Brooklyn and Long Island Also Feel the Shocks; Dishes Are Shattered in Jersey City.

New York, June 1.—Houses were rocked in Brooklyn, Long Island and all along the Jersey coast as far as Tom's river today during three earth tremors recorded at Fordham University. The tremors extended all along the Atlantic coast.

First Quake The first quake was reported at 8:23 a. m. It lasted for twenty-five seconds, according to Prof. John W. Tynan, of Fordham University. His plates disclosed that the quake was felt all along the Atlantic coast.

Second Tremor, lasting another three full seconds occurred at 8:31 and the third at 8:39.

First Strongest The first shock recorded on the Fordham seismograph was the strongest.

Asbury Park, Red Bank and Freehold, N. J., were thrown into wild excitement by the detonations. Every home and building in the three cities trembled. Police stations and municipal buildings were showered with telephone calls and inquiries by frightened citizens.

Commanding officer at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, said the tremors had been felt there and similar reports came from half a dozen towns along the Atlantic coast within a radius of several miles of Asbury Park.

Hundreds of telephone calls were reported at police stations and public places in localities where the shocks were felt.

A sub-oceanic disturbance may have caused the tremors officials of the Seismograph of Department of Fordham University said.

The disturbance, according to the fluctuations recorded on the seismograph was close to this vicinity, and for this reason the machine was unable to register a clear record, with regularity and origin. More distant seismographs, it was said, would receive a better record of the disturbance.

LINDBERGH TO LAND IN WASHINGTON D. C.

N. Y. IS INDIGNANT OVER PLAN CHANGE

Democrats Say Col. Roosevelt Is Responsible For Lindy Landing at Capital.

New York, June 1.—Indignation reached a boiling point among Democratic politicians in New York City this afternoon when they learned that Captain Charles A. Lindbergh will be brought to Washington before he comes to New York for the greatest reception ever accorded any individual, and they were quick to throw the whole blame on the shoulders of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the former Republican assistant Secretary of War.

Roosevelt, they charged, without, however, permitting the use of their names, had suggested to influential Washington friends, that Lindbergh be asked to come to Washington. They charged that Roosevelt was piqued because of certain plans in connection with the New York reception.

Roosevelt Speaks. Col. Roosevelt, in a statement to International News Service, promptly denied these charges, branding them as untrue in every respect.

Made No Suggestions. "I never asked him to attend any banquet or function whatever. I did not suggest to any one at any time that he should be asked to any city."

Attends Races. London, June 1.—Although there were thousands of cars on the road to Epsom Downs today, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was not to be mistaken or lost in the crowd for he travelled in Lord Lonsdale's famous yellow automobile, which made it almost equivalent to making the journey in a circus bandwagon.

Washington, June 1.—Captain Charles Lindbergh today accepted "with thanks" President Coolidge's offer of the United States cruiser Memphis on which to return to the United States.

The Memphis will pick up the flyer at Cherbourg and come straight to Washington, where it is planned that Lindbergh will be honored by the government on the afternoon of Saturday, June 11.

Captain Lindbergh's acceptance was cabled to the State Department by Frederick Sterling, American charge in London, and relayed to the president at the White House.

GERMANY SORE, TOO. Berlin, June 1.—Now the rows over Captain Lindbergh begin.

Wife Pulling? The Vossische Zeitung declares that "political wife pulling" has been responsible for the decision that keeps Lindbergh from continuing his tour in Europe and directly charges that Ambassador Herrick is responsible. It declares that "Herrick is more French than the French themselves," and charges that he did not wish the Germans to participate in the general demonstrations of good will created by Lindbergh's reception.

ed across the track to the special jockey club where he viewed the race with the jockey club steward. Vast crowds sacrificed their places of vantage they had held since early morning, rushing to the grandstand to see Lindbergh. "Ere's Lindbergh," was the cry raised and they came swarming from all over the Downs, breaking through the police cordons and making it necessary for mounted police to intervene and hold the crowds back.

TO RETURN ON WARSHIP. London, June 1.—International News Service understands that Captain Charles A. Lindbergh will accept President Coolidge's invitation to sail for home on board the light cruiser Memphis instead of the grandstand Breck, sailing from Cherbourg on Saturday as previously arranged.

Faster Vessel. President Coolidge's cablegram had not reached the American embassy at 10 o'clock, but Captain Lindbergh was informed of its contents by International News Service.

The airman slept a little later than usual this morning, but arose about nine o'clock and breakfasted with Mrs. Houghton, wife of the ambassador, at ten. Nothing more was upon his program until eleven o'clock, the hour for his departure from the embassy for Epsom Downs where he was to lunch with Lord Lonsdale and the press's guest while viewing the Derby.

FORD MAKES OFFER. London, June 1.—Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was informed today that a cablegram was awaiting him in Paris offering him the general management of the Aircraft Division of the Ford Motor Co., and an interest in the Ford airplane enterprises claimed to be worth $19,000,000.

Lindbergh refused to discuss the offer pending delivery of the message but made no attempt to conceal an enthusiastic interest in the possibilities such a job would offer for the development of aviation.

There is believed to be more than hero worship behind Ford's offer. The Ford Motor company apparently has found in Lindbergh a man who can bring plenty of publicity to the Ford aircraft industries and more than that—mechanical genius for the practical development of a department of the Ford enterprises which Mr. Ford and his son Edsel have repeatedly said was not getting enough of their attention.

The Aircraft Division of the Ford Motor company is known as the Stout Metal Airplane Co. Edsel Ford is president.

William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Co., and William B. Stout, inventor of the metal planes, are vice presidents in direct charge of the company.

The company today has one of the largest and finest airports in the country, equipped with two hangars and a mooring mast for dirigibles.

Several experimental airplanes were built by the company shortly after Stout went with Ford in July 1925. The result of these experiments was the V-1, which is now used by the Ford Motor company between Detroit and Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo and Detroit and Cleveland for freight transportation purposes.

Present experimental work at the plant is being directed along the multi-engine plane principle, according to officials in charge.

NAMED AFTER FLYER. Baltimore, June 1.—Baltimore's new municipal flying field will be named after Charles A. Lindbergh, Mayor Broening announced today. Broening has cabled Lindbergh requesting him to visit Baltimore.

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, IMPRESSES HOENTHAL

Kiwians Hear How Name-sake City is Governed; Owns All Public Utilities.

In the time allowed him this noon at the Kiwanis Club meeting held at the Hotel Sheridan, Emil L. G. Hohenthal, Sr., gave a very good account of Manchester, England and the observations he made on his recent visit to that wonderful city.

It is known for its ownership of public utilities such as gas, water and markets. In the last year, the city made a lot of money on the water proposition. The city consumes 54 million gallons of water a day and gets its supply about 100 miles away.

In planning for the future, Mr. Hohenthal said, they must go through physical training. He is through first aid, and must spend 10 months in actual training before he is put on the regular force.

Mr. Hohenthal had a personal interview of 45 minutes with the Lord Mayor of England and he was very much interested in Manchester, Conn., and assured Mr. Hohenthal that he was glad to have him call as a representative of our town.

MONDAY'S PARADERS ARE SCRAPING TAR

They Picked Up Cargoes of It On Main Street As They Marched Through Goo.

Even at this late date marchers in the Memorial Day parade on Monday are still scraping the tar off their shoes. The parade struck a bad stretch of fresh bitumen on Main street between Bissell street and the Center and everybody who walked on this part of the road was considerably gummed up.

The expansion joints on the concrete between the trolley tracks are filled with tar at intervals during the year. Sand is sprinkled over the semi-liquid and the mess left to harden and settle. This mess did not help.

The hot sun of Saturday and Sunday caused the tar to run and on Monday it was just gooey enough to be picked up out of the joints by the marchers and plastered all over the east side of the street. Marchers in the parade had to tramp through it.

The viscous fluid was so sticky and slippery that one of the trolley cars was unable to make the grade from Bissell street to the Center. The car got almost to the top of the grade near the Center and was unable to go further.

It began to slip back and although the motorman applied the brakes and locked the wheels, the machine slid down the street to level ground. The motorman had to back up and get a fast start before he was able to climb the brow of the hill.

TENDER TO CRASHER ON FAMILY'S ACCOUNT

Insufficient evidence and the fact that the man is the father of nine children, were the main reasons why a charge of drunk driving against Carl V. Neilson of Hartford, was charged to reckless driving, last night in a hearing of the Bolton Town Court before Justice Connors. Neilson was found guilty and fined $25 and costs.

Neilson was involved in an automobile accident Monday night near the home of Samuel Woodward in which two other machines figured, one driven by George Miller of Manchester. All three cars were more or less damaged. State police arrested Neilson and the doctor who examined him testified that Neilson was under the influence of liquor. Neilson was defended by Attorney William J. Shea of Manchester.

The scheduled cases of David and Arthur Morancie of Middale for reckless driving in connection with another automobile accident in Bolton Monday night in which Mrs. Charles H. Long suffered a broken wrist, did not come up.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: P. T. Barnum (18)

It was ironic that Barnum, bankrupt, was to recoup part of his fortune by delivering a lecture on "The Art of Getting Money." After his bankruptcy he and Tom Thumb had gone to Europe, in 1857, where Barnum lectured and Tom Thumb exhibited. Barnum returned to America in 1859 with enough money to pay all but a few thousand dollars of his debts.

POLICE COURT

John Kempes pleaded guilty before Judge Johnson in the Manchester police court this morning to the charge of driving an automobile without proper brakes. He was driving from the Green Sunday afternoon and at the center he had a collision with Raymond Carrier. Both cars were damaged somewhat.

Officer John McGinn investigated the accident and found that the brakes on the Kempes car were not working very satisfactorily. He took the car to Ernest Bantley who tested the brakes. In court this morning, Mr. Bantley said that while the brakes might be operated with exceptional care they were not good, and would be dangerous to use through traffic. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $10 and costs.

John Howell, through his Attorney William S. Hyde entered a plea of nolo contendere to the charge of assault on Vincent Lennon, a boy of 10 years old. The assault took place two weeks ago tonight at Mr. Howell's home on Cooper street. Vincent Lennon of 30 Bank street with a number of other boys were playing ball in front of Mr. Howell's place. The ball was batted on his lawn and he refused to give the boys their ball.

As a result the Lennon boy crossed the street and attempted to knock the ball out of Mr. Howell's hand. Mr. Howell apparently lost his temper and used the boy rather roughly. He stated in court that he regretted the incident.

BUILD OR CONSOLIDATE 3RD DISTRICT'S PROBLEM

May Decide to Erect New School at Meeting Tonight; Lucky in Taxes.

The Third School district (Porter street) may decide tonight to erect a new school building. Consensus in the old school, it is said, has made it imperative that the district either build or consolidate with the Ninth, if possible.

An official of the district said today that he was of the opinion that the new school would be voted, although there are a number of advocates of consolidation among the voters in the district. He said, however, that other voters considered consolidation a rather slow process, and consequently were against it.

The Third district has been unusually fortunate in the matter of taxes. There has not been more than a four mill tax in the past 15 years and the taxes, all together during that period have not exceeded two cents on the dollar. A big item was the addition which was created some years ago. This was paid by a ten mill tax spread over three or four years.

Even with the addition the school is overcrowded and officials say that something must be done at once to take care of the increasing number of children who are coming into the district. Several new subdivisions have increased the population considerably.

SOME MERCHANTS FAVOR TUESDAY NIGHT CLOSING

The change in pay days at Cheney Brothers plant from the first of the week to the last has reflected on the business during the Tuesday night opening here, it was said today by some Main street merchants.

Last night, they say, was not nearly so good as far as business is concerned, as it has been when Cheney Brothers paid on Monday and Tuesday. Opponents of the Tuesday night opening say that the new pay days will make it impractical to continue this arrangement. They point out that people will not shop on Tuesdays because they will either have banked their money before that time or will have done their shopping on Saturday.

DR. G. W. MAY MOVES HIS OFFICE TODAY

Dr. George W. May, the well known eye, ear, and throat specialist, who has had an office in the Cheney Block, which later became the property of George W. Smith, moved his office today to his home at 156 East Center street.

Dr. May has been in the Cheney Block for a period of 19 years. He opened his office there on June 1, 1908. Previous to that time, Dr. May was connected with Dr. Maine for about eight years, so he has been practicing in Manchester for nearly 27 years.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: P. T. Barnum (18). Barnum bought back his collection and reopened his museum, the lease having been held by his wife. One of the first attractions Barnum brought to New York was Grizzly Adams, with grizzly bears, wolves, buffaloes and "Old Neptune," the sea lion of the Pacific. "Grizzly," with his wolf's head cap, was as strange to New York as his beasts. Then, in 1861, with a pair of white whales captured in the Pacific, Barnum laid down a barrage of publicity from coast to coast. ©1927 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. (To Be Continued)

ANDOVER

A large number attended the supper and play by the Dramatic club in the town hall Saturday evening. The first part of the program was a shadow play, "The Story of Mary and Benjamin," the first shadow play ever tried by the local club. It was very well acted and very amusing.

Ceremonies took place at the soldiers' memorial on the green, members of the American Legion commanded the parade. The town hall was packed to the limit and the address of the Rev. WILY JAPAN.

First class team work by the Japanese newspapers enters into Japan's latest move in the Chinese situation. No sooner had the government ordered 2,000 Jap troops from Manchuria to Peking, in view of the anticipated defeat of Chang-Tso-Lin's army in Honan and in further anticipation of demoralization in northern China, than practically every important newspaper in Japan simultaneously came out with the most earnest editorial assurance to the Chinese Nationalists that Japan intended to make no trouble for them. The Chinese are treated, in these editorials, with a profundity of courtesy widely different from the tone of a few years ago.

Obviously the Japanese want to prepare the Chinese mind for the presence of Japanese troops and to make the Chinese people understand that even if the number of those troops should be very largely increased they would still constitute no danger to Chinese independence. And this is probably only the simple truth.

It is the most unlikely of things that Japan, in moving troops into China, is actuated by any present purpose to destroy or diminish the integrity of that country. It is also unlikely that there exists any real need of troop movement on a considerable scale in order to protect Japanese nationals in the troubled districts. What is likely, and extremely likely, is that Japan proposes to put troops into Peking and other strategic points in northern China in proportion as they are placed there by Great Britain, America and other western powers—and that the Jap soldiers will be depended on to act as a check against the operation of the western troops for any purpose that these strictly permitted by treaty.

It has dawned upon the Japanese that the finest imaginable thing that could happen to them would be to have China truly independent and prosperous, to institute a good understanding with their mainland neighbor and to get possession, through friendship, of those trade relations with China which have been maintained by occidental nations practically by force. Japan, if half an occasion arises, is far more likely than not to appear presently as an out-and-out ally of Nationalist China in opposition to the pretensions and aspirations of the white man. A Chinese-Japanese alliance has long been regarded as about the last of all international possibilities. Nevertheless such a thing appears to be actively in the making.

BLACK HILLS.

The country in which President Coolidge has finally decided to pass his vacation this summer is one concerning whose history few Americans are inclined to brag. The Black Hills of South Dakota constitute a region of some six thousand square miles of mountainous country with many peaks ranging from 2,000 to 7,000 feet elevation. It was into this region that the Sioux Indians were jockeyed and shouldered after they had originally been granted, by treaty of the United States government in 1815, a vast area including most of Minnesota, most of the Dakotas and parts of Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Wyoming. They thought they were safe from further encroachment in the then desolate Black Hills country but in the early 70's prospectors found placer gold in the Hills and the Indian reservation was persistently raided by whites, despite treaty rights. It was that conflict that led up to the Sitting Bull wars, the battle of the Little Big Horn, the Custer "massacre" and the final practical disappearance of the Sioux nation.

It was all quite inevitable, probably, the result of forces beyond the control of formal morality, but just the same it is not a chapter in our history of which Americans can be particularly proud.

BINGHAM.

Well, Senator Bingham had got out of the Honan battle region all right, even if he did lose his motion picture camera and some of his money. Fortunately the senator's financial status is such that the loss of neither a pocketful of gold nor a $500 camera is going to cripple him or even cause him to cut short his investigations of the Chinese situation.

It is interesting that the indignity to which Connecticut's official representative in the eastern war theatre was subjected was committed, not by the Nationalists whom President Coolidge was so violently urged to help suppress, but by soldiers of the Northern army, behind the Northern lines.

One thing, at all events, seems highly probable. By the time Congress meets in December there will be at least one person in its membership who will be able to speak on the Chinese situation, which is practically certain to be much discussed in the national legislature, from first hand information.

TERRIBLE!

The declaration of Rev. Franklin J. Kennedy of New Haven that the Elm city is one of the wickedest communities of all time would appear to be putting the matter rather strongly. We rather doubt whether the good pastor has complete inside information as to the amount of evil that has existed in the world at one time or another, whether he even knows very much about what is going on even now, outside his own town.

Mr. Kennedy has discovered a great many shocking conditions—or has been told about them—in the Connecticut metropolis and he is vastly disturbed thereby. Which is quite all right. But it would hardly seem to make his protests more effectual to shout to the world that his home city is a sink of iniquity hardly paralleled by Sodom of old or the Popt Said of today, not to mention our own stellar tough town, Chicago.

As a matter of fact, New Haven is probably very little worse or very little better than any other American community of its size and economic situation in this country. There is a great deal going on in any city of upward of a hundred thousand population, at any time, to cause the moralist to suffer from an attack of the creeps if he happens to find out about it. It is even to be suspected that some of the things which have given Mr. Kennedy the convulsions might be found in duplicate in that filthy, utterly sanctified community of Springfield, Mass., celebrated above all others for its virtue.

But New Haven does not produce more than its share of criminal cases, its people, to the observing eye of casual visitor, look like the people of any other town, it has fewer drunk-driving fatalities than Hartford and neither its jail nor its hospitals seem to do more than their just share of business.

Perhaps it would not do Rev. Mr. Kennedy any harm to take a vacation and visit around a bit—see something of the world.

TAMMANY'S WAY.

Just how Tammany is going to laugh off the figures presented by the City Affairs Bureau of the Republican County Committee in New York it isn't easy to understand, but laugh it off the Tiger will, no doubt.

New York, it appears, maintains fifty-five chauffeurs and ninety-five automobiles of the private type in its municipal garage, on call for the use of officials. These have nothing to do with the regular department transportation, such as police and fire department cars and those used regularly in routine activities, but are in the so-called luxury class.

Notwithstanding the existence of this service, which costs the metropolitan taxpayers $366,000 a year, the city paid last year $343,000 in officials' chauffeurs and maintained cars valued at over half a million. When Mayor Jimmy Walker came into office, the Bureau's statement declares, he found four automobiles for his use, which had cost over $20,000. He didn't care about them. So the Board of Aldermen bought him two new limousines at $7,000 each. And within four months thereafter four other cars were purchased for the mayor, one at $5,000, one at $6,765, one at $7,165 and one at $7,950. Four chauffeurs drive these cars at an annual salary cost of $9,500.

Borough presidents, comptroller, all sorts of folks, have anywhere from two to four cars apiece. One Borough president has ten luxury cars attached to his office and has supplied a photographer and a motion picture operator each with a sedan and a chauffeur.

Up to this writing Tammany has ignored the statement of the Republican committee. None the less it is probable that the Tiger hopes the committee will not remember to trot out these figures next election time.

"RESURRECTION."

If ever there was a sermon calculated to arm youth against temptation it is Tolstol's "Resurrection." If ever a great story was put on the screen with all its power preserved and all its solemn warnings intensified it is in the current picturization of that classic. As shown in a Manchester theatre a few days ago, and as it will be shown again and again all over this country, it is hard indeed to visualize any greater agency for good than is provided by this magnificent production, in which all the agony of human souls in torment, paying the price of human weakness, is brought home to the spectator as it could hardly be brought home through any other medium.

Yet such is the restriction and the limitations of the human mind that one person who attended a showing of the picture here loudly and angrily berated the manager of the theatre where it was shown for permitting such an "indecent" thing to be exhibited in his house. On this person the tremendous lesson of the great tragedy was utterly lost. She saw only the scandalous act of a woman drowning her torture momentarily in drink. She saw nothing of the trial by fire and the redemption of a human soul as the cost of the breaking of a human heart. It was, for her, a "nasty" picture.

No wonder the motion picture producers are at a loss to know what to give to the public.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, June 1.—Congressional mail is fascinating material for exploration, but congressional visitors are almost a menace. The only reason congressmen retain such mental faculties as they have is that there are secretaries to protect the congressmen and sometimes even stenographers to protect the secretaries.

But the worst pest of the most pronounced psychopathic case at times has such a plausible exterior that he gets into the inner sanctum and then it's the devil's own job getting rid of him.

These cranks include those who come in to ask the great man to endorse a check. If he isn't there to put his name on the check himself, why his secretary will do very nicely. Often it's not good politics to refuse and the boys on the hill are not hard-hearted when someone from the home state badly needs the money, but it is no rarity for these checks to come back.

The late Senator Ladd once lost $400 that way. The leader of an American Legion band is said to have cashed the check after obtaining Ladd's endorsement. Most members of Congress, however, will balk at taking a chance on such a large sum.

One senatorial secretary recently cashed a check for $65 for a young man from out near his home. Back came the check. It subsequently developed that the youth had spent $45 of the money talking over the telephone to a girl friend in the west that same evening. His mother finally made good.

Congressman Sol Bloom of New York has blossomed out as the government's super-salesman.

About March 15, Uncle Sam modestly put on sale one of the most important volumes published by the government printing office for a long time. This was the code of laws of the United States of America, an indexed, complete compilation produced by act of Congress after many years of labor and research.

One lawyer says that this massive tome costs some $200 as available in annotated form from private publishers, but the government only charged the modest sum of $4.

Nevertheless, sales were sluggish until Congressman Sol grabbed

MOVING ACHIEVEMENTS

NO. 26—GOOD HOTELS

This is another article in the series telling how American cities have met their problems in civic growth. Succeeding articles will appear on this page daily.

By DON E. MOWRY, Secretary, The American Community Advertising Association. To the tourists, cities are known by their hotels. Cities with bad hotels get black marks in tourist advertising.

How Albany, Ga., put itself on the tourist map is a story that looms large in community building history. Without a good hotel Albany could not get winter tourist rates, and could not draw the tourist trade.

Albany is a city of 15,000. There had been five years of lean crops in the Albany area and extra money was scarce. The Chamber of Commerce, however, convinced that a good hotel would bring new business, persuaded the people of Albany to dig down in their pockets, let go of their rainy-day surplus, and subscribe $10,000 towards the erection of a $350,000 hotel.

The completion of that hotel is a milestone in Albany's history. Albany is getting its share of the tourist trade now, and the people who contributed to the community hotel project will be more than repaid.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 1.—Visitors are invariably amazed at the manner in which New York manages to pack its assortment of varied enterprises into so small an area.

Andre Charlot—he of Charlot's revue fame—who was born in Paris, naturalized in London and has lived almost everywhere, says that an artist can find almost anything obtainable on this earth in the 20 blocks between 27th and 27th streets with boundaries set at Eighth avenue on one side and Lexington avenue on the other.

"I live in 52d street and can carry on my entire business activity without traveling more than a dozen blocks or so, and so can anyone else similarly occupied," he points out. "Where else in the world is this possible?"

If you seek the best music, you will find in this radius Carnegie Hall, Town Hall, Aeolian and the Metropolitan.

The art of the world comes to 57th street and juts off on Madison, Lexington and Fifth. You can see all the shows and visit the best cafes; visit at hotels from the highest priced to the lowest, dwell in costly apartments or in actor's boarding houses; call on the agencies for the theater, music, literature and art; walk along the heart of the nation's clothing industry or find anything you care to drink from beer to champagne; run the gamut of the night resorts from Chinese restaurants to $10 convert charge resorts; meet half the notables of the play world or engage almost any stage star, scenic designer, costumer, musician, painter, or jazz band worth talking about; enter the offices of America's film kings and find them laying their plans for production of organizing a selling campaign—all in 20 short blocks that can be covered in a few minute's walk.

It will not be long before this belt is even more compact. Albee's 27th street is rather far from Broadway and, as I walked along Broadway the other morning, I saw the old Broadway theater at 41st street being leveled by the wreckers to make way for a 32-story building. Some 40 years ago this theater was considered "pretty far uptown" when Fanny Davenport opened it with "Tosca."

Here Edwin Booth gave his "Hamlet," with Modjeska as Ophelia. Elsie Janis made her first big hit there and Lillian Russell was to be seen there in the days before she attracted the attention of the world. The list of famous actors to play there make up a veritable "who's who" of the theater.

When "Ben Hur" was put on with a real chariot race it was thought that the last word in stagecraft had been said and "Little Lord Fauntleroy" brought tears to nice old grandmas in the days before Grandma bobbed her hair. Of late years it slid back, like so much of Broadway, into the movies and the ghosts of Art Goodwin and Booth, Joe Jefferson and a dozen others must have sighed and passed on.

bed hold of the promotion work. Then the government printing office received more orders for a book in three days than it had in the preceding two months.

Sol simply sent a circular letter about the code to every lawyer in Greater New York—some 14,000 of them. He labeled the letter "Important Notice" and wrote it as if he were conducting a mail campaign for a publishing house.

He outlined the nature of the volume and gave a table of contents. He ballyhoed the fact that there were 2452 pages on sale for the ridiculously low price of $4 and concluded by advising the lawyers that their check for $4 might be sent either to him or to the superintendent of public documents.

The lawyers began to answer immediately, by a hundreds. Apparently it was the first inexpensive law book most of them had ever heard of. Most of them wrote directly to the superintendent of documents, but they piled Sol's desks with letters of thanks for the tip-off.

Lawyers internationally famous were among the buyers. Sol's letters seemed to have been their first information that such a code existed.

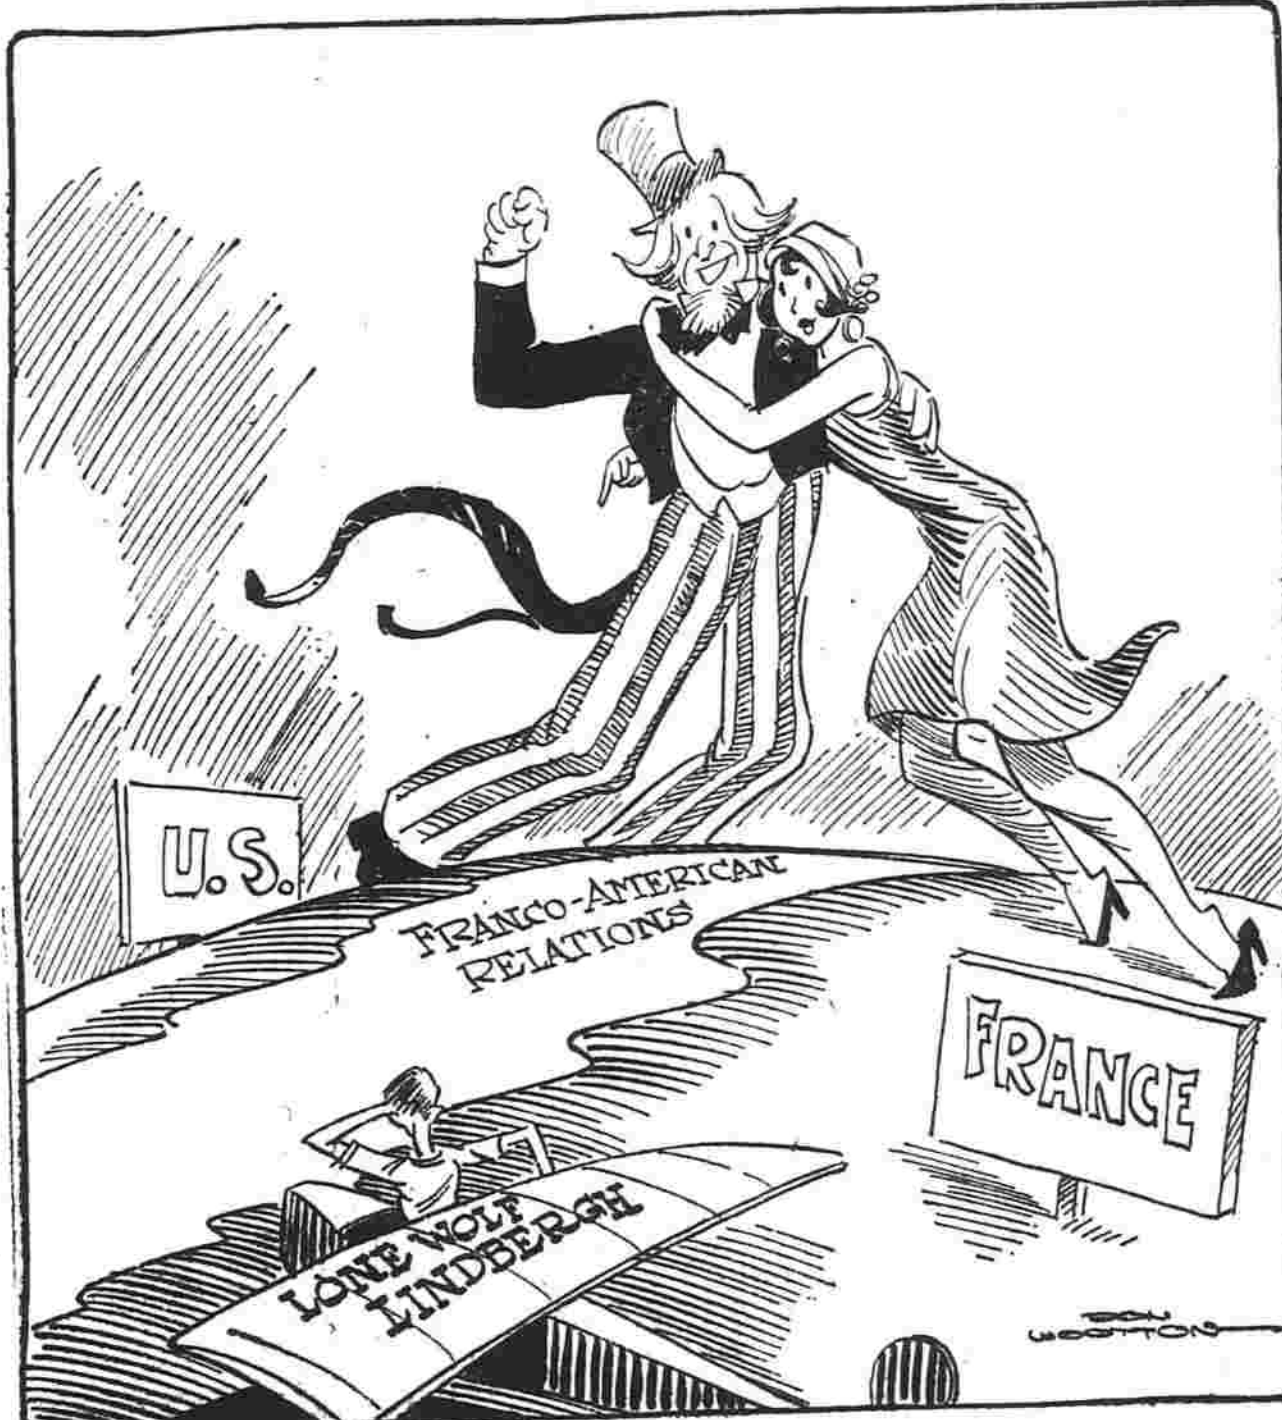

As this is written, Sol has sold more than a thousand copies and orders are still coming in—in the hundreds.

His next big job will be to push the sale of "Formation of the Union," another big volume of important early documents which sells for $2.85.

Sol hopes to ballyhoed this one through use of the movies.

A wreath sent by Queen Victoria to a funeral in an English village forty years ago still is preserved in the parish church, in a glass and marble case.

Jungle Breath by Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED To the queer little Sao American town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, a town fringed by dark, forbidding jungle, comes an elderly American, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, a famous chemist.

He turned and glowered at the black policeman at his side. "An I wouldn't be sorry I done it either if I didn't have to stay in one of their warden's jails. Oh, it's a bloody life. Don't you forget when they bring you to court that all he said about me and Miss Marberry is lies."

CHAPTER IV VILAK drew a pin from the lapel of his coat and touched the point to Barbetta's arm. The flesh did not twitch as ordinary living flesh would have responded to the experiment, but the little Italian's eyes showed that he felt the pain.

Vilak touched his wrist. "Dead," he pronounced laconically. Pretty house. Little red roof. Like houses in Italy. Looking for snakes who steal my little chickens. Then I see a man creeping through bushes. I wait. He comes closer. I see him. It is Limey. Limey the badda, the evil Limey that I hate. In his hand is something. I think he come to do me harm. I want him far, oh far from my little house with the red roof. He badda man, badda Englishman. I follow through the bushes. And then I see Miss Marberry in the road driving in her cart. It is she he follows. And then I have great fear for her, for the last days I heard him talk much against her. Evil talk. Because last week she have make me head foreman and not him. He climbs a tree to a limb where the leaves well hide him. He holds his knife. But I, Tony, I see his plan. When he cart will pass under the tree he will jump down upon it and kill her.

CHAPTER V VILAK drew a pin from the lapel of his coat and touched the point to Barbetta's arm. The flesh did not twitch as ordinary living flesh would have responded to the experiment, but the little Italian's eyes showed that he felt the pain.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

A circus fat lady who boasts that her weight is 635 pounds has just won a male weighing a mere 130 pounds. I'm sure that some food for thought lurks within that tale—something more than here's a girl—that somebody loves a fat girl—but I don't know just what it is, unless he's a brave mortal! Think of buying clothes to go around that, to say nothing of beefsteaks to fill that!

Snake Jewelry Women are queer critters. Which sage observation is promptly followed by just seeing an ad about "snakeskin jewelry." Artistic little plaques made from boa constrictor, blue racer, or python skin are bound in seed pearls or gold braid or what have you, suspended around the neck by a chain or cord, and there you are! And the girl who would give as good a swoon as any girl of 1890 if she saw a little garter snake will be the first to wear a snake locket next her alabaster throat.

Anything Goes Bathing suits worn at Atlantic City will not be censured this year. "Let your conscience be your guide" is the motto of the A. C. Chamber of Commerce. And here's wagering that prettier, more modern, more sensible suits will be seen at this seaside city than ever before. It's generosity with its implication that suits might be "indecent" which brings 'em forth as near the border line as possible.

She Died A few days ago I told you mothers of wispy dieting daughters a story which you could tell them. The story was about a Miss Irene Gimbel who, after dieting for 59 days, tried to eat and couldn't. Just to give even more point to your story, Miss Gimbel died a day or so ago.

These Males! A 78-year-old bridegroom recently filed suit for annulment of his marriage to his bride of 75. He was a widower and was not as robust as represented and that because of her various illnesses he was still doing his own housework. Before pointing the finger of shame at the elderly bridegroom, consider men of lesser years who discover that their wives of low color quickly change to something else if they discover that the bride can't darn socks or hold an egg. Most wife-seekers are housekeeper-seekers. You can get a wife for her keep. You have to give a hired housekeeper her keep and at least $10 a week.

Cut to Fit I wish that all women would read this statement from Andreas Pavley, ballet master of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and believe and put into practice what they read: "Half a foot might be too much or too little for a lady to show, depending upon her size. A tall woman might lengthen her skirts a bit, to eradicate the ugly line at the knee joint and a small girl might shorten hers a bit."

These Modern Kids! Police stopped New York's first Black Bottom marathon contest after three of the eight dancers had dropped exhausted to the floor. Another girl just won a marathon by dancing 29 miles in 39 hours or something or other. Sometimes, when one hears and reads of certain "goings-on" of this modern generation one thinks that perhaps the good old days were not so bad.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

Ten years ago this French gun crew poured shells into the German advance on Essen.

This is Chapter 45 in the series written by a former doughboy who is revisiting France as a correspondent for The Herald.

CHAPTER XLV Just outside of Hargicourt, France, and not so very far from Bony, Bellcourt and Vendhuile, there's a spot comprising several acres of ground where the World War is still going on. This particular spot was not included in the terms of the Armistice, evidently, for every month the ground is churned by the explosion of many shells.

Here's how: The farmers, tilling the fields that include Guillemont, Quenneumont and other farms known personally to the members of the 27th and 30th American Divisions, continually plough up live shells. Some are German, some French and some American, duds with their noses buried deep in the soil. These gradually work to the surface, and as the peasants find them, they load them on carts and stretch of No-Man's Land near Hargicourt.

Some French artillerymen so there once a month. They place a huge charge of high explosive in a cache, pile the shells above it and touch it off with an electric contact. Most of the old shells explode, with the terrific concussion. Some remain the duds that they were. But it makes no particular difference. For this spot of upheaved ground will forever be an area unfit for propagation. Almost nine years have passed since the bargages reduced the Hindenburg line in this region. But, in the ploughing this spring, more than 200 shells of all calibers up to six-inch "obus" were unearthed, together with hundreds of unexploded hand grenades and air bombs. This pile of certain death is on a bank bordering the explosion terrain and not more than four feet away from the road to Hargicourt over which many motors and other vehicles pass every day.

Death Still Lurks Dangerous? Well, last year four peasants were killed. And recently two boys lost their lives near Montdidier when a fuse exploded. So there's a warning to Amerlex Legionnaires who visit the battlefields, it makes no difference what the vicinity. There's plenty of instantaneous death lurking around everywhere. And it will be many years before the French artillerymen stroll along with their H. E. to explode the shells that the peasants uncover on their peaceful ploughing excursions in the springtime.

TOMORROW: When Cavalry Charged.

Good Nature and Good Health

HEART DISEASE OFTEN BEGINS WITH OTHER MALADIES This is the first of three health talks on heart disease. By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene Health Magazine

The causes of heart disease are numerous. Any factor that causes unusual wear and tear on the human tissues may have a secondary effect on the tissues of the heart. These tissues are then unable to withstand the strains of ordinary life. The heart may be incapacitated from birth due to some deficiency in its development before the child is born. Infection of the throat during infancy frequently is carried to the heart, as are also infections of the nose and throat during childhood and adolescence. It was long believed that overindulgence in alcohol brought about degenerative changes in the tissues of the heart as did also such constitutional disorders as syphilis. The latter is a potent cause of disease of the entire system of blood vessels. Its presence has been associated with hardening of the arteries, inflammation of the lining of the blood vessels, the appearance of clots in the blood stream, and particularly the presence of weak spots in blood vessel walls. These weak spots cannot stand the strain of the pressure of the blood stream and gradually give way, producing what is called aneurism.

BABE RUTH AHEAD OF RECORD; SLAMS 15TH AND 16TH HOMERS

Has Four Day Jump on Games of 1921—Odds Are Even Whether He Can Keep Ahead.

By DAVIS J. WALSH I. N. S. Sports Editor

New York, June 1.—George Ruth, alias Herman, who has been as unostentatious as a parson's vest this season, suddenly called attention to the fact today that he has neither changed his name nor left the country.

This guy Navin has certainly been getting the breaks in Detroit. Cobb has drawn better in an Athletic than in a Tiger uniform.

Detroit broke down at the reception and gave Ty Cobb everything.

"A Mexican senorita dressed in native costume rushed up and embraced Cobb and presented him with a ten-gallon hat," says a dispatch.

We have private advice to the effect that this was Frank Navin in disguise. The last time Navin gave him anything, Cobb claimed it was Mexican money.

The luncheon was held in the Fountain Room of the Masonic Temple. Cobb would have felt much more comfortable if he had a pen and was in the writing room.

"Shots halt drunken driver," screams a headline. The question is, did it take more to stop him than to start him.

Add useless advice—A night court judge advising a recent lady complainant to "hit her hubby hard."

"I almost cried when we had to leave the Polo Grounds," he told the writer in all seriousness recently. "It meant that, in order to break the record, I would have to be so much better than I was in 1921 that I hardly stood a chance. However, I'll be in there trying."

So far this season he has hit at least one ball out of the park on every field in the circuit. But his average at the Stadium has been less and probably will continue, than in several other cities along the trail.

PIRATES AND YANKEES IN SPLENDID RALLIES

By LES CONKLIN I. N. S. Correspondent

New York, June 1.—When better rallies are made, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Yankees will make them. Both teams are leading their respective leagues in batting by a wide margin and are almost daily burying the opposition under an attack that will not be denied.

The Yanks scored 28 runs and made 37 hits in beating the Athletics twice yesterday. They won in their usual manner, knocking the opposition into insensibility and coasting home under wraps.

Babe Ruth's fifteenth and sixteenth homers and Lou Gehrig's twelfth, and six hits by Combs featured the Yankee landslide. The scores were ten to three and eight to five.

A triple by Joe Harris, his fifth hit of the afternoon, followed by Spencer's single enabled the Pirates to nose out the Cubs in the ninth, ten to nine. Scott of the Cubs also got five bingles.

Bob McGraw, who wasn't good enough for Brooklyn, blanked the Reds on to nothing in his debut with the Cardinals. Douthitt's homer turned the trick and the Cards jumped to second place.

The Giants smothered the Phillies thirteen to four and tied the Cubs for third place.

An unassisted triple play by Johnny Neun, the second of the season, saved Rip Collins' bacon and enabled the Detroit hurler to win a one to nothing pitching duel from Garland Buckeye, Cleveland Kewpie, Collins allowed only four hits and Buckeye six.

"Lizite" Lisenbee lost his second game of the season as Washington dropped one to the Red Sox, four to one.

The White Sox kept within two of the Yankees by downing the St. Louis Browns, seven to two.

INDIANS ARE POPULAR It's beginning to look like a few Indian marathon runners must be included in a sport event or that event won't be of much attraction.

The Hopi Indian runners are being billed at several eastern events, including the annual Long Beach carnival week.

Expect Half Million Attendance—Lindbergh Among Spectators—Call Boy, the Favorite.

By CHARLES A. SMITH, I. N. S. Correspondent.

Since the early hours of the morning the roads from London have been alive with every sort of conveyance that runs on wheels, carrying people out to the famous Downs to witness the running of the one hundred and forty-seventh Derby classic. The race is set for three o'clock this afternoon.

Limosines, donkey-barrows, omnibuses, pedicabs and motor bicycles, packed almost wheel to wheel, have been moving in a slow, seemingly never-ending stream toward the beautiful Downs amid which the race course is situated, sixteen miles out of London.

Hundreds of extra police, aided by two observation balloons and dozens of airplanes in radio communication with various points, have been for hours directing the stream of traffic, straightening out the tangles here and there and relegating the slower moving conveyances to roads specially set apart for them.

Two factors aside from the race itself this year have held particular interest for many, and have drawn hundreds, perhaps thousands, who perhaps otherwise might not have attended the race.

Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, American trans-Atlantic flier, will attend the race and the crowds have taken this opportunity to see the intrepid flier.

Also, there is some question whether this will be the last Derby at which bookmakers will be permitted to show the odds. There is a possibility that the 1928 Derby will be conducted through the totalisator. The government has strongly hinted that if the totalisator is found to be practically inoperative English race courses it may be adopted in place of the present system of allowing bookmakers to assemble on the courses and "lay" on the races.

Led by King George, Lord Derby, after whose ancestors the race is named, Lord Woolavington, Lord Lascelles, Lord Londsdale and other famous English sportsmen, thousands of persons of both sexes will pick the stands and the surrounding course and countryside to witness the race, which this year has all the appearances of being an exceedingly open one. Many resident and visiting Americans are also making the tortuous journey to the Downs in stage coaches from the various London hotels.

Approximately 25 horses, the average number, out of slightly more than 300 nominated, will contest the race. The distance is one mile and four furlongs, the course having been shortened within recent years by the rounding off of the famous Tattenham corner. The purse is for $50,000.

A drizzle of rain and thunderstorms threatened the Derby course, which was expected to reach 500,000 persons, before race post time at three o'clock.

Call Boy ruled the betting favorite at seven to two. Other odds were Hot Night, eleven to two; Slickie, six to one; Adam's Apple, eight to one; Lone Knight, 100 to 9; Apple Cross, twenty to one; Tatoo and Shian Mor, 22 to 1; Adieu and Knight of the rail, 33 to 1; Hossam, Damon and Silverstead, 40 to 1; Treat, Son and Heir, and Birthright, 50 to 1; Buckfast, Chichester Cross, Flashing Star, Jack's Son, Restigouche and Spirmonds, 100 to 1; Parker, 200 to 1; Dark Anthony Stampedo 500 to 1.

NEW END TO WATCH

Take the advice of Michigan grid fans and prepare to hear a lot next fall of L. H. Taylor, an end. This young man has recently awarded a trophy for having shown the greatest improvement in play during spring practice.

DEMOLISH OLD STANDS There'll be a familiar sight of the past 20 years missing to old alumni of Michigan next fall. The wrecking crew are now demolishing the north side stands at Ferry Field, stands that have been used by thousands of Michigan men to watch the Wolverine teams in action.

DAME RUMOR GOSSIPS Let any club lose a few games it was expected to win, and the gossip starts about a shift in managers. Dame Rumor has it now that Jack Hendricks is about to be parted from his managerial role with the Reds, with "Bubbles" Hargrave as his successor.

Wee Clowny now felt fine. The sun a dandy drying job had done, and Clowny's clothes looked very good. The water'd made them clean. Said he, "I think I'll take a snooze. We have all kinds of time to lose. I know no one will wake me 'cause you wouldn't be so mean."

While Clowny slept, the others stood and paddled on the best they could. There were no oars within the boat. They had to use their hands. Said Coppy, "Wonder where we're bound. I'd rather be back on the ground. I'm going to jump ashore again, as soon as this boat lands."
