that mission schools of elementary grade be established and financed so that the light of learning might not go out? No, they did neither. Before even they had founded a college that their learned ministry might continue, they solemnly voted, for in 1642 the New England settlements had a common legislature, in these solemn words: "Forasmuch as the good education of children is of singular benefit and to any Commonwealth, and whereas many parents and masters are so indulgent, and negligent of their duty in that kind, "It is ordered, that the Selectmen of every town in the several precincts and quarters where they dwell, shall be and they are to be their neighbors, to see first, that none of them shall suffer so much barbarism in any of their families, as not to endeavor to teach, by themselves or others, their children and apprentices so much learning, as may enable them to read perfectly the English tongue, and to get knowledge of the capital laws, upon penalty of twenty shillings for each neglect therein.

"Also, that all masters of families do, once a week at least, catechise their children and servants in the grounds and principles of religion."

Firm Foundation We have her the fundamental tenet upon which New England education has been builded, that is, that it is the parent's responsibility and the duty of officers and employers to see that education is for all. For a half of the three centuries of our history, it can hardly be said that we had public schools. Intermittently, schools at a modicum of public expense were opened in the towns where wealth and population made this possible, but for more than one hundred and fifty years there were few schools for boys and none for girls. There was no compulsory attendance and many children from remote homes never saw a schoolhouse or a schoolmaster. Yet education did not fall. Parents taught their children and pastors gave instruction in their homes, for education was every man's duty. A grand and serious thing affecting the Kingdom of God and all the world. Will you compare this New England principle with the standards of other parts of our country? Certain Southern states were also early colonized, and by Englishmen as well, but by Englishmen who doubted the efficacy of gener-

W. A. WHITE. Is William Allen White trying to be an American Bernard Shaw? If not it would be most interesting to have him amplify the epigram of which he delivered himself in Middletown last night.

Perhaps Mr. White has been inadequately quoted—just possibly misquoted. If not, then we are led to the belief that for a good many years we have been right about the Kansas editor—that the best writer of boy stories on earth was spoiled to make a didactic, attitudinizing political journalist.

A passion for making clever, pungent and startling phrases has been gradually taking possession of the Kansas man for a long while. It seems to be bearing, in his case, its well high inevitable fruit, that the substance of what he says becomes secondary to its form.

Surely this lifelong citizen of wind-blown Kansas could not have meant to make the flat declaration that democracy is a failure. We might get that sort of stuff from Beacon Hill; we can hardly credit it as coming out of Emporia. And if it is true there is only one thing we can hope from Brother White—that he will take a tumble to himself, quit Slavonianism and after all these years return to the adventures of Piggy Pennington in Boyville.

As a political didacticist Mr. White is a clever frost. As a teller of urchin tales he was great. It's not too late to go back.

ILL FEELING—WHERE?

It is only a few days ago, relatively speaking, since we were told how ugly was the mood of the people of Paris toward America when the flight of Nungesser and Gull was blamed to some ridiculous cause or other for which this country was held responsible.

The French may be a volatile people, but it is impossible to credit them with such a complete reversal of form in so short a time. There is no doubt at all about the tremendous oration they extended to the American birdman. There must, therefore, be more than a little doubt about the genuineness of the reported ugliness of the people of the Nungesser-Gull disaster.

Obviously there has been more feeding out of intentional exaggeration of unpleasant facts calculated to destroy sympathy between the peoples of American and France. One wonders how much ill feeling toward the United States there can be in France, when the Parisians can make absolutely as much ado over an American who achieves a great triumph as if he were one of themselves.

WILDCAT WAGES.

Goodness knows to what heights the wages of building trades mechanics in New York have soared—it has been no kind of a thing for a normal person on the outside to keep track of. But whether they are now paying bricklayers $16 a day, or $20, or whatever, there is to be another boost, it appears.

This would be little concern to people living elsewhere than in New York were it not for one thing. On account of that one thing it is very much the concern of the whole country, because the rate of building trade wages in the metropolises is only made possible by the system of financing building operations there which has come into being in the last few years, and that system bears pretty much the same relation to people in Manchester that the driving of Oklahoma oil wells did not so long ago.

Hardly anybody buys a piece of ground and puts up a building, nowadays, in New York. Instead, the projector of such an enterprise organizes a corporation and sells stock in it. And the stock is peddled all over the country. The projector doesn't care a hoot whether the building is a sane investment or not. He isn't in the least interested in ten years hence—nor two. He is only interested in getting the building up—whether it be apartment house or office building or a set of lots—and leased to tenants who may or may not be able to pay their rent, and all the stock sold; then he is ready to fade away.

It is these wildcat promoters, who care nothing at all how much a building costs, who are making it possible for a plasterer to receive three days pay for one day's work. But it is the outsiders, who buy their stocks, that will pay the fiddler in the end when the bubble bursts.

The worst investment an outside investor is likely to make, these days, is in New York building corporations.

THE FLOOD RUIN

So enormous is the scope of the devastation in the lower Mississippi valley that the mind of the person at a distance simply goes blank at any attempt to sense it. When a quarter of a million people are driven from their homes and the homes are either totally destroyed or left sodden with mud; when landmarks over whole counties are obliterated; when even so facile and experienced a person as Secretary Hoover refuses even to guess at the loss further than to declare it will run into the hundreds of millions, then a stage has been reached when the imagination balks and added figures mean next to nothing.

Perhaps some faint glimmering of the extent of the destruction, however, may come from contemplation of less hackneyed aspects of the flood. Take for instance, its effect on the wild life of the state of Louisiana. It is astonishing to be told that the fur catch of that state normally is nearly twice that of all Canada and at least twenty-five times as great as that of Alaska. Millions of muskrats, tens of thousands of raccoons, hordes of foxes, bears, wildcats, cougars and wolves have been drowned. Many, no doubt, have saved themselves, but mortality among the young of the wildfowl has beyond question been enormous.

It will be years before the effects of the 1927 flood on the wild life of this one state alone will have been compensated. For some obscure reason the devastation among the dumb creatures seems more convincing than the misery and economic disaster that has fallen on the people. Yet the beasts are in no worse case than their human cousins.

SOUTHERN MISNOMER.

Whoever nicknamed Charles A. Lindbergh "the flying fool" undoubtedly was animated by a praiseworthy impulse but the rest of the country had no business to pick it up. There is not the slightest doubt that the individual who did the nicknaming was a southerner and thought that he was paying a high tribute to the aviator. The south is dialectic, it employs that word "fool" in a sense understood nowhere else. If an individual is extraordinarily adept and courageous he is, if you please, a "fool" at his particular specialty. He is a "fighting fool" not if he fights foolishly but if he fights valiantly. He is a "trading fool" if he is a persistent swapper. And so on. Any Alabamian would be sure to describe Lindbergh as a "flyn' fool" in sheer admiration.

But how about the folks in the rest of the country? How about the English and the French and the other Europeans? Hereabouts, when we refer to a person as a fool we mean that he is a fool and not a superior creature. It's a bet that half the people north of Mason and Dixon's line gained the impression when they first heard about Lindbergh, the "flying fool," that he was a crackbrained nut. And across the water they must have gained the impression that an idiot had set out to negotiate the Atlantic air lanes.

"Flying fool" is no right way to refer to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh.

CHINESE FRIENDLINESS.

China is of the first page, not because anything has been settled over there but because the determination of the United States government to keep clear of entangling alliances in that quarter of the globe has brought about the temporary abandonment of propaganda for joint foreign intervention. During this calmer period when inflammatory dispatches calculated to stir the war spirit are less in evidence than they were a few weeks ago, it is interesting to note what is said about China by a man who was a missionary in that country for twenty-seven years, Rev. Dr. A. N. Warnshuis, secretary of the International Missionary Committee of London and New York. "There is no such thing as an anti-foreign spirit," says Dr. Warnshuis. "They are rightfully suspicious of foreign concessions and offended by certain foreign methods, but the general feeling in China is one of faithful friendship. The only foreign lives lost in the whole Chinese troubles were in Nanking, and then only seven were killed. Think what would have been the wholesale slaughter if it were true that all foreigners were hated."

That is precisely the point it is so difficult to bring out effectively during periods of excitement over "outrages" against foreigners in China. The thousands of outsiders there would not survive for an hour any genuine outbreak of hostility on the part of the scores of millions of Chinese. The reason that foreigners are safe in China is not because the Chinese are afraid to kill them but because they have no desire to kill them. This is a fact it is well to store up against future propagandizing.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, May 24.—If the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism achieves its purpose, which it probably won't, a considerable number of hale and hearty uniformed clergymen will be separated from their jobs as chaplains in the army and navy.

The A. A. A., which is of most militant of a half-dozen atheistic societies in the United States, brought a taxpayer-citizen suit to restrain the treasury from paying out money for the employment of chaplains in the army, the navy and the Congress.

The District of Columbia supreme court had first opportunity to sock the atheists and on request of the government, dismissed the case on the ground that the plaintiff hadn't sufficient interest in the money paid out for salaries to the chaplains. The A. A. A. then appealed to the district court of appeals. Both sides have filed briefs and the matter may eventually get up to the United States supreme court.

It is to be suspected that the atheists have no strong hope of getting all the chaplains fired and it is probable that their case will never even be tried on its merits, as the matter before the courts now is only one of jurisdiction.

Marx Lewis, counsel for the A. A. A., says that the chaplains should be turned back into the pulpits principally because:

- 1. Their employment is an abuse of the powers of Congress. 2. The constitution expressly forbids it. 3. The constitution gives Congress no power to hire chaplains, says Marx, and Congress isn't supposed to do anything except what the constitution says it may do. 4. "But the qualification for the office of chaplain, taken from the National Defense Act of 1920, are that 'appointments of chaplains shall be made from persons duly accredited by some religious denomination or organization, and of good standing therein, between the ages of 23 and 45 years.' Under army regulations made in accordance with this provision to standardize the endorsement of chaplains by their religious denominations, a candidate must obtain the official denomination approval before he may be considered for an appointment."

Lewis says the opposition to chaplains has existed since they were first invented and that when the army got along once for a stretch of 17 years without any it was proved that they weren't necessary.

He quotes a letter from James Madison to Edward Livingston in 1832 as follows: "I observe with particular pleasure the view you have taken of the immunity of religion from civil jurisdiction, in every case where it does not trespass on private rights or the public peace. This has always been a favorite principle with me; and it was not with my approbation that the deviation from it took place in Congress, when they appointed chaplains, to be paid from the national treasury. It would have been much better proof to their constituents of their pious feelings if the members had contributed for the purpose of pittance from their own pocket."

Lewis says this was also the view of Jefferson, who refused to issue Thanksgiving proclamations on account of their religious flavor. "Employment of chaplains," he says, "means diversion of federal funds for religious purposes. Eight or nine thousand tax-paying and organized atheists object to it."

CIVIC ACHIEVEMENTS

INDUSTRIAL FOUNDATIONS This is the twentieth article of a series telling how American cities have met their problems in civic achievements. Succeeding articles will appear on this page daily.

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 24.—One of the favorite topics of the lurid movies, confession stories and such is the New York studio party. Here are pictured mad rollercoasters, half-dressed models upon tables, sullen beauties hiding their jealousies, confetti raining like snow, serpentine paper tossed about the chandeliers and all the other hectic ingredients.

I have returned, but a few hours since, from a typical studio party. And, with no attempt to disillusion those starved appetites who, viewing the films or reading the cheap magazines, thirst for a "Bohemian thrill," I am forced to report, that the guests and their antics were something as follows:

One football coach of an important eastern university carrying on a clumsy settee flirtation with a flapper visitor from Chicago.

No male and no more address than one seen upon Fifth avenue. A room lined with rather good paintings, all the work of the hostess, a woman of comfortable fortune who can afford to be an artist.

A young man whose fiction appears now and then in the American Mercury, but who must read copy on a newspaper in order to pay the rent.

A young grand opera singer boring two or three listeners with such comments as: "Does he really write poetry... oh you must know so many interesting people..." etc. ad lib.

Three ebullient young men who have discovered they went to the same college and are reviving the sophomore years by singing college songs.

Old Masters

"What is the real good?" I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court; Knowledge, said the school; Truth, said the wise man; Pleasure, said the fool; Love, said the maiden; Beauty, said the page; Freedom, said the dreamer; Fame, said the sage; Equity, the sneer;

Spake my heart full sadly, "The answer is not here."

Then within my bosom, Softly this I heard: "Each heart holds the secret; Kindness is the word." —John Boyle O'Reilly: "What Is Good."

per cent every six months. Liquidation will begin at the end of ten years. The maximum loan to any one organization is 30,000. The only provision is that the company locate in Muskegon. A preliminary investigation of all applicants is made by the commercial organization. Then recommendations are submitted to the trustees of the foundation—three bank presidents, two capitalists, a retailer, and a manufacturer. Final decision rests with the trustees. Loans are secured by collateral, but all loans are not bankable. Muskegon has found that this plan works better than the old "bonus" system formerly in vogue.

A former professor, now engaged in radical activities, singing negro spirituals in fair baritone. A novelist, a poet, and a newspaper columnist trying out some close harmony and being rewarded with frigid glances. A six-foot ex-marine telling of experiences in Hayti and being baited by a pretty young radical. A press agent for the anti-capital punishment league and a half-dozen painters, illustrators and such. As for the wild drinking I recall three rounds of the bacardi, mixed with lime juice and ginger ale—a favorite tropical concoction, I am told. Studio parties, as I know them, are largely a routine of discussions, arguments on the new things of art and literature, some singing and piano playing, dancing to the tune of a phonograph or radio; an occasional outburst of hilarity. "Wild parties" in Manhattan are very likely to be either very private or very public. The very private ones are duplicates of similar wild parties anywhere in the world and the "cutting loose" results from the fact that the participants know they are among friends. The very public ones are the elaborate affairs given in the big hotels and halls where the freedom is born of the fact that so many are present and so many are revealing that individual cases go unnoticed. Few—not even the time hardened—trot out their antics in the mixed company of a studio party and, if they did, many would leave in disgust.

STATE CHAMBER MEETS THURSDAY

Annual Convention to Be Addressed By 16 Experts In Business Lines.

Hartford, May 24.—Sixteen well-known business men, experts in their individual field, will address the various section meetings and the banquet at the 28th Annual Convention of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, May 26.

The 1927 meeting of the State Chamber will begin with a dinner for the local chamber secretaries the evening of Wednesday, May 25, at which problems concerning the Chamber in general and Connecticut in particular will be discussed; and a dinner of the retiring directors of the State Chamber at which there will be a short business session and an address by John Calvin Goddard, Connecticut's veteran essayist-humorist, on "Uncle Sam Still Going Strong."

Business Meeting
A business meeting of the members will be held at 9:30 Thursday, May 26. The report of the committee in charge of nominating directors will be presented and 13 new directors elected.

Luncheon Meeting
A luncheon meeting of Connecticut merchants under the direction of the State Chamber's Trade & Commerce Committee will be held at 12:30 in the ball room of the hotel. Addresses will be made by Ralph C. Hudson, president, National Retail Dry Goods Association, on "The Merchant's Obligation to his Community"; C. B. Hutchings, vice-president, Brookline Economic Service, on "The Enigma of 1927"; and Colvin B. Brown, chief of the organization service of the National Chamber, on "The Retailer and Mass Distribution."

Manufacturers' Meeting
At 2 o'clock there will be a section meeting for Connecticut manufacturers, at which Horace B. Cheney, vice-president of Cheney Brothers, and chairman of the State Chamber's Industries Committee, will preside. There will be addresses by C. O. Cornell of the firm of Cornell, Linder & Company, New York, on "Modern Industrial Management by Budgetary Control"; and Charles H. Warren, Dean, Sheffield Scientific school, Yale, on "Use of Educational Facilities in Industry."

Also at 2 o'clock there will be a joint meeting of the banking and insurance sections. J. C. Loomis, president, Commercial Trust Company of New Britain, and a member of the State Chamber's Banking Committee, will preside. James H. Brewster, Jr., vice-president, Aetna Life Insurance Company, and chairman of the State Chamber's Insurance Committee, will preside jointly. Edward M. Allen, vice-president, National Surety Company, will talk on "The Business Man of Insurance." Hugh D. Hart, vice-president, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, will speak on "Life Insurance and the Public." John B. Byrne, bank commissioner of Connecticut, will outline important banking bills passed at the 1927 Legislature and their influence on Connecticut banking.

Public Utilities
John K. Pundertford, president of the Connecticut Company and chairman of the State Chamber's Public Utilities Committee, will preside at the Public Utilities Section meeting, which will be held at 3:45. The speakers at this section will be: Frederick L. Devereux, vice-president, Bell Telephone Securities Company, on "The Distribution of Corporate Ownership"; and Virgil Jordan, Chief Economist, National Industrial Conference Board, on "The Maintenance of American Prosperity."

Problems of local chambers of commerce will be discussed at a special meeting at 3:45, Robert A. Crosby, president of the Connecticut Commercial Secretaries Association, and chairman of the State Chamber's Organization Committee, will preside at this section. Campbell Scott, president, Technical Advisory Corporation will present "The Facts About Industrial Surveys," and Colvin B. Brown, Chief of the Organization Service of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will outline "Chamber of Commerce Fundamentals."

The Banquet
The annual banquet to be held at 7 o'clock Thursday evening in the ballroom of the Bond, will be the outstanding feature of the State Chamber's 28th Annual Meeting. Ernest E. Rogers, State Treasurer and President of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce will act as toastmaster. Merle Thorpe, editor, "The Nation's Business," will deliver an address entitled "From the Bottom Up or from the Top Down."

Emil Heimberger's Hotel Bond Orchestra will furnish the music at the banquet. All meetings will be held on daylight saving time. The following general topics, which are of interest to practically every business man in Connecticut, will be included in the program of the State Chamber's Annual Meeting: American Prosperity, Corporation Financing, Investment, Insurance, Business Evolution, Research in Industry, industrial development, Chain Stores, Business Outlook, Merchants' Problems,

TOWN PLAYERS TO GIVE 2 ONE-ACTS TOMORROW

Will Present Watteau Fantasy and Short Farce at Recreation Center.

Two one-act plays will be presented by members of the Town Players at their regular monthly meeting tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Recreation Center. Rehearsals for the presentation have been going on for several weeks.

Although the plays will not be open to the general public, members of the players may invite friends. The meeting will precede the plays and plans will be made at that time for the annual banquet which will take place in June, when the Enfield Players of Thompsonville will put on "My Tailor," a one-act skit.

The plays to be given tomorrow evening are "The Shoes That Danced," a fantasy whose scene is laid in Europe at the time of the painter, Watteau, and "Punk," a farce. In the leading roles of the former are Crombie Donaldson as Watteau, Miss Ruth Smith as Columbine, the dancer, Miss Eva McComb, as the queen and Franklin Richmond as Lancret, pupil of Watteau. This play is being directed by Mrs. S. C. Hale. Other members of the cast are Eric Crawshaw as Courtan, Miss Florence Wilson, the lady in waiting, Miss Beatrice Johnson as a ballet dancer and Miss Helen Kanehl as Faustine, Columbine's partner.

"Punk" is an amateur play rehearsal in which there are no leading parts. In the cast are Miss Lillian Treadwell, Miss Alice Marshall, Miss Aileen McHale, Raymond Tilden, Leonard Johnson, James Neill and Albert Addy. The latter is the director.

A new curtain and drop have been purchased for the Recreation Center and will be put in use for the first time for these plays. Incidental music will be furnished by Collins Driggs and George Diatius.

ANDOVER

A wedding of great interest locally took place in the Congregational Church in Hebron on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Esther Jones, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Jones, of this town, was married to Edward Nicolai, of Hartford. The ceremony, that of the double ring, was performed by the Rev. Mr. Deeter, of Hebron.

The bride's dress was of white princess satin, bouffant style, trimmed with Irish lace and seed pearls. Her veil was embroidered in orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and swansonia. The maid of honor was Mary Nalgi, of New York, who wore a dress of peach georgette over satin. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Mildred Cappoli, of Stamford, sister of the bride, who was dressed in blue georgette over pink satin, and Miss Sara Rosenbloom, of this town, who wore yellow georgette. The young ladies wore marine hats to match their dresses and carried bouquets of pink roses and carnations.

Samuel J. Cappola, of Stamford, brother-in-law of the bride, acted as best man, and Daville Nicolini and William Nicolini, brothers of the groom, were groomsmen.

"KISS IN A TAXI"

BEBE'S BEST FILM

Circle Theater Picture Laid In Paris—Douglas Gilmore Assists.

"A Kiss in a Taxi," Bebe Daniels' latest Paramount comedy success, is playing at the Circle Theater today and tomorrow. Strange as it may seem "A Kiss in a Taxi" really has quite a bearing on the story it tells. As Ginette, beautiful Montmart cafe waitress, Bebe has ample opportunity for the racy riotous comedy she has become famous for. It is the opinion of all the cafe's frequenters that only one man can kiss Ginette's lovely face and he is Lucien Cambolle, her fiance. But strangers come who do not know and so—Leon Lambert tries his luck with a crockery battle royal ensuing. Why question the results, rather let us do a quick fadeout from the field of combat.

A few days later, Lambert, riding around town in a cab, stops before a florist's shop and gets out to purchase a corsage for his comely companion but while he is gone, the bird also flies away. On his return, a figure crouches in the corner. Lambert offers his floral tribute and turns to claim a kiss. He gets it but also receives a stiff right to the jaw. The occupant of the cab is not his former companion but Ginette! How did she get there? What happens? These are some of the things "A Kiss in a Taxi" will divulge. Chester Conkin adds his bag of tricks to all those which Bebe puts over. Clarence Badger, director of a long line of hits, is said to present another masterly job. Douglas Gilmore, a new Paramount recruit appears as Miss Daniels' leading man.

Do You Suffer from Painful Feet?

Foot comfort expert from New York will be here May 27 and 28th To Give Free Demonstration

On the above date we will have at our store, through the courtesy of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, famous foot authority, a Foot Comfort Expert from his own staff, sent here for the benefit of our patrons. We urge every foot sufferer to make the most of this unusual opportunity.

Over your stockings feet, this Expert will make Podo-graph prints, which will show the exact nature of your foot ailment. He will then demonstrate how the scientific method and improved appliances perfected by Dr. Scholl instantly relieve your painful feet, and restore them to health and comfort. Absolutely no charge for this service. Be sure and remember the above date so as not to miss this opportunity.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

PAUL ADAMS
NEA Service

Courteous traffic cops direct the traveler in France today. Quite different from the days when the doughboy had to walk until he found the way. This scene is in LeMans.

This is the 39th chapter in the story of an ex-doughboy who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Even today there are many French villagers who have daily reminders of the visit of the A. E. F. Francois Villet, in Nogent-en-Bassigny, is one of these. He still wears a raincoat that he bought from a poverty-stricken buck private for 10 francs, which in 1918 was 55 cents.

And Gonzague Druzat, who lives near St. Nazaire, bought a flivver from an officer for 50 francs, about $2.75. It doesn't run now, but he still has it.

One of the best stories of trading, aside from the ones the mess sergeants tell, comes from the citizens of Mezeroy, near LeMans.

Ordered to Meze.

An outfit of several hundred Americans had been quartered in Mezeroy in the spring of 1918, awaiting orders for a frontal attack on Camp Fontaineau at Brest. Word came to move along in March. It was unexpected. All the officers and most of the non-coms were out on souveniring raids in the nearby country. About 50 uncombed privates were lounging around when the motorcycle messenger arrived and spread the tidings. The start was to be made the day following.

So the privates acted. With well-directed blows from several sturdy axes they crashed the doors of a stone building used as a storehouse for supplies. Out came great boxes of soap, bags of sugar, tins of lard and sack after sack of flour. The word went abroad that an auction was in progress.

Big Barbecue.

Villagers gathered, bringing with them what they had. Bottles of wine and cognac, eggs, potatoes, hastily dressed fowls and rabbits. Within two hours that storehouse was wrecked. Huge fires were built in the field ranges. Self-appointed cooks, warmed to the task, went to work. Stews were made. And one gentleman, George Miskewicz by name, then and now of Grand Rapids, Mich., actually baked 100 apple pies.

If ever there was an orgy, that was one. Late in the day, when other members of the company returned, they pitched into the feast. The officers ragged. The mess sergeant threatened wholesale arrests. But those privates, if they never had a good and well-lubricated meal before, had one then. Though they took up an 11-kilometer hike under full pack the next morning to entrain for Brest without breakfast, they all conceded that the party was worth while. And the villagers of Mezeroy who were in on the breakup are still using American soap.

TOMORROW: Please Pass the Butter.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1876.—Adv.

When Mother is Alarmed!

CONSTIPATION, biliousness, coated tongue, feverish headache, sick stomach—then is the time when mother relies upon Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. "My son had been constipated and bilious since birth. At the age of five he had such an attack of sour stomach and bad breath I had to take him out of kindergarten. It was then I gave him Syrup Pepsin. He improved from the first dose and soon was back to school completely restored and healthier than he had ever been before. It is a great comfort to have a medicine for children in which we can have such implicit confidence." (Name and address sent on request.)

Wins Confidence of Old Folks
Old people are charmed by the gentle, kindly action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No pain, gripe or depressing "flushing" of the bowels. Just an easy movement and the fine feeling of restful comfort. There's seldom any real sickness in the home that learns to use Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of coated tongue, fever, biliousness, headache and such troubles due to constipation. Recommended in a million homes. Sold by all druggists.

For a free trial bottle send name and address to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Company, Monticello, Illinois.

Firestone Round Tread Balloon

MANY Firestone Dealers are prepared to take in your old tires, offering you a liberal allowance on a new set of Gum-Dipped Balloons.

Firestone Dealers are given the advantages of attending Tire Educational Meetings held throughout the country, where tire design and construction are discussed. The sections of used tires reproduced here are a part of this program. Study these two sections and you, too, will understand what Firestone means by tires built for service and tires made to sell.

Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES

Flat Tread Balloon

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon with its scientifically designed tread permits free flexing, easier riding, extra comfort and safety.

The balloon tire with heavy, flat tread design is obviously stiffer and rides harder. The excess rubber, placed for appearance at the edges of the tread, is not only wasted but produces hinging action causing ply separation and "shoulder breaks."

Firestone designed and manufactures Oldfield Tires and Tubes, distributing them direct to Firestone Dealers only, through 148 Factory Warehouses. This efficient and economical distribution assures tire buyers everywhere, clean, fresh stocks of Firestone and Oldfield Tires in all types and sizes, and has helped to make possible today's remarkably low prices—the lowest in tire history. THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: P. T. Barnum (12)

Barnum's next wild west innovation for the American Museum was a band of Indians from Iowa. The Redskins appeared in war dances. Baby shows, poultry, dog and flower shows added to the museum's popularity and drew the crowds. Barnum offered $100 prizes for the fattest and prettiest babies.

The showman heard of a dwarf in Bridgeport. The boy proved to be the smallest Barnum had ever seen, being two feet one inch in height.

Barnum hired the dwarf for $3 a week and board. The five-year-old child was accompanied to New York by his mother.

Mrs. Stratton, mother of the boy was amazed when she saw handbills advertising the act as "General Tom Thumb, a dwarf eleven years of age, just arrived from England." Barnum took the boy to a newspaper editor's home where he danced between the tumblers and jumped over the meat platter. The "general" scored a success at once.

ARE YOU THE RIGHT MAN for this Distributor Opportunity?

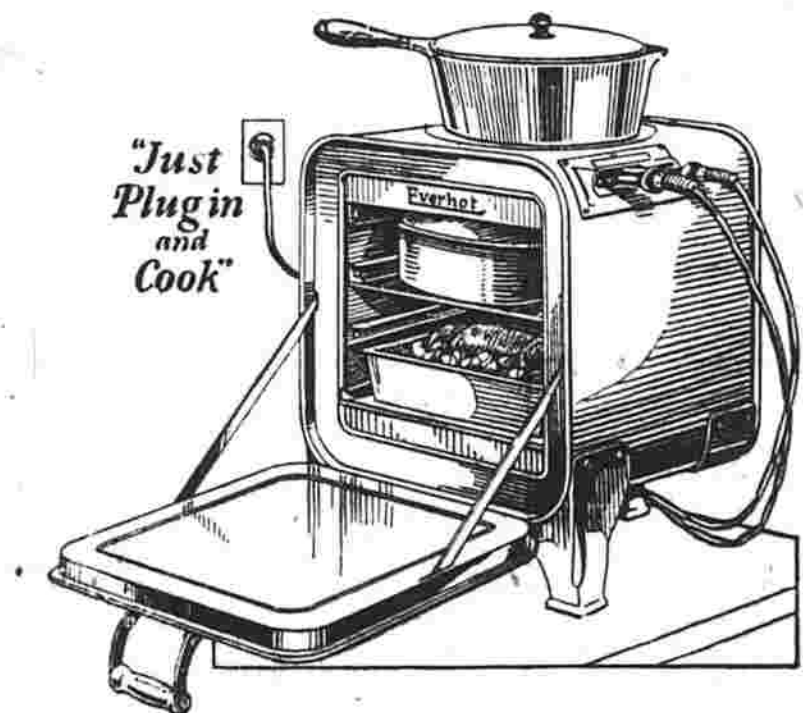

SOMEWHERE in this city is a man or group of men who will not only recognize at once this unusual opportunity for profitable business, but will be ready and eager to make the most of it.

Briefly, here is the proposition: An absolutely revolutionary type of automatic household refrigerator—Electrolux Servel—a sensational success in every city in which it has been introduced—is now ready in larger quantity production to take care of a limited number of additional markets. Your city will be one of these, if we can find the right distributor.

Electrolux Servel is far ahead of any other automatic refrigerator. To begin with, it has no machinery whatever—no moving parts—nothing to make a noise—nothing to wear out—practically nothing to require attention or service. It is the most economical to buy, to install, to operate. It is a complete self-contained cabinet refrigerator—built of steel to last a lifetime. It works on the simple principle of applying an automatically controlled source of heat (such as a small gas flame) to a liquid which alternately evaporates and condenses within a sealed system of metal cylinders. Absolutely silent, safe and sure.

Think of the appeal such a remarkable piece of household equipment is bound to hold for hundreds of prospects all around you. If you can begin to picture in your own mind this wonderful sales and profit opportunity, write or telegraph us now and our sales representative will gladly arrange to meet you in your own city for detailed discussion.

FIRE IN OIL TANKS
 Shanghai, May 24.—Fire in the Standard Oil Company of New York plant at Chinkiang which was started by a shell from Gen. Sun Chuan Fang's artillery on Sunday was put out today after it had destroyed petroleum estimated at a million gallons. Fire fighters from the United States destroyer Ford assisted by firemen from the British destroyer Wolverine, fought the blaze and subdued it after a dangerous struggle.

SOCIALISTS WIN
 Warsaw, Poland, May 24.—The final returns from the Polish general election today revealed a victory for the Socialists and the Progressives but the Communists failed to land a single seat in the National Parliament. The Progressives and Socialists elected 47 members of Parliament while the Nationalists elected 28. The strictly Socialist ticket elected 17. The Progressive Bloc supporting General Pilsudski, elected sixteen members of Parliament. The Jewish Nationalist block elected ten seats.

YOU spend more time in your home than in any other place; could paint and varnish do anything to make it a better place to live in?

In most cases—Yes. Kitchen, bathroom, bedroom, halls; stairs, floors, trim; outdoors and in—how do the surfaces look? If they need protection, or decoration, act now. The cost will never be less; the rewards will be many.

You will enjoy your re-newed home. It will be brighter, fresher, easier to keep clean. It will look better—and sell better, if need be. Surface saving is an investment in better living as well as in conservation.

CURTIS, millionaire department store owner, takes three girls from his establishment into his home as his wards for one year because he wants to help them further ambitions each has expressed. BILLY WELLS, anxious to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is sincere. NYDA, LOMAN, and WINNIE SHELTON lie to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity.

Her voice trembled when she called a number. It was long minutes before a soft, caressing voice answered.

NYDA I didn't scheme and try to hurt Nyda's and Winnie's chances," Billy told T. Q. Curtis, "but for months I have hoped that I would win."

or so would have been thirty or thirty-five dollars a week, and she'd be dressing on five hundred dollars a month! When she found that all her efforts to endear herself to you, to make herself indispensable, had failed—he loved her! Could any girl ask for better proof? "I can't accept your offer, Mr. Curtis," she said at last. "Please don't ask me to explain, though you have every right to—I have other plans for my life. Please don't look so sad, Mr. Curtis! Clay will come home soon. I'm sure of it. He has proved his point. He has made good independently of you. He will be a rich man, if he wants to be, and if he prefers to spend all his time writing great music, which does not pay well, except in soul satisfaction, he will hardly be such a fool as to insist on living in poverty. He can at least make enough money with occasional popular songs to pay his part of the living expenses here, and I am sure he will be happy to come home."

The WOMAN'S DAY

Now they've capitalized that "First Lady Charm." The Republican National Committee, through the mouths of its various speakers, declares that the tact and charm and general popularity of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is worth at least $1,000,000 in prestige which it is giving the G. O. Of course, Cal will take that million for himself, figuring, if he even takes pains to figure at all, that he was politician enough to pick that kind of a wife! But giving everyone his due, we must admit that Cal doesn't seem to stint the wife in spending money. Her duds are a credit to the dressmaking art of the country.

Hour Housekeepers It is now possible in New York to hire visiting housekeepers by the hour. The firm which deals in housekeepers will supply them for one hour up. Which reminds me of a conversation which I recently had with the director of a nursing school. We were talking about the h. c. i. of sickness, about hospital and doctor and nursing bills that soon swallowed the average family's savings; bills out of all proportion to the average income.

HEBRON

The marriage of Edward Nicolini of Hartford to Miss Esther Jones of Andover, formerly of Hebron, took place at the Congregational church at Hebron Center, on Saturday, May 21, at 2 p. m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Deeter. William Jones of New York, a brother of the bride was best man, and Mrs. Samuel Cappel of Stamford, a sister of the bride was bridesmaid. The bride was attired in white satin and real lace. Mrs. Nicolini is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Jones of Andover, formerly of Hebron. Mr. and Mrs. Nicolini will make their home in Hartford.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination. IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Nu-Bone Corsets

Still Lead A good fitting corset or corselet is the best foundation for your gown. Dressmakers and tailors will tell you that. Mrs. Gordon will call by appointment, take your measurements and get you the perfect garment for your figure. Surgical corsets if needed.

DIABETES SYMPTOMS AND TESTS—QUACK REMEDIES AND DIET EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of four health talks on diabetes. By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine The chief symptom by which a physician determines the presence of diabetes is the appearance of sugar in measurable amounts in the fluids excreted from the body. The exact cause of diabetes, other than the disturbance of the pancreas resulting in degeneration of the islands of Langerhans, is not known. It has been found, however, that overeating and lack of exercise may be prominent points in the history of the individual concerned. The sugars come largely from starch and other foods. The person does not manufacture more sugar than usual, but cannot use properly that which he manufactures. The excess of sugar that accumulates is then poured out of the body through the fluids. Sometimes a severe infection may be the insult to the body that results in degeneration of the pancreas and diabetes. Sometimes tumors or of the pancreas or a stone in the tube which carries the external secretion of that gland into the in-times learn to perform the simpler tests for themselves. The simplest test includes merely the adding of a few drops of the excreted fluid to a teaspoonful of solution containing copper. If there is sugar present, the grayish blue color of the solution changes to red. Any physician will be glad to show this test to the patient who suffers with diabetes.

In tomorrow's health column, Dr. Fishbein will discuss approved diets for patients suffering from diabetes.

Endowments

By Olive Roberts Burton It behooves us to note that Dr. Jabez North Jackson stated at the American Medical Association that "the citizens' greatest need was endowed hospitals where middle class folk might be treated at reasonable cost rather than be forced, as now, to choose between charity hospitals and high rate establishments, making them debtors for years." Methinks I hear a grand Amen. Medical science of today resembles the old regime of onion plasters, leeching, and bonnet tea about as much as a mall plane resembles the old stage coach. Onions could be had at the grocery, leeches in the brook, and bonnet in the dooryard. Home nursing was home nursing, people died in

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain! Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with your fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.—adv.

Spring Tints

Gaily colored frocks this Spring! Underthings in soft shades to match. Tint them in ordinary water with true dyes. Dipping will do it—in ordinary cold water—but you must have real dye to get a smooth, perfectly even tone. Diamond dye powder is fifteen cents at any druggist; so why do half a job with something not half so effective? And when you want the tint to be permanent, just dip in boiling water instead of cold! The druggist has color cards and simple directions for doing perfect dyeing of all sorts of material: silk or wool; linen, cotton goods; mixed goods, or any goods at all; and exquisite tinting of dainty things. Or send for a marvelous book of suggestions in full colors. Ask for Color-Craft! Address DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N91, Burlington, Vermont.

CHENEYS MEET ARNOLD COLLEGE TONIGHT—IF IT DOESN'T RAIN

Sammy Massey Has Strong Ball Club Coming to West Side Tonight; "Dodger" Dope Lead-Off Hitter; Dope On Others.

Indications early today were that the baseball game at the West Side field tonight would surely be cancelled because of rain, but it is possible to foretell the weather these days so there was a bare chance that the game would go on. Tonight will be found elsewhere in tonight's Herald if the game is put off until another date.

Cheney Brothers are scheduled to oppose the fast Arnolds' College nine from New Haven which is coached by Sammy Massey, well-known Manchester all-around athlete. That the Elm City aggregation should be able to give Cheney Brothers plenty of opposition may be gleaned from this fact except from Massey's letter to Manager Jack Jenney:

"John, we haven't an outstanding team but I think we are on a par with the average small college team."

With the visitors comes Joe Andrews, who went South with the Providence Grays this spring only to be turned back for lack of experience. He is said to be a hard hitter and neat fielder. He expects to land in the New England league after he graduates next month.

Andrews will play left field—if it doesn't rain. Bill Coyle of Westford, who played against Manchester with Willimantic in the state league several years ago, Concowich is from Ansonia and is the leading hitter on the team at present. Cook halls from Meriden where he was well known all over the state through his basketball affiliations with the Meriden Engineers.

Manchester fans, however, will probably be more interested in what "Dodger" Dope does. The Manchester boy will play right field and lead off in the batting order. His work will be watched with interest—if it doesn't rain.

Billy Evans Says

TOUGH ON THE UMPIRES. One of the tough plays in baseball for an umpire is the rule governing a home run, which calls for the official to call the ball fair or foul according to where it was when it disappeared from view.

While it is not a particularly difficult matter to follow the course of a ball accurately, it is a decision that is often accompanied with most unpleasant reactions, since a matter of one to four runs can be involved.

It was such a decision, made by Umpire Emmett Ormsby, that recently resulted in the suspension of Ty Cobb and Al Simmons and caused bitter words to be passed between Connie Mack and President Johnson.

The decision, by the way, showed how quickly a tranquil day for an umpire can be changed into a near riot. There hadn't been a previous dispute.

Discussion Makes Trouble. The Boston Red Sox were playing a ball over the right field wall. Everybody seems to agree the ball was fair when it passed out of the enclosure. Had the umpire's jurisdiction ended at that point, all would have been lovely for the officials.

However, the rules call for the umpire to follow the ball until it disappears from his view. This Umpire Ormsby did, and it so happened that the ball was finally carried over the fence and thereby wiped out the run that would have tied up the ball game.

If it had been against the visitors, the crowd would have been delighted, but against the home team it was just the opposite. Some of the players kicked, with the usual result, banishment from the game and the decision remaining unchanged.

Rather Strange Coincidence. It is a rather strange coincidence that some years back I figured in a somewhat similar happening, with the Athletics as one of the teams. Playing at Washington, Frank Baker, then the home run king of the American League hit a ball far over the right field wall. I feel that I am conservative when I say the ball was 30 feet fair when it passed out of the enclosure, incidentally cleared the barrier by about that distance.

A high wind was blowing and as I continued to watch the ball, the thought came to me, what an injustice it would be to Baker if the ball was blown fair before it disappeared from view.

That is just what happened. Had it been fair it would have put Philadelphia in front, as two runners were on the bases at the time. "I think that is a ball rule," was Connie Mack's comment to me after the game. I believe it would be much fairer if the jurisdiction of the umpire ceased when the ball passed out of the playing field. I agreed with him.

Rule Was Once Changed. In 1920 the rule was changed. It was sponsored by Mr. Mack. I was strong for the shift. The new rule made any such hit a home run, if it was a fair territory when it passed into the stands or over the fence.

Babe Ruth made 59 home runs in 1921 for a record. As I recall it, seven of them resulted from the new rule.

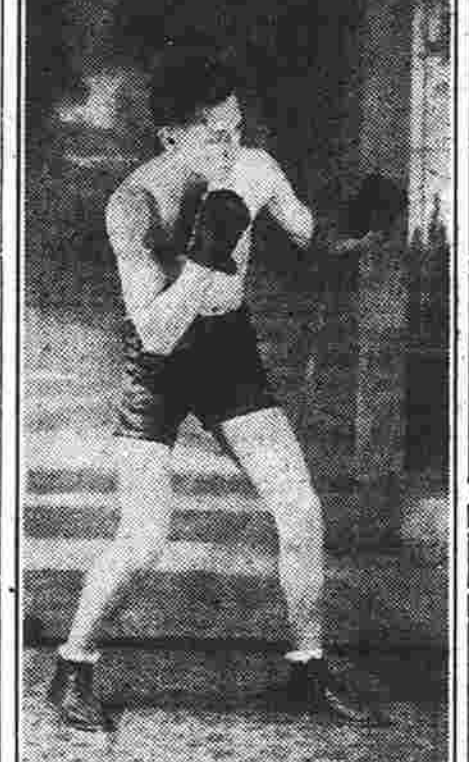

Some seems the National League didn't like the rule and some of the American League club owners were not so keen for it. About the middle of June it was erased from the code as far as the majors were concerned, going back to the old rule.

As it is now, an umpire must keep his eye on the ball until it disappears from view before making his decision.

However, I will always believe that it is easier to decide, and do so much fairer, to end the umpire's jurisdiction the moment the ball passes out of playing territory.

FANS TAKING ANOTHER GUESS ON THE NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE

Giants Way Ahead a Week Ago But Things Look Totally Different at the Present.

By DAVIS J. WALSH, I. N. S. Sports Editor. New York, May 24.—Big time baseball settled down again today to its neighborhood back fence bickering of a strictly sectional nature with the conclusion of the season's first east versus west meeting. It also might be mentioned that some of our severest critics have settled down to take another guess on the National League race.

"The Giants are in," they said a week ago. The McGraw entry had knocked over the Cardinals and Reds at that juncture and all was sweet, young girlish laughter in the lee of Coogan's bluff. The Giants were riding the lead then but the Pirates and Cubs came with a run in the last week of the western invasion, the former taking the Giants for four straight while the Cubs turned in the same performance against the Dodgers.

In Third Place. In consequence, the Giants are in third place today and they may go no higher very rapidly unless they get some major league catching soon.

The fact of the matter is that the west showed just enough in the inter-sectional games to indicate that neither race is "in," although the Yankees record of ten out of thirteen on the road indicates just how badly the rest of the American League field is at this early date.

Far and away the best inter-sectional game of any of the sixteen clubs went to the Chicago Cubs, who beat the much improved Dodgers four straight after engaging in two lengthy victories over the Braves. Sooner or later, the boys begin to take the Cubs seriously.

Cubs' Record. The Cubs' record of nine out of twelve was only a trifle better than that of the Pirates, who won seven out of ten after an indifferent start. They could do no better than play .500 baseball with the Phils, Dodgers and Braves but they were coming in when they reached the Polo Grounds.

The Giants had won six out of eight from the other western clubs and thought they were set with their pitchers at last. Their debacle reduced their percentage against western clubs to an even .500.

Cardinal pitching, of course, could hardly hope to continue its early pace and when it fell off a bit the hitting went with it and so did the Cards. They won four out of six from the Dodgers and Braves lost their series to the Giants and then went on a hitting strike in Philadelphia. As a result, the Cards, who started the invasion in first place, are now fourth. They won only five out of eleven on the road. The Reds came back nicely against the Phils and Braves, after dropping six straight to the Giants and Dodgers.

There was nothing to the American League's east-west meetings except the Yankees. The White Sox moved from third to second place by winning seven out of thirteen; the Browns went from sixth to third with eight out of fourteen, after losing four straight to New York, and the Indians came strong at the end to win six out of eleven and rise from seventh to sixth.

The Tigers, winning one out of four twelve played, and the Athletics, taking six out of fifteen, were the monumental flops. The latter, barring Rommel's last game in the west, are getting terrible pitching while the Tigers lack consistency in all or several departments. Yet they are the clubs most likely to take issue sooner or later with the Yanks, if issue is to be taken.

Give me Lil' Stoner's complete major league totals for games won and lost with Detroit.—F. C. N. Stoner, in three seasons, has won 28 and lost 30 games.

What was Ernie Wingard's record with the St. Louis Browns the first year he was with them? When was that?—G. B. B. That was 1924. He won 18 and lost 12 that season.

NOW YOU ASK ONE

NOT TOO HARD.

In today's list of questions are several that may keep you guessing, but most of them you should answer readily. The answers are on another page: 1-Where was the first seat of the United States government? 2-Who was Maid Marian? 3-Who is the patron saint of the Welsh people? 4-What is the oldest living nation in the world? 5-Name three wild animals that are members of the cat family? 6-Where was the late President Wilson born? 7-How many ounces to a Troy pound? 8-Who is honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America? 9-For what is Bedloe's Island famous? 10-What is the highest point in the United States?

If we love mystery and adventure we must love life, for life is both of these. Mrs. Newtweed: "No, dear, I couldn't find the button, so I sewed up the button-hole."

But the Meal Ticket To strike out down the long, long road Would be a treat, But where would be my night's abode, And how would I eat?

It costs a lot more to live now than in former times, but we rather incline to the belief that it is worth it.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Big talking is a sign of little thinking. Zoological note: A couple of larks have been known to produce a jallbird. Grubb: "So you're spending the evening alone?" Gruff: "Yes, my wife ran over to the neighbor's for a minute." A good many times it is the mink in the closet that brings the wolf to the back door. A horse will do a better day's work if you drive him with a loose rein—and so will a man. Too many rich men are handicapped by blighted indebtedness. A woman always finds it just as hard to keep a budget as a secret.

Without License Said I, "Too many men, I fear Embrace you!" "Well, I guess," She said, "you would deny me, dear."

The freedom of the press. "No, lady, a meadow lark is not a party thrown in the country."

Voice (on phone) "Please send me a copy of the song, 'The Child Belongs to Me.'" Clerk (to stock boy) "Wrap up a copy of 'Yes Sir, That's my Baby.'"

There are golf players; and then there are men who are going to keep up their lawns this summer.

Maid: "Shall I take the little rug out and beat it?" Man: "That's no rug, that's my towel."

What Are We Headed For? She: "May I have a kiss?" He, doubtfully: "Er, well, On your honor promise this, That you will never tell."

City Banker (visiting the farm): I suppose that's the hired man? Farmer (who has visited banks): No, that's the First Vice-President in Charge of Cows.

There's no drudgery like having to write something when you have nothing to write.

A local woman shopper approached the postoffice clerk at the stamp window. "I would like to look at your red two-cent stamps," she said. The clerk obligingly brought out a sheet of 100 or more stamps. Pointing to one of the stamps in the center of the sheet, his discriminating customer sweetly said, "I'll take that one."

At that, Eve's lot must have been a happy one. She never had to lie awake nights wondering whether to have it bobbed or not.

Brown: "My wife laughs every time I make a fool of myself." Jones: "Yes, I know; always laughing."

THE TINYMITES

(Read the Story, Then Color the Picture)

The Tinies didn't hesitate, and sliding down the chute was great. They all took turns at running up and coming down again. They all would try to be real neat, and land upon their little feet, but often they would flop around and tumble, now and then. Old Daffy said, "Let's have a race. Just two of you get up in place, and when I shout the word to go, start sliding down the chute." "Well, who'll go with me?" Clowny cried. And Copy sat down by his side, and when they started, all the rest from laughing almost died. Was Copy was the first one down, so Clowny was a beaten clown. Said he, "I didn't get a start. Let's try it out once more." So up they went and raced again, and Clowny felt much better when he won because he'd slid along much faster than before. "Oh, look," said Copy, "there's a horse with stripes upon it." But, of course the beast was just a zebra and had wandered near the bunch. Said Daffy, "He's very tame. He likes small tots. That's why he came. You all shall have a ride on him, and then we'll have some lunch." Then Daffy put the beast inside the monstrous chute and then he cried, "Now everybody slide right down and land upon his back. I'll hold him so he cannot run. This really should be heaps of fun." The Tinymites then did as told. No courage did they lack. The whole bunch slid, and, with a bound, they landed on him, safe and sound. When everybody there was set, they called it quite a treat. Soon Daffy made the zebra run, and as a flush to their fun, he headed toward his little nome to let the Tinies eat. (The Tinymites prove they are good lumberjacks in the next story.)

Pythian Sisters of Memorial Temple, No. 33, will meet Thursday night in Orange hall at 8 o'clock. The regular business session will be followed by a memorial service and all the officers are asked to come dressed in white.

The Cyn club of the Center Congregational church will hold its third food sale in Hale's store, upstairs, Saturday at 2 p. m. It is hoped that enough money will be realized this time to send delegates to Storrs college this summer. All members are urged to contribute to the sale.

MAY CARNIVAL OPENS TOMORROW EVENING

The big May carnival will open at St. James's hall on Park street tomorrow night and will continue through Thursday night. There will be all the usual carnival features with an entertainment and dancing free each night. Among the articles to be given away will be a hope chest and doll.

A feature tomorrow night will be a big street parade which will start at the Parochial school promptly at 7:15. All the entertainers will take part in the parade and Simon Hildebrand will be marshal. St. Patrick's band will play the martial music.

There will be old fashioned dancing at the hall on Thursday night with Professor Foley prompting. Paul Packard's six piece orchestra will furnish music for dancing both nights.

Mrs. Arthur Pilling who has been a guest at the home of Mrs. J. H. Hewitt of Holl street for a few days, has returned to her home at Red Bank, N. J. Mrs. Pilling has been spending the past three months with relatives and friends in Providence and Glastonbury.

Nicholas Slonimsky

The soloist of the evening will be Edward Taylor, tenor, of this town, and the accompanist is Miss Eva Johnson. The club will introduce several new numbers, including two which will be sung in Swedish. They will sing, among others, Horatio Parker's "Lamp in the West," which is always popular in male chorus concerts here.

Some of the other numbers will be Nessler's Ave Maria, three negro spirituals, a Chinese burlesque folksong and "The Galway Piper," an Irish folksong with flute obligato. They will also sing Cadman's "The Blizzard." Mr. Taylor's solo will be "The Nun of Nidaros" by Buck, and he will have an incidental solo in "Little David," a spiritual.

SOUTH, CENTER CHURCHES TO JOIN FOR SUMMER

Methodists and Congregationalists Plan Union Services in July and August.

The South Methodist Episcopal church and the Center Congregational church will unite in their summer services this year, following their usual custom. The union was approved at the meeting of the official board in the South Methodist church last night. The union services will be held at the Center church in the month of July and during August at the South Methodist church.

POLICE COURT

Theodore Duplaise was found guilty of the theft of $10 from the Rialto theater in the local police court this morning. The theft occurred about two weeks ago when Duplaise was employed at the theater. He was represented in court by Attorney John F. Foley who told about the details of the theft. The young man had worked for several weeks and hadn't gotten any money. He found a small tin box and after prying it open found it contained money and felt as though he was entitled to it. However, when accused of the theft, his father made good. Judge Johnson imposed a jail sentence of 15 days which was suspended, but he placed Duplaise on probation for six months.

If a wet May means plenty of hay there will, without a doubt, be plenty of it this season. It has rained continuously for the last ten days.

PLUMBING FIXTURES

Price alone should never govern either the selection of the fixtures or the plumber to do the work. Assurance of good material and workmanship is certain only when there is no false economy in buying plumbing and when good judgment selects the men to install it.
